Long-Time Employees Retire From Federal Screw Works

Three Federal Screw Works employees retired Jan. 31 of this year. Phyllis Bush retired following 19 years of service, Therese Scharphorn after 35 years and Clarence W. Wood after 44 years.

A kid out of high school, Clarence "Mac" Wood went looking for a job because he didn't like farming. He began working at Federal Screw Works on Feb. 10, 1941 in the secondary department, operating a milling machine. His career was interrupted for a few years to serve his country during World War II. He returned to work in the Engineering Department as a mathematician and progressed to supervisor in 1965 where he remained until retirement.

Therese Scharphorn was hired by Federal Screw Works Jan. 16, 1950 as a purchasing clerk. She worked for several supervisors, including Helen Hutzler, Merle Barr, Jr. (until he was transferred to Corporate offices in Detroit) and Robert Baldwin until his retirement in 1968. Therese was then promoted to purchasing supervisor, the position which she held until her retirement in January.

Phyllis Bush was hired as a shipping clerk by Federal Screw Works on Feb. 28, 1966. She worked for several supervisors, including Donald Walz, Jesse Marshall, Ron Bush, and Mark Steger. A very dedicated person, she continued in that position until her retirement.

Village Government Financial Report In Black Numbers

The Chelsea village budget showed a healthy balance in all funds as of Dec. 31 and figures to end up substantially in the black when the fiscal year ends on Feb. 28.

The general fund has $219,117.28 remaining out of a $984,600 appropriation. Assuming expenditures continue at approximately the same monthly rate during the last two months of the fiscal year, there will be an ending surplus of about $60,000.

"Some of the line items show deficits and some show surpluses," village administrator Frederick Weber commented. "That's normal. During the course of a year you spend more for some things than you had anticipated, and less for others. The over-all picture is very good. We've been able to save bits and pieces of money here and there, and they add up."

"We'll have to ask the village board to approve some fund transfers before we close the books and the year, and that's normal, too. I'm sure we will be in better shape than we were a year ago when we wound up with a $12,400 surplus only by using a carry-over of $55,000.

"I projected a surplus of at least $50,000 this year, and I think we will realize that."

The village tax rate was raised by .9 of a mill to finance the budget. The board dilly-dallied until late June, four months into the new fiscal year, before approving the tax hike necessary to pay for what they had voted to spend three months earlier.

The electric fund continues to show a hefty balance and is making money through interest-paid loans to other village funds and various investments. Interest income through December was $108,000. As of Dec. 31 the electric fund has a $385,000 balance, well more than enough to pay for operations during the last two months of the fiscal year.

The water, sewer, street, parking meter, landfill, vehicle and equipment, and industrial development fund are also basking in black ink, Weber reported. Surpluses will be carried over into the new fiscal year beginning March 1.

"We're in very good shape," Weber summarized.

Village Council Stands Firm on Hartman Claim

Adam Hartman of 417 Railroad St. has been told, in effect, to "take it or sue us" in his claim for $1,300 damage allegedly done when a village sewer backed up last March and flooded the basement of his home.

The village council had earlier offered to pay $300 in settlement of the claim and at its Feb. 5 meeting refused to budge off that figure. Hartman, obviously upset, left the meeting saying he intended to talk to a lawyer and decide what to do next.

The council discussed the claim at length but was persuaded by trustee Herman Radloff, who expressed the opinion that "the damage really didn't amount to more than $300."

A motion by trustee Stephanie Kanten to raise the village ante to $500 died for lack of a second.

Neighborhood Watch Being Organized

An introductory meeting for neighborhood watch is being scheduled for Wednesday, Feb. 13, 7:30 p.m. at the Dexter Township Hall, 6880 Dexter-Pinckney Rd.

A presentation on crime prevention with slides will be presented by Deputy Jack Brugger, crime prevention specialist for the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. It is a program designed to educate citizens on local crime activity, how an organized program can help, and how to set one up.

The meeting will provide citizens a chance to ask questions and offer input.

Anyone interested is welcome to attend with a special invitation extended by the Dexter township supervisor, James Drolett, to the Lake Home Owner's Association.

Board Postpones Zoning Inspector's Mileage Request

The Chelsea board of trustees last week postponed action on a request by zoning inspector Rosemary Harook that she be reimbursed for use of her personal car while on village business.

"I think I'm entitled to something," Mrs. Harook told the board, "and I will leave it to you what the rate should be. I'm driving my own car because I feel that the available village-owned vehicle isn't safe."

Trustee Herman Radloff suggested that 30 cents per mile be a fair rate.

After discussion, the board decided to ask Mrs. Harook to keep track of her mileage for a month and report back. "We can always make it retroactive," Radloff said. "I'd just like to know how much we are talking about before we do something."

Council Schedules Revenue Sharing Hearing Feb. 19

A public hearing has been set for Tuesday, Feb. 19, on how the village will use the $33,000 in federal revenue-sharing funds that it is scheduled to receive this year.

The amount is up from $27,000 granted a year ago. That sum went into the village parks and recreation program, and administrator Frederick Weber indicated he would recommend this year's appropriation be spent for the same purpose.

Tax Break Approved For Thomas Co. Move into Chelsea

The village board has approved establishment of an Industrial Development Zone and Plant Rehabilitation District on property at 446 Congdon St. to allow a new industry to move into town.

The W. A. Thomas Co., a screw machine products firm, plans to occupy a building on the site formerly owned by Federal Screw Works. The Thomas firm, now located at 1035 N. Fletcher Rd., has bought the property and plans to move into it some time this spring.

The village board action, taken at its Feb. 5 meeting, entitles the Thomas firm to a 50 percent tax abatement over the next 12 years for improvements made on the property.

It is the seventh such special tax-break district approved by the village in recent years.

W. A. Thomas Co. is owned by William F. Marsh and has been in business for more than 40 years. It presently employs 13 persons and plans to expand in the new location.

The future of the Fletcher Rd. plant, which is located in Lima township, is uncertain.

Chelsea has been routinely granting tax abatement requests during the past three years in an effort to attract new business and industry into the village.

Village May Sell Old Power Station On Van Buren

Want to buy an old electric power station?

The village of Chelsea may sell one on Van Buren St. immediately east of the 76 gasoline station at S. Main and Van Buren.

The parcel includes a small brick building which probably has little value, and about 2,200 square feet of land, which is definitely worth something. The lot is approximately 34 by 64 feet.

Immediately east of the village property is a parking lot owned by Federal Screw Works.

"If you could put those two pieces of property together, you would have a tract large enough to build something big on," village administrator Frederick Weber commented. "I don't know if anyone is interested, but there certainly are development possibilities. Nor do I know if Federal Screw Works would sell the parking lot."

Village attorney Peter C. Flintoft has advised the council that it has the legal right to sell the power station property, which is no longer used.

The sale must be made at a public auction after an elaborate series of notices and advertisements, Flintoft said in his advisory opinion.

The village has the right to set a minimum price and to reject any bid offered at the auction sale, whether or not it matches or exceeds the minimum, Flintoft added.

The council received Flintoft's opinion at its Feb. 5 meeting and tabled the matter for further study before deciding whether or not to go ahead with the sale.

Water Operation Income Increases

Village water operations show an increase in income reflecting a drastic reduction in "gallons unaccounted for," according to a report submitted to the board of trustees.

Repairs to the leaky village water system were made last summer, and they appear to have achieved some results.

At the end of December, the number of gallons lost was 28,701,000. That isn't good, but it's a lot better than the 49,387,000 reported at the same time a year ago.

During 1983 about one of every four gallons of water pumped from village wells was wasted somewhere in the sense of not being metered or otherwise accounted for. The rate is now down to about one of seven gallons.

In 1983 the village pumped 199 million gallons of water, of which 150 million were accounted for. Comparable figures for 1984 were 196.6 and 168 million gallons.

Village revenues from water sales increased from $158,000 to $208,000. After expenses, the water system returned an income of $58,291 in 1984 as compared to $21,444 the previous year.

Obviously, more water is flowing through meters and less is seeping into the ground before it gets through the pipes.

Village Board Renews Grant for Recreation

The village board of trustees has voted to renew its annual appropriation of $6,500 to the Chelsea Recreation program.

In related actions the board reappointed Geneva Bolton to the recreation council and set a date of Tuesday, Feb. 19, for a public hearing on the council's proposed budget and program for 1985.

The recreation program is carried on with a budget of about $50,000 per year, $32,500 of it derived from participant receipts. The United Way contributes $8,000, the village $6,500 and participating townships (Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, Dexter and Freedom) the rest.

That budget underwrites a variety of programs ranging from gymnastics through floor hockey. Summer baseball and softball are important activities.

No major changes in programming are projected for this year according to the prospectus provided by the council as a basis for the Feb. 19 hearing.

Officers of the council include Karen Tobin, president; Ron Schuyler, vice-president; Jim Wilson, secretary, and Roberta Kemp, treasurer. Jackie Schiller serves as director.

James Finch and Stephanie Kanten represent the village board on the council, and Ann Feeney the board of education. Trustees at large are Ron Nemeth, Tom Steele, Geneva Bolton, Mary Gaken and Dave Read.

SPANISH CLUB MEMBERS from Chelsea High school are pictured in front of a sign of appreciation to those who helped make the February paper drive a success. The project was just one of many over the past two years that the group organized to raise money for a trip to Spain. The club is scheduled to leave for Madrid Friday, March 29. Members pictured standing from left, are LeAnn Welch, Katie Kelley, Robert Burg, Laura Scriven, Vesna Vadamudi and Mark Watson. Kneeling is Kim Clouse.

CHS Spanish Club Nine-Day Tour of Spain Starts Mar. 29

A fond adios is in store for Chelsea High school Spanish Club members as they take a trip to Spain, March 29-April 6.

Students have sponsored fundraising activities over the past two years to enable them to make the trip, including a recent paper drive.

For every seven students attending the tour through the American Institute for Foreign Study, based in Connecticut, one adult supervisor goes along at no charge.

An exciting nine-day itinerary is scheduled for the group with the first two days spent in air travel to Madrid and settling in at the hotel.

On the morning of the third day a visit to the Prado Museum is planned where the world's most noted collections of paintings are housed. Its chief glory is the wealth of works by Velasquez, Goya and other Spanish masters. Leaving the museum, the group will continue to the Royal Palace and in the afternoon a side trip is planned to the great art city of Toledo where students will visit the 13th Century cathedral, the house of El Greco and Santa Maria de la Blanca, a beautiful old synagogue with walls and ceilings of mudejar at its finest.

The fourth day is open for purchase of an optional excursion into the Spanish countryside. Beginning at the Valley of the Fallen, a monumental basilica carved out of a granite hillside and dedicated to the memory of the million people who died during the Spanish Civil War, the tour continues with a visit to El Escorial, the 16th Century complex of Philip II, and a mausoleum set against the harsh range of Guadarrama. Then it's on to Segovia to view a fortress-castle, the Alcazar and the Roman Aqueduct, returning to Madrid for the night.

A sight-seeing excursion on the fifth day is planned to the Moorish town of Cordoba to visit the 8th century mosque, the Mezquita, where nearly 850 columns of semi-precious stones surround a baroque church added in the 16th century, then it's on to Seville for dinner and an overnight.

The sixth day dawns on a morning of sight-seeing in Seville with a local English speaking guide. (Continued on page four)

HAMPTON-RICHARDSON: The Rev. and Mrs. Barry Hampton of Trinkle Rd., have announced the engagement of their daughter, Cynthia Ellen to Douglas Lowell Richardson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Richardson of New Castle, Pa. Cynthia and Douglas met while attending North Central Bible College in Minneapolis, Minn. Douglas is majoring in pastoral studies and will be a 1987 graduate. Cynthia is presently employed at Federal Screw Works as receptionist. The couple plan a May wedding with the bride's father officiating the ceremony.

Police Department Activity Declines During January

Chelsea police department activity dropped during January, according to a report submitted to the village board of trustees by chief Lenard McDougall. Radio runs were down from the previous month, 212 to 248, and almost all other categories reflected a decline in calls. The department logged decreases in arrests, traffic stops and property checks. Case reports were up a bit, but they were almost all for minor infractions.

Visits will be made to a huge Gothic cathedral, the burial place of Columbus, the Giralda Tower, (the minaret of the city's principal mosque) the Moorish fortress, the Alcazar, built for the Almohade king, Abu Yakob, in 1181. An afternoon departure to the city of Granada ends the busy day.

A morning sight-seeing tour of Granada on the seventh day includes a visit to the Alhambra and the Alcazar, called the most remarkable Moorish building in the world. The magnificent 14th century palace was built on one of the three hills on which the city stands, and represents the ultimate expression of Moorish art in Spain. Later a drive is planned to the charming resort town of Torremolinos on the Mediterranean coast for dinner and the night.

The eighth, and last day before the return trip home, is open to the choice of a free day to relax on the beaches of the Costa del Sol, or taking an excursion by boat to Tangiers in Morocco, North Africa.

But what about the traditional bull fight and entertainment by flamenco dancers, you may ask. The group will also discuss arrangements to see additional sights while in Spain.

The hearty members of the Spanish Club taking the trip to Spain are Mark Watson, president; John Stevens, vice-president; Veena Valamudi, secretary; Ravi Vadlamudi, treasurer; Laura Scriven, Nancy Stierle, Katie Kelley, Robert Vctor, Bruce Baron, Josephine Krzyszczkowski, Elizabeth Maurer, LeAnn Welch, Drew Hubal, Anne Acree, Robert Burg, Missy Keiser, Karen Guenther, Andrew Koszegi, Kimberly Clouse, and Judith Keiser. Adult supervisors accompanying the club are Valerie Scriven, June Winans, Beverly Martin.

Boy Scouts Observing 75th Anniversary Year

The Boy Scouts of America is 75 years old next Friday, Feb. 8.

The Wolverine Council, which serves Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe and Washtenaw counties, will join the nation's other 412 local Scout councils and the more than 4.7 million members of the youth organization in marking the Diamond Jubilee. It was Feb. 8, 1910, that the group was formally organized in Washington, D.C.

Anniversary Week, Feb. 3-9, will be marked by a variety of special programs, according to Elwood "Woody" Homan, council communications chairman. Scout Sunday is Feb. 3 and Scout Sabbath is Feb. 9 and will be observed in special ways. "The purposes of Scouting have not changed one bit over the years," noted Holman. "We still strive to build character, instill ideals of good citizenship, and foster fitness in young people." The methods of delivering this program, however, have changed to keep pace with the times.

Currently, stress is being placed on teaching young people to make ethical decisions, according to Holman. It is an outgrowth of a major program called Shaping Tomorrow, now being implemented.

Particular recognition will be paid during the week to community organizations for their use of the Scouting program and to the 3,300 adult volunteer leaders in the local council.

As the BSA moves into its new year, the Wolverine Council currently has 8,700 youth members registered as Tiger Cubs, Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, Varsity Scouts and Explorers.

Holman said the figures represent the fifth consecutive year the Council has shown a membership increase.

The Diamond Jubilee theme is "Pride in the Past... Footsteps to the Future." Holman said that other anniversary highlight events planned during the year will include Scout-O-Ramas in May, Day Camps in June, Summer Long-Term Camp in July and August, and a Council-Wide Camporee at Eastern Michigan University in October.

Weber Appointed Village's 'Single Street Administrator'

Village administrator Frederick Weber has been officially appointed as Chelsea's "single street administrator" as required by state law.

The action by the village board of trustees confirms in writing what Weber has been doing all the time in carrying on dealings with the Michigan Department of Transportation.

A 1951 law specifies that any incorporated city or village which receives state funds for street improvements and maintenance must designate somebody to handle all transactions.

"I do it all the time," Weber said. "This just makes it official."

IRS Asks for Taxpayers Co-Operation

The old adage, haste makes waste, can be true when it involves tax returns according to the Internal Revenue Service. And it can be costly if you're one of three million Michigan people expecting a refund. When a person waits until the last minute to file a tax return, errors can be made that delay efficient processing of a return. Any refund due to the taxpayer is also delayed when there are errors on a return.

If you're an average Michigan taxpayer, your refund will be over $800 this year... not something an intelligent person wants to delay. To help cut down on costly mistakes to both the taxpayer and the government, individuals are urged to file their tax returns as early as possible, said Charles A. Parks, IRS District Director.

Filing a tax return now, provided all the necessary records are available from employers and financial institutions to complete an accurate return, can save time and money.

The government, too, can operate more efficiently when taxpayers help save processing time. Reading the tax instructions carefully can cut down on errors also, Parks said.

The IRS offers free assistance to help taxpayers prepare their own returns. Contact the local IRS office for details on the services available at 1-800-424-1040.

The sensation created by Gov. Williams when he announced in 1959 that the State government had no funds to meet its payroll was a gentle rumble compared to the explosion ahead for the people of Michigan. The Unemployment Compensation Fund was plunging with sonic speed toward bankruptcy.

Girl Scouts of Chelsea joined with others throughout the world in the 1961 project of planting yellow roses to form a golden mass of color for next year's 50th anniversary of Girl Scouting. The planting of the rosebushes was part of a three-year program leading to the 50th anniversary observance next year.

Beetles may not have seemed as vital as bullets, but in the national budget a request for $487,000 to study Japanese beetles was issued. First recorded find in Michigan was in 1932. Total catch: Eight beetles.

Weight restrictions on all state trunk lines went into effect and county officials immediately imposed the same restrictions on all county roads. Representatives of the Washtenaw county Road Commission, said that active cooperation by everyone could eliminate much of the damage to roads during the winter.

Official announcement by the Chrysler Corporation that the "mystery project" south and west of Chelsea was to be used by the company as a proving ground verified rumors to that effect which had been circulating in the community for more than two years. Because the Chrysler company had continuously refrained from verifying the proving ground theory while not definitely denying it, that theory remained the most popular of the many rumors in regard to the project during the past five years since purchase of the vast acreage first began. Zoning was being discussed by the Washtenaw county Planning Commission.

Millard F. Caldwell, former governor of Florida, became head of the nation's civil defense. 20,000,000 men and women would make up a volunteer army of civilian Americans.

Elderly People in Rural Areas Often Overlooked

Though many elderly in Washtenaw county benefit from specialized services of area organizations, some elderly in rural areas of the county are not being reached, according to a recent survey by a group of area hospitals, retirement centers and agencies. In addition, existing services are frequently underused because the aged population is not aware of them, the study discovered.

But the same survey also found an abundance of services available to the elderly in Washtenaw county, particularly in the Ann Arbor area, and that they generally enjoy a high quality of life compared to the rest of the nation.

"We have a relatively affluent, independent and healthy elderly population in Washtenaw county," said Nick Meima, chairman of the sponsor's committee and executive director of Glacier Hills, one of the sponsors of the study. "But there is a problem with the distribution of the services."

"Small towns and rural areas outside Ann Arbor-Ypsilanti area do not benefit from what is taken for granted in the cities," Meima continued. He said the reason is that decisions regarding services, such as transportation, housing and health care, are made in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti, and many times, the rural areas and small communities, such as Manchester and Dexter, are left out of the decision-making process.

Low-cost housing and public transportation available to elderly citizens, for instance, are concentrated in the Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti area, Meima said. Residents sometimes move from outlying areas to live in the cities, but such a move can deepen an older person's isolation.

By moving into the city, the elderly often leave behind their families, friends and the community which has been their lifetime home, said Elizabeth Oaks Schuster, of the Ann Arbor Salvation Army, who was involved in writing the study. "They can become very isolated people," Schuster said. "What is needed is an active, 'shoe-leather' effort to reach and help the people who are isolated in the cities and in the rural area."

The survey also found that a particularly isolated and vulnerable group of elderly citizens were those who lived in mobile homes, located in rural areas, with no telephone. "We're not talking about the people who live in mobile home parks, which we found to be generally very good communities, but those who live in an old, poorly heated trailer sitting somewhere out on 10 acres of land," Schuster explained.

"People in this situation are certainly in the minority in Washtenaw county, but there are a few pockets of serious isolation and poverty here, and their condition is emphasized even more by the relative comfort of their peers in the cities," she added. "Most elderly people in Washtenaw county are quite well off, but those who are poor are really poor."

The study also found that the elderly population is generally unaware of the wide scope of community services available to them. "Only the major health care providers and the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority are well known," she said. Most other services, including smaller medical clinics, have very little recognition, according to survey results. "There is a lack of utilization of services because of this lack of knowledge," Schuster said. "But the problems that do exist within the county are manageable with the service delivery system we already have, and if the existing services were evenly available throughout the county, there would be no need for new services."

The study also found that not only is the elderly population in Washtenaw county increasing in size, but that greater family mobility is resulting in greater numbers of older people living alone. Younger family members may move to different parts of the country, leaving the elderly parents behind.

Schuster added that in another common situation, the aging son or daughter of an elderly person precedes the parent in disability. "We have homes in which a disabled elderly person is even dependent upon an older parent," she said.

Recommendations based on the study of the needs of the elderly in Washtenaw county include placing greater emphasis on educating the elderly and their families about the services available in the county, and further, identifying people in need of those services and encouraging them to accept assistance.

The study was conducted in 1983 and was sponsored by the University of Michigan Hospitals, the U-M Department of Internal Medicine, the Ann Arbor Foundation, the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, Catherine McAuley Health Center, the Ann Arbor Community Development Department, the Michigan Baptist Home, the Visiting Nurses Association of Huron Valley, the Washtenaw County Council on Aging, Washtenaw County and Glacier Hills.

THE HISTORY OF VALENTINE'S DAY

Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, is the most romantic holiday of the year and there are a number of stories about its start, according to Sandy Zeeb of Chelsea Greenhouse in Chelsea.

One legend has it that St. Valentine was a young Roman cleric who was imprisoned by the emperor and who sent a note of gratitude—a Valentine—to his jailer's daughter for being kind to him.

Another story claims St. Valentine was executed for performing marriage ceremonies for Roman soldiers in defiance of the law, the emperor preferring bachelors in his army.

Still a third legend claims that St. Valentine was an imprisoned Christian who wanted to get word to his family that he was still alive. Violets were growing outside his cell window and he managed to pick the leaves and pierce them with the words, "Remember your Valentine." The leaves, goes the story, then were delivered by a dove. This may explain why flowers are a traditional Valentine's Day gift.

There also are a couple of stories about why Valentine's Day is celebrated on Feb. 14. Some say it's the date St. Valentine was martyred. Others believe it was selected because Feb. 14 is the day when birds choose their mates for the year.

Remember, too, that you don't have to give a dozen flowers to express your feelings. A bouquet, a bunch of a few flowers, or even a single bloom is just as thoughtful and just as appreciated.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Last November I wrote a couple of Clock Tower columns declaring that Chelsea was an unfriendly town and that we were moving out of it in the hope of finding a more hospitable environment in Ann Arbor.

Now that we have left Chelsea, some nice things are beginning to happen, and fairness requires that I report those, too. I just wish they had started to happen sooner. We might have been here without having had to undergo the trauma of moving.

For the record, Ann Arbor isn't a friendly place. It's kind of neutral. People aren't warmly welcoming or openly hostile. For the most part, they ignore you, as if you didn't exist. It's a city of strangers, which is bad but bearable.

Back to the good things in Chelsea.

During the past several weeks I have had the good fortune to interview and write about three outstanding young persons—Devon Thomas, Rodney Satterthwaite, Laura Koepele. All three have achieved something out of the ordinary and were pure pleasure to meet and talk with.

I get criticized quite often for putting too much emphasis on sports. "You are only interested in athletics," is a complaint I've heard to the point that I'm tired of listening to it.

It just plain isn't correct.

The fact is that athletes are showcased. They perform in public in front of crowds, and their events are announced in advance. Covering sports is relatively easy for a newsman, because you know where the action is going to be, and can watch it if you want to. With a very few exceptions, coaches are eager to help you.

I have tried to spread the word through the school system that I want to know and write about students who have done good things in academics, music, drama, debate, art, whatever. In no way do I intend to back off my coverage of sports, but I would like to do a lot more in the other areas of education and give recognition to those who merit it.

A couple of weeks ago my wife and I attended a dance put on by the Chelsea Athletic Boosters. It was one of the most fun evenings we have enjoyed in a long time. We danced, drank a couple of pitchers of beer, and conversed with many very nice, gracious people. We had a wonderful time, stayed up later than we have in several years, and wished the party had gone on longer. It was great.

Shortly after we walked into the hall, two persons asked me if I was "working" that night. No way. Deliberately, I hadn't brought along a pen or a piece of paper. Believe me, I know the difference between business and pleasure.

That said, I'm going to cheat just a little bit and pay tribute to a man who did a very nice thing and deserves to be commended for having done it. I was asked to draw the grand prize winner, an award of $300 in cash. Out of the hopper I picked the name of Mark Bellus. He stepped forward, accepted the money, then asked athletic director Ron Nemeth to come up. Bellus donated the $300 to the school district's athletic fund.

I met Mark Bellus for the first time that night, and now know a little more about not only him but also his son, Dan, a good athlete and a fine young man. I think I know where some of Dan's character comes from.

A week ago Sunday my wife and I were invited to be the special guests of Den 2 at the annual Chelsea Cub Scouts' Blue and Gold banquet. Getting there meant making a special trip from Ann Arbor but, by golly, if they were nice enough to ask us, we were going to go.

Vivian shed a few tears of joy when the six young boys who are members of the den came up to her and presented her with a corsage, which she proudly pinned on and is still nurturing in a vase on our dining room table at home. It's remarkable how much such seemingly little things can mean.

Den leader Debbie Kennedy told me that we had been invited at the suggestion of the boys, who appreciated my spending a few minutes to take them on a tour of The Standard on a busy day. Frankly, I had forgotten about the tour, but they hadn't. Thanks, boys. You did a couple of older people a good deed in the best tradition of Scouting.

We were well entertained and lavishly fed. The mothers of that Cub pack are excellent cooks!

Unfortunately, we went from there to another gathering that was not nearly so pleasant and was, in fact, downright distressing. Being in an upbeat mood as I write this, I'm not going to say anything beyond that. You have to take a little bitter with a lot of sweet.

Thanks to all who have made it fun to be in Chelsea these past few weeks.

Child Passenger Safety Week Set In Michigan

"Love your children—buckle them up."

This is the message from Secretary of State Richard Austin for National Child Passenger Safety Week (Feb. 8-15), to encourage greater use of child safety restraints.

According to Austin, use of child restraints in Michigan has saved many young lives and spared many more from life-long injuries.

Unfortunately, less than half of the motorists buckle their children and many do not use child restraints properly, Austin said.

Michigan's infant restraint law, effective April 1, 1982, requires all children under four in vehicles to be held in child safety seats. Children between one and four, when carried in the back seat, however, may be secured with a safety belt.

"National Child Safety Passenger Week is a good time to make a special effort to learn more about the law and how to use child restraints. Instructional brochures are available in all Secretary of State branch offices," Austin said.

Governor's Proposed Ag Budget Pleases State Farm Bureau

Governor Blanchard's proposed 1985-86 budget includes a 6% increase in the funding of the Michigan Department of Agriculture and that means the maintenance of programs important not only to the agricultural industry but to all of the state's consumers, according to Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel Robert E. Smith.

"We had a good increase last year to renew some of the programs that are so vitally important to agriculture and the entire food industry and some of those have been increased this year. For example, there is money in the budget this year to have full time representation for agricultural exports in Brussels and Tokyo," Smith said.

The proposed budget includes increased funding for food inspection, disease control and livestock and plants, animal health, dairy programs, drain commission and soil conservation purposes.

Frances Koepele Recognized For Contributions to Schools

"Take Pride in Your Schools" Committee has nominated Mrs. Frances (Fran) Koepele, mother of Laura Koepele, a senior at Chelsea High school, for appreciation and school board recognition. Fran, a graduate of Michigan State University as a home economist, is a creative and unflagging supporter of the Chelsea school system.

Fran and her husband, John, have had five children attend the Chelsea schools. John, Jr., a graduate of Michigan State University, is now with AT&T; Debbie, a recent graduate of Michigan State University, is doing her internship in music therapy in Lisle, Ill., and residing with John, Jr. Brian is now a senior and Jeff a sophomore (you guessed it!) at Michigan State University and Laura, a senior at Chelsea High school, will attend there next year. It should be noted that John, Sr., is also an alumnus of MSU and it seems he and Fran have started quite a tradition.

Fran has for several years expressed her artistic talents in the production of a series of exquisite banners for the congregation at St. Mary's church.

When the Chelsea High School Athletic Department and Athletic Boosters wanted to honor the recent championship teams in softball and golf, she was approached and readily agreed to help by designing and constructing banners in the school colors of blue and gold. These banners, which are on display in the high school gymnasium, are but one of the ways in which Fran has supported Chelsea schools since moving to the area.

She has been well known and appreciated over the years by teachers, coaches and students for her support as room mother and her creative desserts and treats served to classes and school banquets. Her son will always remember the tuxedo she tailored for him, when the orchestra supply was lacking in quantity and sizes. Fran has not confronted a need which she would not tackle.

Fran must have been the person who was referred to in the adage "If you need something done, find a busy person to ask to do it."

The Koepele family live on a small farm on the edge of Chelsea. They have all participated in the renovation of the farm house over the years. Remodeling and redecorating are fit into an active family's life style. One of the major projects that Fran has undertaken is the designing and construction of a stone fireplace. She hauled and split the stone for this ambitious undertaking.

Fran and John Koepele have shown by their interest and participation their support of the Chelsea school and the community. It takes a great variety of talents and dedicated people to keep a school system operating at maximum effectiveness. Students, parents and members of the community can all participate by utilizing their individual talents. These talents many times are very original in their own approach and, as insignificant as a person might think their talents are, as you can appreciate, these talents are needed to sustain the quality of the student's extracurricular and academic programs.

RECOGNIZED BY SCHOOLS: "Take Pride in Your Schools" Committee has nominated Mrs. Frances Koepele, mother of Chelsea High school senior, Laura Koepele, for appreciation and school board recognition. Mrs. Koepele is pictured with banners which she readily agreed to design and construct to honor the recent championship teams in softball and golf. She has been well known and appreciated over the years by teachers, coaches and students for her support as room mother and her creative desserts and treats served to classes and school banquets.

Farm Credit Proposal Faces Probable Defeat

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture John Block said this week that he has doubts that Farm Bureau's proposal to reduce farmers' interest rate obligations with USDA funds earmarked for farm debt relief would be approved.

Last week, Farm Bureau asked President Reagan to direct the Farmers Home Administration to speed up the processing of farmer loan applications, especially in states like Iowa and Nebraska where farmers face crucial credit problems. American Farm Bureau Federation President Bob Delano also asked the president to modify his debt restructuring program by providing federal guarantees to commercial lenders who agree to write down interest rates on farm loans.

Block said that USDA officials are considering the proposal but that he had his doubts about it, because it could become a "bottomless pit" for funds if not controlled.

Retirement Party Planned for Extension Agents

Retirement is planned for Gurdon Dennis, director of extension in Washtenaw county and Helen Fairman, extension home economist.

Helen Fairman has served Washtenaw county for 20 years. As an area extension home economist she has also served Lenawee and Monroe counties. She holds professional memberships with the National Association of Extension Home Economists and the National American Home Economists Association. Fairman received a Bachelor of Arts degree from Albion college and was a home economics teacher before coming to extension.

Gurdon Dennis, an extension agent since 1962 has served as county extension director for four years in Washtenaw county. He previously held the position of district horticulture agent in Wayne, Oakland, Macomb and Monroe counties. Dennis received a bachelor's degree from Michigan State University. He has been executive secretary of the Michigan Forestry and Park Association for 25 years.

A party in their honor will be held at Women's City Club, 1830 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor, Thursday, Feb. 28 from 4 p.m.-7 p.m. Reservations are required. Call 973-9510.

In 1913 Georgia Broadwick, at age 19, was the first female to parachute from an airplane.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Feb. 4 were Schumann, Heller, Dila, Grau, Feeney, ComEAU, Redding, superintendent Van Meer, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Williams, Stielstra, Benedict, Wescott, assistant principal Larson, community education director Rogers, special education director DeYoung, athletic director Nemeth, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by president Dale Schumann.

Board approved the minutes of the Jan. 21 meeting.

President Schumann presented a Certificate of Appreciation and gave recognition to Cindy Mortensen, North school fifth grade teacher, and to Donna Farnsworth, parent. Cindy and Donna organized the Christmas gift exchange program for St. Louis school. Cindy's fifth graders gave up their classmate gift exchange to take gifts to St. Louis school.

Assistant superintendent Mills reviewed with the board the subject of cable telecommunications. This would be a jointly operated public telecommunications system, Clear Cable TV link between Chelsea, Clinton, Dexter, Dundee, Manchester, Milan and Saline. The system would involve two-way audio and visual communication between schools for educational purposes. The board approved a resolution that if public funds become available, the school district will provide studio space and cable right-of-way.

Sue Carter, high school counselor and testing coordinator, reviewed the statewide summary of assessment test results and the California Achievement Test. Chelsea continues to score higher than the state average in all categories. The California Achievement Test is administered each year in grades 2, 5, 8 and 11—to high school and middle school students in the fall, and to elementary students in the spring.

The pre-kindergarten curriculum committee was present to review the need for the pre-kindergarten program. Building principals will discuss this subject with their staff members in the very near future.

Superintendent Van Meer

reviewed the latest legislative actions in Lansing. Topics of discussion centered around the Governor's budget, which has increased funding to schools by $133 million. Those funds will go directly to in-formula school districts. Chelsea is an out-of-formula district and therefore will not be receiving additional funds. Van Meer also spoke about the new retirement bill which will be re-introduced in the current legislative session.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed with the board those employees who were cited for exemplary attendance, and to whom letters of appreciation were forwarded.

Board approved 1986 graduation dates as follows: high school, Sunday, June 8, 1986; adult education, Thursday, June 12, 1986.

Bob Bullock, CEA president, was present at the meeting and, on behalf of the teachers, extended appreciation for the breakfast and in-service program of Thursday, Jan. 31.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

In 1903 Maggie Lena Walker became the first American woman bank president by founding St. Luke's Penny Saving Bank of Richmond, Va., now known as the Consolidated Bank and Trust of Richmond.

IT'S A JACKALOPE: There ain't no such animal in the real outdoor world, but "jackalopes" are common as mounted specimens. A clever taxidermist can put a set of antlers on a jackrabbit and make the result look good enough to be real. Alex Lytle of Unadilla brought this one back from a recent trip out west.

Earlier Renewal of Auto License Offered

Secretary of State Richard Austin has announced that Michigan residents temporarily living outside the state may now renew license plates within a six-month period before the plate expires.

Previously, individual vehicle owners could only renew within a 45-day period prior to expiration.

Austin said a new Michigan law, effective Jan. 1 of this year, enables the Department of State to renew vehicle registration early. This early registration is expected to be more convenient to workers, students, retirees and others who are out of state for extended periods of time.

A weary Arab at the end of a day's travel knelt beside his camel for a refreshing drink of goat's milk from the canteen of a dried sheep's stomach. As he opened the container imagine his disappointment and then amazement at the sight of the semi-solid substance, the first cheese known to man—or so the legend goes of an incident 4,000 years ago.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This winter has presented itself with a great clamor of bad weather, but this weather has been matched with very few snow days in the school district. I realize that a student is likely to feel a need for snow days on occasions that the administration does not, but we have been attending school through some of the worst conditions possible.

The school apparently checks the roads to insure that all the buses can bring the children to school safely, but not insure that the roads are passable in an ordinary automobile. Due to extra-curricular or work activities, many students must drive or be driven to school. The sad truth is that the school is liable only for the students in the buses, not for any injuries incurred on the way to school in a privately owned car.

What is being overlooked is the responsibility of the school as an agent of the state to regulate, promote, and safeguard the public health, safety, morals, and welfare. Specifically, the school is responsible to promote public health and safety. Thus, although the school is not legally liable for accidents that occur due to students driving to school in bad weather, it is morally responsible. The school should not only make sure the large, heavy buses can make their way through the snow on the backroads, but also that smaller cars will be able to arrive at school safely.

Joshua Smith,
High School Senior.

SOUTH SCHOOL SERVICE SQUAD: Student volunteers perform many helpful tasks each day for their school. The assistance they extend to younger students and to teachers by collecting attendance slips, delivering notes to the office, supervising in the cafeteria and standing guard at

South School Service Squad Identified By Arm Bands

Students wearing arm bands at South school in Chelsea have chosen a special way to show pride in their school.

As members of the South School Service Squad, 30 student volunteers emerge from their busses to perform special duties in order to make the school a more efficient and pleasant place to learn.

Throughout the day, Service Squaders collect attendance slips, deliver notes from the office, supervise in the cafeteria and stand guard at school entrances and exits. The helpfulness they extend to younger children on the playground wins them the admiration of fellow students. Two specially selected captains remind other Service Squaders of their duties and arrange for substitutes.

This year's teacher supervisor is Margaret Nance.

At the end of the year, a job well done is celebrated with a full day of excitement cheering on the world champion Detroit Tigers at Tiger Stadium.

Students who participate as members of the South School Service squad have definitely made a special effort to show pride in their schools.

Model Railroad Exhibit Set Feb. 17 in Ann Arbor

The 14th annual Flea Market sponsored by Ann Arbor Model Railroad Club and Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 17, at Pioneer High School, Ann Arbor.

Richard Ashley, Dexter postmaster, currently president of the model railroad club, says this will be one of the largest displays of model railroad equipment in the country. The event draws interested buyers from several states as well as a host of Michigan residents.

There will be 350 tables set up, with many operating layouts of the small train networks. Movies will be shown during the giant gathering, and manufacturers from across the country will set up displays for the many visitors at the show. A snack bar will make refreshments available to the spectators and representatives of the manufacturers. A nominal $2 admission will be charged the adults attending the event, but children under 12 will be admitted without charge if accompanied by an adult.

Each year the show has grown in popularity, explains Ashley, and it offers a marvelous opportunity for model railroad enthusiasts to view hundreds of accessories, and makes it possible for those just beginning to collect the small railroad sets to get a real idea of how exciting such a hobby can be. Ashley says the show is always crowded, so he advises people to come early and spend enough time to really enjoy the experience.

Cindy and Donna organized the Christmas gift exchange program for St. Louis school. Cindy's fifth graders gave up their classmate gift exchange to take gifts to St. Louis school.

Assistant superintendent Mills reviewed with the board the subject of cable telecommunications. This would be a jointly operated public telecommunications system, Clear Cable TV link between Chelsea, Clinton, Dexter, Dundee, Manchester, Milan and Saline. The system would involve two-way audio and visual communication between schools for educational purposes. The board approved a resolution that if public funds become available, the school district will provide studio space and cable right-of-way.

Sue Carter, high school counselor and testing coordinator, reviewed the statewide summary of assessment test results and the California Achievement Test. Chelsea continues to score higher than the state average in all categories. The California Achievement Test is administered each year in grades 2, 5, 8 and 11—to high school and middle school students in the fall, and to elementary students in the spring.

The pre-kindergarten curriculum committee was present to review the need for the pre-kindergarten program. Building principals will discuss this subject with their staff members in the very near future.

Superintendent Van Meer

reviewed the latest legislative actions in Lansing. Topics of discussion centered around the Governor's budget, which has increased funding to schools by $133 million. Those funds will go directly to in-formula school districts. Chelsea is an out-of-formula district and therefore will not be receiving additional funds. Van Meer also spoke about the new retirement bill which will be re-introduced in the current legislative session.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed with the board those employees who were cited for exemplary attendance, and to whom letters of appreciation were forwarded.

Board approved 1986 graduation dates as follows: high school, Sunday, June 8, 1986; adult education, Thursday, June 12, 1986.

Bob Bullock, CEA president, was present at the meeting and, on behalf of the teachers, extended appreciation for the breakfast and in-service program of Thursday, Jan. 31.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

In 1903 Maggie Lena Walker became the first American woman bank president by founding St. Luke's Penny Saving Bank of Richmond, Va., now known as the Consolidated Bank and Trust of Richmond.

IT'S A JACKALOPE: There ain't no such animal in the real outdoor world, but "jackalopes" are common as mounted specimens. A clever taxidermist can put a set of antlers on a jackrabbit and make the result look good enough to be real. Alex Lytle of Unadilla brought this one back from a recent trip out west.

Earlier Renewal of Auto License Offered

Secretary of State Richard Austin has announced that Michigan residents temporarily living outside the state may now renew license plates within a six-month period before the plate expires.

Previously, individual vehicle owners could only renew within a 45-day period prior to expiration.

Austin said a new Michigan law, effective Jan. 1 of this year, enables the Department of State to renew vehicle registration early. This early registration is expected to be more convenient to workers, students, retirees and others who are out of state for extended periods of time.

A weary Arab at the end of a day's travel knelt beside his camel for a refreshing drink of goat's milk from the canteen of a dried sheep's stomach. As he opened the container imagine his disappointment and then amazement at the sight of the semi-solid substance, the first cheese known to man—or so the legend goes of an incident 4,000 years ago.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

This winter has presented itself with a great clamor of bad weather, but this weather has been matched with very few snow days in the school district. I realize that a student is likely to feel a need for snow days on occasions that the administration does not, but we have been attending school through some of the worst conditions possible.

The school apparently checks the roads to insure that all the buses can bring the children to school safely, but not insure that the roads are passable in an ordinary automobile. Due to extra-curricular or work activities, many students must drive or be driven to school. The sad truth is that the school is liable only for the students in the buses, not for any injuries incurred on the way to school in a privately owned car.

What is being overlooked is the responsibility of the school as an agent of the state to regulate, promote, and safeguard the public health, safety, morals, and welfare. Specifically, the school is responsible to promote public health and safety. Thus, although the school is not legally liable for accidents that occur due to students driving to school in bad weather, it is morally responsible. The school should not only make sure the large, heavy buses can make their way through the snow on the backroads, but also that smaller cars will be able to arrive at school safely.

Joshua Smith,
High School Senior.

SOUTH SCHOOL SERVICE SQUAD: Student volunteers perform many helpful tasks each day for their school. The assistance they extend to younger students and to teachers by collecting attendance slips, delivering notes to the office, supervising in the cafeteria and standing guard at

South School Service Squad Identified By Arm Bands

Students wearing arm bands at South school in Chelsea have chosen a special way to show pride in their school.

As members of the South School Service Squad, 30 student volunteers emerge from their busses to perform special duties in order to make the school a more efficient and pleasant place to learn.

Throughout the day, Service Squad members collect attendance slips, deliver notes from the office, supervise in the cafeteria and stand guard at school entrances and exits. The helpfulness they extend to younger children on the playground wins them the admiration of fellow students. Two specially selected captains remind other Service Squad members of their duties and arrange for substitutes.

This year's teacher supervisor is Margaret Nance.

At the end of the year, a job well done is celebrated with a full day of excitement cheering on the world champion Detroit Tigers at Tiger Stadium.

Students who participate as members of the South School Service Squad have definitely made a special effort to show pride in their schools.

Model Railroad Exhibit Set Feb. 17 in Ann Arbor

The 14th Annual Flea Market sponsored by Ann Arbor Model Railroad Club and Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society will be open from 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 17, at Pioneer High school, Ann Arbor.

Richard Ashley, Dexter postmaster, currently president of the model railroad club, says this will be one of the largest displays of model railroad equipment in the country. The event draws interested buyers from several states as well as a host of Michigan residents.

There will be 350 tables set up, with many operating layouts of the small train networks. Movies will be shown during the giant gathering, and manufacturers from across the country will set up displays for the many visitors at the show. A snack bar will make refreshments available to the spectators and representatives of the manufacturers. A nominal $2 admission will be charged the adults attending the event, but children under 12 will be admitted without charge if accompanied by an adult.

Each year the show has grown in popularity, explains Ashley, and it offers a marvelous opportunity for model railroad enthusiasts to view hundreds of accessories, and makes it possible for those just beginning to collect the small railroad sets to get a real idea of how exciting such a hobby can be. Ashley says the show is always crowded, so he advises people to come early and spend enough time to really enjoy the experience.

Jay Hopkins Named Soil Conservation Director

The 38th annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District was held Tuesday, Feb. 5, at the Pittsfield Union Grange Hall, Ann Arbor. There were 66 persons in attendance.

The program included reports on 1984 activities of the Soil Conservation District, USDA Soil Conservation Service, USDA Rural Clean Water Program, Saline Valley Project; and a presentation on a special project in Michigan being conducted by the American Farmland Trust. Washtenaw county is one of several counties included in the project.

Featured speaker for the meeting was Dr. Claire Shelske, research limnologist with the Great Lakes Research Division, the University of Michigan. Dr. Shelske presented an informative discussion on the water quality of the Great Lakes as determined by the study of phytoplankton growth and diatom abundance in the waters and sediment of the Great Lakes.

An election of the district director was also held. There were 44 ballots cast and E. Jay Hopkins, Lyndon township, was elected to a three-year term as a district director.

The following awards were presented:

1984 No-Till Corn Yield Contest Winner, Henry Altenbernt, Augusta township.

1984 Big Tree Contest Winner, Dean Zahn, Saline township.

Distinguished Service Certificate, Tim Slepisky for 3 1/2 years assistance to county landowners as a Soil Conservation Service employee in Washtenaw county. Slepisky recently transferred to Monroe county.

Distinguished Service Certificate, Don Pennington for his assistance in taking photographs for the district annual report over the last several years.

Twenty-Year District Director Service Pin, William Fishbeck.

Distinguished Service Award, Loren Heller, retiring district director.

A special presentation of the "Walter Wolfgang Memorial" Outstanding Conservation Farmer of the Year Award, for 1984 was made to William Fishbeck of Superior township. Fishbeck has actively used many conservation practices for many years in his farming operation, including grassed waterway, erosion control structures, pond construction and management, subsurface drainage and conservation tillage. Fishbeck has also been a strong advocate of farmland preservation in Washtenaw county for many years.

Also announced at the meeting was the selection of the Soil Conservation District's monthly newsletter as the first-place regional winner, North Central Region, in the 1984 Newsletter Contest sponsored by the National Association of Conservation Districts and the Farm and Industrial Equipment Institute. The district will receive a wall plaque and $150 cash prize for the award. This will be the 10th award in the last 12 years that the district has received as a regional or national winner in the National Newsletter Contest.

The annual meeting was closed with a drawing for 24 door prizes donated by 14 county businesses. Refreshments followed which were provided courtesy of donations from six farm material suppliers and conservation practice installation contractors.

Ann Arbor Symphony Concert Slated Feb. 24

Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra will continue its 56th season of free concerts on Sunday, Feb. 24, at 3:30 p.m. in Hill Auditorium on the University of Michigan campus in Ann Arbor.

Featured soloist will be Louis Nagel, pianist, performing Beethoven's Concerto No. 5 for Piano and Orchestra, the "Emperor" Concerto. Dr. Nagel is a professor of music at the University of Michigan as well as a concert pianist of national and international note.

Dr. Edward Szabo, conductor, will open the concert with the "Prometheus" overture, also by Beethoven. The orchestra will then play Brahms' Symphony No. 2 in D major.

As usual, there will be no admission charge. Doors will open at 3 p.m.

Concerts of The Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra are made possible by funding from the Music Performance Trust Funds of the recording industries, the J. L. Hudson Co. and its Briarwood department store, the Harry A. and Margaret D. Towse Foundation, the Campus Inn, the Michigan Council for the Arts, and local individuals, families and businesses.

True Grist Dinner Theatre Presents Valentine Musical

Due to the strong advance sales and some sell-out performances, True Grist Dinner Theatre, a non-profit organization in Homer, is extending the run of "A Valentine from Hollywood" through Feb. 24, bumping Noel Coward's "Star Quality" from the schedule. This change in the schedule will allow "The Old Mill Folies of 1935" to open March 1 and play through March 17.

Another in the line of critically acclaimed compilations from Charles Burr and Bobb James, "A Valentine from Hollywood" is a fast-paced light and lively show consisting of songs from original movie screen musicals. Audiences will be treated to the sounds of Rodgers and Hart, Cole Porter, Jerome Kern and others; to loving songs like "Moonlight Becomes You," "A Fine Romance," "I've Got You Under My Skin," and many more. Even a Disney medley will be presented by the professional company of actors and singers.

Shows are held Wednesday through Sunday; 2 p.m. matinee on Wednesday and 3 p.m. matinee on Sunday. Evening show time Thursday through Saturday is 8 p.m.

Because of the high demand on the Valentine Holiday, True Grist is presenting a special Thursday matinee, on Feb. 14, at 2 p.m. There are still a few seats available for most performances. Call now for reservations, 1-517-568-4151, or Michigan Tollfree, 1-800-828-6161.

THE DRIVING WAS BAD: This 4x4 slid off Stofer Rd. on Monday morning as a combination of snow and warming temperatures made driving treacherous, especially on secondary roads. Such scenes were common throughout the area as motorists found driving a continuous hazard.

Sheriff Offers Winter Safe Driving Tips

With the recent rash of snow and ice storms kicking off the new year, Washtenaw county sheriff Ronald J. Schebil reminds winter drivers of several accident reducing safety tips:

—It takes twice the distance to stop a car or truck on a slick highway, as it does on dry pavement. On wet or icy surfaces, drive more slowly; allow at least half-again your usual distance between your car and the car ahead.

—Keep your foot pressure on the gas pedal smooth and even. If you take your foot off the accelerator too fast, your car may go into a skid and you may lose control.

—Your car also may skid if you brake too suddenly or too hard. To stop on slippery pavement, pump brakes lightly while you hold the steering wheel firmly. Steer left or right only when your foot is off the brake pedal to avoid going into a spin.

—On wet roads throughout the year, your car may hydroplane. This is when your tires actually lose contact with the road and ride on the surface of the water on the road. You will feel like your car is slipping. Do not brake! Hard braking can cause you to lose control. Instead, ease back on the gas until your car sits back down on the road. Then you can go at a slower speed.

—Wet weather also may mean damp brakes, cutting down on their stopping ability. While driving in wet weather, keep brakes dry and useful by braking lightly for several seconds at regular times. The heat this action produces will dry the brake lining.

—Have your brakes checked at least once a year. This is your

Temperature Rises Above Freezing Mark After 38-Day Dip

Perhaps the biggest and almost certainly the most welcome news of the past week was that the temperature rose above freezing on Monday for the first time in 38 days, temporarily ending a record cold spell.

The month of January was the coldest on record, and the first week of February continued the pattern with below-zero readings on five of the first seven days.

It began to warm up a bit late last week, and by Monday the mercury struggled up to 33 degrees, the first above-freezing reading recorded since Jan. 4.

It even rained a bit on Monday, settling the snow that has been continuously on the ground since New Year's Day and washing away some of it.

The "thaw," if you can call it that, was not without its price. A fall of wet snow Sunday night made driving treacherous early Monday morning, and the daytime rain turned to freezing rain during the evening, adding to the woes of motorists.

By yesterday morning the efforts of road maintenance crews had turned the whole mess into sloppy slush on main roads, disagreeable but driveable. Back roads were something else and required extreme caution.

Both Chelsea and Dexter districts ran their buses on Monday morning in what was kind of a touch-and-go situation. Several scheduled athletic events were postponed or cancelled.

Weather forecasts indicated that the respite from the snow and cold will be temporary at best. Temperatures were predicted to drop below freezing last night and stay there for the next several days, with some snow predicted every day through the weekend.

Local police agencies reported that motorists are handling the bad driving conditions well. Both the Chelsea police department and the sheriff's department recorded several minor fender-bender accidents and numerous incidents of cars skidding off roads, but no mishaps involving personal injuries.

Brochure Tells How To Protest Assessment

Michigan Consumers Council is again reminding Michigan property owners that they may protest their property tax assessments. To assist those consumers, the council has available a brochure outlining how to review property tax assessments, what to look for in determining the accuracy of the assessments, and how to proceed through an appeal process.

The pamphlet is one of the most popular informational items published by the council this time of year as property owners receive their tax assessment notices. While many consumers feel that their tax assessments are unfairly high, many are reluctant to "fight city hall" because they feel it's hopeless.

"Many assessment changes simply reflect inflation in the housing market," according to Consumers council director Kent S. Wilcox. "However, errors are made frequently. These can range from incorrectly computing the tax to an actual error in judging the property's value."

The first thing consumers need to do is check the appraisal records in the assessor's office for accuracy," said Wilcox. "It's possible that the appraisal may have been based on assumptions that are simply incorrect, such as stating that the house has a finished basement or fireplace when it doesn't. The appraisal may have also missed defects that might tend to reduce the house's value such as settling or shifting on the foundation."

The council advised discussing any errors with the assessor first. Some assessors may be willing to adjust the appraisal, saving the consumer and themselves the nuisance of a formal protest.

The importance of deadlines is also stressed as each township and city has a functioning Board of Review that meets sometime between the first week in March and the first week in April. If the protest isn't filed by the meeting date, a consumer will have missed the chance to change the assessment.

Free copies of "How To Review and Appeal Your Property Tax Assessment" are available by writing or calling the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan St., Lansing 48933; telephone, 517-373-0947 (TDD for the hearing impaired only, 517-373-0701).

Milan Races to Early Big Lead and Wins, 91-71, Over Chelsea

Visiting Milan put on a dazzling display of running, shooting and rebounding in the early going of last Friday night's varsity basketball game in the Chelsea gym and used that early advantage to take home a 91-71 victory. It wasn't quite as easy for Milan as the final score suggests. The Bulldogs closed the gap to six points early in the fourth quarter but ran out of steam as the taller and much quicker Big Reds asserted their dominance.

That last quarter saw a total of 64 points scored—36 by Milan and 28 by Chelsea—an astounding number for eight minutes of high school basketball. It probably isn't a record, but has to be somewhere in the neighborhood.

"We fell way behind early and were forced to play Milan's game of run-and-gun in an effort to catch up," Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter said. "Let's face it, that isn't our style. We're not a run-and-gun team. We wanted to control the tempo as we did against Saline, but we couldn't do it once Milan got way out in front."

The first four minutes proved to be decisive as the Big Reds raced out to a 14-4 margin while the Bulldogs were making a bunch of defensive errors and missing several easy shots.

From there on, it was a fairly even game until the final five minutes when Chelsea was forced to foul to get the ball, opening the door to another Milan surge that stretched the final margin to 20 points.

For the first time this season an opposing team took advantage of Chelsea's lack of height. The Big Reds had a 2-1 edge in rebounds, repeatedly getting second, third and even fourth shots on the offensive boards.

Just as important, and maybe more so, was Milan's superiority in speed and quickness. The Chelsea boys ran until their tongues were hanging out, but were often a step or two behind.

Except for the sharp-shooting of Eric Schaffner, the game would have turned into a rout early. Schaffner scored 18 of his team's 27 first-half points to keep the Bulldogs respectably close, 38-27, at the intermission. He wound up with a career-best 24 points.

After being shut off during the first half, David Steinhauer came back strong to finish the night with 14 tallies. Substitute guard Ray Spencer had 12 while playing what Rosentreter called "by far his best game of the season."

Keith Neibauer returned to action after missing a game because of strained ligaments in his left hand. The bandaged hand obviously bothered him, but he wound up with a respectable 10 points and battled hard on the boards, as did back-up center John Jedele who grabbed 10 rebounds.

Rosentreter had warned his team that Milan has some good players besides their highly publicized junior guard, Bill Eaddy, and he proved to be a prophet.

Eaddy had a decent game, scoring 13 points, but teammates Mike Mercier (24) and Larry Walker (22) did the heavy damage.

"Milan played a good game, especially in that first quarter which was excellent from their standpoint," Rosentreter commented. "They may be playing the best ball in the league right now. They have improved a whole lot since we beat them earlier (63-54 in the Milan gym on Dec. 18).

He wouldn't want to predict the outcome of their next game against Saline, but it should be a dandy if both teams are in top form."

Bulldog Cagers Overcome Slow Start, Beat Pinckney

There was a smell of upset in the air during the first half of last Tuesday's Chelsea-Pinckney game in the Bulldog gym. The visiting Pirates, winless in the Southeastern Conference and victors in only three games all season, led at the end of the first quarter and were down by just four at the half. They were playing pretty well, and Chelsea wasn't.

Whatever coach Rahn Rosentreter said to his troops at half-time was effective, as the Bulldogs took charge and won going away, 62-46, to raise their record to 9-4 over-all and 4-3 in the league.

"The first half was pretty bad from our standpoint," Rosentreter said. "We made a lot of mistakes. We settled down and played good ball in the second half, and that made the difference. We're a better team than Pinckney, but for awhile I was beginning to wonder if we were going to prove it."

Part of the early problem may have been the absence of starting center Keith Neibauer, who sat out the game with an injury to his left hand suffered while diving for a loose ball in the Feb. 2 loss to Tecumseh.

Replacement John Jedele performed ably, especially in the second half when he pulled down seven rebounds and scored seven points.

Jedele drew praise from Rosentreter, who called the 6-1 junior "maybe the most improved player on the squad since the beginning of the season. He has played very well since the holiday break, and it doesn't hurt us to have him in there. He was a little hesitant early in the Pinckney game, probably because he was making his first start, but he gained confidence and did a fine job in the second half, especially on the boards."

Neibauer's return to action is one of those game-to-game things. He has ligament damage. Such injuries sometimes heal quickly, and sometimes don't. "We'll watch his progress in practice and make a judgment before each game whether he's ready to play or not," Rosentreter said. "Believe me, I won't risk the chance of further injury by bringing him back too soon."

Senior co-captain David Steinhauer scored a game-high 19 points, including 9 of 12 free throws, to pace the Bulldogs. Opposing teams are going to learn after awhile that fouling Steinhauer doesn't pay.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Saline Close to Title As Dexter Stumbles

It's all over but the shouting. Barring an unexpected bad stumble by Saline, the Hornets have the Southeastern Conference basketball game locked up with a two-game lead and four more contests to go.

Saline had been struggling of late but got back in the groove

The rest of the scoring was pretty well spread around. Mark Bareis got into double figures with 11 and also had six rebounds. Eric Schaffner contributed 9 points, Jedele 7, Ken Martin 5, and Ray Spencer and Jason Pierson 4 each.

The balanced offense pleased Rosentreter. "We got scoring from every position, and that is something we haven't had in some recent games," he noted.

And, once again, Rosentreter praised his defense, which continues to hold opponents down to around 50 points or fewer. "Defense has been the key to our success so far. It's kept games close and given us the chance to score some points and win. When you look at our record, you can see that every one of our nine wins included a strong defensive effort, and a couple of the losses certainly weren't the fault of the defense."

last week while burying always strong Jackson Lumen Christi and tough Tecumseh. Both games were blowouts.

Dexter, the one team with a realistic shot at overtaking the Hornets, all but lost its chance by dropping an overtime game to Pinckney, the most astonishing upset in SEC play so far this season. The Pirates hadn't won a league game up to that point.

Rapidly improving Milan hung in with a 91-71 trouncing of Chelsea. The Big Reds are playing the best ball in the league right now, but a slow start which saddled them with three early SEC losses left them with a lot to make up.

Saline can clinch a tie for the crown by winning two of its remaining four SEC games. Three victories would wrap up an undisputed title.

Battling for second place are Milan, Dexter and Lincoln, with three league losses each. Chelsea, with four SEC defeats, could move back into the chase for runner-up honors by winning the rest of the way.

Tecumseh and Pinckney are out of it, but both proved last week that they can be spoilers. Tecumseh's win over Chelsea dashed the Bulldogs' title hopes, and Pinckney's startling victory over Dexter put the Dreadnaughts on the ropes.

Results of last week's play include:

Saline 72, Jackson Lumen Christi 47.
Monroe Catholic Central 61, Milan 59.

SHOWN IN ACTION in last Thursday's Chelsea-Saline freshman basketball game here are the Bulldogs' Clay Hurd (42), Tim Anderson (44) and Matt Monroe (32).

Frosh Cagers Defeat Saline To Earn Split

Chelsea's freshman basketball team has divided its last four games and stands at 5-6 on the season with five outings left.

The highlight was a 45-41 victory over Saline on Feb. 7, avenging an earlier nine-point loss to the Hornets frosh.

Coach Dave Quilter attributed the Saline win, which came on the heels of 52-28 loss to Pinckney, to "a return to fundamental basketball. We played team basketball and made Saline take poor percentage shots. The kids boxed out and out-rebounded Saline, 40-24."

Clay Hurd led in rebounding with 10. John Cattell had 8, and Matt Monroe, Tim Anderson and Phil Thompson six each.

Athletic Eligibility Policy Modified By Manchester

At its regular meeting in December the Manchester Board of Education took action to modify its Athletic Eligibility Policy. Under the new proposal a student will be ineligible after one E on a report card unless the over-all grade point average is at least 1.7.

As weekly reports are examined students will also be ineligible if an E appears unless, again, the over-all grade point average is at least 1.7.

The penalty for the use of alcohol or other controlled substances has been set at three weeks of ineligibility. The penalty for the use of tobacco shall be one week of ineligibility.

Correction . . .

A neatly hand-written note was received by The Standard from Ben Mannings, a member of the Safety Squad at South school. He was good enough to compliment us on our article on that group in the Feb. 6 edition of The Standard and point out our error in omitting his name below the picture which accompanied the article.

Ben Mannings was the fellow standing between David Sayer and Greg Tone. Our apologies for the mistake. And an "A" for the note.

CHS Wrestling Team Third in Exciting Conference Meet

Chelsea's varsity wrestling team finished third in a close and exciting Southeastern Conference meet last Saturday, beating out Pinckney and Milan.

The hotly contested tournament was won by Dexter with 168.5 points to Saline's 165. Chelsea was third at 107.5, followed by Pinckney with 94.5 and Milan at 94. Lincoln (63.5) and Tecumseh (40) trailed.

One of the upshots was that Chelsea finished fourth in the league, behind Dexter, Saline and Pinckney. Final standings are determined from a combination of dual meet and tourney results. Dexter and Saline tied for the title, with Pinckney third.

"I knew it was going to be closely contested all the way," Bulldog coach Kerry Kargel said of the league meet, "but it was even closer than I had thought. There were a lot of very tough individual matches, and some of them could have gone either way. Our league was very well balanced this year, and there really wasn't a whole lot of separation from top to bottom."

Pete Hanna at 112 pounds and Dave Shoemaker at 198 won first places for Chelsea. Both have wrestled consistently well all season.

Taking seconds were Steve Wingrove at 167 and Curtis Heard at 185. Bob Torres was third at 119. Doug Harden (105) and Steve Dotson (155) earned fourth places.

"I had figured we would place at least six boys in the semi-final round, and we had seven in there," Kargel said. "I can't be too unhappy about that. Our program is coming along. We don't yet have a solid line-up at all weights, but we're gradually getting there."

Looking at last Saturday's district meet, Kargel felt as many as nine Bulldog wrestlers might place, and two or three could go on to the state finals.

Varsity Wrestlers Lose to Pinckney

Chelsea's varsity wrestling team came up a match short in its dual meet against Pinckney last Tuesday night and lost, 35-28.

"We had two starters out because of illness," coach Kerry Kargel said. "If they had been able to wrestle, I think we would have won the meet. As it was, I had to juggle our line-up and use some boys in over-weight matchups. It almost worked, but it didn't quite."

"We did well, but not well enough."

Chelsea winners include pins by Pete Hanna (49 seconds) at 112 pounds, Bob Torres (1:46) at 119, and heavyweight Dave Shoemaker (1:20).

Ron Bogdanski at 126 won a major 13-4 decision. Allen Kuhl (158) earned a 4-2 decision, and Curtis Heard won at 185 pounds, 9-6.

Going into last Saturday's Southeastern Conference meet at Dexter, Kargel predicted that "realistically, we have a good chance to finish third. There are a couple of teams (Saline and Dexter) that are probably better than we are."

"If we have everybody healthy, I think we can be third. Our goal is to place six boys in the finals, and we have a chance to do that. From there it will be a shoot-out."

JV Cagers Break Slump, Defeat Milan

Chelsea's junior varsity cagers broke out of their recent slump with an impressive 51-33 victory over Milan here last Friday night, ending a four-game losing streak.

Balanced scoring and good defense proved to be the winning combination, coach Ted Hendricks said.

"We had four players—Matt Steinhauer, Jeff Harvey, Todd Starkey and Greg Haist—in double figures on offense, and we shut Milan down. Milan isn't a bad team, and I'm happy about the way we played."

"If we keep it up, we can still have a respectable season."

The win improved the JV's record to 8-6.

Matt Bohlender, who had been one of the team's top performers, is out indefinitely with an injury suffered in the loss to Tecumseh of Feb. 2.

Ice Anglers Said Having Slow Luck

Ice fishing hereabouts is slow, according to reports compiled by the Department of Natural Resources' district office in Jackson.

A big part of the problem has been consistently cold weather which has deterred all but the hardest anglers from going out and trying their luck.

The coldest January on record made fishing conditions all but impossible except for those who had the opportunity to use heated shanties. February so far hasn't been any better.

Fishing for bluegills, crappies and perch has been fair for anglers using tear-drop lures baited with wax worms and mousies. Green, orange and white are reported to be the best tear-drop colors.

A few pike are being caught on minnow-baited tip-ups set in 4-8 feet of water.

Phillip Frame on Dean's Honor List at Cooley Law School

Phillip I. Frame made the Dean's List for the fall term, at Cooley Law School in Lansing.

Phil is in his last year at Cooley. He is the son of Bill and Barbara Frame of Chelsea.

At present Phillip lives in Jackson with his wife, Jill.

A TIRED BUT HAPPY Dave Shoemaker manages a victory smile after winning the final match in the 198-pound division at last Saturday's Southeastern Conference tournament. If you don't think wrestling doesn't take a lot out of you, look at him. He had given everything he had, and he won.

Jorge Castillo Makes Most of Opportunity

It was midway through the fourth quarter of last Tuesday night's home basketball game against Pinckney, Chelsea held a commanding lead, and Bulldog coach Rahn Rosentreter had the opportunity to give the boys who sit on the bench a chance to play.

Into the game went Jorge Castillo, and the fans on the Chelsea side of the gym came alive with chants of "Hor-hay" (the Spanish pronunciation of Jorge).

Castillo (Cas-TEE-yo) responded. With about a minute to go, he got the ball and put up a 15-foot shot that dropped through the hoop. The score meant nothing in terms of the game's result, but it drew the biggest applause of the night.

Castillo is a senior foreign student from Mexico and, according to guidance counselor Gene LaFave, is one of the most popular people in the high school. "Everybody likes him. He's a fine boy in every way. I sure understand why the crowd was rooting for him."

Rosentreter underscored LaFave. "Jorge knew when he came out for basketball that he wouldn't get to play much, but he wanted to try and has stuck with it. He has worked as hard in practice as anybody on the squad. I couldn't ask for better effort."

As a transfer student, Castillo wasn't eligible to play until the second semester, but that didn't deter him from participating in the often dull routine of daily drills.

He had hoped to try his hand at football last fall, but the eligibility rule prevented it. Instead, he became a student manager for the football team and served throughout the season.

"Not many kids would have persisted the way Jorge has," LaFave said. He wants to be in our athletic program, and he has contributed a lot to it."

LaFave, whose counseling duties include looking out for the welfare of foreign students, said Castillo has adjusted remarkably well to life at Chelsea High.

"He's a conscientious student and is carrying a full academic load. His grades are good. The language barrier hasn't bothered him. He knows how to communicate and make friends."

When Castillo got his chance to play last Tuesday night, he had a lot of people rooting for him, including his coach.

Rosentreter doesn't display a lot of emotion, but he broke into a big smile and slapped hands with assistant Ted Hendricks when Castillo's shot connected.

"I was pulling for him," Rosentreter said. "I wanted him to score. I've never been happier to see a ball go in. It meant a lot to him and to me as a coach."

"It's too bad that Jorge won't be here another year," Rosentreter said. "He has considerable natural ability, including quickness, and he responds well to coaching. I wish I could have the chance to continue working with him and developing his talents. I suspect he would play a lot next year."

Realistically, Castillo isn't likely to get much more playing time this season. The schedule shows nothing but tough games ahead, and the bench-warmers probably won't see a lot of action.

Castillo had his moment in the sun in the Pinckney game, and he made the most of it.

Outdoorama Show Scheduled Feb. 22-March 3 in Detroit

Nationally acclaimed fishing experts and circus-quality stage acts are among the many attractions to be featured at Outdoorama '85, Feb. 22-March 3 at the State Fairgrounds in Detroit.

Sponsored by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), Outdoorama '85 will include nearly 300 U.S. and Canadian exhibitors displaying sporting goods, crafts and recreational opportunities. Attendees can sign up for fly-in fishing camps, white-water rafting and other travel adventures. One building will be devoted to recreational vehicles.

On the last day of the show, the Outdoorama '85 door prize will be awarded: a free four-day fly-in fishing trip, for up to four people, to a Canadian wilderness outpost.

On Feb. 23-24, Tom Zenanko, one of the nation's top fishing experts, will conduct clinics on tackle, fish habits and techniques of landing bass, muskies, panfish, walleye and northern pike.

Seminars on stream steelhead fishing will be conducted Feb. 23-24 by Buzz Ramsey of the Lahr-Jensen lure company.

During the week-end of March 1-3, Spence Petros, managing editor of "Fishing Facts" magazine, will discuss his own tricks of the trade. The winner of several national fishing tournaments, Petros is widely known for his tips on how to catch freshwater fish.

Special Outdoorama '85 theme nights to be featured during the week-days include: trout and salmon night, Monday, Feb. 25; fishing dogs night, Tuesday, Feb. 26; small game hunting night, Wednesday, Feb. 27; sporting dogs night, Thursday, Feb. 28; and big buck night, Friday, March 1.

MUCC and the Michigan Wild Turkey Federation will co-sponsor a turkey-calling contest

There is a new tool available to Michigan hunters. It's a book titled "Hunt Michigan!" available for $12.95 plus $2 for postage and sales tax from Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), P. O. Box 30235, Lansing 48909, and it's well worth the money. A serious hunter couldn't make a better small investment, which is not a whole lot more than the cost of a license or a box of ammunition.

If parting with 15 bucks bothers you, consider that the money derived from book sales will go toward financing MUCC's conservation and education programs. If anybody knows of a better deal than that, let me know, and I'll be first in line to take advantage of it.

Author Tom Huggler is a free lance writer-photographer, who lives near Flint and has a background of more than 30 years of experience in outdoor Michigan. I know him well enough to be sure that his book is real. He isn't coming off the top of his head and writing glibly. He knows his stuff, because he's been there.

Huggler has hunted in Michigan for 33 years, long enough to tell you what he had learned the hard way and to authenticate his facts. He is also humble enough to tell you what he hasn't learned yet and still hopes to find out.

As a writer, I can appreciate what Huggler has done. He accomplished a monumental piece of research and writing, all of it grinding work. I especially appreciate the writing, which I know to be difficult, especially when dealing with material which isn't especially fascinating. (If anybody out there thinks writing of any kind is easy, I challenge you to try it some time. If you find it fun, let me know, because I want to learn your secret.)

"Hunt Michigan!" is divided into three broad sections—How to Hunt, Where to Hunt, and Guide to Hunting by Counties.

The first section is by far the weakest of the three, and that isn't the fault of Huggler or his editor, Ken Lowe, who runs MUCC's monthly magazine, Michigan Out-Of-Doors (MOOD). For example, you just plain can't go in to any depth and detail in a few thousand words about how to hunt deer. Whole books—dozens of them—have been written on the subject. Huggler and Lowe had to fit the discussion into less space than a feature-length magazine article takes up. The result is a pretty simplistic exposition which couldn't possibly have been anything else under the imposed limitations.

The next section, on Where to Hunt, is worth the cost of the book and then some. Huggler has pulled together information and maps on every acre of public hunting land in Michigan. That data isn't available in one chunk anyplace else so far as I know. You would probably have to spend the 15 months that Huggler did compiling it.

The words and maps are invaluable to anybody seeking new hunting opportunities in unfamiliar places in Michigan. You may know your own backyard, but you might have a little trouble finding your way around in Chippewa county's Munuscong Waterfowl Management Area should you want to go there. (It's a darned good place to hunt geese and ducks, by the way.)

The third section on hunting by counties also suffers from brevity. It's good as far as it goes, but space limitations prevented in-depth treatment.

Washtenaw county, for instance, got just a little more than a page. Huggler notes, correctly, that there is some good hunting available in Washtenaw for a variety of game—deer, squirrels, raccoons, cottontail rabbits, ruffed grouse, woodcock, red fox, waterfowl—and that there are still a few pheasants around. He adds that hunting opportunities are limited because there is relatively little public land and private landowners just plain don't give hunting permission to persons other than family members and close friends. All very true.

There is more to the story than that, but Huggler didn't have the space to write it.

For each county Huggler lists sources of additional information—Department of Natural Resources field offices, MSU Extension Service branches, chambers of commerce, and others. That compilation likewise helps to make the book more than worth the money.

"Hunt Michigan!" is not a book that you sit down and read for an evening of light entertainment. It's well printed, nicely designed and profusely illustrated with excellent black-and-white photographs, but it's not a "fun" book. It's a serious guidebook, sort of an atlas on Michigan hunting.

Buy it by all means if you are interested in expanding your hunting horizons.

in conjunction with small game hunting night. During big buck night, showgoers will be encouraged to wear "hunter orange" to increase public awareness of hunting safety. Throughout the 10-day show, representatives of the Commemorative Bucks of Michigan will be on hand to measure the racks of successful deer hunters.

On Saturday, March 2, Tom Huggler, author of MUCC's new "Hunt Michigan" book, will be there during the afternoon to talk about hunting and to autograph books.

Of particular interest to people who do not hunt or fish might be Outdoorama's stage show. Shows will be performed nightly, except on week-ends when afternoon and evening performances will be staged.

Outdoorama '85 will be open from 6-10 p.m. Friday, Feb. 22; 4-10 p.m. Monday through Friday; noon 10 p.m. on Saturdays and Sundays, except Sunday, March 3 (the last day) when the show will run from noon to 8 p.m.

Daily admission is $4.50 for adults and $2 for children. Children under five years are free. On weekdays only, senior citizens (65 year or older) will be admitted for $2. Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts will be admitted free on Feb. 28 if they wear uniforms.

For additional information, contact the Fairgrounds show office at 313-893-4460 or MUCC's headquarters in Lansing at 517-371-1041 during weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

JV's Snatch Defeat From Jaws of Victory

A once-promising season has come unglued for Chelsea's junior varsity basketball team, who suffered their fourth straight defeat last Tuesday night, a 55-54 loss to Pinckney.

It was a game the young Bulldogs were supposed to win and should have, but they gave it away in the last quarter after apparently having victory locked up.

The JV's led by 11 points at the half and nine at the end of the third period, then proceeded to put on a demonstration of how not to play basketball. Result was that Pinckney came from behind and won.

"We were out-scored 18-8, we turned the ball over 11 times, and made just two of 10 shots during the fourth quarter," coach Ted Hendricks said. "It was just plain awful."

Until that disastrous period, the JV's had played pretty well. They broke out of their shooting slump by hitting 20 of 36 tries during the first 24 minutes before reverting to what has been their recent form.

"I can't explain it," Hendricks said. "The game was ours for the taking, but we fell apart. I guess we just didn't want the win badly enough to go out and lock it up." Jeff Harvey led Chelsea's scorers with 16 points, closely followed by Matt Bohlender with 14. Todd Starkey had nine.

The defeat dropped the JV's to 7-6 on the season and left a question whether they can finish over the .500 mark. There are seven games left, all against tough opponents.

JEFF DILS

Broken Foot Sidelines Jeff Dils

Chelsea High school graduate Jeff Dils may return to action yet this season after sitting out nine Hope College basketball games because of a broken bone in his foot.

Dils was the starting point guard for Hope, which is ranked 12th nationally in NCAA Division III, until he suffered the injury in a Jan. 5 game. Hope has a season record of 16-3 and is 6-1 in the MIAA conference.

He returned to active practice last week.

Hope is seeking a berth in the NCAA play-offs March 1-2, and it is expected Dils will be ready to play by then.

In the 10 games he played, Dils scored a total of 55 points and had 48 assists.

Habitat Foundation Begins Publication Of Wildlife News

The first issue of "Michigan Wildlife Habitat News" was released Feb. 9 by the Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation. The new publication will be printed quarterly to keep members and opinion leaders abreast of fish and wildlife habitat matters and foundation projects.

"Habitat News will be used as a vehicle to educate citizens about wildlife habitat and encourage their direct participation in restoration projects," said Dan Robbins, president of the foundation. "We hope it will become a primer for the wildlife volunteer," he said. Wildlife habitat improvement techniques and "how-to" information will be regular features of "Habitat News," along with status reports on Michigan habitat projects.

The "Habitat News" will be sent to all Foundation donors of $10 or more. Sample copy(ies) will be sent to individuals and organizations requesting them, by contacting: Michigan Wildlife Habitat Foundation, 6425 S. Pennsylvania, Suite 9, Lansing 48910, or by calling (517) 882-3110.

THE FAMILY-LIKE RELATIONSHIP which has developed between the James Stacey family and John Giffin has been nurtured for 14 years. It has been an association which each has found rewarding and beneficial. The "family" of five share holidays, vacations and daily life. Pictured are Jim and Joy Stacey in front; Joy Stacey, John Giffin, and Jeff Stacey in back.

Friendship Grows into Family-Like Association

When Julie and John Stacey refer to "Grandpa John" they are talking about John Giffin, 314 Elm St. Neither can remember a time when he was not part of the Staceys' family circle, or imagine a future without him.

Jim and Joy Stacey, 319 Wilkinson, met Giffin when they came to Chelsea 14 years ago. Stacey was minister at the Chelsea Baptist church then and John Giffin, a resident of Chelsea since 1937 and a retired railroad supervisor on the track field, for both the Michigan and New York Centrals, was a member of the congregation. Giffin had lost his wife less than a year prior and was feeling lonely and lost. Stacey has since left the ministry but the friendship goes on.

Originally the relationship bloomed out of the mutual effort on both parts to make life more enjoyable for the other.

Giffin watched the typical struggle of young married people, parents of small children, with empathetic interest and decided that he could help by providing free babysitting for Julie and Jeff, still in diapers. There was no exchange of money, only a growing feeling of caring and goodwill between all involved.

The natural grandparents lived long enough distances away that Jim and Joy were pleased to find a substitute for their children in Giffin. What they offered, in return, was companionship, which Giffin needed. It was a kind exchange that has benefited all more than originally dreamed.

A recent family portrait, taken of the four Staceys and Giffin, is the story in short. Except for the technicality that they are not blood-related, they are a family.

They travel together on vacations and to visit relatives, and spend holidays together. They share 14 years of memories including "Grandpa John" changing diapers and reluctantly disciplining Julie and Jeff when necessary.

An oak tree in front of the Staceys' home has a plaque attached proclaiming it "The John Giffin Oak," a tribute to the first shovel of dirt turned by him when construction of their home began.

Among many family traditions begun within those 14 years is the annual cutting of the Christmas tree. Last year, when Giffin was ill and hospitalized, the rest of the Stacey family interrupted the ritual in tribute of his absence.

The arrangement is living tribute to the value of relationships between the young and the elderly, and an inspiring alternative to the forced loss of extended families in our fast-paced and mobile society.

Learn To Check Your Own Blood Pressure

A special blood pressure clinic will be sponsored by the University of Michigan Medical Center Family Practice Center at Chelsea to teach people interested in learning to check their own blood pressure.

Two clinics will be held: one at the Family Practice Center in Chelsea on Tuesday, Feb. 19 and the other on Thursday, Feb. 21 in Ann Arbor, at the Department of Family Practice, 1018 Fuller. Both sessions will be held from 7-9 p.m.

"High blood pressure—hypertension, is one of the most serious diseases in the United States. It contributes directly or indirectly to about one million deaths a year and affects approximately one out of every four or five adults," states Gail Finch, a registered nurse at the Family Practice Center and instructor for the program.

"One problem is that unlike many other health problems," continues Finch, "High blood pressure does not usually produce any symptoms. Many people may not know they have high blood pressure until it begins to cause trouble with the heart, brain, or kidneys."

To keep track of one's blood pressure, there is a simple, painless inexpensive test that takes about only 30 seconds. This session at the Family Practice

Center will help people to learn how to measure their own blood pressure using equipment they can purchase for an investment of $20-$100.

Mrs. Finch adds that, "people can keep a record of their blood pressure readings which may result in fewer visits to the physician. This may in turn yield a financial savings to the patient."

The blood pressure clinic is open to anyone in the community interested in learning to check their blood pressure. Short-sleeve shirts should be worn to facilitate the use of the blood pressure equipment. If anyone has equipment they would like to check against that at the Family Practice Center they are invited to bring it with them.

To register, call the Family Practice Center at 475-1321, ext. 272 or the Department of Family Practice at 764-8010. There is a $2 registration fee payable at the door.

Scientists at the University of California believe the sun may have a companion star that passes so close to the Earth every 28 million years that it could destroy all life on this planet, reports International Wildlife magazine. Don't worry. The death star isn't due until 15 million A.D.

THE CHURCH

—Is It Really Necessary?

By Fred Coulter, evangelist

There are many people today who ask the question, "Is it really necessary to belong to the church?" What they are really asking is must I belong to an institutionalized denomination in order to go to heaven. Many today want to give up their allegiance to any particular denomination and just want to be Christians. There are two motives that prompt this action: one is just a means of escaping the responsibility of regular worship, but the other is a genuine repudiation of the sectarian nature of denominationalism and a desire to return to the simplicity of New Testament Christianity and its worship.

It is a difficult concept to get across to people that Jesus did not desire nor authorize the sectarian denominationalism we see today. However, he did establish a recognized body of believers, that is, Christians who were to worship God on a regular basis. Jesus said, "I will build my church" (Mt. 16:18). Paul told the Ephesian elders that Jesus had purchased the church with his own blood (Acts 20:28). Those individuals who were saved when baptized into Christ (Acts 2:38; Mark 16:16; 1 Peter 3:21) were added by the Lord to the church (Acts 2:47). It is this one, true church that Jesus will deliver to God at the end of time (1 Cor. 15:24).

The church is important to Jesus because it is his body (Col. 1:18). It is important to belong to the church that Jesus built because only in that body is there salvation (Eph. 5:26, 27). It is important to regularly worship in the New Testament manner (Acts 20:7; John 4:24; Mark 7:7-9). The New Testament church is alive and well today. "The churches of Christ salute you." (Rom. 16:16).

Nearly two-thirds of all women in the civilian labor force in March 1984 were either single, divorced, widowed, separated or had husbands with a 1983 income of less than $15,000, according to "20 Facts on Women Workers," issued by the U. S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau.

Historical Society Seeks Information on Tuomys

On Aug. 1, 1983, the University of Michigan signed over to the Historical Society of Michigan official ownership of the historic Tuomy House on Washtenaw Ave. in Ann Arbor. The society is planning a complete rehabilitation of the structure which it has been using as its state-wide headquarters since 1989.

As part of the rehabilitation project, executive director Tom Jones, announced that the society is seeking historical information about the Tuomy House and the Tuomy family itself.

"The society is interested in hearing from any individual who was associated with Cornelius (Bill) Tuomy and his sister Katharine on a business or personal level," Jones said. "We are particularly anxious to do some oral interviews and to see any news clippings, photographs, letters or similar artifacts related to the Tuomys."

The Tuomy family is one of Washtenaw county's pioneering families, and its property is of local and regional historical significance. Timothy and Johanna Tuomy came to America in 1835 and settled in Washtenaw county. In 1874, his son Cornelius L. Tuomy, the youngest of the nine children, purchased the Spalding farm in Ann Arbor. The farm included a Greek Revival Style cabin built in the 1850's and 227 acres of land. The home, which was expanded in the 1880's by adding a large Italianate structure, became the center of extensive land holdings along the southeastern edge of the city of Ann Arbor.

After his return from World War I, Cornelius (Bill) Tuomy, the eldest child of Cornelius and Julie Tuomy, together with his sister Katharine, formed the firm of Tuomy and Tuomy, a general real estate and insurance firm. They both died in the 1960's leaving the home in the hands of an executor with the understanding that it be used for historical or public purposes. The University of Michigan, receiving the property from the executor, then made arrangements with the Historical Society of Michigan to turn it into the organization's state-wide headquarters.

Anyone with information about the Tuomys and their house should contact the Historical Society of Michigan, 2117 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor 48104, or phone (313) 769-1828.

A not-for-profit organization, the Historical Society of Michigan promotes the preservation of state and local history throughout Michigan. It is supported by more than 6,000 members. It serves as a major clearinghouse of information to assist more than 270 local historical and preservation organizations in Michigan.

Rep. Pursell Named to Ethics Panel

Michigan Congressman Carl Pursell (R-2nd Dist.) has been appointed to the House Ethics Committee for the 99th Congress.

Pursell will also continue to serve on the powerful House Appropriations Committee, where he now ranks 12th out of 22 GOP members. He will also continue his role on the House GOP leadership team, serving as one of the regional Minority Whips.

Committee assignments were decided recently for the newly opened two-year Congressional session. Rep. Pursell's appointment to the ethics panel is somewhat unusual, in that Appropriations members seldom serve on another standing committee. He was asked to accept the additional assignment by House GOP Leader Robert Michel of Illinois.

"This appointment is an indication of Carl's growing stature in the House leadership, and the fact that members of both parties recognize Carl as a very fair-minded person," Rep. Michel said. "I have always relied heavily on Carl's advice and assistance, and consider him one of our finest members in the House."

The Ethics Committee is formally known as the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct. With six Republicans and six Democrats, it is the only standing committee evenly divided between the two parties. It is led by Chairman Julian Dixon (D-Calif.) and ranking Republican Floyd Spence (R-S.C.).

The committee is responsible for investigating and recommending action on allegations of violations of the House Code of Official Conduct and relevant ethics laws. Its jurisdiction extends to members, officers, and employees of the House.

The committee is also charged with monitoring compliance with financial disclosure requirements, and issuing advisory opinions.

Recent cases to come before the Ethics Committee include the "Abscam" bribery case, and vice-presidential candidate Geraldine Ferraro's financial disclosure case.

Antibiotics in Animal Feed Questioned

The Food and Drug Administration held a hearing last week to determine if a ban should be imposed on subtherapeutic levels of penicillin and tetracyclines in livestock feed. Antibiotics have been fed to livestock for more than 30 years to enhance growth and prevent disease.

Testifying at the hearing was a Farm Bureau spokesperson who called for further study before imposing the ban, but also said that farmers are responsible in the use of antibiotics in feed. "If scientific facts indicate that they should discontinue the use of antibiotics, then they will modify livestock production practices," said Marion Stackhouse, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau and member of the American Farm Bureau Federation board of directors.

Any ban on subtherapeutic levels on penicillin and tetracyclines in livestock feed would have a greater impact on the pork and poultry industries than on the beef industry, experts believe. A 1980 U. S. Department of Agriculture study indicated that broiler costs would increase as much as 6% if tetracyclines were not used while costs would increase up to 2% without penicillin.

The Alaskan moose is possibly the largest antlered animal ever to live on the Earth, says National Wildlife magazine. Their rack can exceed six feet in width.

Weather Postpones Lincoln Tilts

Bad weather continues to interrupt the Chelsea High school sports schedule.

Last night's slated varsity and JV basketball games at Lincoln were postponed until Thursday night by decision of CHS authorities, who decided it was too risky to take the teams to Willis in the face of forecasts of colder temperatures and heavy snow.

The visiting school in all cases makes the "go or no go" decision.

The postponement means that, for the second time this season, the Bulldog basketballers will be forced to play back-to-back games on successive nights. They are scheduled against Howell here on Friday.

The freshman basketball game which was to be played against Stockbridge here at 7 p.m. Thursday has been moved up to 5 p.m.

The volleyball match at Lincoln on Thursday will start at 4 p.m. instead of 7 p.m. That will free the Lincoln gym for the basketball games.

In 1982, at least nine states had laws requiring some or all employers to let employees examine their own personnel files—but usually not letters of reference or records on criminal investigations, according to "A Working Woman's Guide to Her Job Rights," issued by the U.S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau.

Quiz Bowl Team Loses In First Year at Meet

Teams from Chelsea and Manchester High schools competed Saturday, Feb. 9 in the Alma College High School Quiz Bowl held at the college.

Chelsea competed against East Lansing in the A and B Class division in its first year of participation. In spite of losing by a large margin the team was reported to have had a lot of fun by coach Carl Christoff, a math teacher at Chelsea. "I told them, if you had fun, you get an 'A.' We look forward to doing it again next year," he commented.

Members of the Chelsea team were David Meyer, Steve Kropf, Steve Hunn and Tony Hamerschmidt.

This is Manchester's third year of participating in the event, and in spite of four very nervous and inexperienced freshman, the team won its Class C and D division match against Johannesburg-Lewiston, 90-20.

The victory makes it possible for Manchester to continue to compete next week in the single elimination tournament. Next Saturday the team faces Orchard Lake St. Mary's again at Alma College.

Members of the Manchester team were Betsy Royle, Renee Yeutter, Jackie Miller, Matt

Royle, Alice Swanberg, and Dan Dezarov.

Coach Richard Parson a guidance counselor at Manchester High, said he was proud of them, and that each year the event gets bigger and more popular.

The Alma College Quiz Bowl is played just like the High school and College Quiz Bowl games seen on television. The first team to sound the buzzer takes first crack at answering the question properly with bonus questions offered for a correct response and a penalty for an incorrect one.

The school represented by the champion team at the conclusion of the tournament receives a $2,500 renewable scholarship for a high school senior interested in attending Alma College, and a $1,500 scholarship goes to the runner-up.

The 20 teams in each division compete in front of spectators in an auditorium or lecture hall at the college.

The proportion of poor families maintained by women was 47 percent in 1983, up from 43 percent in 1972, according to "20 Facts of Women Workers," published by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.
