Lake Property Owners Pursue Charges of Illegal Wetlands Fill

Portage and Base Lake Property Owners Association is not pleased with the Department of Natural Resources. The DNR has recently ordered Lawrence Baughn of Pinckney to take out 700 cubic yards of fill which he illegally placed in wetlands adjacent to Portage Lake, but according to the Property Owner's Association, this is just a small percentage of the area that Baughn has illegally filled.

has reason to believe that Baughn has been filling in his wetland area for the last four years and has even built four houses on illegally filled land. But his first application was made last fall, Sept. 26, and asked permission to fill in 4,100 cubic yards. The Property Owner's Association claims that although Baughn had already done the work he was applying to do, the DNR treated it on Baughn's terms, as a future request. And, furthermore, when they did rule on the case, they only required Baughn to take out 700 cubic yards, not the 4,100 in the original application. Doug Smith, secretary of the Property Owner's Association, questions why the DNR lightened the penalty without proper cause. He said it was "like slapping someone on the wrist and then letting them go." Baughn's plan for the area is to build a subdivision called "Camelot Four," consisting of 44 homes all with

Cassidy Lake Escapee Implicated in Florida Motel Double Murder

A prisoner who walked away from Cassidy Lake Technical School on Christmas day has been implicated in a double murder that took place in a Tampa, Fla. motel in January.

Gregory Clark, 19, and Daniel Herrick, 18, a man reported to be either a friend or relative of Clark, were arrested by Owosso police on Tuesday, Jan. 27 on car and gun theft charges, according to Sgt. Keith Kewish. Kewish said that traveler's checks in their possession eventually linked them to the Florida homicides.

According to police, Herrick allegedly stole a car and three guns from his father, who lives in Owosso, and drove to Cassidy Lake, where he picked up Clark and two other inmates, David Warden and Kenneth Massengill.

The four then drove to Ohio, where Massengill and Warden were eventually picked up in Fulton county near Bowling Green. According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Det. Paul Wade, the four apparently got into a fight and Warden and Massengill were thrown out of the car.

From there Clark and Herrick drove to Tampa, Fla. and somehow met up with two men, Di Persio, 42, of Massachusetts, and Alexander Angelo, 27, of California, Kewish said. Angelo had apparently been recently discharged from the armed services.

Persio and Angelo were found dead in a room at the Inner Bay Motel on Jan. 14, killed by .22 caliber gunshot wounds to their heads, Kewish said. The men then allegedly drove back to Owosso. A tip that the men were holed up in an apartment in Owosso prompted Owosso police, assisted by the Shiawassee County Sheriff's Department, to storm the building, where the men were taken into custody, Kewish said. Another tip led police to some of the men's personal belongings in another apartment. There police found a sawed-off shotgun in a suitcase, as well as traveler's checks, Kewish said. Through the Law Enforcement Information Network, police were able to determine that Angelo had purchased the traveler's checks. Tampa police are trying to extradite Clark and Herrick on the murder charges, Kewish said. Florida has the death penalty for murder. Clark had been serving time at Cassidy Lake for car theft.

Four Are Candidates For Three Council Seats

Four candidates will run for three village council seats in the village's elections on Monday, March 9.

Dennis Hall, 47 Butternut Ct., and incumbents Richard Steele, 211 Lincoln St., Stephanie Kanten, 560 Chandler St., and Herman Radloff, 419 Madison St., will seek two-year terms on the village council. They were the only candidates to return completed petitions by the Monday, Feb. 2 deadline.

No one is officially running for either clerk or assessor. Evelyn Rosentreter, clerk for the last six years, has decided to retire. The clerk's position has a salary of $50 per village council meeting and $100 per quarter.

"I was really hoping someone would step forward for the clerk's position considering how much we've had going on recently," said Village President Jerry Satterthwaite.

The assessor's office has been vacant for more than two years.

If there are no write-in candidates for either position, appointments can be made by the village council.

Susan Walters and Ann Belsler, incumbents on the McKune Memorial Library Board, were the only candidates to file petitions for the two three-year seats on the board.

Hall, like trustee Phil Boham, is employed at Chelsea Community Hospital. He is also a part-time Chelsea policeman, which may open him to conflict of interest charges should he be elected. A policeman is an employee of the village and the village council sets employees' wages.

Kanten, a Dexter School District teacher, has been a member of council on and off for many years.

Radloff, who works for Killens Concrete, will seek his third term. Steele, an employee of St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, will also seek his third term.

Chelsea Board of Education Formulating Policy Toward Serious Communicable Diseases

A new policy toward students and employees who contract serious communicable diseases, including Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome (AIDS), is being formulated by the Chelsea School Board.

The board's personnel committee, which includes chairwoman Anne Comeau, Lloyd Grau, and Barbara Cherem, has been working on the policy since the beginning of the school year, according to Comeau.

"This is not an AIDS policy," Comeau said.

"It covers all communicable diseases that (a child or staff member) can come into school with and affect others."

Comeau acknowledged that the policy is aimed at more serious diseases such as hepatitis, AIDS and AIDS-related complex.

The board has solicited advice and information from members of the local medical community, including Ann Davis, infection control coordinator at Chelsea Community Hospital, and physician Jerry Waldyke.

Davis spoke to the board specifically about AIDS at the board's regular meeting Monday, Jan. 19. According to Superintendent Ray Van Meer, Davis "dispelled a lot of myths" about the disease.

Details of the final policy were still being worked out as of late last week. The policy will probably be an action item for the board's Feb. 16 meeting.

Comeau said "the crux of the policy," would be an extensive case by case review process by a panel that includes the infected person's physician, a Washtenaw County Health Department physician, the school nurse, a child's parents and the superintendent.

The policy does not spell out who should or should not be held out of school or tell what actions should be taken for each particular disease. It merely prescribes a course of action once it is known a student has contracted a serious communicable disease.

"We have never had a student or staff member come down with one of these diseases," Van Meer said.

"We want to have a procedure in place rather than wonder 'what should we do now?'"

The policy is being modeled after one already in effect in the St. John's School District near Lansing.

Local Store Reports Possible Thefts

In separate incidents, two men rented a videocassette recorder and movies from a local outlet and failed to return the equipment, leading police to suspect the merchandise may have been stolen.

Video Choice reported that a man identifying himself as George F. Barescheer, of Amarillo, Tex. rented a VCR and movies on Nov. 18 using a Texas driver's license.

In the other incident, a man identifying himself as Randall Dewayne Stamer, Jr., of Ypsilanti rented a VCR and movies on Jan. 16.

The equipment and movies was worth $1,180, according to Chelsea Police. Police are investigating.

School Board Hears Report on Testing

At the Feb. 2 meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education, Sue Carter gave a testing update, stating that the students were "doing more than expected." At the end of her report, board president Arthur Dils congratulated her, not just on the fact that Chelsea scores were higher than state averages, but on the range of tests offered.

Two new tests that Carter told about were a career vocational test given to 9th graders and a math placement test given to high school juniors to see if they were getting adequate preparation for college math.

Carter also explained the three basic tests taken in the school system, the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT), the California Achievement Test (CAT), and the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP). The PSAT, she explained, is a good practice test for college-bound students. The CAT and MEAP are given in different years all through school.

Carter said the tests serve two purposes. They show what individual students are capable of and help with class and career placement. On a school-wide level, they show what is being taught and what is not. Administrators and teachers can then study the areas in which students score the lowest and try to figure out if these are concepts they want to get across and, if so, how to change the curriculum.

Superintendent Ray Van Meer introduced a Chelsea School District communicable disease policy, which he said was based on the policy of St. Johns, a community that successfully dealt with a case of AIDS in their school population. It is Van Meer's hope that "a policy be in place before Chelsea has a reportable case." The policy will come up for approval or discussion at the Feb. 16 board meeting.

Van Meer reported that the administration is still studying the problem of how to find time for extra-curricular activities, either with last period absences or a change in school starting or dismissal times. He said the solution may be just in rotation of the classes missed, although it can not be more than between 5th and 6th hour because some teachers work at more than one school. However, he said whatever the solution, he would not suggest more than one bus run or unnecessarily early starting times. He also promised to give plenty of warning if hours are going to be changed.

Choir director June Warren came to the board meeting with three students, Tucker Lee for the Silhouettes, a boys singing group; Lori Jedele of the Contemporaries, a girls singing group; and Kelly Burke, the elected president of the CHS Concert Choir. All three groups and the Beach Middle School choir, had raised Newly constructed Keusch and Flintoft's law offices at 119 S. Main St. feature bits of Chelsea's past. A Kempf Commercial & Savings Bank sign and swinging doors came from the old Kempf bank building which is now the Secretary of State's office. Filigreed lamps with white milk glass shades in the offices once hung in Cumming's and Freeman's, a general store which is now the site of Schneider's Store. The building, bought by Oscar D. Schneider in 1919, was Chelsea's post office, then a Kroger store, The Chelsea Restaurant and an office for Spaulding for Children.

Judy Gallagher of Seva Foundation readied part of a 700-pound shipment of soap products which will go to Poland via Channel 7 in Detroit. Soap products such as shampoo, hand cream and liquid soap were given to Seva for their Christmas gift program, but arrived too late for local distribution, and were channeled to another cause overseas. A bar of black market soap in Poland now costs $2.50.

Kelley Releases Drug Task Force Report

A report prepared by the Prosecuting Attorney's Association of Michigan (PAAM) will set the groundwork for a state-wide strategy against drugs, Attorney General Frank Kelley announced.

The PAAM Drug Task Force report made 26 recommendations, including drug educational programs in elementary and secondary schools and strengthening investigative techniques and penalties for conviction of serious drug crimes.

The report will serve as a basis for legislative and administrative recommendations to be presented to legislative leaders and Governor James Blanchard.

"A state-wide strategy against drugs is a pre-condition of eligibility for funding under the federal anti-drug abuse act of 1986," Kelley said.

He added he hoped the governor and the Legislature will act quickly on the proposals saying immediate funding is necessary and the funding question of drug enforcement and education should be taken out of the political arena.

The recommendations of the report included wiretap legislation for use in investigations of major drug dealers, a reform of the state's search warrant statute to agree with federal standards, mandatory minimum sentences for drug criminals convicted for quantities between 50 and 225 grams.

The groups further called for legislation to address the problem of drugs in schools along with the better co-ordination of efforts by federal and state law enforcement agencies against major drug criminals.

"We're getting at mid-level drug dealers, but we're often not able to get to their sources," said Eaton county prosecutor Michael Hocking. He added that wiretap is the best tool to gain access to the top dealers.

Isabella county prosecutor Joseph Barberi said the strategy will educate people about the dangers of drugs and will provide stronger prosecution for those involved with serious drug crimes.

"We need to reduce the demand for drugs by developing coalitions in our schools, churches and communities," he said.

PAAM president Gerald D. Warner said that in fiscal years 1987, 1988, and 1989, $230 million annually will be available for distribution to states for local narcotics law enforcements, while $200 million in fiscal year 1987 and $250 million in fiscal years 1988 and 1989 will be available for educational and promotional programs for drug-free schools and communities.

Kelley said the state hopes to receive $5 to $6 million to implement the program.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I like that line about the feller that said he knowed he was right smack in the center of the world because the horizon came down the same distance all around him. The more you think of that the more you think of it. When we give serious thought to the world at large, we general have trouble seeing beyond our spot on it.

For instant, Bug Hookum was lamenting the state of the Texas economy Saturday night during the session at the country store. He has been reading behind the meetings of the Arab oil sheeks, and after thinking the situation up one side and down the other he is full convinced that Arab greed is the best hope for Texas. If they don't agree to hold down oil production so American demand will force prices back up, Texas and Louisiana can't crank back up. If state Governments don't git oil revenue they got to keep cutting people and services or come up with somepun else to tax. However you slice it, the pain is going to be felt all the way down to the feller with the horizoy equal all around him.

Meanwhile, Bug said, we got pawn shops in Dallas and Houston putting in drive-in windows so the recently rich can stay in their big cars while they hock their jewels fer cash to tide em over. Bug had saw a item where some feller come in a choffer drove limosine to pawn a painting. If we got that kind of suffering on one end and more homeless than ever on the other end, Bug said, it must be that the only people making it in this country are them in the middle.

General speaking, Zeke Grubb allowed, we limit our thinking to our little corners of the world because if we raise our sights all we see is confusion. You would think, Zeke said, that politicians would realize you can't tax a feller's income if he ain't got one. You would think them in public office would see that a man that can't find work will turn on em a heap quicker than one that won't work. But from what Zeke read about school held at Harvard fer jest-elected Congressmen, these folks are like the rest of us. They can't see the big picture fer dealing with all the little snapshots in their home districts.

Actual, Ed Doolittle said, you can pritty much tell the size of the man by the size of his problems, and that holds true up and down the line. If he's thinking about whether his tie matches his suit he's not thinking about the 200 people on his payroll, Ed went on, and if his mind is on a junket put on by the doctors' lobby he's not giving his full attention to hearings on $400 a day hospital rooms and $200 a day limits on Medicare payment.

Clem Webster said Ed was hard on doctors because he has got a case of defensive living. Like defensive drivers look out fer the other driver, Clem said, Ed wants doctors to keep him one jump ahead of father time, and that's a mighty tall order. You got to roll with the punch, Clem said. When you git to old to fight you put up a better argument. When you can't remember where you left your teeth you can worry all day about catching what's-his-name's disease, but a better way is to write down what you could keep in your head 30 year ago.

Personal, it looks to me like Clem's idee of defensive living is to keep on doing the best you can with what you got left. This way, a good day is one you git through without having to bend over and pick up somepun.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

"Alzheimer's Disease and the ABCs of Memory" will be the topic of a free program at 2 p.m. Thursday, Feb. 5, in the Catherine McAuley Health Center Education Center in Ann Arbor.

Alan N. Dengiz, M.D., medical advisor for the Geriatric Clinical Program at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, will present an overview of Alzheimer's Disease, describing symptoms, possible causes of the disease, diagnosis and treatment. A question and answer session will follow.

One out of every 100 people in the United States—an estimated 2 million people—is afflicted with Alzheimer's. This brain disorder slowly robs people of their intellectual capabilities. In most cases, one of the first signs of Alzheimer's is memory loss.

Beatrice Wooley, of Ann Arbor, author of "Fact and Fiction about Memory" and "Memory—Use It or Lose It," will explain how the memory system works and will describe the facts and fallacies about memory loss in the elderly. Wooley also will offer helpful memory techniques for such common occurrences as forgetting names and telephone numbers and forgetting to turn off the car lights.

The program is presented by CMHC's Department of Services to the Elderly. For further information, call 572-5189.

St. Joseph Mercy Hospital is a unit of Catherine McAuley Health Center.

New Year's Resolution for Farmers: Visit SCS Office

If farmers make no other resolutions for 1987, they should resolve to stop at their county Soil Conservation Service (SCS) office as soon as possible.

The purpose is to determine if they are in violation of the wetlands (swampbusting) or the cultivation of highly erodible land (sodbusting) provisions in the 1985 Food Security Act.

The act states: "Any person who, after Dec. 23, 1985, brings into production a field that is predominately highly erodible land or who converts wetland to the production of an agricultural commodity may be affected by the sodbuster and swamp-buster provision."

A farmer or landowner who is determined to be in violation of either or both of the provisions may be declared ineligible for:

—Price and income supports, crop insurance, Farmers Home Administration loans, Commodity Credit Corp. storage payments, farm storage facility loans, Conservation Reserve Program annual payments, other programs under which USDA makes commodity-related payments.

Farmers and landowners whose land is being cultivated should not take lightly the possibility of being in violation.

"Our main concern now is the possibility that farmers may be in violation of the Food Security Act of 1985 and not know it," says Larry Libby, Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service public policy specialist.

"The provisions of the act represent a major change in conservation policy. They are one step short of a requirement that all farmers conserve soil," Libby says. "It is the first time in history that the farmer has a fundamental obligation to protect land, and the ramifications are quite far-reaching."

Under the act, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will be spot-checking at least 15 percent of the farms participating in ASCS programs and will notify FCIC and FMHA producers who are ineligible for their programs.

That doesn't mean that violators are automatically dropped from government programs. They will be given the opportunity to conform to the act by following approved SCS tillage practices. The timetable for implementing the required practices does not appear to be unreasonable.

"The danger is that farmers will ignore what amounts to a warning that the government is serious about curtailing soil erosion," Libby says. "Chances are that if farmers check with the SCS office, the requirements for compliance will not be too difficult to follow."

The act states that farmers' compliance with the requirements is voluntary, but the consequences of not co-operating with the program could be serious.

CHELSEA COMMUNITY HOSPITAL

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

More than a week has passed since the State of the Union address but many Americans are still concerned about the state of the Presidency. Millions of us who have admired Ronald Reagan enough to vote for him twice turned on the TV for the eagerly awaited message, confident that he would level with us on the Iran-Contra affair. Instead he joined Admiral Poindexter and Lt. Col. North, and stonewalled us. With not one word of apology he stood there on Capitol Hill and told us, "I have one major regret. I took a risk with regard to our action in Iran. It did not work, and for that I take full responsibility. "The goals were worthy. I do not believe it was wrong to try to establish contacts with a country of strategic importance or to try to save lives. And certainly it was not wrong to try to secure freedom for our citizens held in barbaric captivity. But we did not achieve what we wished and serious mistakes were made in trying to do so. We will get to the bottom of this and I will take whatever action is called for."

This was followed by some lofty thoughts on peace and freedom. Then he said, "And let there be no mistake about American policy. We will not sit idly by if our interests or our friends in the Middle East are threatened nor will we yield to terrorist blackmail."

All this from a president who had just gotten through yielding to terrorist blackmail plus supplying weapons to Iran for use against America's friends in the Middle East!

And then the President, standing in self-admitted guilt, had the effrontery to say to the legislature of the nation, "Now, ladies and gentlemen of the Congress, why don't we get to work?"

America has not forgotten the anger and humiliation in 1979 when 63 Americans were taken hostage from the U.S. embassy in Tehran by followers of the Ayatollah Khomeini. We have never gotten over our loathing for the Iranian fanatics who did—and still do—gather in ranting mobs to scream, "Death to the Americans!"

Who in America can remember anyone in public life suggesting at any time during the 1980's that we seek the friendship of the Iranians? No one, other than Ronald Reagan. This unexpected turnabout has alarmed Iraq and other moderate Arab nations. They have trusted us not to arm the fanatical fundamentalists who rule Iran. European allies who have had constant U.S. pressures to embargo all arms to Iran are equally shocked at American duplicity.

Observers who try to keep abreast of U.S. foreign affairs cautioned the electorate in 1982 that Reagan had almost no credentials in world relations. They applauded the presence of George Bush on the ticket for vice-president because he had a commendable record in diplomacy with China. Unfortunately, since his election to the vice-presidency this statesman has spent most of his time in oblivion.

It was therefore, disconcerting to diplomats throughout the Free World when Ronald Reagan decided to meet with Mikhail Gorbachev one on one in Iceland. There would be no one in the room but the two heads of state and their interpreters. No George Bush to control Ron's western style hip-shooting. No George Schultz to cool the President before and debrief him after each conversation with the Russian leader. Reagan could breeze into the meetings holding destiny in his hands as though it were a plaything.

Gorbachev is an intellectual who is tough enough and perceptive enough to rise to the apex of power in the paranoid Politburo. He also represents the first modern presence in the Kremlin capable of venturing away from the revolutionary dialectic of Lenin, Stalin and Khrushchev. A chance to get to know a man of this potential was an opportunity of historic proportions but Reagan reduced it to the level of mere gamesmanship.

Reagan has shown that he is simply not qualified by experience or temperament for the intricacies and subtleties of world diplomacy. But he has demonstrated sound leadership in the home affairs of our country. Aside from the part of his speech dealing with the Iran-Contra fiasco, the message was a worthy effort, particularly the olive branch he extended to the 100th Congress. There was little new in his 1987 proposals. They were, in fact, resubmissions of old proposals worded in virtually the same language as before. Three different versions of this year's address were drafted by as many speechwriters, but one by Kenneth Khachigian had a good balance of conciliation and eloquence. This was the message used by the President at the urging of Nancy.

Topping all other considerations that Tuesday night were our huge national debt, our foreign trade deficit and an unspecified approach to catastrophic medical costs of the elderly.

In commenting on the speech, Senator Donald Riegle went along with the President's agenda. Senator Carl Levin took a less generous attitude and expressed particular concern over lack of definition on the trade imbalance. Levin also added, "I found there was a gap between the president's rhetoric and his actions."

Representative Carl Pussell defended and praised the President's speech. "I thought it was upbeat," Pussell said. "It was commendable that he took full responsibility for the Iran-Contra affair and expressed a willingness to take corrective action. But no, I don't think it will set the issue at rest."

As a citizen I feel that Ronald Reagan has much to contribute to the country during the rest of his presidency. There is still time to undo part of the damage resulting from conspiracies that took place in the Oval Office. The main thing, I think, is to bring enough influence to bear so that he will leave the conduct of foreign affairs to people who have the credentials. Let Bush, Schultz and other experienced Americans take care of affairs of state while Reagan bears down on the internal needs of the nation.

This is where Nancy can help.

People once believed emeralds could calm storms at sea.

ANNETTE KETNER of Chelsea recently won two awards from the Direct Marketing Association of Detroit for her fundraising efforts at Catherine McAuley Health Center. Her Teddy Bear campaign, to raise money to purchase Teddy Bears for children admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, was named "Most Unique Offer." The mail campaign featured a photograph of her neighbor, Ethan Rendell.

Chelsea Woman Wins Direct Mail Awards for Teddy Bear Campaign

A direct mail campaign featuring a Chelsea boy and his Ted E. Bear has won two awards for a Chelsea woman from the Direct Marketing Association of Detroit.

Annette Ketner, 160 E. Summit St., in a fundraiser for Catherine McAuley Health Center, featured her neighbor, Ethan Rendell, in a 1985 campaign to raise money to buy Teddy bears for children admitted to the pediatrics unit at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital during 1986. The idea was to help take some of the fear out of their hospital stay.

Ketner recently received two 1986 Target Awards from the association. One named her campaign the Most Unique Offer. The other was for Direct Response Advertising—Consumer, for "Outstanding direct response advertising created with the highest standards of excellence." She was given two plaques recognizing her achievements at a recent awards dinner.

A letter, featuring a photograph of 4-year-old Ethan, clutching his Ted E. Bear, was mailed to 10,000 former patients and donors. Accompanying the letter was a response envelope containing a handwritten reply, penned by Ethan's brother, 7-year-old Andrew, saying "Dear Friend, Thank You for the Ted E. Bear."

"We needed a certain amount of money and we covered that within a week after the mailing went out," Ketner said.

"We got a good response, especially from Chelsea people."

The average gift was $13, Ketner said. $10 would buy two Teddy Bears. Approximately 700 bears were purchased.

Ketner said the idea for the mailing began to take shape after she visited Ethan in the hospital and he had taken along some of his own stuffed toys.

"I began to realize how important those toys are to sick children," Ketner said.

"The whole nursing staff is delighted. They tell me a lot of nice stories about the children and the bears. For instance, they handed a bear to one young frightened Mexican boy during a transfusion. He hugged it and smiled. It has been very rewarding."

Ketner called the awards her "most satisfying."

Ethan and Andrew are the sons of Sally and Richard Rendell, 157 E. Summit St.

FAMILY DENTISTRY
1200 South Main Street
Chelsea, Michigan 48118
(313) 475-3444

Parents' attitudes are very important in the child's perception of a trip to the dentist. It is very common for a parent to transfer his or her anxieties directly onto the child and this makes it all the more difficult to establish a bond of trust between the child and the dental "team." Watch what you say! A visit to the dental office may be viewed as a chance to show off a beautiful smile or how well the child has been brushing or even to show how "grown-up" the child is becoming as his permanent teeth begin erupting. Those and other positive attitudes should be re-enforced daily at toothbrushing time.

Since the advent of fluorides the incidence of tooth decay has fallen dramatically. It is not unusual anymore to see teenagers and young adults without a single filling or cavity! Why start bringing your child to the dentist so young then? First, your family dentist is not just a technician who drills and fills decayed teeth but a professional trained to recognize and treat a multitude of oral diseases and problems. A child's baby teeth play a critical role in the development and alignment of the permanent teeth. An abscessed primary tooth can harm the developing permanent tooth which was to replace it and early loss of a primary tooth without proper space maintenance may result in insufficient room for the permanent teeth.

With regular six month checkups starting early the child becomes comfortable visiting the dentist and problems can be better prevented or corrected in a more relaxed and non-traumatic fashion. One of the best ways to make a child a dental "phobic" for life is to go to the dentist only when he or she is in pain. One of the best ways to prevent such phobias and develop sound life-long dental habits is to start your child early.

February is National Children's Dental Health Month -don't wait 'til it hurts!

Q: When is the best time to bring in a child for his or her first visit to the dentist?

A: Earlier than you might think! A child's primary, or "baby," teeth begin erupting on the average at 7 months of age and continue to erupt until he is about 2½ years old. This is a good age at which to start dental visits.

It's often a good idea to introduce a child to the dental office gradually. His first visit may be just to watch mom or dad having their teeth cleaned and examined. This allows the child to have a pleasant non-threatening experience while eliminating much of the aura of mystery surrounding a trip to the dentist.

Videotapes Offered on Drug, Alcohol Abuse

Two new videotapes are available from Brighton Hospital to help parents, schools, and community groups work more effectively in preventing alcohol and drug abuse.

Why Say No to Drugs? deals with drug issues that confront young people in everyday social situations. Bombarded by the media, pressured in social situations, curious and experimental by nature, young people are often forced too soon to make decisions about drug use, says Ivan C. Harner, the hospital's president. This film provides information about drug access to a canal which the Property Owners Association claims Baughn extended without permission. Smith, who is also a Dexter township trustee, points out that Portage Lake does not need 44 more users on the already overextended lake system. Maintaining wetlands helps insure the cleanliness of the lake, serving as an area for silt and runoff. It is also a natural preserve for certain types of wildlife. Mark Puroil, treasurer of the Property Owner's Association, says Michigan has a very good Wetlands Protection law, but the problem is making sure it is enforced.

Proving whether Baughn has illegally filled in wetlands should be possible by comparing recent aerial photographs with older ones. Doug Smith has obtained recent photos from the Southeast Michigan Council of governments (SEMCOG) and ones from 1981 or '82 from the Livingston county agriculture department. However, he feels the property owners should not have to pay for the analysis, that this is the sort of thing we pay taxes to the DNR to do. He complains that the "DNR has to be shoved and kicked before they do their job."

Attorney for the Property Owner's Association, Dana Dever, has filed for a Freedom of Information Request and Demand to see what the DNR knows. He has also written a letter to the DNR expressing concern both about the reduced amount of fill requiring removal and the DNR's hesitancy in analyzing photographs to determine the extent of the problem. Dever ends his letter dated Jan. 28, "I would appreciate your comments in response to this correspondence, and an indication of whether or not the DNR will pursue this matter to determine the correct cubic yardage and location of the fill placed in this site area by Mr. Baughn. I request a specific response."

use that is comprehensible to young people and encourages them to rely on their personal standards as a foundation for decision making. It is especially good for middle school children, notes Harner.

What You Should Know About Alcohol is designed to give clear answers to common questions about alcohol use and abuse and to get people to think about alcohol and how they use it. The tape can be used in group discussions since it can be stopped at several points to allow group participation.

Both tapes come with a leader's guide that offers suggestions for use and lists of other helpful resources.

For information on borrowing the tapes, contact Brighton Hospital's Community Relations Department at 12851 E. Grand River, Brighton 48116 or phone the hospital at (313) 227-1211, ext. 276.

The Michigan State Housing Development Authority (MSHDA) and local lending institutions have two programs to help low- and moderate-income Michigan people buy or build a home.

1) The MSHDA Single Family Home Loan Program currently offers 20- or 30-year fixed-rate mortgage loans at 8.5%, which require low minimum down payments.

2) The Michigan Mortgage Credit Certificate Program (MCCs) provides a federal income tax credit (up to 20% of the interest paid on the loan) that gives you more income to qualify for a mortgage and to make monthly payments. Lenders use their own interest rates, and the MCC effectively lowers your monthly house payment.

Both programs have income and purchase price limits which vary for new and existing homes.

Only a limited number of homebuyers can be assisted by the programs. You've got nothing to gain by waiting, and a lot to gain by acting now.

Call the toll-free hotline 1-800-327-9158 for pamphlets and lists of participating lenders.

Or you may call (517) 373-6840 (Single Family Loans) or (517) 335-2039 (Michigan Mortgage) for more information.

Volunteers Perform Variety of Duties At Methodist Home

Chelsea United Methodist Home relies on volunteers to help make life more pleasant for the people who live there. Volunteers can help with daily tasks, with projects, provide entertainment, or, maybe, best of all, become friends.

The Chelsea Home has three divisions: the retirement home, the nursing unit, and Wesley Hall. People living in the retirement home are self-sufficient mobile people who have moved there because it is easier to live in a group situation where meals, laundry, and room cleaning are provided. People living in the nursing unit need more intensive care than the retirement home can provide. Wesley Hall, located on the top floor of the retirement home, is for people with memory impairment.

Some of the volunteer projects serve the entire home, others are specific to one of the units. A project which serves the whole place is working in what is called "The Ice Breaker," an old-fashioned ice cream parlor, making sundaes and sodas.

Another fun project is pushing the "happy cart," a cart filled with gifts to the residents such as soap, powder, and shaving cream. In January, it was the Lionesses who pushed the cart.

Transportation, both inside and outside the home, is always a need. Residents need to be driven to Chelsea or Ann Arbor for doctor's appointments, to go shopping, or for excursions. Volunteers who do not drive could be of help by going on bus trips and doing things such as pushing wheelchairs.

Inside the home, people in the nursing unit often need help getting places such as to the physical therapist or to the foot doctor, or to organized activities. Volunteers can push them in wheelchairs or help them walk.

A very rewarding type of walk is escorting nursing home residents to the retirement home for dinner. Alert nursing home residents enjoy the stimulation of talking to the more lively people in the retirement home. Often nursing home residents originally lived in the retirement home, so they doubly enjoy the outing because it gives them a chance to visit with old friends.

Walking, just for the sake of walking, is also a possibility. Right now, a group has been walking around inside the home, but when it gets warm, they will do more walking outside. The people of Wesley Hall especially appreciate this activity.

Gregarious volunteers would enjoy working in the front office of the retirement home, answering phones, giving information to residents, greeting visitors, and inbetween doing sewing, changing bulletin boards, and writing letters.

Residents do a variety of craft projects including ceramics, needlework, knitting, quilting, colored sand displays, yarn animals, and copper work. They sell some of this output and give the proceeds to the resident council. Residents are always appreciative of new ideas, assistance, or of supplies. Projects done in the nursing unit are more volunteer intensive than in the retirement home, because people there need more help with things such as threading needles or even help getting to the activity.

The retirement home has resident kitchens and could use volunteers to lead cooking classes. They are also in desperate need of someone to lead a men's group. The women have a Girl Scout troop they can join, plus numerous activities already mentioned which are traditionally the domain of women, but there is nothing now in place just for men.

In the nursing unit, volunteers, besides helping with the projects already mentioned, could help with bingo, lead book discussion groups, lead group sings, deliver mail, or visit with small groups or one-to-one. Already in place is a coffee hour in which various church groups, on a rotating basis, bring cookies and stay for a visit.

Formal entertainments are always immensely enjoyed by the residents. Recent presentations have included bagpipes, musical bones, and organ playing.

There are also a variety of projects that individuals or groups can take on to help with the physical upkeep of the home including reupholstering and refinishing furniture, raking leaves, painting, and sewing curtains, bibs, or laundry bags. Another constant need is that of sewing labels on clothes. When people move into the retirement home, they are required to sew their name into their clothes, but not all of them have the eye-sight or manual dexterity to do it themselves.

A project organized at the Chelsea Home and also at the Boulevard Temple Retirement Home in Detroit, which is operated by the same people, is the Adopt-A-Grandparent program, reminiscent of the Big Brother program for a different age group. A person "adopts" a specific resident and does what they can for them, visiting, writing, or giving financial aid. There are still many names to be matched in this program.

Besides donations of time, the home can also use donations of supplies such as steam irons, large vases, TV trays, wheelchairs, pre-made quilt tops, knick knacks, candle holders and cross set for a portable altar, table and floor lamps, scissors, putters and golf balls, cotton material for quilts, metal zippers, and good women's clothes.

The staff person in charge of volunteers is Ann Stirling, the resident advisor. Ann is open to new ideas for volunteer activities and would welcome suggestions or offers of help in setting up new activities. She also says most of the projects already in place can use additional hands, or, at the very least, substitutes. Call Ann during business hours at 475-8633.

employee-management contribution of $598.50 still remains the highest single contribution from any industrial plant in the entire county. Mrs. Herbert Sanborn, Chelsea's March of Dimes chairman, accepted the donation from Donald Bacon, president of Central Fibre Products Co., while Mrs. Robert McNamara, Blane McClanahan and Mrs. Carl Beutler looked on.

Henry Charles Schneider, 76, prominent in church, civic and industrial circles of Chelsea since coming here in 1936, died in Pasadena, Calif. last Friday. Mr. Schneider was secretary-treasurer of Central Fibre Products Co. Mr. Schneider supervised the construction of the village's service building and garage on North St., the electric power substation on Van Buren St. and other projects as a public service. He was formerly a member of the Chelsea school board and his engineering knowledge was put to frequent use in matters pertaining to the school buildings.

ALEX LYTTLE, owner of the Unadilla Store, trapped eight foxes in one day recently near Unadilla, adding to an already good season. Lyttle has been trapping since the season began on Oct. 20. He said pelts are selling for about $40 each.

Vocational Education Week Scheduled By School Consortium

"Building" may lead one to think of Building Trades and the vocational program presently constructing a contemporary ranch house overlooking Brookside Golf Course near Saline. But 15 additional vocational programs serve junior and senior high school students from Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline.

Building America's Future, the theme for 1987 Vocational Education Week, suggests a future of satisfying and skilled employment for students acquiring vocational skills, and implies that America's economic future will be affected by a skilled and educated work force. Students from Agribusiness to Electronics and Cosmetology to Health Occupations believe in "Building America's Future."

Several activities will highlight Vocational Education Week. Machine shop owners and employers of machinists in the South and West Washtenaw Consortium area of Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline are invited to an open house of the Automated Machine Technology program at Saline High school, Feb. 11 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Students from the consortium schools will demonstrate their skills on traditional and CNC machines to parents and employers. Refreshments and door prizes await visitors.

Approximately 250 vocational students from the new Pleasant Lake Technical Education Center and from Saline based programs will have displays and demonstrations at the third annual Vocational Education Warm-up in the Saline High cafeteria on Tuesday morning, Feb. 10. The Culinary Arts (food preparation and service) program which usually runs the Hornet Hive Restaurant, will demonstrate skills by preparing and providing refreshments for all. Students from the Marketing and Distributive Education program will have their T-N-T store open for business. Students will have the opportunity to meet vocational students from other programs and schools, and have the chance to brag about what they do.

Most visible at the Warm-up will be the identifying sweat-shirt or T-shirt purchased by 128 students and staff with the vocational technical education logo and the phrase "Reach for it . . . The future is yours." The design, promotion and sales of the distinctive shirt is the idea of the student vocational councils of Saline and Pleasant Lake TEC vocational programs.

Saline Graphic Arts Program started the vocational education celebration with an open house for students, parents and area employers during International Printing Week. Video and slide presentations on vocational programs of the South and West Washtenaw Consortium will be given to several classes in the consortium schools.

People interested in information on vocational education and the programs available are invited to call the consortium office at 428-8327 or 662-8898.

Area Equestrians Offered Horse Clinic at MSU

Washtenaw county equestrians interested in learning new training techniques are invited to attend the 10th annual 4-H Horse Benefit Clinic Feb. 7, at the Michigan State University Livestock Pavilion.

Topics covered by the seminar will be selection of the horse, ground work, hitching to the jog cart, English training/Equitation and Western training/Equitation.

"The 4-H clinic provides young people with a chance to learn new techniques and skills," says Richard Dunn, extension horse specialist and professor of animal science at MSU. "It also helps underwrite 4-H members' trips to national horse contests and events and strengthens the Michigan 4-H horse program."

The seminar is open to all who are interested in refining their horse training skills. A $5 donation will be accepted at the door.

The clinic is sponsored by the state 4-H Horse Judges Advisory Committee in co-operation with the MSU Department of Animal Science and the Michigan 4-H Youth Program.

For more information about the clinic or other 4-H activities, contact the Washtenaw county 4-H office, or call 973-9510.

THE MOST ELABORATE DISPLAY created about a Middle Eastern country at Beach school last week was by Steve Martin. Steve chose Syria and made a trip to Dearborn to buy an assortment of authentic Syrian foods. He also had weaving and a wide variety of literature on display. The student-designed displays capped a study unit on the Middle East. The students are in Jim Hoeft's and Barbara Brown's block classes.

Free Booklet Tells Effects of Drinking On Human System

A free booklet prepared by the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism with helpful information for young adults on alcohol use is available as a community service of Brighton Hospital.

Entitled Think, You Don't Have to Drink, the publication explains how alcohol affects the human system and suggests how to say "no" if someone offers a drink. Also covered are such topics as driving under the influence of alcohol and what to do when a friend tries to drive after drinking.

According to Ellen Ayers, director of counseling services, the brochure will be helpful to young adults, their parents, educators, and other individuals and agencies involved in substance abuse prevention. Ayers notes that one out of five 14- to 17-year-olds have serious alcohol problems.

For a single copy send a self-addressed business envelope to the hospital at 12851 E. Grand River, Brighton 48116.

Legion Carnival a Success Despite Warmer Weather

Unusually warm weather drew a smaller than normal number of fishermen for the American Legion Winter Carnival Fishing Derby last week-end at Cavanaugh Lake.

However, the weather didn't have much affect on the annual Euchre Tournament where there was heated competition.

Approximately 150 people entered the fishing derby, a smaller number than in previous years. The warmer weather created thinner ice, and there were at least five reports of contestants falling through the ice.

Winners of the fishing derby are as follows. The judging was based on length of fish in each category. A tie was decided by the weight of the fish.

- Adult Division
- PANFISH
1. Mitz Stapish 9 1/8
 2. Don Wood 8 7/8
 3. Don Wood 8 5/8

In the Euchre Tournament, those winning first place for most games won were Bob Mock, Betty Stofer, Emma Bell, and Mark Grambour.

Second place winners for most games won were Ruben Lesser, Jr., Phil Klink, Doris Fouty and Theresa Doll.

Don Wood was a third place winner. First place winners for most loners were Ernst Duble, Mark Dault and Ed Buku.

Second place winners for most loners were Dan Couperrider, Bob Mock and Claud Bell.

Bob Bauer won the drawing for a ¼ beef, Ed Jacobinski won a 10-pound standing rib roast, and Gus Hansen won a prime rib dinner for two at the Wolverine.

Dogs Ransack Pirates, Tie for Conference Lead

Playing one of their best "team" games of the year, Chelsea's varsity Bulldogs pummeled the Pinckney Pirates at home last Friday night, 62-46, to move into a tie with Saline for the lead in the Southeastern Conference at the half-way point. The Hornets, the only conference team to have beaten the Dogs, come to town this Friday.

In other action last week, the Bulldogs survived the flu and a taller Jackson Northwest team to take a 47-49 non-conference win on Tuesday.

The Dogs are on a roll. They've won six of their last seven games, and eight of their last 10 for an over-all record of 9-3.

"We've never been in this position before," Rosentreter said of his team leading the SEC.

"We're going to stress that the Saline game is just another game and let's have fun being on top. You never know when we'll be in this position again."

Against the Pirates, Chelsea jumped out to a 9-1 lead by the middle of the first quarter and extended the margin to 14-3 by the end of the period, despite missing four free throws, including two one-and-one attempts.

"We thought we could have put the game away right there if we had made the free throws," Rosentreter said.

"We haven't shot well from the line in the last three games and it seems to have become a mental thing."

Pinckney closed the lead to three points with 3:02 left in the half, but the Dogs scored eight straight points to take a 27-18 half-time lead. The game was never close from then on. Everyone got into the game.

"Jeff Harvey was phenomenal in the first half," Rosentreter said.

"He was 5-6 from the floor and was aggressive." Harvey scored all 11 of his points in the first half. Four problems in the second half cut down his effectiveness.

Chelsea played another outstanding defensive game, holding the Pirates to 21-65 from the field. The Dogs also kept Pinckney off the foul line as they made just 4-6 tries all night.

Pirate center Bob Nemeth was held to seven points, and shooting guard Jim Kennedy scored just four points. Pinckney scored 20 points in the fourth quarter against Chelsea's bench.

Chelsea shot better than 50 percent from the field, 22-43, one of the few times that's happened all season. However, they shot a poor 18-37 from the free throw line.

The Dogs held their own on the boards, with Pinckney holding a 34-33 rebound edge due largely to grabbing 11 rebounds in the final quarter. Pinckney's fourth quarter rebounding was a concern to Rosentreter as the Pirates put five offensive rebounds back in for baskets.

Mark Bareis led the Bulldogs with 15 points after suffering through the flu earlier in the week. Greg Haist was the third Bulldog in double figures with 10 points.

"Greg seems to be coming back to the level he was playing at the beginning of the season," Rosentreter said.

"If he can stay around the 10-point range, he'll be a big help to us."

Matt Steinhauer had one of his best games off the bench with nine points. "Matt has responded well the last two or three games," Rosentreter said.

Other Chelsea scorers included Marty Poljan, five points, Kevan Flanigan and Matt Bohlender, four points each, and Todd Starkey and John Cattell, two each.

In the Jackson Northwest game, "Mark Bareis was just amazing,"

Rosentreter said, as the senior forward scored 20 points and grabbed 13 rebounds with a case of the flu.

"Mark was white as a ghost and could barely run down the court. How he scored 20 points and had 13 rebounds, I'll never know. It was an extremely physical game for Mark. He was pushed to the floor a couple of times and had a cut lip."

Northwest had two 6'5" players but couldn't shoot the ball, hitting just 17-58 from the floor, and couldn't rebound, losing 33-23 on the boards.

"Again, our scouting was real good," Rosentreter said.

"We knew who their good players were and we were able to take some of those kids out of the game."

Chelsea led the entire game but just by a few points. The largest margin came at the end.

The Dogs shot reasonably well from the field, 26-53, and made 7-12 from the line.

Haist was the only other Bulldog in double figures, with 11 points. Harvey had seven, Starkey, six, and Poljan, three.

Rosentreter promised a few new defensive wrinkles for the Saline game. He is also counting on Harvey, Starkey and Haist to take some of the scoring load off Bareis.

"Saline is going to work its defense to stop Mark," Rosentreter said.

Pirates Stop JV Cagers To Cap Tough Week

Chelsea's junior varsity basketball team lost two close games to tough opponents last week, evening their record at 6-6.

The Dogs fell Friday night to the undefeated Pinckney Pirates, 50-45, and Tuesday to Jackson Northwest, 38-37.

Friday night, Chelsea led early in the game, 10-8 at the end of the first quarter. However, they were two points back at half-time and four points down at the end of the third quarter. They pulled to within two points, 43-41, late in the game.

"I thought the kids played hard and played very well," said Chelsea coach Jeff Dils.

"We played good defense again against a high scoring team. A couple of times they've scored more than 70 points."

The difference in the game turned out to be cold Chelsea shooting in the fourth quarter, as the Dogs made just 2-14 shots after shooting about 50 percent for the rest of the game.

"We've just got to hit those shots down the stretch," Dils said.

Dils credited the bench with playing a fine game, with special praise for David White, Bryant Beard and Loren Keezer.

John Collins and Jeff Marshall accounted for two-thirds of Chelsea's 31 rebounds, with 11 and 10, respectively.

Chelsea shot 38 percent from the field, with Marshall scoring 13 points, mainly from the outside. It was his fourth straight game in double figures.

Other Chelsea scorers included Larry Nix, eight points, Junior Morseau and White, six each, Collins, five, Tim Anderson, four, and Keezer, three.

The Dogs played a flat game against Northwest, Dils said, with poor shooting and no continuity.

Chelsea was up early, 17-10, but lost the lead when Northwest scored 11 straight points to take a 21-17 half-time lead.

Down 38-37, the Bulldogs had the ball with eight seconds left. However, they had trouble with the Northwest press and couldn't get a good shot off. Chelsea also had two free throws voided due to lane violations.

Collins led Bulldog scorers with 11 points. Morseau had nine, Collins, six, Nix, five, Anderson, four, and Beard, two.

Friday night, Chelsea will be looking to avenge an earlier loss to the Saline Hornets.

Four Dog Wrestlers Place in Dexter Meet

Chelsea wrestlers took sixth place in the 12-team Dexter Invitational last Saturday, a meet won by Ann Arbor Pioneer.

Four Bulldogs placed in the meet, and several others narrowly missed out.

At 98 pounds, Eric Hanna finished fourth with a 2-2 record. He earned a pin in his first match in 3:13, lost a 13-3 decision in his second, beat a Pioneer wrestler in his third match, 3-0, and lost an 11-6 decision in his final match.

"Eric's a real scrapper," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. "He'll keep after you."

Co-captain Ron Bogdanski took third place at 126 pounds with a 3-1 record. He pinned his opponent in his first match in 2:26, lost a 5-2 decision in his second match, won a 7-2 decision in his third match, and earned a pin in :49 in his final match.

Freshman Tim VanSchoick finished fourth at 185 pounds with a 2-2 record. In his first match, he pinned the number four seed in 4:35. From there he lost his second match, 9-3, pinned his Pinckney opponent in his third match in 3:39, and lost a tough 6-4 decision in his final try.

"He was two points away from finishing in third place," Kargel said.

Co-captain Leo Durham was Chelsea's only first-place finisher, at 198 pounds, knocking off all three opponents. Durham pinned his first man in 3:38, won a technical fall, 15-0 in his second, and won a 4-0 decision in the finals.

Pat Taylor had the quickest pin of the tournament, in :08.

Heavyweight Mike Taylor, who knocked off the number two seed in his first match, injured himself and was withdrawn. The boy Taylor beat later went on to place.

"This wasn't one of our best tournaments," Kargel said.

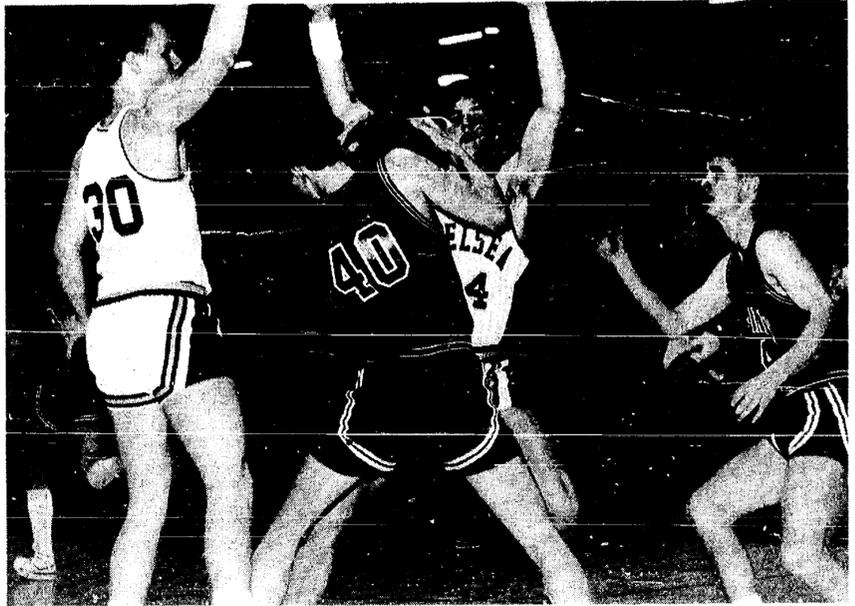

Chelsea's match against Tecumseh last week was postponed due to the weather. It will probably be made up next week.

Frosh Cagers Demolished by Milan, Holt

Chelsea's freshman basketball team was soundly defeated twice last week, losing to Milan on Monday, 55-35, and Holt, on Friday, 65-25.

In the Milan contest, Chelsea was outscored 33-15 in the second half after trailing 25-20 at half-time.

"Our major concern right now is the team's lack of consistency both offensively and defensively," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We have the ability to play some good offense and we have shown at times that we can score. We do not, however, do either for 32 minutes and our success depends on a full team effort the entire game."

The second half of the Holt game was almost a repeat of the second half against Milan. Holt demolished the Bulldogs, 32-4, in the third quarter.

"That ruined a fine defensive effort in the first half," Quilter said.

The Bulldogs are 4-5 on the season. "A lot of goals are still possible, but we have to start right now as we have Pinckney and Saline this week. What we want is 32 minutes of hard effort from everyone. If that happens we'll be all right," Quilter said.

CAGER OF THE WEEK is senior point guard and co-captain Todd Starkey, who's helped guide the varsity team to a 9-3 record. At 5'11" and 155 pounds, Starkey is the ballhandler and sets the tempo of the game, one of the main ingredients in the Bulldogs' surprising success, Todd, the son of Stan and Sue Starkey, 85 S. Freer Rd., has played organized basketball for nine years and has been a member of the varsity team for 3 1/2 years. Todd has also made significant contributions to the football and baseball teams. His football honors are a rite long. He was the team's most valuable player last season after being moved to quarterback. His two previous years at wide receiver he was a unanimous all-Southeastern Conference selection. He was an all-region selection two years. At quarterback last season he was on the league's second team and was honorable mention in the league. Todd is an outfielder-pitcher in the spring. Last year he was all-league second team and honorable mention all-league as an outfielder. He'll be a team captain this spring. Todd would like to continue playing football and/or baseball in college. He's been accepted to Bowling Green State University, Hillsdale College, and Wittenberg University. He plans to study to become a radio/television broadcaster. Todd's brother, Chad, is an up-and-coming player on the freshman squad.

Frosh Spikers Win Opener

Chelsea Bulldogs played a freshman volleyball game for the first time against Howell on Tuesday, Jan. 20 and won in three games.

"The girls were extremely nervous for the first game and their serves were awful," said coach Cheryl Vogel.

Chelsea lost that first game, 5-15.

However, the girls rebounded in the second game, winning 15-12, with Lisa Park serving 12 points. Park also served the first 10 points of the third game.

"In the third game we had some excellent play by Jill Nowatzke, Lisa Park, Allison Brown and Charsa Petty," Vogel said.

"It was really exciting to see this group pull together and play this well when most of the time they are mixed up with sophomores in JV matches."

Chelsea Spikers Whip Milan, Finish Third at Ypsi Classic

Chelsea varsity volleyball team stopped the Milan Big Reds in Southeastern Conference play, before finishing third in the Ypsilanti Braves Classic in action last week.

In the Milan match played Monday, Jan. 26, Chelsea won two straight games, 15-10 and 15-9.

"We were behind 8-0 before we knew what was happening," said Chelsea coach Karen Tobin.

"Our back row had trouble receiving the serve and dug themselves a big hole. But we didn't give up and we didn't panic and we were able to turn things around. This is a senior dominated team and it shows in these types of game."

Heidi Hosner led the comeback with some big spikes, Tobin said, which fired up the team.

The second game was a seesaw battle. Pam Brown served five straight points to give Chelsea an 8-4 lead, but Milan rallied to go ahead, 9-8. Mary Lazarz put the game away with four straight points on her serve.

Brown led the team with seven points and 9-9 serving. Lazarz had six points with 10-11 serving, Beth Paddock, six points, 8-9 serving, and Trisha Matloff, five points and 7-8 serving.

Hosner was the leading hitter, going 9-9 with three kills. Kathryn Morgan was 6-7 with one kill, and Paddock, 5-6 with two kills. Laura Walton also had a kill.

Lazarz and Kristie Centilli were 12-12 and 11-12, respectively, in setting.

At the Ypsilanti classic on Saturday, Jan. 31, the Bulldogs played 11 games, finishing with a 7-4 record after dropping two of three to Ann Arbor Huron in the semifinals. Huron went on to win the tournament.

Chelsea opened the tournament by losing to Milan, 8-15 and 7-15.

"We had beaten them earlier and we were taking them too lightly," Tobin said.

"We also seem to play flat first thing in the morning.

Centilli and Angie DeFant led Chelsea with seven and four points, respectively.

The Bulldogs did not lose again in their pool, finishing 6-2.

Chelsea came back in the second match, shutting out River Rouge in both games, 15-0.

The third match against Ypsilanti ended with the Dogs taking 15-7 and 16-14 wins.

Chelsea defeated Belleview in the fourth match, 15-11 and 15-5.

"We played one of our best games of the day against Ypsilanti," Tobin said.

"We came back from a 10-14 deficit to win 16-14. Trisha Matloff's serving was a key in this game. She came into the game as a substitute in the back row and the first thing she did is hit her first serves of the day in a critical situation."

In the semifinals, Chelsea fell behind in the first game, 1-12.

"We couldn't do anything with Huron's serves," Tobin said.

"We probably only returned two or three."

In the second game, with the score tied at 2, DeFant blocked two consecutive spikes by Huron's leading hitter, "which really fired us up," Tobin said.

Paddock served 13 straight points to close the game.

"We ran out a steam a little bit in the final game," Tobin said.

"After leading 8-5, we were not able to score again."

"However, we have really come a long way. We played hard all day and in each game someone else seemed to come forward with a little extra to keep things going."

Morgan had the big stats on the day with 23 down hits, 14 returns and 35 points serving.

Wrestlers of the Week

WRESTLERS OF THE WEEK are freshman Doug Wingrove, left, and junior Gary Dosey. Wingrove is another of coach Kerry Kargel's talented young wrestlers. His brother, Steve, who graduated last year, was one of the Bulldogs' best. Doug, the son of Tom and Barbara Wingrove, 3814 Musbach Rd., has wrestled for seven years and was one of the best at Beach Middle school last year. Doug also likes to play golf and baseball. His ambition is to go to college and compete in collegiate sports. Dosey, the son of Gary Dosey and Maggie Roberts, is coming on strong this season at 145 pounds. Last fall he played on the varsity football team as a strong safety and guard. Gary's an honor roll student and attends the First United Methodist church. In his spare time he does a little weight lifting.

JV Volleyball Takes Second at Invitational

Chelsea's junior varsity volleyball team lost a three-game match to Dexter last week before beating Milan in three games. The team also took second place in the Ypsilanti JV Invitational Tournament.

In the Dexter match, the Bulldogs easily won the first game, 15-9, behind the strong serving of Sarah Schaeffer, supported by the spikes of Heather Niebauer, Vanessa May and Jennifer Lewis.

In the second game, Chelsea suffered from poor serves and passes and lost the game.

Chelsea came back in the final game with consistent serving from Schaeffer, Meredith Hall and Jennifer Lewis. However, with a 12-9 lead, Dexter's server took over, finding inconsistency in the Chelsea receiving, according to coach Cheryl Vogel.

In the Milan match last Monday, Jan. 26, Chelsea won 15-9, 14-16 and 15-7.

Chelsea took over in the first game with Kelly Scott serving seven points and Schaeffer and Niebauer serving the rest.

In the second game, Chelsea let a 13-7 lead slip from their grasp. Jennie Anderson served seven points and Lisa Park and Lisa McGlennen served the others.

Behind the strong serving of Scott, May and Hall, the Dogs won the third game.

At the JV invitational on Saturday, Jan. 24, the team posted a 10-4 record on the day to finish second.

Chelsea's pool consisted of Belleville, Pinckney, Woodhaven and Ypsilanti.

The Bulldogs knocked off Pinckney in the opener, 15-12, 15-11, before splitting with Belleville, 10-15 and 15-5.

Chelsea split with Ypsi, 11-15 and 15-9 before sweeping Woodhaven in the final games of the day, 17-15, and 16-14.

Chelsea finished first in the pool with a 6-2 record and met Garden City in the semifinals.

Garden City dropped two games to Chelsea, 15-6 and 15-9 behind excellent serving by Scott, who served 20 points.

In the finals, Chelsea faced Dearborn Edsel Ford, who had dominated their pool, and lost 15-12 and 15-10.

"It was a good match, with lots of set-ups and spikes," Vogel said.

"Over-all the team played extremely well, with good serving, blocks, spikes and set-ups."

IT WAS FREE-FOR-ALL BASKETBALL during half-time of the Chelsea varsity basketball game last Friday night. Jeff Stacey, the referee, was the victim of barbs from the boisterous student section. Not many points were scored but the kids had a good time.

Tankers Win Own Invitational

Chelsea swim team had an exciting and successful meet as they defeated the Dexter Dreadnaughts last Tuesday, Jan. 27 and came up victorious in their first Invitational last Saturday, Jan. 31.

The Dexter meet was highlighted by some close races in the 50 and 100-yard freestyles between Chelsea's Matt Doan and Dexter's Dave Karns. In the 50, Matt was touched out by a hundredth of a second but in the 100, Matt won by a half second.

Other close races included the 100-yard breaststroke with Chelsea's David Oesterle coming out on top.

"Our times are beginning to come down and this is the right time of the season as our last meet is about a month away," said coach Mike Keeler.

The line score of the meet is as follows:

200 medley relay: Chelsea A (Daren Girard, Oesterle, Tyler Lewis, Chris Birtles), 1:54.15; Chelsea B (Brett Paddock, Howard Merkel, Wally Schmid, Nat Cooper), 2:01.46; Chelsea C (Holden Harris, Mike Hollo, Scott Marsh, Scott Sheffield), 2:00.

On Saturday the Bulldogs participated in their first invitational against teams from Ypsilanti, Lincoln, Albion, Dexter, and Novi.

The scoring was divided up by classes, with the Bulldogs winning the freshman, sophomore, and junior division. The scores were also combined for an over-all trophy which also went to the Bulldogs as they outdistanced their nearest opponent by 51 points.

"I was very pleased by the performance of our athletes today. We were in a good position to earn a lot of points and the kids came through with flying colors," said Keeler.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It wasn't until anarchy nearly broke loose that I was hit by the far-reaching social implications of what was before me.

It was half-time of the Chelsea-Pinckney basketball game last Friday night. There was no reason to expect anything other than a regular intermission. A calm had settled over the gym. The Bulldogs were up by a bundle. A crowd was gathering around the concession stand. Parents took their children to the bathroom. I was perspiring heavily, wondering if my guaranteed win in the 50-50 drawing would materialize. I decided to study my lovely wife's notes on the first half of the game.

Suddenly, a chorus of boos and catcalls erupted behind me. I looked out on the court. It wasn't a pretty sight.

At center court, what seemed like a hundred ten-year-olds were waiting for Jeff Stacey to toss the ball for a center jump to begin a free-for-all basketball game.

However, play had to be held up.

The Pirate cheerleaders were climbing all over each other at the other end of the court for what, I presume, was their traditional "Pinckney says hello," half-time cheer for the home crowd.

Stacey started the game and told the kids to go the other way, and they did. A blond-haired kid took a shot that fell about five feet short. The defense got the rebound and streaked in the other direction (as fast as ten-year-olds can streak), oblivious to the fact that the Pinckney cheerleaders were still standing on each other's shoulders.

Knowing that most ten-year-olds have to look at the ball and their hands when they dribble, making them unaware of anything more than six inches in front of them, and as many as possible crowd around the ball at all times, I feared for the safety of the Pinckney cheerleaders. There could have been skull fractures, bloody noses and lots of messed up hair.

Fortunately, the cheerleaders showed their skill and dismantled the cheer in the nick of time.

Then the significance of the moment struck.

What in the world were the cheerleaders, Chelsea's included, even doing in uniform that night? They should have been picketing at Crisler Arena, or at least in the high school lobby, in support of their brother and sister cheerleaders at the University of Michigan who were ON STRIKE. I thought that everybody who goes on strike in this part of the country has, at least, symbolic support from colleagues.

In case you don't know what I'm talking about, some group at U-M called the Board in Control of Intercollegiate Athletics decided that cheerleaders should not be allowed to do dangerous stunts in their routines. Cheerleaders are not allowed to, among other things, do any routine where their feet are more than three feet off the ground. Since most cheerleaders are more than three feet tall, that rules out standing on shoulders and all kinds of other traditional cheerleading activities. The U-M cheerleaders didn't particularly like that idea, so they sat out the Wolverines' Thursday night game with Minnesota in protest.

Perhaps the Chelsea and Pinckney cheerleaders could have held hands for a round of:

We shall OVERCOME!
Hey!
We shall OVERCOME,
Hey, Hey, Hey!

It strikes me as ludicrous and hypocritical that such restrictions should be put on college cheerleaders, or even high school cheerleaders.

Schools don't think twice about sending boys out to beat each other up in football games. And, as far as I know, there are no restrictions on boys who want to run 40 feet as fast as they can, leap into the air, and tumble onto a wooden floor, which is exactly what happens in many routine fast breaks.

But a school wouldn't say "you may go in for uncontested lay-ups only," or "you may not jump higher than 18 inches due to the threat of injury."

Why should cheerleaders be treated differently than athletes? It's not as though they don't practice what they're doing. At Chelsea High the question takes an added twist when you consider that cheerleaders ARE athletes. Cheerleading is considered a varsity sport for girls.

ROWDY REPORT NO. 2: I'm pleased to report my tuned-up Rosenmeter did show some improvement in fan rowdiness at the Pinckney game.

It was also significant that the peak reading, 8.1, came in the second half when Chelsea had the game won.

But, over-all, it was still a disappointing week.

I can't quite figure out these Chelsea home crowds. It seems like there is so much potential. They're like a volcano that grumbles and groans and belches some smoke and ash but never erupts. Maybe the kids were afraid of being too worn out for the dance afterwards.

Last week's average reading was a 6.7, quite an improvement over the Dexter game. If this week's Saline game can't get the average reading up to an 8.5 or so, there's probably no hope.

For your information, a volume level of 10 drowns out the P.A. system. A 10 reading makes the cheerleaders look like they're just moving their lips.

I know there are a number of kids who are on their feet yelling all game long. But there are many more who seem content to let the others do their cheering for them. The pikers need to mend their ways.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

I must commend the Ann Arbor News for drawing its readers' attention to the issue of school-based clinics ("Reports of Abortion Referrals Jeopardize Funds for Clinics," Ann Arbor News, A-3, Jan. 19, 1987). Although the article provided a wealth of information on the subject, there are a few items of the utmost importance which may need clarification.

First, the article failed to mention that current law explicitly forbids family planning drugs or devices from being dispensed or otherwise distributed in a public school. MCL 380.1507 (6). Yet, despite this clear statutory prohibition, the Public Health Department has established school-based health clinics in which birth control prescriptions are being provided to minors without parental consent. When questioned as to the legality of such actions, Public Health officials have taken the dubious position that the prohibition against dispensing or otherwise distributing family planning drugs or devices does not prohibit prescribing such devices. They argue that handing a child birth control pills is different from handing a child a prescription for birth control pills with the former being illegal and the latter legally permissible.

The confidence these Public Health officials felt in this legal interpretation is reflected in the fact that despite much prompting, they have never sought an Attorney General opinion on the issue. This was left for a Republican legislator to do since the Public Health Department is proceeding full-steam ahead with its plan to establish 100 of the school-based clinics throughout Michigan.

Second, the Public Health Department and its cohorts in this ill-conceived venture have played fast and loose with parents' rights. In one of the clinics already established, parental consent was never sought before children were given access to the health clinic and family planning services, such as birth control pill prescriptions and abortion referrals.

In another clinic, a notice was sent out to the parents stating that unless they send a written statement saying they object it will be assumed that they consent to their children receiving clinic services. And, finally, in a third clinic, the parental consent form did not even mention family planning services as being covered services even though they constitute one-third of all services provided in that clinic.

As a legislator, nurse and parent, I find it incredible that a public institution such as the Public Health Department would conspire to provide such controversial services as birth control prescriptions and abortion referrals for minors in public schools while minimizing parental involvement or even knowledge. Some Public Health officials are obviously very committed to imposing their moral perspectives upon other people's children regardless of what the parents may want.

The state first mandates that all children attend school, and then once they have them in their grasp, provide birth control pill prescriptions to these minors without parental consent or knowledge. Parents who refuse to send their children to school face prosecution. Adding insult to injury, Public Health officials have discussed how to charge the parents' insurance company for services provided to their children without the parents' knowledge and perhaps even over their active opposition.

The school-based health clinic is being marketed as a means of getting much needed health care services to under-served children. Under this benevolent guise, they promote family planning services such as birth control prescriptions and abortion refer-als. If they were truly concerned about the health of the children they purport to serve, they would not insist upon the linkage of family planning and medical services.

School-based clinics are one more intrusion into the province of the family, which is the best institution we know of for gaining control of youth problems.

Margaret O'Connor
State Representative.

To the Editor,
In your paper I think there is a powerful streak of liberal permissiveness. I cannot put my finger on it but I know it is there because when I read your paper I feel the same sick stomach when I read the Detroit Free Press or watch Sam Donaldson on ABC-TV.

Will Connelly is the worst of your writers. He is always writing about exercise and smoking like there is a problem. Why doesn't he mind his own business? It is a free country or doesn't he know it? I will smoke and watch TV as much as I like.

Brian Hamilton is no better. Give the athletes a break! Competition is the American Way. You think the athletes should be gentlemen. Wars are not won by gentlemen, neither are football and basketball games, wars in themselves. War is hell!

The letters you print are sickening. In real life I never hear people complain about deer hunters but in your paper you would think it is a problem. I know you will not print this letter just because I do not criticize deer hunters. You have to be liberal and permissive! Give me a break!

The only reason I subscribe is because there are photos of people I know. The photos are very good, very clear and not weird like in the Free Press, but I would not want to have my picture in your paper unless you said it very clear I am not a liberal.

Dwight Fine.

To the Editor:
Re: Pinewood Derby - 1-28-87.
Cheers! To the participants who displayed their cars, but more importantly displayed patience and diligence in seeing a project through, and displayed good sportsmanship (I hope).

Also to the parents and leaders who encouraged, and gave of their time and experience.
Jeers! To your appearance as a whole! A motely crew if I ever saw one. Pseudo Scouts! What happened to the uniformity of the uniform? There is a reason for uniforms and one of them is pride. Pride in your group, pack, den, troupe, self, or whatever. I don't see how a parent or leader could be proud to say they were a part of the group pictured on the front page.

Why have we compromised so? Isn't there a code? Why isn't it enforced?
When I was in scouting, a few eons ago, if you were not in full uniform the day of your meeting, you were not allowed in. Period. Plus, you had to pay your dues for that meeting.

If one excuse is "We can't afford the uniform," the answer is used uniforms, and if not will gladly refer you to someone who does. I suppose it depends on where the priorities are.
Come on leaders! Put some teeth into your rules, so the kids can respect something. If not, why even have rules. The children will value their scouting experience more if something is required of them. Let's get back to some of the traditional values, and have the courage to cease compromising.

Judy Tobias.

Dear Mr. Editor:
Most of the letters in a newspaper are angry or sad. Why don't people write letters when they are glad? Good things happen to the people in Chelsea, but you wouldn't know it from the letters in your newspaper. I would be pleased to read letters about good deeds, polite waitresses, lost pets coming home, fun at the prom, and other joyful events of everyday living, but all I ever see are whining and complaining. So now I am whining and complaining myself, not practicing what I preach. OK, I will tell you a happy story.

Lloyd (not his real name) was not a happy person. He was a homo. His mother wondered why he never went to church with her when there were so many pretty girls there. She did not believe he was going to the library every evening. One night she got a call from the police who said they picked up Lloyd at a rest area on the expressway performing homo acts. Lloyd tried to choke himself in jail but they stopped him. His mother told Lloyd she loved him even if he was queer. Lloyd began going to church regularly and is now talking about becoming a priest or a monk.

I hope other people in Chelsea will follow my example and write to you frequently about all the marvelous things that can happen to you if you only have faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. You do not have to be an excellent writer. My daughter Crystal Lee typed this for me on the word processor at her office.

Alice T. Kemp.

Dear Editor:

Black people got beat up in New York and Georgia. Laid off Detroit workers beat up a Chinaman because they thought he was Japanese. Arabs get beat up every day. Could it happen here? I do not think so. Chelsea does not have a lot of minorities and there is not much reason for them to come here.

Dion Perry.

Disaster Aid Rules Changed By USDA

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has changed an eligibility rule that could have presented many flood-stricken Michigan farmers from getting disaster assistance.

Robert Craig, manager of commodity activities and research for the Michigan Farm Bureau, said that the USDA announced on Jan. 13 that farmers who had losses in non-program crops but did not plant that crop in 1985, or who planted more of that crop in 1986 than they did in 1985, will still be eligible for assistance.

"Farm Bureau is pleased with this change in USDA procedure," he said. "However, we would like to have seen this restriction completely eliminated for both program and non-program crops. This is basically good news for growers of dry beans and other non-program crops, but those who had losses in crops such as soybeans and corn will still be affected by the acreage limitation."

There are more Michiganders camping in Florida's campgrounds each year than those from any other state except Florida itself. Ranking after Michigan as a state of origin are Ohio, Pennsylvania and New York.

Legion District Again Sponsoring Oratorical Contest

The American Legion again is sponsoring the National High School Oratorical Contest.
This year is the 50th year of the contest.
Each oration is written on some phase of the United States Constitution.
Iver Schmidt, the Oratorical Contest chairman for the Legion's second district has announced that high school orators from Washtenaw, Lenawee, Jackson and Monroe counties will compete on Feb. 12. The contest will be held at Dexter High school for the district championship. District winners move on to zone and then to state and national competition.
The orators compete for college scholarship awards up to $600 for state winners and up to $16,000 for national champion.
Purpose of the American Legion National High School Oratorical Contest is to develop a deeper knowledge and appreciation of the Constitution of the United States on the part of high school students.
Other objectives of the contest include the development of leadership, the ability to think and speak clearly and intelligently and the preparation for acceptance of the duties and responsibilities of the rights and privileges of American citizenship.

Watch out America's Cup hopefuls—the Australians may have a secret weapon—kangaroos! While kangaroos have long been regarded as "natural athletes" for their leaping and boxing abilities, they are also great swimmers. According to Ranger Rick magazine, kangaroos have been spotted swimming across rivers and even in the ocean! A "roo" swims with its head and back above water, pumping its strong hind legs one at a time. So that's what those Aussies have under their yacht this year!

Substance Abuse Doesn't Have To Be A Part of 'Growing Up'

Substance abuse has become a major problem for America's young people.
Studies have shown that 61 percent of high school seniors have used drugs, mostly drugs that they purchased in school.
"There is increased substance abuse, especially of alcohol," says 4-H program leader Leah Hooper.
Substance abuse is not limited to certain age groups or geographic areas. The percentage of students using drugs by the sixth grade has tripled over the last decade, and drug use is increasing in rural areas.
"It's estimated that drugs and substance abuse are in every middle school and high school in the state," Hooper says. "Kids in very rural areas of Michigan can be as susceptible to substance abuse as those in urban areas, especially alcohol abuse, because alcohol may be more available to them than hard drugs."
Although no single reason can account for this wide-spread epidemic, major influences on an adolescent's choice to experiment with controlled substances are peer pressure, low self-esteem and the desire to self-medicate.
"There is a tremendous amount of peer pressure on kids to say that they have tried drugs to be accepted," Hooper says, "and those kids who feel low self-esteem are the most vulnerable."
When an individual faces a combination of pressures, including a lack of parental understanding and problems with school, he or she may self-medicate as a means of temporary escape from those pressures.
Many parents feel powerless to prevent or cope with drug- and alcohol-related problems in their children.
Though no foolproof method of deterring children from experimenting with illegal substances exists, Hooper maintains that keeping open the lines of communication between parents and children is important.
"The chances of children having substance abuse problems are lessened if they have good relationships with their parents and if they have high self-esteem," Hooper says.
To help children feel good about themselves, Hooper suggests they participate in 4-H or other youth programs outside the classroom. These activities give children the chance to work at projects that not only have a beginning, but contain a process with tangible results and so allow them to feel a sense of accomplishment. Youth programs provide a supportive peer environment that also contributes to youngsters' feelings of self-worth.
It is also helpful to discuss the possible options involved with substance abuse. This helps a child think about how he or she might respond in various situations when substances are available.
Changes in a child's behavior may signal normal adolescent growth or serve as warning signs of substance abuse. Mood swings and lower grades are common, but when they are coupled with changes in friends, dilated or reddened eyes, and increased levels of thirst, parents should be on the alert.

When parents notice destructive behavior patterns, it is important to confront their child with an attitude of love and concern rather than accusations and anger, which may shut down communication completely.
Treatment for young people with substance abuse problems is available from a number of sources, including schools, hospitals and/or mental health agencies. These vary from community to community.
It is never too soon, or too late, for parents to open the lines of communication with their children.
For more information about 4-H in your community, contact the Washtenaw County 4-H office or call 973-9510.

Prison Warden Will Be Speaker at Lunch & Learn

Dale E. Foltz, warden of the State Prison of Southern Michigan in Jackson, will be speaking at the "Lunch & Learn" Program sponsored by Citizens Trust on Thursday noon, Feb. 12, at the Campus Inn. His topic will be "Prisons in Michigan."

Foltz began his career with the Michigan Department of Corrections in 1958 at the Michigan Training Unit in Ionia as a recreational director. Later he was appointed assistant superintendent at the training unit. In 1969 he was promoted to deputy warden of the Michigan Reformatory in Ionia and four years later as deputy warden at the State Prison of Southern Michigan. In 1975 he received his promotion to warden of the Reformatory in Ionia and since 1982 has been warden of the State Prison of Southern Michigan.

Foltz received a bachelor of science degree from Michigan State University and a masters degree from Eastern Michigan University. Prior to his employment with the Michigan Department of Corrections, Foltz served as Community School director in Flint.

A member of the American Association of Wardens/Superintendents and the North American Wardens Association, Foltz is also director of the Michigan Braille Transcribing Service and a 32nd Degree Mason, Grand Rapids Consistory director. He is on the board of directors of the United Way of Jackson and the Jackson Chamber of Commerce, and he is a past president of the Ionia Rotary.

His luncheon address on Feb. 12 is open to the public. A fee of $6 covers the cost of the lunch. Reservations may be made by calling Citizens Trust, 994-5555, ext. 213.

Winter Wheat Seeding Down 10%

Farmers are responding to government acreage reduction programs, low market prices and heavy pressure of surplus stocks by cutting winter wheat plantings to the lowest level in nine years. The 48.7 million acres seeded to the crop last fall is 10% under last year's plantings and has not been as low since 47.5 million acres were seeded for the 1978 harvest. Three-fourths of the nation's wheat production comes from winter wheat and the rest is planted in the spring.
The wisdom of the cutbacks is verified by another USDA estimate that domestic demand would consume 1.1 billion bushels of wheat, exports another 975 million and nearly 2 billion bushels would be on hand when the 1987 harvest begins.

New Books Available At McKune Library

New books recently added to the shelves of McKune Memorial Library include the following.

Shan by Eric Van Lustbader. Shan is a rich and intricate drama of many dimensions set in China, Japan, Russia and America. It is a poignant drama of a son's struggle to fulfill his father's magnificent dream; it is a tense, sophisticated story of international espionage; and it is a love story of two strong, passionate people whose bonds extend far beyond the physical.

Patience of A Saint by Andrew M. Greeley. This is a story of Red Kane, a man caught in a dilemma of love. After 20 years of marriage plagued by misunderstanding and bitter resignation, Red finds himself falling in love with his wife all over again—and at the same time, pursued by an im- placable, attractive God. At 53, Red is an unhappy, disgruntled cynic. But soon, all that changes.

Conversations With Ernest Hemingway. This collection of interviews with America's literary he-man renews respect for his power, his image, and his influence. Though Hemingway's career came before the period of the in-depth interview or the extended literary conversation, this book collecting pieces published between 1919 and 1968, offers intimate, close-up encounters with an American writer who, above all others, embodies the image of "celebrity."

New Orleans Legacy by Alexander Ripley. New Orleans Legacy is the spellbinding saga of Mary Mac-Allistair, a determined spirit who, suddenly orphaned on her 16th birthday, is given a small wooden box containing a few mementos of a bygone era, the only key to her heritage. From a sheltered convent boarding school in the Allegheny Mountains, Mary sets out on a riverboat that takes her to the spirited, bawdy New Orleans of 1851 in search of her family.

Peak Condition by James G. Garrick, M.D. Suffering from a nasty tennis elbow? Trick knee bothering you? Is your child ballet dancer ready to go on point? Now amateur athletes and fitness enthusiasts can get the same high-quality medical advice that professionals such as Martina Navratilova rely on. Peak Condition gives you Dr. Garrick's tips for the prevention of a wide range of sports injuries.

Ride A Tiger by Harold Livingston. Ride A Tiger is the kind of spellbinding novel that comes along all too rarely. The ghetto of New York's Lower East Side, the trenches of World War I, hijackings at seas during Prohibition, pre- and post-Castro Cuba, Israel, and Las Vegas are only a few of its dramatic backdrops. And always at its center is the figure of Leo Gorodetsky, loyal to his friends, ruthless to his enemies, the only Jew to rise to the highest councils of the Mafia.

Ghost in the Sunlight by Kathleen Herbert. Ghost in the Sunlight is the captivating sequel to Kathleen Herbert's Queen of the Lightning, which won Britian's Historical Novel Prize in memory of Georgette Heyer. It brilliantly recreates the lawlessness, danger, chivalry, and romance of Britain's "Heroic Age." Ghost in the Sunlight is a novel of courage, adventure, and high romance set in seventh-century England as the final struggle for supremacy among the British kingdoms approaches.

Computer Used for Farm Business May Qualify for Tax Deduction & Credit

According to the Internal Revenue Service, a farmer with a computer system used for his farm operations and business management can often receive a deduction similar to those available on other farm equipment.

Deducting a computer system depends on its use in the farm enterprise. An informal record should be kept to verify the computer's use.

The basic tax benefit of farm-used computer systems comes in the form of depreciation. The accelerated cost recovery system (ACRS) allows the cost of the deductible property to be depreciated by a defined percentage schedule.

Computers come under a five-year schedule with 15 percent of the eligible cost being deducted the first year. Then 22 percent is deducted the second year and 21 percent during each of the remaining three years.

To take the accelerated depreciation, the taxpayer notes on IRS Schedule F that he is doing so. Then on Form 4562, Depreciation and Amortization, the computer and deductible amount is listed.

Straight-line depreciation gives the taxpayer the option of deducting equal percentages of the computer's cost over five, twelve or twenty-five year periods.

Taxpayers may also elect to deduct $5,000 of the system's cost in the first year under Section 179. This deduction is available for straight-line and ACRS depreciation, with any cost in excess of the $5,000 up-front tax break being depreciated in the following years.

Additional business deductions can be taken by farmers for purchase of added software, equipment and computer services as long as these supplements aid in the farm operations.

Additional information on depreciation is available in IRS Publication 534, Depreciation, and can be obtained by writing or calling the IRS.

TV-31 Station Aids Emergency Network

Television station WIHT, Channel 31 in Ann Arbor, has become one of several public service oriented stations in the nation to assist in the creation of emergency communications networks. However, WIHT's contribution is in a different vein.

A little known activity of Amateur Radio (HAM's) is the maintenance of several emergency organizations, of which one is the Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES). The RACES group is sponsored by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) to provide alternate communications for disaster management.

Operators for RACES are registered through the local State Office of Emergency Management and must complete specialized training to become affiliated with the organization.

The state RACES operation is administered by the Michigan State Office of Emergency Management under the direction of Captain Pete Basolo of the State Police Emergency Management Division.

Locally, the RACES operation is closely affiliated with the Washtenaw county Office of Emergency Management.

In the State of Michigan, the RACES organization has instituted a state-wide network of computer interfaced stations operating what is called "Packet Radio." This network has been named the "Michigan Emergency Packet Network" or MEPN (pronounced by its operators as mep-en). These operators have the capability of transmitting long and involved messages, at high speed and without error, state-wide through computer technology.

Until recently the network only extended from the western lakeshore to about Albion, because of problems with the terrain near Jackson causing the signals to not be "heard." In May, Jay Blethen, a deputy director of RACES, met with Chris Webb, general manager of WIHT, and Al Lile, chief engineer of the station, to propose putting a digital repeater on the station's tower at Chelsea. The hope was to provide a "gateway" to the east and bring southeastern Michigan into the network.

WIHT management graciously permitted the installation of an antenna at the 225-foot level of the tower. After some months of acquiring and testing of equipment, the "digipeater" is now on the air.

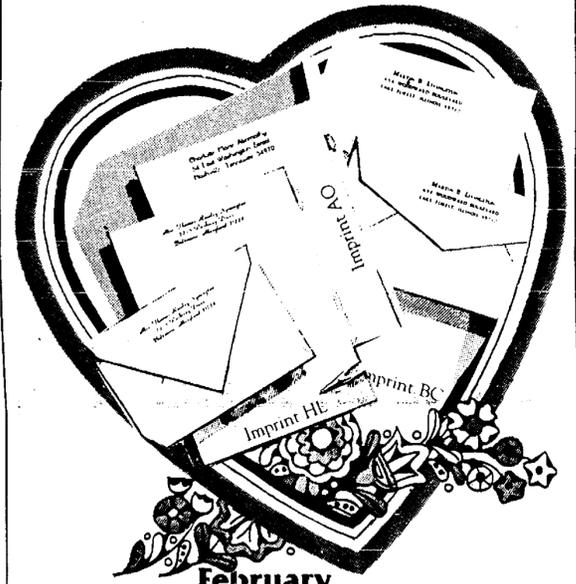

Chelsea Communications Club, a local amateur radio group, donated the Terminal Node Controller (the microcomputer unit that operates the radio of the digipeater). The station radio was provided by Mr. Blethen, along with a computer modem to allow telephone control of the system. Lile provided valuable technical support in planning equipment placement and safety planning.

On Sunday, Nov. 29, six volunteers from RACES worked for five hours to install the antenna and feedline for the system. Two stalwart HAM's, George Race of Albion, and Craig Maes of Canton, braved 45 miles per hour winds and near freezing temperatures to install the antenna and cables needed to operate the station. Meanwhile, Lefty Schantz, Randy Stowe, and Jay Blethen put in the electronics required. Another volunteer was kept busy chasing parts and critical equipment such as coffee for the tower workers.

Through WIHT's generosity of tower space the emergency traffic network for RACES now extends to Detroit, Flint, Southfield, and all of southeastern Michigan.

The next time you make jokes about pigs, remember, they have been around 36 million years, and according to Ranger Rick magazine, they are very useful animals. Not only can their meat be eaten and made into bacon, but pigskin is used for footballs, saddles, jackets and to treat people with severe burns. Chemicals produced from pigs are used to treat humans who suffer from diabetes, and pig heart valves are used to replace human heart valves.

Cardiac Rehab Unit Plans Open House

On Tuesday, Feb. 10, the Outpatient Cardiac Rehabilitation Services Program at Chelsea Community Hospital will hold an Open House from 2 to 4 p.m. "It's a way to introduce ourselves to anyone in the general population who wants to improve his or her over-all cardiovascular fitness level," said Robert Pawlowski, the program's director. Everyone who attends the Open House will receive a free blood pressure screening.

"For the past two years, Cardiac Rehabilitation Services at Chelsea Community Hospital have been limited to post-surgical or post-heart attack patients," said Pawlowski. "Now we're expanding the program to serve members of the general public who want a cardiac fitness program designed and monitored by medical professionals."

According to Cindy Cope, the program's cardiac-rehabilitation coordinator, individuals participating in the program will receive a complete cardiac fitness examination—including medical history, cardiac stress test, pulmonary function test, body-fat composition evaluation, and dietary counseling.

Cope will then prepare an individualized exercise prescription based on each participant's cardiac fitness level. "We can design a home exercise program utilizing walking, biking or any personal exercise equipment they own," explained Cope, "or they can use the exercise equipment here under my supervision."

The exercise room in Chelsea's cardiac rehabilitation unit will be available on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., or on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays by appointment. Participants use exercise treadmills, stationary bicycles, rowing machines, mini-triangles and other equipment designed to improve aerobic conditioning and cardiovascular fitness. Lockers and showers are available.

"We've found people really want to make lifestyle changes and improve cardiovascular conditioning, but they don't have the will or initiative to do it on their own," said Pawlowski. "We believe a program like this can help people make a commitment to better health and fitness."

Individuals interested in the program should call 475-1311, extension 350 for information about the open house or about fees for the initial cardiac fitness examination and exercise prescription. Part of the fee may be covered by certain medical insurance programs. Exercise equipment will also be available for an hourly rate.

Chelsea's cardiac fitness program is designed to be used with the cooperation of the participant's private physician. A written physician's referral is not required, however.

CONGRESSIONAL WHIPS: GOP House Whip Trent Lott, R-Miss. (right), has appointed Rep. Carl Pursell, R-Mich., as one of five Deputy Whips for the 100th Congress. As a Deputy Whip, Pursell will share in the leadership of House Republicans.

Cong. Pursell Named As GOP Deputy Whip

Republican Whip Trent Lott today announced the appointment of Congressman Carl D. Pursell of Michigan as one of five Deputy Whips.

Pursell, R-Plymouth, was selected to represent the midwest region within the House GOP leadership.

"It's indeed a privilege to appoint Carl to this position," Lott said. "Carl's past work and contribution as an assistant regional whip certainly warrants this promotion."

"I have found Carl Pursell to be a respected spokesman for both his home state and region. He has proven himself an effective legislator with a reputation for building bipartisan coalitions," Lott said.

"Congressman Pursell will be a valuable member of our leadership team during the 100th Congress."

Pursell, now entering his sixth term, said he looked forward to working in this new leadership role.

"I'm honored by Lott's selection. This new post will provide both a new challenge and the chance to advocate a balanced regional perspective," Pursell said.

"Michigan's Second Congressional District now will have a stronger voice in recommending public policy," he said.

Farm Input Costs Will Drop in 1987

Farmers can expect lower prices and abundant supplies of fuel, fertilizer, pesticides, machinery and seeds for some crops during 1987.

"These lower prices are the result of reduced demand caused by federal acreage reduction programs, tighter credit policies and lower oil prices," says Jack McEowen, Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service agribusiness specialist.

McEowen says the reduced cost of petroleum products will also cut the cost of other farm inputs, such as transportation, drying and nitrogen products for feed and fertilizers.

"The main input in producing anhydrous ammonia, NH₃, is natural gas," McEowen says. "The reduced cost of natural gas has driven down the production costs of producing NH₃ in continuous process plants by nearly $40 per ton."

The cost of producing NH₃ at Gulf of Mexico plants was $102 per ton in early 1986. By the end of 1986, the cost had dropped to $75 per ton. During 1986, the price fell by 45 percent.

"Reduced natural gas prices have driven down the cost of propane," McEowen says. "Growers can expect their drying costs to be reduced."

McEowen points out that only a unified OPEC could substantially raise fuel prices during the 1987 crop year.

Acreage reduction programs will reduce the demand for herbicides and pesticides in 1987, forcing prices down.

"With 93 to 95 percent of all U.S. corn and soybean acres currently being treated with herbicides, the acreage reduction program will put even patented products, where substitutes are available, under major downward price pressure," McEowen says.

Products coming off patent, such as Monsanto's Lasso herbicide, will also be under major downward price pressure.

"Just as the acreage reduction program puts downward price pressure on herbicides and pesticides, the effect is even more certain for seeds," McEowen says. "Every acre planted needs seed. Growers can expect to see some seed companies go out of business because of lower prices and smaller demand."

In 1987, growers can expect to find shortages and pay higher prices for seeds, such as vegetable seeds and dry edible bean seeds, that will be used to replace crops in acreage reduction programs.

High inventories are expected to keep downward price pressure on machinery sales during 1987.

"There are two factors that will make a major price break imminent and major losses a certainty for all full-line manufacturers," McEowen says.

He points out that full-line manufacturers who moved production facilities overseas to reduce costs have found the weakened American dollar has turned this strategy against them. This will add financial pressure to these companies to leave the industry.

A second factor that will influence machinery costs in 1987 is the increasing dominance of Deere and Co., whose strategy may dictate the industry.

"In recent years, Deere has turned its research and development inward, reducing some costs of production," McEowen says. "By many accounts, it has reduced some production costs by 40 percent since 1980."

But sales have fallen and will continue to fall for Deere and Co. High inventories are preventing Deere from capitalizing on manufacturing gains.

"The solution seems simple," McEowen says. "A major charge against inventories and a drastic price cut seem probable."

If this happens, McEowen expects it would put great pressure on corporations that recently merged, further depressing the used equipment market and reducing new equipment costs for farmers.

Tourism Agency Hopes 'Wind Chill' Can Be Lost

America's biggest myth is the "wind chill factor," according to Sid Baker, president of the Travel and Tourist Association of Southeast Michigan, a non-profit organization which promotes area tourism.

"More and more experts have spoken out against this as a valid criteria," said Baker. "It boggles the mind that the U.S. Weather Service and local forecasters continue to use this discredited so-called statistic."

A recent article by Ann Sweeney in the Detroit News quotes Donald Fortman, professor of atmospheric science at the University of Michigan as calling the wind chill factor "a series of conclusions based on ques-

Housing Bureau for Seniors Completes Grant Projects

Time has run out on a public information and community outreach grant received in August 1985 from the Administration on Aging by the Housing Bureau for Seniors, Carolyn Hastings, executive director of the Housing Bureau, announced this week. Final day for the Housing Options Project grant was Jan. 22.

The Housing Bureau for Seniors is affiliated with Turner Geriatric Services in Ann Arbor.

The Housing Bureau was one of only 19 agencies nationwide to receive the funding, establishing its reputation among service agencies assisting senior citizens. "It was a real honor," Hastings claimed. "The grant allowed the Housing Bureau to produce materials—our housing guide, slide show and posters, for example—and to do outreach projects that we wouldn't have been able to do otherwise."

A major thrust of the Housing Options Project was to establish counseling sites in communities throughout Washtenaw county so that senior citizens could learn more about their housing choices in their own areas. Outreach sites were established in Chelsea, Saline, Ypsilanti city, Ypsilanti township, Whitmore Lake, and Ann Arbor.

"That program has been so successful, we will be able to maintain outreach counseling in much of Washtenaw county, thanks in part to a grant from the county government," Hastings promised. Washtenaw county allocated $5,000 earlier this year to the Housing Bureau to assist its efforts.

Treva Winans has served the Chelsea area as the Housing Options Project outreach counselor.

To find out more about housing counselors in your community, or to receive a copy of the Housing Bureau's guide, "Home is Where: A Guide to Housing for Senior Citizens in Washtenaw County," contact the Housing Bureau for Seniors, 763-0970.

Another program the Housing Bureau has pioneered in this area, the HomeShare program that matches senior homeowners with home seekers, will also be able to continue thanks to funding the Bureau receives

Conservation District Offers Tree Seedlings

Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District has announced its annual tree and shrub seedling sale for 1987. Orders for planting stock will be accepted until April 13, on a first-come, first-serve basis while supplies last.

Seedlings will tentatively be distributed on Saturday, April 25 at the Washtenaw County Road Commission garage.

Planting stock available this spring includes: Austrian Pine, Red Pine, White Pine, Colorado Blue Spruce, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Douglas Fir, European Larch, Red Oak, Tulip Poplar, Black Walnut, Imperial Carolina Hybrid Poplar, Silky Dogwood shrubs and Emerald Crown-vetch seed.

Wildlife Packets, an assortment of 50 evergreens and hardwood trees and shrubs for wildlife habitat plantings; and tree planting bars, a sturdy tool for planting seedlings, will also be available. Prices are reasonable for all tree and shrub seedlings which are two years old and range in size from three to eight inches.

Purpose of the District's tree program is to assist landowners in obtaining planting stock at low cost for reforestation, windbreaks, erosion control, and wildlife habitat improvement.

Order forms containing information on available species, site preference, uses and prices may be obtained by contacting the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor 48103-9598. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Cub Scouts Tour County Building

The boys in North school's Webelos Den 13, Pack 435, spent a fascinating afternoon learning about citizenship first-hand. Last Wednesday, Jan. 28, they visited the Washtenaw County building in Ann Arbor and met with county treasurer Mike Stimpson, circuit court judge William Ager, county clerk Robert Harrison, and prosecuting attorney William Delhey.

Cub Scouts started their tour at the office of Mike Stimpson, who had organized the outing. After showing them his office, Stimpson took the boys to Judge Ager's court.

Ager was in the midst of a murder trial, but when he saw the boys, he recessed the court and talked to the scouts. He explained to them how the judicial system works and also told them how people become citizens, even giving them each a copy of the citizenship oath.

While the judge was talking, he let the boys sit in the jury box, in the witness stand, and even behind his bench. Since Ager is the tallest judge in Michigan, the boys behind his bench were visible only by the tops of their hair.

When the judge finished talking, he told the boys to sit in the back of the room and then reconvened the court so the boys could see justice in action.

After listening to the trial for about 30 minutes, the Cub Scouts went on to visit county clerk Robert Harrison. Harrison gave them a tour of his office, explaining his areas of responsibility. He then asked one of the boys, Chris Karkel, what his name was and then retrieved his file. Chris was given a copy of his birth certificate free of charge.

The Cubs ended their trip with a visit to prosecuting attorney William Delhey, who told them about some upcoming cases. According to den leader Ron Gibson, "they listened intently to this cops and robber stuff."

Boys who went on this outing were Jimmy Bennett, Matt Cabiness, Matt Fischer, Chris Karkel, Doug Martel, Chris Gibson, Justin Rousch, David Stimpson, Craig Vosters, Gabe Bernhard, Jayson Lein, Robbie Steiner, Tony Trotter, Kevin Lane, and Kraig Lane. Chaperones were Jim Zimmerman, Denise Martel, Cheryl Steiner, Sue Bennett, Larry Bernhard, and leader Ron Gibson.

PAUL WADE JR., center, was recently honored by Cassidy Lake Technical School officials for aiding in the capture of an escapee. Wade, the son of Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Detective Paul Wade, was in his father's car when he went to check on a tip about the location of an escapee. While his father was in the house, Paul Jr. waited in the cruiser. Within a few minutes, Paul Jr. saw a man run from the house to another house nearby. Using the police radio, he contacted his father, who was still in the house. Police were eventually able to capture the man. Paul Jr. received a certificate from Cassidy Lake warden John Staten, left, and Cassidy Lake official John Andrews.

Woman Claims Parts Missing From Auto

A Ferndale woman who had her car towed to Village Motors in July after it broke down on I-94, found some parts missing when she had the vehicle towed back home in November, according to Chelsea police.

Virginia Swenson told Chelsea police that she originally wanted to have her car repaired at Village Motors after it broke down. However, nearly four months later she decided to have the car towed home.

Workers for the towing company told her the car was missing its engine, transmission and other parts.
