Musical Comedy 'Mame' Opens Thursday Night

Chelsea Area Players' production of "Mame" opens Thursday evening, July 18, at 7:30 at the Chelsea High school auditorium. Other performances are scheduled for Friday and Saturday evening, July 19 and 20, at 8, with a Saturday matinee at 2.

During the past week, director Jan Koenigter, choreographer Mary Cölle, and musical director Jon Krueger have been adding the finishing touches to this most recent Chelsea Area Players' production.

"Mame" is a lively and fast-paced musical comedy about Mame Dennis, a charming, impulsive and enthusiastic socialite, who entertains both her adoring friends and the audience with her unpredictable antics. The Yankee Mame even conquers the south, including the formidable Mother Burnside. The title role in this year's production is played by Mary Anne Nemeth.

Community theater is truly a family affair with this show. Although CAP productions have traditionally involved the participation of whole families, three generations of the Lane/Williams family are performing in "Mame."

Sue Williams, six-year veteran of the Chelsea Area Players, is cast in the supporting role of Vera. "This is a fun part to play," says Sue. "Vera is an actress with a capital A."

Sue's husband John, who has appeared in CAP productions for the past three years, portrays the sophisticated and worldly Lindsay, a good friend of Mame. Daughters Beth and Melissa are also in the cast.

This "family affair" doesn't stop with the Williams clan alone, however. Sue's parents, Jack and Ruth Lane, have found that community theater can be a very enjoyable retirement activity. They moved to Chelsea last November and when Jack came to the "Mame" auditions with Sue this past spring, he just couldn't resist trying out for the play. Jack was cast in his first acting role, that of Claude Upson, a boorish, backslapping character.

As for Ruth, she prefers working behind the scenes and is assisting with costumes.

Rounding out the Lane family involvement in the production is daughter Patty, who is helping with props. Community theater is a family event, not only for the audience, but also for the cast and crew.

Other members of the cast include Rebecca Boeve as the dowdy, naive Agnes Gooch, Robert Coelius as the young Patrick, and David Andrews as older Patrick. Southern gentle-

North School Work Party Set Saturday

A work party is scheduled Saturday at North school, sponsored by Parent-Teachers North, publicity chairman Kathy Kentala announced.

All volunteers are welcome. Work periods are from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Those participating should bring paint brushes, garden tools and work gloves.

"This event offers an opportunity to gain a head start on work needed to be done during the upcoming school year," Mrs. Kentala said.

Manslaughter Charged in Fatal Crash

A Grass Lake man, Gary C. Skodak, has been charged with manslaughter in connection with a June 15 traffic accident on M-52 west of Werkman Rd. in which a Chelsea woman was killed.

A preliminary examination was to have been held in the 14th District courtroom of Judge Karl V. Fink yesterday.

Linda E. Vandervoort, 23, of Chelsea, a passenger in a pickup truck driven by Skodak, died of head injuries when the vehicle veered across the highway, hit an embankment and rolled. Skodak suffered minor injuries.

The prosecutor's office authorized the manslaughter warrant after a lengthy investigation into the accident, including analysis of blood samples by the State Police criminal laboratory. Alcohol was said to be involved.

Washington St. Stretch Being Resurfaced

Work began Monday on resurfacing Washington St. between East and Madison. The project, which also involves new curb and gutter and driveway aprons, is expected to take about a month to complete.

The job has been contracted to Belden Asphalt Co. of Jackson.

The affected section of Washington St. is closed to through traffic, but residents along the route will be able to get to and from their homes.

Two Walkaway Saturday from Cassidy Lake

A Macomb county man serving five to 15 years for manslaughter was one of two walkaways from Cassidy Lake Technical School early Saturday, July 15. Both men were still at large as of press time.

Jamie Lee Cavanaugh, 20, is described as a white, 6', 150 pounds with brown hair and brown eyes. He reportedly has a

Civic Leaders Hear About Northville Recent Downtown Renovation

"Chelsea has a remarkable potential for downtown improvements that will include architectural enhancement, convenience and economic benefits for the community," Steve Walters, city manager of Northville, said in an address to civic leaders during an evening meeting last week at the Chelsea Community Hospital.

His optimistic outlook for Chelsea's future was based on the highly successful rebirth of Main Street in Northville—an effort which was begun in 1978 and completed in 1982.

"The viability of Chelsea's opportunity," Walters added, "is based on a number of favorable factors."

"First, a civic development plan generated by the firm of Johnson, Johnson, and Roy gives professional confirmation to the fact that Chelsea is financially and civically capable of a community achievement comparable to Northville's."

"Second, Chelsea is blessed with a strongly supportive village council and administration."

"Third, it has full backing of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce."

The speaker was introduced by Mark Heydlauff, chairman of the Downtown Development Committee.

Using before-and-after slides, Walters showed the transformation that had taken place in his city of 5,800 which serves as a trading center for 25,000 people.

The $1.6 million civic improvement was carried out under a state-sanctioned "tax increment financing" plan that made the Northville Main Street improvement "pay for itself." This method of financing is done by recapturing taxes resulting from increased property values in the area where the improvements are made.

Walters also told his Chelsea audience that the Northville project not only benefitted merchants and attracted new enterprises to the community, it beautified the heart of the city architecturally. It made downtown shopping more pleasant and convenient for citizens and visitors.

Heartened by these neighborly words of encouragement, Chelsea leaders are working on a timetable that will get the downtown development under way.

Those present at the July 9 meeting included village council president Jerry Satterthwaite, councilmen Richard Steele and Jim Finch as well as village administrator Fritz Weber, village attorney Peter Flintoff and Sylvan Township supervisor Don Schoenberg.

Gus Steger, president of the chamber of commerce, was present along with seven members of the chamber board: Bill Nuffer, Laurel Smith, Richard McCalla, Paul Frisinger, Jerry Ashby, Daniel Murphy and Mark Heydlauff.

Others present, mostly chamber members, were Paul Schaible, Lyle Chriswell, Sheridan Springer, Ron Biedron, Ann Feeney, Eunice White, Katherine Wagner, Judy McArthur, Jack Winans, Friedel Winans, Will Susan, Bob Merkel, Phyllis Muncer, George Heydlauff, John Mitchell, Dale Schumann, John Pierson, Steve Kendzicki and Clare Warren.

New Water Main Under Construction South Along Freer

Village water department workers are laying an eight-inch water main 500 feet south along the west side of Freer Rd. starting at Washington St. Construction cost is estimated at $4,000.

Initially, the line will serve only the new residence under construction on a lot fronting on Freer northwest of the high school. An adjacent lot is expected to be built on sometime in the future.

"The line is part of a master plan to provide water service all the way south along Freer Rd. to the village limits," village administrator Frederick Weber said. "We anticipate that property will be developed as time goes on. Additional segments of the line will be put in as needed."

Sewer service presently is not available. That would require construction of a main and a lift station. The new home on Freer, being built by Frank Renten, will have a septic system.

Paul Newhouse, foreman of the water department crew which is putting in the water main using village equipment, said the job will be completed later this week if all goes well. It involves digging a trench about six feet deep, laying the pipe, and refilling the excavation.

Newhouse said it will not be necessary to remove several trees growing along the edge of Freer. "We can bypass them and save them," he said.

The busy intersection where Washington dead-ends at Freer remains open to traffic, but Newhouse urged that motorists be cautious. Turns onto and off of Washington should be made with special care.

"Fortunately, we're doing this job while school is out," Newhouse commented. "Otherwise, there would be a really bad traffic problem."

Monday Storm Disrupts Power

About 60 Consumers Power Co. electrical customers west and north of Chelsea were knocked out of service at 9:45 a.m. Monday when a lightning bolt opened a switch in a main line.

Service was restored three hours later, according to Consumers spokesman Jim Storey. That was the only serious damage reported locally from two thunderstorms which hit the area Sunday and Monday mornings, a little more than 24 hours apart. A few tree limbs were broken off on both days.

"We're very happy that Monday's storm didn't give us any more problems," Storey said. "We had just finished cleaning up after Sunday's storm which disrupted service to 12,000 customers in Jackson county."

The Sunday storm also did considerable damage in the Ann Arbor area, but Chelsea escaped the worst of it.

More than two inches of rain fell in west Washtenaw during the two days.

Village Tax Statements Are Mailed

Chelsea village tax statements have been mailed to all property owners, or their financial institutions, at their last recorded address.

Taxpayers are warned that failure to receive a tax statement will not affect the validity of the tax nor the penalties for non-payment.

State Tax Revenue Would Increase Under Reagan Plan
State tax revenue would grow an average 9 percent through 1990 if President Reagan's tax reform proposals are adopted by Congress and state tax laws remain unchanged, the Senate Fiscal Agency has reported.

The proposal would produce a total of $1,352.4 million in additional state income taxes over the five fiscal years, the report said.

The added revenue is due to additions to the federal adjusted gross income, upon which the state tax is based, such as higher capital gains and a portion of health insurance benefits.

The first-year benefit would be worth only $80.3 million more to the state (a 2.7 percent increase) but when fully implemented in 1989-90, the changes would increase state income tax revenue by 12.9 percent, or $402.4 million more than would otherwise be collected in that year, the SFA estimated.

SFA Senior Economist Gary Olson said federal officials still have not provided data to determine whether Michigan individuals, who itemize more and are taxed higher than those in most other states, would lose or gain under the proposal.

But considering just two elements of the proposal—a 7 percent cut in federal income taxes by lower rates, higher deductions and other changes, and the repeal of deductibility of state and local taxes—Michigan individuals would pay $556 million more a year in federal income taxes, the report said.

It said that equates to an average of $158 per return.

The report noted individuals in 30 other states would gain under the combination of those elements.

Olson also said the loss of tax exemptions for state and local bonds, unless they are strictly by public agencies for public purposes, would probably doom such programs as Governor James Blanchard's investment fund and industrial development bonds.

The report said the more limited volume of tax-exempt bonds should also result in a drop in interest rates on those remaining.

State Work Force at New Low, Minorities at High Point

State classified employment reached its lowest point in the 1983-84 fiscal year since 1975-76, while the percentage of minority state workers reached its highest level ever, according to the state's annual work force report issued recently by the Department of Civil Service.

The annual average number of state employees in 1983-84 totaled 58,320, compared to the peak level of 67,246 in 1980-81.

The 1983-84 average is the lowest since 1975-76 when it stood at 57,856.

The over-all decline during those years averaged two percent, while the state turnover rate was the state's early retirement program in 1984.

Minority employment reached 22.1 percent of total state classified employment in 1983-84, the highest level ever, compared to 20.9 percent in 1982-83 and 16.7 percent in 1975-76.

The report also showed that 12 departments and divisions had more than 16 percent minority representation, a figure targeted by the Michigan Equal Employment and Business Opportunity Council, while nine had fewer than that level.

The department with the highest concentration of minorities was Civil Rights with 59.6 percent in its work force, while the Office of Auditor General had only 6.5 percent minorities.

Males continue to be paid substantially more than females within each classification with white males topping the list at $28,180.

For other males, the average salary was $25,042 for blacks, $25,968 for Hispanics, and $24,192 for American Indians.

For females, the average was $22,177 for whites, $21,115 for American Indians, and $20,790 for Hispanics.

The state's early retirement program, which permitted state workers whose age and years of service equalled 80 years to retire early, was used by 52 percent of the 3,801 eligible personnel, the report said.

Chicken Barbecue, Corn Roast Set at North Lake Church

North Lake United Methodist church will host its seventh annual corn feast and chicken barbecue from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. Saturday, July 27, rain or shine, at the church, 1411 North Territorial Rd.

The menu will include one-half chicken, corn on the cob, baked beans, cole slaw, home-made rolls and beverages included.

In the past the corn roast has attracted persons from throughout Jackson and Washtenaw counties who also enjoy touring the historic 149-year-old church.

Tickets will be sold at the door. Take-out orders may be called ahead, phone 475-7569.

Tax Statements Are Mailed

Taxpayers are advised to call the village office (475-1771) for information if they, or their financial institution, have not received a tax statement by July 23.

Tax bills are payable to Village of Chelsea at 104 E. Middle St. (the Village Municipal Offices). Taxes may be paid without penalty until Sept. 27. After that date real property tax roll is transferred to the Washtenaw county treasurer's office in Ann Arbor for collection. Personal property taxes will continue to be collected at the village offices after the Sept. 27 date.

Tax rate includes 9.2 mills, general fund; 1 mill, library; 0.8 mill, debt service; 0.27 mill, sewer bond and interest.

Chelsea Explorers Receive Police Training

Explorers Robert Clark and Rae Ann Welch of the Chelsea Police Explorer Post No. 481, attended the sixth annual Michigan Law Enforcement Youth Training Academy at Camp Grayling, June 30-July 5.

Approximately 230 Explorers from Michigan and Ohio participated in the program. They were put through a semi-military training schedule that included crime scene investigation, felony traffic stops, domestic violence and demonstrations on special topics like anti-terrorism police teams.

Police Chief Lenard McDougall thanked Willard Johnson and Chelsea Community Hospital for donating needed supplies to this year's academy. "Without community leaders and the voluntary staff who have given up their time, this program would not be possible for the young people to experience law enforcement in a hands-on environment," McDougall said.

Explorer Richard Proctor, also a member of the Chelsea Explorer Post, attended the American Legion and Michigan State Police Student Trooper Program held at the State Police Training Academy in Lansing, June 23-28.

This program gives young people the opportunity to live the day-to-day schedule of a police recruit.

Chief McDougall thanked the Chelsea American Legion Post for sponsoring Proctor and always making this opportunity available to the youth of Chelsea.

Chamber Board Hold Meeting

At the monthly Chelsea Chamber of Commerce board meeting final plans were discussed at which Steve Walters from Northville was the featured speaker. (See separate story.)

The Chamber was pleased to assist the Kiwanis Club in presenting the July 4th fireworks show this year in Chelsea and plans to support this effort in coming years.

Although the membership drive was considered a success, there are still many business-people who have not yet responded. For anyone still interested in joining the Chamber, further information may be obtained from Gus Steger at 475-1393.

Pressure Cooker Gauges Will Be Checked for Accuracy

Thousands of quarts and pints of green beans, corn, beets and other produce are canned each year in Michigan kitchens. The educated canner knows that these vegetables must be pressure canned and the only safe way to do it is with a canner that has an accurate gauge. If your canner has a gauge instead of a weight it can change over time; it should be checked yearly to insure the correct pressure.

The Washtenaw County Cooperative Extension Service will check your gauge free of charge from July 17 through Sept. 18. For safety's sake just bring your canner lid to the Extension office at 4133 Washtenaw, County Service Center, any Wednesday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. The test takes just a few minutes. There will be staff to help answer your canning questions also.

Upswing Noted in Area Real Estate Market

The real estate market in the Chelsea area has picked up considerably during the past month, and it's in "Sold" signs sprouting in front of local homes, some of which have been for sale a long time.

Paul Frisinger of Frisinger Realty confirmed the upswing. "The market has definitely gotten better during the last three or four weeks after being pretty slow during the previous six months," he said. "We and other firms have made quite a few sales lately."

Frisinger credited lower interest rates for the surge. "Rates for conventional mortgages are down around 12 percent, and that has brought a lot of people, especially younger people, into the market as potential buyers."

"Twelve percent may seem high to people who grew up in the days of six percent and even less, but it looks pretty good compared to recent past years when rates were up around 14-15."

Frisinger also noted that home prices in the area have remained stable and in some instances were reduced to "more realistic" levels, resulting in sales of some properties that had been on the market for many months.

"It's still a buyer's market," he added, "but it's much stronger than it was. Of course, this is the time of year when people are looking to buy so they can get settled before school starts. But I'm convinced there is more to the spurt than that, and the lower interest rates are responsible. They have really helped. I just hope they stay down and go still lower."

Michigan History Retold in Magazine

Did you know that forest fires in Michigan have been the cause of a number of shipwrecks or that the "sawtooth" reef near Eagle River in Michigan's western Upper Peninsula contains the greatest concentration of shipwrecks in the Great Lakes?

These "strange as it seems" facts, along with stories on shipwreck salvage, gravestone rubbing and the state's new Civilian Conservation Corps (CCC) museum at Higgins Lake are included in the July-August issue of Michigan History, the state's official historical publication.

The Eagle River Shoals, nicknamed "sawtooth ridge" is a five-mile long strip of jagged rock one mile off the Keweenaw Peninsula that has sunk or stranded 15 ships. Smoke from forest fires blanketing that area of Lake Superior and the light of one forest fire, mistaken for a lighthouse, contributed to the wrecks.

In addition to articles on the Great Lakes, the publication also features the history of Lapeer county and architect Albert Kahn who designed the porch of the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island and the Ford Highland Park plant.

Published by the Bureau of History of the Department of State, Michigan History is available in single copies for $2 each or subscriptions for $9.95 per year. It is also available on newsstands. Checks should be made payable to the State of Michigan, and sent to the Michigan Bureau of History, Department of State, Lansing.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

Bill Mullendore

Having sat and listened through two meetings totalling five sweaty hours while citizens, state officials and politicians hashed over the issue of what to do about the Cassidy Lake and Camp Waterloo prisons, I am going to stick my neck a long way out and suggest that there is a solution. I further suggest that the solution is fairly simple, or at least could be if all parties concerned would get off their respective high horses, modify their rigid stands and show some flexibility.

In brief, what is wrong with the idea of making the two places "medium-minimum security" institutions?

For much of my answer to that question, which is deliberately rigged in the sense that I am asking it of myself, I am indebted to Washtenaw Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil. His statements at the two meetings and his conversation with me after the second one helped a lot to solidify an opinion that I had been groping toward.

Area residents' primary concerns about the two prisons focus on the problem of security. Too many inmates are getting out, and a few of them (not many, really) are either threatening or actually causing criminal harm of some sort. Fortunately, nothing nearly so serious as the double murder apparently committed by two walk-aways from a minimum security camp outside the walls of Southern Michigan Prison at Jackson has occurred here, but the possibility exists that it might. The expressions of fear that I hear are genuine. People should not have to live in fear just because their homes are close to a penal institution. The state owes guarantees of protection to surrounding citizens.

All the testimony I heard from those who have the background and experience to know adds up to the conclusion that the type of fencing put up around medium-security prisons in Michigan would keep the inmates of Cassidy Lake and Camp Waterloo inside it. The effectiveness of two 12-foot fences with concertina wire in between, patrolled by guards assisted by electronic aids, has been proven. The successful escape rate averages less than one per year. No prison is escape-proof, but Michigan's medium-security institutions come very close.

Neither Cassidy Lake nor Camp Waterloo is going to be closed at a time when Michigan's prison population is soaring and the Governor and Legislature are scratching for money to create more places to put them. From that standpoint, the Community Liaison Council's recommendation that Cassidy Lake be phased out over a two-year period begs the question. It is politically unreal, and it won't happen.

That isn't to say that it might not happen someday down the road. Not too many years ago there was a desperate shortage of hospital beds in Michigan. There were long waiting periods for some kinds of non-urgent hospital treatment. Patients were being bedded down on cots and mattresses in hallways. Today there is a surplus of beds, and hospitals are competing for customers to fill them.

The parallel isn't exact, of course, and is cited only to suggest that things do change with time. No situation is set in concrete forevermore. Nobody can predict with any certainty what Michigan's crime and punishment picture will look like 20 years from now, but you can be darned sure it will be different from what it is today.

The logic of the state's (Department of Corrections) insistence that fencing Cassidy Lake will automatically increase the number of inmates housed there from 266 to 400 completely eludes me. What is so magic about the number 400? Or 266? Or any other number?

Why would the mere act of putting a fence around Cassidy Lake have to mean that a different type of prisoner would be confined there? About half the present inmates have been convicted of violent, assaultive-type crimes. Does that proportion necessarily have to be raised to 100 percent, or any other percent? Why couldn't it be reduced?

Why can't the academic and vocational education programs now carried on be continued? And why can't they be expanded and improved upon behind a secure fence?

The average stay of an inmate at Cassidy Lake is four months, a semester of schooling. If the population inside the state prison system mirrors that outside it, about one-third need instruction in remedial reading, writing and arithmetic. Cassidy Lake is equipped and staffed to provide it, but you can't learn to read, write, add and subtract in four months.

Priorities need to be separated. The top priority should be security. Until that is achieved, the controversy will go on and on. People will continue to be afraid and, sooner or later, something very ugly and bad will happen. That concern over-rides all others. Every day of delay increases the likelihood of a nasty incident.

While the fence is being put up, discussion can be continued and reasoned conclusions arrived at as to inmate numbers, classifications, programs and other issues. Those determinations should not be connected in any way with the fencing issue. They are separate.

Nor is there any logical reason why Camp Waterloo can't continue to be a conservation-corrections facility, but with a secure fence around it. Its function need not change at all after a fence is built.

Putting up fences and providing the additional staffing (guards) and equipment to patrol them will cost some money, and it isn't small change. Security has a price, but it should not have to be paid in terms of terror by those who happen to live close to a prison.

Let's get the security task accomplished, pay the price in dollars and go on from there.

MAME TRIES HER HAND at a career on Broadway, but finds riding a crescent moon a real challenge. Members of the chorus pictured here are Kristina Steffenson and Lynn Tousey.

'Mame' Opens Thursday

Other southerners who are distrustful of the Yankee Mame include Julie Vorus as Sally Cato, Larry Garvin and Lynn Tousey. Mame's bustling houseboy, Ito, is Tim McGraw; the snobbish Babcock is Paul Morrison. Marian Cohen and Paul VanderRoest round out the complement of Mame's friends. Denise Long is the fussy and fluttery Mrs. Upson, and Becky Smouse is the "too-too" Gloria Upson. Pert Pegeen Ryan is played by Margaret Lewis; Tony Totter and Mike Smith are Patrick's friends.

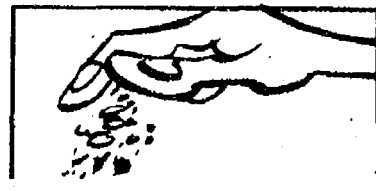

Chorus and ensemble members include Thad Bell, Tammy Browning, Joe Cesarz, Allison Chasteen, Bill Coelius, Dale Cole,

Chorus members include the fox hunt scene at the plantation Peckerwood, Mame's parties with her wacky friends, and, of course, the Upson's party when Mame finds out that Patrick plans to marry (of all people) Gloria Upson.

Come watch the cast dance the Charleston and other dances of the twenties, thirties and forties in period dress. Be prepared to laugh and thoroughly enjoy the madcap hijinks of Mame Dennis and friends.

Tickets are available at the door and the Chelsea Cleaners.

What's A Funeral For, Anyway?

Occasionally we're asked such questions as, "Why do we have funerals?" "What purpose do they serve?"

VALUES OF THE FUNERAL

More than anything else, the funeral is for the living. It's our way of saying goodbye, giving recognition to a life that was important to us.

Saying goodbye is very difficult. However, it's the first important step in accepting the reality of death, and recognizing that life still has meaning for those who remain.

If you would like more information on funerals and their value to the living, please call or write for our informative brochure.

Volunteers Sought For Foster Care Review Board

Citizens are needed to volunteer their services for a program aimed at improving children's foster care in Michigan.

The Foster Care Review Board program, authorized by Public Act 422 of 1984, establishes five-member Citizen Review Boards in all counties having at least 100 children in foster care. The purpose of the Review Boards is to determine through random selection of cases if the Department of Social Services, Juvenile Court, and other child welfare agencies and organizations are properly planning for the permanent placement of children who are in foster care.

The program will determine whether citizen review of child placements should become a permanent part of child foster care in Michigan.

Selection of the citizen volunteers comes from a cross-section of the community, reflecting characteristics of the population of children in foster care. Per Public Act 422, volunteers may not be employed by a child care organization, Department of Social Services, or the Juvenile Court.

Pilot boards functioned between 1981 and 1984 in Wayne, Kalamazoo and the tri-county area of Huron, Sanilac and Tuscola counties under previous legislation.

Volunteers are expected to meet approximately eight hours monthly and to attend a training program. Expenses for attending the meetings will be paid.

Citizens interested in volunteering should contact by mail the Foster Care Review Board, State Court Administrative Office, 611 W. Ottawa, Lansing 48909, or by telephone (517) 373-0831.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,
 I wish to compliment the Chelsea Kiwanis Club and Bill Rademacher for the excellent job they did to save an American and a Chelsea tradition, the 4th of July fireworks display.

I would also like to thank the American Legion for the excellent job they have done in the past and for continuing to help with the fireworks display.

It is most heartwarming to know that we have civic-minded clubs and people in the Chelsea area who will step forward at their own personal expense of time and effort to promote the Chelsea area.

Paul Frisinger.

Dear Community:

It has come to my attention that skunks are being sold by pet stores in the Dexter area. Although this is legal (they are not wild Michigan skunks, but were raised on "skunk farms"), there are many reasons why skunks should not be kept as pets.

Skunks pose a definite health threat. In 1983 (the most recent year for which statistics are available) the Center of Disease Control found skunks to be the number one species in the United States to test rabies positive. While the rabies threat is generally associated with wild skunks, "farm" skunks are raised in outside pens, so may be exposed to other animals. In fact, this year a rabies positive wild skunk was identified in the Upper Peninsula, the origin of the skunks being sold locally.

Health care maintenance is particularly difficult with skunks. There is no approved or licensed rabies vaccine, and there have been cases of a vaccination (Wild & Zoo Animal Med-Fowler) causing rabies. Skunks are also susceptible to canine and feline distemper, for which there are, once again, no approved or licensed vaccines.

Health considerations aside, skunks are not ideal pets. Even after descenting they retain a musky odor. They are cute and playful as youngsters, but become stodgy and temperamental as they reach puberty. They may even bite if provoked. Skunks can be difficult to litter train or housebreak and usually have to be caged.

Zoos will usually not accept pet skunks for exhibit and many of these "high status" pets end up at our humane society when people tire of their novelty. They can't be returned to the wild due to their descenting and abnormal socialization.

I sincerely hope that people will refrain from keeping skunks as pets. If you want a pet with stripes, try a cat with stripes or a brindle dog.

Adults will be able to relax and talk while children are entertained. Events and food are free. and Jackson. Worden has worked in the field of automotive repair for 17 years and has been employed at Faist-Morrow for eight years. About 1,600 of GM's 75,000 repair technicians nationwide received the award.

Arts, Crafts Fair For Sidewalk Days Draws Many Entries

About 40 exhibitors are expected to participate in the arts and crafts fair which will be a feature of the Aug. 2-3 Chelsea Sidewalk Days sale.

Chairman Marcy Stump said she had received 34 confirmed applications for booths as of yesterday, and has had several more inquiries. "I think we will have at least 40," she said, "and there could be more."

There is no firm deadline, but Mrs. Stump urged that persons interested in a booth contact her as soon as possible at 475-3429. All types of arts and crafts are acceptable, provided they are handmade. Non-profit organizations are encouraged to sponsor informational booths.

The fair will be set up along South St. and could possibly spread across Main St. onto Park St., depending on the eventual number of participants.

"We have a nice variety of booths entered so far," Mrs. Stump commented. "Many exhibitors are coming from out of town, and some from out of state."

Among the items to be displayed are tinseltypes, photographs, hand-crafted Amish-type furniture, ink and watercolor drawings, monograms, silk and dried flowers, Christmas tree skirts, stuffed animals, Cabbage Patch doll clothes, miniature trees made of copper wire, ceramics and pottery, clocks, hand-painted china, woven chairs, teddy bears, stained glass, and many odds and ends.

The fair hours are 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Friday, Aug. 2, and 8:30-5 on Saturday, Aug. 3.

Entertainment will be provided by Steve Bachleda of Chelsea, who will sing and play country music.

Downtown merchants will be displaying their wares on the sidewalks during the two-day event, offering bargains for shoppers.

An antique car parade is scheduled on Saturday, Aug. 3, and Dick Kolander who is organizing the event along with David Kaercher anticipates more than 100 entries.

What is needed most at this point is a blessing from the weather gods to make the outdoor event a big success.

AN OLD MILK JUG served as Stockbridge's time capsule that was buried 25 years ago by Wuma Kaiser and Harold Lantis on the occasion of the town's 125th anniversary. The capsule was dug up Monday, July 15 on the second day of Stockbridge's Sesquicentennial Celebration, a week long affair. Inside the capsule were odds and ends from 1960 including newspapers, a bottle of beer, and a 125th anniversary plate. The celebration continues today, with Youth Day, through Saturday.

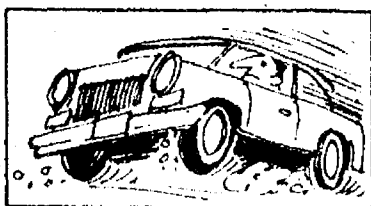

Request for Adult Foster Care Home Refused By County

You may have noticed a legal advertisement in the Dexter Leader and The Chelsea Standard a couple of weeks ago concerning the receipt of an application by Dexter township for an adult foster care home to be located at 6252 Brand St., Dexter. According to James Taylor, adult foster care licensing consultant for Washtenaw county, that project has been stopped.

The reason the project was halted, according to Taylor, is that the proposed facility would have been located within 1,500 feet of an existing facility. The existing facility is the North Territorial House at 10865 North Territorial Rd., operated by A-Jay Services.

"In populations of one million or less, the law says that these facilities have to be more than 1,500 feet away from each other," Taylor said. "The only way the application can be accepted now is if the township grants a zoning variation. I'll probably keep the file open until the end of the month, but from our standpoint the project is not going on."

The township has also recommended against the application for the same reasons, according to William Eisenbeiser, township clerk. He said he is not aware of any move to request a variance on the matter.

Most automobile trips in the U.S. are under 5 miles.

Stockbridge Sesqui ★ Celebration Underway

Residents of Stockbridge and surrounding communities of Munith and Gregory, have banded together in planning a full week of celebration for the Stockbridge Sesquicentennial, a 150th Birthday Celebration, July 14-20.

The week begins with Worship Day, July 14, Downtown Day Monday, and Agricultural and Business Day Tuesday. Wednesday, July 17, is Youth Day, highlighted by a "People Power Parade" at 10 a.m., with activities scheduled all day for children. Thursday is Cultural Day with quilt displays and arts and crafts and concerts on the town square. Recreation Day, Friday, will feature the over 500 residents who signed up into Brothers of the Brush and Belle groups, as they hold softball, volleyball and other competitions during the day.

Heritage Day, Saturday July 20, Stockbridge welcomes all visitors to come celebrate the Sesquicentennial with the "150 Years of Parades" at 12 noon. Michigan area clubs and bands will participate with special guests, the Michigan Bicentennial Wagon Train Club. The day continues with a summer fair, sky diving competition, and an exciting fireworks display in the evening.

Area residents and merchants have decorated the village for Sesquicentennial with special antique displays in all store windows, banners on homes and businesses, and the wearing of centennial costumes in town for several weeks in preparation for the week.

Stockbridge is located between I-94 and I-96 on M-52, 30 minutes southeast from Lansing, 20 minutes northeast from Jackson and one hour west from Detroit.

Stockbridge Area Athletic Boosters Plan Summerfest

Two full days of summer fun are slated for this week-end, July 12-13, as Summerfest '85 kicks off the Sesquicentennial celebrations.

Stockbridge Community Athletic Boosters are once again the sponsors of the Summerfest which will be held on the Stockbridge Township Square.

This year's Summerfest will run from 9 a.m. until dusk on both Friday, July 12 and Saturday, July 13 and promises to be the best Summerfest ever. The always-popular beer tent will operate from 12 noon until 10 p.m. on both days with street dances in front of the Village Office scheduled from 6 to 10 each night. The band "Mama Tried Again," will be playing both nights for the street dances.

More arts and crafts booths than ever before have sent in applications with close to 100 total booths expected for the week-end.

The Athletic Boosters food booth will again feature hot dogs and knockwurst, sauerkraut, beef bar-b-q, popcorn, and soft drinks. Local organizations will also have food booths such as a salad bar, desserts, cotton candy, and nachos. A pony ride, dunk tank, kids games and other attractions will also be on tap for this year.

The Stockbridge Township Fire Department will again sponsor a softball tournament to be played at the Memorial Field and at the Smith Elementary Field. The 12th annual five-mile run will be held on Saturday, July 13. The run will begin at the high school at 9 a.m. and conclude at the Town Square. Applications and information about the run may be obtained from Dave Avery at 851-7377. You may sign up the day of the run at 8:30 a.m. at the high school.

Besides the two street dances there will be a display of antique cars on Friday afternoon and on Saturday from 12 to 2 will be routines by the Stockbridge High school drill team, varsity cheerleaders, junior varsity cheerleaders, and children involved in the cheerleaders' clinic.

Proceeds from the Summerfest '85 activities will be used by the Athletic Boosters to provide funding for the construction of the new baseball and softball fields at the high school.

Mining fatalities numbered 163 in fiscal 1984, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report for fiscal year 1984. This represented an increase from the record-breaking low of 131 in fiscal 1983, but it remained far below fatality figures in earlier years.

Historical Railroad Hike Set in Pinckney

Old railroad lines have a wealth of historic associations. They were usually the lifeline of the communities strung along them. They prospered together—and sometimes faded together. Once a railroad was abandoned, the communities dependent upon it often would wither away. In particular, the buildings associated with the rail service would usually fall into disrepair, as the town would turn its attention to the highway.

Lack of use and interest over the years has meant that many of these structures have disappeared, but the ones remaining offer unusual glimpses of the past and how life went on in those days.

With the sesquicentennial of the Village of Pinckney this year, it is especially appropriate to rediscover the old rail-related history there. Sunday, July 21, will be the date to do this!

The Friends of the LakeLands Trail are sponsoring an historic hike east from the old depot along the abandoned Grand Trunk rail line. This line was purchased several years ago by the state for conversion into a trail for bicycling, horseback-riding, and hiking. The government has not done any development since then. The Friends of the LakeLands Trail was formed to encourage progress on the development. They hope that by generating public interest and enthusiasm for the trail, the state will get the project going again (dare we say "on the track"?).

The hike will start at 2 p.m. on Sunday. It will be a leisurely affair, lasting about two hours. There is no charge for participating. There will be refreshments, T-shirts, and memberships in the Friends of the LakeLands Trail. The hike is oriented towards families, so bring the children. It is essentially flat, and on a cinder/gravel surface. There will not be water except at the ends of the hike, so come prepared.

For information about the hike or the LakeLands Trail, call (in Ann Arbor) 971-6339, or write: Friends of the LakeLands Trail, P.O. Box 707, Pinckney 48169.

There will be monthly events on the trail. Save the date of Aug. 18 for a bicycle tour by the trail in Jackson county. Keep in touch with the Friends for details on upcoming events and progress on the development of southeast Michigan's first long-distance rails-to-trails project!

Jeffrey Kiel Receives Palmer Memorial Medical Scholarship

Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary has announced that Jeffrey Kiel has received the Dr. A. A. Palmer Memorial Scholarship.

The $500 scholarship is awarded to a Chelsea High school graduate who is pursuing a career in medicine, primarily family practice. This is the 15th presentation of the scholarship which was set up by the original group of physicians at Chelsea Medical Center as a memorial to the late Dr. A. A. Palmer, a Chelsea physician for many years.

The first monies for the scholarship were raised by donations from local physicians and businessmen. Since 1973, the scholarship has been made possible by the Chelsea Painters, a group of artists who sell their works at an annual art fair held the first week-end in June at Chelsea Community Hospital. These artists began painting a number of years ago, using space in the basement of Dr. Hawks' former office at the Medical Center. It was he who suggested that a portion of proceeds from the sale of paintings go towards the Palmer Scholarship. The scholarship has been administered by the Auxiliary Scholarship Committee since 1981.

Determination of a recipient is based on academic achievement, extra-curricular activities, and a motivation to pursue a career in medicine.

Jeff Kiel is a 1978 graduate of Chelsea High and has been a lifetime resident of Chelsea. He attended the University of Michigan for six years and was intending to pursue a career in pharmacy and was in the College of Pharmacy for two years at Michigan. He was an active member of Student American Pharmaceutical Association, Michigan Pharmaceutical Association, president of Student American Pharmaceutical Association, and received Class Honors in '80 and '84. Jeff now attends Michigan State University and is in the medical program and hopes to earn his medical degree in June, 1988. After that, he will complete a one-year internship and two years of residency. Jeff wants to practice as a family practitioner in a small town. This summer, Jeff is employed at the Chelsea Community Hospital.

Jeff is married and he and his wife will return to Michigan State in the fall. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kiel of Stoffer Rd.

Jeffrey was chosen on the basis of an interview with the Auxiliary's Scholarship Committee whose members include Gail Olson, Donna Lane, June Flanagan and Madeleine Vallier.

Red Cross Has Urgent Need for Type O Blood

An acute shortage of type "O" blood has the local Red Cross blood services worried. Unless collections increase significantly over the next week, the Red Cross will have to ask local hospitals to postpone elective surgery.

Area residents are asked to respond to this urgent need for blood and support local blood collection efforts, either through donating at one of the community drives or by calling their local donor center for appointments. Donor centers have week-end and evening hours for donor's convenience.

A blood donation takes only 30 to 40 minutes, is painless and can save four lives. Blood can be donated by anyone in good health between the ages of 17 through 65 who weighs at least 110 pounds.

Cong. Pursell Plans Local Office Hours in Chelsea

Continuing an annual tradition, Congressman Carl Pursell has asked the 2nd District congressional staff to hold local office hours for the convenience of constituents throughout the district.

A series of meetings has been scheduled during July and August, with a special emphasis on providing the Congressman with opinions from citizens and local businesses on the proposed reform and simplification of federal tax laws.

Chelsea will be the site of one of the meetings, on Wednesday July 24, from 9-10:30 a.m. It will be held in the Council Room of the Chelsea Municipal Building, 104 E. Middle St.

Leading the meeting will be Connie Giarmio, Congressman Pursell's chief constituent caseworker in the 2nd District. Since a special effort is being made to involve local business people in the discussion, Rep. Pursell's business specialist, James "Murphy" Collins will also attend.

While the focus of the meeting will be proposed changes in the tax code, people are welcome to seek help from the congressional staff on any problem they may be having with a federal agency or regulation, or express their opinion on any federal issue.

Citizens may come at their convenience during the local office hours, and those wishing to make an appointment for a certain time are invited to call Ms. Giarmio at the Pursell Ann Arbor office, 761-7727.

People will have a chance for a one-on-one discussion of their problem or issue with a staff member. Anyone wishing help in resolving a specific problem is requested to bring a brief letter outlining their case.

A GIFT OF $1,000 was presented to the Chelsea school district by Don Blair, right, on behalf of the Dana Corp.'s Chelsea Power Take-off Division. Blair, the plant manager, presented the money to superintendent Ray Van Meer. The money will be used to buy an Apple computer for the high school's media center.

Dana Plant Gives $1,000 for Computer

Dana Corporation's Chelsea Power Takeoff Division donated $1,000 to the Chelsea school district that will be used to buy a new Apple computer for the high school media center.

The donation, according to Plant Manager Don Blair, came directly from the Chelsea division's operating funds and is not a corporate-wide gift.

"We felt we should get more deeply involved in the community and this is something we thought needed to be done," Blair said. "We will probably do some more of this kind of thing in the future."

Blair said the division has contributed to the United Way and the Chelsea Community Hospital in the past, but that this is the first donation to the school system.

N. Montange Attends Feingold Conference

Nancy Montange of Chelsea has recently returned from San Francisco, Calif., where she attended the 10th annual conference of the Feingold Association of the United States.

Nine is enough.

If you're paying more than $9 a month for your business checking account, your bank is giving you the business.

Average Available Business Checking Balance	Monthly Service Charge
$2000 or more	$0
$1000 to $1999	$7
$1 to $999	$9

How much are you paying for a business checking account at your bank? As much as $20 some months? Thirty? Fifty?

If you open an account at Citizens Trust, you'll pay no more than $9 a month. Any month. And you could, with ease, maintain your account for free.

You see, we charge you only if your available balance falls below $2000. If you keep an average available monthly balance of between $1 and $999 in your account, you pay just a $9 monthly service fee. Between $1000 and $1999, just a $7 monthly fee. And a balance of $2000 or more in your account means you pay no service charges at all.

That's a welcome change from the policies of some area banks who charge you for each deposit you make, every check you write, and a monthly service fee to boot.

Next month, when your monthly statement arrives, sit down and figure out how much your account is costing you. Then move your money to Citizens Trust. Because we feel nine dollars is enough.

Early Wheat Cutting Shows Prospects For Bumper Crop

The wheat harvest has started in west Washtenaw county, and prospects are for a bumper crop. The first few fields cut averaged 60-70 bushels per acre. Anything over 50 is considered good. Moisture content was running about 13.5 percent, well below the maximum amount required for immediate elevator storage without drying.

"It's better than I expected," said Harold Trinkle, who conducts a large grain operation east of Chelsea.

"I wasn't sure exactly how good the crop was until we actually got into the fields and started to cut and measure it. The cold and dry April weather hurt, but the warm and wet May apparently made up for it. We've had just enough rain at the right times since to keep the wheat growing and maturing well.

"The farmers who got heavy nitrogen onto their wheat fields this spring are going to have very good crops. You can see the difference between the fields that received nitrogen and those that didn't, just by driving along the roads and looking at them. It shows the value of fertilizer."

While Trinkle was happy with the yields of the first few fields cut, he wasn't so happy about the prices being paid for wheat. He received $2.93 per bushel for the first two loads he delivered to Honneger's elevator.

"I won't lose money at that price," he commented, "but I won't make a whole lot either. The profit is very low for the amount I have invested in the crop. I can pick up the straw, bale it and sell it for about a dollar a bale. That gives me something a little extra which helps."

Like every other agricultural crop so far this season, wheat has matured a little ahead of schedule, thanks to the unusually favorable conditions in May which accelerated growth.

The oats crop likewise looks very good. Oats are harvested right after wheat.

Trinkle said that last week's rains came at just the right time to keep corn green and growing vigorously. Some fields are beginning to tassel.

"If we get regular rain—half to three-quarters of an inch a week—during the rest of July and August, we will have a real good corn crop," he predicted. "We're not sure yet, but things are looking better all the time."

Meanwhile, locally grown sweet corn and tomatoes are showing up in the marketplace, again ahead of schedule. Other garden vegetables such as cucumber and summer squash are also in bountiful supply.

North Lake Resident Reports Seeing Tornado

Mrs. Maryann Bills of 101 Watt Rd., North Lake is convinced that she and her two daughters saw a tornado funnel cloud during a severe thunderstorm which swept through the area at about 11 p.m. Tuesday, July 9.

"There was a lot of thunder and lightning, and my daughters and I went outside to make sure of the safety of our two horses which were in a pasture near our house. We looked off to the south and saw what we are sure was a tornado close to the ground. I can't say for sure how far away it was, but we could see it clearly because the lightning was so bright and continuous. We ran back toward the house. We didn't hear or see anything more of the cloud after that."

Mrs. Bills and her husband, Brent, live on the northwest corner of North Lake. Their daughters are Gina, 14, and Lisa, 11.

Neither the U.S. Weather Bureau nor University of Michigan weather observers reported any tornado sightings during the storm, although a "tornado watch" had been in effect earlier in the evening.

Other residents of the North Lake area said the storm was severe with lots of lightning, loud thunderclaps, heavy rain and some high wind gusts. No serious damage was reported, however.

The storm did do some damage in the Ann Arbor and Saline areas, and also in parts of the Detroit metropolitan area. Downed tree limbs and electric power outages occurred in scattered locations.

Phillip Frame on Dean's Honor List at Cooley Law School

Phillip I. Frame has been placed on the Dean's List at the Thomas M. Cooley Law School in Lansing, where he is in his last term.

To be on the Dean's List a student must have a 3.00 or above grade point average.

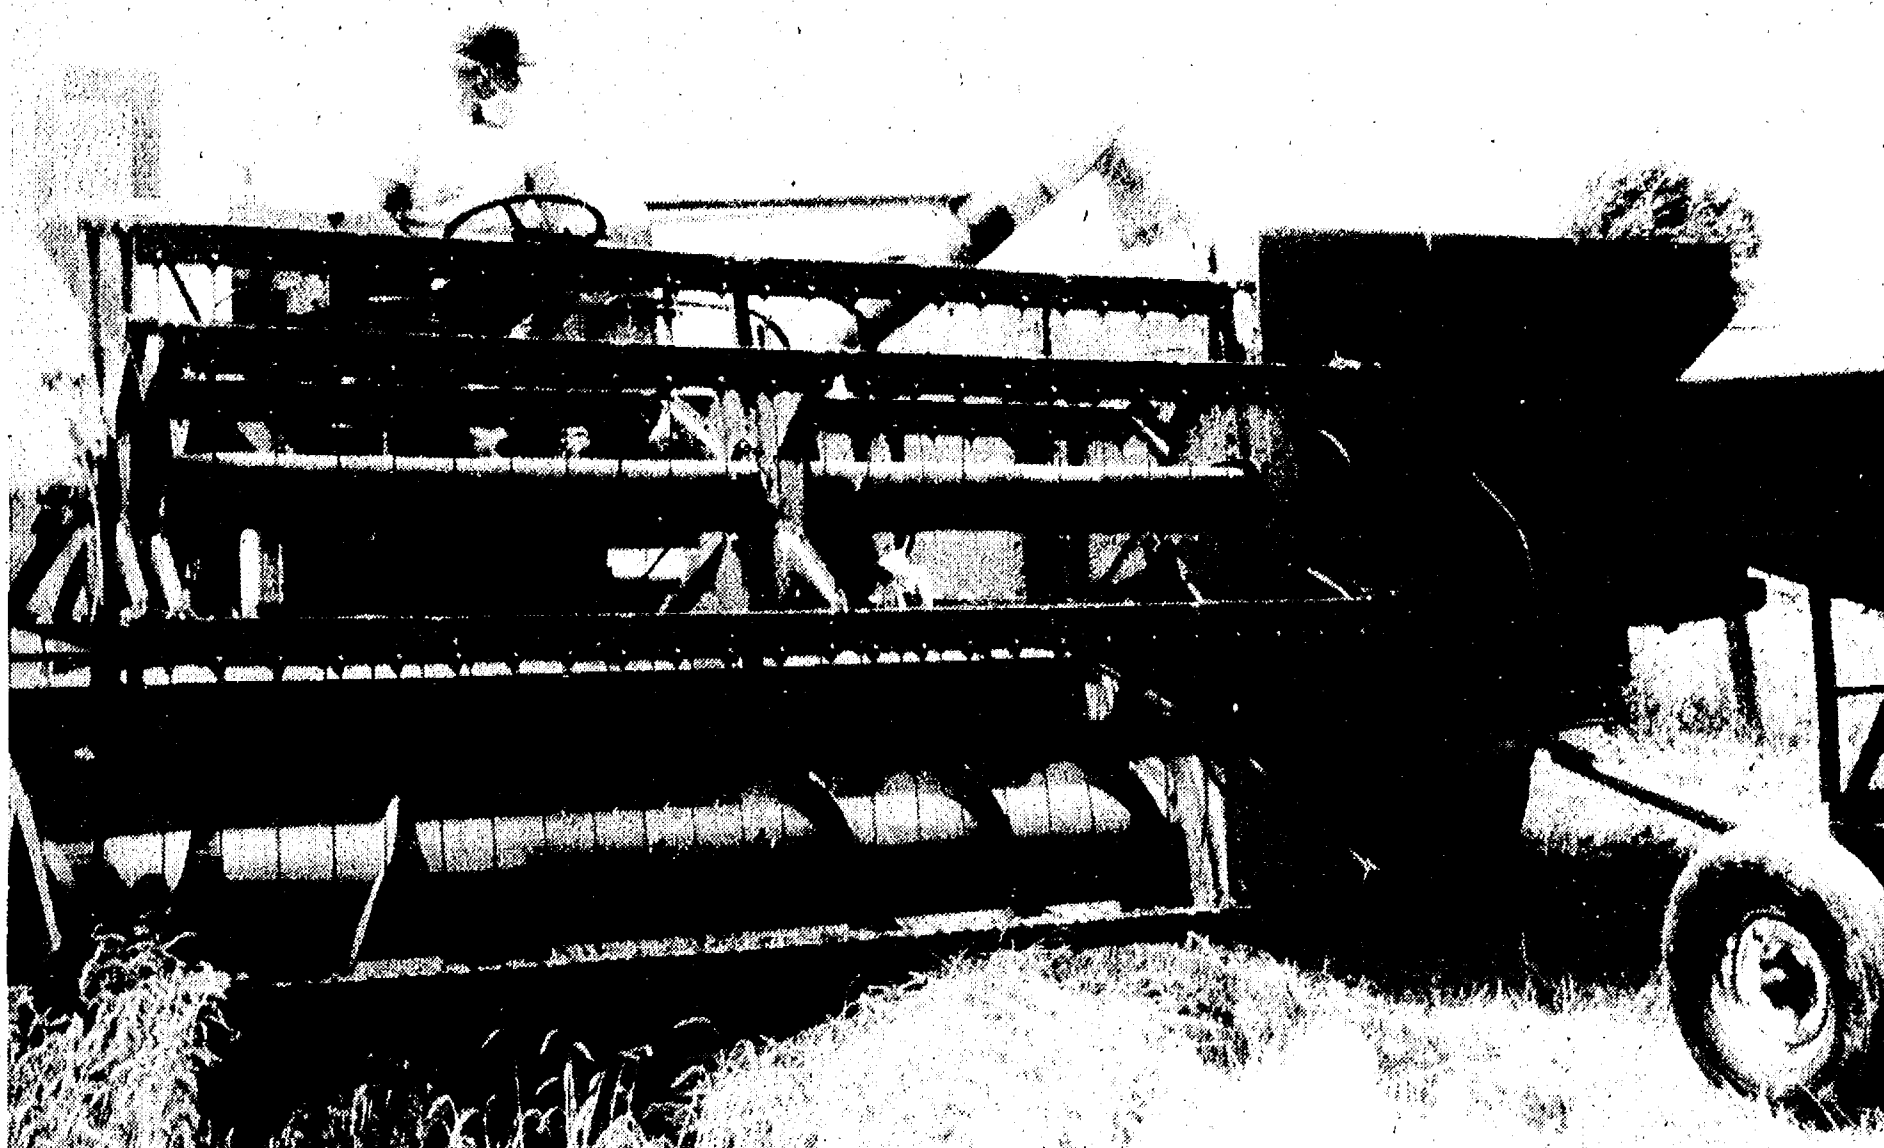

Phillip, who is the son of Bill and Barabara Frame of Chelsea, has a B.A. from Eastern Michigan University in business administration. He resides in Jackson with his wife, Jill.

EUGENE SEITZ was a mighty happy man after he made the first pass through his wheat field on N. Fletcher Rd. and filled the threshing machine's storage bin before he got all the way around. "It will go at least 70 bushels to the acre," he declared as he emptied the load into a truck.

WHEAT STRAW is worth about a dollar per bale, and it was being raked and baled in a field along Trinkle Rd. after the grain had been harvested from it. The machine not only does the raking and baling, it tosses the bales into a wagon towed behind.

Corn Referendum Deadline Extended

The Michigan Department of Agriculture has agreed to extend the deadline for returning ballots in the referendum of the proposed corn check-off program through July 31. Ballots postmarked after that date will not be accepted. The previous deadline was July 23.

The reason for this problem is that some growers may not receive ballots in the mail, until after the 20th of July, due to a mailing error.

This problem is not the fault of the Michigan Corn Growers Association, or Temporary Corn Promotion Committee.

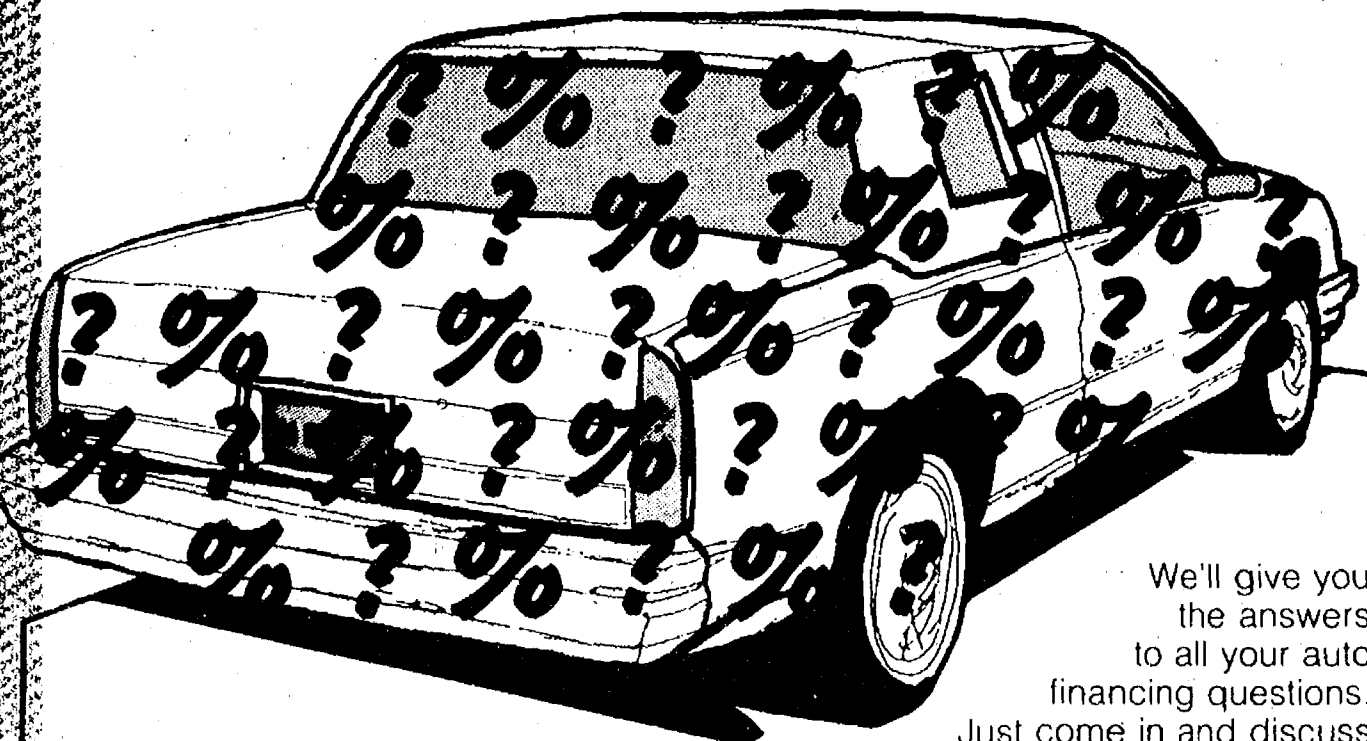

The referendum procedure is carried out by the Michigan Department of Agriculture. Any questions about procedures, or the extension of the deadline should be directed to the department.

Balloting will be conducted daily at the Michigan Department of Agriculture booth at AG Expo, so growers wishing to do so, may vote there. They should have information about how much corn they sold last year, as that information is necessary on the ballot.

All corn growers are encouraged to vote in the referendum and express their feelings on the check-off program.

Questions on the program should be directed to the Michigan Corn Growers Association, at 517/694-0589, or the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

Detroit Edison Plans Food, Fun, Farm Day for Seniors

Food, Fun and Farm Day will be hosted by Detroit Edison in downtown Ann Arbor next month.

On Wednesday, Aug. 14, Detroit Edison will sponsor a "day under the tent" on Main St., for all senior citizens.

The seniors will have a chance to "meet" the grand champion steer purchased by auction from 4-H origins and donated to the Community Services Agency Senior Nutrition Program.

In addition, Detroit Edison reports, took advantage of the chance to enter a recipe in the beef casserole competition (entry deadline is Friday, July 12), and recipes will be judged on the basis of originality, nutritional aspects, taste and economics. A panel of experts will go to each of the 11 Nutrition Sites throughout the county this week, July 15-19, to select the winning recipe from the entries.

All winning recipes will be printed in a special booklet, and reproduced by Detroit Edison. Winners will all have their recipes, as well as their names, in the booklet.

The winners will be featured at the Food, Fun and Farm Day, introduced to the crowd, and have their "special recipe" tasted.

Each of the winners will be asked to bring a casserole to the special Farm Day.

Final judging for the grand winner of the beef casserole recipe will be held Wednesday, Aug. 14, at Food, Fun and Farm Day activities at Detroit Edison.

Other events planned on the Food, Fun and Farm Day include

Two Men's Softball Teams Going into District Tournament

The Chelsea Men's League, whose teams play slow-pitch softball, was divided into "A" and "B" divisions at the start of the season according to last year's team records and the number of players returning to each team.

In the "A" division are teams that were .500 or above and had six or more returning players. "B" division teams are either new or were below .500 last year in either division.

North American Exploration Corp. (NAEC) was in the "A" Division last year and finished below .500. This year, in a more evenly matched league, NAEC is leading the "B" division but has lost most of its games against "A" teams, except for their 6-5 victory over the "A" Division leader, Chelsea Industries, and wins over Broderick Shell and Chelsea Woodshed.

Jerry Hansen & Sons Builders fared the best over "A" division teams with a 4-4 record including one forfeited game.

Broderick Shell is a new team that wanted to be in the "A" Division for the chance of playing tougher teams to improve for the future. 3-D Sales & Service came from second place in the "B" division last year to be very competitive in the "A" Division this year.

Chelsea A & W and Chelsea Big Boy give everyone a battle. Teams that beat them know they have had to play well and hard to win.

Hackworth Logging almost didn't make it into the league this year because it did not have a representative at the league meeting. Because of last-minute cancellation the team was allowed into the league.

Hackworth Logging and Chelsea Industries will both go to the district tournament in Ann Arbor to vie for a chance to play in the state finals.

Chelsea Woodshed and the Stockbridge Merchants are teams that are trying hard but not receiving the breaks needed to win.

HE'S SAFE! Kevin Judson of the White Sox in the Chelsea Little League slides into home during his team's 11-9 win over the Tigers in action last Thursday at Dana. Awaiting the throw is Tigers' pitcher Kathy Issel. Umpire Brady Murphy gets into position to make the call, as Kevin's teammates watch the action.

AARON SZYMANSKI of the White Sox makes contact during the second inning of his team's 11-9 win over the Tigers in Little League action. Tiger catcher Brian Schultz awaits, a hustler behind the plate, didn't have to handle this particular pitch. Umpire Brady Murphy looks on.

Joann Tobin Wins Softball Award

Joann Tobin has been awarded a two-year athletic scholarship at Oakland Community College where she will play softball and study business beginning this fall.

Tobin played first base and did some pitching on this year's Chelsea High school state championship softball team. She was recruited by Oakland primarily as a pitcher, she said.

Her pitching opportunities were limited this spring because she was third on an exceptionally strong hurling staff which included Kelly Hawker and Beth Unterbrink, both of whom also earned softball scholarships.

"Joann would have been the top pitcher on most teams in the state," coach Charlie Waller said. "She is very good, very strong. Unfortunately, we weren't able to give her many chances to pitch because Kelly and Beth were so dominating. She will do well in college."

Joann played excellent defensive ball at first base, turning in many outstanding plays during the championship season. While she didn't hit for a high average, she came through with several key safeties.

"I'm really excited about the scholarship," she said. "One nice thing about it is that the coach at Oakland promised to help me go on to another school to complete my education after I finish two years there. I'm looking forward to getting started this fall."

Seat Belts Credited With Saving Lives

State Police credit the new seat belt law with helping to keep the number of fatalities down over the 102-hour holiday week-end. Fourteen people lost their lives in Michigan highways as compared to 22 fatalities during the last long Fourth of July holiday in 1978. This was the first holiday with the seat belt law in effect.

Of the 14 fatalities, seven did not have seat belts available, four did not wear them, and three who wore belts were involved in non-survivable accidents. Col. Gerald L. Hough, department director, said the message is clear, "seat belts do save lives." But Hough stressed the fact that alcohol involvement continues to be a key factor in fatal accidents. Drinking was involved in five, unknown in four, and ruled out in three of the 12 fatal accidents.

Increased citizen awareness generated by Operation CARE activity along with safety breaks staffed by volunteer groups at 35 rest areas also contributed to the lower fatality count, Hough said.

During the first week of enforcement of the new law, 631 tickets and 1,205 warnings were issued.

Jon Lane Was Playing on Course Hit by Lightning

Jon Lane of Chelsea was playing in the Michigan Junior Champion Invitational golf tournament at Michigan State University's Forest Akers course when four other boys were struck by lightning Monday morning.

Jon was not involved and did not witness the incident, his mother said. He was the only entrant from this area.

"Jon was playing on the front nine, and the lightning strike occurred on the back nine at about 8:30 a.m.," Mrs. Lane said.

"As the storm approached, the players were told to get off the course. Apparently, that four-some didn't make it. Jon was in the clubhouse when it happened."

Two of the four boys injured were reported in critical condition. The others were less seriously hurt.

Swimming Pool Closing Friday

Chelsea's Cameron pool will be closing for its annual cleaning for four weeks beginning this Friday, July 19. It is scheduled to reopen Aug. 18.

A variety of maintenance procedures will be performed, beginning with the draining of the pool. The filtration systems will be inspected, the bulkhead taken apart and sand blasted, tiles replaced, and overhead and underwater lights inspected. Most of the work can only be done when the pool is drained.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BILL MULLENDORI

Along with a lot of other people, I will miss Ron Nemeth, who has resigned after five years as Chelsea High school athletic director to take a job in the private sector. A goodly crowd of well-wishers, myself among them, attended an open house for Ron and his wife, Judy, last Friday evening at the Knights of Columbus Hall.

Actually, the Nemeths aren't leaving the community. They plan to continue to live in Chelsea at least until their son, Jeff, finishes his remaining two years of high school here. Ron will commute to West Bloomfield, where he will open and manage an office for Balsam Athletic Surfaces, a West Germany-based firm which manufactures and markets synthetic surfaces for sports fields.

Ron has accomplished a lot during his five years here. Under his direction the high school athletic plant has been extensively remodelled and upgraded. Major features of the renovation program included:

New drainage structures, irrigation system, sod, lights and bleachers (east side) on the football field.

A new synthetic urethane track, said to be the best in the state.

Four new tennis courts.

Improvements to the baseball and softball diamonds.

Stronger lights in the gym.

A few finishing touches remain to be completed—a new pressbox at Niehaus Field and new baseball stands, for example—but the program is basically done. The facilities, along with the Cameron swimming pool, give Chelsea an exceptionally fine athletic complex, one that most larger schools would envy. It would be fitting to name something for him.

My main memory of Ron during the three years that he has been one of my principal sports news sources at the high school is that he is a man of enormous energy and dedication, a do-it-yourself type. He paid remarkable attention to detail.

Offhand, I can't remember ever asking Ron a question related to his duties as athletic director that he couldn't answer. The problem was to find him to ask the questions. He definitely was not a desk-bound administrator.

Ron spend much of his time overseeing work in progress, often taking part in it. He wasn't afraid to get his hands dirty and, in fact, enjoyed doing it. You don't see many athletic directors performing groundskeeping chores.

He has been extremely active in Southeastern Conference affairs, spending a lot of time at meetings and on scheduling matters.

Ron probably was dead-ended here, and that is one reason why he decided to make the move when the opportunity offered. At age 41, he didn't have a whole lot longer to make a career change if he intended to make one.

My guess is that he will do well in his new job, which will mostly involve sales. He has a good product to sell, and his personal qualities—including his knowledge of athletics—will help him sell it.

Ron Nemeth has been a good, dependable news source, the kind that a reporter appreciates for making his work easier, and has been a friend besides. I join many, many others in wishing him well, and will miss him.

Chelsea Softball Team Defeated Twice in Regional

Chelsea's girls softball team played twice in last week-end's Michigan Amateur Association regional tournament at Ann Arbor, losing both games.

They were defeated, 2-1, by the Lansing Lasers on Friday, and lost on Sunday, 11-5, in nine innings to St. Johns Little Caesar's.

"We had good pitching for the most part and played decent defense," coach Charlie Waller said. "Our problem all summer so far has been inability to score runs when we have needed to. We haven't had much hitting."

"We were just a little bit out of sync in the Ann Arbor tournament, and we got a bad draw. There were some teams in there that we could have beaten, but we didn't get a chance to play them."

As in past years, Waller's summer team is made up of underclassmen—sophomores and juniors—who will play on next spring's varsity team.

The seven seniors who formed the core of this year's state Class B championship team are not playing for Chelsea this summer. Nor is shortstop Jenny Cattell, who suffered a broken thumb in the state tournament and has not returned to action.

"Those eight girls are all outstanding players, and they took us to the championship."

What we are working with this summer is a young, inexperienced group. Only Michelle Easton, Chris DeFant, Chandy Hurd and Kris Mattoff have varsity experience.

"The summer team has worked hard and played well, all things considered. They don't like losing and have had trouble accepting it. They are improving, and right now I feel pretty good about the team we will put on the field next spring."

"We're getting excellent experience this summer by playing against teams that are, right now, a little bit better than we are. It's not easy to lose when you are used to winning, but that has to be accepted as part of the learning process."

"We've seen some real good pitching, and have had trouble hitting it. That is something we have to work on."

Chris DeFant, Pam Brown and Jill Schaffner have shared the pitching duties for Chelsea this summer, and all have hurtled well, Waller said.

A Classic Tradition:

Enjoy the festivities! Board a free covered wagon or a surrey with a fringe top for your ride from the parking areas to the dinner site. There is music and entertainment, and if you choose to sign the guest register, the loud speakers system will announce your arrival. Guest come from near and far, from most of our states, and some from abroad. Many plan their vacation to be with us.

It's Time to Eat!

Six hundred volunteers from the Manchester area, headed by local Optimist and other civic groups, man the four 100-ft. charcoal broiling pits and prepare and serve a tasty and complete chicken dinner. Watch the melted butter being sprayed over the plump chicken halves during the slow broiling process. See the eager volunteers slither up one and one-half ton of fresh cabbage on the old German kraut cutters and mix in gallons of a secret recipe dressing to create a tasty cole slaw. A half ton of red radishes and a truck load of bagged potato chips are required to garnish the dinner plates. A buttered roll and choice of milk or coffee rounds out the menu. Students sell ice cream and soft drinks. If you prefer, there are fast take-out lines where dinners are boxed to go.

Fun for A Day, the Old-Fashioned Way!

BUNDLES OF WHEAT which had been cut the day before were fed into belt-driven threshing machines which separated the grain from the straw. Operating the tractor, a 30-year-old McCormick-Deering, is Dick Schulze of Chelsea.

A REAL OLD-TIMER: This 50-horsepower Case steam engine was built in 1914. It was owned and restored by Don Irwin (center) of Chelsea. Harold Armbruster bought the engine Friday and is now the proud owner. Flanking Irwin are Leonard James of Napoleon (left) 76-year-old steam engine operator, and Dick Pastorino of Dexter.

BALING STRAW: This baling machine is old, but it still works with the help of a lot of muscle-power. Standing on the baler is Paul Bollinger of Chelsea who has restored the baler. Others (left to right) are Don Morin, Harold Armbruster, Dennis Albright and Bob Swan. Morin, a truck driver from Minneapolis, Minn., heard about the event at a nearby truck stop, went out to see what was going on, and wound up working all day.

SOME RELAXED and enjoyed an old-fashioned wheat threshing bee using antique machines which attracted a large crowd of both participants and spectators to the Harold Armbruster farm on Marshall Rd. in Scio township last Saturday. Part of the crowd is shown enjoying refreshments on a hot afternoon.

Adopt-A-Cat Month Is Very Successful

Humane Society of Huron Valley has announced that cat and kitten adoptions for June were up 95% from last year at the same time. In fact, the Society's over-all adoption rate rose 30% higher than last year.

"Our adoption rate has climbed steadily over the last few years," reports shelter manager Steve Diuble, "but the dramatic increase in cat adoptions is thrilling!" Diuble attributes the increase to a number of factors: "The media coverage of Adopt-A-Cat month was very good. It helped to acquaint the public with the Humane Society as an adoption center and called attention to the staggering number of unwanted cats and kittens brought to our shelter each spring."

Adopt-A-Cat month, celebrated in June at humane societies nationwide, intentionally falls during the time of year when animal shelters are overcome by cats and kittens.

HSHV took in more than 400 cats and kittens in June, compared to 170 in January. Diuble adds, "I think a lot of people who were considering the addition of a cat to their family responded to the news of so many homeless cats by coming to the shelter to adopt. We also received help from local veterinarians whose clinics acted as satellite adoption centers during Adopt-A-Cat month. Each clinic 'fostered' shelter kittens and placed them with their regular clients who were looking for kittens."

In 1983, HSHV won a national award for their adoption program which focuses on owner education, resulting in more adoptions and fewer unsuccessful ones. "The goal of our adoption program," explains Diuble, is to place as many healthy and temperamentally sound animals as possible into homes where they will receive good and stable life-long care. I think we came as close as ever in meeting our goal during Adopt-A-Cat month, but I would hate to see the public forget about the Humane Society's adoption center during the remainder of the year. For someone looking for a pet, the Humane Society is an ideal place to start. We are open seven days a week; we have trained adoption counselors on hand to answer pet care questions and help adopters find the type of animal they are looking for; all animals are vaccinated, wormed, and given a thorough health examination when brought in. Upon adoption, all animals are fitted with a collar and tag and the adopter receives a coupon for a free examination by a private veterinarian. Many available pets come with detailed health and behavior histories, and a little known fact is that we receive a larger number of purebred dogs and cats. So regardless of the kind of pet you are looking for, it makes sense to look here first."

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is located on Cherry Hill Rd. east of Ann Arbor. Hours are 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week, phone is 662-5585.

Dixboro Festival Slated for July 20

The flavor of an old fashioned country fair is recreated annually at the Dixboro Festival held on the historic Village Green, three miles east of US-23 on Plymouth Rd., near Ann Arbor.

This year's fun-filled day is Saturday, July 20 and events are scheduled for all members of the family. The festival is sponsored by the Dixboro United Methodist church; the proceeds are designated for Christian humanitarian work outside the local church.

A 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) "Rural Run" and two-mile fun run, through the surrounding countryside, begin the day's activities at 8:15 a.m. Both races start near the Village Green and are open to men and women of all ages. Entrants may obtain a registration form by calling 313/761-2791 after 5 p.m. or by reporting to the check-in desk the day of the runs between 6:30 and 8 a.m.

At 1 p.m., an ice cream social and arts and crafts fair begin and assorted carnival game booths open for business.

Pieces of pies and cakes baked by church members will be served along with ice cream and various beverages. The arts and crafts fair includes more than 25 displays of hand-made items ranging from woven articles to decorative pieces fashioned from metal.

Perhaps the highlight of the day will be rides on a fully reconditioned 1920 Model T Ford antique fire truck and in a colorful wagon pulled by a team of prize-winning Belgian draft horses. The former is part of a collection of church member Max Marken and the latter are the prides of fellow church members Zina and Ola Boigios. Also, on display on the Green will be an extensive collection of antique bicycles owned by Gary Woodward (another church member) and fellow members of the famous Michigan Wheelmen.

The traditional barbecued chicken dinner, cooked by church members, will be served between 3 and 6 p.m. Each dinner includes half a chicken (quarter size for children), cole slaw, an ear of sweet corn (grown locally), roll and butter plus beverage.

Free parking is provided on the adjacent church grounds; there is no admission price to the Dixboro Festival.

For further information, call Kenn Scheffer, festival chairman, at 313/668-1450.

Colorful Events Scheduled in July

The State of Michigan can expect an exciting, colorful, and music-filled month of July. The numerous events around the state are sure to attract people with a variety of interests and tastes.

The 7th World Air Balloon Championship is coming to Battle Creek's W. K. Kellogg Regional Airport, July 13-21. Approximately 200 colorful balloons are expected to decorate the skies of Battle Creek. One hundred entries from 25 countries will fly in competition to determine the World Hot-Air Balloon Champion. The remaining 100 balloons, some of unique shapes and sizes, will fly as commercial entries, fiesta flyers, and as press balloons. Weather permitting, the balloons will join in mass ascensions each week-end during the event. They will also launch from the airport at approximately 6:30 a.m. and 6:30 p.m. each weekday.

Plenty of entertainment will be available on the ground in Battle Creek as well. There will be aircraft and antique auto displays, musical entertainment by local artists, bicycle races, a 10,000 meter run and a wide variety of souvenir and concession booths.

Music—specifically Jazz—will be the focus in Flint July 18-21. The annual "Celebration of Jazz in the City" will showcase the talents of nationally, regionally, and locally known Jazz artists. Spyro Gyra, the prominent Jazz fusion band, will visit Flint's Riverbank Park to perform a free concert July 18. The concert, part of the Michelob On Stage Downtown Series, will be from 7 to 9 p.m.

The Jazz festival officially begins the next day, Friday, July 19, at 4:30 p.m. A jazz cafe will open at that time and jazz performers from Southeastern Michigan will play Dixie, fusion, and modern jazz at the Water Street Pavilion Park near the banks of the Flint River downtown. The Jazz cafe will continue each afternoon and evening in this intimate Jazz nightclub format.

On Saturday evening, July 20, the Jazz Cafe will feature the big band sound as the band "Changes" performs the program, "Big Band Dance Under the Stars." On Sunday evening, the Jazz week-end will conclude with a performance by Jazz artist Leon Thomas. The full jazz lineup in Flint is free and open to the public.

Quail Hunting Closed for 1985

Michigan's quail hunting season is closed again this year because of depleted quail populations, the Natural Resources Commission reports.

Department of Natural Resources Wildlife Division officials say most of the decline in the number of Michigan's quail was caused by the same ice storm which devastated southern Michigan this past winter.

A new census of the birds must be taken before any areas in the state can be designated for hunting quail, they say.

Fall, 1977 was the last open season for quail hunting.

OUT IN THE OPEN

By BILL MULLENDORE

Cooking with wood appears to be a dying art, and that is too bad in a way because it is a significant facet of our American heritage. Go back about five generations, and all food was prepared in fireplaces stoked with wood, either indoors or outdoors. Our colonial progenitors ate very well, and many of the recipes they have handed down to us are still excellent.

About a century ago, the wood-burning kitchen stove was invented, and it served long and well. Some are still in use. Skillfully managed, they will cook anything at least as well as the most modern electric or gas range, and certainly better than anything a microwave oven can produce. (The microwave is an example of our modern times, technology and turn of mind. It works fast, but the result is inferior, and that is what we seem to be all too willing to settle for. Quickness is preferred over quality.)

Until about 60 years ago, all out-in-the-open cooking was done over wood fires, simply because there wasn't any other way to do it. If you went camping, you either cooked your food with wood or ate it raw. Charcoal is a fairly recent newcomer to the scene.

Cooking with wood is a lot of work. You have to gather or cut the wood, break it up or split it. That can be fun, a pleasant diversion, if done on an occasional recreational basis. It gets to be a chore after awhile. Early in life I was taught how to use an axe and a splitting wedge. I still know how and have the tools, but rarely use them.

One reason why cooking over an open wood fire is becoming a lost art is, simply, that opportunities to do it legally are fast shrinking. In most public campgrounds there is no natural wood available. You must either bring your own or buy it at an outrageous price. Very few private campgrounds allow open fires.

An off-shoot of the environmental protection movement has been prohibition of open fires on more and more public lands. Even a small cooking fire leaves a scar that takes awhile to heal. You can bury the ashes, but a visible bare spot remains. It takes a couple of years for natural cover to grow over it.

Where "down and dead" wood—the only kind that burns—is not readily available, some people try to substitute by cutting live branches and even whole trees. That is a self-defeating exercise if ever there was one. Live wood is extremely difficult to cut and split with small hand tools, and it won't burn.

I have known a couple of extremely good outdoor cooks who could perform magic with wood fires, and learned a few things from them.

Cooking fires should be kept small. You don't need or want a big fire fueled by large logs, the kind that you like to sit around and watch in the evening after dinner, a so-called camp fire. What you do want is a hot fire of small sticks which will quickly burn down to coals. Good outdoor cooks use coals, not flames. Coals can be controlled to produce even heat, flames can't be. Trying to cook over flames will almost always result in food that is burned on the outside and raw in the middle.

Another essential for successful cooking with wood is heavy-duty pots and pans made of cast iron. The flimsy aluminum utensils we use in our kitchens just plain won't work. They absorb heat too fast, and lose it just as quickly. A skilled camp cook can do wonders with a dutch oven, a frying pan and a kettle, all of cast iron. The heavier they are, the better.

Given a choice of just one, I would select the dutch oven. You can cook just about anything in it, and it works if you take the time and trouble. The procedure is simple.

First, dig a hole. It should be about 1 1/2 times as deep and 4-6 inches wider than the dutch oven. Build a hot fire on the ground next to the hole. Don't build it in the hole. A fire below ground-level doesn't get enough draft to burn well. Make sure the fire is big enough to provide an abundance of coals.

While the fire is burning down, put into the dutch oven the ingredients for the dish you want to make—soup, stew, pot roast, baked beans, whatever. When the coals are ready, shovel a couple of inches of them into the bottom of the hole, put the oven in the middle, shovel more coals around the sides and over the top, then cover the hole with dirt (and if you can find it). Obviously, the dutch oven should have a dirt-tight cover.

From there on it's easy. Just leave everything alone and don't worry about it. The food can sit there in the pit all day, if necessary, the longer the better. When dug up, it will be done, hot and tasty. The method works on the principle of the modern crock-pot, and the result is better. About the only mistake you can make is getting in a hurry and removing the dutch oven too soon. Two hours is minimal, 4-8 better.

For on-top-of-the-fire frying, broiling, boiling and baking, you need a grill of some sort that will hold whatever you are cooking, up off the coals. Setting a pan directly on the coals is asking to have its contents burned. A metal grill supported by mounded dirt, stones or even small logs is the easiest answer.

You can improvise a spit with a couple of forked sticks and a crossbar. Be sure the bar is long enough so you can grab one end and turn it without burning your fingers. Heavy gloves are useful in spit roasting. The turning need not be continuous, but it should be frequent.

If all that seems like a lot of effort, the truth is that it is. The reward is in the eating. Some trial and error, and educated guessing derived from experience, go into learning how to cook over a wood fire. Take it from one who has done some of it and has mastered the art to some degree, it can be fun, a different kind of out-in-the-open experience.

If you can find a legal place to do it and a source of good-burning dry wood, give it a try. You will be re-living a little bit of your ancestral legacy.

Correction

In the course of the news business, occasionally you have to depend on a particular source for information because it is the only place to get it. When that source lets you down, you feel silly.

That happened to us last week when we reported about a fatal swimming accident at St. Louis school. Two lifeguards at the school, Robert Wolfe and Carl Pate, should have been given credit for performing two-man cardio pulmonary resuscitation on the victim. Their efforts were initially successful at reviving the boy, who was taken to Chelsea Community Hospital, where his condition was stabilized. Unfortunately, the boy died of complications eight days later at Mott Children's Hospital.

Refugee Committee Will Sponsor Booth

The Refugee Sponsorship Core Committee will have a booth at Chelsea Sidewalk Days Friday and Saturday, Aug. 2-3.

"We will have silk and dried flowers, fresh carnations, white elephant items, balloons and baked goods," chairman Myra Colvin said. Donations of baked goods and white elephant items are welcome. They may be brought to the booth any time after 8 a.m. on the days of the sale or pick-up can be arranged by calling Mrs. Colvin at 475-2665.

Refugee sponsorship, under which refugees from other countries are helped to re-settle in the United States, was initiated in this area by Chelsea Church Women United. The program has since been broadened to include many other volunteers. ECU remains a sponsor. More volunteers are sought.

Children Invited to Biblical Marketplace

Chelsea children are invited to come to the grassy fields around St. Paul church on July 30-31 and Aug. 1 to participate in a Marketplace event depicting life in Biblical times.

Children will participate in crafts and occupations of Roman days, serving as apprentice metal-workers, brickmakers, jewelers, weavers and potters. They will be entertained by theater drama groups, singers, and story tellers.

They will have an opportunity to see for themselves what life was like during the days of Christ.

Purpose of the program is to acquaint children with their Christian heritage, and provide an experience of good summer fun that they won't forget for months to come.

The Marketplace opens at 9:30 a.m. and closes at 2:30 p.m. on each of the three days. There will be a Thursday evening picnic for children and their families to round out the adventure. A special program for pre-schoolers will run from 9:30 to 11:30 each day.

Registrations are due by July 22, and may be made at St. Paul (475-2545) or the United Methodist church (475-8119). Pre-registrations are required. Co-chairpersons are Sharon Seitz and Debbie Noye.

The fee is $5 per child, Kindergarten through 6th grades; $2.50 per child for pre-schoolers. Maximum family charge is $15. Children are asked to bring a sack lunch.

The Marketplace event is brought to Chelsea for the first time by three area churches: St. Paul United Church of Christ, the First United Methodist church, and the Congregational church.

All children, regardless of denomination, are welcome to join in the fun.

CARD OF THANKS

Judy, Tom, Jeff (in spirit) and I thank all of you wonderful people for spending an evening with us this past Friday. We also appreciate the notes and phone calls we have received since the announcement that I am pursuing a new and different type of challenge. Our five years with the Chelsea School District have been most enjoyable because they gave us the opportunity to work with some of the greatest and most loyal supporters of education and athletes. Your many hours of assistance to the school district are what helps to make an excellent well rounded education program. These efforts certainly made my job a pleasant one. I would be remiss if I didn't thank all of you wonderful businesspersons for your financial support that has been provided to the sports teams. Your efforts are appreciated by everyone associated with the athletic program of Chelsea. We certainly are making every effort to stay in Chelsea to continue to be a part of this great group of supporters. Again, thank you for making our last five years a rewarding experience.

Ron, Judy,
Tom and Jeff Nemeth.

★ Famine Funds Don't All Go to the Hungry

We've all heard about the tragic famine in Africa during the past couple of years and about U.S. shipments of grain and other food to the drought-stricken countries; but what few people know is that a good share of the tax money that pay for this relief does not go to feed starving people. It goes for subsidies to the U. S. shipping industries.

Under existing law, the Department of Agriculture has no choice. Cargo preference laws require that half of the tonnage of commodities shipped under the Food for Peace Program must be shipped in U. S. flag vessels that charge about $55 more to ship a metric ton of grain than competing foreign ships. Your tax money is used to pick up the difference in the freight cost. The cargo preference cost for a shipload of 30,000 metric tons is about $1.65 million.

For 1985 the "ocean freight differential" will cost taxpayers $155 million—about a tenth of the Food for Peace budget

If we must subsidize non-competitive, high-labor-cost U. S. shipping, why not do it through a direct appropriation, rather than subtracting it from funds that should be used to keep people from starving to death.

Big House Moved Tuesday

A house was moved about two blocks west on W. Middle St. yesterday from one village-owned lot to another, opening the way for expansion of the municipal parking lot located between the Harper Pontiac agency and Chelsea Glass Co.

The 2½-story frame building, which formerly served as a center for the Chelsea Senior Citizens, is owned by the village. Once in place and settled on its new foundation, it will be offered for sale.

The house has been rented since the Senior Citizens transferred their activity center to North school three years ago.

Expansion of the parking lot, which presently can handle about two dozen cars and is off-limits to trucks and vans because of its small size, is part of the plan to revitalize the downtown business district.

C. L. Davis & Son Co. of Owosso handled the house move. They began work last Friday and had the structure in the street early yesterday morning. A Davis worker called it "a big house, one of the largest we have moved."

The program will include "the most spectacular of the more than two million pictures of Earth taken from space, with full explanations," according to Jim Loudon, AstroFest director and staff astronomer at the U-M Exhibit Museum. "Most of the pictures, which range from Michigan to the Sahara to the Antarctic to newly discovered kinds of ocean-surface phenomena, have never before been publicly shown in Ann Arbor."

AstroFest is sponsored by the U-M's Exhibit Museum and Department of Aerospace Engineering.

Marijuana, Traffic Safety Studied in Driver Training

"Smoky Joe's Highride," a new program to educate 9th and 10th graders about marijuana and traffic safety will be presented to more than 100 schools this summer by AAA Michigan.

"The dangers of drinking and driving are well-documented but many soon-to-be drivers don't realize marijuana can bring the same results," said Robert V. Cullen, AAA Michigan Safety and Traffic manager. "This program is the first of its type in the state and a natural complement to current driver education."

The one-hour marijuana and driving awareness program consists of a 14-minute film, student pamphlet and a detailed teacher's guide. The program uses the example of a youth playing a video game under the influence of marijuana.

"This is a unique way of presenting this topic since the youths all know that skill and clear thinking are needed to play a video game," Cullen said. "The lessons compare playing a video game to driving a car and students see that both require coordination that comes with alertness."

Upon request, AAA safety education consultants will present the program to a driver education class and provide the teacher's materials and student books.

"The traffic and safety staff will present a demonstration program, then the local driver's education teachers will present it at subsequent sessions," Cullen said. The district also will have access to the film or video whenever needed.

The concept was developed as a Safety Research and Education Project of Teachers College Columbia University and the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety.

Co-Op Nursery School Finds Working Mothers Can't Volunteer Time

One of the prime reasons day care has become so big an industry in this country is the fact that there are often two working spouses in a family. So it was ironic that it also played an instrumental part in the closing of one of the area's longest-running institutions, the Chelsea Co-op Nursery. The nursery closed its doors May 24 after 28 years of operation in the Florence Howlett Memorial School at 11000 Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

"Being a co-op means that parents have to run the school, they serve on committees and take over certain jobs," said Donna Baird, a nursery board member. "We have the problem that now three families often have two working parents and they don't have the time to devote to a school. It's a lot to ask of them to work here."

As in all businesses, it all works out to a numbers game of sorts. According to Baird, the school "broke even with a struggle" last year with 27 children enrolled.

"In order to run it nicely, we needed 30 to 35 children enrolled," Baird said. "At the point we decided to close, we had five or six signed up, and another 11 were iffy. Part of the lack of enrollment was due to the community education program, which is much more centralized than we are."

The nursery could re-open sometime in the future if there is sufficient interest shown by the community, Baird said.

"We tried to check into grants to keep it open, but there just wasn't anything we could find. There were three mothers from the Dexter area who were very interested in keeping it open, but three mothers couldn't possibly do the work on their own. It was sad to see it close. We had done quite a bit of work on the building and it is in good condition."

The nursery still owns the building and for the time being has rented it to Karl and Teri Young, who plan to open a Montessori school in it this fall.

Area Car Insurance Rates May Decrease

Automobile owners in west Washtenaw county may see a drop of 10 percent or more in their insurance rates if a bill passed by the Legislature last week is signed into law.

There were indications, however, that Gov. Blanchard might veto the bill, which was passed over his objections.

The measure would allow insurance companies to raise rates in areas where auto thefts are high and increasing, while lowering them in low-theft areas.

According to an analysis made by the Automobile Club of Michigan, the state's largest car insurer, rates would rise by 9 percent in high-theft areas such as Detroit and Ypsilanti, and decline in places like west Washtenaw where thefts are low.

Insurance companies have claimed that ceilings on Detroit rates imposed by present law force out-state vehicle owners to pay higher rates than they otherwise would, a kind of subsidy. The new law, if enacted, would lift the Detroit ceiling.

Ag. Expo Offers Guides On Power Equipment

Selecting the right equipment for various farm jobs can help farmers increase production efficiency and keep costs down.

Farmers can make the equipment selection process more efficient, too, by attending Ag. Expo '85, the largest farm equipment show of its kind in Michigan.

The event, July 23-25 at Michigan State University, features 35 acres of farm equipment and displays. Visitors will be able to see just about every type of machinery and supply needed for efficient farm production.

William Bickert, MSU Co-operative Extension Service agricultural engineer and Ag. Expo '85 chairperson, says the machinery displays will represent almost every mechanized area in a typical farm operation. Examples include irrigation systems; field machinery; dairy equipment and supplies; livestock handling equipment; grain harvesting, handling and storage systems; sprayers; buildings; and seed and fertilizer supplies and services.

This complete machinery exhibition will allow farmers to see the latest machinery available on the market and enable them to compare systems," Bickert says.

The Ag. Expo '85 site is near the intersection of Farm Lane and Mt. Hope Rd., close to the central campus. Free shuttle buses will operate between the main exhibit site and field demonstrations that will be conducted during the three-day event.

Details of Ag. Expo '85 may be obtained from the county MSU Co-operative Extension Service office.

Two Slightly Hurt in M-52 Accident

Two area young persons were slightly injured last Thursday when the pick-up truck in which they were riding left the road and rolled over on M-52 just north of North Territorial Rd.

Treated at Chelsea Community Hospital and released were John J. Hoffman, 19, of 16496 Farnsworth Rd., Lyndon township.

Sheriff's deputy Lee Collier, who policed the accident, said the north-bound Toyota truck driven by Hoffman ran off the right shoulder of the road, veered back across the highway, hit a guard-rail, swung around, went into a ditch and rolled.

The accident occurred shortly after noon. The truck was severely damaged. The accident is still under investigation.

Pheasant Hunting Regulations Set For 1985 Season

The Michigan Natural Resources Commission has set pheasant hunting regulations for the 1985 season at a recent meeting.

In zone one, Michigan's Upper Peninsula, the season is Oct. 10-20, only in parts of Menominee county that are south of U. S. Highway 2 and parts of Delta county south and west of the Escanaba River.

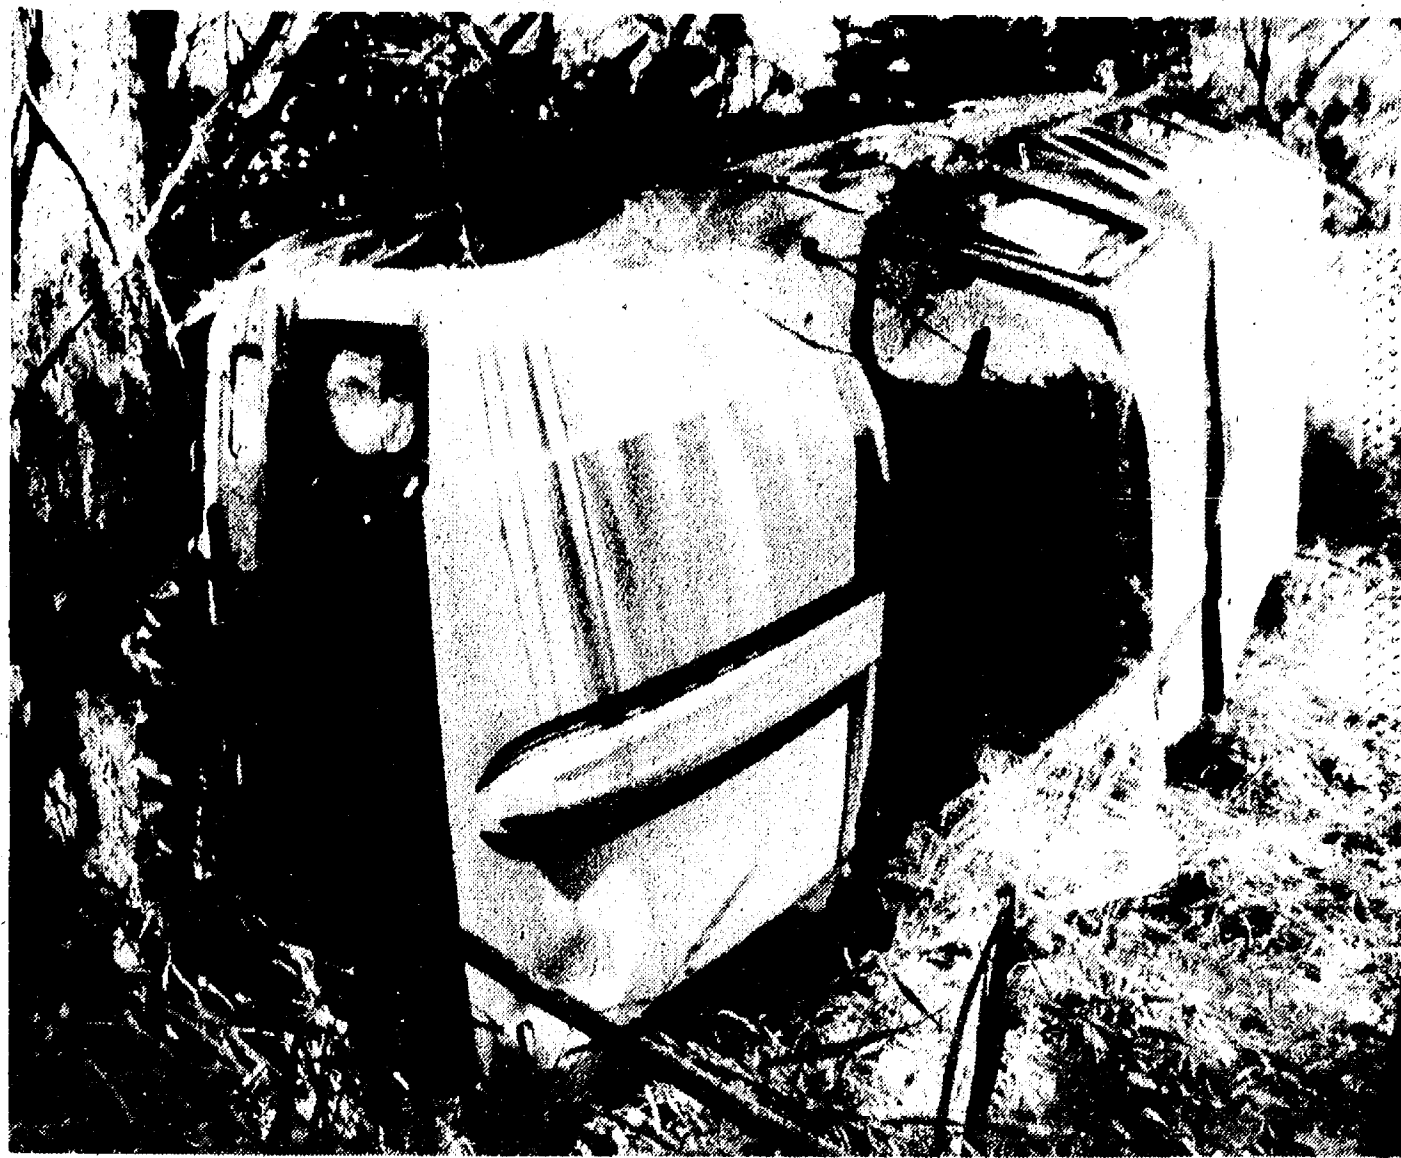

Bag limits in zone one are one male pheasant per day, two in possession, and one in possession on opening day.

The season for zones two and three, the Lower Peninsula, is Oct. 20 - Nov. 11. Bag limits are two male pheasants per day, four in possession, and two in possession on opening day.

Census reports show a "fair to good" count of the birds this year although the state's wild pheasant harvest remains on a downward trend.

The Department of Natural Resources sponsors pheasant chick rearing programs annually throughout the state to aid the bird's population growth in Michigan.

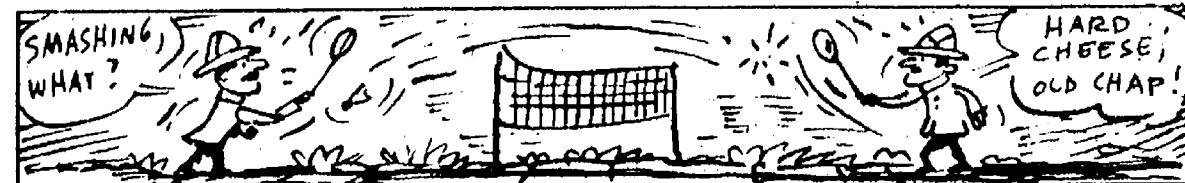

During fiscal 1984, the Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA) oversaw coal miners' safety and health at 1,904 underground mines, 2,092 surface mines, and 985 other surface facilities under the agency's jurisdiction, according to the U. S. Department of Labor's annual report for fiscal 1984. The report added that coal mine employment and production both were on the increase during the fiscal year.

DAMAGED PICK-UP TRUCK: Two persons riding in this pick-up truck were slightly injured in an accident last Thursday on M-52 near North Territorial Rd.

WHEAT UNLOADED: There was a long line of trucks late last Saturday waiting to unload freshly harvested wheat at Honneger's elevator on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. (top). Below, wheat pours through a floor grate at the elevator, later to be lifted into a storage silo.

AGRICULTURE IN ACTION

★ Attitudes On Agriculture

Recently the America's Governors, Inc., commissioned an extensive study on public attitudes toward agriculture and farms. The Gallup organization conducted 1,507 telephone interviews in a nationally representative sample.

The majority of Americans say that the days of the family-owned farm are numbered and were accurate in listing the problems facing farmers, including shortage of capital, inflated costs of production and low crop prices.

The public agrees that farming is an important industry, but one they would not choose for themselves or their children. Only 6% say it's the kind of work they would like to do.

About half of the people believe the government is not giving enough help to the farmer. Only 13% believe it's too much. A large majority believe that government farm programs only help big farms, not family-size farms, but a surprising 58% think that farmers would be more efficient if price supports were dropped.

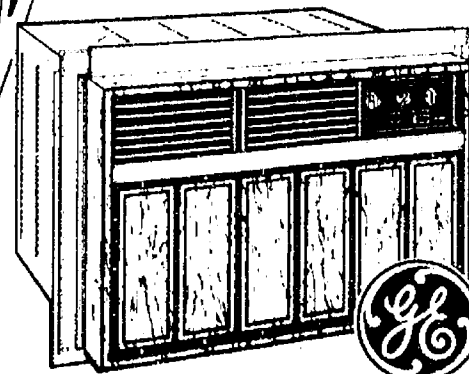

When asked who influences farm policy, most said Congress. Only 11% said it was farmers themselves. With Farm Bill '85 at stake this year, farmers would like to prove they've got more clout than that, but the way things have been going lately in Washington, they're beginning to wonder.
