IT WAS SLOW AT THE POLLS most of the day Monday as just 7.7 percent of the village electorate showed up to vote in the 1987 general elections. A total of 180 people voted. By 1:30 only 60 had voted. The slow pace allowed Vera Briston, left, and Mary Harris, election inspectors, to catch up on a little knitting and crocheting.

Budget Breezes By, Tax Increase Likely Weber Tells Council

Village property taxes may have to be raised as much as two mills to cover the 1987-88 budget passed by the village council last Tuesday, March 3.

After a poorly-attended public hearing, in which not even one question or complaint was voiced, council passed a general fund budget of $1,097,000, the first time that figure has surpassed the million dollar mark. The actual 1986-87 expenditures totaled $939,563. Also approved were "other fund" revenues of $2,739,472 and expenses of $2,413,497, leaving the village with a $325,975 surplus.

According to a memorandum to the council from Village Manager Fritz Weber, "if my (property tax) assessment estimate is fairly close, it will be necessary to increase the millage rate about two mills. We will not have the final State Equalized Value until May, so everything at this point is a guess."

The village's millage rate for 1986-87 was 10.93 mills. That breaks down to 8.84 mills for the general fund, one mill for McKune Memorial Library, and 1.09 mills for bond retirement.

The millage rate ceiling for a village's general fund is set by state law at 12.5 mills. Council can raise the millage up to the ceiling.

In the General Fund Budget, police protection for the village is the biggest item, projected to cost $262,350. That is followed by the public works budget of $228,900, "other functions", $199,975, and fire protection, $166,600. "Other functions" includes worker's compensation and health insurance, among other expenses.

Revenues from real and personal property taxes are estimated to be $547,200. Other major sources of revenue include $267,800 from state shared taxes, $108,750 from the townships for fire protection, $44,000 from trash collection fees, and a $64,000 cash balance from the 1986-87 fiscal year.

In the "Other Funds" budget, more than half the revenue comes from the village's electricity distribution system, $1,645,000. The village's landfill is projected to have $264,000 in revenues, the water system follows at $220,000, the vehicle and equipment fund, $179,000, and the wastewater treatment system, $157,700.

Sewer Plant Estimates Increase 30 Percent

Construction costs for the new village wastewater treatment plant were apparently substantially underestimated by the village's Toledo-based engineering firm, according to both village officials and an engineer with the company.

Assistant Village Manager Lee Fahrner confirmed last week that a revised estimate of costs submitted by Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout about six weeks ago show the village's share of the project, or 45 percent of the entire project, increasing from approximately $2 million to $2.7 million. The entire project, including the 55 percent covered by a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency, was originally estimated at $4.6 million.

"Based on all reviews, it looks as though the original estimate is low, but we won't know for sure what the costs will be until the project is put out for bids," Fahrner said.

"It's a little disappointing to me that they couldn't have come a little closer since they do these kinds of projects all the time. One good thing that's come from it is that we've sharpened our pencils and we're looking at every nook and cranny."

According to Linda Benham, an engineer with Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout, poor soil conditions at the plant site contributed substantially to the higher cost estimate, making a change in plans necessary. However, she admitted that mistakes were made.

"I guess I don't have a good reason (for the $700,000 increase)," Benham said.

"We're usually good about preliminary estimates. We're doing everything we can to bring costs down."

In the 1986 village general elections, voters approved a sale of bonds for the project totaling no more than $2 million. How an additional $700,000 would be financed is not yet clear.

Village Manager Fritz Weber was unavailable for comment. Fahrner said, "I guess I can't answer (the question of financing). There are several directions we could go."

Even if bids do come back at the higher number, the total project cost may not be higher than original estimates because interest rates are so low now.

"Our financial advisor [First of Michigan] is telling us we can probably sell bonds at six or seven percent, maybe even better," Fahrner said.

Original costs were based on interest rates of 11-12 percent.

Despite the problems, the project is basically on schedule, Benham said.

"It took the Michigan Department of Natural Resources a little longer than we thought to review the plans," Benham said.

"We should have the final plans to the DNR this month. Construction can probably start this summer. It looks like we're still on schedule for having the project completed by July 1, 1988."

Fahrner said the final engineering estimates should be ready in four to six weeks.

Hall Whips Incumbents For Village Council Seat

Political newcomer Dennis Hall is in by a wide margin and incumbent Herman Radloff is out by a single vote as a trustee on the Chelsea Village Council.

Chelsea voters gave Hall, 47 Butternut Ct., more votes in Monday's elections than any of the three incumbents.

Hall received 138 votes, Richard Steele, 110, Stephanie Kanten, 83, and Radloff, 82.

A total of 180 voters, or 7.7 percent of the village's eligible voters went to the polls Monday, according to Village Clerk Evelyn Rosentreter.

Hall, director of materials management at Chelsea Community Hospital and a part-time Chelsea policeman, could not be reached for comment.

According to one election worker, a relatively large number of hospital employees and police department employees went to the polls, which could help explain Hall's wide margin.

Radloff, 419 Madison St., sales manager of Killins Concrete Co. of Ann Arbor, was seeking his third two-year term.

Steele, 211 Lincoln St., director of the Endoscopy Department at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, was elected to his third term.

Kanten, 560 Chandler St., an elementary school teacher in Dexter, has served on the council off and on since 1980.

Hall becomes the second Chelsea Community Hospital employee to gain a seat on the six-member council. Phil Boham, director of personnel, was elected last year to a two-year term.

It is unknown whether Hall will be able to retain his part-time position on the Chelsea Police Department due to a possible conflict of interest. Hall has said he will simply abstain from voting on police matters.

Allen Anderson received 14 votes and Tom Clemons received five votes as write-in candidates for village clerk. There were no candidates on the ballot, as Rosentreter decided not to seek a fourth two-year term.

There were no candidates or write-in votes for the $400-a-year assessor position.

Two McKune Memorial Library board members ran unopposed for three-year terms. Susan Walters received 131 votes and Ann Belser, 142.

Depot Assoc. Annual Meeting Set Tonight

Tonight at the annual meeting of the Chelsea Depot Association it will be made plain that the trustees have no intention of allowing the historic building to sit in idleness.

"We have immediate plans to activate the depot as a community meeting place," a representative of the trustees declared, "and these will be explained tonight when members of the depot association meet at 7:30 in the Chelsea conference room of Citizens Trust. Anyone who holds a Depot Donor Certificate is welcome to attend this meeting, to hear the news, to contribute ideas and take part in the business meeting."

"What is more," the representative added, "our trustees want to make public their aspirations for the long range future of the station. As the trustees see it, this is not going to become a cute little ex-depot where visitors may buy postcards and popcorn from 1 to 5 on Sunday afternoons. It is going to become an institution that will serve the civic, educational and cultural needs of the Chelsea area for decades to come."

Under the by-laws of the depot association anyone regardless of age who possesses a donor certificate is a member and entitled to vote. While few children among the 700 eligible members are expected to attend tonight's meeting, their presence will be honored.

The Chelsea depot was built by the Michigan Central Railroad in 1880 from original plans drawn by the distinguished 19th century architects, Mason and Rice of Detroit. For 101 years the station remained in active use. Then in 1981 passenger service was discontinued by Amtrak, the National Rail Passenger Corp. which had taken over the Michigan Central's service. In 1985 the Chelsea Depot Association was incorporated for the purpose of saving and restoring the depot. Using publicly subscribed funds, the association bought the depot property from Amtrak in 1985 (Continued on page four)

State Plans to Auction Waterloo Mineral Rights

Michigan Department of Natural Resources has decided to sell leases to mineral rights on 1,300 acres of undeveloped park land in the nearby Waterloo Recreation Area west of Chelsea.

The decision came last week to auction off the leases March 16-17 at the Clarion Hotel in Lansing.

A total of 100,000 acres of state land can potentially be exploited under the program.

According to seismic studies, there may be oil and gas deposits in the Waterloo area.

Only what are called "non-developmental leases" will be sold for the Waterloo area, according to Park Manager Gordon Archer. That means companies will not be allowed to set up drilling rigs or other equipment on the state land itself. Instead, they'll have to reach the oil or gas from adjacent private property using directional drilling techniques.

However, if the drilling does take place, it will have its effect on the park, Archer said. That's because the roads, which belong to the county and not the park, will have to be widened to accommodate the drilling equipment. Many of the roads are barely more than a single lane wide. The widening will require cutting down trees and additional grading, creating a lot of noise, dust and additional traffic.

Most of the land in question is in Jackson county, west of Clear Lake Rd. and South of Seymour Rd. The land is used primarily for hunting, hiking and horseback riding.

"There will also probably be some odor associated with the drilling, which could change the environment around there," Archer said.

Some environmentalists are worried about contamination of ground water and other problems that could result.

Archer admitted that he "not aware of how far the program had gone." He said the first notion he had that something might be in the works was a request to classify land in Waterloo as either developmental or non-developmental.

State officials say that any money from the program will go to the JAMES OSBORNE, a South school third grader in Sharon Hodgson's class, recently had his poem, "Rain" published in Paw Prints, a newsletter produced by the Dahlem Environmental Research Center of Jackson Community College. James wrote the poem after seeing a presentation by the group called "Spaceship Earth." Just like a regular author, James had to give his written permission for the newsletter to use his work. It is his first published poem. He is the son of Stephanie and Greg Osborne, 221 Lincoln St.

A HUGE CAKE was made by Dorothy Hafner for the local celebration of the 75th Anniversary of the Girl Scouts. The cake had 75 candles. The wall hanging behind the cake was made by Troop 98. With the cake are, from left, Barb Vosters, Roberta Broughton, Lee Tiemper, troop service director, and Lois Ann Kapp, media representative. The celebration was marked by a father and daughter banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Goodwin of Pinckney have purchased the North Lake Country Store at North Territorial and Stofer Rds. and began operating it on March 1. The former owners were Ron and Ann Adams.

All four candidates for Chelsea Village Council to be elected next Monday favor "controlled growth" which will allow the village to expand its economic base and provide more jobs. But all quickly add that they want to see Chelsea preserve its existing character and charm as an extra-nice community to live in. Candidates for three trustee positions are Richard Steele, and incumbents Jerry Satterthwaite, Herman Radloff and Lyle Chriswell. Four candidates, including two incumbents, Fred Harris and Mrs. Katherine Wagner, are seeking two open library board positions—Mrs. Daphne Hodder and Robert W. Riemenschneider are opposing them.

March is the traditional month for flying kites, and Ann Flintoff took advantage of last week's sunny weather with temperatures in the 60's to put her streamer-tailed kite into the air.

Fabio Eduardo Beltrao from Brazil is Chelsea's newest exchange student. He is residing with William and Margie Miller, and their three children, Laurie, Colleen and Jeff at their farm on Loveland Rd. Fabio finds the pace here a little hectic. However, he is expected to do chores and earn allowance like the other Miller children. All the housework in the Beltrao home in Brazil is done by servants. Being an only son, Fabio will someday manage most of the family farm estate which raises cattle, some imported from Switzerland, coffee and oranges.

A slate of unopposed candidates, nominated by the Independent party, will be expecting a vote of confidence from Chelsea voters next week. Loren Keezer, who is the candidate for clerk, Judson Goltra, assessor, Harold Pennington, Richard Borton, and Sam Johnson, village trustees, and Jean Eaton and James Schardein, library trustee, are assured of election unless an extensive write-in campaign materializes.

Bridges Chevrolet's recreation basketball team has constructed a smooth and class combination of defense and sharp shooting, and are now in first place in the league. Pictured in The Standard are players Tom Steele, Gordon Beeman, Kim Flintoff, Jack Risner, Mike French, Dennis White, Rob Powers, Ken Larson, Gary White and David Clark.

24 Years Ago . . .

Only the Independent Party has named candidates for three trustee posts in the upcoming village election. Robert Daniels, president, is seeking his third term. Other candidates are, George Winans, clerk, Wallace Wood, treasurer; Paul Bollinger, Larry Chapman, Clarence Wood, trustees; Thomas Smith, assessor; Sylvia Ferguson and Maribeth Soule, library board.

Chelsea's four school champions in yesterday's elimination contest in the 1963 Spelling Bee are Jeanne Hinderer, South; Robert Brassow, North; Barbara Bauer, Junior High sixth grade; and Thomas Rich, Junior High seventh and eighth grade. The spelling bees, sponsored by the Detroit News, continue through regional and state contests until a national champion is ultimately chosen.

Chelsea Bulldogs are now ready for the state tournament at East Jackson after successfully closing out their regular season schedule by defeating the Saline Hornets, 67-55. Chelsea out-rebounded Saline, 58-30, led by Curt Farley who collected 20. Other Chelsea scorers were Dud Holmes with 6, Gordon Carpenter with 4, and John Ashley with 2.

Task Force Urges Zero Discharge of Toxics

A task force reviewing the implementation of the 1978 Great Lakes Water Quality Agreement has recommended against renegotiation of the agreement, and proposed enforcement of a zero discharge standard for toxic substances.

The recommendation, reached after public hearings in 19 Great Lakes cities by Great Lakes United, are among 90 proposals to the International Joint Commission, U.S. and Canadian governments, industries and individuals.

A report by Great Lakes United's Water Quality Task Force concluded, based on testimony from 382 people, that "the public is so alarmed at the severity of contamination problems and so little is known about the long-term health effects of toxins in the ecosystem that zero discharge of persistent toxic substances is the only reasonable course of action to pursue."

The task force urged federal, provincial and state governments to incorporate the agreement into programs and laws, especially zero discharge.

The IJC should set guidelines for zero discharge and encourage industries to reduce and recycle their toxic waste, it said.

The United States and Canada both signed the 1978 agreement, but the lack of political will which exists on both sides in implementing the terms of the agreement dictates against its renegotiation, Fred Brown, president of Great Lakes United, said.

Brown said it is up to states and provinces to carry out the agreement. "We ought to be outraged at our governments, including the International Joint Commission, the Environmental Protection Agency and the Department of Natural Resources," he said.

He said the Reagan administration "has some real problems" in the emphasis it places on water quality control, but Michigan has taken major steps towards being a leader in water quality control in the Great Lakes Basin.

Brown said one problem at the state level is the amount of time it takes to implement legislative changes, but added Michigan industries, such as Dow Chemical, are making individual efforts towards cleanup, he said.

Ag Promotion Campaign Seeks 25 Percent Boost in Industry

A 25 percent increase in agricultural products and food operations, to a $20 billion a year industry by the 1990s, is the intended result of a $1 million advertising campaign as part of a more aggressive state marketing strategy announced recently by state officials.

The stepped-up promotion will be directed by the Department of Agriculture's new Center for Innovation and Development, Department Director Paul Kindinger told a lunch-noon audience at the Governor's Conference on the Future of Michigan Agriculture.

The first television, radio and print advertisements should be ready in about 90 days, at a cost this fiscal year of about $500,000, officials said.

Full-year costs would be about $1 million, with the money provided through the state's over-all Yes! Michigan promotional campaign under a new co-operative effort between Agriculture and the Department of Commerce.

"We will take steps to put Michigan ahead of the competition. We will build a $20 billion agricultural industry by the 1990s," Kindinger said.

The marketing program has potential to significantly increase the state's share of the food market, he said as it begins first at the state level, and then moves to a regional and national scale.

Kindinger said the ad campaign aimed at consumers would be follow-

Two Walkaways Still at Large

Two Cassidy Lake Technical School walkaways were still at large Tuesday at press time.

The men left the minimum security prison on Friday, March 6 at approximately 12:50 a.m.

Robert Hagerman, 19, described as white, with brown hair, hazel eyes, a light beard and a tattoo on his right arm, was serving five to 14 years for forgery. He was originally from Hillsdale.

Robert Allen Parr, described as white, 5'10", 165 pounds, balding with brown hair and green eyes and a tattoo on his right arm, was serving one year three months to five years for receiving stolen property. He was originally from Wexford county.

According to Cassidy Lake officials, Parr had arrived at the prison the day before he left.

The Job Training Partnership Act is sharply focused on training with a legislatively mandated requirement that at least 70 percent of all funds be used for this purpose, according to the U. S. Labor Department's annual report for fiscal year 1985.

ed by separate strategies aimed at investors and buyers.

He said the new center, proposed in Governor Blanchard's State of the State, is to develop strategy, offer new resources and options to the agricultural industry, accumulate capital, and set up projects teams for such things as seeking food processing and speciality food operations, agriculture tourism and promoting uses of renewable resources.

It would press for changes in laws and regulations to encourage production and processing of foods and develop co-operative programs to improve the quality of Michigan products.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Zeke Grubb come to the country store with a case of contagious mulligrubs Saturday night, and he started spreading the virus with his report on air being hazardous to health. The fellers spent most of the rest of the session looking fer positives to put a accent on.

Zeke said he allus had knowed they ain't much in this old world that's certain but a living and a dying, but he wasn't ready fer a report where scientists meeting recent at the University of California at Berkeley agreed that oxygen in air causes cancer and aging. Zeke said he never had any problem with the aging part, because even he had sense enough to know that if you keep breathing long enough it'll happen to you. But he said this is the first he had heard that breathing clean, fresh air can stop you from aging by making you dead.

According to the piece Zeke had read, scientist have found that breathing causes oxygen radicals to form in air, and they mix with all other chemics around to start trouble. Fer instant, Zeke said, the chemic reaction might attack the way our bodies tell our cells to work, so the cells get the wrong orders and turn agin us. This could lead to cancer and speed up aging.

The fellers were looking glum by the time they heard Zeke out, and it was Bug Hookum that ask now that we got the warning what the sam hill are we supposed to do about it. Zeke said everbody he knows is hooked on breathing, so it ain't like we can all up and kick the habit. Farthermore, when the only choice is between aging fast and not aging at all, Bug said he plans to keep on breathing and make the best of a had situation til somebody comes up with a anti-air pill.

Actual, declared Clem Webster, it's news like Zeke come with that's behind a study he saw that shows old folks nowadays are more afraid of living to long than they are of dying. Use to, Clem said, folks saw rime and reason to life. You are born, you grow up, you grow old. If you're lucky you retire and relax a few years before you die. Now, Clem allowed, you grow old, they hook machines to you and you keep getting older. And the best Zeke's report can offer is to keep breathing oxygen radicals so you git older faster, was Clem's words.

It was left to Ed Doolittle to shine the lantern at the end of the tunnel. If them air radicals are there, he said, they've been there all along, like germs. We can't fight a enemy til we find him, Ed said. The reason scientists find problems is so they can fix em, which means if they know what causes us to age fast they got a leg up on slowing it down, which means all we got to do is keep breathing and wait.

Perked up by Ed's encouraging word, Bug said we could help ourselves with exercise while we wait. This is good stuff that was discovered recent, Bug said, and like germs it was here all the time. Use to, we got exercise without knowing it. We did a heap of walking, bending, twisting and lifting, but we called it work and didn't know any better. Now that we've found exercise, we ought to use it, Bug declared.

Speaking of aging, I read where Calvin and Mina Dummire of West Kittanning, Pa. have been married 81 year and he says they never had a quarrel. The piece in the paper said Calvin's old lady had no comment, which explains what he said.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

There's One Sure Way To Stop A Teenager From Drinking And Driving... FOREVER

Fortunately, there are other ways to get this message across. And, considering the importance of this issue to everyone in the community, we hope that you'll want to join us in our effort. We have a film on Teenage Drinking and Driving that offers good suggestions for effectively communicating with teenagers.

It not only offers guidance to adults, but it shows how teenagers can join forces to influence their peers and how to persuade a drunk person not to drive. If you're involved in a service club, church organization, or youth group, ask us to bring this program to your next meeting.

We all know that young people are the future of our society. And if by sharing this information with your group, we can change the course of even one young person's life, it will be worth much more than the time we spend. Please call us if you feel the same way.

Volunteer Parent Aides Sought By Social Services

The Parent Aide Program of Catholic Social Services is seeking volunteers to work with some of the parents who are under stress. These parents are attempting to cope with the every day difficulties and pressures of parenting without the support systems so many of us take for granted.

Parent Aide volunteers are willing listeners, supportive "friends," understanding advocates and caring companions.

If you have a few hours a week to give to provide emotional support, to care about a parent who needs someone to listen and understand without judgment, to "be there," this may be the program for you.

For more information call Joan Kauffman at Catholic Social Services, 662-4534, to find out about the March orientation and training.

Michigan Land Trust program, which buys land for recreational purposes or environmental protection. Archer said that several tracts in the Waterloo area were purchased under the program.

Waterloo Recreation Area is one of the most diverse wildlife areas in southern Michigan. It includes marshland and bogs with orchids and other rare plants, virgin stands of hickory and oak trees and a variety of birds, including the great blue heron.

Drilling could begin in 60 to 90 days, as soon as the DNR issues a permit. It is unknown if anyone is planning to bid on the mineral rights for the Waterloo area.

Community Hospital Offers Program for Heart Patients

Chelsea Community Hospital's Department of Cardio-Pulmonary held an open house on Tuesday, Feb. 10. The open house was for the public and hospital employees. Those attending learned about the outpatient cardiac rehabilitation program for heart patients as well as for those interested in improving their cardiovascular fitness in a setting which provides medical supervision.

The Outpatient Cardiac Rehabilitation Program uses supervised aerobic exercise and education in positive lifestyle changes, to improve cardiovascular fitness levels as well as overall health. Initially outpatients who have had a heart attack or are post-surgical have EKG and heart rates electrically monitored on a continuous basis. Heart rates and blood pressures are monitored periodically during exercise sessions.

Individualized one-hour exercise periods are provided three times a week for safe, gradual increase in levels of cardiac fitness. After six weeks of supervised exercise heart patients begin a program to improve cardiovascular conditioning. Heart rates and blood pressures are still monitored. Heart patients must have a physician's referral to participate.

For individuals interested in improving their level of cardiovascular fitness but have not had a heart attack or surgery, there is an aerobic conditioning program. All participants receive a complete cardiac screening examination to determine their base fitness level and check for any underlying heart problems. This includes medical history, cardiac stress test, pulmonary function test, body fat composition evaluation and dietary counseling.

Based on the results of this screening examination, an individualized exercise program is designed to specifically meet the needs of the individual.

Exercise may be carried out at the hospital using the program's equipment or at home. A physician's referral is not required to participate in the cardiac fitness program, but it is designed to be used in co-operation with your private physician.

The Cardiac Rehabilitation Program exercise room is fully equipped with treadmills, stationary bikes, a rowing machine, arm ergometers, mini trampolines, and other aerobic conditioning equipment.

Interested individuals may call the Cardio-Pulmonary department at 475-1311, ext. 350.

Q: What exactly is a root canal? What are the advantages of having a root canal versus having the tooth pulled?

A: The concept of a root canal is fairly simple and the advantages over extraction and loss of the tooth are many. Root canal therapy has gotten a bad name over the years because of the stories of pain and discomfort that accompany the procedure. Often this is because root canals are done on teeth which are very painful or infected to begin with.

Inside a tooth there is a tiny space called a pulp chamber which contains nerves and blood vessels. These nerves and blood vessels enter the tooth from the jaw at the end of the root of the tooth called the apex. The nerve then travels through a small channel or "canal" inside the root up to the pulp chamber. When the nerve becomes damaged the result is a toothache and the options for treatment are to remove the tooth or remove the nerve.

The main indication for a root canal is to save a tooth in which the nerve has died or become irreversibly injured. This can be the result of a deep cavity, deep filling, or some other type of trauma to the tooth. When the nerve dies then unless it is removed an abscess or infection will result.

When your dentist performs a root canal he or she first freezes the tooth with local anesthetic. If the area has become badly infected then sometimes the anesthesia is not as effective as usual but the discomfort is quickly relieved when the pulp chamber is entered and the tooth is allowed to drain. During this first visit the dentist uses special instruments to remove the nerve clear down to the end of the root. Tiny files are used to smooth and shape the canals and the inside of the tooth is disinfected. At a second appointment if no infection is present the canals are filled and sealed, usually with a rubber-like material called gutta percha. The tooth is now ready to have a crown or other type of filling done as a final restoration.

If you choose to have the tooth extracted instead then several problems can result. Adjacent teeth may shift causing a misaligned bite or even early loss of teeth due to lack of support. And replacing an extracted tooth with a bridge or a partial denture is more expensive than saving it with a root canal. The best advice is to try and avoid this type of decision in the first place by taking proper care of your teeth and having regular checkups but if you do develop a toothache it's encouraging to know that with proper follow-up care a tooth that's had a successful root canal can last a lifetime!

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

The first coin issued by the United States government was the penny, minted in 1787. Inscribed on the coin was the motto, "Mind your own business."

Long before the five cent nickel was its appearance, tiny silver dimes were in use. They were first coined in 1795 and continued in use until 1873. A three cent nickel was coined and circulated between 1865 and 1889, while the five cent nickel was introduced in 1866 and continues to this day.

Inflation occurring in the past century has given birth to more than one proposal that we abandon the penny.

Before the American Revolution, no paper currency was in use. The Continental Army issued a form of paper money but its use quickly deteriorated to the point where it was only worth 30 cents on the dollar. People formed the habit of describing something of little value as "Not worth a Continental."

Citizens relied on gold and silver coins, mostly of foreign origin, such as the popular Spanish Milled Dollar or Piece of Eight. This coin was commonly chopped into eight equal pieces, each known as a bit. When chopped into four pieces the quarter was known as two-bits. Other coins in use during the pre-Revolutionary period were English half-pennies, farthings, shillings and sixpence. But early Michiganders were also glad to get their hands on French livres, Mexican dollars, Brazilian half-joes or Portuguese miodores brought to the Colonies by sailors.

Beaver pelts continued well into the 1850's to be prime currency, along with fox pelts, deerskins and other animal hides.

In earlier days, when there were no banks for the safekeeping of money, silver coins were valued for their usefulness as metal. Stacks of silver coins would be hammered into utensils. Even when transferred into cups, plates or pots, the silver was readily accepted as collateral because it was easy to have the metal converted back into coins.

No doubt, the use of coins as metal was among the reasons why coinage was scarce in the marketplace. As late as 1824 there was an average of but one coin per person in the United States.

In the first half of the 19th century banks circulated their own printed notes. They were issued in dollar denominations such as ones, twos, fives, tens and twenties; also in fractions such as ten cents, twenty-five cents and thirty-five cents. Business concerns also issued notes or scrip.

So, too, did counterfeiters and wildcat banks. The result was financial chaos. The wildcat banks were institutions of dubious means that issued large amounts of bank notes for distribution in cities. Their alleged main offices were situated in remote places in the wilderness "among the wildcats." Michigan had its share of wildcat banks where it was virtually impossible for a holder of their notes to redeem them in hard money. The advent of trustworthy federal currency in the 1860's brought an end to the chaos, followed by a good system of national and state banks.

From the very beginning, federal paper money has always been made with a 100 percent cotton fiber content derived from the processing of rags. Previously used cloth was, and is, fully as good as virgin cotton for paper-making but far less expensive. And there remains this saying:

RAGS make paper.
PAPER makes money.
MONEY makes banks.
BANKS make loans.
LOANS make beggars.
BEGGARS make rags.

A dollar in circulation lasts 16 to 17 months. Worn bills are returned to the Fed where they are invalidated by punching them full of holes. The banded packages of punched bills are then sliced in half. The upper and lower halves of the sliced bills are taken apart and packed in separate shipments for recycling at the paper mill.

Our American banks have had some odd names. There was once the New England Bank and Trust Co. of Kansas City, Mo., The Neversink Bank of Reading, Pa., The Eagle Bank of New Haven, Conn., the Hide & Leather Bank of Boston and the State Bank of Sleepy-Eye, Minn. The last time I was in the financial district of Cincinnati the Fifth Third Union Trust Co. was still going strong.

Banks in large cities throughout the country often chose ethnic names, and a number of banks in southeastern Michigan originally printed their savings passbooks in German.

Earlier in this century bankers had stern attitudes about the deportment of employees. These admonitions were contained in a 1905 rule book: "Smoking will not be permitted during banking hours, nor in the street while the employee is on duty. Clerks must not chew tobacco during business hours."

"Any clerk marrying when in receipt of a salary of less than $1,000 per annum shall be liable to dismissal unless the consent of the officers has first been obtained."

"Running into debt or borrowing money is strictly prohibited." Some bankers were just as forthright on how a depositor should comport himself in the institution. A Fort Worth bank published a manual which advised its customers:

"On entering the bank inquire for the cashier, and if convenient take with you someone who can introduce you and identify you, as the person you profess to be. If you go alone do not feel hurt if a number of questions are asked you, as other men have to answer the same interrogation. While you may be perfectly honest, a large percentage of people make their living by being sharp, and besides, it is necessary to establish those confidential relations which ought to exist in all financial transactions, so that the cashier may know something more about you than he could ascertain by merely looking at you and taking your name on the book."

"Don't be disappointed if, when you visit the bank the second time, the officers and clerks do not seem to recognize you. Remember that since your last visit they have transacted business with many thousands of people and have had to exercise the same care that they manifest in dealing with you. Do not get out of patience if there are two or three ahead of you in the line; business men whose time is exceedingly valuable and who probably have a number of people waiting for them, do not like to step aside. Wait in line and remember that every man in front of you has no time on his hands."

Banks had few, if any, female employees before the late nineties and the same thing applied to female depositors. Today there are more women employees than males working in banks and similar institutions. What is more, six out of 10 checks flowing through banks and S&L's are signed by women.

Over the centuries ladies have been patient about recognition in the world of finance. They have known since Caesar's time that while men get their faces on money, women get their hands on it.

LARRY MOORE

CHS Student Finalist in Sesqui Art Contest

Larry Moore, a sophomore art student at Chelsea High school, has been selected as one of 10 finalists in a Sesquicentennial art contest for high school students in lower Michigan. Finalists in this contest, sponsored by the Michigan Council of the Arts and the Detroit Free Press, have been invited to attend a series of silk-screen workshops in which they will reproduce their own design.

Moore, a sophomore, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Moore. According to his art teacher, Cathy Opoka, Moore's winning design uses lettering but is "super-abstract, unorthodox, and free-spirited." The contest directions were to produce something suitable for a t-shirt or a silk screen, either objective or abstract.

The silkscreen workshops will take place at Neighborhood Artisans, a studio in Detroit which co-sponsored the contest. Opoka plans to drive Moore to the workshop and pick up some pointers herself.

All students who participated in the contest will have their work displayed in Trappers Alley in Detroit's Greek Town. The 10 finalists' designs will be exhibited in the Neighborhood Artisans Studio which is also in Greek Town.

"May there be for me a treasured moment this day, a moment of seeking—when I look beyond myself and discover someone who needs me."

"A moment of caring, when I discover how I can show my love for another."

"Let each day bring this treasured moment, let each day bring this time to care."

Kiwanis Club members who attended the Spring Divisional held at Romanoff's, Friday, March 6, want to share with readers of The Chelsea Standard and The Dexter Leader, the Kiwanis International theme, which designates the 1986-87 year as a

An American flag and the State of Michigan flag were removed overnight.

If the persons who have the flags will return them to the clinic they will be restored to their place—where all may again enjoy viewing them.

AWOL Man Surrenders to CPD

A Munith man who was AWOL from the U.S. Navy turned himself to Chelsea police on Thursday, Dec. 5.

Brett William Hopp, reportedly turned himself in at the urging of his father.

Hopp said he went AWOL to take care of some family problems, police said.

Hopp was transported to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department to await action by the Navy.

During the Middle Ages, hand-written newsletters kept groups of nobles and business firms informed of recent events.

"Time to Care," as detailed in the impressive thoughts listed above.

Major emphasis program for the year, as determined by the international organization is, "Make Miracles Happen."

Kiwanis goals for the year include emphasizing respect for human and spiritual values, improving quality of life for less fortunate persons, uniting the Kiwanis family in greater service to mankind, and expanding fellowship and service through world-wide Kiwanis growth.

Objects of Kiwanis International include the following: 1) to give primacy to the human and spiritual, rather than to the material values of life; 2) to encourage daily living of the "Golden Rule" in all human relationships; 3) to promote the adoption and the application of higher social, business and professional standards; 4) to develop, by precept and example, a more intelligent, aggressive and serviceable citizenship; 5) to provide, through Kiwanis clubs, a practical means to form enduring friendships, to render altruistic service and to build better communities; 6) to cooperate in creating and maintaining the sound public opinion and high idealism which make possible the increase of righteousness, justice, patriotism and good will.

Among events listed on the Kiwanis International calendar earlier this year were Farm-City Week, Nov. 21-27; World-Wide Kiwanis Week, Jan. 18-24; Anniversary Kiwanis Founding, Jan. 21.

Girl Scouts Delivering 18,372 Boxes of Cookies

Friday, March 6, the Chelsea Girl Scout cluster unloaded from a large semi truck, 18,372 boxes of Girl Scout cookies which they had sold to members of the community.

In recent years the cookies are mass produced by Interbake Foods, headquartered in Richmond, Va. But in 1936, when the cookie sales started, Girl Scouts baked the cookies themselves.

The original recipe is printed below. Brownie Troop No. 301 of North school, led by Lois Kapp, made them on their last camping trip at Camp Hilltop and found them delicious.

IF YOU HAVEN'T RECEIVED YOUR YEARLY SUPPLY of Girl Scout Cookies yet, you should shortly. 18,000 boxes were delivered to the cookie center at Longworth Plating last Friday morning, all sold by Chelsea area Girl Scouts. For weight watchers, those cookies total approximately 19,800,000 calories.

SHORTBREAD COOKIES

¼ cup butter
¼ cup sugar
2 cups flour

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Mix butter and sugar together. Mix in 2 cups of all-purpose flour. (If dough is crumbly, mix in one to two tablespoons of softened butter.)

Roll dough about ½ inch on lightly floured board. Cut into small shapes. Place ½ inch apart on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake until set, about 20 minutes. Remove immediately from cookie sheet.

AstroFest Program Will Explain How To Use Telescopes

How to use the telescope you bought to look at Halley's Comet will be the subject of the 169th AstroFest film and lecture program at 7:30 p.m. March 13 in Auditorium 3, Modern Languages Building at the University of Michigan.

Jim Loudon, AstroFest director and staff astronomer at the U-M Exhibit Museum, will explain telescope usage but in terms requiring no previous knowledge of science. In addition, members of the University Lowbrow Astronomers, an amateur astronomy club, will be on hand to answer questions about some of the major types of telescopes.

AstroFest is sponsored by the U-M's Department of Aerospace Engineering and Exhibit Museum.

Introducing an HMO that gives you access to some of the most impressive medical technologies known to man.

Behold the frontiers of diagnostic understanding, the latest weapons against disease and trauma, the medical technologies available to you through M-CARE, the new HMO from The University of Michigan.

To get a closer look at these medical marvels, look inside the medical bag of an M-CARE primary care physician. It contains: a stethoscope, pen light, reflex hammer, blood-pressure cuff, a device for looking in ears called an otoscope, another for looking into eyes called an ophthalmoscope, a handful of tongue depressors, latex gloves, a couple of handbooks on prescription drugs, and a tape measure.

Okay, so maybe this equipment isn't so sophisticated. Maybe you've seen it all before. The truth be known, the contents of the typical medical bag haven't changed much over the last two generations. The stethoscope, for example, is more than 150 years old. But these things perform impressive feats indeed in the hands of a highly-trained and experienced physician, the kind of primary care physicians in internal medicine, obstetrics/gynecology, pediatrics, and family practice that come with M-CARE.

Of course, you won't find the most important tool an M-CARE physician possesses in a medical bag. That's an ability to listen to you. Through simple conversation and a well-directed physical examination, a good doctor can get a very good picture of your health; confirm the need for specific tests, refer your care and treatment to a specialist, or give you the simple assurance that everything's going to be okay.

Even with the world-renowned U of M Medical Center at our disposal, a personal relationship with a highly knowledgeable, compassionate and caring primary care physician is, perhaps, still the most impressive medical technology M-CARE can offer.

Ask your employer to include M-CARE among your health care options.

For more information, please call (313) 747-8700.

ed in his report highlighting projects undertaken by the 10 clubs within Division 10 that Chelsea Kiwanis Club included a "Key" club whose members worked actively with high school students in the community, passing on information which helped the young people understand basic workings of organizations in the area and gave them insight to more effectively accomplish inter-group understanding. The Chelsea club also sponsored a "Coats for Kids" project and has been instrumental in establishing CATS bus system within the Chelsea community.

Successful Kiwanis-Sponsored Projects Are Highlighted At Spring Divisional Meeting

Spring Divisional brought Kiwanians and many of their wives for special activities centered at Romanoff's on Pontiac Trail, Fri. afternoon and evening, March 6.

The gathering included Michigan District of Kiwanis Governor Ed Walter and his wife Brenda, traveling from his home club in Tecumseh, Division 10 Lt. Gov. Fred Model and his wife Carol, and many other Kiwanis officers, most of them red-coated for the occasion.

Model explained he gave a report highlighting projects undertaken during the year by the 10 clubs within his domain.

Included were a Community Directory compiled and soon to be available in printed form, a project of the Dexter Kiwanis Club.

The Dexter club also sponsored an annual Halloween Party for youngsters of the community, conducts a special scholarship program and this year placed friendship benches in Warrior Creek Park, located behind the Dexter Fire Hall.

"Chelsea Kiwanis Club was involved in a number of impressive projects during the year," Model said.

The Chelsea group includes a "Key" club whose members worked with high school students in the community, helping them understand methods of effectively accomplishing inter-group co-operation.

Chelsea Kiwanis Club also was instrumental in getting the CATS bus system established in the community and sponsored a "Coats for Kids" project.

Included in his year's duties, Lt. Gov. Model explained he had to date twice visited each of the 10 clubs in the division, and would be visiting each club one more before his year in office has expired.

The 10 clubs include Chelsea, Dexter, Brighton, Howell, Saline, and five Ann Arbor Kiwanis clubs: Downtown, Eastern, Western, Southeastern and Briarwood.

Model said Kiwanis clubs in Division 10 had donated a total of $31,000 to charity during the year.

Kiwanians met at the Salvation Army headquarters in Ann Arbor for a Nov. 24 "Care and Share" day at which cases of food were accepted from the various clubs.

Another highlight of the year was a Christmas Sing, hosted by Ann Arbor

Western Kiwanis, held Nov. 30 at the Michigan Theater.

Reported as an outstanding success this season, the event featured organ music, and the singing was led by Fat Bob Taylor, himself a Kiwanis member.

On Dec. 20, a "Sports Day" program was hosted by Kiwanis clubs and held in conjunction with the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

University of Michigan basketball players were featured on the court at Crisler Arena and 250 kids were Kiwanis guests for the occasion.

A "Prayer Breakfast" was held, doubling as a Kiwanis social gathering and a fund-raiser activity to benefit the Salvation Army, Jan. 30.

No Smoking Signs Now Available

Four new no-smoking signs are now available, at no cost, for both public buildings and private businesses through your local American Cancer Society here in Washtenaw county.

The signs, developed by the Society here in Michigan by volunteers, reinforce the language and intent behind the Michigan Clean Indoor Air Act, which became law on Jan. 1.

"American Cancer Society research," said Robert Gunn, Ph.D. for the Washtenaw unit, "strongly indicates that the risks posed by involuntary smoking may be much smaller than those posed by active smoking, but the potential number of affected individuals is much, much greater."

One sign targets public buildings, arenas, auditoriums, meeting rooms, educational facilities, all covered by the Clean Indoor Air Act. The others, which simply say No Smoking Zone, may be used in any business or setting. Of special interest to all private employers is one of these signs that has been made into a decal for front door use. It's the only one designed in Michigan, at this moment, for use on doors or windows. "This decal," said Robert Gunn, Ph.D. "is going to be very popular because it will tell anyone walking into a building, for the first time, that smoking is limited to certain areas or not allowed at all."

THIS GROUP OF BASKETBALL SUPPORTERS got together last Friday during first hour to decorate the cars of senior players on the varsity team. It was a well-orchestrated conspiracy that included the highest ranking officers in the Chelsea High school administration and the players' own parents, as well as these hard-working spirit terrorists. From left are Kirsten Erickson, Angie DeFant, Angie Miller, Andrea Clem, Charna Street, Melanie Flanagan and Sallie Wilson.

THEY DID A LITTLE DECORATING on the cars of senior varsity basketball players last Friday morning before the final regular season game with Pinckney. It was all in the name of a little school spirit. Unfortunately, the Bulldogs lost the game, 59-57. However, as the sign says, they did emerge as conference co-champions.

THE MAID WHO WOULD BE MISTRESS, a comic opera, was performed by the Papagena Opera Company of Ann Arbor at Chelsea Community Hospital last Saturday afternoon. The opera, written by Fergolesi, tells the story of Serpina, center, (played by Julia Broxholm), the maid of the household, who conspires to be the wife of her master, Uberto, right (played by Frank Ward). Vespone, left, a "mock" fiance, is used by Serpina in an attempt to make Uberto jealous. Papagena is sponsored by the Michigan Council of the Arts. It has performed at the Michigan League and the Detroit Institute of Arts.

Pirates Upset Bulldogs, Chelsea Ties Saline for League Championship

Chelsea Bulldogs had to settle for a tie for the Southeastern Conference basketball title after dropping their third straight league game at Pinckney, 59-57, last Friday night.

Chelsea and Saline finished the regular season with 8-4 league records. There is no tie-breaking system.

Chelsea had their best chance in three games to win the conference title outright. The lead changed hands eight times in the fourth quarter before the Pirates built a five-point lead with :55 to go.

However, the Bulldogs staged a near miraculous comeback to tie the game with :07 remaining as Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter adeptly switched players in and out several times to take advantage of defensive quickness or scoring ability. The strategy forced Pinckney into two critical turnovers in the last :49.

After Chelsea's Mark Bareis tied the game by sinking the second of two foul shots, Pinckney pushed the ball quickly up court and junior Jeff Yeakey sank a fall away jumper with :04 to go.

A desperation shot from half-court by Todd Starkey fell far short as time ran out.

"Even after (the substituting), from my standpoint I think I still made a mistake," Rosentreter said.

"I think when Mark made his second free throw I should have substituted someone for him because that would have given us a chance to set up a full court press. Instead we went to a half-court trap and with all the excitement I think there were a couple of people out of position. That hurt us. The kids played hard and I think we did a good job to come back."

For the fifth straight game the Bulldogs played a sluggish first quarter, scoring just 10 points over-all and four points in the first three and a half minutes. They also turned the ball over six times. In each of the last five games, Chelsea has averaged 10 points in the first quarter. They lost three of those games.

"Earlier in the season when we were playing real good ball, we were scoring 13 or 14 points in the first quarter," Rosentreter said.

"Those three or four points make a big difference."

The game was close all night. Chelsea held a 24-21 half-time advantage and the game was tied at 40 at the end of the third period.

Statistically, Chelsea played well enough to win most games. They shot 44 percent from the field and 70 percent from the foul line. Bareis and Jeff Harvey shared the scoring honors with 19 points. It was Harvey's best offensive performance of the season. The senior forward scored 13 points in the second half, mostly from in the lane.

However, the Bulldogs' free throw shooting let them down in the last eight minutes as they missed seven opportunities, including the front end of two one-and-one attempts.

The Pirates played one of their best games, hitting 13-20 shots in the second half and 5-6 in the fourth quarter. They were also 9-12 from the line in the final period. In addition, they out-rebounded the Dogs 21-17, putting 4-6 offensive rebounds back in for points.

Pinckney senior forward Kirk Dunn scored 12 of his team leading 15 points in the final quarter, including a three-point shot at the 1:31 mark.

"Pinckney played maybe one of their best games but I think it came down to a few mental letdowns on our part," Rosentreter said.

"At this time of year you make mental mistakes, not physical mistakes. A couple of times we didn't rotate on defense and they got lay-ups. We also had problems making some lay-ups."

Rounding out the scoring were Marty Poljan, seven points, Starkey, six, Greg Haist, five, and Jon Lane, three. Poljan finished the season as the Bulldogs' third leading scorer in league play with a 5.4 average, behind Bareis and Harvey.

"Obviously I was very disappointed on Friday, and angry on Saturday, but you start to look at it now, at what we've accomplished and I think there are five teams in this league who envy us, and one team in the league (Saline) that knows they're lucky they ended up tied with us."

Chelsea finished the regular season at 14-6, turning around last season's 7-13 mark.

The Dogs were scheduled to open district play against tough Jackson Lumen Christi last night at Siena Heights College in Adrian. A win would advance them to second round action tomorrow night at 7 p.m. against Dexter, who drew a first-round bye.

PINCKNEY'S ROB NEMETH attempts to block a shot by Mark Bareis during first half action at Pinckney last Friday night. Bareis made the shot and scored 19 points on the night, but the Pirates won the game, 59-57.

Pat Taylor Goes 1-2 at State Wrestling Meet

Chelsea freshman Pat Taylor is among the top 12 wrestlers in the state at 105 pounds after his performance at the class B meet in Grand Rapids last week-end.

"It was an excellent performance, especially for a freshman," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Pat got a chance to see what state is all about."

Taylor had the misfortune to draw James McCloughan of South Haven, the eventual tournament champion, in the first round. McCloughan, who entered the tournament with a 39-0 record, won by a technical fall.

In the second round, Taylor won a 6-1 decision over senior Todd Delano of Pinckney, who entered with a 51-2 record.

In the third match, Taylor was paired with Dexter's Todd Benson, who he had faced several times this season. Benson won the match, 6-1.

"Pat's going to wrestle freestyle all summer," Kargel said.

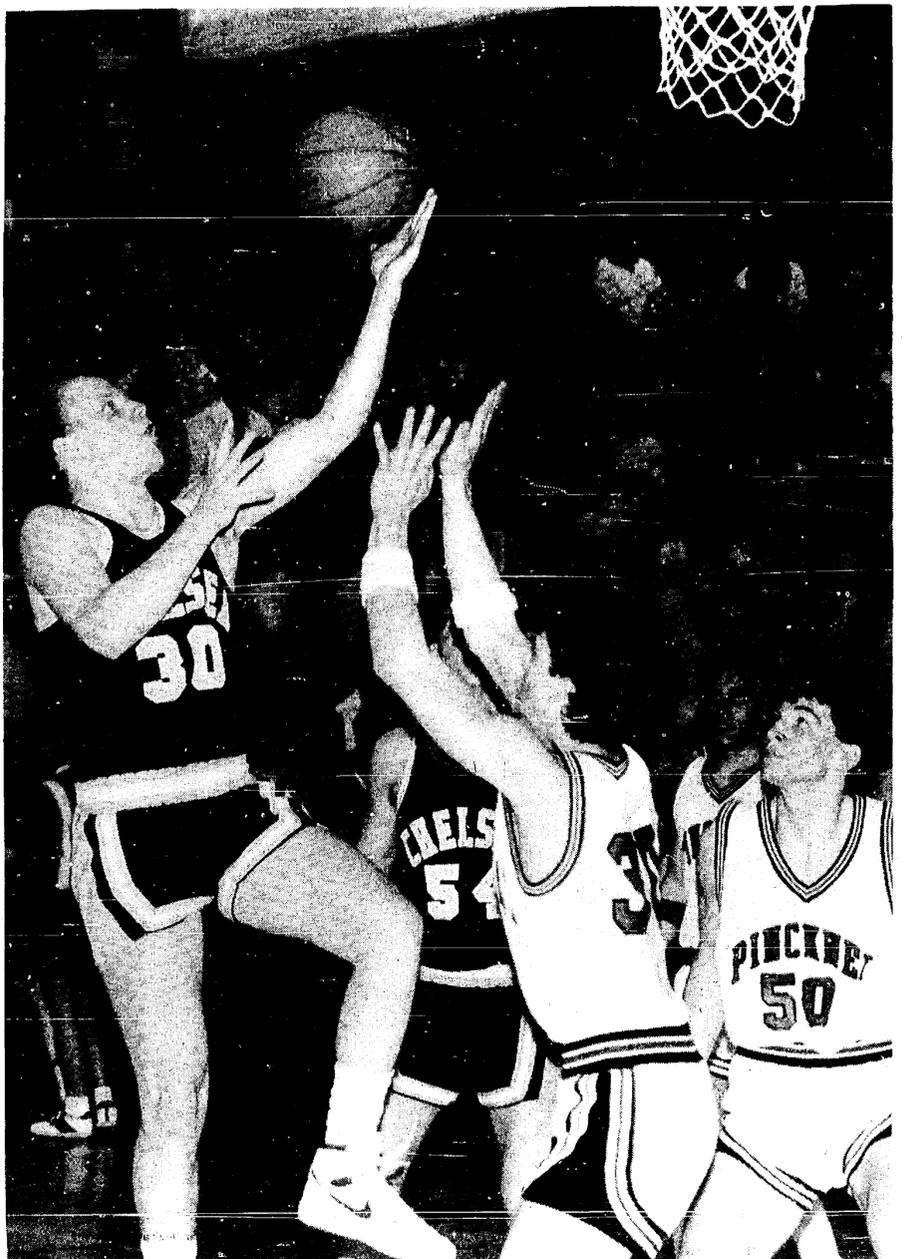

"He said that next year he's going to place."

Taylor, who finished with a 24-14 record, was the only Chelsea wrestler to qualify for the state meet.

Sprague Wins Big-MAC Meet

Chelsea's Todd Sprague, a senior at Western Michigan University, won the 35-pound weight throw at the Big-MAC Indoor Invitational for Mid-American Conference schools.

Sprague had a career-best performance of 56'10 1/4" at a Feb. 28 meet in Kalamazoo. He also picked up sixth place in the shot put with his season's best effort of 52'.

GREG HAIST drives the baseline during second half game action at Pinckney Friday night. Chelsea rallied to tie the game with seven seconds to go, but Pinckney tossed in the game winner with four seconds left. Haist scored five points.

JV Cagers End Season With Loss

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity cagers closed out their season last Friday with a loss to the Southeastern Conference champion Pinckney Pirates, 65-58.

The JVs finished with a 10-10 record and a 7-5 league mark, good for third place.

Pinckney ended at 19-1. "We had our chances and we let them take the lead in the third quarter," said Chelsea coach Jeff Dils.

"If you give a good team an opening they'll probably take advantage of it. Pinckney is a very good team. We were out of position a few times."

Chelsea came out gunning in the first quarter, taking an 18-14 lead and a 29-28 half-time advantage. However, they fell behind 45-42 at the end of the third quarter.

Although Chelsea out-pointed the Pirates from the field with one more field goal, they lost the game at the foul line, making 4-13 tries. They missed the front end of five one-and-one opportunities.

Both teams shot well from the field. The Pirates hit at a 58 percent clip, sinking many perimeter shots. Chelsea shot 47 percent.

"The kids gave 100 percent and that's all I can ask," Dils said.

Tim Anderson scored almost at will for the Bulldogs, finishing with 19 points.

"I'm sure he could have had 30 points if he had just gotten the ball more," Dils said.

"He showed a lot of leadership. He decided before the game that he needed to have a good game if we were going to have a chance."

Junior Morseau was the only other Bulldog in double figures, with 10 points. John Collins and Larry Nix had nine each, Jeff Marshall had six, David White, three, and Phil Thomson, two.

"I'm sorry to see the season end," Dils said.

"At the beginning of the season I didn't think we had a lot of talent and it took us a while to get on track. However, in the second half of the season we beat some pretty good teams. Some of the kids found out that they could be pretty good players without scoring a lot of points. The players learned a lot and I certainly learned a lot and that's all you can ask."

Lions Professional Athletes Paired Against Chelsea Coaches

The Detroit Lions-Chelsea Bulldogs basketball game, scheduled for Sunday afternoon, March 15 at 3:15 in the CHS gym, turns out to be even more sensational than previously announced.

The Chelsea athletic coaches are not going to be shooting against lion trainers or tammers. Our Bulldog coaches are going up against genuine, live NFL Lion players.

What's ahead are faculty stars like Jim Tallman, Dave Quilter and Dave Strickman to outglove tight end

Rob Rubick, late of Grand Valley State or freed-footed Jeff Chadwick also from Grand Valley State.

There is also the grim prospect of other educated Bulldogs trying to play aggressive or defensive against James Jones or jam points past James Jones or jam points past James Jones or jam points past James Jones.

Not until game time will the actual starting lineup for the Lions be announced by Rubick, who will bring the visiting squad to town. But this is a golden opportunity for Chelsea sports fans to see great professional athletes at eye ball range on their own gym floor.

Tickets for the Lions game are available all around town. For more information, call Community Education at 475-9830.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Chelsea had three chances to win the Southeastern Conference basketball title outright but came up short again last Friday night. This time Pinckney was the spoiler. The Pirates, 6-14, won one of the most exciting games of the season by two points, forcing Chelsea into a championship tie with the Saline Hornets.

I packed up the photo gear at the end of the game, realizing there would be no pandemonium shot this year. Oh, how I had hoped the Bulldogs would win and carry coach Rahn Rosentreter off the court. It would have made a great photo.

One Bulldog rushed by me. He slammed his hand into the gray metal exit door and let out an obscenity just loud enough for two of us to hear. A teammate was still out on the court, arguing that Todd Starkey was fouled on his desperation shot. Most of the team like the considerable number of Chelsea fans who attended the game, walked quietly out of the gym. Some had tears on their cheeks. The nightmare that nobody wanted to believe had come to pass.

The Pirates, however, were mobbed by their fans as though THEY had taken the championship. Some Dexter basketball players even joined in the celebration. This wasn't just any old Friday night game they had won.

For Pirates fans, it was the perfect ending. It was senior night. Just about every parent and girl in Pinckney had been introduced at half-time. The senior cheerleaders, all 97 of them, cried when they were each given roses commemorating their final game.

Then the Pirates shot the lights out in the second half, beating The Champions on a fall away jumper by a guy who hadn't scored all night long. It was a dream come true.

That's what can happen when you're The Champions. When you lose, the fall is harder. And the little guys Wang Chung like it's their biggest win of the year. Because it usually is.

Some people might think Chelsea pulled the classic clutch job. "Dogs Peter Out" someone suggested as a headline. All they had to do was beat Dexter, Tecumseh or Pinckney to win the SEC title outright. Instead, they lost those games by a total of 11 points.

But Chelsea was a marked team. Dexter and Pinckney, playing on their home courts, had everything to gain and nothing to lose. Chelsea had more victories than both schools combined.

The Pirates and Dreadnaughts were psyched, ready to rumble. Maybe they were even a little jealous. Chelsea major sports teams are almost always competitive. Pinckney's and Dexter's often aren't.

At any rate, they had plenty of motivation to beat the Bulldogs. Last Friday the Bulldogs played well enough to win. But Pinckney played a sensational game. It was hard to believe they had only won only five times.

Still, the Bulldogs deserve a lot of credit. They moved from last place to first in a single season. They were by far the shortest team in the league. They had much less pure bulk than most of their opponents. They also weren't terribly quick. Sometimes their shooting was so bad they couldn't hit a major toxic waste site. However, they played smart basketball and good defense. The coaching was excellent.

And how many times do you put yourself in the position where you can lose your last three games in a 12-game league season and still win the championship?

Since this was written before last night's district tournament game with Jackson Lumen Christi, I can only hope the season isn't over, especially since Rosentreter told me if Chelsea happens to meet Flint Beecher in the state finals I can sit on the bench. But, no matter what happened last night, it was a great season. Chelsea crowds grew rowdier by the game, and school basketball spirit may have been at an all-time peak. The Rosenmeter got a good workout. It'll be tuned and ready to go next year.

Sunday is the day all great sports fans have been eagerly anticipating. No, it has nothing to do with the NCAA basketball tournament. It's the day the Chelsea Coaches play the Detroit Lions in the Chelsea gym.

The word "coaches" is being used loosely. Robin Raymond, a FORMER coach, is scheduled to play. We can forgive this little slip, however. Without Raymond, Chelsea may never get a rebound. Even with him they may not get a rebound.

The smallest Lion is scheduled to be 5'10" Eddie Murray, the Detroit placekicker. He, like all the other Lions, was a good high school basketball player.

At the other end is 6'9", 290-pound Rich Strenger, the former Michigan player. This guy was an all-state basketball center in Wisconsin, back when he was still almost 6'9" but weighed just 200-pounds. I guess that just shows what a little, uh, weight training can do for a guy. Imagine the picks he'll be able to set. It'll be like running into a goal post.

In between Murray and Strenger is 6'2", 230-pound James Jones, the running back, 6'3" tight end Rob "The Cube" Rubick, 6'4", 210-pound quarterback Chuck Long, and 6'3" 280-pound guard Steve Baack.

Chelsea will probably feature a hot perimeter game, since they won't have any other choice. Wayne Welton, Jeff Dils, and John Dunn are all capable shooters. I assume Rosentreter can probably play a little basketball. Jim Ticknor may be the beefiest of the Bulldogs.

You should be warned that this is not designed to be a highly competitive basketball game. In fact, Chelsea is supposed to take the part the Generals play for the Globetrotters. Most of the time they'll try to play competent basketball. However, they're also supposed to know when to let the Lions put on their show. In other words, Ticknor isn't supposed to say "in your face" when Strenger wants to slam one home. My guess is that won't be a problem anyway.

In other words, this extravaganza might be called Chelsea Hoopomania I. There will be plenty of time for children to get autographs. Jeff Chadwick, the Lions' wide receiver, will mingle with the crowd since he just got his leg out of a cast.

This Lions team, which isn't officially sponsored by the Detroit Lions NFL team, plays most of their 20 games in towns like Chelsea. Rubick told me that there is only one school closer than Chelsea to Detroit on their schedule. He said some schools raise several thousand dollars. It's also good public relations for the players and their team. And that's why the Detroit Lions don't frown on these games too much, even though they'd hate to tell season ticket holders that Long won't be playing due to a basketball injury. Lord knows the Lions can't afford any serious injuries.

It ought to be a lot of fun. Proceeds go to the Chelsea Athletic Boosters.

Frosh Cagers End Winners By Whipping Hornets, 69-63

Bulldog freshman basketball team won its final game of the season on Monday, March 2, over the Saline Hornets in Saline, 69-63.

The Dogs had to rebound from a 22-13 first-quarter deficit. By early in the second quarter they were in a 19-point hole.

"We just did not play team ball and execute our press breaker," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We committed over 20 turnovers in the first half because of poor passing and no movement. We finally started to turn things around in the second quarter with good passing and pushing the ball down the court after we broke their press. We got easy lay-ups and high percentage shots."

Chelsea shot 11-14 from the floor in the first half.

The Dogs took a one-point lead by the end of the third period, 48-47, by out-scoring the Hornets 16-11.

"Our patience and continued good play and good execution were the keys," Quilter said.

Chelsea shot 67 percent from the field (26-39) and 63 percent from the free throw line (17-27).

"We also switched to a zone defense, forcing Saline to shoot from the outside, and that made a difference."

Twenty-one fourth quarter points, including 10 by Chad Starkey and five each by Kyle Plank and Sinisa Janicevic, put the game away.

Starkey finished with 18 points to pace a balanced scoring attack. Mark Chasteen had 14, Plank, 13, Janicevic, 11, Chris Wilson, eight, Brian Burg and Brandon Murrell, two each, and Steve Emmert, one.

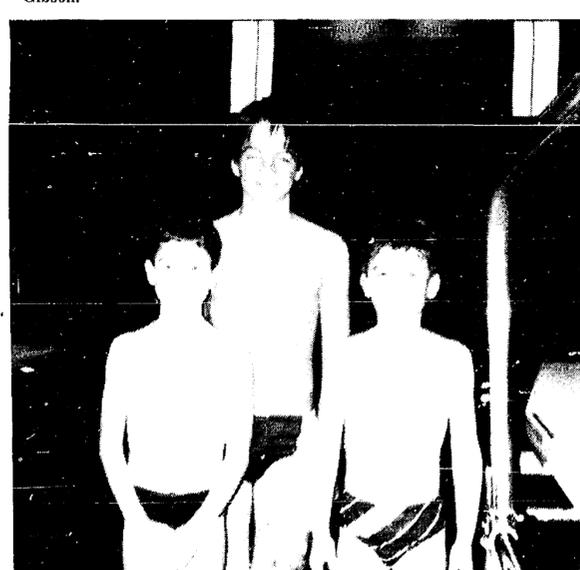

"It felt like a home game, with all the enthusiastic cheering from the Chelsea fans," Quilter said.

"We've had good support throughout the season."

Florida has become a haven for unwelcome wildlife from other countries, according to National Wildlife magazine. These "exotic" species include rhesus monkeys descended from the stars of early Tarzan movies filmed in the state. Many exotic parrots and parakeets dine on the state's citrus and other crops. Among the most bizarre species is a giant South American marine toad that secretes a strong poison and likes to lay its eggs in swimming pools.

SWIMMERS 8-10 YEARS OLD took part in the B/C Division U.S. Swim Meet in Bloomfield Hills two week-end's ago. From left are Paul Monte and David Brock, who participated in the 9-10 age group, and Steven Thiel, who was in the 7-8 age bracket.

Baton Boosters Will Sponsor State Contest

Chelsea Baton Boosters Club is sponsoring the 1987 "Miss Majorette of Michigan" contest on May 9 at Chelsea High school. The last time Chelsea played host to this most important contest in the state was in 1984.

A spaghetti dinner will be provided this year from 5 until 7 p.m. at which time the awards ceremony will begin in the auditorium. The public is invited to attend the contest, the dinner, and the awards ceremony.

All profits from the contest will be applied toward purchasing 15 new uniforms for the corps and for sending twirlers who have qualified in the state championships to the nationals at Notre Dame AYOP in July.

GUEST SPEAKER: The Rev. Marvin McCallum will be returning to Chelsea Sunday, March 15 to share a Lenten program with his former parishioners, at 6 p.m. The Rev. McCallum was minister at the First United Methodist church from 1975-1983. His topic will be "The Authentic Church."

Girl Scouts Kick Off 75th Anniversary

In 1987 Girl Scouts are celebrating their 75th anniversary with the theme, "Tradition With A Future." Throughout the year, nearly three million Girl Scouts nation-wide and those residing overseas will participate in special projects emphasizing the rich tradition of Girl Scouting as well as the exciting future that awaits today's girls.

Anniversary projects include travel activities. Girls from Huron Valley Girl Scout Council will explore the history of Girl Scouting with former Girl Scouts who have been invited to serve as travel guides. Together, alumni and present-day Girl Scouts will share recollections of earlier times, such as how women won the right to vote during the suffrage movement or how Girl Scouts took an active part on the domestic front during times of national crisis.

Service to others is a tradition in Girl Scouting and the 75th year will also be celebrated by giving gifts of service to the community. Troops from Huron Valley will initiate projects such as escorting the elderly to medical appointments, creating activities for the disabled or cleaning up city parks during the summer.

On March 12, 1987, USA Girl Scouts will kick off their year-long 75th anniversary celebration with a worldwide event called the Promise Circle. The Promise Circle is a symbolic ceremony in which participants demonstrate their belief in Girl Scouting by reciting the Girl Scout Promise. Girl Scout national president Betty F. Pillsbury will begin the circle in Washington, D.C., at 2:30 p.m. by leading Girl Scouts and friends in reciting the Girl Scout Promise. Thirty-two girls and eight adults from Huron Valley Girl Scout Council will be in Washington representing the Council at the ceremony. Girl Scouts nation-wide, plus those residing overseas, will repeat the Promise at 4 p.m. in their respective time zones. The recitation will move around the globe, finally closing the circle and symbolizing the unity of Girl Scouts everywhere.

Local Promise Circles will be held March 12, at 4 p.m. all across the four counties of Huron Valley Council. Troops will gather to recite the Promise and kick off the celebration with activities such as a balloon launch and special presentations.

The Huron Valley Girl Scout Council serves nearly 10,000 girls in Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and northern Monroe counties.

Girl Scout Are Celebrating 75th Anniversary of Founding

The Girl Scout organization was founded 75 years ago, on March 12, 1912 by Juliet Low. To mark this important anniversary, Girl Scouts around the world are holding special celebrations. Thursday at 4 p.m., girls from hundreds of troops throughout America will attend a Promise Circle in Washington, D. C. At the very same time, Chelsea Girl Scouts will be holding a Promise Circle outside Beach Middle school.

Chelsea's Girl Scout cluster is unusually large with 15 troops composed of 197 members and 33 leaders. The troops span the greatest age range possible from kindergartners in the Daisy troop to seniors belonging to the Chelsea United Methodist Home's troop.

The Promise Circle at Beach, to which everyone in the community is welcome, will start with a recitation of the Girl Scout Promise, "On my honor, I will try to serve God and my country, to help people at all times, and to live by the Girl Scout Law." 197 helium balloons will be released and the national anthem sung. The balloons will each contain a wish for the world written by a local scout and the address of the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council so finders can let them know how far the balloons drifted.

After the balloons are released, the Girl Scouts will go inside the school for refreshments of juice and cup cakes and to dance to 1950's and 60's music and hold a hula hoop contest.

Two Chelsea Girl Scouts, Sonya Osinski and Beth Kimball, will be absent from the Beach Promise Circle because they will be in Washington at the Kennedy Center participating in the national Promise Circle.

Both Sonya and Beth are members of the Juliet Low troop, a group of 10 high school age scouts from the Huron Valley Council area who gather monthly to experience scouting as it was in Juliette Low's day. They wear uniforms they made from the original pattern, do Girl Scout activities from the original handbook "How Girls Can Help Their Country," and are planning a trip June 12-17 to Savannah, Ga., to visit Juliet Low's birthplace.

Beth and Sonya are traveling by bus with 30 other scouts from the Huron Valley Council area and four leaders including Judy Osinski. They will stay from March 11-15 and participate in two other ceremonies besides the promise event, a first day of issue ceremony for a new stamp honoring girl scouting, and a tree planting ceremony on the Eclipse. They will also have time for sightseeing, touring the Capitol, the Smithsonian, Mt. Vernon, Arlington Cemetery, the Bureau of Printing and Engraving, the National Archives, the national zoo, Ford Theatre, and the White House.

The entire week of March 8-15 has been designated Girl Scout Week. Chelsea Girl Scouts began their celebration of the 75th anniversary at their annual father/daughter banquet held last Sunday, March 8 from 6 to 9 p.m. A dinner of ham, scalloped potatoes, and green beans was cooked by a committee of mothers and served to 328 people; girl scouts and their fathers, plus the leaders.

The dinner was held in the Chelsea High school cafeteria which had been decorated by Cadette Troop No. 98 with hats for all to wear since it was a birthday party, centerpieces, homemade mints with the Girl Scout emblem on them, and helium balloons.

After dinner the group reconvened in the auditorium for the flag ceremony. Each troop provided two girls to be color guards while the leaders were honored by being invited to join by standing with the girls. The lights were then switched off and five scouts rolled in a giant birthday cake with 75 burning candles and everyone sang Happy Birthday. The cake was baked by Dorothy Hafner who decorated it with replica Girl Scout badges made out of icing.

The evening ended with a square dance.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:
Chelsea High school will graduate another batch of youngsters this June. How many of them will remember the immortal words of our greatest President, John F. Kennedy, "Ask not what your country can do for you, but what you can do for your country?" How many of them will choose to serve their country in the Peace Corps, the military, Indian reservations, or whatever? Not many, I bet.

Most kids today, all they think about is getting rich, buying a Ferrari, taking drugs, or whatever. Dentists serve their country, but they charge so much money, it is out of hand. Insurance is making them rich, buying them drugs and Ferraris. Meanwhile, insurance salesmen harp on the fears of families who think they cannot afford dental insurance. This is not right, and the whole world knows it, but how many dentists and insurance salesmen do you see in the Peace Corps?

You do not need a lot of money to have a rewarding life. Look at the people who work at McDonald's and other fast food emporiums. They do not earn much—probably minimum wage—but see how much pride they take in being employee of the month. You can go straight from two or three years in the military or Peace Corps to a rewarding career in fast food.

But how many youngsters think about this when they are 18 or 19? All they think about is money and they think they can get it by being dentists, insurance salesmen, etc. Before they know it they are in hock up to their ears and could not afford to join the Peace Corps or work for McDonald's even if they wanted to.

President John F. Kennedy would be saddened by the greedy materialism of today's youngsters. He would probably remove Miami Vice, L.A. Law, etc. from the air and legislate the Peace Corps for youngsters. (I am surprised there are not hit shows about dentists or insurance salesmen, but this would be too obvious.)

I hope the valedictorian of this year's graduating class is reading this. If you are, you may incorporate any or all of my letter into your address.

Gordon F. Begley.

To the Editor,
The Recreation Department belongs to Chelsea. The success of our programs depends on the involvement of the adult members of the community.

At present Marcee Bobo and I are working on the spring and summer programs. One of the most difficult problems is finding individuals to step forward and take the responsibility of becoming directors for these programs.

If you subscribe to The Chelsea Standard you might have seen the notice that directors are desperately needed for most all our baseball/softball programs.

Once we find directors, then the next hurdle will be to search for coaches. This community has the potential to offer an excellent program for everyone, however, it needs involvement from the entire community.

Your support and participation is sought. For more information call 475-9830 from 9:00-noon daily.

To the Editor:
Do the following cliches sound familiar to you and your readers? Teens refer to parents: "They don't love me." "They're old fashioned." "Parents not hep, not with it." "Generation gap." "No communication." There are more. We hear so much of teens fears, struggles. Well teens, got a flash for you! Parents are flesh, bone, heart, mind, and soul filled with goodness and human faults... just like you!

Boy do they have fears! They invented the word right from the Garden of Eden. Their greatest fear is losing their children's love. Believe it or not.

Surely "as God made little green apples" He created you out of the love of your Dad and Mom—you reflect both. Whether your relationship with parents seems close knit or distant, or if they are all you dreamed them to be, there is something you could do right now. Listen up and see if you, as son or daughter, find yourself somewhere in these words.

MOTHER'S WISDOM

- I gave you life but cannot live it for you.
- I can teach you things but I cannot always be there to lead you.
- I can allow you freedom but cannot account for it.
- I can take you to church but I cannot make you believe.
- I can teach you right from wrong but I can't always decide for you.
- I can buy you beautiful clothes but I cannot make you lovely inside.
- I can offer you advice but I cannot accept it for you.
- I can give you love but I cannot force it upon you.
- I can teach you to be a friend but I cannot make you one.
- I can teach you to share but I cannot make you unselfish.
- I can teach you respect but I can't force you to show honor.
- I can grieve about your report card but I cannot doubt your teachers.
- I can advise you about friends but I cannot choose them for you.
- I can teach you about sex but I cannot keep you pure.
- I can tell you the facts of life but I can't build your reputation.
- I can tell you about drink but I can't say no for you.
- I can warn you about drugs but I can't prevent you from using them.
- I can tell you about lofty goals but I can't achieve them for you.
- I can let you babysit but I can't be responsible for your actions.
- I can teach you kindness but I can't force you to be gracious.
- I can warn you about sins but I cannot make your morals.
- I can love you as a daughter but I cannot make you walk with God.
- I can teach you about Jesus but I cannot make Jesus your Lord.
- I can tell you how to live but I cannot give you Eternal Life.

These printed words by Mel Johnson, are not a "cop out" but words parents sometimes have difficulty conveying. The key is that YOU and YOU alone, teens, make the choices and must then accept responsibility for choices.

Dear Editor,
State Representative Margaret O'Connor's viewpoint on school-based health care clinics seems to be extremely narrow in its focus. She commented only on the family planning aspect of these clinics and neglected to mention the other aspects of health care such as nutrition, decreasing health risks and increasing health behaviors.

National studies have shown that the establishment of school-based teen health centers providing comprehensive health services is an effective method of improving health status. While school-based health centers are not the only approach to adolescent health problems, they have been shown to provide early detection of health problems and reduce risk-taking behaviors at 71 sites nationally.

A school-based health care clinic does not intrude upon the family but rather provides them with the health knowledge, support and care for their future. There is a growing effort to prohibit these clinics and there have been threats to reduce a school district's state aid if a clinic provides birth control services.

I urge Representative O'Connor to look at school-based clinic more objectively and consider the long range benefits to the adolescents instead of only representing her one narrow viewpoint. I urge all people who value access to health care for our future generation to contact their Representatives and Senators and show their support for a preventative plan instead of waiting for the problems to occur.

Dexter Township To Test for Radon Gas

Portage and Base Lake Property Owners Association is planning to test for radon gas. The association will buy from the Ann Arbor Ecology Center a number of kits which they will place in houses on different sides of the lakes to try to determine if a radon problem exists and, if so, to what extent.

Radon gas in the soil is a result of the decomposition of uranium. Radon itself then breaks down, forming radioactive products. Radon gas is present in all soil but is not a problem unless it leaks into homes. Those exposed show no immediate symptoms, but are at a greater risk of contracting lung cancer.

Doug Smith, secretary of the property owner's association, said he was particularly anxious for radon gas tests to be done in the lake area because of the large number of homes without basements.

According to Hank Baier, hazardous and solid waste sanitarian with the Washtenaw County Health Department, radon gas can leak into houses in a number of ways such as through cracks in the foundation, joints at the floor and wall, crawl spaces, and the hollow parts of concrete blocks in basements. One house may have a serious leak, while a neighboring one may be perfectly safe, due to differences in construction.

No one worried about the problem of radon gas until a few years ago when an employee in a nuclear plant in Pennsylvania kept setting off the radioactivity alarm. An investigation revealed this radioactivity was the result of radon gas leaking into his house.

Since then, the EPA has been researching the problem. The state of Michigan is now engaged in a statewide survey, including Washtenaw.

A small number of county residents will be called for testing in this random survey. Others who would like to test for radon gas in their homes may buy kits from the Ann Arbor Ecology Center or directly from a manufacturer.

Two types of testing kits are available, alpha track detectors, and activated charcoal canisters, which the property owner's association is buying for $9 each. When the tests are completed, they will be mailed back to the manufacturer for analysis. The association will then report back to the membership on the extent of the problem.

DNR To Tell Story of Sichuan Pheasant Release

State Senator Lana Pollack and the Department of Natural Resources are sponsoring an open house at Chelsea High school on Thursday, March 12 at 7:30 p.m. to introduce the residents of northwestern Washtenaw county to their soon-to-arrive, newest resident: the Sichuan Pheasant.

The Sichuan Pheasant is a native of Sichuan Province of the Peoples Republic of China. The DNR will release 24 of the birds on State-owned game land in southern Livingston county on March 16. These 24 pheasants are members of the first group of the subspecies ever to leave China. Their introduction into Michigan game lands culminates several years of dedicated work on the part of DNR wildlife officials to breed the species here in the state.

This unique opportunity to revitalize the Michigan pheasant population was made possible through a Sister State trade relationship with the Sichuan Province which began in 1985 with the collection of 2,000 pheasant eggs... but that would be telling the most fascinating story from the DNR slide presentation to be given at the Thursday open house.

The DNR expects the Sichuan pheasant to be migrating into the northwestern sections of Washtenaw county within days of the first series of releases beginning on March 16. Initially, the bird should be a great tourist attraction. Until the pheasant is well established, the DNR will be suggesting that residents and hunters treat it as something similar to an endangered species—which it will be until its population becomes successfully adapted to its new environment.

Have Right To Know

Orange juice imported to the U.S. must have a country of origin label but so far, the U.S. Customs Office has turned a deaf ear to Michigan apple industry requests for labeling of imported apple juice. According to Robert Craig, farm economist for the Michigan Farm Bureau, if farmers have a say, it won't be too long before all food products coming into the country will have a label indicating where it originated.

"Farmers believe that consumers have a right to know where the food they eat was grown," Craig said.

Persistence Finally Pays Off For North School Student In Love With Miss Liberty

In some ways the Enrichment Triad Program at North and South Elementary schools is all about reaching for the stars, teaching the children to stretch themselves in the pursuit of knowledge.

In Jeannine Mouilleseaux's case, her quest for information about the Statue of Liberty took her right to the top of the Chrysler Corp. to Chairman Lee Iacocca, one of the stars of the American business community.

The North school third grader had some questions about Miss Liberty so she decided to ask Iacocca, the chairman of the Statue of Liberty-Chrysler Island Foundation, for an interview. She even asked him over to dinner for ravioli, and chicken soup with veal balls, because "I know you like it."

Knowing from the start that it might be difficult to get a busy and important man like Iacocca to respond, Jeannine wrote to Iacocca not once, not twice, but four times.

"I need to interview someone that knows a lot about the Statue of Liberty and I thought of you," she wrote in one letter. "I read part of your biography."

"I would be willing to come to your house for the interview or if that's imposing, you could come to my house or school. You could stay for dinner. My Mom says it's okay."

In another letter she played the part of a seasoned lobbyist.

Though my main interest is the Statue of Liberty, I am enclosing a dollar for your Ellis Island Foundation campaign. You can spend it any way you want."

Jeannine's persistence paid off. On Feb. 23, Iacocca wrote back, saying he had passed her letter on to Manny Strumpf, public affairs officer of the National Park Service and son of Lithuanian immigrants. He also sent her the book Centennial for Liberty.

On Feb. 24, Jeannine had the chance to conduct a telephone interview with Strumpf about her project. He called the Mouilleseaux home during the afternoon.

While the interview is too long to reproduce here, Jeannine had the chance to ask all kinds of questions.

"How did you become interested in the Statue of Liberty?"

"Do you know why Frederic Bartholdi picked Bedloe's Island for the Statue of Liberty site?"

"What did you like about Nancy Reagan's speech on July 5 at the statue?"

Strumpf also gave Jeannine some unusual information about the statue.

For instance, he told her Miss Liberty's nose is 4' 6" long, her index finger is 8' wide, her right arm is 12' long, and her waist is 35' around."

Strumpf also invited Jeannine and her family to accompany him on a personal tour of the statue when they are in New York.

Jeannine later found out that Iacocca was so impressed by one of her letters that he had it framed and placed in the National Park Service office.

Jeannine, who is so wrapped up in the Statue of Liberty that she even

David's Home is Buying His Family a Second Car.

When David needed money to buy a car for his son, he simply wrote a check on his Citizens Homeowners Privilege Account. This personal line of credit — secured by his home — makes it possible for him to bypass normal application procedures, and write a loan for himself whenever he needs it. That's convenient. And because the amount is added to his mortgage, the interest he pays is, in many cases, tax deductible. That's smart.

If you're a homeowner, it's time you learned about Citizens Homeowners Privilege. The loan you can live with.

Dexter Township Studies Local 1987 Road Program

The March 3 Dexter township board of trustees meeting was devoted to a discussion of the 1987 road program. Trustees listened to recommendations from the Washtenaw County Road Commission and from township residents on what roads should be improved in the coming year.

While the county is responsible for the primary roads, it is up to the township to see to the upkeep of the secondary roads, which they pay for with township funds matched by the county.

One of the speakers at the meeting was Matt Hintzen, owner of the Inverness Inn, who made a strong case for work being done on Noah Rd., which has two high crowns making for bad visibility and slippery conditions in the winter. Neighbors from Hidden Circle also asked that work be done on their road.

Another road discussed was Huron River Dr. which is partly the responsibility of Dexter township and partly the responsibility of Webster township. There is also a possibility that Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Park Authority will help pay for part of the work.

Plans are to improve Huron River Dr. with a limestone method which entails covering gravel with limestone and then covering both with brine. This process was used last year on McKinley, Second, and Winston, and according to trustee Doug Smith, was "an immense improvement over past methods."

As part of their presentation, the Washtenaw County Road Commission explained the problem with Werkner, Stoffer, and North Territorial, east of Mast. It seems that a defect in the asphalt emulsion caused the gravel not to stick. The supplier, which is an out-of-state company, has promised to replace the material and the road commission will resurface the roads. Meanwhile, a number of motorists have experienced broken headlights and cracked windshields as a result of gravel shot up by passing cars. The road commission has made some adjustments on complaints.

At their next meeting, March 17, the Dexter township trustees will make final determinations on what roads to work on. By then they will have passed this year's budget so they will know how much money they have to work with and also should have heard from Webster township on their plans for Huron River Dr.

Trustees are still studying the bids for the feasibility study of the Portage Lake sewage system. To help them make the best decision, Washtenaw county public works director Jack Durbin is organizing field trips for trustees and task force members to visit installations done by the bidding engineering firms.
