CHELSEA DEPOT ASSOCIATION was given $5,000 by the Chelsea Civic Foundation for its interior renovation project. Bill Nuffer, left, on behalf of the civic foundation, presented the money to Lee Fahrner, chairman of the depot association.

Civic Foundation Gives $5,000 to Depot Association

At the Jan. 28 meeting of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea, the board voted to award $5,000 to the Depot Association for its interior renovation project.

Lee Fahrner, chairman of the Association, made a presentation before the distribution committee in November, while awaiting the outcome of a request submitted to the Michigan Equity Fund.

The Depot Association was awarded $30,000 of the requested $70,000 to cover the cost of renovation and furnishing of the historic building. The balance of $40,000 will be solicited from local organizations and interested residents.

The Civic Foundation and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, which also donated $5,000, have been very supportive of community efforts to renovate the Depot. The Chamber will relocate its office from the village meeting room to the depot upon completion of the project.

In recent months the Foundation has awarded a $2,000 grant to the Chelsea United Methodist Home for the inclusion of a community meeting room in its renovation plans.

Awards were also made to the elementary school Triad program to defray costs associated with making a Nature Walk near South school. A study of "The Stonework of Chelsea" was financed through the Chelsea Area Historical Society from a Civic Foundation grant.

The Civic Foundation board is committed to supporting efforts by local organizations to improve the quality of life for area residents and welcome qualified groups to make grant requests to the Foundation with that goal in mind.

Tests of Landfill Water Still Show Pollution, DNR Holds Village Responsible

Village officials, their attorneys and the Department of Natural Resources plan to meet sometime this month to discuss the village's landfill operating license and the alleged groundwater pollution problems at the landfill.

As of last Friday, a meeting date had not been arranged.

DNR has said it will not issue an operating license for the landfill until it gets assurance that the village will clean up any groundwater pollution problems caused by the landfill. DNR has asked the village to sign a consent decree that makes the village totally responsible for the clean-up.

Village President Jerry Satterthwaite has flatly refused to sign the document in its current form. He contends that the DNR should share the liability because the village has followed DNR guidelines all along and has met or exceeded all licensing requirements.

DNR engineer Synthia Noble said last Friday that the DNR has not changed its position and expects the village to clean up any groundwater contamination.

The village is working with the Grand Rapids law firm of Barnum, Riddering, Schmidt & Howlett, a firm that specializes in environmental issues.

The most recent round of tests of water from monitoring wells at the landfill shows a pollution problem, according to Noble. A village-appointed geological firm and the DNR split samples of water from seven wells at the landfill in January and each performed their own tests on the water. The village has sent copies of its results to the DNR, which Noble has studied. DNR tests have not been completed, Noble said.

The most recent village test results, and results of tests conducted earlier by both parties, do not agree on what chemicals are present and how much of them are present.

New tests show benzene in quantities ranging from .8 to 9.8 parts per billion and 1-1 dichlorethane in quantities ranging from 2.6 to 18 parts per billion. There was no mention of vinyl chloride or CIS-1,2 dichlorethylene, which showed up in previous DNR tests.

"Even if our tests come back completely clean it wouldn't matter," Noble said.

"The fact is that (contaminants) are coming from the landfill. A landfill is a non-homogenous source and you can't expect that what is present one day will be present the next. It's not unusual to find some variance."

Noble says the most damning evidence of contamination is that monitoring wells downstream of the landfill have higher quantities of the chemicals than monitoring wells upstream. Many of the chemicals present in wells downstream are in quantities lower than standards set by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for drinking water, she said. But the fact that they are in higher quantities than water that has not yet gone by the landfill is cause for concern, she said.

Preliminary tests of residential wells near the landfill have shown no sign of contamination in tests by the Washtenaw County Health Department.

However, those results are not convincing to Noble.

"The fact that they're clean now doesn't mean they'll remain clean," Noble said.

"The only way we could be sure is through routine monitoring of the residence."

Noble said that many other landfills around the state are having the same problems as Chelsea. She said evidence of contamination has turned up in groundwater at the Ann Arbor landfill and Ann Arbor will not be issued a new operating license until the city agrees to take care of the problem. Chelsea has built a new cell and is awaiting a license. Ann Arbor has plans to build a new cell. The Chelsea landfill will be full within a few months unless the new cell can be used. Ann Arbor landfill will reportedly fill up by the end of the year if it cannot construct a new cell.

In addition, she said, the Jackson landfill is "oozing."

"Chelsea shouldn't feel like we're picking on them," Noble said.

"This is not an isolated problem." One of the problems, says assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, is that testing technology has become so much more precise than it was when the landfill was initially built. In addition, DNR has gradually changed its requirements.

Noble said that proposals currently under consideration would change landfill specifications to the point that Chelsea's new cell, which meets all current requirements, would be sub-standard.

Clean-up of the landfill, if required, would be a costly, time-consuming undertaking, Noble admitted.

She said Chelsea could either treat the contaminated water on a continuing basis by taking it to a wastewater treatment plant, or could put vertical barriers, called "slurry walls" into the ground to hold the contamination back. The walls would be constructed of impermeable clay.

"It took a lot of years to cause the problem and it will take a long time to solve it," Noble said.

Meet Your Candidates

Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of profiles of candidates for the March 14 village elections. Each week through March 9 The Standard will focus on candidates for village council and village president. Candidates for all other village positions are in uncontested races. The Standard does not endorse any particular candidate(s). This week's candidates are Charles Ritter and Richard Rigg.

Charles Ritter, 509 Maywood St., is seeking his first term ever on the village council.

However, Ritter is far from a novice in village politics. He served as village president in 1980-81, but did not seek a second term. He ran for village president in 1986 against incumbent Jerry Satterthwaite and lost 378-271.

Ritter, a manufacturer's representative for medical implant devices, moved to Chelsea in 1939 from Kansas, where he attended Parsons College. He said he moved here because he had a friend who lived here. He has two daughters, who live in Northville and Livonia, and six grandchildren.

"I think I have something to offer the taxpayers of the Village of Chelsea," Ritter said of his reasons for running for office.

"I understand the workings of government."

Ritter declined an invitation by The Standard to discuss his views on issues facing the village.

"Most people know where I stand," Ritter said.

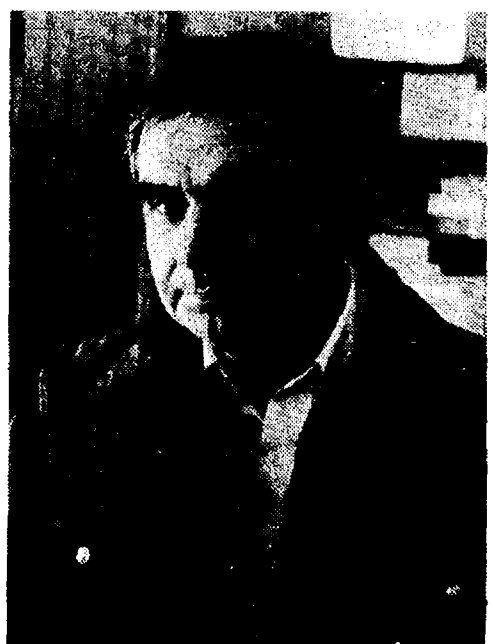

"I don't have anything to say. I'm not going to do any advertising. I just think the taxpayers need someone to keep close watch as to what's going on in village government. And I have the time to put in on the job. I'm not like some of (the trustees) who don't know what's in their pocket until they get to the meeting."

Ritter's only discussion of any issue concerned spending in general by village government.

"Something's got to be done about all these expenditures," he said. "We can't keep getting taxed."

Ritter has been one of Satterthwaite's, and village government's, most vocal critics. He has made no secret of his dislike of Satterthwaite. In his 1986 run for village president he said publicly that if he were elected he would fire village manager Fritz Weber. He opposed the hiring of assistant manager Lee Fahrner. More recently, Ritter was critical of the Downtown Development Authority and he accused the village council of not providing enough information about the legal rights of voters who live in the downtown development district. In addition, a complaint he filed with the Washtenaw county prosecutor's office over a bonus paid to an auxiliary policeman sparked an investigation by the state police.

"I'm sure a lot of (the trustees) don't want me in there checking everything they do," Ritter said.

RICHARD RIGG

CHARLES RITTER

Richard Rigg has lived in Chelsea since 1976, when he moved here from Manchester with his family.

Rigg is an engineer at Chrysler Proving Grounds, where he has worked for 25 years in various capacities.

For a time, Rigg worked at Chrysler, attended night school, was a member of the Army Reserves and owned the Manchester Dairy Queen all at the same time.

"I did all that at the same time and survived," Rigg said.

"I think I'm certainly up to the challenge of being a Chelsea village trustee."

While a Manchester resident, Rigg served a term as village trustee. One of his primary responsibilities was working to develop the parks and recreation facilities in the village. He was successful in putting together a grant application which secured money for Chi-Broil Park, the central point for Manchester's annual chicken broil.

Rigg and the Manchester council were faced with some of the same issues that face Chelsea today; low income housing for senior citizens; what to do with the village's garbage; and expanding the sewage system. Rigg recalls voting against a low income housing project because of the circumstances involved in its placement in the village, not because he's opposed to low income housing.

"We need to address the concerns of senior citizens here," Rigg said.

"People living on fixed incomes have a lot of challenges."

Rigg said he decided to run for trustee because "I have the time to do the job well now."

"With my experience, and the people I know, I think I can get things done," Rigg said.

"I think I've become reasonably well-connected through working at Chrysler. The Proving Grounds is actually like a mini-town."

Rigg, who describes himself as a "conservative person," says budget control, creating jobs in Chelsea, and addressing the needs of senior citizens are three of the biggest issues facing the village. He says he is also concerned about the village growing too fast.

"I'm happy with the village and I don't want it to be overgrown," Rigg says.

Rigg has remained a member of the Manchester Masonic lodge, and at one time was its master. He has also been active in the Chelsea Band Boosters, but is not affiliated with the organization now. He is a member of the First United Methodist church.

His wife, Mary, works in the undergraduate admissions office at the University of Michigan. His daughter, Mary, attends Albion College. Son, John, attends Chelsea High school.

Village, Papo Work Out Development Agreement For Planned Strip Mall

Village of Chelsea and developer Rene Papo have hammered out a development agreement regarding the proposed Chelsea Shopping Center project at Old US-12 and M-52, but it may be a while before the agreement is signed.

The latest wrench in the works is a request by the Washtenaw County Road Commission that truck traffic not be allowed to run down Old Manchester Rd. Papo's plans had called for truck traffic to be able to enter and exit from both M-52 and Old Manchester Rd.

If Old Manchester Rd. cannot be used, a change would have to be made to Papo's site plans that would allow trucks to loop behind the shopping center. And any changes to the plans would have to be approved by the village planning commission.

Papo said Friday that he is trying to set up a meeting of the road commission and the state highway department to work out the details.

The development agreement is a five-page document detailing responsibilities of both the village and the developer. Village council was originally to have considered it at last night's village council meeting.

The agreement specifies that Papo will pay the village $15,000 "in consideration of the benefit to be received by this project as a result of the village's construction of a 10-inch trunkline sanitary sewer improvement to the village's collection system servicing this area."

The $15,000 share would be decreased proportionally if the village receives its $225,000 grant from the state commerce department.

Virtually all of the agreement lists what the developer will do.

Chelsea essentially agrees to construct a 10-inch trunkline sewer, construct a 12-inch water main within the Old Manchester Rd. right-of-way, and assume responsibility for their maintenance.

Some of Papo's responsibilities include:

- to submit six copies of detailed plans for the construction of sidewalks, grading, water mains, sanitary sewers, storm sewers, street lights and landscaping according to village standards
- to install all required site grading, storm water retention, soil erosion and sedimentation control and remove all bog, muck, or other unsuitable material within the private drive areas and backfill the areas with materials meeting village specifications
- to provide stormwater detention so that the water won't cause damage to neighboring property

Chelsea Congregational church marked their 125th birthday. On Feb. 21, 1849, the church was organized with 16 charter members. In this group were some of the New England Congregationalists who had settled here between 1832 and 1834. In 1852, at the present location of the church on E. Middle St., the First Congregational church was built—the first church building in Chelsea. A fire destroyed that building in 1894, however an Estey Reed organ was saved from the fire and is displayed in the church fellowship room. Mrs. Larry Chapman was chairman of the 125th anniversary, and the Rev. Carl Schwarm was pastor at that time.

Study Cites Need for New Hazardous Waste Landfill and Incinerator

A recent report by the Departments of Commerce and Natural Resources said a new hazardous waste landfill is needed as well as development of a hazardous waste incinerator that would benefit industry.

The "Hazardous Waste Management Capacity Needs Study" also concluded that hazardous waste treatment and recycling capacity is generally in strong supply in the state and that small companies require continued education on hazardous waste regulations.

DNR Director Gordon Guyer said the findings in no way alter the department's preference for the reduction, recycling and treatment of hazardous wastes over landfilling. "It is clear, however, that landfill space will continue to be needed to dispose of treatment residuals and wastes for which treatment options have not yet been developed," he said.

Commerce Director Doug Ross reiterated that facilities which treat and dispose of hazardous wastes are part of the infrastructure needed by business. He noted that interviews conducted for the study showed that access to safe waste management facilities at reasonable cost is a clear concern of the Michigan business community.

While the study concluded that additional hazardous waste facilities are needed, both men said Michigan is in good shape when compared to other states.

Under federal law, they noted, all states must certify by October, 1989 that they have capacity to manage all hazardous wastes generated within their borders over the next 20 years.

States which cannot make this certification will lose eligibility for federal Superfund money to clean up contamination sites.

"Research conducted for the study puts us way ahead of most states in simply understanding what we must have in place," Guyer said.

The report stated that more than 5,200 Michigan businesses, government agencies and non-profit institutions generated approximately 3.9 million tons of hazardous waste in 1986.

The majority was managed at licensed facilities on the site of generation; however, approximately 731,000 tons of waste was shipped off site to commercial hazardous waste management facilities for treatment, recycling or disposal.

The state's lone commercial landfill is expected to reach capacity in three to five years, the report declared. That facility presently accepts approximately 380,000 tons of hazardous waste per year. Waste requiring incineration at a commercial facility must be shipped out of state.

The study was conducted by the two state departments, under the guidance of an advisory board composed of environmental, industrial and state and local government representatives.

It compared waste generation in Michigan to available capacity at existing treatment, recycling and disposal facilities. The effects of regulatory changes and other factors influencing disposal practices were also analyzed as part of the study.

Police Help Nab Accused Felon

Chelsea police assisted the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department in the apprehension of an accused felon in downtown Manchester on Wednesday, Feb. 10.

Chelsea police received an anonymous telephone call that day informing them that James P. Samek, 20, of Ypsilanti, wanted for assault, violation of parole, and possession of alcohol, was walking with a friend in downtown Manchester.

Initially, police could not find Samek. However, another anonymous call at 7:35 p.m. the same day said Samek was at the Village Tap. Soon thereafter police apprehended Samek.

Police said that when questioned Samek produced false identification. Samek was transported to the Washtenaw County jail.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers still had reserch on the agender at the country store Saturday night. It was Clem Webster that opened with a report where a Government study shows a sure way to improve traffic safety is to quit teaching people how to drive. He told the fellers millions of public dollars are spent in schools every year on driver education that turns hundreds of thousands of teenagers loose on the roads.

According to what this reserch called statistical projections, Clem said, we could save 2,000 lives a year by raising the age to git a license to 20. Clem said there's no end to what highway safety experts can do with this information. Fer instant, they're bound to figger out that raising the license age to 40 and cutting it off at 60 would do wonders fer the accident rate. If the Federal Aviation Administration was to cancel everybody's pilot license, Clem said, think what that would do fer the growing problems of near misses and crowded airports.

The wonder is, Clem went on, that we got Federal agencies paying good money fer grants and contracts to come up with this kind of advice. We got a surgeon general that would like to make smoking a capital offense, and we got a USDA that's got to be a cessory before, during and after the fact with its tobacco price supports and reserch on how to grow more tobacco to the acre. We got to take it all with a big grain of salt, Clem said, and then use our best judgment.

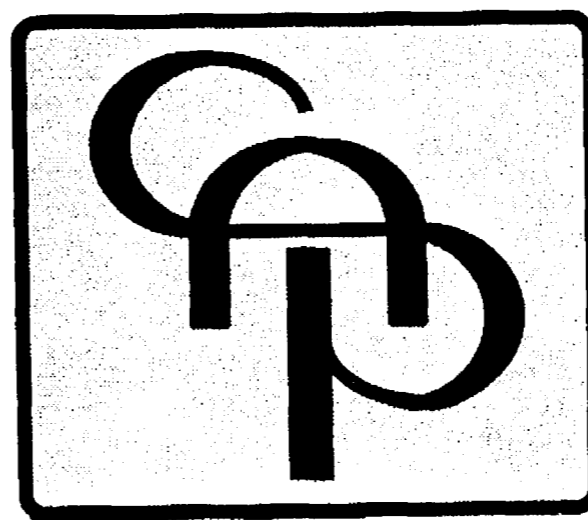

Fer instant, he went on, he had saw where Charlie Osborne has lived 93 year in Aitkin, Minn., and he has been hiccupping steady the last 65 of em. He has a standing offer of $10,000 fer a cure, but you can bet he ain't ready fer the remedy them boys found in Rhode Island. One of em tried to scare the hiccups out of the other with a loaded pistol he thought was empty. In a heap of other cases, Clem allowed, the cure is worst than the disease.

Speaking of disease, Bug Hookum said as certain as February has come his cold that hangs on til spring. Bug said fer all the foundations and all the reserch going on in this country, nobody can do a thing about the most common ailment of all except make us feel just good enough we hope we outlive it. The good news is, he's got the cold and not his old lady. When he's sick she just adds him to her chores and keeps on going, but everthing stops when she's laid up.

Bug's lament got a rise from Josh Clodhopper, that listens a heap more than he talks. Josh said germs and viruses are mysteries to him. They tell us colds are caused by virus, but we catch colds from wet feet that stuff up our heads. The virus must be in the rain, Josh said, and that explains the theory about diseases coming from outer space. He had saw where a scientist is of a mind that germs and viruses fall to earth on meters and other objects, otherwise how could people oceans apart die of the same ailment when they've had no contact with one another.

If reserch has give us any good news fer the cold season, Josh said, it's that a kind of balance is seen in the battle agin viruses. From what he's been reading, Josh went on, the deadlier the virus the more delicate it is. The AIDS virus is a killer that dies in open air. The cold virus can't kill, but it lives everwhere. We know it lives in space, Josh said, because them retired asternots are making big bucks selling stuff on television that made them feel better out there.

Woman's Club Hears Teacher Tell of Trip to Mongolia

Woman's Club of Chelsea met at the home of Jinny Johnson on Feb. 9 to hear Beach Middle school teacher Judy Ward tell of how she spent her summer vacation.

Visiting Inner Mongolia with a tour group of 16, 14 of which were women, Judy experienced many unusual travel "perks." Which as she informed the group, if you're looking for a "Hilton-Head" type of vacation with all the amenities, do not take this trip.

The country which is just now emerging from the cultural revolution of the middle 60's is aggressively courting western tourists although lacking the normal standard of living we are accustomed to.

She spoke of the extreme friendliness, the ever-present curiosity and the obsessive interest the native population exhibited in anything western.

Riding horseback, living in tents and finally sharing comparatively luxury accommodations such as four bunks to a room with very primitive bathing facilities did not daunt Ward. She is anxious to continue her learning experience of the Chinese and their customs.

President Lila Pawlowski conducted a brief business meeting at which plans were finalized for the Valentine Tea to be held at the Chelsea United Methodist Home.

Co-hostess for the evening was Kathy Heeter, with assistance provided by Joyce Vogel and Betty Oesterle.

The club's next meeting will be on March 8 at Merkel's at 7:30 p.m. Any woman in the area wishing to attend this meeting is invited to call Shirley Smith at 475-7591 for further details or to arrange a ride.

Historical Society Will Hear Ann Arbor Library Director

Ramon Hernandez, director of the Ann Arbor Public Library since 1983, will talk about "The May Festival: A Slice of Human History" at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting at 2 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 21.

The meeting will be in Bentley Library, 1150 Beal, on the University of Michigan's North Campus. Doors will open at 1:45 p.m. It is open to the public free of charge.

The annual May Festival, which started in 1894, is still a fixture of the local musical scene. The speaker plans to focus on human interest stories of early festivals and Ann Arbor around the turn of the century.

Hernandez has established himself as one of the city's most popular and versatile lecturers.

He graduated from Elmhurst College in history, Eden Theological Seminary in St. Louis and earned a master's degree in library science at the University of Wisconsin.

During the 1960s he was a United Church of Christ pastor in Merrill, Wis., four years and UCC director of youth work in Madison six years.

He directed the Merrill Public Library 1970-75 and Wisconsin Rapids Public Library until coming to Ann Arbor.

March of Dimes Fashion Show Slated March 5

Spring arrives early this year as the March of Dimes celebrates its 50th anniversary with the annual Luncheon Fashion Show Saturday, March 5.

Daffodils will bloom on the tables and Happy Birthday balloons will decorate the Michigan League ballroom as Jacobson's models present spring fashions following luncheon at 12:30 p.m.

Matthew C. Hoffman has designed a special piece of jewelry to be raffled off at the event and the League has planned a spring luncheon menu.

March of Dimes is proudly celebrating its half-century of service to children and babies. As the only health organization to have completed its mission—removing the threat of polio—March of Dimes now concentrates its efforts on birth defects. Contributions to the effort will speed the day when children can come into the world healthy and whole.

Tavi Fulkerson is chair of this year's event. Bay Design Group and Chelsea Flowers will decorate the halls and ballroom of the League.

Reservation may be made by calling 761-6331. Tickets are $20 including lunch and proceeds benefit the March of Dimes.

SCD Farmer of Year Award Goes to Jedeles

Lloyd and David Jedele, Saline, were presented the "Walter Wolfgang Memorial" Conservation Farmer of the Year Award for 1987 at the 39th annual meeting of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District, held Tuesday, Feb. 2, at the Freedom Town Hall, Freedom township.

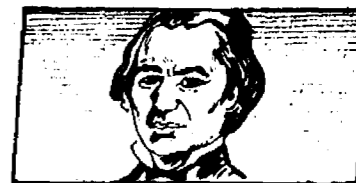

The "Wolfgang Memorial" Award is presented to outstanding conservation farmers. The Jedeles were recognized for their use of no-till, grassed waterways, support of the Washtenaw County No-Till Club and their good land stewardship ethics.

Seventy-one people in attendance at the meeting heard reports on Soil Conservation District activities: the 1985 Farm Bill from Gary Rinkenberger, USDA Soil Conservation Service, district conservationist; advantages of tree planting from Bill Hoppe, DNR Area Forester; and learned about the Pheasants Forever wildlife organization from Steve Schneider, Pheasants Forever Washtenaw County Chapter member.

One district director was elected to a three-year term. With 53 votes cast, Jay Hopkins, Lyndon township, was re-elected to a second term.

Featured speaker for the annual meeting was Bob Driscoll of the Great Lakes Farm Radio Network. Bob likened the problem in agriculture over the past 20 years to the Titanic, but presented a positive and bright future for agriculture as new uses and markets develop for agricultural products in the next 25 years.

The annual meeting was closed with a drawing of door prizes donated by 14 county businesses.

Andrew Johnson was the only ex-President to be elected to the United States Senate.

"Adversity introduces a man to himself . . ."

Strangely enough, it is under adverse conditions that the average person is offered a close view of the mettle of his makeup. Under less than ideal conditions, most people discover that they have the qualities necessary to resolve their problems in acceptable and workmanlike fashion.

However, there are certain to be instances where the individual finds that in one respect or another he can't quite measure up to the needs of the moment. Luckily, such disappointments are few compared to the more gratifying results.

SUPERCONDUCTING SUPER COLLIDER was the subject of a talk at the Monday, Feb. 8 meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea. Ed Grobe, director of development for Ingham county, left, told the club that the project would not create an economic boom for Stockbridge and the surrounding area as some have predicted. He said many of the construction workers would be drawn from the surrounding area and that there is plenty of room to absorb the projected 3,000 additional workers the facility would employ. He also said that existing farmland could still be farmed. The Stockbridge area is one of the finalists for what would be the largest public works project ever undertaken. Above, Grobe points to the part of the 53-mile circle that would be closest to Chelsea. Club member Dave Bust looks on.

School Board OKs Early Retirements

Chelsea School Board at their Feb. 15 meeting, accepted, with regret, the retirement of two elementary school teachers: Mary Alice Hafer from North school and Marilyn Lopez from South school. Both are taking advantage of the early retirement plan after teaching in the Chelsea district since 1969.

The retirements of Lopez and Hafer bring the total number of early retirements up to three. At the last board meeting, the retirement of Helen St. Louis was approved by the board.

In the only other action of the evening, the board approved continuing with the services of Curtis, Bailey, Exelby, and Spisito to conduct this year's audit. This firm has been employed by the Chelsea district for the last 10 years.

It was noted that Chelsea Industries had donated a microfiche reader/printer, valued at $500, for use in the High school media center.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills presented a serious injury and illness policy for the board to consider and vote on at the next meeting. Mills explained that the policy was just a written form of what is already the administration's procedure on such things as what information is needed from parents and how injuries are treated.

The annual school board election will be held June 13 to fill the expiring terms of Lloyd Grau and Joe Redding. Neither has yet indicated whether he will seek re-election. April 11 is the last day to file petitions.

Drainage Project May Be Changed

(Continued from page one) However, a letter dated Jan. 20 from Washtenaw Engineering, working on behalf of the drain commissioner's office, indicated that the western boundary of the district should be the centerline of M-52.

The letter indicated that everything west of M-52 should drain into the Wilkinson St. drain and that a clean-out of the drain is needed.

"A clean-out of the drain is needed to alleviate drainage problems on the fairgrounds property as well as to provide capacity for proposed development within the watershed area," the letter said. A 92,000-square-foot strip mall is planned for land next to the fairgrounds, which will have significant stormwater run-off.

In order to set up a drainage district for the land east of M-52, the county has to set up a Board of Determination, consisting of disinterested parties, to determine if the project is needed.

How the proposed change will affect a strip mall planned for land next to Polly's Market is not clear. Part of the original reason for the petition was to give developer Mike Kennedy a way to drain stormwater from his proposed project.

Mary E. Eassa Completes Air Force Basic Training

Airman Mary E. Eassa, daughter of Judith E. Eassa of 4990 S. Lake Rd., Chelsea, has graduated from Air Force basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In addition, airmen, who complete basic training earn credits toward an associate degree through the community college of the Air Force.

She is a 1985 graduate of Chelsea High school.

The U. S. Labor Department found $40.6 million due to 187,401 workers as a result of minimum wage violations during the 1986 fiscal year, according to the department's annual report.

Village Renews Contract With Development Council

Village of Chelsea has renewed its contract with the Washtenaw Economic Development Council for one year at a cost of $1,883.

The action came at the Feb. 2 meeting of the village council. The matter had been tabled at the previous meeting after some members of council and one member of the audience expressed concern that at least one county business was influenced by the council not to relocate in Chelsea due to pressure from Detroit Edison. Village of Chelsea buys its electricity from Consumers Power and resells it, essentially acting as an electrical utility.

The council, according to chair Gretchen Walters, was set up to create and preserve jobs for the county. At the Jan. 19 meeting of the council she expressed surprise at the allegations and said that businesses rarely base a relocation decision on utility costs alone.

Others questioned how enthusiastically the council was working to sell prospects on the village's industrial park, which currently has three tenants.

Councilman Phil Boham told Walters he was concerned that the village didn't have the information it needed to thoroughly evaluate the council's efforts. He also said he wondered if Chelsea had resources to market itself properly on its own.

"I'm looking at it from the standpoint that I need to be oriented as to the services that you provide," Boham said.

"I would look at it as though you were a brand new service coming in and I were a brand new prospective member and you were going to provide me with the orientation material that's going to outline what you would do for me as a village."

Walters told the council that they were welcome to sit in on an orientation session.

Walters, over the course of the two council meetings, had several comments in regards to the marketing of Chelsea and the industrial park.

• More clients are interested in existing buildings in Chelsea rather than constructing a building in the industrial park.

• Interest in any industrial park in the county depends somewhat on its proximity to Ann Arbor.

• Chelsea needs to decide what kind of businesses it wants in its industrial park. It has a book manufacturer, an auto body shop and an industrial laundry. The "mix" of businesses sends the wrong signal to clients, who might wonder what kind of business might move in next door.

• The village needs better marketing materials.

• The industrial park needs a sign.

• Chelsea's designated member of the council has not been attending the Council Extends Deadline For 151 Park St. Home

The village has given the owner of a home at 151 Park St. until April 1 to have tenants removed.

The home is on one of two parcels of land that will become the site of the new village office building.

The village entered a sales agreement with owner Milton Wallen, Jr. late last year, with a tentative closing date of Jan. 31. The contract stipulated that the building must be vacant before land would change hands.

"The question is how long do you give him," said trustee Phil Boham. If that home is in as bad a condition as they say it is, how long will it be before something happens?"

Village President Jerry Satterthwaite said Wallen was reluctant to start eviction proceedings because the tenants are on government assistance.

Council's action came at their regular meeting Tuesday, Feb. 2. The village has indicated it will probably have the building demolished once it takes possession.

PARENTS, STUDENTS AND TEACHERS took part in an afternoon workshop at North school last week in order to learn how to play the Mathematics Pentathlon. The game, which teaches elementary school children critical thinking skills and logical and hypothetical reasoning, is being used nationally to address deficiencies in mathematics education. The game is unusual in that it encourages participation by the entire educational community. It has also been shown to motivate students at all levels of skill. More than 100,000 children, called "Mathletes" participated in pentathlon tournaments every year. From left are an unidentified student, parent Sue Bennett, Kathy Kattula and Andy Bennett.

MATHEMATICS PENTATHALON, a math game that teaches critical thinking skills to children, was taught to North and South school students, teachers, and parents at an after school workshop last Tuesday, Feb. 9 at North Elementary school. The pentathlon, which is actually 20 different games (five games in each of four divisions), was designed to teach children logical and hypothetical reasoning. Parents were invited to learn the game so they could play with their children at home. Teachers will use the game during class time. From left are Sharon Hodgson, Mark Millizo, Jamie Murphy, Dorothy Broughton and Helen Prohaska.

4-H Leaders To Attend Workshop

Several Washtenaw county 4-H teen and adult livestock leaders will share program ideas and skills with other Michigan 4-H'ers at a teen livestock leaders' workshop Feb. 27, 28, at Kettunen Center in Tustin.

Purpose of the workshop is to teach practical livestock production and management and to develop communication and leadership techniques.

A panel discussion on getting into college and preparing for college entrance exams and tips on how to become a state Tel-Award winner will highlight the workshop. Topics of other sessions include job opportunities in the livestock industry, what's new in high technology, meats judging, wool production and judging, and livestock judging.

The workshop will emphasize reteaching so that participants can relay what they learn to other Washtenaw county 4-H'ers. Reservations are due Feb. 15.

This workshop is sponsored by the Michigan 4-H Foundation through a grant provided by Michigan Pork Producers Association, and Michigan Farm Credit Service.

For further information about the livestock workshop or other 4-H activities, contact Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service 4-H office, or call 971-0079.

Village To Annex Two Properties

Chelsea Village Council voted to petition the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners to bring two township properties into the village.

The owners of properties at 714 McKinley St. and 5825 Sibley Rd., asked to become part of the village. Both residents want to use village services.

Action came at the Tuesday, Feb. 2 meeting of the council.

Both homes are on the edge of the village.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Asking if the taxpayers of Chelsea benefit from the fireworks is ludicrous! I was born and raised in Chelsea and some of my best childhood memories are of the fireworks. Just the other day, my three-year-old son saw some fireworks on TV and asked if his cousins were going to come to his house to see them again. The fourth of July celebration is an important symbol of our pride in our country.

Even as a homeowner in the area directly affected by the traffic from the fireworks I don't mind.

People come from out of town for the fair and it is seen for more than one day and also has many traffic and liability problems associated with it. Is our village council thinking of trying to stop the fair too?

I think that instead of doing everything in their power to stop an annual event that should be a symbol of patriotism and civic pride, our elected officials should do their best to ensure a show to be proud of.

I understand that there must be adequate insurance and crowd control but I don't think that these are insurmountable obstacles.

I think that if an address, to send donations to, was printed in The Standard (and possibly the Ann Arbor News) there would be tremendous support for the fireworks.

John C. (Jack) Wood.

Dear Editor,

This letter is to make a simple suggestion that might anger some people but is important anyway.

Pit bulls are vicious, insane animals that have been getting a poor reputation because of unprovoked violence. It might be humorous to some but people are getting seriously hurt. For this reason alone it is important that Chelsea High school change the name of its athletic teams to something less controversial than Bulldogs. No one in their right mind would want to be associated with these vicious, insane animals.

I suggest Spartans for a new name. The ancient Spartans were tough and competitive but not insane or vicious. This would please the many MSU fans in the area.

W. Parker.

Support Growing for Farm Diesel Fuel Excise Tax Exemption

Support for legislation to permit the tax-free purchase of farm diesel fuel for off-highway use continues to grow. Two Michigan Congressmen—Bill Schuette and Fred Upton—have joined the list of co-sponsors of six bills which have been introduced to exempt farmers from having to pay excise tax when they purchase diesel fuel and then file for a refund.

The new tax provision was included in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act passed late in December.

"Farm Bureau strongly opposes the new requirement that farmers pay this tax they do not owe," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau. "We have issued an action request letter to county Farm Bureau leaders across the state urging them to contact their U. S. Representatives and Senators to express their opposition to upfront payment of the diesel fuel excise tax." Unless Congress repeals the upfront payment, it will go into effect April 1.

Farm Program Rule Changes

On the eve of the Feb. 1-19 sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP), the U.S. Department of Agriculture added a new rule. The rule prohibits USDA from accepting any CRP bid that exceeds "the prevailing local rental rates for an acre of comparable land."

The USDA also ruled that 1987 crop wheat and feed grains used as collateral for price support loans, or grains already in existing special producer loans maturing after March 1, 1988, will not be eligible to enter the farmer-owned reserve.

Sgt. Yekulis Honored By Ann Arbor JCs

Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, has announced the presentation of a most distinguished award to one of his officers. Sergeant Joseph John Yekulis, Jr., has recently become the recipient of the Ann Arbor Jaycees "Distinguished Service Award."

Each year the Ann Arbor Jaycees present the Distinguished Service Award to an individual in acknowledgment and appreciation for the outstanding public services they provide for "... the betterment of life in our community and our society." Sergeant Yekulis was presented with this honor on Jan. 21, at an awards dinner held at the Holiday Inn West where he was acknowledged for his many community contributions, including his continued work in traffic safety and fatal accident investigations, as well as for his involvement with the Chelsea's Safety Town Program and the Family Violence Intervention Project; to name just a few.

Sgt. Yekulis has been with the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department since 1975 where he began his career as an Animal Control Officer. His outstanding performance of duties quickly advanced him to Road Patrol Deputy in 1977 and by 1980 he began his work in Traffic Services, Secondary Road Patrol Unit.

His primary duties in Traffic Services consisted of speed enforcement and fatal accident investigations, having completed seven levels of accident investigation training through Michigan State University. In addition, he has conducted many Public Safety Programs at area schools and drivers education classes; speaking on the topics of home, personal, and traffic safety.

Sergeant Yekulis has also acquired training as an Emergency Medical Technician and as an Advanced Medical Technician (Paramedic). He has been a certified radar instructor at Washtenaw Community College since 1985 and has trained more than 250 police officers in the use of radar.

After graduating from Lincoln Consolidated High School in 1973, Sgt. Yekulis went on to attend Eastern Michigan University, obtaining a bachelor's degree in political science in 1981. He is married to Denise and they have two daughters, Melissa and Margaret, ages 7 and 4.

Yekulis, age 31, was promoted from Road Patrol Deputy to the position of Sergeant on Jan. 1, 1987. As sergeant, his primary duties have been the general supervision of road patrol deputies in the Ypsilanti township area.

The Labor Department's annual report for fiscal 1986 states that about 1.5 million individuals were registered in the Work Incentive (WIN) program. Of these, an estimated 343,000 found unsubsidized jobs and 182,000 earned enough to be removed from public assistance during the 1986 fiscal year.

William Bliss' Wildflower Photos on Display at League

Photographer William Bliss of Chelsea has an assortment of his best wildflower pictures on display in the Michigan League dining room in Ann Arbor. All of the pictures, except for a few taken in the upper peninsula, are of flowers and plants found around Chelsea.

Bliss has identified more than 200 varieties of wild flowers in the Chelsea-Waterloo area. In fact, it was this variety that was one of the main reasons Bliss and his wife, Isabelle, moved to Chelsea from Cleveland after their retirement.

Bliss was born and lived, until 1981, in the Cleveland area. His professional life was spent as a chemical engineer, working for a large engineering firm that built chemical plants around the country.

Bliss began seriously pursuing his skill in photography in 1964, after returning from a trip to Ireland. His pictures taken abroad were so good that he was urged to take photography classes and thus encouraged, enrolled in evening courses at a local high school. He joined the Cleveland Photographic Society and later became their president.

Bliss not only learned to take pictures, but developed all the necessary darkroom skills, both with black and white and color. Since he was trained as a chemical engineer, he had no trouble figuring out the darkroom technology. He buys chemicals in bulk and mixes all his solutions.

While Bliss excels in nature photography, he does not limit himself to that field. Many of his pictures are portraits or scenes, urban or natural. Bliss is an active Quaker and for many years went to Quaker conventions around the world as the group's official photographer. In this way he visited Stockholm, Sweden; Sydney, Australia; Hamilton, Ont.; and Waterford, Ireland.

It was also the Quaker connection that led him to learn about the Chelsea area. Starting in 1965, he began camping at the Friends Lake Community on Long Lake. When he reached retirement age, he said that Florida did not appeal to him at all, but Chelsea with its glacial terrain did.

He built a house on Clark Lake Rd. in 1978, moving in permanently in 1981. He has kept busy exploring and photographing the variety of nature found in swamps, lakes, and highlands in this area, finding rare wildflowers in out-of-the-way spots such as "in the marsh among the poison sumac." His favorite hunting spots are Park Lyndon North and Long Lake.

Bliss identifies the flowers he finds with the aid of his extensive nature library. He is a treasure trove of information on plants and their origins, relating such facts as that lobelia is named after L'obel, a British herb doctor, or that fringed polygala used to be given to nursing mothers. He tells that the lady's slipper used to be named "Venus' slipper." After Christianity became established, the authorities, wishing to get rid of all pagan influences, changed the name to "Our Lady's slipper," referring to Mary, mother of Christ. Over the years the "our" has been dropped.

Bliss is always glad to share his knowledge, both of photography and of where to find flowers, although he has some concern that too many people visiting a given spot will make it too trampled. For several years he taught a class on nature photography in partnership with Jay Sinclair of Milan, who is also an enthusiastic nature photographer.

WILLIAM BLISS of Chelsea, who has an exhibit of his wildflower pictures on display at the Michigan League in Ann Arbor, holds up his photograph of a skunk cabbage. Although it is still the middle of winter, Bliss predicted that the skunk cabbage will soon be sighted in the Chelsea area. In "Roots: An Underground Botany and Foragers Guide," by Douglas B. Elliott, it is stated, "Skunk cabbage is well known for its early spring appearance. Often before the snow has melted, the pointed tips of the skunk cabbage may be seen protruding from the icy muck, like tightly sealed, fleshy tepees. It is surprising to know that in order to make this early appearance, these spikes first form late in the summer before, and remain dormant over most of the winter."

ing nature photographers, Bliss replied with five suggestions: "Carry a tripod so your pictures will be sharp;" (Bliss' detailed shots look like they were taken with a viewfinder camera, when, in fact, he uses only a 35mm.) "Use close-up lenses;" "Choose an uncluttered background or, if that's impossible, cover the background with a black towel;" "Find photogenic plants, not ones with holes;" "Build up the foreground with moss, you can put it back later and it will still grow." Bliss emphasizes that he never picks the flowers.

The League show came about by Bliss' generosity. The Bliss' often eat at the League, either on Sunday after church or on international night. Wishing to thank the hostess, Suzanne Ramey, who was always so kind to them, Bliss gave her four of his pictures that he had made into note cards. The next time she saw him, she asked if he would like to exhibit at the League.

Bliss made formal arrangements for the exhibit with Chelsea's Alice Thornton, who is a manager at the League. The pictures, 19 color shots and five black and white, are now on display in the League's dining room and will be for the rest of the month. The League is located at 911 N. University, just east of Hill Auditorium. Although it is perfectly all right to just look at the photographs, if viewers also wish to eat while they are there, they will find lunch served from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., light refreshments from 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., and dinner from 4:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m.

Let's Go

Bulldogs!

Five Chelsea Wrestlers Qualify for Regionals

Five Chelsea Bulldog wrestlers qualified for this week-end's regional tournament at Jackson County Western.

Eric Hanna (105), Alan Hanna (112), Craig McCalla (119), Robert Kornexl (126) and Bill Dixon (167) all qualified by finishing in the top four of last Saturday's district finals at Tecumseh High school.

"I was really glad to see them make it because four of them are youngsters and they'll have a chance to see what it takes to qualify for the state meet," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel. Kornexl is the only senior of the five.

Alan Hanna had the highest finish of the group by taking second place. The other four boys placed fourth and will automatically be paired against a number one seed at this Saturday's regional meet.

Alan Hanna lost to Dexter's Matt Tucker in the finals, 12-2. Tucker has beaten him every time the boys have met this season. However, Hanna won his first three matches, including pins of Tony LaPorte of Jackson Lumen Christi in 4:04, and decisions over Eric Nohel of Perry, 7-4, and Scott Loomis of Hillsdale, 4-2.

"Alan has a lot of talent," Kargel said.

"Now that the competition is tougher, Alan is showing a lot more tenacity. He's using a lot of good moves."

Eric Hanna took fourth place by virtue of winning his first match of the day over Andy Langston of Albion, 10-7. He lost his last two decisions to Sean Kiebler of Jackson County Western, 6-2, and Jason Nowicki of Coldwater, 5-2.

McCalla lost two decisions, in his first and fourth matches, to Tim Partridge of Perry by identical 5-0 scores. In between he pinned Sean Sevidal of Coldwater in 4:30 and Mike Bunce of Stockbridge in 5:20.

"Craig did a fine job," Kargel said. "He's worked hard."

Kornexl was 2-2 on the day, opening with an 8-5 decision over Dan Meaney of Perry. He was pinned by Jason Matteson of Eaton Rapids in 1:57, before coming back to earn an 8-2 decision over Shaftone Dunklin of Albion.

Dixon opened with a 6-0 over-time victory over Erik LeFleur of Marshall.

"Billy was a surprise Saturday," Kargel said.

"LeFleur is a tough wrestler and if Billy had lost he would have been through for the day. His other three opponents were tough, too."

In his last three matches, Dixon lost 12-1 to Ryan Schrader of Fowlerville, beat Brad Johnson of Mason, 4-2, and lost 15-0 to Tom Pettito of Brooklyn Columbia Central.

Doug Wingrove probably had the roughest two matches of the day at 138 pounds. He drew state champ Jim Feldkamp of Dexter and a state qualifier from Eaton Rapids, the state's top-ranked team.

Tim VanSchoick was probably the closest other Bulldog to qualifying for the regional meet. He lost matches 7-5 and 6-3 against two state qualifiers.

"It depends on who wrestles well and who really wants it if any of our boys reach the state meet," Kargel said.

"I'm not talking about first place, but maybe fourth." The top four qualifiers from the regional meet will go to the state meet on Feb. 26.

Eleven of 13 Chelsea wrestlers qualified for the district finals by virtue of their performance in pre-district competition last Wednesday at Tecumseh.

Eric Hanna, McCalla, Kornexl, Dixon and Mike Taylor (198) were all pre-district champions.

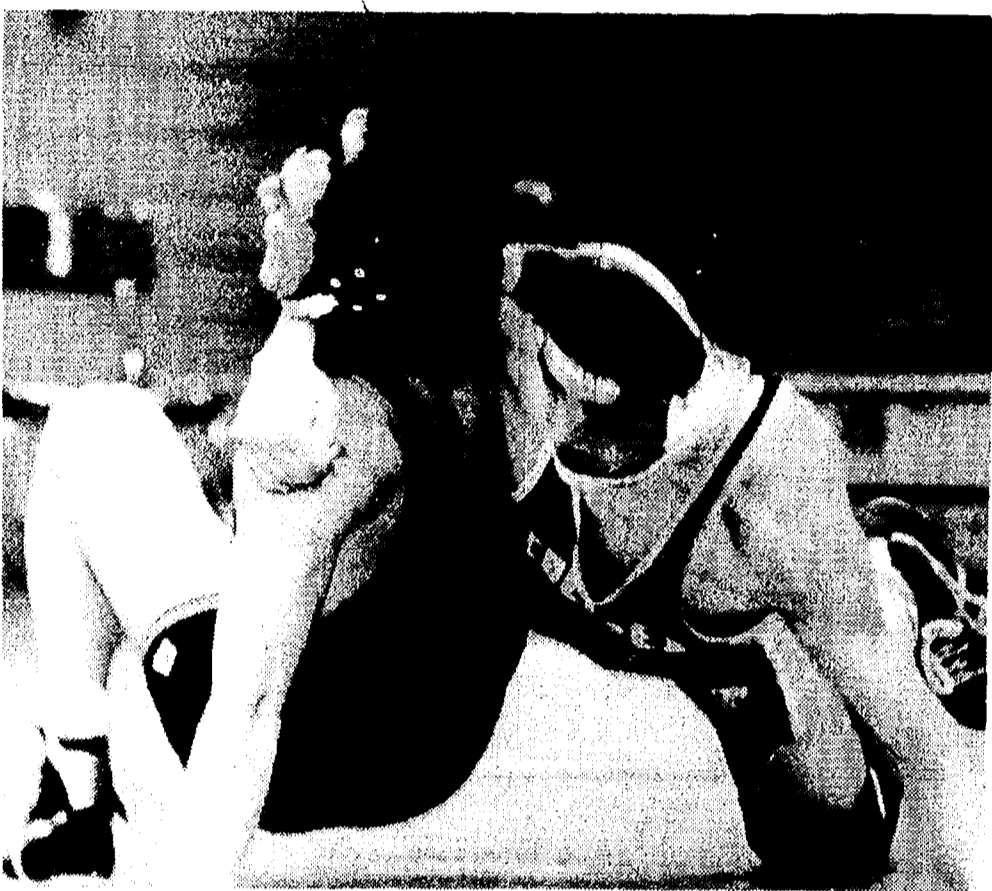

Alan Hanna, Wingrove, Gary Dosey (155) and Tim VanSchoick (185) all took second place.

Kelly Beard (98) and Dean Sutherland (145) each placed third.

"The kids really wrestled well and I wasn't disappointed with any of their performances," Kargel said.

"I was proud of them. They went out and relaxed. Sometimes when you get too tense you can't think of your moves."

Nineteen schools took part in the pre-districts.

DOUG WINGROVE took second place at the pre-district tournament last Wednesday. He ran into state champion Jim Feldkamp from Dexter and a state qualifier from Eaton Rapids last Saturday and failed to qualify for the regional tournament at 138 pounds.

Big Second Half Gives JV Cagers a Win

A strong second half of play gave the Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity basketball team a 57-50 victory over the Lincoln Railsplitters last Tuesday, Feb. 9 at home.

After falling behind 29-20 by half-time, the Bulldogs scored 21 points in the third quarter to take a 41-37 lead at the end of three quarters.

"It was an odd game because we didn't do much of anything the first half but really had a total team effort in the second half," said Chelsea coach Jeff Dils.

"It's not like suddenly one or two guys got hot. We played with a lot of intensity, the defense picked up and we moved the ball well on offense. Lincoln also missed a lot of shots they were making in the first half."

Kerry Plank kept the Bulldogs in the game the first quarter, scoring all 13 Chelsea points.

"We got a lot of good shots in the first period but we couldn't get them to drop," Dils said.

"It's a good thing Kerry was hot."

The teams were tied at the end of the first period.

Brian Burg scored all 11 of his points in the second half.

Kerry Plank led the team in scoring with 21 points. Kyle Plank scored nine points, Butch Michaud had five, Chris Wilson four, Sinisa Janicevic three, and Chad Raymond and Brandon Murrell each scored two.

"Chris Wilson did a good job on defense," Dils said.

"He guarded Lincoln's best offensive player and pretty well shut him down."

Chelsea's record improved to 7-2 in the Southeastern Conference and 9-6 over-all. The JVs play at Tecumseh this Friday.

Bowling Tourney Starts Feb. 20 in Whitmore Lake

The annual "No-Tap Bowling Tournament," that has been so popular with bowling fans the last two years, is being scheduled again by the Whitmore Lake Fourth of July Committee.

The two-day event will begin Saturday, Feb. 20, with squads starting at 3:30 p.m., 6:30 p.m., and 9:30 p.m., and continue on Sunday, Feb. 21, with squads beginning at 12 noon and 2:30 p.m.

The tournament will be held at Whitmore Lanes, 9455 Main St., Whitmore Lake, and all proceeds will be used for funding this year's "Fourth of July Celebration."

Cash prizes awarded will be: 1st prize, $400; 2nd prize, $200; 3rd prize, $100; and 4th prize, $75. Prizes are based on 150 entries, with one out of 12 entries receiving a cash prize.

Participants are urged to pick up entry blanks at all area bowling alleys, in addition to Whitmore Lanes.

ERIC HANNA qualified for this Saturday's regional meet at Jackson County Western with a fourth-place finish at the district tournament last Saturday. His brother, Alan, was Chelsea's top finisher, taking second place.

Lincoln Inside Game Gives Dogs 10-Point Loss

Twenty-nine points and 12 rebounds by Lincoln center Andy Donahey was the difference in a contest the Chelsea Bulldogs lost 70-60 at home last Tuesday, Feb. 9.

Donahey scored 19 points in the first half as the Bulldogs found themselves down by nine points (21-12) at the end of the first quarter and 10 points at half-time. The Railsplitters increased their lead to 16 points by the end of the third quarter, but that's as big as the deficit got.

"When they got in trouble they dumped the ball inside," said Bulldog coach Robin Raymond.

"They'd throw the ball up in the air and we just couldn't handle Donahey and (forward Dan) Hall. We had two or three people inside to stop it."

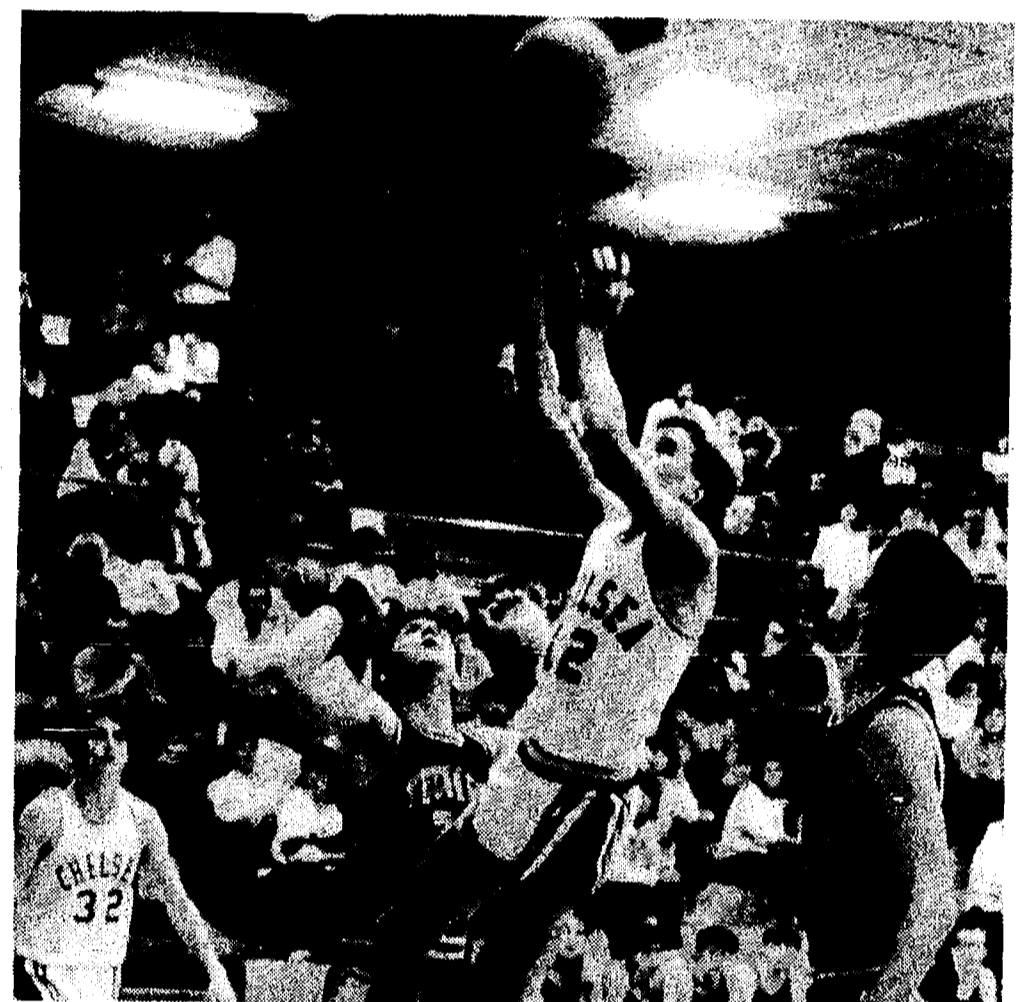

Lincoln also dominated the boards, out-rebounding Chelsea 40-28.

Although Chelsea couldn't stop the inside game, John Cattell and Larry Nix held guard Sterling Chambers to nine points, half his average.

Railsplitter point guard Noah Nagy also hurt the Bulldogs with 17 points and eight assists in what Raymond called a "well-rounded game."

Raymond said he was pleased with the play of his offense, which shot 49 percent (25-51) from the field, and hit the 15-foot jump shots.

JOHN CATTELL and the Bulldogs will be looking to upset the Tecumseh Indians Friday night in Tecumseh. The Indians are in the thick of the race for the Southeastern Conference title.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It's ironic that Chelsea may have the chance to do to Pinckney and Tecumseh what the Pirates and Indians did to the Bulldogs last season—spoil a chance at an outright Southeastern Conference basketball title.

If you recall, Chelsea had at least three opportunities to win the title outright. However, consecutive losses to Dexter, Tecumseh and Pinckney forced Chelsea into a tie with Saline.

Last Friday Pinckney lost to Tecumseh, putting the Pirates and Indians in a tie in the loss column with two defeats each.

Saline and Lincoln, as of Friday, had three losses each. The title is up for grabs.

Chelsea plays Tecumseh this Friday on the road and finishes the SEC season next Friday at home against Pinckney.

An upset by the Bulldogs in either game would really scramble the race.

Both the Indians and Pirates have every reason to be confident against Chelsea. The Bulldogs didn't exactly turn out to be formidable opponents in the first round, losing each game by more than a few points. The would-be champions may well expect the Bulldogs to be easy marks the second time around, too.

But championship pressure can occasionally possess a team like a demon. Sometimes the basket can look six inches wide and 15 feet high and shooters are way off the mark. Sometimes play becomes tentative and teams play not to lose rather than win.

If either Tecumseh or Pinckney loses this week, their confidence may take a little dive. That attitude, combined with championship pressure, could be just what the Bulldogs need. If the Bulldogs can use their pressing defense to force turnovers and perhaps lead either game by six or eight points at half-time, Chelsea could surprise one of those teams.

Chelsea is just trying to stay out of last place. There's no pressure, nothing at all to lose. And boy could it be fun to be a spoiler.

A victory in either of those games could also go a long way toward setting the tone for next season.

The players would like nothing more than to see a huge crowd next Friday night.

The JV cagers are 7-2 in the SEC and 9-6 in the league. Both Kerry and Kyle Plank are playing excellent basketball, as are Brian Burg and several of the kids off the bench. It's going to be fun to watch this group develop.

If this bunch plays to its potential next Friday, they stand a good chance of handing Pinckney their first loss in the league.

Congratulations to the five Bulldog wrestlers who qualified for the regional tournament this Saturday at Jackson County Western. They are Eric and Alan Hanna, Robert Kornel, Billy Dixon and Craig McCalla.

Alan Hanna's season has been an unusual story. He began as a back-up at 112 to Pat Taylor, who last year was the only Bulldog to go to the state tournament.

Taylor went out with an injury just after the season started and Alan was pressed into service.

Over the last few weeks, Alan has wrestled as well as anyone on the team. He took second place at the districts last Saturday, the highest finish of any Bulldog. If I had to bet on anyone to reach the state meet this year, it would be Alan.

"When Alan realized he wasn't going to be a back-up, I think he wrestled a little harder," said coach Kerry Kargel.

The Hanna family wrestling tradition may play a part too. Alan and Eric were preceded by Bill and Pete, who were both outstanding competitors.

I couldn't blame Kargel for thinking ahead a little to next year. Certainly the Hannas and Taylor will all be in the starting line-up somewhere. Reno and Rex Nye, along with Kelly Beard, should also be back and fit somewhere into the lower weight classifications. Chelsea could easily start out most meets with four or five victories in a row.

It won't get any easier in the middle weights either as McCalla, Doug Wingrove and Jim Hasset will all be back. Dixon, Tim VanSchoick and Mike Taylor will all be tough in the upper weights.

Dexter, which has dominated the SEC for years, may find themselves looking up to the Bulldogs next year, and maybe the year after.

The Dreadnaughts are losing some exceptional athletes, none more exceptional than Jim Feldkamp, who's 41-0 this season and going for his second state title at 138 pounds.

My thanks go out again to Bill Hanna for his fine photographic coverage of the Bulldog wrestlers.

Bad Second Quarter Dooms Frosh Cagers

Chelsea Bulldog freshman basketball team was tripped up by Milan last Monday, Feb. 8, 69-49.

The hosts out-scored Chelsea 21-5 in the second quarter to take a 35-19 lead at half-time.

"The second quarter pretty much decided the contest," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We did not play well enough to beat their press, which is the same thing that happened in the first game with them."

Tucker Steele and Jude Quilter each scored 20 points for the Bulldogs. They also paced the team in rebounds with eight and seven, respectively.

Quilter praised the all-around play of Jude Quilter, Steele's second half, and Vince Dunn's first quarter. Dunn finished with four points and three rebounds.

"We seem to be struggling as a team because we are getting good individual performances but not for an entire game," Quilter said.

"Every member of this team is important and it's necessary for them to understand how important their contribution is to each game. We have to get back to playing closer to our potential and we'll be successful again."

Rounding out the scoring for Chelsea were Garrett Kern with four points and Alex Hammerschmidt with one.

Matt Steinaway grabbed six rebounds, Jeremy Mackinder had four rebounds, Chris Haugen had three rebounds and Scott McKinney had one rebound.

The freshmen dropped to 3-8 overall and 3-5 in the Southeastern Conference.

Globetrotters Performance To Benefit Spaulding for Children

Harlem Globetrotters will make an appearance in Detroit at Joe Louis Arena on Saturday, Feb. 27. Sponsored by Burger King Corp., both performances, at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., will benefit Spaulding for Children.

Tickets are priced at $10 and $12 for adults and $7 and $9 for children (12 years and under) and senior citizens. They may be purchased at all Ticket Master outlets and at Joe Louis Arena.

The 7:30 p.m. event will feature a short game between members of the Detroit broadcasting media and selected Burger King franchisees. One member of the winning team will join the Washington Generals as they attempt to defeat the Globetrotters. At half-time a check representing a portion of the proceeds will be presented to Spaulding for Children.

No sports team in history is so internationally identifiable as the Harlem Globetrotters. This zany group of players is renowned for their skillful blending of comedy with basketball sharpshooting. Detroit has produced more Globetrotters than Harlem or any other single city.

Throughout the 1940's and 1950's, a stream of Detroiters warmed up to the melodic "Sweet Georgia Brown," including Bob "Showboat" Hall of Detroit, who joined the team in 1948 and played for 26 consecutive seasons, a Globetrotter record.

Harlem Globetrotter fans are invited to attend a special pictorial exhibit in tribute to the team that showcases their history. Sponsored by Burger King, the exhibit will open Feb. 22 in the First National Building in Downtown Detroit. Highlights include pictures of the original members of the team as well as past and present members of the group.

For more information contact Spaulding's Development Office at 475-8693.

Cagers Lose To Lincoln

"They played mostly a man-to-man offense and we got a lot of shots off picks," Raymond said.

Junior John Collins led the Bulldogs with 11 points and played what Raymond called "a good game both on offense and defense."

Jeff Marshall scored 10 points coming off the bench. Kevan Planigan scored nine points, Nix had eight, Catell, Morseau and Chad Starkey each scored six, and Phil Thomson scored four points.

The loss gave Chelsea a 3-12 record with five regular season games remaining, including last night's rematch with Dexter at home. Their Southeastern Conference record fell to 1-8.

Friday the Bulldogs play their final road game of the season at Tecumseh. They close out the regular season with home games on Friday, Feb. 26 with SEC-leading Pinckney, Tuesday, March 1 with Michigan Center, and Friday, March 4 with Jackson County Western.

Under the Fair Labor Standards Act, youths 14 and 15-years-old may be employed during certain hours in a variety of jobs, including office work, various food services jobs, retail sales, errands and delivery on foot, bicycle or public transportation, dispensing gas and oil, and most cleanup work, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

WHY PEOPLE TAKE BASEBALL SO SERIOUSLY is a research topic being conducted by South school fifth grader Ryan Ludwig for his enrichment triad project. Ryan, armed with a tape recorder and numerous questions, has been interviewing various people around town about the subject, including former Detroit Tiger Fred Holdsworth. He's hoping to talk to Tigers owner Tom Monaghan as well. Last week he stopped in to ask sports columnist Brian Hamilton a few questions. Whether or not the time was well-spent remains to be seen.

HURON FARM SUPPLY

Ph. (313) 426-8847
8250 Dexter-Chelsea Rd. Dexter, Mich.

Some Tree Species Are Sold Out

Several tree seedlings offered by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District's annual tree and shrub seedling sale have been sold out. As of Feb. 5, the district's inventory of European Larch, Red Oak and Black Walnut tree seedlings had been depleted. No additional quantities of these species will be available. All other tree and shrub species being offered are still in good supply at this time.

According to Dennis Rice, district manager/conservationist, a state-wide demand for hardwood tree seedlings for spring has created shortages at the seedling nursery where the Soil Conservation District will be obtaining its supply of trees. "As a result, the nursery has cut our order for several trees in half. This, coupled with several large tree orders already received, has caused the European Larch, Red Oak and Black Walnut seedlings to be sold out so early in the sale," said Rice.

Rice went on to say that, "because of the shortages of these species, demand for the other hardwood species being offered will increase, so anyone who is considering placing an order for hardwood tree seedlings should get it in soon, to have a better chance of getting what they want."

The Soil Conservation District is sorry for any inconvenience this may cause for those planning to plant trees this spring. If more of the sold out species can be obtained, they will be made available.

Questions about the tree and shrub seedling sale should be directed to the Soil Conservation District Office, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor. Telephone (313) 761-6721.

Spinners' Flock Winter Fleece Fair Slated Sunday

Knitters, weavers, spinners and other fiber artists, as well as quilters looking for wool batts, will want to attend the Spinners' Flock second Winter Fleece Fair on Sunday, Feb. 21 at the Matthaei Botanical Gardens, 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., Ann Arbor.

Hand-spun yarns and spinning fibers in natural and dyed colors, quilt batts, mattress pads, equipment and books, dyes, sheepskins, rabbit pelts, and finished goods will be available for purchase. Finished items to be offered will include woven and knitted clothing and accessories, and rugs. All yarns and items made of yarn are produced by members of Spinners' Flock, a Washtenaw county based spinning guild. Most of the spinning fibers are also local products, harvested from area sheep, angora goats, angora rabbits, and llamas. In addition there will be silk, alpaca, cotton, and other "exotic" fibers, and various blends.

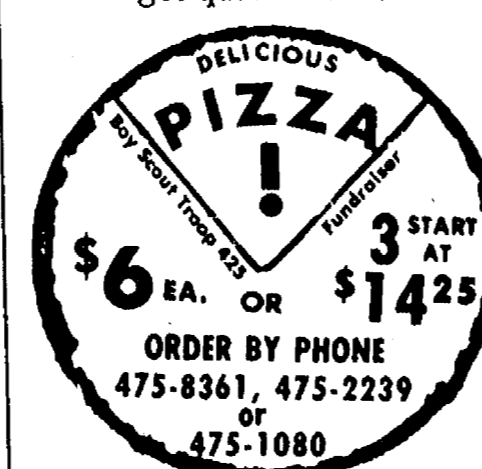

A special exhibit of works by Spinners' Flock members will show the unique, high quality items that can be created from hand-spun yarns.

Demonstrations of spinning and related handicrafts will be carried on throughout the day, and experienced knitters will be available to give advice on the use of hand-spun yarns in their craft.

Hours of the sale are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and there is no admission charge.

For further information call 769-1657 or 475-2306.

There were many questions directed to Ms. Walters from council members regarding the methodology of how her staff functions and the selection of clients for the Chelsea Industrial Park. There was no action taken on the Contract presented by the Washtenaw Development Council at this time.

The Council discussed sending a representative to all of the Washtenaw Development Council's meetings in order to be better informed and to give input from our economic development view.

The matter of the charges for wrapping the parking meters at Christmas time was discussed. It was the consensus of Council that approval for payment should be considered before the wrapping takes place next year. However, since it was done this year they would support the merchants and authorize payment for the services.

Motion by Merkel, supported by Kanten, to pay the outstanding bill of $125.00 to Chelsea Merchants Association. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

The matter of the Fireworks Ordinance was discussed with Mr. Harold Allen and the Fireworks Committee as to what was necessary and required of any person who wishes to have a fireworks display in the Village of Chelsea. Mr. Bridges then requested a statement from the Council that the electricity be furnished to the street lights in the condominium project with said electricity paid for by the village as is done on other streets. This was granted at a earlier meeting and was restated.

Motion by Boham, supported by Merkel, that the report of Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May, Inc., be used as the recommended method of connection. Roll call: Ayes all. Motion carried.

Council referred the information to the Planning Commission for their consideration and report.

Assistant Manager Fahrner presented the Council a traffic report on the area of the new shopping center complex submitted by Reid, Cool, and Michalski, Inc. The report was reviewed by Council, however, no action was taken at this time.

Special Ed Classes Tour K-Mart

The Chelsea Standard, Wednesday, February 17, 1988

19

Fifteen students from Dexter and Chelsea High schools, with their teachers and aides were treated to a tour of the Maple Village K-Mart in Ann Arbor last week, as part of a tour the Chelsea Rotary Club helped organize.

Departing from Chelsea via the AATA bus, the students from Mrs. Cooper's class picked up their down-the-road neighbors from Mrs. Sage's class in Dexter, and headed over to the Maple Village shopping center. Having used some of the store's current promotional advertising material as study materials, the students were prepared with lists of items to purchase, and a fixed amount of money to get all their shopping done.

David Ott, store manager, and his assistant, Costas Hatzis, each took half the group on a tour of the giant retail complex. Describing methods of the stock room, the manner in which returns are handled, and the basics of retailing, the tour guides each spent about 45 minutes walking aisles and the back rooms with the students.

After the tours, Ott presented both Nancy Cooper's class (from Chelsea High school) and Nita Sage's group (from Dexter High school) with K-Mart gift certificates. Each class will decide in the future how to use the unexpected windfall for a class project or purchase.

The students lunched at the cafeteria in the store, and then went about their shopping. After a good three hours spent from one corner of the store to the other, the classes packed up and headed back on the AATA bus line.

Cast Working Hard on 'Guys & Dolls' Musical

Members of the cast of "Guys and Dolls" are working hard getting ready for their performances on Thursday, March 3, Friday, March 4, and Saturday, March 5. All performances will begin at 8 p.m. Tickets will be available soon at the Chelsea Pharmacy.

"Guys and Dolls" was one of the biggest musical hits of 1950. The book was written by Jo Swerling and Abe Burrows, and was based on the characters and the short story "The Idylls of Sarah Brown," which was written by Damon Runyon. Words and music were added to the show by Frank Loesser. The original Broadway production was directed by George S. Kaufman with dances by Michael Kidd. The show was such a hit that it ran for 1,200 performances.

"Guys and Dolls" is a story about a Broadway gambler, who later falls in love with a Save-A-Soul mission doll. When the mission falls short of its goal, it is forced to close. However, the gambler brings in all of his fellow gamblers to save the mission. The show involves two love stories, that between Sky Masterson, the gambler, and missionary Sarah Brown, and the one between gambler Nathan Detroit and night-club entertainer Miss Adelaide.

The musical production was made into a movie in the year 1955. The two-hour-and-38-minute movie included many stars from the original Broadway show, as well as greats like Marlon Brando, Frank Sinatra, and Jean Simmons.

Some familiar songs from "Guys and Dolls" includes: "Fugue for Tinhorns" ("I've Got the Horse Right Here"), "I'll know," "A Bushel and a Peck," "Take Back Your Mink,"

"I've Never Been in Love Before," "Guys and Dolls," "Luck Be a Lady," and "Sit Down, You're Rockin' the Boat."

The show is one that the entire family will enjoy. More information about tickets will be available soon.

Chelsea Hosts Quiz Bowl on Saturday

This year, Chelsea is hosting the middle school Quiz Bowl to be held Saturday morning, Feb. 20, starting at 8 a.m. Fifteen Beach students will compete with students from six other middle schools.

For the last two months, Beach students have been competing among themselves to determine a winning team from the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades. These teams, each consisting of five members, will represent their grade at the Quiz Bowl. The other schools participating are Saline, Ypsilanti-Lincoln, Milan, Tecumseh, Pinckney, and Dexter.

Questions for the Quiz Bowl are based on each grade's curriculum. Beach principal Darcy Stielstra, as well as Dexter and Saline principals, will serve as readers. Parent volunteers will serve as judges, timers, and reseters.

Quiz Bowl headquarters will be in the Beach school cafeteria. Since all three grades compete at once, some of the events will take place in the LGI, chorus room, and instrumental room.

After the Quiz Bowl events are completed, the participants will be awarded plaques and certificates and be served snacks.

The public is invited to attend. According to Stielstra, "It's quite exciting."

Farmers Urged To Line Up Harvest Workers Now

Due to the continuing effects of the new immigration law, Michigan farm employers could experience a shortage of farm workers to harvest this year's crops, according to Michigan Farm Bureau labor specialist Howard Kelly. He recommends that farm employers begin lining up their workers now for this year's harvest.

"To help avoid a possible shortage of labor, farm employers should begin securing their labor force as soon as possible," Kelly said. "They should call or write those individuals they have used before and get a commitment from them to ensure that their farm labor needs are met."

Kelly also reminds farm employers to fill out the I-9 form for each employee when the workers arrive later this year.

"Michigan farm employers can have their questions about the new immigration reform law answered by an official of the Immigration and Naturalization Service," Kelly said. "Paul Conover, assistant chief patrol agent of the Detroit office of the INS, is willing to meet with small or large groups of farm employers to answer questions about their responsibilities under the new law."

Farm employers interested in scheduling a meeting with Conover may contact him toll-free at 1-800-537-3220.

Atkinson Clinic Plans Faith in Action Benefit

Atkinson Chiropractic Clinic of Chelsea will commemorate its 10th anniversary of service to the community by holding a benefit for "Faith in Action" on Feb. 18. The clinic will be providing care to patients for a nominal fee and donating the proceeds to the charitable organization.

The clinic was founded in February, 1978 by Drs. Warren and Linda Atkinson with the purpose of providing the most modern chiropractic care available. What began as Arbor Vitae

Chiropractic Centre and a dream to help people live healthier lives, has grown to be one of the finest facilities in the area, serving thousands of patients over the last 10 years.

Faith in Action helps people in the area who need temporary assistance with food, clothing and shelter. They provide a truly necessary service under the direction of the Rev. Jerrold Beaumont and rely on support through various fund-raising events and donations.

"We sure are excited about this event," states Dr. Atkinson. "It's our way of saying thank you to our patients and the community for giving us the opportunity to serve you."

County FEMA Funds Divided

Washtenaw County FEMA Board met Jan. 29 to allocate $104,166 for emergency food and shelter through September 1988. This is the sixth year the Federal Emergency Management Act has provided funding to local agencies for emergency needs.

Following is a list of local human service agencies and the amount they received for shelter, food, and energy assistance programs:

Chelsea Faith in Action: $2,500
Domestic Violence Project: $3,000
Ozone House: $1,200
Community Services Agency: $8,100
Jewish Community Council: $485
American Red Cross: $9,100
Salvation Army: $7,500
SOS Community Crisis Center: $12,766
Shelter Association for Ann Arbor: $7,500
City of Ann Arbor: $4,275
St. Andrew's Breakfast Program: $1,800
Huron Harvest Food Bank of Child and Family Service: $45,940.

Ed Marsh, agency relations manager at the Washtenaw United Way and chairman of the FEMA Board, said that the requests for funding from local agencies far outstripped the number of available dollars. "We only had $104,166 to allocate this round, but we received $174,101 in requests," said Marsh. "The amount of funds has either remained the same or decreased. Unfortunately, the need for emergency food and shelter is not decreasing."

Marsh added that "FEMA dollars are only stopgap measures for people in crisis. They don't provide long-term solutions to hunger or homelessness."

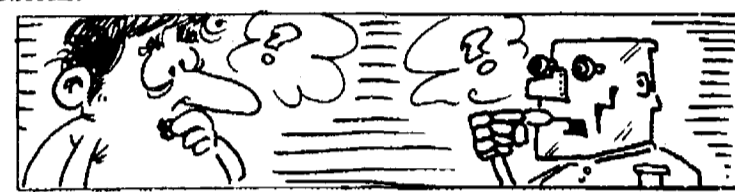

Pinckney Girl Commissioned

Ellen K. Butler, daughter of Fred M. and Pauline O. Butler of 7860 Pingree, Pinckney, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the U.S. Air Force upon graduation from Officer Training School at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas.

The 12-week course trained selected college graduates to apply communicative skills, professional knowledge, leadership and management in positions of responsibility.

BEACH MIDDLE SCHOOL hosted an academic games tournament last Saturday for junior high students from South Lyon, Pinckney, Stockbridge, Holly, Waverly and Detroit. The students play the "Equations" game, which tests their problem-solving abilities. Results of the games won't be known for several weeks. Above, Heather Kendrick and Tina Hassett work on a problem.

But one day the guards did not run back in the castle to hide. But instead they all fought the dragon and in a surprise they killed the dragon and lived happily ever after.

THE MOST FAMOUS COOK—CHAPTER ONE

By: Melissa Johnson, Third Grade

Once there was a little baker. She was the fastest baker in town, so everybody came to her. One day she was listening to the bong of pans when she heard a scary voice say, "Hello my dear—and would you like to be the most wonderful cook in the world?"

"Oh would I ever!", she said, jumping up and down.

"STOP!" said the old lady. "I want you to know something. If you want to be a good cook, then you should be the BEST!" So, the old lady took her long nails and touched her big belly button and a spray of magic came out of the cook. Then the old lady said, "Try to cook." The old lady was gone in a puff of smoke.

CHAPTER TWO

The girl baked a big cake and as she did she heard music. "Little girl go round and round, round and round, round and round. Little girl go round and round la la la la la." And she was the most famous cook in the world!

AT THE END OF THE RAINBOW

By: Mike Huschke, Fourth Grade

Once upon a time there was a bear named Bruiser. One day he saw a rainbow and he thought there would be honey at the end. So the next day he gathered enough food for one day and started off. First, he met Peter the hare going to the race. Next, he met Bobby the raccoon and he asked if he could come along. They had a picnic over awhile and then they saw a rainbow. They followed it and found a tree with honey in it and took it all. Then, they went home and had honey and pancakes for supper.

SPACE ASSIGNMENT

By: Don Behnke, Fourth Grade

Once upon a time I was going to get our mail. When I got there I opened it like always. I got surprised there was a letter for me. It said on the front, Special Edition. Wow! I hurried to the house and opened it. I was the youngest person to go into space! I read it quickly and went to tell my mom. She said it was great! She got a little worried though, but I didn't care. My mom took me to get ready for the trip to the moon.

When we got to the space station, they greeted us and said why I was going. It was because I had a very good knowledge in space operating. They took us for a tour around the building and around the space craft. The space craft could hold at least one hundred people. It was just really fantastic. It was huge.

It was ten days, eight days, seven days. The day was getting closer. Six days, five days, four days, three days, only two more days. At the space stations the people there were getting ready for the big day. I was excited. One more day. This ship had transwarp. It was a fast ship. I was the day. I got on the ship. I went to my station and was ready for take off. Far below I saw the planet earth. 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1-Blastoff! Bye—see you later.

THE MYSTERIOUS TREASURE

By: Elizabeth Holdsworth, Fourth Grade

Once upon a time there was a man. One day he was digging a flower garden behind his house. Suddenly his shovel hit something hard. Bump! It hit it again. The man was puzzled. He dug around it. He pulled it out. It was a strange-looking box. He pulled the box out and tried to open it. He tried and tried but he could not make it budge.

Then he heard something. He thought it was the chest. He went back to digging. That couldn't have been the chest taking or could it?

"What did you say?"

"I said get the key and open me!"

"You . . . You . . . talked!"

"Sure, I do it all the time. Now would you hurry up and get the key?"

"What key?" All of a sudden a key appeared on his lap.

"That key!"

"What do I do with it?"

"Do you come from Mars?"

"No," the man replied.

"Then put it in my chest and open me," said the chest.

"Sure, O.K. I will."

"Hurry up! Don't waste time. Open me!"

"O.K. What is that?"

"It's a map. Hurry up and read it!"

"It says read me."

"O.K., so do it."

"Climb up a hill and got to the spooky castle and when you get to the castle, steal a piece of gold and run to a cave and you will be rich."

"Are you sure I will be rich?"

"Sure, I'm sure."

"O.K. then, I will be off to do it."

So the man climbed up the hill. It was very hard; it took him a half a day to do it. So far, so good, he said to himself.

Then he went into the spooky old castle. He almost got caught by the guard. He ran past the guard and ran into a dragon. He was trapped! He was locked in a very small cell. Suddenly he pulled on the bars. He opened the door, but just then he saw the guard. The guard was angry. He said, "I will let you out if you give me the map."

"No, I will not give you the map."

"Then I must never feed you again."

The next day, he came back. "Can I have the map today?" he asked.

And the man just shook his head. "No, I am very sorry but I will not give you the map."

The following day the man got very hungry. So when the guard came in he said, "Today is the last time I will ask you for the map. Will you give me the map?"

"Yes, Bye . . . Bye, I am glad I got out of that place." Meanwhile, the guard was looking for the treasure. It's got to be here somewhere, he thought. I've been tricked. And he was very, very angry.

GOOGLESTON (THE YEAR 3,000)

By: Thomas McMurray, Fifth Grade

In the future, Googleston's wildlife will have several different kinds of rabbits and other loose rodents. House cats will be history, and people will own tigers and wolves. In school, we have to own portable computers and we must have 24 free software discs (games are against the rules). Houses and schools are underground with secret passages. When you're 8, you are allowed to drive and at 10 you can vote.

Right now I am 9. I own my own passage car. My allowance is $30.00 every 2 weeks with 10% interest. Next year I get to vote. I'm voting for Gering (My Dad). My interests are designing houses and visiting Stiminger, the 32nd planet from the sun. I don't know what I'm going to be when I grow up, but I'd better hurry up. College is 3 years away.

My family is one of 300 left. Everybody else lives in space colonies. They moved because earth is losing resources. When I'm old enough, I'm moving to space and living with my Aunt and Uncle.

One Halloween in 1988, Scott, Andy, and I were all out trick or treating. We had a TON of candy, so far!!! I was a person from 3006, Andy was a stiff-necked giraffe and Scott was just a spoiled brat!! Soon we came to an ugly house, "It might be haunted," Andy said, "Nonsense," I said, as I felt how much candy I had. Scott said nothing, he was too busy eating his candy. He didn't have room in his mouth to speak! We were about to go to get more candy, but then we saw a tray of candy floating in the air, there were only 2 NIKE shoes below the tray and a hat above it. We said, "Trick or treat." Then some candy floated in the air and went into our bags and our bags were so heavy, we had to drop them except for Scott's, because he had been eating his candy, so we dragged our candy home and it last all year long.

THE BLOODY HAMMER

By: Genny Humenay, Fourth Grade

Once there was a principal. He loved his high school and everything in it, except for one thing. There was a very old and ancient tower right in the heart of the school. The reason the workers that had made the school didn't tear it down is that they said that there was an ancient curse and that they wouldn't lay a finger on it. So there it stood, a gross looking, good for nothing tower right in the heart of the school!

One day this guy (his name is Sean) was dared to go into the tower. The guys decided to go with him just to make sure he'd go in. That night they sneaked to the tower, tore the boards off the door, and started to walk up the long spiral staircase. When they finally reached the top, they saw a light. They decided to go in one at a time and that each of them would stay in for fifteen minutes. "Who's gonna go first?" said one guy. "I think the oldest should," said another. "Yeah!" said everyone. So the oldest one went toward the light and disappeared into it. Fifteen minutes passed and the oldest guy came out without a scratch on him. The next guy went and when fifteen minutes passed, he came out too. This kept on going until there was only one person left. He went in. Fifteen minutes passed. He didn't come out. An hour passed, he still didn't come out. They were very curious and afraid of what might have happened to the guy that was in there. They finally decided to go in after him. They walked cautiously toward the light. Then they saw him. His hair had turned white and he had a bloody hammer in his hand. He looked at them and started laughing at them, a horrible ear piercing laugh. Then without warning, he jumped off the tower. The other guys ran to the ledge just in time to see him laying on the ground. They turned and ran down the stairs as fast as they could. When they got to the bottom, they couldn't see the body of their friend anywhere! They searched high and low and still couldn't find it. They never did find it and never, ever went near the tower again.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. One of the principles you recommend is regular investing. I find that as an investor with limited funds, the commission charges are just too high for me to buy small amounts of stock. I think it's much better to accumulate cash and then buy just once in a while. How can you advocate regular investing when broker commissions are so high?

A. If you look at a chart showing the history of the popular stock averages, two things become apparent. First, there are many ups and downs, but perhaps even more important is that the general trend is up. The number of months or years may vary from one peak to the next, but still that long-term trend is up.

An investor with a regular buying pattern will purchase stocks at times when prices are high and at other times when they are quite low. By sticking to regular investing, the investor should go ahead at the next peak in the market if the proper stocks were selected.

Since the initiation of negotiated commissions, perhaps the best thing that has happened to the individual investor has been the introduction of dividend reinvestment plans. An individual can make a small investment and immediately enroll in the plan. Not only can dividends be reinvested but additional funds can be invested either monthly or quarterly depending on how the plan is set up. Usually those funds are invested by the company with no commission charges to the investor. Even when there is a commission, the rate is generally much lower than if the individual had to buy the stock on his own.

In this way, an investor can buy only a few shares and then continually add to the holdings until the goal of 100 shares or more is reached. There will be the initial commission, but that's all.

NAIC has enrolled in 39 different dividend reinvestment plans and I'm sending you a list of those companies which participate in our Low Cost Investment Plan. Since we initiated the program, more than 26,000 of our members have begun their investing through the plan.
