Village Signs Agreement To Purchase Second Lot For Future Village Hall

Village of Chelsea has entered a sales agreement for the house at 151 Park St. as part of a site for a new village hall.

Village council approved the agreement at their regular meeting Tuesday, Dec. 1.

The village will pay $49,000 for the house. A tentative closing date has been set for Jan. 31.

Earlier in the year the village purchased the house at 145 Park St. from Cathleen and Marty Kimball, owners of Chelsea Glass Co., for $53,000. In turn, the Kimballs purchased a village lot at public auction adjacent to their W. Middle St. business for

The 145 Park St. lot, which is next to the 151 Park St. lot, is also planned as village hall land.

Before the closing, the village has required that the house is vacant, and "broom clean," which prompted chuckles from more than one council member.

"That's going to take one big broom," said Village President Jerry Sattherthwaite.

The village also agreed that the current owner of the property could move the garage off the property within 30 days of the closing. The son of the owner, Milton Wallen, Jr., also asked if he could submit a bid for the demolition of the house.

Wallen would be required to submit proof of insurance, among other things, before his bid is accepted,

The village has indicated that the village manager Fritz Weber told the

The village will continue to rent the gray house at 145 Park St. to its current residents. Village council recently voted not to increase the rent or deposits. They also decided not to offer a lease. Eventually that house will also be torn down to make room for the village hall.

Money to pay for the 151 Park St. house will come from the village's electric fund, according to a resolution passed Dec. 1 by the council. The lot, like the 145 Park St. lot, will become an asset of the fund.

The village has made no decision as to when a new village hall might be constructed.

Village officials have said that the current hall would probably be sold.

ty's revised financial plan for improvements to the downtown business

The board voted to cap the school district's tax losses to the plan through tax increment financing at $369,344 over 11 years.

Tax increment financing would allow the DDA to capture all the additional tax revenue generated by an increase in property values. That money would be diverted from all other taxing authorities, including the Chelsea School District.

The three-phase plan details projects totaling $800,000. Among the projects are improvements to parking, lighting, intersections, alleys and entrances to the village.

is Peter Flintoft, who has been actively involved in the plan on behalf of the Downtown Development Authority.

Phase one involves a bond issue of $275,000 to cover $235,000 worth of projects. Based on a bond issue at 9 percent interest, total principal and interest through 1998 is $461,750. Because school district millage is 60 percent of the total millage in the downtown area, the district stands to lose a minimum of $279,000 through increment financing.

The board, however, decided to limit school district losses to 60 percent of all money that can be used by the DDA from tax increment financing. That will, for example, allow the district's loss to 60 percent of the principal and interest due on the bonds each year.

"I think the over-all message is we will support the plan," said Superintendent Ray Van Meer.

"The board has given its conceptual support but they want to view the project as it goes along."

By only lending its support to phase one, the school district will force the DDA to conduct another public hearing before phase two can be started.

Van Meer said the board would communicate officially with the DDA before the DDA's public hearing Tues-hinted that Chelsea's Fourth of July fireworks show is in serious jeopardy for at least 1988.

figures," village trustee Dennis Hall told the council. Hall has been working on the insurance questions as part of a committee that is drawing up specific guidelines to regulate fireworks displays.

Hall said last Friday that he has been consulting with some large insurance companies about what kind of insurance requirements the village should have.

"All I can say is I think it's going to be a lot more than $1 million," Hall

"The $1 million we were asking is apparently way too low." Hall said he did not know about the one of Allen's complaints while preparing for this year's display.

Village President Jerry Satterthwaite said the construction of a shopping center between Chelsea State Bank and the fairgrounds could well be underway by summer. That, he said, could complicate the issue.

"We'd have people walking around walls and holes," Satterthwaite said.

"That's something we'd have to consider."

Village council will probably present a report of its guidelines for fireworks displays at a meeting in January, Hall said.

If they tear the building down, it will have to be re-zoned and the whole process will be more time consuming. If they remodel the building, it might turn out to be more costly than starting from scratch, Becky Belknap said last week. She said they'll make their decision by February.

"One contractor believes the building is sound but it might be more cost effective to start from scratch," Belknap said.

Lottery Task Force To Study Better Marketing

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

Better marketing for Michigan's state lottery, to increase sales and thus increase funds for the state's educational system, is the goal of the Michigan Citizens' Task Force to Review the Lottery, task force chair Ron Thayer reported recently.

The task force, which is evaluating all facets of lottery operations in light of revenues falling substantially behind projections, held its first public meeting to determine causes and recommend solutions.

Even though lottery revenues continue to rise each year, Thayer said the 15-member task force is concentrating on improved marketing strategies for the state lottery. In the last fiscal year, lottery revenues fell $200 million short of the $1 billion projection.

Spokespersons for the Associated Food Dealers of Michigan and the Michigan Merchants Council both supported the lottery in its present form.

Linda Gobler, representing the food wholesalers and dealers, while supporting the lottery, asked the task force to recommend a commission to review lottery games and more grass roots promotion.

The lottery didn't receive unanimous support, however. Allen

Michigan's welfare caseload decreased again in October for the sixth consecutive month, as 2,750 public assistance cases were removed from the rolls after obtaining employment, according to a recent announcement by Department of Social Services Department Director C. Patrick Babcock.

The Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) caseload decreased by 325 cases, or .2 percent, to 210,540 families. Most of the decreases were in ADC-U, a program for unemployed parents and their families, with a decrease of 248 cases, ending the month at 25,695.

The General Assistance caseload was 460 cases lower, or .5 percent, at 100,430.

Food stamp caseloads were down by 355 households, .1 percent, ending the month at 352,861.

Majorie Rawson, M. Johnson Are Wed at Methodist Church

Marjorie Sue Rawson, daughter of Robert and Alice Rawson of Chelsea, married Michael David Johnson, son of Sydney Johnson of Ann Arbor and David Johnson, also of Ann Arbor, on Sept. 12 at the United Methodist church in Chelsea. The Rev. Dr. Jerry Parker officiated at the ceremony attended by 185 guests. Deborah Morris, formerly of Chelsea and a friend of the bride, sang "Annie's Song," and "With

You.' The bride's wedding dress was white satin with a sweetheart neckline, lace bodice, long sleeves with puffed shoulders, and a cathedral-length train. Her cathedrallength veil, which she made herself, was white with a pearl headplece.

The maid of honor was Margaret Lewis, formerly of Chelsea, now of Ypsilanti. She wore a pale yellow fulllength satin gown with a lace overlay, pale yellow satin sash, and a sweetheart neckline which matched the bride's gown. She carried a bouquet of pale yellow long-stem roses.

Bridesmaids were sisters of the bride, Ruth Mayday of Detroit and Patricia Rawson of Potomac, Md.: and Susan Barnett of Farmington Hills, a friend of the bride. Their costumes were the same as that of the maid of honor.

The bride's mother wore a royal blue satin gown with lace overlay. It was tea-length and tied with a royal blue satin sash.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink silk dress of street length.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. John Sivers of Ann Arbor, grandparents of the bridegroom.

Best man was Mark Temple of Columbus, Ind., a friend of the bridegroom. Ushers were brother of the bride Robert Rawson of Chelsea, and friends of the bridegroom, Charles Presley and Gregory Johnson, both of Ann Arbor.

The reception, attended by 200 guests, was hosted by the bride's parents and held at their home. Julie Samuelson of Dexter, a friend of the bride, served the wedding cake. Lynne Ertel of Potomac, Md., a friend of the bride's family, was in charge of the guest book.

The couple are now living in the Ann

The bride is attending Eastern Michigan University, pursuing a bachelors of fine arts degree with a concentration in graphic design. She is a 1984 graduate of Chelsea High

Living With Diabetes Much Easier in '80's

By Mary C. Brenob Life for a diabetic never has been, and until a cure is found, never will be as easy as for someone in perfect health. But at the same time, life for a diabetic person has never been easier than it is in 1987.

During my 36 years as a brittle Type 1 diabetic I've seen a host of advances in the treatment and control of diabetes. Diabetics today are able to live lives similar to their non-diabetic friends with only minor exceptions.

Proper diet is a keystone of living with diabetes and so much has been learned in the last 10 years about the health effect of various foods. Exercise, recognized for its value to non-diabetics is every bit as important to me.

While selecting foods more because they are good for me instead of just good, and making an effort to walk regularly and for some distance is not easy, I feel it is easier than living with the alternatives or not living at all. Maintaining a proper diet and exercise program may be a little harder for a diabetic, but the payoff is a lot

Today's diabetic finds it much easier to travel—even to other parts of the world. A trip to a different time zone requires some planning but certainly can be accomplished. Whether traveling or not, checking your blood sugar level and managing your insulin is so much easier and reliable than when I started out. A blood monitoring machine such as a Glucometer makes checking possible in a matter of minutes. And the results tell you what you're running right then, not what you might have been an hour or two earlier, as the urine tests used to do.

Disposable syringes with sharp needles are such an improvement over glass syringes and stainless steel needles (not so sharp) packed in tion on Lincoln St. That home will not be moved or demolished, Belknap said, and the current tenant will be able to stay.

Belknap said they have had several inquiries about buying the property, but have no plans to sell it.

"Property in Chelsea must be hot right now," she said.

The Belknaps have already converted one old gas station in Ann Arbor into one of their restaurants. They are familiar with the problems of removing old gas storage tanks.

Father Frost, a mighty smith who binds the earth and water with his alcohol. And they're so much easier to travel with!

Because everyone is more conscious of the importance of diet, it's much easier to get the right things in many restaurants. They are usually receptive to requests to prepare food without butter and sauces and to bring salad dressing on the side so you can control how much you use.

A woman with diabetes was once advised against having children. The past 10 years has seen a change in that too. Modern medicine has substantially reduced the risks. With extra care in managing blood sugar and regular medical consultation, the chances of having a healthy baby are very good.

The 1980's have indeed been good to those of us who must live with this disease. One requirement that will always remain is the need to maintain a positive attitude. I know it isn't always easy, but if you can look back over the advances made in treating and caring for the diesase, it is much easier to be positive.

Keeping yourself in the best possible condition now will put you in the best position to benefit from the advances which will be made in the future. With the advances I've seen I know a cure will someday be within reach. Who knows, perhaps it's just around the corner waiting to be found!

A VIEW from the CLOCK TOWER

By Brian Hamilton

Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority is scheduled to hold a public hearing on the second version of their lengthy financial plan next Tuesday during the regular meeting of the village council.

The plan describes how the DDA will finance $800,000 in parking improvements, tree plantings, intersection restructuring, pedestrian lighting and many other projects designed to "prevent the deterioration" of the downtown business area.

Another hearing is needed for one reason. The first plan didn't pass the scrutiny of someone who could understand it.

Miller, Canfield, Paddock & Stone, a Detroit law firm which rules on a sizeable number of bond issues in the state, said the plan needed some work. Some projects were going to be funded illegally. Some of the numbers were wrong. Some procedures were not followed correctly. In other words, someone goofed.

The first plan, which was devised by financial consultant Franz Mogdis of Ann Arbor, was difficult to understand, at best. There were so many numbers plugged into it that it took an accountant to understand it. Money was going to come from here, there and just about everywhere else. There was tax increment financing, there were special assessments, there was something called a "revolving fund," and there were the major and minor street repair funds.

Assistant school superintendent Fred Mills, who handles the school district's finances, studied the plan and knew it wouldn't work. He told the village, too. If anyone here knows how taxes work, Mills does.

Soon afterward, MCP&S, at the request of village attorney Peter Flint-

Now the DDA has a new plan, which was written by lawyers rather than financial consultants. Lawyers are very careful to write in language that other lawyers can understand. There are a lot of phrases like "pursuant to Act so-and-so." However, because lawyers are paid to word documents carefully, the new plan is only a little less confusing than the first plan.

If the public hearing goes like the last one in October, several people will ask questions. And many of them will be even more confused when they hear the answers.

There is one problem with the plan that I can see in addition to it being difficult to grasp—no one can guarantee that it will work. No one can say with assurance that if $800,000 is spent to spruce up Main St., then the downtown business district will remain economically viable. No one can guarantee we won't end up with a downtown full of antique shops or empty buildings no matter how much money is spent.

And that makes the plan more difficult to sell. However the DDA is saying that Chelsea can't afford to do nothing.

And I have to agree.

Rene Papo's mall for the south end of town looks as though it will make it through the planning stages. Another 100,000 square feet worth of retail space, including a department store, will put pressure on the downtown merchants, many of whom have no significant competition.

However, what could be potentially even more damaging is the rampant development of Scio township. Watch out if Meijer Thrifty Acres comes through with its promise to build another store at Zeeb and Jackson Rds. That could wreak havoc on three villages at once—Chelsea, Dexter and DDA's plan recognizes that it is in every Chelsea resident's best interest if the downtown remains viable. Property values won't be as likely to go downhill and people will be more likely to move here to fill up all the proposed housing projects. The school district has supported the plan, within certain limits, because it has a vested interest in keeping property

The plan also recognizes that the downtown won't win the war simply by trying to stay price and product competitive. Many of the merchants simply can't match the prices or selection of a chain department store.

The downtown has its best chance for prosperity by trying to improve what it already has going for it. It's an attractive, unhurried, and generally convenient place to shop. The projects are designed to make it even more attractive, more convenient, and easier to shop in.

Perhaps the most important part of the plan doesn't have anything to do with trees, lighting or parking. It's the marketing of the downtown, for which $60,000 is earmarked.

In order to compete with a mall, the downtown is going to have to market itself like one. People need to know what the benefits of shopping downtown are.

The marketing also has to be aimed at diversifying the downtown economy. People, with the exception of legions of teen-agers, shop at a mal! because they can find just about everything under one roof. The difficult problem here is there just isn't much space available downtown for new businesses.

As much as I personally support what the DDA is trying to accomplish, I sometimes think they shoot themselves in the foot when they say increment financing won't raise anyone's taxes. It always sounds as though the money is going to appear magically or somehow we'll get this all free of

The DDA should be more honest about increment financing.

In simplistic terms, tax increment financing is a redistribution of tax money. If tax money is taken from source A, they will either have to raise taxes or hold back spending on some other project.

Initially the DDA plan will be financed almost entirely by the Village of Chelsea, Washtenaw county, the State of Michigan, and the downtown merchants themselves. The county and village pay because they lose tax money to increment financing. The state pays because the school district will lose money through increment financing. And for the time being the state will make up that money. The merchants pay through a two mill tax levied on downtown property and any special assessments levied for par-

If the school district returns to out-of-formula status, the school district (in other words, district taxpayers) would foot the majority of the bill rather than the state because the state won't make up the lost revenue. The district would either have to raise taxes to make up the difference or tighten its belt a little more. So district taxpayers would subsidize the DDA either through increased revenues or sacrificed school programs.

Also, down the road a tax increase to finance the DDA plan could in essence be included in a general millage increase request by the school district. Again, that increase would be shared by the entire school district population, which expands way beyond the village limits.

So, in one form or another, everyone in the Chelsea school district, indeed, everyone in the county and even the state is going to pay for this plan at least a little.

However, it's far more likely that local taxes would rise significantly if the downtown deteriorates and drags everyone's property values down with

If the downtown merchants and Chelsea are going to gamble, I hope they gamble on the side of doing something rather than nothing. Ten years from now wouldn't you rather be able to say"we tried" rather than "I wish we'd done something when we had the chance."

Tell Them You Read It in The Standard

recently welcomed two Washtenaw county high school students to her office in Lansing to congratulate them for being selected as finalists in the 1987-88 U. S. Senate Youth Scholarship Competition. Heather M. Burns, of 3535 Forshee Lane, Dexter, shown above with Sen. Pollack, and Liesel Meehan Lavery, of 1551 Bishop, Saline, were among 92 high school students from Michigan named second- or third-round winners in the $2,000 national scholarship competition. Winners were judged on the basis of their academic accomplishments, leadership and involvement in extracurricular activities. ## Hudson Mills Golf Course Planned

Construction of the new golf course in the system. Bartsch explains that at Hudson Mills Metropark may begin before the year is over. According to park superintendent Gary Bartsch, plans for the golf course are complete and construction could begin in the middle of December or early in January.

Bartsch explains that work is awaiting final approval of the park budget by the Huron-Clinton structed on the south end of the golf Metropolitan Authority Board of Commissioners, who will meet Dec. 17.

After the budget is approved, the board will send out for bids. Work on clearing out the area could begin as soon as a bid is accepted.

DNA approval for such things as soil erosion and wet lands is also needed, but Bartsch says all the information has been sent in and he foresees no problem in those areas.

The completed course will be 18 holes. Funds for the first nine holes were approved last year, but since construction has not started, those funds will be carried over and all 18 will be constructed at once. The golf course is laid out on open land in the Hudson Mills Metropark between the Huron River and Dexter-Pinckney

Bartsch estimates that between 35,000 and 40,000 people will use the golf course per year. But he says that "neighbors won't see any difference except a rise in their property values." Bartsch explains that golf is a quiet game that two or four play at a time in spread-out intervals. He says players will tee off every seven

etters to the Editor Dear Editor:

Thanks to Will Connelly for giving the Chelsea United Way a nice plug in his "View from the Clock Tower" column last week. He reported that 92 cents of every dollar that we receive goes to our member agencies. However, there's good news and bad

First, the bad news. As reference material for his article, Will used our Chelsea United Way brochure that was prepared and distributed a year ago. Being frugal, we had enough stock of these left over from 1986 to use again in our residential mailing this year. Unfortunately, it contained (at least in our eyes) a glowing error regarding the amount of each dollar collected that actually goes to our member Chelsea United Way agencies. The original handwritten draft of the pamphlet indicated that "97" cents out of every dollar contributed actually went to our agencies. However, the "7" was written European-style with a hyphen through it, and wouldn't you know it-the typist mistook it for a "2." The result is history! The printed version incorrectly states that "92" cents of each dollar provides services to help people.

Now for the good news! Year-todate expenses for the Chelsea United Way come to $1,308. Compared to receipts of $75,000, this equates to 98.3% of each donor dollar reaching our member agencies! The difference between 92% and 98.3% may not seem like a lot, but looking at it from the other side, it says that our expenses are only 1.7%, not 8%! Inasmuch as we're all volunteers and amateurs at this sort of thing, we're mighty proud of this accomplishment. As Paul Harvey would say, "Now you know the REST of the story!"

replace Treva Winans as Chelsea's Senior Citizen Co-ordinator. Smith will begin her duties on Monday, Dec. 14, working every week-day afternoon at the Chelsea Senior Center at North school. Winans will stay on until the end of the month to train Smith and help with the transition.

The Senior Citizens Advisory Committee interviewed the top five applicants for the job and then voted on their preferences. Fred Mills, assistant superintendent of schools, and Jackie Rogers, director of community education, then interviewed the top two and selected Smith.

Smith was hired on Tuesday, Nov. 24, after a very hectic day. She was interviewed by the seniors at 9 a.m. As she walked into the room in the high school used for interviewing, she was surprised at the large number of seniors there to ask her questions. Smith has lived in Chelsea since 1969, moving here from her hometown of Howell when her husband Wally was hired by Dana Corp. The Smiths, who have been married 25 years, raised three children, Mark, Lisa, and Krista, all of whom went through the Chelsea school system starting at North. Lisa has recently made her parents grandparents, giving Smith, although relatively young at 47, something in common with many of the seniors.

Smith's previous employment consists of doing child care for 17 years, and more recently working as a clerk in the library. Smith should have no trouble getting along with the staff at North school because during her "eons of years" of child care, she watched a number of the teachers'

Asked why she applied for the job, Smith replied, "I've always enjoyed senior citizens and I care about people." She said she found the prospect of the job "challenging and exciting." Smith traces her appreciation of seniors to the fact that when she was a child, her father became ill and, even though her mother went to work, they still could not afford to maintain their own home, and so moved in with her grandparents. She said the loving way her grandparents took her family in has remained in her memory as a very positive experience. Smith's respect and friendship with seniors has continued throughout her life. When her mother was alive, they were, according to Smith, "the best of friends." Smith was also very close to her handicapped uncle. And she visits the seniors from her church, the Free

Chelsea Pressures Eagles To Win Opener, 73-63

By Brian Hamilton

Chelsea's high pressure defense forced 29 turnovers as coach Robin Raymond and the Chelsea Bulldogs opened the 1987-88 varsity basketball season with a 73-63 victory over the Brooklyn Columbia Central Golden Eagles last Friday on the road.

"The team feels pretty good right now," said Raymond, beginning his second stint as the Bulldog head man. "We played exceptionally well. We were very aggressive.

"And when we got ahead, we didn't let up. That was good to see. Our motto is 'intensity' and we need intensity all 32 minutes in order to be successful. That's why we won Friday

The Bulldog defense controlled the tempo of the game from the outset and forced 15 bad passes.

The taller Eagles kept the game close for the first quarter as they were able to get the ball underneath to center Troy Plate for some easy baskets.

But the Bulldogs took complete charge late in the third quarter and early in the fourth as they scored 13 unanswered points to take a 69-49 lead. The Eagles contributed to their own demise in that stretch by missing seven straight free throw attempts.

"I think Columbia thought they were going to win the game," Raymond said.

"And I think they got a little frustrated and a little tired."

Chelsea won the game in three key areas, according to Raymond. The Bulldogs shot the ball 20 more times (70-50), made 15 of 24 free throws as opposed to 15 of 36 for BCC, and had 10 fewer turnovers (19). In addition, Chelsea held their own on the boards, losing the offensive rebounding battle, "Nineteen turnovers is a good number for an opening game, especially for the kind of game we play," Raymond said.

"Our goal is 15. If we keep our turnovers down to 15 and shoot 50 percent from the floor, we're going to win a lot

The Bulldogs didn't quite hit the 50 percent mark, making 29 shots for 41 percent. However, they did spread around 19 assists, four each by John Collins, John Cattell and Junior Morseau, and three by Chad Starkey.

The crisp passing game led to balanced Chelsea scoring as four Bulldogs finished in double figures. Captain Cattell led the way with 16 points on 7-14 shooting from the field. "John is an excellent shooter from 15 feet on in," Raymond said.

"And he's a quick jumper. He put the ball in over Troy Plate a couple of Senior Greg Boughton came off the bench to score 14 points and Raymond admitted he was surprised by Boughton's performance.

"Greg had a couple of post-up moves which is not his style," Raymond said. "I was real happy to see that."

Morseau connected on 5 of 10 shots. most of them middle to long-range jump shots, for 13 points. Collins was the final Bulldog in double figures with 10 points.

Rounding out the scoring were Larry Nix, seven points, Kevan Flanigan, five, and Chad Starkey and Jeff Marshall, four each.

PROVIDING A SPARK off the bench last Friday night at Brooklyn Columbia Central was Chelsea's Larry Nix. Nix and company turned up the heat as Chelsea won their opening game of the season, 73-63.

"Larry was really a spark off the South Lyon last Friday. bench for us," Raymond said.

"When he came in the intensity seemed to go up another notch." Nix also had three of Chelsea's 14 steals.

"Kevan played an error-free game. His responsibility was to keep the big guy off the boards and he did his job." Chelsea opens the Southeastern Conference season against arch-rival Saline at home this Friday. The Hornets scored 86 points against "Saline will be the team to beat in the league," Raymond said.

"Their first five or six players are real good, but they don't have much depth. Their three big kids can all jump out of the gym. They're also going to play a press-and-run style of Chelsea was scheduled to play Haslett last night, a state-ranked team that scored 112 points in its opener last Friday against Dewitt.

Junior Cagers Open With Loss to Eagles

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity basketball team dropped its opening game of the season to the Brooklyn Columbia Central Eagles last Friday night in Brooklyn, 65-55.

Chelsea fell behind 14-7 at the end of the first quarter but came back to take a 21-20 lead shortly before halftime. However, the Eagles converted two three-point plays in the closing minutes of the half to take a 29-21 halftime lead. From then on the Bulldogs could get no closer than five points.

"It took a lot of effort to come back and then we got a little sloppy on defense," said Chelsea coach Jeff

"However, I'm not at all disappointed about the way we played. The kids worked real hard, but I think they were a little nervous at the beginning." That nervousness resulted in ned Paul Boyers in :20. Chelsea "missing a ton of easy shots," in the first quarter, Dils said.

Freshman Kerry Plank was the catalyst for Chelsea, leading the team in both scoring (16 points) and rebounding (11). Brian Burg was also in double figures with 11 points.

"Kerry and Brian worked well together inside," Dils said. "Kerry had a solid game all around. Brian scored the majority of his points in the second half." Rounding out the scoring for

The finals of diving saw Webb maintain her place and finish 12th with a final score of 297.40 for 11 dives.

In the 100-yard backstroke, Colombo won the consolation heat with a final time of 1:03.02, which would have been third over-all in the finals. However, because she was in the consolation heat she could do no better than seventh place. Her time also broke her school record.

The team over-all scored eight points, which tied for 24th place in the final team standings.

"I felt that this group performed very well both days, with the only disappointment that Sharon missed all-state by three tenths of a second in the prelims, as the final heat qualifiers are automatic all-staters," said coach Mike Keeler.

"The meet was the fastest meet in a long time, as Colombo's 10th place time from the year before would have placed her 16th this year. The diving was also much better state-wide than it has been and I was very proud of both of our divers."

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I kept wondering Friday night what was going through Rahn Rosentreter's mind as he watched the Chelsea Bulldog varsity basketball team manhandle Brooklyn Columbia Central.

The final score was 73-63, but the game wasn't nearly that close.

I knew Robin Raymond's coaching philosophy was different than Rahn's. But, boy, I didn't realize just how different until I saw the team in action. And I emphasize ACTION.

It's like comparing ballroom dancing to break dancing. Or a string quartet to ZZ Top. Or Charles Dickens to Hunter S. Thompson.

The Bulldags came out running and pressing at the opening tip-off and never, I mean never, let up.

Even if the Bulldogs don't win another game this season, they will be well worth watching in the process.

Chelsea played with more enthusiasm and intensity than I've seen in three years. Maybe it was the adrenaline of an opening game, but I don't think so. It continued all night long.

The aggressiveness resulted in a bundle of turnovers, but also a bunch of short jumpers and lay-ups, and several missed lay-ups. The Bulldog defense never let the Eagles rest on offense and the pace seemed to take its toll on the BCC big guys. Last year the Bulldogs were a team of role players. Todd Starkey ran the offense at point guard, Mark Bareis was the scoring machine, Jeff Harvey was the blue-collar rebounder and inside scorer, and Marty Poljan was the strong man rebounder and lane-clogger.

This year it looks as though everyone has the same role. Run like crazy on offense and defense, pass the ball up court and drive to the basket whenever possible, and take the open shot if you have it. Everybody plays in just about every spot on the court. That sure became apparent when John Cattell posted up in the lane for a couple of short turnaround jump shots. That, I never expected to see.

All 11 Bulldogs contributed to the dismantling. Here's what I remember most. Greg Boughton turned into a wild man on the boards and had several points off offensive rebounds.

Junior Morseau was hitting his jump shot from everywhere and generally turning in his usual low-key defensive performance. At one point Junior faked one of the Golden Eagles out of his tailfeathers and hit a 15-footer. "You see that," someone said. "Junior cracked a smile, and he never smiles."

Captain Cattell kept the team fired up all game long with his emotional outbursts and fist-waying. John Collins was right along with him in that department.

Kevan Flanigan grabbed a couple of rebounds and hit a couple of short jumpers. That might not sound like much, but this guy has put in an enormous amount of work just to be able to play at all this season. He suffered a severe leg injury last spring. But his dedication, and a lot of rehabilitative weight work, has paid off.

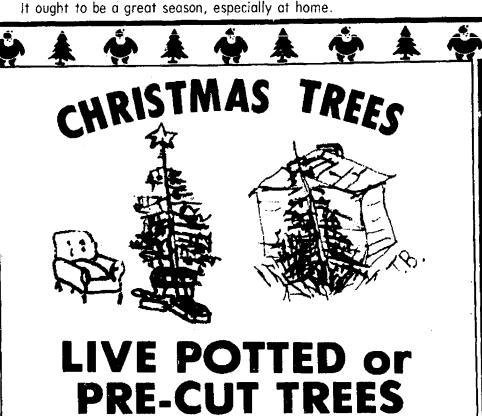

Sophomore Chad Starkey, making the difficult transition from freshman basketball to varsity in one year, hit a couple of long-range jumpers and passed up a couple more. He looks like Chelsea's three-point shooter of the future. Chad is going to be one fine player after he gains a little experience and confidence.

Chelsea may have scored as many as 73 points once or twice last season. The Bulldogs could have easily scored 80 or more last Friday by cutting down the turnovers and making some of the easy shots they missed.

The Bulldogs will need an even better performance this Friday when Saline comes to call. The Hornets scored 86 points and murdered South Lyon last week. This could turn out to be one of those 82-81 games that are always great fun to watch. Something tells me this game may be won or lost at the foul line.

It's hard to argue with the success Rahn had last year with the Bulldogs. They were co-champs of the Southeastern Conference and the games were well attended.

But judging from Friday's game, Robin's new style will have one big advantage—it'll have the crowd screaming for more. And it will keep fans rivoted to the game. If you look away for five seconds you might miss 10 points. Friday night the Bulldogs scored more points in the first half than they did in some games last year.

Beach 7th Grade Cagers Open With Two Victories

Beach Middle school 7th grade Chelsea player to score in the second basketball team opened their season on Tuesday, Dec. 1, with an exciting come-from-behind win, 28-26 over Lincoln at home.

Chris Dunham led the come-back with his outstanding defense and was the leading scorer with 10 points.

Chelsea began their rally after Lincoln came out in the third quarter and scored the first five points off their press to take a 19-7 lead. Dunham, Jeremy Beauchamp, Erik Brown, and J. D. Alford then limited the junior Railsplitters to seven points for the rest of the half, while Chelsea tossed in 21 points to take the win.

Ed Waller, Ken Slane, and scoreboard.

Chelsea scoring was as follows; Dunham 10 points, Brown 6, Waller 4, Beauchamp 3, Alford 3, and Keith Stecker, 2.

Steve Grau and Colten White also played well for the Bullpups, according to coach Charlie Waller.

The team played their first away game when they traveled to Milan on Thursday, Dec. 3, and beat the Big Reds in their famous Golden Dome. 29-20.

The Bullpups again got off to a very slow start as an aggressive Milan team out-scored them 7-4 in the first quarter and took a 12-7 half-time lead. However, Chelsea came out once again on fire in the second half and out-scored Milan 14-6 to take a 21-18 lead going into the fourth quarter. Once again it was the pressure defense of Dunham, Alford, Brown, and Beauchamp that forced the Milan turnovers that led to the Chelsea scoring burst. Waller was the leading scorer for the Bullpups, benefitting from the excellent passing of Dunham and Alford, he tossed in 12 points, 10 in the second half. Nick McCalla, Grau, and Ken Slane all broke into the scoring column for the first time. Grau was the only

Chelsea scoring was as follows; Waller 12, Brown 6, McCalla 4, Grau 3, Dunham 2, and Slane 2.

Eighth Grade Cagers Split Two Games

...Beach Middle school eighth grade Beauchamp dominated the defensive basketball team lost their first game -rebounds to help keep Lincoln off the and won their second in the opening week of action.

On Tuesday, Dec. 1 the Bullpups were beaten by Lincoln, 43-38. However on Thursday, Dec. 3 they came back to beat Milan, 38-25.

"Everything came together for us in the Milan game," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

"The kids are learning the importance of playing good man-to-man defense."

Milan led the Bullpups 17-10 at halftime but the Chelsea defense limited Milan to eight second-half points. "If we can hold opponents to under 30 points, we'll have a good chance to win most games," Tallman said. Chelsea was led by Jake Rindle with nine points. Ben Hurst scored eight, Dan Stahl scored six on 4 of 6 shooting from the free throw line, John Royce had five, Adam Tillman scored three and Aaron Tanner, Chris White and Rick Clouse each scored two points. "Adam Tillman has been a pleasant surprise and a good leader on the court," Tallman said. "And John Royce rebounded well."

Chelsea suffered through firstgame mistakes against Lincoln and fell behind 22-12 by half-time. "Lincoln was definitely the taller team," Tallman said. "They were a real good team last year and didn't lose much. But overall we played pretty well for a first game.' Hurst, Rindle and White scored six points each to lead Chelsea. Stahl and Rob Jaques scored three each and Tillman and Clouse chipped in with two points each.

Fish Shelters To Be Installed At Portage Lake in Spring

"In three years time, Portage Lake will be the hottest fishing lake in Michigan," says Dennis Andrew, a member of the Avid Bass Anglers, a fishing club based in Dexter, Andrew is basing his prediction on the hopedfor results of a $6,300 state grant his club has won to install brush shelters to enhance the fishing in Big Portage Lake.

According to Andrew, Portage Lake has a large variety of fish (such as walleye, bass, blue gill, and crappies), but the increased boat traffic causes most of them to go deep. An additional problem is that Portage Lake has no natural rock formations or drop-offs to serve as protective areas for the fish population. With the present conditions, Andrew says the most area fisherman may hope for is that the fish population remains steady. The expectation is that the existing fish population will survive better with the brush shelters available for protection and that any newly stocked fish will be more likely to become established under the conditions pro-

Andrew and the other club members started working on getting the grant from the DNR last August. They received word of their success a few weeks ago and have used the money to buy the necessary supplies, including rope, pallets for the brush, and cinder blocks to hold the shelters down. They are also using some of the money to send out 500 letters to Portage Lake residents explaining what they are doing,

The 15 club members, all of whom live either in Washtenaw or Livingston county, are planning on working week-ends until spring, constructing 200 brush shelters. They are building them on Andrew's land, since he has a 10-acre farm with room to store the 250 yards of brush needed.

Club members are planning to place the shelters in groups of five in 40 locations. The sites have been determined by a 1949 study done by the DNR when brush shelters were last put in on an organized basis. (Individuals, in recent years, have sometimes put Christmas trees in the bottom of the lake, holding them down with cement.)

When the shelters are ready and the weather warm enough, three or four divers from the group will install them, placing them in circles. The group plans to place maps of the shelter locations at the boat launches, so that fishermen will know where to

After the brush shelters are in place, Andrew would like to see the bureau of fisheries do additional stocking with bass and walleye.

If this project is as successful as is hoped, the club may place brush shelters in other area lakes. They would also like to install ramps and docks at the less assessable lakes.

The Avid Bass Anglers club is only a year old. They have already sponsored two charity fishing tournaments and are planning an ice derby at Kent

Andrew says new members are welcome. He describes the club as a group of fishermen who, beyond sharing a love of fishing and enjoyment of getting together, are also very civic minded. If anyone wishes to join or to receive additional information, they should call club president Marv Stucki at 878-6585 or Barry Hague at

Wintertime Activities, Competitions Abound

Michigan knows how to turn winter into a colorful and vibrant season. Activities range from golf-on-the-ice to sculpture in ice, to fishing through the ice, to ski jumping, ski racing, and the first glimpse of next summer's watercraft.

Following is a small sampling of the more than 420 events listed in the Michigan Travel Bureau's winter calendar.

JANUARY

The Ice Sculpture Spectacular— Jan. 7-17, Plymouth. A display of more than 200 ice sculptures line the streets of downtown Plymouth and take over Kellogg Park during this sparkling ice celebration. Professional and amateur chefs carve delightful creations that are modified throughout the week as the bright winter sun dictates variation.

"Let's Go Skiing Michigan"-Jan. 8, at more than 40 ski areas throughout the state. This state-wide celebration of skiing is meant to get first-time skiers on the slopes and hills of Michigan. Held in conjunction with a national learn-to-ski program sponsored by the National Ski Areas Association, participating ski areas will offer free lessons, lift or trail passes, and, in some cases, free usage of rental equipment for the entire day.

Tip-Up-Town U. S. A.—Jan. 16-17 and 23-24, Houghton Lake. Originating as a simple winter fishing contest, Tip-Up-Town U. S. A. took its name from the fishing gadget that would "tip up" to signify a fish on the line. The affair has since blossomed into one of the biggest carnivals on ice. Pony rides, a longest beard competition, pie and snow sculpting contests, food concessions, and, of course, ice fishing are highlights of the twoweekend celebration.

Polar Ice Cap Golf Tournament— Jan. 23, Spring Lake. While many golfers may be longing for their longago stored-award clubs, Michigan golf enthusiasts refuse to let a little snow stand in the way of hearty competition. Staged upon the frozen surface of Spring Lake, the tournament boasts competition on "the world's most frigid golf course." The day-long event stresses survival of the fittest and offers two courses: the Penguin 9 or the Frostbite 18.

Silver Creek Challenge Cross-Country Ski Race-Jan. 30, Tawas City. Challenge and competition fill the countryside as ski activity escalates in Michigan. The Huron National Forest is the scene for this cross-country ski challenge. A Corsair Ski System, the race has a 10- and 20-kilometer competition.

FEBRUARY

Winter Carnival "Frosty Traces of Faraway Places"-Feb. 3-6, Houghton. Area residents and the students of Michigan Technological University have good reason for eagerly anticipating Copper Country's heaviest snow season: The more bountiful the snow, the more plentiful the snow sculptures at the annual winter carnival. The statues, which are as tall as 30 feet, are begun around New Year's. A frosty fireworks display, dogsled races, broomball games, and a state revue talent show are also part of the festive Perchville U.S. A.—Feb. 5-7, East Tawas. Ice and fish once again take center stage in an annual celebration. Parades, fishing contests, a demolition derby, a softball tournament, three-wheeler races, a four-by-four rally, ice sculpting, and a hospitality tent all take up temporary residence upon frozen Tawas Bay. Perch dinners and the coronation of the 1988 Perchville king and queen are highlights of the affair.

Pine Mountain Ski Jumping Classic-Feb. 6-7, Iron Mountain. A Michigan winter without ski jumping? The notion is unheard of in mountainous northern Michigan, where conditions are right for such an event. Pine Mountain's classic is an international competition that has participants jumping from the world's largest 90-meter ski jump.

Detroit Boat and Fishing Show-Feb. 6-14, Detroit. The Motor City's Cobo Hall will be the setting for a showcase of more than 1,000 new boats of all types and sizes.

Sylvan Township Board Proceedings

North American VASA Cross-Country Ski Race—Feb. 13-14, Traverse City. A marathon crosscountry race that begins and ends at the Grand Traverse Resort and winds through the Pere Marquette State Forest. Top performers as well as recreational skiers may compete in the 20- and 50-kilometer races. The race is part of the U.S. Ski Association's Great American Ski Chase.

MARCH

Can-Am Luge Race-March 4-6, Marquette. Breathtaking lug competition between teams from the United States and Canada will be featured at this week-end extravaganza.

Suicide Bowl Ski Jumping Tournament-March 5-6, Ishpeming. The Paul Beitila Memorial and the 101st annual suicide Hill Tournament will be featured in the two-day challenge.

Central Collegiate Hockey Association Championship-March 11-12, Detroit. Joe Louis Arena is the setting for an intense battle to crown the 1988 Central Collegiate Hockey Association champion. Four teams from the nine-team league will compete for the coveted crown.

Frederick Arnet Attends Monument Builders Convention

Frederick L. Arnet, II, of Arnet's, Inc., recently attended the 1987 Bi-State Monument Builders Convention held at the Indianapolis Airport Hilton. Arnet was elected secretarytreasurer for the Michigan division Monument Builders for the 28th consecutive year. More than 100 retail representatives from Indiana and Michigan as well as wholesale suppliers from around the nation attended the two-day event.

The main attraction was the physical monument display, in which monument wholesalers and suppliers had on exhibit the latest in materials, supplies and design.

An important development in recent years has been the increased personalization of monuments. Enduring monuments are carved or etched with outdoor scenes, portrait likenesses or with the traditional symbols. This articulate process was demonstrated to the many who at-

O'Connor Votes No On Transportation Funding Package

A transportation funding package passed Nov. 24 by the state House will penalize the taxpayers of Michigan, said an area lawmaker who voted against the legislation.

State Representative Margaret O'Connor (R-Ann Arbor) said the funding plan will raise approximately $90 million by increases in registrations, transaction costs, service fees and driver's licenses. The cost of a four-year renewal for a driver's license will climb from $6 to $12.

"Those who use the roads should pay to keep them up. Instead, we've Minutes of the November meeting passed an unfair plan that burdens everyone, particularly senior citizens," O'Connor said. "Why should an older individual, who travels a few thousand miles a year, pay as much as someone who travels

"Instead we've added yet another tax increase on the people of Michigan. The plan is poorly conceived and I voted against it," O'Connor concluded.

Kostoski's initial contact was with Chelsea village council member Phil Boham, who is also a member of the Senior Citizens Housing task force. Winans is especially enthusiastic about this particular project because, after construction, it would be free of government strictures. ## Biddy Ball To Teach Fundamentals

Biddy basketball for girls in grades 4-6 and boys in grades 2-7 will be offered this winter through the Chelsea Recreation Council as a way to develop fundamentals in young basketball players.

Members of the girls and boys varsity basketball teams at Chelsea High school, as well as assistant coaches, will be running the six-week clinics beginning Jan. 9.

"We've tried to have boys and girls together in biddy basketball but the girls didn't like it because they would never touch the ball," said girls coach Rahn Rosentreter.

Rosentreter said the goal is to get a minimum of 25 girls and divide up into four teams to play four-on-four basketball. About 30 minutes of each hour session would be devoted to teaching basic skills and 30 minutes to playing games.

"We plan on lowering the basket to nine feet." Rosentreter said.

Boys coach Robin Raymond said that he'd like to have more than 80 boys sign up. The boys clinic will also include instruction. However, the boys will probably play three-on-three basketball.

"When you look at successful basketball programs, the kids who are in those programs are fundamentally sound by the time they're in seventh grade," Raymond said.

For more information call the recreation council at 475-9830.

State Senate OK's Ethanol Production

The Michigan Senate, by a 32 to 1 vote, has passed a bill that would offer financial incentives to new companies to produce ethanol alcohol from counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau, the legislation has a strong endorsement of the state's largest farm organization.

"In the past, we've supported

Smith said the number of lawmakers giving their support to increased gasohol usage is increasing rapidly.

"Many bills to expand ethanol production and gasohol usage are now receiving serious consideration of legislators in other states and in Congress. One of the reasons for their interest is linked to recent events in the Persian Gulf. Congress realizes that our imports of foreign oil could be quickly terminated. They understand that the fuel from farms could be a key contribution in meeting our country's future energy needs," he said.

The bill, S. B. 427, provides for a per bushel payment to ethanol processors using Michigan corn. The payments would be phased out over time, Smith said. The bill now moves to the House.

Lottery Winners Change Little After Their Lucrative Bonanza

Become a Michigan Lottery millionaire and the odds are good that you will stay pretty much the same person. You will probably keep your regular friends, and they won't treat you much differently than usual. This was the consensus among the 128 winners of prizes worth $1 million or more who responded to a questionnaire distributed prior to the Michigan Lottery Millionaire Reunion held recently in Grand Rapids.

"While elated over winning a large prize, many claiming first installments express concern that their new status might disrupt close ties to family and friends," said Lottery Commissioner Michael J. Carr. "The survey indicates this doesn't happen

Dental researchers are experimenting with special implants which can be left in a patient's mouth to reduce decay and periodontal disease. It is well established that fluoride is the key substance used to prevent cavities. Fluoride works by actually combining hydroxylappatite, to form a new substance called fluoroappatite. This new substance is much harder than regular tooth enamel and much more resistant to decay. The best way to have decay resistant teeth is to have fluoride present when the teeth are being formed in the childhood years through fluoridated water or fluoride vitamins. The next defense against cavities is through topical fluoride placed on the teeth after they are already formed. Currently this is done through using fluoridated toothpastes approved by the ADA, mouthrinses containing fluoride, and professignal fluoride treatments at the dental office. In the future dentists may be attatching fluoride "implants" to a patient's back teeth. These implants, which are temporarily bonded to the teeth, would slowly release a steady amount of fluoride into the saliva and onto the teeth. At regular checkups the dentist would remove the worn out implants and replace it with a fresh one.

Similar research is being done with implants placed under the gum to fight periodontitis. Different types of antibiotics have been experimented with in an effort to kill the plaque-forming bacteria that contribute to gum disease. The biggest problem is getting the plaque fighting agents deep down into the pockets around the teeth where the most damage is being done. Recently it was reported that Vipont Laboratories, the people who make Viadent toothpaste and mouthrinse, are developing a polymer gel that could be placed below the gumline to slowly release sanguinarine, a plaque fighting agent. A company spokesman feels this may allow dentists 🖇 to control bacteria for six months to a year. The cost to patients would be about $75 but it probably won't be available for about 33

School Board OKs Special Meetings, Early Retirement, Girls Golf

The School Board, at their last insurance will receive an $11,000 bonus. meeting, Monday, Dec. 7, voted to The amount of the bonus decreases by hold two special meetings on the same $1,000 a year until regular retirement years. day in January, approved the early retirement plan, and gave the goahead for a girls golf team and a fulltime intern trainer.

At the request of the personnel committee, the board voted to call two special meetings on Jan. 18, one at noon and a second at 5 p.m., to meet with seven college placement directors regarding selection of the new superintendent. Both will be held in the private dining room of the Chelsea Community Hospital, so that participants will have time to eat during their busy day. That evening, the regularly scheduled meeting of the school board will take place.

The seven college placement directors are scheduled to spend the day in Chelsea reviewing the applications for the superintendant's job. At the noon meeting, they will listen to input from the school board on what they are looking for in a superintendent. They will then spend the afternoon reading over the applications, meeting again with the board at 5 p.m. to report on their findings.

The placement directors will divide the applications into categories such as those that appear to meet the specifications, those that are qualified but do not seem to be what Chelsea wants, and those that are not recommended for further consideration. After hearing the recommendations, the school board will review the applications themselves and make the final decision on whom to interview.

The board voted approval for the early retirement plan as recommended by the administration. Under the terms of the plan, which will go into operation this school year, school employees will receive a bonus for retiring early. Historians relate that jolly old Saint Nicholas, or Santa Claus as we know him, was no mere legendary character. He actually lived about 300 A.D.; a Bishop of Asia Minor who was looked upon as the patron saint of generosity because of his love of giving toys and trinkets to children.

Through the ages Saint Nick has evolved into the toy-making, giftgiving-"right jolly old elf" first introduced in Germany and other European countries, and, eventually to America.

Though he doesn't wear white whiskers or a red suit, Herman Hoffman, Michigan Center, prominent Waterloo Area Historical Society (WAHS) member, is considered by the Society to be still another counterpart of Santa Claus. Hoffman, a retired cabinet maker, has in the past two years carved several hundred wooden toys, some to be sold to benefit WAHS, many others given to children attending the Waterloo Farm Museum's annual Christmas Open House, Dec. 5-6.

Another attraction enjoyed by open house visitors was a Christmas tree decorated with candles and Victorian ornaments. The ornaments are a recent gift to the historical society from Mary Kill, Grass Lake, greatgranddaughter of Jake Realy, whose ancestors built the Realy homestead in 1855. This property was acquired by WAHS in 1962 and subsequently became Waterloo Area Farm Museum.

Additionally, an old-time feather tree, on loan from Pat Russell, Chelsea, open house chairperson, has received much interest from Museum visitors. Feather trees were first imported with hand-made ornaments, from Germany before the turn of the century. They are sparse trees made of dyed-goose feathers, and resemble the German "weiss tanne," a tree that spouts branches which circle the trunk like spokes. Because of its wide displayed Christmas postcards during branches it offers plenty of room for candles and ornaments. The weiss tree has become the traditional German Christmas tree. Antique feather trees are becoming rare, and a tree made before WW-1 is valued at approximately $600 for a 44-inch tree.

The exhibit of antique dolls and toys shown during the holiday event, was co-ordinated by Charlotte Campbell, Unadilla. The dolls chosen for display are from Campbell's over 40-yearcollection of 200 dolls from states across the country, as well as Ireland and Germany. Campbell's doll collection began when, as an adult, her mother returned dolls given to her as a child.

Christmas, 1843 was drawing nigh when Henry Cole, an English gentleman who had fallen behind in his correspondance, created the first Christmas postcard. The history of postcard-art adds to the interest of collecting antique postcards. Elaine Bush, Gregory, whose collection of antique postcards covers 20 subjects, the open house. Bush, who has been collecting for 35 years, disclosed that the hand-written messages on the back of antique postcards are also of historical, and sometimes comic interest. Such as a card, written in fine Spencerian script, tells in no uncertain terms what the writer thought of President McKinley.

Guests at the open house enjoyed recorder-artist, Pat Aeschliman, Gregory, perform holiday music, as well as the music of Carl Hakes, Hanover, and Patti Pelton, Grass Lake, dulcimer players.

Beside a glowing yule log in the log house's stone fireplace, mulled cider and Christmas cookies were served to visitors before they departed.

Outgoing senior co-ordinator Winans is looking forward to a longdeserved rest. She says, "My energy banks are depleted. I need time to mend, to heal." At the same time, she stresses that she will be available to help and still wants to be involved in senior affairs, especially advocacy matters such as housing.

Reminiscing about her work with seniors, Winans said she first became interested in seniors when she worked at the United Methodist Retirement Home and met a woman who had been a missionary nurse in China before there was a Chinese word for "nurse." The woman worked at an orphanage and during the revolution, led the children over a difficult mountain pass to safety. Winans said, "Younger people haven't had time for such exciting experiences."

Winans continued, "Seniors' life stories and experiences are a never ending source of wisdom. I admire what they have lived through and endured. It's amazing."

Drinking, Driving Create Holiday Season Hazards

The joint resolution of the 100th Congress (S.J.RES. 136) proclaims the week of Dec. 13 through Dec. 19 as "National Drunk and Drugged Driving Awareness Week."

Some simple hints for party givers are to always serve food with beverages, have non-alcoholic drinks available, close the bar an hour before the party ends and if someone has had too much to drink make sure to keep his car keys, call him a cab or have him stay the night. Friends don't let friends drive drunk.

Information from the National Highway and Traffic Safety Administration confirms that alcohol related traffic crashes kill about 23,500 Americans every year and seriously injure 561,000 others. About 50 percent of all fatal traffic crashes Washtenaw county groups such as involve a driver who is under the in-

It is an appropriate time for individual drivers to be reminded that their best defense against the drunk driver is to buckle up. # Farmers May Be Losers In Budget Compromise budget deficit reduction package $3 billion in fiscal year 1987 and could agreement reached by Congress and fall by another $2 billion to $5 billion in the administration. According to fiscal 1988. Yet, the negotiators pro-Michigan Farm Bureau's director of pose to cut existing farm programs by public affairs, Al Almy, farmers and another $900 million rather than pare the nation's taxpayers are the real losers because budget deficit negotiators failed to tackle the tough

"We're very disappointed by the lack of meaningful progress in the budget talks. The American public had higher expectations," Almy said. "The 'tax and spend' way of thinking in Washington remains intact and under the current budget process, many big ticket spending programs are on automatic pilot. If we don't regain control over these programs, there is no hope that we will ever move toward a balanced budget."

Farm Bureau had urged the budget negotiators to reject tax increases, impose a spending freeze at 1987 levels with a department-bydepartment cap on spending, and a reform of the congressional budget

Almy said that under the proposals being considered by the negotiators, agriculture will bear more of the spending cuts than other categories, despite the fact that spending on farm programs is falling at a faster rate than anticipated.

"Farm program costs are already declining and now they are planning to cut spending even further. Farm Farm Bureau is disappointed in the program spending will fall by almost back automatic costs of living increases of 4% in other entitlement programs. Farm programs represent the only area of government spending that's coming down substantially," Almy said.

"As self-employed individuals, farmers already face substantial increases in Social Security taxes in 1988. The burden becomes even greater with the addition of tax increases expected to come from the deficit agreement and higher user fees," he said.

Village Christmas Party Axed

The annual Christmas party for Chelsea village employees has been cancelled this year due to budget cuts. Village council authorized the cuts a number of months ago while deciding how much to raise taxes.

Those who are normally invited to the party include all employees, village council members, and planning commission members.

However, council decided at their Dec. 1 meeting to name an employee of the year. That person has traditionally been honored at the Christmas party.
