Man 'On Race With Devil' Rear-Ends Police Cruiser After High-Speed Chase

An Ohio man, who claimed to be "on a race with the Devil from Detroit to Chicago," plowed into the back of a police cruiser driven by Chief Lenard McDougall on I-94 as McDougall attempted to force him to stop last Thursday, Feb. 5.

The man, who police identified as Richard K. Weber, 44, of Bowling Green, led police on a 10-mile chase at speeds up to 90 miles an hour before the accident stopped his 1980 Datsun just east of the Pierce Rd. exit of I-94. Weber sustained a cut on his forehead and McDougall was uninjured although admitted to being "petrified" when he saw the collision was inevitable.

McDougall said that when the crash occurred he was traveling about 70-75 miles per hour and Weber's vehicle was traveling approximately 15 miles per hour faster.

According to police, the chase began at I-94 and Zeeb Rd., where Deputy Larry Thayer was on patrol at approximately 8:30 a.m. when a car sped past him at 80 miles per hour.

As Thayer gave chase, he radioed ahead for help, and McDougall entered I-94 at M-52 ahead of the speeder.

The fleeing car weaved in and out of traffic. With the speeder between them, McDougall and Thayer gradually slowed their vehicles, forcing the other driver to do the same.

When he saw the vehicle was not going to stop, McDougall pulled his cruiser into the right lane. At that point, McDougall said, the suspect intentionally rammed the cruiser, but the bumpers locked and the suspect's vehicle was forced to stop.

"He said he was chasing the devil and he thought I was the devil," McDougall said. "He said he wanted to kill me."

Weber was treated at Chelsea Community Hospital, then taken to Ypsilanti Psychiatric Regional Hospital for mental evaluation.

The Chelsea police cruiser sustained extensive damage, police said.

Village Council Says 'Stop' To Parents Condoning Teen Drinking Parties

Village of Chelsea hardened its stand against teen-age drinking parties with the adoption of an ordinance that holds owners or tenants of a residence criminally liable for allowing drinking by minors on their property.

Village council voted 5-1 in favor of the ordinance, with trustee Gary Bentley casting the only "no" vote. Village President Jerry Satterthwaite also went on the record as opposing the measure.

The ordinance, which goes into effect in five weeks, is modeled directly after one passed by the City of Saline early last year. There, several teen-agers were killed in alcohol-related automobile accidents within a relatively short time.

Since then, Dexter village and Northfield township have passed similar laws. Several other communities are reportedly considering a similar ordinance.

The chief distinction between the current law and the new one is that parents can be held criminally liable even if they did not actually make alcohol available to the minors but allow its use. For example, they may be held responsible if minors bring the alcohol to the residence with them and parents make no effort to stop the drinking. Under the old law, police had to show the parents actually supplied the alcohol to minors.

Violation of the new law will be a misdemeanor offense.

"In a couple of years I think you'll see this a state law," said Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall, who first proposed the ordinance.

Satterthwaite stated his objection to the ordinance before the vote.

"I'm a little concerned when you pass a law that reflects rights taken away," Satterthwaite told the council.

"That's been my concern since the beginning. When you're talking about a private residence and a private home, I think it goes beyond the bounds of good government. It's too much sacrifice for what you gain. I think this ordinance could cause a whole lot of problems."

Among those in the audience in support of the measure were Jamie Hoffman, vice-president of the Chelsea High school chapter of Students Against Drunk Driving.

"Personally I think it is a good ordinance," said Hoffman, who is not a village resident.

"It shows the community is just trying to care for these kids, keep them out of trouble and keep them from drinking and driving. It's helping out young people if their parents don't care."

Many questions were raised about how far the law would go. McDougall said he thought the prosecutor would weigh each individual case. However, he admitted that parents who are out of town could be held liable for a teen-age party at their home if they don't take reasonable steps to make liquor inaccessible, such as locking the liquor cabinet.

Other Chelsea teens in the audience questioned whether officers would have grounds to enter a home if they heard loud music or if there were a large number of cars parked in front of a home.

"If we had a complaint about loud music, and we observed drinking violations, it would give us grounds to get a search warrant," McDougall said.

"I think the biggest thing is the deterrent factor."

Chelsea High School Principal John Williams said last week that he supports the ordinance, even though Chelsea has not had the same kind of problems as Saline.

"It's hard to tell where the problem ends and luck begins," Williams said.

"I can't believe that our kids are that much different than kids in Saline. Maybe we've been lucky."

Williams, like Satterthwaite, said he sees some potential conflicts in enforcing the law.

McDougall said he also plans to have a letter available for parents to sign if they are going away on vacation and plan to leave their children at home. The letter would authorize police to enter the residence if they suspect under-age drinking is taking place.

Water Supply System Has Major Problems In Fire Protection

Village of Chelsea's water distribution system has "severe shortcomings" in providing water for fire protection in several areas of town, and state money may be available to help solve the problem, according to a study by an Ann Arbor engineering firm.

Results of the study were presented to the village council at their regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 2.

The study, by Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc., said that the distribution system in two areas in particular—Chelsea Community Hospital and the area of Old US-12 and Old Manchester Rd.—is capable of providing about one-quarter to one-sixth the amount of water recommended by the Insurance Services Organization.

According to the computer study, the current system can provide 174 gallons per minute at the hospital, while a minimum of 1,200 gallons per minute is recommended.

The study also said the M-52 and Old Manchester Rd. area can receive about 200 gallons per minute. ISO recommends 800 gallons per minute in residential areas, the study said. Should some of the planned commercial developments in that area materialize, water needs for fire protection would be similar to the hospital.

The study also pointed out that water supply for fire protection in the commercial district along M-52, from Old US-12 south, is about 300 gallons per minute.

"The report had pretty much what I expected," said Assistant Village Manager Lee Fahrner.

"The good news is, there are some improvements we can make short of constructing a water tower that would give us pretty good capability."

The report recommends constructing two water mains at a total estimated cost of $265,100. The first would be 3,300 square of 12-inch main along Old Manchester Rd. between M-52 and Carl St. for approximately $156,100. The second would be 2,000 feet of 12-inch main from Washington St. down Flanders St. then through the woods to Chelsea Community Hospital. That project would cost approximately $109,000, the study indicated.

According to the report, if the first line is constructed, water supply would increase to 812 gallons per minute at Old US-12 and Old Manchester Rd. through the commercial district. Supply would also increase to 945 gallons per minute at Old US-12 and M-52. That line would not affect the hospital, the study indicated.

RIC FOYTICK, who plays the district attorney, consoles Julie Vorus, who plays widow Nancy Lee Faulkner, during rehearsals for Chelsea Area Players production of "Night of Jan. 18th." The play, which runs Feb. 20-22 at Beach Middle school, has two different endings. Which ending is played out will be determined by the audience, who will be selected to play jurors.

Audience To Decide Verdict in CAP Trial

Something new in theatricals will be the feature of the evening when the Chelsea Area Players present "Night of January 18th" at Beach Middle school Feb. 20, 21 and 22.

There have been plays before with vague endings, but this is the first one in which the audience takes an integral part in the play's development and conclusion.

With the attractive and talented actress Rosemary Angel, who portrays the leading lady, on trial, the jury selected from the audience is given the problem of deciding her guilt or innocence.

As they receive their seating at the door, patrons may leave their names as candidates for jury duty. At the beginning of the performance these names are given to Micky Bachman who plays the Clerk of the Court. The 12 people whose names are drawn by lot are selected to serve on the jury. The clerk addresses the audience and explains that these 12 will be called upon to come up on the stage and decide the verdict.

One by one they step up on the platform and take their places in a regular jury box just as they would in Lloyd R. Heydlauff of 36 Cavanaugh Lake Rd. and a life-long resident of this area, died suddenly on Feb. 3. He was born May 31, 1907 in Sylvan township to George and Ruby (Hoeteling) Heydlauff. He married Leona Mae McCoy Notten in 1930, and she survives him. Mr. Heydlauff was in the appliance business from 1930 until his retirement in 1978 and was the founder of Heydlauff's appliance store in Chelsea. He was past president of the Village of Chelsea, the Chelsea Kiwanis Club and Chelsea Chamber of Commerce. He also served on the Chelsea Community Fair board and was a member of First United Methodist church.

Although the independent truckers strike may hold up Valentine flower shipments from California to other parts of the country, Chelsea area florists say they will have roses. These exotic roses may be flown from South or Central America or California. Red roses, which stand for love in floral tradition, are "the Valentine flower," agree Sandy Zeeb and Carolyn Strieter, local florists.

A Sharon township resident, 10-year-old Joseph Lozier, died yesterday in Mott Children's Hospital, Ann Arbor, of injuries suffered Saturday when a tractor he was driving rolled over and pinned him underneath.

Chelsea Community Hospital has been approved for Blue Cross participation as of Feb. 1. Chelsea policyholders will now have added impetus to use Chelsea's attractive medical facilities. Paul E. Mann, chairman of the Board of Governors of CCH, announced the Blue Cross news and also reported that the Governing Board has purchased the hospital, land and equipment from the Chelsea Medical Clinic. Mann indicated that this has been accomplished with the cooperation of the University of Michigan Medical Center, and that during the past two years, CCH has achieved its non-profit status, and earned full accreditation.

Starting as a relatively inexperienced crew, the following Chelsea varsity grapplers currently command a third place in the league: Nick Keiser, Darryl West, Dale Poertner, John Beeman, Mark Montange, Mike Agopian, Dennis Bauer, Steven Worden, Tim Lancaster, Ken Keiser and Greg McClain.

Six-year-old Gena Durgan has been wearing a metal bracelet inscribed with the name of Commander Kenneth Coskey, a Vietnam prisoner of war missing since Sept. 6, 1968. Cmdr. Coskey, an Ann Arbor resident, is reported to be among the first POW's who will now return home. Gena is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald W. Durgan of 158 Orchard St.

Harold P. Glazier, member of a pioneer Chelsea area family, died Feb. 2 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital. Born in Chelsea, Dec. 18, 1886, he was a son of Frank P. and Henrietta Geddes Glazier. His father was prominent in industrial and community development in Chelsea early in the century. He donated the site for the Methodist Home, contributing, as well, a substantial sum toward construction in 1905, of the first unit of the Home which was named after Frank Glazier's mother, Emily Glazier.

Harold Glazier was married to Edna D. Hawley, Feb. 5, 1907 in New York. They made their home in Detroit and he was employed by the Murray Corp. there and later was in charge of the firm's plant at Belding. Following his retirement in 1949, they moved to their home at 679 Cavanaugh Lake. Edna Glazier died Oct. 15, 1961.

Dow Invests $115 Million in Midland Co-Generation Plant

A Dow Chemical Co. subsidiary will invest $115 million and receive a 10 percent interest in the nation's largest co-generation electric plant which is to be developed out of Consumers Power Company's failed $4.2 billion nuclear plant, under details of an agreement announced recently.

Officials for Consumers, which will own 49 percent of the gas-fired facility, said companies are "standing in line" to share in the other 51 percent of the project.

Consumers Chairman William McCormick, Jr., reaffirmed the project, which will produce 1,300 megawatts of power when fully operational in 1991, will boost utility rates by 10-15 percent.

The company, whose ownership interest consists of $1.5 billion in useable facilities from the nuclear plant, is also seeking a rate hike for $1.2 billion in abandoned material and a 6 percent financial stabilization rate is due to expire in 1991.

As part of the agreement, the two prime partners dropped their lawsuits against one another.

Dow, which had a contract to buy steam from the nuclear plant, sued the utility for $60 million saying it had been misled about cost overruns and delays in construction. Consumers countersued for $450 million because of Dow's cancellation of its contract.

The agreement which virtually assures completion of the conversion project at an estimated additional cost of $600 million was hailed by Governor James Blanchard, who said it "bodes well for Michigan's future."

Commerce Director Doug Ross said the project will stimulate economic growth in Midland and encourage Dow expansion in Michigan.

The new Midland Co-generation Venture, as the partnership is to be called, hopes to raise $350 million from other partners when they are named this spring, meaning that with the $115 million from Dow, less than $200 million would have to be borrowed to finance the conversion.

Consumers also will invest up to $50 million more in cash, under orders approved by the Public Service Commission in October.

The agreement—embodied in 28 separate documents—also calls for Consumers to receive interest-bearing notes totaling $1.27 billion from the partnership, and receive $16 million per year for the first nine years after commercial operation begins.

It has the option of removing $103 million in cash from the partnership.

Dow vice-president Pete Lehman, who said the company already is operating successful co-generation facilities in Texas, Louisiana and Europe, expressed hope that a subsidiary will win the engineering/construction contract to be awarded this spring.

One other company, Fluor Daniel of Chicago, is also being considered for that contract, but McCormick said a proposal by Bechtel Corp.—the nuclear plant contractor—was rejected.

The schedule calls for design work to begin in April, site work to begin late this year, and generation of 875 megawatts of electricity and 600,000 pounds of steam per hour with the first eight combined cycle gas turbines and steam recovery generators by early 1990.

Another four turbines to be installed late that year will boost total production to 1,300 megawatts and 1 million pounds of steam.

Dow will purchase 75 megawatts of electricity a year and 11-12 percent of the steam under the agreement.

Lehman said he was very enthused with the project, and from the company's other co-generation plants knows the facility can be a dependable source of electricity and steam. He said the company agreed to end its legal dispute and join in the venture because its 1950's vintage steam boilers would have to be replaced anyway.

Although cost estimates are now slightly higher than the $560 million estimated last fall and completion is now set back one year from the 1989 target first set, McCormick said current estimates should be protected because readily available equipment and technology is being used and the contractor will be responsible for cost overruns.

The rates charged for the electricity generated by the new plant will not need approval by the PSC but the utility must file the rates it charges to purchase the power.

McCormick said the 7.5 cents per kilowatt hour cost of the power purchased by Consumers "will be the lowest baseload cost of any utility project in recent years."

Ross said he is pleased the project is going forward because of its economic benefits, and said he is confident the process will allow competitive rates. And, he said, the power capacity will be needed if officials successfully stimulate the growth in Michigan's durable goods industries.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

After listening to Clem Webster at the country store Saturday night the fellers was full convinced that the groundhog gets off easy. All he has to predict is weather for the rest of winter, but ever working American has got to tell his fortune for the hole year. Clem give a short course on Form W-4, and he said he was glad, first, that he is self-unemployed and, second, he come to understand why Congress can't ever leave bad enough alone.

Clem had saw where nearly 200 tax bills have been put in the hopper since Congress cranked up a few weeks back, all of em porposing to add to or take away from last fall's Tax Reform Act to end all tax reform. Clem said he had run down one long list of tax reform ideas and he failed to see where anybody wants to fix the W-4 Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate so it can be filled out by folks that can't see beyond tomorrow's breakfast. Clem said the form calls for such as medical bills, moving expenses and theft losses for the year that is to be.

Farthermore, Clem declared, if a employee takes the form serious he's bound to git in trouble. It says right on it that if you wind up with less of your pay withheld than you ought to you can be fined $500. This means if he says he's going to git sick or robbed he'd better be or he'll have to much take-home left at the end of the year. Clem said come November we'll have a epidemic of people worrying themselves sick because their homes ain't been broke in.

General, the fellers were of a mind that tax reform and paperwork that goes with it will do what the Infernal Revenue allus does, it will send us running fer help. Somewhere right now, Zeke Grubb said, income tax outfits are working up bids on contracts to come into plants, interview ever worker and fill out his Form W-4. And you know the company that picks up the tab as a fringe benefit is going to deduct the cost of the service. Where there's a need there's somebody to meet it, Zeke said. He had saw where Jeffrey Nightbird has started a company in Austin, Texas that sells drug-free urin fer $50 a bottle, so that little item will be cranked into predicted medical costs of a heap of folks that work where they got to be tested.

Right off, Bug Hookum saw the sunny side. This urin market will open up new opportunities fer drifters that ain't been able to sell their blood on account of the AIDS scare. Nightbird can line up his sources and give bums a boost in the bargain, Bug said, and the only risk is that suppliers might spend their new income on stuff that will knock em out of a job.

As fer perditions, Bug went on, he had heard some discouraging word about trees. First off, he read where TV's Ted Turner is the latest to write off newspapers. Turner was quoted in the papers as saying television is coming and print is going because we're running out of trees for newsprint. And just when he was reminding himself that trees are a renewable source, Bug said, along come the U. S. Forest Service with word that we really are using trees faster than we're growing em.

Final, Clem got in a closing comment. He had saw where a tax expert says 85 percent of money spent on tobacco and alcohol goes to Governments in taxes. When you think of all the good our tax money is doing, Clem said, it's enough to drive a feller to drink, smoke and chew.

Program on AIDS
Offered Feb. 17 at Chelsea Hospital
AIDS—What does it mean to you? Attend this program to learn more about AIDS. Topics for discussion include risk factors leading to the development of AIDS, ways in which AIDS is transmitted, what tests can and cannot tell you about AIDS and what you can do to prevent the spread of AIDS.
The program will be presented by Carol Kauffman, M.D., professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan Medical School and chief of infectious disease at the Veteran's Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor. Dr. Kauffman is an acknowledged expert on AIDS and will also talk about the latest advances in treatment.
The program is sponsored by the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea in co-operation with the Chelsea Community Hospital and will be presented on Tuesday, Feb. 17 at 7:30 p.m. in the Woodlands Room at the Chelsea Community Hospital. A $2 registration fee is payable at the door.
Call 763-7120 to pre-register.

Conventional wisdom holds that the African drought is caused by wilds of nature, yet International Wildlife magazine reports some climate experts believe that man may be the culprit. By rapidly destroying African rain forests and woodlands, water runoff has increased. This, in turn, reduces the chances for water evaporation which forms the clouds that bring rains.

Pregnant Parents Film Slated At Family Practice Center

"When will my newborn be able to see?" is a frequently asked question of new parents according to Cyndi Bower, RN, MS, FHN, co-ordinator of nursing service at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at

Chelsea. "Not only can the newborn see at birth" states Bower "but even as a fetus inside the mother the baby can hear, detect shades of light and darkness, taste, suck his or her thumb and respond to the parent's touch."

Often times pregnant families are surprised to hear and realize that the fetus has this ability. Information of this nature will be covered in a prenatal class scheduled to be held at the Family Practice Center on Thursday, Feb. 19, in the classroom. This session will be held from 7 to 9 p.m.

This class is for pregnant families, especially those in early pregnancy (regardless of whether this is a first pregnancy or not). The film "The Sensational Baby" will be shown. This is an excellent illustration of the growing fetus, what he/she sees and hears, and movements and activities, and how parents can experience their unborn baby's unique personality during the course of pregnancy. It ends with a sequence of labor and birth as experienced by the baby.

The class will also cover information on healthy mother/healthy baby topics, good pregnancy nutrition, sexuality during pregnancy, safe exercise, and family emotions during pregnancy.

The class is free to Family Practice Center patients and a $5 charge for non-Family Practice Center patients. Pre-registration for the class is requested by calling the Family Practice Center at 475-1321, ext. 430.

Police Seek Thief of Bank Bag

Chelsea police are investigating a theft from Garnett's Flower and Greenhouse by a man in his early 20's who asked to see some birds on Tuesday afternoon, Feb. 3.

According to police reports, the man, described as white, approximately 5' 8" with ear-length hair, stepped behind the counter to see the birds and took a bank bag. Reported stolen was a check for $258.53. The bag was found in a restroom at the Woodshed Eatery a short time later, where the man reportedly ate lunch.

Estate Planning Seminar Offered At St. Paul Church

St. Paul United Church of Christ, 14600 Old US-12, is inviting any interested member of the Chelsea community to the Estate Planning Seminar being held at the church on Feb. 19 at 7:30 p.m.

Presenting the seminar are Attorney Janet Yarling of the Livonia firm Cummings, McCloy, Davis & Aho, and Financial Planner Larry Hawkins of Grosse Pointe Park. Both are members of the United Church of Christ Michigan Conference Stewardship Committee, and are contributing their time and expertise to provide information for the community.

Also participating in the seminar are Walt Hamilton, executive vice-president of Edwards Brothers, in his role as member of the long range planning committee of the church, and the Rev. Erwin E. Koch, pastor of St. Paul.

The seminar is non-demoninational, and will provide general information on how to plan one's estate so that the greatest benefits for the donor and family can be derived while still making the gifts that are important to the donor.

Anyone interested should feel free to come to St. Paul church at 14600 Old US-12 at 7:30 on Feb. 19.

For further information, contact Tom Flynn, chairman Stewardship Committee, at 475-9209 or Annette Ketner, secretary, at 475-1676.

Morrow, Hinderer Donate Lake Lot To Health Center

A Chelsea automobile dealer and a retired businessman from Manchester have donated a lot at Lake Le Ann in Hillsdale county to Catherine McAuley Health Center (CMHC), Ann Arbor.

They are Bill Morrow, president of Faist-Morrow Buick-Olds-Chevrolet, Inc., and Walter Hinderer, formerly associated with automobile dealerships in Saline and Milan.

Proceeds of the property when sold will help support CMHC charitable activities. The gift was made through a McAuley Advancement Department program designed to encourage gifts of real estate.

posures a complete mouth set of radiographs (up to 18 films) requires only 1/3 of 1% of the exposure needed by a 1920 x-ray unit!

In recent history man originated exposure to radiation from building materials, nuclear energy, etc., has come to nearly equal the amount of natural radiation present in the environment. Although this would be expected to roughly double the natural rate of mutation it is estimated that dentistry contributes less than 0.1% of the genetically significant dose of radiation to the U.S. population. By using a lead apron to shield the patient the amount of radiation reaching the majority of the body and reproductive organs is so small as to be nearly unmeasurable.

Your dentist should use prudence in the frequency and type of x-rays he or she orders. Routine screening x-rays should be avoided during pregnancy despite their very low risk. Bitewing radiographs are the most common type of x-rays and these are designed to detect decay hidden between the teeth as well as early stages of periodontal disease, faulty restorations, etc. Depending on the previous decay rate and the condition of the patient's mouth bitewing x-rays might be recommended as often as every six months although once a year is usually adequate. A periapical x-ray shows the entire tooth including the tip of the root and some of the surrounding tissues. Unlike bitewing x-rays this type can show an impacted tooth, the effects of more severe periodontal disease, as well as many other problems like abscessed teeth that aren't yet symptomatic. Your dentist may request a full mouth series of periapical radiographs every five years or so as a preventive and diagnostic screening. The other most popular type of dental radiograph is the panoramic x-ray. This picture shows all of the upper and lower teeth on one large film as well as the jaws, sinuses, joints, and other structures. They are used to show the extent of growth, tooth eruption, orthodontic problems, and impacted wisdom teeth. The panoramic x-ray can also reveal cysts or tumors in the jaws and surrounding tissues that might otherwise go unnoticed for a long period of time.

As a patient you have the right to refuse radiographic examination. However by choosing not to have recommended dental x-rays you will be severely restricting the diagnostic abilities of your dentist and perhaps setting yourself up for a toothache or other serious problem which could have been easily prevented.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

When I first came to Michigan I toiled for a living writing motion picture scripts, aided by a young assistant who couldn't have weighed more than two ounces. He was a parakeet and his name was Charlie. During my writing hours it was his custom to perch on my shoulder and deliver a running commentary on whatever appeared on the typewriter.

In the bathroom of the duplex apartment where I worked and lived there was a mirror four feet wide. Before this Charlie would put on a spectacular flying circus, paired with the beautiful bird who lived in the mirror. Together they would put on an acrobatic performance of such precision that Mirror Bird never missed one of Charlie's wing beats, dives or unannounced chandeliers.

One afternoon on a summer Saturday, quite absentmindedly, I walked out the back door of the apartment with Charlie on my shoulder. He promptly took off on a community sightseeing tour after which he returned to a branch of an elm where he could look down from 20 feet above our back door.

Calls, whistles and other entreaties were to no avail. He liked it there. He also enjoyed the gathering of neighbors and children in the service area who wondered at my strange antics under the tree. As each new arrival joined the gathering there would be chuckles of amusement followed by understanding and concern over Charlie's unwonted liberty.

Despite my appearance of cheerful calm, I was desperate. I even considered bringing a bedroom mirror out to entice him from his perch. Then I thought of the squeak box, a one-pound cylinder of Morton salt with the usual tin pouring spout. As the spout opened this particular one made a hoarse squeak and Charlie would fly to the kitchen from anywhere in the house to reply.

With the box in hand I emerged from the back door and resumed my position beneath the elm tree. To my relief Charlie was still there. As I stood there, Neville, a professor of English literature who lived next door, glanced from the salt box to me and inquired in a patronizing voice, "Going to sprinkle some salt on the birdie's tail, Will? Shall I fetch a ladder?"

I ignored him, got my fingernail under the pouring spout and flipped it up. Charlie cocked his head, focussed one eye on Salt Box and listened once more to the luring sound. On the third squeak, Charlie could resist no more. He volplaned down from the tree to my shoulder, chirping back as I continued the squeaks. Easing open the screen door, we passed through to safety.

Later I learned that the professor had turned to the little crowd and exclaimed, "We have to believe it. The guy can actually charm birds out of the trees!"

This was in the 1950's while we lived in Bloomfield Hills. In the 60's the scene changed to Ann Arbor which was also a pleasant and productive period. But life seemed to take on a whole new dimension in 1970 when home and business were moved to Chelsea. It was another world, filled with leafy trees, verdant fields and creatures of all sizes from honey bees to draft horses. Indeed, the Chelsea Community Fair was an experience all by itself, and still is. The farm kids with their splendidly groomed horses, cattle, swine, rabbits and exotic fowl are always exciting as they prepare for showdowns with the judges.

Creatures of other kinds, new to our urban lives, abounded as we settled down to our patch of 20 unarable acres along McKinley Rd. It had a pond and there we found ourselves living with a family of domestic ducks plus a galaxy of songbirds. With them, too, were Canada geese, scaups, wood ducks, hawks, crows . . . Well, we just about wore out Peterson's Field Guide to Birds. In Sylvan township we also found that we were actually living on the same land with deer, muskrats, mink, foxes, rabbits, moles, voles and insouciant chipmunks. Plus turtles the size of buggy wheels, graceful garter snakes and blue racers. Yes, with crawfish, frogs, bass and thousands of blue gills in the pond.

Seventeen years later, we know them all and they know us. Even so, one would hardly think that a wild Canada goose would be interested in a human creature sitting by a window pecking at a typewriter that rang a bell. But one morning a young female Canada goose walked across the lawn and came up to the window of my basement study. My desk was below ground level and my eyes were about a foot above the clipped grass. Looking up from my work I found myself eye to eye with the young goose. She just stood there looking through the window with obvious interest. After a bit I tapped on the glass near the tip of her beak to see what would happen. Instead of departing, she tapped right back. This little ritual was repeated a number of times so that our rapport was clearly established.

We named the goose Lookie, and as the days went by, she was often the first to tap on the window. Next we discovered that when either my wife or I came out the back door, Lookie would fly to us immediately and stroll with either of us wherever we walked. This friendship continued for several weeks until a tall, handsome gander came along and charmed her away.

On most summer evenings I fish for bluegills, bringing anywhere from a dozen to a painful into the house at sunset. We fillet and freeze the meat for year round eating, sharing the fish heads and other leavings with the small animals out back. Mother skunks will bring their kittens in to feed in the semi darkness. (A yardlight provides some illumination so we can watch from the house.) Raccoons arrive with their kits and so do the possums, often all at once.

Fish heads and other raw leavings, held in a net bag and placed in a crab trap are excellent bait for the makings of succulent crawfish stew.

From time to time we have used a Havahart trap to catch and dispose of varmints. One night a possum innocently entered the trap. Having discovered that he couldn't get out, he decided to make the best of it all. He feasted on the bait and then tore up enough of the long grass at the floor of the trap to form a comfortable nest. We found him there in the morning, sound asleep. As we approached the trap and made talking sounds he woke up for a bit, looked us over, and went back to sleep. A little later, we opened the trap and persuaded him to leave but he was definitely in no hurry to go.

One of our neighbors was bothered by chipmunks that burrowed under his flower beds. They had also taken up residence in his garage and appeared quite willing to move into the house. He decided to set some rat traps, and did, but things didn't work out too well. The chipmunks felt that the traps were a menace and carefully covered them with piles of dirt.

THE VICTIM OF A LITTLE SCHOOL SPIRIT, Chelsea High school's Mark Bareis unloads balloons from his car last Friday after school. It was all part of a plot by some of his classmates to bring school spirit to a fever pitch for the Saline basketball game that night. Most of the varsity players found their cars in similar dress.

Career, College Day Set Feb. 26 at WCC

High school students. Their parents. Adult education students. Anyone even considering college or a career.

All of these people can benefit from Career and College Day Thursday, Feb. 26 from 9:30 a.m. to noon at Washtenaw Community College.

A product of Washtenaw Area Counselors, this annual event brings together admissions officers from 44 two- and four-year colleges across Michigan for a single day, giving people a chance to review the schools' recruitment literature and speak personally with representatives from each school.

The day also features 20-minute presentations by professionals in 20 fields ranging from cosmetology and education to robotics and law enforcement. These professionals will be available for questions, too.

The program is designed to do more than help potential students choose a college. The question-and-answer aspect gives those unfamiliar with college a chance to get a glimpse of college life.

In addition to the 44 two- and four-year schools, career opportunities in cosmetology, education, the armed forces, automotive repair, electronic repair, chiropractics, printing, robotics, travel, Peace Corps, apprenticeships, child care, drafting and law enforcement will be represented.

Washtenaw Community College is located on Huron River Dr., near Catherine McAuley Health Center, about one mile east of the Geddes Rd. exit on US-23.

Home Treatment for Gastro-Intestinal Upset

By Gail Finch, R.N.

At this time of year, one common annoying illness is GI (Gastro-Intestinal) upset. Sometimes it's called 24-hour flu, even though it is not influenza. It is characterized by mild stomach upset, vomiting and diarrhea. The usual cause is a virus or mild food poisoning. The following are suggestions to make the sick person more comfortable and to help decrease the vomiting and diarrhea.

1. Rest is very important, one or two days at home.

2. Non-aspirin preparations, after vomiting stops, will help with mild discomfort and relieve elevated temperature if present.

3. Diet—For the most part dietary therapy is the same for vomiting and diarrhea. The diet is as follows:

—No milk or milk products should be used for a couple of days. This does not include breast fed babies, who should continue to breast feed.

—Clear liquids, such as water, flat (no carbonation) pop, Kool-aid, Jell-O water (3-oz. pkg. to 3 cups water), weak tea or Gatorade should be taken slowly. Take one or two ounces, wait 20-30 minutes, if no vomiting or diarrhea occurs, slowly increase amounts.

If vomiting recurs, wait two hours before beginning fluids again. You may want to start with ice chips coated with honey or popicles (this is especially good for children).

—Sweet fluids help settle the stomach and decrease the bitterness and unpleasant taste in mouth.

—If vomiting continues for six hours after this regimen is begun, contact your physician.

The above diet does not cure the vomiting or diarrhea. It is designed to cause the intestines to cramp less and to prevent dehydration (loss of fluids). Food is not necessary for a day or so as long as fluids are able to be taken and retained. It will take time for diarrhea to stop. Stools may be more frequent and soft for several days. If frequent diarrhea continues for three days, contact your physician.

Continue consuming clear fluids for one or two days then introduce bland foods such as crackers, toast with jelly, soft boiled eggs, rice, banana into the diet. Eat small amounts at first.

Gradually resume a normal diet but avoid milk products (butter, cheese, etc.), alcohol, spicy and fried foods for several days. Check with doctor if:

1. Vomiting continues six hours after following the diet.
2. There is blood in the vomited material.
3. Continuous severe stomach ache for longer than two hours.
4. Any possibility of poisoning with a medicine, household products, or plant is a possibility.
5. Recent history of a head injury.
6. Frequent diarrhea lasts longer than three days.
7. There are any additional symptoms that concern you.

Correction

In last week's story about the American Legion's Winter Carnival at Cavanaugh Lake, Elmer Duible should have been listed as one of the winners for most loners in the Euchre Tournament. Also, Howard Bell was one of the second place winners.

There is a direct correlation between academic performance and lower smoking rates. Of students reporting an average grade of A in high school, one in 14 (7 percent) is a daily smoker, while of those averaging a grade of D, nearly 50 percent are daily smokers.

A small black pup proved himself an able fisherman Sunday morning by landing a 2½ lb. bass through a hole in the ice on Cedar Lake. The incident may be verified by Haskell "Pop" Worden, on whose line the fish was caught; by "Okie Duke" Morrison, who was the first to see the dog pull in the fish; and by Eddie Honeck, Blair Pierson and other fishermen on the lake at the time. Worden said, "I think the fish tugging on the line moved the pole enough so the pup thought it was a stick thrown for him to retrieve."

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Feb. 2, were Dils, Grau, Redding, Comeau, Satterthwaite, Cherem, Wales, superintendent Van Meer, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Williams, Stielstra, Benedict, Wescott, assistant principal Larson, community education director Rogers, athletic director Reed, curriculum director Bissell, guests. Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Dils.

Entered as an official communication was a letter from Mrs. Ann Bryan, library media specialist, Homer Community Schools, commending Sherrill Pryor, high school media specialist.

The board presented a certificate of appreciation to senior citizen Ruth Barton, who tutors on a regular basis at North school.

June Warren, vocal music teacher, was present and introduced Tucker Lee, Lori Jedele and Kelly Burke. They shared with the board information on their various fund-raising activities, and then, on behalf of the Music Department, presented the school district with a Yamaha piano for the choir room. The value of the piano is $2,400. The piano currently in the choir room will be moved permanently to the orchestra pit in the auditorium.

Counselor Sue Carter updated the board on the results of the recent MEAP, CAT, PSAT testing. She indicated that Chelsea High school students will be taking part in a career test and math placement test. Carter reviewed the various tests, indicating that Chelsea students scored very well.

The board reviewed a communicable disease policy. The policy sets up a review process and panel for an individual student or employee who has been diagnosed as having a communicable disease. Communicable diseases that are serious in nature include AIDS (Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome), ARC (AIDS Related Complex), persons infected with HTLV-III/LAV-Human T-Cell Lymphotropic Virus/Lymphadenopathy Associated Virus, Hepatitis B, other like diseases that may be included by the Health Department which may present potentially serious health problems for those who come in contact with the disease and/or the disease carrier. The board will seek additional legal and medical input on this policy.

Superintendent Van Meer indicated that there is a concern that students at the high school and Beach Middle school frequently miss part of the last period of instruction. He informed the board that the principals are reviewing a rotation of periods to help reduce the absences, and that administration is reviewing a possible change in school starting and dismissal times.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed facility/space alternatives. The administration is attempting to locate district programs in schools where the enrollments are complementary. The elementary schools are again showing some increased enrollments after several years of enrollment decline.

Superintendent Van Meer updated the board on the progress of the 1986-87 board goals. The 1986-87 board goals focus on curriculum, teacher evaluation, new-employee orientation, facilities/program space needs.

The board extended the position of the curriculum director for the 1987-88 school year.

The board approved course outlines for applied technology, social studies, and home economics.

The board requested a work-study session in conjunction with the Feb. 16 meeting. The regular meeting will start at 8 p.m. with a rather light agenda, and the board will convene in a public work session to discuss some long-range plans.

Meeting adjourned at 10:35 p.m.

Police Capture Escapce from Camp Waterloo

A Camp Waterloo escapee was captured by Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department's Prisoner Apprehension Team Tuesday morning as he was walking east on Waterloo Rd. near Cassidy Lake.

According to Det. Paul Wade, Ramando Bankhead, 25, was captured Tuesday at 9 a.m. He had climbed the fence at Camp Waterloo at approximately 4:30 p.m. on Monday and apparently spent the night in a barn north of the camp, Wade said.

Bankhead, originally from Detroit, was serving 2-15 years for assault with the intent to commit robbery, and 2-5 years for breaking and entering.

Introducing an HMO that gives you access to some of the most impressive medical technologies known to man.

Behold the frontiers of diagnostic understanding, the latest weapons against disease and trauma, the medical technologies available to you through M-CARE, the new HMO from The University of Michigan.

To get a closer look at these medical marvels, look inside the medical bag of an M-CARE primary care physician. It contains: a stethoscope, pen light, reflex hammer, blood-pressure cuff, a device for looking in ears called an otoscope, another for looking into eyes called an ophthalmoscope, a handful of tongue depressors, latex gloves, a couple of handbooks on prescription drugs, and a tape measure.

Okay, so maybe this equipment isn't so sophisticated. Maybe you've seen it all before. The truth be known, the contents of the typical medical bag haven't changed much over the last two generations. The stethoscope, for example, is more than 150 years old. But these things perform impressive feats indeed in the hands of a highly-trained and experienced physician, the kind of primary care physicians in internal medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, pediatrics, and family practice that come with M-CARE.

Of course, you won't find the most important tool an M-CARE physician possesses in a medical bag. That's an ability to listen to you. Through simple conversation and a well-directed physical examination, a good doctor can get a very good picture of your health, confirm the need for specific tests, refer your care and treatment to a specialist, or give you the simple assurance that everything's going to be okay.

Even with the world-renowned U of M Medical Center at our disposal, a personal relationship with a highly knowledgeable, compassionate and caring primary care physician is, perhaps, still the most impressive medical technology M-CARE can offer.

Ask your employer to include M-CARE among your health care options.

For more information, please call (313) 747-8700.

A WINTER PICNIC was held by first graders in Mrs. Gietzen's first grade class at North school last week as an end to their study unit on the Arctic. The youngsters ate all white foods, including vanilla ice cream, popcorn, cream cheese and bagels, marshmallows, mozzarella cheese and milk. Sharing in the fun, from left, are Liz Alvarez, Stacy Miller, Aaron Batzdorfer, Nick Osentoski and Matt Jones.

Jury Chosen from Audience To Decide Verdict in CAP Trial

(Continued from page one) ing the play are eligible to serve on the jury. Between acts the jurors are led off stage to a deliberation room.

Each act represents one day of the trial.

Just before the ending of the third act the jury retires for the last time to render a verdict. They vote after a short discussion, and although legally a unanimous decision is required for a verdict, for the sake of dramatic brevity, a majority vote is taken as decisive for this trial.

There have been different endings rehearsed for the play, depending on the verdict. There is even an ending for a hung jury.

"Night of January 16th," in keeping in step with past Chelsea Area Players winter productions, should prove to be a very enjoyable evening for those watching, as well as participating, in the play.

"Night of January 16th" will be a dessert theater Feb. 20 and 21 at 7:30 p.m. with an afterglow at the Woodshed Eatery following both evening performances.

There will also be a matinee performance on Sunday, Feb. 22 at 2 p.m.

Half of the Chelsea Area Players net proceeds will be donated to the renovation of the historic Chelsea Courthouse.

Tickets are now on sale at the Woodshed Eatery. For more ticket information, please contact the Woodshed at 475-1922.

For some members of the animal kingdom good acting can mean the difference between life or death, reports National Wildlife magazine. For example, the bombardier beetle, which lives in the Arizona desert, fights off predators by spraying an irritant from its abdomen while doing a headstand. A related beetle, which has no poison but good acting skills, manages to scare off enemies by imitating the same headstand position.

Class Offered on Winter Health Issues, First Aid

A program concerning winter health issues and first aid will be presented at the M-Care Health Center at Briarwood, located at 325 Briarwood Circle. The program will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 11 at 7:30 p.m. The program will be presented by Dr. Lee Green, family physician at the Center.

Topics to be discussed in the program include the indoor as well as the outdoor environment. Dr. Green stresses that "Items to be covered in this class are of importance whether or not they participate in winter outdoor activities. There are many occasions when a person doesn't plan to be exposed to the cold air but is suddenly in a situation where it is necessary. A person needs to be prepared and understand the risks involved with having car trouble in the winter, changing a tire, or having the car slide into a ditch."

Issues concerning the indoor environment include the causes and treatment of colds, influenza, and various dry air problems. Dry air problems include sinus, itching, and asthma.

Information of particular interest to outdoor winter sports enthusiasts include frostbite and hypothermia. Emphasis will be on prevention as well as treatment of these problems.

A question and answer period will follow at the end. Preregistration is requested by calling 763-7390. A $2 registration fee is payable at the door.

Nature Programs Offered for Week-end

Waterloo Natural History Association offers two programs this week-end; stargazing on Saturday evening and mammal identification on Sunday afternoon.

On Valentine's Day, Feb. 14, in a program entitled "Romance of the Stars," Jo Chadburn will tell tales of romance among the stars of the winter evening. Meet at 7:30 p.m. at the Portage Lake Campground, by the ball diamond. Dress warmly, bring something to sit or lie on, and something hot to drink.

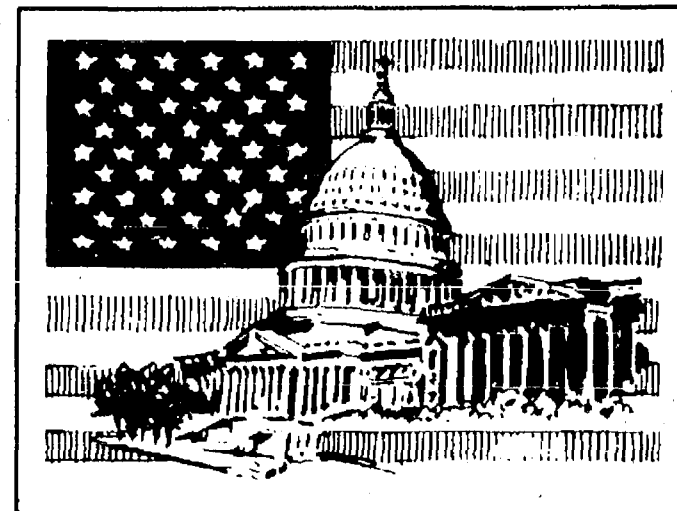

On Feb. 15, wildlife biologist Chris Yonker will teach a class on "Michigan Mammals." He will exhibit some mammal skins and then let class members see if they can discover evidence of live inhabitants of the fields and woods. Meet at the Cedar Lake Outdoor Center at 1:30 p.m.

"VOYAGE OF COLUMBUS"

Travel Film Traces Columbus' Exploits

On Saturday evening, Feb. 14, the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea will present its fifth program of the Travel and Adventure Film Series at 8 p.m. in the Chelsea High school auditorium.

Robin Williams follows Columbus from his birth in Genoa through his travels around Spain and ultimately to his fabulous voyage. Hear the personal story of his exploits, see the actual places he visited. Enjoy the background information about the Moorish influence on Spanish culture and architecture. Find out what was going on with the Renaissance in full swing. Step into the world of Columbus with a virtuoso guide who makes history live on the screen.

Experience the major events of the voyage itself. In the Bahamas, see the islands of the New World as Columbus himself saw them. They have not changed much. Hear about the cannibalistic Caribs.

Through the entire film, Robin Williams presents the life of Genoa, Spain, the Canary Islands and the Bahamas as they are right now.

Enjoy this enriching, informative film which uses the ultimate goal of all travelers, discovery of a New World. Meet Christopher Columbus, live his ideas, his voyage . . . his discovery.

Single admission tickets will be on sale at the door before the show begins.

AstroFest Program Will Study Uranus Magnetic Field

Voyager 2's discoveries at Uranus will be the subject of the 168th AstroFest film and lecture program at the University of Michigan at 7:30 p.m. Feb. 13 in Auditorium 3, Modern Languages Building.

"Uranus has the weirdest magnetic field of any known planet or moon," according to Jim Loudon, AstroFest director and staff astronomer at the U-M Exhibit Museum. "It just might be possible that Voyager 2 caught Uranus in the middle of an event fabulously rare on Earth—switching its magnetic poles south for north."

The lecture is the fourth in a series on the Voyager 2 discoveries, but Loudon says it will not duplicate the earlier programs.

AstroFest is sponsored by the U-M's Exhibit Museum and Department of Aerospace Engineering.

Gift Offered For New Non-Smoker

Are you a new ex-smoker proud of kicking the smoking habit? Or would you like to show your pride in someone who did? The American Lung Association of Michigan (ALAM) is announcing a new "Get a Kick Out of Quitting Club" to congratulate and support new non-smokers.

By joining they will receive a personalized certificate celebrating their victory over the habit, an "I Did It" pin to show the world their accomplishment, and a special letter of support. Their names will also be published in a special honor roll listing in Inspiration, the Association's newsletter.

For a donation of $5, any new non-smoker can join the club or can be enrolled by a friend or a family member. The contributions will be used for the American Lung Association of Michigan's programs to prevent and control lung disease.

The ALAM offers programs to help smokers kick the habit, including the nationally tested Freedom from Smoking self-help and group clinic programs. A special video program called "In Control" has been produced for home use for either Beta or VHS videocassette recorders. It can also be used in the office.

Materials and staff from the ALAM are available to management and employees to guide them in developing effective policies to reduce smoking in the workplace.

To sign up for the "Get a Kick Out of Quitting Club" as a gift for yourself or for your own ex-smoking hero, call the ALAM toll free at 1-800-292-5979. Or send a $5 contribution to the American Lung Association of Michigan, 403 Seymour Ave., Lansing 48933.

The new piano will be permanently in the choir room. The old piano is in the orchestra pit.

Smoking Accident Blamed For Chelsea Apartment Fire

A smoking accident was blamed for a bedroom fire that caused approximately $17,000 in damage to an apartment in the Village Apartments, 250 Wilkinson St. on Feb. 4.

Chelsea Fire Department was called to the scene at 1:19 a.m. after Michelle Popinger, 12, a resident of the apartment, called Chelsea police to report the fire. No one was injured in the blaze. Police had the building evacuated before fire fighters arrived.

According to police reports, eight-foot flames were coming out of the roof overhang of the apartment when police arrived. Virtually all the damage occurred to the bedroom in the top-floor apartment, according to Fire Chief Bud Hankerd.

"Our 13 firefighters did a real good job," Hankerd said. "They put it out quick."

Firefighters left the scene at 3:59, Hankerd said.

When it comes to bird-brains, one bird has it all—the raven! According to International Wildlife magazine, ravens survive on wile and guile, using memory to recall where they hide stolen food and treasures. Ravens have 30 distinct calls and the ability to mimic animals and even human speech. Some scientists claim that ravens, unlike parrots, use some words knowing what the words mean.

What Has Your Home Done For You Lately?

Home ownership used to be a one-sided relationship. With you doing all the work.

But that was before Citizens Homeowners Privilege — a personal line of credit that gives you immediate access to thousands of dollars. Because you're a homeowner.

Here's how it works.

Simply come into any Citizens Trust office and fill out our standard loan application. (Something you may never have to do again.)

A qualifying line of credit will be approved, based on your home equity and your yearly earnings. Then, whenever you need money — for vacations, investments, unexpected expenses — you can simply sit down and write yourself a check.

The amount of each loan will be added to your mortgage. And the interest charged will not only be extremely competitive, but in most cases tax deductible as well.

You don't have to have a mortgage at Citizens Trust to qualify for Homeowners Privilege. So stop in soon. And let us introduce you to a loan you can live with.

Dogs Take SEC Lead By Knocking Off Saline

Chelsea Bulldogs scored 14 straight unanswered points in the third quarter and held the Saline Hornets to just six on their way to a 58-42 win last Friday night in the Chelsea gym before a capacity crowd.

The victory gave Chelsea sole possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference with a 6-1 record and 19-3 mark over-all, while Saline fell to second place at 5-2. The win also avenged a 50-40 loss in the second game of the season at Saline in December.

The third quarter, often a poor one for the Bulldogs, looked as though it might follow the pattern. The Dogs held a 27-22 lead at half-time before Saline's Grant Fanning went to work to score two quick buckets, narrowing the Chelsea lead to one.

After a Chelsea timeout, the Dogs went on their tear as Hornet center Jeff Paquin found himself in foul trouble and sat out much of the period, allowing Chelsea forward Mark Bareis to work inside. Bareis scored four points off offensive rebounds, hit two other jumpers and dished out two assists during the stretch. Todd Starkey, Jon Lane and Marty Poljan each added a lay-up.

From then on it was a matter of Chelsea hitting their free throws. Bareis connected on 8-10 in the final period and the Dogs hit 15-19 over-all.

"We played well, but I don't know how much of it was us playing well or Saline playing poorly," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter.

"I thought Saline would be a much better shooting team this time around. The big difference was that they had a bad third quarter and we didn't, just the opposite of the last time we played. And our kids are believing in themselves a little more and are communicating better. They seem to know what they have to do to win."

Fanning, who scored nearly half of Saline's points, with 19, also had foul problems and ended up fouling out with 1:43 left.

"That was another big problem they had," Rosentreter said.

"When Fanning wasn't in the game they ran into problems. Saline's a young team and Fanning provides a lot of leadership for them."

Bareis was the team leader in points (26) and rebounds (11), overshadowing an exceptional performance by Jeff Harvey, who finished with a season-high 13 points and nine rebounds.

Lane came in off the bench in the first quarter to pick up two quick assists and four points, "giving us a real big lift," Rosentreter said.

Saline's 6-7 center Paquin dominated the boards when he was in the game, picking off 17 of Saline's 30 rebounds. He had eight offensive rebounds and put four back in for baskets. He helped make the game one of the most physical of the season for Chelsea.

Chelsea also finished with 30 rebounds.

"I'd be happy to break even with them in rebounds anytime," Rosentreter said.

Even though Paquin hurt the Bulldogs, Rosentreter was more concerned about stopping Fanning. The Chelsea defense adjusted well as Saline altered their strategy slightly from the previous meeting. In the first game, Fanning worked mostly from the baseline. Last Friday he played more around the foul line.

"We played pretty much the same defense as before, but we changed a few assignments," Rosentreter said.

"We had to drop a guard down to cover Fanning."

Statistically, Chelsea played one of its best games offensively, hitting 21-48 field goals for 44 percent and 16-25 free throws. They turned the ball over 12 times, but two of those were on unusual lane violation calls.

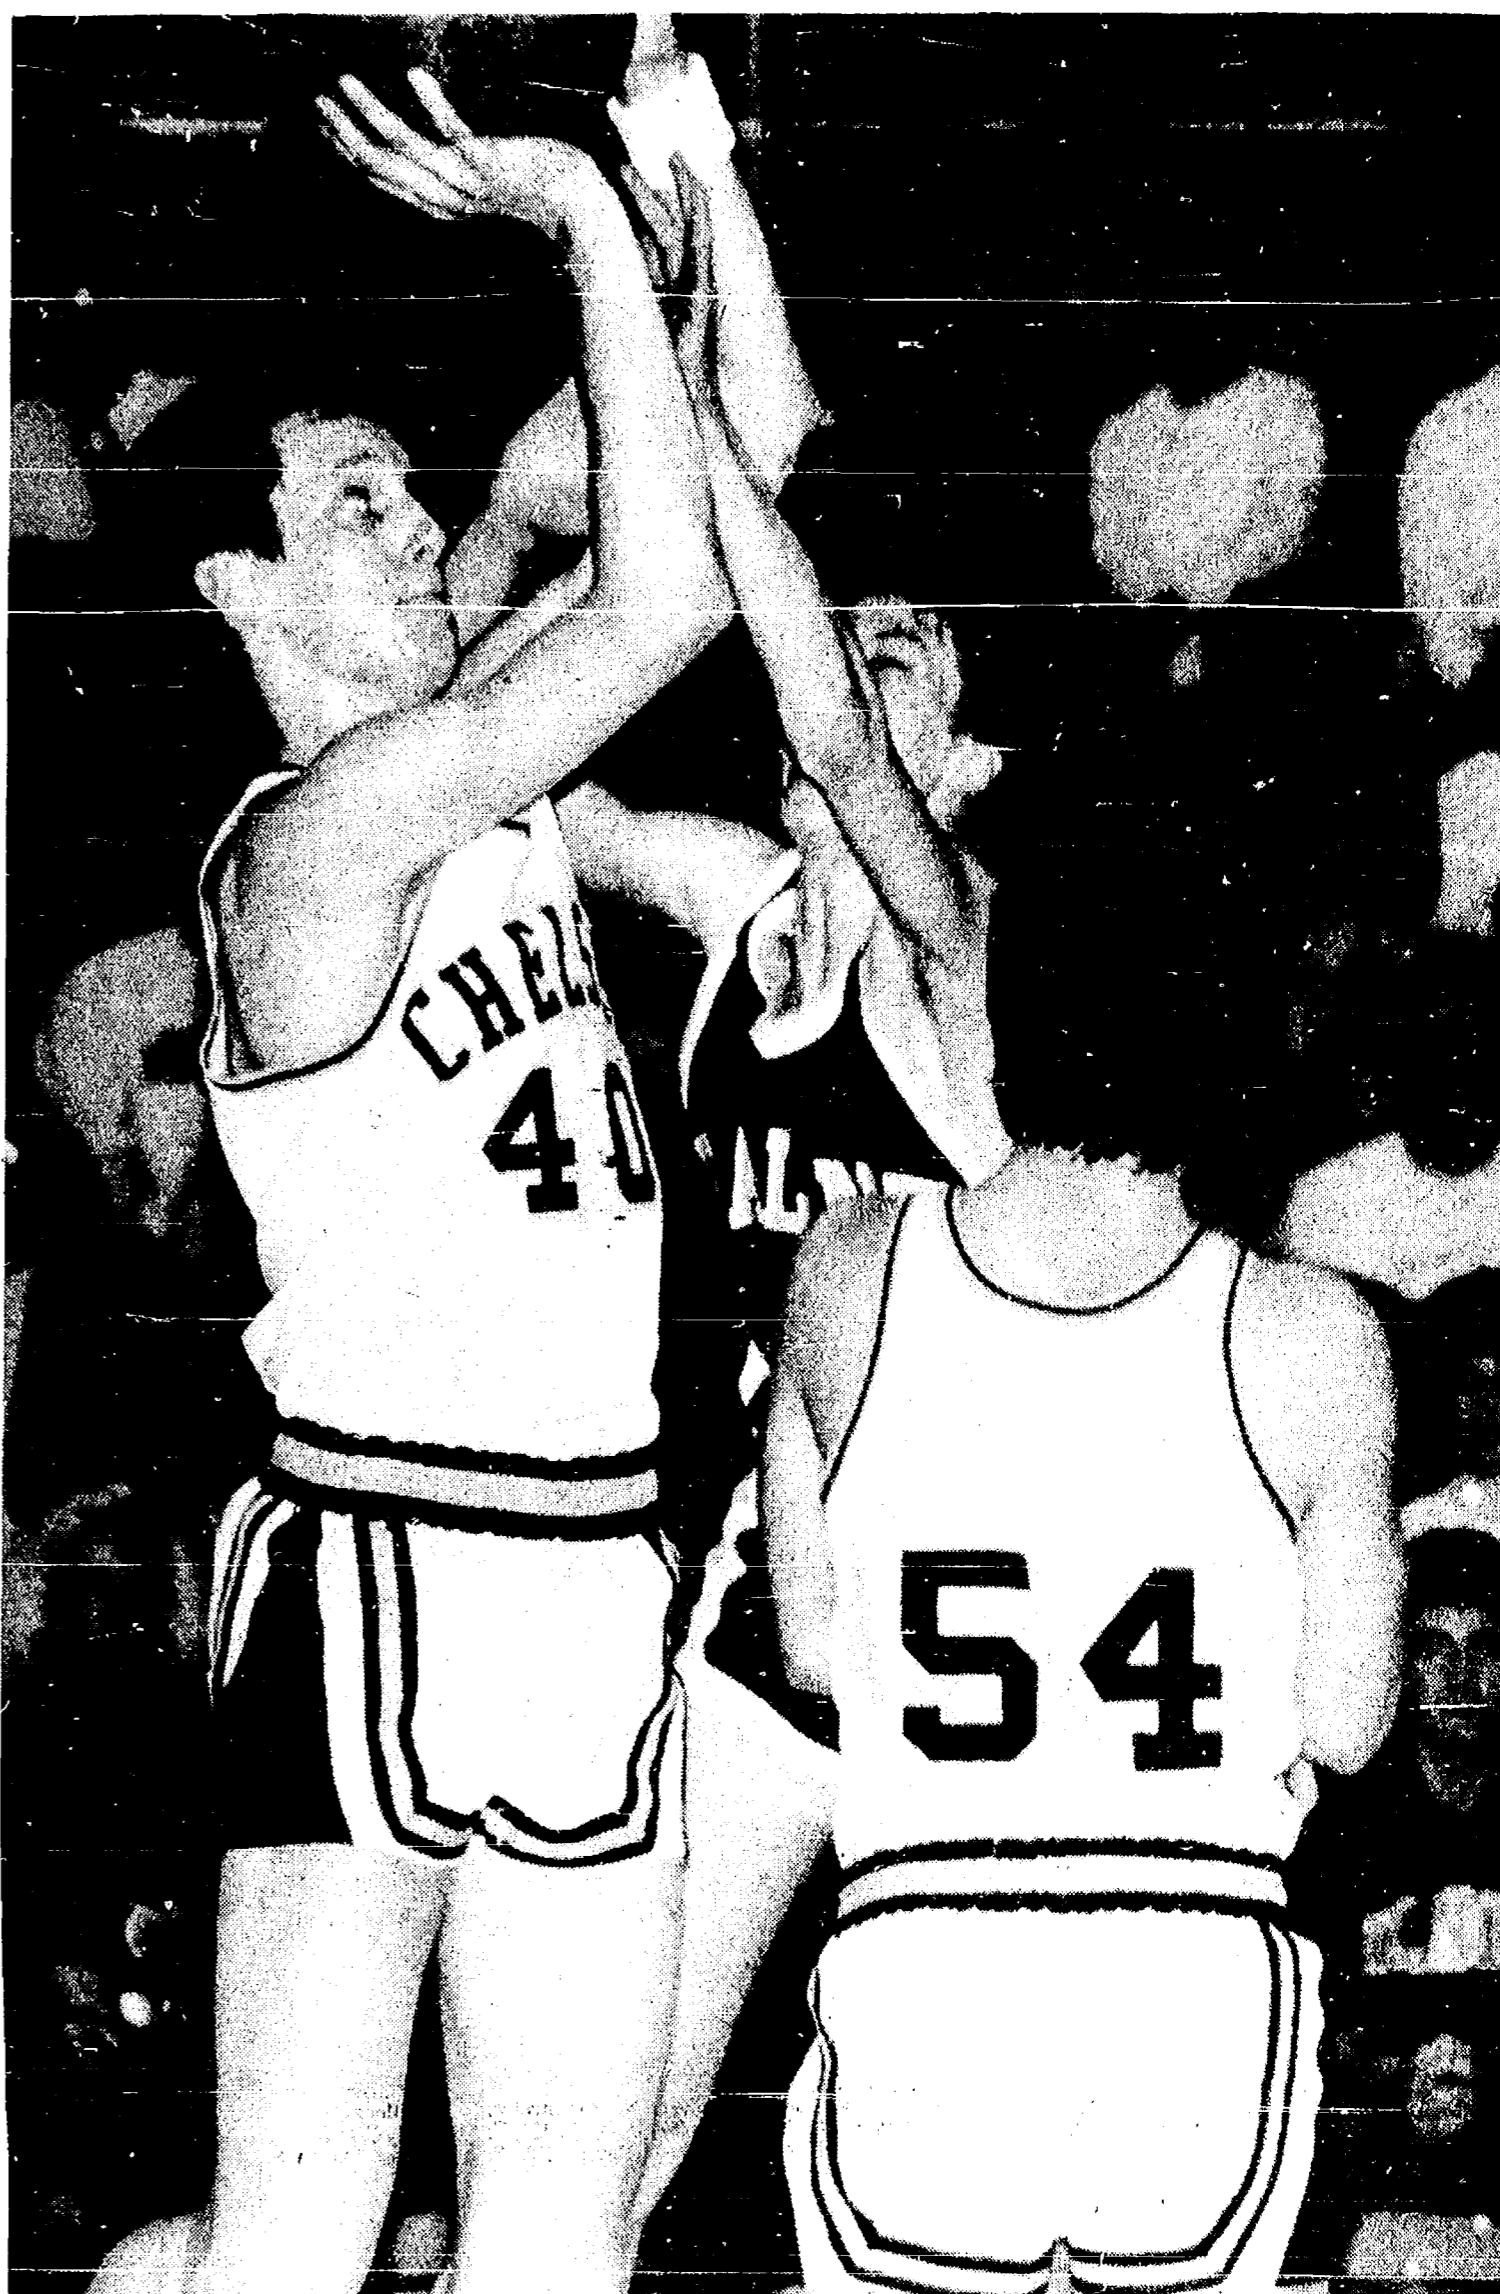

Bareis and Harvey were the only Bulldogs in double figures. Lane and Poljan had six each, Starkey had four, Matt Bohlender, two, and Greg Haist, one.

Chelsea was scheduled to host Milan last night, a team that has come on strong in recent weeks.

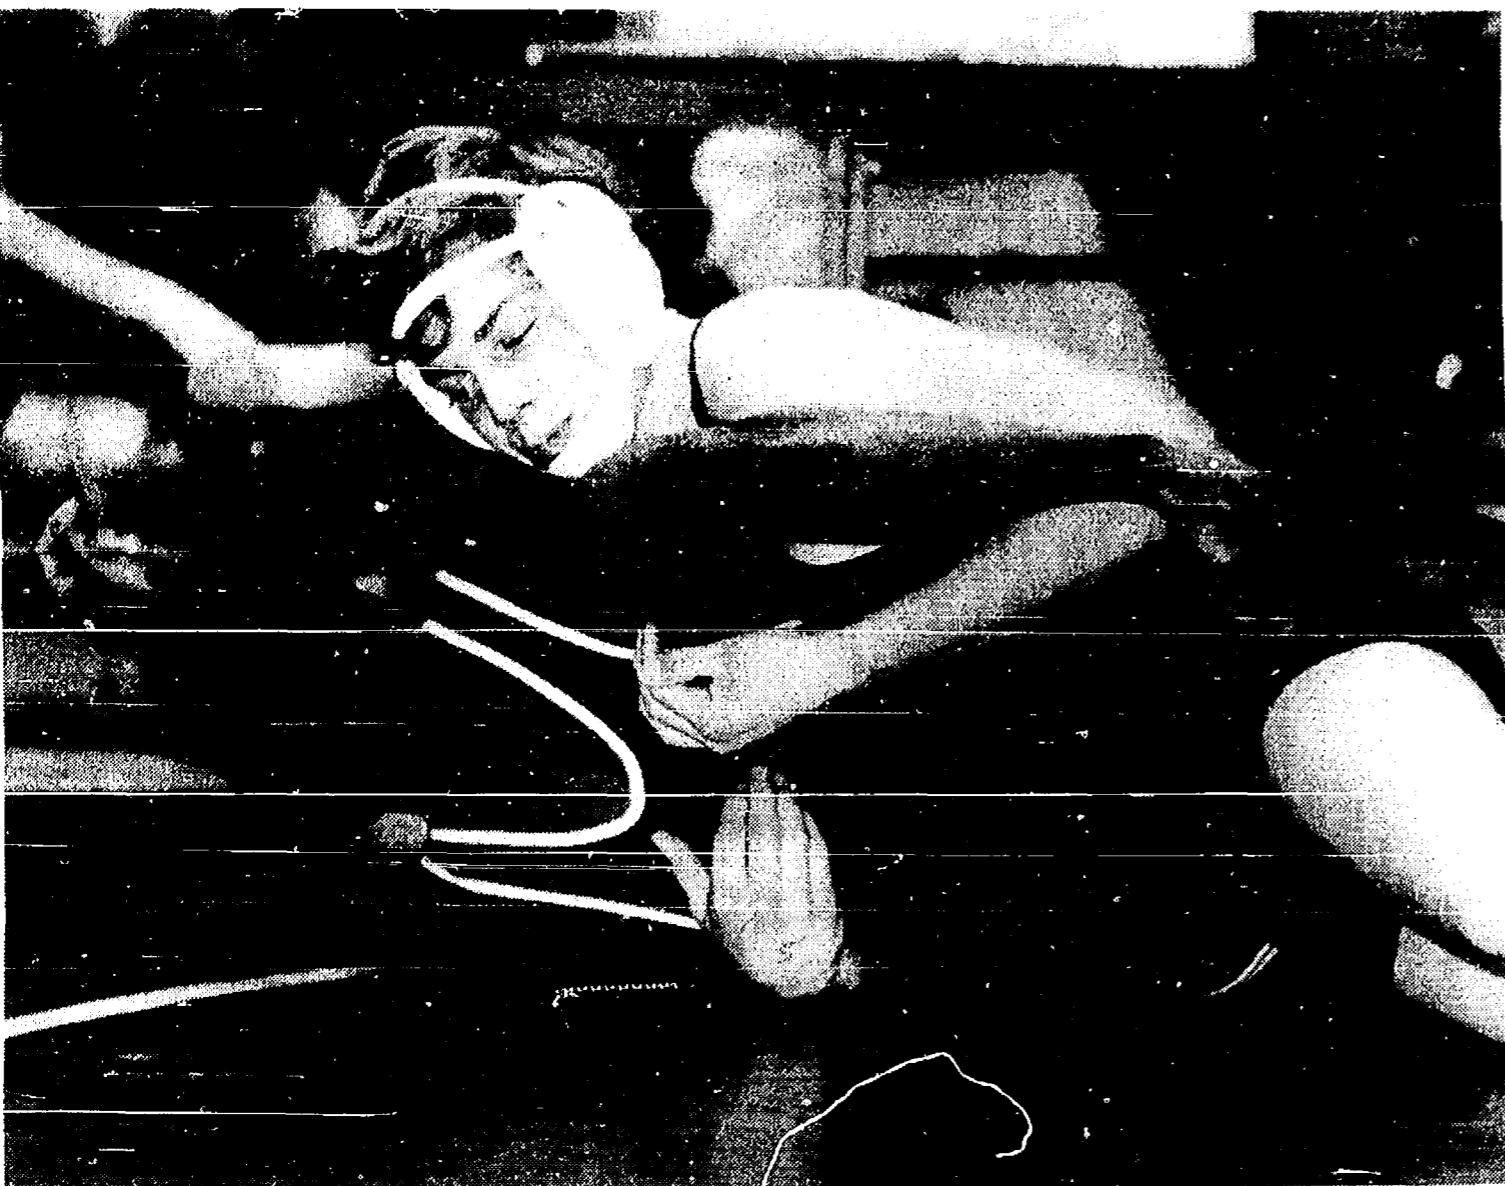

The Dogs travel to Lincoln this Friday in what could be a pivotal game for the championship.

"If we can win one out of two against Milan and Lincoln we'll be in good shape," Rosentreter said.

"In order to beat Lincoln, we have to be able to rebound well."

CONCENTRATING ON HIS JUMPER is Chelsea forward Mark Bareis during last Friday's game with Tecumseh. Bareis had a game-high 26 points to go along with 11 rebounds in leading the Dogs to first place in the SEC with a 58-42 win. Setting the pick is Marty Poljan.

PAT HASSETT took a second place at 145 pounds at the Southeastern Conference Junior Varsity Tournament last week-end. All 12 JV wrestlers from Chelsea finished in the top four places in their weight classes.

Wrestling Dogs Plunder Pirates

Chelsea varsity wrestlers jumped all over the Pinckney Pirates last Tuesday, Feb. 3 and won by their widest margin of the season in Southeastern Conference action, 47-17.

The Bulldogs face the Tecumseh Indians in a re-scheduled match tomorrow at home in their final dual meet of the season.

"I was concerned about Pinckney and I really thought the match would be closer," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"It turned out not to be the most exciting match of the season."

98 pounds: Rex Nye (C) won by forfeit.

105 pounds: Pat Taylor (C) pinned Jeremy Little in 1:40.

112 pounds: Reno Nye (C) won a 5-4 decision over Omer Ketola. A takedown in the final period won the match for Nye.

119 pounds: Doug Wingrove (C) won a 2-0 decision over Ken Walters on a first period takedown.

126 pounds: Ron Bogdanski (C) pinned Ty Kenner in :59.

132 pounds: Robert Kornel (C) tied Dale Clacher, 13-13.

138 pounds: Dean Sutherland (C) was pinned by Kevin Sell in 2:28.

145 pounds: Gary Dosey (C) won a major decision over James Knight, 14-3.

155 pounds: Jerry Reinhardt (C) won by default over Rob Packart after Packart was injured during the match.

167 pounds: Bill Dixon (C) lost a decision to Paul Taylor, 14-3. "Bill wrestled a good match. Taylor was third in the state. Bill is improving a lot," Kargel said.

185 pounds: Tim VanSchick (C) pinned Rocky Lane in 4:58.

198 pounds: Mike Taylor (C) won by forfeit.

Heavyweight: Leo Durham (C) won a 7-0 decision over Rob Prucka.

Wrestlers Start Promptly at 6

The previously snowed-out varsity wrestling match with Tecumseh has been re-scheduled for Thursday, Feb. 12, at 6 p.m. in the Chelsea gym.

There is no junior varsity meet. The varsity will start promptly at 6.

All 12 JV Wrestlers Place At Southeastern Conference Meet

All 12 boys who competed for Chelsea in the Southeastern Conference Junior Varsity Wrestling Meet placed in the top four spots in their weight classes last week-end in Saline.

"This is one of the best JV groups yet," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"When you enter 12 and all 12 place, that's a real good sign."

Chelsea wrestlers who earned first places were: 98 pounds, Rex Nye; 105 pounds, Alan Hanna; 138 pounds, Dean Sutherland; and 145 pounds, Matt Herter.

Bulldogs who placed second were: 112 pounds, Reno Nye; 119 pounds, Doug Dixon; and 145 pounds, Pat Hassett.

Finishing third were: 132 pounds, Paul Boyers; and 138 pounds, Chris Underhile.

Fourth place finishes were taken by: 138 pounds, Jeff Patterson; 155 pounds, Gary Dosey; and heavyweight Jim Miller.

JV Spikers Stop Saline Twice

Chelsea's junior varsity volleyball team won three straight matches last week, knocking off Saline and Pinckney in a double-header on Monday, Feb. 2, and Saline again on Thursday, Feb. 5.

In the first match with Saline on Monday, Chelsea won in two straight games, 15-5 and 15-12.

In the first game, Sarah Schaeffer led Chelsea servers with 10 points and Heather Neibauer and Mindy Ryan led the spiking, including two kills by Neibauer.

The second game featured the hitting of Tonya Grammatico and Allison Brown and the serving of Jenny Anderson, who had five points. Meredith Hall and Kelly Scott also had excellent games setting, according to Coach Cheryl Vogel.

In the first game against the Pinckney Pirates, featuring long volleys and trading of points, Chelsea came away with a 16-14 win.

"We had trouble getting together to build much of an offense but played excellent defense to keep us in the game," Vogel said.

The Bulldogs lost the second game, 10-15, but came back in the third game for a 15-7 win. Vogel said that Holly Baltzell, Vanessa May, Neibauer and Schaeffer provided consistent passes for Hall and Scott.

In Thursday's match with Saline, the Bulldogs came out flat and were clobbered in the first game, 3-15.

However, consistent serving by Scott, Schaeffer and Neibauer, along with good spiking by Baltzell, Schaeffer, Neibauer, Jennifer Lewis and Ryan enabled Chelsea to come back for a 15-2 win in the second game and a 15-3 victory in the third.

Cager of the Week

CAGER OF THE WEEK is 6' 1" senior forward Jeff Harvey, a second-year varsity player and one of the most aggressive and emotional players on the team. He's the son of Richard and Virginia Harvey, 14100 Harvey Rd., Grass Lake, and brother of Kimberly, 23, and Stephanie, 21, and says he's "just an average Joe." Jeff is one of the team's best rebounders and can often hold his own against much taller opponents. He's also developed a nice jump shot from the high post and has been scoring in double figures in recent games. He has played organized basketball for six years. Jeff also figures to be one of the key players on Wayne Weldon's varsity baseball team this spring as a right-handed pitcher and solid-fielding third baseman. In his spare time, Jeff likes to hunt. He attends St. Mary's Catholic church. After graduation, Jeff plans to attend either the University of Detroit or the University of Toledo to study engineering.

Wrestler of the Week

WRESTLER OF THE WEEK is freshman Pat Taylor, who competes at 105 pounds. Pat, the son of Pat and Shirley Taylor, 3483 N. Lima Center Rd., and brother of Paul, 11, has wrestled for four years. Coach Kerry Kargel says he could be one of the stars of the future, and he has had a good first season at Chelsea High school. Pat took third place in the state last year for his age group at 105 pounds in freestyle wrestling. Pat would eventually like to become a state champion and go on to wrestle in college.

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

"I don't know about you," my accountant said, "but I was jumpy as a Cassidy Lake walkaway all night long. I kept lookin' over my shoulder. I kept thinkin' that somethin' unspeakable was about to happen."

"I know what you mean," I said. "When I heard that girl scream up in the bleachers, I figured this is it. They've gone a little too far."

My accountant and I were rehashing last Friday night's basketball game with Saline an hour or so after the game ended. He occasionally gets a little paranoid when forced to sit in a huge crowd in small quarters for more than a few minutes. He was a wreck after the game. I'd never seen him in such a state.

"I've never seen the Chelsea gym like that," my accountant said. "If I'da known it was gonna be like that, I would'a stayed home and watched Dallas on TV. I'm used to those puny crowds where the fans seem more interested in what's gonna happen next than in what's going on right in front of them. The kind of crowd where I can concentrate on the game. Those kids were loony. Heck, it was louder in there for the JV game than for most of the varsity games."

"Take it easy," I said. "That's what basketball is all about."

"No way! Not in Chelsea! Maybe for some of them lunatics down in the ACC. Look at this," he said, pointing to his right ear. "Look at it!"

To humor him I took a peek but didn't see anything more than a little ear wax and a few black hairs.

"I'm surprised it ain't bleedin'!" he whined. "That whole section of junior high kids sittin' next to us was screamin' right into it all night long. Put them in one of them Memorex commercials and they woulda shattered the whole blasted tape machine. If that enforcer, Ken, uh, Ken..."

"Larson?"

"Yeah, that's the guy. If he wasn't standin' just a few feet away, I might'a done somethin' about it you and I would'a both regretted."

He had a point. It WAS loud where we were sitting. Some of the Beach kids' squeals were as piercing as air horns. They also came at unpredictable times, like during time outs.

"And what merit scholar came up with the brilliant idea to combine a rock concert with a basketball game anyway?" my accountant asked.

"That rock music put those kids in some kind of hormonal frenzy. No wonder them right wingers want to get rid of it all. Kids lose all control. Some of them Saline people were even waggin' their rear ends. No tellin' what might be goin' on as we speak."

My accountant, who's normally a little more level-headed than that, was beginning to get on my nerves. I decided to change the subject.

"You got to admit, though, it was one fine basketball game."

"I don't got to admit nothin'," he said, massaging his ear with his palm. "I suppose you're right, though. It's kinda funny. I kept wonderin' what would happen if they just cleared off the court and let Mark Bareis and Grant Fanning play a game one-on-one. Take away those two guys and it's hard to say which team would'a been worse."

"Now that's where you're wrong," I said. "Saline might have gotten a few more rebounds from their big guy. But look at the game Jeff Harvey had. He can rebound with the best of them and he's starting to score more consistently. Todd Starkey had another good game, especially on defense. Chelsea got good help again off the bench. They played excellent team defense. Name one kid on their team other than the big kid and Fanning who did anything."

"You do gotta point there," my accountant said. "That Harvey kid can jump higher for his size than any white guy I ever seen. And in this league, you sure see a lotta white guys."

I decided I'd better get my accountant home before he made a fool of himself in public. He had begun to talk real loud, like somebody who's half deaf but doesn't realize it.

ROWDY REPORT NO. 3: It was like a football homecoming in Chelsea on Friday. Players' homes were tastefully decorated in blue and yellow toilet paper (the more expensive stuff) the night before by some female supporters. Their cars were filled with balloons. And Hornet Busters signs were everywhere. Someone even brought me a gold balloon.

If the Rosenmeter had the ability to rate spirit, a 10 rating would have been no problem. However, the Rosenmeter only measures decibels.

It was certainly a high-charged atmosphere in the gym. The rock band played some oldies (I kept hoping they'd play "Dirty Water"), the cheerleaders were yelling something about "Kibbles and Bits." It was great. I've never had more fun covering a high school basketball game.

The average rating went way up this week, to a 9.3. And, I'm happy to say, the peak reading went at least to 10, and maybe higher. The Rosenmeter can't count past 10. Now, the challenge will be to keep it up the rest of the season.

As a side note, Athletic Director Larry Reed recently told me that he is thrilled about the enthusiastic, yet polite, behavior of Chelsea's home crowds. I couldn't agree with him more.

GRABBING ONE OF HIS NINE REBOUNDS is Chelsea forward Jeff Harvey during last Friday night's action against Saline. Harvey also scored 13 points in perhaps his best all-around performance of the season, helping Chelsea to a 58-42 victory.

DRIVING FOR TWO of his six points against Saline is Chelsea junior varsity point guard Larry Nix. The Bulldogs had their best first and fourth quarters of the season enroute to a 65-51 victory, their seventh of the year.

Holmes Is Sixth In 100 Butterfly

Chelsea's Amanda Holmes, a freshman at Northern Michigan University, was fourth in the 100 butterfly in a meet with North Dakota on Saturday, Jan. 31.

NMU won the meet, 172-94.

Holmes has scored 53.5 points this season.

Airborne Veterans Sought in National Membership Drive

The 82nd Airborne Division Association, composed of men and women who have served as paratroopers and glidermen in any Airborne unit during and since World War II, is conducting a national membership drive to locate troopers eligible for membership.

If you served as Airborne, please contact Shirley R. Gossett, national president, 5459 Northcutt Place, Dayton, O. 45414, for details of the association as well as information about the 41st annual convention, to be held at Astro-Village, Houston, Tex., Aug. 22-24.

McAuley Offers

24-Hour Drug Hotline

Catherine McAuley Health Center operates a 24-hour drug assistance telephone line. The number is 572-4300.

Professionally trained staff members of the Chemical Dependency Program stand ready to answer your drug questions anytime of the day or night. Whether there's a crisis, or you want some basic information, the drug assistance line can help you.

When you call, request a copy of their free brochure "Could My Child be Using?" This specially prepared brochure will help parents determine if their child is hooked on drugs or alcohol.

Playing in the snow means snowball fights and building snowmen, right? Not in Fort Snelling, Minn., where Ranger Rick magazine reports that some sports lovers have invented snowshoe softball. The rules are the same, but uniforms include snowshoes, down jackets and wool caps. When it gets slushy they're ready for spring training!

Anderson Scores 22 As Dogs Swat Hornets

Chelsea's Tim Anderson scored a season-high 22 points and grabbed 14 rebounds, and the Bulldog JVs held off a methodical comeback by Saline as Chelsea whipped the Hornets in the Chelsea gym last Friday, 65-51.

Anderson's point total was the highest for any Bulldog this season. The junior scored eight of Chelsea's 23 first-quarter points as the Bulldog press forced numerous Saline mistakes. The Dogs were also aggressive on the boards in the first quarter, hauling down five offensive rebounds. Chelsea ended the quarter with a 23-8 lead.

However, relatively poor second and third quarters let the Hornets sneak back into the game and by the end of the third period Saline trailed, 46-43.

Tough Hornet defense in the second quarter caused seven Bulldog turnovers, more than they had in the other three quarters combined.

"I think they spent all their energy on their comeback and ran out of gas," said Chelsea coach Jeff Dils.

"We played well and had our best first and fourth quarters of the season. It was kind of surprising because we did not have a good week of practice. But by game time the kids were fired up. Our offense was patient in the first quarter and we were able to get the ball inside. We moved the ball around well and everybody contributed. Five guys scored in the first quarter."

Dils praised the play of all the Bulldog guards, especially point guard Larry Nix, for working the ball inside.

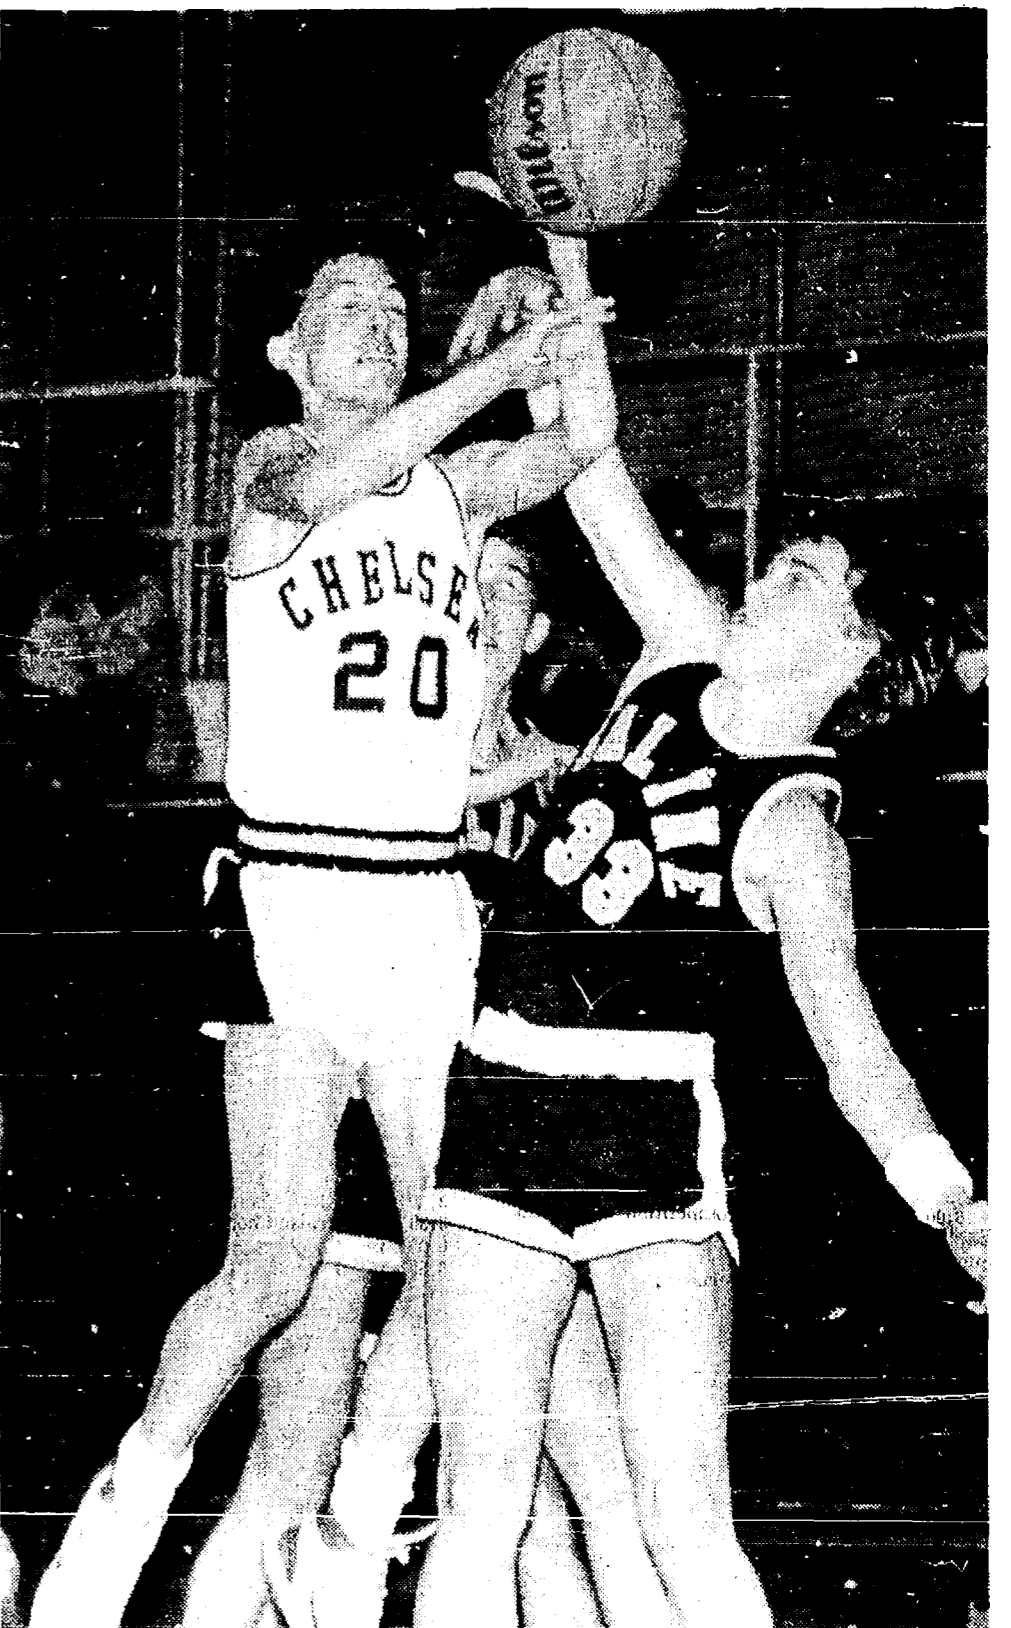

"It's really noticeable when Larry's not in the game," Dils said. "When he's in the game, there's a good mesh, and I don't think anyone on the team cares who scores the points."

John Collins, Dils said, "did an excellent job on the boards," and Jeff Marshall, with 13 points, and guard David Adams, with five points, "had a fine game off the bench."

Chelsea's 65 points was the high for the season, although they made only 11-22 free throws. They held a big rebounding advantage, 34-23.

Nix scored 10 points, Junior Morseau, eight, Collins, five, and Phil Thomson, two.

The win puts Chelsea over the .500 mark at 7-6.

CHELSEA'S JOHN COLLINS makes a pass in the lane during the junior varsity contest against Saline last Friday night at home. Collins was a big contributor on the boards as the Bulldogs won the game, 65-51.

Foundation Offers 10 Free Trees With Membership
Ten free flowering trees will be given to people who join the National Arbor Day Foundation during February, 1987.

Two White Flowering Dogwood, two American Redbud, two European Mountainash, two Washington Hawthorn and two Flowering Crab trees will be given as part of the Foundation's efforts to improve the quality of life in America by encouraging tree planting.

"These trees were selected because they will give a colorful flowering of pink, white, and red blossoms throughout the spring," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. The Foundation will give the 10 trees to members contributing $10 during February. The six-to-twelve inch trees will be sent postpaid at the right time for planting between Feb. 1 and May 31, with enclosed planting instructions. The trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free by the Foundation.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Flowering Trees, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68410, by Feb. 28.

THESE 10 YOUNGSTERS, representing two different teams, squared off in the finals of the seventh grade Quiz Bowl at Beach Middle school last Friday. The Quiz Bowl, like the old television College Bowl show, challenged kids to answer questions about a variety of topics. In this case, questions were taken from actual classroom work. The

Humane Society Sponsoring Free Fish Care Clinic

Have you always wanted an aquarium but didn't know where to start? The perfect opportunity to learn all about the care and maintenance of your very own aquarium awaits you at the Aquarium and Fish Care Clinic sponsored by the Humane Society of Huron Valley.

Naturalist Brian Creek will be on hand to give valuable tips on topics such as the selection of fish and other aquarium inhabitants, the set-up of an aquarium, and the general maintenance of the entire system. He will also conduct a question and answer period.

The clinic will be held from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. on Thursday, Feb. 19 at the HSHV Community Education Building, 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor. It is free to the public. Relevant pet care literature will also be available at no cost.

For directions and/or additional information, please phone the Education Department at 682-5545.

Tickets Now On Sale for 'Showboat'

Tickets now on sale for the 1987 CHS musical production "Showboat" and may be purchased at Chelsea Pharmacy.

"Showboat" is the stage musical version of Edna Ferber's novel. The production opened in December 1927 in the Ziegfeld Theater. The book and lyrics were written by Oscar Hammerstein, II, the music by Jerome Kern, the direction by Zeke Colvan, and the dances by Sammy Lee. More than 100 people were in the company and "Showboat" ran for 572 performances.

Critics of "Showboat" stated that the musical had drama, characterization, plot development, tragedy, an anti-hero, and it took a stand against slavery and racial prejudice.

"Showboat" was a complete success. It grossed about $50,000 per week for two years. The production went on tour in New York and England and was eventually translated to French and shown in Paris.

Some famous songs from "Showboat" include "Ol' Man River," "Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man," "Cotton Blossom," and many others.

"NO HORNETS" was the sign of the day last Friday as Chelsea High school prepared for the big basketball game against Saline. Most of the varsity players, in this case Matt Bohlender, had their homes decorated during the night by admiring fans. Chelsea went on to win the game before the biggest crowd in two years.

Michigan Bell Renovating Central Office

Baseline Constructors, Inc., of Chelsea, has been awarded a $116,000 contract to renovate Michigan Bell's local central office.

Chuck Raeder, owner and president of Baseline Constructors, said the work—scheduled for completion April 1—includes heating and cooling, lighting, electrical, and interior architectural improvements that will allow Michigan Bell to install new electronic call processing equipment by year's end.

Using state-of-the-art digital technology, the new processor will bring Touch Tone and Customer Calling features to the more than 5,000 customers served by the 475 exchange, and will increase the number of consecutive lines available to businesses, said Marcia Buhl, Michigan Bell corporate affairs manager.

Work to increase the capacity and quality of local phone service—including calls from public telephones—is scheduled for completion in the spring, she added. It includes:

—Addition of 11 trunks to carry calls to Ann Arbor and 10 trunks to public phones;

—Installation of remote digital equipment that will accommodate growth and improve calling quality for customers in the Cavanaugh Lake Rd. area;

—Rehabilitation of cables serving business customers concentrated in the vicinity of M-52 and I-94; and —Work to increase the call-handling efficiency of the electromechanical equipment presently serving Chelsea.

Michigan Bell last year established procedures to expedite customer reports of line noise and static, Buhl said. The company also added 27 trunks to keep pace with Chelsea's rapidly-growing long distance usage, which increased 50 percent from 1984 to 1986.

In addition to Touch Tone dialing

call processor will allow customers to order:

—Call Forwarding, which automatically transfers an incoming call from one telephone to another;

—Call Waiting, which lets a customer using the phone know that there is a second call waiting to be answered;

—Speed Calling, which permits a customer to reach frequently called numbers by dialing special codes; and —Three-Way Calling, which enables a caller to add a third party to a conversation.

The world's smallest deer, a South American animal called the pudu, stands only about 15 inches high, about the size of a cocker spaniel. According to International Wildlife magazine, this diminutive creature is also remarkably elusive. An American biologist who has been studying pudus for nearly a decade has never seen one in the wild.

Students Told Of Available Scholarships

A number of college scholarship opportunities are available to Chelsea High school students. During third hour announcement time, the guidance office reports any new scholarship information that has come to their attention. Students may then go to the guidance office to ask for further information and application forms.

Students automatically apply for scholarships when they take the PSAT, SAT, ACT, and Michigan Math Test. These tests are administered to all juniors that sign up for them.

In addition, the counseling office advises students to check that they would like scholarship aid when they fill out their college applications.

Every spring the Chelsea Scholarship Committee meets with the counseling office to determine worthy recipients of their offerings. The Chelsea Scholarship Committee consists of Chelsea groups such as Kiwanis, Chelsea Players, American Legion, and Modern Mothers, who give scholarship aid to local students.

Scholarship recipients will be honored at the Chelsea High School Honors Night held in June.

KELLY McKERNAN

Kelly McKernan Finalist In Mrs. Michigan Pageant

Kelly McKernan of Chelsea has been selected as a finalist in the 1987 Mrs. Michigan Pageant to be held at the Novi-Hilton, March 21 and 22.

The contest is divided into four events, each worth 25% of the final score; bathing suit, evening gown, beauty, and personality (based on interviews with the judges). The winner represents Michigan in the Mrs. American contest. The culminating event is the Mrs. World contest.

McKernan is a native of Pinckney, graduating from Pinckney High school in 1979. She has been modeling ever since she entered the Miss Michigan United Beauty contest four years ago.

McKernan moved to Chelsea after marrying pharmacist, Dr. Tom McKernan. They have two children, Matthew, 2, and Katie, five months. In spite of these two close pregnancies, McKernan continued her career, modeling maternity clothes at Briarwood.

Now, no longer pregnant, and with her braces removed, McKernan says she has "been getting calls like crazy." She models for four agencies in Detroit, most recently for the Auto Show. McKernan plans to try her luck in New York and Chicago, but still keep her residency in Chelsea.

McKernan is interested in acting and is, at present, taking an acting class at Washtenaw Community College. She has also taken commercial TV courses in Detroit. If time allows, she would like to take acting classes at EMU.

In her spare time, McKernan likes to do athletic things such as waterskiing.

Being a finalist in the Mrs. Michigan contest is, according to McKernan, "like a dream come true." She attributes her success to the fact that she is very photogenic. She does not know what will happen next, but at age 25 is "taking one step at a time." She could go far, but balancing a family with travel and work will be a challenge.

Postal Holiday Scheduled Monday

Chelsea Post Office will operate on a holiday schedule Monday, Feb. 16 in observance of President's Day, a national holiday.

According to postmaster Larry Williams, there will be no deliveries and no window service. However, the lobby will be open so people may buy stamps from the vending machines or open their post office boxes. Williams warns that it will not be possible for people to pick up regular delivery mail since the mail carriers will not be in that day to sort it.

A few postal employees will be on hand to handle special delivery and express mail. The only mail pick-up will be from the box in front of the post office.

SGT. JOSEPH J. YEKULIS

Sgt. Joseph Yekulis Promoted By Sheriff

Joseph John Yekulis, Jr., age 31, was promoted from road patrol deputy to acting sergeant effective Dec. 15, and was officially appointed to a sergeant's position on Jan. 1, according to Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil.

Sgt. Yekulis has been with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department since 1975 where he began his career as an animal control officer. His outstanding performance of duties quickly advanced him to road patrol deputy in 1977 and by 1980 he began his work in traffic services, secondary road patrol unit.

His primary duties have been speed enforcement and fatal accident investigations, having completed seven levels of accident investigation training through Michigan State University. In addition, he has conducted many public safety programs at area schools and drivers education classes, speaking on the topics of home, personal, and traffic safety.

Sergeant Yekulis has also acquired training as an Emergency Medical Technician and as an Advanced Medical Technician (Paramedic). He has been a certified radar instructor at Washtenaw Community College since 1985 and has trained more than 250 police officers in the use of radar.

Deidre Hammel Is Now Certified Dental Assistant

Deidre M. Hammel, of 509 Wellington, has passed the certified dental assistant exam given by the Dental Assisting National Board in Chicago. Hammel, a graduate of the Dental Assisting Program at Washtenaw Community College, can now add the professional designation, CDA, after her name.

The CDA program was established in 1948. In addition to passing a test, a candidate must meet certain eligibility requirements of education and experience. The candidate must demonstrate command of a number of subjects such as prevention of disease transmission, materials, prevention and management of emergencies and radiation health and safety.

After graduating from Lincoln Consolidated High School in 1973, Sgt. Yekulis went on to attend Eastern Michigan University, obtaining a bachelor's degree in political science in 1981. He is married to Denise and they have two daughters, Melissa and Margaret, ages 6 and 3.

As sergeant, his primary duties will be the general supervision of road patrol deputies in the Ypsilanti township area.

Stockbridge Youth Completes Air Force Non-Com Officer School

Sgt. Brian J. Risner, son of Bernard and June A. Risner of 2625 Burden Rd., Stockbridge, has graduated from the Air Force non-commissioned officer leadership school.

The sergeant studied techniques of leadership, management and supervision.

Risner is a munitions systems specialist with the 81st Equipment Maintenance Squadron in England.

His wife, Airman 1st Class Michele K. Risner, is the daughter of Michael K. and Carol A. Irvin of 16519 Cypress Park, San Antonio, Tex.

He is a 1977 graduate of Stockbridge Community High School.

Peter A. Kattula Completes Navy Recruit Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Peter A. Kattula, son of George M. and Carol E. Kattula of 26 Sycamore Dr., Chelsea, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Kattula's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Kattula's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in Physical Education and Hygiene.

A 1986 graduate of Chelsea High School, he joined the Navy in October 1986.

Sophomore Test Scores Follow State-Wide Results In Science Area Testing

Chelsea 10th graders only scored in the 36.3 percentile (out of 100) in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program (MEAP), but according to Chelsea High school counselor Sue Carter the problem is not as serious as it looks.

Two factors contributed to the low score; the fact that much of the material had not yet been covered in class, and the fact that, in the opinion of many, the science test, which was first administered this year, was not clearly written.

Evidently, scores have been low all over the state. When the Chelsea scores came in, Carter checked with nearby districts and discovered that Chelsea was doing as well, if not better, than neighboring districts. Meanwhile, on the state level, the scores have yet to be released. According to the Feb. 3 Ann Arbor News, "So bad were student scores on the science portion of the Michigan Education Assessment Program tests that Runkel (state superintendent of schools) decided not to release the figures."

Chelsea students took the MEAP in September of their sophomore year, before they had a chance to learn most of the material the test covered. In the few areas that they had had time to learn, they scored in the upper third. From this Carter infers that the problem is not the quality of the science teaching, but the timing of the curriculum. Chelsea science teachers agree that the material covered on the MEAP test is valuable for the students to know, the question is whether the arrangement of the curriculum should be changed in order to study things in time for the test.

In the California Achievement Test (CAT) which is administered to 11th graders, Chelsea scored in the 73.9 percentile.

The State Board of Education mandated MEAP science testing this year, but will make it voluntary from now on. Carter thinks Chelsea will keep using the test because science is an important part of Chelsea's curriculum. She said students today are very career oriented and interested in secure professions such as medicine and engineering which require math and science backgrounds. Girls, for the first time, join boys in these interests, and are taking much more math and science than they used to. Girls are now less interested in teaching and nursing and more interested in business and allied medicine.

Carter hopes the state figures out a way to improve science teaching state-wide, but does not do so in a way that could slow Chelsea down by mandating too many activities that interfere with the accelerated curriculum now in place.

Jeffrey S. Mock Completes Marine Recruit Training

Marine Pvt. Jeffrey S. Mock, son of Max O. Mock of 55 Cedar Lake Rd., Chelsea, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, Mock was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1984 graduate of Howell High School, Howell, he joined the Marine Corps in September 1986.

Manchester Youth Promoted in Army

Kevin D. Clickner, son of Betty C. and Wayne D. Crawford of 5275 Reno Rd., Manchester, has been promoted in the U.S. Army to the rank of specialist four.

Clickner is a vehicle mechanic at Fort Hunter Liggett, Calif., with the Combat Developments Experimentation Center.

He is a 1984 graduate of Saline High School.

Charles E. Salyer

18498 M-52
Chelsea
Charles E. "Buck" Salyer, 18498 M-52, Chelsea, age 61, died Monday morning, Feb. 9, at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Ann Arbor, following a brief illness.

He was born July 15, 1925 in Ada, O., the son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Whitaker) Salyer. He had been a resident of Chelsea since 1939, was retired from Dana Corp., and was a member of the Trinity Pentacostal church of Fitchburg. In addition, he was a veteran of WW-II serving in the U. S. Navy.

On Sept. 25, 1947 he married Kathleen Marshall who survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Jack (Lorraine) Baum of Rives Junction, and Mrs. Stephen (Barbara) Allen of Stockbridge; a son, Danny Salyer of Stockbridge; seven grandchildren; his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Salyer of Stockbridge; five nieces and one nephew and several aunts and uncles.

He was preceded in death by his father, a son, Robert, on Sept. 28, 1967, a brother Alonzo Salyer on Aug. 14, 1968, and a sister, Josephine Peck, on Jan. 11, 1981.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, Feb. 11, at 2 p.m. from the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home with the Rev. Charles E. Roark, pastor of the Trinity Pentacostal church of Fitchburg officiating. Burial will be in Oak Grove Cemetery, Chelsea.

Lyman H. Walker

Roseburg, Ore.
Formerly of Grass Lake

Lyman H. Walker, 83, of Roseburg, Ore., formerly of Grass Lake and Chelsea, died Saturday, Feb. 7 at his home.

He was born Aug. 4, 1903 in Grass Lake.

Survivors include his widow, Ruth, of Roseburg; a son, Stanton, of Marquette; a daughter, Linda Binkley, of Remus; four grandchildren; three great-grandchildren; and two sisters, Ruby Greene and Florence Acton, both of Jackson.

Mr. Walker was a graduate of Eastern Michigan University and was a chemical engineer for Standard Oil of Indiana for 40 years. He was a member of the Moslem Shrine Detroit Temple. He retired in 1966 and made his home at Cavanaugh Lake before moving to Roseburg in 1969.

Cremation has taken place. A memorial fund in Mr. Walker's name is being established at the First United Methodist church of Chelsea. The family requests that memorial contributions be made to the fund.

Births

Harvey Heiden

Wyandotte

Harvey Heiden died Jan. 30 at Wyandotte. He had lived most of his life on the family farm on Sibley Rd., near Wyandotte, where he was born Oct. 3, 1903, the son of Harry and Anna (Easton) Heiden and a brother of Harold Heiden who died in 1955. Harvey was a cousin of Harold Sias of Chelsea.

Funeral services were held Feb. 2 at the Molner Funeral Home in Southgate with burial in West Mound Cemetery Taylor.

Mr. Heiden was a great-grandson of John Drum Doane and wife, Ann Mower. As Judge Samuel Dexter's hired hand, Doane helped survey the first streets in Dexter's new town of Dexter, Mich.

Harvey's mother grew up on the Easton-Bradbury Centennial Farm on Easton Rd., Lima township.

Archie O. Moore

Grass Lake

Archie O. Moore, 90, died Sunday, Feb. 8 at Cedar Knoll Rest Home, Grass Lake.

He was born Sept. 3, 1896 in Waterloo township, the son of Franklin and Paulina Moore.

Survivors include his wife of 49 years, Ada V. Moore, of Grass Lake; and a niece, Nancy Galbreath, of Adrian.

He was preceded in death by his parents; a sister, Florence Fausser; and a brother, Vern J.

Mr. Moore served in the U.S. Army in World War I and was a member of the American Legion, Grass Lake chapter. He farmed in Waterloo township all his life.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, Feb. 10 at Chas. J. Burden Funeral Home (Stormont Chapel), Grass Lake.

Erma Van Valkenburg

805 W. Middle St.
Chelsea

Erma Van Valkenburg, age 90, 805 W. Middle St., Chelsea, died Friday, Feb. 6 at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home after a short illness.

She was born Dec. 16, 1894 in Northville, the daughter of Charles and Carma (Foster) Tiffin. She married Franklin Van Valkenburg in 1935. He preceded her in death in 1957.

Mrs. Van Valkenburg moved from Northville to Chelsea in 1961. She was a member of the Chelsea United Methodist church.

She is survived by a brother, Charles Tiffin of Weiser, Ida.

A graveside service will be held Thursday, Feb. 12 at 3 p.m. at the Rural Hill Cemetery in Northville with the Rev. James Simmons officiating. Burial will be at Rural Hill Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Chelsea United Retirement Home.

Arrangement were handled by the Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel.

'Show Boat' Cast Seeks Old Clothing

Auditions are being held for your Attic Treasures!

The cast of "Show Boat" needs to use your old dresses (this is a good way to get your Chelsea Sesquicentennial garb out of the closet!), old suits, and any other clothing that would relate to the era of 1890-1920. All items will be cleaned and returned as soon as the show is over.

Date for the clothing "audition" is Saturday, Feb. 14 from 4 to 6 p.m. at Chelsea High School Auditorium. Please call in advance. The number is 475-7977. If you cannot get an answer there please call 475-8175.

Dr. David Swan Opening Office of Family Dentistry

Dr. David Swan is opening an office of family dentistry in Chelsea. Dave, who grew up in Farmington Hills and trained at University of Michigan, chose Chelsea as a place to settle down because he was "intrigued with the idea of living and practicing in a small community instead of being anonymous in a big city."

Dave and his wife, Lynn, who is finishing her last year of residency at the University of Michigan Family Medicine Department at the Chelsea Community Hospital, have purchased the former Eaton house on E. Middle St.

Lynn and Dave met while undergraduates at U-M where both were majoring in zoology. They married in 1981, after Dave was a year into dental school and Lynn a year into medical school.

After graduating third in his class in 1984, Dave spent a year in a general practice residency program at Sinai Hospital in Detroit, working in the out-patient clinic and also with hospitalized medically-compromised and handicapped people. He had rotations in anesthesiology and oral surgery. Dave said this was an invaluable experience because he saw cases that he might not otherwise have come across in years of general practice.

For the last two years, Dave has been working with Dr. Scott Smith in Adrian and Onsted. He will continue working in this practice part-time, until his Chelsea practice builds to the point that he needs to be here full-time.

Dave is also on the staff of three hospitals, U-M, Sinai, and Bixby in Adrian, which means he can use their facilities when necessary. He also teaches classes in general dentistry at both U-M and Sinai and has lectured on dentist-doctor interactions at U-M.

Lynn Swan grew up in Menominee, a small town in the upper peninsula and is as excited as Dave about settling down in Chelsea because it reminds her of her childhood home. Another reason the Swans are glad they picked Chelsea is that they are expecting their first child in April. They believe Chelsea is a good place to raise children and have heard good things about the school system.

Between raising children and establishing a practice, the Swans may not have much free time, but they hope to get involved in community activities. Their hobbies now include cross country skiing, sailing, and bike riding. Last summer they both played on the family practice softball team, Lynn at second base and Dave shortstop. In addition, Dave is a private pilot.

Lynn is a very talented musician and, in fact, had to choose between medicine and music as a career. While in high school, she played oboe in the state honors band. In college, Lynn and Dave gave guitar masses at St. Mary's in Ann Arbor and also sang at weddings. They have now joined St. Mary's in Chelsea.

Mark Henson Has Role in Oklahoma Christian College Play

Mark Henson, son of Donald L. and Marilyn Henson, 13480 Harper Dr., is a member of the cast in the Oklahoma Christian College drama department production of Beth Henley's "Crimes of the Heart." The play is scheduled for OCC's Judd theatre, Feb. 6-7 and Feb. 13-14.

Henson plays Doc Porter in this story of three Hazlehurst, Miss. sisters who return home during a family crisis. Director Phil Reagan says it isn't every playwright who can get a laugh with the line "Granddad's in a coma!" but this Pulitzer prize-winning play does.

Drs. David and Lynn Swan

Dave thinks there is room in Chelsea for another dentist, especially if he can draw patients from the surrounding area. He hopes his practice will give people the alternative of not driving to Ann Arbor, and that his Monday evening and Saturday morning hours will be convenient for people who can not get away from work during the week.

Both Lynn and Dave have had ample opportunity to specialize, but both prefer general practice. Dave's practice will be open to everyone from tots to seniors. He will be located in the former offices of Dick Dijkman, who has moved to Jackson, at 1200 S. Main in the Chelsea Professional Building. He will share the space with orthodontist Mary Barkley.

Dexter Township OKs Study For Portage Lake Special Sewage Assessment District

Trustees at the Feb. 3 Dexter township board meeting voted to set up a preliminary special assessment district for the area that will be served by the proposed Portage Lake sewage treatment system. If the sewage system is built, the township will pay the initial costs by selling bonds but will be reimbursed via this special assessment tax by the people served by the new system.

Setting up the special assessment district entails figuring out exactly what properties would benefit from the new sewage system.

Township attorney Peter Flintoff will help with the legal aspects. After the district is set up, it has to be approved by the Circuit Court.

Bids for the hydrological and feasibility study for the sewage system are being accepted until Feb. 17 at 5 p.m. According to township supervisor Jim Drolett, eight engineering firms have requested information packets. The bids will be opened at the Feb. 17 township board meeting, but a decision will not be made until trustees have given the matter careful study as well as consulting with Jack Durbin, director of public works in Washtenaw county.

On March 3, township trustees will hold their yearly meeting with the Washtenaw County Road Commission to discuss what roads are in the most need of repair. The county is responsible for the primary roads while the township maintains the secondary roads. Last year the township did work on North Lake, Second, McKinley, and Winston Dr.

Monday, March 23, is the township's annual meeting at which the budget for the 1987-88 fiscal year will be presented. Supervisor Drolett says he plans to have the budget prepared a week in advance so that people can study it prior to the meeting.

Another March event is the tax review which takes place March 9 and 10, with an appeal time March 19. Since becoming supervisor in 1984, Drolett has set up a system of scheduling appointments, so that no one has to wait very long. Drolett says if people come 15 minutes before their appointment, they can fill out the necessary papers, be seen by the trustees, and leave within half an hour.

In April, the trustees plan to meet with Jane Boyce to discuss the township enacting a "host law," an ordinance like the one passed in Dexter and Chelsea forbidding serving drinks to minors in private homes.

The new computers have been installed in the township offices and people are now learning how to use them.

Supervisor Drolett is back from the Michigan Township Association convention held at the Hyatt-Regency in Dearborn. Drolett said it was an excellent opportunity to get up-to-date information and to compare notes with others dealing with the same problems and concerns.
