Kathleen Chapman, and Edna, Vernon's wife. The annual market was sponsored by the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary.

ARBOR NOOK, the gift shop at Chelsea Community Hospital run by the hospital auxiliary, had a booth at Saturday's Flea Market. It was one of two booths that had auxiliary ties. The event itself was sponsored by the auxiliary. Above, from left, Leona Beeman, Allyson Lyons and Millie Townsend take a look at a miniature swing.

H. Allen Asks Village To Pay for Fireworks Liability Insurance Cost

For the second time in two village council meetings, the village has been asked to pay the $1,045 liability insurance bill for the July 4 fireworks.

Harold Allen, president of the non-profit Chelsea Community Fireworks, Inc., made the request in a letter, along with eight other proposals, to Village President Jerry Satterthwaite and the council.

Satterthwaite said he would appoint a committee (no one volunteered) to look into Allen's proposals, although several of Allen's ideas were flatly rejected at the meeting. Council took no action on reimbursing him.

"We just raised taxes and cut the budget," said trustee Dennis Hall.

"I don't see how we can afford to pay for the insurance."

Trustee Joe Merkel added, "We were considering laying off a policeman."

The $1,045 covered the cost of a $1,000,000 insurance policy purchased from America One.

Allen also asked that council foot the insurance bill from now on.

In the letter, Allen claims the total cost of the fireworks, including insurance, was $6,493.20. Allen said he has not been reimbursed for $4,196.17. So far, he said, the only money has come from area merchants, who contributed $1,373, and people at the show, who contributed $924.03. The rest, he said, has come from his own funds.

"There's no way I could raise the money between July 1 when I got the permit, and July 4," Allen told the council Tuesday.

In his letter, Allen asked that he be allowed to move the fireworks to the Industrial Park on Sibley Rd. next year. Although council did not vote on the request, Satterthwaite spoke strongly against it.

"As the park filled up, there would be too many people on private property," he said.

Satterthwaite also rejected a proposal that he be able to sign a fireworks permit without council approval.

In addition, there was no apparent support for a request to reduce liability insurance coverage to $500,000 from $1 million.

"I don't feel Chelsea Community Fireworks Inc., or any group can withstand the lack of support or indifference this council demonstrated this year for very long," Allen's letter read.

"The fact that enough council members were not present at a special council meeting with (adequate notice) to form a quorum is evidence enough."

Allen also raised the possibility that the fireworks might be moved to July 3 in order to eliminate problems with using the fairgrounds. He said people associated with the mud bog earlier in the day were still on the grounds at show time, which was contrary to the conditions in his contract with the fair board.

Courthouse Restoration Bids Still Over Budget

Washtenaw county officials are trying to figure out why the second round of bids for the Chelsea 14th District Courthouse renovation project came back 33 percent over budget.

Seven contractors initially bid on the budgeted $465,000 project. However, after the first round, the lowest bid was for $620,000, according to the county's Director of Facilities Management Tom Freeman.

The county went back to those seven contractors and asked for revised bids based on changes to the mechanical systems in the building.

Three contractors submitted new bids, the lowest for $614,000, Freeman said Friday.

"This is not what we anticipated at all," Freeman said.

"The bids came down very little. There was no substantial change. As far as a projected course of action, I don't know what will happen."

Freeman said he planned to discuss the situation with the county's consulting architect and the county's financial officials.

"To tell the truth, (substantial changes) to the plans shouldn't be necessary," Freeman said.

"This shouldn't be the case. We'll have to examine the design and approach to the project."

Freeman said it wasn't necessary to get the bids all the way down to the $465,000, but "into the right range."

The project has been in the planning stages since early 1986. When finished, the building will become a full service court with jury trials, have meeting rooms, and provide a substation for the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, complete with a holding cell. It will also be completely accessible to the handicapped.

The Village of Chelsea, surrounding townships, and private interests have pledged $135,000 toward the project.

That money is to be used to restore the original character of the building. The building contains a dome, which has been concealed, ornate woodwork and plaster reliefs, and marble. Much has been covered over by various modernization projects over the years.

The Historic Chelsea District Courthouse group was responsible for raising the $135,000. It is not known whether or not the county will require additional non-county funds if the bids don't come down.

Two Enter Fair Queen Event, Deadline for Entry Approaches

Two Chelsea area girls have entered the Chelsea Community Fair Queen Program and organizers say several more girls have said they'll enter as well.

Meredith Hall, 1840 Dancer Rd., will represent the junior class at Chelsea High school.

Laurie Honbaum, 9100 Stoffer Rd., will be sponsored by the Chelsea High freshman class.

The queen program, scheduled for Saturday night, Sept. 5, is open to all Chelsea and Dexter High school girls. Girls must be sponsored by a high school class or community club or organization.

Each girl will be judged on poise, appearance, a talent, and a personal interview with the judges. Talent may be either a performing or creative art. Each girl's choice of talent demonstration is subject to prior approval by the Fair Queen Committee. Recent programs have featured dancers, gymnasts, singers, musicians, and reciters of humorous and dramatic material.

Deadline for entry is Monday, Aug. 3.

Each sponsoring organization must have a float for its queen candidate to ride on during the fair parade. Failure to have a float may result in disqualification.

Also, each sponsor must provide a convertible automobile for its candidate to ride in during Tuesday's Children's Parade.

For more information contact Penny Trinkle, 475-3442, or Kathy Powers Patrick, 475-8912, after 6 p.m.

Lawsuit Prompts Discussion Of How Village Council Votes

The lawsuit filed against the Village of Chelsea by Robert and Audrey Penskar became an unplanned topic of discussion at the July 7 meeting of the village council.

The Penskars filed suit last month after the village denied the couple a zoning variance for property at 648-650 W. Middle St. They charged the village with not following correct procedures for turning down a variance, not informing them why it was turned down, and discriminating against them.

The Penskar property was too narrow for its intended use. They wanted to construct an apartment building behind a structure already on the property.

The Penskars are seeking a minimum $10,000 in damages and a reversal of the variance decision.

Trustees Stephanie Kanten and Gary Bentley made additions to the minutes of the June 16 Board of Appeals meeting, in which the Penskar variance was denied.

Kanten, who made the motion to deny the variance, said she voted based on the fact that the land did not meet the requirements of the zoning ordinance.

Bentley, who was one of two trustees to vote in the Penskars' favor, gave three reasons for his vote: the Penskars had an odd-shaped lot; the land use was not uncommon in the area; and there was little neighborhood opposition expressed.

Both additions then became an of-

'The Music Man' Opens Friday Night

Chelsea Area Players' summer musical, Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" will open this Friday night, July 17, at 8 p.m. at George Prinzing Auditorium in Chelsea High school. This will be the first of five performances over two week-ends. Additional performances will be Saturday, July 18, at 8 p.m., Sunday, July 19, at 3 p.m., and Friday and Saturday evenings, July 24 and 25, at 8 p.m.

Following the opening night performance will be an AfterGlow at the home of Marvin and Susan Carlson in Chelsea.

Although the cast and crew of this summer's musical have been in rehearsal for more than seven weeks preparing for the performances, the Chelsea Area Players began working on this production several years ago when Chelsea High school donated the old band uniforms used in this musical to the Players. Then last fall, the board of directors voted to produce Meredith Willson's "The Music Man" and appointed two board members, Clara Smith and Ruth Kenney to co-ordinate the production. Then dates and times for the production were selected, the director, Jan Koengeter, was hired, production rights were obtained, a production staff was selected, and auditions for the cast were held.

This production marks the 16th consecutive summer the Chelsea Area Players have produced a summer musical and promises to be the best ever presented with one of the largest casts on stage.

Tickets are on sale at Ricardo's Hair Salon in Chelsea and at Village Flowers and Gifts in Dexter or by calling 475-8713. Tickets may also be on sale at the door but theater goers are advised to get their tickets early because seating is reserved and the tickets are selling fast.

Ticket prices are $7.50 for the evening performances and $5 for the matinee performance. Tickets prices for the AfterGlow are $5.50 per person.

Chamber Gives $1,000 To Fair

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce has contributed $1,000 to the Chelsea Community Fair toward the purchase of additional grandstand seating.

The $17,000 project will result in additional seating capacity of 720.

4 Years Ago . . .

Tuesday, July 13, 1983—

Chelsea will buy 73 acres of land on Sibley Rd., village council decided at a special meeting late Monday. "I believe we have taken a very important step forward," village president Jack Merkel said in summing up the implications of the decision. "It means we finally have started something going for the future growth and development of Chelsea, and gives us the opportunity to reverse a long-time pattern of no growth, population decline, job loss, and erosion of our tax base."

Chelsea will try to squeeze another 10 years of use from its sanitary landfill by lining future burial sites with clay and a plastic film intended to keep liquids from contaminating ground water. That decision was reached following receipt of a report from Washtenaw Engineering Co. of Ann Arbor recommending four options: Closing the landfill and opening a new one somewhere else. Closing the landfill and constructing a "transfer station" to compact wastes and then haul them to another disposal site. Keeping the present landfill open by bringing it up to DNR, and Solid Waste Management Act 641 requirements.

Dale Schumann, who is serving his second term on the Chelsea school board, was chosen board president for the 1983-84 year. Earl Heller was chosen vice-president; Arthur Dils, secretary; and Lloyd Grau, treasurer.

Rossettie Airport on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. owned by Mike and Alice Rossettie was featured in The Standard. The airport is in the middle of the Rossettie's 105-acre farm where they also raised corn, oats, what and hay.

Michigan Selected "Host" State
For Radioactive Waste Dump

Michigan was officially designated as the "host" state by other participants in a seven-state Midwest Interstate Low-Level Radioactive Waste Commission.

All the six other states in the compact voted to designate Michigan while the state's representative, David Hales, voted to designate Ohio as the host for a disposal site which would begin accepting such designated wastes by 1993, the date set by federal law allowing the three current waste sites—in the states of Washington, Nevada and South Carolina—to stop accepting wastes from other states.

Michigan has been the odds-on favorite for the designation since a volunteer state did not come forward to accept the site under a projected $2 million annual economic incentives program.

Delegates from the other six states—Minnesota, Ohio, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri and Wisconsin—said they gave their heaviest consideration to the volume and radioactivity level of each state's wastes, categories in which Michigan far exceeded the other states.

Hales said he gave top consideration to transportation in considering Ohio.

Hales, a former resource management professor at the University of Michigan said Michigan took a different approach to the weighing of factors.

"Michigan felt that its primary concern was the safety to people, to critics, to the environment on which we all depend," he said.

He added, however, that under the criteria selected by the compact previously, there was no other choice but Michigan. "The other states played by the rules as the rules were laid out," he noted.

Hales said Michigan would continue to work with the compact states to make sure all concerns are met. He said the compact has been developing a set of concerns with the federal policy.

Among the concerns expressed, he noted, were liability questions of the facility over the life of the wastes being placed there, to guarantee the revenue flow is sufficient to properly monitor the facility, and there is sufficient protection in federal laws to guarantee the responsibility of the facility does not fall back completely upon the taxpayers of the state.

Prior to selecting a host state, compact members adopted a resolution sponsored by Hales, urging a national meeting involving all compacts and host states to discuss the 1980 Federal Low-Level Radioactive Waste Policy Act.

He said both Congress and state have to take an affirmative responsibility to assume leadership in the area.

Michigan currently generates about 33 percent of the approximate 200,000 cubic feet of low level waste in the region each year, followed by Minnesota and Ohio at about 22 and 19 percent, respectively.

The state, however, fell "somewhere in the middle" of the seven states in transportation distances and safety as the state's major generation sites are located near state borders in the southeastern and southwestern portions of the state.

A comprehensive incentives and compensation package continues to be developed to extend benefits to the state and community in which the first facility is located. Such incentives would include a mix of initial grants, on-going payments, special funds and commitments to a degree of local control and monitoring of the facility.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

For all its freedoms, choices and opinions, Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night, America has one of the worst voting records in the world. To many of us do nothing so we can blame somebody else for what happens, Clem said, which is a way to make sure we're part of the problem instead of part of the remedy. And, Clem went on, it is one of the reasons Democrats looking for a President have jumped in the saddle and galloped off in all directions.

Clem said he had that thought recent when he read about elections in Italy. Usual, 90 percent of the folks over there vote, but not this time. The turnout was way down, and more voters than usual showed their disgust by turning in blank ballots. At last report, Clem said, a woman that performs in dirty movies had been elected to the Italian Parliament, which goes to show what can happen if you don't take voting serious. You would of thought, Clem declared, that the Italians learned something from the Democrats in Illinois that got mixed up with the LeRouge candidate.

Meanwhile, back at the Democrat ranch, Clem said, he has been seeing headlines pritty regular where Georgia's Sam Nunn might be making his move. With all the new names Democrats need to keep straight, Clem said, and with no more attention than they're paying to the weeding out process, he's got an idea for Sam. What he needs to do, Clem said, is print "Nun fer President" bumper stickers for ever car in the country. Then make sure he don't recall who forgot how to spell his name when. If Sam will run his usual low key campaign, enough befuddled and half asleep citizens will vote for "Sister Clean" to git him the nomination. Fer that matter, Clem went on, Sam probable could carry the day by gitting "None of the above" printed on ballots.

Speaking of voting, Bug Hookum had saw where bartenders have the highest voting rate of any group of Americans, and housewives the lowest. Bug said he had thought this up one side and down the other. The feller behind the bar hears ever angle there is, and the woman that stays at home hears one. She gits tired of her husband's cure fer everthing that ails the country, Bug said, and says the heck with it. The bartender gits to be a expert on human nature, or thinks he is, so he works up pros and cons on ever candidate based on what he picks up from his customers.

General, Zeke Grubb said, wimmen vote stronger than men, but Bug may be right about housewives. What worries him about that survey, Bug went on, is there probable are more bartenders in this country than there are wimmen that don't work outside the home, so that tells us somepun about who is electing our leadership.

These summer evenings is good fer setting around reading surveys. Ed Doolittle had a clipping where the average man spends a average of 5.5 seconds looking at a average female passing on the street, but taxicab drivers don't look but 1.2 seconds. What you got here, Ed said, is another student of human nature. The guy driving the hack sees all kinds, so he's more choosy. He saves that six second look fer the above average female.

No wonder, Ed said, that a feller that's been driving cabs in Chicago 28 years moonlights helping lawyers pick their jurors.

Extension Service Offers Seminar on Growing Perennials

Some like it hot and that includes flowers, too.

Summertime need not be a time when flowers wilt in the glare of the sun. Come to the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service Open Garden to learn about summer-blooming perennial flowers. Premier among these are the daylilies, elegant and carefree basking in the sunlight scented with the heavy fragrance of garden phlox.

Master Gardeners will be available to tell how to grow these and other perennials as well as demonstrating how to divide iris.

The Open Garden will meet from 6:30 p.m. until dark on Thursday, July 23.

The 700 square foot garden is located on the front lawn of the County Service Center by the Co-operative Extension Service and Parks and Recreation Building.

Co-operative Extension Service programs are open to all regardless of race, sex, color, national origin or handicap.

The average output of one farmer feeds 116 others, including 30 people in other countries.

GINNY BOYER, a Park St. resident, recently took second place in an Independence Day cribbage tournament in Reno, Nev. The runner-up prize was this plaque and $1,250, which she said paid for all of her and husband, Duane's, expenses (including gambling) on the trip. Her finish also earned her master points. Ginny also won another $235 in a pairs cribbage game. The tournament, which drew 214 players from the U.S. and Canada, gave 15 percent of its fees to the Veteran Family Relief Fund. Duane didn't have quite the same results but Ginny said that being her cribbage teacher, he is just as proud of her performance as she is.

Americade '200' Area Participants To Meet in Lansing

The National Committee to Celebrate the 200th Birthday of the signing of the Constitution has announced plans for a nation-wide motorcade called Americade "200." The month-long event is jointly sponsored by The Justice Times, a first Amendment national newspaper from Clinton, Ark., and the American Coalition of Unregistered Churches with headquarters in Indianapolis, Ind.

On Friday, July 17, the "I" team which includes the Chelsea-Dexter area will meet in Lansing on the capitol steps at 11 a.m. They will travel 261 miles to Indianapolis and join with other teams there. Anyone desiring further information should call one of the team wagon masters, Ron Finley, 313-627-3919, or Ralph Daigle, 627-6297.

Judge John Kirkendall Will Lecture at University of Iowa

Washtenaw County Probate Judge John N. Kirkendall will deliver the Lawton Lecture at the University of Iowa on Oct. 11.

Judge Kirkendall will discuss the role of the volunteer and the charitable foundation in dealing with the impact of catastrophic illness in patient, the family and the community.

Kirkendall currently serves as chairman of the National Kidney Foundation headquartered in New York City. He is a past president of the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan with headquarters in Ann Arbor.

High School Industrial Arts Program Being Revamped

The high school industrial arts program has been re-named "technology education" and has been totally revised with the object of giving students a broader based education. Chelsea students enrolling in the newly created technology curriculum, recently approved by the school board, will be among the first in the state learning under this new approach.

The new curriculum will deal with preparing students for a changing world, instead of teaching them specific skills which will soon be out of date. Focus will be on problem solving and on creating an attitude of life-long learning. Says high school industrial arts instructor Jim Tallman, "Kids need to learn problem solving so they can cope with changes. They will have to compete in so many different places in the workplace in their lifetime. They have to be thinkers."

Tallman continues, "Kids will have to learn throughout their life and be continually re-educated for new careers because their chosen field will change. They have to develop an attitude and accept the responsibility that they will be in 'school' the rest of their life."

Tallman predicts that this approach is the wave of the future and that in five or 10 years most schools in the state will have changed their industrial arts curriculum. Some, he says, are gradually adopting changes, but Chelsea is unique in making such sweeping, across the board changes all at once.

Chelsea has been helped in this endeavor by a three-year grant from Eastern Michigan University. Money from this grant has paid for classroom substitutes to give the Chelsea industrial arts teachers time to investigate other programs, talk to local industrial leaders, and develop the new program. This summer, Tallman and another high school industrial arts teacher, Bruce Boughner, are taking classes at EMU to help prepare them for the new curriculum. Tallman is studying construction and manufacture, while Boughner is learning about communication and transportation.

Next year, the implementation year of the program, is the third year of the grant. Tallman describes it as "a fresh start with all the old classes wiped out." Actually, a few of the old classes will still be offered for a few years so that students who have started under the old curriculum may finish their work. But no new students will start in the old program.

The courses being dropped include mechanical drawing, electronics, metals, welding, graphic arts, auto mechanics, and agriculture. However, many of the skills learned in these classes will be offered in the newly developed technology courses. And agriculture and vocational courses will still be offered through the South and West Washtenaw Consortium.

Tallman says the new curriculum is "of value to every kid since it teaches skills for living." He sees it as important for those going into engineering-type fields to know both problem solving and hands-on experience. And low achievers will benefit from the problem solving and attitude of life-time learning, since both these skills will be needed in whatever employment they find.

Tallman would like to see more girls enroll. He says "girls view it as dirty and greasy. It still has the stigma of shop." But he says girls also need the skills being taught and that those involved in the program will work on recruiting them.

The changes have also reached down to the middle school. Next year a new sixth grade course, "discovery/technology" will be offered to introduce students to the concepts of technology education. The new high school courses are divided into four areas: manufacturing, construction, transportation, and communication.

Curriculum director, Laurie Bissell, describes the new technology

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

DOES THE DEPOT HAVE A FUTURE?

The other day a visitor to Chelsea was taken on a tour of the town which inevitably led to a stop at the depot. His hostess, and cousin, happens to belong to such groups as the Chelsea Area Historical Society, the Friends of the Library, the Civic Foundation, United Way and the Chelsea Depot Association. So it was no accident when she proudly declared, "Cousin Bob, this is our fine old depot, restored just as it was 107 years ago. We bought it from Amtrak, who were letting it go to rot and ruin and we paid for it outright with public subscriptions. Now," she added, waving toward the station, "we're going to raise money—some of it from the big foundations—and rebuild the interior."

"The interior?" Bob asked in a puzzled voice.

"Oh, of course. This station is an exemplar of Victorian architecture. It has been designated as a historic site by the State of Michigan. In the near future this depot will be honored with admission to the National Register of Historic Places. The building was erected in 1880, the year that James Garfield was elected president."

"Well," Bob replied, grabbing a chance to show he knew a bit of history himself. "1880. Only a year before he was assassinated while entering a Washington railroad station." Then he went on, "Now about your station here in Chelsea. Were you really serious about doing something to the interior?"

"Yes, indeed. Two great big beautiful rooms, a corridor with conveniences, and a stationmaster's office. It'll cost at least $100,000 so we'll have to seek the help of outside foundations. But we'll do our share, too."

Cousin Bob took another look at the station and shook his head. "I presume Amtrak is resuming service to Chelsea now that you've made the depot so attractive again. But, ye gods! $100,000 just to keep a few miserable train passengers warm and dry! Why, a few buckets of paint and a kerosene stove from that hardware store around the corner . . ."

"No. You don't understand. Amtrak is all through stopping here. There will be no passengers. Just noise as the trains roar through."

"Well, for heaven's sake. You're going to blow a hundred grand to fix up the inside of an old train station? You might as well turn it into a museum!"

"Cousin Bob, that's the brightest idea you've had since you hit town but we've already thought of it. Wait till I tell you the rest of our plans while we have lunch in the Woodshed."

"You mean you eat in a woodshed? What kind of a town is this anyhow?"

There are lots of things people don't know about Chelsea until they've been here awhile. One of them is how Chelseans feel about that old railroad depot. It isn't just "a little ole shack by the railroad track." It's a 19th century masterpiece, a bit of history that goes back to the days when Chelsea was the wool capital of America. In those days the depot was the gateway to Detroit and Chicago. There are the memories of five different wars and eager recruits waving goodbye as the train pulled out of the station. There are also the memories of many other goodbyes, many in tears, others in secret relief.

So the idea of the rail depot standing empty like a blown egg is simply not Chelsea's way of doing things. There are other depots in other towns that are deserted and useless but we want to bring the depot to life, and we will.

Looking to the immediate future, one room will be set aside to remember the past. It will be the Chelsea Historical Museum—operated by the very lively members of the Chelsea Area Historical Society.

The main area—which may become known as the Michigan Central Room—will be the only large meeting place in downtown Chelsea on the ground floor, with plenty of parking plus access ramps and lavatories capable of accommodating the handicapped.

All this is a year or so away but turn on your imagination and you can hear the music now. The dances. The concerts by individual artists. The ensembles. Even entire orchestras.

You can envision the arts in performance—the comedies and tragedies of Shakespeare, the vaudevillians, the graceful pas de deux from Swan Lake, or kids howling at funny guys in baggy pants with pie in their faces. Jugglers? You bet. The astonishing mysteries of the prestidigitator? But, of course.

Listen with your imagination and you can hear the speakers who have chosen Chelsea as the podium for their messages. Come to learn and there will be seminars and study sessions, some of which may be state of the art retraining—deliberately staged in an environment away from the workplace.

And there will be more. All sorts of movies, some on film, some on video. Some for the arts, sciences and the humanities.

Well, that's just for openers. And did you ever hear of a railroad station acting like that?

We started this Clock Tower with a question: Does the depot have a future? Yes, it does if we will just finish the job we have so well started.

Somewhere around your house may be an envelope addressed to the CHELSEA DEPOT ASSOCIATION. Thousands have been sent and, so far, only hundreds returned. If you can still find yours, please return it with a check for $10, $25, $50, $100—whatever you can spare now. If you can't find the self-addressed envelope, use one of your own and mail it with your check to the Chelsea Depot Association at P.O. Box C, Chelsea.

This is very important. The depot needs more than you or I can afford to give so we must turn to the wealthy foundations for help. The people they like to help most are the ones who help themselves. People like the families and businesses of Chelsea who, unaided, raised enough money to buy and restore the depot. We feel sure that every dollar given in this 1987 campaign will be rewarded with many more.

Hev? Please? Now?

Moose Organization Wants Chelsea Lodge

Loyal Order of Moose has expressed an interest in establishing a lodge in Chelsea to draw members from the area between Ann Arbor and Jackson.

Moose member Jim Hale told the Chelsea Village Council Tuesday night, July 7 that the organization would initially like to have a membership of 100. He said the membership could conceivably be several times greater than that.

Hale asked for the council's blessing in establishing the lodge. Although no vote was taken, most trustees indicated their support.

"Many people look at a Moose lodge as a local private bar," Hale said.

"I want to dispell that image.

Although it is strictly a private club, most of the members are good civic people who get involved in all kinds of community projects."

Hale said he would set up a local bank account in which to deposit membership fees. He did not indicate where the lodge might be located.

The organization is strictly for men only. However, Hale said that nearly every lodge has an active women's auxiliary.

The closest Moose lodge is in Ann Arbor. The lodge has many members from the Chelsea area, Hale indicated.

Loyal Order of Moose is celebrating its centennial year in 1988.

It's seldom easy to make a decision. Some are easier to make than others but almost all involve pleasing someone while disappointing someone else. Too often, the one displeased is oneself. We are asked for all sorts of favors and the easiest course of action is to agree.

We all want to be a "good fellow" and please everyone with our willingness to help wherever we can. But, there is a limit. We must all develop the strength and the ability to say "No" when that answer is best for our own peace of mind.

Horse Dressage Clinic Offered By 4-H Program

Do you know what the judge is looking for in a dressage test? For that matter do you know what dressage is?

Whether your goal is the Olympics or simply to improve yourself and your horse, balanced seat riding or dressage provides systematic training and development of the horse so that it can reach its highest athletic potential. In its early stages, dressage teaches the horse (and rider) suppleness, balance and discipline—all invaluable in any equestrian sport.

Showing Your Horse in Training and First Level Dressage Tests, a free clinic sponsored by the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service 4-H youth program, takes the mystery out of this increasingly popular equestrian sport.

Lynn Deturk, local dressage instructor and judge, will explain ring protocol, what the judge is looking for and discuss the marks and comments on the judge's scorecard. Demonstrations of lower level (beginning and novice) tests will be shown and discussed.

The clinic meets from 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday, July 21 at the Farm Council Grounds on Saline-Ann Arbor Rd. The clinic is free and is open to all interested in Dressage. For directions or more information, call the Co-operative Extension Service at 973-9510.

"76 TROMBONES LED THE BIG PARADE" sings Harold Hill, (in the band uniform) played by Robert Mulvihill, in Chelsea Area Players production of "The Music Man." The musical play will be performed July 17-19 and 24-25 at Chelsea High school. Tickets are available at Ricardo's, Michigan Theater Box Office, or by calling 475-9713. The children, from left, are Rebecca

ANGELA M. BRAND Angela M. Brand Completes Air Force Basic Training

Airman Angela M. Brand, daughter of David and Sherry Brand of 3363 Sylvan Rd., Manchester, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

She is the granddaughter of Bob and Jennie Draper of 418 McKinley, Chelsea.

The airman is a 1986 graduate of Chelsea High school.

Munith Youth Completes Navy Recruit Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Paul G. Will, son of Marvin F. and Ginny L. Will of 5094 Schrah Road, Munith, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command Orlando, Fla.

During Will's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

Will's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

A 1984 graduate of Michigan Lutheran Seminary High school, Saginaw, he joined the Navy in February 1987.

More than 60 million Americans camped last year and, at the projected rate of growth, 64.4 million per year will be camping by 1990.

Village Voting Procedure Studied

ficial part of the minutes of the June 16 meeting.

Village attorney Peter Flintoft, who was on the meeting agenda to answer questions about another matter, discussed a couple of points relating to the suit.

Flintoft cautioned the trustees, both in their capacities as a member of the council and a member of the Zoning Board of Appeals, to make certain they leave good "footprints in the snow." In other words, he said, someone reading the public record needs to be able to figure out how each member reaches his or her decision on a topic.

Flintoft also told the council that the Penskars' legal counsel, Randy Musbach, had obtained a preliminary copy of the minutes of the June 16 meeting and filed them with his law suit as the official minutes of the meeting.

Flintoft suggested that the village distinguish between preliminary copies and final drafts either by using a stamp or inscribed paper.

"We need to stop this kind of stuff," Flintoft said.

Finally, Flintoft suggested that the village not publish the official minutes of council meetings in The Chelsea Standard until after they've officially been approved. Village Manager Fritz Weber said the village had been publishing the unapproved minutes "for years."

Support for the elderly generally is shared by the family, particularly adult children, and society. The family provides social and psychological support and services, and the community largely provides economic support, through Social Security, but also increasingly through other services, according to a fact sheet on working women published by the Women's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor.

TOBACCO KING OF CHELSEA: Village resident Skip Wheeler planted five tobacco plants in May and now a couple of them are nearly 8' tall. Wheeler, who doesn't smoke, was given the five plants by a tobacco grower in Kentucky on a recent vacation Wheeler took to the state.

"I'd never seen one and I'm over 50 years old," Wheeler said of his reasons for growing tobacco. "By gosh, I'm amazed." Skip said the young plants looked like cabbage plants.

Dr. James Peggs Completes Study in Geriatric Medicine

James F. Peggs, M.D., recently completed an intensive four-week fellowship in geriatric medicine at East Carolina University in Greenville, N.C.

As a member of a selected group of family physicians who are active clinicians and teachers of geriatric medicine, he attended lectures and visited clinics, nursing homes and rehabilitation centers during the month. Development of teaching skills and an individual research project were also part of the fellowship experience.

While serving as medical director of the Family Practice Center in Chelsea, Dr. Peggs is also responsible for geriatric training given to the resident physicians in the family practice program. In addition he serves as the medical director of the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home.

Many Hearing Problems Can Be Helped.

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest hearing aid Beltone has ever developed will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

It's yours for the asking, so send for it now. It is not a real hearing aid, but it will show you how tiny hearing help can be. The actual aid weighs less than an eighth of an ounce, and it fits completely into the ear canal.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Although a hearing aid may not help everyone, more and more people with hearing losses are being helped. For your free sample write today to: Department 75935, Beltone Electronics Corporation, 4201 West Victoria Street, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Chelsea Standard:

Brian Hamilton's column and subsequent furors have been a source of great entertainment and enjoyment for our family. I have usually agreed with Mr. Hamilton and enjoyed the off-time pointed humor. But, I must take exception to his column of July 8, concerning T-Ball games.

I am the mother of seven ball players. I have spent the better part of the last 14 summers on the stands of various ball fields and have many more years of spectating to look forward to. I have suffered through the grand-slam bunts with my child as catcher and cheered an "over left field fence homer" hit by my son or daughter. I have been humiliated as my son missed an important play as he was drawing beautiful designs in right field and couldn't be disturbed by the ball. I have been elated as one of them has caught their first ball. I've also cheered the opposing team's extraordinary catches and good fielding and hitting.

I guess it's obvious, I ENJOY youth ball. The excitement of a kid's game is unexpressible. The tension with each throw, not knowing if it will be caught or dropped is breath-holding suspense at its best. The Tigers or any other pro-team have never left me breathless!

The pro players' names are in print constantly for their accomplishments, far less significant than a first home run or first fly ball catch. My boys and girls LOOK for their names in the paper each week. It's amazing that as they search for the results in the sports section they also end up reading other articles. Thus improving their reading ability and knowledge of our community. T-Ball kids CAN read, though not proficiently, and if not spoon fed information, can find it on their own. My kids come to ME to show me their names and to ask for scissors so the articles can go in their scrap book. They pooled their money and bought their grandmother in Oregon a subscription to The Standard so she could read about them without having to give up their precious clipping. They are also saddened when their name isn't there and decide to do better next week.

So yes, Mr. Hamilton, the KIDS look for their names. It may not be as important to you as Kirk Gibson's or Reggie Jackson's but it is of utmost importance to them.

We have a son whose clippings and trophies are memories of the no-hitter he pitched in Little League are the only baseball accolades he'll have, as he can no longer play due to brain damage from an infection. To him, his name in print in the clippings in his scrapbook is a reminder of a super time full of promise and brings back feelings of triumph and joy.

So, Mr. Hamilton, please don't belittle these kids' accomplishments. You see YOUR NAME in print weekly.

Joy Franklin

P.S. We don't have a Jason, Adam, Matt or Hoss!

Dear Chelsea Standard:

I am so grateful to you for providing this forum for concerned citizens to voice their opinions. How many of your readers stop to think that in Russia you would not have this opportunity for personal expression? More people would probably write to you if they realized this.

You do not even have to have anything particular to say. You can simply write to tell Mr. and Mrs. Leonard you love them, or let Will Connelly know you are a regular reader of his columns. This letter is a perfect example. I have nothing to complain about, no axe to grind. I love your newspaper and I even forgive Brian Hamilton for the unkind things he said about our cheerleaders. (But tell me, is there really a Brian Hamilton, or is it just a pseudonym for Will or Walt?)

Some people might say it is ridiculous to waste my time writing to you when I am satisfied with the job you are doing. But why not? Can't I give someone a pat on the back if I want to? Is it wrong to be happy and let the world know about it? Are we so thick-skinned, so jaded, that every word from our mouths must be angry or threatening? Verily, I say these nay!

Love is all around us, in the trees, in the summer breeze, in the smiles and warm handshakes of the people you meet. Love is a cool one on a hot July afternoon at the Wolverine. And yes, Brian, love is an apple-cheeked cheerleader stretching wide her long, silky limbs to enflame the sporting passions of her admirers.

You do not need to be young to feel like a cheerleader. Dr. Ruth, for all her obvious faults, has it right when she says you are as young as you feel. Even the cheerleaders themselves, after a long work-out, are apt to feel sore and listless. Am I right girls?

Bern Williams is quoted in my Desk Planner Diary as saying, "There is no psychotherapist in the world like a puppy licking your face." How true, but may I add, Bern, in this day of AIDS, herpes, and swine flu, it is a good idea to check where your puppy has been sticking his face.

Another great spokesman, Gerald Stanley Lee, said, "America is a tune; it must be played together." Robert Orben added, "If you want to walk the streets safely at night, carry a projector and slides from your last vacation."

I hope this last one cracked you up as much as it did me!

Carolyn Mae Ponce.

To the Editor:

"A View From The Clock Tower," by Will Connelly, which appeared in your July 1st issue, was very intriguing. His educational proposal—the ACE Plan—[an acronym for Affordable College Education] is a creative proposal and is worthy of consideration. Worthy of consideration because of the financial implications, and worthy because of the need not to duplicate the educational process.

I have long had a concern for qualified high school graduates who could not go on to four-year degree granting institutions because of the lack of financial support or educational aspirations in the home.

This letter should serve as acknowledgment that I am going to review the concepts with great care. I am not committing the Chelsea School District at this time, but I certainly think this is a very creative plan which merits serious consideration.

Raymond E. Van Meer,
Superintendent of Schools.

Dear Mr. Editor,

What a nice evening I spent in the park, Sunday.

Thank you Chelsea Chamber of Commerce, Michigan Bell, Chelsea Recreation Council. The "Concert in the Park" was so enjoyable. The Waco Country Band was very entertaining; the Waterloo Blue Grass Boys were a pleasure to listen to.

As I sat there in the comfort of my lawn chair and watched how many families came, some having a picnic, while others let their children enjoy all the "fun things" in the park, it was a delight. It was surely worth the efforts of the committee who put this together. A good job well done by all of you!

Thanks for the "Concert in the Park" looking forward to your next concert, Aug. 9.

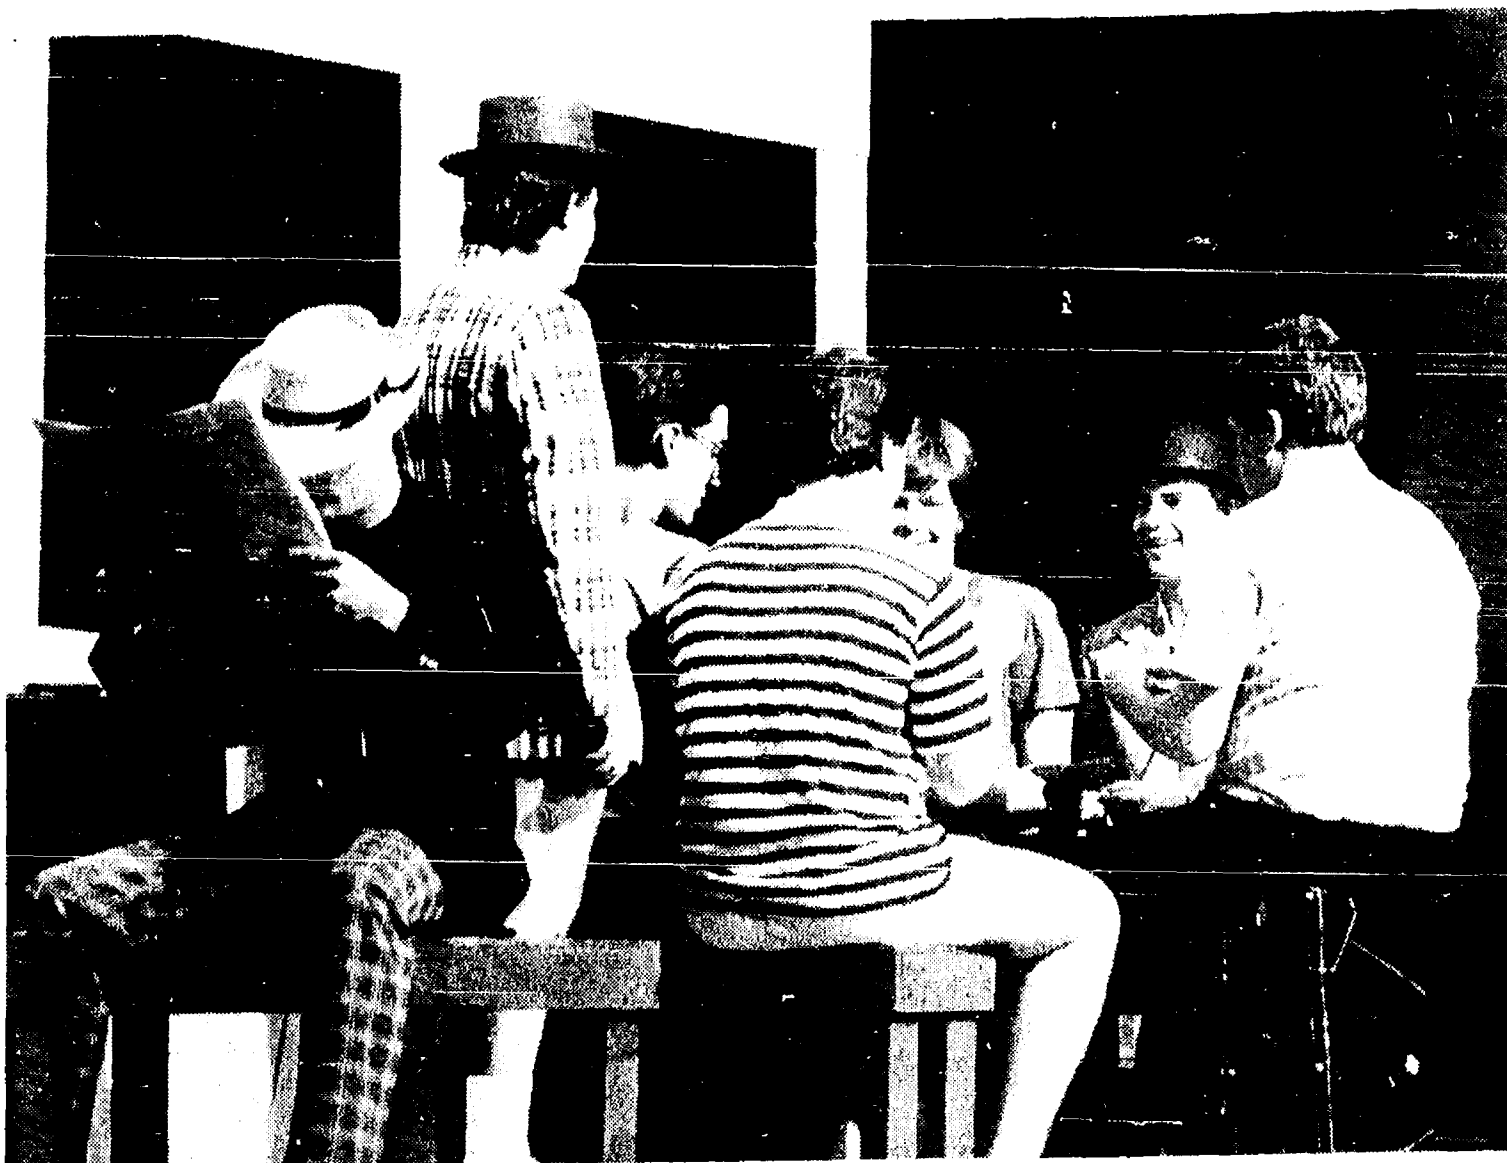

Veretta Whitaker

Springer Named To Dexter Township Board of Appeals

Sheridan Springer was appointed to the Dexter township zoning board of appeals at the township board meeting, July 7. Springer, of the Springer Insurance Agency in Chelsea, will replace Dave Miller. Miller, whose term expired this month, did not seek re-appointment.

Springer has served the township previously as a member of the tax board of review. He will join four other members on the board, chair Gerald Straub, Dave Rumsey, Ed Bouillion, and Ken Brooks.

At the same board meeting, the trustees learned that the special summer sheriff's patrol has issued twice as many citations this year as they did by this time last year. Last year the number was 30, this year 68. Most are for minor traffic violations, although a few are for more serious offenses such as drunk driving, speeding, and warrant arrests.

Familiar Activities To Highlight 50th Fair

The 50th annual Chelsea Community Fair, Michigan's largest community fair, promises to look an awful lot like last year's event. There are just a few minor changes. All the traditional activities are being planned.

This year's fair will be held Tuesday, Sept. 1 through Saturday Sept. 5, which is also the first week of school. The first Chelsea High school varsity football game will be played Friday, Sept. 4. It will mark the first time in several years that the fair and school have come in conflict.

Perhaps the most significant change is that the selection of the 1987 Fair Queen and Court will not take place on the traditional Friday night, due to the football game that night. The queen will be selected on Saturday at 7 p.m., just prior to the livestock raffle drawing in the main arena.

The change means the queen and her court will not ride in Saturday's fair parade as the contest winner, but only as one of the many contestants.

The Livestock Showmanship Sweepstakes has been moved from Saturday to Friday evening at 7 p.m.

The Demolition Derby has eliminated its combine heat this year. The fair will be opened with the traditional Children's Parade on Tuesday, Sept. 1. From then on the activity doesn't stop until Saturday's livestock auction.

Tuesday's events include the judging of poultry, rabbits, and sheep, Kids Day events, such as the tricycle pulls, and the first night of the Cavalcade of Thrills Demolition Derby, including the Powder Puff heat.

Wednesday's events are the judging of swine, goats and beef, western performance horse show, and the second night of the demolition derby.

Thursday's lineup includes an English performance horse show, antique tractor pulling, judging of dairy cattle, pedal power tractor pull, mud bog, and the livestock auction.

On Friday will be the traditional Ladies Day, with a host of activities for the ladies, a Gymkana horse show, tractor pulls, livestock showmanship sweepstakes and a concert by the Country Playboys.

The final day, Saturday, features an open horse show, a Fun Run, sponsored by the Chelsea Recreation Council and Family Practice Center, compact tractor pull, the fair parade, horseshoe pitching, a 4-wheel and 2-wheel drive pulling contest, selection of the Fair Queen, and the livestock raffle.

Midway rides and games are again being provided by Crown Amusements. In addition, many community organizations sponsor booths and work at the fair.

Some premium books should be available as early as the end of the month.

More fair information will be forthcoming in The Chelsea Standard and Dexter Leader.

WACO COUNTRY BAND was the opening act in Sunday's Concert in the Park at Pierce Park. The band featured a repertoire of country standards. The first annual concert series continues with dates in August and September, featuring classical, jazz and big band music. Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, Chelsea Recreation Council, and Michigan Bell are sponsoring the series.

WATERLOO BLUEGRASS BOYS were the featured performers at Sunday evening's Concert in the Park at Pierce Park. The band, which came two members short, played bluegrass standards, including several from their album. They played about an hour to a crowd estimated at 500.

CHELSEA RESIDENT Bob Jaques and his family were among approximately 500 people who attended Sunday's free Concert in the Park at Pierce Park. It was a fine evening of entertainment for lovers of country and bluegrass music, as Waco Country Band and Waterloo Bluegrass Boys played more than two hours.

DENTAL INFECTIONS CAN BE SERIOUS!

Q: How dangerous is an abscessed tooth? Can a person suffer permanent injury from a dental infection?

A: Ignoring a toothache or abscess can threaten more than just your oral health. One study estimates that approximately 800 people die from complications of dental infections each year in this country! Before the discovery of antibiotics this number was much higher.

When bacteria from dental disease destroys the pulp in a tooth the inner pulp chamber can serve as an incubator for the bacteria to multiply. If these millions of bacteria are released into the blood stream they can attack other organs. The heart is especially susceptible to this kind of infection in certain individuals and, if left untreated, permanent disability or even death can result. An abscess of the face can quickly spread to the brain if not treated and this could also be fatal. Infection from a lower tooth can cause the neck to swell so much that the person is unable to breathe. Sometimes an abscess will spontaneously drain by breaking through the skin leaving a permanent scar.

As always, prevention through regular checkups and x-rays is the best cure. Trying to live with a toothache or hoping that it will go away will only make the problem worse.

Summer Baseball Team Wins Second Contest

Chelsea High school's summer baseball squad won their second game of the season last week in the second game of a double header against Synchron, but ended up 1-4 for the week's play.

The week also opened against Synchron last Tuesday and Chelsea lost the single game, 10-6.

At the outset it looked as though it might be Chelsea's game as the Bulldogs loaded the bases with nobody out in the first. Jon Lane's bid for a grand slam came up a few feet short, ending in a long sacrifice fly. Larry Nix's single brought home the second run and an error scored the third.

Synchron came back for two runs in the bottom of the inning, aided by some shaky Chelsea defense.

Synchron took the lead for good in the third inning as they plated four runs.

Chelsea staged a minor rally in the fourth as a walk and singles by Luman Strong and Doug Wingrove scored a run.

However, Synchron again scored four times in the fourth.

Lane's two run homer in the fifth inning, scoring Bob Clouse, rounded out the scoring.

Chelsea had 10 hits for the game. Tim Anderson and Greg Haist singled.

"Another hit or two in the right place and the story could have been different," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

Nix started on the mound and Haist pitched the last three innings, yielding only one base runner in the last two innings.

On Thursday, July 10, Chelsea played a talented Wendy's team, featuring several former and current CHS players, including Jeff Harvey, Todd Starkey, Junior Morseau and Ray Spencer. Wendy's took an 8-2 win.

Again the Bulldogs took the early lead as Anderson's sacrifice fly scored Haist.

Wendy's came back with two runs on one hit, two walks and two Bulldog errors. Wendy's scored four more times in the third inning.

Lane's home run to right in the sixth inning provided the only other Bulldog run.

Haist was the starting pitcher, and Randy Ferry and Craig Maynard worked in relief.

"Even though we've only won one game in the last five, we're hitting pretty well," Marshall said.

Chelsea had seven hits for the game, including singles by Chris Acree, Clouse, Haist, Bryant Beard and Rob Iyeria. Junior Morseau had a single for Wendy's.

Chelsea lost the first game of a twin bill against Synchron last Saturday, July 11 as they fell behind early, 4-1, and lost by the same score.

Clouse's two-out double scored Acree in the third inning.

"The rest of the game was kind of frustrating as we had a couple of opportunities to add a run or two but committed some base running mistakes," Marshall said.

Greg Boughton pitched all seven innings, allowing eight hits and four runs, while striking out four.

Matt Forner had a pair of singles, and Scott Gietzen added a single.

In their only win of the week, Chelsea collected 11 hits and scored 12 runs in a 12-10 victory.

The big blow for Chelsea was a seven run second inning, as the Bulldogs sent 10 batters to the plate. By the end of the third inning Chelsea had an 11-3 lead.

Synchron rallied to within one run at 11-10 but Chelsea added an insurance run in the sixth inning.

Anderson, not normally a pitcher, was pressed into service due to vacations and other no-shows. He gave up a three-run homer in the first inning, but didn't allow another run until the fifth inning.

Boughton, who pitched the first game, pitched in relief to earn the save. He worked out of a jam in the seventh, in which he walked the first two batters but retired the next three.

Clouse was the hitting star for Chelsea as he doubled twice and singled. Acree and Boughton had two hits each, and David Adams, Strong, Anderson and Steve Emmert each singled.

Chelsea's record stands at 2-10.

Chelsea Swimmers Drop Tough Meet

Chelsea Aquatic Club lost big to a very tough Forestbrooke Country Club, 491-319. The meet was held at the Forestbrooke pool last Saturday.

Chelsea never stood much of a chance of winning the meet. The diving portion was held Friday evening, which put the Bulldogs 97 points behind.

There were several bright spots for Chelsea as they came away with four pool records.

The first record was set by the 11- and 12-year-old girls medley relay of Kelly Cross, Melissa Thiel, Sara Nicola and Kathleen Wilcox.

Then it was 10-year-old Matt McVittie setting a new mark in the 100-yard freestyle. Kathleen Wilcox set a record in the 200-yard freestyle.

The last record was again set by the 11-12 girls team of Cross, Thiel, Nicola and Wilcox but in the freestyle relay.

Other Chelsea participants were: 8-and-under: Randy Hurst, Steven Thiel, Rourke Skelton, Peter Straub, Michael Randolph, Garth Hammer, Jimmy Coffman, Kelly Bowers, Carrie Buss, Nicki Lane, Erin Baird, Erika Panches, Jackie Setta, Jenny Sahakian, Kim Grossman, Alexis Panches, Chrissy Merkel, Jamie Knouse.

9-10: Scott Colvin, Bryndon Skelton, Matt McVittie, Stephen Straub, Jesse Hammett, David Mote, Charlie Sell, Chris Grossman, Randy Hurst, Erica Street, Lesley Berg, Christina Gibson, Lori Ritter, Bethany Barner, Michelle Craig, Michelle Dymond, Anna Sell, Genny Humenay, Danielle Longe, Tracy Dufek.

11-12: Joe Cesarz, Chris Gibson, Colby Skelton, Kevin Lane, Brad Martell, Matt Dymond, Mark Kemner, Kelly Cross, Melissa Thiel, Sara Nicola, Kathleen Wilcox, Elizabeth Wright, Monica Hansen, Sandy Schmid, Melissa Colvin, Mara Smith.

13-14: Joe Huetteman, Jim Alford, Erika Boughton.

15-16: Brett Paddock, David Oesterle, Garth Girard, Chris Birtles, Scott Marsh, Suzanne Cooper, Maria Kattula.

Getting in Shape

There's no doubt about it. Every year, more and more Americans participate in sports and fitness activities. They have many goals: improved fitness, weight loss, more energy, better health or to improve in their favorite sport.

Yet, when surveys report on the number of people who exercise regularly at levels vigorous enough to achieve these goals, the number of true participants drops. You see, it takes a little more than just a weekly game of tennis or an occasional swim to become fit.

First, to improve the fitness of your heart and lungs, it is necessary to do some form of cardiorespiratory endurance exercise at least three times each week for a minimum of 20 minutes each workout. This form of exercise, known as aerobic exercise, uses large muscle groups and requires a lot of oxygen. As your heart pumps hard to bring oxygen and nutrients to your muscles, it gets stronger and healthier. Some popular aerobic exercises are walking, jogging, swimming, aerobic dancing, cycling and cross-country skiing.

Muscular strengthening exercises are also important. Strong muscles are less likely to be injured and they make it easier to do endurance exercises for extended periods of time. Also, strong abdominal muscles help prevent lower back pain, which is a common problem today.

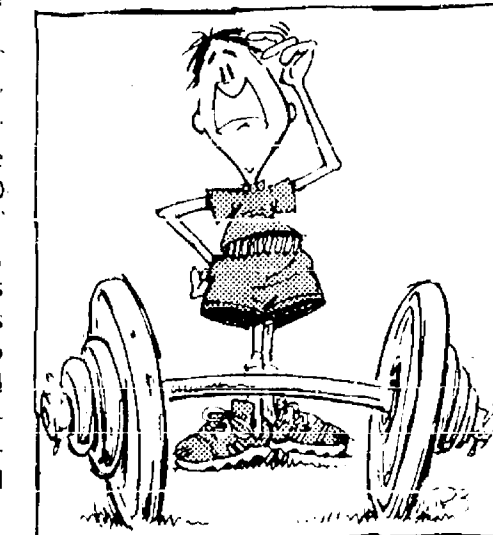

The most popular way to build strength is with equipment. Muscle strength is increased when you make a muscle group work harder than it normally does. This usually means performing an exercise eight to ten times (this equals one set) and doing a total of three sets with a brief rest between each one.

For some people, a two pound hand weight will be all they can manage. Stronger people will require a heavier weight. The important thing to remember is to choose the weight and equipment that is right for you. It's always good to get some expert help when you're just beginning.

I recommend a minimum of two twenty minute sessions of strengthening exercises a week. Three or four are fine, as long as you don't do all your workouts consecutively. Your muscles need at least 24 hours to recuperate from a strength workout.

Exercises such as pushups, situps and leg raises build muscle endurance, which is the ability to endure a movement requiring strength over and over again without resting. Muscular strength and muscular endurance are closely related. You must achieve a certain degree of strength to have high levels of endurance.

Finally, no program is complete without flexibility exercises. Stretching all the major muscle groups on a daily basis is important to ease such health problems as lower back pain and possibly arthritis. When your muscles and joints are flexible, you will be less likely to get injured and you will feel better overall.

Always remember to warm up your body before doing any type of vigorous exercise or before you do your stretches. Walking in place, arm circles, knee lifts and other limbering exercises raise the temperature of your muscles and make it easier, and safer, for you to do your workout. At the end of your workout, gradually come to a stop so that you don't put too much stress on your heart. Stretch as part of your cooldown also, to relax your muscles and help improve flexibility.

USDA Releases Details Of 1988 Wheat Program

Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Lyng has announced a required 27.5 percent acreage reduction and other provisions of the 1988 wheat program.

Other provisions of the 1988 wheat program include:

—A loan rate of $2.17 a bushel, a 20 percent reduction from the basic loan rate of $2.71. Secretary Lyng said the downward adjustment was determined necessary to maintain U.S. wheat competitiveness in domestic and international markets. This is the statutory minimum and five percent below the 1987 loan rate of $2.28.

—The established target price is $4.29 per bushel, the statutory minimum, and down two percent from the 1987 target price.

—A paid land diversion program will not be implemented.

—No marketing loan or related program provisions will be implemented.

—Producers will be required to maintain in acreage conservation reserve an area equal to 37.93 percent of program payment acreage.

—The upper limits on the farmer-owned reserve quantity will be no more than 17 percent of estimated domestic and export use for the 1988/89 marketing year. If reserve quantities exceed the upper limit when 1988 crop wheat loans mature, entry into the reserve will not be permitted.

Lyng said he reserves the right to initiate later cost reduction options as outlined in Section 1009 of the Food Security Act of 1985. These options may include re-opening or changing a program contract entered into by producers if they voluntarily agree to the change.

AstroFest Program Will Study 'Next 50 Years in Space'

"Spaceweek Special: The Next 50 Years in Space" will be the focus of the 173rd AstroFest film and lecture presentation at the University of Michigan. The free public program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. July 17 in Auditorium 3, Modern Languages Building.

Jim Loudon, AstroFest director and staff astronomer at the U-M Exhibit Museum, says he will look beyond the Challenger disaster, which has been discussed in previous AstroFest programs, "to the utter necessity of developing the energy and material resources of the solar system, given that population has expanded beyond what our one small planet can support."

The slide-illustrated lecture will focus on the detailed program presented last year by the National Commission on Space. "We can develop much cheaper ways of getting into space, and incredibly cheaper ways of staying there," Loudon says. "The cost? Less than we'll spend on cosmetics in the same period."

AstroFest is sponsored by the U-M's Exhibit Museum and Department of Aerospace Engineering.

For some members of the animal kingdom good acting can mean the difference between life or death, reports National Wildlife magazine. For example, the bombardier beetle, which lives in the Arizona desert, fights off predators by spraying an irritant from its abdomen while doing a headstand. A related beetle, which has no poison but good acting skills, manages to scare off enemies by imitating the same headstand position.

North School Cubs Hold Bike Rodeo

North School Cub Scouts, Pack 435 rode with great skill last Saturday, July 11, in a Bike Rodeo designed to challenge speed and driving accuracy. Times were kept for the multiple runs over the three courses laid out on the high school parking lot. With several parent volunteers acting as observers, timers and officials, the scouts showed great skill and enthusiasm on the course. The first 10 scouts with their winning times are listed below.

Speed Course with average times for three timed runs: Andy Bennett, 19.95 seconds; Jeff Montange, :21.33; Jeremy Martzoff, :20.72; Davy Bennett, :21.43; Karl Tremper, :21.63; Ben Culver, :21.85; Barney Culver, :22.17; Daniel Martell, :23.49; Mikey Montange, :26.82.

Straight Line Accuracy Run with penalty points added: Dave Bennett, :06; Jeremy Martzoff, :06; Mikey Montange, :06; Brandy Renton, :06; Andy Bennett, :07; Jeff Montange, :07; Karl Tremper, :08; Ben Culver, :09; Barney Culver, :10; Daniel Martell, :11.

Slalom Accuracy Run with penalty points added: Andy Bennett, :38.61; Brandy Renton, :44.98; Daniel Martell, :46.12; Ben Culver, :46.56; Karl Tremper, :50.07; Jeff Montange, :50.74; Mikey Montange, :51.87; Davy Bennett, :52.48; Barney Culver, :52.83; Jeremy Martzoff, :54.05.

All the boys showed tremendous skill and sportsmanship in the day's events which were truly difficult to do well. They showed true Cub Scout spirit in cheering each other on, competing with real spirit and treating the event as a chance to share good citizenship.

The "Beave": Unlike most mammals, a beaver never stops growing. According to Ranger Rick magazine, the biggest beaver found in recent times weighed over 66 pounds! But that's puny compared to the beavers that lived 10,000 years ago. Some of them grew to be the size of grizzly bears!

Musical Program Slated Sunday at Methodist Home

Area United Methodist churches are holding an afternoon of musical entertainment at the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home on Sunday, July 19 at 3:30 p.m. Members of the Chelsea, Dexter, North Lake, and Salem Grove United Methodist churches will present musical numbers and join with the Home's residents for an old-fashioned hymn sing. They will also honor special guests.

All area residents are invited. Refreshments and a social time will precede the singing. Informal tours of the retirement home will be offered following the afternoon's activities. The Home is at 805 W. Middle St. in Chelsea.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

The front page "Quote" ("Questioning is not the mode of conversation among gentlemen") and "Awards Given Schools for Immunization Records" article in the July 8 Chelsea Standard go remarkably well together.

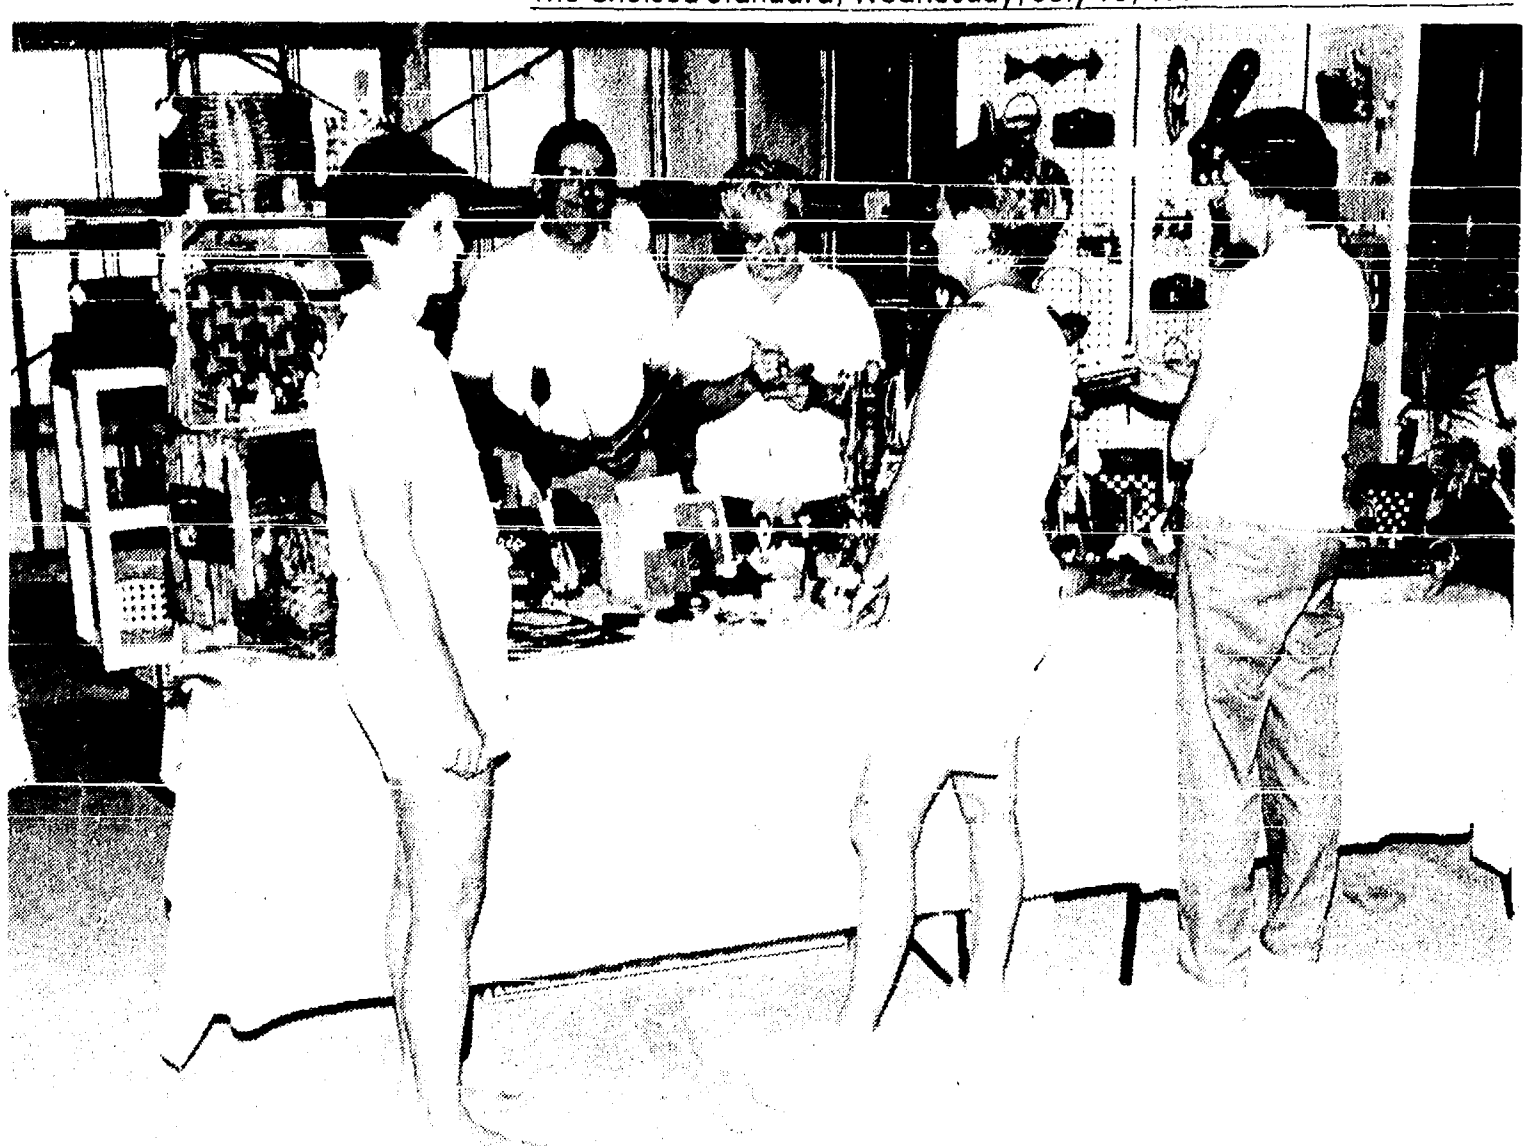

Although your "Quotes" generally impart a bit of wisdom for these times, the July 8 one missed the mark. Questioning and critical thinking are important skills which require mastery over time. Our children question us; we question our world as our education and development progress; we question (and hopefully improve) the laws of our land and our governing officials. The Quote implies that polite folks (er, men anyway) comply, agree acquiesce and do not question. One can be socially acceptable, or at least civil, yet exercise an inquiring mind. It does not benefit us to blindly accept whatever comes our way.

The article about the awards given to schools for excellent record-keeping of children's immunization records raises questions for me. Our schools do run a tight ship. However, I urge parents and concerned individuals to examine the larger issue of immunizations.

The term "vaccination" may be more accurate, because vaccines do not guarantee immunity to a disease. Well-researched articles point out the incidence of whooping cough, for example, in a previously vaccinated population. The hazards of vaccinations may be greater than the ill effects of a disease.

I do not pretend that the question of vaccinations is simple nor one with a pat answer. To argue the case against vaccinations is not my point.

Many excellent books and articles have been written about vaccinations. A few resources: Vegetarian World No. 11—"The Germ Theory Re-examined," Vegetarian Resource 2455 Calle Roble, Thousand Oaks, Calif. 91360. The Poisoned Needle by Eleanor McBean. Published by Health was in charge of the floor plan, Marcy Doan, who worked in the auxiliary's own booth, and Shirley Lancaster, publicity chair. Merchants reported they were quite happy with their sales. The Mortons have already signed up for next year.

Three Area Students Earn All A's at MSU

Three area Michigan State University students received perfect, 4.0 grade point average for the spring term. They are Allen C. Cole of Chelsea, Michael S. Munro of Dexter, and Theresa A. Hurtubise of Pinckney.

Cole is a senior at the Lyman Briggs college, a residential school offering a liberal curriculum in science and mathematics. Munro is a senior studying finance and insurance. Hurtubise is a junior studying sociology.

Pain in the Neck?

A pain in the neck could be the result of everyday stress and strain, as well as a jolt from an accident or sports injury. Emotional stress caused by one's job, family or bills can cause abnormal contraction of the neck muscles resulting in pain and stiffness. Jobs, like secretary or auto mechanic, that require a lot of leaning over, tend to make people force their necks forward and hunch their shoulders.

By releasing impinged nerves within your spinal column, chiropractors allow your nervous system to function properly, eliminating the cause of the pain, as well as the pain itself. Let us take care of your pain in the neck. Call today!

CARD OF THANKS

Our heartfelt thanks to all who extended comforting sympathy and help in our recent sorrow. To the Rev. Erwin Koch for the beautiful prayers and service, the ladies of St. Paul United Church of Christ for their luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cole of Cole-Burghardt Funeral home, and everyone for their cards and other kindness, we are deeply grateful.

The Rose Lindauer Family

CARD OF THANKS

The family of Gordon Gove wish to express our sincere thanks to all the persons who so caringly, took care of Gordon. For five years, beginning Aug. 17, 1982, there has been a need fulfilled by everybody. May you all enjoy 3rd John 2nd verse. Lovingly,

Ruth, Beth,
Paul and family.

THANK YOU

A thank you to all my friends who sent cards, plants, and fruit baskets. For the many calls of concern and the offers and help that has been given to me and my family. A special thanks to the Chelsea Community Hospital and the Rev. Sondra Willobee for her prayers and visits. These, along with the thoughtful visits from many have played a big part in helping me have a successful recovery from heart surgery.

Merritt Honbaum.

Kaercher, Clayton Ward, and teacher Mildred Daniels Meyer. They are standing in front of the brick school which was destroyed by a cyclone in 1923. Note that three families furnished over half of the students, the Wenks, Kaerchers and Luicks each sending three. Of the 17 students pictured, only Lorenz Wenk and Hilda Wenk Pierce, and possibly Wayne Grau, still survive.

Lima Center School Still Has Many Alumni in Chelsea Area

One of the 29 rural school districts which consolidated with the Chelsea schools was Lima Center school on Jackson and Lima Center Rds. The wooden school built in 1923 still stands today, having been converted to a family home.

The school was originally of brick, but had to be re-built when it was hit by a cyclone, Aug. 5, 1923.

A number of Chelsea residents attended the one-room school when it still met in the brick structure including Lorenz Wenk, his sister, Hilda Wenk Pierce, Don Dancer, and General Dwight Beach.

Gen. Beach, certainly the most famous graduate of the school, reversed the usual order of things by commuting from Chelsea to the country school. The reason for this was that his family moved to the village when he was in the middle of the eighth grade. Instead of changing schools, he rode back every day on the inter-urban (DUR) which went down Jackson Rd., paying a five cent fare. Until then, Beach had walked to school, having only half a block to go from his family's farm.

A classmate of Beach's from fourth to eighth grade was Don Dancer, whose family moved from Chelsea to a farm in 1918. Dancer did not like all the adjustments he had to make living on a farm such as having no place to roller skate and having to do chores, but he has positive comments about his schooling, describing the curriculum as "good and varied."

In an earlier generation of Lima Center students were the Wenk family. There were seven children in the family, and Hilda Pierce remembers that one spring all seven attended the school. Since people remember the enrollment being in the teens, the Wenks made up almost half.

With a school that small, there were only a few in each class. Dancer and Beach were sometimes accompanied by a girl, but were usually the only two in their grade. Pierce had one classmate all the way through, Arthur Kaercher, with other joining and leaving from time to time as their families moved in or out of the area.

One teacher, usually a woman, taught all eight grades. There seems to have been a fairly rapid turnover of teachers, most staying just a year or two. Names remembered include a cousin of Dancer's named Eleanor Dancer, Mildred Daniels Meyer, Rose Lutz, Mildred Koch Hinderer, Miss Fleming, and Miss Smith. The teachers either already lived in the area or boarded with a local family. Mildred Koch met her future husband, Otto Hinderer, when she boarded with his parents.

The school had an entrance area with room to hang up coats. In the main room there were desks for each child with an ink well on the top corner and a shelf underneath for books and tablets, a stove in the back, and seats in front for recitation. A blackboard, and teacher's desk completed the inside decor.

In the days before ballpoint pens, writing was done with a pen dipped in ink. Beach admits to occasionally dipping girls' pigtails into the inkwell. Wenk remembers that there was one student in his class that used to drink the ink.

The curriculum included physiology, spelling, reading, arithmetic, writing, geography, grammar, and agriculture. Dancer said the teachers had to have a good general knowledge. He remembers Lutz as being a good teacher of agriculture since she had been raised on a farm at Four Mile Lake. In agriculture the students learned about animals and about crops.

Beach remembers that the curriculum included a lot of memorization work such as learning the Gettysburg address. He also remembers some singing, saying he was never any good at it.

Wenk remembers that there was a piano in the school and that once a blind person visited the school and played for the class.

Wenk remembers school starting at 8:30 a.m., with 15 minute recesses and an hour for lunch. Pierce remembers playing games during these breaks, such as London Bridge, Pom Pom Pullaway, and King of the Mountain, as well as some circle games. Wenk remembers playing baseball in warm weather, skating in the winter, and wading and fishing in the creek in the spring.

A memory shared by both Beach and Wenk is of catching snakes, scaring the girls with them and, when done, putting them on the DUR tracks to make the rails greasy, causing the trains to have trouble starting. Both also remember catching suckers in Mill Creek and lugging them back to school.

Discipline at the school was generally by a ruler on the hands. The school was too small to need a parent-teacher organization, those who wanted to be involved just were.

At the end of eighth grade the students would take an all-day exam in Chelsea, hearing in the summer if they passed and could go on to high school. Dancer remembers that his exam was administered by the then-county school commissioner, a man named Evan Ezrie. Wenk remembers Ezrie coming to the Lima Center school every now and then for inspections.

In those days many did not go on to high school; an eighth grade education being all that was legally required. Wenk's parents needed him to work on the family farm, where he stayed until he was 21. However, his sister, Hilda Wenk Pierce, attended high school and became the only one of the seven siblings to get a high school diploma.

Dancer went on to high school being very glad to be re-united with the Chelsea friends that he had left in fourth grade. Beach, of course, finished high school, attended the University of Michigan and West Point and then went on to become a four star general serving in the Pacific, Panama, Australia, Japan, the Philippines, and Vietnam. He says of his one-room schooling, "It didn't hurt me any."

Pierce describes her schooling as "a lot different than now." Dancer says it gave him a good background. "I learned how the other half lived." Beach agrees, saying "It taught me to make my own amusements and gave me a good over-all look at human nature, good and bad, smart and stupid."

Sounding like the general that he is, Beach summed up his one-room schooling saying "it taught you what the American way of life was like, that it was something to be proud of."

Abraham Lincoln was heard to say, "Thank God for Michigan" as the 1st Michigan Infantry arrived in Washington on May 16, 1861, providing the first western support for the Civil War. Lincoln's comments are part of the wealth of history found in Michigan during the month of May.

A TOTAL OF 1,802 PARTICIPANTS registered for "One Helluva Ride," sponsored by the Ann Arbor Bicycle Touring Society, Saturday, July 11, and two more arrived to join the ride, even though they had not officially registered, explained the event's 1987 director, Daryle Lewis, shown second from left in the photo. The event originated at the parking lot of Wylie Middle school, Dexter, and branched into several distinct routes before returning to the point of origin. Bikers proceeded northward out Dexter-Pinckney Rd. as far as the eye could see, and many miles beyond. Shown with Lewis are Lori Armstrong, at far left, who supervised the registration activities, Pat Klinger and Fred Steiner, both members of Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Services (RACES). A total of 20 volunteers, some from RACES and some from the Amateur Radio Emergency Services group assisted during "One Helluva Ride." A headquarters RACES van was stationed on the Wylie school grounds and another volunteer rode in the Huron Valley Ambulance during the day-long event. Bob Schantz monitored and relayed information about Saturday's weather, as well as providing telephone service and a center from which messages might be relayed. Other volunteers were scattered over the alternate routes to relay necessary information during the course of the ride. Many of the RACES volunteers were stationed at various locations along the routes, providing updates on the progress and condition of the riders.

Allen J. Karvel Completes Navy Recruit Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Alan J. Karvel, son of Arthur J. and Janet C. Karvel of 3430 E. Pineview Dr., Dexter, has completed recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During Karvel's eight-week training cycle, he studied general military subjects designed to prepare him for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 basic fields.

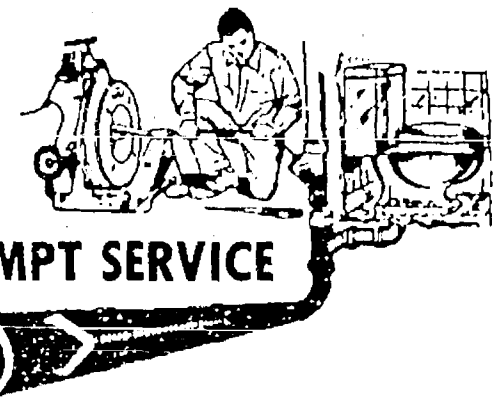

Karvel's studies included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first aid. Personnel who complete this course of instruction are eligible for three hours of college credit in physical education and hygiene.

He is a 1983 graduate of Dexter High school.

World's Largest Cherry Pie Will Be Baked in Traverse City

An "extraordinary" event is planned for Traverse City on Saturday, July 25. The world's largest cherry pie will be baked. The event is planned as an entertainment extravaganza as the National Governor's Conference convenes in this midwestern resort city.

The world's largest cherry pie, to be baked with Michigan cherries, is being sponsored by the Michigan Cherry Committee. The task of baking the pie—including all technical aspects of the construction of the pan, erection of an oven, baking, packaging, and distribution is being orchestrated by Chef Pierre, whose corporate headquarters are located in Traverse City. The Traverse City open space site will be the location of the event.

According to Rod Wells of Chef Pierre, the pie pan will measure 18 feet from rim to rim; the depth will be 26 inches. The estimated weight of the pie will exceed 28 thousand pounds (14 tons) and the finished product will yield about 100,000 four-ounce servings. "I spoke with the Guinness people in England, and we will definitely meet all of their specifications for a new world record," Wells remarked. The previous record was set in Charlevoix in 1976 with a pie that weighed 7-tons and was 14'4" in diameter, 24 inches deep, and contained 4,950 lb. of cherries.

The Traverse City pie will contain the following ingredients:
18,865 lb. cherries
7,478 lb. sugar
1,081 lb. flour
855 lb. corn starch
703 lb. shortening.

Baking will begin at about 6 a.m. on Saturday, July 25, with the "cutting of the pie" scheduled for about 1 p.m.; serving will continue through 10 p.m. A modern Chef Pierre assembly line will be erected at the site to package the pie.

Many Michigan individuals and organizations are working to produce this pie. The pan will be constructed in two parts by the Dunkley Co. of Kalamazoo and will be assembled on the Traverse City Open Space site by CTM Associates, Jacklin Steel Supply, and Concrete Services of Traverse City. Elmer's Crane and Dozer will move the pan and the oven parts and assist with the official weighing. Tri-Gas and Michigan Consolidated will supply the gas for firing the burner, donated by Joe M. Day Co. of Saginaw. Many other firms are also contributing to this record-breaking endeavor.

Co-ordinating local activities and entertainment at the site is the Center for Business and Industry of Northwestern Michigan College. "Hundreds of volunteers will be on duty to serve our guests," commented Roberta Teahen, director of the Center. Paul Jacobs of CBI, site co-ordinator, has arranged for entertainment to begin at 11 a.m. "We'll have a variety of entertainment, including performances by some of Traverse City's finest musical talent and many popular and cherry-riffed tunes for sing-alongs. We hope our guests will relax and have a good time while the pie is baking or later while they are helping to eat the world's largest cherry pie," Jacobs reported.

The number to be served could reach 80,000, as residents and visitors gather to review the Parade of Sails at 6 p.m. and the celebration of Michigan's Sesquicentennial with the area's largest-ever display of fireworks over Grand Traverse Bay beginning at 10 p.m. Extra pie will be packaged for distribution to area organizations.

Kevin D. Besey Receives Master's Degree at WMU

Kevin D. Besey of Island Lake Rd., received a master's of public administration degree from Western Michigan University at the end of the winter semester. A total of 327 people received master's, specialist's (sixth year) or doctoral degrees from WMU that semester.

The meeting adjourned at 9:57 p.m.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, July 6 were Dils, Grau, Redding, Comeau, Satterthwaite, Cherem, Wales, Feeney, superintendent Van Meer, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Stielstra, Wescott, assistant principal Larson, athletic director Reed, special education director DeYoung, curriculum director Bissell, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by outgoing president Arthur E. Dils.

Former board president Dils administered the oath of office to newly elected board trustee Ann E. Feeney.

Officers for the 1987-88 school year were elected as follows: president, Lloyd Grau; vice-president, Ann Comeau; secretary, Joseph Redding; treasurer Ronald Satterthwaite.

The board approved the minutes of the June 22 meeting, and the minutes of the executive session of the June 22 meeting.

The board entered official communications as follows: letter from Vickie Hinderer, secretary of PTS (Parents/Teachers, South), indicating a donation and installation of school playground equipment; complimentary letter from Steve Leith, high school chemistry teacher; letter from Don Elliott, executive director of M.A.S.A., commending Superintendent Van Meer for his leadership in that organization this past year.

The board reviewed the 1987-88 board goals, and made some minor wording changes.

The board reviewed the district survey of 1985, and discussed ways in which to review the results on a quarterly basis and to make note of questions that should be included in a future survey.

The board discussed the newly developed administrative evaluation instrument; it will be further reviewed at the July 20 meeting.

The board officially designated dates, times and locations of meetings for the 1987-88 school year. Meetings will be held the first and third Mondays of each month at 8 p.m. in the Board Room of the Administration Building at the high school.

The board approved the designation of the Chelsea State Bank as the district's bank depository for the 1987-88 school year. The accounts are: the General Fund, the 1956 Debt Retirement Fund, the 1965 Debt Retirement Fund, 1974 Debt Retirement Fund, the Cafeteria Fund, Beach School Fund, Mabel Fox Loan Fund, Payroll Account, Chelsea High School Student Fund, Chelsea Schools Pool Fund, Community Education Refund Account.

The board approved check signature authorization and the resolution authorizing use of the signature plate of the superintendent for payroll checks, authorization for signature plates for the Board of Education president, secretary and treasurer for all checks for payment of General Fund, Debt Retirement Funds, authorization for the board treasurer, Memarie Walter, Frederick A. Mills and Raymond E. Van Meer to endorse checks for deposit only.

The board approved the retention of the legal firms of Keusch & Flintoft; Thrun, Maatsch & Nordberg; and the Michigan Association of School Boards legal staff to represent the district during the 1987-88 school year.

The board appointed Anne Comeau to represent the Board of Education in the Washtenaw County School Officers Association.

The board appointed Craig Wales to act as liaison person to the Michigan Association of School Boards.

The board authorized assistant superintendent Frederick A. Mills to participate in co-operative purchasing.

The board authorized assistant superintendent Frederick A. Mills to develop a fund investment program.

The board authorized assistant superintendent Frederick A. Mills to pay General Fund and Debt Retirement expenditures in the best interest of the school district.

The board approved the fee of $84.95 for membership in the MASB Legal Trust Fund.

The board accepted, with gratitude, the playground equipment for South school from PTS. Approximate cost of the equipment is $7,000. The board wishes to extend appreciation for the many volunteers who successfully promoted the purchase and installation.

The board approved a complaint/grievance procedure for Title VI and Title IX of the Education Amendment Act of 1972 and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, and to name a civil rights co-ordinator to protect the rights and assure compliance with these acts. The board approved all supervisors, directors and principals to be the immediate co-ordinators for Step 1, with the acknowledgment that if Step 2 is necessary, a grievant may appeal to the superintendent of schools.

The board approved membership in the Michigan High School Athletic Association for the year Aug. 1, 1987, through July 31, 1988.

The board adopted the 1987-88 district goals.

The board approved a maternity leave of absence for Ann Crowley, high school teacher, from Aug. 31, 1987, through Jan. 22, 1988.

The board authorized the hiring of an additional social worker and a two-year pilot program for early intervention for students at risk.

The board approved the appointment of Charles Waller to the Chelsea Recreation Council. Waller will be replacing David Read, who is relocating to California.

The board approved a two-year leave of absence for Bob Bullock, fifth grade teacher at South school. Bullock will be teaching in Panama at the Defense Department Dependents school.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills updated the board on summer projects involving maintenance millage expenditures. This work includes roofing contracts, Mayer Drive, painting of classrooms, music department auditorium renovations, playground improvements, and landscaping.

Participation in Farm Programs Is Possible

Michigan farmers may participate in both the state Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (Public Act 116 of 1974 as amended) and the federal Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) under the 1985 Food Security Act.

Landowners who are participating in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act (P.A. 116) and contemplating applying for participation in the CRP will not jeopardize their P.A. 116 agreements with the state. The Michigan Department of Natural Resources has indicated that the vegetative cover required under the CRP does not preclude the ability of the landowner to convert such lands into future row crop production after the completion of the 10-year CRP contracts.

The next sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program is July 20-31, 1987. Application for the program can be made at the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) Office, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor.

Landowners with P.A. 116 agreements receive indirect tax relief through credits applied to their Michigan state income tax for amounts by which their property taxes exceed 7% of the landowners household income.

Participants accepted into the Conservation Reserve Program receive annual payments from the federal government to maintain in vegetative cover for 10 years, land determined to be highly erodible by the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

For more information about the Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act and Conservation Reserve Program, contact the Soil Conservation District, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor 48103. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Farm Bureau Cheers Extension Funding

The Michigan Legislature's approval of an additional $5 million to $6 million in funding for the Co-operative Extension Service and the agricultural experiment station is good news for the state's farm community, according to Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel Ron Nelson.

"There are numerous needs in agriculture, all the way from efficiency in marketing to nutrient management, livestock odors and forestry issues," Nelson said. "These funds can help find solutions to the problems facing agriculture and improve the economic advantage of farmers."

The appropriation measure now goes to Governor Blanchard for his consideration.

JIFFY MIX towers of Chelsea Milling Co. have been getting a facelift over the last couple of weeks. A York, Neb. firm sandblasted the towers before applying nearly 900 gallons of specially-mixed white paint. They were also scheduled to repaint the sign itself.

Misery Loves Company as Brothers Share Hospital Room

It's bad enough when one child is in bad health. But Gene and Pat Shoemaker of Crooked Lake are in the unenviable position of having both sons in the hospital at the same time with entirely unrelated problems.

Mike, age 16, was admitted to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital July 8 after suffering through six months of stomach pains. That afternoon he had a kidney repair operation.

Jeff, age 14, broke his right upper leg in a freak accident on Crooked Lake July 5. His leg is in traction at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Jeff broke his leg while water discing with 10-year-old Ryan Wagner. He accidentally slipped off the disc and fortunately was wearing a regulation life jacket. Ryan was not hurt.

Ryan's Dad, Fritz, a native of Chelsea now living in New Orleans, was piloting the boat, while mother, Margaret, was the safety observer. Fritz managed to get Jeff into the boat after the accident.

"Chelsea rescue arrived first, just before Huron Valley Ambulance," said Gene Shoemaker.

"Both of these crews worked very professionally, with kind, considerate compassion for Jeff, who was still in the boat. Chelsea people are very fortunate to have such well-trained and equipped services as these."

Mike and Jeff are sharing a room at the hospital and keeping each other company.

Local arrangements were handled by the Cole Burghardt Funeral Chapel.

Wide Farm Equipment Bill Signed By Governor

Governor Blanchard has signed into law a bill to allow the movement of wider farm equipment on most public roads. The new law amends the state's motor vehicle code, a change that is long overdue, according to Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The new law, Public Act 90, allows the movement of any sized farm equipment on roadways during daylight hours as long as the movement of the equipment does not impede the flow of traffic," Nelson said. "During hours when it's dark, the new law allows any sized farm equipment on roadways as long as it does not move left of center. Also, the equipment must display a tail light or be followed by a vehicle displaying tail lights."

Nelson credits the bill's sponsor, Rep. Gary Randall, the Michigan State Police, and Governor Blanchard, for bringing the roadway wide equipment standards up to date.

Kiwanis Wives Hear Barbara Bush Address

Kiwanis International first lady, Mary Jane DiNoto, was official hostess to 1,000 ladies at a luncheon held

Kiwanis Votes To Accept Women

Dr. Warren Atkinson, his wife, Dr. Linda Atkinson, and their two sons, Derek and Devin, were among the 12,000 or more people attending the 72nd annual Convention of Kiwanis International (K-I) in Washington, D. C., July 5-9.

Addressing those attending the convention, United States President Ronald Reagan told them he praised the service work of Kiwanians and promoted his "Economic Bill of Rights," Monday, July 6.

Noting that "personal, private charity humanizes society," President Reagan commended Kiwanis for its growth to more than 8,200 clubs in the world and noted, "That's one kind of inflation that I'm all for."

Referring to the Kiwanians' fight against drug abuse, particularly among school-age youngsters, President Reagan explained, "Drugs are an evil, pure and simple."

"We're teaching our children to 'just say no,'—there are now 12,000 'Just Say No' clubs in American schools," said the nation's number one executive.

After stating the "great generosity of Kiwanis has become legend," President Reagan announced Kiwanis International is a winner of the 1987 Presidential Award for Private Sector Initiatives.

The award is the highest honor in America recognizing community outreach programs, and Kiwanis becomes an official representative of the Private Sector Initiative program.

Kiwanis International president Frank J. DiNoto has been invited to an awards ceremony at the White House later this month to accept the award on behalf of the organization.

Punctuating the beginning of his address with humorous remarks, President Reagan recalled his last visit to a Kiwanis International Convention was during 1964, and remarked, "Let's promise each other something—that in the future, we won't be such strangers!"

At least 5,000 Kiwanians were official delegates, representing clubs scattered throughout the world.

Throughout the past 72 years, the world has changed, communities have changed, individuals have changed, but the purpose of Kiwanis International "to build" remains unaltered, guided by its six unwavering objects.

in conjunction with the K-I convention, July 5-9, in Washington, D. C.

Carol Model, wife of lieutenant governor Fred Model, from Michigan District of Kiwanis, Division 10, explained the ladies listened attentively as guest speaker Barbara Bush related some of her experiences as the wife of United States Vice-President George Bush.

Among the many memorable moments were greeting the Iranian hostages upon their return to U. S. soil, and several years later, being present as the body of a young United States Marine was returned home, after he was killed by terrorists during an airplane hijacking incident in the middle east.

Barbara Bush told her audience she had visited in numerous countries around the world, and nearly every state in the union.

Her duties as wife of Vice-President Bush include many enjoyable tasks, such as placing the star on top of the nation's Christmas tree each year.

The ladies were fascinated by the stories she shared with them, and charmed by her warm humor.

She explained the area to which she devotes most of her time and energy is that of promoting literacy in the United States.

She has been particularly active on behalf of Project Literacy US (PLUS) to eradicate illiteracy.

Mrs. Bush also serves on the board of "Reading Is Fundamental."

She expressed a desire to be able to do something which can improve the future of our country, and urged the ladies attending the luncheon meeting to join her in such efforts.

She explained that she hopes Kiwanis will consider lending its support to literacy programs.

Fred Model, lieutenant governor for Michigan District of Kiwanis, Division 10, explained this week Anton J. "Tony" Kaiser received approval at the convention to move from K-I's president-elect position to lead Kiwanis International for the coming year.

His presidential term will begin Oct. 1.

An attorney by profession, Kaiser's Kiwanis membership spans 31 years. Kaiser is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Farmingdale, N. Y.

Michigan's Gene R. Overholt of Plymouth was elected to succeed Kaiser as Kiwanis International president-elect during the year which starts Oct. 1.

Overholt has been a Kiwanis member for 20 years, currently serves as Kiwanis International treasurer and chairs the K-I board committee on program services.

He is retired from an executive position with Michigan Bell Telephone Co.

His home club is the Kiwanis Club of Colonial Plymouth.

Delegates at the Kiwanis International Convention made history early Tuesday afternoon, July 7, when they voted to adopt a proposed amendment to the K-I constitution and by-laws that eliminates gender as a membership requirement.

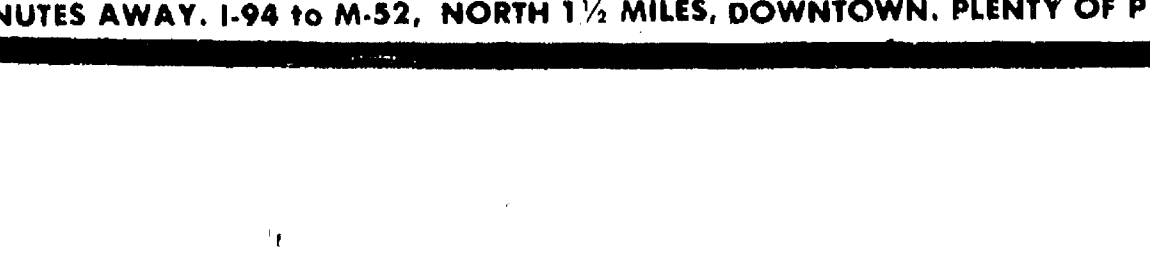

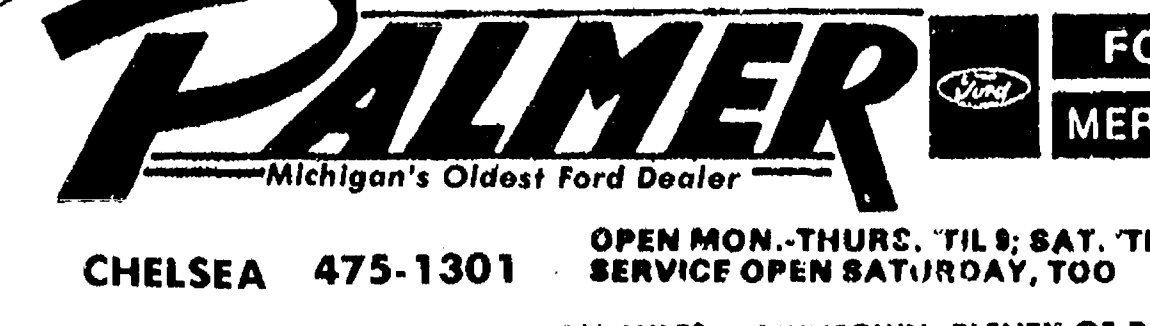

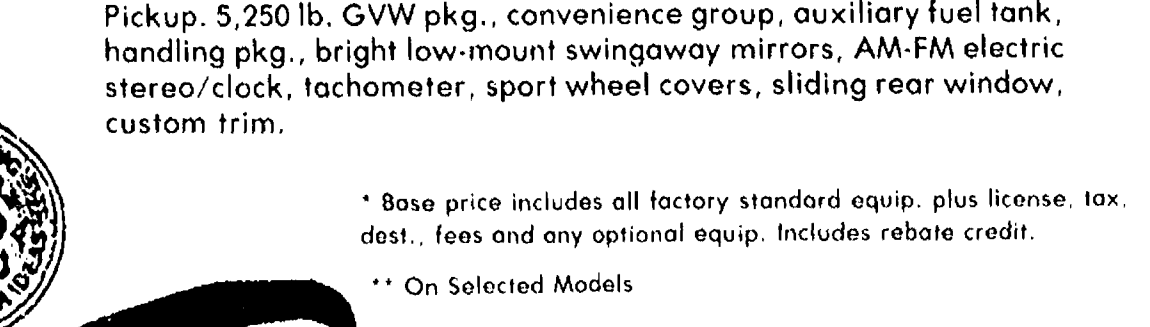

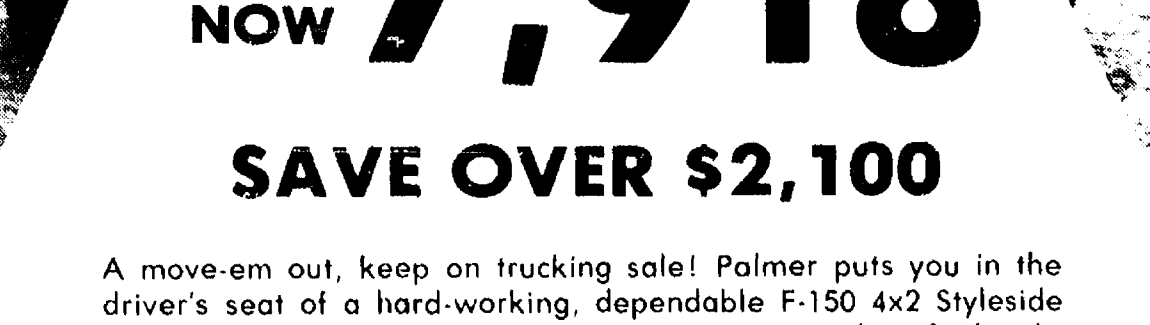

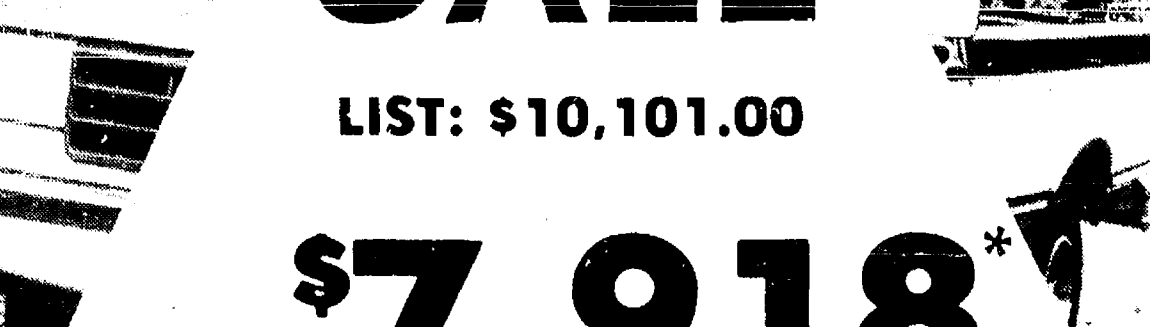

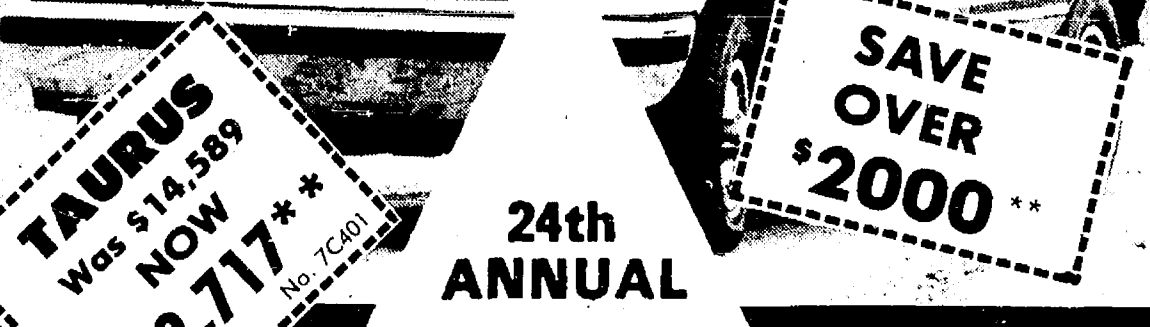

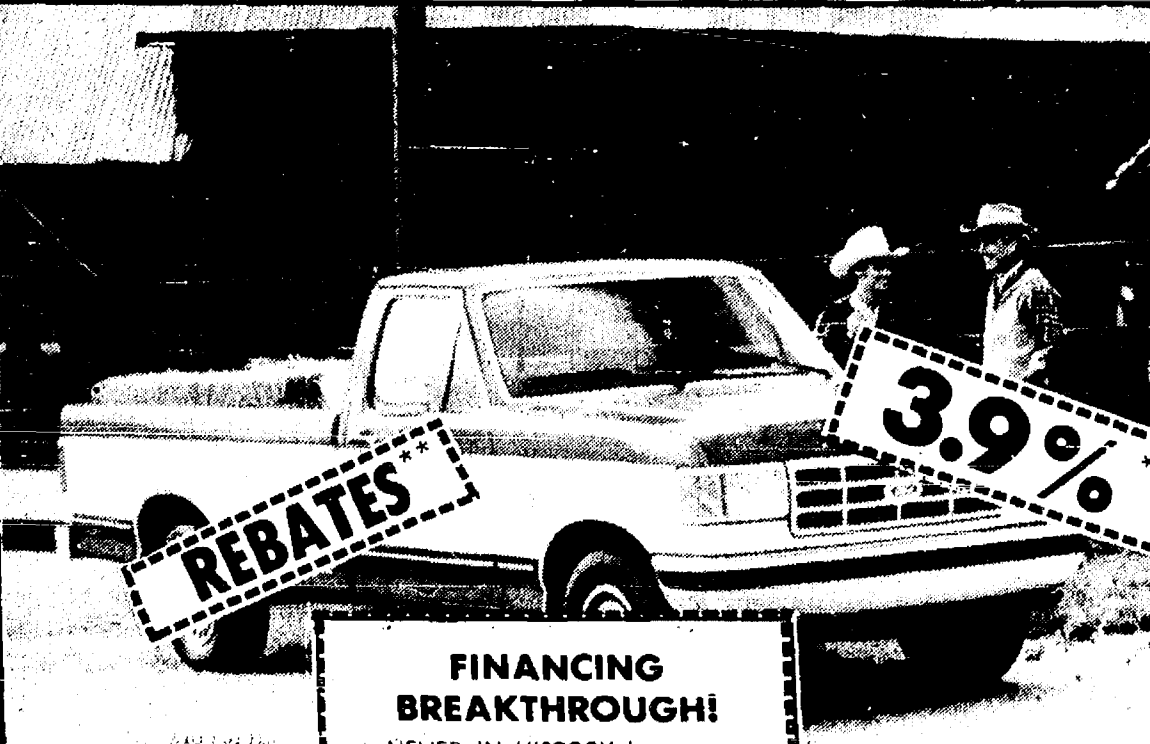

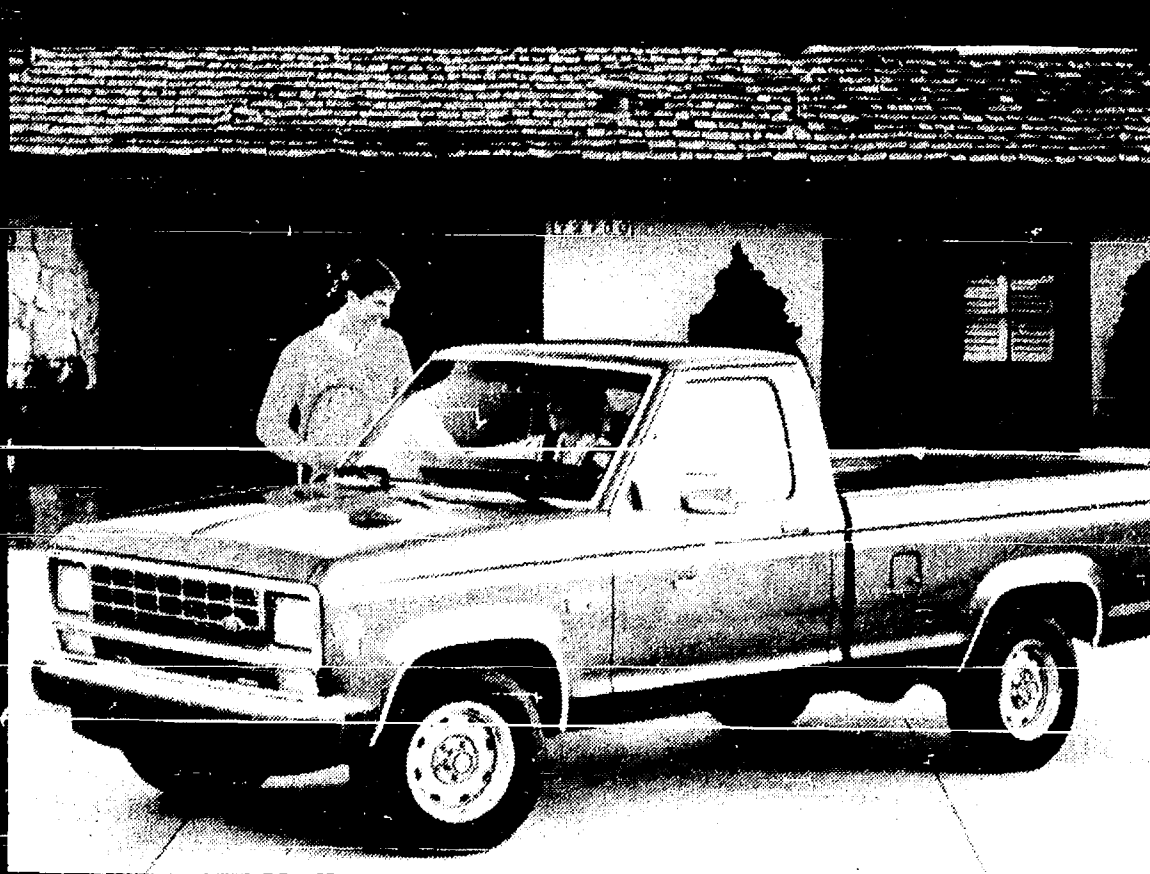

During a standing vote, the delegates reflected the necessary two-thirds majority for passage.

The House of Delegates also amended (effective immediately) the amendment to provide that Kiwanis clubs world-wide will be permitted to admit women as members.

Previously, the proposed amendment had limited the measure to clubs in the United States.

In other official action, delegates adopted an amendment, which becomes effective Oct. 1, that provides for an electoral regional plan for representation on the international board.

Model explained proudly that for the first time in 20 years, a Division 10 club, Saline, will host the 1988 Kiwanis State Bowling Tournament.

Manchester Chicken Broil Set Thursday

With Michigan's Sesquicentennial reminding us of historical matters, now is a good time to recall the past of Manchester's most famous local event—the Chicken Broil.

In 1954, Luther Klager took some suggestions from Dr. Howard Zindell of MSU and presented them to the Exchange Club of Manchester, the forerunner of today's Optimist Club. The idea was for a modest fundraiser, an outdoor chicken barbecue whose profits would go to a worthy local cause.

Club members thought it was a good enough plan to put into action, and in July of that year, barbecue pits went up at the Athletic Field for the first time. The men of Manchester cooked enough chicken to feed about 1,500 people and the broil cleared about $1,000. This money went to the first of many public improvements funded by the broil—a new fence for the Athletic Field. That first broil was sufficiently successful to repeat the next year, and the next, and the next...

33 years later, the broil is headed for its 34th go-round. Like most successful enterprises, it has both changed and stayed the same. The broil now feeds 12,000-14,000 people, several times the population of Manchester, and with the growth in volume have come improvements in efficiency, so all those hungry mouths can be fed as quickly as possible.

For example, a conveyor belt now speeds the assembly of take-out dinners, themselves one of the broil's first innovations, and the butter used to baste the chickens is now sprayed on instead of dabbed with a brush. Each committee has its separate task polished to a skill.

The basic recipes, however, have not changed. The chicken still roasts slowly for two to two and a half hours for maximum tenderness, flavored only with butter and a dash of salt. The cole slaw is still assembled according to the secret recipe of Dr. Jones, who was Manchester's dentist back in 1954. The rest of the meal is the same gold old American fare as always—potato chips, radishes, and dinner rolls.

In the 1970's when the energy crisis was pinching fuel tanks, a new tradition began—the horse and wagon shuttles from the high school parking lot. The sound of big hooves clopping and the jingling of harness has become as much a part of the broil as the sight of men in white caps turning racks of golden chicken in a haze of fragrant smoke.

By now, some Manchester families are introducing a third generation to working at the broil. This year's broil takes place Thursday, July 16, starting as usual at 4 p.m. at the Athletic Field. Come on out to enjoy some chicken and celebrate this part of Manchester's heritage. Tickets are available at many local businesses or from broil volunteers for $4.50 before the broil, and $5 at the gate.

Fireworks Fund Still Needs Contributions

"Fireworks Fund" has received a few donations accompanied by complimentary remarks like "They were wonderful and we thoroughly enjoyed them." "One of the best shows we've seen in years. Thank you Harold and all who worked on the fireworks for Chelsea."

More donations are needed to help Harold Allen be reimbursed for an actual $4,196.17, which he paid from his own money. Mail or drop off donations to Allen in care of The Chelsea Standard, 300 N. Main St., Chelsea.

Please clearly mark envelope Firework Funds.
