

Proposed New Chelsea Wastewater Treatment Plant

★ Study, Plan and Cost ★

Editor's Note: This article is being published with the intent of clarifying the issues and facts associated with the proposed construction of the new wastewater treatment facility for the Village of Chelsea. It has been written by members of the Village Council and administrators and represents the best and most factual information available to help Village residents understand the many facets of a complex and large issue.

Additional articles will be published over the next few weeks dealing with the proposed service area of the plant, the facility plan, construction costs, financing alternatives and costs as they break down in household levels.

Additionally, residents are encouraged to call their elected officials or village administrative officers with any questions that they might have regarding the proposed wastewater treatment facility. It is important that any questions you may have are answered so that an intelligent and informed decision can be made by each voter on the millage issue.

STUDY, PLAN AND COST

As reported last week, to meet the government permit regulations a three-step approach was required. The first step was a planning phase to determine the size of the area to be served and the necessary type of equipment to treat all of the wastewater being generated in that area.

The planning phase involved a study to determine the amount of sewage presently being received at the existing treatment plant, the efficiency of the plant operation and the amount of sewage which might be expected in the future as the Village of Chelsea grows.

Originally the state specified that sections of Sylvan and Lima townships as well as the Chrysler Proving Grounds be considered in the service area. The reasons for this were to study the maximum amount of wastewater that these areas would contribute if Chelsea extended its boundaries.

Additionally the state wished to determine if areas in close proximity to the village were experiencing pollution problems that might be corrected in conjunction with the village project. The study concluded that no areas outside the village limits were likely to be sewered within the next 20 years.

Consequently, it was determined that the new Chelsea wastewater treatment facility would be sized for the village's current and expected growth within the existing village limits, which was determined to be only a modest growth pattern for designing the new treatment plant.

This study projected an approximate growth of only 800 people in Chelsea's population and a 2% increase per year in industrial flows over the proposed 20-year life of the upgraded facility.

A sewer system evaluation was also conducted as part of the study to determine the condition of the existing sewer pipes and to determine the flow of wastewater being received at the existing treatment facility. The flow to the existing plant is made up of domestic and industrial wastewater. In addition, no matter what the age of the sewer pipes, groundwater will seep into the pipes (infiltration) and storm water will flow from the surface. All of these contribute to the wastewater flow to the treatment plant. Because the flow to the plant varies from day-to-day and month-to-month it becomes necessary to design a treatment plant that will adequately treat all of the wastewater it receives regardless of whether it is a dry summer day or a major rain storm passing our way.

The maximum daily wet weather flow rate may reach as much as 2.68 million gallons per day. Approximately 1.66 million gallons per day of this flow rate was determined to be from infiltration and surface run-off. It was also determined that a rain fall of only 0.2 inches over the sewer service area created an overflow at the sewage treatment plant of approximately 200,000 gallons of raw sewage directly into Letts Creek. This small amount of rain occurs on an average of 45 times per year.

The new treatment plant is being designed to handle 1.9 million gallons of wastewater per day. This is about 520,000 gallons less than the maximum daily wet weather flow rate. The reduction is made possible by the rehabilitation of the existing basins in the plant to temporarily hold excess water until treatment is possible and by repairing some of the existing sewer pipes to reduce infiltration (ground water seepage). These two design features will result in substantial savings to the residents of Chelsea.

The second step of the three-step program is the design phase to prepare construction plans and to review cost associated with a particular design.

The design phase reviewed six treatment alternatives by estimating construction and operation costs for each alternative chosen.

The least cost alternative consisted of oxidation ditches and consequently was eventually chosen for construction.

This technique involves a ring-shaped channel with three separate raceways or circular paths in which the wastewater is circulated by mechanical rotors which provide aeration.

These separate raceways will provide great flexibility in the operation of the facility since one channel can be shut down for repair while operating the other two.

The existing plant will be turned into temporary storage basins to smooth out the impact of the large wet weather flows. This will allow treatment of the excess wet weather flow at low flow periods when excess capacity is available in the plant.

Two stages of treatment will be provided after the oxidation ditches.

They are secondary clarifiers to separate the water from waste and reaction clarifiers to chemically treat the water to remove chemicals that cause pollution. The clear water is then chlorinated to kill bacteria before it is discharged to Letts Creek.

This type of treatment plant will provide complete and efficient treatment of wastewater, prevent any further pollution to Letts Creek, and can be built, operated and maintained for the lowest possible cost relative to all of the other alternatives.

Total project costs have been independently estimated by the consulting engineers, Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout and the EPA to be approximately $4,500,000 with the village share to be approximately $2,000,000. The financing of the local share will require a bond issue to be sold to raise the necessary monies. There are two major bond alternatives as follows:

1) General revenue bond where bond repayments are secured through revenue raised by user charges.

2) General obligation bond where bond repayments are secured through revenue raised by a temporary special property tax millage.

The village has retained the firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone as a bond counsel. This firm will advise the village regarding options available and actually prepare the legal instruments, should one of the two bond options above be chosen.

Next week: More on project financing.

Village Politics Heats Up As 6 Candidates Seek Trustee Posts

The following is the second in a series of stories concerning candidates for the various offices that will be voted upon in the March 16 village election. The hope is that it will enable you to cast a more informed vote. The Chelsea Standard does not officially endorse any candidate for any office.

Rich Monier, Dennis Petsch, and Gary Bentley, three of the six candidates for the three village trustee positions, are all newcomers to Chelsea politics. (Incumbent Joe Merkel, Rosemary Harok, and Phil Boham will be featured next week.) All three say they are motivated to run in this election out of a desire to serve the community. None has a particular axe to grind.

Rich Monier, 321 South St., moved to Chelsea four years ago from Ypsilanti. He's on the board of directors of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club, and is an instructor for hunter safety.

Monier works in sales for Sweepster Jenkins Equipment Co. in Dexter, makers of street sweeping equipment. Consequently, he is used to dealing with municipalities of all sizes in his bid to sell the equipment.

"One of the things I've learned on my job is that some of the problems Chelsea has are common to other towns," Monier said.

Monier said he favors "growth, with moderation," for Chelsea, and he favors smaller companies coming to Chelsea to replace the jobs the village has lost in the last decade.

In that regard, while not opposed to the proposed shopping center for Old US-12 near the fairgrounds, Monier said he'd rather see existing buildings, such as the Clocktower, and the Rockwell Standard building, renovated to accommodate new business before new building takes place.

"I don't want the downtown area to lose its charm," Monier said. "That charm is one of the reasons I moved here."

Monier said he wants the village to move along with the proposed $4.7 million wastewater treatment plant. He said he fears that turning down the millage proposal in the coming elections will mean too many costly delays in the project.

"Sewer bills here are way under what many other communities pay," Monier said. "Past councils have done a good job not putting this project out of sight cost-wise. Even though it is expensive, we need this to help us develop the community."

Dennis Petsch has lived all his life in Chelsea, and currently resides at 515 East St. He recently graduated from Eastern Michigan University with a bachelor's degree in elementary education. He is the advisor to Beach Middle School's academic games team, is active in the community-wide Substance Abuse Task Force, is an auxiliary policeman, and a substitute teacher.

GARY BENTLEY

DENNIS PETSCH

RICK MONIER

"I've always wanted to run for council, and now that I'm done with school I'll have the time to put it into it," Petsch said.

"I want to know where some of the money goes to."

Petsch said he learned a fair amount about the workings of Chelsea government through his father, who was the Superintendent of Public Works at one time. He's also familiar with the police department from being an auxiliary.

Petsch is also interested in moderate growth for the village, and he sees the bulk of it occurring in the industrial park and "restaurant alley."

"I don't want to see this area grow as quickly as Saline," Petsch said.

Petsch is also in favor of moving ahead with the wastewater treatment plant.

"I've been out there and seen that it needs to be updated."

Petsch said he favors the development of the shopping center on Old US-12 "as long as it doesn't take business away from the downtown area."

While it's obvious Petsch is interested in serving on the council, he also is taking the whole election in stride.

"If I don't get elected, I'm sure there's something else out there I can do to serve the community. I'll find something."

Petsch said he was recently advised by his lawyer that there would be no conflict of interest between his position as an auxiliary officer and a councilman, should he be elected.

Gary Bentley, 223 Harrison St., is a 23-year resident of the village, moving here from the eastern Kentucky town of Pikeville. He's worked in maintenance for Chelsea Milling Co. for 16 years.

Bentley says he enjoys helping people, which is one of his prime motivations in running for office.

"I've taken a lot from this community, it's time to give something back," he says.

Bentley describes himself as "fiscally conservative," although he supports a moderate growth of the village, preferring to see healthy, small businesses move into the area. He said he wouldn't mind seeing more residential construction. He is interested in seeing the wastewater treatment plant move ahead because, without it, "we'll have no growth."

"I do have some reservations about how they're thinking of financing the project," Bentley said. "I tend to favor paying for it by user fees because it spreads out the cost more evenly and fairly."

Bentley also says he has some reservations about the proposed renovation of the 14th District courthouse as it relates to the expansion of parking behind the building.

"I'd have to look at that real hard," Bentley said. "I think maybe that expansion of parking should be left to the county to provide."

Tuesday, Feb. 16, 1982—

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a Candidates Night Feb. 23 in the Chelsea Milling Company's auditorium to give residents the opportunity to meet the 11 candidates seeking village office this coming March. William Rademacher will serve as master of ceremonies and will ask candidates a battery of questions they were notified of earlier. After a brief introductory statement or biographical sketch of each, the questions will deal with perceptions of the major problems facing the community at present, where he or she hopes to see the community within the next 10 to 15 years with regard to the Chelsea's current economic hardships, and why the candidate believes he or she is suited to deal with these problems.

Chelsea Bulldogs took first place in the 1981-82 SEC wrestling meet and won the league title last Saturday in Tecumseh with 166 points.

Placing first in their respective weight categories were Bill Harne at 165, Travis Rudd at 132, John Preston at 155, Steve Grau at 167, and Rick Potjan at 198.

Ten area high seniors have been selected as DAR Good Citizens for 1982. Included among the 10 students are Amy Unterbrink of Chelsea and Carol Ferguson of Dexter.

8th Grade Division 1 solo winners at the January District 12 Solo and Ensemble Festival included Shawn Quilter, trumpet, and Susan Overdorf, violin. The Festival was held at Franklin High School in Livonia.

Fiscal Agency Says Surplus Supports Early Tax 'Cut'

A Senate Fiscal Agency (SFA) analysis for the current and proposed budget year shows a Feb. 14 income tax rollback is possible, agency director Patty Woodworth reported recently.

Presentation of the analysis to the Senate Appropriations Committee came as House leaders scheduled a meeting of the Taxation Committee to act on a March 31 rollback.

While the SFA economic projections over both 1985-86 and 1986-87 are similar to those of the Department of Management and Budget, it expects healthier growth in 1986, helping produce a Sept. 30 surplus that is $133.4 million higher than the administration's.

A Feb. 14 rollback would cost $53 million more than a March 31 date.

The $186.7 million surplus projected by the SFA for 1985-86, if correct, would even permit a rollback as of Jan. 1.

The March 31 House proposal permits the earlier rollback if the surplus is at least $150 million. The surplus includes an estimated $30 million in lapses, which are not identified in the DMB estimates.

Woodworth said SFA economists expect slower growth in 1987, resulting in a surplus in the two fiscal years combined of $128.4 million higher than DMB estimates.

The Taxation meeting was called after Speaker Gary Owen (D-Ypsilanti) and Minority Leader Michael Busch (R-Saginaw) met with committee leaders to discuss the inability of House and Senate members to reach agreement of a rollback proposal.

Taxation Chair Lynn Jondahl (D-East Lansing) said discussions earlier in the week with Senate Finance Chairman Norman Shinkle (R-Lambertville) had failed to provide a basis for a new rollback agreement.

Shinkle said he would not meet with Jondahl unless he could get an answer to objections to the Senate's proposed Feb. 14 rollback date.

Jondahl said Shinkle had asked the House to come up with another proposed rollback date, while Jondahl offered to discuss changing the House formula while keeping the same dates.

Also, Governor James Blanchard announced last month the creation of a citizen's escrow fund which would hold all income tax revenues collected in excess of 4.6 percent starting on March 31, if the Legislature could not agree on a tax rollback by then.

The SFA revenue projections for 1986-87 include $25 million from the tax amnesty and stepped-up enforcement program, in addition to $60 million this year.

That program, politically tied to the tax rollback issue, is temporarily stalled. The Governor reflects only $50 million in revenues this year; none in 1986-87.

The SFA budget analysis for 1986-87 said the general fund will have to add $18.9 million in general fund spending beyond the Governor's recommendations for school aid, due to slower growth in dedicated sales taxes, and $12.2 million in payments to the budget stabilization fund.

Among other budget problems, the agency projected higher welfare caseloads than did the Governor, and said the Gramm-Rudman deficit-cutting law will cost Michigan $41.2 million in federal revenues, with the largest share ($12.5 million) from highway aid.

The SFA projection said AFDC welfare caseloads will be 4,900 higher than DMB estimates in the current year, the major source of $15.7 million more in required general fund spending than administration estimates, and 5,800 higher in 1986-87, at a cost of $15.3 million.

The higher caseload and cost estimates for general assistance for the two years is 1,400 ($16.3 million) and 7,700 ($30.4 million).

Leaded Fuel Ban Delay Provides Relief to Farmers

Farmers with older, gasoline powered farm machinery have at least a temporary delay before the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) places a total ban on the use of leaded fuel, according to Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Lead in fuel has some lubrication functions and farmers were concerned that having to use unleaded fuel would ruin the engines of their older equipment. But the new federal farm law directs the EPA and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to conduct a joint study on the use of leaded fuels in farm machinery before totally banning the use of leaded fuels. Almy said farmers will probably have access to leaded fuel until at least Jan. 1, 1988.

"The EPA has announced tests they will conduct along with USDA to determine what effect a ban on leaded gas would have on older farm engines," Almy said. "This testing will include actual tests on older, gasoline powered engines."

Almy said that a phase-out of leaded gasoline may boost the market for ethanol as an octane-boosting gasoline additive.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

If Bug Hookum is a Bible scholar, that fellow Kadoffy is a Rotarian, so when Bug starting quoting secondhand scripture during the session at the country store Saturday night he got the same kind of attention the two headed calf gets at the fair. Bug come with this report where a woman in his Sunday school class has figured out that all the trouble in the Middle East is fulfilling Bible prophecy, so Kadoffy is a evil and necessary instrument of the Lord.

Bug told the fellers he has done some reading in the Good Book, but he skipped most of the profane parts after he heard his preacher say somethin' about the bruised heel of the serpent foretelling the coming of the Savior. The only thing he knows the Bible got right about the Middle East is that if you ain't quick there, you're dead. The fact is, Bug allowed, he gets plenty to think on from the Four Gospels, and he is content to let better minds work on the fine print. Trouble is, he said, the woman in his class was took serious by folks he thought saw the situation about the way he does.

General speaking, the kindest review of Bug's speech in tongues is that it was accepted for information, as they say in polite company. Listening is Josh Clodhopper's rule, and talking is his exception, but he pushed back his cap with the dangling ear flaps and declared that he went to Bug's school of Bible interpreting. The best Josh said he could make of Revelation, for instant, was that it was a trick mirror and what you saw depended on where you stood. Josh went on to say he has found that most predicting is done so that however it works out the predictor can say that's what he said.

Zeke Grubb actual spends more time with his preacher than he has to. Not only is Zeke at the church ever turn the door opens, but the two of them is fishing buddies. Zeke is far short of a scholar, but when he talks along Bible lines the fellers pay attention, figuring somethin' might of rubbed off his preacher on him. Zeke said he wasn't near as interested in Middle East profusey as he was about the English Channel and the part about sins of the fathers being visited on the sons.

After thinking it up one side and down the other, Zeke declared, he was full convinced that what the British and the French are fixing to do is spend $2.3 billion to build a modern Tower of Babel under that little neck of the sea. Then two countries have got a long history of not working well together at anything short of survival. Furthermore, Zeke said, when they ain't got a common enemy they usual find one in one another.

The papers said work on the island link to the continent would start next year and be done in six years. Zeke said he was of a mind that they won't get the language of the contract cleaned up by then. Even if the project is pulled off as planned with private money, Zeke said both countries will have to do what they've done through modern times, fall back on us to pay off the debt. The French will bring their lunch when they come to buy wool suits, and English that venture under fer perfume will steer clear of the frog legs and hole boiled birds.

But if enough American tourists pay the toll to ride under the channel, and if enough dollars are spent at both ends, the Babel might not go bust, was Zeke's words.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Loss of Wife to Alzheimer's Disease Prompts New Book

When Gladys Wood first began to develop noticeable signs of Alzheimer's disease in 1977, neither she, or her husband, Al, had ever even heard of the disease. In fact, it wasn't until several years later, after the disease had taken a decided toll on Gladys, that Al first heard it mentioned. One of Gladys' first diagnoses, in 1978, was simply "cerebral atrophy." Even the medical profession wasn't widely aware of the disease, even though it had first been isolated early in the century.

Alma Ford also lost her husband, Frank, to the disease, at nearly the same time. Like Al, Alma was also ignorant about the disease. She remembers first hearing about it on a radio news program, long after her husband's symptoms first began.

Frank died in April of 1982. Gladys died in July. But shortly thereafter, they found each other through their work in the Ann Arbor Chapter of the Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association, Inc. It was a happy end to an otherwise tragic story. The two were married Jan. 1, 1984 and have lived in Dexter, at 765 Grand St., ever since.

Al Wood recently wrote a remarkable book about his experiences caring for Gladys called, "In Sickness and In Health," subtitled, "A Diary of One Family's Struggle with Alzheimer's Disease." It is a compilation and condensation of diary entries Al kept from 1977 until she required permanent hospitalization in late 1981. They lived in Plymouth at the time.

Although Al says the only reason he wrote the book is the hope that it would be useful to others in similar circumstances, anyone can learn from his book. It is a book about caring, about making tough decisions for someone who may not want those decisions made. It's also a book about love, about not giving up on someone even though that person may hardly resemble the person she once was.

The book was published by the Ann Arbor chapter of ADARDA, and any money realized from its sale will go to support the work of the group.

"I guess if there was one message, it was 'let's try to do what we can about this disease'."

Al said, "Let's find, if not a way to cure it, a way to at least arrest it. Even in the summer of 1981, when Gladys was far gone, if doctors had been able to arrest it, we could have been happy for a long time. Now it's a process of elimination just to diagnose it. The only way to be absolutely sure it's Alzheimer's disease is by an autopsy of the brain."

Alma (now known as Alma Ford Wood), who was a co-founder of the Ann Arbor chapter of ADARDA, had much the same kind of experience with her husband. However, she believes that in some ways she may have had it a little easier than Al, only because she wasn't the main breadwinner and could stay home with Frank.

Al couldn't afford to stay home. He had recently changed jobs—no work meant no medical insurance, which would have been catastrophic. He took Gladys everywhere, including on business trips.

Al didn't start attending meetings of the ADARDA until after Gladys was placed in a nursing home. Both he and Alma are still fairly active in the association. They're also both peer counselors (helping others try to cope with caring for a sick relative) for the Turner Clinic, and they give lectures on dealing with Alzheimer's disease.

"After we got married, Al and I talked about getting away from all the work with the group, but it wasn't that easy," Alma said. "My heart was still with it."

For Al and Alma, who are both retired, the last two years have been a new beginning. They both love to travel, and recently visited Australia and New Zealand, among other places. They realize their experience is not typical of someone who goes through the trauma of caring for someone with Alzheimer's disease. Not only do they have each other, but they have "the complete support of their children," which they say has made all the difference.

"Don't let the bad memories you have of caring for someone get in the way of the memories you have of a good marriage," Alma says. "Always hold on to those good memories."

Senior Citizens Form Needlework Group To Assist Hospitalized VA Patients

"Chelsea senior citizens prefer to remain active and useful in the community—they have a wealth of talents and skills to share with others and to use serving others," explained Arlene Larson, supervisor of the Chelsea Nutrition Site at North Elementary school.

"We're very excited about a new group forming at the Senior Center," added Arlene. The group of seniors from the Chelsea Senior Center is meeting each Thursday morning under the leadership of Mrs. Phil Stoll with definite objectives in mind.

One of the goals of the group will be to make lap-ropes, house slippers, foot-warmers and ditty bags for veterans hospitalized at the Veterans Administration Hospital, Ann Arbor. Hospital officials say they are continually in need of such items for the patients.

Mrs. Stoll will assist beginners in knitting, crocheting and other needlework skills.

Other types of arts and crafts will also be undertaken and may be completed by those in the group with individual interests other than needlework.

"Any seniors in the community who enjoy needlework, or who might be interested in learning needlework skills, as well as those who enjoy the fellowship of getting together for a friendly and interesting gathering are invited to join us," invites Mrs. Larson, supervisor of the Chelsea Nutrition Site at North Elementary school. Donations of clean washable yarn will be appreciated by the group. As winter continues, people will be thinking (just thinking, so far—it's still mighty cold outside) of spring cleaning chores ahead. Rather than toss out any clean washable yarn supplies, this would be an ideal place to direct it. Give a call to Arlene in the morning, or Treva during the afternoon, at 475-9242. Allow the seniors to turn the yarn into a very welcome gift for a veteran at the VA facility.

Treva Winans supervises a program which includes many of the additional activities at the Chelsea Senior Center. The majority of these activities are offered during the afternoon hours, but art classes and several other gatherings which meet during the morning hours are part of Treva's umbrella of responsibility. Both Arlene's and Treva's programs are headquartered at North school. During winter months, on days designated as "snow days" by the Chelsea schools, the Senior Center is closed as well. Chelsea seniors are advised to check before starting for North school on bitterly cold or extremely snowy or icy days.

Conservation Reserve Program Will Have Little Impact in State

Between 600,000 and 700,000 acres of Michigan farmland will be added under the conservation reserve program of the new federal farm bill, estimates Michigan Farm Bureau agricultural economist Robert Craig. Most of that acreage, he said, will be the highly erodible land in Southwest Michigan.

"They will be put out of farming for 10 years and placed into trees or other permanent vegetative cover to protect the land from any more erosion problems," Craig said. The amount to be added represents only about 6% of Michigan's total cropland and Craig estimates idling that much land will have little impact on crop prices.

Lumpectomy Counseling Offered At U-M Center

Free group meetings for women who have had a lumpectomy, a relatively new treatment for breast cancer, begin Wednesday, Feb. 19 at the University of Michigan Medical Center. The sessions will be held each Wednesday for six weeks from noon to 1 p.m. at the new A. Alfred Taubman Health Care Center.

Each session will cover an individual topic, such as nutrition, exercise, radiation therapy, stress management, research, advances in cancer treatment or other topics of group interest. A specialist will be available to answer questions.

The meetings will be led by social worker Claudia Kraus, A.C.S.W., and Diane Sommerfield, R.N., both of the U-M Medical Center's Breast Care Center. "These educational meetings will help women integrate their experience of cancer into their lives," Kraus explained.

Lumpectomy, followed by radiation therapy, is now an established alternative to a mastectomy for some kinds of breast cancer. A lumpectomy involves the removal of a smaller amount of tissue than a mastectomy, and during the last decade the number of women who have chosen lumpectomy has doubled.

Parking will be available in the visitor parking structure attached to the Taubman Center. For more information, room location and to register, call Kraus at (313) 763-9953.

Michigan History Magazine Features Lithographing Co.

"The label is often better than the cigar."

This 1986 observation by the New York Sun could well have applied to the work of Detroit's Calvert Lithographing Co., which is featured in the first 1986 issue of Michigan History Magazine.

Calvert produced artistic and commercial lithographs for products ranging from cigar boxes to garden seed packets and sheet music covers. Illustrations were hand etched or engraved, some using as many as 25 stones to produce from 50 to 100 different shades of color.

The Michigan History article by Jennifer Williams highlights a traveling exhibit of the Calvert Co. lithographs that has been prepared by the Detroit Institute of Arts and will appear this year in Detroit, Port Huron, Saginaw and Lansing.

Also featured in this issue of Michigan's official history publication are the Kaiser-Frazer venture into car production, a look at Norton Louis Avery's photographic experiments, an article about one of Michigan State University's first athletic heroes, Leander Burnett, and the history of Livingston county.

Michigan History, published six times a year by the Department of State, is available by subscription and at some local museums and newsstands. Single copies sell for $2, and a yearly subscription costs $9.95. Checks are payable to the State of Michigan and sent to the Bureau of History, Michigan Department of State, Lansing 48918.

The average new car loan by finance companies in 1984 was $9,317 at 14.6 percent interest for 48.3 months. The average monthly payment was $256.35.

HOW TO GET MORE OUT OF YOUR DAY on the same number of hours was the subject of a seminar sponsored by the Community Education Office last week. Pat Materka, of the University of Michigan, was the featured speaker. The seminar was open to the public.

24 Years Ago...

Thursday, Feb. 15, 1962—On Boy Scout Sunday Don Dickelman was presented with the award, "Pro Deo et Patria"—For God and Country.

Congregational church pastor Philip Rusten supervised his work which included taking care of the outdoor lighted church bulletin, handling the public address system each Sunday, leading in worship service, and attending church camp.

Chelsea Junior Chamber of Commerce members concluded from the Jan. 20-27 community attitude survey that most people had a good word to say about a number of things in the Chelsea community—utilities, postal services, medical and dental services, law enforcement, fire protection and even about parking in the business district—but listed a need for adequate recreation facilities for children, teenagers, adults and older people.

Chelsea Police and the Washtenaw county Sheriff's Department today had under surveillance reports that "gypsies" were operating in this area.

In three similar incidents, one in Chelsea, two dark-complected women entered homes after claiming to be freezing.

Two gypsies asked Mrs. Mollie Joseph on Buchanan St. for a box to put flowers in, then put her in a hypnotic trance while they took bedding and a toaster.

In Manchester township the theft of household goods valued at $110 was reported after two women appeared at a home selling manufactured flowers.

According to officers a large band of gypsies appeared in the area last spring at Bruin Lake to mourn the death of their "king."

It has been a long time since the local basketball fans (which have dwindled along the way) have been able to box home a winner, and the Bulldogs' 67-43 victory over Pinckney sure tasted good.

The scoring for Chelsea was well distributed with Curt Farley leading with 22, Bob Riemenschneider, 14; Don Joseph and Jack Howard, 9; Gordon Carpenter, 6; Roger Lehman, 5 and Eric Kusely, 2.

34 Years Ago...

Thursday, Feb. 21, 1952—Fifteen performances of the Waterloo Passion Play by 30 young people of the Second Evangelical United Brethren church of Waterloo have already been booked. Principal characters in the play first appeared at Cassidy Lake Technical school Ash Wednesday: Leone Beeman, Mary Magdalen; Yvonne LeVan, Rebecca; Shirley Marsh, Ester; Wilbur Beeman, Christ; Lula Artz, Betty Wahl, Samaritan women; Nadine Artz, Ann; Annabelle Woolley, Mary; Duane Marsh, John; Nadine Artz, Ann; Muriel Plack, Claudia; Leigh Beeman, Austin Artz, priests.

The wine decanter used in the scene of the Last Supper is of Persian silver and is said to be 500 years old.

First work on the country's most modern automotive proving ground is underway at the firm's 3,800-acre proving ground here. It was disclosed by Chrysler Corp. It is designed to be the newest research tool of the firm's 3,000-man engineering and research staff.

Chelsea police received a call from Mrs. Noah Feb. 16 at 4 a.m. that there were two suspicious-looking cars at the North Lake store. Scott Freeman, store owner, notified the sheriff's department of license numbers and car descriptions which he received from Laurence and Duane Noah who drove with no car lights to check the commotion at the store and later helped bring about the capture.

Chelsea police chief George Doe and officer Frank Reed picked up radioed information that the store had been robbed and took up a chase with Ann Arbor Sheriff's deputies Edgar Orbring and Raymond Klump.

Minutes later twelve Detroiters were taken into custody by sheriff's deputies. Found in one car, allegedly taken from the store, were checks, papers, wine, popcorn, cigarettes, cold meats and $9 cash.

Bradley C. Barr Enters Air Force

Bradley C. Barr entered the United States Air Force Feb. 5, according to Technical Sergeant Steffen S. Smith, the Air Force recruiter at 803 Church St., Ann Arbor.

Upon graduation from the six-week basic military training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the mechanical aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

Barr, a 1984 graduate of Chelsea High school, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Merle Barr of 208 Congdon St., Chelsea.

Farm Bureau Seeks Controls on Non-Program Plantings

Farm Bureau is supporting restriction of the types of non-program crops. According to Michigan Farm Bureau agricultural economist Robert Craig, the provision is of special concern to the state's bean industry.

"It's a concern, especially here in Michigan, since we lead the nation in the production of dry beans, but it's also an important issue for our farmers who raise hay and various types of vegetables. A massive planting of non-program crops could ruin market prices," Craig said.

Eric Bailey, Gratiot county farmer who chairs the Michigan Bean Commission, said the commission is also opposing the planting of non-program crops on setaside or diverted acres because of fears that farmers who have never grown dry beans before will this year. That, he said, would result in an oversupply and lower prices to producers.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

Recently some new electric vans powered by rechargeable batteries were put on public display. Their top speed is 55 mph and they are being tested to see how far they can go, or how long they can run after an 8, 10 or 12 hour recharge. According to reporters who have tested the vehicles, you can't hear the sound of the engine when it's running.

The electric automobile is no novelty. It was invented in 1892. Less than a quarter of a century later, square shaped electric vehicles were a common sight on the streets of Detroit, Chicago and other cities. That's right—70 years ago. Automotive history books frequently show the early electrics being driven by women; and this was an era when women were assumed to be weaklings and subject to fainting spells at the sound of indelicate language—not to mention traffic hazards. The driver steered the car with a horizontal tiller bar. In some models there were four passenger seats in an L-shaped arrangement. One seat was to the rear of the entrance door and the others were on a bench along the back of the box.

The machines were practical and safe. The affluent owner, or a servant, had to deliver the precious vehicle to a neighborhood garage especially equipped for recharging.

All this was around 1916 and yet I wouldn't be surprised if they were testing electric cars at the Chrysler Proving Grounds today and may have been doing so for years.

Why? Because the gasoline powered automobile is doomed. So are your gasoline powered garden and farm tractors, your snowmobiles and chain saws.

It took millions of years for Nature to produce our subsurface world reserves of petroleum. Yet, scientists estimate that at our present rate of petroleum consumption for fuel, naphtha, lubricants and plastics, all the available oil reserves in the world will be consumed in 100 years or less.

American coal reserves are estimated at 400 years but with the disappearance of oil by 2100 A.D. this form of energy may be gone in 200 years.

The scenario is obvious. With no gasoline, coal will be converted into electricity for electric cars. Science fiction alternatives might be nuclear or solar cars. Or new synthetic fuels.

We now derive 332 billion kilowatts of hydroelectric power from the gravitational force of falling water and almost as many KW's from our nuclear plants. We are also getting more efficient in the use of wind power which has operated windmills in Europe and elsewhere for centuries—not to mention the dear old Aeromotor which helped to pump reservoirs full of water for generation of American cows and horses.

Scientists involved in the technology of storage batteries are on their way to impressive breakthroughs that promise to accelerate the use of electric vehicles in the future. Even with modest success, we can have electric cars that can be plugged into the home garage at night, re-energized in factory parking spaces during the day and—who knows?—the parking meter on the street.

The world population is growing by about 10 million people per year. With it, in modernized countries, comes the need for more and more transportation as well as wattage for proliferating appliances, work savers and fun things like wall-size TV screens. In 20 years, for example, we will have about 600 more people living in the village of Chelsea, plus 4,000 more in Sylvan, Lima and Lyndon townships, and we are just a molecule on the face of the planet. World population growth is so formidable that future reliance on fossil fuels (coal, oil and natural gas) is folly. We have to go back to Divine power to unlock the secrets of clean, inexhaustible energy.

When I was a kid in Chicago there were many nights when we could look to the north and glory in the flamboyant displays of the Northern Lights. I haven't had the fortune to see them from good, clean Chelsea in 16 years. Most of my life on clear nights I could enjoy the brilliant beauty of the stars. Not often any more. I'm lucky to find the Big Dipper. Despite our great progress since 1970, we still discharge more than 127 million tons of carbon monoxide, sulfur dioxide and other dangerous substances into the air each year. If it weren't for emission controls on the exhaust of 160 million U.S. vehicles, you'd hardly be able to see the tail lights of the cars ahead of you.

The conclusion here is that the sooner we discover a clean, safe abundant replacement for fossil fuels, the better. I think our best bet is nuclear power.

"Annie Get Your Gun" is about the handsome and famous sharpshooter Frank Butler who challenges any local person to a shooting match. Annie accepts Frank's challenge and falls in love with him. "Annie Get Your Gun" opened on Broadway on May 16, 1946. The music and lyrics were written by Irving Berlin and the book is by Dorothy and Herbert Fields. Musical selections from the play include "Anything You Can Do," "You Can't Get A Man With A Gun," "There's No Business Like Show Business," and many others.

Artistic director for the musical production is Doug Beaumont who also directed the 1985 Chelsea High school production "Cinderella." Producer is June Warren. Others helping to make the show a success are Jill Schaffner, assistant/student director; Bart Bauer, technical director and set designer; Thad Bell and Marcia Warren, choreographers; Jed Fritze-meier, orchestra director; and Donna Palmer, rehearsal pianist.

R. Hutchinson Retiring From Probate Judgeship

Rodney E. Hutchinson, Washenaw county probate judge for the past 17 years, is going to call it quits.

Hutchinson, 67, told the Washenaw County Board of Commissioners, in a two-page letter, that he plans to retire, effective March 17.

"The decision to retire was not made without due consideration," Hutchinson said in the letter. "I had planned to retire in April 1985, but decided it would be prudent to serve another year. I have enjoyed my 17 years of judicial service, and it is with mixed emotions that I make this change."

Hutchinson said retirement will give him more time for travel and enable him, and his wife, to spend more of the winter months in a warmer climate.

"I believe my retirement at this time will not cause any undue problems within the court," Hutchinson said.

Gov. James Blanchard will make an interim appointment to fill Hutchinson's spot until the November elections, when voters will elect a candidate to fill out the remaining three years of Hutchinson's term.

Several local attorneys, including Donald H. Kenney, of Dexter, are considered likely candidates. Kenney ran unsuccessfully for probate juvenile judge in 1984. He has been in active practice in the county since 1981.

Hutchinson began his career as a private attorney in 1949. He was an Ypsilanti City Councilman from 1954-60, and served four one-year terms as the city's mayor.

R. Shelters Sentenced on Sex Charge

Richard Shelters, 42, was sentenced to a three to 15 year prison term last Friday after pleading no contest last month to charges of second degree criminal sexual conduct.

Shelters, a Chelsea man, a truck driver and former star athlete at the former St. Thomas High school, had originally been charged with first-degree sexual conduct in separate cases involving a nine-year-old Chelsea girl and an eight-year-old Ann Arbor girl. Shelters entered the no contest plea on the lesser charges.

Shelters was ordered by Washenaw County Circuit Judge Ross W. Campbell to receive psychiatric counseling during his stay in prison. The Michigan Department of Corrections does not have specialized treatment available for sex offenders.

The case involving the Chelsea girl occurred when she was an overnight guest of Shelters' daughter.

Gregory Youth Completes Army Parachute Training

Army Private Guy A. Cole, Jr., son of Guy A. and Barbara A. Cole of 1935 Bartell, Gregory, has received the parachutist badge upon completion of the three-week airborne course at the U. S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

During the first week of training, students underwent a rigorous physical training program and received instruction in the theory of parachuting. The second week they received practical training by jumping from 34-foot and 250-foot towers. The final week they made five staticline parachute jumps, including one night jump.

He is a 1985 graduate of Stockbridge High school.

Livestock People Like Clear Title Provision In New Farm Bill

The new federal farm law contains clear title provisions that would prevent buyers of agricultural commodities from having to pay twice if liens against the commodities have not been paid. This has been a problem for the livestock industry in particular, according to Michigan Farm Bureau commodity specialist Kevin Kirk.

"Livestock exchanges or terminals that are selling cattle or hogs at auction do not have time to go out and check to see if there are liens on the different livestock," Kirk said. "Now they're exempt. They can go ahead and sell these animals and not worry about a banker or credit system coming to them and saying that they now have to pay for the commodities a second time."

Kirk said that under the new law, buyers will receive clear title to their purchases unless they have been pre-notified that a lien exists and will not be required to seek out information on whether a lien exists on the commodity sold. If the buyer is told there is a lien on the commodity, he can protect himself by issuing a joint check made payable to both the seller and the lender.

Washtenaw Soil Survey Available

Soil surveys available from the Soil Conservation Service are intended for many different users. They can help a homebuyer or developer determine soil-related hazards or limitations that affect homesites. They can help land use planners determine the suitability of areas for housing or onsite sewage disposal systems. They can help a farmer estimate the potential crop or forage production of his land. They can be used to determine the suitability and limitations of soils for pipelines, buildings, landfills, recreation areas, and many other uses.

Many people assume that soils are all more or less alike. They are unaware that great differences in soil properties can occur within even short distances.

Soils may be seasonally wet or subject to flooding. They may be shallow to bedrock. They may be too unstable to be used as a foundation for buildings or roads. Very clayey or wet soils are poorly suited to septic tank absorption fields. A high water table makes a soil poorly suited to basements or underground installation.

These properties and many others that affect land use are given in the Washtenaw County Soil Survey. The soil survey describes the properties of soil and shows the location of each kind of soil on detailed maps.

Major field work for the Washtenaw County Soil Survey was completed in the period 1964-1973. The published soil survey was first issued in June 1977 as a joint effort of the United States Department of Agriculture and local agencies in Washtenaw County. Recently, the Soil Conservation Service field office located at 6361 Jackson Rd., received the second edition of Washtenaw County Soil Surveys. They are available to the public.

The Soil Conservation staff invites anyone interested to stop at the office and pick up a copy. They will help interpret the information so that you may wisely use the survey to the best advantage.

Consumers Pays Huge Tax Bill

If you think you have problems getting ready for tax day this year, consider this: the total state-wide tax payments by Consumers Power Co. for 1985 were $108.8 million to 1,375 individual taxing authorities. In 1984, the utility paid $110.9 million in taxes. The lower figure for 1985 is primarily due to a decrease in the assessed value of the Midland facility, idled since July 1984.

"The chief beneficiaries of these tax payments are our local schools and governmental units which provide needed human and social services," said Al Ross of the utility's Jackson-Adrian District.

Consumers Power, Michigan's largest utility in terms of customers, geography and revenue, also plays a substantial role in the state's tax structure.

Of the 67 counties it serves in the state, Consumers Power is the largest taxpayer in 27 of those counties, the second largest taxpayer in 12 and the third largest taxpayer in nine counties.

"Taxes are a cost of doing business today, and we can measure the amount due and paid," Ross said. "What is more difficult to measure are the many ways those dollars improve the communities in which we do business. That's why we are proud to do business in so many communities across the state."

In Washtenaw county Consumers paid a total of $376,189.93 in taxes, including the following: Bridgewater township, $2,332.93; Dexter township, $38,915.67; Freedom township, $2,264.32; Lima township, $61,546.17; Lyndon township, $44,388.43; Manchester township, $42,433.64; Village of Manchester, $4,673.27; Northfield township, $33,976.61; Scio township, $6,834.85; Sharon township, $23,828.72; Sylvan township, $114,862.64; Village of Chelsea, $4,748.29; Webster township, $6,965.99.

to conservation both past and present by his use of such conservation practices as contour farming, cover and green manure crops and conservation tillage.

A door prize drawing closed the annual meeting as door prizes donated by 10 county businesses were distributed. Six farm material suppliers and conservation practice installation contractors provided donations which supplied refreshments for the meeting, plus rental of the Grange Hall and featured speaker fee.

Michigan Rehabilitation Services has awarded a $100,000 grant to the Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living to implement a Personal Care Attendant Services Pilot Project.

The pilot project will target handicappers with physical disability characteristics who need personal care attendant services in order to maintain or enter employment.

According to James Magyar, executive director, the Personal Care Attendant Services Pilot Project is open to an eligible handicapper living in the State of Michigan and is aimed at demonstrating a cost-savings to the state and will be conducted in conjunction with Michigan Rehabilitation Services and the Department of Social Services' Adult Services Home-Help and Handicapper Programs.

Magyar says "the P.C.A. project could realize a 'double social utility' by enabling a person with a severe handicapping characteristic to accept an employment offer and also provide training and employment opportunities to a number of public assistance recipients as Personal Care Assistants." This will ultimately reduce public assistance payments and add to income tax and social security revenue.

Some handicapper citizens in Michigan who want to work cannot afford to do so because state and/or federally funded services limit the amount of substantial gainful activity a person may enter and still be eligible. Other essential services in support of vocational choice are discontinued soon after a handicapper enters employment. The current policies of state and federal agencies function as disincentives by demanding unemployment.

The Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living was founded in 1976 and is a focal point for community activity around issues which concern people with disabilities. The Center, which serves all of Washtenaw county and much of southeastern Michigan, recently moved into new quarters in the Georgetown Mall on Packard Rd., and is celebrating with an Open House on Friday, Feb. 21 from 2:30 p.m. to 6 p.m.

Handicappers who would like more information on the Personal Care Attendant Pilot Project should contact the Ann Arbor Center for Independent Living (313-971-0277) by March 15 or attend the Open House on Feb. 21.

Dennis Trinkle Is Michigan's 'Outstanding Young Farmer'

Dennis Trinkle has been named the Outstanding Young Farmer for the state of Michigan by the Michigan Jaycees.

The Outstanding Young Farmer award is a program sponsored nationwide by the United States Jaycees and John Deere.

Jaycee chapters, 2,000 of them, from around the country enter farmers each year in this program to promote better understanding between the farmer and the non-farmer, and to publicize the importance of American agriculture in our country," explained Margaret Steptoe, publicity person for the Dexter Jaycees.

The currently active Dexter Jaycees chapter became involved in this program for the first time last year when they entered Chris Sullivan for this award. Chris was also the winner in last year's state competition.

Chairman of the project locally this year is Dexter Jaycees member Dale Lesser.

Dennis Trinkle and his wife Jeanne will be making the trip to Jackson, Miss., Friday, Feb. 13 to Sunday, Feb. 16, with all expenses paid by John Deere.

They will compete with farmers from all over the country for the top Outstanding Young Farmer award.

Dennis learned the habits and hard work of a farmer early in his life. He was raised on the farm of his mother and father, Harold and Lois Trinkle. The family farm where he spent his boyhood is located on Trinkle Rd. His parents have since moved to a home on Steinbach Rd. and Dennis' brother, Doug, occupies the farm on Trinkle Rd.

Dennis and his wife have built a home on a portion of the Trinkle Rd. farm and live there with their two children, Amy, 13, and Brian, 9. Both youngsters attend Dexter schools.

Two years ago, Dexter's Outstanding Young Farmer and his wife purchased a farm three miles down the road from the Trinkle Rd. farm on which their home is located.

Dennis still milks cows on the dairy farm where he grew up, but the property on Jerusalem and Dancer Rds., offers him a place to raise Holsteins—he has 76 in his herd and is looking for more equipment.

Dennis participated in the Dexter High Future Farmers of America chapter during his high school years. During his senior year (1970), he was president of the FFA chapter and William Dunavin was advisor to the group, Dennis remembers. Jeanne works at Thomson-Shore and does additional outside layout for them in her home.

The Outstanding Young Farmer program, begun in 1954, has become one of the United States Jaycees most important and popular programs.

Hospital Offering Children's Speech Therapy Program

Chelsea Community Hospital Speech Pathology Department has added a new speech-language pathologist to their staff with expertise in children's communication problems.

Laurie Solon, M.A., will draw on her eight years of experience working with children to develop a new Speech Therapy Program just for them.

Purpose of the program is to supplement existing community services for youngsters with suspected or identified communication problems.

The new program will be organized in a series of evaluation segments and seven-week therapy programs offered throughout the year. The first evaluation segment is between March 1 and March 31, at a special price of $7.50. The first therapy program will run from April 7 to May 24. Children will be scheduled for two small group sessions per week. The cost of the seven-week therapy program is $200.

Parents may apply for financial assistance or extended payment plans through the Chelsea Community Hospital Business Office. The possibility of insurance coverage can be explored.

Ms. Solon advises parents to seek help if they suspect:

—speech problems such as incorrect pronunciation of sounds, difficulty being understood or lisps in older or younger children;

—language problems such as late talking, poor vocabulary, short or incomplete sentences or poor comprehension;

4-H Beef Weigh-in Scheduled March 1

The annual 4-H Beef Weigh-in will be held from 9 a.m. until noon on Saturday, March 1 at the Farm Council grounds.

Anyone planning to exhibit and sell cattle at the 1986 Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Show must bring cattle to this weigh-in. A maximum of four animals may be weighed, from which two may be shown and sold at the youth show.

—fluency problems such as stuttering involving frequent word, syllable or sound repetitions; and —voice problems such as hoarse or nasal voice quality.

Ms. Solon believes that early intervention is critical in preventing and eliminating communication problems. She stresses that the child must experience success and have fun during each therapy session. This philosophy, combined with her professional expertise and instinctive skill at motivating children, make her speech therapy program a very special event. Parents comment that they see quite remarkable improvement in their children.

Parents or professionals concerned about a child's communications development should contact Laurie Solon at 475-1311, extension 351 for a free telephone consultation or to make an appointment.

Bulldog Varsity Cagers Show Best Offense of Year in Lincoln Game

Chelsea's varsity Bulldogs gave perhaps their finest offensive showing of the season last Tuesday against the league-leading Lincoln Railsplitters. But the height and talent of the Splitters eventually wore the Bulldogs down, and Chelsea came away with one more loss, 66-54.

In other action last week, Chelsea rebounded for a 46-43 win over class A Howell on Friday night.

In the Lincoln contest, for the first time all year Chelsea shot 50 percent from the field (24 of 48).

"If we had shot like that against just about anyone else in the league, we would have won the game," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter. "Mark Bareis, Ken Martin and Todd Starkey all played exceptionally well."

The Bulldogs, as they have much of the season, had a difficult time at the free throw line, making just six of 14 tries.

Lincoln, which at times can blow a team out early with its running game, managed five or six lay-ups over the course of the game.

The Railsplitters' Joe Ross, their 6-10 center, began to take the ball inside during the last quarter with more authority, which "wore us down," Rosentreter said. Ross scored 11 of his game-leading 21 points in the final period.

All those factors taken together, "made it an uphill climb for us most of the night," Rosentreter said.

Nonetheless, Chelsea was in a position to win the game going into the fourth quarter, down 42-39, one fewer than their four-point half-time deficit. The Bulldogs could never draw even in the closing minutes. Lincoln had to feel good about escaping with the win and maintaining sole possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference.

The Chelsea offense was clicking the way Rosentreter designed it. Guards Martin and Starkey hit their jump shots with confidence, and Bareis got the bulk of his team-leading 18 points from the inside.

Martin and Starkey had 13 and 12 points, respectively. Dan Bellus had five, Ray Spencer, four, and Jeff Harvey, two.

Howell, "probably took us a little too lightly," Rosentreter said. Howell traditionally fares well in their class A Kensington Valley Conference, this season sporting a 7-1 league mark and 9-7 over-all record.

Chelsea took a 15-10 first-quarter lead and never trailed, but it was the Bulldog defense that was the star of the show. Howell was held to 29 percent shooting from the floor and Rosentreter said, "they didn't get many uncontested shots. We had somebody right there with a hand in the shooter's face."

Rosentreter said center John Jedele played probably his first defense of the year in the first half of the game as the Bulldogs jumped out to a 25-17 lead. That lead was lengthened to 11 points with less than two minutes to play. However, poor free throw shooting in the final seconds nearly let Howell back into the contest.

With a decent performance from the foul line, Chelsea could have won the contest by a lot more. Just 14 of 27 shots were made, several of the misses were the front ends of one-and-one situations.

Bareis again led the Chelsea scoring attack, this time with 16 points. Martin had 14 points, Starkey had nine points and six assists (half the team's total), Spencer had four points and Bellus, three.

Chelsea has a 2-4 SEC mark and a 7-4 over-all record. A make-up game with Milan has been rescheduled for tomorrow night. Friday the Dogs travel to Tecumseh.

ALL EYES ON THE BALL as a Chelsea shot bounces around and in during last Tuesday's action against the Lincoln Railsplitters. The Bulldogs had one of their best shooting nights of the season, hitting a cool 50 percent. Splitter center Joe Ross, center, proved to be a little too much to handle in the closing minutes.

Aquatic Club Shines At Birmingham Meet

Chelsea Aquatic Club's U.S. Swim team put in an outstanding performance this past week-end at the Birmingham-Bloomfield Atlanta B/C division swim meet.

"We just had several good things happen at this meet," said coach Dave Brunklow. "There wasn't one person who didn't have at least one personal best time and many had all best times. There were also quite a few surprises. Eight-year-old Carey Schiller dropped more than a second to win the 25-yd. freestyle. 10-year-old Joe Cesarz swam the 100-yard breaststroke and the 50-yard butterfly each for the first time and was sixth place in the breaststroke and second in the butterfly. 10-year-old Dana Schmunk dropped more than nine seconds in the 50-yard backstroke which was not only first place, but moved him from the 'C' division all the way to the 'AA' division."

The meet's results are as follows. 8-and-under girls: Carey Schiller, 1st in C 25-yard freestyle, 16th in B 50-yard breaststroke, 12th in B 50-yard freestyle.

Betsy Schmunk, 7th in B 50-yard freestyle, 8th in B 50-yard breaststroke, 13th in the B 50-yard freestyle.

10-and-under girls: Christy Gillespie, 18th in C 100-yard breaststroke, 19th in C 50-yard backstroke, 14th in C 50-yard butterfly; Monica Hansen, 5th in C 100-yard breaststroke, 13th in C 50-yard backstroke, 6th in C 50-yard butterfly.

10-and-under boys: Dana Schmunk, 20th in B 200-yard freestyle, 1st in B 100-yard breaststroke, 1st in C 50-yard

JV Cagers Lose Two in Past Week

Chelsea JV basketball team lost a pair of close decisions last week to drop their record to 4-11 on the season.

The Bulldogs had Tuesday's opponent, the Lincoln Railsplitters, nearly down for the count, before the SEC leaders came back in the closing minutes for a 48-40 win. Chelsea had a two-point lead after three quarters, 32-30.

However, Chelsea got off to a terrible start in the fourth quarter, failing to score on their first five possessions. Once they fell behind, they were forced to foul, and the Railsplitters responded by making 8-10 free throws in the final period. The Bulldogs, on the other hand, made only 2-5 attempts from the line in the fourth quarter.

Chelsea's third quarter lead capped a fine comeback by coach Ted Hendricks' team, as the Bulldogs were down 10-2 at the end of the first quarter. Guffy play cut that lead to one point at half-time, 16-15.

Matt Steinhauer led the team with 12 points. Junior Morseau hit for nine, Clay Hurd had eight, John Castell had six, and Tim Anderson had 5.

In Friday's game against non-conference opponent Howell, The Bulldogs took a 14-4 lead at the end of the first quarter, but lost the game, 46-41.

"We started to come back at the end but we ran out of time," Hendricks said.

The second quarter proved to be the Bulldogs' downfall as they made only 2-7 shots from the floor and had seven big turnovers. Chelsea was down at half-time, 22-19. Howell lengthened the lead to five points at the end of the third quarter, 34-29. The Bulldogs couldn't come much closer after that.

Like Tuesday night's contest, Chelsea was at a distinct height disadvantage. However, they won the war on the boards with a 34-18 advantage, thanks, in large part, to 12 offensive rebounds.

As a team, Chelsea had a fair shooting night, making 15 of 36 attempts for 41 percent. They also made 11 of 17 tries from the free throw line.

Steinhauer had one of his finest all-around games of the season with 17 points and 14 rebounds, with 14 of those points coming in the second half.

Other scorers included Anderson, with eight points and eight rebounds, Castell, with six points, Morseau, with five points, Clay Hurd and Kevan Flanagan, with two points each, and Phil Thompson, with one. Hurd also contributed seven rebounds.

Chelsea Boys Shine in Track Meet at EMU

Rob McDowell, running the same event, ran a :06.71.

Lee Riemenschneider ran his best time in the 300-yard run, :35.0.

Hanna, Wingrove, Bogdanski Qualify for Region Tourney

Three Chelsea wrestlers qualified for this week-end's Regional Tournament at Jackson County Western based on their performances in last Saturday's district meet. A good showing in the regionals will mean a trip to the state meet.

Pete Hanna, 119 pounds, Ron Bogdanski, 126 pounds, and Steve Wingrove, 167 pounds, all qualified by placing at least fourth in their respective weight classes.

"I was hoping we'd qualify three boys, I thought it would be a realistic but difficult goal," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"I didn't know if Ron would be able to make it since he only had one day of practice after being out sick and he was not in good shape. Over-all, we did a fine job."

As a team, Chelsea placed 10th out of 17 teams, surpassing SEC foes Saline, Tecumseh and Pinckney, among others.

The Dexter Dreadnaughts, the class of this year's SEC teams, took second in the meet behind Eaton Rapids.

Hanna was seeded second in the tournament and finished second, after losing to Dave Beck, of Hillsdale, in the finals, 6-3. To reach the finals, Hanna pinned R. Cesarez, of Tecumseh, in :27, and David Feldkamp, of Dexter, in 3:06.

Bogdanski, who was seeded fourth and finished fourth, won a 15-10 decision over B. Williams, of Milan, and then pinned Troy Tormalak, of Saline, in 3:28. He lost via pin to Jim Feldkamp, of Dexter, in one of the hardest fought matches of the day. Bogdanski was pinned in overtime of the consolation match by

APPLYING THE HOLD is Chelsea's Steve Wingrove, who pinned his Albion opponent in 2:59 enroute to finishing third in the district meet last

JV Volleyball Team Wins 2 of 3 Matches in Week

Chelsea JV volleyball team played three matches last week, winning two of them.

On Monday, the Bulldogs lost their only game of the week, 10-15, 11-15 to Milan. The Bulldogs just couldn't seem to get going, and the Big Reds took advantage.

The team showed good teamwork and consistent serving in a 15-13, 15-11 win over Lincoln on Parents' Night.

Kim Easton, Kelly Scott, Leah Enderle and Chris Basso all set well which resulted in good spikes from Shannon Dunn, Vanessa May, Jennifer Lewis and Sarah Schaffner.

Friday the team made up a game with Pinckney that had been cancelled three times due to bad roads. Chelsea won the match, 15-13, and 15-11. Dunn and Easton both had one of their best nights setting and hitting, respectively.

The JV squad has an 8-3 record.

Wildlife

The extended Canada goose season ended Feb. 16. Hunting has been poor this year as the extreme cold in December and heavy snows in November and December forced geese further south looking for open water and food. They have been observed this past week-end back in Michigan, just in time for the end of the season.

Whitetail deer are seemingly doing very well this winter in spite of the heavy snows. Some of the reason for this is farmers did not get all their corn harvested before the rains and snows of last autumn.

Rabbits are not too abundant in the district this year, although rabbit signs have been observed nearly everywhere by biologists.

Deadline for ordering seedlings from Jackson County Soil Conservation District is March 31.

Fisheries

Pike have been taken this week on Big Portage Lake by tip-ups, and pan fish with wax wings, minnows and spikes on Center Lake. Center Lake fishing has been reported as better than it has been in many years—7 to 10 inch perch as well as sunfish, bluegills and crappies.

Officer Weinert saw a 27-pound northern pike taken on Nottawa Lake in Calhoun county.

General

If you have been stocking a bird feeder, be sure to continue to do so now!

Wildlife Calendars are on sale in District offices for $13.47. They contain frameable prints of a special collection of animal portraits by wildlife artist G. van Frankenhuyzen.

Did you know that the eastern bluebird is a cousin to the robin? There are free 14x20 color posters of the bluebird available at the district office. On the back there are directions for making bluebird houses. Also free at district office are posters of other Michigan wild birds and Michigan wildflowers color pamphlets.

Forestry

Disreputable timber buyers are plying their trade in southern Michigan. Almost all of the people in the lumber industry are long-term reliable, reputable members of the community, however, there is a small fraction of the people who buy timber that are out to rip off the land-owners.

This rip-off can take many forms, but the bottom line is that logs are taken at less than a fair price, in some cases it may be for nothing at all! Before selling timber, contact your local DNR forester for advice on how to go about selling timber. In Jackson and surrounding forest areas, the forester is available by phone on Monday mornings at (517) 784-3188, and a message can be left for him to call at that same number between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. on Monday through Friday.

PETE HANNA, right, makes short work of his Tecumseh opponent last Saturday in the district tournament, as the scrappy senior placed his man in :27. Hanna went on to place second at 113 pounds in the meet, to qualify him for this Saturday's regional meet at Jackson County Western.

Senior Cribbage Tourney Stated

A Senior Cribbage Tourney for everyone 55 years and older will be held at Burns Park Senior Center, 1320 Baldwin, Ann Arbor, on Saturday, March 8 and 15 with finals on March 22. The tourney is sponsored by the Cribbage Club at Burns Park Center and the Ann Arbor Recreation Department. The tourney will use a two-player format with double elimination. Trophies have been donated by Mutual Savings.

There is a $3 entry fee which is to be submitted with the registration form. Forms are available at Burns Park and other senior activity centers in the county, the Ann Arbor Recreation Department offices at Lawton Elementary school, and at Mutual Savings on Huron St. Deadline for registration is March 3.

Play will run from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. on March 8 and 15 and from 9 a.m. to noon for the finals on March 22. For more information, call 759-5911.

RECORDING A 12-6 DECISION in his first match in last Saturday's district tournament was Chelsea's Brady Murphy, top. Murphy won the match over K. Fay, of Mason, before being eliminated later on.

Three Wrestlers Qualify

Jim Dewland, of Jackson County Western.

Wingrove wrestled the best he has all year," according to Kargel. Wingrove was seeded third and finished third. He knocked off C. Payne, of Albion, with a pin in 2:59, won a 14-3 decision over T. Williams, of Jackson County Western, lost a 14-0 decision to C. Howe, of Mason, and took a 10-2 decision over D. Summaran, of Coldwater.

The only other Chelsea wrestlers to win a match were Brady Murphy, at 112 pounds, with a 12-6 decision over K. Fay, of Mason, and Mike Taylor, at 198 pounds, with a pin over S. Cavens, of Jackson County Western, in 5:47.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. I am considering buying a computer to use in managing my stock investments. I guess I have doubts as to what I can do with the computer that will be useful and whether or not it will save me money or help me make money. It occurs to me that you must hear from a lot of people that have computers and may have some advice for me. What would you say I should think about in deciding to buy a computer?

A. The value of a computer to an individual investor depends on many factors. I'll tell you some of the reasons why folks have told me they use them. First, if you are the type of person who enjoys playing with that kind of a gadget, you are likely to have a lot of fun just enjoying the way it enables you to move figures around and build a record of information. That is a compensation that is in addition to the practical value you derive.

The practical value will depend on a number of things. If you do all of your own research in finding and reviewing stocks, the computer can be very helpful. To get the maximum use of the computer in looking for particular kinds of stocks, you will need a modem that will connect you with some of the data banks. For instance, if you wanted to find all the electric utility companies that now had a dividend yielding 7% or more and also had increased their dividend each year for the past five years by 5% or more a year, you would be able to plug into a data bank and get that information printed out on your computer in just a few minutes. You then could review each of those companies individually to decide which ones might be the best investments.

There are programs for computers that will help you make a fundamental analysis of an individual company. Some of the best use NAIC's individual company analysis technique. In using a computer this way you have to be careful. Look at the individual figures to see what has happened between the figures you began with and the answers you are getting. NAIC's procedure requires you to do this.

The basic point is that a computer can show you two companies that each have a 15% compounded growth rate for the last five years, but that are very different in how they have grown. One company may have grown regularly at 15% a year, the kind of consistency investors like to see. The other may have done poorly for four years and then have gone from nothing to a figure that produces a good average. I would want a lot of questions answered before I bought some of that stock.

If you are a technician the computer will be very helpful in churning out the numbers you need. The size of your account is also a factor. The larger it is, the more helpful a computer can be in the basic task of keeping records.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. # Free Methodist To Conduct Spiritual Renewal Services

Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7805 Werker Rd., will be conducting Spiritual Renewal Services beginning with the 11 a.m. morning worship service on Sunday, Feb. 23, and continuing on Sunday evening at 6 p.m. and Monday through Friday, Feb. 24-28, at 7 p.m.

Guest speaker will be the Rev. Douglas Crossman. The Rev. Crossman is of Welsh background, the son of a steel worker of South Wales. While serving in the Royal Air Force, he was challenged about his spiritual needs by an Army scripture reader, which led to his eventual conversion. In 1976, after serving as a pastor for nearly 10 years, the Rev. Crossman was called to a wider ministry among the churches. Since that time, he has ministered at conventions throughout the United States, Canada, Europe, Africa and the United Kingdom.

Everyone is welcome. A nursery will be provided. For further information, please call 475-1391.

New Books Available At McKune Library

The following books are now available at McKune Memorial Library.

Rand McNally's Places Rated Almanac by Richard Boyer and David Savageau. If you are looking for information about any of America's 329 metropolitan areas, this is the book for you. It is unsurpassed for reliability, timeliness and comprehensiveness. Areas are ranked and compared for climate, housing, health, crime, transportation, education, the arts, recreation and economic outlook. This one-of-a-kind reference offers something to inform or intrigue on every page.

Inside Music by Karl Haas. Inside Music is the ideal guide for those who love classical music and want to learn more about its many aspects and dimensions. It takes you through every area of classical music in a readable, entertaining and informative manner. Mr. Haas is the creator and host of "Adventures in Good Music," a series of daily hour-long broadcasts syndicated world-wide which premiered in 1959.

Along with Youth by Peter Griffin. Along with Youth is a compelling biography of Ernest Hemingway, focusing on his early years. It examines in rich detail, his life up to his military career which would bring him world-wide acclaim. Drawing on previously unpublished material, including numerous letters and five of his early short stories, that appear in their entirety, it traces the formative years of one of America's most celebrated and influential authors.

Before the Trumpet by Geoffrey C. Ward. Drawing upon thousands of original documents, many of them never before examined, the former editor of "American Heritage," magazine presents an entirely new picture of Franklin Roosevelt's early life and of the forces that shaped his unforgettable personality. It tells for the first time anywhere the story of Franklin's romance with Alice Sohier, the beautiful, sharp-tongued Boston girl, who spurned his offer of marriage and helped drive him into the arms of his sympathetic cousin Eleanor whose own girlhood, courtship, and motives for marrying are examined in the light of fresh evidence. It is a tale that would grip the reader even if its central character had not grown up to become the most important president of the century.

The Seventh Secret by Irving Wallace. Every week a tall, attractive, older woman named Evelyn Hoffman makes her regular visit to the bustling downtown district of West Berlin. If one looked closely one might detect that she bears an uncanny resemblance to Eva Braun. But how can that be? Eva Braun was supposed to have committed suicide with her husband, Adolf Hitler. Thus begins Irving Wallace's new and most suspenseful novel and the search into one of the great mysteries of modern times.

Word of Honor by Nelson DeMille. Like millions of other Americans living comfortable and secure lives, corporate executive Ben Tyson thought he had put the horror of the war behind him. But now, 16 years later, his carefully ordered world begins to fall apart. Someone has broken his word of honor. With mounting suspense, DeMille sets the stage for a stunning novel about moral culpability in war.

There were over 157 million licensed drivers in the U. S. in 1984. One-third of these drivers are under 30 years of age.

McAuley Plan To Cover Elderly

McAuley Health Plan will be offering coverage to Medicare eligible individuals beginning in the spring.

The program, McAuley Medicare, will extend medical benefits beyond the current Medicare coverage for a minimal monthly fee, said Robert E. Lavery, president and chief executive officer of Catherine McAuley Health Center. It will replace the supplemental medical insurance policy many elderly and other Medicare eligible individuals now carry, he said.

The main advantages of the proposed program, Lavery said, are that it eliminates co-payments and deductibles, extends the number of hospital days covered, includes preventive care such as annual physicals and immunizations and eliminates claims forms and other Medicare paperwork.

"McAuley Health Plan is concerned about the elderly population," Lavery said. "This is a way of addressing many of their needs so they can have the level of health benefits coverage comparable to that of employed persons in the community."

Each participant may select a primary care physician from a large panel of highly qualified physicians at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Saline Community Hospital and Chelsea Community Hospital. The primary care physician will co-ordinate the person's care, referring the patient to specialists when necessary.

As soon as the proposal is approved by the Health Care Financing Administration, Medicare users will be advised of how they can learn more about the program, Lavery said.

McAuley Health Plan, a Health Maintenance Organization that began operation Jan. 1, 1984, has over 18,000 members. It is affiliated with Catherine McAuley Health Center.

Farmers Shouldn't Neglect Minimum Insurance Coverage

Farmers who are trimming expenses in an effort to improve business cash flow should recognize the importance of remaining insured through the Social Security system.

"Unless farmers are currently insured through the system, they will not be eligible for the disability benefits the system provides, nor will their families be eligible for the death benefits," says Mike Kelsey, Michigan State University agricultural economist. "These insurance-type attributes of Social Security can be extremely important."

Self-employed farmers are covered by Social Security insurance when they file Schedule SE.

"If net farm income on Schedule F is negative, farmers do not have to pay Social Security tax and therefore may lose their current insurability status," Kelsey says.

But they can retain that insurance benefit by using an optional filing method.

"When net farm income is less than $1,600, or is negative, the farmer can pay on a $1,600 minimum at 11.8 percent self-employment rate for 1985," Kelsey says. "If the family has dependent children, a calculation for the earned income credit in the 1040 instructions may provide an earned income credit that could come close to paying for the tax."
