I-94, he temporarily lost control of the 1975 Oldsmobile after trying to pass several vehicles and striking one of them, then went into the right median and traveled 400-500 feet along the grassy area before the car's right front tire dug into the dirt softened by Monday's rain. The momentum caused the vehicle to flip onto its roof and Neiman was thrown from the two-door vehicle to the center median of the road. Passersby helped removed him from the smashed car prior to the arrival of police, fire and ambulance crews

Two Thieves Break into Cavanaugh Lake Store Early Tuesday Morning

Thieves broke into the Cavanaugh Lake Store early Tuesday morning and made off with approximately $120.

The break-in occurred around 4 a.m., according to store manager Robert Mock. The store normally opens at 6 a.m.

Mock said the thieves apparently entered the store by breaking out the glass in the front door.

According to Mock, a witness to the incident said that two people were involved and has provided a description of the getaway car to police. No details were available at press time.

"We figured they were surprised by a motorist because they didn't even take all the money," Mock said. "There was no other damage and nothing else was taken."

Mock said he was notified of the break-in by an employee, who was an acquaintance of the witness to the crime. He also said that Chelsea police were notified by a Detroit News carrier.

The store is equipped with a silent alarm, which is monitored by a Jackson firm, who, in turn, notifies police.

Washtenaw county sheriff's deputies were on the scene and Chelsea police provided back-up support.

According to Mock, glass was replaced by 8:30 a.m. The store was open for business at its normal hour.

The store, at 163 Cavanaugh Lake Rd., is owned by Dr. James Shadoan. a former Chelsea resident who now lives in Illinois.

A robbery occurred at the store this summer, Mock said.

The new wing has a capacity for 110 patients, and 85 are living there now, 62 who were moved in from the nursing area, where renovation work is in progress, and 13 from the residential area. It has the latest in equipment, Durkin said.

Several new people have been hired in nursing, housekeeping and maintenance.

Durkin said the remainder of the home will undergo extensive renovation over the next few years, which will involve consolidating some smaller rooms.

The Chelsea building will become the new headquarters for the business, which employs 25 people. At 18,000 square feet, it is three times as large as the company's current facility.

"Right now we're bursting at the seams," Davidson said. "We've been in various buildings over the last eight years and we've outgrown every one of them. With this, I'm building something for the future. We plan to be in Chelsea permanently." Davidson said the company

Chelsea United Way has set a goal of $68,000 in donations for its 1985-86 fund drive.

The goal was announced at the annual kick-off dinner at the Chelsea Community Hospital on Wednesday, Sept. 25. The dinner is held for United Way volunteers.

The new Chelsea campaign is headed by Dave Prohaska and Lang Ramsay. Prohaska works at Gardenscape in Ann Arbor, while Ramsay is an associate broker with Thornton, Inc.

United Way president Dave McAllister acknowledged the presence of special guests, including Charles and Helen Lancaster, who were recently named honorary co-chairpersons in honor of their many years of outstanding community service. Wes McKenzie, executive direc-, tor of the Washtenaw county Red Cross, and Carol Makielski, the Red Cross' director of financial development were also acknowledged.

The Rev. Erwin Koch of St. Paul United Church of Christ gave the invocation.

The dinner for 60 was donated by the hospital.

A United Way film featuring country singer Loretta Lynn, "Memories," was shown.

The following chairpersons, according to McAllister, will coordinate the various campaign divisions: Dr. Michael Smith, professional; Lynda Longe, community organizations; Faye Frederick and Joanne Rowe, commercial; Janet Rossi, · schools; Cindy Harrison, hospital; Ramsay and Prohaska, industry; and Prohaska, residential mail campaign.

Existing Industries, Entrepreneurs Among Plans for Economic Future

A plan developed by a special governor's commission on the state's economic future stressed programs to aid existing industries and to promote entrepreneurial activity, but offered no specific proposals.

The plan was adopted recently by the Commission of Jobs and Economic Development, cochaired by Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca and former United Auto Workers President Doug Fraser.

"This strategic plan is an important step for Michigan. It provides a blueprint, developed by the private sector, for our continuing state government to secure a prosperous future," Governor James Blanchard said.

The commission plan outlines two objectives-providing the environment and support to enable existing industrial firms to modernize quickly enough to become fully competitive, and to provide a climate and promote a culture necessary to stimulate new entrepreneurial activity. Among the goals set by the commission include continuing to the year with a "play-in" at St. improve business climate to "full Paul's United Church of Christ on competitiveness," especially for advanced manufacturing which Students of Kevin Miller, Betty Rasmussen and Pat Stirling permay require further changes in formed various musical numbers health care and energy, and in workers' compensations and un-

Chelsea Student Has Role in NMU Fall Production

Tom Mull of Chelsea will have a part in the upcoming Northern Michigan University student production of "Dracula."

Mull, a sophomore majoring in theatre, will play the comical Butterworth, a burly attendant. He has had several parts in previous productions, including "Scrooge," "A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum" and "Fantasticks." He also has worked on costumes and props for "Elephant Man" and "School for Wives," among others.

He is the son of Betty Kay Mull, 333 Elm, Chelsea.

"Dracula" will run Oct. 2-5 at the Forest Roberts Theatre on campus, and is the university's opening production for the 1985-86 "Wide World of Theatre" season. The play was adapted for the stage by Hamilton Deane and John L. Balderston from the famous Bram Stoker novel.

Nominations Sought for ASC Committee Ballot

"Farmers are asked to nominate candidates of their choice by Oct. 28 to be on the ASC Community Committee ballot," says Lori Ruhlig, county executive director.

The ASC Community Committee election will be conducted from Nov. 22 to Dec. 2 by mail ballot. The 14 ASC communities in Washtenaw county are: Lyndon-Dexter, Salem-Superior, Lodi-Pittsfield, Northfield, Webster, Saline, Sylvan-Sharon, Freedom, York, Scio-Ann Arbor, Bridgewater, Ypsilanti-Augusta, Manchester, Lima.

The four ASC communities in Wayne county are: Northville-Canton-Plymouth-Dearborn-Nankin, Van Buren-Romulus-Taylor-Ecorse, Huron-Brownstown, Sumpter: ASC committees are responsible for managing federal farm programs on the local level. To meet the needs of individual producers, ASC committee members must be concerned and responsible individuals, Ruhlig said. Washtenaw-Wayne county farmers have the opportunity to nominate persons they feel would best serve the farm community. Farmers have received petition forms by mail and are now submitting them to the county ASCS office.

Making homes for wildlife-at home or work—is becoming very popular, according to International Wildlife magazine. For the first time, a homeowners association and a group of factory workers have won certification from the National Wildlife Federation's Backyard Wildlife Habitat Program. The Homeowners Association of Sugar Creek in Waco, Tex., has made a home for broad-winged hawks, armadillos and 25 species of butterflies. Near Buffalo, N. Y., 12 employees of the National Starch and Chemical Co. plant converted a fouracre tract into a model wildlife habitat.

Farmers should petition for and elect those individuals they feel would do a good job as a member of the ASC committee. The election of concerned farmers to positions on ASC committees is essential in the administration of farm programs. Ruhlig further explained that the county ASCS office welcomes all valid petitions. The opportunity to nominate, vote and be elected to office is guaranteed to all farmers regardless of race, religion, sex, age, color, handicap or national origin.

'Under 21' Added to New Drivers Licenses

Austin has announced that beginning Oct. 1, all new (first time) driver licenses and personal identification cards issued to individuals under 21 years of age, will carry the words "Under 21" above the photo. Austin said that a new law requires the Department of State to add the language to all new license and identification cards issued on or after Oct. 1.

The "Under 21" will enable restaurants, tavern owners and others to determine if an individual is under 21 at a glance without having to calculate from the birthdate shown on the license or identification card.

The change is part of an overall state effort to help identify and prevent individuals under 21 from purchasing alcoholic beverages, drinking and driving.

Currently, most driver licenses are valid for a four-year period; however. Austin said that all first time licenses issued beginning Oct. 1, will be valid until the individual's 21st birthday. Regardless of age, individuals under 21 obtaining a license for the first time must now renew at age 21.

Austin cautioned enforcement officials and others that it will reguire between four and five years before all driver licenses belong-

Thursday, Oct. 4, 1951-The Chelsea Rod and Gun club received title to a 60-acre tract of and last Saturday. The land is east of the Chelsea Greenhouses, and will be developed by the club

The title was turned over to Alvin Schiller, treasurer of the club, by Mrs. Elvira Visel, with Dr. L. J. Paul, Rod and Gun club president, and James Hendley present.

Dr. Paul said the 60-acre tract is to be developed into a forest or game refuge in accordance with recommendations which the State Conservation Department is expected to offer.

The club will arrive at a decision on the future use of the land at meetings held during the coming winter. The tract is rolling and hilly, and is unsuitable for farming.

The club's conservation project will make worthwhile use of the land. The greenhouse hill where youngsters of Chelsea have gone coasting in the winter for many years is part of the newly acquired property.

Donald Alber, civil defense director, has arranged to show the picture "Survival Under Atomic Attack" to the general public, Tuesday, Oct. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

The picture will be shown at the Municipal Building, and everyone in the community is urged to see the picture, Alber said.

Alber said he is planning the distribution of posters telling what to do in case of atomic attack, giving the air raid warning signal and other pertinent information.

He said Boy Scouts will deliver the posters and he suggests posting them in easily accessible spots where they can be studied frequently by all members of the family.

Dear Mr. Editor.

How horror stricken we all were and how filled with sympathy and a helpless feeling of not being able to do enough or be close enough to the people in Mexico, during and after the earthquake.

The media coverage helped us see but a small measure of what a total loss Mexico City was through the loss of people and material in buildings and property. We saw anquish everywhere. They told us upwards to 10,000 lives may have been lost. And the world heard and stopped to remember them, the lives taken by God—in thought and prayer and where it was possible by aid. Miracles too had brought joy for those searching the ruins, do you recall? The high emotion when the first newborn child was found in the rubble? A life. What jubilation. 10,000 lives lost can stop a world peoples in their tracks and make them take notice-yet 18,500 aborted fetuses found in a dumpster behind a lab in Los Angeles three and one-half years ago touched so few. Do you know, Mr. Editor, that there have been seven, that is 7, court rulings on whether or not these same babies formed by God should have a burial? Unbelievable. Los Angeles Superior Court Judge

Robert H. O'Brien has ruled, that the 16.500 abortion victims discovered in a huge dumpster in Los Angeles can be released for burial. O'Brien further ruled that the county can neither encourage nor discourage citizens from conducting a religious service for the dead babies.

So now, a national committee comprised of pro-life leaders, public and religious leaders and concerned citizens is being formed to sponsor a dignified funeral for aborted children.

American Committee for Loving and Unwanted (ACLU) is what they shall call themselves. This committee is working to find one person to stand in place at the funeral service for each victim because there will be no family members present to mourn the deceased. This burial service will take place in October. Mrs. Jean-

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara Chairman, Board of Trustees National Assoc. of Investors Corp. & Editor, Better Ervesting Magazine

Q. As i look at what has been happening to big segments of our industry, it looks to me like investing is getting to be very dangerous and the chance of losing your money is getting bigger every day. The steel industry seems to be losing ground every day. Autos have had a very nice recovery, but when you see how big a portion of the market is being taken by imports you wonder how long that will last. You just wonder what industry will be hit next. It seems like cash is the best place to put your money.

A. There has been a lot of talk that America is no longer competitive and that we are going to lose our manufacturing industry to oversees competition. But before you carry that thinking too far, it is important to look at the facts. Kenneth Brown at the American Enterprise Institute put together some figures that give us a good picture of what is happening. His figures show that our manufacturing industry is not only alive and healthy, but that it is doing very well. Going back to 1950, Brown shows that the amount of our total wealth that is produced by our manufacturing industries has not varied more than 1.4% from year to year. In fact over the past 35 years manufacturing has steadily produced between 23% and 24% of the nation's total wealth.

The fact that a particular industry is declining is nothing new. That is a process that goes on continually and one we hear a lot about because the affected unions, businesses and localities are generally very vocal. For example, we heard a lot about the weaving industry and shoe industry when production of these items moved overseas. Conversely, we don't hear a great deal about the new industries that come along and take the place of declining industries.

It is true that these changes cause losses to investors when businesses decline. But at the same time this is going on, there are many new opportunities building up that is where investors make new fortunes. I would not be concerned about opportunities to make money in investing in this county.

Brown points out one very important fact. He notes that the U.S. spends more on research than Japan, Britain, Germany and France combined. The payoff from that is likely to keep us in a good position for some period of time. At this time the U.S. has 36% of world computer markets. 31% of all aerospace and 30% of all office equipment exports.

Change goes on continually and what the investor must keep in mind is that there is both risk and opportunity in the equity market. The record of 100,000 plus investors in the National Association of Investors suggests that those who invest sensibly enjoy good deal of success.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investors' interest and whose questions are used, will receive a complimentary one year's subscription to the invest ment magazine Better Investing. New studies show that much of the produce imported into the U S. contains pesticide residues, reports International Wildlife magazine. One-fourth of all fruit consumed in the United States is grown on foreign soil, where many pesticides banned in the U. S.<sup>1</sup>are used. Only a tiny fraction of imported food shipments are inspected by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Even then, the FDA tests for fewer than half the pesticides which may be ap-

To the Editor.

I do not believe sanctions against South Africa will accomplish what our government hopes. Sanctions by the United States and disinvestment by American business will, in my judgment, eliminate all leverage we might have toward pressuring the Pretoria government to abolish apartheid as rapidly as politi-cally possible. Worse than that, the non-whites, in unison, advise that sanctions and disinvestment cause unemployment among poor blacks—which then causes starvation, violence and bloodshed-while doing little or nothing toward effecting governmental policy changes. One and a half million blacks from other countries like Mozambique, Lesotho, Swaziland, Zimbabwe, and Angola are now in South Africa (some illegally) in order to find work and support their families in their homelands. Disinvestment will eliminate these jobs for 1½ million aliens. Each of these workers provides food and clothing for six others. Millions would be hurt by disinvestment.

I believe the Communists are laying the ground work for the take-over of South Africa like they have in other countries. Our people have to speak out against the Communists or our own country may be threatened.

Textbooks may have been faulted unjustly during national discussions on school improvement, according to one education association leader. Nevertheless, they will see changes.

"Were it not for expertly prepared textbook material, things could be quite a bit worse than they are alleged to be," contends John Maxwell, executive director, National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE). He made his comments in a recent issue of the "Bulletin," a monthly journal published by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

Remembering his days as a school system supervisor, Maxwell saw a number of pluses for textbooks.

"I valued textbooks as a means of having some assurance of continuity of experience, of normal quality in instructional approaches, of cross-district scope and sequence, and of compensation for the irregular preparation of the teachers under my supervision," he recalled.

During the recent national focus on the quality of schools. Publishers find it difficult to meet textbooks have received their share of criticism. Some indicate they have been "dumbed down" while others clamor that certain large states which purchase great numbers of books have too much impact on what publishers decide to put in books sold to other states.

Maxwell predicts that the current attention will result in five structional program, choosing changes, including the elimination of some textbooks.

PARENTS AT NORTH AND SOUTH schools recently had a chance to meet Ruth Stielstra, right, co-ordinator of the Gifted/Talented program at those schools. In separate talks at each school, she explained how the program works and why parents should be excited about it.

Schools Adopt New Approach To Teaching Gifted Children

Chelsea School District has adopted a new approach to teaching gifted students in the elementary schools, under the guidance of Ruth Stielstra.

Called the Schoolaide Enrichment Triad Program, developed in 1977 by Dr. Joseph Renzulli and Dr. Sally Reis, the approach was field-tested in more than 40 pilot districts over a four-year period. According to Stielstra, it is one of the most popular approaches to "providing services to bright and able learners today.' "The Enrichment Triad Model, combined with the Revolving Door Identification Model, is a system for providing services to a broader segment of the school population than is normally served by traditional gifted programs," Stielstra said.

The foundation of the program emphasizes the inter-relationship of above average ability, creativity, and task commitment. It operates under the belief times, above average students sures the highest quality of studuring curriculum strength times, and the opportunity for any interested child to pursue advanced investigations," Stielstra said.

"It has been implemented in hundreds of districts across the country. Workshops, staff development, conferences and institutes help districts implement the program in a fashion that in-

Stielstra spent two weeks last summer at Confratute, the annual summer program at the University of Connecticut, in preparation for implementing the program in Chelsea.

Both North and South schools are interested in finding adults within the community who are willing to share their professional expertise, talents or interests with students. Those with a talent to share may contact either principal Bill Wescott at North school or Bob Benedict at South school. Question: I will be discharged from the army soon. I understand that I have re-employment rights to return to the job I held before entering the military. What are my rights?

Answer: Federal law does give re-employment rights to those who leave their jobs to serve in the Armed Forces. These rights apply to veterans returning from active duty, to members of reserve units returning from initial active duty for training and to those who leave their jobs to enter military service but are rejected.

To be entitled to reemployment rights, a veteran or reservist must: (1) leave a job with a private employer or the federal, state or local government; (2) satisfactorily complete active duty generally lasting no more than four years and for a possible maximum of five years; (3) be qualified for the job; and (4) apply for re-employment within 90 days after separation from active duty or from hospitalization continuing after separation for not more than one vear.

Reservists must apply within 31 days following their separation from the completion of initial active duty for training. Reservists released from annual training duty or week-end drill must apply for re-employment by the next regularly scheduled work period. Those awaiting induction into the Armed Forces or those rejected for duty are guaranteed a leave of absence for the entire induction process, including any examinations.

Veterans, reservists and those rejected for service generally #### have a right to return to the job $\Omega_{i}$ they left to enter the Armed Forces and are entitled to the same pay, benefits and status they would have had if they had not been away. Federal law also imposes an obligation on, employers to restore the jobs and benefits of former employees returning from military service.

Talent pool students are eligible for several types of "enrichment programs," some of which benefit the entire school or classroom and some which are designed specifically for each child's interests. Part of the pro-gram is aimed at identifying what a particular student's interest is, another part is aimed at encouraging the development of that interest. They involve teaching critical and creative thinking skills, and problem-solving and decision-making abilities. Specifically, the program has "Type I, II, and III" enrichment programs. The criteria and programs for each level are spelled out in detail, ranging from assembly programs for the whole school to detailed investigations of particular subjects. The advanced levels of the program are designed to expose the child to practicing professionals in his or her area of interest. Also encouraged is the making of "celebration products," ways in which the child can share an interest with peers and members of the community. One of the goals is to teach self-directed learning skills and commitment to completing tasks. "The Triad program was

Reduced Waterfowl Count Shortens Season

Drought conditions coupled with extensive agricultural development in duck breeding areas and subsequent reduced duck production were factors prompting a shortened state-wide Oct. 5-Nov. 13 duck season in Michigan this year.

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) waterfowl spegialist Jerry Martz reports the estimated fall (1985) flight of ducks, 62 million birds, as the lowest since U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS) surveys were established in 1955. Last year's fall flight was 80 million. The decision by the USFWS to delay the season opening date game despite protests by Michian's DNR and other northern states. Michigan had hoped to open the Upper Peninsula duck season on Sept. 28 when warmer temperatures prevailed and ducks were still abundant.

Reduced duck figures also prompted the USFWS to reduce aily bag limits in Michigan and the other states in the nation. Michigan hunters will be able to harvest a maximum of five ducks within the 100 point daily limit. Female mallards have been increased from 70 to 100 points. male mallards from 25 to 35 points and pintails from 10 to 35 points. All ducks previously set at 25 points have been increased to 35 points; those at 10 points increased to 20 points.

The shortened seasons and increase in point values are designed particularly to reduce the harvest of mallards and pintails across the U.S. by 25%. Breeding populations of both species were the lowest ever recorded this past spring; mallards at 5.4 million and pintails at 2.9 million. Both species had populations as high as 10 million in the mid-1950's.

An addition to Michigan's 1985 duck hunting season is a special 16-day scaup-only duck hunt from Nov. 16 through Dec. 1, Five scaup daily will be allowed from four areas on the Great Lakes and 33 inland lakes. These areas are listed in the waterfowl hunting guide.

In order to hunt migratory waterfowl in Michigan, hunters are required to have a small game hunting license or sportsman's license ($7.25 resident/ $31.25 non-resident); a federal duck stamp, 16 years or older ($7.50); a Michigan waterfowl stamp, 12 years and older ($3.75) and if hunting in the southern Lower Peninsula, a Public Access Stamp ($1.10). Shooting hours will be one-half hour before sunrise to sunset, local time.

Information on state hunting zones and special hunting areas for ducks, geese, and scaup are listed in the waterfowl hunting' guide. Guides should be available at all DNR Offices and license agents by Sept. 15.

Lancaster is the author of several books and has broadcast for many years on radio and television in England. The interesting and educational exhibit in the lobby of the Matthaei Botanical Gardens through Oct. 20 will be a display of Bonsai.

Come to the Gardens and tour the conservatory or walk the outdoor trails. The outdoor trails and lobby exhibit are free. For the conservatory there is a fee of $1, Senior Citizens 75°, and children 50°.

Major Changes Noted in Bear Hunt Regulations

Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Wildlife Division remind hunters to note major changes in this year's bear season regulations.

The Natural Resources Commission approved a shorter season this year until more precise data on Michigan's existing bear population could be gathered. The bear season for the Upper Peninsula (Zone 1) will run from Sept. 10-Oct. 31 (Drummond and Bois Blanc Islands closed). No bear may be taken in the U.P. during the Nov. 15-30 firearm deer season, as previously allowed.

Hunting of bear in certain counties of the northern Lower Peninsula (Zone 2) will run from Sept. 10-16. Counties include: Alcona, Alpena, Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Crawford, Emmet, Iosco, Kalkaska, Missaukee, Montmorency, Ogemaw, Oscoda, Presque Isle, Roscommon. A special bow season will be offered in Zone 2 from Oct. 1-7.

Dogs with a permit, gun or bow are allowed in both the U.P. and northern Lower Peninsula: however, no guns or dogs may be used during the Oct. 1-7 bow season in Zone 2. The dog permit is free and may be obtained from most DNR District Offices or from DNR Information Services Center, 7th floor Mason Bldg., Lansing 48909/517-373-1220.

First time baiting limitations were implemented this year mainly to reduce commercialization of bait use, aid in litter control and to minimize conflict between bait and dog hunters. Bait may now be placed only on the ground and no containers may be left in the woods. Bait placement was restricted this year to Aug. 27-Oct. 31 in the U.P. and Aug. 27 to Oct. 7 in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Another change in the 1985 bear season requires a hunter to register a bear at a DNR Field Office within 72 hours after killing the animal (head with validation tag is sufficient). A sevenday period was previously allowed. This decision was made to encourage registration of all bears. Non-resident bear licenses ($100.25), limited this year to 875 persons, are available now only through DNR License Control Office, 6th floor Mason Bldg., Box 30028, Lansing 48909/517-373-1204. At this date, nearly 75 licenses remain to be sold.

Michigan residents 14 years and older may obtain bear licenses ($11.25) from Michigan license dealers, DNR Regional, District, Field offices and at DNR's Information Services Center in Lansing. The bag limit for the 1985 bear season still remains at one bear per calendar year.

Bew Hunting from Trees Becomes Popular

As the Oct. 1 starting date of Michigan's archery deer season pproaches, thousands of bow unters across Michigan are not inly sharpening their "stick and string" hunting skills, they're also practicing the art of tree limbing in preparation for a opular approach to the sport: bow hunting from trees.

Three distinct types of tree-top unting perches have emerged ince the technique was legalized by the Department of Natural Resources Commission in 1976, according to Jack Van Riper, a veteran Michigan bow hunter. He contends that while each type offers pluses and minuses, hunters will be most successful if they vary their technique and approach.

Van Riper says the most basic and most productive of the tree hunting stands is the simple barelimb perch.

To employ this technique, hunt-

The bare-limb approach offers several advantages: it requires no preparation or setup, it offers the best visibility and it allows the hunter to blend well into the Van Riper, writing in the October issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors, the magazine of the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), contends that while bare-limb perches offer good cover and require little preparation, they are not popular with veteran bow hunters.

"It is an unassailable fact that the less you do to disturb the woods, the better are your chances of success," Van Riper says. "It is also true that the older you get, the less you will use the bare-limb approach."

gaining in popularity with hunters, according to Van Riper, is the basic tree stand. There are two types: portable and fixed. Each offers advantages and drawbacks that should be carefully considered by bow hunters. Manufactured, portable tree stands can be as effective as the primitive bare-limb style but somewhat more limiting, Van Riper notes, since hunters must carry them from tree to tree. Standard, three-board, fixed perches, while offering excellent stability and visibility, tend to remain a part of the landscape and sensitize deer to the hunter's presence.

A second type of tree perch,

The third distinct type of tree perch is what Van Riper labels the "penthouse," some of which come equipped with windows, chairs and heaters.

"As the bare limb is to the young hunter, so is the penthouse to the older hunter," Van Riper notes. "It is the lap of luxury, the home away from home."

It is also a permanent structure, Van Riper points out, and, if left to stand over a number of seasons, the area surrounding the "cabin in the sky" will be avoided by deer.

Although all three types of tree perches can yield adequate results, the key to consistent success is to employ what Van Riper calls the "four by four attack."

Under Van Riper's four by four attack strategy, hunters pick four separate stand locations in a hunting area and then select the best location of the four. Using the bare limb approach or a small, portable tree stand, he suggests setting up in the optimum location, making sure not to disturb the surrounding landscape. He says after four days of use, hunters should remove the stand and move to the next best location they have selected.

Van Riper says tree-top bow hunters who have faced disappointment in the past should try this new technique.

"So if you're in a rut like I am,

Chelsea varsity football team's loss to the Lincoln Railsplitters last Friday, 28-14, was a victory of sorts to Bulldog coach Gene LaFave. On Monday he sounded like a coach who had won the game.

"I think you're going to see us. play solid football from now on," LaFave said. "We're real close to where we want to be."

The reason for the coach's optimism is the fact that the Bulldogs could have, and should have, won last Friday's game. His team had its best defensive game of the season, yielding only 208 yards and shutting out the Railsplitters in the second half. The offense moved the ball well at times.

Chelsea, again, was its own worst enemy. Lincoln had three touchdowns in the last four minutes of the first half, one the courtesy of a Bulldog fumble, another set up by a blocked punt. The other touchdown, the first in that series of three, was a legitimate bomb. Chelsea defenders were beaten down the middle of the field on a 74-yard play. It was the only major defensive breakdown of the night.

"We made two changes on defense, which turned out to be a godsend," LaFave said.

"Lincoln's a much quicker team than Milan, but they couldn't get outside like Milan did. Marty Poljan at outside linebacker did an excellent job, and Andy Box at defensive tackle had a good game.

Mull the opportunity to show off his pass catching talent-11 catches for 148 yards.

For future games, Mull will probably line up as a flanker.

Running back Curtis Heard also had a "solid performance," according to LaFave. The junior ran for 64 yards on 19 carries, but would easily have had 100 more if the Buildogs' hadn't needed to pass so much the second half.

Chelsea's total offense came to 250 yards, one of the lowest totals of the season, Quarterback Dan Bellus completed 12 of 33 attempts for 162 yards. Bellus and Joe Easta ran for 12 yards each.

Chelsea was the victim of bad field position in the first quarter. Their first drive began at the Bulldog seven-yard line. It ended at their 16 when the punt snap was dropped. However, four plays later, a Lincoln field goal attempt sailed to the right. After a punt on the next series by the Bulldogs and a fumble by the Railsplitters, Chelsea had the ball at its five-yard line.

Again, Chelsea couldn't move the ball and their punt, and subsequent Lincoln run back, put the ball at the Bulldog 10-yard line.

The Railsplitters scored on the next play to take an early 6-0 lead.

But the Bulldogs came right back with a 12-play, 79-yard scoring drive on three passes to Mull and seven runs by Heard, the touchdown being scored by Heard on a two-yard plunge with 4:43 left in the first half. On the first play after the kickoff, the Railsplitters connected on the bomb from Jeff Sloan to tight end Mike Rhodes. It was downhill the rest of the first half. The second half began with Chelsea's final score of the game, on a 56-yard drive. Bellus connected to Mull four times during the drive, the final a spectacular diving, 15-yard catch on the right side of the end zone.

From there on it was a defensive struggle for both teams. This week the Bulldogs take a break from SEC action and travel to Jackson County Western. There, they'll see a team running a triple option or wishbone offense, something the Bulldogs are not accustomed to.

"We are very capable of defending against Jackson's of-Chelsea Bulldog freshman football team upended the Tecumseh Indians last Monday Sept. 23, 30-0.

All points were scored in the first half.

Rex Marsh scored the first touchdown on a seven-yard run. A pass from Larry Nix to Dave Zerkel made the score 8-0.

The Bulldogs scored on their next possession, on a dive by Chris MacKinder. Loren Keezer ran for the two-point conversion, which made the score 16-0.

Nix connected with Adam Heeter on an eight-yard scoring pass and Marsh ran for the extra two points.

Finally, Marsh scored his second touchdown late in the half on an 11-yard run.

"We had quite a few outstanding players in the game, the said coach Jim Tallman.

Chelsea golfers finished second in a match with Tecumseh and Lincoln, Wednesday, Sept. 25, but had their worst outing of the season the next day and finished third against Dextermand Tecumseh.

Leading Chelsea golfer was Jon Lane, who shot a 40. Behind

"If the game had been 6-6 at half-time, like it should have been, we're confident we would have won the game. When you get behind 28-6, you have to throw the ball more. We had 11 passes in the first half, and 22 in the second. Our two scores were on good, solid drives."

Poljan led the team in tackles with 13, linebacker Mark Mull followed with nine and Box had seven. Their efforts were the key to limiting the Railsplitters to a meager 50 yards rushing.

Offensively, Chelsea had another solid performance from Mull, the senior running-backturned-flanker. He was even busier than usual because split end Todd Starkey was double teamed all night long. For the first time in recent memory, Starkey didn't catch a pass, but it wasn't for the lack of trying. The double teaming on Starkey gave

Dexter Wins 2nd SEC Game To Stay in Race With Saline

Dexter Dreadnaughts stayed hot on the heels of the Saline Hornets for the Southeastern Conference lead by shutting out the Milan Big Reds in Milan, 10-0.

It was the second consecutive outstanding defensive game for coach Rich Grannis' surprising team. Last week the Dreadnaughts shut out the Pinckney Pirates, 3-0. Dexter has an even 2-2 record on the season, the two losses coming against nonconference teams.

Dexter got another long field goal, of 22 yards, from the previous week's hero, Paul Becker. Also, Charlie Walters at end is proving himself to be one of the best in the conference. He and quarterback Kyle Menard connected on a 46-yard pass play in the third quarter.

Defensively, Menard and Doug Gibson each had clutch interceptions.

The Dreadnaught defense will get its sternest test of the season SEC play this week when they host the Lincoln Railsplitters.

Lincoln, which beat the Chelsea Bulldogs last week, 28-14 in Chelsea, is a quick, explosive team. Also, like Dexter, Lincoln is one-half game behind Saline with a perfect 2-0 record. Both teams realize it is a crucial game. Both teams also have yet to play Saline.

It could be a real shoot-out. As mentioned, Lincoln pummeled the Chelsea Bulldogs last Friday. The season, which looked so promising for the Bulldogs at the outset, is turning into an SEC embarrassment. Chelsea is sitting in the basement with Pinckney, both with 0-3 marks, just behind Tecumseh at 0-2. Despite the score, the Lincoln team was not especially dominant. The Railsplitters scored three touchdowns in the last few minutes of the first half, only one of them a legitimate "offensive" touchdown. Chelsea fumbled once deep in its own territory, and had a punt blocked in about the same spot. The Chelsea defense shut out Lincoln in the second half. But coach Gene LaFave's offense could never quite get on track. Chelsea gets a respite from SEC play this week with a game at Jackson County Western. Saline appears to be the team to beat once again. The Hornets improved to 3-0 by trouncing the Pinckney Pirates, 28-6.

Once again Saline quarterback Grant Fanning had another superb game, passing for two touchdowns and running for another.

The Hornets were the beneficiaries of three crucial mistakes by the Pirates, which all turned into touchdowns-two fumbles and a short punt.

The Hornet defense has now given up only six points total in its three SEC games. That's the kind of play that championships are made of. Just ask Bo Schembechler.

The next victim for the Hornets is Milan. If the Big Reds thought Dexter was tough this week, wait 'til they slug it out with the Hornets.

The Tecumseh Indians picked up their first win of the season,

Beach 7th Grade Girl Cagers Win Over Dexter, 36-15

Beach Middle school seventh grade girls basketball team opened the season with a 36-15 win over Wylie Middle school of Dexter, Sept. 23, before losing to Tecumseh, 27-26, Sept. 25 In the Dexter game, the Beach girls jumped out to a 12-2 lead at the end of the first quarter and increased their lead throughout the game.

Leading scorers for Chelsea were Kristen Bohlender with 10 points. Carrie Flintoft, six points, him were Rob Murrell, 44, Tom Roth, 46, and Matt Doan and Greg Boughton at 47.

"I don't know exactly what, happened the next day," said Buildog coach Loren Winn. "Even our junior varsity beat the varsity by almost 30 strokes."

Lane again led the Chelsea varsity, this time with a 47.

The junior varsity also competed in this second match and shot a 172. The Dexter JV shot 192. Tecumseh's JV score, which was higher than Dexter's, wa not known.

In that match, Bill Sober shot a 42, Doan shot a 44, and Mike Mitchell finished at 47.

The Bulldog varsity now has a 4-5 record, while the JV is 9-1 on the season.

CURTIS HEARD plunges two yards for a Chelsea score. The touchdown tied the game early in the first half. Heard had "a solid performance," in the words of coach Gene LaFave, rushing for 64 yards. Unfortunately, Chelsea lost the game, 28-14.

Varsity Cagers Drop Both Games Last Week

Chelsea varsity girls basketball team dropped both its games last week, 39-17 to Jackson Northwest and 38-36 to Milan.

The Bulldogs simply couldn't get a shot to drop against Northwest. They managed only three field goals in the entire game on 32 attempts, for a dismal nine percent performance.

"You'd think by accident that more than three shots would go in." said coach Jim Winter. Northwest, on the other hand, was busy sinking 17 of 34 attempts from the field. "Northwest is a good team, quarter comeback after trailing 29-19 at the end of the third quarter, but just fell short. The surge was aided in part by the fouling out of Rhonda Bates, Milan's high scoring forward.

"I won't say we should have won, but we had our chances," Winter said.

"With Rhonda out we thought we could match up real well. It was 35-26 when she fouled out."

Cattell again led all Bulldog scorers with 15 points. Trisha Mattoff added nine points and six rebounds, Zerkel had seven

Why is it that high school girls sports, at least in this part of the country, seem to get a raw deal when it comes to scheduling?

Take a look at the fall line-up, for example. The girls have to play tennis, which is traditionally a spring sport. They also compete in swimming, traditionally a winter sport in most of the rest of the country. And, what makes absolutely no sense at all to me is, girls have to play basketball in the fall. Even Dr. Naismith would cringe at the thought.

When I was covering high school sports in Georgia, somehow they managed to have boys and girls basketball in the same season. They had the same number of basketball floors, one, and they had both varsity and junior varsity teams. Somehow they managed. What was even more impressive is that they all played their games on the same night, JV girls, followed by JV boys, etc. The JV games began about 4 p.m. and, believe it or not, the night ended at a reasonable hour. It also made for a good evening's entertainment to have two varsity games, back-to-back.

I'm told by Chelsea girls coach Jim Winter that the majority of coaches like having the sport in the fall. He also says his girls like it that way, too.

Speaking strictly as a basketball fan, I'd much rather see the sport in the winter. I'm personally too pre-occupied with football, and the end of baseball. Few people I know say, "If this is fall, it must be girls basketball season." People's minds just aren't on the game. I'd bet the crowds for girls basketball would be a lot larger if the games were played in the winter. It's just a hunch.

By the way, if you're a basketball fan but have never seen a girls game, you owe it to yourself to take one in. A girls game has to be judged on its own merits. Don't go if you expect to see Magica Johnson battle Isabelle Thomas. Their brand of basketball isn't the same, but it's exciting nonetheless. The girls have made great strides in the last dozen years or so, mostly because girls are playing basketball earlier in their lives and developing the skills. It takes years of practice for most people, of either sex, to learn to dribble a basketball decently.

Dexter fans ought to go watch Sherrill Bell play. I've never seen her in a game, but I've seen her in practice-and she has the moves, believe me. She's strong, quick, and has a pretty good outside shot.

I've gotten off on a tangent. I guess the point is, wouldn't it be interesting if boys teams in a traditional sport were forced to play in a nontraditional season. For example, supposed the Michigan High School Association decided that girls softball programs needed more fields, so the only logical choice is to make baseball a fall sport. Imagine the furor. Many boys would have to make a choice between sports they love. There would be no more three-letter winners in the classic sports triad-football, basketball and baseball.

Girls sports programs have gained a lot since I was in high school. There is every effort to provide good coaching, high quality equipment, and the intangibles for a good program. But if girls sports are ever to gain a measure of equality, they are going to have to be treated as more than an after thought. It seems as though the thinking has been, "All right, we have this new girls sport, how can we fit it in with a minimal amount of fuss," rather than, "all right, we have this new girls sport, when SHOULD IT BE PLAYED." It's a subtle difference, but it illustrates the gist of the what the feminist movement is all about.

Leading the Bulldog scorers was Jennifer Cattell with seven points. Trisha Mattoff followed with four, Mary Lazarz and Cris Zerkel had two each, and Pam Brown and Kim Ferry had one

JV Cagers Split Two Close Games

Chelsea girls junior varsity basketball team split a pair of close games last week, losing 26-24 to Jackson Northwest, but rebounding for a 26-23 win over Milan in the first Southeastern Conference match-up of the season.

The week before, the JV squad won a pair of games, 54-12 over Grass Lake, and 37-34 over' Gabriel Richard.

In last week's game with Northwest, the Bulldogs were the victims of their own mistakes, committing 31 turnovers. They also shot poorly from the field, hitting only 20 percent.

Laura Torres and Heather Neibauer each had seven points to lead Chelsea scorers. Shannon Dunn led the team in rebounds with 15.

In the match-up with Milan, the Bulldogs won despite another poor shooting performance, according to coach Paul Terpstra. The decisive point in the game came with 20 seconds to go. Kim Easton sank two clutch free throws to seal the win.

Easton and Neibauer led the team in scoring with eight points each. Peggy Hammerschmidt and Dunn had six rebounds each. Dunn also added six steals.

"We need to get our offense going again, especially as we head points and seven rebounds, Ferry had three points and Karen Wever had two.

The Bulldogs were plagued by poor shooting once again, hitting only 15 of 47 tries and only six of 18 from the free throw line.

"If we had shot 50 percent from the line, we would have won the game. It was a real physical contest," Winter said.

into the conference schedule," Terpstra said.

In the previous week's play, Chelsea simply overwhelmed Grass Lake. The Bulldogs led 26-4 at half-time and 49-4 after three quarters. Defensively, Chelsea had 23 steals.

"It was good to give everyone a chance to play," Terpstra said. Easton led the scoring barrage with 14 points, while Torres and Leah Enderle scored nine and eight points, respectively.

Gabriel Richard was an undefeated team until they met the Bulldogs, and Chelsea played a "good, consistent game," according to Terpstra.

The Bulldogs won the game from the free throw line, making 19 of 29 attempts, good for more than half their points.

Enderle led all scorers with 19 points, while Neibauer and Hammerschmidt each scored six.

Chelsea also played aggressive defense, which culminated in 23 steals.

The girls' next game is this Saturday at Brooklyn Columbia Central at 5 p.m.

I think the high school association made a mistake by forcing girls in basketball, tennis and swimming to play in the fall.

Off the soap box. On to football.

It's unfortunate for Bulldoa fans that the highlight of the Lincoln adme last friday came even before the teams ran on to the field,

The University of Maryland marching band put on a rousing 15-minute performance for an appreciative audience immediately before the game. As good as Chelsea's band is, it had to be inspiring to the young musicians to see just how good they can become some day. Dexter's band will have the same opportunity this week during homecoming festivities when the University of Wisconsin band makes a visit.

I found out that there is a Terrapin mascot, but that the boy in the turtle suit is not required to join the band on their forays to local high schools. Oh well.

As far as the game itself, goes, I've never seen a high school team self-destruct as quickly as the Bulldogs did. Basic mistakes did the trick-two scores off a blocked punt and a fumble. Without those two plays, the story would have been different.

It was a game Chelsea could have won. The defense shut down the Railsplitters in the second half, which is no easy task. On the Bulldogs' first drive of the second half, the offense looked like the team we all expected at the beginning of the year. Oh well.

I've figured out, though, how Chelsea can win every game the rest of the year, no sweat. There was a guy sitting in front of me who I'll call Larry the Screamer. Every time the ball was snapped Larry the Screamer would yell, "draw, draw," or "pass, pass," and sure enough, he was right, every single time. I propose that the defensive captain tell his teammates, "wait 'til that guy up in the second row tells us what's happening, then make your move." Larry the Screamer hasn't been wrong yet.

The Dreadnaughts will need a little more offensive firepower if they entertain any championship thoughts. Granted, the defense has played superbly in shutting out two consecutive opponents, but Dexter has yet to play Saline and Lincoln, the class of the conference. This Friday's game with the Railsplitters should reveal Dexter's vulnerabilities. I don't think the Dreadnaughts can shut them down completely.

Finally, the Quote of the Week comes from Chelsea girls basketball coach Jim Winter on his team's nine percent shooting performance (3-32) against Jackson Northwest: "You'd think by accident that we'd make more than three shots."

JV Gridders Throttle Lincoln With Defense

The Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity football team played a nearly flawless defensive game last Thursday, Sept. 25, in a 38-12 whipping of the Lincoln Railsplitters in Ypsilanti.

The Bulldogs also rolled up 445 yards total offense and had two 100-yard plus performances from Rob Finch and Junior Morseau. Finch rushed for 146 vards on 23 carries, Morseau 123 yards on 19 - It stayed that way until the third carries.

"The difference between last week and this week was we didn't have a lot of confusion and mistakes," said coach Jim Ticknor.

"It looked like it was going to, start out that way when we fumbled their first punt. But we held them in four plays, which set the tone of the game. We played excellent defense.'

Junior Morseau is quickly making a name for himself for his skills other than running. The freshman was five-for-five in extra point tries, and also muscled a 33-yard field goal late in the game that Ticknor said probably would have been good from 40 vards.

After stopping the Railsplitters on their second possession, Chelsea mounted a nine-play, ball control drive, culminating in a one-yard touchdown run by Rob Finch, his first of two scores on the night. A 28-yard pass play from Kevan Flanigan to Clay Hurd helped set up the score.

After a Lincoln touchdown put the score at 7-6. Chelsea scored on a four-play drive, highlighted by a 55-yard jaunt by Finch that was set up on "a perfect block by Jordan Gray," the Bulldog flanker, Ticknor said.

The second quarter began the same way the first one did, with the Buildogs stopping a Lincoln drive dead in it tracks. The Chelsea offense responded with a 62-yard, 14-play scoring drive, with Morseau scampering in from 10 yards out. That made the score, with the extra point, 21-6. quarter.

Chelsea took the second half kickoff, but neither team was able to move the ball during their first two drives. With 30 seconds left in the period, Flanigan hit Hurd with a 21-yard touchdown pass.

Lincoln scored early in the final quarter, to cut the Buildog lead to 28-12.

Chelsea's final touchdown came on an eight-yard run by Shawn Brown, capping a 65-yard drive.

Morseau added his field goal late in the game. Ticknor said there was no attempt to run up the score and that the Lincoln coach understood it was mostly "to let the kids have a chance to see what it's like to kick a field goal."

The key to the defense, Ticknor said, was the play of cornerbacks Chris Acree and Clay Hurd.

"It was the best cornerback play I've ever seen in a JV game," Ticknor said.

Other defensive standouts were Brown, at middle linebacker, with 11 tackles, and Finch, at strong safety, with seven tackles. The Bulldogs play Jackson County Western next Thursday at 7 p.m. on the home field.

Gridders of the Week

GRIDDERS OF THE WEEK are senior cocaptains Mark Mull, left, and Dan Bellus. Mark, the son of Dennis and Betty Mull, has proven himself to be a strong, versatile player both on offense and defense. He caught 11 passes good for 148 yards last week against Lincoln. He's played tight end and running back on offense, and linebacker on defense. Mark, who is also one of the mainstays on the Bulldog baseball team, hopes to study business administration in college next year, and perhaps have the opportunity to play football or basketball. Dan is last year's all-SEC quarterback and the son of Mark and Melissa Bellus. He has one of the strongest and most accurate arms in the league and is a proven team leader. Like Mark, he's one of Chelsea's top baseball players. College is in his future, and he hopes to become a pilot one day.

Strong Fall Salmon Season Expected on Great Lakes

The late summer and early fall chinook and coho runs in the Great Lakes should be strong and only slightly below the outstanding 1984 salmon fishing season, reports AAA Michigan.

Adding excitement to this Chelsea Bulldog girls swam give some of the younger swimyear's salmon hunt is the oddyear run of 3- to 4-pound pink "They came through with flying salmon which should be excel-average 8 to 15 pounds. Both are battlers when hooked and offer tremendous action for anglers.

AAA Michigan offers some helpful tips to salmon fishermen. including:

-Understand water temperature since fish go deeper as the water temperature rises. They also scatter in inclement weathface. Good boat trolling speeds range from a slow chug to 7 miles per hour.

-Fish for Chinook generally deeper in the waters. Trollers usually find good king results by running bait 10 to 15 feet off the bottom.

From Sept. through Oct. 25. salmon snagging with artificial baits or unweighted hooks is legal

Boys Cross Country Team 4th in Invitational

Chelsea boys cross country team finished fourth last Saturday in the Chelsea Invitational meet at Hudson Mills Metropark, which featured 26 teams. Earlier in the week, on Sept. 25, the Bulldog runners topped Lincoln, 22-35.

"We are very young, but we are improving rapidly," said Bulldog coach Pat Clarke.

In the freshman run. Paul Hedding finished eighth in 18:16. John Cattell placed third in the sophomore run in 17:16, and

Craig Zuehlke broke 20 minutes for the first time ever at 19:38. Chelsea finished second in the junior run. Lee Riemenschneider was 17th at 17:58; Greg Brown, 18th, 17:59; Jason Creffield, 21st, 18:15; and Tucker Lee, 28th. 18:39. Eric Bell broke 20 minutes for the first time at 19:40

Tim Bowdish took second place in the senior run at 16:40 and Jeff Wheaton was 25th in 18:42. In the Lincoln meet, Chelsea took seven of the top 10 places, including three of the first five. Bowdish and Cattell finished first and second, respectively, in 17:23 and 17:41. Other Chelsea finishers were, Brown, fourth. 18:28: Riemenschneider, seventh, 18:46; Creffield, eighth, 18:57; Hedding, ninth, 18:58; Lee, 12th, 19:08; Wheaton, 14th, 19:37; and Larry Moore, 19:51.

"Bowdish and Cattell are running very well at this point of the season," Clarke said. "Greg Brown ran his best time to place fourth and help us win the meet."

The tone of the meet was set in the first event, the 200-yard medley relay, as Karen Grau. Kelly Kuzon, Amanda Holmes and Tami Harris won easily, and the Bulldogs' second team, led by Helen Cooper's strong anchor leg; also whipped Lincoln's firstliteam. 💭 The Bulldogs then took first "through third places in the 200-yard freestyle with Susan Schmunk, Sharon Colombo, and Susan Cooper.

After Amanda Holmes and Paula Colombo finished 1-2 in the 50-vard freestyle, the divers swept their event.

Coach Mike Keeler said he switched parts of the line-up to colors,'' Keeler said. "Tricia Colby, Suzanne Cooper, and Meridith Johnson swam extremely well and placed high in their events." In an award that is voted on by the swimmers, Nancy Stierle was voted Swimmer of the Meet. She completed her first six-dive meet and "dove extremely well," according to Keeler.

******Even though the meet wasn't close, our swimmers continued to improve their times and scores and that's what we need as we head into the tougher part of our schedule," Keeler said.

lent. The naturally reproducing pink salmon, which up to now have been caught mostly in streams but are showing up in Lake Huron, peak in early September.

A Michigan Department of Natural Resources official said Lake Huron is "exploding with pinks." Pink salmon, which have been in Michigan waters for 30 years. spawn every other year.

The Great Lakes salmon peak-as chinook and coho begin schooling before ascending spawning streams-should last through mid-September. From then through mid-October, the best results will be in the 41 streams listed on AAA's 1985 Salmon Fishing Guide.

Good salmon results were reported at most Great Lakes ports beginning in late August. Lake Huron salmon fishing is running ahead of last year. DNR officials report that Lake Michigan salmon action has been good, but slightly behind last year due to some storms which scattered the fish.

Trout and salmon license sales are 16 percent ahead of 1984 with 234,000 issued through June 30. Daily fishing licenses, popular for non-resident anglers and charter fishermen, are up nearly 53 percent. Michigan resident licenses have increased 29 percent in one year.

Nearly 8.5 million salmon are planted each year in the Great Lakes, with about 10 to 40 percent surviving for spawning runs. The most recent plantings included 2.4 million chinook and 1.6 million coho stocked in Lake Michigan, 3.1 million chinook and 450,000 coho in Lake Huron and 350,000 chinook and 325,000 coho in Lake er. Salmon generally begin schooling when the water temperature hits 60 degrees, but time of maturity and stream flow are the most important factors triggering spawning.

-Find a rod and reel that works best for you. Many anglers use a medium to stiff action rod, 6-a to 7-feet, long, with 15- to 25-pound test weight monofilament line.

-Select a general area to fish and then talk to charter captains, bait store operators and other boaters and fishermen about where to find the best catches.

-Be sure to select the right type and color lure. For trolling, Northport Nailers, Huron Herrings, J-Plugs, Canadian Plugs, Squids, Sparkle Flies, Dodgers, Flutter Chucks and Zippers generally work well. Stream fishermen get good results with Mepps Spinners, Little Cleos, salmon flies and spawn.

-Look for coho farther out in the lake than chinook. Most coho are taken within 10 miles of shore from 20 to 40 feet below the sur-on five rivers. They are West Michigan's Big Manistee, Pere Marquette, Muskegon and Sable rivers, and the Au Sable River in East Michigan. Liberalized areas for each stream are listed in the DNR's 1985 fishing guide.

The Ocqueoc River from Lake Huron to US-23 is closed to fishermen from Sept. 10 through Oct. 31.

Although the levels of contaminants have dropped in Great Lakes fish, the Michigan Department of Public Health discourages children and pregnant or nursing women from eating salmon. Others should eat no more than 26 pounds of salmon from Lakes Huron or Michigan in one year.

Citing her "leadership" in opposing wasteful budget and spending items," The Conservative Caucus (TCC) in Michigan has selected Representative Margaret O'Connor (R-Ann Arbor) as State Legislator of the Year.

The second-term lawmaker legislative awards banquet in Lansing on Oct. 5. The organization has also chosen Congressman Mark Siljander (R-Three Rivers) for its federal legislator honors. "I am proud and grateful that need to ask before approving any spending bill, no matter how attractive the program may be: Is it appropriate for government to be involved in such a program and can we afford it? Usually I answer 'no' to both questions," O'Connor said. Before her election to the will be honored at the group's Michigan House in 1982, O'Connor served on the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners. the Washtenaw Planning Commission, and the Lodi Township Board. A mother of 10 children, O'Connor was employed for 20 years as a registered nurse.

The Conservative Caucus has chosen me as the State Legislator of the Year. In the years ahead, I will strive to effectively represent the views of my district. They are tired of government spending going out of control and so am I," O'Connor said.

Throughout her legislative service, the 52nd District and would be willing to serve in representative has consistently voted against "pork barrel" projects and any expansion in state government spending. "There are two questions we most appreciated.

September is a transition time between summer and fall. And for many of the young birds and a transition from animal babyhood to adulthood.

Take the blue jay in my back yard, for instance. Up until just recently, it behaved like a baby blue jay, begging food from its parents and following them around. Now the baby is on its own. It's full grown and it looks almost like an adult, but if you could watch it for a while, you'd quickly see that it doesn't yet have its adult act together. In human terms, it's an adolescent that is trying to become an adult and is still somewhat inept at it.

For instance, its attempts at the familiar blue jay calls and songs still sound more like unorganized vocalizations—it's as if the bird knows there's a song in there somewhere if he could just find the tune. And his first attempts to visit the hanging bird feeder have been hilarious.

To get into the feeder requires a fairly sophisticated series of aerial maneuvers that have to be carefully co-ordinated. Like a human youngster trying to dock a rowboat for the first time, the young jay had to make all the mistakes before he finally mastered the combination of skills. In the process, he hit the ground and the bird feeder a couple of resounding thumps. Fortunately for him, there was no predator watching to take advantage of his total concentration on the learning process. The testing and perfecting of skills often doesn't go fast enough to save young birds and mammals from disaster. In the north, where back yards are often wooded areas, young grouse frequently crash into windows in the fall. They are capable of full powered adult flight and can zip and dodge among the trees and bushes. Occasionally the bright open space between two shrubs is not clear flying but rather a window with the reflection of the shrubs that the bird just flew between. Homeowners often have to get used to replacing grouse-shattered windows as a regular fall chore.

Ground squirrels are on their chase it out of the tunnel and its territory. The young animal will be totally confused and panicky-afraid to run farther away mammals born in the spring, it's from its own burrow, but unable to ignore the angry adult on its tail. The result is a scuffling, chittering chase that may or may not end with the youngest safe in its burrow.

Young raccoons are now about three-fourths adult size and not dependent on their mothers anymore, though they may still tag along with them. Chances are they are spending more and more time going off on their own and getting into trouble. In my yard, they have been climbing the blue plum trees and eating the fruits. The trees produce a lot more plums than I and my neighbors can use, so I don't mind if the raccoons visit the trees every night. Besides, it's fun to watch the raccoons try to figure out ways to get the plums on the tips of the branches without getting dumped on the ground or poked by the trees' thorns.

Sometimes they try putting

A chainsaw can help a person do a lot of work efficiently and quickly when the saw is in proper condition and the operator is dressed for safety and comfort.

"When those two requirements are met, chances of an accident are substantially reduced," says Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service agricultural safety specialist.

If the saw has not been used regularly through the summer. have it examined by a person skilled in chainsaw maintenance to make sure the saw is tuned, the chain is sharp and the guidebar is not excessively worn or warped.

"If the saw has not been tuned, using it may frustrate the operator and lead to an injury," Doss says. "If the chain produces sawdust instead of wood chips, it needs sharpening or replacing."

I used to think that if you've seen one bowling ball-or one bowling center, for that matter-you've seen them all. But no more. Bowling, you see, has gone high-tech.

I know that because I recently toured the giant Brunswick Corp. plant in Muskegon and watched the workers there manufacture the bowling lanes of the future.

I also rolled a lane in the company's in-plant rec room-a sixlane bowling facility that is a showcase of Brunswick bowling equipment and supplies. My score, incidentally, was something less (I decline to be more specific) than the age of the plant, which was built in 1906.

The plant may chronicle the history of bowling, but the balls, pins and other bowling equipment made there are strictly high-tech. In that Brunswickequipped in-house bowling facility you can see it all-scores automatically computed and displayed on color television sets (if you roll three strikes in a row a fancy graphic flashes on the screen); roboticized pinsetters with optical scanners to ensure an accurate pincount (can you imagine the arguments that averts?); and television monitors showing instant replays of those great shots; like picking up a 7-10 split.

Remember when bowling balls, like Model T's, came in any color vou wanted-as long as it was black? Brunswick's technology now offers "pearlized" balls, covered with polyester instead of the traditional rubber, in colors such as cranberry, ginger, charcoal gray, red-bronze and, my favorite, midnight blue. Brunswick also makes bowling accessories, shoes and bags, to match-even if your ball of choice still is basic black.

As sometimes happens, the onrush of technology leaves casualties in its wake, the price of progress. Consider the "pinboys" who, when we were all yet young, labored at the ends of the lanes in eager anticipation of a 25-cent tip. You won't find them in the bowling lanes of the future. Optical scanners aside, the robots. not programmed for eager anticipation, just plain don't care. In any case, let's keep making it-and buying it-in Michigan

Notice is hereby given that the Chelsea Village Council will conduct a public hearing, as the statute in such case provides, for the amendment of the Chelsea Village Zoning Ordinance (Ordinance No. 79); that is, the zoning map which will provide that the area hereinafter described will be zoned "C-5, Central Business District". ers now. They have a firm grounding in what to do in various situations but don't yet have all their responses integrated into a system. For instance, if a young ground squirrel sees a person approaching, he knows enough to run-but he is just as likely to run away from his burrow as toward it. When he realizes that he's getting farther and farther away from his safe haven, he stops, looks around in confusion and then freezes, unable to decide what to do because the danger and the only safety he knows are in the same direction. The person can walk quite near before the animal makes another short dash-short because every step it takes means it's farther away from the burrow. Given a chance, the squirrel will make a big circle and get behind the person and into the burrow. Or if the person steps to the side so the animal has a straight shot at home, it will take it, hitting the ground running like some comic cartoon squirrel. The squirrel's predicament may look funny to the human observer, but it's easy to see how dangerous it is. If a predator were in the human's place, the squirrels indecision and hesitation could cost it its life. In a pinch, a ground squirrel could take shelter in another ground squirrel's burrow. But a chipmunk in the same circumstances would find itself hopping out of the frying pan and into the fire. Chipmunks are very territorial and antagonistic toward intruders, and if the adolescent chipmunk caught outside its burrow dashes down an adult chip-munk's burrow, the resident will ting pattern of the saw tends to follow a curve instead of a vertical line, the guidebar should be examined by a chainsaw service representative, Doss says.

Whenever possible, operators should purchase a chainsaw with anti-kickback characteristics incorporated in the design. Saw guidebars should have an antikickback device that attaches to the nose of the guidebar.

Following these guidelines will reduce the chances of the saw's accidentally striking the operator while the wood is being cut.

"Equally important is the quality of personal protection the operator wears." Doss advises.

He says that one of the more important and comfortable safety items is a hard hat equipped with acoustical earmuffs and a face shiéld.

"This three-in-one protection can prevent or substantially reduce eye and skull damage if a limb falls the wrong way or the saw and wind cause wood chips to fly toward the operator's face," Doss says.

He advises wearing heavy gloves to reduce the effects of saw vibration on the hands and arms (prolonged cutting without gloves can fatigue nerves) and to reduce chances of cuts or nicks to the hand or wrist.

He also recommends wearing steel-loed shoes or boots to protect against foot injury by falling logs or tree limbs.

Doss suggests wearing layered clothing when cutting wood so that it can be taken off or put on according to working conditions.

New Books Available At Library New books now available on the shelves at McKune Memorial Library include the following.

"Living With the Kennedys," by Marcia Chellis. A behind-thescenes portrait of a young wife and mother thrust suddenly into an alien world where she was bruised by her husband's infidelities and a succession of personal tragedies. Feeling unneeded she descended into an addiction to alcohol. After years of struggle she conquered her alcoholism and found the courage to end her loveless marriage and create an identity of her own as a strong and independent woman. "Fielding Gray," by Siman

Raven. In the first book of his "Alms for Oblivion" series, the author raises the curtain on the first act of a drama that reflects the not so-subtle, and more than occasional, venal actions of a group of well-bred Englishmen. Their ill-considered actions taint every member of their social circle.

"Islands Out of Time," by William Irwin Thompson. A cosmic journey of the imagination, the book recounts the final days of the legendary lost continent of Atlantis. An era of high technology and higher aspiration is dominated by archtypes like the High Priest, ruler of the Theocracy; and sponsor of a scheme to consumate human evolution in a single leap, and Bran of Eiru whose destiny it is to escape the prophesied end of Atlantis and lead a chosen few into a new age. "Fledger," by Nicholas Barrett. "Fledger" draws us into a wondrous world where a seabird called a puffin has lived for a millennia with the laws of nature. When the prophecy of a young puffin mother, foretelling the slaughtering of the puffin flock, by four legged beasts is ignored, she leaves the flock and flies to an isolated island to give birth to her son Goldie. It is Goldie who must rescue his fellow puffins. It is a moving story of personal daring and hope, and belief in self, and of love and faith rewarded. It is reminiscent of Jonathan Living-

As farmers harvest corn for silage, they should be extremely wary of the dangers of nitrogen dioxide-silo gas. Exposure to it, if not fatal, can cause permanent injury.

"The highest concentrations of nitrogen oxides usually occur 48 hours after the silo is filled, but no one should go into a silo without proper protection for four to six weeks after filling," says Howard J. Doss, Michigan State cultural safety specilist.

"Robert, My Son," by Henry Denker. Ever since the day he was adopted, Robert Ward has been a model son. Suddenly in his mid-teens, Robert begins experiencing erratic mood swings. Don and Claire Ward accept that their son needs professional help. but the key to proper treatment lies buried in the locked files of an adoption agency. The book addressed the most wrenching problems of our time, teen-age mental illness and suicide.

"Selected Poems," by Kenneth Koch. This volume brings together for the first time the poet's early work with his more recent poems, making it possible to see the whole extraordinary range of his poetry. The pure invention and almost comic-strip simplicity of his early poem, "The Circus," is here with the poem of the same title written 20 years later, full of time and experience and regret, but with the same clarity. Serious, deep and passionate, his works belong to the best American poetry of our time. "Bruce Springsteen," by Peter Gambaccini. Few rock and roll artists continue to progress and prevail after 10 years at the top, but Springsteen is one who does. Unlike almost any other rock star, he communicates compassion, sympathy and universality. Yet he never forgets that rock and roll is celebration. This newly expanded book contains photos and details from the Born in the U.S.A. tour.

Veterans Day Parade Slated Nov. 10 in Chelsea

Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 of the American Legion announced that Sunday, Nov. 10 would be the date for the Washtenaw County Veterans Day parade to be held in Chelsea this year.

The parade will begin at 2 p.m. The announcement was made at the group's regular meeting Thursday, Oct. 3.

The Chelsea post renewal membership stands at 55 percent. Nov. 4-is the target date for 100 percent renewal.

The post also recently received an award from National Commander Bacon for enrolling more members in 1985 than 1984. BRANHAM WELDING and FABRICATING Shop and Field 475-7639 lavers above the silage or drop down the silo chute. The strong silage odor can mask nitrogen dioxide's bleachlike odor. It may be present even if it cannot be seen or smelled.

The effects of inhaling silo gas can become apparent immediately or days afterward. The symptoms include severe irritation of the upper respiratory tract and may lead to inflamation of the lungs; yet little immediate pain or discomfort may be felt. A person may inhale silo gas for a short time and notice no effects. But he/she may go to bed several hours later and die while sleeping as soon as silo filling begins.

"It is most likely to develop one to three days after the corn is chopped into silage," Doss says. "If a mechanical breakdown occurs or the filler pipe clogs, the problem should be corrected immediately. Waiting overnight to do this task adds risk of silo gas buildup in the silo Farmers should avoid entering a silo during the first two to three weeks after filling without wearing a self-contained breathing apparatus like those fire fighters use. Anyone who must enter the silo during or just after filling should follow these procedures:

Fair Board Buys 20-Acre Parcel

Board has bought 20 acres of land owned by Chelsea Lumber adjoining the fairgrounds southern border. The purchase makes the fairgrounds the largest in Washtenaw county, at 48 acres.

The land was previously owned by Ed Hewitt & Associates of Saline. Terms of the sale were not disclosed.

"We don't have firm plans for. the land," said Earl Heller, who headed up the committee to buy the property.

"It's mostly insurance for the future, particularly if something should happen to the land by the (Chelsea State) bank where we have all the parking." The land runs all the way from Chelsea Community Fair the fairground borders to land Co.

> The land is zoned for residential use because originally an apartment complex was scheduled to be built there.

> The fair board was interested in buying the property earlier, but the asking price was simply too high, Heller said. However, within the last month, the board was contacted by the Saline group about buying the land, and negotiations proceeded quickly.

"I think it was a fair price for all the people involved," Heller said.

Whatever use the land is put to, a certain amount of work will have to be done to it, Heller said.

Village Turns Down Offer To Buy Cable TV

The Village of Chelsea has turned down its option to buy the portion of the Clear Cablevision Co. that serves the village.

Clear Cablevision provides cable television service to Chelsea, Manchester, Dexter and Saline.

The option to buy became available when Capital Cities Corp., the owner of Clear Cablevision, bought the American Broadcasting Co. The settlement required Capital Cities to sell the cable company due to Federal Communications Commission regulations.

The option was written into the village's franchise agreement with the company.

"The village decided it didn't want to be in the cable television business," said village administrator Frederick Weber.

Education Program Aimed at Preventing Child Abduction

Attorney General Frank J. Kelley and State School Superintendent Phillip E. Runkel announced the start today of a comprehensive "Protect Our Children" program for parents and children to learn about preventing child abduction.

"The Protect Our Children program was developed during the last few months to heighten awareness in the schools, and homes of our state about how to prevent child abduction," Kelley said. "While the numbers may vary on just how many children are abducted each year, this program is designed as a preventative measure encouraging parents and children to sit down and discuss the matter together." "This is an educational program," Runkel said, "it is not intended to scare anyone. It is intended to remind parents and children that child abduction is a serious matter, one that should be discussed. The more both parents and children-learn about prevention, the better off we all are."

The program developed by the
