CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JULY 29, 1987

24 Pages This Week Plus Supplement

FOUR FARM BUILDINGS WERE VIRTUALLY leveled, two steers were lost, one silo destroyed and another seriously damaged, in addition to loss of a farm tractor and other equipment at the John Brooks farm on Chelsea-

Manchester Rd., Wednesday, July 22. Chelsea Fire Chief Paul "Bud" Hankerd explained Tuesday morning that insurance investigators agreed with his findings on the fire's cause—an electrical short.

DARK SMOKE ROSE OVER A DESOLATE SCENE centered about an empty farm wagon surrounded by flames at the barn fire which started from an electrical short on the John Brooks farm, south of Chelsea along the Chelsea-Manchester Rd., Wednesday, July 22. Firefighters from Dexter, Grass Lake and Manchester aided the Chelsea department at the fire site, where Fire Chief Paul "Bud" Hankerd explained wisps of smoke still emerged from burning hay, as late as Tuesday morning's press time for The Chelsea Standard's July 29 issue.

Annual Sidewalk Days Features Bargain Goods, Crafts, Food and Fun

If you're interested in bargain merchandise, local crafts, a little entertainment and a good lunch then the 14th annual Sidewalk Days this Friday and Saturday may be just what you're looking for.

Sidewalk Days, traditionally the final community-wide event before the Chelsea Community Fair, takes place Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m. and Saturday from 8:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. It's sponsored by the Chelsea Merchants Association.

Downtown merchants will once again have deeply discounted merchandise outside their stores. In addition, some merchants will have grab bags.

Both days will feature nearly 20 area artisans with crafts ranging from woodworking and ceramics to custom jewelry.

In addition, 17 non-profit organizations will have booths. Some of those organizations include Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary, Chelsea High school Booster Club, Chelsea High cheerleaders, the Lions Club Sightmobile (for free eye tests), and the Washtenaw County Crime Unit.

Food will also be available at the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea's knockwurst wagon.

Tours of the depot will be available both days from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Saturday will feature the annual Antique and Classic Car and Truck Parade at 1 p.m., although, for the first time, it will run head-to-head with the auto show and swap meet at the Chelsea Fairgrounds.

Anywhere from 30 to 50 cars will take part in the parade. The parade begins at the depot, goes south on Main St. to Old US-12, where it will turn right. From there it will turn right on Wilkinson St. and go north to Middle St., where it will turn left and loop in front of the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home. From there it's back down Middle St. to the depot.

Anyone with an old or unusual clean car or truck that people would enjoy seeing is welcome to participate.

Lunch for parade participants is being provided by the Chelsea Merchants Association from 11:30-1.

As usual, South St. will be closed to through traffic at Main St., as will E. Middle St. at Main.

It all takes place, rain or shine.

DDA Financial Plan Produced for Projects In Business District

Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority has put together a five-year plan for financing $685,000 in improvements to the central business district.

The plan was developed by Franz Mogdis, of Chase Mogdis, Inc., of Ann Arbor, a financial consulting firm. He presented the plan to the DDA on July 8.

The plan details the business district's basic needs, taken largely from an earlier study, and identifies the means to finance all the projects, estimated to cost $769,900, when consulting and attorney's fees are added, along with other administrative expenses. The improvements themselves would take place from 1988 through 1990.

The bulk of the proceeds would come through tax increment financing in the business district. That method would give the DDA money generated from the rise in assessed values of property within the business district. It would not increase tax bills of property owners.

Eighty percent of the money generated from increment financing would be used to repay general obligation bonds issued for the improvement program for three years beginning in 1988.

The plan calls for $200,000 in bonds to be sold in 1988, $275,000 in 1989 and $175,000 in 1990.

The two mill tax levy, that was recently enacted, and the other 20 percent of the increment financing, would generate the bulk of the remaining money, rising from $14,100 next year to $25,000 in 1992.

The total bill for the program, including attorney's and consulting fees, is estimated at $769,900.

In the report, the needs of the business district are defined in terms of physical improvements, parking improvements, identifying retail/service gaps, and marketing and promotion of the district.

The projects are broken down into three phases, beginning next year.

Phase 1, which is projected to cost $225,000, will have as its major project the improvement of the Main St.-Middle St. intersection. That is allotted $110,000.

In addition, $55,000 of parking improvements have been identified: Jackson St. next to the depot; development of Chelsea Milling property opposite the clock tower; and improvements to the municipal parking lot.

Alley improvements on the east side of Main St. ($10,000), upgrading of parking and directional signs ($10,000); development and implementation of a marketing plan ($25,000); and landscape improvements ($10,000) were also singled out.

Phase 2, projected to cost $290,000, would feature a re-working of the South St.-Main St. intersection at $100,000. Alley improvements on the west side of Main St., and restructuring of the service alley behind the courthouse would cost $75,000. Landscaping at the north and south entrances to the village and general "streetscape" improvements would cost $100,000. Promotion and marketing would use $15,000.

Disastrous Blaze Destroys Everything But House On John Brooks Farm

Chelsea firefighters battled a spectacular fire, which leveled two barns, the large one and a smaller one, both filled with hay, a hog barn and a 100-ft. pole barn, open along one side, where equipment was stored, resulted in the death of two steers, destroyed one silo and seriously damaged another, and totaled a farm tractor and other equipment, on the John Brooks farm at 2650 Chelsea-Manchester Rd., Wednesday, July 22.

Within minutes of noon, menacing clouds of smoke blackened the sky in the area of the blazing barns and tall spires of flame were visible for miles.

The fire was first reported by Manchester volunteer fireman Keith Johnson, who spotted the smoke and flames from his place of employment, Faist-Morrow Buick-Olds-Chevrolet dealership.

Chelsea firefighter Tom Osborne, arriving with the first truck to reach the scene, characterized the fire as the "worst I've seen."

Also aboard the truck were Steve Jaskot, Doug Eder and driver Dave Longworth.

As the truck proceeded down Main St. enroute to the fire, Osborne enacted mutual-aid procedures and alerted Manchester and Dexter departments their assistance was needed.

Later, Grass Lake firefighters were also called to help.

Chelsea Fire Chief Paul "Bud" Hankerd reported in excess of 148,000 gallons of water was poured on the blaze before the embers cooled.

"This fire is certainly the hottest I've ever experienced," commented one of the firefighters at the scene.

Temperatures had been in the 90's several days preceding the fire, and showed no sign of let-up on the second consecutive day Chelsea firefighters were summoned to burning farm structures.

During the early hours of the blaze, firemen threw a protective water screen on the Brooks residence in an effort to preserve the brick structure.

"We were lucky to be able to save the house," firefighters agreed.

Brooks had been working at his farm on Sibley Rd., Wednesday.

Firefighter Dan Ellenwood said

enroute to the fire, he passed Brooks returning too.

As the second fire truck arrived, Chuck Broderick and his son, Chuck, Jr., released much of Brooks' livestock from the burning barn and are credited with saving the animals, Chief Hankerd explained.

Chelsea police chief Lenard McDougall joined Sgt. Bill Dorrance of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department to monitor traffic in the area of the fire.

M-52 was closed for a time to protect motorists and to enable firefighters an opportunity to battle the scorching flames, unhampered.

Former Village President Athel 'Mac' Fulks Dies

Former Chelsea Village President Athel E. "Mac" Fulks died Friday, July 24 at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital in Ann Arbor.

Fulks, 65, was village president from 1970-74. In addition, he served on the village council for several years—from 1967-70 and from 1984-86, when he was appointed to fill out the term of Fred Harris.

Fulks had been in poor health the last couple of years.

Fulks, and his wife, Janet, had moved to 344 Washington St. recently. Last year they sold their Madison St. home, where they had lived since 1958, and moved into an apartment on W. Middle St.

Many friends, village government officials and relatives attended Monday's funeral service at Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel. The service was given by the Rev. Dr. Jerry Parker of the First United Methodist church, where Fulks was a member.

Among the pall bearers were Chelsea residents Dale Keezer, Fritz Belsler and Robert Foster.

Fulks was born Jan. 23, 1922 in Latham, Mo. He graduated from East St. Louis High school in East St. Louis, Ill., and attended the University of Michigan.

He married a local girl, Janet M. Dancer, on June 27, 1943, in Great Falls, Mont.

Fulks served as a pilot in the Army Air Corps during World War II and the Korean War.

In 1984 he retired as manager of physical properties in the Plant

Department at the University of Michigan.

Fulks was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star Olive Lodge Chapter 108, Masons Olive Lodge No. 158, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post No. 4076, McKune Post No. 31 of the American Legion, and Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 1253.

In addition to his widow, Fulks is survived by his daughter, Kathy Trudell and son-in-law, Bob and their two children, Jeffrey Michael and Christopher John Trudell, all of Chelsea. Several nieces and nephews also survive.

Burial was in Oak Grove Cemetery.

Task Force Encourages Independence For Welfare Recipients

A state House of Representatives Task Force has urged a reform of the state's welfare system, including encouraging recipients to become independent by providing employment assistance.

Members said they believe the proposal could potentially cut welfare rolls by 20 percent, saving the state millions of dollars in support grants.

The main focus of the reform is an increase in job training and placement, said Rep. Victor Krause (R-Rockford), chair of the House Republican Policy Committee.

Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) and General Assistance (GA) recipients would be encouraged to find jobs at the beginning of their contact with the Department of Social Services, with DSS personnel assisting them in their search.

While members of the task force indicated there would be some expense involved in the program, particularly in the hiring of additional DSS personnel, they said it has yet to be determined how much money is needed and where it will come from.

Social Services Director C. Patrick Babcock said he is pleased with the plan. "This proposal advances some extremely intriguing and innovative ideas looking at helping public assistance recipients become completely employable," he said.

The plan calls for the DSS to provide the assistance by contracting with an outside service or agency, such as the federal Job Training Partnership Act.

which would then notify the DSS of what jobs are available.

The DSS would also be required to broaden its definition of who is employable to include all able-bodied adults and out-of-school teen-agers including those with dependent children.

The task force plans to work with the DSS to find counties which might be interested in developing a pilot program to incorporate the job plan.

Counties which the task force indicated might be possible sites include Dickinson, Berrien, Muskegon, Wayne, Genesee, Mecosta, Oakland, Chippewa, and Isabella.

Krause said the DDS officials in Kent county have indicated an interest in the program.

If a pilot program is successfully developed and its progress can be monitored, the task force may consider budget requests to fund additional programs. A pilot could run for as long as two years, Krause said.

Specific recommendations include that employable persons should be required to participate in daily employment-training activities; every applicant should be given information on how to increase spending power while working and still retain some benefits; the DSS should encourage more integration between DSS offices, local employers and local employment training agencies; the DSS staff should be re-defined to better assist applicants and clients in finding jobs, and performance standards should be established for an independent firm to evaluate the success of each pilot program.

While the report focused on job training and placement, members of the task force indicated the program will involve several other areas upon which welfare recipients are dependent.

Ways to address reimbursement for child care will be investigated, as well as insurance coverage for participants.

Some participants might also need transportation to and from their jobs, the report concluded.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster laid out this scene at the start of the session at the country store Saturday night. You read where some feller spent $2 million gitting elected to a job that pays $75,000 a year. The next thing you read is where he has put everything he's got in the world except wife and children in somepun called a blind trust. Then you git all crossways when he manages not to vote agin a automatic $12,000 raise and when he picks up another $25,000 a year selling, not giving, speeches.

That, allowed Clem, is a bigger version of this scene. You are walking through winter woods and you see a snake in the path, froze stiff as a stick. You pick up the snake and take it in by the fire. When it thaws out it wiggles around a little and then bites you on the foot. You yell in pain and ask the snake how could he do that after all you done fer him. The snake looks downright surprised and says, well, you knowed I was a snake when you brought me in here.

What this country needs, Clem declared, is all the assets of all elected officials in trusts that can see. That way, maybe they will have more interest in what's happening in the real world while they're in session. Somepun called FAIR has been conjured up in Congress by Senators and Representatives from Idaho, Oklahoma and Texas. FAIR stands for Foreign Agriculture Investment Reform, but you got to be in a blind trust to think it's fair.

Actual, Clem said, what FAIR would do would be unfair to American farmers and downright deadly to poor countries that can't feed themselves. It would cut off World Bank loans to Third World countries, Clem said, in the name of reducing farm surplus. Even if it worked it wouldn't work, because it would leave poor countries poorer, where they never would be able to buy our farm exports.

What the honorables in their blind trust won't see is what would help, Clem went on. They see votes in farm subsidies when they ought to see working to do away with subsidies in all countries as the way to free the American farmer to do what he does best, compete with the rest of the world. And they need to see that helping poor countries is an investment in making customers out of em, like the Marshall Plan did fer Europe 40 years ago, was Clem's words.

Fer once in a blue moon, Ed Doolittle was agreed. Ed said he is following a case in California where small farmers are saying the U.S. Agriculture Extension Service is hurting them by doing reserch that helps only big farmers. Ed said the Farm Credit Administration is doing the same thing by limiting loans to big outfits, and there is a move to turn it into a co-operative where local offices would be run by local people that know the local situation.

It ain't no wonder, went on Ed, that nine poor counties that are neighbors in Kentucky, Tennessee and Virginia are talking half-serious about forming their own state so they can git some attention to their problems. What we need, Ed went on, is a few hundred Congressmen that spend our money like it was theirs. But, then, all hell needs is air conditioning and a few good people.

Personal, it does look like we have got to the point where relief fer farmers is like hearing your sentence changed from hanging to life in prison. The Government's way of dealing is to hit you with the worst so you'll be glad when it eases off a bit.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Bids Under Estimates For Wastewater Plant

Clark Construction Co. of Lansing was the apparent low bidder for the major construction work for Chelsea's new wastewater treatment plant.

Bids for three separate contracts were opened at noon in the village council chambers Tuesday, July 28.

Clark Construction Co. bid was $5,031,000 for the wastewater treatment plant improvements. Revised estimates of Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout, the village's engineering company, was for $5,250,000. Clark's bid was the lowest of five. Others ranged from $5,193,000 to $5,496,000.

The low bidder for sewer system rehabilitation was SOS Service Group, of Brighton. Their bid of $85,699.56 was lower than the engineer's estimate of $100,000. The only other two bids were for $90,554.65 and $221,297.85.

Finally, the one and only bidder for the plant's laboratory equipment was Sargent-Welch Scientific Co. of Livonia. Their bid of $14,882.05 was lower than the engineer's estimate of $19,000.

Village council is scheduled to consider recommended bids by Finkbeiner, Pettis & Strout at their regular meeting next Tuesday, Aug. 4.

Engineering firm representatives at yesterday's meeting said that unless something was wrong with the bids, the low bidders should receive the work.

Once council approves the bids, they will be submitted to the Department of Natural Resources for review, which will take up to 90 days.

Construction could begin in November. It is scheduled to take 400 days.

In addition to the construction work, about $700,000 will be spent on engineering, inspection, testing, review of drawings, advertising and legal costs, according to Village Manager Fritz Weber.

Couple Plans Laundry For Industrial Park

A Chelsea couple plans to break ground this summer for an industrial laundry to be located in the village's industrial park on Sibley Rd.

Village council approved the sale of a 1.1 acre lot for $20,250 to Cedomir and Dobrica Janicevic, 43 Butternut Ct. The couple plans to build a 40' by 60' block building for their business, to be called C&D Laundry Service, as soon as legal matters are straightened out. As of Friday, they still had to sign the sales agreement. A site plan will have to be approved by the village planning commission.

The lot is located in the front of the industrial park at the corner of Sibley Rd. and E. Industrial Rd. It is only the third lot sold in the park. Nineteen are still waiting for buyers.

Roberts Paint & Body bought the last lot, property adjacent to the Janicevic lot, in 1985.

The Janicevics have been Chelsea residents for 15 years. Both are employed at Chelsea Community Hospital.

"My wife will probably run the business," Cedomir said after the council meeting. He plans to continue his full-time employment at the hospital.

The couple's experience in the business has been limited to washing surgical uniforms from the hospital.

They plan to install three commercial washers, a couple of dryers, and other equipment, such as sheet folding tables.

They also plan to hire two or three part-time workers.

Senior Center Closing Two Days For Floor Finishing

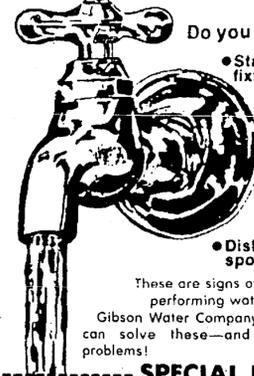

The Senior Center at North school will be closed on Thursday, July 30, and Friday, July 31, so that the floors may be redone. However, lunch from the nutrition program will still be available on those days at St. Paul church.

Senior center nutrition program director Arlene Larson has arranged for box lunches to be served in the church's fellowship hall on the days the center is closed. Reservations are necessary so that she will know how many to order.

Larson predicts that the seniors will like the temporary location since parking, rest rooms, and the fellowship hall are all located on one level. She adds that the fellowship hall should be cool and that the church has a big lawn on which the seniors could eat their lunches if they wish. Friday's euchre tournament will take place as usual.

The floors in the senior center are stripped down and covered with a new sealer every year. It is easier to do this when school is out, so that the furniture may be moved into other rooms without interfering with the school's operation. In other years, the center has tried to squeeze this work into a Friday afternoon, but according to senior activities director Treva Winans, "This was always hard to do. This year we decided to be good to ourselves and close down."

Depot Recognized As National Historic Place

The Chelsea Depot has been recognized by the United States government as a Historic Place.

Following a hearing in Washington, the 107-year-old railroad station was entered in the National Register of Historic Places by the National Park Service, U.S. Department of the Interior.

Notification of the June 12 action was made to the Michigan Bureau of History who notified the Chelsea Depot Association in a letter addressed to Will Connelly on July 23. He had been working on the problem of national recognition since 1985. In the fall of 1986 he prepared the formal application accompanied by detailed color slides and photographs of the station.

With recognition in the National Register as well as listing in the State Register of Historic Sites the Depot Association is entitled to erect a historical marker upon the station property. It is expected to be similar in appearance to the marker next to the historic Welfare Building which houses The Chelsea Standard. The Depot marker will be so worded that it will give national, as well as state, recognition.

Open House Events Slated at Depot During Sidewalk Days

The Chelsea Depot will be wide open for a gala event during Sidewalk Days from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday and Saturday.

Under the joint sponsorship of the Chelsea Depot Association and the Chelsea Area Historical Society there will be musical events, free pop corn and orange drink, souvenir balloons and Amtrak railroad caps, plus a rare historical display.

There will also be open tours of the 107-year-old station and an unexpected sideshow as make-up artists paint theatrical faces on real live kids.

All up and down Main St. on Sidewalk Days everything in sight will be offered at a bargain but at the depot all but a few special keepsakes will be free.

A most unusual event will be a bagpipe concert by D. J. Krogol of Lansing. He will be playing from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. Friday. In the interludes between his shrill musical selections, Mr. Krogol will talk to his audience about the bagpipe, its history and the ancient art of piping. He is associated with David Pritchard Productions and the professional summer theater.

Beginning Friday morning at 11 and continuing through 1 o'clock, the Community Musicians will perform under the baton of Jed Fritzeimer, director of the high school orchestra. Instrumentalists will include Dena Stevens, Judy, Kathy and Holly Jorgenson, Ann Lee, Todd Redding, Steve Radant and Karen Grau. They will also be performing Saturday from 11 to 1.

The make-up artists will be painting the kids from 12 to 2 Friday and Saturday.

An antique kitchen display will be featured by the Historical Society, the first exhibit in the depot museum's history. A relic of an actual Glazier Stove will be the centerpiece and members of the society will be on

In the East Room of the station, the Chelsea Depot Association will have a hospitality center featuring refreshments, information and souvenirs. On sale will be the centennial book, "Chelsea's First 150 Years," and packets of colored photos of the depot which are suitable for framing or for use as postcards.

Nearby will be the Chamber of Commerce reception center with its Summer Events Listing, its Chelsea brochure and, for a nominal donation, its Chelsea Coloring Book. (This is the coloring book that some adults have been caught coloring.)

Gosh. There's even more promised for the depot. The eighth annual Antique and Classic Car Parade, scheduled for 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon, will begin and end at the depot, providing a golden opportunity for car buffs to see all these glamorous vehicles standing still within touching distance.

When the cars return to the depot, Alice Rhodes will be strolling around the railroad station playing her fiddle for the enjoyment of visitors.

Sponsors of the event have expressed their gratitude to McDonald's for donating soft drinks, to Amtrak for the balloons and other souvenirs, and to the Chelsea Community Hospital for balloon helium.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, July 20, were Grau, Comeau, Redding, Satterthwaite, Wales, Feeney, superintendent Van Meer, principal Wescott, assistant principal Larson, curriculum director Bissell, athletic director Reed, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by president Lloyd A. Grau.

No one was present at the meeting for the truth-in-taxation hearing to ask questions or to present testimony regarding the current levy.

The board approved the minutes of the July 6 meeting.

Entered as official communications were: (1) notice of the death of Dr. Norman Weinheimer, executive director of the Michigan Association of School Boards; (2) a letter from the Chelsea Women's Fast Pitch Softball Club.

The board presented a certificate of appreciation to Robert Strong, who has served as Music Boosters president for the past two years. The board was very appreciative of the efforts of Strong and the contributions that the Music Boosters have made, and continue to make, to the music program.

President Lloyd Grau made the following committee assignments: personnel: Redding (chair), Comeau, Feeney; curriculum: Comeau (chair), Wales, Cherem; finance: Satterthwaite (chair), Cherem, Redding; communications/public relations: Wales (chair), Satterthwaite, Feeney.

The board reviewed an administrative evaluation instrument and made some language changes. This instrument was submitted in connection with one of the 1987-88 board goals. Board members indicated their desire to have this instrument as a one-year pilot program, with review. This will be further discussed at the Aug. 3 meeting.

The ramifications of the Downtown Development Authority and potential set-aside of tax monies were discussed by superintendent Van Meer. It was the feeling that the school district would co-operate with the Authority for tax purposes in the defined DDA area. The board has historically felt that what is good for the community is good for the schools. The board is co-operating currently through the Industrial Facilities Tax with tax relief for Chrysler, BookCrafters, and MacDee.

Walt Brown and Cindy Hamerschmidt were present, representing the Chelsea Women's Fast Pitch Softball Club. They had submitted a letter to the board expressing their desire to discuss some options to honor retired softball coach Charles Waller. The board felt that the designation of a new trophy case and plaque, purchased by the club, would be acceptable.

The board approved a contract for 1987-88 for Beth Vogel, who will teach first grade at North school.

The board approved a contract for 1987-88 for Marsha Hansen, who will teach second grade at North school.

The board approved the renewal of the National School Lunch Agreement for the 1987-88 school year.

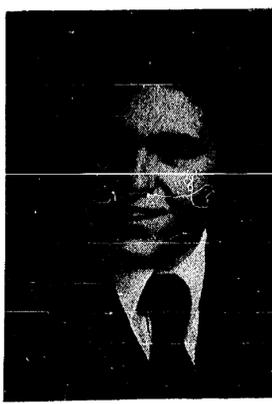

The board approved First Agency of Kalamazoo as the student accident insurance carrier for the 1987-88 school year, the cost of which will be $9,854.

The board renewed membership with the Michigan Association for Equity in Taxation (MAET) for the 1987-88 school year, the cost of which is $50. MAET is a consortium of school districts pledging financial aid to combat large corporations' attempts to reduce their taxes.

The board adopted a resolution authorizing the borrowing of an additional $1,600,000 from the Municipal Bond Authority Pooled Tax Anticipation Note Program.

The meeting adjourned at 9:20 p.m.

About 93 percent of the Job Training Partnership Act participants for Program Year 1985 were economically disadvantaged, and females and minorities accounted for 52 and 49 percent of participants, respectively. Fifty-seven percent were high school graduates, and 26 percent drop-outs, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's annual report for fiscal year 1986.

Michael Clark in Coma But Making Slow Progress

Michael Clark, the 8-year-old boy who was critically injured in a Boyce Rd. farm accident Monday, June 29, is making improvement but is still in a coma, his father, Dean, reported Monday morning.

Michael was apparently run over by a wagon carrying a load of wheat, Dean said, but exactly how the accident happened is a mystery. Michael is in a semi-private room on the seventh floor of Mott Children's Hospital in Ann Arbor. He may soon be moved to the rehabilitation section, Dean said.

Dean, and his wife, Donna, visit the hospital daily, and occasionally take Michael outside for fresh air.

"He seems to respond a little bit," Dean said.

"He's on a heart monitor in his room. When we talk to him, his heart-beat increases a little bit. But, basically, he's still in a coma."

Dean said the first doctor they spoke to gave Michael very little hope of recovery. However, a second doctor has told them that Michael is "doing great" and it could take several weeks or several months for him to wake up.

"He said 'don't give up hope,'" Dean said.

Dean reports that the community has been very supportive and that

'Slender You' Business Opening in Stockbridge

Mary Gauss and Lisa Iovannisci are opening a new business in downtown Stockbridge called "Slender You." The object of the business is to give patrons better tone and circulation, as well as losing extra inches and pounds of body fat, by using six motorized machines that massage different parts of the body.

Both Gauss and Iovannisci are Stockbridge residents and former employees of Dancer's. Last spring they noticed the improvement in the looks of one of their colleagues who was going to the Jackson "Slender You." Gauss and Iovannisci went to see the operation for themselves and were so impressed that they decided to open their own branch of "Slender You."

Gauss is a lifetime Stockbridge resident and the mother of three and grandmother of six. She has worked at Dancer's for 15 years, starting in the warehouse and moving up over the years. She is still doing some of the bookkeeping.

Iovannisci is a student at Eastern Michigan University where she is majoring in secondary education. She has been active in sports, playing on high school teams, later coaching the Pom Pom squad, and is, this summer, playing on Jerry's Shell softball team. She worked at Dancer's as a saleswoman.

Dancer's owners, Tom and Lauri Ford, have been very supportive of this new endeavor by two of their employees. The new "Slender You" will be located on Wood St., in Dancer's old warehouse, behind Dancer's store.

"Slender You's" are located all around the country. The system was originally developed to help people with polio and arthritis. Patrons of the program spend an hour at a time, lying for 10 minutes on each of the six machines: leg table; sit-up table; stretch table; sandbag table; waist, tummy, hip table; and vibrator table. Each table concentrates on a different part of the body.

The grand opening of the Stockbridge "Slender You" will be Wednesday, Aug. 5. In preparation for the opening, Gauss and Iovannisci have been studying the training manual. The first week, a trainer will also be on the premises.

The first five minute visit is free. After that the cost is $6 an hour, enough time to use all the machines. Senior citizens qualify for a reduced rate of $5 an hour. "Slender You" will be open Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 8 p.m., and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

NORTH LAKE CO-OP

MAKES A DIFFERENCE...

What is a Cooperative Preschool?

A Co-Op Nursery is a developmental program for 3 to 5 year old children. These state approved facilities provide a place for parents to work in partnership with licensed preschool teachers to give quality first time educational experiences to their students. Children will participate in a well developed, "learning through play" program.

What will I gain from joining a Cooperative Preschool?

EXTENDED FAMILY NETWORK
Co-ops give members the opportunity to meet other parents who can help support you during the joyous but sometimes trying times of child rearing. Your school could become an extended family helping you to meet people who could become your friends for years to come!

CONTROL

As a Cooperative Nursery School member, YOU can become directly involved in the decision making processes that mold your child's school. You can have a say in making nursery policies by voting on school issues or becoming a board, or committee member.

SECURITY

By assisting in the classroom, you will have the security of knowing what's happening there.

PARENTAL EDUCATION

You will have access to a clearinghouse of information distributed by the state-wide parent organization. The Michigan Council of Cooperative Nurseries (MCCN). HVCCN can also expose you to experts on child development and nursery programming at adult education conferences and nursery school meetings. You will not only get time to observe your child interacting with other children in a group setting, but will also be able to observe how a competent teacher relates to young children.

CONVENIENCE

North Lake Preschool is located in the Village of Chelsea directly across from the Fairgrounds. We have ample parking and car pools available.

WORKING PARENTS

If you work, don't become discouraged. Alternatives for parents who are employed during class hours are available. We have non-assist options for parents whose schedule does not allow for classroom assisting.

What will my child gain from attending a Cooperative Preschool?

ENVIRONMENT

A safe, nurturing environment staffed by parents and friendly teachers will help to greatly ease the preschooler's adjustment to the classroom setting. This atmosphere will also encourage children to be curious and creative.

CURRICULUM

The saying, "Play is a child's work" is demonstrated daily in the co-op curriculum. Based on the "learning through play" philosophy, co-op lesson plans allow the preschool student to comfortably gain necessary developmental skills growing socially, cognitively, creatively, and physically.

ADULT-CHILD RATIO

Your child will get quality attention from adults staffing the preschool—fostered by a lower child to adult ratio, usually 4:1.

PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT

Children enjoy their first formal education experience under the loving and watchful parental eye. Research confirms that parental involvement in a child's early education will have a positive impact on academic progress throughout school.

SOCIALIZATION

Your child will be given an opportunity to function both as an individual and as a member of a group. He/she will also have other children to watch and play with.

FACILITY

Cooperative preschools are equipped with many items children do not have at home. Students are encouraged to try out many muscles and ideas in a place designated specifically for them! Our playground features a trike track, swings, climbing tree, boat, trehouse, slide and more.

TEACHING STAFF

Teachers in a cooperative nursery are warm, compassionate people who respect young children, relate easily to them, and can create a stimulating environment for them to develop in their own way emotionally and physically. Activities are provided that will involve individual and social play.

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Will Connelly

HOW MUCH STRESS CAN YOU HANDLE?

Fear and anxiety, combining into stress, is something humans have known since sabre-toothed tigers lurked near the entrance to the family's cave. The tigers just came on while but today the ingredients of stress are with us in an endless succession of traffic jams, murderers on the loose, filthy diseases, price increases, time payments, other people's kids screaming, truck and engine noises, pollution, radon, waiting lines, rapists and pit bulls.

Stress is trying to do too much in too little time. Stress is attempting to be organized when you are dis. Stress is struggling to put the timetable together in a family with four different deadlines: His job, Her job, Mike at South school and Susie at 6:30 a.m. girls swim team practice. Stress is being a single parent trying to be two parents while struggling to comfort a disabled parent of your own.

According to the American Academy of Family Physicians two-thirds of the people who come to a doctor's office show up with stress-related symptoms. Stress is both the cause and the result of alcoholism and drug addiction. National samples suggest that the cost to industry in an overstressed society for absenteeism, accidents, spoilage, damage, and poor productivity is estimated between $50 and $75 billion per year.

It is no longer news to the medical profession that stress contributes to the six leading causes of death—heart disease, lung infections, cancer, cirrhosis of the liver, injurious accidents and suicide. One observer has noted that the three most heavily prescribed drugs are Tagamet for ulcers, Inderol for hypertension and Valium for the jitters.

Stress is not a disease. Stress is reflected in social behavior, emotions and nervous responses such as anxiety, fear, uncertainty, anger, despair, fatigue and overexcitement. These trigger chemical changes in the body that can have profound effects on physical and mental health. Concentration of powerful chemicals known as neurotransmitters act as messengers between nerve centers. The effects have been demonstrated and measured in laboratory tests.

A pair of psychiatrists developed the Holmes-Rahe rating scale for measuring the effects of stressful events on physical health. The life event causing the greatest trauma was death of a spouse, and was rated at 100. Divorce was rated at 73 and being fired from work at 47. Happy events also cause stress so that marriage was rated at 50 and the advent of a pregnancy was scored at 40. Relatively low in the ratings were Christmas at 12 and a minor brush with the law such as a traffic violation at 11. (If you would like to see the complete list it's on page 89 of the 1987 World Almanac.)

It was found that when a sufficient number of life events totalled 300 or more during a given time period 79 percent of the people in that group would have a major illness. The Holmes-Rahe scales have proved valid in predicting major illnesses but other studies, such as a stress test developed at the Boston University Medical Center, show that a number of persistent minor problems may also cause stress. Charles Bukowski wrote:

It's not the large things that send a man to the madhouse,
It's the continuous series of small tragedies that send a man to the madhouse . . .
not the death of his love
but a shoelace that snaps

Do you fly off the handle at minor irritations? Are you noted for your grouchiness? Or unapproachability? Do you have a short fuse? Do you practically hit the ceiling at a sudden loud noise? Or slam the phone on the hook because you dialed the wrong number?

Worse yet, do you keep it all inside . . . until the big explosion and the trip to the hospital?

If any of these symptoms of nervousness are interfering with your sleep, your appetite or your love life, and your doctor can't trace them to physical sources, your MD may very well recommend a stress clinic. You may be helped by counselling that enables you to reorganize your life style to a slower pace. You may invest your energies in exercise. Then again the therapist may have you aim for relaxation through meditation or recreation.

People who have close family ties and a large network of friends are likely to be happier and live longer than "loners."

For years corporate employers have sponsored successful programs for alcoholism and smoking as well as the multiple benefits of exercise. Now they are encouraging their employees to combat stress with meditation classes. One large telephone company introduced a program of periodic health exams and meditation lessons for employees with stress-related symptoms. It helped cut the number of employees with hypertension from 18% of the workforce to 9%. The phone company saved $180,000 a year in reduced costs of absenteeism alone.

Here are a few final tips that may be of help in avoiding stressful situations:

- Tell yourself to slow down.
- Quit smoking forever and drink in moderation.
- Stop imposing tough deadlines on yourself just because you know they are possible.
- Share the load. Let others have part of the responsibility.
- Don't leave things to the last minute. Allow some time to spare in case the shoelace snaps.

DEAR READERS:

This is the end of my stint as a regular columnist for The Chelsea Standard. After 94 consecutive columns dating back to Oct. 9, 1985 I wish to become an occasional contributor of editorial opinion.

When it comes to writing spot news, or producing releases for the depot association, the historical society or the Rod and Gun Club, I can crank copy out by the mile because all the facts are on hand. Editorial subjects which I have chosen for the Clock Tower have almost always involved trips to the Ann Arbor library, trips to Lansing and countless toll calls. In writing the column I made two phone calls hoping to reach Dr. Holmes or Dr. Rahe at the University of Washington. I also made two to the University of Boston Medical Center digging for materials from two other scientists specializing in stress.

At least two thirds of the work I have done on the column consists of research that does not yield enough to use. There has often been a considerable amount of writing that had to be thrown away for lack of facts or merit. What started out to be a part-time avocation has become a 40 to 50 hour a week job.

There are a lot of fish I want to catch and I have only wet the line three times this year. There are long shelves of volumes in the Great Books course which I want to re-enjoy. There's a high powered microscope bought second-hand from the U. of M. that I would like to learn how to use. There are even some shoes that need shining.

Every writer has a compulsion to keep his or her creativity flowing. I gave the Clock Tower a good try and I know now that the discipline of deadlines just doesn't go with retirement.

Nuclear Disarmament March To Stop in Chelsea, Grass Lake

Michigan Peace March for Global Nuclear Disarmament will be making a stop in Chelsea on Thursday, July 30 after coming from Grass Lake.

The march consists of 20 to 30 or more people walking along the roadside with banners, flags and signs as well as various support vehicles. At county lines, marchers line up, recite the names of all counties crossed so far, and cross the border in unison.

The peace activists have walked more than 350 miles since May 30, starting at Sault Ste. Marie and coming down the western side of lower Michigan. They've participated in dozens of meetings, dinners, "Peace Pole" ceremonies and other events.

On July 31, the marchers will leave Chelsea for Ann Arbor.

JULIE VORUS

Julie Vorus Acclaimed For 'Fifth of July' Role

By Russ Ogden

Free Lance Drama Critic
and Professor at EMU

Rushing to Ann Arbor during Art Fair to see a favorite, but yet unviewed, drama—"The Fifth of July" by Lanford Wilson being unveiled at the Main Street Theatre was the evening objective. Actors sewed together an uneven tapestry, but totally satisfying expectations of a great drama.

The Talley family has arrived in Lebanon, Mo., to dispose of the ashes of deceased Uncle Matt Friedman. Holding forth at the Talley Place is Vietnam veteran Ken Talley, a legless 35-year-old who is somewhat cynical about the world, but maintains a happy composure. Living with him at the farm is his lover, Jed, who is concerned about horticulture and considers the farm his personal Garden of Eden.

Country's western star and singer Gwen Landis is an emotional yo-yo, and her extroverted husband, John—a childhood friend of the Talleys—constantly lends his wife much needed support. Their twosome is accompanied by Wes as companion and guitar player for Gwen's recording band. Wes is not too bright a personality and answers questions with l-o-n-g hesitations.

June Talley, a former women's rights activist, and daughter, Shirley, also have arrived. Shirley furnishes beautiful comic relief in her open adolescent fantasies about the world.

And Aunt Sally—Sally Friedman—is the 68-year-old widow of deceased Uncle Matt. She thinks and operates in a James Joyce freedom of thought world, moving quickly from topic to topic without advance warning, seemingly always preoccupied but still mentally sharp.

Unbeknownst to other members of the family, Ken offers to sell the Talley Place to John and Gwen for their recording studio. He has tried teaching, but is unable to face student reaction to his disability. Sally and Jed, upon hearing of the selling of Talley Place, form an emotional bond to combat such a move between John and Ken.

Through mutual torment of all parties, Ken decides to continue his teaching career while Aunt Sally and Jed will live with him at the Talley Place. Gwen's recording contract comes through leading to the departure of the threesome to make records for Columbia. What happens to the ashes of Uncle Matt hidden in a vase? Go to the Main Street Theatre and find this out for yourself.

Diane Boggs is a Roman candle of acting delight as she professionally fleshes out the cooky Gwen Landis. From incessant, nervous talking to her depressive behavior about performing, she scores in a performance seldom seen in professional community theatre. An absolute dynamite of talent . . . Diane Boggs.

No slouch is Julie Vorus as Sally Friedman. Vorus paces both action and conversation in distinct, salty modulated statements. She too approaches professional theatre with her role well in hand, giving one of the best character developments ever witnessed in local theatre! A real winner . . . Julie Vorus.

June Talley's role is not as clearly defined as the previous two but Deborah Hinderer Rusinsky of Chelsea very capably understood the opinionated, somewhat stubborn traits in her development of this living character. Although Margie O'Hara, as 14-year-old Shirley Talley, looked older than 14, her adolescent gyrations were delightful. She's a solid hit.

James Toler's Ken was satisfactory, but superfluous facial movement and verbal pacing sometimes detracted from his characterization. The tender love between Jed Jenkins and Ken never really materialized on stage; perhaps this is not the fault of Danny Young and Toler but in the directions not given them. But the total impact of the production was not compromised.

Phil Potter as John Landis also brought his character to life but never went beyond the cardboard interpretation stage. Weston Hurley's role as interpreted by Paul Paczkowski was satisfactory.

DIANE BOGGS

Costuming as evidenced on stage by Larry Hafner seemed to totally support the dress of that era. Ken's tapping of his student's conversation would have been terrific if the audience could have heard the recording. Otherwise it proved to be somewhat dead meat on stage.

In its entirety, this production of "The Fifth of July" is excellent theater and deserves to be seen. Performances at the Main Street Theatre in Ann Arbor continue on July 30, 31, and Aug. 1 and resume again on Aug. 6, 7, 8. All performances are at 8 p.m.

Citizens Trust Reports Record High Earnings

Record earnings of $820,000 or $1.26 per share for the quarter ended June 30 were reported by George H. Cress, president and chief executive officer of Citizens Trust Bancorp, Inc., parent holding company for Citizens Trust. This represents an increase of 15% from the $1.10 earned for the comparable period in 1986.

For the six months ended June 30, net income stood at $2.51 per share, a 16% improvement factor from the $2.17 earned in the first half of 1986, Cress announced.

Improved net interest margin resulting from repositioning of the bank's assets to achieve a higher return, and an increase in trust and other fee income were cited by Cress in noting the earnings improvement.

Total net loans on June 30, were reported at $190,900,000, compared to $186,400,000 a year ago, an increase of $4,500,000 or 14.7%. Citizens Trust's loan-to-deposit ratio as of June 30 was 66.3% compared to 59.3% on the same date in 1986.

"The Corporation's financial ratios continue to strengthen," Cress stated in his message to shareholders. "At June 30 the Return on Average Assets, annualized, was 1.09% compared to 1.00% a year ago; and the Return on Average Shareholders' Equity, also annualized, was 17.89% compared with 16.12% the previous year," he added.

A special Citizens Trust shareholders meeting is being scheduled to approve the proposed agreement to affiliate with Trustcorp, Inc., a multi-bank holding company based in Toledo, O., Cress reported. Procedures to gain the necessary regulatory agency approvals are continuing.

Other highlights of Cress' message included reference to the successful installation of a new "CashPort" automatic teller machine unit in the Domino's World Headquarters complex, and completion of the remodeling project involving modernization of all seven floors of the Citizens Trust main office building in downtown Ann Arbor.

Citizens Trust, a wholly owned subsidiary of Citizens Trust Bancorp, Inc., operates nine offices serving Washtenaw county, including the communities of Ann Arbor, Saline, and Chelsea; and the southeastern corner of Livingston county including Brighton.

Sight Savers Coming To Senior Center

Senior Sight Savers, an eye center in Monroe, will be at the Senior Nutrition Center at North school on Aug. 5, from 9:30 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. They will give free eye exams and test for cataracts and glaucoma.

Substance Abuse Series Continues at Brighton

Brighton Hospital's education series on the prevention and treatment of substance abuse continues on Aug. 4 with a discussion of how to help someone who is abusing alcohol and other drugs.

The free program begins at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel and begins with the films "The Enablers" and "The Intervention." The first film shows how family and friends allow a chemically dependent person to continue using alcohol or drugs by "covering up" and making excuses for the individual. The second film demonstrates how family members, acting as a team under professional guidance, can confront the alcoholic or drug user and insist that he or she seek treatment.

Afterwards a member of the hospital's counseling staff will answer questions from the audience and explain how family members can obtain help for their loved one and for themselves.

The Community Education Program takes place on the first Tuesday evening of each month. Reservations are not required. Brighton Hospital is located on E. Grand River in Brighton just off exit 151 of the I-96 freeway. For additional information and a schedule of upcoming programs, contact the hospital's Community Relations Department at (313) 227-1211, ext. 276.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. I have decided I would like to buy securities in several companies that are headquartered in other countries. They are big companies and their records are readily available so I don't think I am taking much of a chance. I have a friend who buys foreign securities and he uses a broker in Belgium to make his purchases and sales. He recommends this broker highly and suggests I use him to do my business. I have a broker in this country with whom I have done most of my business, and he tells me I will have a lot of problems if I make purchases of stock overseas. He says the companies I want to invest in can be bought in this country through ADR's and that is what I should buy. Would you give me your idea of what would be the best procedure and discuss the advantages.

A. The best procedure depends on the way you want to handle your account. If you intend to hold the securities in this country, receive your dividends regularly and expect them in U.S. funds, then you are probably best off purchasing ADR's. ADR, stands for American Depository Reserves. What this means is that shares of the foreign company are on deposit at a bank or trust company. The trading done in this country is in the ADR's which represent an interest in the deposited stock equivalent to the stocks on a share-to-share basis as it is traded overseas. All your transactions are in American dollars, so you don't have an exchange problem.

If you deal with a foreign broker, you will have an exchange charge added to your purchase price. If you receive dividends, most likely they will be in the foreign currency and you will have the cost of converting them to U.S. dollars. If you have ADR's, this will already have been done for you.

If it is your intention to maintain a continuing account overseas, it may be best to set up your account so the securities remain on deposit with your overseas broker. If you plan on having your dividend deposited in your account at the foreign broker's office, and if you plan on making future purchases and sales through him—pretty much letting your holdings and earnings accumulate in that account—then you would be better off in that kind of account.

The problem with buying a stock overseas is that you have both the price action of the stock and the price action in exchange rates working for or against you. Also dividends usually are paid in the foreign currency and have to be converted to U.S. currency. If your investment is small or moderate, the cost may reduce your return more than you might expect.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column.

Ordways' Arabian Horse Lives to Ripe Old Age of 39

Zedmar, a three-fourth Arabian horse owned by the late Carroll Ordway of Dancer Rd., may have been the oldest horse in the county at the time of his death last month at the age of 39. This is the equivalent of 117 years in human years.

Zed was born in 1948. He was purchased by Elsa and Carroll Ordway in 1956 from Joyce Fitzgerald Miller, who then lived on Jackson Rd. The Ordways bought Zed so that their daughter, Louise, would have a horse to use for 4-H.

Carroll Ordway, who died Feb. 23, was the first 4-H horse leader in Washtenaw county. He also rode in the Washtenaw county sheriff's department posse.

Louise Ordway was an active member of her dad's 4-H group, the Lima Up and Down club. She took part in fairs, demonstrations, training sessions, and parades, winning countless awards. She also helped with the administration of the club, serving as president, junior leader, and reporter.

In her 1957 4-H report, Louise Ordway described getting Zed. "I got a new 3/4 Arabian horse this year. His name is Zedmar. The first show that I took Zedmar to was put on to show 4-H club members what was expected at the county show at the Washtenaw county sheriff posse horse show in Dexter. I received a trophy and a first placing in the pair class. I also received a second placing in Western Pleasure."

That year she also took Zed to the Washtenaw county 4-H show and the Chelsea Fair, winning prizes in both events. She wrote, "In order to get my horse ready for all these fairs and horse shows I had to train him to lead at the halter and to show and stand correctly."

Louise Ordway was active in 4-H for nine years, but in 1960 she wrote that her involvement was ending because "I have a very good job working for the University at the Administration Building." She described her last 4-H appearance in the Chelsea parade. "I decided that I would like to try something different. Since Zedmar is 3/4 Arabian, I made an Arabian costume. My mother helped by helping me find out what the costume should look like and by finding me some beautiful golden colored material that was stored in a trunk in the attic." Carroll Ordway and Louise's brother, Louis, also dressed in Arabian costumes.

Zed was originally a dark horse. When the Ordways bought him, he had turned dapple gray. By the time of his death, he was all white. In his last years, he was blind in one eye and had lost all his teeth, which meant his food had to be ground.

After Carroll Ordway died, a neighbor, Steven Trinkle, helped Elsa Ordway care for Zed, as well as a second Ordway horse, Lad, who was also white. According to Elsa Ordway, "The two horses were very close and were always together."

Zed enjoyed his last days grazing in the Ordway's fields with his companion Lad, maybe remembering the glories of his 4-H days.

CARROLL ORDWAY, THE FIRST 4-H horse leader in Washtenaw county, riding Zed, the 3/4 Arabian horse he purchased for his daughter to use in 4-H. When this picture was taken last year, Zed was 38 years old.

LOUISE ORDWAY RIDING ZEDMAR, her 3/4 Arabian horse, in 1957, shortly after her parents purchased him for her to use in 4-H. Originally a dark horse, by the time the Ordways got him, he had turned dapple gray. He is now 39-years-old and has turned all white.

Second Chelsea Heritage Tour Leaflet Published

A second in a series of tour leaflets has been released by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

The "Home-Town Heritage" village walking tour leaflet is designed to enable area residents and visitors to explore both the commercial and residential sections of the village.

The title "Home-Town" gives the tour participant a view of the historical and continuing development of the mid-western village that is an important and nostalgic part of the experience of so many people.

This tour leaflet is a product of the "Chelsea's Stories" program developed by Dr. Gabe Cherem and students of Eastern Michigan University, with funding from the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

Previous publications in this series were the "Chelsea's Stories" coloring book and the "Steeple and Stones" countryside driving tour. Copies of all may be obtained from Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Box 94, Chelsea 48118. Ph. (313) 475-1145.

The text was written by Linda Chapman and Rochelle Balkam of "Visions of Thyme." Illustrations were done by Chelsea resident Cathy Muha.

DON'T TRY TO REPAIR DENTURES YOURSELF!

Q: My dentures are getting old and loose. Can I reline them at home with one of the products I see advertised?

A: Despite the claims from products that say they can be used to reline or repair dentures you should never try to adjust your dentures yourself. This can cause serious and irreversible harm to your oral health since improperly relined dentures can cause pressure on the jaw and result in the bone shrinking away more rapidly.

Do-it-yourself re-liners can irritate the soft tissues of the mouth and cause sore spots. Chronic, long term irritation of the gums can lead to serious infections or even cancer.

If your dentures break, crack, or chip, or if some of the teeth become loose, don't try to repair it yourself. Over-the-counter glues often contain chemicals that can damage the acrylic material used to make the denture and may make it unrepairable. These chemicals can also harm your mouth tissues. It is also difficult to properly realign the pieces of a broken denture without the proper training.

Your dentist made your dentures to fit precisely but most people's mouths change over time and dentures become loose and worn. Only your dentist can determine what changes have taken place and what steps should be done to correct the fit of the denture.

Family Practice Center Appoints Chief Resident

University of Michigan Family Practice Residency Program has announced the appointment of Susan Ivey, M.D., to serve as Chief Resident with Elizabeth Wilson, D.O., serving as Assistant Chief Resident during the 1987-88 academic year.

Drs. Ivey and Wilson are third-year family practice residents who will provide leadership for the group of 16 residents who practice at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea and Chelsea Community Hospital. They replace Lynn Swan, M.D. and Chris Jerpak, M.D., who served as Chief and Assistant Chief Resident for 1986-87.

Drs. Ivey and Wilson will plan resident patient care, community service, educational activities, attend faculty meetings, as well as attend other administrative duties.

For a more rustic experience, there are about 3,000 state forest campsites, and many have access to water for fishing or launching a boat. Most sites are $4 nightly but can be as low as $1 for senior citizens. Free camping is available to persons who volunteer to serve as campground hosts.

Township Planners OK Controversial Building Proposal

Putnam township planning commission gave tentative and preliminary approval, July 23, to the controversial Camelot-Four proposal, in spite of objections raised by neighbors attending the meeting.

Camelot-Four is being planned by Lawrence Baughn as a 44-unit subdivision on Mud Bay, a section of water that connects with Big Portage Lake.

The Portage and Base Lake Owners Association (PBLA), at their annual meeting July 18, voted to do what they could to stop the project.

Doug Smith, secretary of PBLA, spoke at the Putnam hearing, pointing out to the commissioners that they have yet to receive written confirmation that Baughn has finished removing the fill he was ordered to take out and that a case alleging that Baughn dredged the canal too deep, Baughn and Miller vs. Early, is still pending. In Smith's opinion, these two reasons should have been enough to table the motion.

Smith further added that Putnam township violated their own ordinance that every lake resident should have one acre of lake surface and when that is exceeded, no more construction will be approved.

Summing up the objections of the people already living in the area, Smith said there were problems of health and safety, overuse of the lake, and environmental problems. They feel that 44 units would lead to overuse of the lake with most new families owning two or three boats. The environmental objections are that the area is now used as a natural purifier, but if houses were built there, the area would instead add to the area's pollution.

Smith said, if necessary, the PBLA will take legal action to stop the Camelot-Four project. They will discuss this at their next board meeting, Monday, Aug 3, at 7:30 p.m. at the Inverness Inn. All are welcome to attend.

The Fair Labor Standards (FLSA) establishes minimum wage overtime pay, recordkeeping and child labor standards which affect some 63 million employees in private firms, 7.7 million employees of state and local governments, and 2.3 million federal government employees. The Act is enforced by the U. S. Department of Labor.

JOHN BROOKS was the picture of frustration and despair Wednesday as he watched his farm buildings being destroyed by fire.

TIRES MELTED FROM INTENSE HEAT but the engine on this sturdy tractor at the John Brooks farm continued to function in the midst of smoke and flames at the fire scene, Wednesday, July 22. Four buildings were destroyed in the blaze, which sent billowing black smoke and searing towers of flame, visible miles from the site, into the noon-time sky.

of the fire, and Reuben Lesser, whose farm is located across the road from the Brooks place, and other area farmers hastened to offer their assistance during the emergency.

Cause of the fire was an electrical short, Chief Hankerd explained Tuesday.

He said the hay continued to burn, as late as Tuesday morning.

Although a trip to sift the embers and investigate the fire's cause was originally planned for Thursday morning, it was delayed because "it was just too hot—things hadn't cooled enough yet," Doug Eder explained.

Exhausted firefighters hauled water from the nearby Chrysler Proving Grounds facility, in addition to returning to a hydrant near Polly's Market to refill empty tankers as flames continued at the scene.

Chelsea's Bob "Lefty" Schantz, his daughter, Debbie Siedhoff from Stockbridge, Red Cross staffer Laura Burkey and Lenore Kramer, Red Cross volunteer worker from Ypsilanti, manned the American Red Cross mobile unit so fire crews were able to have a temporary respite, cooling down with soft drinks provided by both McDonald's (Chelsea) and Chelsea A & W.

Ice water was also served the firefighters, between turns on the fireline.

Portable tanks were set up at the scene.

Tankers pumped water into the portable containers to provide a source for continuing hose use.

McCalla Feeds brought a tanker containing 6,000 gallons of water for use in smothering the blaze.

Firefighters from Grass Lake returned to their home base prior to men and equipment returning to the Manchester Fire Hall.

Dexter was the last visiting department to be released from the fire scene, and Chief Bud Hankerd and his weary firefighters returned for sandwiches after a long battle with smoke and flames at the Brooks farm.

Chelsea volunteers kept an all-night vigil, Wednesday, taking alternate shifts, and Steve Jaskot said Explorer Scouts sponsored by Chelsea firefighters assisted with many of the routine mop-up operations at the fire hall and at the farm-fire site.

Firefighters admitted they were "definitely tired" after battling two barn fires in as many days.

A blaze at the Smith farm, 12845 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., summoned Chelsea firefighters to the location on which a fire had consumed the Smith barn just nine years previous.

On a mutual-aid request, Dexter was called to assist the Chelsea department at the fire scene.

The flames originated under the hood of a pick-up truck, firemen decided.

Mrs. Smith said she had pulled the truck in the barn, after returning from Wendy's.

The Rev. Mearl Bradley, pastor of the Chelsea Free Methodist church, had stopped at the home to pay a pastoral call on Wally Smith, who had very recently undergone back surgery at an Ann Arbor hospital. A loud "pop" was heard from the direction of the barn and minutes later smoke and flames were evidenced.

Hay in the metal structure was ignited by the flames.

The Smiths' daughter arrived to assist her parents after a call from her mother.

"Probably, we won't rebuild the barn," she guessed.

Neither she nor her mother anticipated the clean-up operation.

Both ladies remembered the mess involved in the cleaning task after the last fire, and seemed depressed at the thought of a repeat action.

A farmer who visited Honeggers, Tuesday, offered to pull equipment from the burn area for the Smiths, who accepted his offer.

DDA Financing

Phase 2, planned to cost $170,000, would spend $150,000 on expanded downtown parking. Landscaping and marketing would each cost $10,000.

"I was very hopeful that we could do something this year," said Dr. Ron Beidron, DDA chairman.

"There hasn't been as much progress as I'd like, probably because we don't have a full-time person to deal with the issues."

Beidron said it's possible that Main St. will be resurfaced by the highway department next year. Consequently, the preliminary engineering work on the South St.-Main St. intersection will probably be completed this winter so that it can be reviewed along with the Middle St.-Main St. intersection.

Before the plan is finalized, which Beidron hopes will be in August, a public hearing will be held.

Summer Team Wins One, Loses Three Other Games

Chelsea's summer baseball team went through another rough week of action last week as they recorded one win in four games.

"We've been having all kinds of trouble in the batter's box and it continued this past week," said coach Akel Marshall.

"Combine that with some shaky defense and you don't win too many games."

Chelsea started off the week on a good note, edging Dexter A&W, 3-2, in the first game of a double header.

It was a pitcher's duel all the way as Greg Haist went the distance for the Bulldogs. He walked three, allowed four hits and struck out three.

"He could have had a shut out but a couple of errors helped A&W with two runs in the fifth inning," Marshall said.

"It was our best pitching performance of the season, no question about that."

Chelsea scored twice in the second and once in the third to take a 3-0 lead.

A&W threatened in the sixth inning, but two good defensive plays by Haist got the Dogs out of trouble.

In the seventh inning, Haist retired A&W in order, including two strikeouts.

Chelsea had six hits in the game, including a double and single by Larry Nix, a double by Haist, and singles by Bob Clouse, Tim Anderson and Matt Forner.

Chelsea lost the second game by one run, 5-4.

The Bulldogs had nine hits in the contest, including a single and double by Scott Gietzen, and singles by Steve Emmert, Haist, Nix, Mark Larson, Luman Strong, Jeff Marshall and Kevin Bell. Chelsea also received five walks but left many runners stranded.

"We couldn't get the big hit," Marshall said.

Chelsea held a 3-2 lead until the fifth inning, when A&W sent nine batters to the plate, scoring three runs for a 5-3 lead.

In the seventh, Chelsea scored a run and had two runners on base.

However, two ground outs scored only one more run.

Craig Maynard was the Chelsea pitcher and "did a good job," Marshall said.

Randy Ferry pitched in relief in the fifth inning, but the damage was already done.

On Tuesday, July 21, Chelsea squared off against Synchron Laser, losing 12-3.

In the first inning, Chelsea put runners on on first and third with nobody out. However, two ground outs and a strike out held Chelsea scoreless.

"As has been the case all summer, the big hit was missing," Marshall said.

Synchron scored four runs in the second inning on just two hits, as Chelsea helped out with four errors.

Chelsea scored two of their three runs in the bottom of the second. After three innings the score was 6-2.

Synchron added two runs in the fourth inning and four in the fifth to take the mercy rule win.

In the meantime, Chelsea had base runners but couldn't get the key hit. They left the bases loaded in the fifth.

Chelsea had five hits in the game—two singles by Clouse, a double by Rob Lyerla, and singles by Forner and Jon Lane. Eight runners were stranded.

In addition, Chelsea committed nine errors.

Lyerla was the Chelsea pitcher. He pitched well, Marshall said, but control was a problem as he walked six batters. Haist got the final out in the fifth inning.

On Thursday, July 23, Chelsea played Wendy's for the fourth and final time of the season. Wendy's blanked Chelsea, 8-0, as they jumped out to a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

"We were never really in the game," Marshall said.

Lane had the only two Chelsea hits, a pair of singles. Mark Larson was the only other base runner, on a passed ball after a strikeout.

Haist was the starting pitcher. He struck out four, walked five and the defense committed four errors.

Clouse, making his mound debut, pitched the final inning.

Wendy's players from Chelsea helped in the defeat of their spring teammates. Todd Starkey had three hits, including a triple and Junior Morseau walked twice. Jeff Harvey played third base.

Chelsea drops to 3-15 on the season.

CHELSEA STATE BANK were the champions of the Chelsea Recreation Women's Slowpitch Softball League, finishing with a 9-1 record. Going into the last week they were tied with Wolverine Bar. However, BookCrafters upset Wolverine, 10-8, while the Bank trounced Jiffy Mix, 20-3. The team was awarded a trophy and there were individual trophies for each player. ### John Deere 200 Series Tractors

Ahead of their time, and still with the times

John Deere 200 Series Tractors are pretty much the same as they were when they first came out. They were ahead of their time in features and value, so no big changes have been needed. Just things like styling changes. But you still get fully modern features like variable speed drive in all four gears: Triple-safety starting. Parking brake. Color-coded controls. Cushioned seat. Built-in headlights. Full welded-steel frame. Plus a variety of attachment options, including 38- and 46-inch mowers. 200 Series Tractors are as modern as any comparable tractor. They just have 12 years of experience behind them. Stop in and see them. 10-, 12-, 14- and 16-hp models. Quiet, smooth-running and proven.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

More tales from the recreation baseball and softball leagues...

Our newspaper has a form that all winning teams are supposed to fill out and drop off at the office after every game.

Last week, under the heading "Outstanding Defensive Plays" one Junior Miss softball coach wrote, "there was no defense, balls were flying all over the field." This guy gets my Honesty in Coaching Award for the summer.

By the same token, in one of the t-ball games two of the teams scored about 35 or 50 runs. The coach decided that defense was the highlight of the game and didn't mention a word about the hitting.

Perhaps that coach's Foster Grants are a little too dark. Or perhaps the game would have ended up 135-134 without the spectacular defense.

Another sheet turned in about t-ball read, "Jason pitched a good game." Maybe I'm missing something.

Then there was a coach who, after a tough loss, told me he was never going to let his kid play with the same bunch of losers again next year. Would take him to Ann Arbor instead. I'd say the biggest loser this kid ever played with was his father.

Sources have told me that one adult men's softball team was forced to forfeit a couple of games due to an illegal roster. It's a good thing part-time cop Dennis Hall is director of the league. Let's face it, softball is serious business in Chelsea.

The only time I've seen Cavanaugh Clams sponsor Jeff Daniels play softball all season, he hit a home run and what I think was a ground rule triple. The Clams, by the way, look a lot more semi-pro this year than they ever did last year, when they were supposedly a semi-pro team, according to some accounts.

Chelsea High school coach Wayne Welton is not playing for the Clams this season as he is concentrating on fast pitch softball in Ann Arbor. He's a shortstop. And I know that in at least one game he hit a pair of homers.

My own team, the Nickel Boys (we compete in Ann Arbor, although "compete" probably isn't the right word) finished the season with two straight losses in the post season tournament over the week-end.

In the second game, I hate to admit, we brought in a ringer (really just a non-roster player because we would have had to forfeit without him) for the final game. We pulled ahead 5-0 in the first inning, mostly due to a bunch of bad fielding on the part of our opponents. They started to get worried.

Then our ringer, Guillermo, stepped up to the plate. The other team got a little suspicious when the ump asked Guillermo to take off all 22 necklaces and Guillermo acted as though it was all news to him.

We played the whole game, though, and lost 23-10. We were only behind 12-9 going into the final inning. Those 11-run innings can be killers.

In the middle of that big, final inning, the coach of our opponents yelled out, "they have absolutely no concept of a cut-off man, so keep on running." So sad, but so true.

The Nickel Boys' 7-year history has been a story of pathetic seasons, at least in terms of winning and losing. This season was our worst ever as we were victorious in only one game.

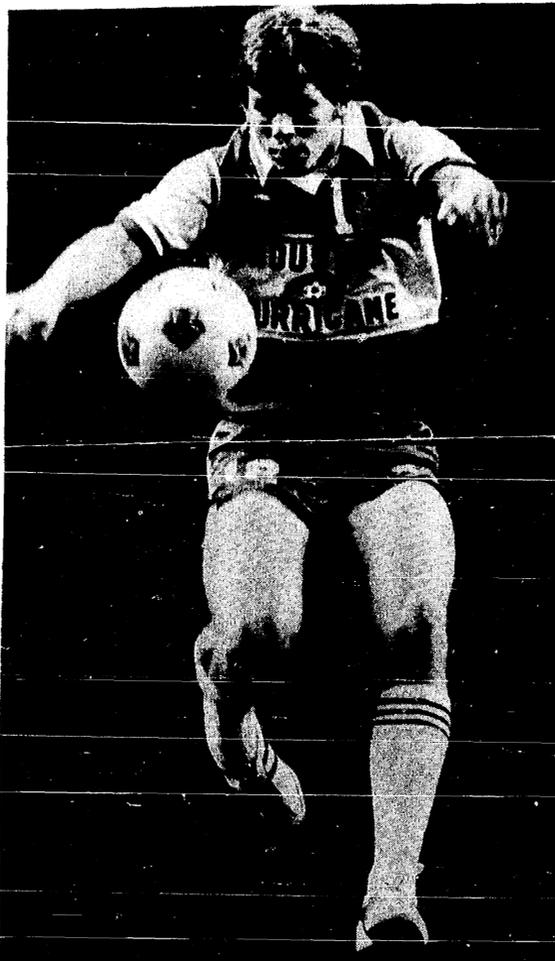

Wait 'til next year.

Nationally syndicated columnist Bob Greene told a superb story recently about a man and his attitude toward his young son's baseball league. It ought to be required reading before every recreation baseball season.

The man, who vowed he would never meddle in his son's baseball team, found himself doing just that—long distance while on a business trip no less.

The man realized that rec baseball was one of the first things in his young son's life that he couldn't control. He simply came to understand that he had to watch his child go off on his own in the world for the first time and slug it out on his own, so to speak.

Letting go has to be tough. It's a lesson I hope I'll learn quickly a few years down the road.

Soccer Clinics, Games Set at Domino Farms

Soccer Fans! Mark down Aug. 1 and 2 as days to fulfill even the most insatiable soccer fan's appetite. Domino Farms, in conjunction with the M.S.Y.S.A. Olympic Development Program, Trace Video Sports Club and the Ann Arbor Soccer Association will present two days of exciting soccer games, challenges and clinics.

On Saturday, beginning at 9 a.m., soccer fans and players of all ages can "Take on the World" by taking the soccer challenge. You can raise funds for Michigan's Olympic Development Soccer Teams and your local soccer league and win valuable prizes for yourself (i.e. for raising $50 or more you can win a soccer video or soccer ball). The challenge consists of several "stations" where certain soccer skills (dribbling, juggling, etc.) will be attempted. Participants may sign up pledges to support their efforts.

Beginning at 11 a.m. Saturday at the Fuller Soccer Complex, four of Michigan's State Select teams (U-13½, U-14½ boys and U-15½, U-17½ girls) will play a tournament against the Ontario and Ohio Select teams. This will be youth soccer at its finest. See America's future Olympians as they demonstrate soccer skills you never thought you would see performed by Americans. Games will be at 11 a.m., 2 p.m. and 5 p.m.

After an exciting day of top-notch soccer you'll all be invited down the road apiece (Plymouth Rd., ½ mile east of US-23 to be exact) for a come-as-you-are chicken Bar-B-Que at Domino Farms. The Bar-B-Que will be followed by a lively, toe-tapping performance of "Oklahoma" presented by the professional theatre troupe, Pritchard Productions, Inc., in the big Domino Barn.

Sunday, Aug. 2 the games have ended and the clinics begin. This day is designed for parents, players, soccer coaches and referees. Beginning at 9:30 a.m. and ending at 5 p.m. a series of clinics and demonstrations will be taking place.

The National Soccer Coaches (NSCAA) will be offering a day long clinic (9:30-11, 2-5) for parent coaches. This certification clinic will cover such topics as coaching techniques, laws of the game, ethics and injuries. (Fee $15.)

World renowned Dutch national coach Wiel Coerver will conduct an open clinic from 12 noon to 2 p.m. Coerver is the author of numerous soccer instructional books and tapes used by coaches world-wide. He has played on the Dutch National Team, coached national youth championship teams as well as the Indonesian National Team. Players, coaches and fans should not miss the opportunity to learn from this outstanding soccer resource.

From 2-5 p.m. two special clinics will be offered. U. of M.'s Medsports and the State of Michigan's Youth Sports Institute will cover such topics as motivation of youth players by coaches, legal liabilities, working effectively with parents, conditioning for soccer and care and prevention of injuries. This clinic will be of interest to anyone involved in athletics and especially coaches. (Fee $3).

A referees seminar will be presented at the same time as the Med/Sports Clinic. This seminar will feature four National Referees (including Ann Arbor's own Steve Olson) as well as a FIFA official. The focus will be on the mechanics of the game. It will be an outstanding opportunity to expand your knowledge of the game from some of the best in the profession. ($15.)

For those of you who did not attend Saturday's Bar-B-Que and play, here's your chance to change your pace from a concentrated day of soccer and enjoy the chicken bar-b-que followed by the wonderfully entertaining performance of "Oklahoma" in the Domino Farms Barn.

If these two days of soccer excitement were not enough, consider the additional attraction of America's greatest soccer star, Kyle Rote, Jr. On Saturday, he will be broadcasting the 11 a.m. game of the U-13½ Michigan Select boys vs. the Canadian Select side. He will also demonstrate for the media the "Take on the World" soccer stations. On Aug. 2, Rote will present the trophies to the winning teams from Saturday's competition and will also be available for interviews, pictures and autographs after 2 p.m.

Kyle Rote, Jr., was the only American to ever win a major professional soccer league scoring championship. He represented the U. S. in international competition from 1973-76 and is the all-time leading scorer in Dallas Tornado history. He is one of only two people to ever win the Superstar Competition three times.

Rote has written several books and articles on soccer as well as appearing on CBS, NBC and USA Cable as a professional sportscaster. In 1984 he was selected one of the "Ten Outstanding Young Men in America." In 1980 he took a year's leave of absence from professional sports to work with Mother Teresa and others in the battle against hunger. Besides his continuing work to alleviate hunger, he is active in Special Olympics, many Christian youth organizations and several youth oriented projects.

Congregational Church Plans 'Pause for Peace'

Thursday, Aug. 6 marks the date when a nuclear weapon was first used in our world. Considering the steady increase of the numbers and power of such weapons and the threat of nuclear annihilation they pose to our world, the First Congregational United Church of Christ invites the people of Chelsea to participate in a "Pause for Peace."
"Pause for Peace" is a reminder of the fact that nuclear weapons have been used twice in our history and seeks to emphasize that peace is the only viable solution to the nuclear threat that shrouds our world.
On Aug. 6 the church bell will be tolled at 3:30 p.m. at the First Congregational church, Chelsea, (when the bomb dropped on Hiroshima). At that time we invite as many people as possible to pause for a moment to pray for peace in their own way. The doors of the church will also be opened from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. for anyone desiring to stop in to pray or meditate.

Streaks and Slumps

Why is it that some teams get on a tear and for two weeks are unbeatable? Then a month later that same team loses 10 games in a row.

Why do some players burn up the league for two weeks and then go a month during which they can't seem to buy a hit at the plate or a victory on the pitcher's mound?

If I could find the answer to those questions and bottle it, I'd be a billionaire. Among today's players, Dale Murphy of the Atlanta Braves is known as a streak hitter. When he's hot, pitchers can't keep the ball in the park. I remember my old teammate Joe Adcock from the championship days of the Milwaukee Braves. When he got into a streak, nobody could get him out. You could throw him a low, outside slider and somehow he'd get it up on his bat and hit it 15 rows into the stands. Five days later, throw him that same pitch and he couldn't do anything with it.

This year, the Milwaukee Brewers got off to a super start and won a lot of ball games. Then they went the other way for a long period. That will happen with a young team. The players are relaxed at the beginning of a season when the team is going well. Then when the team is going badly, those same players put too much pressure on themselves and try to do too much.

Through the years what made the Dodgers and the Yankees such consistent clubs is that they always had that one pitcher who could go out and win a close, low-score ball game. By having a pitcher who could go into a series and win a game 1-0 or 2-1, the team was able to relax a little bit and get back on track. That kept them from getting into a deep losing streak.

I do have some personal theories about avoiding slumps. I think the problem is concentration. Some players will go along and have a good week or a good month and have no understanding of what they are doing that's working for them. Then when they get in a slump, they have nothing to fall back on. If you hit a home run on a change-up, how did you stride on that pitch? How close were you standing to the plate? You've got to know what you're doing that's right. You can't wait until you are in slump and then try and figure out what you're doing that's wrong.

These days coaches use videotapes, and it really helps picking out a batter's problems at the plate or spotting if a pitcher is releasing the ball wrong. But looking at a picture cannot replace knowing yourself. ■

Old West Rodeo Returning to Saline

America's original old west sporting event will return to Saline Aug. 7-9 as the Saline Jaycees and Lafontaine Bros. Arbor Dodge presents the 22nd annual Budweiser Championship Rodeo at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds near Saline.

Professional rodeo is one of this country's last "pure" sporting events that literally pits man against beast. The three-performance rodeo features professional cowboys and cowgirls in six competitions of skill and daring: bareback bronc riding, saddlebronc riding, calf roping, steer wrestling, cowgirls barrel racing and the dangerous bull riding.

Sanctioned by the International Professional Rodeo Association, some of America's best rodeo cowboys and cowgirls are expected to compete. In past years the Saline rodeo has drawn world champions and contenders alike for the top prize money and opportunity to compete on the outstanding livestock of the J Bar J Rodeo Co. The J Bar J Rodeo Co. is the IPRA's outstanding producer of bucking horses and bulls. No other rodeo company in professional rodeo has been voted more championship livestock awards or has sent more animals to the International Finals Rodeo than J Bar J.

The top livestock and big purses attract the good cowboys. For 1987 J Bar J Rodeos in eight states will offer over $450,000 in total prize money. It's no wonder the IPRA membership voted J Bar J Rodeo Co. the 1986 Rodeo Producer of the Year Award!

In between the contestant events the Saline Jaycees rodeo will feature classic and comedy rodeo entertainment by some of rodeo's leading performers. Rodeo veteran John Gilstrap of Nashville, Tenn., presents his version of rodeo's own unique blend of vaudevilian and stand-up comedy with all the Gilstrap gang of zany characters, animals and ridiculous antics.

International Finals Rodeo bullfighter J. W. Snyder of Texas risks serious injury displaying American free-style bullfighting. Snyder literally dances around the angry bull while protecting the cowboys during the bull riding event.

Californian Chyenne Pipkin is your rodeo host as he uniquely announces the rodeo from on foot in the arena, adding a personal touch to the old west flavor while keeping the spectator "on top of the action."

In all the J Bar J production of the Saline rodeo offers a blend of the old west, thrills, skills, danger and colorful showmanship into America's most unique form of family entertainment. The rodeo starts Friday, Aug. 7 at 8 p.m. with WCXI Radio Night; Saturday, Aug. 8 at 8 p.m. is WWWV Radio Night; and Sunday, Aug. 9 at 3 p.m. is Discount Tire Day!

Tickets are $5 in advance for adults and $6 at the gate. Children's tickets are $3 in advance and at the gate.

All seats are general admission. Tickets are available in Ann Arbor at Food and Drug Mart on Stadium Blvd., in Saline at Lodi Food Mart and Citizens Trust Bank and at all Detroit area Ticket World locations.

The Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds is located near Saline on Saline-Ann Arbor Rd., two miles south of I-94.

Is the U.S. waste-full? Within a decade, half the states will face serious problems in trying to dispose of their garbage. Although the problem is worse in urban areas, large, sparsely populated states also are running out of landfill space and cannot easily obtain new sites. According to National Wildlife magazine, long-term solutions, such as incineration and facilities to convert trash to energy, are needed.

Auto Swap Meet Begins on Saturday

Chelsea 87 Auto Show and Swap Meet, sponsored by the James Alexander Foundation of Ann Arbor, is scheduled this Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 1-2 at the Chelsea Fairgrounds. It is being billed as Washtenaw county's largest organized auto show and swap meet.

James Alexander Foundation, headed by Randy Osborne, is an organization dedicated to recycling all kinds of materials. The name for the foundation was invented by Osborne. No one named James Alexander lent his name to the foundation.

Osborne planned to rent nearly 2,000 spaces for flea market and swap meet vendors. As of press time, it was unknown how many he had rented and at exactly what price. His swap meet newsletter said the first 150 people to rent spaces would be charged $25, with free camper space.

Eileen Ball, who handles reservations for the fairgrounds, said that Osborne had met the conditions of his contract, including liability insurance provisions. However, since his announcement of the swap meet at a village council meeting this spring, Osborne has been elusive.

Shortly after he began planning for the show, Osborne's telephone number was disconnected. He later provided a number of a woman he called his secretary. However, calls to that number were often unanswered.

Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall said that Osborne never showed up for a meeting to discuss security at the event. He said Osborne is planning to provide his own security through the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Others have reported that Osborne also failed to show up for organizational meetings he planned at Chelsea High school.

According to the newsletter, there will be a number of events, including a pre-show parade of cars from the border of Wayne and Washtenaw counties.

Other events will include a Washtenaw County's Finest exhibit, a Saturday night rock and roll dance party, and a hot wheels drag race for children.

Gates will open to the public at 9 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Vendor check-in is Friday, July 31 at 6 p.m. and Saturday, Aug. 1 at 7 a.m.

Car Stolen From Hospital Parking Lot

An Ypsilanti man had his automobile stolen as it sat overnight near the main entrance at Chelsea Community Hospital on Thursday and Friday, July 23-24, Chelsea police reported.

At the same time, Chelsea police were investigating two other stolen car incidents at the hospital, and they may have all been linked, according to Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall.

Police were already investigating one incident of damage to a steering column in one car in the lot, and the drop-off of another automobile stolen in Ann Arbor.

"It looks as though someone dropped off one stolen car and exchanged it for another," McDougall said.

The car stolen at the hospital was a 1985 Subaru belonging to Walter Darby, 634 Bagley Ave.

TWO WASHTENAW COUNTY 4-H MEMBERS were among more than 50 young people who spent three days at Ford Motor Company World Headquarters learning about high tech careers from professionals in the computer and engineering fields. Pictured above are, left to right, Laura Shope, of Ann Arbor; Marv Walker, the owner of Fairlane Ford, who hosted the group on a tour of his Dearborn automobile dealership; and Nick Gordon, Saline.

DOE Super Collider Site Selection Rules Changed

State planning officials said Michigan's chances of winning the $4.4 billion Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) improved when federal officials made an 11th-hour change in the bidding rules.

The U.S. Department of Energy (DOE) said it would not consider states' financial inducement offers in selecting a site for the huge research machine. A competing state may still make such an inducement offer but it must be placed in a sealed envelope that won't be opened unless the state wins the competition.

"The rule change posts a 'Not for Sale' sign on the SSC site and thus provides a level playing field for the competing states," said Dr. John Haneski, an official of Michigan's SSC Site Preparation Taskforce.

"It could be bad news for the states that planned to make lavish offers to win the site designation," he said. "It is good news, however, for Michigan and other states which believe they can win on the technical quality of their site proposals."

Congress wrote the ban on financial inducements into the law to prevent a bidding war for the SSC. The huge research machine is expected to be an economic bonanza for the winning state. Michigan officials said the SSC and its $270 million a year operating budget would mean thousands of jobs and billions of dollars in state, business and personal income.

Congressmen who voted the rule change said they feared that the biggest and wealthiest states would have an unfair advantage.

Haneski said the states commonly perceived to be the top contenders in the siting contest are the states which have spent the most in preparing and advertising their proposals. "On that basis, Michigan was not seen as an odds-on choice because we expect to spend less than $1 million to prepare our site proposals."

"Most of our so-called inducement money will be spent to defray local tax losses and to compensate and assist those whose land will be needed for construction of the SSC campus and its 53-mile-long accelerator tunnel," Haneski said. He said it remains to be decided whether Michigan's bid will include a sealed envelope. "We have considered some inducements but now we may reconsider them in light of the new bidding rules," he said.

The DOE said it would still look at offers such as land acquisition, rights-of-way, access roads, sewer systems, water transportation lines and electric transmission lines. The government expects free land—surface rights on 8,000 acres and underground easements on another 8,000—and has emphasized the importance of cost-sharing in the project. However, technical considerations—assuring the best site—would be the dominant factor, the DOE said.

Conventional wisdom holds that the African drought is caused by whims of nature, yet International Wildlife magazine reports some climate experts believe that man may be the culprit. By rapidly destroying African rain forests and woodlands, water runoff has increased. This, in turn, reduces the chances for water evaporation which forms the clouds that bring rains.

Pulled Elbows

Although many parents do not recognize the problem, a common injury seen by family physicians and pediatricians is called "Radial Head Subluxation," a "pulled elbow" in layman's terms. Another term, "nursemaid's elbow," was coined for this injury because it commonly occurs in children between the ages of two and five years who, when climbing stairs, for example, are encouraged by an adult with a tug on the child's arm.

A sudden pull on a child's wrist or hand can cause the ligament to become displaced and sometimes even torn if the arm is straightened out with the forearm facing downward. Some ways this can happen are when a parent suddenly pulls a child away from a dangerous situation, while an adult is playing with a child, picks him/her up by the hands and swings the child around in midair; or while shopping, and out of frustration an adult pulls a resistant child away from something the child should not touch.

Pulled elbows occur equally among boys and girls. It is usually in the left elbow since most parents/babysitters are right handed and, when walking, hold a child by the left hand. When the injury occurs there is usually immediate pain. The child will complain of pain at the elbow site.

Occasionally, prior to the crying, a "click" can be heard. The child will refuse to use the affected arm. The arm will hang limp or will be held up against the chest by the other hand. The child will not let anyone move their arm. No swelling, bruising or obvious distortion is present.

A trip to the physician's office or emergency department is the next step. The treatment is fairly uncomplicated and usually works. The doctor will position the arm and with one very quick motion will push things back into place. Almost immediately the child will be pain free and able to move their arm.

Elderly Woman Is Victimized By Fake Village Workers

An elderly Grant St. woman was the victim of a scam that netted $700 in cash and several pieces of jewelry for two men posing as village employees last Saturday, July 25.

According to Chelsea police, the 77-year-old woman was sitting in her living room about 4 p.m. when two black men, wearing identical blue shirts with emblems, and matching blue pants, entered the home through the front door. When she asked them what they were doing, they told her they were checking for gas in the water pipes and were checking all residences on the street.

The men also reportedly told her she had over-paid her water bill by $5. They handed her a $10 bill and asked for change.

"That's how they found out where the money was kept," said Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall.

After making the change, the men advised the woman to empty out her bathroom cabinet and turn on the water. Police said that's apparently when the men entered her bedroom and took the items.

"I think they just intimidated her so much and that's why she went along with it," McDougall said. After the woman obeyed the men's instructions, they told her they would check the outside pipes. Police said that's when the men fled the scene in an unidentified, large, two-tone automobile.

After the incident, the woman also discovered her telephone was not working. She flagged down a passing motorist and made contact with the police department. The phone problem was apparently due to last Friday's storm, McDougall said.

Items stolen in addition to the cash were three rings, including one gold and ruby ring valued at $500, and her 50th anniversary gold and diamond ring valued at $300.

McDougall said a similar incident was reported two weeks ago in Scio township by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Farm Bureau Tells Congressmen: No Tax Increases

Michigan Farm Bureau has contacted members of Michigan's congressional delegation who serve on the House Ways and Means Committee and Senate Finance Committee voicing the organization's opposition to tax increases as part of deficit reduction efforts.

"We asked our congressmen to vote against any kind of tax increases and instead support across the board spending cuts to reduce the deficit," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau. "The way to fiscal responsibility is through reduced spending—not higher taxes. Higher taxes simply lead to more spending."

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor, I have recently had the pleasure and privilege of riding The Ride bus to Ann Arbor. It is a short, pleasant ride, with no parking worries.

What worries me is the lack of participation by the residents. Could it be fear of something new; lack of knowledge of Ann Arbor streets and locations; or, just plain being in the habit of driving?

I have a suggestion: the "movers and shakers" who implemented this ride should consult with bus management and publicize it more effectively. Also, why have two Medical Center stops? Eliminate one of them and, instead, use the Methodist Home as one of the pick-up points.

Maybe an offer of a free trip to educate the apprehensive would be feasible.

Whatever methods are used to upgrade this ride—do something now! In other words, use it, or, in two years, you'll lose it!

Sylvia Gilbert.

Garden Guidelines

★ The Redder the Better? Not Necessarily!

How many times have you passed over a mature orange tomato for one that is a deeper shade of red? Most gardeners intuitively believe that the redder a tomato is, the better it is for you, nutritionally speaking.

Not so, according to Edward C. Tigheelaar, a research scientist with the Department of Horticulture at Purdue University. In a paper presented at the First International Symposium on Horticulture and Human Health, held in Arlington, Va., Tigheelaar explained that a tomato that is a deeper shade of orange most likely contains a higher carotene content than one that is red.

Carotene is an orange-yellow to red plant pigment that is converted to vitamin A in the animal liver. Deficiencies in this important vitamin cause night blindness and eye scarring and can increase susceptibility to contagious disease. In fact, vitamin A deficiency is second only to lack of calories as a major nutritional problem in developing countries, according to the World Health Organization.

Scientists have developed a tomato juice made from high-carotene tomatoes that is orange-yellow in color. Unfortunately, most people tested preferred tomato juice that was redder in color, even though the juices taste the same.

It may take a few years, but perhaps American consumers will one day be convinced that redder is not necessarily better.

Council Refuses To Pay For Fireworks Insurance

After a lively 35 minute discussion that was cut short by Village President Jerry Satterthwaite with the comment "we could be here all night," village council voted unanimously at their July 21 meeting not to reimburse Harold Allen $1,045 for the cost of liability insurance for the July 4 fireworks display.

Allen had appeared before the council at two previous meetings to ask for the money. With trustee Richard Steele's motion, and the 6-0 vote, it was the first time the request was formally acted upon.

For the last three years, the village has required sponsors of the fireworks to produce a policy for $1 million naming the village as one of the insured parties. Until this year, insurance has been provided by local organizations. Kiwanis Club's international policy covered the show last year, but would not cover it this year.

Initially, Allen provided a policy with the right numbers but the wrong language. The policy would have covered the village for $1 million or whatever was left in its fund, which trustee Phil Boham pointed out, could be nothing. Allen was forced to find a second policy with language that satisfied the village.

Allen, who claims he spent $4,196.17 of his own money on the show and insurance, presented his second letter in as many meetings to the council last Tuesday.

His first letter outlined a nine-point plan to salvage the fireworks. Satterthwaite promised to appoint a committee to study the plan. Allen's second letter prompted discussion that involved Allen, the council and several members of the audience, including former mayor Charlie Ritter who said he planned to check on the legal status of Chelsea Community Fireworks, Inc. The non-profit corporation was formed by Allen for the sole purpose of shooting off the Fourth of July fireworks.

Allen's second letter follows in its entirety.

"President and the Village Council: "We are here to ask council to set aside its insouciance and act favorably on the proposals before you. By virtue of the proposal to reimburse myself $1,045 for a second 1 million dollar insurance policy a motion was made and accepted to table action in order that it might be scrutinized.

"It is not clear however, what was to be studied. As a matter of record, There has been a conglomeration of sophistry employed by council to attain a plausible deniability in its vain attempt to beguile village residents.

"You consistently have denied virtually everything we have placed before you. Your lackadaisical response to call a special meeting unquestionably would have resulted in the collapse of this year's event, had we been made to rely on outside sources for finances.

"Ordinance 99 (Ordinance 23 Amended Oct. 87) was dug out of the basement and enforced (to my knowledge for the first time in approximately 25 years)", in a "blackmail" demand that the village be supplied coverage for 1 million dollars (after my initial refusal to do so). 99 is a superficial means of shrinking from any responsible position by our village president amidst a fury of insupportable allegations that Chelsea's fireworks are too dangerous to have despite evidence that clearly demonstrates that this is a hysterical reaction to an accident in Michigan several years ago.

"It is disgusting, that our president has been permitted to abrogate existing ordinances in order to satisfy his own inability or reluctance to take on responsibility.

"We have acted in accord to your policy as you described it to us, and we now ask you for your co-operation in changing existing ordinances to better enable the fireworks show to exist.

"It is conceivable, maybe even probable, that without your co-operation there will be no show next year.

Sincerely,
Harold Allen,
President

Chelsea Community Fireworks Inc. "It was created in 1911. Even though you knew that your own insurance company refused to issue such a policy."

Allen was visibly upset when Satterthwaite informed him a committee had not yet been set up to study his plan.

"Are you going to continue not to do what I ask?" Allen said.

Allen, claiming a majority of village residents would support more village participation in the fireworks display, called for a vote on the issue.

"If (a majority of residents support the fireworks), why don't you charge a fee or take donations," asked trustee Stephanie Kantan.

"You haven't been here for the meetings, so I don't really care what you have to say," Allen shot back.

Satterthwaite, who said he seldom gets calls on any issue, said two residents called him urging the village not to pay for the insurance.

"Sure, I've had people say they support (the fireworks), calling me a cheap so-and-so, but they didn't live in the village," Satterthwaite said.

Card of Thanks 18

CARD OF THANKS

On July 22, the Chelsea Fire Dept. responded to a barn fire on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. Not only did we have to fight a large fire, but we had to fight 90° weather. If it had not been for the help of the Dexter Area Fire Dept. and the help of John Klink with heavy equipment I am sure that there would have been many injuries. On July 23, with little rest, we responded to another barn fire on M-52. This fire was much larger, and again the temperature was in the 90° range. We were assisted by Manchester, Dexter and Grass Lake Fire Depts., as well as Huron Valley Ambulance, Chelsea A&W, Chelsea McDonald's, McCalla Feeds, Chrysler Proving Grounds, Rusty Schanz and Civil Defense, Red Cross, and many other friends and neighbors.

We at the Chelsea Fire Dept. try to prepare for any emergency, but there are times when you have to count on others. I would like to send my warmest thanks to all who help.

Tom Osborne
Vice-President
Chelsea Firemen's Assoc.

RECENTLY RENOVATED RAILROAD DEPOT at Dexter will receive special recognition, Saturday, Aug. 8, the date on which a Michigan state historical marker will be placed at the site, announced James O. Williams, chief executive officer of the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society. Williams explained members of the railroad historical society and those of the Ann Arbor Model Railroad Club had combined efforts to restore one of the two remaining wooden depots along the railroad's main line from Detroit to Chicago. The depot is 100 years old this summer and has undergone renovations totaling approximately $40,000, Williams said. In addition, dedicated members of the two groups volunteered more than 10,000 man-hours in their joint efforts to restore the depot. The Aug. 8 date, on which the historic marker will be placed, falls in the midst of the 1987 Dexter Daze celebration. Conrail and Amtrak, which currently operate the railroad, have agreed to allow trains to make stops at Dexter on Saturday, Aug. 8. The Wolverine will stop at the depot in Dexter on its westbound route from Detroit, Dearborn and Ann Arbor in the morning, and two eastbound trains will stop to board passengers at Dexter later in the day, permitting people to ride to Ann Arbor, Dearborn or Detroit. The one-way rail fare between Ann Arbor and Dexter will be three dollars, with people able to purchase either one-way or round-trip tickets to ride the train on the date. Early ticket purchases are suggested to avoid disappointment.

State Historical Marker Honors Century-Old Dexter Railroad Depot

The 100-year-old Dexter railroad depot will be honored by the dedication of an official state historical marker at the station, Saturday, Aug. 8, as announced this week by James O. Williams, chief executive officer of the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society, sponsor of the event. The wooden depot at Dexter was completed in 1887, and is one of two such depots remaining along the Detroit-Chicago main line of the former Michigan Central Railroad, now a Conrail and Amtrak route. The marker also commemorates the state's first installation of track pans placed between the rails so that steam locomotives running at high speed could scoop up water, thus avoiding stops to replenish the supply for the boiler. Designed by Detroit architects Spier & Rohms, the Dexter depot was sold to the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society in 1982, following an ownership period of several years by the Dexter Youth Club. Since that time, the Ann Arbor Model Railroad Club and the Huron Valley Railroad Historical Society have spent more than $40,000 and members of the two groups have invested at least 10,000 man-hours restoring the building, which now houses a large model railroad layout and interesting memorabilia.

The work has been accomplished without government aid, with all funds raised during the groups' annual railroad flea market, one of the largest such sales in the nation. Restoring the depot required a complete new heating system, roof and foundation, as well as the removal of 17 coats of paint. Using a spectrographic analysis of the original colors, the depot has been repainted to appear as it did at its opening during January, 1887. The dedication of the marker is in conjunction with the annual Dexter Daze celebration, which includes many special events for local residents and visitors to the village, located eight miles west of Ann Arbor.

August Dairy Days Scheduled at MSU For 4-H Members

Young people interested in dairy cattle and the dairy industry should plan to attend 4-H Dairy Days Aug. 17-20 at Michigan State University. Dairy Days gives 4-H'ers in the dairy project a chance to show off what they've learned and compare their work against that of others from across the state. A multitude of events offer young people the chance to have fun and learn more about dairy cattle through judging, fitting and showing, and dairy quiz bowl competitions. Participants whose animals are outstanding milk producers according to Dairy Herd Improvement Association records will receive awards in the milk production contest. All Dairy Days exhibitors whose animals produced at least 33 percent above their breed average will receive certificates. The dairy food demonstration and poster, exhibit and Speak-up-for-Milk contests allow participants to creatively communicate their ideas about the dairy industry, from the Guernsey to the grocery store. For information about 4-H Dairy Days, contact the 4-H office at the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service office or call 973-9510. The registration deadline is July 27.

Michigan Ag Conference Reviews Proposed Waste Rules

Members of the Michigan Agricultural Conference reviewed proposed waste management regulations and revisions of the state's Right to Farm Act during its quarterly meeting at the Kellogg Biological Station near Battle Creek on July 9. Chris Lietzau, head of the Michigan Department of Agriculture's environmental division, led a discussion on recommendations developed by subcommittees of the Animal Waste Resource Committee and the MDA. Lietzau told the group that MDA would release the report on how to deal with the livestock waste management problem by Aug. 1 and hold public hearings on the issue the first two weeks of November and December. That report will not include two proposals added by the MDA—one on funding of pollution control programs through a tax on fertilizer and the other a siting criteria for high density animal units. MAC members objected to the inclusion of the MDA proposals in the final report because they were not developed by the Animal Waste Resource Committee or subcommittees. Ron Nelson, Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel, who served on the Animal Waste Resource Committee, urged farmers to attend the public hearings and provide their input on the proposals.

Heat Exhaustion . . . We have had extremely hot and humid weather already this year, which makes me think that some advice and suggestions on heat exhaustion might be a good idea.

When it is hot and humid, try to go easy on yourself. Try not to overdo because heat exhaustion is caused by excessive loss of body fluids especially through perspiration. Heat exhaustion can lead to illness and even death. So it's important that you take care of yourself and avoid health problems from hot weather. Here are some suggestions:

- Drink a lot of non-alcoholic fluids—water is best. Fluid replacement is especially important if you are outside and have a tendency to perspire heavily.

- Avoid exposure to direct sunlight for extended periods. If you must be outside, wear light clothing to protect yourself. I also recommend some type of head covering.

- If at all possible, avoid stress and over-exertion. Limit physical activities and wait until a cooler time for active exercising.

Muscle cramping is a common symptom of heat exhaustion. Other symptoms include dizziness, drowsiness and general body weakness.

If you experience one or more of these symptoms, remember that it may be serious and ask for help. Have someone help you get to a shaded or cooler area fast. Lie down, drink something cool, but not ice-cold. If symptoms persist, your physician should be contacted.

'The Music Man' By CAP 'Very Well Done'

By Russ Ogden
Free Lance Drama Critic
and Professor at EMU
Meredith Willson undoubtedly smiled last Saturday evening when he saw both the happiness exuding from the stage of Chelsea High school and the joy radiating from 250+ patrons gathered in the auditorium to witness the final night of "The Music Man" produced by the Chelsea Area Players.

"Professor" Harold Hill arrives on July 4, 1912, in River City, Ia., to bilk the community with intentional unkept promises about a River City Band to be taught by "the think methods of music!" River City, in his plans, will provide a quick monetary kill with his eyes set for the next city to line his pockets with money.

However, an emotional brick wall is tossed at Professor Hill when he meets Marian Paroo and her brother, Winthrop. What is intended to be a "quick romance," as practiced by Hill multi-times before, becomes innocent love never before experienced by him.

With much bravado, Professor Hill who sings with gusto and enthusiasm decides to do right by Marian Paroo and River City including a self confession of all of his wrong doings. Willson's happy ending involves the youthful River City Band, neatly attired and playing their music "through the think style."

Having 60+ amateur thespians on the Chelsea Auditorium stage is no mean feat, but Jan Koenigter's direction neatly ties all of the activity into meaningful musical and dramatic entities. And we would be most guilty for not mentioning Choreographer Kerry Graves Smith for some energetic dancing, especially the "Shipoo!" and the "Marian, the Librarian" numbers.

Costuming a colorful cast in appropriate costumes blending with the historical era was neatly done by Jerri Cole and Norma Graflund and staff. The work required by the CAP backstage crew in constructing believable sets for the production, including the myriad technical aspects, must be credited to Don Paulsell and Bob Seeman and their competent workers.

Saturday night's fan-cooled audience gave deserved, sustained applause to talented Koby Foytik for his "Gary, Indiana" number set on the Paroo house porch. Foytik as Winthrop Paroo, up to this point, was unwilling to talk, and when he did, he would lisp. In the "Gary" number he unfolds for the audience's complete enjoyment.

Highlights of this community theatre production must focus on the brilliant, combined talents of Joe Diederich, Tom Layher, Tucker Lee, and Don Paulsell, singing in barber-shop fashion such numbers as "Good-night Ladies," "Lida Rose," and "Sincere." This meshed tuneful talent of a prospective college freshman (Tucker Lee), a director of the University of Michigan Hospitals (Joe Diederich, a Dearborn Ford engineer (Tom Layher), and chief of staff at the EPA Motor Vehicle Emissions Laboratory (Don Paulsell), easily stole the show when they were musically in action.

Emerging from this ensemble was Joe Diederich who magnificently maintained and developed a character from which he never veered during the entire evening. What a pleasure! Ensembles on the Chelsea stage seemed to exude excitement, with the women of "Picka-little" shining in their interpretation of this number during a gossip session about town happenings.

Mrs. Paroo in the hands of Norma Graflund was real and believable; this actress ably maintained her characterization.

A brief but effective emotional scene involved Harold Hill (Mulvihill) and Marian Paroo (Susan Schmunk) dancing together in "Shipoo!"—a scene when the two seemed truly enamored with each other, not always the case in other scenes in the production.

Additional individual performances cited by the audience with applause were David Andrews as "Marcellus;" Thad Bell, "Tommy Dillas;" Beth Williams, "Gracie Shinn;" John Williams, "Mayor Shinn;" an unforgettable performance by Sue Williams, "Eulalie Mackecknie Shinn;" and Ric Foytik, "Charlie Cowell."

Perhaps a professional "PS" might be due about the play. "The Music Man" started out as "The Silver Triangle," later renamed "The Music Man" and performed 1,375 times on Broadway. Up to "The Music Man," Meredith Willson was a radio personality, but at age 55 he penned "The Music Man," performing a triple theatrical treat—the book, music, libretto. Nobody of this stature had completed a second show with this achievement, but Willson did what "would never be done." "The Unsinkable Molly Brown" followed with over 500 Broadway performances, running concurrently with Willson's "The Music Man."

The Chelsea Players are celebrating the 30th Anniversary of this play; it opened on Dec. 19, 1957. In the national theatrical Broadway awards, "The Music Man" aced out a worthy competitor in "West Side Story" and received the "Best Musical of 1957 Tony Award."

Having met and talked with Meredith Willson and his petite wife—Renee—when the duo appeared in Ypsilanti many years ago, the reviewer discovered that Willson's true pleasure was attending the theatre to see an audience enjoy his theatrical work. Again, Willson would have enjoyed the audience reception awarded the Chelsea Players "The Music Man" last Saturday evening.

Michigan has more RV's per capita (1 for each 30 residents) than any other state except California (1 per 29.6).

Ticket Distribution Plan Announced For Papal Mass

Tickets to the Mass of Pope John Paul II in Pontiac's Silverdome will be distributed through the individual Catholic parishes.

A spokesman for Bishop Kenneth J. Povish of the Catholic diocese of Lansing said, "Parishes with greater numbers of parishioners will receive more tickets. The greatest number allocated is 50 per parish and the smallest is 20. We estimate that one in 70 registered parishioners will receive a ticket."

Allocations in the Washtenaw-Brighton region include six tickets for the St. Louis School; 20 for Chelsea, St. Mary; 20 for Dexter, St. Joseph; 30 for Pinckney, St. Mary; and 20 for Manchester, St. Mary.

State 4-H Horse Show Slated Aug. 18

More than 500 of the state's best young equestrians will travel to Michigan State University to compete in the 1987 State 4-H Horse show Aug. 18.

This is a great chance for 4-H members, 13 and older, to test their showing skills. It's an honor to win the right to participate in the state show, and winning a medal or ribbon is an impressive accomplishment.

The show features more than 250 classes and includes Western fitting and showing, English pleasure and equitation, working hunter over fence classes, and bareback, reining and trail classes.

There are also speed and action classes such as barrel racing and pole bending, and a special sesquicentennial costume class for horses and riders who will be attired as they might have been the year Michigan was declared a state.

Entries to the State 4-H Horse show are based on a quota system, and each county is responsible for selecting its representatives.

For information about qualifying for the show, contact the 4-H office at the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension office or call 973-9510.

American chameleons are providing clues to the origin of the Caribbean Islands. According to National Wildlife magazine, these tropical lizards have been around since the first islands were formed. By studying the tiny creatures, scientists have concluded that many of the islands are far older than previously thought, dating back as far as 100 million years. They also believe the lizards weren't washed ashore from elsewhere, as has been suggested, but were descended from common ancestors that were present when the islands spread apart from larger land masses.

Get Accustomed To Customs Before Traveling Abroad

Passing through customs when entering a foreign country or returning to the United States need not be the dreaded task that many travelers fear, reports AAA Michigan.

"Some countries are more strict than others and a wise traveler plans purchases and knows what is allowed to be brought into and out of the countries visited," said Diane Willard, AAA Travel Agency director.

For example, some nations prohibit travelers from entering or leaving with certain amounts of currency, products made of particular materials (such as ivory) or archeological or historical items. Checking with the consulate of the country to be visited is advised.

"Knowing what the U.S. government will allow into the country will save a lot of disappointment when returning home," Willard said.

Going through customs can be as simple as an officer asking if you are bringing anything in or as complicated as a complete search of your belongings.

Here are some suggestions to ease the process:

- Do not pack passports or other travel documents in luggage. Carry them with you.
- If taking expensive jewelry or cameras out of the U.S. register them with the Customs office to avoid being charged duty upon return.
- Keep receipts in an envelope for purchases outside the U.S.—especially expensive items. Take along a lightweight tote bag and keep souvenirs together. It makes it easier when asked what is being brought into the country.

-Answer the Customs official's questions courteously and concisely. Even if meeting a connecting flight, telling the official, "I have to catch a plane," will not hurry the person examining belongings. Plan for customs delays when booking connecting flights.

-Ignorance is no excuse. Some foods and plants are not allowed into the U.S.

-Do not rely on advice from persons outside the Customs Service. Unwittingly violating customs laws can lead to costly penalties. If in doubt about declaring an item, ask the Customs inspector for assistance.

-Do not try to sneak anything by Customs officials. They are trained to discover hidden merchandise.

-Carry all medicine in original containers from the pharmacy, with the contents clearly marked.

Travelers are allowed to bring in $400 worth of articles duty free if abroad at least 48 hours. Those entering from the U.S. Virgin Islands, American Samoa or Guam, may bring in $800 worth of good duty-free.

Duty fees must be paid in U.S. currency at the point of entry or the items must be surrendered to Customs.

The U.S. Customs Service has prepared "Know Before You Go," an informative pamphlet to alert travelers of what to expect at the customs areas. Copies may be obtained at any AAA Travel Agency.

Four More Enter Fair Queen Contest

Four more girls have entered the Chelsea Fair Queen Program, bringing the total to six as of press time.

One of the organizers, Kathy Powers Patrick, promises there will be two or three more girls who will make the deadline next Monday, Aug. 3.

Amy Archer, 16770 McClure Rd., will represent the sophomore class of Chelsea High school.

Amy Koenig, 2020 S. Lima Center Rd., will be sponsored by Rogers Corner's Herdsmen 4-H Club.

Minta VanReesma, 14490 Old US-12, is the CHS senior class entry.

Judy Bareis, 10411 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., will represent Terrific Tailors 4-H Club.

The first two girls to enter were Meredith Hall, 1840 Dancer Rd., representing the CHS junior class, and Laurie Honbaum, 9100 Stofer Rd., representing the CHS freshman class.

This year's program will take place on the final evening of the fair, Saturday, Sept. 5, due to a conflict with Friday night's home high school football game.

The program is open to all Chelsea and Dexter High school girls. Girls must be sponsored by a high school class or community club or organization.

Each girl will be judged on poise, appearance, a personal interview with the judges, and a talent. The talent will be shown or performed live for the Saturday audience. However, the girls will be judged on a private showing for the judges earlier in the week.

Each girl's choice of talent demonstration is subject to prior approval by the Fair Queen Committee. The talent may be either a performing art, such as singing or dancing, or a creative art, such as painting or sewing.

Each sponsoring organization must provide a float for Saturday's fair parade, and a convertible automobile for Tuesday's Children's Parade. Failure to have a float may result in disqualification of the queen candidate.

For more information, contact Penny Trinkle, 475-3442, or Patrick, 475-8912, after 6 p.m.

Farm Bureau's Farm Credit System To Be Introduced in Congress

The American Farm Bureau's plan to solve the problems of the nation's troubled Farm Credit System will be introduced in Congress this week. Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau, said the plan includes government assistance in the form of a guarantee of funds to the Farm Credit System to keep the system solvent.

"Also, farm borrowers of the system would benefit under the plan by the restructuring of their loans instead of foreclosure whenever possible," Almy said.

The U.S. House and Senate Agriculture Committees are currently marking up farm credit proposals. Almy expects a major farm credit reform bill will be before both houses of Congress prior to the Aug. 8 congressional recess.

Jeff Daniels Interviewed By J. P. McCarthy, Says New Film Due Soon

Chelsea actor Jeff Daniels will play a government agent during the McCarthy era when his new movie hits the theaters this October.

Daniels talked about the movie, and his career in general, during an interview on WJR-AM radio last Thursday on J. P. McCarthy's "Focus" program.

The film, called "House on Carroll Street," reported earlier in Variety magazine as "House on Sullivan Street," takes place in 1951. Daniels described it as having "a lot of hats and old cars." Kelly McGillis, who starred opposite Tom Cruise in "Top Gun," has the lead female role.

Daniels also revealed that he is reviewing seven different scripts at his Cavanaugh Lake home.

Daniels said that his last movie, "Something Wild," didn't do nearly as well at the box office as he thought it would.

"I thought it would be real big," he said.

"The critics liked it. I think the marketing was bad. They made it look like a Chevy Chase comedy. I don't think people were expecting the turn in the middle."

Daniels co-starred in "Something Wild" with Melanie Griffiths. It began as a comedy but ended with a bloody fight, in which Daniels' character killed another man.

Daniels said he is getting good roles, but not the top roles because he has not had a box office smash.

"I'm fifth on the list," he said.

"I need a hit movie." He added that he really doesn't know how popular he is with the moviegoers.

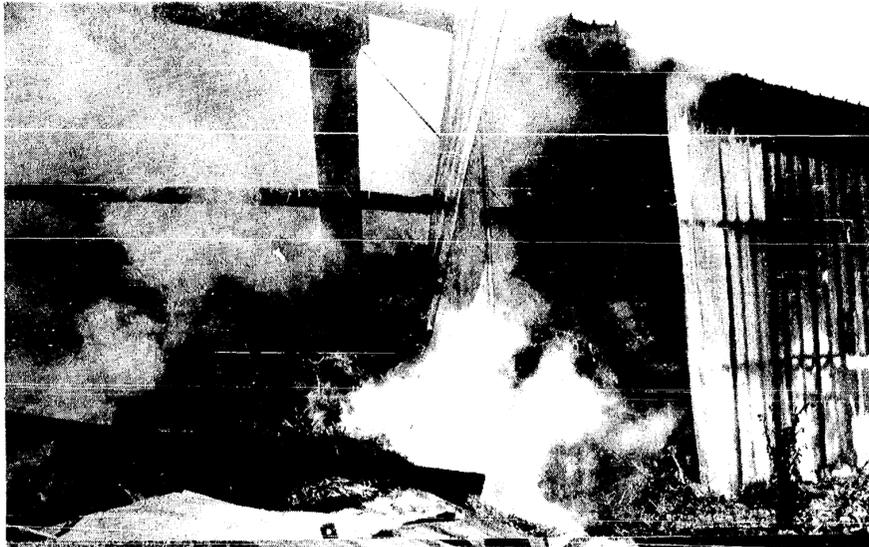

He mentioned one film he wanted to work in this summer. The director and producers wanted him, but the studio insisted on an established star.

Daniels and McCarthy discussed a wide range of topics: how he deals with rejection in the movie business; what makes a good actor (the ability to make it look like it's happening the first time rather than the 10th take); the acting of Meryl Streep and Jack Nicholson; and the Detroit Tigers.

Although McCarthy mentioned Chelsea several times, Daniels only talked about living at the lake.

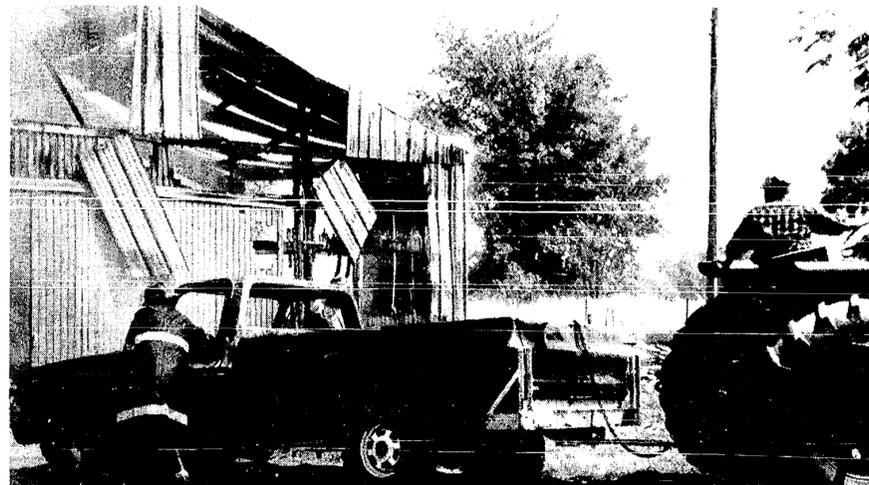

And the Cavanaugh Clams weren't mentioned once.

BARN FIRE AT THE SMITHS on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. on Tuesday, July 21, was caused when trouble under the hood of a pick-up truck parked in the structure spread to stored hay bales. Chelsea firefighters called for mutual-aid assistance from Dexter in combating the blaze. A portable tank set up on the north side of the railroad crossing near the Smith residence was used to relay water.

PICK-UP TRUCK WHICH ORIGINATED the barn fire at the Wally Smith home on Dexter-Chelsea Rd., Wednesday, July 22, had just returned from Wendy's and was parked in the barn. People in the house reported hearing a loud "pop" just before smoke and flames were evident.

Toastmasters Elect Slate of New Officers

Jim Birchler has been elected president of the Chelsea toastmasters. Assisting him in his duties will be Diana Newman, educational vice-president; Martha Schultz and Bob Barry, administrative vice-presidents; Patty Benson, sergeant-at-arms; and Brian Roe, secretary-treasurer.

The Toastmasters meet for an hour every Friday noon at the Woodlands Room of the Chelsea Hospital. Their purpose is to enable people to become comfortable speaking in front of groups, both in prepared speeches and on an ad-lib basis.

New members' first speech is about themselves and called the "ice-breaker." According to Newman, "This is both the hardest and easiest speech they will ever make."

In order to solve the problem that some have, of being able to give prepared speeches, but not being able to talk on the spur of the moment, the toastmasters includes as part of their program "table talk." People participating are asked to speak extemporaneously on a given subject such as world events or an incident in their childhood.

Each meeting has a grammarian to identify mistakes of usage, an evaluator to rate the speeches on such things as gestures, voice, eye contact, and number of "ums," and a toastmaster to make sure the meeting flows. Every meeting has an opening thought, closing thought, laugh of the day, and word of the day for vocabulary building.

According to Newman, members come from all around the area including Stockbridge, Dexter, and Ann Arbor. Since it is often hard to get away during the day, it is not surprising that a large number of the members work at the hospital or are retired.

The group is open to new members. Says Newman, "New members make it more varied, more exciting. Everyone has different interests and different strengths." Newman suggests the best thing for interested people to do is to come a meeting any Friday and observe. If they like what they see, they will be welcome to join.
