TREVA WINANS, director of the Chelsea Senior Center, has spent the last few months visiting all the townships in the Chelsea school system to alert them to the growing problem of affordable housing for seniors. Winans brings with her on her presentations, a tape containing comments by seniors on their housing situations.

Affordable Senior Housing Needed By Many Retirees

"We need housing, affordable and with aging needs a top consideration," is the conclusion that Treva Winans, director of the Chelsea Senior Citizens Center, has reached after working at the center for eight years. She says the reason it took her so long to realize the extent of the problem was the pride that most Chelsea seniors have would not allow them to show their need. "They would have every reason, but that they could not afford it, for not participating in an activity," says Winans.

She says that she slowly became aware of housing problems as individual seniors would ask her privately if she knew of any apartments for rent since they could not afford to live where they were. Winans said she would work on a case by case basis, sometimes convincing two people who could not afford to rent an apartment alone to share one. But as time went by she began to see that the problem was greater than could be solved in this way.

Last March Winans decided to send out a questionnaire on housing to the 1,300 people on the Senior Center's mailing list, to see if her fears were correct. With a 13% response rate, which is considered statistically reliable, she found 17.4% with incomes under $10,000 pay between 49.2% and 64% of their annual income for owned or rented housing. 46% reported incomes under $15,000 (about two-thirds were married couples) and they pay approximately one-third of their income for owned or rented housing. Using government figures for determining the poverty line, Winans concluded from the survey that 17.2% of the Chelsea seniors were bordering the poverty level.

Winans blames the problem mainly on inflation, saying "the people who are seniors currently didn't earn the salaries common to people now." She said it is hard to live on Social Security at today's prices and that many seniors did not work at places that had pension plans. She sees this as a continuing problem. "Some businesses can't afford to pay retirement, yet their employees render a valuable service to the community."

After getting the survey back, Winans joined the Senior Citizens Housing Bureau in Ann Arbor to learn what she could and ended up with a position on their board. At the suggestion of the housing bureau people, Winans set up a task force to deal with the senior housing problem in Chelsea.

At present, 12 people, plus Winans, sit on the task force board, representing a cross section of the groups concerned about seniors. They are Chelsea council persons Joe Merkle and Phil Boham (Boham also represents the Chelsea Medical Center), Fred Mills and Jackie Rogers from the Chelsea school system, Katie Chapman and Rolie White as senior representatives, Connie Amick from the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, Caroline Hastings from the housing bureau in Ann Arbor, Bill Rademacher, Charlie Cameron, and Herm Koenn from Kiwanis (the Kiwanis is one of the major backers of the Chelsea Senior Center), and Cathy Thompson from Faith in Action.

The board, after learning from Winans all she knew about the housing problem, decided the next step should be educating the public. For the last few months, Winans has been visiting the nearby township governments (since the Chelsea Senior Center serves the Chelsea school district area), as well as the Chelsea village council, to share the information she has gathered.

Winans has visited Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, and Sylvan townships. She brings with her a tape recording of four anonymous seniors explaining their plight. One tells that even though he owns a house and has lived in Chelsea since 1935, he still cannot afford today's high prices.

Council Denies Two Zoning Requests

Chelsea Village council denied two zoning requests at their June 16 meeting: Arthur Machnik's application to rezone 1.98 acres from AG-1 (agricultural) to two-family residential and Robert Penskar's application for a variance to allow him to build an apartment complex.

The Machnik application applied to a plot of land on the far southwest corner of the village. It was denied on the grounds that it was "contrary to the village's general plan."

The Penskar application was to build a five-unit apartment complex on W. Middle St. on a lot which did not reach the minimum size. The council acted on this application in their capacity as the zoning board of appeals.

Dennis Petsch and Kay Sprague are the two new members of the Chelsea Recreation Council, their nominations meeting the approval of the village council at their June 16 meeting and of the school board at their June 22 meeting. The two are replacing Tom Steele and Mary Gaken, both of whom resigned from the board.

Dennis Petsch is a teacher in the Ypsilanti school system. For the last two years he has coached the academic games at Beach Middle school. He has been active in the recreation program and has served on the recreation board previously.

Kay Sprague is at present on leave from the Ann Arbor Public schools, where she is employed as a physical education teacher and is pursuing a specialist degree in educational administration. As part of this program she is participating in an internship under Jackie Rogers, learning how the community education program works and has been regularly attending recreation council meetings.

Recreation board is comprised of 11 members, including one from the village council, and one from the school system. At present, Phil Boham is the council representative, while Community Education Director Jackie Rogers represents the school system. Others on the council include John Kipfmiller, president; Ann Feeney, secretary; Peg Skelton, treasurer; Ken Gietzen, Brian Gunderson, and Ron Schuyler. There is still one opening, that of David Read who recently resigned.

If anyone in the community is interested in serving on the recreation board, they should make their wishes known to one of the present members. The board then makes a nomination which has to be approved by both the school board and the village council.

Fireworks Again On Hold As Liability Insurance Poses Problems for Village

For the third year in succession, Chelsea's traditional Fourth of July fireworks display is in jeopardy due to liability insurance problems. In addition, a special meeting of the Chelsea Village Council will have to be called sometime before July 4 in order for the fireworks to light up the fairgrounds sky.

Village resident Harold Allen, who worked on last year's display as a member of the Chelsea chapter of the Jaycees, is once again doing the legwork, this time on his own.

Allen, and Charles Pick, owner of Colonial Fireworks of Ypsilanti, made their pitch to the Chelsea Village Council at the group's June 2 meeting. They presented the village a certificate of insurance for $1,000,000 naming the village as one of the insured parties in case of an accident, as village law requires.

However, Village Manager Fritz Weber submitted the certificate to the Meadowbrook Insurance Group, the village's insurer. Nancy Mickley, municipal program account executive, told Weber that Meadowbrook was "uncomfortable" with the language of the certificate. The insurance would be provided by Fireworks Industry Captive Insurance Fund, administered by The Georgetown Group.

Consequently, last Tuesday, June 16 the village tabled action on a permit that would allow the display. The board's next regular meeting is Tuesday, July 7.

The permit became a requirement when the fireworks ordinance was enacted by the village in October of last year.

Neither Allen or Pick could be reached for comment before press time.

"I think they might be looking at other insurance companies," Weber said.

Allen could not be reached for comment as of press time.

Brenda Pick, co-owner of Colonial Fireworks, said "we're definitely going to (have the display)." However, when asked how they are going to solve the insurance problems, she said "my husband said we will not discuss this with you. You can print 'no comment'." She abruptly hung up the telephone.

Credit Union Wagon Train Camps in Chelsea Friday

A horse drawn wagon train celebrating Michigan's 150th year of statehood hit the trail Monday, June 22, as it started its two-week journey through southeastern Michigan.

Wagon Master Jake Haag claims this effort is a dream come true and thanks Automotive Federal Credit Union in Ypsilanti for making it possible. "Geri Romanowski, manager of Automotive Federal Credit Union, heard me talking about my goal to lead a wagon train through Michigan this summer in tribute of Michigan's 150th birthday and loved the idea. She rallied a number of Michigan's own credit unions behind the effort making it possible for us to undertake this trip. That's why I'm calling it the Credit Union Wagon Train."

Of special interest to Chelsea area folks is the fact that a local couple will be traveling with the wagon train.

Gary and Barbara Roderick will be participating with their two white Shetland ponies pulling a specially designed four-wheel wagon with a canvas top as the train pulls into Chelsea Fairgrounds Friday evening, June 26.

Some 40 wagons are expected to participate in the train, which gathered June 19 at the Pika Plaza, Exit 138, I-94 and M-127 in Jackson before departing June 22 for a trek through southern Michigan ending in Dearborn in time for Independence Day festivities.

The Big Top Is Coming To Chelsea

A traveling Circus makes its own world. It materializes as if by magic, splashes an array of glitter, music, daring, and excitement into the ordinary world, and then slips away, with only a romantic echo to remember in the world 'Circus,' so said the World Telegram publication about a legend come to life.

America's finest, the Kelly-Miller Bros. three-ring circus, will perform in Chelsea for one day only, show times are at 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. The Big Top will be set up at the Chelsea Fairgrounds. The public is invited to the show lot early on the morning of June 29 at 8 a.m. to watch the arrival, unloading, and set up. Little by little, the Big Top will take shape; other tents for animals, side show and concession departments will fill the lot. David Rawls, manager, will be on hand to oversee it all.

Kelly-Miller Bros. three-ring circus was founded in 1938 by Obert Kelly and Dorcas Miller and has always been a traditional tented American circus.

Local sponsors for the circus are the Chelsea Lions Club and discount advance tickets may be obtained through members of that organization or at Chelsea Community Education, Chelsea Pharmacy, and Parts Peddler (Chelsea and Dexter).

Bus Ridership Low, AATA Plans Push

Ann Arbor Transportation Authority officials plan a big marketing push this summer in an attempt to increase ridership on the new Chelsea-Dexter-Ann Arbor bus route.

The route, according to AATA Executive Director Michael Bolton, has averaged 36 riders per day, with a high of 54 riders. Those numbers exclude the first week of service when there was a 25 cent promotional fare in effect. During that first week, as many as 100 passengers a day rode the bus. The current fare is $1.50 each way.

"We'll really start to get worried if the trend continues to December," Bolton said.

"We want to do some things this summer and fall to get people to try the bus. We still think there's a market there."

"We'd like to try to find a way of marketing or pushing the route that we haven't thought of. We'll have a big splurge around art fair since parking in Ann Arbor will be so bad."

Bolton added that AATA plans to talk to passengers to find out what they like and don't like about the service. AATA also wants to find out where the ridership is coming from.

PETER FLINTOFF, president of the Historic Chelsea District Courthouse committee, a group dedicated to raising money for the restoration of the 14th district courthouse, received $400 from Pat Paulsell, president of the Chelsea Area Players, and $200 from Dave Kaercher, owner of the Woodshed Eatery. The Chelsea players pledged half of the net proceeds from their winter show would go for the restoration, while Kaercher had promised $1 for each person attending the Afterglow event at his restaurant. The players' winter show was a courthouse drama, "Night of January 18." Flintoff stated that the committee is just $5,000 short of reaching their goal.

CREDIT UNION WAGON TRAIN will be coming to Chelsea and camping out at the Chelsea Fairgrounds this Friday, June 26. About 40 wagons are expected to participate, including the Shetland pony-drawn wagon of Gary and Barbara Roderick of Chelsea. The train began in Jackson on Monday and is scheduled to wind up July 3-4 in Dearborn. The event is being organized by a group of credit unions in the Ypsilanti area.

During hot, muggy weather, Chelsea school district's swimming pool was jammed last week with children and adults, sixth graders attended summer music program, and 15 school district employees still had jobs. The 2.9 millage increase for three years was passed, 1,092-1,016, at the June election, and all the above programs and jobs were saved.

A young woman jogging along Bush Rd. just east of McClure Rd. was chased down by the driver of a pick-up truck. Sheriff's deputies reported that the victim escaped with minor injuries after she broke away from her assailant.

Glady and Robert Reed of Lincoln St. received diplomas at commencement ceremonies for completion of the adult high school course. The Reeds' six children, five of whom have already graduated from high school, hosted a party for their parents inviting family, friends, and in this case co-workers.

Beach seventh and eighth grade band and string orchestra students performed at Bob-Lo Island June 14. Warren Mayer, middle school band director, led the parade to dock-side, where the band and orchestra, under direction of Carol Palms, entertained passengers disembarking from boats.

was arrested by Sergeant Lenard McDougall and officer Jerry Ringe June 16, after returning to the scene of the crime, Chelsea State Bank. Geoghegan was charged with fraudulently uttering and publishing. He allegedly cashed four stolen checks totalling $1,550, forging Patrice Dittmar's signature.

Daniel Murphy's Chrysler station wagon was burned in a barn fire behind his home at 116 East St. The early morning fire severely damaged the barn and produced enough heat to shatter the windshield and melt almost everything under the hood.

Shelley Baize of 140 Island Lake Rd., graduated with high distinction from Ferris State College in Big Rapids. She earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Office Administration.

Jerry Hughes, a resident of Cassidy Lake Technical school, graduated June 17, from Jackson Community college. He was awarded a degree in electrical technology.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Common Cause Calls for Public Funding, Low Threshold
Partial public financing of legislative elections similar to the system now used in gubernatorial races, and a continued low threshold of contributions which must be reported has been proposed by Common Cause of Michigan.

Acting executive director of the public interest group, Cele Friestater, said proposals in the House Oversight Committee to increase the reporting threshold to end reporting of loans which are repaid during a reporting period are invitations to concealment.

And, she said, "In light of the present crisis of confidence in the relationships between legislators and lobbyists, any effort to reduce reporting of contributions or financial transactions could be regarded by the voters of Michigan as an attempt at a partial cover-up."

Friestater said she hopes the "crisis"—stemming from an alleged bribe attempt of a legislator by a lobbyist—makes people more aware of problems in various campaign financing and lobby laws.

Legislation in House committee would increase the $20.01 floor for candidates to report contributions to $25, which a committee aide said would make the amount consistent with itemizing requirements in other sections of the law.

However, some legislators favor a higher threshold to $30-$35, more in line with common prices for fundraising tickets.

Friestater said partial public financing, in which a candidate receives matching funds for private contributions, would help reverse the trend toward increasing reliance on political action committee (PAC) money by legislative candidates.

A Common Cause study showed the percentage of all legislative candidates increased from 42 percent in 1978 to 54 percent in 1982. And among members elected to the House in 1984, the percentage was 57 percent, while 27 of the 100 members received at least 70 percent of their campaign funds from PACs.

House Oversight Committee chair Maxine Berman (D-Southfield) said there may be too much PAC money, but even then, she believes the bulk of money is aligned more with like philosophies than trying to influence lawmakers' opinions.

"You're looking at a system which clearly has its flaws, but it's difficult to figure out how to change it. The disclosure laws are very adequate. The bottom line is if somebody wants to break the law, they will find a way to do it," she said.

Berman defended increasing the individual contribution limits and tying future increases to inflation, saying the trend to increased PAC money is, in part, due to limits on individual contributions that were never raised after 1978. Her package of bills would not change the PAC contribution limits, but would raise individual limits to $2,150 from $1,700 for a governor's race, $600 from $450 for a Senate race and $350 from $250 for a House race.

She said public financing would be a great idea for legislators to reduce PAC influences, but does not believe it to be realistic because of the potentially tremendous cost for the $148 seats.

Friestater opposed increasing PAC contribution limits, as well as pro-

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I once heard a feller say he was a animal lover and he didn't have anything agin snakes, it was just that he believed in killing snakes now and identifying em later. That policy may keep the feller from gitting snakebit, but it don't work good fer snakes. I thought about that recent when I read about the American ship in the Persian Gulf that was hit by a Iraq rocket. It was another case of paying with American lives for a Mideast policy where all the countries go about everthing like they're killing snakes.

After the target was identified and Iraq said how sorry it was, then what? America keeps on playing the unlucky bull in that china shop because we got to have the china to keep our country going. It was another terrible reminder that after all is said and done in Washington, a heap more is said than done.

Fer instant, Clem Webster brung up the Federal budget proposal during the session at the country store Saturday night. Not all the talk, not all the breast beating about morganizing the unborn, not even a law passed by Congress, Clem said, can break Congress of its addiction. The fix is easy and the withdrawal pain is to great, he said, so the honorables keep right on doing the dishonorable thing. They preach cut and practice spend, Clem said, and to make matters worst the Reagan Administration says spend but don't tax.

The $1 trillion budget approved by the Senate calls for $134 billion more outgo than income, and the House is making no headway at all in bringing the level of red ink anywhere near the $108 billion limit set by the Gramm-Rudman law. But, Clem said, you can bet your bottom dollar that ever member of Congress is telling folks back home he is doing his best to look after them.

Meanwhile, Clem went on, the U.S. Postal Service follows a $304 million surplus last year with word that a 25-cent stamp and hikes in all classes is coming next year. The mail is supposed to run like a private business, so it is doing what Citicorp done. The country's biggest bank fixed its books to show a $2.5 billion loss fer the second quarter so it will have plenty of reserve when foreign countries that ain't expected to pay off loans don't. The post office is lining up more revenue to fund a pay-retirement contract being worked out with more than 700,000 workers. Both are letting the public taxpayer take kicks in the head in advance, was Clem's words.

Republican Ed Doolittle put up his usual defense about laying in the bed Democrats made, but the reifiers were ready to move on the agender. It was Bug Hookum that took note of new talk recent about life on Mars. Everybody was full agreed they may be folks up there wondering about us down here, but on the other hand they might not be. To be on the safe side, Bug said, scientist had ought to crank the Mars matter into their Star Wars defense that is based on killing now and identifying later. What if one of them unidentified objects is peaceful Mars explorers, Bug wanted to know.

Actual, Mars economy and politics would have to be studied ahead of any cultural exchange. Are they coming to borrow from us or will they be leaning toward the Russian camp? On the outside chanct Mars is better off than Earth, I'm fer holding up on Star Wars til we find out. I could use a small home improvement loan.

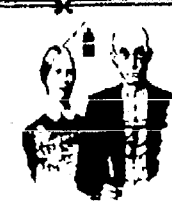

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.Fire Dept.
Makes 33 Runs

Chelsea Fire Department made 33 runs in May, eight fewer than a year ago, according to a monthly report submitted to the village council by Chief Bud Hankerd.

The village had the largest share of runs, 12. Sylvan township had seven, Lima township, six, Dexter and Lyndon townships, three each, and Waterloo township, two.

Medical emergencies accounted for eight runs, grass fires, six, auto alarms, five, personal injuries, four, building fires, two, and miscellaneous runs, eight.

A total of 185 runs have been made in 1987, 10 more than last year. The department used 688 manhours in May, for a total of 5,867.34 for the year.

Huffman Family Reunion Held Sunday in Mulliken

The 66th Huffman family reunion was held Sunday, June 21 at the Mulliken township fire hall meeting room. About 60 relatives were able to attend.

Those attending from the Chelsea area were part of the families from Laurance, Fremont, Duane and Winston Boyer, and Mac Packard.

David Boyer and family from Germany had just returned from serving two years in service there. They were happy to be able to be there to visit with relatives.

A bountiful dinner was enjoyed by all.

A short business meeting was held. It was voted to hold next year's reunion in Chelsea. Entertainment was an auction of donated articles. Also a bingo for all ages was played with prizes that were donated.

Officers were elected with Eulabelle Packard as vice-president.

The Huffman clan was former residents of Roxand township in the Eaton county area.

The Boyer brothers will act as hosts for next year's gathering at Pierce Park, Chelsea, on the third Sunday in June. A video tape was made of the meeting and group.

Wide Farm Equipment Bill Goes to Senate

A bill to allow wide farm equipment to move on public roads has passed the Senate Transportation Committee and will now be considered by the full Michigan Senate.

Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, said the bill "recognizes the need to move farm equipment, but also recognizes that the motoring public has to be assured that the farm equipment will be moved in a safe manner."

"The bill says that farmers can move wide farm equipment during daylight hours, but they do have to look out for the motoring public. According to the bill, farmers cannot go left or center to go around a mailbox or obstacle and impede the flow of traffic."

Nelson said the bill calls for the farmers to stay right of center and to have additional lighting on their equipment.

50th Fair Queen Event Looking for Eligible Girls

Although it's just the beginning of summer, organizers of the 1987 Fair Queen Program have begun their search for Chelsea and Dexter girls interested in taking part in the Sept. 5 event.

This year the program organizers insist it is not a beauty pageant, as such, will take place on Saturday of fair week, the final day of what will be the 50th annual fair. It is being billed as "The Grand Finale." The change was necessary because, for the first time in several years, school will be in session during the fair and Friday night is football night.

Girls who will be in high school and are residents of either Chelsea or Dexter are eligible to enter. They must be sponsored by a high school class or community club or organization and must attend either Chelsea or Dexter High school.

Each girl will be judged on poise, appearance, a talent and a personal interview with the judges. The talent portion may be either a performing art, such as singing or dancing, or a creative art, such as sewing or painting. Each girl's choice, which must be presented on stage, is subject to prior approval by the Fair Queen Committee.

Each sponsoring organization must have a float for its queen candidate to ride on during the fair parade. Failure to have a float may result in disqualification.

Also, each sponsor must provide a convertible automobile for its candidate to ride in during Tuesday's Children's Parade.

Deadline for entry is Monday, Aug. 3.

For more information contact Penny Trinkle, 475-3442, or Kathy Powers Patrick, 475-8912, after 6 p.m.

Circus Manure Can Give Joy to Organic Gardeners

Does your lettuce look limp? Are your radishes looking ragged? Kelly-Miller Bros. Circus has just the answer to pep up your ailing garden.

The circus has mounds of exotic manure. There's an inexhaustible supply of mineral-rich fertilizer generated constantly in gargantuan proportions by the elephant herd on the circus lot every day. At a time when organic gardening has proven popular and healthy, this is a real wind-fall for local gardeners.

In cities where Kelly-Miller Bros. performs, a lot of money has been spent to remove the manure which accumulates; so, circus officials are glad to supply the manure to interested farmers and amateur gardeners.

Ernest Cameron Named '87 Michigan 'EMT of the Year'

Ernest L. "Ernie" Cameron, of Huron Valley Ambulance (HVA), has been named "Emergency Medical Technician of the Year" by the Michigan Association of Emergency Medical Technicians.

Cameron, an EMT specialist for HVA, received the award at EMS Expo '87, held May 29-31 in Battle Creek.

Cameron is a Dexter resident and was chosen "EMT of the Year" for his professional and volunteer service.

He has been employed with HVA since the non-profit community ambulance service was organized in 1981.

He served three years as an EMT and four years as an EMT specialist.

He is also certified as an emergency medical dispatch instructor and teaches EMT students in HVA's training programs.

Cameron also serves as volunteer scouting co-ordinator for Explorer Post 395, which is affiliated with HVA.

He and his wife Kathy, also an HVA staff member, have been honored for their contributions to Exploring, the career development program of the Boy Scouts.

The Camerons were instrumental in having the post's mobile command unit donated to HVA by Nicholson Enterprises.

The command vehicle can serve as a re-supply unit for up to five ambulances at a disaster scene.

HVA's Explorer Post 395 is the most active Explorer post in the five-county Wolverine Boy Scout Council, according to the district executives at the council office.

Last year, Post 395 Explorers placed first, second and 15th in national first-aid competition sponsored by the American Red Cross.

Cameron was nominated for the "EMT of the Year" award by fellow members of the Michigan Association of Emergency Medical Technicians and selected by the association's board of directors.

The state-wide professional association includes approximately 380 licensed EMT's, and sponsors continuing education courses for its members to keep them informed on pending legislation in the area of emergency medical services.

EMS Expo is the annual state conference sponsored by MA/EMT and the Michigan Association of Ambulance Services.

David's Home is Buying His Family a Second Car.

When David needed money to buy a car for his son, he simply wrote a check on his Citizens Homeowners Privilege Account. This personal line of credit — secured by his home — makes it possible for him to bypass normal application procedures, and write a loan for himself whenever he needs it. That's convenient. And because the amount is added to his mortgage, the interest he pays is, in many cases, tax deductible. That's smart.

If you're a homeowner, it's time you learned about Citizens Homeowners Privilege. The loan you can live with.

Wagon Train . . .

Edward N. Hines Drive, Dearborn Heights.

July 3-4, Ford Field on Monroe St., Dearborn.

The wagon train launch site at the Paka Plaza featured pioneer displays, handicrafts and free entertainment, including a special square dance. It won't be the only square dance along the way, however. Charles (Bud) Garde, manager of Willow Run Employees Federal Credit Union, is planning a free square dance at the UAW Local 735 hall. Professional square dance caller Jack King will be joined by several other guest callers. Three levels of dancing—"Beginners," "Mainstream" and "Plus"—will be offered so that everyone can join in the fun.

The credit union wagon train should not be confused with the "Michigan SesquiTrain '87," another wagon train slated to travel through Michigan in June. That event is endorsed by the Michigan Sesquicentennial Commission and sponsored by the Michigan Department of Agriculture; the credit union wagon train is being independently organized.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

In reference to V. Steele's letter about public vs. Christian schools, I have this reply.

As a student at Chelsea High, I have never been taught drugs and rock-n-roll as V. Steele stated.

Chelsea High provides an education for students of all levels of ability. Math, English, science, social studies, and many other subjects are taught by well educated and knowledgeable faculty members.

The teachers at Chelsea High are being paid to relate their knowledge of their subject to the students. They're not being paid to teach morals. What kind of morals would they teach? Each one of them are different individuals. Therefore, their morals and values will differ. So, who is to say which is right and which is wrong?

I have never learned of morals or values from school. I have learned them from my parents as I'm sure many other kids have also. We have been told from the day of birth what is right and wrong. As one enters high school, a solid structure of morals has been established and no longer needs to be provided, especially from the school system.

I'm not neglecting that there aren't problems at Chelsea High and other high schools around because there are. But I do feel that the problems aren't as extreme as they used to be.

Chelsea High school is an excellent educational institution and it is always striving to help the students in any way possible. Therefore, curriculum evaluations are done to make sure that students receive a more than adequate education.

And in doing so, CHS has annually prepared a great percentage of graduates to further their education at colleges and universities.

In June of 1988, I, among others, will proudly hold a diploma from Chelsea High school in my hand.

Kelly Stump,
Senior at CHS.

Dear Editor,

A lot of folks around Chelsea complain about not having enough to do, and not just senior citizens either. Don't they know there's a whole wonderful world for them on television? Even in summer reruns there is a chance to see the shows you didn't see the first time because you were on another channel.

Begin your day with news and talk. Jane Pauley is cute and Brian Gumble is very smart and handsome. Joan London is okay but too pushy. Willard Scott cracks me up!

More talk with Phil and Ophra, as long as it isn't sex again.

Game shows are fun and exciting, and that Vanna is a living doll! I wish I had her figure!

Take my advice and skip the soap operas—all sex. There is usually a good clean movie on UHF or cable.

News again (Mort and Carmin), more games, and settle in for the best programs, prime time. Angela Lansbury sure is sly, isn't she? Don't you wish Perry Mason was on every week? Who told that fellow on Moonlighting he could sing? Too much baseball but you can always turn the channel. Pat Robertson if there's nothing else.

Night owls can end the day with Johnny, Ed and the Doc. Thank goodness Joan Rivers is gone!

To bed and up again for another day of TV!

How could anyone think there is not enough to do?

Angeline Harris,
Lima Township.

Lobbyist Predicts Governor Will Sign Speed Limit Bill

Michigan Farm Bureau's senior legislative counsel Bob Smith says Governor Blanchard should sign the speed limit increase bill now on his desk.

"It would seem to us to be a good idea to get that part of the legislation finished. Considering that we are now coming into the middle of the tourist season, it would be very helpful in moving traffic," Smith said.

The controversial radar detectors should be dealt with as a separate issue, he said.

'Florida Day' in Chelsea Slated

On Friday, July 10 at 5 p.m. there will be a "Florida Day" in Chelsea. Laurance Boyer has made arrangements for this get together for the "Chelsea Day" in Florida group. The North school cafeteria has been obtained for this summer gathering. All attending should bring their own table service and dish to pass. A suggestion from the committee is to pass this word along to any of the family or friends who enjoy vacationing there, or are now living in the Florida area. No notices will be mailed for this occasion.

Hunting Retriever Clubs Forming To Train Retrieving Dogs for Field

The Chelsea Standard, Wednesday, June 24, 1987

The big black Lab shivered with excitement as the sound of the duck call broke the silence of the spring morning. The sitting dog tensed but remained otherwise motionless as a green headed mallard suddenly appeared over the pond to his right front, then one straight away past the decoys. Boom! Three times the 12-gauge in the hands of his master roared (twice for the marked birds and once for the blind), as the mallards dropped into the marsh. His eyes riveted to the spot where the last duck had fallen, the Lab waited for the hunter's command before crashing into the water to begin his pinpoint, tender-mouthed retrieves.

Duck hunting in the spring? Well, yes and no.

The Labrador retriever, sporting the unlikely name of Webster, was one of the seasoned entries in a recent "hunt" of the Michigan Hunting Retriever Club (M.H.R.C.), a newly formed organization dedicated to the training of the retrieving breeds for the field. Webster's owner, Bob Steiner, of Chelsea, is the founding father and president of the organization.

"This is a club conceived by hunters for hunters, and others who want to see the hunting instincts of these fine dogs preserved and enhanced," Steiner, a tool-and-die maker, says.

The hunts are open to all retrieving breeds, including but not limited to Labrador, Golden, and Chesapeake Bay retrievers.

The hunting retriever movement in the U. S. has blossomed in the last few years as sportsmen have discovered that they can sharpen their dogs' skills in the field, enjoy the camaraderie of fellow hunters and dog lovers, and in effect stretch their hunting season to a full year instead of the current one or two months.

Dogs that are able to complete the tests and accumulate enough points (100)—in these typical upland and waterfowl hunting situations—are awarded the title of "Hunting Retriever Champion" and registered as such with the United Kennel Club, based in Kalamazoo.

"We emphasize that the dogs compete against a standard and not against each other," Steiner says. "Thus, every dog can be a winner in theory, although the tests are no pushover. To win a championship a dog must be a PhD hunter."

The hunting retriever stakes were started to fill the gap between hunters and trailers. Licensed field trials, demand training and performance beyond the skills and time available to the average hunter or dog fancier. Similar movements have sprung up among pointing dog fans who wanted close-working dogs for the walking hunter as opposed to the big-running dogs handled from horseback in field trials.

"The typical duck hunter needs a dog who can sit quietly in a boat all day, retrieve ducks dropped within gun-range, run down crippled birds, and do an occasional blind retrieve," Steiner says. Blind retrieves involve the dog responding to hand signals from the handler, who directs the dog to a bird the dog did not see fall. Such retrieves may be up to 100 yards.

The movement is also good news for the pheasant and grouse hunter in Michigan. The average hunter has long known that the retriever breeds are excellent flushing dogs, but up to now, no field events have been available to test their ability to quarter, find and flush upland birds in tandem with their renowned ability as waterfowl retrievers.

Now, in addition to the simulated duck hunting situations, dogs at HRC events may be tested on their abilities to quarter and track game in the field.

Wild birds are not endangered at the HRC hunts, since the ducks, pheasants, and quail used are domestically raised strains. The game shot at the trial is usually on someone's table the next day for dinner.

Steiner believes the hunting retriever movement may well be the salvation of certain retriever breeds as hunting dogs. The popular Labs and Golden Retrievers have started to suffer the same fate as Cocker Spaniels and Irish Setters, which have had their hunting abilities bred out of them as a result of indiscriminate breeding purely for looks.

The new clubs will also benefit the lesser known breeds such as the Flat-coated retriever, Irish Water Spaniel, American Water Spaniel, and Curly-coated retriever.

Current field trials, with their intense competition and elimination process, have all but relegated such breeds to the sidelines. Since the new hunting retriever clubs will emphasize reasonable tests, typical of a day's hunting, these breeds should have an excellent opportunity to demonstrate their talents as hunting companions. The hunts are limited entry (class A, 80 days) solely to assure the handler that even if the dog fails to complete a test early in the day, it is still given the opportunity to compete in all remaining tests.

The popular Springer Spaniel, already noted as a supreme pheasant dog, will also get a chance to show its stuff as a duck dog.

"It will now be possible to breed both for field and bench show," Steiner says. "Our tests are demanding, but not beyond the capabilities of a retriever that has retained its basic hunting instincts."

Field trial advocates and show breeders have long been snarling at each other over the flaws they see in each others' programs. Trialers claim the bench people emphasize beauty to the extent that field ability is ignored and eventually lost. Show breeders say that the trialers produce dogs that are hyper and end up looking like greyhounds instead of traditional retrievers.

The hunting retriever movement may well be the middle ground, Steiner believes. Besides hunters, the "hunts" also attract breeders who are eager to prove their dogs' abilities to serve the sportsman as well as the person merely looking for an amiable companion. With 20 million hunters in the country it is a market not to be ignored.

Don and Sharon Irish-Fowler of Howell, are breeders of champion Labradors and are proud of the way they have managed to breed for both beauty and field ability. Their Champion Lab, "Sunlight," is a pheasant dog par excellence, yet hits the water after ducks with a flying leap.

The Fowlers welcome the new movement and have offered their 80-acre farm, home of their Sunlight Kennels, with three duck ponds and acres of wheat stubble fields, for use by the Michigan Hunting Retriever Club and another hunting retriever club, the North American Hunting Retriever Association (NAHRA).

Although she works full time as a mail carrier and competes in bench and obedience trials, Sharon is also training her black Lab, Rooky, to run in hunting retriever events.

Steiner's group is the second HRC formed in this state. The Great Lakes HRC, based in Kalamazoo, serves the southwestern part of the state. Nationally there are 30 clubs with more forming each month.

The hunting retriever movement attracts people from all walks of life—brought together by their common love of the outdoors and good retrievers. Steiner's group includes a judge, veterinarian, school teacher, various skilled tradesmen, and a dentist, but most of all hunters wanting to help and be helped train their dogs.

Dogs may be entered in one of three classes—Started, Seasoned, and Finished. The Started dog stake has relatively simple tests on land and water designed to test the dog's basic desire to retrieve and its trainability. Seasoned dog tests require more control and may involve double retrieves on land and water, with diversion birds and a short sight blind retrieve. Finished dogs may be asked to mark and retrieve multiple birds and do multiple blind retrieves, which will be through heavier cover and over longer distances. These are the PhD's of the H. R. C.

Steiner's newly formed group holds monthly training sessions for members at the Fowlers' farm to bolster the basis for the existence of this club, that being, for hunters to assist each other achieve a higher level of training for their dogs. A formal hunt will take place May 23 and 24 at Sunlight Kennels north of Howell. Visitors are welcome and there is no admission charge.

Plans are now completed for a dog-training seminar featuring the well-known author and trainer of hunting retrievers, Robert Milner of Grand Junction, Tenn. Robert is the owner of the Wildrose Kennels in Grand Junction, and his excellent book, "Retriever Training for the Duck Hunter" and his video, "Retriever Training, A Better Way" are both excellent guides to gentle effective training.

This seminar is open to the public and will be held March 28 at Schoolcraft Community College in Livonia. For further information on the seminar contact Annie Cogo 313-349-7355.

Information about any of the other events or the H. R. C. may be obtained by calling or writing the M. H. R. C. 313-475-2195, 17500 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea 48118-9401.

The program is administered by the U.S. Department of Labor.

BOB STEINER of Waterloo Rd., president of Hunting Retriever Club, is preparing to launch the dummy while three-year-old Labrador "Webster" is all aquiver waiting for the signal to retrieve a pigeon or a dummy. These daily practices are enjoyed by both the owner and dog.

"WEBSTER" three-year-old Labrador Retriever of Robert and Alice Steiner, rests beside seven-week-old "Misty" who's chewing on the duck call whistle and feeling secure on the arm of his owner, Bob Steiner. "Misty" enjoys the daily trip to practice in the fields.

"MISTY" a seven-week-old Labrador puppy is observing the take off of experienced three-year-old "Webster" when their owner, Robert Steiner, kicks out the dummies with his modified rifle.

Affordable Senior Housing Needed By Many Retirees

Another is a widow, born and raised in Chelsea, who cannot afford the monthly rent and utilities on her apartment. A third lives on a small farm, but even though she is having trouble making ends meet, does not want to leave Chelsea.

A third moved here in 1980 with his wife and has seriously depleted his savings because his insurance did not pay the nursing home costs incurred by his wife during her last years. All these people want to stay in the Chelsea area, near their children and friends. All enthusiastically agree that a senior housing center would improve the quality of their lives.

Winans did not go to the governments to convince them of any pre-conceived course of action. She says her main purpose was to alert them to the problem, feeling that since it took her a while to figure it out, even when she was working every day with seniors, that government officials probably did not know about it. She said all the governments listened to her and were "friendly and courteous."

The most enthusiastic response came from Dexter township. Dexter township supervisor Jim Drolett reported that he found the presentation "interesting and moving," while trustee Doug Smith called the presentation "impressive." They told Winans that they liked the idea of the townships pooling their resources to address the problem.

Winans' hope is that once the public is aware of the problem, that there will be a grass roots movement to solve it. She says "Chelsea is a caring community. They can raise money for the Depot and the Courthouse. It would seem that they could raise money for senior housing if they try."

Winans believes that the main reason this problem has not been addressed previously is that with the Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home right here in town, most believe the problem is solved. But Winans points out that the Methodist Home serves people from a greater area, and that its prices are for those with high or moderate incomes. A new senior project planned by the Chelsea Hospital will also serve those in this group.

Another problem, which Winans refers to again and again, is the pride of Chelsea seniors. She says, "You don't hear this age group pleading poverty."

Winans would like to see non-profit senior citizen housing built that is locally run, not a federal government project. She envisions a place that would offer planned activities, well-cooked meals, and companionship. She insists that it not be a "poor house," but that rents should be assessed on a sliding scale with people of all income brackets welcome.

Winans has heard from the Senior Housing bureau of two options tried in other communities, one of having a trailer park for seniors, or another of building duplex-like units where people have their own bedrooms and sitting rooms but share some common areas for eating and socializing.

Winans says, "I don't expect pie in the sky miracles, but I am going to keep beating my drum, saying 'there is a need, what are you going to do?' as long as I need to."

One Helluva Bike Ride Slated July 11

The Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society will hold its 11th annual One Helluva Ride on Saturday, July 11.

This popular bicycle tour attracts more than 1,000 riders from all over Michigan and many nearby states. The routes of 35, 74, and 108 miles begin at Wylie Middle school in Dexter. All three routes pass through Hell, Mich. Riders are warned that there have been reported sightings of the devil itself in past years, so keep an eye out. The ride continues over well-paved, low-traffic rural roads in western Washtenaw and eastern Jackson counties and ends back at Wylie school.

Riders are asked to have their bicycles in good repair and carry basic emergency equipment, including pump, patch kit, spare tube, and tool to change tires and make minor adjustments. There will be a mechanic at the school for emergency repairs. There will also be sag wagons to help with on-the-road problems and, if necessary, bring in riders with problems.

Registration is $12 before the ride and $15 day of ride. The fee includes a buffet-style lunch on all the routes, six-color embroidered patch, map, entertainment at ride start and in Hell, and iced watermelon at end of ride. There will be a $1 rebate for riders wearing helmets. Registration forms are available at most area bike shops and the Ann Arbor Public Library. Registration at Wylie school is from 7:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

Call 994-0044 or 973-6323 for more information.

Most turtles deserve their timid reputations, hastily withdrawing their heads, feet and tails into their shells at the slightest sign of danger. But, according to National Wildlife magazine, this act of cowardice has paid off. While more aggressive reptiles, such as dinosaurs, have died out, turtles have thrived for some 250 million years on every continent but Antarctica. Maybe the dinosaurs would still be with us today, if they, like the turtles, had carried their homes with them.

ENJOYING A GAME OF SIX-HANDED EUCHRE at the Chelsea Senior Citizen Center were, starting on the left and moving clockwise, director of the center's nutrition program Arlene Larson, Harold Schauer, Lily Worden, Ralph Snyder, Abbie Hanson, and Skeets Worden. According to Larson, the group starts playing at 9:30 in the morning and will continue as long as they have enough players.

DORIS SCHAUER, who describes herself as a "card widow," read a magazine while she waited for the euchre game at the senior center to finish. Shown also reading is George Marshall.

died in a boat accident on Cavanaugh Lake. After suffering a heart attack in the boat, he fell into the water. According to police records, with his clothing caught in the propeller, and with no one to steer the boat, it kept circling until it was close to shore near the George Boots cottage and it was Mrs. Boots who brought him out of the water. Rowe, who was a member of the Chelsea Rod & Gun club and UAW-CIO Local No. 437, was employed at Federal Screw Works.

Homer Conley was elected plant chairman and Albert Forner, vice-chairman in the Central Fibre Products Co. Union election in the shop.

After publication in The Standard, a 1904 photograph of the Chelsea Junior Stars baseball team taken in back of the Chelsea State Bank building was identified with the following players: Henry Mullin, Wirt McLaren, Bert Steinbach, Russell McGuinness, Thomas Kelly, Ed. Steinbach, Guy Mack, Gus BeGole, Lee Chandler, Howard Holmes or Ray Cook, Paul Bacon or Art Raffrey.

At a special meeting of the Village Council, contracts for curb, gutter work and sidewalk construction were awarded to Grass Lake bidders, Leslie Anderson and Hauser & Schoening.

Just call him "four eyes": Rattlesnakes have four sight organs. According to Ranger Rick magazine, two of these organs look and work very much like our eyes. The other two are in front of the regular eyes and are called pit organs. Pit organs are very sensitive to heat. With these "eyes" the snake can "see" the heat rays coming from its prey's body. Even if its regular eyes are blindfolded, the rattlesnake can very easily strike at and kill its prey.

ANOTHER CARD WIDOW, Audrey Snyder, often passes the time waiting for the senior center's euchre game to end by crocheting.

CHIROPRACTIC The Winning Edge!!!

Optimum athletic performance requires top physical condition, and yet the very sport we participate in often puts enormous strain on the body and spine. Sudden twists and jolts may cause the bones (vertebrae) in the spine to move, causing spinal nerve pressure which affects body functions. Ironically, well-conditioned athletes may experience only minor discomfort, yet their overall performance may suffer. Simple spinal adjustments may make the difference between competition at your very best and a painful reminder of what might have been. Call our office for a spinal analysis to see if chiropractic can give you the winning edge.

Beth Kimball in National Girl Scout Riding Program

Beth Kimball, daughter of Cathy and Marty Kimball, has been accepted to a national Girl Scout riding program in Wyoming. Chosen from applicants from all over the United States, Kimball will attend the "Cadettes on Horseback" camp from July 25 to Aug. 8.

Kimball is a member of Girl Scout Troop No. 98, led by Barb Vosters and Judy Osinski. She began her interest in horseback riding in 1984 when she attended Camp Linden. The next summer she took a two-day horseriding trip in the Waterloo Recreation Area with her troop.

To qualify for the camp, Kimball had to fill out an application and then be interviewed by the local Girl Scout council, the Huron Valley Council, before her application was submitted on the national level.

The camp will be held at Girl Scout National Center West, a 14,000 acre site bordered by the Big Horn National Forest near Ten Sleep, Wyo. Forty girls, between 13 and 15 years of age, will learn to ride across sagebrush flats, over rock trails, and through lush canyons. Participants will live in tents, do some of their own cooking and generally "rough it" during their stay.

ANCIENT STATION BENCH is used by Lee Fahrner, chairman of the Depot Association, and architect Arthur Lindauer as they review restoration plans for the 1880 building interior. Campaign is underway to raise funds for the restoration.

Depot Assoc. Determining Restoration Contract Sequence

Trustees of the Chelsea Depot Association have sought the advice of architect Arthur L. Lindauer regarding the best starting sequence of contracts to restore the interior of the station. There is a series of immediate needs for the 107-year-old building including wall washing, floor repair or replacement, building insulation, heating and cooling, electrical installations, painting and modern lavatories.

Some projects will have to be deferred until more money is available. Some improvements must wait until certain other construction activities can precede them. These are the questions under review by the architect.

Lindauer met with Lee Fahrner, Depot chairman, last week for a conference in the station and Lindauer's recommendations are expected by the trustees at their next regular meeting July 2.

The need for funds is urgent if the first phase of restoration is to be started and completed by the end of the summer. A special appeal has been sent to leading business and civic organizations for major donations. In addition, the 10 trustees of the depot association are contracting individual donors and families in the hope that many will be able to contribute $100 or more.

"All donations, regardless of size are needed and welcome," Fahrner declared. "We are striving to raise $25,000 locally in a matter of weeks. After that we hope to secure grants of $75,000 or more from large charitable foundations in Michigan. The more we do for ourselves, the more the foundations will be encouraged to do for us."

OPEN DOOR at east trackside entrance reveals hardwood construction of station floor. If sufficient funds are contributed, the new floor will also be of hardwood maple. There are several alternatives.

IN THE RESTORED DEPOT, men's room will be replaced by two modern unisex lavatories, each large enough to accommodate wheel chairs. A utility closet will also occupy the corridor between the two main rooms of the depot.

Carol Gerstler Is National Collegiate Award Winner

The United States Achievement Academy has announced that Carol Gerstler has been named a United States National Collegiate Award winner in Business. This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10% of all American college students. Carol, who attends Marygrove College was nominated for this National Award by John Barbour, a professor at the school. Carol will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Collegiate Yearbook, published nationally.

Carol is the daughter of Jean and Eugene Gerstler.

Use of Artificial Sweeteners Can Reduce Decay Rate

Q: What are some of the differences between different artificial sweeteners?

A: For the last 30 years or so Americans have been consuming artificial sweeteners in massive amounts, starting with the "one calorie cola" in an effort to prevent weight gain. Artificial sweeteners include saccharin, aspartame (Nutra-Sweet), sugar alcohols (xylitol and sorbitol), and cyclamates.

Saccharin has been in use longer than any of the other artificial sweeteners. It is a no-calorie additive that does not promote tooth decay and is often used instead of sugar in foods, beverages, chewable vitamins, toothpastes, and mouthwashes.

Sugar alcohols like xylitol and sorbitol are found naturally in many foods. According to the Academy of General Dentistry, they are producers commercially for sweetening confections, such as chewing gums and candies. Some recent research found that xylitol users had a 90% decrease in cavities compared with those who used natural sugar. However a small number of chronic sugarless gum chewers have developed plaque in their mouths that will produce decay in the presence of sugar alcohols. They also have the unpleasant side effect of causing increased gastro-intestinal gas in some people.

Cyclamate is a food additive that was used heavily in the 1960's. It is a no-calorie sweetener that does not cause tooth decay. The Food & Drug Administration removed it from the market in 1969 when it was implicated as a cancer causing agent.

Aspartame (Nutra-Sweet) is currently very popular as a "natural" sugar substitute that does not promote tooth decay. It is 180 times as sweet as sugar and is used in a wide variety of foods that previously were sweetened with sucrose (table sugar) or saccharin. It can be made to have a similar texture to table sugar but with far fewer calories due to its concentration.

Pat Clarke Takes Over As Varsity Softball Coach

Pat Clarke, who in three years had a 60-4 record as the junior varsity softball coach, was named last week to lead the varsity team in 1988.

Clarke takes over for Charlie Waller, who resigned as coach after the 1987 season ended, concluding an eight-year tenure.

Clarke, who is also the varsity cross country coach in the fall, has been affiliated with the softball program since 1978. During that time he has either been a coach or has helped out with Chelsea's extensive summer program.

"It's going to be real difficult for us to be as good as Charlie's teams," Clarke said.

"He had an outstanding record."

Waller led the Bulldogs to two state championships and numerous appearances in post season play, as well as eight consecutive Southeastern Conference championships.

"This job will be a lot different than the junior varsity job because of the pressure involved," Clarke said. He characterized it as "self-imposed" pressure.

"I like to win as much as the next guy."

Clarke said the team he is inheriting is probably ideal because there is a lot of talent but no individual star. He'll also have eight or nine girls with pitching experience, including seniors

Peggy Hammerschmidt, Jenny Pichlik and Kelly Stump.

"The big thing (in Chelsea), I think, has always been to win the league but I don't want to set that as our goal," Clarke said.

"Because when you reach your goal there's often a let down. One of the best boys cross county teams I ever had had the goal of winning the regional meet. They won the regional all right, but finished 19th or 20th in the state meet. So you won't hear me talk about the league too much. I don't want that to be the ultimate goal."

This summer Clarke is working with three different teams composed of Chelsea girls. They play in recreation leagues in Ann Arbor.

Aquatic Club Opens Season With Victory

Chelsea Aquatic Club started the summer season with a victory over Willow Run Saturday, June 20 at Cameron pool. The final score was 477 to 259. Coaches Dave Brinklow and Mike Coffman were very happy with their team's performance.

"We had quite a few good swimmers for only one week of practice," said Brinklow. "Most of the clubs in the league have at least a week head start on us so I'm very pleased with the way we swam."

Chelsea swimmers who contributed to the win include:

9-10: Stephen Straub, Mark Seitz, Josh Bernhard, Chris Grossman, Charlie Sell, Scott Colvin, Eric Frietas, Michelle Craig, Betsy Schmunk, Erica Street, Lesley Berg, Bethany Barner, Genny Humenay, Michelle Diamond, Anna Sell, Tracy Dufek, Christina Gibson, Maya Ponte, Erinne Kellman.

11-12: Kevin Lane, Chris Gibson, Steven Brock, David Brock, Jim Bennett, Gabe Bernhard, Brian Randolph, Brad Martell, Tim Wescott, Monica Hansen, Melissa Thiel, Sandy Schmid, Kristi Smith, Elizabeth Wright.

13-14: Brian Brock, Jim Alford, Joe Huettnerman, Greg Garen, Keith Redin, Erika Boughton, Jennifer Koch, Melanie Broughton.

Poljan Tries Out For Pan Am Softball

Chelsea's Amy Poljan (formerly Amy Unterbrink) was one of 64 softball players invited to try out for the Pan Am team at the U.S. Olympic Training Center recently.

Players were chosen by selection committees based on all-American status or participation in national competitions. Eighteen women will ultimately make the team.

Poljan was a Carnation All-American at Chelsea High school. She is a 1987 graduate of Indiana University, where she was an NCAA All-American and the school's Female Athlete of the Year. She competed in the 1986 NCAA World Series and the ASA Women's Open Nationals in 1984 and 1985.

"One of the important things to remember about this year is that we will probably be a medal sport in the Olympics in 1992, so there is some added incentive," said Pan Am Softball Selection Committee General Chairman Al Hansen.

"We are still trying to get it as a demonstration sport in Seoul." Seoul is the site of the 1988 summer Olympics.

Poljan made the first cut, but didn't survive the second.

Miller High Life is the sponsor of three Olympic training centers in Colorado Springs, Colo., Lake Placid, N.Y., and Marquette, Mich.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar

Last time we talked about some of the odd nesting behaviors we see in birds in the backyard. June is a good time to follow up on that and talk about the various ways birds raise their young.

One of these ways is exemplified by the killdeer.

Most of us have probably noticed killdeer on playgrounds, school yards and other open, grassy areas. The adults are very noticeable birds. Slightly larger than a robin, they have a white breast with two black bands across the front at the top, a brown back, white underwings and a piercing call that is supposed to sound like "kill-deer."

The killdeer lays its eggs in a shallow depression on the ground. The eggs and the young birds are so well camouflaged that even a trained observer can look right at them without seeing them.

As soon as the young dry off after hatching, they can follow their parents around. In this way, the killdeer are like pheasants and chickens. The parents lead the chicks to food and water and away from predators. We don't often see the young even then, however, because if we get too close to the young, the parents try to distract us by running around, calling and, if necessary, performing a very convincing, fluttering, twittering broken wing routine to lure us away from the young. The babies, in the meantime, have flattened themselves against the ground and lain very still, letting their camouflage coloring conceal them.

The young, which usually hatch in May and June, are ready to fly with their parents in July.

In the other type of young-rearing approach, as demonstrated by robins and starlings, the young stay in the nest until they are ready to fly and the parents bring food and feed them. After they come off the nest and can fly to some degree, their basic strategy is just the opposite of that of the killdeer. The young sit on the ground or in shrubs while the parents go out and forage. While they wait, the young give a special food begging call. When they see or hear the adult, their begging becomes louder, more persistent and very obvious. Then the parents feed them.

The killdeer young are mobile but try to stay out of sight. The young of the starling or robin are noisy and make themselves as obvious as possible so their parents will feed them. We rarely see the killdeer but frequently encounter young starlings and robins alone because their parents are out looking for food. As these young become stronger flyers, they, too, follow their parents around, though they still expect to be fed. Killdeer young, on the other hand, pick at food that their parents have led them to. Young starlings and robins have to learn to pick up food for themselves and may be seen begging at the food, as well as the parents, as if they think it will jump into their mouths.

In both types of birds, the young watch the adults, learning to do what they do, to avoid what they avoid, and to learn what they need to do to survive. The fact that their strategies for survival vary from species to species is one of the things that make it so interesting to observe nature from your backdoor.

Circus Life Is Different World

By Carol Strahler

When he was 10 years old, local resident Larry Hafner dreamed of joining the circus. Over the years he perfected his acts which included tumbling, juggling, fire eating and his specialty—single trapeze.

It was the latter skill of trapeze which led me to question Larry in the first place, for you see, when my husband and I first moved into our house on Lincoln St., there was this 33-foot contraption in our neighbor's backyard.

Larry had purchased the trapeze rigging from a retired circus performer and used to practice before and after school. With fellow performers Neil Cockerline, who played the part of clown, and musical director Doug Foreman they formed the Kaye Bros. Circus, which performed in Chelsea for St. Louis School, and toured other areas of the state, working with the Special Olympics and other organizations.

At 16 Larry joined a traveling circus and while he only performed for a short time, he did experience what circus life was all about.

The hours were long with often the memories of one town blending into the next. Performers caught a few hours of sleep while traveling to their next location. Not only were they responsible for their acts, but were often expected to chip in and help with all the various odd jobs that are part of running a circus.

Larry has maintained some of his contacts and over the years had the opportunity to meet some famous circus performers. While in the circus Larry designed his own costumes which led him to his present day profession of designing theatrical costumes.

Circus stunts may look easy but this is only due to the performer's skill. In fact many people who have watched Circus of the Stars on TV probably wonder if circus acts are really that dangerous. Many of these acts are basic but still require months of practice. The really hard stuff is only performed by the experts.

Do circus performers actually swallow swords? Yes! They are not made out of rubber and the performer must first train himself not to gag. He must hold his neck in exactly the right position and eventually some sword swallowers become so expert they can swallow five swords at a time. As a precaution the blades are not sharp!

How is it that some performers can swallow fire and aren't burned? The fact is that fire-eaters do get burned and that their throat, mouth and even nose is calloused from the searing heat of this extremely dangerous stunt. When the firey swab is inserted into the performer's mouth he must constantly exhale.

In another stunt called the Devil's Fountain, the performer stores 180 proof alcohol or kerosene in a special way inside the mouth. The liquid is emitted as a fine spray and as a swab approaches the person's mouth, it appears that the person can breathe fire like a dragon.

For the performer who twists by her hair way above the crowds, steady tension is a must. A sudden jerk can be extremely painful and even when done correctly these performers lose a lot of hair!

Well developed jaw muscles and a specially fitted mouthpiece are necessary for those people who spin by their teeth. Some performers have such control they can support the weight of one or two additional people.

Of course none of these stunts should ever be attempted by the layman. It is the danger and risk involved in all of these stunts that captivates the audience.

Most kids nowadays don't dream of running away to the circus. Television and the movies have replaced live entertainment and heroes now include He-Man, G. I. Joe and a multitude of other cartoon characters. But from the early 1800's right up until the mid 1900's the circus was eagerly awaited as it made its way through villages and cities across this country. Originally, horses, traveling at the rate of 15 miles per day, were used to transport equipment, performers and exotic animals. By the 1870's circuses relied on rail transportation and this eventually gave way to highways and privately owned trucks.

One aspect of circus life most people never witness is the setting up of the Big Top. Circus life is grueling and especially so for the roustabouts whose job it is to erect all the tents and associated lights, seats, rings, rigging and other performance equipment. They often work 18 hour days.

Wake-up time varies depending on how far the circus must travel to its new location. The first trucks of the fleet usually arrive about one hour past sun up. Decisions are made as to where to place each unit on the lot and a "24-hour man" will have already marked the locations of the more than 100 poles and stakes used for the Big Top. Giant pile drivers, mounted on the rear of trucks, pound the four-foot long stakes into the ground around the perimeter of the tent, but it is the massive power of the elephants that is used to erect the main poles.

A circus is highly departmentalized with each worker responsible for specific tasks. Only by being extremely organized and efficient can the gargantuan task of set-up, multiple performances and break down be accomplished so smoothly each day.

The Kelly-Miller Bros. Circus which is coming to Chelsea on June 29 is one of the few tent circuses still remaining in the U.S. Originally founded in 1938 by Obert Kelly and Doris Miller of Hugo, Okla., the circus was disbanded in the late 1960's because of low attendance. It was resurrected in 1983 and since that time has toured the country with a dedicated crew of talented performers.

It has often been said that the circus is like a big family with its members looking out for and taking care of each other. Performers are close knit and it is often difficult for an outsider who has aspirations of joining a circus and becoming a performer to be accepted. Only through perseverance and by proving their skills can a newcomer gain the respect and comradeship of fellow performers.

Many circus folk often start out as roustabouts with some working their way up through the ranks and eventually attaining the status of a performer. Roustabouts start out at about $75 per week plus food and a place to sleep. Circus performers are not in it for the money, often considering their work not a job but a way of life.

Some performers work year-round, traveling with several different circuses. Others return to their homes during the off-season and work part-time jobs until the next circus season. During their time at home they practice and improve their acts and often do not report back to the circus until a few days before the new season starts.

When the Kelly-Miller Bros. Circus comes to town on Monday, June 29, it will be your chance to have a good time and also help the Chelsea Lioness Club which is sponsoring the event. The Club funds many charitable activities including the Chelsea High School Scholarship Fund, Senior Citizens Prom, Special Olympics lunches, Spaulding for Children annual picnic and the Sigmundmobile. The Lioness Club receives a greater percentage of revenue from advance ticket sales than from gate sales.

Advance tickets may be purchased at Chelsea Community Ed, Chelsea Pharmacy and the Parts Peddler.

The public is invited free of charge to attend the raising of the Big Top on Monday morning at 8 a.m. at the Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Dial-A-Garden Topics Listed

Do you know how to keep your houseplants alive for a few weeks this summer when you take off on vacation? Or what to do with that overgrown shrub that is hiding your windows? Now that you've planted the veggies, do you know when to harvest them? Or can you recognize the critters that might eat them first and even more importantly figure out how to stop them before they do?

If you answered no to any of these questions you may want to dial 971-1122 and listen to Dial-A-Garden.

The answers to these questions and many more will be covered this month on this phone-in tape system.

Dial-A-Garden is operated by the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service, a county agency with programs open to all without regard to race, color, national origin, sex or handicap.

The two- to three-minute messages are changed each working day and cover timely gardening topics. The following is a weekly schedule of Dial-A-Garden, the system of pre-recorded daily gardening tips sponsored by the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service. The system is in operation 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Interested persons are invited to call 971-1122 at their convenience to listen to timely, up-to-date gardening information.

Rehearsals Underway For 'The Music Man'

Rehearsals for the Chelsea Area Players summer production of Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" are in full swing at Chelsea High school auditorium. The musical will be presented on the evenings of July 17 and 18 and again on July 24 and 25. A matinee is scheduled for the afternoon of July 19. Following the opening night performance on July 17 there will be an AfterGlow at the home of Marvin and Susan Carlson in Chelsea.

The Players have assembled an excellent and dedicated staff for this summer's musical. The artistic director is Jan Koengert who has previously directed CAP productions of "Mame" and "Plaza Suite." Jan just finished directing "Damn Yankees" for the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre. A Chelsea High school graduate, Jan has had roles in both Chelsea High school productions as well as Chelsea Area Player productions and has taught in CAP's children's workshop. She has been in charge for the last nine years of the Performing Arts program of the Ann Arbor Schools/City Recreation Department as well as supervising the Junior Theatre performances.

Music director is Jon Krueger who last worked with the Players on "Mame." Having studied composition and piano at Illinois Wesleyan University, Jon has worked as coach and/or accompanist on numerous productions with the University of Michigan Gilbert and Sullivan Society, the Music School, and choral ensembles as well as music director and conductor of various productions of the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre, Comic Opera Guild, and Goodtime Players including such shows as "Babes in Toyland," "The Snow Queen," and "Damn Yankees."

Providing choreography for the musical is Kerry Graves Smith who has recently moved to the area with her new husband. Kerry began her professional career at age nine, dancing on Dinah Shore's Chevy Show. She has appeared in numerous plays and musicals including summer stock theater working with stars such as Mickey Rooney and Jo Ann Worley.

★ Senior Citizens Living Alone

Each year more and more of us are faced with the emotionally and financially difficult decision of how best to care for our elderly parents or other relatives who may no longer be able to care for themselves. Do they live alone or do they go into a long-term care facility?

PHYSICAL SAFETY

1. Does the person remember to turn off the stove, shut off the water faucets, extinguish smoking materials.

2. Are they reliable enough to take medication as prescribed?

3. Do they wander outside their home and able or unable to find their way home?

4. Is their house full of clutter and difficult to move without tripping over objects? Are there stairs that are difficult for them to manage?

5. Is there a lot of crime in their neighborhood?

BEHAVIOR

1. Do they remember to dress, brush teeth, shave and bathe daily?

2. Is incontinence (bowel and bladder control) managed well?

3. Has the senior isolated him/herself or become overly afraid?

4. Has their behaviors become violent (hitting, pushing or swearing) toward family members?

5. Do they constantly phone family members during the day about minor matters and has this persisted for six or more months.

These factors should be thought about when considering if a senior citizen can live alone. It may be that the senior can indeed live at home alone, but with assistance for one or more community service agencies.

For information call your area office on aging or the Lansing office of the Tri-County Office on Aging (517) 483-4150.

Free Methodists Offer Film on Battle Against Pornography

"A Winnable War" will be shown on Sunday, June 28, at 6 p.m. at the Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7665 Werkner Rd.

Your community is not immune to the tragic effects of pornography. After 14 months with the attorney general's Commission on Pornography, Dr. James Dobson became convinced that obscene material is having a devastating impact on a surprising number of families. In this major new address, he explains why pornography is addictive, how it affects homes, and what can be done to stem the tide of obscenity.

Everyone is welcome. A nursery will be available.

ALL STUDENTS OF FAITH LUTHERAN Elementary school, grades kindergarten through eighth, visited the Jackson Space Center for their spring field trip. The students, as well as the teachers and parents who attended, thoroughly enjoyed the day. The trip culminated with a stop at the All Star Dairy in Jackson.

Munith Population Doubled Overnight

Munith more than doubled its population the evening of Monday, June 22. That's when SesquiTrain '87, the Michigan Sesquicentennial wagon train, rolled into town for an overnight encampment.

"The wagon train people doubled our town's population," said Jan Vornedran, local wagon train coordinator. Munith, population 300, is the smallest of the 13 towns and cities the wagon train will be encamped in.

"We may have a small town, but we went all out in a big way," said Vornedran. The community put on a dinner of hot roast beef sandwiches, cole slaw, and baked beans.

Entertainment followed at 7 p.m. A group of young square dancers from Westland performed together with a youth chorus from Stockbridge. Instrumental music was also presented.

After a big time in a little town, wagoners and outlanders left Munith on Tuesday, June 23 at 9 a.m. for the Pinkney area. They camped at Hell Creek Ranch Tuesday night.

Summer Rail Service Returns Between Tecumseh, Clinton

Passengers will again be able to ride the tracks of the Southern Michigan Railroad this summer as the railroad's popular rail service between Clinton and Tecumseh resumes. Each Saturday and Sunday and holiday, starting May 2, several round-trips will be offered each day out of both towns.

For the first time in the railroad's three seasons, a full-size train will be used in passenger-carrying service. The SMR's Plymouth locomotive No. 57, which has been totally refurbished, will haul the two cabooses that were purchased from Conrail in January. Passengers boarding the two cabooses will notice the smell of fresh paint, as the cars have just emerged from a two-week overhaul by the society volunteers at Clinton. The cars have been totally repainted inside and out and now bear the markings of the New York Central and Penn Central Railroads, both once owner's of the SMR's line.

A fleet of gasoline-powered railroad "gang" motor cars will also be used to carry passengers. These large cars, each carrying six to eight passengers, were formerly used to carry railroad workers to worksites along the line. Though many of the vintage cars are over 40 years old, they have been totally refurbished for passenger service by volunteers. With new paint and overhauled engines, the "gang" cars are capable of travelling at 25 miles per hour.

Bearing a wide variety of paint schemes, the motor cars themselves are a virtually rolling museum, having come from many different owners. Railroads past and present that will be represented this summer include the New York Central, Detroit, Toledo and Ironton, Chesapeake and Ohio, Norfolk and Western, Pere Marquette and Nickel Plate Road.

Passengers leaving Clinton will be able to pay a visit to the society's museum building, where a large number of railroad artifacts from many area railroad companies are on display. After boarding, the trains head south, passing many of Clinton's industries before exiting town. The first portion of the trip reflects the agricultural nature of the area as the railroad line traverses farmers' fields and passes a fertilizer plant. The line then enters a wooded area as it approaches the River Raisin. After crossing the river and marshes on a wooden trestle, the line curves behind several homes on the final approach to Tecumseh. A brief stop is made at the site of the former New York Central yards and depot behind St. Peter's church. This year, the southern terminus of the trip has been extended to the four corners at the heart of downtown Tecumseh. Passengers will be within walking distance of shops, and restaurants and Tecumseh's historic district.

A direct round-trip between Clinton and Tecumseh takes 95 minutes, although passengers may layover for several hours at either end of the line to go shopping, visit friends or just to take a walk.

Trains leave Clinton at 12 and Clinton and downtown Tecumseh at 12:45, 1:30, 2:15, 3 and 3:45. For those wishing to park their car in Tecumseh, they may do so south of the Bidwell St. crossing and board the train there, five minutes after the time of departure from downtown Tecumseh. Round trip fare is $4 for adults and $2 for students, 5 to 18. A season pass is available for $15. This entitles the holder to unlimited rides during the summer season and is designed to encourage regular use of the railroad as a transportation mode. For further information on the rail service or on the society, contact the Clinton museum office at (517) 456-7029.

The Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) establishes minimum wages, overtime pay, recordkeeping and child labor standards which affect some 63 million employees of the state and local governments, and 2.3 million federal government employees. The act is enforced by the Wage and Hour Division of the U.S. Department of Labor.

CHELSEA CUB SCOUTS INSPECTED the Wash-tenaw County Sheriff's Department helicopter which Sergeant Tom Gray (yes, he's the one with the star on his cap) landed at Camp Munhackle, Bruin Lake, as part of a special safety demonstration, Friday, June 19. Shown

Cub Scouts Attend Week-Long Sessions at Camp Munhackle

Cub Scouts from both the Chelsea and Dexter area joined those from many parts of the Wolverine Council at Cub Scout Day Camp, held at Camp Munhackle, Bruin Lake, Monday-Friday, June 15-19, for a week of exciting activities for all.

Opening ceremony at the flagpole near the dining hall each of the five mornings followed registration.

Working around an international theme, Cub Scouts from the various packs were designated as Brazil, Germany, France, England, Mexico, Ireland, Greece, Australia, Italy, Spain, Canada and Japan.

Some of the Cub Scouts from Pack 455, Chelsea, were in the Brazil unit, while the remaining Cub Scouts of Pack 455 formed the France contingent.

Chelsea's Pack 435 was joined by Pack 29, Ypsilanti, and Milan's Pack 491, in Spain.

Canada included Cub Scouts from Pack 448, Dexter.

Manchester Pack 421 was designated England.

Ireland included Cub Scouts from both Pack 419 and Pack 464, Saline.

The Mexico group was composed of Cub Scouts from Brighton, Pack 346 and Pack 347.

Howell's Pack 380 and Pack 409 from Whitmore Lake formed the group known as Greece.

The Japan group included Pack 282 from Ypsilanti, Ann Arbor Pack 160 and Pack 395 of Brighton.

Pack 8601, Ypsilanti, and Pinckney's Pack 312, joined Pack 336 from Fowlerville in the Australia unit.

Italy included Pack 367 and Pack 371, Howell.

Day camp activities were both varied and a lot of fun, according to the boys.

An obstacle course and camping skills area offered the chance to crawl under a roped area, clear a wooden barricade, step through a series of tires placed in close proximity, and climb a giant rope bridge, with the option of swinging sharply back to the ground.

Horseshoes proved a popular past-time, as did two different craft groups.

Ping pong in the open air was another favorite, and dry-fishing instruction and practice in an open field provided a center of interest for many.

Soccer, b-b guns, archery and other games took their place on the day camp's rotating schedule, and compass course was available as well.

On each of the five days, a special presentation sparked the interest of the Cub Scouts and also provided a learning time.

An exotic bird presentation proved of great interest, and the Cubs were introduced to a great horned owl, a red-tailed hawk and other birds.

During one of the quiet-time adventures, Sergeant Tom Gray, who pilots the helicopter for the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, brought the impressive WCSD flying craft to rest on one of Camp Munhackle's grassy clearings and talked with the Cub Scouts about not only the helicopter and its uses, but also about transportation safety ideas.

Securing the landing area for the helicopter, Sergeant Harley Rider and Deputy Seichina from the department's Traffic Division arrived by motorcycle and patrol car, respectively, to assist in the special camp demonstration.

A colorful group of remote-controlled aircraft was flown by members of the University of Michigan Falcons, and displayed for viewing by the Cub Scouts, as Rider's Hobby Show made a special showing at day camp.

Kept secret until the very last minute, and one of the most enjoyed of all activities, was the production of home-made ice cream, with each of the boys getting a turn at cranking the freezer.

Of course, those who helped make the ice cream were, in turn, permitted to taste it, as well.

Naturally, none of the ice cream went to waste.

An added treat for the boys and the adults who accompanied them was the cold well water provided by several old-fashioned pumps located on the grounds of Camp Munhackle.

Baseball games were on the schedule for day camp's final day.

Manning the first-aid station, the nurses reported quite a few bee stings, as well as the usual assortment of cuts and scrapes, and one or two lumps where a Cub Scout had collided with a baseball.

Cub Scouts sang each day and directed their voices toward the Bruin Lake State Campsite, across the lake.

The boys earned a colored bead each day they attended day camp, and were presented a metal award on their first day, to which the beads might be attached.

All too soon, as far as most of the Cub Scouts were concerned, the week came to a close following a final ceremony at which the flag was retired, with memories of great times and wishful thoughts already anticipating "next year."

Coal miners worked a total of 76.3 million hours in the first three months of 1987, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's Mine Safety and Health Administration.

Lack of Funding Puts Dairy Buyout Payments on Hold

Farmers waiting for checks due from the federal government for the dairy whole herd buyout program and disaster assistance will likely have to wait some more, according to Al Almy, public affairs director for the Michigan Farm Bureau. Almy said that key agricultural funding is contained in a major appropriations bill that is in a congressional conference committee.

"The bill contains funding for many federal programs, including money to fund the Commodity Credit Corp. through the end of the current fiscal year, monies due farmers under the dairy whole herd buyout program, and additional disaster assistance funding," he said.

ZACHARY GORDON, BETH WILLIAMS, Lindsay Johnson, Betsy Schmunk, and Scott Leeman listen as Kristen McKinnon reads her part of the script asking for a glass of lemonade in a scene from "High Hopes," the play that Jeff Boyer wrote and is directing as part of the theatre workshop.

MEMBERS OF THE CHORUS LINE in "Pomp and Pageantry" practiced their dance number outside in the shade last Wednesday, June 17, when the unseasonably warm weather made rehearsing in the classroom uncomfortable.

Children's Theatre Workshop Preparing Plays for Public Show

The Theatre Workshop for Children, one of the Chelsea Community Education's most popular summer offerings, is designed to teach various aspects of theater and to use these skills in a final performance. The program is sponsored by the Chelsea Area Players.

Children from second to eighth grade enroll in the program, many taking it year after year. It lasts for three weeks, from June 15 to July 3 and goes from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.

This year's director is Nancy McKinnon. She is assisted by three college-age teachers, Laura Koepele, Mike Smith, and Jeff Boyer. Also employed is Bill Coelius who is working with Koepele.

In the mornings the 38 participants receive formal classroom instruction in acting, pantomime, and diction. In the afternoon, they meet in play groups, each led by one of the teachers, to work actually putting on a play. The plays are all original, Koepele and Boyer writing theirs, while Smith is using one a friend wrote.

Wednesday, July 1 at 7 p.m., the group will give public performances of their plays at the Chelsea High school auditorium. Tickets are $1 and may be purchased from any of the participants or at the door. The next day the children will have their cast party.

BILL COELIUS, left, gives some stage directions to Chris Trotter, Missy Warring, and Colby Skelton. Coelius is helping Laura Koepele direct "And Now for Something Completely Different," a play she wrote and is now producing as part of the Theatre Workshop for Children sponsored this summer by the Chelsea Area Players.

IN THIS SCENE FROM "Pomp and Pageantry," an original play being produced by Mike Smith as part of the children's theatre workshop, a beauty contest participant, played by Hillary Smith, is chewing out the director of the pageant, played by Dan Olberg. Watching are Bryndon Skelton, Jeremy Guenther, and Tony Trotter.

THE FINAL PERFORMANCE for the three plays being produced for the Theatre Workshop will be Wednesday, July 1, at 7 p.m. at the high school, tickets are $1 and may from purchased from any of the participants or at the door. Shown are cast members rehearsing "High Hopes."

Trains To Stop in Dexter

Amtrak passenger trains will make special stops, Saturday, Aug. 8, for passengers attending the dedication of a state historical marker at the restored 100-year-old Dexter railroad depot, the first time passenger trains have served the village since 1953.

The dedication ceremony will take place during the annual Dexter Daze celebration and is scheduled to begin at 12:30 p.m. at the depot, restored and currently owned by the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society.

The Dexter special will leave Detroit's Amtrak depot on W. Vernor Highway (Michigan Central Station) at 7:35 a.m. and the Dearborn depot, west of Greenfield Rd., at 7:55 a.m.

From Ann Arbor, departure is at 8:30 a.m., and on arrival in Dexter, passengers may receive a "second breakfast" at the depot.

Demonstrations of the large model railroad layout housed in the depot and other railroad-related exhibits will begin about 9:15 a.m.

Visitors may walk two blocks to the village center, which includes historic Monument Park, to attend Dexter Daze events, many of them held in the park where a Gazebo was built through efforts of the Dexter Lions Club in co-operation with the village.

For the return trip, the train leaves the Dexter depot at 1:25 p.m., immediately following the ceremony dedicating the marker, for arrival in Ann Arbor at 1:36 p.m., Dearborn at 2:13 p.m. and Detroit at 2:40 p.m.

Passengers may also take an early evening train from Dexter, leaving at 7:40 p.m., arriving in Ann Arbor at 7:56 p.m., Dearborn at 8:33 p.m. and Detroit at 9:05 p.m.

The Dexter depot is one of two remaining wooden depots along the former Michigan Central mainline route between Detroit and Chicago, and was opened in January, 1887.

It has been restored by the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society, and the Ann Arbor Model Railroad Club, using funds raised through the annual sale of railroad memorabilia, one of the largest such sales in the nation.

Only round-trip tickets will be sold for the Dexter stops, and they may be purchased before boarding the trains at Amtrak ticket offices in Detroit, Dearborn and Ann Arbor.

The Big Top will be located at the Chelsea Fairgrounds with the tent raising open to the public at 8 a.m. that morning.

Rawls said, "One of the most asked questions I have after each performance is: Can Lisa or Little Brian pet some of the animals? And can I take their pictures while they ride the elephant?" David is famous for bringing together the greatest acts from all over the world. This year he again has a special environment for children of all ages... the Side Show and Zoo, featuring animals from the actual performance of the circus. Also, the excitement of elephant rides.

He said, "I would like to provide an opportunity for our guests to get close and meet some of our superstars like the elephants, Arabian camel, python snake, llama from the Andes Mountains, and the African pygmy goats. We have some super tame animals that the children can feed and play with."

Discount advance tickets to Kelly-Miller Bros. Circus are on sale by members of the Chelsea Lioness club who are the local sponsors of the circus in Chelsea; other ticket outlets are Chelsea Community Education, Chelsea Pharmacy, and Parts Pedler (Chelsea and Dexter).

Gregory Man Hurt in Accident

A Gregory man was taken by helicopter to University of Michigan Hospital Sunday after he wrecked his motorcycle near his home at Wild Goose Lake.

Albert Newman, 33, of 501 First St., suffered head injuries after he apparently lost control of his motorcycle. Chelsea Fire Department responded to the call. The decision was made to call the U of M Survival Flight Helicopter.

Newman was scheduled to be released from the hospital on Monday.

Never use electrical products or an electric appliance while bathing, or put it where it can drop or be pulled into the tub or sink.

Village Advertises for Bids On Sewer Plant Project

Village of Chelsea is advertising this week for bids from contractors for the new wastewater treatment plant, a project now estimated to cost more than $6 million.

According to Village Manager Fritz Weber, the village is advertising locally in The Chelsea Standard and the Ann Arbor News, along with the Dodge Report and another trade publication.

Bids are scheduled to be opened in Weber's office on E. Middle St. at noon on Tuesday, July 28.

Chelsea's share of the project, the largest municipal project in the village's history, is 45 percent, under the terms of a grant from the Environmental Protection Agency. That will translate to about $3.1 million, if current estimates are correct.

The Office of Veteran's Re-employment Rights provides re-employment assistance to veterans, reservists and members of the National Guard. During fiscal year 1985, the office advised approximately 202,000 individuals of their re-employment rights at time of separation from active duty, responded to approximately 30,000 inquiries, and opened and processed about 1,850 re-employment rights cases, according to the U.S. Labor Department.

Sesqui Wagon Train Goes Through Hell

SesquiTrain '87 went through Hell on Tuesday, June 23—Hell, Mich., that is. The Michigan Sesquicentennial wagon train ventured (very carefully) through this small but famous town while traveling from Munith to the Pinkney encampment at Hell Creek Ranch.

"If the heat of Hell doesn't delay SesquiTrain '87, it should arrive at Hell Creek Ranch by 5 p.m.," said Judy Class of Onondaga who serves as wagon train director before leaving Munith Tuesday morning.

Remaining encampments for the wagon train are at Brighton Recreation Area on Wednesday, June 24; Fowlerville, Thursday, June 25; Michigan State University, East Lansing, Friday, June 26; and Holt, Saturday, June 27.

SesquiTrain '87 will roll into Lansing via E. Michigan Ave. the morning of Saturday, June 27. After passing the State Capitol about 10 a.m., it will stop in a vacant area along Pine St. from 10:30 a.m. to 2 p.m.

SesquiTrain '87 is one of the larger events in observance of Michigan's 150th birthday. Other events include the Parade of Sail in Grand Traverse Bay, Traverse City, July 25; Celebrate: Great Lakes in Grand Haven, July 30-Aug. 1; Great Lakes State Games at Northern Michigan University, Marquette, July 31-Aug. 2; International Festivals of Sault Ste. Marie, Port Huron, and Detroit, Aug. 14, 15, and 16; and the Blue Care Tour de Michigan world class bicycle race, Aug. 21-30.

When taking a person's temperature wait at least 10 minutes if the person has been running, smoking, drinking coffee, or eating ice cream. These and similar activities can create erroneous temperature readings.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. Since I have never invested before, I spent quite a bit of time with a broker telling him that I was just starting out and asking him for suggestions. I told him I wanted a good steady stock that would pay a good dividend and was likely to be worth a little more each year as time went by. He suggested I buy Wm. Wrigley, Jr. Would you say that was a good choice?

A. If you told your broker just what you have said in your letter, then it looks to me like your broker made an excellent choice for you. Wrigley is a company that has been growing steadily for more than 60 years, and it looks like it will continue to do so.

Wrigley is the largest producer of chewing gum in the world. Through the years the company has been able to increase its sales regularly, has translated that sales growth into earnings per share growth and currently has about 46% of the chewing gum market in the United States. Along with that growth it has had earnings on equity that have averaged better than 16% for the last 10 years. Also it has had an after-tax profit on sales of better than 6% for the same time period.

To have such consistent growth in a mature industry, with such consistent profit margins, requires excellent management.

The price of Wrigley's stock is $48.75 as I answer your letter. Standard and Poor's estimates earnings this year will be $2.80 per share. That means the stock is selling at 17½ times this year's earnings. That is not bad for a stock of its quality in the kind of market we currently have. The current price is higher than Wrigley has sold for in the past, but I would guess that there is still room for the stock to grow. It is likely to sell at a higher price in the future, although I would not expect it to double in price for another 7 to 8 years.

While Wrigley has a single product, its management has shown marketing skill in developing new brands, in developing sugar-free gum and in adding bubble gum to its line. Wrigley does about 30% of its business in foreign countries. This means there is room for a lot of growth overseas. Also, the change in the dollar's value should make it easier for that business to be profitable.

Natural cheese should be kept refrigerated and should be eaten within a few days of a week of purchase. In view of the lack of added preservatives, mold may form on the cheese. This mold is not harmful and may be scraped off. Remove cheese from the refrigerator about two hours before eating to receive the best flavor and texture effects.
