Chelsea Students Honored By State for 100% on MEAP Tests

More than 70 Chelsea fourth, seventh and 10 graders were honored last week at their schools for scoring 100 percent on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program test of basic math and reading skills. The tests are given annually to fourth, seventh and 10th graders.

This year, by order of the state department of education, students state-wide were honored April 25. "While it might not have been the most difficult test, it is still quite an accomplishment to score 100 percent," Chelsea High school principal John Williams told the sophomores when they were presented their certificates of achievement in the board room. All students who scored 100 percent received certificates signed by Gov. James Blanchard.

Sylvan Approves $342,929 Budget

Sylvan township approved an annual budget of $342,929 for fiscal year 1986-87 at their annual meeting April 5, a meeting which only two township residents attended. "The meeting lasted about 15 minutes," said township supervisor Don Schoenberg. "It's a shame more people don't take an interest in their government." Money for road improvements, $72,000, was the largest single item in the budget, Schoenberg said. The second largest budgeted expenditure was $40,000 to rejuvenate Sylvan Town Hall and make it accessible for handicapped citizens. Money budgeted for fire protection amounted to $39,304, all of which will be paid to the Chelsea Fire Department on a charge-back basis. Salary increases for township officials was approved. The township clerk and treasurer each will receive $12,000, up from $11,000.

Schoenberg also confirmed that his salary was raised, but he didn't agree with the Standard reporter that it should be open for public scrutiny in the newspaper. His former salary was $5,000. "Anybody who wants to know my salary should call and ask," Schoenberg said. "I don't want the increase published in the paper without an explanation of why it was raised." Even though the reporter offered to explain his position, Schoenberg declined. Schoenberg's telephone number is 475-7273. Money was also appropriated for a re-evaluation of the township's assessment system, Schoenberg said. He said the cards on which the information is kept are full, and some have the wrong information. However, he did not know whether the evaluation would take place this year.

CHELSEA'S OCTOGENARIANS were honored at an annual gathering sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea Monday night at Chelsea Community Hospital. The 27 guests have 2,475 combined years of service to the community. Seated, from left, are George Lawrence, 84, Lawton Schaible, 83, Sylvester Weber, 92, John Wellnitz, 82, Merle Barr, Sr., 88, Gale Gilson, 81, Ron Laviolett, 87, Charles Kent, 84, and Jay Waggoner, 93. In the second row, from left, are Norman Whitehouse, 80, George Martin, 96, L. Laverne Finch, 84, Joe T. Merkel, 88, M. C. Martin, 82, Marvin Jewell, 82, Ed Weiss, 89, Wayne Fleenor, 84, Kurt Neumann, 87, Harry Lange, 85, and Frank Horne, 91. In the back row, from left, are Anton Nielsen, 81, Norb Merkel, 83, John Giffin, 85, William Beach, 85, L. D. Guinan, 81, William Wetzel, 82, Jim Stirling, 80, and John Klingler, 89.

Dramatic Changes in Vocational Education Program Being Studied

As part of the curriculum review process recently instituted by the Chelsea School District, the high school's vocational education program is likely to change its philosophy and direction dramatically over the next few years. Industrial arts teacher Jim Tallman recently gave a status report to the school board on just how the review process is going. According to Tallman, the department is, in general, looking for ways to integrate industrial arts education with the general education most students receive. In that regard, the department would like to become more than the traditional shop or auto mechanics class that appeals to relatively few students. Industrial arts, business, home economics and agriculture areas are all studying the problem together. They're being aided, in part, by a $2,000 grant from Eastern Michigan University's Staff Development for School Improvement program. As an example, an industrial arts class of the future might expose students to new technologies such as robotics, computer aided drafting and fiber optics as routinely as they take math classes now. The idea would be to show practical applications of those math courses and how they relate to the real world of business. Tallman said the industrial arts classes of the future would probably emphasize problem solving in the sense of a challenge. A student might be told, "here's our goal, let's find a way to accomplish it," rather than, "this is broken, let's fix it," or "we need a lamp, let's build one." The implementation of any specific course changes is still a few years away. The department, which is unofficially calling itself the "Applied Technology Department," is in the stage of fact gathering from a variety of sources, including business leaders. They recently hosted a dinner at Chelsea Community Hospital for Hal Pennington, director of purchasing at Raycon, Bill Ackley, president and owner of Abrasive Finishing, Inc., and Phil Knight, vice-president for sales and marketing at Book-Crafters, Inc. "They told us that they are looking for people with a strong, general education who can think on the job, adapt and learn," Tallman said. "They also said a lot of people come to them with a solid, but not practical education. They stressed how important it is for people to be able to think on the job and that they need some exposure to technology." Tallman said that one interesting problem the department has encountered is that there aren't any good examples at other high schools of what the department is trying to accomplish. "This appears to be a unique concept, and it's nice to know you're leading the way," Tallman said. "Our department chairman, Bruce Boughner, was asked to speak at a meeting of the Michigan Industrial Education Society about what we're trying to do." Once the department has completed the information gathering (Continued on page two)

Council Seeks Escrow Account To Assure Burned Building Repairs

A resolution designed to force the swift demolition or renovation of burned or exploded buildings was passed by the village council at its regular meeting April 15. The resolution gives the village the power to put into escrow up to 15 percent of the actual cash value or final settlement by insurance coverage of any property within the village destroyed by fire or explosion. It applies equally to business or residential property. The owner of the property then has up to 45 days to take care of the damaged property or forfeit the money in escrow. The money would then be used by the village to "secure, repair or demolish... and clear the property in question," according to the ordinance. "The City of Detroit and other towns use this," said Village President Jerry Satterthwaite. "The (15 percent) is high enough that the owners usually do something about it."

something with that property since the resolution was passed after the building burned. "I think George will take care of the property once the settlement is complete," Satterthwaite said. Contacted last week, Merkel said he was seriously considering selling the property to a local person that he did not identify. In order for the resolution to be enforceable, a burned building has to violate public health and safety codes. In Chelsea's case that would mean a violation of county or state codes since the village has none of its own. According to village administrator Fritz Weber, the buildings are being inspected to see whether they violate the village's Dangerous Building Ordinance adopted in June of last year. They will be inspected by the county. The ordinance details a long list of problems that would cause a building to be deemed dangerous. The Sylvan Hotel burned last summer and has been boarded up since then. Owner George Merkel says the building's foundation is solid. He says he is considering selling the building to a local person. "Probably the question I am asked the most is 'what are you going to do about the F&M,'" said village president Jerry Satterthwaite. "So we asked Peter (Flintoft, the village attorney) what we could do." The former F&M is owned by Kermit Sharp. The restaurant went out of business in the mid-1970s and has not been occupied since then.

B.E.S.T. Program Would Benefit Middle-Class Most, Bowman Says
 Governor Blanchard's college tuition guarantee proposal is aimed at helping middle-income families provide higher education for their children, but that does not mean poor families will receive no benefit from the program, Treasurer Robert Bowman told a House Committee recently.

Students from poor families will be able to take advantage of other financial assistance that middle-income families will not need because of the "BEST" program, he said, and the state itself might invest some of its appropriated scholarship money into the program to provide scholarships for needy students.

Speaking before the Colleges and Universities Committee, which is considering HB 3505 that implements the program, Bowman admitted that the baccalaureate education system trust—first announced as part of the governor's State of the State address in January, but which was not introduced until last week—would assist those families that could afford to make the initial investments into the fund.

But even though truly needy families might not be able to directly participate, they still should see some benefit for their children who are bound for college, he said.

Under the program, families would be able to make either a one-time lump sum payment or periodic payments that equal the lump sum into a state managed investment fund that would guarantee the cost of tuition for four years at any public Michigan university.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

A practical woman can be as aggravating as a reformed drunk when she starts sharing her ideas with everybody she thinks needs help getting organized. I was reminded of this fact that is plain through history last week when my old lady announced that the sign was in the foot and it was time to get potatoes in the ground. I knowed right then that lo the season fer reading had passed because the voice of the gardenex was being heard in the land.

The old lady does her planting by the signs, and she gits her signs as well as her weather from her almanac. That woman believes more in a year old book than she does the weather reports on the radio at the top of the hour. So when she told me the sign was right and the weather was right the time was right to do the digging. The sign in the foot means it's right fer what grows underground and wrong for what grows above ground. I got crossed up two year back and planted potatoes on the wrong sign. I can't say the old lady knows what she's talking about, but I know I could of put in my hat all the potatoes we dug, but if I had baled the Payments would be adjusted annually based on changes to tuition and investment earnings.

The program would create several plans so that parents could ask that their payments be invested in tax-free or taxable securities.

Parents would be able to remove their payments in situations where their child went to an out-of-state college, a private school or decided not to attend college.

"This is a middle-income plan," said Bowman.

But once investments are made, middle-income families should not need other scholarship monies as much, freeing those funds for poor families, he said.

Plus, the state could consider investing a portion of the funds it already spends on scholarships and grants into the program for poorer students.

In 1984-85 the state spent $49.1 million on college scholarships and grants. The state spent another $242.3 million in student loans.

The treasurer also admitted that individuals who invest in private funds established by brokerage houses may get a slightly higher return on their investments, but said most citizens would not use brokerage firms. They would find it easier to invest with a state fund, he said.

Bowman also said the program should create a situation where college tuitions are held either artificially low or high. He also said the program would be limited to 100,000 investors in the first year.

And, the program would be designed so that any person or organization could make an investment for a child. For example, Howman said, a local Parent-Teacher Association could make an investment on behalf of a future high school graduating class.

Speaking in favor of the program was Michigan State University President John D'Ignazio who said he worries most about the ability of lower middle class families to afford the cost of college education for their children.

The program will help assure "that our youngsters will have an education for which they are qualified."

 stage, they'll progress next year to examining specific ideas of how to accomplish their goals. Any initial curriculum changes would be implemented the following year.

"We're looking for ways to increase student interest in our areas," Tallman said.

"For example, the average girl doesn't feel industrial arts is the place for her, although a lot of them would be happy pursuing an engineering career. Any exposure they can get to applied technology would be of benefit."

The review committee includes Karen LaRue, Rich Barreis and Linda Turok from Beach Middle school, and Tallman, Boughner, Loren Winn, Mary-Ellen Miller, Tom Morrison, and Jane Wilson from Chelsea High school. High school principal John Williams and curriculum director Laurie Bissell are also advisors.

Mr. and Mrs. Karl Walter Lampe

McKenzie-Lampe Marriage Solemnized in Wyoming

Lynn Marie McKenzie and Karl Walter Lampe, both residents of Shell, Wyo., were united in marriage, Nov. 30, at the First Presbyterian church of Greybull, Wyo. The Rev. George Pasek officiated at the candlelight, double-ring ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKenzie of Dazey, N. D. Parents of the bridegroom are Mrs. Alice Gall and Walter Lampe of Ann Arbor. For her wedding, the bride chose a white satin gown styled with princess bodice of Alencon lace, large puffed sleeves accented with single flowers of matching Alencon lace and tiny pearls. Her gown featured a semi-cathedral length train. She wore a matching pearl-tipped headpiece adorned with a spray of white blossoms which secured her shoulder-length veil of imported silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of catalaya orchids, raspberry sweetheart roses and miniature denrobium orchids.

The bridegroom wore his formal military attire. Matron of honor, Lori Stanford, sister of the bride, wore a raspberry taffeta gown with scalloped, off-the-shoulder neckline, embroidered princess bodice and puffed sleeves. She carried a bouquet of raspberry-accented minuet roses with white satin streamers.

Matt Ziomek, friend of the couple, served as best man. Bob West and Duane Powers seated the guests.

Candles were lit by Angie Stanford and Katie Stanford, nieces of the bride.

Music at the church included the traditional wedding march. Soloist, Terry McKenzie, brother of the bride, played guitar and sang, "The Wedding Song" and "God Has Given You to Me," accompanied on the organ by Neva Bentley, friend of the couple.

The bride's mother chose a full-length gown of light blue silk crepe, complemented with a lace jacket. The mother of the bridegroom wore a street-length silk gown in a medium blue shade.

An evening reception and dance honoring the newly-married couple was given at the Greybull Elks Lodge following the ceremony.

Patty and Jan McKenzie, the bride's sisters-in-law, cut and served the three-tiered wedding cake. The carrot cake was decorated in Philippine style with ivory-tinted icing and raspberry roses. Raspberry and white table decorations completed the table setting.

Waynette Kenyon poured the coffee and punch was served by Terry Zierke. Champagne was served by Karla Stephens, and Kris Walk was in charge of the guest book. All those assisting at the reception were friends of the couple.

The bride was graduated from North Central High school, Rogers, N. D., and Loma Linda University Medical Center, Loma Linda, Calif. She is director of respiratory therapy at South Big Horn County Hospital in Greybull.

Her husband is a graduate of Dexter High and earned his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering at Michigan State University, East Lansing. He is a pilot with Hawkins & Powers Aviation, Greybull, and is an instructor and evaluator pilot with the United States Naval Reserve program.

Following a wedding trip to the Caribbean, the couple will make their home in Shell, Wyo.

Woman's Club Elects Officers at Annual Meeting

Twenty-six members of the Chelsea Woman's Club met at the home of Joyce Vogel, April 22 for the annual business meeting.

Gladys Barth became an associate member and Kathy Heeter was reinstated in the club.

Annual reports from officers' committee chairpersons were submitted and a new slate of officers elected for the coming year. They are president, Betty Oesterle; vice-president, Glenn Bittle; secretary, Cheryl Schoenberg; treasurer, Lila Pawlowaki; parliamentarian, Lucille Finkbeiner.

A new budget was approved with the usual generous funds being made available for the various worthwhile groups active in the local community, such as McKune Library, United Way and Social Services.

Since its founding in 1932 the Woman's Club of Chelsea has always been in the forefront in support of needy and worthwhile organizations.

Marge Travis, chairperson for the annual dinner, informed the members that the dinner will be held at the Brandywine Restaurant on May 13. Guests are welcome.

May 15 the Woman's Club Marathon Bridge Dinner will be held at the Rod & Gun Club. Myra Colvin will be acting as chairperson for this event.

Hostesses for the evening were Lucille Finkbeiner and Carol Van Reesema.

Class Slated on Parent Preparation For Child Birth

"When will my newborn be able to see?" is a frequently asked question of new parents according to Chandice Harris, RN, MSN, parent/child coordinator at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea. "Not only can the newborn see at birth," states Harris, "but even as a fetus inside of the mother the baby can hear, detect shades of light and darkness, taste, suck his or her thumb and respond to the parent's touch."

Often times pregnant families are surprised to hear and realize that the fetus has this ability. Information of this nature will be covered in a prenatal class scheduled to be held at the Family Practice Center on Wednesday, May 21. This session will be held from 2 to 9 p.m.

This class is for pregnant families, especially those in early pregnancy. The film, "The Sensational Baby," will be shown. This is an excellent illustration of the growing fetus, what he/she sees and hears, the movements and activities, and how parents can experience their unborn baby's unique personality during the course of pregnancy. It ends with a sequence of labor and birth as experienced by the baby.

The class will also cover information on healthy mother/healthy baby topics.

The class is free to Family Practice Center obstetrical patients. Non-Family Practice obstetrical patients may attend for a $2 fee. Pre-registration for the class is requested by calling the Family Practice Center at 475-1321, ext. 430.

Gini Boyer drove and the group later took a tour of the hospital.

An auditorium party for patients at the VA Hospital is planned for April 30, a joint venture of the post and auxiliary. Bingo, for Canteen Books, and lunch, will complete the festivities.

Americanism chairman Eulahlee Packard presented the Chelsea senior citizens and nutritional guests at North school with a new American flag on March 31, and Mac Packard helped with distributing pledge of allegiance cards and brochures. They were also dinner guests that day.

The annual Buddy Poppy Sale Days are May 14-17. All members are reminded of the need for helpers to volunteer their time with Bertha and Frank White.

The 6th District Post Commanders and Past President annual banquet was held in Mason, Post No. 7309, as hostess. Past District 6 Commander Mac Packard and Eulahlee, with Post No. 4076 commander Gary Erskine and Mary, attended as guests.

District 6 meeting will be held at Lansing Post No. 701 on May 4. Election will be held for all officers and reports will be given. A donation of $10 was voted to send to the VFW Boys and Girls Camp Trotter for games.

Nominations and elections of new officers were held, with Joan Taft as president. The rest of the officers' names will be given in next month's report.

The bingo workers annual dinner was held April 27 at Gilberts, with 21 people able to attend.

The next regular meeting will be held May 12.

Humane Society Offers Free Fish Care Clinic May 6

"I wish, I wish, I wish I were a fish!" Remember the Incredible Mr. Limpet? He loved fish so much that he turned into one. You may not be that much of a fish fanatic, but if you'd like to learn more about the aquatic life, the Humane Society of Huron Valley has a special opportunity for you.

Find out the answers to "fishy" questions at the "Aquarium Maintenance and Fish Care Clinic" sponsored by the Humane Society. Brian Creek, naturalist from the Kensington Nature Center, will be on hand to give valuable tips on topics such as the selection of fish and other aquarium inhabitants, the set-up of an aquarium, and the general maintenance of the entire system. A question and answer period will follow.

The seminar will be held from 7 to 8:30 p.m. on Tuesday, May 6 at the HSHV Community Education Building, 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor. It is free to the public but please, leave your pets at home.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

The Virginia Slims cigarette ads are all very amusing except that they are getting more women to smoke, more to die of cancer and heart disease and fewer years to live.

What's good about the Virginia Slims ads is their humor—the photo exaggerations about the changed status of women in our modern Western world.

Here in America the first real steps forward were the passage of the 19th amendment in 1920, giving women the right to vote, and changes in marriage vows so that women no longer promise to obey their husbands.

This column, I hasten to add, offers no pleas for the Equal Rights Amendment which was approved by the Senate in 1972 and finally defeated in 1982. Women are winning their war to receive equal pay for equal work and their growing political power is making employers think twice about acts of discrimination.

Nellie Taylor Ross became governor of Wyoming in 1925. The first two women generals in American history were promoted to that rank in 1970. Now we have women members of Congress, Jean Kirkpatrick, ambassador to Ireland, Elizabeth Dole, secretary of transportation, Martha Layne Collins, governor of Kentucky, Madeleine Kunin, governor of Vermont, Kathy Whitmire, mayor of Houston and Dianne Feinstein, mayor of San Francisco.

Women are also directors of great American corporations and banks, while Margaret Thatcher heads the government of Britain and Corazon Aquino holds power in the Philippines.

The original inequality between the sexes was anthropological. Man was the strong, ferocious hunter of animals and fish; woman remained in the cave or hovel to bear and nurse their children. Then came long centuries when man earned his pay through back breaking labor while his dutiful wife scrubbed clothes, milked the cows, fed the pigs, raised the kids and tended an acre of garden crops.

Man is no longer the male slave laborer. He uses electric powered tools and vast machines with the energy of millions of horses. He and his wife share a household filled with labor-saving electric servants. Today's woman can do more in two hours since her electric emancipation than in 12 hours of scrubbing, pumping, sweeping and baking or pressing pants with sadirons.

In fact, with the kids in school, she too can have a job, a car of her own and a very strong sense of equal rights in the wigwam. Out of every 100 wives 55 are gainfully employed and most of them are the money managers of the household. Eighty percent of all personal or family bank checks bear feminine signatures.

The women of Chelsea, I believe, are some of the most confident and competent I have encountered anywhere. They have their high school diplomas and many have college degrees. They have high academic and behavioral standards for their children in parallel with the codes of our school system.

Chelsea's original population of families who came here 150 years ago believed in the work ethic. Pioneers of free enterprise, they left the safe, comfortable towns of the East for the untamed hills, fields and forests of Southern Michigan. Man and wife shared the divisions of farm labor from dawn to dusk. This unity of effort and enterprise passed from one generation to the next, and the same spirit characterized the early owners of stores and workshops in town.

City people who come here cease to be urbanites and become Chelseans. We have our special environment and traditions here around M-52. Close by are Centennial Farms and many others from the 19th century whose soil has been tilled by parents, children and grandchildren.

There are three-generation businesses in the heart of the village, such as Heydlauff's, Winans Jewelers, Seitz's Tavern, Scheider's Grocery and Chelsea Milling. There are fathers, mothers, sons and daughters in family enterprises such as those owned by the Oesterles, the Leonards, the Longworths, the McCallas and many others. And there simply isn't room here to list all the husband and wife enterprises in our central business district—or couples out in the country like Sandy and Walt Zeeb with their greenhouses or ingenious manufacturers like Virginia and Larry Diecle of McDec.

Despite the fact that we are a village set in the midst of rural townships we in no way resemble the cartoon stereotypes of hicks and hayseeds. We receive the events of the world on our radios and TV's, often at the moment they are happening. Our ladies know what Princess Di, Brooke Shields and Nancy Reagan are wearing. What's more, our Chelsea belles look just as chic in their Main Street best when they go to church on Sunday. Comes Monday morning and nobody looks twice if Mrs. Soandso shows up at the bank with a $2,000 deposit, wearing sneakers, faded jeans and her daughter's softball cap.

media, honorable mention in ink drawings; Doug Harden, third in mixed media; Van Wright, honorable mention in sculpture; Todd Nagel, honorable mention in mixed media; Jason Creffield, first in photography and honorable mention in pencil drawings; and Lora Scriven, third in textiles and fibers. Not pictured are Amy Orner, Jeff Nemeth and Kelly Ghent, who took second, third and fourth in photography; Jim Cook, honorable mention in mixed media; Larry Durham and Jackie Konkowski, first and second, respectively, in jewelry; Sean Cook, Chris Zerkel, and Steve Wingrove, first through third, respectively, in color pencil drawings. Cook also received honorable mentions in pastels, color pencil drawings, and pencil drawings. Wingrove was first in ink drawings.

'Steeple & Stones' Leaflet Available

"Steeple & Stones" is the title of a countryside tour leaflet just released by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce. The leaflet is designed to enable area residents and visitors to explore the heritage of the countryside southeast of Chelsea.

Copies may be obtained from local merchants, or from the Chamber of Commerce Office. In addition, the Summer Community Education Bulletin will contain a copy of "Steeple & Stones."

Three more countryside tours are planned, as is a "Village Life" walking tour leaflet of Chelsea's neighborhoods and downtown.

In addition, a "Chelsea's Stories" coloring book will soon be released by the Chamber. It will be available through local merchants, and in pre-school through elementary school classes of the Chelsea schools.

The leaflet and coloring book are all part of the "Chelsea Stories" program funded by the Chamber, and developed by Dr. Gabe Cherem and students in two Eastern Michigan University classes.

For more information, contact Janet Tuttle at the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce (475-1145), or Gabe Cherem at 475-7070.

This Week's Thought

DONALD A. COLE

We have seen it happen time and time again... Much of it is needless and could be avoided—IF...

We refer to the confusion at the time of an unexpected death—and sometimes even when a death is expected or imminent... We, as funeral directors are of course accustomed to these situations. And we, as funeral directors always do our best to alleviate the confusion with a sincere desire to help the family in every possible way. This help always includes obtaining death certificates needed for insurance claims, for social security purposes, and ALWAYS includes counsel and guidance in many, many other matters. Many, many families already know about this wonderful, priceless help we provide—in EVERY case.

At a time of death, the very FIRST thing to be done is to call a funeral director of YOUR choice. You can of course have some one else make the call for you but the selection is your SOLE responsibility. No one else has the right to make the selection for you... EVERY family we have ever served has been pleased in their selection of our funeral home... Ask them, if you wish.

34 Years Ago . . .
Thursday, May 1, 1952--
James Versaille, who has been blind since he was 10 years old, and his German Shepherd dog, Skipper, that had been his constant companion for 13 years, and became familiar figures on the streets of Chelsea during the past year, were parted recently when the faithful Skipper had to be put to sleep because of his advanced age and approaching blindness. Jim, who celebrated his 33rd birthday, April 14, spent more than three weeks at the Seeing Eye Foundation in Norristown, N. J., becoming acquainted with a fine Labrador Retriever that is taking Skipper's place. Jim's business is tuning pianos.

Mrs. and Mrs. George Satterthwaite will observe their 50th wedding anniversary at a family gathering at their home on M-52, just north of Chelsea, May 4. They have lived at this home since 1930. Katherine and George were married at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Buehler, on Waterloo Rd., May 7, 1902. Their five children are the late Leonard, and four others who live in this vicinity, Vernon, LeRoy, Mrs. Leon (Dorothy) Chapman, and Mrs. Paul (Arlene) Klager.
A 1940 Mercury car, owned by Donald Pierson was struck by an east bound train at the Hayes St. crossing last Friday after it stalled on the track. Pierson left the car before the train struck.

STUDENT OF THE WEEK program at North school recognizes a different student every Thursday by posting his or her picture outside the principal's office every week along with information about the student. The child also receives a badge to wear. The following week the photo is sent home along with a letter of congratulations. It's one of the ways the school tries to make students feel good about themselves. Above, principal Bill Wescott poses with last week's student of the week, Colleen Vishinsky.

Applicants Sought for Palmer Scholarship

Applications are now available at Chelsea Community Hospital for the A. A. Palmer Memorial Scholarship. This $500 scholarship is awarded to a Chelsea High school graduate who is pursuing a career in medicine, primarily family practice.
1986 marks the 16th presentation of the scholarship, which was set up by the original group of physicians at Chelsea Medical Center to honor the late Dr. A. A. Palmer, a Chelsea physician for many years. The award is now under the auspices of the Hospital Auxiliary Scholarship Committee.

Scholarship applications may be picked up at the information desk near the main entrance of the hospital. They may be obtained between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. Completed applications should be returned as indicated on the form with the deadline being Saturday, May 31.

The first monies for the A. A. Palmer scholarship were raised by donations from local physicians and businessmen. Since 1973, the scholarship has been made possible by the Chelsea Painters, a group of area artists who sell their works at an annual art fair and ice cream social which will be held the 7th and 8th of June at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Determination of a recipient is based on academic achievement, extra-curricular activities, and motivation to pursue a career in medicine.

ECOLOGY BIKEATHON RIDERS headed for Chelsea last Saturday from Ann Arbor on a 58-mile practice ride in preparation for the real event scheduled for Sunday, May 4. The Bikeathon raises funds from the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor which is a county-wide environmental institution.

Sunday Bikeathon Will Raise Funds for Ecology Center

Next Sunday, May 4, hundreds of bike riders, age 5 to 75, will take off from the Ecology Center, 417 Detroit St., Ann Arbor, in an effort to raise funds for the non-profit environmental protection organization. Last year 750 riders participated and raised more than $31,000.

Corporate sponsors and institutions make cash donations to the center based on miles ridden by each contestant. There are also valuable prizes for outstanding individual and team performances plus luscious treats for the finishers.

The riders have their choice of entering one of four events including a sprint down Main St., Chelsea. The shortest of the four events is a 14-mile circuit through the city of Ann Arbor. Next is the County Circuit of 28 miles. Third is the Waterloo Circuit, a grueling but scenic 100-mile trip extending as far west as Huttenlocker Rd., in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

The fourth competitive route is named the Chelsea Metric. All you have to do is to convert 58 miles into meters and you will know the precise international distance. Riders in the Chelsea Metric travel on designated routes from Ann Arbor to Dexter. They then proceed on Island Lake Rd. to Dexter Town Hall Rd. for a circuitous trip through the Pinckney Recreation Area (accompanied all the way by the Waterloo Bikers). At the intersection of Werkner Rd. and

M-52 the groups part company, and the Chelsea riders head straight through town to the Chrysler Proving Grounds. Making a left turn on Scio Church Rd., they head back to Ann Arbor.

Since the starting time is 9 a.m., the riders in the Chelsea Metric are expected to breeze down Main St. around noon—and we repeat, that's next Sunday.

Bikers from Chelsea are cordially invited to participate in the Ecology Bikeathon and have their choice of any of the four circuits.

Clean-Up Day at Schools

CLEAN-UP DAY AT THE HIGH SCHOOL was more fun than work for most of the students, as it took all eight of these kids to pick up one small piece of trash. Students at all schools spent a few minutes last Thursday picking up trash from the school grounds, an annual spring event.

THERE WASN'T MUCH TRASH but there were a lot of students to pick it up as classes were stopped for 15 minutes last Thursday and staff and students walked the high school grounds and cleaned them up. Even principal John Williams got into the act. The staff-student clean-up was conducted at all four schools last week.

Girls Track Team Ties for Championship At Mason Invitational

Coming off the SEC win over Lincoln on Thursday, the girls track team competed in the eight-team Mason Invitational Friday night and came away tied for first with host Mason, each scoring 119 points.

Holt and Jackson County Western were tied for third, well back with 66 points.

It was a dramatic come-from-behind spurt with four events left that earned the share of the championship for Chelsea.

Chelsea performed well in the field events with Cris Zerkel second in the shot with a personal best 34'-11" and a first in the discus with a 103'-9". Edie Harook jumped 15'-4" to add a second in the long jump, giving Chelsea 26 points in the field events but Mason picked up 48. Despite some fine performances from Chelsea in the hurdles and sprints, Mason had a 92-66 lead after winning the 440 relay.

Chelsea gained ground as Laura Damm, Susan Jaques, and Chris Neuman finished second, fourth, and sixth in the 440.

Amy Wolfgang and Debby Tift finished first and third in the 330 hurdles.

After Tami Harris and Danica Disbro went second and fourth in the 220, the two teams were tied with 107 points and two events left. Mason went up by six with a second place in the two-mile while Melanie Flanigan ran a solid race to finish fifth.

In the final event, the mile relay, Jaques, Damm, Neuman and Wolfgang took command from the start and won with a season's best 4:15.8. With Jackson County Western and Holt also finishing ahead of Mason, Chelsea had their share of the title.

It's the Bulldog girls first in-invitational championship since 1980.

"It was a very satisfying meet," said coach Bill Banton.

"A lot of people came through for us. Shannon Dunn in the hurdles ran the best she has; Edie Harook had her career long jump. Stephanie Harris got to the finals in the 220 to name a few. But the seniors sort of took charge."

Shotput: Cris Zerkel, 2nd, 34'-11".

TAMI HARRIS crosses the finish line in the final leg of Chelsea's winning 900-meter relay team last week in the Lincoln meet. The team, which included Susan Jaques, Amy Wolfgang, and Danica Disbro, had a time of 1:50.8.

Girls Track Team Nips Lincoln, 70-58

Chelsea girls track team topped Lincoln, 70-58, in a dual meet last Thursday.

It was a close meet most of the way as each team had eight firsts. The difference was Chelsea's depth and strength in the distances.

In the 400, 800, 1,600, and 3,200, Lincoln managed only one place, a first from April Chenault in the 400 with an outstanding time of :58.9. The Bulldogs also earned six more third-place points than Lincoln.

Lincoln had a 21-15 lead in the field events, despite Cris Zerkel's wins in the shot put and discus. A win in the 3,200 relay closed it to 21-20.

Lincoln pushed the lead up with a 1-2 finish in the 100 hurdles and a Chenault win in the 100 dash. Chelsea closed again by winning the 800 relay with an excellent 1:50.8, and then went ahead, 39-34, by sweeping the 1,600.

The Railsplitters tied it by winning the 400 relay, then took a one-point lead on Chenault's 400 win, but from there on, Chelsea was in control.

Kasey Anderson led a Bulldog sweep of the 800, Amy Wolfgang won the 300 hurdles and the Bulldogs led, 57-48.

Chenault notched her third win of the day in the 200 with a :28.2 but the Bulldogs' Tami Harris and Danica Disbro were second and third in :27.2 and :27.7.

Anderson got her second win of the day in the 3,200 as she and Sally Wilson completed an 800-1,600-3,200 triple, one of the toughest in track. Wilson was second and Melanie Flanigan third to put the meet away, 70-58.

"Sallie and Kasey unselfishly tripled so we could be sure of the places," said coach Banton. "It's a very difficult thing to just place, rather than run for the good time. They did a very other Chelsea placers were as follows:

Mike Westhoven was third in the high jump at 5' 6".

Greg Brown was second in the 800 meter run in 2:07.

Pete Janik took second in the 300 meter hurdles in :42.5. Mike Hodgson, who didn't place, ran his best time in the event in :48.

Bowdish was second in the 3,200 run in 10:32. Hedding and Cattell, who didn't place, ran their best times of 10:42 and 10:43, respectively.

Chelsea also took part in the Mason Invitational last week-end and placed in three events.

Bulldog Baseball Team Downs Novi, Lose DH To Saline Hornets

Chelsea varsity baseball team was rudely greeted to Southeastern Conference play last Saturday as the Saline Hornets swept a double-header, 3-2 and 11-6.

In other action last week, Chelsea edged class A Novi, 7-6.

The first Saline game featured excellent baseball by both teams. The Hornets rallied in the bottom of the seventh off Dan Bellus with a single, sacrifice, and oloop single to break a 2-2 tie.

It ruined an otherwise heroic effort by the Bulldogs, who had rallied in the top of the inning to tie the game on a triple by Rob Murrell and single by Kevin Walz.

"We played a good team and you're going to lose a few like that," said coach Wayne Welton.

"Danny (Bellus) pitched well, and we were pretty solid defensively."

The Hornets first-inning home run was the first earned run Bellus had allowed all season. For the game, Bellus struck out eight, walked two, and gave up eight hits.

Chelsea tied the game in the third on a single and steal by Todd Starkey, and an RBI single by Chuck Downer.

The Hornets picked up one more in the fifth on a couple of hits.

Chelsea had six hits for the game, two by Walz.

The second game, in Welton's words, "was a disaster."

The Bulldogs shot themselves in the foot with errors, committing four in the first two innings alone. They were largely responsible for the eight Saline runs in the two innings.

For the day, Chelsea pitching gave up five unearned runs. Saline was out hit, 12-8.

"I don't think we were still feeling it from the first game," Welton said. "I think we just didn't play very well."

The Novi contest featured some lively Chelsea bats and a team pitching effort by Bellus, Downer, Harvey and Walz.

Downer whacked a two-run homer in the first inning to give Chelsea the temporary lead.

But the key play of the game wasn't on offense. In the seventh inning with two out, Chelsea in the lead, 7-6, and the bases loaded, Walz came in and struck out the only batter he faced to pick up the save.

Bellus, who pitched the first three innings without allowing a run, picked up the win.

Walz also got credit for the game-winning hit with an RBI double in the sixth inning, giving Chelsea a 3-2 lead.

Downer had four RBI on the evening, and Mark Mull added two hits.

"If this warm weather keeps up, I think you'll really see the bats start coming to life," Welton said.

For the rest of the season,

Wrestling Club Places 7 in Top 10 At State Meet

Chelsea wrestling club placed seven wrestlers in the top 10 in their respective classes at the state meet at Grand Rapids Junior College last week-end.

Those place winners included John Bobo, second; Doug Wingrove, third; Rex Nye, fourth; Bryndon Skelton, fifth; Reno Nye, eighth; and Craig McCalla, ninth.

Also attending the meet were Adam Taylor and Eric Hanna.

Chelsea plays six games a week, barring rainouts. They host Lincoln tomorrow afternoon.

TIM BOWDISH AND PAUL HEDDING, from right to left, finished one-two in the 1,600 meter run against Lincoln last week. Close behind was teammate John Cattell, who placed third. It was the only event all day the Bulldogs swept, as Lincoln proved why they might be contenders for the class B state title this season.

SPRINTING FOR THE FINISH LINE is Chelsea's Casey Murphy on the final leg of the 800 relay against Lincoln last week. Chelsea finished third in the event, and, over-all, was thoroughly clobbered by the Railsplitters.

Lincoln Hands Track Team 117-24 Pounding

The Lincoln track team, heavily favored to win the Southeastern Conference and a potential contender for the state class B title, showed the Chelsea Bulldogs just how good they are with a 117-24 pounding last week. "They didn't even have their best sprinter there," said Chelsea coach Bill Wehrwein.

Chelsea's strongest event was in the 1,600 meter run, where Tim Bowdish, Paul Hedding, and John Cattell finished in the top three spots, respectively. Bowdish won in 4:46.

Other Chelsea placers were as follows:

In the long jump, Joe Kosezgi was first at 18' 9".

Mike Westhoven was third in the high jump at 5' 6".

Softball Team Rebounds After Losing First SEC Game of This Season

Chelsea varsity softball team took a couple on the chin last week.

On Saturday the Bulldogs split with Saline in a 6-4 loss and 8-1 win.

Earlier in the week Charlie Waller's girls were shut out by Jackson Northwest, 11-0.

However, they came back on Thursday for a double-header sweep of Ypsilanti High school, 11-2, and 15-2.

In the first Saline game, Chris Defant pitched five innings before developing wrist problems. Jill Schaffner pitched in relief.

"We did not play well defensively," Waller said.

"We had several key errors, and an error in the sixth gave them three unearned runs. We also made at least three critical mistakes on the base paths. They made three double plays on line drives, which really hurt."

Chelsea did not hit the ball particularly well, although Jenny Cattell had two hits, including a triple, and Defant rapped a double.

The Bulldogs staged a mild rally in the seventh inning and scored one run.

Waller sat out most of the second game, but not by choice. For the first time in his coaching career he was booted from a game by the umpire for protesting a call too loudly.

A Chelsea batter was hit by a pitch, but not awarded first base on the grounds that she did not try to get out of the way. It's a judgment call that's rarely made.

At any rate, the team rallied to win behind the pitching of Pam Brown, who gave up seven hits but struck out 10.

"It was a good game for Pam," Waller said. "They hit the ball well, but her strike outs kept us out of real difficulty."

Chelsea did not hit the ball all that well due, in part, to the wildness of the Saline pitcher, who walked six. When the Bulldogs did hit, they made them count. Michelle Easton sparked a three-run rally in the fifth with a two-run homer. She had four RBI for the night. Chris Burkel had one hit, walked three times, and scored three runs.

Chelsea was in front 8-0 before the Hornets scored their run.

"The split doesn't really hurt either team that much," Waller said. "But right now, Dexter looks like the team to beat."

The 11-0 Jackson Northwest contest was played in lousy weather and Waller said his girls "just couldn't grip the ball."

The Bulldogs ended up kicking the ball around a lot and in the end less than half the JNW runs were earned.

Defant started the game and was charged with the loss.

Schaffner and Kelly Stump pitched in relief.

Defant and Chandy Hurd had the only two hits of the game for Chelsea.

In the first Ypsilanti game, Brown picked up her first win of the week in pitching five innings. Schaffner pitched the last two innings and struck out five of the seven batters she faced.

"Jill did a nice job in relief," Waller said.

The game looked as though it might be close after the first inning, when the teams were deadlocked at two.

After the fourth inning the Bulldogs held a slim 4-2 lead. But they broke it open in the fifth and sixth, scoring seven runs.

Cattell, and Kris and Trisha Mattoff each had two of Chelsea's nine hits. One of Cattell's was a two-run homer.

The nightcap lasted five innings as Defant won the game on a four-hit performance.

Yst walked 15 Chelsea batters, adding considerably to their own problems. That kept the Chelsea offense to a minimum as there were few good pitches to swing at. Defant found a couple of those good pitches and picked up a couple of hits.

The Bulldogs scored five runs in the first inning, and held a 7-2 lead after two innings. A six-run third inning put the game out of reach.

Southeastern conference action is in full swing. They play Lincoln tomorrow at home.

SHE'S SAFE AT THE PLATE, as Chris Burkel slides home with Chelsea's first run in the second game with Saline last Saturday. The Bulldogs went on to win the game, partly on the strength of Burkel's performance, who reached base four times and scored three runs.

JV Softball Team Gets No-Hitter from Pichlik

Chelsea JV softball pitcher Jenny Pichlik tossed a no-hitter against arch-rival Saline, and the Bulldogs won three of four contests in action last week against the Hornets and Jackson Northwest.

The Bulldogs suffered their first loss of the season, but handily won the other three games.

Last Friday the Bulldogs took on Jackson Northwest and lost the opener, 9-4, as JNW played "almost a perfect game in the field and hit the ball well," according to coach Pat Clarke.

"We seemed to lack a little intensity in the middle innings," Clarke said.

Chelsea had problems at the plate, collecting only four hits. Defensively they committed three errors.

The game was scoreless until the fourth inning when JNW scored two in the top of the inning and Chelsea plated one run.

But JNW came back to score four in the fifth, and by the end of the inning they held a 6-3 lead.

Angie Miller, Leah Enderie, Chris Basso and Jenny Pichlik provided the Bulldog offense.

Pichlik walked five and struck out eight in taking her first loss.

The second contest was a completely different story as Chelsea struck for eight runs in the first inning and 11 more in the third for a 19-0 lead after three innings.

"Our intensity returned in the second game and we made all the plays in the field," Clarke said. "I was proud of the way the girls came back."

Chelsea batters amassed 18 hits, four by Peggy Hammerschmidt, three by Enderie, and two each by Miller (three RBI), Coia Murphy, Kelly Stump (double and a triple) and Laura Torres.

Hammerschmidt pitched a five-hitter, walked two and struck out seven, to push her record to 3-0. She helped her own cause with five RBI.

"Chris Basso caught a strong game behind the plate, making numerous good plays," Clarke said.

The Bulldogs knocked off the Hornets, 14-0 and 13-3 last Saturday, as Pichlik and Hammerschmidt again pitched exceptional games.

In the opener, Pichlik posted her no-hitter, striking out 10 and walking four.

Chelsea struck for 10 runs in the first inning, and three more in the second.

The Bulldogs weren't all that potent at the plate, collecting just six hits for the game.

Basso hit safely twice, knocking in two runs, and Linda Lajer rapped a lead-off triple in the fourth inning.

Kim Easton, Pichlik and Torres picked up the other hits. Hammerschmidt tossed a two-hitter in the second game as "she struggled early but pitched well down the stretch," Clarke said.

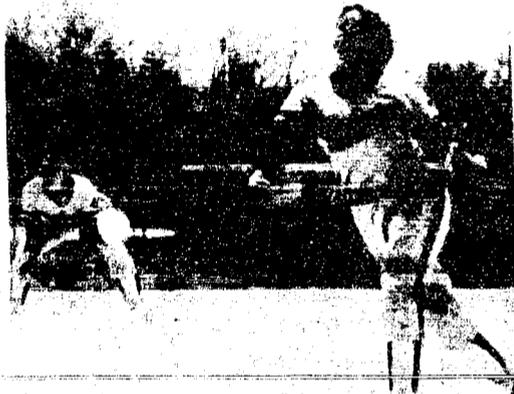

She struck out eight and walked three. All three runs she allowed came in the first two innings.

Chelsea had 10 hits for the game, again striking early for four runs in the first inning. The only inning the Bulldogs didn't score was the fifth.

Basso had the "big hit," a two-run double in the fourth inning.

Easton, Enderie, Kelly Dale, Alisha Dorow, Hammerschmidt, Pichlik, Miller, Heather Neibauer and Torres each had a hit in the game.

The JV girls finished last week at 7-1.

FIRING THE BALL is junior hurler Pam Brown, who won her first SEC game, against Saline, last Saturday afternoon. She had good defensive help in the 8-1 victory.

Area Fishing Good in Some Lakes

In a quick run-down of fishing opportunities in the area, Craig Wales of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources explained early this week fishermen are taking some croppie from Strawberry Lake at this time.

"In Washtenaw county, open season continues for trout, but it's still a little early," said Wales. Both South Lake and Pickerel Lake are stocked with trout regularly, and Pickerel Lake has the best trout fishing in the county, Wales explained. A few trout may be found in the Huron River (in the Ypsilanti area, for the most part).

The season for pike and walleyes opens Thursday, May 15. Wales reminds serious and leisure-time fishing enthusiasts. Toward the end of May, the bass season begins.

Deer Hunters Allowed Use of Some Handguns

Deer hunters in southern Michigan may now use handguns the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has announced. "A statute regulating the use of handguns and an order from DNR Director Ronald O. Skoog, allows the use of certain handguns during the general firearm deer season, Nov. 15-30 in this area of the state for the first time," said Law Enforcement Chief Herbert Burns. Certain handguns are already allowed in other parts of the state.

Under the statute, a muzzle loading pistol, .44 caliber or larger, loaded with round ball, may be used. A repeating center-fire pistol or revolver loaded with straight walled cartridges, .35 caliber or larger, with a maximum of nine-shot capacity of barrel and magazine, or a repeating black powder revolver, .44 caliber or larger, may be used under the director's order.

Burns said to be successful with a handgun, deer hunters will need to practice on the shooting range. He also noted that persons born on or after Jan. 1, 1960, must have in their possession a certificate showing successful completion of a hunter safety course in Michigan or another state or country. These rules apply only to firearm deer hunters in Zone III. Zone III includes parts of Muskegon, Newaygo, Mecosta, Isabella, Midland and Bay counties and all of the counties south of them. For specific boundaries consult the 1985-86 Michigan Hunting Digest.

Tennis Team In 2nd Place

Chelsea tennis team finished second in the Southeastern Conference by taking their second win of the season over the Pinckney Pirates, 6-1.

In other action last week, coach Rahn Rosentreter's boys were whipped by Saline and Brooklyn Columbia Central, both times 6-1.

In the Pinckney win, Kirk Lawton led off with a win in first singles over Todd Barkman, 6-2, 6-1.

Bodo Schlaefer upended Tony Ketz, 6-3, 6-1.

John Stevens topped Tom Carpenter, 7-6, 6-4.

And Jason Richardson at fourth singles lost to Kevin Banchoff, 6-4, 6-7, 6-7.

In doubles action, Steve Worthing and Chris Herter topped Steve Trash and Jack Lonetto, 6-2, 6-1, in first doubles.

Larry Moore and Mike Merkel whipped Dustin Schell and Jeff Yerkey, 6-2, 6-1, at second doubles.

Rounding out a sweep of doubles action, Eric Worthing and Bob Pratt stopped Doug Flora and Kyle Bonisteel, 6-1, 6-0.

In the Saline match-up, Pratt and Worthing at third doubles won the only match for Chelsea.

Against BCC, Moore and Eric Worthing at second doubles won 7-6, 7-6, for Chelsea's only victory.

Frosh Softball Team Wins 2 Over Richard

Chelsea freshman softball team knocked off Gabriel Richard twice last Friday, 29-6, and 9-6.

In the first game, Richard pitchers walked 30 Chelsea batters, but surrendered only five hits.

Jenny Smith picked up the win in a one-hit, four-strike-out performance.

Strong defense from Jenny Ghent at second base, Kim Easton at third base and Kelly Dale in the outfield was key to the victory.

Laura Unterbrink socked a double, while Heather Neibauer, Shannon Losey and Ghent each had one hit.

In the second game, Lisa Unterbrink won a five-hitter.

Laura Unterbrink had the only Chelsea hit.

Richard, once again, was plagued by walks as they gave up 19.

"The game was tied at six going into the seventh inning as Unterbrink drove in two runs with her timely hit."

"The girls showed a lot of poise and confidence to pull the game out in the seventh inning," said coach Karen Tobin.

"Good defense by everyone was apparent as Richard hit the ball well. Laura Unterbrink and Heather Neibauer made rally ending catches in the outfield."

The freshman now have a 4-0 record.

First Hole-in-One Reported Thursday At Inverness

Lou Doyle, of Pinckney, recorded the season's first hole-in-one at Inverness Country Club last Thursday.

Doyle used a five iron on the par three, 177-yard, seventh hole. He finished with a total score of 41 for nine holes.

The feat was witnessed by Glen Hunter, of Livonia.

CHRISTOPHER WHITE ANNETTE WURSTER

Young Bowlers Going to State Qualifying Round

Chelsea Lanes held the qualifying round for YABA Bowlers in "National Family Tournament" on April 5 and 12. This is a doubles tournament comprised of a youth bowler and a parent. One of every 10 entries goes on to the state level, in each division. The state qualifying round will be held in Mt. Pleasant on June 28-29.

Christopher White, bowling with his father, S. Dennis White, scored 1,253, to win the prep division; beating eight other entries.

Annette Wurster, bowling with her mother, Vicky Wurster, scored 1,203 to win over seven other entries in the junior division.

The winners at the state level in Mt. Pleasant will go to the state banquet in August, in Lansing to receive trophies and new shirts. The shirts will be for an all-expense paid trip to Washington D.C. over Memorial Day weekend, to participate in the national level of the National Family Tournament.

Amy Unterbrink Named Big 10 Player of the Week

Amy Unterbrink, a senior softball player at Indiana University, was named Big 10 Player of the Week for her efforts in a four-game series against Iowa the week-end of April 19.

Unterbrink pitched in all four games, had one loss, one save and two wins. She pitched 33 strikeouts and had one walk and one earned run. She gave up only seven hits and two runs in the series, and improved her season record to 19-5.

are Alan Hanna, Reno Nye, Eric Hanna, Doug Wingrove, Rex Nye and Adam Taylor. Not pictured are Craig McCalla, David Paton and Eric Montange. The team is coached by Howard McCalla. Eric Hanna, Wingrove, Rex Nye, Adam Taylor, Skelton and Bobo all took part in the state meet.

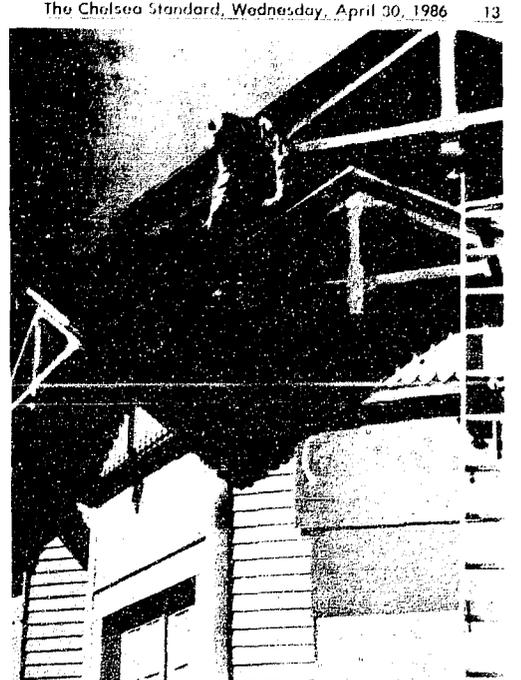

Rod & Gun Club Marks 50th Year

Chelsea Rod and Gun Club staged the first big social event of its 50th year with a festive dance attended by more than 60 couples. Music for the gala affair, entitled "Hats Off to the Chelsea Rod and Gun Club," was provided well past midnight by Chet's Combo from Jackson.

The party was co-chaired by ex-president Fred Klink and 1988 president Rick Monier but it was equally a women's affair in celebration of the first year of the club's women's auxiliary.

During a pause while the celebrants enjoyed hors d'oeuvres and a variety of beverages, Monier and Ginny Rank took the microphone to reminisce over the history of the club and the successful launching of its auxiliary.

More than 500 raffle tickets were sold in advance of the event and by coincidence, in a blind draw, Ticket No. 1, held by Helen May Leonard, won the grand prize: a night at Weber's from dinner to breakfast.

ROOFING EXPERT ED PRATT points to roof area at the east end of the Chelsea Depot which needs new shingles. He will make the repairs labor free.

Housing Bureau Counselor Will Meet With Seniors

Chelsea seniors who have questions about housing may meet with Treva Winans, volunteer peer counselor with the Housing Bureau for Seniors, from 10 a.m. to noon, the first Tuesday of every month beginning May 6, at the Chelsea Family Practice Clinic.

Affiliated with the Turner Geriatric Clinic in Ann Arbor, the Housing Bureau for Seniors provides information about senior housing choices in Washtenaw county. The Chelsea Outreach site at the clinic is part of a county-wide network of housing counseling locations.

To make an appointment to discuss your housing concerns, call 475-1321, ext. 240.

The bureau's counseling programs are free though contributions are always welcome.

Depot Roof Still In Good Condition

"The roof of the Chelsea depot is in excellent condition and should last for 12 years," Edgar Pratt, a professional roofer, declared after examining the shingles atop the 35x100 foot station. "There are gables at the east end of the structure which were not covered with new shingles when the last roofing job was done. By re-shingling them now," he added, "protection from rain will be assured for the entire building."

During his inspection, Pratt, who is president of the Chelsea

Lions Club, made the point that a building is no better than the integrity of its roof. Leaks, he said, can destroy the ceiling, walls and foundation.

He will do the labor of shingling the east gables without charge and will provide the materials at cost. His work will begin after the repainting of the east end of the station. No drop of paint is to fall on one of his new shingles.

Water Safety Instructor Classes Slated by ARC

Looking for a job on the waterfront this summer? Summer swim clubs and camps are now hiring. Are you qualified for a job? Better look into American Red Cross courses this spring. Camp waterfront directors must have current Water Safety Instructor (WSI), Advanced Lifesaving (ALS), and CPR certification. Pools hiring summer pool staff prefer individuals with WSI certification.

There will be two American Red Cross Water Safety Instructor classes this spring—Mondays, April 28 to June 23, 5:30 to 9:30 p.m., (and some selected Sunday evenings), and Tuesday and Thursdays, May 4 to June 19, 1 to 4 p.m.

All currently certified in Advanced Lifesaving, ages 17 and up are eligible for the WSI course.

Buckle Up '86 Finds Seat Belt Use Lags

The key to getting people to buckle up is "enforcement and education," according to Teresa Herzog, co-ordinator of Buckle Up '86, speaking at the kickoff breakfast announcing the new program.

Sponsored by the Washtenaw County Health Department with a special grant from the Traffic Safety Association, the Project will be conducted in Washtenaw county and expanded to Livingston county worksites and shopping centers as well as high schools.

Herzog introduced the results of a survey conducted at gas stations and shopping centers in the county. Of the 124 people surveyed during 1986, 63% reported they buckled up all the time, 23% reported they buckled up half the time, and 14% reported never wearing their safety belts.

This information coincides with the results of observations conducted by University of Michigan Traffic Research Institute in December. At that time 63.5% were buckled up. Although this is the highest seat belt usage in the state, it still represents a 13% decrease since observations were done when the seat belt law went into effect in July, 1985.

This reduction "can be expected" and has happened in other states in the months following the passage of safety belt laws, according to Meg Wiviot of UMTRI. The solution, increased enforcement and education to keep people thinking about buckling up.

The Health Department survey also asked people who reported not buckling up what it would take to get them to start. The most frequently stated answers were: "a ticket," "a warning from a law enforcement officer," "an accident resulting in injury," "a verbal reminder from a friend was also mentioned as a likely persuader."

Sgt. Ron Sherrod of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department confirmed that unbuckled people often try to slip on their belts when they see a police officer in their rear view mirror. "They know they should be buckled," he added.

Also referring to the survey, Dr. John Atwater, director of the Washtenaw County Health Department, noted "we often don't get a second chance—if we wait until an accident happens to someone we care for, it may be too late."

For more information about the Buckle Up '86 project, contact Teresa Herzog, Health Education Office of the Washtenaw County Health Department, 973-1488.

Discouraged amateur paleontologists struggling to find fossils may need to look no farther than an anthill, says Ranger Rick magazine. Harvester ants found in the western United States store bone chips and other hard objects in their mounds. Why? Some hypothesize that such artifacts protect the mound from wind and rain or act as little solar heaters, insulating the ant's eggs and larvae.

Forensics Qualifies 10 for State Finals

Ten Chelsea High school forensics students qualified for the state forensics tournament May 3 at the University of Michigan with their performance in the regional tournament last weekend.

The duo of Shawn Quilter and Susan Overdorf qualified with their performance of "Sybil." Bodo Schlaepfer, one of Chelsea's visiting students from West Germany, qualified with his informative talk about Berlin.

Elizabeth Maurer gave a sales pitch on vacationing in Wyoming to qualify.

The multiple team of John Cattell, Clay Hurd, Kevan Flangan and Chris Acree qualified with "The Spirit of Imagination."

Jeff Mason qualified in the humorous category.

Laura Goderis qualified in oratory.

Forensics coach Bill Coelius said a first place finish in the state is not out of the question, although Albion High school "dominated the regionals," and is probably the favorite to capture the title. He said Chelsea should be a strong contender for second.

The forensics and debate teams will have their annual awards night tomorrow beginning at 7 p.m.

Temporary Fences Provide Low Cost Grazing Alternative

Advances in temporary fencing may make controlled livestock grazing an easy and economical alternative to conventional forage production practices.

"This fence system consists of a high power fence charger, new plastic twine and step-in plastic posts," says Ben Bartlett, Michigan State University extension dairy and livestock specialist.

Controlled grazing confines grazing animals to a small area and then moves them to another paddock before they regrazed the forage. The management approach allows animals to take advantage of all available forage and plants to reach maximum growth.

Considerable fencing is necessary for controlled grazing, however, which can be economically successful only if fence costs are minimized, Bartlett says. The mobility and relative low cost of this fence system makes that possible.

The newly available high power fence charges put sufficient electrical charge on the fence under almost any condition to make minimum fencing effective. Bartlett attributes the increased effectiveness of these charges to a higher amperage that maintains the voltage even under a ground load that would ground out previously available electric charges. The higher amperage is a better deterrent to wandering animals but remains safe because the charge is short, he adds.

Plastic twine and step-in plastic posts are other innovations that make feeding pasture a quick and easy job, Bartlett says. To conduct the charge the plastic twine has small stainless steel wires that are wound on a plastic reel. Round or flat twine that is easier to see can also be purchased.

Controlled grazing is most effective with 20 to 30 paddocks, Bartlett says. Permanent fence should be used on the pasture perimeter and for a few division fences, but temporary fence can divide the pasture into the necessary number of paddocks. Fence and chargers are cost competitive with mechanical forage harvesting equipment.

To the Editor,
Last week a group of 20 interested faculty members from the Chelsea School District took the opportunity to sit down with several local industrial leaders and educational specialists from Eastern Michigan University and to discuss the implications of technology to our teaching.

Our desire was to learn more about the latest technologies used in local industries and what we, as teachers, should be doing to prepare our students for the jobs of the future.

The significance of this meeting was not so much what we learned about technology, but what we discovered about our local industrial leaders. These men proved to be extremely interested in us and in our programs. They are very willing to help us plan and improve our teaching.

The three leaders, William Ackley (president of Abrasive Finishing Inc.), Harold Pennington (director of purchasing for Raycon), and Phillip Knight (vice-president for sales and marketing for BookCrafters) each provided many valuable insights into what we should be teaching students.

We would like to publicly thank these gentlemen for their time and interest in helping us in our efforts to develop our programs and improve our teaching.

Because of their expressed interest in helping, we now feel confident that this same spirit will be evident in others whom we may call on to help us.

Thank you again gentlemen for all your help.

To the Editor,
The Chelsea Methodist Home Library is constantly receiving donations of used, discarded and otherwise unwanted books. These come in so frequently and in such large numbers that we reserve the right to use the ones which will add to the library's collection and discard or sell the others at the annual resident sales.

Sorting all the old and not-so-old donated books would be a very arduous task were it not for the nugget of gold which turns up once in a while in the form of an autographed copy, a first edition, an old book in mint condition, or a book turned up lately, a book which represents a bit of Americana.

When Black Beauty, the story of a horse poorly treated, was published some time before 1900 it spoke only for the horse, and more material seemed necessary to depict the existing mistreatment of other domestic animals and pets and to advocate better and kinder treatment.

A contest was announced in 1893 asking authors to submit stories to illustrate the horrible plight of some animals and to suggest more humane attitudes.

The contest was sponsored by the Humane Society of Boston and the winner was that famous tear-jerker, Beautiful Joe by Marshall Saunders, a copy of which arrived lately with some donated books. The title page is missing. The red cover is faded and stained, the back is loose so it is amazing that no pages have been lost, and in general appearance the book is a wreck.

The brief author's preface is there, saying in part "Beautiful Joe is a real dog and Beautiful Joe is his real name. He belonged during the first part of his life to a cruel master who mutilated him in the manner described in the story, etc."

There is also a lengthy introduction telling of the contest and why Saunders' book was chosen by the Committee of Readers of the Prize Stories offered to the Humane Society. In the back of the book there are several pages advertising books published by the American Baptist Publication Society. Among those advertised is this Phoenix edition of Beautiful Joe, cost 25¢, average postage 5¢.

All of us reading Beautiful Joe when we were young must have went copiously; however, leaning through the book now one finds elements of humor we either missed as children or do not remember. Here is one example from a chapter headed "Stories About Animals."

A small girl speaking at a meeting related the story which she said her grandfather had told her about some cruel boys who threw stones at a monkey his father had brought from the West Indies. A man painting a house near by drove off the boys and rescued the monkey and to quote, "De monkey ran down de tree and shook hands with de man." There was laughter. The girl took her seat then popped up and said, "Oh, I forgot dat my grandfadder says dat afterward de monkey upset the painter's can of oil and rolled in it and den jumped down in my grandfadder's flour barrel."

This copy of Beautiful Joe is not intrinsically valuable. It is in bad shape, much like the miserable Beautiful Joe, yet where else can one pinpoint the time when the Humane Society in Boston searched for a book to combat animal abuse and the horrors of animal neglect at the turn of the century? We know exactly why this book was written, an early example of propaganda with the intent of teaching as it contains a chapter on how to train a puppy by being kind in the process. Even in its forlorn state the book tells a story.

There is also an unattainable story one can only imagine about where it has been and who has read it during its more than 80 years since publication.

Mr. Hamilton,
Sorry, but I think you goofed again. I am, of course, referring to your newest idea of fining parents $1,000 to become involved in their children's sports.

First of all, it was my impression that when you bring a child into the world, you are supposed to love, nurture, guide, support, and educate it.

Secondly, any child can find a pick-up game and they don't need a professional field, either. We live in the country where kids are few and far between but there are games going on in our yard all the time. Kids of all ages, from 5 years to 50 years are playing in our front yard, not in our 10-acre field. Why? Because the 10-acre field is in the back of the house and the yard in front of the house is where they can be seen through our picture window. We've asked a 1,000 times, why don't you play out back. The answer? You can't see us out there. So, we decided to raise kids, not grass.

My husband and I have coached for nine years in Chelsea and have found that most of the loud parents you mentioned, are the same parents, who use their child's sport as a babysitting service. (Check the soccer games Saturday!) They show up once in a while and to show how much they support the babysitting service, they get loud, so their child knows, they finally made a game.

As coaches, the most important thing we try to teach a child is "you were not out-played, you were out-coached." They are not pressured to win! They are taught with love and care, that they can be athletes. There is never a "loser" on their team, we strive to build confidence, in all children, something I think a team without adult guidance would find hard to do. If more parents become involved with their children's lives and truly supported them in sports, all through their lives, we would have healthier, stronger, more confident children.

I really could go on and on but this is a newspaper not a book. By the way, I took a poll of our four children, 8-20 years old and 100% of them wanted us at all their games, of course, that is physically possible but nobody volunteered to let us slide (no pun intended).

Sen. Pollack To Meet With Senior Citizens

State Senator Lana Pollack will host 12 questions and answer sessions for Washtenaw county senior citizens during a five-week period beginning May 5.

The question and answer sessions will be held at community and senior citizen centers where seniors are provided lunch through the Senior Nutrition Program.

The Senior Nutrition Program provides meals to senior citizens at sites throughout the county, as well as to homebound seniors, and is funded by appropriations from the federal, state and Washtenaw county governments.

"In a few weeks thousands of seniors will converge on Lansing to meet with their elected officials as part of Senior Power Day," Senator Pollack explained today. "However, experience has taught me that one day simply isn't enough time for senior citizens to express their concerns and receive answers to their questions."

"There are also seniors who never participate in Senior Power Day for whom access to information and contact with elected officials is even more limited," Senator Pollack added. "By scheduling question and answer sessions in conjunction with the Senior Nutrition Program I hope to meet with as many senior citizens as is possible."

Senator Pollack's schedule includes the following area centers:

Monday, May 12, 1 p.m., Whitmore Lake.

Friday, May 16, 10 a.m., Dexter-Knights of Columbus Hall; 1 p.m., Chelsea, North school.

The question and answer sessions will be held before or after lunch and will last one hour.

"I am very pleased for the opportunity to meet with senior citizens throughout Washtenaw county," Senator Pollack concluded. "I hope that seniors who participate in the Senior Nutrition Program will be sure to attend lunch on these days."

"Perhaps if there are seniors who have not yet participated in the program but would like to, these sessions will be a good time for them to begin," she added.

Workshop Set With Reading Expert

Chelsea area parents concerned about the development of good reading skills in their pre-school and school-age children will soon have an opportunity to attend a workshop held by one of the country's leading experts on that subject.

On May 13 at 7:30 p.m., Dr. Linda Clinard, author of "The Reading Triangle" and a highly respected authority on reading development, will present a workshop providing practical advice and activities for parents to use with their children. The workshop will be held at the Chelsea High School cafeteria.

Dr. Clinard is uniquely qualified for this presentation. As an instructor at Michigan State University's Birmingham campus, she shares expertise recognized by both the Michigan and International Reading Associations. Her book, "The Reading Triangle," has received national attention as a handbook for parents and teachers on how to promote language development from birth.

In addition to her educational background, Dr. Clinard and her husband, John, are the parents of a seven-year-old girl, Anne Marie, and twin three-year-old boys, Jeffrey and Trevor. The Clinards live in Bloomfield Hills.

Dr. Clinard has recently made presentations in Virginia, Pennsylvania, and throughout Southeast Michigan. Also, she was recently interviewed on WKBD-TV in connection with March as "Reading Month." Her May 13 workshop in Chelsea marks her first appearance in this area.

Advance registration is encouraged. Interested parents may register in person at the Chelsea Community Education office or call the office at 475-6939 to arrange mail-in registration. The workshop fee will be $5 per family.

Hunter Safety Classes Needed in Many States

Michigan hunters who have not taken a hunter education class may be in for a rude awakening when they go to another state to hunt, warns Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Hunter Education Program Supervisor Jim Dabb.

"What's happening is that many hunters aren't checking on the hunter safety requirements some states have," says Dabb, including Colorado which is a popular state for Michigan hunters to visit. It's mandatory for anyone born on or after Jan. 1, 1949, to have completed a hunter safety course to buy a license in over half the states. Hunters without a certificate indicating completion of a course, are not allowed to hunt.

According to Dabb, the certification students receive is permanent and recognized across North America by all the states and Canadian provinces.

Hunters planning to go out-of-state this year should enroll in classes now. Michigan's 10-hour training seminars are held year-round, most often during the spring (April and May) and fall (September and October). In classes, participants learn safe hunting habits, hunter responsibility, firearms and bowhunting skills, wildlife identification, management and game care, survival and first aid.

Moreover, students learn such practical matters as how to cross a fence with a gun, when to pass up a shot, and where to find posted game laws which must be observed.

DNR volunteer instructors teach the course at colleges, sportsmen's clubs, schools, and police departments throughout the state.

Since the Department began keeping records in 1960, 800,000 men and women have taken the course, with 700,000 of those individuals trained since 1971. The hunter safety program began in 1945.

For information about hunter education classes, contact the nearest DNR district office or call Jim Dabb, (517) 373-1230.

Superintendent Van Meer presented, as an information item, a letter from out-of-district parents requesting permission for their child to attend school in Chelsea.

Assistant Principal Larson reviewed the procedures for determining the school calendar with efforts to avoid Wednesday night conflicts; Wednesdays have been designated as church nights. Much discussion followed on keeping Wednesday nights free for church activities. Athletic Director Reed and Ken Larson will meet with the Ministerial Association to review possible solutions.

The board reviewed the Terri Schreiner arbitration decision. The arbitration ruled in favor of the board; the transfer of assignment was made with correct contract interpretation.

The board approved joining a class action suit against the State of Michigan for possible underfunding of some programs. The school district joins approximately 100 other school districts in an attempt to have the State of Michigan completely fund mandated programs.

The board accepted as a gift, from University Microfilms, a microfilm collection of the New York Times covering the years 1851 through 1985. This gift is valued at $95,000.

Cameron Pool Adds Safety Equipment

The Cameron pool has purchased two new reaching poles to replace the older models that are now being used.

The reaching pole is used to help a swimmer make it to the side of the pool when he or she is in danger.

"Our old poles did the job well but we felt that the newer model would be a good addition to our safety equipment," said swimming teacher Mike Keeler.

The Cameron pool also has many other safety features, including both qualified personnel and safety equipment.

The lifeguard on duty has taken a lifesaving class where he or she has learned the proper procedure to handle any situation in the pool, along with a CPR class. The lifeguard's duties include watching for dangerous situations in the pool, keeping the diving area safe and managing anyone on the pool deck.

Other safety equipment includes a life ring that can be thrown to a swimmer who is in the middle of the pool, and a back board that is used to get a person who has a spine injury out of the pool safely and without further damage to the spine.

These features continue to make the pool a safe place for both lap and recreational swimming.

A study by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency has found that certain normal daily activities were strongly associated with increased exposure to toxic pollutants. Among these were filling one's tank with gasoline, visiting a dry cleaning shop, smoking and painting. The same EPA study found that indoor levels of certain toxic pollutants were many times greater than outdoors, sometimes more than 100 times higher.

DINOSAURS

Tyrannosaurus Rex was a meat-eater. He would eat anything that he found. He didn't like water very much so other animals could go in the water and be safe from him. Some light Tyrannosaurus Rex might well, like Triceratops with his two big horns and his horn on his nose and his big shield behind him, and his charging body. Tyrannosaurus Rex could get water animals like Brontosaurus if they weren't near the water. The reason why he couldn't get them if they were near the water is their feet would sink down into the mud.

I would push him around the ice. It was hard because everytime we would hit a bump the other guy would go flying up in the air. One time my brother said he got hurt. My mom brought a thermos full of hot cocoa. I said, "We will be serving cocoa."
My brother jumped up and said, "Cocoa?" He ran over to the thermos and drank the whole thing. He was burping the whole way home. When we got home I saw my brother glued to the T.V. There was a place where there was some icy water and he was the only one who knew where the freshwater grass and other plants were. He liked other animals. For an example, Joey helped the racoon get unstuck out of the mud so he could go back to his home and eat. The kangaroo felt very tired. He was so kind to the forest people that they paid the world around that they should do something for him. So they got all ready for a Valentine's Party. THE BAT

I had a BB gun and Karl had a tennis racket and Thomas had a flashlight. We went downstairs to look for the bat. I saw it. It flew at us. I shot at it and I missed it. It got upstairs and my mom screamed "help!"
My dad was going outside when this happened. He ran to my mom. He didn't shut the door, the bat flew out the door and Karl got away. I saw a bat in your house, call us. Our number is 1-800-BATS. On the list we didn't get any calls but the next day we got calls and from then on we were called "Bat Busters." We get bats for people forever. People called us every day. Pretty soon we were experts. People called us from all over the country. Sometimes it takes awhile.

"No," said Satch, "he isn't."
"Spinner, come see," said Frankie.
"Frankie, where are you?" said Spinner.
"By the lions," said Frankie.
"OK, what do you want Creeper?" said Spinner.
"Watch me!" and in he went with the lions.
"Satch, come here quick!"
"What, What?"
"Frankie is in the lions den!"
Meanwhile, Frankie was being chased by lions and crying "Help, Help."
The Zookeeper came running down to the lions den. The zookeeper jumped in with the lions and flagged the lions down. Just then, "Ouch!" screamed Frankie.
"Oh, shut up, and come on," said Spinner.
After that experience Frankie did not go in the lions den. But the next adventure will be "Frankie with the Gorillas."

TWO DEVILS

By: Kevin Herrick, Third Grade—Mrs. Moore.
Once there were two mean devils and one boy. It all started in Chelsea when two devils tried to destroy the town.
First they went to Gambles and ate all the TVs. Then they went to the school and scared all the kids except for two boys named Adam and Kevin. They walked up to the devils and hit them. The two devils ran, but the next day the devils got back at them by making their math test.
By now all the devils were mad and scared the devils. They went back where they came from and never came back again.

Once there was a cowgirl who had a magic spell. She could live in the sea with her water. Green Stallion. She would not get wet. Her food was caviar and seaweed and fish sticks.
Her friends, the mermaid came for dinner. Her house was a sunken ship. Her bed was a clam. The sharks and the whales liked her. They were her body guards. She called herself Seagull. Her friend, the mermaid, spent the night.

THE MIDNIGHT SNACK

By: Tom Payne, Third Grade—Mrs. Stein
One night I got really hungry. It was midnight. I went down stairs and saw the closet open and four mice came running out.
I went to get some cereal and the whole box was empty. I wanted some grapes and they were gone, too. So then I went looking for the mice.
I went into the family room and I saw the mice fighting my G.I. Joe guys. It was funny.
Then they ran to a real chubby mouse who must have been the one who ate all the cereal and the grapes. So I chased them all outside and finally got my snack.

FOREIGN SANDS

By: Bobbie Ja Buckner, Grade 4—Miss DeVries
You are going swimming and you dive in and see a cave. So you go in the cave and you see another world.
So you go in that world and you see blue, red, yellow, green and orange people. The boys are alive and you see bright colors. Mr. T. is so little. Michael Jackson is little too.
I went to a little store and saw a little Cabbage Patch Kid and little bicycle. The System 80's even little.

PREJUDICE

By: Meagan Robinson, Grade 4—Mrs. Nance
Prejudice is an opinion formed without taking time or care to judge fairly. Some things that happen when people are prejudiced are that white does not like black or white thinks black takes things or blacks and whites use different bathrooms or blacks sit in the back of the bus and whites sit up front.
Here is an example of how prejudice works. If someone has a pair of pink shoes and you write them over and they are mean to you and do not eat your mom rocks all day, and then you do not like each other. So if some other person has a pair of shoes, you do not like them either and you do not try to see what they are like. But maybe they are real nice and if you could see what they're like, they could be your best, best friend.
I don't see blacks much, but the ones in Chelsea are not treated in a mean way.

THE PEANUT BUTTER HAMSTER

By: Mara Smith, Fourth Grade—Mrs. Haefer
One day this little girl named Casey went to the store to buy a hamster. She named her hamster Gretchen Abigail.
One day she went to get her hamster to show to her friends. But she wasn't there. So they went to an animal doctor.
The doctor said to leave out some peanut butter and wait, because hamsters like peanut butter. The next day she waited, but no hamster.
The next day she was on her bed and she saw something run across the room. It was her hamster. It ran into the living room. So they fed her hamster peanut butter every day.

I FLEW THE AIRPLANE

By: Jeff Williams, Fourth Grade—Mrs. Walton
I'm riding in my jet when the pilot hit his head on a table and he was out cold. I was scared stiff. All of a sudden the tower called and asked what was wrong. So I told them what happened and they told me how to land the plane. I told them I couldn't land a plane. They said anyone could land a plane, all they need to know is what to do. I said all right and we started. I pulled the stick up and the plane went down so I pushed the stick down and the plane went up. Then I pushed the button to let the wheels out and I pushed more buttons to make the plane land. It worked! I could fly a plane! It was fun! I could see the ground now I took the plane in soft. It hit the run way hard. People crowded in to see if I was all right. When I got home everybody was looking at me. It was a happy ending.

SCIENCE

By: Robby Maybaum, Fourth Grade—Mr. Smith
There it was, the science book, the enemy of a child. My friend Matt asked "do you like science?" "No, I don't." When I got home I said "Hi it's me." "How was your day?" "Not bad." "Is mom home?" "No she is not yet."
Next day science. "Time," "Is mom home?" "OK, turn to page 21."
"Boo!" (everybody said).
When I got home I asked my mom when Dad will get home? Not until late, she said.
That night I had a dream that the school was invaded by ants.
The next day we went to gym. Boy it was hot. Then once again it was science time. Turn to page 23.
When I got home, I asked my mom if I could have someone spend the night? She said yes I could. "Yes," I said. Can I pick some Saturday? Yes you can. Let's see the movies I can pick. He will have to come over Saturday. OK, I said.
Well then, Saturday came, I asked my mom if she would go to Matt's house to get him? When he came over he told me that he liked my house.
The next morning I got up at 8:00 a.m. It was the end of the school year, and it was the best time of my life because I could say I hate science.

A NIGHT TO REMEMBER

By: Tammy White, Grade 5—Mr. Ticknor
Once there was a girl and her name was Karie. She had a big sister named Sun.
One day they were going for a walk, and they saw a big house on top of a big, big hill. The house was old and only Karie wondered if anybody lived there. So Karie said, "Sun, I'm going to go up and knock on the door and see if anybody lives in that house." So Sun said, "Sun, but I'm going with you. I don't think it's very safe up there." So they both went up and Karie knocked on the door. Nobody answered, so they left.
The next day they had school. Karie went to school and when everybody was there, her teacher Mrs. Jameson said, "OK. Today I want all of you to write a story about anything you want. I'm going to read the stories out loud when everybody's done. If you want to take them home tell me so I know." Karie had her story about the house that she saw on the hill and brought it home so she could write more. After school she went home and told her mom that she is going for a walk. Karie's mom said, "OK, but don't be gone too long." "OK," Karie said and she left. When she got to the hill where the house was, she saw someone go inside the house. It looked like an old lady, but she wasn't sure. So she went up to the door and instead of knocking on the door, she went right up side. When she got inside it was really pretty, it looked like a castle. When Karie was walking around, she saw a sign. It said, "KITCHEN." Then she saw a sign that said, "COOK IN THE KITCHEN." So she went in the kitchen and she saw her sister. She was about to untie her when she saw a lady come in her sister, and she yelled "LET ME GO!" But they wouldn't let her go. Instead they had her up. And the only time they untied her was to let her go to bed. But they didn't tie her hands up. Later that night when everybody was sleeping, Karie woke up and got out of bed and tried to get her hands out but she couldn't. Then she heard someone coming. It was the cook and she said, "Who's moving around here?" Quickly she got in bed and acted like she was sleeping. Then she felt someone cut the rope and then she left. Then Karie got up, ran out the door, and when she got home, she told her everything that had happened at the old house. Then she wrote it all down on her story that she wrote, and on the paper she got an A+ and she went home and showed her paper to her mom, and they all lived happily ever after.

IF I WERE PRESIDENT

By: Michael Kennedy, Grade 5—Mr. Bullock
One of the things I would do as President is lower taxes, because they are too high. I would call up Russia and make an agreement so that we won't start a nuclear war. If the U.S. and the U.S.S.R. got rid of all their nuclear bombs, there would never be a nuclear war. As President, I would help the farmers by loaning them money, and stop buying food from other countries. I would try to prevent the AIDS virus because so many people are getting killed. The President could have the F.B.I. and the C.I.A. find the terrorists and stop them up. I would also hire a bunch of people to think up new jobs for the unemployed.
The President should think about the people that elected him and do things for them. If he can help them to have good jobs and a safe country, then he is doing a good job.

NUKO'S CHALLENGE

By: John Heller, Grade 5—Mrs. Moore
One day there was an Irish man named Mr. Dawa Laff. He met an Irish woman on the ship Titanic. Well, to save time, Mr. and Mrs. Laff married the sinking by swimming through the icy waters to America in two days. Not knowing where they were, they went to a church and got married. Mr. Laff chose Mr. Everest to live. Their first born son was Nuko. The second was a girl named Tintle. Their father was a good hunter. He could shoot ninety birds with one shot. Now and then Nuko went hunting with his father. Nuko became a very good shot. Tintle started to get lessons from Nuko. Father liked the idea but mother hated the idea of a girl hunting. She thought Tintle should be more lady-like.
Thirteen years ago Nuko won his first national championship in hunting and set a new record at the age of twenty-three. He shot four elephants, sixty elephants, one hundred one deer, ten tigers taking only two minutes. Tintle easily won second by shooting fourteen deer, ten tigers, twenty rabbits, one hummingbird, and three owls in five minutes. She scored a record, too. How do they do this magnificent, extraordinary thing, you ask? Well they do it by shooting with a MARLINE .22 MAGNUM BOLT ACTION RIFLE or a BEAR WHITEFACE POUND BOW.
Back to the story: Ten years ago today, Dawa Laff died. From that day on Tintle was no longer allowed to shoot by her mother, but she could practice. Nuko did the hunting for the three. Tintle would not cooperate with her mother. So she left home and got married to Nipi Kiwi.
Today is the big day for Nuko because at the age of thirty-six he has a challenger named Tintle Kiwi. Nuko thought about the hunting days with his sister, Tintle, but everyone thought she was dead. All through the hunt the same happened to Tintle. Nuko brought in one hundred deer, thirteen rhinos, two dogs, ten elephants, three hummingbirds, and two hundred raccoons in two minutes. Tintle shot forty-six quail, thirty two ants, one hundred four camels, ten llamas, two bears, and one hummingbird in ten minutes. Nuko was amazed. She could shoot as well as his sister.
Nuko asked what her real name was. She said Tintle Laff. After that they forgot about the challenge, and shot every wolverine in Michigan in one second.

UP TO THE PAST

By: Alex Backowski, Fifth Grade—Mrs. Beaul
It all started when Doug and I were making an experiment with my science kit and we made a sort of purple stuff. I was walking over to show my mom. Doug tripped and fell on me and the purple gunk spilled all over my wall. So we rushed down the hall to get a towel. But when we got back there was a huge hole in the wall and what shocked us most was it was ditch black beyond the wall and it was day time outside. We ran to get my mom, but she couldn't see it. Only we could.
Then that night Doug threw a baseball through the hole and it made a swish sound. It frightened us. Then in about 12 minutes the ball came back and it had a sticker that said China 1859. We couldn't figure it out. Then it dawned on us, all of a sudden. Then we looked at each other and said "Time Machine." Next thing I knew I heard a scream. It was Doug. He had fallen through the hole and he was pulling me. Next thing I remember I was on the side of a river and Doug was pumping water out of me.
Then we started out to find out what year it was. We saw a sign carved on a rock. It said, "Egypt 109." I said to Doug, "Did you hear something?" Doug said "I was hoping you wouldn't ask." "Yes," I said. Can I pick some Saturday? Yes you can. Let's see the movies I can pick. He will have to come over Saturday. OK, I said.
Well then, Saturday came, I asked my mom if she would go to Matt's house to get him? When he came over he told me that he liked my house.

HOW TO CATCH AN ORANGUTAN

By: Emily Carter, Fifth Grade—Mrs. Mortenson
You need a dozen bananas.
You need to go to the zoo.
You need a bobby pin, string and a lip stick.
Go to the zoo and find an orangutan cage. Then with the bobby pin you pick the lock on the cage. Next you climb up the back of the cage. Then you take the string and tie it to the bananas. Now hang the bananas in front of the cage. When the orangutan sees them then he will come out for them. When you see him come out put the lip stick on your lips, climb down the back of the cage and go up to the back of the orangutan. Then kiss him on the cheek. The orangutan will turn around and see you and like you. The rest is simple, you just walk home, and the orangutan will follow you home.

THE LITTLE GIRL!!

By: Nikko Arnett, Fifth Grade—Mrs. Crouch
I was all out of breath the hunters were right behind me. They kept shouting "We're going to get the last UNICORN!!!" And then I felt something, it hit me in the neck. The last thing I know was that I had got shot!!
When I woke up I was being lifted by the men that shot me! I was being lifted into a stable. A few minutes went by and a girl came in and fed me. She was really nice to me. Not mean and she said like those men were! She was about ten. She started talking to me. She said "Boy, just think the last unicorn!" You must be all alone and here you are tied down in this stable."
So she got up untied me, got on my back and we rode off! And from then on was the best of friends!

THE SILO HAD TO COME DOWN. The Michigan Department of Agriculture said, due to PCB contamination, and it did on Monday, as owner, Robert Heller, right, watches the operation. The contamination was caused by a coating used on the inside of the silo.

Silo With PCB Contamination Ordered Demolished By State

Robert Heller, a long-time dairy farmer in the Chelsea area, was forced by the Michigan Department of Agriculture to have a silo torn down on Monday due to contamination by polychlorinated biphenyls (PCB).

Heller had known for two years that the silo would have to come down and was told a year ago he could no longer use it. He has since built another less than 100 yards away.

The contamination was caused by a substance known commercially as Cumar, a material used by the Michigan Silo Co. to retard the curing rate of mortar between the staves. A silo is built with rectangular pieces of concrete (staves). Cumar had concentrations of PCB's of up to 33 percent, according to Washtenaw county extension agent Bill Ames. It was also used as a general inside sealant.

Michigan Silo Co. went out of business in 1966, Ames said. The state is paying for the clean-up of contaminated silos, paying the farmers the appraised values of the structures.

"We never had a sick animal, and I was never sick myself," said Heller, who admits to having ambivalent feelings about the state's project. "But who's to say what might happen (if the silo stayed up)."

Heller's silo had been in place since 1942. He began farming on his Guenther Rd. spread in 1959 and now has 40 dairy cows.

Cameron Balloons Opens New Facility

Construction is nearly complete on a new facility being built for Cameron Balloons, 41 Enterprise Dr., near Dexter.

The new building will house both Cameron's corporate headquarters and expanded manufacturing facilities for its lines of hot air sport and commercial balloons.

The new plant will more than double the capacity of Cameron's existing plant and is expected to be operational within days.

"The need for these new quarters came a little sooner than we expected," Cameron president Bruce Comstock said in explaining the move. "Market response to Cameron Balloons has been very strong, creating the need to expand our capacity about a year ahead of schedule," he added.

Fireworks Ordinance Will Be Re-Written

Village council voted to have Chelsea's fireworks ordinance re-written after two children set off a model rocket which apparently caused a grass fire near South school when it landed.

According to police chief Lenard McDougall, someone brought a complaint against two 14-year-olds who had launched a non-exploding model rocket. The rockets are propelled by solid fuel "engines," which are widely available at hobby shops. They are not sold as fireworks.

McDougall asked for an opinion from village attorney Peter Flintoft regarding the village's ability to prosecute under the current fireworks ordinance.

McDougall and Flintoft essentially agreed that the ordinance, adopted in 1911, was out of date and should be re-written.

Chelsea's ordinance deals with fireworks that contain dynamite, giant powder, or any other higher explosive, as well as firecrackers, toy cannons or pistols, roman candles and sky-rockets.

The rockets the children set off probably cannot be classified as skyrockets, Flintoft said, because they do not explode.

Flintoft also said the village ordinance is more restrictive than state law regulating fireworks and could probably not be enforced.

MICHIGAN BELL SPLICING TECHNICIANS Fred Lindsay, Dan Garrett, and Len Minnebo work as a team to match tiny pairs of lines and correct the chaos left after a Conrail construction crew doing work on a signal accidentally severed a 300-pair underground cable. Thursday, April 24, and left a 600-pair cable partially cut. MBT called the "experts" to the railroad crossing on Dexter-Chelsea Rd., not far from Lima Center Rd. Phone service was disrupted only a short time.

Worker Dies Friday in Jackson Rd. Accident

Minutes after 10 a.m. Friday, April 25, officials at the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department were notified of an accident which occurred on Jackson Rd. approximately 300 feet west of the Enterprise Dr. intersection.

Thomas Lee Hall, 40, construction worker from Monroe employed by Taddie Construction, Inc. of Ypsilanti, suffered fatal injuries when he was struck by a vehicle which had been allowed to proceed through the construction area by a flagman ahead of the area.

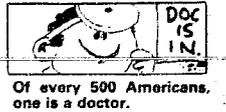

"A pedestrian workman who was standing in the eastbound lane near a sweeper was obscured by a large cloud of dust created by the sweeper," explained Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department investigators Joseph Yekulis and Ron Sherrard in their report.

Driver of the vehicle which struck Hall was 49-year-old David Lewis Mark of Dexter.

Both U-M Survival Flight and Huron Valley Ambulance were summoned to the accident scene, as well as the Dexter Area Fire Department, whose members assisted at the scene of the accident.

Medical examiner Dr. Charles Ross said Hall's death was due to multiple trauma and placed time of the death at 11:04 a.m.
