SULLIVAN COMPANY, an oil company in Tulsa, Okla., is drilling off Farnsworth Rd. in Lyndon township on land owned by Terry Schoonover. The company has been doing its best to keep the operation a secret. "They're not telling me nothing," Schoonover said Monday. "They won't even let me near it. They hired two guys full-time to keep people off the site. I don't know what's going on." He said the company, which purchased the mineral rights last year, has a permit to drill to 5,700 feet. Schoonover said that the last time he was able to go near the rig, over a week ago, the drill had gone to 2,400 feet. Schoonover said that as far as he knows the company has wells in Washtenaw and Livingston counties.

School Board Plans To Select New Superintendent By March 21

"We'll leave the door open over the week-end and see who fits in the chair when we come back," says school superintendent Ray Van Meer, jokingly answering a question about how his successor will be chosen. In actuality, the school board has outlined a schedule aimed at having a new superintendent in place by March 21.

The new superintendent will be selected by the school board with advice from university placement directors and input from school employees and community members.

As a first step, the board personnel committee, composed of Ann Feeney, Ann Comeau, and Joe Redding, are preparing a brochure explaining the job. After approval by the whole board, the brochure and job listing will go out, mainly to university placement centers in the state. The job will also be posted in state and national professional newsletters.

The deadline for applications is Jan. 15. Since they will be posted by Dec. 1, this means that interested parties will have six weeks to apply.

The board will solicit information on the desired characteristics of the superintendent by sending out a questionnaire to all school personnel and by holding a public hearing on Dec. 7 for the rest of the community to give input.

On Jan. 18, seven university placement directors, from the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, Wayne, Eastern Michigan University, Northern Michigan University, Central Michigan University, and Western Michigan University, will come to Chelsea to review the applications and other paper credentials. They will narrow the field down to eight or 12 which they will recommend be interviewed.

The placement directors will explain to the board their reasons for choosing the ones they did and also give advice on what kinds of information to seek in interviews and what questions to avoid.

Interviews will be done by the entire board. Before beginning interviews, the board will review the applications to see if they want to add to the list any applicants not chosen by the placement directors. Public interviews will take place Feb. 8 to 11. If more time is needed, they will continue Feb. 16 and 17. All interviews and discussions will be open to the public.

At the Feb. 15 board meeting, the board will decide which candidates should be given a second interview. This second series will be held Feb. 29 and March 1, 2, and 3.

On March 7, the board will meet in (Continued on page six)

make it more pedestrian oriented by doing such things as changing the street lighting to tie in with the old-fashioned lighting on S. Main, upgrading the landscape, and adding pedestrian crossing signals and handicapped ramps at the curb cuts. Nilan and Frisinger are standing in front of the Chelsea map, found on the corner of the Chelsea Pharmacy, which is jointly maintained by the chamber and the drug store.

Planning Commission To Consider Renovation Plans for Sylvan Hotel

By Brian Hamilton

Sylvan Hotel will be converted into an office-retail center by new owners John and Anne Daniels of Chelsea.

The Daniels are scheduled to present their site plans for the burned-out building to the village planning commission at the next commission meeting Tuesday, Nov. 24. They hope to have the plan approved at that meeting, which would allow them to begin construction.

The Daniels bought the building from George Merkel this summer, almost exactly two years after it was gutted by fire. The building sat boarded up for two years.

"We've steered away from building apartments as we had originally planned," Daniels said last week.

"We've had a good enough response from people who want office and retail space that we didn't think we needed to build apartments."

By scrapping their plans for the apartments, the Daniels will also save themselves a little time because they won't need to obtain a special land use permit from the village. Their building is zoned for commercial use only.

If the Daniels follow through with their intentions, the Sylvan Hotel could become a center of attraction downtown.

Their plans are to excavate on the north side of the building and build two small courtyards. The excavation would also allow the basement to become a first floor with windows.

"We wanted to eliminate the basement aspect of it because people would think of themselves as being hidden away," Daniels said.

"It won't be that way at all. There will be a lot of glass."

The north side would contain the main entrance to the building. In addition, there would be an elevator on the north side, which would make the building accessible to handicapped customers and employees.

The elevator, which will be added on to the outside of the current structure, figures to be one of the Daniels' major expenses. However, Daniels said that as of Oct. 1 the elevator is required by law.

Daniels said that one of his potential tenants wants to open a delicatessen sandwich shop with outdoor seating during good weather. That tenant could possibly use one of the courtyards.

Car Swerves, Misses Deer, Rolls Over

A Detroit-area man was shaken but otherwise uninjured when the car he was driving rolled over as he was trying to avoid hitting a deer last Thursday, Nov. 12.

According to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Joseph Rasnick, 22, of Southgate, was northbound on Joslin Lake Rd. at 5:08 when a deer ran in front of his car. When Rasnick swerved to avoid the animal, his vehicle went across the roadway and turned over.

There was still daylight when the accident occurred and conditions were clear and dry.

Rasnick's car was towed away by Smith's Service.

Eight Elected Fair Directors

Eight men were elected as Chelsea Community Fair Board directors at the board's Nov. 12 meeting.

Archie Bradbury, Harold Gross, Jerry Heydlauff, Reuben Lesser, Jr., Bill Nixon, Tom Smith, Mark Staphish and Bill Stoffer were elected to three-year terms.

Board officers will be selected at a future meeting.

Attending the November meeting were Stoffer, Ed Whitaker, Lloyd Grau, Maryann Guenther, Staphish, Bradbury, Richard Bollinger, Jim Dault, Gross, Heydlauff, Don Koengeter, Charles Koenn, Jeff Layher, Mark Lesser, Reuben Lesser, Jr., Ken McCalla, Nixon, Walt Zeeb, Joe Merkel, III, Smith, and John Wellnitz.

The secretary's report was read and accepted.

The 1987-88 nominating committee is Reuben Lesser, Jr., Staphish, and chairman McCalla.

tween the Sylvan building and Longworth Plating to allow deliveries, Daniels said.

Each of the three floors will have four spaces to rent ranging from 450 to 650 square feet. One or more of those spaces could be combined, depending on the needs of a tenant, Daniels said.

The third floor will be office area only, Daniels said. However, plans for each floor have gotten no more specific than that.

"We want to get our final drawings by mid-December and then decide what's going where," Daniels said.

Most of the rental interest has come from local residents, Daniels said. However, he has not committed space to anyone and says he won't until the final plans are drawn.

Daniels said he plans to begin demolishing the inside of the building at the end of the month. He said demolition should take 1½ months.

Daniels said he doesn't yet know how the building will look from Main St. and will make those decisions later.

"We will definitely make a lot of improvements to the outside."

Zion Lutheran Church To Install New Pastor

Zion Lutheran church, 3050 S. Fletcher Rd., Chelsea, is announcing the arrival of the Rev. Mark Weirauch.

The Rev. Weirauch and his family will begin their ministry in Chelsea on Nov. 29. Zion Lutheran church has been without a pastor since May of this year.

The Rev. Weirauch attended Concordia Junior College, 1972-74, Concordia Senior College from 1974 to 1976 and Trinity Lutheran Seminary from 1976 to 1980. He served two congregations in Illinois during his internship, one in Mahomet and the other in Monticello. The last seven years the Rev. Weirauch has been in Oak Harbor, O., serving as the associate pastor at St. John's Lutheran church.

The Rev. Weirauch has been very active in youth ministry. He has developed programs to reach children of different age levels. He has worked with young adults in local, district and national activities. He has also worked in adult education programs including Bible study and general spiritual counseling. He has been active in the community through the Oak Harbor Ministerial Association, Rotary, a Youth Services Board, and the area Lutheran Support Group.

The Rev. Weirauch will be accompanied by his wife Deborah, and their three children, Rachel who is eight, Andrew, three, and Kristin, nearly two. Ms. Weirauch is a registered nurse currently working as a school nurse.

The Rev. Weirauch's installation service will be Sunday, Nov. 29, 10:15 a.m., at Zion Lutheran church. The Rev. Kirk Haval, assistant bishop of the Eastern Michigan Synod, ELCA, will officiate. The congregation will hold a noon pot-luck in honor of the Rev. Weirauch's installation.

Athletic Boosters Schedule Projects For Fundraising

Chelsea Athletic Boosters have decided on several money-raising projects for the remainder of the school year.

The group decided at its October meeting to have placemats printed containing a calendar of Chelsea athletic events. They would be sold to area restaurants. Other projects include a dance, a sock hop, and a prom fashion show with a luncheon.

Booster funds have already been used to purchase a videocassette recorder, a 19-inch color television and an eight-hour battery pack for the athletic department's camcorder.

The boosters meet the third Wednesday of every month at 7 p.m. at the high school and anyone is welcome to join.

A Nov. 10 snowstorm brought shovels and plows out of storage ahead of schedule in Chelsea. Village leaf pick-up was yet to be completed when snow fell totalling four inches.

Jerry Picklesimer of Winters Rd., brought down an eight-point buck opening day of firearm season. His 12-year-old son, Jason, was along on the hunt. Their trophy was the first brought to The Standard this year.

A stiffly worded letter sent to Gov. Blanchard by the chairman of To Fence Or Close Cassidy Lake Prison, Ron Olmsted, accused the governor of "not being responsive" to the 1,350-member group's concerns.

William A. Stoffer was elected president of the Chelsea Community Fair Board to fill out the unexpired term of Arthur Steinaway who has moved out of the area.

Chelsea's United Way campaign came to a grand finale—nearly $800 over this year's goal of $28,362—reported president of United Way of Chelsea Paul Frisinger. Jennine Riemenschneider was campaign chairman.

New park manager at Waterloo Recreation Area is Einar (Ike) Lundberg, replacing Jim Andrus who was appointed district manager at Gaylord. Lundberg was a foreman at Camp Waterloo 17 years ago, and in recent years served in many capacities for State parks and recreation sites throughout Michigan. When he left the area in 1963, he recalls, the Jiffy Mix silos were just being constructed, "Fastest thing you ever saw," he chuckled, "The tops were finished and the foundation wasn't even dry yet!"

Various brands and types of turkeys were advertised by Jiffy Market for between 69¢ and 89¢ per pound.

Chelsea's new fire station on W. Middle St. is now occupied. The pumper, tanker and an older pumper were moved into their own "berths" at the new station. Firemen themselves are continuing to add finishing touches which were not included in the contract in order to keep down construction costs.

Stuart R. Booker retired as executive vice-president of Federal Screw Works, and general manager of the Chelsea plant. He will be succeeded as general manager by Lawton Steger, one of the firm's vice-presidents. Mr. and Mrs. Booker will move to Beaufort, S. C.

Ferd Merkel and his nephews, Henry Merkel, Jr. and Martin Merkel, are candidates for the honor of being the first Chelsea hunters to return with deer this season. He and a party of friends had been hunting pheasants in South Dakota and he went directly from there to the Upper Peninsula in time for the opening of the deer season there. The party bagged three deer, and arrived home before Michigan's lower peninsula season opened.

New York Central Railroad's track pan, located at Four Mile Lake for more than 40 years, discontinued operation last week. Diesel-powered trains have eliminated the need for track pans.

Track pans were used by "old-fashioned" steam locomotives which scooped up water from the pans as they rushed past to their destinations. Water in the pans kept from freezing by passing live steam through the tubes imbedded in the pans. As much as 500 tons of coal were used during the winter months to keep the pans free from ice.

CHS seniors presented the play, "Crazy But Cute." Dover family members, relatives and school associates in the play were portrayed by Dave Elkin, Shirley Marsh, Duane Satterthwaite, Doug Kolb, Lloyd Grau, Jane Smith, Judy Doe, Cynthia Paul and Judy Davison.

Stay-at-home hunters Gerald Carr of Cassidy Lake, and Ishmael Picklesimer of Chelsea, were among the first to report bagging their deer. Both kills were made about 7:30 a.m. opening day in the Waterloo area.

Report Finds Minorities, Women in Low-Pay Jobs

Women and minorities continue to be overly concentrated in lowpaying clerical and service jobs in state government, a Department of Civil Rights report shows, although the number employed over-all is increasing.

The commission has, however, for the first time, approved affirmative action plans in each department. Director John Roy Castillo said that will make it easier to monitor progress and make specific recommendations to each agency to help minorities, women and handicappers move into all work levels.

The commission recommended development of a training program including tuition reimbursement to assist minorities and women to upgrade skills and professional credentials.

It also recommended Civil Rights and Civil Service work jointly to identify priority job titles where minorities and women are "underutilized," require quarterly reports by departments on promotions or hires in high job classifications, and require that affirmative action plans contain separate work force analysis for minority men and minority women.

The office and clerical categories have "severe concentrations of women, the report noted (95 percent are female), while black and Hispanic men are concentrated in service, maintenance and protective service categories.

Using a population benchmark of 50 percent for females, the report said 10 departments exceed, while three, State Police, Transportation and auditor general, have less than 25 percent.

Consumers Named Top Utility

Consumers Power Co. has come back strong from financial difficulties and recently was named Electric Light and Power magazine's Utility of the Year.

Robert Lincicome, editor of the national trade magazine, said this was the first time in the award's 19-year history that a utility was honored for halting a "near death spiral." Previous awards recognized continued growth of electric utilities.

Only two years ago, the utility was in a tailspin. The Midland Nuclear Plant project was 85 percent complete, but after $488 million was invested in the plant, the money stopped flowing. Project partner Dow Chemical bowed out, so Consumers halted the project and faced the consequences, which included a massive legal dispute with Dow.

Under the leadership of Consumers Power chairman William McCormick, the mothballed nuclear plant would be converted to electric and steam and bring back Dow as a partner to end the litigation and mend political fences.

His leadership produced an efficient, scaled down utility, snatching Consumers from the edge of bankruptcy, Lincicome said.

Dave Rowe Attends Insurance Seminar

Dave Rowe, agent of the Farm Bureau Insurance Group and owner of Rowe Insurance Services of Chelsea, has successfully completed the annual continuing education requirement of the Society of Certified Insurance Counselors.

In order to earn the designation CIC (Certified Insurance Counselor), each individual must have attended five institutes covering all phases of the insurance business and passed five rigorous examinations. Additionally, the National Society requires annual attendance in the program to maintain the designation.

Rowe, a 23-year veteran of the industry, has been a CIC since 1983.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle opened the session at the country store Saturday night with a report where healthy grown people in cities all over this country are paying good money for walking classes. Ed had a clipping where this feller in New York City teaches a class on how to walk in Central Park, and he has a waiting list.

This feller, Ed said, would have us believe the difference between right and wrong walking is the difference between long life and early death. He says we can walk ourselves healthy if we do it right, and the exercise is a heap better than all the wear and tear of running. The fact is, he says, not everybody that can put one foot in front of the other can walk any more than everybody that can pound a piano can play a tune.

Ed's item played to mixed reviews. Bug Hookum said it right walking means that heel and toe grating he sees on television he would break ever bone in his lower body at the first lesson. But he could see the need for keeping up a walking pace that gives the heart and lungs a workout. These walkers are doing a heap better, Bug said, than golfers that exercise drinking beer in little electric carts between swings.

Furthermore, he said, we need discipline to exercise, and it's a heap easier to make ourselves do it if we're with folks in the same fix. This is the same reason we git more out of going to preaching than setting at home trying to think good thoughts, was Bug's words.

Actual, broke in Zeke Grubb, he didn't see where walking classes were different from any other classes. Folks think they know how to breathe, Zeke said, til they take singing lessons. They think they know how to talk til they try to git jobs on the radio. Most folks can read, but some stumble along at 100 words a minute, some walk at 400 and a few gallop at 1,200. It all depends, Zeke said, on the discipline and purpose a feller puts in to what he does.

Practical speaking, Clem Webster allowed, Zeke is right. The problem is, he said, we take care of our bodies like we take care of our souls. We want the preacher and the teacher to comfort us, but not disturb us. This means we are ready to believe what we want to hear, and this can lead to trouble.

For instant, Clem said, we have come to the point in where we believe less and less is supposed to cost more and more, as long as it's good for us. Oil companies added lead to gasoline. We found out this was bad, so now the companies charge us more not to put the lead in, because lead is bad and lead-free is good.

We do the same with food, Clem went on. We are happy to pay bakers a bonus not to put salt in bread because we believe salt is bad for us, so natural we pay extra not to eat it. The same works with no sugar, no caffeine, no fat. They do less and we pay more. This kind of backward thinking final gits to where the highest price food we eat is all natural, Clem said. The companies claim it's the best and cost the most because they didn't put anything in it.

Clem said this line of reasoning has allus worked with men that think about winnmen in reverse. The less of a bathing suit, evening gown or pair of shoes there is, the more expensive it is. The puzzlement is, Clem said, winnmen buy the groceries.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Modern Mothers Child Study Club Holds Craft Auction

Modern Mothers Child Study Club held their annual crafts auction Monday, Nov. 9 at the Chelsea Fairgrounds Service Center.

The hand-made crafts were auctioned off to club members and their invited guests. The evening was quite a success as money was raised for a scholarship for a deserving Chelsea High school student. Refreshments were served. It was an exciting and fun filled evening.

The club's next meeting will be a Christmas dinner for members on Tuesday, Dec. 8.

Bread Baking Workshop Set By Extension Service

You're invited to celebrate National Family Bread Baking Month with the Washtenaw County Extension Service. A hands-on, bread-baking workshop will be held at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor, on Monday, Nov. 30, at 7:30 p.m.

In easy stages, you will be led through the steps to make a loaf of Golden Grain Bread. Each participant will be able to take home their own loaf to share with family, and friends or to enjoy themselves. It's a fun experience for people of all ages and a great chance for families to work together.

According to Marion Prince, extension home economist, "We view this activity as one that appeals to everyone and one that helps us to meet our goals of aiding families in extending their financial resources, improve nutrition and balance work and family responsibilities."

"In today's world, when so many parents both work outside the home and with so many single families, more and more children are helping with meal preparation. Bread is one of the most satisfying foods to make, and one that children can learn easily. It adds nutritional value to meals and is much less expensive to make at home than it is to purchase in the store."

"Because November has been proclaimed National Family Bread Baking Month, we felt it was particularly appropriate to hold this workshop at this time."

Pre-registration is required for this unique program: just call 971-0079. A $2 fee will cover cost of materials.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Keezer

Linda Wiedmayer, Larry Keezer Married at Covenant Church

Linda Wiedmayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Wiedmayer of Grass Lake, married Larry Keezer, son of Ed Keezer of Eatonville, Wash. and Sharon Mahan of Pontiac, on Sept. 19 at 5 p.m. at Covenant church in Chelsea. The Rev. Ron Smeenge officiated.

Pat Smeenge sang "This is the Day," accompanied by Ron Smeenge. Organist was LaVonne Harris.

The bride wore a gown with a crystal-sheer bodice, Queen Anne neckline with re-embroidered chantilly lace and pearls, gathered long-cap sleeves applied with pearls. The Basque waistline extended to a chapel train. For a headdress, she wore a wreath of flowers with a fingertip veil. Sandra Hollmann of Ann Arbor, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Laurie Tressler of Chelsea, Nancy Lee of Spring Arbor, Kelly Barkley of Grass Lake, and Cindy Pope of Brooklyn, all friends of the bride.

The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore royal blue patterned taffeta dresses with ruffled off-the-shoulder necklines, Basque waists, and full-length skirts. Flower girl was Amanda Myers, niece of the bridegroom. Ringbearers were "Justin" Myers and "Brandon" Keezer, nephews of the bridegroom. Best man was Joseph T. Dyer from Hudson, Ind. Ushers were Marc Keezer and Todd Keezer, brothers of the bridegroom; Jeff Johnson, friend of the bridegroom; and Kurtis Myers, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The reception was held in the UAW Hall on M-52. Ann Wiedmayer, cousin of the bride, handled the guest book. Doris Kent, aunt of the bride, and Debbie Myers, sister of the bridegroom, cut the cake.

The couple are residing in Angola, Ind., after a one week honeymoon in Washington state.

The bride graduated from Chelsea High school in 1984 and was employed at the Kellogg Eye Center. The bridegroom graduated from Eatonville High school in Washington state in 1980 and is employed by Henkels and McCoy in Fort Wayne, Ind.

Diet, Heart Disease Problems Will Be Discussed at Meeting

There are many confusing messages in the media about diet and heart disease: messages exhorting us to take Omega 3 oils, avoid red meat, give up eggs, use olive oil, etc.

Learn the facts about diet and heart disease at a public program, Take Heart in the Kitchen, presented by Marion Prince of the Co-operative Extension Service. Ms. Prince is an extension home economist and registered dietitian.

Participants will learn about the role of dietary fat as a risk factor for heart disease and understand the difference between cholesterol and saturated fat, and how they contribute to serum cholesterol. They will see foods that have "hidden fat," and substitute foods that would constitute a more healthful diet. There will be light snacks served.

The program will be held Dec. 2, from 1:30 to 3 p.m. at the Co-operative Extension Service Building at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw. There is a $3 fee to cover cost of food; pre-registration is required, by calling 971-0079.

Gerontology Topics Are Presented By Family Practice Staff

Toni Antonucci, Ph.D., assistant professor of family practice at the Chelsea Family Practice Center and associate research scientist at the University of Michigan Institute of Social Research presented two papers to the Gerontology Society of America at their meeting Nov. 18-21 in Washington, D. C.

The first paper was on "Social Support Within Families Across Generations." The second paper was presented with H. Skiyama and Ruth Campbell of the University of Michigan Turner Clinic. The second paper discussed "Crosscultural Issues on Social Support Among Older Women in the U. S. and Japan."

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kevin Lazarz

Julie Luck, Michael Lazarz Married at St. Mary's Church

Julie Ann Luck, daughter of Janet Luck of Chelsea, married Michael Kevin Lazarz, son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Lazarz of Chelsea, on Sept. 26 at 3:30 p.m. in St. Mary's Catholic church in Chelsea.

Father Philip Dupuis officiated at the candlelit ceremony. Andrew Clark, a friend of the bridegroom, played the organ while JoAnn Robinson and Eric Bruner sang "Always."

The bride wore a white satin gown with a fitted bodice trimmed with Shiffley embroidered lace, pearls, and sequins, and accented with a Basque waist. Her flowing skirt had an embroidered finish with scalloped lace and cathedral train.

The matron of honor was Patricia Moses of Pinckney, sister of the bride. The bridesmaid was Mary Lazarz of Chelsea, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants wore tea-length gowns of pearlized Shiffley embroidery over satin finish with a satin sash and jeweled buckle.

Best man was David Weber of Chelsea, best friend of the bridegroom. Groomsman was Jeffrey Weber of Grass Lake, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Honorary ushers were Daniel Luck and Jeff Doering, both of Chelsea.

The mother of the bride wore a chafon turquoise dress with a silver waistband. The mother of the bridegroom wore a tea-length ruffled grey dress with pleats.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the UAW Hall on Chelsea-Manchester Rd. The couple was taken away in a white stretch limo.

The couple took a two-week trip to Sanibel Island, Fla. They are now residing in Saline.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wyne

Kathryn A. Krumm, Barak Wyne Are Married at Kingdom Hall

Kathryn A. Krumm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Krumm of Manchester, married Barak D. Wyne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wyne of Mt. Clemens, on Nov. 7 at 2 p.m. at the Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses in Chelsea. Gary Sanderson of Grass Lake, minister of the Jehovah's Witnesses, officiated at the ceremony attended by 120 guests.

The bride wore a below-knee-length, shirt-waist silky dress with a porcelain-white Jacquard print. On her wrist, she wore a corsage of pink tea roses, miniature carnations, and baby's breath. Her hair-piece was of the same flowers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Charles Shattuck of Troy. She wore a below-knee-length, wine-colored, silky Jacquard print dress and a wrist corsage and hair-piece similar to the bride's.

The bride's mother wore a street-length, aqua-colored, shirt-waist silky Jacquard print dress. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy and pink floral print, street-length dress.

Both mothers wore corsages of pink miniature roses.

Best man was Charles Shattuck of Troy. Serving as usher was Jay B. Krumm of Manchester, brother of the bride.

The photographers were Leland Odett, Joan Powers, and Rhonda Krumm.

A reception for 40 guests, given by the parents of the bride, was held at the Old German restaurant in Ann Arbor. The cake was made by the bridegroom's mother.

The couple took a short wedding trip to Traverse City. The bride's traveling costume consisted of grey cord slacks, a beige blouse, and an aqua sweater.

The couple are now residing in Mt. Clemens.

Millie Smith Tells Woman's Club of Back-Packing Trips

Woman's Club of Chelsea heard long-time Chelsea resident, Millie Smith talk on some of her experiences during her many back-packing journeys through the Grand Canyon to the Colorado River.

Although beginning somewhat late in life at the age of 74 and riding on her first descent a mule named Pauline, who had the good sense to keep her footing on the narrow-trails, Millie Smith soon foresake this nerve-racking mode of transportation and on her five subsequent trips into the canyon, relied on her own two feet.

Her various trips included many varied and interesting companions, among which were a cat on a leash and a seeing-eye dog which was a companion to Mrs. Smith's daughter, who though nearly blind, was also able to hike down the trail to the river site.

The club heard of other adventures, including hiking on the Appalachian Trail, covering some 250 miles herself on the famous trail which extends from Maine to Georgia and is 2,109 miles in length.

Accompanying several teen-agers on a canoe trip to northern Canada and hiking the beautiful and well-marked foot trails of Isle Royale Park in the Upper Peninsula has kept Millie Smith, who is 84 years of age, young at heart and interesting to listen to. She is currently considering a back-packing trip once again to Alaska.

During the business meeting which preceded the program, president Lila Pawlowski gave a report of the enjoyable trip to Frankenmuth on Oct. 27 in which 14 members participated.

It was noted that the Woman's Club of Chelsea had made contributions of $100 to the Chelsea United Fund Drive and to the Friends of the McKune Memorial Library.

It was reported that the Woman's Club of Chelsea was represented at the new Chelsea Rotary Club's charter night by Linda and Don Cole.

The next regular meeting will be our annual Christmas party and dinner to be held at Chelsea Community Hospital on Dec. 8 with cocktail hour beginning at 6:30 p.m. Members were reminded to bring a Christmas gift for exchange. Call Betty Oesterle for reservations, 475-8914.

Hostesses for the evening were Linda Newhouse and Carol DeFant.

Free Nature Walks Offered at Matthaei Botanical Gardens

The University of Michigan Matthaei Botanical Gardens is offering free year-round nature walks on the first Sunday of each month. The Dec. 6 walk at 2 p.m. will be titled "Winter Buds and Berries." Trained guides will meet with visitors on the front steps of the Gardens' Conservatory.

This is a good opportunity for families and nature enthusiasts to learn more about the plant, insect and animal world, while enjoying the beautiful setting of the Botanical Gardens.

These walks will last approximately one and a half hours: boots are recommended.

Matthaei Botanical Gardens is located at 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., one mile south of the Plymouth-Dixboro Rd., intersection.

For more information, please contact Margaret Vergith, promotion coordinator, at 763-7060.

Free Health Screenings Offered

Free health screening tests will be offered from 1 to 3 p.m. Thursday, Nov. 19, in the first floor lobby of Reichert Health Building at Catherine McAuley Health Center, Ann Arbor. Screenings will be available for blood pressure, and hearing. Hearing aid checks also will be offered free. For more information, call 572-3875.

THE LOW-DOWN ON HIGH FIBER DIETS

Many people have been taught from childhood that a daily bowel habit is important. No explanation was given other than, "It's good for you." It had to be right because Mother, the customary preceptor of health habits, had learned it from her mother.

Now this dogma of generations has been validated. When youngsters ask why, mother can reply, "Because we want to prevent bowel cancer."

According to the American Cancer Society, bowel/rectum cancer was the second leading cause of cancer deaths among American men and women in 1986. It accounted for about 140,000 new cases and almost 60,000 deaths. Look at numbers of this sort over a 10-year span and the toll rises to figures like 1.4 million new cases and 600,000 fatalities.

Lung cancer, as we all know, is No. 1. It cannot be proved that smoking is responsible for lung cancer, but the link between cause and effect is overwhelming. In the same way, it cannot be proved that bowel/rectum cancer is caused by irregularity but the link is now too convincing to ignore.

Carcinogenic substances—the villains that lead to death by turning healthy cells into cancerous cells—find a natural environment in the intestines. The bowel abounds in micro-organisms—bacteria, yeasts, molds—which can conspire with foods before or after eating to produce carcinogenic chemicals. The presence of edible fiber in the diet is believed to protect against cancer in two ways: Fiber helps to sweep out fecal matter containing carcinogens. Fiber can also trap carcinogens by chemical binding before eliminating them from the system.

Individuals who tolerate irregularity in their bowel habits face the risk that carcinogens may have an opportunity to remain in the system long enough to become cancer sites. This is not a problem confined to certain age periods in life though it becomes increasingly bothersome with the years. Bowel cancer is probably rare among youngsters but good lifetime habits are best begun in childhood. Fortunately, for most people in normal health, maintaining regularity is simplicity itself. Just take in adequate quantities of (1) Water and (2) Fiber.

Water, which we recognize as the fluid of life, makes up half the weight of our bodies. It accounts for 70 percent of the content in foods we eat. Everyone experiences constant, natural losses of water through exhalation, perspiration and elimination, and it must be replaced as we go along. Adults need an absolute minimum of one quart a day, and more is recommended. Think of six to eight glasses a day to be on the safe side. It can be plain drinking water or be part of the day's beverages. This is in addition to water contained in the foods we eat.

The No. 2 requirement for regularity is edible fiber much of which passes through the body as undigested roughage. There are five kinds of fiber. This includes cellulose which is contained in wheat and corn brans, the outer skins of the grain kernels. Fiber, together with valuable minerals, is present in all vegetables and fruits. Especially appreciated are those that can be eaten with their skins on.

Nutritionists firmly advocate eating whole wheat in preference to white bread, and favor eating cereals with "bran" in their names.

Water and fiber use their one-two punch in this way: Undigested fiber is thirsty for water and swells to many times its size, turning into bulky roughage. A bulky stool is more rapidly eliminated. The health letter of the Harvard Medical School reinforces this view by saying, "Because fiber seems to shorten the time that fecal matter spends in the bowel, it may help to minimize contact between the bowel and the carcinogen."

Laxatives are no substitute for regularity. People who make constant use of them can reach a state of dependency where bowels will not move without the aid of laxatives.

The family guide of the American Medical Association tells us, "There is no 'normal' pattern for bowel movements. Most people have about one a day, but some have as many as three. At the other extreme there are people who regularly have only three bowel movements a week. Consider yourself constipated only if your normal pattern changes and you begin to have irregular, unusually infrequent, and/or difficult movements."

If a member of the family is experiencing irregularity, that person should ask:

1. Am I drinking six to eight glasses of fluid a day?
2. Am I having one, and preferably two, generous servings of fruit or vegetables with each meal, plus some kind of bran for breakfast?

How does a person know how much edible fiber to eat? The fiber content of foods is measured in grams which are reckoned at 28 to the ounce. A medium size apple eaten with the skin on contains 3.3 grams. One half cup of cooked beets has 2 grams of fiber. A bowl of raisin bran cereal (three-quarters of a cup) contains 5 grams.

Most health authorities shy away from recommending specific amounts of fiber in the daily diets of people because it has never been scientifically determined. Humans come in different sizes and age groups. They have individual diets and widely varying life styles.

The one health agency to go out on a limb with fiber numbers is the National Cancer Institute. The NCI recommends a diet containing from 25 to 35 grams of edible fiber per day. Most American adults are thought to eat about 10 to 20 grams per day. By NCI standards people should increase their intake of fiber by about 50 percent, which means aiming for 30 grams per person per day.

A simpler, more practical criterion for each individual is personal regularity.

The number of grams of fiber consumed daily may be an occasional reference point but there is no need for constant, compulsive fiber counting. A person who is regular needs no dietary change at all. An individual with symptoms of irregularity, should go through a gradual increase in the drinking of fluids and the eating of high fiber foods. As the days go by, there should be an improvement. If it is not sufficient, the person should try a further increase in the fiber. Perhaps changing the breakfast cereal from some bran to all bran, containing 10 to 13 grams of fiber. Added to an otherwise balanced regimen containing plenty of fruits and vegetables, this should do the job. It doesn't, bring a listing of all that you eat and drink for a week (including quantities) to your doctor and see what he says.

Some people don't like and won't eat 100% bran as a cereal. For such individuals a second choice, other than bran-and-fruit cereals, may be bran muffins. One recipe is offered on the box for Kellogg's All Bran with extra fiber. These muffins are good tasting, almost as sweet as cake, with 5 grams of dietary fiber per muffin. This same muffin with the same amount of fiber can be produced for 110 calories, versus 160 in the standard recipe, by using skim milk, half the sugar and two tablespoons of oil.

OR use no sugar in this same recipe, add more skim milk, and you produce a batter for a neutral-tasting quick bread that can be baked in a flat, rectangular pan. When cut into 3 1/2-inch squares they can be served at all meals in place of bread. Sliced, they can be toasted or made into open-face sandwiches.

For some people with normally balanced diets, these bran squares, averaging 7.2 grams of fiber, have proved to be the only food variation needed to keep regular. Other friends of ours report that two ounces of pitted prunes, containing 9 grams of fiber, and eaten as a snack, have made a noticeable difference.

Kellogg's have a 32-page booklet, "Good News! A Step-By-Step Guide to A High Fiber Diet" which contains a great deal of practical information on the subject, plus a number of bran recipes. Included are the amounts of fiber, as well as calories and grams of fat, in servings of quite a few foods. For a free copy write to the Consumer Affairs Department, Kellogg Company, P.O. Box 3599, Battle Creek 49016.

Many makers of food products are beginning to advertise or label the edible fiber content. Campbell's baked beans now proclaim that an 8-ounce serving of their product contains more dietary fiber than a typical 1 1/2-ounce serving of the leading raisin bran cereal.

And so it goes as the bran and bean barons gird for the battle of the bowels.

FR. JOSEPH RINALDO

Fr. Rinaldo Elected To National Post

Fr. Joseph Rinaldo, administrator of St. Louis Center, has been elected provincial of the United States Province for the Order of the Servants of Charity. The order of priests and brothers was founded in Italy in 1886 and is dedicated mostly to the care of mentally retarded citizens and the elderly.

The order is present in all continents and is divided into provinces.

The U. S. province with 80 priests and brothers has its headquarters in Philadelphia. Servants of Charity has staffed St. Louis School since 1960.

Fr. Rinaldo was assigned to St. Louis School in 1980 and could make Chelsea the new U.S. headquarters for the Servants of Charity, unless he transfers himself elsewhere.

"I don't want to leave Chelsea," he said.

The new position, he said, will involve a lot of additional work and will require extensive travel to other facilities for the mentally retarded.

Health Dept. Schedules Seminar on Smoking

Smoking is a "hot topic" in many workplaces. The recent Michigan Clean Indoor Air Act, restricting smoking in public places and government buildings, has made the need for workable smoking policies even more important.

The Washtenaw County Health Department answered this need by developing a seminar, "Breathe Easy: Create A Smoking Policy for Your Workplace," and presented it to 36 local businesses from the public and private sector. Three seminars were held in 1986, and the next is scheduled for Dec. 8, from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. at the Ann Arbor Inn.

"We just received the results of the independent survey, determining the impact of the seminar upon the participants' worksites. It looks like we are doing something right!" states Elizabeth Barkan, M.D., breathe easy consultant for the Health Department. "86.7% reported full implemented smoking policy; 94% would highly recommend the 'Breathe Easy' seminar to other employers; 33% named the seminar as the prime motivator for discussion and enactment of a smoking policy at their workplace; and 42.3% of the participants went further in establishing a smoking policy than the law requires, and significantly restricted or banned smoking on their premises."

"The results of this survey show that the new national trend in the public's perception of smoking at the worksite is right for the Michigan business community as well."

"You can preach a better sermon with your life than with your lips..."

—Oliver Goldsmith

The manner in which we conduct our lives is a far more graphic accounting of our qualities and ideals than any amount of lip service to the same beliefs could possible be. No matter how moral and straightforward our spoken intentions, our personal integrity is more accurately measured by the manner in which we act them out.

All the conversation in the world will not cover any shortcomings which we expose in our actions. Whatever we offer in the way of spoken beliefs, we must bear in mind that these beliefs are subject to verification by our actions.

Our experience and professional competence enables us to serve a bereaved family with an understanding and sympathy which is comforting.

Project Find Seeks Children Needing Early Special Education Help

Children with hearing, vision, health or other physical problems often need special help. Youngsters with mental, emotional, speech or learning impairments may also benefit from special services. In most cases, the sooner a child begins receiving the help he or she needs, the greater the chances of decreasing the impact of the disability.

Project Find is actively looking for children who qualify for special education services but are not currently receiving them. These services are available at no cost through the public schools. Children who are eligible may receive services from birth through age 26, or until they graduate from high school.

Different services are offered for different children, depending on their needs. Home visits are provided in some instances for families with very young children. In other cases, youngsters are enrolled in center-based special education early intervention programs. Teachers and therapists work closely with parents to set goals for the children and to select appropriate services. School-aged children usually receive assistance during their regular school day, from teachers and therapists trained to meet their particular needs.

Barbara Banet has recently been appointed the Project Find Coordinator for the Washtenaw Intermediate School District. She works closely with Project Find Designees from each of the local school districts

WYN SCHUMANN

Named Director of Pharmacy at Howell Health Center

McPherson Community Health Center, Howell, has named Wyn Schumann of Chelsea to the position of Director of Pharmacy.

Schumann, formerly a supervisor in the Pharmacy department at Catherine McAuley Health Center, Ann Arbor, received her bachelor of science in Pharmacy from Ferris State College and has done graduate work at Wayne State University.

She is affiliated with the Michigan Society of Hospital Pharmacists and the American Society of Hospital Pharmacists, and serves as chairperson of the Pharmacy Certified Technician Board of Examiners. She was named to the Michigan Pharmacist Association Hall of Fame in 1986 and was a recipient in 1984 of the Michigan Society of Pharmacy Technicians' excellence award.

Schumann replaces Ned Wiggan, who has retired from the Health Center.

Alcohol, Drug Treatment To Be Topic at Hospital

During December Brighton Hospital's free Community Education Program will focus on how alcohol and drug abuse can be treated and on the role of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon in successful recovery.

On Tuesday, Dec. 1, Hardee Bethea, M.D., Brighton Hospital's chief medical lecturer, will discuss inpatient, outpatient, and self-help treatment programs for substance abuse. On Tuesday, Dec. 15, Dr. Bethea will focus specifically on the importance of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon.

"The holidays are especially difficult times for the family and friends if a loved one is abusing alcohol or other drugs," notes Ellen Ayers, director of counseling services.

"These two programs will provide them with some helpful information for their loved one and for themselves."

The educational series is a free service of Brighton Hospital, which specializes in treating and preventing alcohol and drug abuse. The programs begin at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. Reservations are not needed.

Brighton Hospital is located on E. Grand River, just off exit 151 of the I-96 freeway. For additional information, contact the Community Relations Department at (313) 227-1211, ext. 276 on weekdays between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

St. Mary's Dedicates New Shrine

The Chelsea Standard, Wednesday, November 18, 1987 7

A FIELDSTONE AND COPPER shrine to Mary, mother of Jesus, was constructed on the grounds of St. Mary's church this summer by the Edward Hurst family with help from others, such as Fred Mills who crafted the stained glass behind the statue. The materials were chosen to echo the architecture of the church. The shrine is completed, but the Hursts still plan a number of improvements including landscaping, connecting sidewalks, a small garden, a kneeler, and patio stone.

THE SHRINE TO MARY, mother of Jesus, was blessed and dedicated in honor of Mrs. Dupuis, the Rev. Dupuis' mother. Shown, left to right, are builders of the shrine Ed and Mickey Hurst, Mrs. Dupuis, the Rev. Enzo Addari, the Rev. Philip Dupuis, and altar servers Wendy and Angie Bell and Teresa Hurst.

SUNDAY, NOV. 1, the shrine to Mary, mother of Jesus, which has been constructed at St. Mary's church, was blessed. Father Dupuis led the procession out to the shrine for the dedication.

FATHER DUPUIS blessed the shrine to Mary, mother of Jesus, on Nov. 1, with much of St. Mary's congregation in attendance. The shrine is located on St. Mary grounds between the church and the rectory.

The Edward Hurst family realized a personal goal on Sunday, Nov. 1 when the Rev. Philip Dupuis blessed a new shrine on the grounds of St. Mary's church. The fieldstone and copper shrine to Mary, the mother of Jesus, was constructed by the Hurst family throughout the summer in a personal donation of time, labor, and resources to see their project completed.

Hurst had been toying with the idea of building a shrine for several years "because, after all, the church is named after Mary." His dream was nudged into reality when he participated in an international rosary led on television by Pope John Paul, II, last spring. "A group of us gathered in the church basement to say the rosary with the Pope. It was quite an emotional event and it prompted me to begin the shrine."

With parish encouragement, Hurst and his family worked through the summer, driving concrete footings 42 inches into clay and hauling fieldstone from an old barn near their Grass Lake home.

"What's that you're building," asked one curious parishioner, "a barbecue?"

Slowly, the project became a community affair as it progressed. A group of church youth spent one Saturday digging a trench for the wiring that illuminates the shrine at night. Fred Mills, Chelsea schools assistant superintendent, donated his exceptional ability with stained glass to make the piece behind the statue. The copper metalwork for the roof was made and donated by Dick and Mary Ann Hurst, relatives from Grand Rapids.

The design and materials for the shrine—fieldstone, copper, stained glass, even the skylight above the statue—echo the architecture of the church. "I wanted some continuity with the existing church structure rather than just a massive thing," says Hurst, who envisions more continuity with landscaping, connecting sidewalks, even a small garden.

As the dream unfolds, Hurst hopes to create a place of peace and beauty inviting quiet meditation any time of day or night. He plans to install a kneeler yet this winter and patio stone next spring.

Although the shrine has been a family project, a tie that "my children can return to as young men and women," it has also drawn parish support. Donations from Sally and Don Proctor and Stan and Denise Schiller went toward planters in memory of Richard Cesarz and Sharon Guinan.

7th Grade Assessment Test Reports Due Friday

Beach Middle school seventh grade students will receive the results of their efforts on the Michigan Assessment Tests they completed in October. Scores will be returned to students via an individual student/parent report form during English or Social Studies class Friday, Nov. 20. After receiving an explanation of scores, students will be directed to take the report form home and discuss the results with parents. Parents should direct any questions concerning test results to Pete Warburton, Beach Middle school counselor at 475-3717.

CAPITOL VISIT: Minta van Reesema and Rob Rawson, Chelsea High school students, recently spent the day visiting the State Capitol as guests of State Representative Margaret O'Connor (Ann Arbor).

ELIZABETH MAURER, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Maurer of Chelsea, has been chosen to play the piccolo in the British Eighth, the marching band at Albion College. She is seen here being welcomed to the band by band director Richard Blatti. The British Eighth is a marching unit made up of the college's finest instrumentalists. The size, instrumentation and uniform are modeled after the military bands of early 20th century England. The uniforms worn by the unit are detailed reproductions of the famous Buckingham Palace Honour Guard. The distinctive British flavor of the unit is well suited to Albion College, as Albion is the only college in the country to adopt the name "Britons" for its athletic teams. The word "Albion," itself, is the Old English name for the British Isles. Maurer is a 1987 graduate of Chelsea High school. She is currently a freshman studying Spanish at Albion.

Chelsea Student Cast in NMU Play

A Chelsea student at Northern Michigan University has been cast in the second production of the Forest Roberts Theatre 1987-88 season, "The Queen's Knight," a heroic romance playing Nov. 11-14.

Thomas A. Mull, a senior, will star in the role of Claude Francois Chauveau-Lagarde, the idealistic young barrister. He is the son of Betty K. Mull, of 215 Park, Chelsea.

"The Queen's Knight," written by Frank Cossa, professor of history at the College of Charleston, in South Carolina, is the winner of the 10th annual Forest A. Roberts-Shiras Institute Playwriting Award Competition. It will also be the NMU entry in the nation-wide American College Theatre Festival.

The drama, set amidst the turmoil and bloodshed of 18th century France, tells the true story of Chauveau-Lagarde, who is coerced into defending the doomed French Queen, Marie-Antoinette.

Private Land Recreational Pass Offered

Farmers considering allowing hunting or other recreational activities on their land this fall and winter can obtain private land recreational passes from the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The purpose of these passes is to promote a good neighbor policy between the farmer and the person who wants to recreate on the farmer's land," said Becky Jeppesen, local affairs specialist for the Michigan Farm Bureau. "The pass allows the farmer to spell out where the person may and may not go as well as other rules that the visitor is expected to follow. If both sides have a good understanding of the rules, both will benefit in the long run."

The passes, which are signed by the visitor and the landowner, state that in return for the privilege of hunting, fishing, operating snowmobiles or ORVs on the land, the visitor agrees to respect the land, observe rules of safe gun handling, not to shoot in the direction of buildings or livestock, and to leave gates as he finds them. Visitors also agree to use care in crossing fences, to conduct themselves in a responsible manner, and not to litter.

Farmers may request the passes, which were developed by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, from the Michigan Farm Bureau's Local Affairs Department, P.O. Box 30960, Lansing 48906. There is no charge.

Large Chelsea Industries Complex Considered 'Incubator' for Business

By Brian Hamilton
The Chelsea Industries building has always been one of the village's most important industrial landmarks.

Originally the home of Glazier Stove Works, the building has housed Central Fibre Products Company, Lewis Spring and Axle, among other businesses.

Chelsea Industries president Jack Dunn, and his wife, Nancy, see a little different future role for the 10-acre complex of buildings that now includes the old North American Rockwell building.

Although Chelsea Industries, with some 85 employees, continues to grow and expand its tentacles into other parts of the complex, the Duns see to open a considerable amount of office space to other businesses.

In addition, they see the complex as the ideal incubator for factory or industrial businesses that might one day be able to afford to construct their own buildings in the Chelsea Industrial Park.

"We have been accused of creating competition for the industrial park, but we don't look at it that way," Jack Dunn says.

"It takes a lot of money to be able to build at the industrial park and many businesses can't afford to do that at the beginning. They need some place to get through their three or four year start-up period. We've provided a low cost, viable alternative in Chelsea for businesses that otherwise might have to go to Jackson."

Dunn points to BookCrafters, Inc., which rented space for years and eventually moved to the industrial park.

The entire complex is geared toward manufacturing and factory businesses. It has all the electrical facilities and vast amounts of available space. About 100,000 square feet is unoccupied. The Duns see the complex as ideal for a business that may need both office space and a manufacturing site.

However, much of the complex, which has been not been used for years, is in need of repair. And that is the focus for Nancy, who is overseeing the renovation.

She's concentrating on having the complex cleaned up, painted, and some places heated. Windows, that were broken by vandals, have to be replaced. The buildings had been a favorite place for adventurous teenagers, who had installed themselves a rope to enter the building illegally at night.

In addition, one previous tenant left behind 10 truckloads of empty plastic bottles, which is taking up an enormous amount of space. They want to get rid of the bottles but they aren't quite sure how.

The complex, which includes the clock tower building, is already being used in one capacity or another by a wide variety of local businesses.

Businesses such as Merkel's carpet warehouse and The Print Shop, which were destroyed by fire, have found homes there.

Abrasive Finishing, which also lost a major facility to fire last summer, has temporarily moved part of its manufacturing there.

Other tenants include Rotary Tool of Detroit, Northern Lights, an industrial and commercial painting business, DaJo Sign Co., BookCrafters (graphic arts training center), and Chelsea Community Hospital, Gambles, and Federal Screw Works, who are all renting storage space. Chelsea Insurance has rented temporary office space.

The rental of office space presents a different problem. Most of it is in good shape. However, the whole complex is zoned for industry, not pure commercial office space, which means the zoning has to be changed for parts of it.

The village is studying the problem. Last night village council was scheduled to consider a temporary commercial zoning permit for the buildings, which would allow the Duns to begin renting out the space.

"We haven't had a case like this since I've been zoning inspector," Rosemary Harook said last week.

Harook said it was unusual to have parts of a single building zoned for different uses. Village planning consultant Carl Schmult has been asked for his opinion.

Smokeout Scheduled Thursday

Thursday, Nov. 19 is the day on which all smokers will have the chance to approach their friends and colleagues who have been nagging them to quit and tell them to "Put their money where their mouth is!"

The American Cancer Society's 11th annual Great American Smokeout is offering a new incentive to smokers this year called "Back-A-Quitter."

Honorary chairman for the Smokeout in Washtenaw county, Ann Arbor Mayor Gerald Jernigan, is backing smoker Carey Ferchland, a vice-president of Group 243, and he is asking others to join in showing support for smokers who try to quit for the day.

Quitters get friends and associates to make a financial pledge to the American Cancer Society on their behalf. The pledges demonstrate real support and concern for quitters and further the American Cancer Society's programs of research, education and service.

The payoff for the quitter is that if they can make it through the day, they might make it for good! But, as further motivation, the quitter who turns in the greatest amount of pledge dollars to the Washtenaw county unit of the American Cancer Society by Dec. 4 will receive a complimentary week-end package at Weber's Inn. The second prize will be a $100 gift certificate compliments of The Earle.

For registration and pledge forms or more information about the Great American Smokeout, please call the American Cancer Society office at 971-4300.

NANCY DUNN is in charge of fixing up and renting out factory and office space at the Chelsea Industries complex of buildings, which includes the former North American Rockwell building, in which she is standing in the photo. The Rockwell building is now called the Chelsea Industries Annex.

A FORMER TENANT in the Chelsea Industries annex building left behind about 10 truckloads of empty plastic bottles, which range in size from a few ounces to a couple of gallons. Once the bottles are gone, more rental space will be available.

MERKEL'S CARPET WAREHOUSE moved into the Chelsea Industries complex after their own facility burned down nearly two years ago. The Print Shop, and Abrasive Finishing, who also lost their facilities to fire, found homes at the complex.

A COUPLE OF LIVELY WALL MURALS were created by employees of North American Rockwell when the business was located in what is now the Chelsea Industries annex at East and North Sts. They may not be around for long as the Rockwell building is being fixed up so that it can be rented out.

Bulldogs Battered As SEC Cage Season Ends

Chelsea Bulldog varsity cagers limped out of the Southeastern Conference season last week with losses to the Pinckney Pirates on Tuesday, Nov. 10, 46-26, and the Saline Hornets on Friday, Nov. 13, 49-38.

The Dogs finished the regular league season with a 6-6 mark. They face Saline this Friday in Tecumseh in the first round of the district tournament.

"Pinckney came out and played well at the beginning and we played equally poorly," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter.

"We made way too many mistakes."

The Pirates, who won the SEC championship, outscored the Bulldogs 31-7 in the first half as Chelsea had 10 first-quarter turnovers and took only nine shots the entire first half. The Pirates took 33 shots in the first half.

In addition, Chelsea had 14 turnovers in the first period and had 25 for the game.

"We struggled until the middle of the second quarter, then we lapsed in the third quarter again," Rosentreter said.

"That's the way it's been going lately. I don't know if it's because we're a young team or if everyone else is that much better than we are. But it's something we're going to try to correct by next season. It seems as though it's starting to haunt us."

Kim Easton, Allison Brown and Jenni Smith led the Bulldogs with six points each. Easton's points came on two three-point field goals.

Rounding out the scoring were Leah Enderle with four points, Laura Unterbrink with two, and Kelley Scott and Heather Neibauer with one each.

The Bulldogs made just eight field goals on the night and were 8-17 from the free throw line.

The Saline game was close until the third quarter when the Hornets outscored the Dogs 12-4. Chelsea was down 24-21 at half-time. The teams each scored 13 points in the fourth quarter.

"We started to come back at the beginning of the fourth quarter and we had cut their lead to six points," Rosentreter said.

"On our next possession we had an easy lay-up but missed it, and Saline took the rebound and scored. I think that was the turning point of the game."

Enderle paced the Bulldogs with 14 points, including one three-point field goal. Peggy Hammerschmidt scored eight points, Brown, six, Scott, four, and Neibauer and Smith, three each.

Chelsea was outrebounded, 40-32, and were 9-19 from the free throw line.

"If you look at our last three or four games, we're not making our free throws and we're not rebounding as well as we were early in the year,"

Rosentreter said.

"I guess I'm a little disappointed with the season, but actually we've accomplished quite a bit during the year."

Chelsea had an 11-8 over-all record going into the final game of the regular season last night at Manchester.

Young Chelsea Harriers Compete at Tough State Meet

Chelsea youths participated with the Motor City Track Club at a state cross country meet last week-end.

Nine Chelsea boys joined two from the Motor City club to take first place in the 9-10 age group.

Chelsea runners in the 3,000 meter race included John Michael, 6th, 12:07; Matt Tuttle, 8th, 12:39; Nick Kramer, 9th, 12:44; Evan Knott, 12th, 13:13; Jim Irwin, 15th, 13:38; Dan Johnson, 16th, 13:54; Tom Irwin, 17th, 13:54; Ryan Guenther, 18th, 14:04; Zachary Ersten, 22nd, 15:07; and Mark Hand, 23rd, 15:07.

Melissa Hand and Heidi Wehrwein competed in the 9-10 age group in the girls race. The team took second over-all. Hand finished fourth in 12:53, and Wehrwein was 14th in 15:50.

Two Chelsea boys also competed in the 11-12 age group and the team took second place. Kevin Coy was 15th in 12:08 and Matt Powell was 17th in 13:00.

CHS Cheerleaders Organizing Bus To District Game

Chelsea Bulldog varsity cheerleaders are organizing a fan bus to this Friday's district tournament basketball game in Tecumseh against the Saline Hornets.

The cheerleaders will be taking reservations on Wednesday and Thursday during zero hour and both lunch periods in the cafeteria.

A fare of $1.50 must be paid at sign up.

The bus will leave the circle drive at the high school at 4:45 p.m. for the 6 p.m. game.

Junior Varsity Cagers Complete League Season With Two Victories

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity basketball team finished their Southeastern Conference season last week with a 9-3 record by defeating Pinckney at home, 38-27, and Saline on the road, 57-20.

The girls had a 13-6 over-all record going into last night's season finale at Manchester.

In the Pinckney game on Tuesday, Nov. 10, the Bulldogs jumped out to a 12-2 first quarter lead and were never seriously threatened.

"We were able to get the ball inside and we hit our jump shots," said Chelsea coach Paul Terpstra.

"After the first quarter the game was pretty even. If we had made our free throws, the game might not have been as close."

Chelsea made just 4-14 free throws and missed several one-and-one opportunities.

From the field the Bulldogs shot 29 percent, just over the team goal of 28 percent. Carrie Flintoft was 4-6 and finished with nine points.

Scharphorn was the highest-scoring Bulldog with 12 points. Other Chelsea scorers included Colleen Scharphorn with six, Kristin Bohlender, five, Mercedes Hammer, four, and Tiffany Moore, two.

Scharphorn's 10 rebounds led the team. Bohlender grabbed nine rebounds as Chelsea held a 42-33 over-all rebounding advantage.

Chelsea scored quickly and often at the outset of Friday's game at Saline and cruised easily to the win.

The Bulldogs led 28-8 at half-time and 46-12 after three quarters in a game in which every Bulldog played at least 10 minutes.

"Over-all we did an excellent job," Terpstra said.

"Some of the girls who weren't used to playing made some mistakes, but I was pleased with our effort."

The Bulldogs had one of their best shooting nights of the season, hitting 36 percent (20-56) from the floor and 52 percent (17-33) from the line. Scharphorn paced the Bulldogs with 19 points. Sarah Musolf, who played her best game of the year, according to Terpstra, was second with nine points. She also had seven steals.

Other Chelsea scorers included Hammer, eight, Scharme Petty, five,

Where Have All The Deer Gone

Where are all the deer this year? After the first two days of firearms season, no hunter has reported in to The Standard with a trophy buck. By this time we've normally seen half a dozen or more.

Are hunting conditions poor? Has marksmanship reached an all-time low? Has everyone gone to the northern peninsula this year? Is everyone waiting until this week-end to go hunting? Since our hunting experience is limited to looking for a good news story, we can only guess about what might be happening in the woods.

Shooting Clinic Held for Beach School Girls

A basketball shooting clinic was held over the last two weeks for girls in grades 5-8.

The clinic, held by Chelsea High school coach Rahn Rosentreter and Beach Middle school coach Jon Schaffner, was held primarily to teach the girls good form.

"We had 32 girls show up and we were happy with that," Schaffner said.

At the end of the clinic, a shooting competition was held. Girls in grades 5-6 competed with each other, as did girls in grades 7-8. Each girl took 25 shots from various spots on the court.

In grades 5-6, Kate Steele, Jessica Flintoft and Amy Petty finished first through third, respectively.

In grades 7-8, Christine Burg placed first and Jennifer Petty, Erin Knott and Brooke Pitts all tied for second place.

The clinic was the first of its kind in the Chelsea school district.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Have you noticed the crackle of gunfire since firearms season for deer hunters began last Sunday?

I hear it occasionally when I'm raking leaves in my back yard, and we live smack in the middle of the village. Sometimes, when it's real still outside, I'll swear I can hear hunters in the nature preserve by Beach Middle school.

Actually, that wouldn't surprise me. I've seen deer run across A.D. Mayer Dr. between Madison St. and the school. Many times during the winter I've seen deer tracks in the snow on the softball diamond by the cemetery and followed them into Oak Grove. (Could they really be looking for deceased relatives?)

In fact, I've seen the tracks run all the way up to the school as though the deer were peaking through the windows.

I've come to accept the fact that where there are five or more trees clumped together, there's probably a deer somewhere nearby.

And where there's a deer, there are probably five or 10 hunters nearby. Local conservation officer Craig Wales made the remark recently that there's some quality about deer hunting that gets in a guy's blood. People don't go nuts for squirrel hunting, they don't get all hopped up about rabbit hunting the way they are feverish for deer hunting. Does it have to do with the size of the animal (what, for instance, would happen if there were elephants in the area), or the fact that there are so many deer? Or do people really enjoy eating venison that much? Or is it the trophy rack they're after?

Wales also mentioned something that came as quite a shock. Did you know that some guys actually get a little loaded (not their guns) before they go hunting? Some guys (and I stress SOME, not all, not the majority, not even a lot) apparently even drink while they are hunting—they knock down a few brews while they're waiting for a buck to wander by. (The smart deer listens for the belches and runs the other direction.)

It must be similar to the bowling alley syndrome—the more you drink, the better you bowl, or at least the better you think you bowl. Or maybe it's the more you drink, the less you care about how rotten you're bowling.

The difference here, of course, is that no matter how drunk a bowler gets, he usually won't throw the ball the wrong direction and hit something other than the pins.

Drinking and hunting strikes me as one of those things you want to be sure to do if you're looking for a law suit or a jail term. Blurred vision, impaired judgment, and slowed reflexes are exactly what every hunter doesn't need when handling a lethal weapon. The deer may thank them for it, but their hunting partners may not.

Wales mentioned that virtually all hunting accidents involve a hunter shooting his hunting buddy. I'm sure there are a lot of ways this could happen. But why increase the odds by adding a little booze to the bloodstream?

Two of the three hunting accidents I've heard about since working at The Standard have involved cases of mistaken identity—that is a hunter mistakes a human for an animal. Think of how much more potential there is for that kind of accident when a hunter drinks.

Hunters who drink can also cause problems for innocent people.

For instance, judging by the number of "No Hunting" signs we sell here at The Standard, and some of my conversations with the people who buy them, hunting without permission on private land is a big problem in this area.

How would you like to approach some unknown hunter, who has obviously ignored your signs, and who may have been drinking (maybe that's why he ignored the signs), and who, you can be sure with 100 percent certainty is carrying something more powerful than a slingshot, and ask him to get off your property?

Or how would you like to be Craig Wales and do that kind of thing for a living? At this time of year, if I feel the need to drink while communing with nature, I'll stick to raking leaves.

The only leaf-raking accident I've ever had was due to slipping in the dog manure.

I knew a guy once who was a pretty good high school athlete. He was a running back and punter on his football team and for a while held the single-game rushing record. He was a high hurdler and sprinter in the spring. However, swimming was his best sport as he went on to compete at Oberlin College and Yale University. He was a pretty smart guy, too.

Oddly enough, the guy managed to accomplish all this and maintain more than a pack-a-day cigarette habit.

The problem was, his cigarette habit blossomed to more than three packs a day. The guy, my dad, died 10 years ago this month at the age of 54, a victim of lung cancer.

Cigarettes can be misleading to young people. Many teen-agers and young adults can puff away and lead normal, invigorating lives. What they may know, but don't really comprehend, is that the effects of smoking are cumulative. They may not feel the tightening of the lungs and shortness of breath now, or even five years from now, but they can be assured that they will eventually. They may not die from cigarette smoking, but I sure wouldn't want to bet on it.

Thursday's Great American Smokeout is meant for young people, too, not just their parents who may have been smoking for years. Think of quitting as investing in the future.

I sure wish my dad had. He might have been able to teach his grandson to swim.

Sterling Vorus on UNCW Rugby Team

North Lake residents, Julie and Bill Vorus, attended the Cape Fear Sandspur Tens Rugby Tournament held in Wilmington, N.C., during the Halloween week-end.

There son, Sterling, is a first string wing forward on the University of North Carolina at Wilmington rugby team. He also is the recent past-president of the University's Rugby Club.

Despite the fact that the UNCW team did not win the tournament, they did, during the course of the event, experience the satisfaction of defeating the tournament champion, Cape Fear.

A first time Rugby spectator, Bill Vorus remarked about the intensity of the contact "pad noises," and was therefore surprised when he soon realized that rugby players wear absolutely no protective equipment!

Julie Vorus was apprehensive about attending the event after learning that one of the UNCW team slogans was, "Give Blood—Play Rugby." She found the most impressive thing about the game was the tremendous amount of endurance needed by the players, as there are no time outs allowed except for injuries, only one substitution (irrespective of the number of injuries), and a pace that is almost continuous.

Sterling is a senior majoring in Marine Biology. Besides his interest and activities in the marine field, Sterling has been involved in several aspects of the field of biology. As a researcher in the Masonboro Island Sea Turtle Assessment Program at Masonboro Island, N.C., he gathered and analyzed data on the nesting habits of loggerhead turtles. He was twice published in the "Journal of Applied Physiology" on his work when he assisted and directed high pressure neurological research on primates and rodents at the Institute of Marine Biomedical Research, Wrightsville Beach, N.C.

This past summer he worked in the Shining Rock Wilderness Area, Mt. Pisgah National Forest, conducting small mammal research from UNCW. One of the specimens that he gathered for the University's museum collection was the very rare "rock shrew," Sorex dispar. This find was only the eighth account of that species of shrew ever taken in North Carolina.

As an extension of his interest in the marine field, Sterling has been licensed by the Coast Guard as a Commercial Captain. Under his business, "Captain Sterling's Caribbean Adventures—Andros, Bimini and Beyond," he captains sailing excursions in the Bahamas. Even though he is a certified scuba diver, he prefers the freedom of free diving when leading his clients on reef dives during the cruises.

After graduation, Sterling plans to combine his marine education with his sailing experience to expand his charter business in the Caribbean.

Fall Weed Walk Offered at Waterloo

A "Wonderful Weed Walk" is this week-end's offering by the Waterloo Natural History Association. On Sunday, Nov. 22 at 1:30 p.m., starting at the Nature Center parking lot, Carol Strahler will show that even though summer is over, there is still much beauty to be seen including seed pods and inflorescences that are pretty enough to use in dried arrangements and wreaths.

Alma's football/soccer playing field is the only one in the MIAA with artificial turf. The playing surface of sand-filled synthetic grass was used for the first time last year after a complete revamping of the college's Bahke Field facilities.

STERLING VORUS, son of Bill and Julie Vorus of North Lake, is first string wing forward on the University of North Carolina at Wilmington rugby team.

Notice to Church Secretaries

All church schedules must be in our office at 300 N. Main St., Chelsea, in writing, no later than Thursday at 1 p.m. in order to appear in the next week's edition.

JUNIOR FUNDRAISERS for North Elementary school's Parents Teachers North group recently won bicycles for leading their respective classes in sales of flower bulbs and novelty gifts this fall. From left are Col-ette Montpetit, kindergarten, Jamie Nicks, second grade, Jeremy Underhill, fourth grade, Curtis Street, third grade, Brandi Fitzsimmons, first grade, and Craig Leonard, fifth grade. PTN raised more than $12,000.

Community Thanksgiving Service Planned for Our Savior Lutheran

The annual community Thanksgiving service will be held this year at Our Savior Lutheran, 1515 S. Main, on Wednesday, Nov. 25 at 7:30 p.m. The theme this year is "America, Count Your Blessings."

The sermon and liturgy will be delivered by Our Savior Lutheran's pastor, the Rev. Franklin Giebel. Explains Giebel, "It will be a blend of patriotism and religion. We will thank God for our country and all the blessings we have here."

Scripture lessons will be read by the Rev. John Gibbon of the Congregational church, the Rev. Erwin Koch of St. Paul United Church of Christ, and the Rev. Dr. Jerry Parker of the United Methodist church. A Thanksgiving prayer will be read by Father Jerry Beaumont of St. Barnabas Episcopal church.

Music during the service will be provided by groups from St. Paul, Our Savior, and the United Methodist church.

The service is non-demoninational and open to all.

The great Gothic cathedral of Milan was started in 1386. It wasn't completed until 1805.

LEE'S HOAGIES, a new hoagie, fried chicken and pizza take-out restaurant, has opened in the old Sir Pizza building on N. Main St. The proprietors are Lee Skyles, and his wife, Denise, Island Lake Rd. residents. Until recently Lee was a millwright for General Motors at the Hydramatic Plant. Denise still works there as a crib attendant. She also edits the newspaper for her UAW local. Lee's mother, Helen Skyles, pictured above with Lee, is also helping out with the business, as are his children, Lee III, 13, Adam, 10 and Sarah, 5. The store is modeled after Howard's Hoagies in Ypsilanti, which is owned by Denise's sister. "We're learning something new every day about the business," Lee says. "Like which side of the counter to put the pickles on." Lee says business is better than expected so far. He's renting the building with an option to buy if the business is successful.

Man Thrown From Car Listed in Fair Condition

A Jackson man escaped serious injury last Thursday, Nov. 12 when he was thrown from his car in an accident on M-52 in front of the Village Mobil station.

Chelsea police reported that Roger Dale Valentine, 36, of Jackson, traveling north on M-52, tried to make a u-turn and was struck by another northbound vehicle driven by Russell Channing Smith, 70, of Manchester, at 4:18 p.m. Valentine, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was thrown through the driver's side window into the southbound lane of M-52.

Valentine was taken by Huron Valley Ambulance to Chelsea Community Hospital. He was transferred to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital where he was listed in fair condition Tuesday morning.

CHEERFULLY SERVING THE VETERANS at Ann Arbor's Veterans Administration Hospital during the social hour which followed a solemn program on Veterans Day, Nov. 11, Doris Reed, at far right, is shown serving refreshments for the hospital patients with Women's Army Corps veteran, Natalie Klix, Boy Scout Terry Alpaugh of Tecumseh troop 632 and troop committeeman Mike Krueger. Natalie Klix represented the Allied Veterans Council and led the "Pledge of Allegiance" during the Veterans Day program. Chelsea's Doris Reed serves year-round as a hospital volunteer.

Kermit Sharp Discusses Meaning of VAVS, VFVS at District 2 Legion Meeting

During the American Legion, Department of Michigan, District 2's October meeting held at Munith, on Sunday, Oct. 25, Kermit Sharp, commander of American Legion Post 46, Ann Arbor, discussed the meaning of the Veterans Administration Volunteer Service (VAVS) and the Veterans Facility Volunteer Service (VFVS).

He explained this is the Department of Michigan committee whose function includes service to the hospitalized veteran.

Among the undertakings were scheduling evening programs and entertainment, arts and crafts to help pass lumps of time, and trying to find what the veterans' needs are and a way to fill these needs.

Volunteers also visit with the veteran and his/her family while they need a friend, relay messages from surgery and family, and generally get acquainted.

When a service officer could help, the volunteer finds one, and if a chapel or chaplain is needed, the volunteer shows their location.

Regarding personal comfort items for an unexpected overnight hospital stay, something a veteran forgot to pack, or lost items, the volunteer assists with them.

Volunteers need to solicit posts to use "poppy money" for veteran canteen service coupon books, given to indigent veterans, or used for Bingo prizes.

The volunteer explains to the veteran patients how to use the coupons.

In recruiting volunteers to provide the veterans these services, Sharp suggested to his listeners, "Let people know there is a need, look for someone who may have the time, and invite them to the medical center and show them around the facility."

Discussing how volunteers are retained, he explained, "Help find a slot where he/she is comfortable, encourage, review often and get to know each one, as well as telling them they're doing a good job."

"Send them a card to let them know they're missed, if they're sick or cannot be at the facility, and by all means, keep records of volunteer hours, set up and carry out awards presentations," Sharp continued.

"Communicating with the Legion members is important, too," he told the group, suggesting attendance at meetings of the post, district, zone and department to give good reports at every chance.

"Attend all VAVS advisory committee meetings, since all organizations are there. These meetings are held quarterly," he advised.

Kermit reminded the entire gathering, "For the 10 years I have been your representative, The American Legion has had 100 percent attendance."

"For the past two years, you have been hearing me call for funds and volunteers for the 'National Veterans Wheelchair Games,' conducted in Ann Arbor during August, 1987. It gives me great pleasure to report to you the games were the best ever. Some of the wheelchair athletes said this seventh annual event was the best yet. The staff and facilities of the University of Michigan and the staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital joined more than 1,000 volunteers from Michigan and other places to make this possible. I want you to know I am proud of The American Legion for the way the money and volunteers came in to help. You people made it work. Thank you!" Sharp concluded the report.

FASTEST BOY MILE RUNNERS in the fourth grade at South school were given medals for their efforts in a competition organized by gym teacher Bill Wehrwein. Not pictured are Zac Ersten (7:10) and Dan Johnson (7:13), who placed second and fourth, respectively. In the front

Babies Born on Smokeout Day Will Receive T-Shirt

In celebration of the 11th annual Great American Smokeout on Thursday, Nov. 19, babies born at Beyer Memorial Hospital, St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, and University Women's Hospital will receive special attention from the American Cancer Society.

Each newborn will be given a T-shirt emblazoned with the slogan

"I'm a Born Nonsmoker."

By the year 2000, when these babies are 13 years old (an age when there is a lot of peer pressure to smoke), it is the goal of the American Cancer Society to have a tobacco-free generation. These T-shirts are a fun reminder of the serious job of keeping America's children healthy.

If you are interested in participating in the Tobacco-Free Young America project, please call the American Cancer Society at 971-4300.

SOME "SUGARLESS" TREATS STILL CAUSE CAVITIES

When you buy a pack of gum or breath mints that say "sugarless" on them you can assume that they won't cause cavities, right? Well, not always. Many sugarless products have substituted simple sugars like sucrose with compounds called sugar alcohols. Sugar alcohols include compounds like sorbitol, mannitol, and xylitol. Although sugar alcohols are not fermented to form acids by dental plaque at the same rate as sucrose, it is possible that chronic use of sorbitol and mannitol can still result in tooth decay.

A naturally occurring sugar alcohol called xylitol, however, can help prevent dental decay from occurring in children, as well as reduce plaque formation. A new study reported by Dr. Makinen of the University of Michigan showed a 30 to 60 percent reduction in new cavities among children who consumed 7 to 10 grams of xylitol per day in two to three pieces of chewing gum. Another study among 11 and 12 year olds showed a 50 to 80 percent reduction in dental decay compared to a similar group who didn't chew gum containing xylitol.

Of course, any program of oral health intended to reduce cavities should include regular brushing and flossing, regular dental checkups, and a low consumption of sugar in the diet, particularly in snacks between meals.

So be an informed consumer—check the labels of "sugarless" products to see what ingredients they contain before you assume they won't cause cavities.

What occurs if you suffer a

Whiplash?

Whiplash is most commonly the result of an auto accident. Whether the head is snapped forward or backward, the shock is felt in the neck when the head moves one way and the body another. Common symptoms resulting from an untreated whiplash injury may include headache, neck pain and stiffness, muscle spasms, dizziness or numbness in one or both arms. A simple, painless spinal examination can quickly reveal if you can be helped by chiropractic. Why be sick when you can be well?

Pet Food Gifts Solicited for Humane Society

Don't miss a perfect opportunity to remember the animals at the Humane Society of Huron Valley this holiday season! Participate in the 11th annual Holiday Pet Food Round-up co-sponsored by the Humane Society and the Ann Arbor Jaycees. All donations of pet food will help to feed the thousands of animals received at the shelter each year.

Beginning Dec. 1 and continuing through Dec. 22, look for donation "corrals" at the front of participating grocery and pet stores. Shoppers are encouraged to purchase extra cans of pet food and deposit them in these corrals, or to bring them to the shelter. In 1986 enough food was donated by the community to supplement the shelter animals' food supply for one year.

The following stores have agreed to provide donation corrals for interested shoppers:

Dexter—IGA Store.
Ann Arbor—Ann Arbor Pet Supply,

Food and Drug Mart, all area Kroger stores, and Padare Lane Pet Supply.
Manchester—A & B Grocery.
Saline—A & P, J & C Store, and Pets 'N' Things.

Ypsilanti—Kroger Store.

IT LOOKS A LITTLE LIKE A MOONSCAPE, but it's really the site of Chelsea's new wastewater treatment plant. The sale of the bonds was completed and the money

THE OLD WASTEWATER PLANT will be tiny compared to the new plant that is under construction off McKinley St. in the village. Village residents will see the cost of the plant reflected in their 1988 tax bills next summer. The village sold $2.88 million in bonds for the plant, and that represents just 45 percent of its cost. The Environmental Protection Agency is paying for the other 55 percent.

School Board Acts on Asbestos Problem, Honors Phil Bareis

Chelsea school board at their last meeting, Monday, Nov. 16, voted to participate in the Michigan class-action law suit on asbestos litigation. Assistant superintendent Fred Mills explained that this action should help the district recoup some of the cost if asbestos is found in the schools.

According to Mills, an inspection three or four years ago failed to find any asbestos, but he feels it likely that some will be found in the more exhaustive search recently done by a New Boston firm, Asbestos Management, Inc. The firm has not yet sent in their report.

Two important information items were presented, the non-discrimination policy and the early retirement policy. The non-discrimination policy is an up-date of a policy written some time ago and altered due to requirements from the federal hot lunch program that it be more specific. Now, as written, it covers discrimination on the basis of race, color, natural origin, sex, or handicapped status. It sets up steps for staff, students, or parents to take if they feel they are being discriminated against, starting with a verbal complaint to the immediate supervisor and ending at the state or federal level if necessary.

The early retirement policy gives an incentive in the amount of an $11,000 bonus to teachers who retire at age 55. The amount goes down by $1,000 a year, until the regular retirement age of 65 is reached. The rationale is that the district will gain financially by replacing a retiring teacher who is probably earning more than $30,000 a year with a new teacher at $18,000 or $20,000.

Chelsea High teacher Phil Bareis was honored at the board meeting for his "contributions to the district's physical education program, and ongoing involvement." A major contribution that Bareis has made in the last year is the replacing of the lockers in the boys gym. Replacing the girls gym lockers is planned for next year.

The old lockers had been used since 1959 and were in bad condition as well as being too small. According to high school principal John Williams, "Bareis took the initiative, got the ball rolling. He helped design the lockers and contacted companies for bids. The work he did was above and beyond his teaching duties."

New doors and gates for both the boys and girls gyms are also being planned. Bareis has been assisted in all this work by assistant principal Ken Larson.

Some of the money for the new equipment came from the high school pop machine, which Bareis maintains and fills with pop every day.

Bus driver Darlene Johnson was also recognized at the board meeting for her assistance with the elementary school instructional swimming program. Johnson drives the children to their swimming lessons. Instead of waiting in the bus until their lessons are over, she comes into the pool and helps with the teaching.

Lewis Publishers Sign Contract for International Book

Lewis Publishers, Inc., of Chelsea, has contracted to publish the "Third Edition of Methods of Air Sampling and Analysis," a reference recognized world-wide as the major source of techniques for both ambient and indoor air.

The new 1,000-page manual will be used by scientists and engineers in the fields of air pollution control, industrial hygiene, environmental and occupational health and others. Publication is scheduled for mid-1988.

Dr. James P. Lodge, internationally recognized expert and editor of the Journal Atmospheric Environment, is editor of the new edition.

Lewis' contract is with the sponsoring Intersociety Committee for a Manual on Methods of Air Sampling and Analysis (using established procedures), of New York, N. Y. Members of the Intersociety Committee are: Air Pollution Control Association, American Chemical Society, American Institute of Chemical Engineers, American Society of Civil Engineers, American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Association of Official Analytical Chemists, Health Physics Society, and the Instrument Society of America.

This third edition is the first to be published by a commercial company, the second edition having been published 10 years ago by the American Public Health Association.

"We are very pleased with this contract," said Publisher Ed Lewis. "We are confident of a ready market and, fully expect to sell a record number of this new edition."

Farm Bureau Takes Strong Stand on Animal Odor Issue

Michigan Farm Bureau has petitioned the Ingham County Circuit Court for permission to file a "Friend of the Court" brief in a suit against a large hog operation in Jackson county. According to Michigan Farm Bureau President Jack Laurie, the decision to petition the court was based on the organization's concern that the future of the state's animal agriculture industry could be in jeopardy.

"We are not going to stand by and see the future of this industry jeopardized in the courts, in the Legislature, or in the public opinion arena," Laurie said. "Animal agriculture has been targeted as a Michigan industry that has much opportunity for growth, yet its future is made uncertain by air and water quality challenges. We must develop the type of business climate that will encourage the industry to grow, and we will challenge those who attempt to weaken any part of Michigan agriculture. This is the second time that the Michigan Farm Bureau has gone to the courts in defense of the state's animal agriculture industry."

Laurie said the Farm Bureau's concern is Attorney General Frank Kelley's allegation that the Jackson county hog operation is in violation of the Air Act.

"Over the years, Michigan agriculture has faced many challenges. Our greatest challenge today is to address environmental concerns. We believe those concerns can be addressed without jeopardizing the economic growth of agriculture," Laurie said. "To do so, we will look to our land grant university to provide technical guidance to assist farmers to operate in an economical and realistic manner. We will continue to work with Michigan's agricultural leadership and Michigan State University to achieve a profit-oriented agriculture."

"We will work with our legislators to clarify apparent weaknesses in existing laws so they will echo what we believe was the intent of the Legislature when it passed those laws," he said. "We do not believe their intent was to jeopardize the future of Michigan agriculture."

Dr. Davis Presents Workshop at Stanford

Dr. Terence C. Davies, professor of family medicine at the University of Michigan presented a workshop at Stanford University, California. The program was presented to the Association of Behavioral Scientists and Medical Educators (ABSAME) on Oct. 20.

The program was entitled "Principles in the Management of Chronic Illness By Primary Care Clinicians." Dr. Davies is a staff physician at the Family Practice Center at Chelsea.

Hunting Can Reduce Farm Crop Losses

A bountiful harvest by deer hunters this season will benefit farmers who have been suffering crop losses from wildlife, according to Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"I think there are a lot of things this year in favor of both the sportsman and the farmer," Nelson said. "We have a substantial number of deer. The more hunters there are afield, the larger the harvest of deer will be. Reducing the deer population will minimize the farmer's crop loss. Also, under a new law signed by Gov. Blanchard in July, a farmer can charge for hunting activities on his land and be protected from liability, unless the farmer knows of an existing hazard and doesn't inform the hunter."

Nelson says there are some "common sense" approaches that hunters should take when using someone else's land.

"The sportsman has a tremendous responsibility. Number one is to approach the landowner and ask for written permission to use his land. That's the law. I think it's important for the sportsman to ask what the boundaries are, to find out if there are any livestock or construction in the area, so their field of fire is not putting any person, livestock or property in jeopardy," he said.

"The sportsman may wish to offer the landowner some type of compensation for leasing to hunt, which is provided for by law," Nelson suggested. "If hunters use the land of another and are willing to offer a few dollars for that privilege, it may make that landowner a lot more interested in allowing someone to hunt."

Turkey Good Buy For Holiday Season

Unlike last year, turkey supplies for the upcoming holiday season are abundant and that will mean lower prices for consumers. Government statistics indicate the nation will enter the Thanksgiving-Christmas season with about three pounds of turkey in cold storage for every American—the highest ever. Retail prices are projected to be from 10¢ to 15¢ a pound below last year's prices.

Poultry consumption has steadily increased over the years and producers have expanded flocks in an effort to satisfy the demand.

An international labor affairs office was established in the U.S. Department of Labor in post-World War II years to promote exchange of information between nations, according to a fact sheet on Labor Department history.

Arrangements were completed by the Hosmer Funeral Home, Dexter.

Larry G. Moore Joins Air Force On Delayed Entry

Larry G. Moore, son of Gary and Karen Moore of 13500 McKinley, Chelsea, has entered the United States Air Force's Delayed Enlistment Program (DEP).

According to Staff Sergeant Janice Edmond, the Air Force recruiter here, Moore's entry into the DEP allows the Air Force to schedule an opening for him to attend basic training and be assigned to a job skill area. Moore will be a 1988 graduate of Chelsea High school and will enter the Regular Air Force on Sept. 8.

Following graduation from the six-week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., he will receive technical training in the general aptitude area and be assigned to an Air Force duty station.

VOLUNTEERS INPUT into an Apple computer the "Write On" stories, authored by Chelsea's elementary school children, providing copies for the writers' parents, teacher, school media specialist, principal, and two file copies for Triad director Ruth Stielstra. The "Write On" stories are chosen by the elementary school teachers, with each grade submitting some. From all that are typed, a group are selected to be published in The Chelsea Standard. Volunteer typists shown in the picture are, seated, Jan Warring, and left to right, Arline Lynch, Sandi Graff, Laura Austin, Arly Spink, and Kay Redding. The first four are from South school, while Spink and Redding are from North. Other volunteers not shown are, from South, Dan and Barb Montgomery and Clair DeLong; from North, Shawna Mote and Roxie Wesoloski. The volunteers typically spend two afternoons a month typing in the entries. Many had no computer experience when they started but have learned by doing.

LAND HAS BEEN CLEARED for the construction of Bridgetown Condominiums behind St. Barnabas Episcopal church off Old US-12. Lloyd Bridges, one of the developers of the project, plans to start construction of foundations for the first three buildings by the end of the month. The first three buildings, which represent about half of phase one, will have a total of 19 units. Bridgetown Condominiums is Chelsea's first condominium project. Bridges plans to have the initial units ready by spring.

Impact of Chrysler Layoffs On Proving Grounds Unclear

Chrysler Corp. plans to reduce its white collar work force by 3,600 people, but the company either won't say or doesn't know what the effect will be on Chelsea's Chrysler Proving Grounds.

According to Ben Dunn, a spokesman for Chrysler at the Highland Park engineering group, some workers are being offered early retirement, some will be laid off and others will be fired.

"As a matter of history, the company doesn't break out numbers at specific locations," Dunn said.

"I expect the impact on the proving grounds will be minimal. A lot of this was made necessary by the absorption of the American Motors staff. The company wants to streamline operations."

Sharlene Barnhart, director of personnel at the proving grounds, said she didn't know how many people might lose their jobs.

The proving grounds has 600 employees.

Admission Ceremony Scheduled Friday For New Lawyers

Those persons in Washtenaw county who have been certified for admission to the Michigan Bar by the Board of Law Examiners will be sworn in at a ceremony to be held at the Washtenaw County Courthouse, on Friday, Nov. 20 at 1:30 p.m. The Honorable William F. Ager, Jr., will preside at the ceremony.

Following the ceremony, the Young Lawyers Section of the Washtenaw County Bar Association will host a reception in the Jury Room.

The ceremony will be held in Courtroom 1. Interested persons should contact Helen Hagan, Court Services Director, at 994-2507, or Scott Keillor, chair, for the event, at 482-0566.

Cheever Promoted to Assistant Art Director With Advertising Firm

George Milroy, president of George Milroy Associates Advertising, announced today that Radine Cheever has been promoted to assistant art director.

Cheever, 24, joined the agency in August of 1986 as a graphic artist. She is a graduate of Western Michigan University with a bachelor's degree in graphic design. Cheever is originally from Chelsea.

George Milroy Associates is a full-service advertising agency that specializes in marketing and advertising for hotels, high-tech firms and retail establishments. The firm opened in 1969, serving clients from its Detroit office. The agency has expanded three times, moving its operations to Ann Arbor in 1981.

SNOW FIGHTER!

SNAPPER'S SINGLE-STAGE
SNOWTHROWER TAKES ON WINTER'S WORST.

SNAPPER's lightweight Single-Stage Snowthrower supplies plenty of muscle power to handle winter's meanest snow storms. While cutting a big 20" path, the hard rubber lined steel auger pulls the machine ahead without scraping the pavement. SNAPPER's smooth turning chute with 200° rotation let's you put the snow where you want it. And the winterized 3 HP, 2 cycle engine gets the snow out of the way and gets you back inside.

So if you need powerful snow removal capabilities with compact convenience let SNAPPER's snow fighting Single-Stage Snowthrower take on the meanest snowstorm.
