Full-Time Drug Abuse Counselor Being Hired By Schools, Hospital

Chelsea School District and Chelsea Community Hospital are on the verge of hiring a full-time substance abuse counselor.

As of late last week, the list of 20 candidates had been narrowed to two. According to assistant principal Ken Larson, one of the candidates could be offered the job late this week.

The counselor would actually be an employee of the hospital, Larson said, who would spend half his time at the school district, mostly at Chelsea High School. The school district would pay half the counselor's salary, Larson said.

"As far as I know, this kind of joint proposal is the first of its kind," Larson said.

"This will probably become more common, but I think you'll find Chelsea is two or three years ahead of the trend."

The first order of business for the counselor at the high school will be to implement an "alternative to suspension program" for students who are caught using drugs. Instead of being suspended from school for five days, as has been the policy in the past, students would be required to attend five classes dealing with the dangers of substance abuse.

Four students who were recently caught smoking marijuana during a recent football game will be the first participants in the program.

The counselor will also work closely with staff, especially high school counselors Chris Dimanin, Sue Carter and Gene LaFave, to identify and help drug and alcohol abusers.

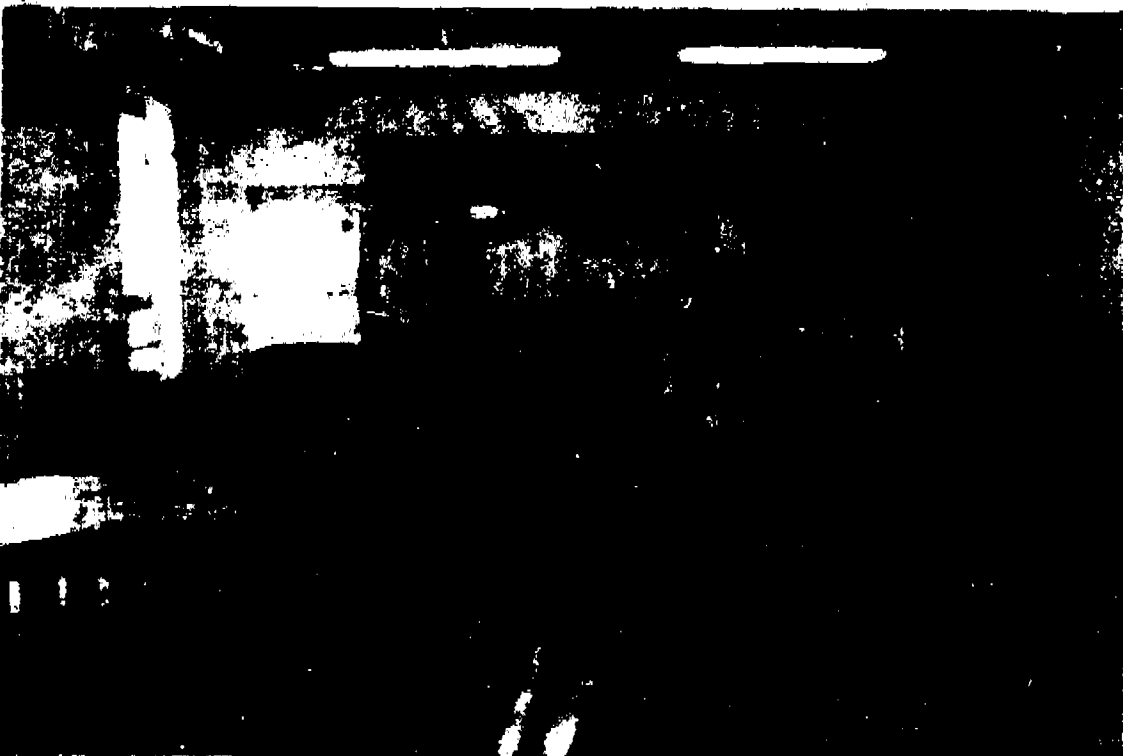

At the hospital, the counselor will have an office in the psychiatric and substance abuse outpatient clinic, according to Ron Demkowicz, director of the substance abuse clinic. The counselor will function as a clinical therapist for adolescents in individual or group therapy.

According to Demkowicz, the two finalists, both women, have masters degrees in social work and are experienced in working with adolescents in a school setting. They are also familiar with substance abuse and mental health as they relate to children.

The hiring of the substance abuse counselor has been in the works for many months and could prove to be especially timely due to the "crack" cocaine addiction problem that is spreading. Crack, the highly-addictive rock form of cocaine, is being used in Chelsea, Demkowicz said.

"There's no indication of crack use by children in Chelsea," Demkowicz said.

"However, we have adults from Chelsea who have used the drug who are being treated at the hospital. It's certainly widely available in Ann Arbor, and it's not unreasonable to assume that it could become available here."

NEW DINING FACILITIES for patients with Alzheimer's disease and other memory problems have been constructed as part of the first phase of the renovation at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home. The dining area can accommodate 16 people. Patients were scheduled to move into the new area on Monday. Checking out the final details are David Leech, director of development, left, and Mike Clemmer, executive director.

There will also be a drawing for a door prize of an airplane ride for two at Rosette Airport.

Open House Scheduled at Fire Dept.

Chelsea Fire Department is sponsoring an open house on Sunday, Oct. 12 as part of Fire Prevention Week.

The open house, which will run from noon until 4 p.m. at the Chelsea fire hall on W. Middle St., will feature a variety of activities for both children and adults.

Some of the activities include a hands-on display of emergency equipment in which participants will be able to see a hose, a demonstration of rescue squad procedures, such as cutting the doors off a car; a demonstration of Pittsfield township's aerial ladder; a demonstration on how to put out fires; and movies on fire safety.

There will also be a drawing for a door prize of an airplane ride for two at Rosette Airport.

One of the McDonald's characters will also be on hand to teach children how to stop, drop and roll if their clothes catch on fire.

The open house will take place rain or shine.

Mayor Sells Oil Business To Tecumseh Fuel Concern

Too many governmental regulations, and a desire to do something different, convinced Village President Jerry Satterthwaite to sell his J&M Oil Co. to Lenawee Fuels, of Tecumseh.

The company, a supplier of home heating oil and gasoline, officially changed hands on July 31 in a cash deal, Satterthwaite said.

"It's been fun," Satterthwaite said.

"I've enjoyed my 20 years in the business, there was never a day that I didn't look forward to going to work. I've accomplished everything I ever wanted out of the business."

Satterthwaite said the main reason he sold the business was due to excessive regulations, "that make it very difficult on a small business."

"Every time you turn around there's an inspector. Some of the regulations are all right, but some seem to go to extremes."

Lenawee Fuels does not plan to change the name of the J&M Oil Co. According to manager Jim Lawson, J&M Oil will become a division of Lenawee.

"We have no intention of changing the nature of that business," Lawson said.

"We want to extend the positive things he did. He (Satterthwaite) wanted to know that someone would take care of his baby."

Lenawee Fuels Inc., described by Lawson as a family-owned, medium-sized company, supplies gasoline to 30 gas stations in the Lenawee and Washtenaw counties where he sells as kerosene and fuel oil.

However, the company has decided to grow through acquisition, Lawson said, and J&M Oil was an attractive company.

"We really jumped at the opportunity," Lawson said.

"We felt strongly that Chelsea is an excellent market. It has a nice socio-economic base and it is a fine community. If I ever moved out of Tecumseh, it would be to Chelsea."

Lawson said Gary Allen will be the new manager of the J&M Oil Co.

Satterthwaite is helping out with the transition, but after that he isn't sure exactly what he will be doing.

"I sure didn't make enough to retire," Satterthwaite said.

Methodist Home Completes First Phase of Renovation

Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home has completed the first phase of a long-term $5.5 million renovation project, and 92 residents were scheduled to move into the modernized area on Monday.

One floor of the former nursing building has been turned into an area for Alzheimer's Disease patients and others with memory loss problems.

Two floors have been converted to small retirement apartments. The bottom floor was renovated for the administrative offices, examining room, laundry and other functions. All nursing is in a new separate building.

The first phase of the project has cost $1.4 million, according to executive director Mike Clemmer.

Five more buildings are scheduled to be renovated, Clemmer said, a project which could take to the middle of the next decade. He said two of the five will probably be entirely gutted.

David Leech, director of development of the home, said more than $4 million has been raised for the project since 1983, mostly from corporations, estates and individual donations.

"We have a standing offer that if anyone wants to give $1 million, we'll name a building after them," Clemmer said.

The Alzheimer's area is divided into two separate small communities, each with its own kitchen and dining facilities at the end of the hall.

"Smallness seems to be a big reason for success with these patients," Leech said.

"When you reduce the community to reasonable dimensions they are not frightened by the space and can find things easier."

The patients will help to serve the meals and clean up afterwards, Leech said.

"It used to look like the psychiatric floor up here," Leech said.

"The thinking back then was that you couldn't keep these people clean so there was a drain in the middle of the floor so you could hose them off."

Leech said that for the first time "it will really be comfortable on the floors," because double glazed glass is being used,

Friday Student Head Count Shows Population Up by 58

A total of 2,297 students are attending school in Chelsea this year at the four schools, a rise of nearly 60 students over last year, according to the traditional fourth Friday student count.

Last year there were 2,239 students at North and South Elementary schools, Beach Middle school and Chelsea High School.

Virtually all of the increase is in the elementary schools. Chelsea High school has one more student than last year at 804. Beach Middle school is down six students, from 470 to 464. North school population has risen from 473 to 510, while South school population has increased from 493 to 519.

The count is not critical for out-of-formula schools such as Chelsea. An out-of-formula school district does not qualify for additional state money, which the count is used to determine.

The number of students by grades is as follows: young fives (South school only), 15; kindergarten, 171; first grade, 165; second grade, 174; third grade, 196; fourth grade, 152; fifth grade, 156; sixth grade, 169; seventh grade, 153; and eighth grade, 142.

Numbers in grades 9-12 were not available as of press time.

M-52 Railroad Crossing To Close Temporarily

Are you ready for one giant pain in the neck?

Conrail has informed the village that it will have to close the M-52 railroad crossing for four days in order to lay new track. The crossing will be closed beginning next Monday, Oct. 6 through Thursday, Oct. 9.

That means a substantial amount of traffic has to be rerouted around Chelsea, including quite a few trucks.

The detours will be marked with state signs.

The southbound detour will go west on North St., south on Hayes St. across the tracks, west on W. Middle St., south on Wilkinson St., and east on Old US-12 back to M-52. This long route is being used to give trucks an easier time turning at intersections.

The northbound detour will run east on E. Middle St., north on McKinley St., and west on Dewey St., back to M-52 north.

"We're not really happy about this, but we don't have much choice," said assistant village manager Lee Fahrner.

Fahrner said that anyone who wants to drive downtown shouldn't have any problems.

Conrail is using long lengths of welded rail, which makes it impossible for them to work on small sections at a time.

Thieves Take Yet Another American Flag

John Mitchell, owner of Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home, became the latest in a long line of flag-theft victims when his 3' by 5' American flag, on a solid brass pole, was stolen from 124 Park St. According to Chelsea police, the flag and pole were valued at $35.

Police said the flag was last seen on Sept. 11. The theft was reported Sept. 26.

Police are investigating the incident.

MIRIAM KLEMER was recognized by the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea for the many hours of secretarial service she has given to the club. She was given a plaque and long-stem roses. Making the presentation are out-going president John Mitchell, left, and new president Jim Alford.

PARTICIPATION BY THE CONGREGATION has played a major role in the quick construction of a 5,800-square-foot addition to Our Savior Lutheran church on S. Main St. More than 75 members of the congregation have helped in the actual construction of the wing, which will be used as a fellowship hall, classrooms, and as a general education wing. Work by the congregation has saved about half the cost of the construction, or about $200,000, according to Pastor Franklin Glebel. "You would have been amazed to see who was here," Glebel said. Framing of the building was all done by the members, as well many other chores. The building should be in use by December.

A proposal to clean out and renovate the Palmer & Baldwin drain which affects several square miles and many residents on Chelsea's east side moved an important step forward last week when a Board of Determination decided the project is necessary. The decision paves the way for an engineering study and survey.

Treggs Tool and Engineering Co. has outgrown its space in the old Weinberg dairy and owners Steven and Douglas Dyert want to buy the former Riemen-schneider two-cycle fuel plant half a mile east on Old US-12. Present zoning is residential which traces to a former plan by owner William Weber to develop the land into home sites.

A newly opened cider business at Lakeview Farms, 12075 Island Lake Rd., Dexter, is owned by Woody and Marilyn Begres. Their Schinko press was designed in Australia, manufactured in Goshen, Ind., and is set up to be a two-man operation. With a continuous press, Marilyn loads the apples onto a conveyor, and Woody controls the motors from a centrally located control panel.

Consumers/Dow Form Partnership To Convert Midland Plant

Proposed conversion of the idled Midland power plant project to the state's largest co-generation facility has been proposed by Consumers Power Co. and Dow Chemical Co., who would be principal partners in the venture.

The proposal would settle counter lawsuits arising from Dow's decision to break its contract to buy steam from the nuclear plant originally planned for the site because of severe cost overruns on the project. That matter was recessed while details are worked out.

The new plan to rescue a portion of the utility's investment at Midland with a combined cycle gas generator which would also provide steam for Dow would entail rate hikes less than half as much as proposed in April under a conversion plan announced in April by Consumers, officials said.

Consumers Power chairman William McCormick said he expects no trouble in getting approval by the Public Service Commission "because the project will be economic, efficient, beneficial to the state, and will be looked on favorably. It is economically viable and attractive."

He said the rates for power purchased by the utility from the new partnership would be less than permitted under the PSC guidelines for co-generation power.

Dow vice-president F. R. Lehman said the company "is very supportive of the project" and urged the PSC to expedite proceedings to permit additional investments at the site.

Discussions between the two companies which led to the agreement began about two months ago.

Initial comments from the attorney general's office, which had vigorously opposed the earlier project, were restrained pending release of additional details, and Governor James Blanchard called the announcement "a positive step toward a practical resolution."

Among the benefits of the proposal, Blanchard said, is that it would attract a group of investors to complete the Midland plant and minimize the risk of any one company.

"I am hopeful that details can be worked out in the next several months to everyone's satisfaction," the governor said.

The two companies refused to disclose details of their agreement, including the amount of Dow's investment in the project, until final plans are approved by their boards later this year.

McCormick said officials from both companies are holding discussions with other companies to become partners in the project.

Officials said the co-generation facility would be covered by the Public Utilities Regulatory Policy Act, which is designed to encourage power plants which can generate useable steam.

The PSC in 1981 set guidelines for allowable rates to be charged to utilities, which under the federal law can own no more than 49 percent of a co-generation facility.

McCormick said power purchased from the partnership would require a rate hike of 10-15 percent, compared to a minimum of 25 percent that had been proposed when conversion plans were first announced in April. Robert Nelson, director of the PSC Office of Regulatory and Consumer Affairs, said the PSC should approve the plan if rates are within these guidelines.

This would easily be the largest co-generator in the state, and would be one of the largest in the country, he said. He said he did not know if the proceedings on the condition barring additional Midland investments would have to be reopened.

The PSC had prohibited Consumers from making further investments at the idled Midland project, whose $4.1 billion in costs threatened to bankrupt the utility, when it approved a six-year $84 million financial stabilization rate hike last year.

The utility had written off $1 billion of these costs, and the new plan does not affect the proposed rate hike for about $1.9 billion in abandoned facilities.

Assistant Attorney General Hugh Anderson said he viewed the proposal as generally positive compared to the earlier plan, and said, "Mr. McCormick has thrown in the towel to shift a $1 billion cost to rate payers as part of a gas-fired combined cycle plant."

He said the rate hike allowed for co-generation facilities is "pretty much in line with what they pay for power," and is far below the "whopping" increase that had been requested.

Anderson said he would expect hearings before the PSC to permit additional Consumers investment at Midland would have to be reopened "because this is an entirely different animal." He said he would probably ask that the case, which PSC officials say is ready for a decision, be put on hold until Consumers has more details available on the revised plan.

facilities to a co-generation facility using natural gas and producing a steam by product would still cost an estimated $400 million for the first phase, officials said. A second phase would cost $150 million, which combined with $900 million in existing facilities that would be used, and brings the total project costs to over $1.5 billion.

The new plan, using existing steam turbines and cooling ponds at the site, would yield an 875 megawatt generator in the first phase, to be completed in 1989, when the rate hikes would become effective.

The earlier proposal called for up-front rate hikes to finance the project. A second phase would produce a total projected of 1,300 megawatts and 1 million pounds an hour of steam.

Stalled Oil Truck Rolls Into Wall At Chelsea Glass

Chelsea Glass Co. sustained sizeable damage last Monday, Sept. 22 when an oil truck stalled and rolled into a wall of the building.

According to police reports, Gary Allen, of Clinton, was leaving Chelsea Glass driving a fuel truck owned by J&M Oil Co. Police said the truck stalled and the brakes did not activate, causing the truck to roll backward into the end of a wall. Several of the cinder blocks were destroyed.

The damage was repaired by the next day.

Here's just one of the steps we've taken to lessen yours.

When we built the new University Hospital and Taubman Center, we went to a lot of effort so you wouldn't have to. For starters, we added Valet Parking for a nominal fee, to save you time and effort when you come to the Medical Center. It not only makes parking convenient, but it keeps you warm and dry during Michigan's most inclement weather.

We also added Door Captains who'll assist you, direct you to where you are going, and will get your car when you're ready to leave.

Valet Parking and Door Captains are just two of the improvements we've made outside. And, when you add them to some of the changes we've made inside, like easy-to-read maps to keep you headed in the right direction, wider hallways so it's easier for you to get around and free strollers for children too big to carry, you'll know at the University of Michigan Medical Center we're using more than just the latest medical knowledge to make you feel better. Knowledge heals.

Mr. and Mrs. Mark F. Rosentreter

M. Fletcher, M. Rosentreter Are Married in Chelsea

Melinda Sue Fletcher, daughter of Ralph and Ruth Fletcher, 4445 Old US-12, and Mark F. Rosentreter, son of Neil and Delores Rosentreter, 18740 Stockbridge-Chelsea Rd., were married on Saturday, Sept. 6 at St. Paul United Church of Christ.

Mrs. Mouilleseaux played songs for the occasion. The bride wore a white-bottom layer chiffon dress with two layers of lace, a long ruffle train, and long lace sleeves with puffy shoulders. She also wore a derby hat and veil, with pearls all over the front, and carried pink carnations with long stem white roses.

Annette Schanz, of Chelsea, sister of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a dress with light pink taffeta, lace off the shoulders with thin straps and a full bottom with bows and lace.

The bridesmaids were Daphne Fletcher, sister of the bride, Dawn Murphy, cousin of the bride, and Dawn Zaleski, friend of the bride, all of Chelsea. Their dresses were the same as that of the matron of honor. They carried bouquets of pink carnations, white baby roses and baby's breath, the same as the matron of honor.

The bride's mother wore an ankle-length champagne beige gown with gathers in the front, and matching hat and shoes.

The bridegroom's mother wore a long, light blue dress with a jacket with buttons on the side and shoes to match.

The ringbearer was Justin Schanz, nephew of the bride. Jeanine Mouilleseaux was the flower girl.

Serving as ushers were Steve Rosentreter, brother of the bridegroom, Mike Schanz, brother-in-law of the bride, and James Pearson, friend of the bridegroom, all of Chelsea.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the UAW Local 1284 Hall. Mary Klink cut the cake.

The couple took a two-week trip to Daytona Beach, Fla. They are living in Chelsea.

The first recliner was introduced in Germany in 1889 by Wilhelm Reichelt.

Quilt Exhibit, Craft Fair Slated at Methodist Church

First United Methodist church in Ann Arbor will again be the site of the annual Quilt Exhibit organized by the United Methodist Women. There will be the usual assortment of lovingly created quilts, some 100 years old, some created and finished during the past year, and about 80 others from the years between. The quilts will be exhibited on the first Saturday in October, Oct. 4, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The church is located on the corner of Huron and State Sts., Ann Arbor.

A Craft Fair will be a part of the day's events, helping preserve crafts from the past and encouraging present day artisans to preserve their quality crafts. Area artisans will be demonstrating historic crafts, such as traditional rug hooking, bobbin lace, tatting, spinning and basket weaving. New guests this year will be Laotian refugees demonstrating and giving some instruction in their special art. Amongst stichery, a form of reverse applique handed down for generations from the people of northern Laos.

Quilted items, such as doll quilts, two full size quilts, dolls, cuddly fuzzy sheep, Christmas tree decorations, and tote bags are only some items that will be sold at the fair. Dorcas Circle again has an original quilt for sale. The quilt, large enough for a kind size bed, has an original design, an applique Maple Leaf pattern using fall colors.

Women of the church will have a bake sale with some goods baked the morning of the sale, area quilt dealers will have supplies for sale, and quilts will be on hand to exchange ideas and demonstrate their techniques.

An entrance donation of $1 is requested, all monies going to mission projects. Children under 12 are invited free, but must be accompanied by an adult. Enter from the parking lot entrance.

NEW LIVING QUARTERS for patients with Alzheimer's disease and other memory disorders have been built at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home. The first residents of the two floors were scheduled to move in on Monday. Above, executive director Mike Clemmer puts a sliding closet door into place.

and there is central air conditioning.

Nursing space is in high demand at the home. A new nursing building gave the retirement home space for 110 patients, up from 61.

"We still have 30 patients waiting to get in to nursing," Leech said.

"It sometimes can be a long wait."

Another project, not related to the renovation, will convert a garage on the side of the administration building into a computer center, Clemmer said. It will allow eight terminals to be run off a central computer to different parts of the home to track inventory and other functions.

The home has 380 residents, 81 from Washtenaw county and 45 from Oakland county, Clemmer said.

Approximately 80 percent of the residents are Methodists.

Memorial Sundial To Be Dedicated at Botanical Gardens

Sunday, Oct. 5, from 2:30 to 4 p.m. the Friends of the Matthei Botanical Gardens will dedicate a sundial in the center of the Medicinal Gardens, just east of the Conservatory. This sundial is a memorial to Jane LaRue, former collection botanist at the Gardens. The memorial fund was established at the time of her death in August 1983 and because of her special interest in the Medicinal Garden her family and members of the Friends agreed this was an appropriate memorial.

The sundial was created by Professor Jon Rush of the University of Michigan School of Art and will be a prominent feature in the Medicinal Garden. Professor Rush began his art studies at Cranbrook Academy and studied his craft further at the bronze foundries in Italy. He was recently commissioned to do the sculpture in Briarwood in front of Lord and Taylor Prof. Rush lives in Dexter.

Jane was a member of the Garden's staff for 12 years, beginning as a receptionist, and gradually changing her position to that of Collections Botanist. Under her capable hands, the random assortment of books became the Garden's library. Cataloging of new plants became a standard and crafts utilizing natural materials were encouraged under her guidance. All of her projects were performed with a degree of professionalism that set the pace for others to follow.

Jane returned to school when her two children were in high school, and she wrote her Master's thesis on the Flora of Kalkaska County, gathering data as she roamed around the area of her beloved second home near the Ausable River. A brain tumor caused her untimely death in August, 1983. Fortunately for the Gardens her husband Bob and daughter Suzy Wood have continued to be active supporters of the botanical interests she fostered.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connolly

To celebrate their own 50th anniversary, U.S. News and World Report published a special section on what the next 50 years would probably bring. They asked a galaxy of experts in wide ranging fields to forecast the future. Many of their predictions are startling, and it will take three of these columns just to touch the highlights.

CHANGING LIVES By the year 2030 humans will live 50 percent longer and many adults will refrain for a string of successive careers. It will also become customary for divorce and remarriage to suit the "seasons" of their lives. Wedding bells may ring first for love, twice for raising a family and thrice for contented happiness.

More legislators and judges will be women, and family issues will receive better recognition. There will be more child care centers and less attention will be given to the old concept of the males as the breadwinners of families. Uniform standards will be set for divorce settlements, and children in divided families will make their own choice of parents. Because both parents work and because children belong to multiple family groups, they will become more independent, making more decisions about school, friends and the use of their time.

EDUCATION. During the next 50 years education will go in tandem with aging. This will continue from kindergarten to the attainment of graduate degrees by people in their 80's and 90's—with microchips every step of the way. By the 2030's more than 60 percent will have had some college education, double the 30 percent of today. Many small colleges will fail for lack of funds or students while big universities will expand. At the same time, industry will become an integral part of the education system, conferring degrees in science, engineering and other high tech specialties.

MEDICAL VICTORIES over death and disease will make headlines for all five decades. There will be prevention and treatment of such dread diseases as hemophilia and muscular dystrophy. As early as the end of this century there will be new understandings of cancer and heart disease that will lead to cures. At the same time, superdrugs will be perfected to counteract senility, Alzheimer's disease, depression and schizophrenia. Dead cells will be regenerated in the brain and spinal cord, offering rescue from paralysis and brain damage.

In coming years surgical operations will give way to bloodless relief with lasers, radiation and drug therapy. We already have such wonders as the CAT scanners which visually examine every part of the entire body—normal and abnormal—by combining radiology with computer science. Even more recent is the lithotripter which smashes kidney stones with no pain to the patient by means of electronic shock waves. Before long coronary by-pass operations will become obsolete as drugs prevent clogging of arteries. Even patients already suffering from heart disease will have blockades in their arteries cleared by lasers.

Despite the development of non-invasive techniques and treatments, surgeons will be far from idle. Many will be busy replacing human parts. False teeth, as well as artificial arms and legs, have been with us for centuries. Now advances are being made, and more are foreseen, in the replacement of skin, blood vessels, joints and fingers. There are also hopes for the replacement of ears and tongues.

An implantable artificial heart is coming soon. There are also experiments of transplanting of human organs to humans from pigs, whose organs closely match the physical characteristics of ours.

Some of the greatest biological achievements may come from genes, segments of cells too small to be seen by standard microscopes. These genes, transmitted from one generation to another, determine our sex, skin pigmentation, racial characteristics, stature, intelligence, personality traits and inherent vulnerability of resistance to diseases.

Based on observations and experiments, the field of genetics has produced superior strains of plants and animals. Now with the discovery and future deciphering of the DNA genetic code, medical scientists will be able to cure or prevent a host of diseases such as cancer, cystic fibrosis, hypertension and diabetes.

Genetic engineers will develop safe vaccines for flu, pneumonia, meningitis and whooping cough. In the Third World, where children seldom see a doctor, four million lives a year can be saved with viruses that defeat malaria, diarrhea, typhoid fever and other illnesses.

The time will also come, right here in Chelsea, when parents can employ geneticists to choose the sex of their children.

"ADVANCED OLD AGE" will have a much different meaning 50 years from now. As genetics and immunology slow the aging process, men and women at 70 will look like 35-year-olds and people at 100 may look no more than 50. The dream is real. Age 100 may be nothing more than mile marker for holographic images above birthday cakes saying "Happy 150th!"

(Using projectors based on hindsight, the Census Bureau disagrees with the prediction of scientists. It sees life expectations 50 years from now at 74.4 years for men, 82.7 for women.)

With better education plus greater physical and intellectual powers, retirement may become obsolete among elderly citizens. Once again, as in ancient times, senior citizens will be respected for their wisdom and many for their affluence.

ENOUGH WATER? In the past 25 years we have seen a large migration of people from the northern tier of states to the Sun Belt. There is, however, a strong possibility they will be moving back north to the dear old Water Belt. As southern lands and cities begin to run dry, there will be serious talks of pipelines or canals from the Great Lakes to the south and southwest. Could these be the first rumblings of another War Between the States? Or do we solve the problem by replenishing Great Lakes waters with equal amounts drawn during favorable seasons from James Bay?

The probable answer to great water shortages wherever they occur is the desalination of sea water. The oceans contain 95 percent of the Earth's water, and desalination is easily accomplished through the application of energy.

Furthermore, there is the real hope that in the next half century we will have fusion reactors that will solve our energy and water problems forever.

No matter how often we use water on earth, not one drop ever gets away. It can and does change locations but we can certainly manage that problem with aqueducts and fusion reactors. When we do we will see the greening of Africa. With it will come the end of starvation, roots for education and lasting hopes for peace.

We will also be able to green the Great American Desert and spare ourselves another War Between the States.

PIK Help Sought For Michigan Farm Flood Victims

Michigan Farm Bureau is urging Congress and the U.S. Department of Agriculture to provide PIK assistance to farmers affected by flooding. According to Al Almy, director of public affairs for the state's largest farm organization, legislation authorizing the assistance is currently in conference committee.

"Separate bills have been passed by both the House and Senate authorizing PIK assistance to farmers affected by drought or floods," Almy said.

"H. J. R. 688 is now pending in a conference committee to work out differences between the specific versions enacted by the House and Senate. Hopefully, the House conferees, who have not yet been named, will agree to include the Senate language authorizing PIK assistance to farmers affected by floods," he said.

Farm Bureau has contacted the Senate conferees urging them to retain the PIK language, Almy said, and is also urging the U.S. Department of Agriculture to provide PIK assistance to farmers affected by the flooding.

"We think the USDA could provide such assistance without Congress having to enact separate legislation," he said.

A TUB FULL OF SNAPPERS is what Raymond Peterson of Grosse Pointe had in the back of his truck last week. Peterson likes to catch snapping turtles and butcher them, but none this small. He found the eggs, hatched them, and plans to let the little turtles go in area ponds and streams. Perhaps one of them will be a future meal.

Our Way

If love and respect could be measured by the amount on a check, a funeral service would be a simple thing. We all know that this is not the case. Despite many years in our profession, we can still be deeply touched by the manner in which many families of limited means show affection and reverence for a departed member. That is why all who use our services receive the same compassionate treatment in their bereavement. Expenses may differ because of the desires of the family but the service we render expresses equal concern for all we serve.

Space Center Starts Program for Aerospace Cadets

Michigan Space Center announces a new program for young people interested in a future career in space. Arrangements have been made with Ken Beatty, commanding officer of the National Aerospace Cadets (NAC) to organize and direct a group at the Space Center. Are You Having Problems With Your Telephone?

If you are, and you have not reported the problems to Michigan Bell and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, you have only yourself to blame. Michigan Bell needs your help to locate the problems in the system.

We're asking for your help!

The Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, in the spirit of a resolution of the Village of Chelsea and at the request of the Michigan Public Service Commission and Michigan Bell, is co-ordinating information that will help Michigan Bell improve the quality of the telephone service in the 475 exchange. Michigan Bell is already committed to replace the "switch" that Chelsea now has with up-to-date equipment during 1987 and has been adding lines and dial 1 equipment.

This, however, will not cure all problems. Certain types of problems may originate in your own equipment or wiring, in the line between you and the "loop", within the "loop", at the "switch" or between Chelsea and other components of the system.

For this reason, when you describe your problem, we must have your phone number and the number at the other end. If you don't know that number, Michigan Bell at least needs to know if it was a local call (475 exchange), other local non-toll call, a toll call in the 313 area code, or a toll call in some other area code. Also, the date and approximate time of the problem are important. Occasionally, weather is a factor; let us know if it was windy or raining.

Because the Chamber of Commerce wishes to see this improvement program through to its completion, please send us a duplicate of anything you send to Michigan Bell. If you need more of these forms, please call the Chamber of Commerce at 475-1145, or pick them up at our desk in the village office. Thanks for your help.

When problems occur, please fill out the forms below. Your description might include such items as:

Dialing problems	Problems during call
No dial tone or delayed dial tone	Background voices or noises
Reports from others that your phone was busy, but you know it was not	Static
Reports from others that your phone is ringing, but you know it hasn't	Excessively loud or soft
Phone rings once, no one on line when you answer	Cut off for no apparent reason
Must redial repeatedly
	Other problems
	Unique or special problems concerning data transmission or recorder problems
	Adverse weather

State Transportation Map Now Available

Michigan's new Official Transportation Map is making its debut this week as part of the state's 150th birthday celebration.

The map is one of the Michigan Department of Transportation's projects for the state Sesquicentennial celebration, which began in June and will continue through 1987.

It is the most up-to-date map of Michigan available and may be obtained from the department at no charge. The Michigan Travel Bureau will begin distributing them as part of an effort to encourage travel in Michigan during the Sesquicentennial year.

The cover photo has a historical theme and shows a sentry in early American military uniform standing atop a parapet at old Fort Mackinac, overlooking Mackinac Island village and harbor. The official Sesquicentennial logo is prominently displayed.

Inside is a full-page spread of a beach at Warren Dunes State Park on Lake Michigan, typical of the Great Lakes shoreline for which Michigan is famous. A narrative describes some of the features that make Michigan unique among the states and tells about some of its many historical attractions and the roads that take the traveler to all of them.

Another photo shows the Mackinac Bridge at sunset with huge lighted numbers "150" hung from the suspension cables on both the east and west sides of the bridge to mark 150 years of statehood.

A photo of Gov. James J. Blanchard and his family is accompanied by a "welcome" message to tourists and former Michiganders, inviting them to "come home" for the Sesquicentennial celebration. An informational panel provides facts and figures about Michigan.

The map guides travelers along the 9,500-mile state highway system, on primary county roads and the major thoroughfares of the state's metropolitan areas.

It also shows locations of airports having lighted runways at least 3,000 feet in length, intercity bus terminals, both commercial and recreational harbors on the Great Lakes, ferry routes, freeway rest areas and roadside parks on the state highway system. Locations of rail passenger lines and stations and rail freight lines are included.

Hospitals offering 24-hour emergency service and MDOT's 11 highway welcome centers, located mostly at border points, also are shown.

There is information on Michigan historical markers, highway distances from city to city, location and phone numbers for state police posts and district offices of MDOT and fares charged on such facilities as the Mackinac Bridge.

The map identifies all state parks and lists their types of accommodations and provides an index to Michigan cities and villages. Various state symbols such as the state bird (robin) and tree (white pine) are shown.

The new map may be obtained, free of charge, at numerous locations, including all MDOT district offices and welcome centers. Other distribution points include state police posts, district offices of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, local chambers of commerce, municipal government offices and regional tourist associations.

The Department of Transportation will mail maps to individuals upon request. Requests should be made on a post card (not in a sealed envelope) providing the name, address and zip code of the requester. Post cards should be mailed to: MAPS, Michigan Dept. of Transportation, P. O. Box 30060, Lansing 48909.

Students Bury Time Capsule, Will Open at 25th Reunion

Where will you be in 2017?

Many Beach Middle School seventh graders already know the answer to that question.

In 30 years, at their 25th high school reunion, many of today's Beach 12-year-olds will be at the back of the school digging up a time capsule the youngsters buried there last Friday.

In case they've forgotten by then what 1986 was like, they'll be able to listen to a tape of this year's top 40 songs assuming cassette tape players still exist, take a look at themselves on video tape assuming VCRs still exist, recall what sunglasses and earrings people were wearing, and find out about the news of the day from current issues of The Chelsea Standard, the school newspaper, and the Ann Arbor News.

"I'll be back for the opening of the capsule, but I might be in a wheelchair," said seventh grade block teach Jim Moelt. Moelt's and Barbara Brown's English-World History bloc classes were responsible for the time capsule project.

"The students have been studying a little about archeology," Brown said.

They have discussed the use of maps, written records, artifacts, oral history and other methods used by scientists.

The items were placed in a five-foot deep hole in a fiberglass miniature vault donated by Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home. The hole, about three by four feet, was dug and re-filled by students.

Other items placed in the vault were a paragraph written by each child telling what he plans to be doing in 2017 and what he hopes to accomplish by then, 1986 coins; a copy of the 1985-86 yearbook; a sixth grade camp t-shirt; copies of Teen and Car and Driver magazines; a Chelsea map; a school handbook; a computer disk; several Garbage Pail Kids; a toy; and baseball cards; and a picture of President Ronald Reagan.

A metal yard stick was also placed in the hole so the spot could be located by a metal detector in 30 years.

Student cartographers drew maps showing the location of the capsule. The maps are being stored in the school vault.

Finally, a trust fund that will come due in 2017 is being set up in the name of one of the students to serve as a reminder that the capsule is due to be unearthed.

A bookworm is the popular name for the larvae of several beetles that bore through books.

NICK UNDERHILL helps lower the seventh grade time capsule into a deep hole behind the school. The class plans to open it at their 25th high school reunion in 2017.

EDUCATION RESEARCH

Prepared by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), Reston, Va.

★ Student Activities Vital to Education

Student activities are the luxuries which must be brought under control or valuable parts of the learning program.

While there have been attempts to limit student participation in activities in a number of states, they still have value, according to the author of a new report published by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP).

"Educators have long been convinced that student activities are an important element of the total school curriculum," wrote Ben Joekel, executive secretary of the Nebraska Association of Student Councils in Lincoln and associate dean and professor of curriculum, Teachers College, University of Nebraska, in the current issue of The Principal.

"Various research studies support the vital role activities play in the total education program," Joekel continued. "Yet, in many parts of the country today, the relationship of activities programs to academics is being questioned. Initiatives to improve academic standards frequently include regulations to limit participation in activities unless students meet increased academic requirements."

"Student activities play an important role in a young person's education," said Dale Howley, NASSP's director of student activities. "They form a school's informal curriculum. That is the best place for students to learn team work, co-operation, how to use leisure time, a sense of community, and many other skills they will need in their adult lives."

Joekel outlined three broad recommendations regarding student activities that have been made in some national and state reports: elimination of student activities, setting eligibility requirements, and establishing standards for participation, such as grade point average.

"(Eliminating student activities) deserves little attention," wrote Joekel. "Student activity programs are founded on sound theory and practice. The goals and objectives espoused by most schools would not be complete without student activities."

The idea of eligibility requirements is not new in schools, according to the author.

"Many current rules and regulations arose from the need to control or prevent abuses that were prevalent in interscholastic athletics," he reported. "Age limits, amateur standing, bona fide student status, semesters of eligibility, and minimum academic achievement all originated in athletics. Gradually, eligibility rules and standards were applied to other activities."

Some use of regulations is justifiable if their goal is to enhance education and not to punish students, Joekel contended. An honor society needs to have some criteria of achievement ranking, and only most teams groups generally require some level of performance.

Use of standards specifies those relating to grade point averages and citizenship, to limit participation raises issues which are difficult to resolve, according to Joekel. Some states and school districts are now requiring that students maintain a certain average to take part in activities.

The argument to establish such standards include that they will motivate students to achieve better, that only good citizens should represent the school, and that if students are not succeeding academically, they should spend more time studying.

The opening of the Veterans Ice Arena scheduled for Sept. 27, has been delayed.

In April of 1986, the decision was made to replace the dasher boards. The new boards will be in place and the arena will open on Oct. 6. Many additional improvements have been made which will greatly enhance the use of the arena.

This has resulted in the cancellation of some programs and a delay in the start of others. The instructional skating program has been delayed one week and will begin on Monday, Oct. 6.

Please check with the arena at 761-7240, or call the 24-hour information line at 769-9140 for updates.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar

In late July on Beaver Island, I witnessed a late summer phenomenon that can be seen almost anywhere in the state—a large flock of birds going to an evening roost.

It happened to be chimney swifts, which assemble in large numbers, form a vortex and spiral down into a chimney. But the roosting phenomenon also occurs among blackbirds.

Both these birds are at their peak in population at this time of year, as all the surviving young of the year are present, along with the adults.

The chimney swift is a small, black bird with swept-back wings, a stubby tail, and a short beak that opens very wide. They're often called "flying cigars" because of their plump, blunt silhouette. Though they are ecologically similar to night hawks—both feed exclusively on insects caught on the wing—and both have beaks and swept-back wings, chimney swifts are members of the hummingbird family. Like hummingbirds, chimney swifts can fly vertically and can hover for a short time. In short, they are ideally adapted to living in chimneys. (Before humans started providing chimneys for swifts to live in, they used hollow trees.)

In the summer, chimney swifts are often seen darting, diving and swooping to catch insects. Often several birds fly together, twirling and making these aerial maneuvers in unison. In the evening, right around sundown, they collect in large numbers and settle into inactive chimneys, where they cling to the sides with their feet and lean back against their short, stiff tail feathers.

Chimney swifts also nest and raise their young in chimneys. They use a sticky saliva to glue together twigs and stick them to the side of the chimney. If the nest comes loose, you may have baby swifts in your fireplace, but this is unusual. Adult chimney swifts can fly straight up and out of a chimney. Other birds that fall into chimneys can't get themselves out that way.

A roosting flock of chimney swifts may number 100 to 200 birds. Blackbird flocks at this time of year may number into the thousands or even tens of thousands. All the birds in an area as large as a county may come together to form a single flock and occupy a common roost. I have stood for a half-hour and watched unbroken lines of blackbirds flying by on their way to the evening roosting site.

As the birds migrate south, that night's roosting site will change, moving south with the birds. Birds may stay in one place for a few days or two weeks or as long as two months before they move on.

If you are along the flight route and you are not raising crops that these birds stop to feed on, you may view the spectacle with something approaching awe. If the birds descend on your crops or roost near your home, you may see it very differently.

If you live near the roost, you'll find yourself shouting over the racket the birds make. The cacophony of cheeps and squeaks night after night can be quite disturbing. And the droppings from thousands of birds can make a really, unsightly mess.

People on the receiving end of this phenomenon often want to eliminate the birds. People who don't suffer any inconvenience from the birds often don't want to see them disturbed. The middle ground is to use visual and auditory scare tactics—such as aerial exploding charges, explosion-producing cannons, alarm and distress calls broadcast via loudspeaker, shotgun fire, whistles, bells, sirens, horns and other varied noise-makers—to make the birds move their roost somewhere they won't be bothering anyone. This doesn't solve the crop depredation problem, but it allows at least some people to view the late summer roosting phenomenon as just another fascinating facet of nature from your backdoor.

Household Toxic Collection Slated

The third annual Household Toxic Collection Day will be held Oct. 4, from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at Schiefelbusch Field next to Ypsilanti High school.

All residents of Washtenaw county are welcome to bring such chemicals as leftover pesticides, motor oil, brush cleaners, drain cleaners, wood preservatives, wood killers, paint, solvents and almost anything else thought to be toxic, just as long as the item can be identified.

Washtenaw County Health Department is sponsoring the collection with co-ordination by the Toxic Waste Coalition consisting of the Ecology Center of Ann Arbor, the Department of Public Works, the Health Department and the Ypsilanti Recycling Center.

This free service provides residents of Washtenaw county with an opportunity to get rid of toxic chemicals that have collected in homes and garages in an ecologically sound fashion. Information on household toxics and alternatives will be available at the collection site.

A city the size of Ann Arbor uses each year over 13 tons of disinfectants, 8 tons of drain cleaners and 5 tons of toilet bowl cleaners most of which ultimately ends up in the sanitary sewer, storm drains and landfills contributing to the contamination of surface and ground water. As our landfills become filled, land prices are at a premium, hazardous, on a whole, are producing larger amounts of chemical wastes and ground-water contamination is gaining significance, as more contaminated sites are being discovered, the role of individual residents in preserving a healthy environment is becoming increasingly important.

Residents are encouraged to read labels of household products and use this opportunity to get rid of such chemicals as Chlorox, DDT, Lindane, Aldrin, Dieldrin, 2,4,5-T/Silver, Endrin, DBCP, Strabane, Thallium Sulfate, Heptachlor, Kepone, Mirex, Sevin, Toxaphene, Sodium Cyanide and Strychnine all of which are extremely toxic and should not be used at home even if you follow the directions carefully.

When bringing materials to the collection, certain precautions should be taken: 1. Package the material in containers that do not leak to avoid reactions from incompatible chemicals. 2. Keep products away from passengers. 3. Have products labeled and in their original containers whenever possible. 4. Keep combustibles (e.g. aerosols) out of direct sunlight and away from heat sources.

For further information, or if you have a product and are not sure what it is, or how to handle it, call the Washtenaw County Health Department at 994-2482.

Chelsea Tops Lincoln With Strong Defense, Potent First Half

Lightning struck twice in Willis last week-end.

On Friday night, violent, electric weather forced the postponement of the Lincoln Railspitters first home game of the season and first game ever on their new field.

Saturday night, the Chelsea Bulldogs struck for a quick 17-0 lead and shocked the Lincoln Railspitters, 17-0, for their third straight conference win. Their 3-0 record puts Chelsea on top of the league all by themselves.

Once again, Chelsea's defense dominated most of the contest, especially in the second half when they allowed just 37 total yards and didn't let the Splitters past midfield.

"Lincoln just couldn't move the ball," said Chelsea coach Gene LaFave.

"Our defensive secondary played well early and when they were able to get their receivers open, we put a lot of pressure on the quarterback. Marty Poljan (defensive end, nine tackles), Matt Bohlender (strong safety, 12 tackles), and Marcus Fletcher (linebacker, nine tackles) all had very good games."

Lincoln sophomore quarterback Noah Nagy completed just 4-16 passes for 47 yards and one touchdown.

The Railspitters didn't have much of a rushing game either, managing just 78 yards.

"We probably had them to 100 yards less than they're used to getting," said Chelsea assistant coach Wayne Wilson.

Chelsea looked as though it might be on the way to a blowout as the Bulldogs scored on all but one opportunity in the first half.

A blocked punt by Joe Eassa on Lincoln's opening series gave the Dogs the ball at the Railspitter 15. Four plays later sophomore Larry Nix kicked a five-yard field goal that nearly wiped the dew off the cross bar, giving Chelsea a 3-0 lead.

Chelsea scored again two drives later. Taking the ball from the Building 31, Curtis Heard found a hole and rammed to the Lincoln five before being knocked out of bounds. On the next play, quarterback Todd Starkey beat a Lincoln defender to the left corner for Chelsea's first touchdown. Nix's kick pushed the score to 10-0.

Again the Chelsea defense held the Splitters and the Bulldogs took over at their 30.

On the next drive, Heard and sophomore Junior Moursau provided most of the punch, along with a personal foul on the part of the Railspitters.

Moursau, who finished with 34 yards, had runs of eight, five and 14 yards. The drive was capped by an 11-yard touchdown pass from Starkey to tight end Poljan, who simply took off from the left side and ran straight to the back of the end zone.

"It looks like we're going to have a pretty solid rushing game," Wilson said.

"Junior is improving every week."

Heard gained the bulk of Chelsea's 180 yards, 125 on 25 carries.

Lincoln scored just before the end of the first half and it was their only sustained drive of the night.

The Railspitters took the ball 65 yards on 13 plays, scoring on a nine-yard pass on fourth down and five to Damon Giles.

The second half was a different story for Chelsea on offense, who twice had the ball at the Lincoln 4-yard line but couldn't score. No field goals were attempted.

Part of Chelsea's weakness on offense was due to penalties, several of which came on first down.

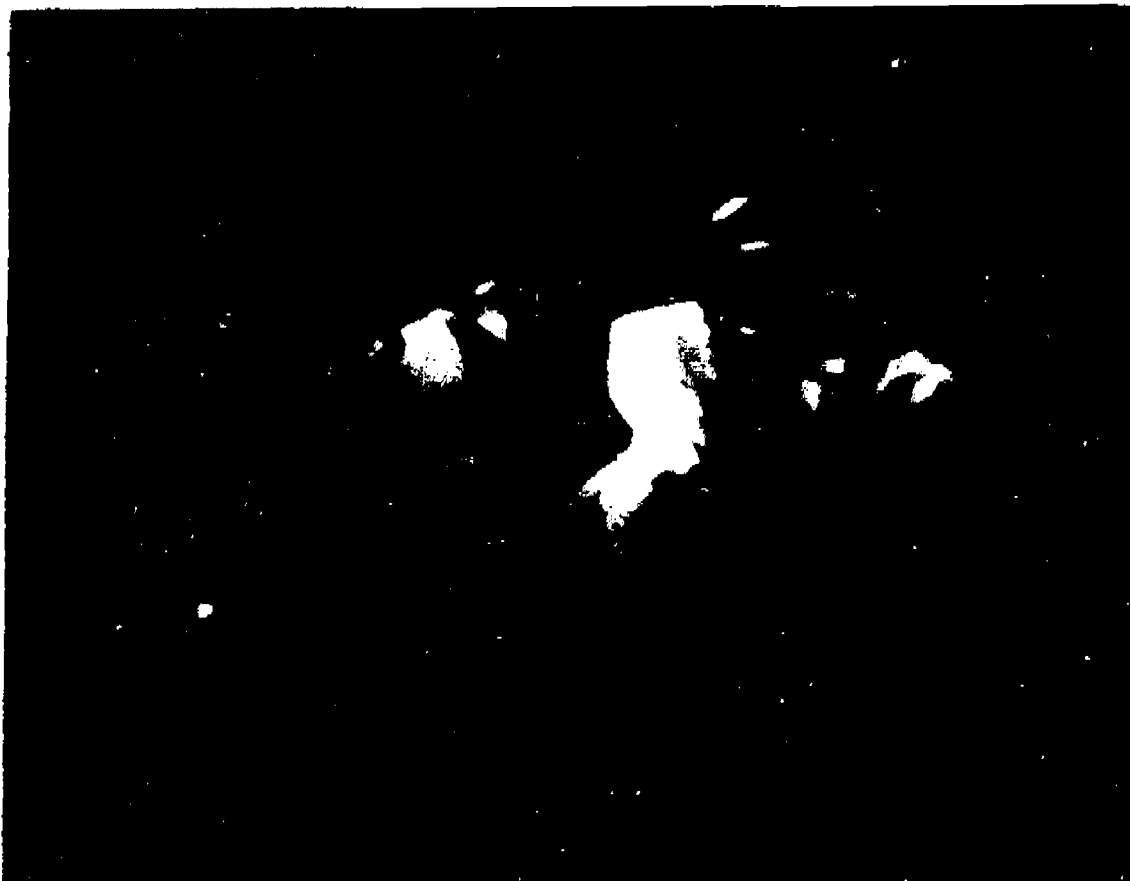

"We put ourselves in a bad position with some of those penalties," LaFave said.

"But we're getting better offensively and we did play very well in the first half."

The ease of the win over Lincoln shows the double nature of the Railspitters. Lincoln has lost both its league games, but has twice upset a state-ranked team in non-conference action.

Chelsea hosts Jackson County Western this Friday in a breaker from conference action.

JCW, which beat Bowling Green in Central, the team that trounced Chelsea in the Bulldogs' season opener, features probably the best running back Chelsea will see all year, LaFave said.

CHelsea's JEFF MARSHALL dives for a ball just out of his reach, but he nearly made a sensational catch. Chelsea didn't have much of a passing game as the Bulldogs gained just 18 yards in the air.

A DECONSOLATE RAILSPLITTER TEAM takes it over in the fog after their 17-0 loss to Chelsea last Saturday. The Railspitters were hap-

CURTIS HEARD tries to break a tackle during last Saturday evening's road game with Lincoln. Heard gained 134 yards on 24 carries and is the Southeastern Conference's finest runner.

Bulldogs 'Pull Together' for Second SEC X-Country Win

Chelsea boys' cross country team won its second dual meet of the year last Tuesday, Sept. 23, 21-34 over the Lincoln Railspitters at Lincoln.

Chelsea's John Cattell led all runners in 17:36.

"This was a true team effort for us," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"I'm encouraged by the way the boys pulled together for the win. Lincoln was undefeated going into this meet. Paul Hedding ran his best race of the season to finish second. Hopefully, the improvement will continue."

Hedding, a sophomore, had a time of 18:23. Behind Hedding were: Greg Brown, 5th, 18:35; Lee Riemenschneider, 6th, 18:44;

Holden Harris, 7th, 18:50; Tucker Lee, 11th, 19:02; Dave Kvornberg, 15th, 19:41; Mike Lavigne, 16th, 19:49; Brian Zangara, 19th, 20:08; Matt Riemenschneider, 20th, 20:16; Brady Murphy, 21st, 20:32; Dave Frotas, 24th, 20:49; Jeff Latimer, 27th, 21:11; Bob Pratt, 28th, 21:23; and Craig Zuchko, 29th, 21:31.

SEC ROUND-UP:

Chelsea Stifles Lincoln To Hold Conference Lead

Chelsea Bulldogs remained the leaders of the Southeastern Conference at the mid-point of the conference season with a perfect 3-0 record.

Saline Hornets emerged from last week's four-way tie for second place to take the runner-up spot by themselves.

Chelsea 17, Lincoln 0—

Chelsea held the Railspitters to just 37 yards in the second half after jumping out to an early 17-0 lead.

A blocked punt by Joe Eassa set up a field goal by sophomore Larry Nix for a 3-0 lead in the early minutes.

Later in the first quarter, running back Curtis Heard ran 65 yards to set up a five-yard touchdown run by quarterback Todd Starkey.

Chelsea's final score came at the 4:39 mark of the first half when Starkey hit tight end Marty Poljan with an 11-yard touchdown pass.

Lincoln's only touchdown came in the closing minutes of the first half on a touchdown pass from quarterback Noah Nagy to Damon Giles. Nagy completed just 4-16 passes on the night.

Dexter 14, Milan 6—

Dexter rallied from an early 6-0 deficit for their first win of the season.

A muffed punt play in the first quarter gave Milan the ball at the Dexter 20. A few plays later the Big Reds scored their one and only touchdown.

Dreadnaught quarterback David Karns made the most of his first start of the year as a 37-yard pass play set up a one-yard plunge by Andy Walsh to tie the score at 6 at half-time.

In the third quarter, Karns connected with Walsh on a 47-yard pass play for the second Dreadnaught score. Karns ran for the two points.

Karns was 5-7 for 128 yards on the night.

Saline 25, Pinckney 6—

Pinckney turned the ball over five times to the Hornets, the prime factor in their loss.

Saline scored two touchdowns in the second quarter on runs by Brian Bozo and Grant Fan.

Pinckney threatened to tie the game in the first half but a stubborn Hornet defense halted the Pirate drive at the three-yard line.

Saline picked up a touchdown in each of the third and fourth quarters, one on a 55-yard interception return by Chris Roeham and the other on a short run by Greg Van Kirk.

Pinckney's lone score came on a 42-yard run by Tim Skover.

Jackson Lumen Christi 23,

Tecumseh 3—

Tecumseh took the early lead but the Titans' Phil Willis ran wild after that, scoring on runs of 36, 20 and three yards.

The Titans were ranked ninth in the state in class B going into the game.

Chelsea varsity basketball team posing on a Lincoln defense during Saturday night's action with the Railspitters. Muzzetta rushed for 140 yards in the game.

Milan Nips Dog Cagers On Late Free Throws

Chelsea varsity basketball team nearly pulled off a big upset in its first Southeastern Conference game, but the Milan Big Reds sank a free throw in the final second for a 33-32 win in Milan.

In other action last week, Stockbridge got a 20-point performance by guard Sandy Brumfield to give the Panthers a 30-21 win over the Bulldogs in Chelsea on Tuesday, Sept. 23.

After falling behind in the Milan game, 20-13 at half-time, Chelsea soundly outplayed the Big Reds in the second half, according to coach Jim Winter, who called Milan one of the top three teams in the conference.

"The game was ours," Winter said.

"We were up 30-30 and shooting a free throw with 22 seconds to go. We missed the free throw, got the rebound, but they called us for traveling. Then they came down and took a wild shot with 12 seconds to go. I called as for a foul on the rebound."

Milan made both ends of a 1-1 tie to the score. Chelsea threw the ball away on the inbound play. The Big Reds were fouled with one second to go and made the first shot.

"We had to talk about that one in practice Friday, we were all still a little upset by it," Winter said.

While Winter wouldn't blame the officiating for the loss, "because we don't give them credit when we win," he noted.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

The Chelsea Bulldogs have beaten up three of the Southeastern Conference's top four football teams: Saline Hornets, Milan Big Reds, and now the Lincoln Railspitters. Last Saturday's score was 17-8. The game shouldn't have been that close.

Actually, "beaten up," might be a little strong since nine points has been the biggest margin of victory.

All the same, though, the Bulldogs have won three straight Southeastern Conference games, which is three more than they had won by this time last year. Last year, last place was a distinct possibility.

Now, they're by themselves at the top of the league, a nice feeling for a change. If they win their three remaining conference games, they'll be the undisputed champions. They don't have to depend on someone to knock off Saline or some other unlikely scenario.

But, for some reason the Bulldogs don't seem like a championship team. Correct that. They seem like a championship defensive team and a very average offensive team, although Curtis Heard is the class running back of the league.

Which goes to show, as the good football coaches know, solid defense can win an awful lot of games.

Only the Saline Hornets have given up fewer points than the Bulldogs in conference play. Chelsea, who's given up 12, 6, and 8 points in conference games, is allowing slightly less than nine points a game. Saline hasn't even allowed nine points in one game. Hornet opponents are averaging a paltry 5.2 points.

And the poor Hornets are likely to finish second best this season. It's possible that a single point, Larry Nix's extra point in overtime in the Saline game, could make the difference between second and first.

The Hornets have been playing well since the Chelsea game. Quarterback Grant Fanning seems to have found last season's form and Saline is starting to score some points. I'll be shocked if they lose another conference game. And boy am I glad Chelsea doesn't have to face them now.

But the question of the season, and one I have been asked several times in the last week or so, is, "Will Chelsea win the SEC?"

However, even my Oupa board tells me it's a little too early to start counting our chickens.

The Bulldogs' remaining opponents, Dexter, Tecumseh and Pinckney would love nothing more than to knock off the top team. Especially Tecumseh. The Indians still have a shot at a tie for the conference championship, assuming they win the rest of their games.

Chelsea is Dexter's homecoming opponent and there's always a lot of emotion in that game. The Dreadnaughts also have a pretty good defense and they're starting to show some life on offense after a year and a half of sub-medocrity.

The Pirates are the only team that shouldn't cause Chelsea a lot of problems, but Bulldog coach Gene LaFave will never let his boys believe it.

Complacency is the one thing the Bulldogs cannot afford. Emotion and a good attitude, have played a big part in this season's success. The boys chant "defense, defense" on the sidelines and have become their own best cheerleaders, which did not happen last season. It even feels different walking down the sidelines, listening to the bench jabber. One assistant coach said, "It's because Gene (LaFave) has an exceptional group of kids this year." I don't doubt it.

But are they a championship team?

Based on attitude and defense alone, I'd say yes. However, the Bulldogs do have to play offense and they still do not have the consistency of a championship team. When the Dogs have the ball inside their opponent's 20-yard line, I'm never confident they score.

LaFave says the offense is getting better by the week, which is something to know. Chelsea could have blown the Railspitters right off their own brand new football field last Saturday, but they came out a little anemic in the second half. Penalties hurt, and as LaFave says, "We don't play offense when we're first and 15."

Chelsea has the attitude and the defense, perhaps the two most important parts of any football team. If the Bulldogs start using their bodies rather than just rattling them, we could be talking number 1 in a few weeks.

I applaud the decision to postpone Friday's football game at Milan until Saturday, even though it completely messed up my week-end plans. However, apparently a lot of people didn't change their plans because there were a lot of empty bleachers.

Here's to the Chelsea people who spent Saturday night in Willis (just WHERE is Willis, anyway). They are true fans.

East St., is a 5' 11", 185-pound running back and is one of the key players on the Bulldog offense. Heard recently became the first Chelsea player in seven years to rush for more than 200 yards in a game. His brother, Mitchell, is a Chelsea Football Hall of Fame member, and a 1972 CHS graduate. Heard is also the brother of Audrey, 26, Kirk, 27, and Myra, 24. He'll be a

JV Gridders Top Lincoln On Last Minute Touchdown

Chelsea's JV football team, for a week with less than three minutes to go and Jeff Proctor had the extra point to give the Bulldogs a 14-13 victory over the Lincoln Railspitters on Thursday. The Bulldogs scored for the first time in the third quarter when they drove for a touchdown. The Bulldogs scored for the first time in the third quarter when they drove for a touchdown. The Bulldogs scored for the first time in the third quarter when they drove for a touchdown.

first touchdown of the game. The first Lincoln touchdown was set up early in the third quarter when a Chelsea fumble at the Lincoln 30-yard line gave the Railspitters the ball at the 27. The Railspitters drove 70 yards in 15 plays for the touchdown. Lincoln came right back a few minutes later after the Bulldogs fumbled the kickoff on the Chelsea 24-yard line. It took just five plays for Lincoln to score their second touchdown. However, in what turned out to be a key play of the game, the extra-point try was blocked. Chelsea's final drive of the game consumed nine minutes, covering 67 yards on 20 plays. The drive also featured three fourth down conversions, one a fourth-and-four situation. We had a strong rushing game," Ticknor said.

Luman Strong had an especially outstanding game and he gained most of the key yardage. Strong finished the game with 72 yards on 16 carries. Teammate Jason Overdorf gained 92 yards on 11 carries. On a dry field I think we would have beaten them worse," Ticknor said. One of these days we're going to put it all together. Chelsea moves to 2-1 in Southeastern Conference play and 3-1 overall.

Anderson Sets Record As Bulldogs Rip Lincoln

Kasey Anderson set a Lincoln course record and the Bulldogs took the top six players as Chelsea ran to an easy Southeastern Conference cross-country win over the Railspitters on Tuesday, Sept. 23, 15-48. Anderson, a junior, led the field in 20:31 over the hilly 3.1-mile course. We finally started to get back on our feet healthwise," coach Pat Clarke said. Sophomore Debi Koenig and freshman Kim Roberts ran exceptionally well. Senior co-captain Robin Mock returned to the lineup for the first time this season and took ninth place. However, another Chelsea cross-country member, Frankie, an all-conference and all-state runner, was out for the season due to a stress fracture. Freshman behind Anderson were Debi Koenig, 2nd, 21:40; Jennifer Ross, 3rd, 22:08; Sallie Wilson, 4th, 22:21; Laura Torres, 5th, 22:44; Roberts, 6th, 22:47; Mock, 9th, 23:07; Wendy Hurst, 10th, 23:12; Kim Allen, 11th, 23:25; Alisha Dorow, 12th, 23:40; Ann Brosnan, 13th, 24:18; Stephanie Wagner, 14th, 24:32; Sheila Haab, 15th, 25:14; Charity Strong, 16th, 26:27; and Neva Bartel, 19th, 28:45.

CHELSEA CROSS COUNTRY team is rounding into shape this season after a rash of injuries and illness. Some of Chelsea's fine young runners include, from left, Kim Allen, Wendy Hurst and Vicki Haglund.

Beach Cagers Rally for Win

Beach Middle school's eighth grade basketball team nipped Dexter, 20-18, rallying from a 14-5 deficit. Jane Pacheco scored nine points and had five rebounds to lead Chelsea. Also contributing were Carrie Flintoff with four rebounds and two steals, Kate Dilworth with four points and four steals, Colleen Scharphorn, with four points, three rebounds and six steals, Lisa Hamrick, with two points, Mercedes Hammer with one point and four steals, and Sarah Mizolf, with three steals. Chelsea lost an earlier match to Tecumseh, 18-12, playing well in the first half of the game. However, the Bullpups shot just 10 percent from the field. Flintoff had seven rebounds, three steals and four points. Hammer six rebounds, three steals, Scharphorn four steals, four points and two rebounds. Pacheco three rebounds, three steals and two points, and Kristin Bohlender two points and two rebounds.

Money-for-College

By Irving Bender

College is part of the American Dream. But then there's the nightmare: how to pay for it. This column offers some answers. Q. I am a 32-year-old woman who started college one year ago. My husband does work—we are not poor. But tuition places a great strain on our budget. A trip to the library gave me the impression that there is money for poor students, young students, men, certain fields of study, and other than white students. What is really available for women my age and situation. A. The mature student who is turning or returning to college has reached 25% of all students in college. Much help is aimed at this group from the private sector. Added to this are the special awards offered specifically to women. Other eligibility factors for you might include: a parent is a veteran, awards which apply to all fields of study, employment by you or spouse, extracurricular activities, and many others. A specific private award you are eligible for is The Wonder Women Foundation, Inc. Awards Program, 200 W. 57th St., New York, N.Y. 10019. Award amount: up to $10,000. Deadline: June 1. All areas of study eligible. Awarded to women over 40. How to find out all you are eligible for from the private sector? This is an enormous chore which can be shortcut by a computer service. For six years National Scholarships Research Service has compiled the largest database of private source listings in the world, topping $8 billion. These listings cover undergraduate, graduate, and overseas study. For free details, write: Financial Aid Finders, 77 Grinnell Rd., Randolph, N.J. 07069. Don't forget to renew your Chelsea Standard subscription!

FEELING THE HEAT is Lincoln quarterback Noah Nagy as Chelsea tackle Leo Durham closes in. The normally potent Lincoln passing attack was 4-14, good for 66 yards.

Wildlife

Governor Blanchard has proclaimed Sept. 27 Michigan Hunting and Fishing Day in conjunction with National Hunting and Fishing Day celebrations. Special events are planned to emphasize the sports and to recognize hunters' and anglers' contributions to conservation of natural resources.

Waterfowl hunting rules and dates have been announced and waterfowl hunting guides are available at dealers and district offices. Three major hunting zones have been established for the regular fall waterfowl hunting season, the Upper Peninsula, northern Lower Peninsula and southern Lower Peninsula. The zone dividing line in the Lower Peninsula is Highway M-20, US-10 and the Saginaw River entering Saginaw Bay at Bay City.

The duck season will be 40 days long in each of the state's hunting zones. Dates will be Oct. 4-Nov. 12 in both the North and Middle zones. Dates will be Oct. 11-Nov. 19 in the South zone. A special trap only season, limited to designated waters will be permitted for 10 days following the close of the duck season in each zone of the state. The daily bag is 5 and the list of special waters is published in the waterfowl hunting guide. No caribuck hunting will be permitted.

The regular Canada goose hunting season will be 20-47 days long in the various zones and state management areas. There will also be an extended late winter hunt in the Southern Michigan Goose Management Area. Shooting hours for waterfowl will be approximately one-half hour before sunrise to sunset in all time zones of the state. The reserved waterfowl hunt will be offered at selected DNR-managed waterfowl areas in southern Michigan during the early part of the waterfowl season. Instructions for applying may be obtained at DNR Wildlife Division offices. Hunters will be required to pay a non-refundable $3 application fee for these hunts.

The elk hunt will be from Dec. 9 through Dec. 24. Persons who have not participated in previous elk hunts are eligible to apply for a license. Biologists estimate the quota may be less than the 1985 of 120 because the herd is within the goal range of 800 to 1,100 elk.

The deadline for the purchase of bear licenses is Nov. 14. Residents may hunt bear in the UP from Sept. 16-Oct. 31 and from Nov. 15-Nov. 30. Dogs may be used from Sept. 16-Oct. 31 but not from Nov. 15-Nov. 30. In the Lower Peninsula, residents and non-residents may hunt bears in Zone 2 only, Sept. 19-Sept. 25 with firearms and bow and arrow. Bear may be hunted by bow and arrow only from Oct. 3-Oct. 9. Dogs may be used Sept. 19-Sept. 25. Non-residents may hunt in the UP from Sept. 19-Oct. 31 and from Nov. 15-Nov. 30.

Leftover wild turkey permits (41) are still available for the special Oct. 25-29 fall southern Dickinson county turkey hunt. These permits will be sold at the DNR's UP District Office in Crystal Falls beginning Oct. 1 at 8 a.m. on a first come, first served basis. Hunters must appear in person. For more information, call (517) 373-1283, DNR Wildlife Division.

1986 Adopt-A-Dog Poster Winner

Adopt-A-Dog Poster Contest Winner from Huron Valley

Following a nation-wide search with over 800 candidates, Maxwell, a Golden Retriever adopted from the Humane Society of Huron Valley has been chosen as the Adopt-A-Dog Poster Dog for 1986! Christof Erickson, Maxwell's owner and Maxwell won the grand prize of $5,000. The Humane Society of Huron Valley received a matching cash grant of $5,000.

During the month of October, posters of Maxwell and his owner Christof Erickson will help focus national attention on the millions of adoptable pets waiting in animal shelters across the country. The Humane Society of Huron Valley's commitment to find good homes for the greatest number of animals makes it possible for dogs like Maxwell and kids like Christof to find each other.

Maxwell will act as the purebred ambassador for shelters everywhere, pointing out the fact that many purebreds are available for adoption in our nation's shelters.

According to Sue Gates, the shelter manager, "The Humane Society of Huron Valley received over 80 different breeds of dogs last year. Out of the dogs that HSHV receives every year, 25% are purebreds. Maxwell is just one of 300 golden retrievers brought to the Humane Society within the past five years."

During Adopt-A-Dog month in October, dogs will be turning their tails and putting their best paw forward in anticipation for adoption. Special Adopt-A-Dog adoption packets, along with HSHV's canine literature will be available to dog adopters during October. For everyone who has a dog or for those wishing to adopt a dog, there will be a special Dog Training and Care Clinic on Oct. 14. Learn everything you need to know for Fido, from grooming to vet care. The clinic will be taught by members of the Ann Arbor dog Training Club and be held in the Education Building from 7 to 5:30 p.m.

Any dog adopted during the month of October will be eligible for the 1987 Adopt-A-Dog Poster contest! So start grooming those canines and gearing up those creative writing juices to let everyone know why you love your pooch! The grand prize winner will receive $5,000! $1,000 will go to the first runner-up, with $500 going to the third- and fourth-place winners. The shelters from which the dogs are adopted will receive matching cash grants.

To receive a six month calendar of the different pet care clinics, or to find out more about the dog training and care clinic or the poster dog contest contact Michelle Creek, director of community education, at (810) 544-5445.

Estleman Has Another Book Published

Dexter area resident Loren D. Estleman's latest crime novel, "Any Man's Death," has been published in paperback by the Mysterious Press and is beginning to appear in bookstores locally.

The book is the third in the Peter Macklin series about the life of a professional killer who works in and around Detroit. This time, Macklin is hired by his former girlfriend's employer to protect an evangelist whose stand against legalized gambling in Detroit has made him the target of a rival gangland faction. Macklin's task is complicated further when he learns that his son has been hired to kill the evangelist.

In addition to "Any Man's Death," "Motor City Blue," the first book in Estleman's Amos Walker private eye series set in Detroit, is showing up in area racks once again, reissued in paperback by Fawcett Books. Both books are currently available in Ann Arbor bookstores, including Borders, Waldenbooks and B. Dalton's in the Briarwood Mall, and the Little Professor Book Center in the Westgate shopping center. Estleman is a former Dexter Leader reporter and lives with his parents on Walsh Rd.

Color Tour Booklet Now Available

The most comprehensive directory of Michigan's colorful autumn attractions ever published is now available from the Michigan Travel Bureau. Director John Savich said last week.

"In Michigan, the end of summer simply means the beginning of another spectacular season," said Savich. "As Michigan opens its arms to gather in its harvest, more than 18 million acres of forest blaze with fall colors, welcoming campers, hunters, golfers, fishermen, and anyone who wants to enjoy Michigan's colorful transformation."

From the Keweenaw Peninsula in the northwestern Upper Peninsula to the fruit and wine country of the southwestern Lower Peninsula, Michigan is noted for brilliant fall foliage. Throughout the Travel Planner flaming amber, autumn and orange-red leaves color the pages, inviting the traveler to enjoy Michigan's magnificent autumn. The book lists 25 suggested fall color tours, all more than 100 miles long. Special points of interest such as museums and other attractions along each route are listed beside each tour map.

The 62-page travel planner also lists the major attractions, cider mills and autumn festivals and events held throughout Michigan.

Features suggesting week-end getaways and discovery trails provide valuable information for travelers who want a wide variety of activity. From houseboating in the inland lakes or ballooning on a fall color tour, to fishing on the Great Lakes and camping amid the flutter of colorful leaves.

"We've put together a comprehensive guide that enables travelers to mix whatever activities they want with however long they want to travel—whether it's a major vacation, a week-end or an afternoon getaway," said Savich.

For a free copy of the Fall Travel Planner, call or write the Michigan Travel Bureau at P.O. Box 36226, Lansing 48909, 1-800-542-YES.

Feelin' blue? Well if you're a satin bowerbird, that means you're feeling great. Ranger Rick magazine reports that the dove-size Australian bird's favorite color is blue. Male bowerbirds decorate their nests with blue objects to impress female bowerbirds. This means gathering blue flowers, feathers, plastic toys, pens, toothbrushes, and any other blue objects that the bowerbird finds attractive.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. Eight years ago I read about General Cinema Corp. in your magazine Better Investing. I liked the story and the record of the company and I bought some shares. It has been the best stock I ever bought. It is eight times what I paid for it. The dividend has never been big but it has increased each year and it now pays over 6% on my cost. I wonder whether you see this company continuing to grow as it has in the past? What the price of the stock continues to grow as well?

A. Better Investing has just again featured General Cinema Corp. as a "Stock to Study." That means the committee which selects those stocks believes it has the ability to double in price in the coming years. Achieving that goal would be an excellent achievement, but it would be far short of what you have experienced over the last eight years.

It is interesting to look at the figures for General Cinema. In the last 10 years, revenues on sales have increased at a compound annual rate of 11.4%. Pre-tax profits have increased at 16.5% a year. Earnings per share have increased at 22.3%. Growth in earnings has been much faster than growth in revenues. That means the company has been making more on each dollar of sales each year than the year before. The company has been managing more effectively and efficiently. That is good, but it also carries a warning. There is a limit to the amount of profit you can make on a dollar of sales. The more you make, the more competition you attract, and in time that competition will cut into profits. The company has also increased earnings per share faster than total earnings.

This means it has been increasing the profits it makes in each dollar of capital. That is a sign of very good management, but again the warning is there that this kind of increase cannot go on indefinitely.

The company is exceptionally well managed and it's likely to continue to grow and be a stronger and more valuable company. However, the future increases in profitability are likely to be limited by the rate of growth of revenues more than they have in the past. In the past eight years the stock market itself has moved from a fairly pessimistic attitude to a much more buoyant position. This is reflected in the fact that this stock now sells at nearly 20 times earnings as against 18 times in 1978.

As far as the price of stock is concerned, my guess is that it can double in the next five years which would be excellent performance. I would not look for the kind of multiplication you enjoyed earlier.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. Health Dept. Says No to Septic Tank Additives

Sometimes advertising for various types of products seems "too good to be true." The Michigan Department of Public Health has reviewed a number of advertisements for septic tank additives and concluded the manufacturers to substantiate claims of improved tank operation and function. The manufacturers that responded could not provide reliable independent test data supporting advertising statements. In fact, submitted data tends to bear out the department's concerns.

The common opinion expressed by experts is that because of lack of supporting evidence for additive products, septic tanks should be allowed to function naturally without adding compounds. Some compounds have potential for disturbing natural action, upsetting the tank and discharging solids into the absorption system. Your septic system will function naturally with the addition of normal household waste only. Bacteria are already present in the tank and will take care of 90-95% of organic materials placed into the tank without chemical or compound addition.

Non-digestible solids will accumulate in the tank and wash out into the drainfield if not removed by periodic pumping of the tank every one to three years.

If suspended solids reach the drainfield, they can clog soil pores and prevent water from percolating through. Additives claiming to "clean the tank" and "eliminate the need for pumping" can dissolve these solids and suspend them. This will allow them to settle in the drainfield thus interfering with drainfield performance.

From an economic viewpoint, septic tank additives can cost more each year than the cost of a periodic septic tank pump out which ranges from $50 to $75. Remember, too, that a properly designed and maintained system will give years of service without use of additives.

The Michigan Department of Public Health suggests that you remember the following: Don't add anything but normal household wastewater to your septic system; don't add lye or a caustic material that could harm bacteria that break down sewage; avoid disposing of items that cannot readily decompose such as coffee grounds, bones, disposable diapers, plastics, etc.

Remember, too, that you can call the Washtenaw County Health Department at 994-2492 for information if your system is in need of repair or if you have questions concerning septic tank operation and maintenance.

Volunteers Needed For County Foster Care Review Board

The State Court Administrative Office reported today that volunteers are needed to serve as members on Foster Care Review Boards in Washtenaw County.

The Michigan Legislature established the Foster Care Review Board Program in 1984 in an effort to improve children's foster care programs throughout the state.

The Washtenaw County Foster Care Review Board meets to review the temporary placement of children placed in Foster homes by the Juvenile Division of the Washtenaw County Probate Court.

Purpose of the Review Board is to determine, through a representative sample of cases, if the Juvenile Court and the Michigan Department of Social Services is properly planning for the permanent placement of children who are in foster homes.

The success of the Foster Care Review Board Program in Washtenaw and other counties will determine whether citizens review of child placement should become a permanent part of child foster care in Michigan, according to the State Court Administrative Office which administers the program. The State Court Administrative Office is an arm of the Michigan Supreme Court.

Members of the Washtenaw County Foster Care Review Board are selected to reflect a cross-section of the population of the county. Volunteers may not be employed by a child care organization, the Michigan Department of Social Services of the Juvenile Court and must live in Washtenaw County.

Volunteers are expected to meet approximately one day per month in Washtenaw County and to attend a training program. Expenses for attending the meetings and training sessions are reimbursed.

Citizens interested in volunteering in Washtenaw County should write the Foster Care Review Board, State Court Administrative Office, 611 Ottawa, Box 30048, Lansing 48909, or call 517/373-0831.

Biting Insects Cannot Transmit AIDS Virus

Because AIDS is spread by blood to blood contact, many people assume that mosquitos and other biting insects can spread the disease. However, nearly all physicians and public health scientists think otherwise.

The strongest evidence comes from our own national surveillance system for AIDS. State and local health departments across the country do a special in-person follow-up interview for all AIDS cases that deny belonging to one of the well known high-risk groups for AIDS. No state or local health department in any part of the country has found any direct evidence for transmission of the AIDS virus by mosquitos, ticks, lice, bed bugs or any other insect.

Another reason that the experts don't feel biting insects are likely to be able to transmit AIDS is the small volume of blood that biting insects can mechanically carry from one person to the next.

Studies of health care workers who stuck themselves with needles used to give shots or start intravenous lines don't seem to result in infection with the AIDS virus very often. Careful follow-up of hundreds of such exposures have uncovered only a couple of cases where infections occurred. These tended to involve deep injections and relatively large amounts of blood.

When you think about the size of a mosquito's "needle" you can see why transmission from mosquitos doesn't seem likely. One of the entomologists from the State Health Department has calculated that it would take two million blood meals for a bed bug to ingest one infection dose from an AIDS carrier. Bed bugs just don't live that long!

This Fall, Plant Only Treated Wheat Seed

In spite of the numerous diseases that struck this year's wheat crop, farmers can be fairly certain they'll not have problems with next year's crop if they make sure the seed they use this fall has been treated with an effective fungicide.

"The seed industry has taken every step they can to assure growers of disease-free seed," says Larry Copeland, Michigan State University co-operative extension service agronomist. "But ultimately, it is up to the individual grower to make sure that every kernel of seed put in the ground this fall has been treated."

The all-important step is simply to be sure that wheat seed has been treated with an effective fungicide such as Vitavax 200 (with thiram) or pentachloronitrobenzene (PCNB).

Treating seed with a sherry applicator assures uniform coverage by the fungicide. Drill box application of the fungicide is usually less satisfactory.

Growers need not be concerned about using 1986 wheat seed that has been properly harvested, conditioned and treated. (This is the general process for most certified seed producers.) But under no circumstances should growers plant any 1986 unprocessed, untreated bin-run wheat.

Growers should, however, be leary of planting wheat seed that has sprouted, even though it has been treated. (A notable amount of sprouting occurred this year because of wet weather just prior to harvest.)

MSU laboratory research shows that slightly sprouted wheat seed can have a germination rate of 90 percent in September, but within six weeks the germination rate may be only 60 to 70 percent. Under field conditions, the germination rate could be significantly lower and, with it, the chances of winter survival.

Through careful processing and the use of gravity cleaners, it is often possible to eliminate enough of the badly sprouted seeds in some seed lots to meet certification standards.

Seed producers and commercial wheat growers using seed lots with minimum levels of sprouting should recognize the risks involved in using marginal lots that may germinate acceptably now but poorly later.

Dexter Township Home To Endangered Mussel

Before World War II, mussels peeped the shoals of the Huron River between Dexter and Delhi Rapids. At least 15 mussel species, including the now threatened purple back, formed a diverse community there. During World War II, gray bags used in Detroit bomber and munitions plants were shipped to a Dexter land-dump.

In just two years wastewater discharged from this land-dump nearly decimated the mussel population in this stretch of the river.

Since then, the water quality of the river in Dexter has improved, however, in 1975 the purple pimple back, also known as Cydonias tuberculata, was listed as a rare and endangered species on Michigan's Natural Features Inventory. In Michigan the mussel is found only in the Raisin and Huron Rivers.

The Huron River Watershed Council, whose chairman is Dexter's Paul Cousins, owner of the Heritage Inn, received a grant to survey this threatened clam. This grant is part of the Nongame Wildlife Fund which is supported through state income tax refunds.

The council views the river's freshwater clams as ideal biological indicators of water quality. Because mussels filter large quantities of water in order to feed, they also accumulate pesticides, heavy metals and other contaminants in their bodies. They act as sensitive indicators of these chemicals because unlike fish who can swim away from pollution, clams are more stationary.

Researchers determined that the purple pimple back has re-established itself between Hudson Mills and Delhi Rapids and that its numbers increased with improved water quality. For example, very few clams were found immediately below where Mill Creek enters the Huron. Agricultural runoff, such as suspended sediments from Mill Creek, may actually suffocate the clams. Also, the soil and silt loads from the creek act as an abrasive to clam shells, thereby weakening their shells and their resistance to disease.

The largest number of clams were found in the upriver area of Hudson Mills where good water quality exists.

The study suggests that all aquatic life could be better protected by strict enforcement of the Natural River Act. This state zoning rule affects all properties located within 400 feet of the river between Kent Lake and Barton Dam. The act is designed to protect and enhance the river environment through building setbacks, control of land alteration and recreational use. The study also suggests that best management practices to mitigate the impact of pollution from Mill Creek be investigated. Mill Pond could be used as a retention basin to allow suspended solids and other pollutants to settle before the tributary joins the river.

The Huron River between Hudson Mills and Delhi Rapids offers a top warm water fishery and excellent recreation opportunities, besides providing suitable habitat for creatures like the purple pimple back.

ple pimple back. Continued concern can retain these benefits for all to enjoy.

In particular, the Board will hear and decide, pursuant to Sec. 10.08c of said Ordinance, whether Mr. Hansen's use of the property may be substituted for the prior non-conforming use and, if so, what conditions and safeguards are required in accordance with the provisions and intent of the Ordinance. The hearing will be held at 8 o'clock p.m. on Thursday, October 9th, 1986, at the Lima Township Hall, 11452 Jackson Road in the Township.

Booklet Tells How To Write Publicity Releases

The big event is all set. It may be National Consumers Week, Become a Civic Booster Day, the church's 50th anniversary, or a blood drive. Now comes the hard part—getting the public and the press to be aware of it in advance and come. What do the pros do?

They rely on successful techniques, such as doing press releases, visiting the media, making sure the event will be newsworthy. ACTION, the national volunteer agency, has put many of these successful techniques together in a booklet to help promote activities carried out by VISTA volunteers, the Foster Grandparents Program, the Retired Senior Volunteer Program, and the Senior Companion Program. You can use these techniques, too. For your copy of ACTION's Publicity, send your name and address and $10 to Department 466P, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

"News" is what you are trying to create. And news is anything that the local newspapers, radio, and television think is news. To get the editors' attention, your story must be timely and interesting. So read the newspapers thoroughly and pay attention to the news and talk shows on the radio and television. Then you will know what they find interesting.

Most news stories include at least one of the following elements: timeliness, novelty, public interest, conflict, tragedy, humor, human interest, proximity, irony, controversy, secrets, or money. A story that contains more than one element might be more acceptable to the reporters you are trying to reach. But don't overdo it. If you put in all of those elements, you might have the great American novel, but not a winning release.

When you get ready to write your release, use the inverted pyramid. That means that the most important facts are at the beginning and the least important facts at the end. That way editors can cut from the bottom if they don't have room for everything.

The first paragraph is the "lead"—generally only one or two sentences long. It catches the reader's attention and usually tells the "who, what, where, when, why, and how" of your story. The second paragraph is the "bridge," getting the reader ready for more detailed information that is in the later paragraphs, or "body." The final part is the "details." In it, you explain what the organization sponsoring event is.

Use simple words, action verbs, and short sentences. Keep the paragraphs short. Then ask a couple of unbiased people to read it. If they snore off, pep it up.

When you're ready to put it on paper for the editors, use news release paper or your organization's stationery. On the left, lead off with "FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE" or "FOR RELEASE ON [a certain date]" or "NEWS ADVISORY" if you are just telling them something is going to happen. On the right, give a contact's name and phone number—preferably both a day and night number. Then comes your "slug." That's the headline, and it tells a bit about what is coming. Now type the release double spaced with wide margins. When the release is two or more pages, type "(more)" at the bottom of the page. Number following pages and end the release with the symbol "36" or "36" meaning "the end."

There is much more to learn about working with reporters, doing public service announcements, preparing for interviews, and other techniques. You can get them all when you send 50 cents for ACTION's Publicity. At the same time, you will also receive a free copy of the Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration, the Catalog lists more than 300 other free and moderately priced federal booklets on a variety of subjects.

Do animals play games? National Wildlife magazine reports that animals apparently have more fun than we originally thought. Chimpanzee juveniles, like human children, play follow the leader, hide-and-seek, king of the hill, and tag-and-war. Young white whales playfully butt against their mother and slide off their backs, and river otters repeatedly slide down stream-banks.

A LOT OF INTEREST was shown at the St. Mary's Festival last week-end. Looking at the greenhouses, from left, are Bob Rademacher, the Rev. Fr. Philip Dupuis, and Dave Rademacher. First prize of $2,500 went to Mary Baker Crockett, of Chelso; second prize of $2,500 went to Mary Hunsbury, of Whitewater Lake; third prize of $250 went to Ben Elliott, of Gregory; fourth prize of $250 went to Elizabeth Smith, of Chelso; fifth prize of $250 went to Phil McGilvery, of Chelso; and the incentive drawing of $250 went to Mike Baker.

Buying Surplus Federal Property May Be Risky

Want a good deal on a used football or some outgrown baby clothes? Go to a neighborhood garage sale. Want a good deal on, say, a shop's worth of scrap metal? How about an Air Force base? No job. When the U.S. Government has something it can no longer use, it adds that item to the long list of surplus items up for sale.

You won't find a football or baby clothes on this list; however, you will find furniture, agricultural equipment, land, and even leases for mineral rights on government land—but not at garage sale prices. Those peep for $60 and free land do not exist.

You could respond to an ad and spend $20 to get an old lot of what Uncle Sam had available, or you could write to the Consumer Information Center and find out the latest information for the U.S. Real Property Sales List. Item 581P, free. And The Federal Oil and Gas Lottery, Item 584P, free, from the U.S. Department of the Interior has information on how you can participate in government lotteries for mineral rights on public lands.

You can learn about federal surplus land, by sending for the General Services Administration booklet, The U.S. Real Property Sales List, Item 581P, free. And The Federal Oil and Gas Lottery, Item 584P, free, from the U.S. Department of the Interior has information on how you can participate in government lotteries for mineral rights on public lands.

For your copies of these booklets, send your name and address and any fee to M. B. Woods, Consumer Information Center, Pueblo, Colo. 81009. Please indicate the item number of the booklets you want.

On a list of Defense Department surplus, you might expect to find equipment left over from a war. There isn't any. You can't buy a destroyer or a fighter plane. And contrary to popular wisdom, there are no new jeeps disassembled, waiting to be taken home for almost nothing.

Most of the available Defense Department surplus has commercial application. Chemicals, lumber, and various large tools are often sold at public auction. There is also a considerable amount of office equipment for sale: desks, typewriters, and other furniture.

There is surplus land available from the government, too. Land is no longer given away as it was under the Homestead Act, and it isn't even cheap, as you often read in "too good to be true" ads. Still, the government has real estate that it no longer uses. The U.S. Real Property Sales List describes the land that is available to you. And if you are interested, it tells you how to make a bid.

Some government land is not for sale, but you can lease the mineral rights to it. Before you get your hopes up, know what you're getting into. None of the land is known to contain natural gas or oil, and it has been leased to people before. Your chances of making money are almost nonexistent. Leases are obtained on a non-competitive, lottery basis, usually by consumers who want to make some money by selling the lease to an oil or gas company. When the bids have been placed, winners are selected at random by a computer.

A few plots have slightly higher chances than others of containing oil or gas. There are hundreds of people bidding for those, but if you get one, several bidders may offer to buy your lease. If, however, you get land in a more speculative area, you will probably have to go out and solicit bidders. Either way, although income sold for only a few dollars an acre, you are taking a big risk.

Though you can easily place your own bid, many people pay filing services to help them choose land and bid on it. If you want to use a filing service, be sure to check into several before you choose one. Their fees and services vary. Beware of those that seem too sure that you're going to make money, and remember that the land you are bidding on has been leased to other people who have relinquished or cancelled their claim. The land is not known to have oil or gas deposits, and 90 percent of the parcels are never drilled on.

There are dozens of myths or rumors about government surplus that are not true. You can't get something for nothing. If you are interested in surplus government properties, send for these booklets: How to Buy Surplus Personal Property from the U.S. Department of Defense (Item 407N, 50¢), The U.S. Real Property Sales List (Item 581P, free), and The Federal Oil and Gas Lottery (Item 584P, free). You will also receive the free Consumer Information Catalog. Published quarterly by the Consumer Information Center, the Catalog lists over 300 free and moderately priced booklets on a wide variety of subjects.

Mental Health Victim To Speak in Ann Arbor

Marie Balter, whose story won an Emmy for actress Marla Thomas, will be in Ann Arbor for a free lecture at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 16, at the new Mercywood Health Building, 5381 McAuley Dr., on the main campus of Catherine McAuley Health Center.

Thomas received an Emmy for best lead actress in a mini-series or a special for her portrayal of Marie Balter in the made-for-TV movie "Nobody's Child."

Balter's story is one of survival against unbelievable odds. She spent almost 20 years in a mental institution where she was misdiagnosed, given the wrong drugs, locked away and written off as a hopeless case.

It has been 20 years since Balter left Danvers State Hospital north of Boston. In that time, she has earned a master's degree from Harvard University and returned to Danvers as a social worker. She also has formed her own mental health institute.

Balter's story is one of constant pain. Given up at birth by her alcoholic mother, she was bounced around until at the age of six she was adopted by an elderly couple who abused her. They eventually packed her off to a boarding school. She was depressed and suicidal. At the age of 17, Balter landed in Danvers where she spent most of the next two decades.

During this period, she was reunited with her natural mother, who turned to death shortly thereafter. When she went to her adoptive father for reconciliation, he dropped dead in my arms when I went up to kiss him.

And the story goes on. Balter credits her survival to one physician who saw life in Balter's catatonic brown eyes and to her faith in God. She has no regrets for the past.

"You can't live with what should have been; you have to live with what is," Balter said.

It is fitting that Balter, who has spent so much of her life in a state hospital and now spearheads her own programs for the mentally ill, is appearing in Ann Arbor at the Mercywood Health Building, a modern mental health treatment facility. Her lecture is sponsored by Catherine McAuley Health Center.

Following her lecture, tours of Mercywood will be available. The facility is scheduled to begin operation the following week.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I was surprised to see an ad in last week's paper criticizing Margaret O'Connor for voting for low interest loans to farmers. Obviously, her Democratic opponent has not read the bill nor talked to local farmers about it.

The program provides $130 million in low interest loans over a two-year period. It will cost taxpayers $5 million in interest differential. The loan, in fact, goes to the banker. It must be paid back in two years. If the banker loses money on the loan, the state does not guarantee coverage of the principal. If you were a banker, would you loan money to a "needy farmer" who couldn't guarantee he could pay the money back in two years?

In addition, the bill was passed so late in the session that it would not allow farmers who needed the money to plant crops in time.

Statistics show that the bill refinanced loans for farmers and did not help those with poor credit ratings. This is not an effective way to help the Ag community. I and several other farmers commended Margaret O'Connor for her "No" vote on the bill.

As president of the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, I urge voters to keep O'Connor in Lansing as our State Representative.

Harold Trinkle.

The run is scheduled to pass through Chelsea on its way to Ann Arbor at 4:35 a.m. on Friday, Oct. 10.

The run begins in the upper peninsula with two separate teams, one at Copper Harbor and the other at Ironwood. Both teams will cross the Mackinaw Bridge. One will head south from there. The other team will drive to Whitehall and re-start the race.

The object of the run is to match the $25,000 donation to the Special Olympics by Little Caesar.

Caution Urged in Handling Corn Crop

The sheer size of this fall's corn crop—8.3 billion bushels, the second largest in history—means that many farmers will be exposed to dangers not found under normal harvest conditions.

"Getting ready for, and handling this crop creates hazards beyond those that usually accompany normal corn storage practices," says Howard J. Doss, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service agricultural safety specialist.

Among the life-threatening hazards that can occur during this harvest season, is lung damage from mold, grain auger accidents and becoming trapped in flowing grain, Doss says.

Problems with mold arise when old silos, hay or grain storages are reconditioned for new corn storage and mold spores are inhaled.

"Mold spores from old hay or grain can cause Farmer's Lung, which is characterized by fever, drippy nose, persistent cough and a let-down, tired feeling," Doss says. "Symptoms may appear within a matter of hours of exposure or up to two weeks afterward and may be mistaken for bronchitis or pneumonia."

Doss says that if Farmer's Lung is not promptly diagnosed and treated by a physician, irreversible damage to the respiratory system and even death may occur.

"At minimum, anyone working in dust-laden areas and mold-contaminated environments should wear a disposable dust mask," Doss says. "The mask should have the capability to filter out pollen and plant spores down to 7 microns and bacteria down to 1 micron."

Working around grain augers has an element of risk even when the manufacturer's guidelines are carefully followed. Doss urges farmers to make a thorough review of the operator's manual before corn harvest begins.

"Every year we receive reports of serious and too often, fatal injuries, because the auger shields were not in place, the auger was improperly transported or it was not properly set up and used," Doss says.

The law states that augers must have shields or guards that will prevent loose clothing, gloves and the like from getting tangled in moving parts. Also required is that all PTO shafts have covers and that electric motors be made safe from entanglement or electrical shock.

Operate the auger only after it has been anchored to the tractor or securely to the ground and both wheels of the tractor have been blocked at the front and the rear. The auger should be on level ground and the elevating mechanism locked into place.

"Nothing more flexible than a shovel or gravity unloading wagon should ever be used to put grain into the auger," Doss says. "Using a foot or hands to move grain is unthinkable."

Only qualified operators should be allowed near the auger when it is being used. Keep all others at a safe distance from the grain handling operation.

Only a tractor should be used to position or transport an auger. When transporting the auger, lower it to its proper position and move at speeds not exceeding 20 mph. Never move augers by hand.

"Five farm workers were killed last October in two separate accidents. In each case, they began moving a grain auger by hand while the auger was in an upright position and it came into contact with electrical lines," Doss says. "Only one person should be in charge of moving an auger, and that person should look for powerlines in the area."

Doss is concerned that as farmers use temporary or makeshift storage for corn, they will disregard these safety requirements, including procedures for inspecting corn or loading it out of storage.

"No one under any circumstances should ever be allowed in or around any structure, wagon or truck when grain is being moved," Doss says. "Flowing grain can trap a person in three or four seconds and bury in less than 30 seconds."

Because upright corn storages can cause corn to mold or crust, there is a real danger for someone to fall through corn that has formed a bridge over a cavity.

"Bridged grain may look perfectly safe from the top, but it could hide a cavity that a person could fall into and become immediately submerged," Doss says. "It takes only a few inches of grain to suffocate a person."

If someone must enter any kind of grain structure, that person should wear a lifeline that is held onto by at least one other person. All grain moving equipment should be turned off and locked out whenever anyone enters any type of grain storage.

Flood-Damaged Roads, Bridges To Impact Tax Debate

Flood damages to Michigan's rural roads and bridges will have a far-reaching impact, according to Robert E. Smith, senior legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The rural roads and bridges affected by the flood waters number in the hundreds and possibly even in the thousands," Smith said. "It's a huge problem because we didn't have enough money before the flood to properly maintain those roads and bridges."

"Now, with the flood, many rural roads and bridges will have to be replaced or repaired just to keep commerce going. This will be an extremely costly program which will impact the Legislature's scheduled efforts in the next session to develop a new formula for highway taxes," he said.

Pursell-Baker Debate Slated Live on TV

Congressional candidates Carl Pursell (R) and Dean Baker (D) will meet Tuesday, Oct. 21, at 8 p.m. in a televised forum sponsored by the League of Women Voters. The hour-long debate will be broadcast live by Channel 31 (WHTT, Ann Arbor). A moderator will present questions about legislative issues to the two candidates for the 2nd Congressional District seat.

The event is sponsored jointly by the four local Leagues in the 2nd District, the LWVs of the Ann Arbor Area, Jackson Area, Livonia, and Northville-Plymouth-Canton-Novi. Clare Beck, co-president of the LWV of the Ann Arbor Area commented, "We are delighted that Channel 31 is working with us to bring this forum to a wide audience. This is the first time we have had access to a local television station that could reach most of the 2nd District with a live broadcast."

The forum will be televised in Channel 31's studio. Because of limited seating space, any studio audience will be by invitation only. In addition, radio station WEMU will broadcast the forum live, and arrangements are being made for cable television systems throughout the district to carry it also.
