Area Farmers Looking For Options as Drought Could Be Disasterous

By Brian Hamilton

Chelsea-area farmers are facing an economic disaster unless a long, soaking rain hits soon.

As it is, the picture is pretty grim already and rain won't repair much of the damage that has already been inflicted by the long, hot spring, which has produced less than half the normal amount of rain.

According to local farmer Charles Trinkle, the oat crop is almost completely ruined, there may not be a second hay cutting, the wheat is not filling, and much of the later corn isn't even out of the ground.

"The later crops are in desperate need of rain right now," Trinkle said.

"It's going to take a lot of water, not just one rainstorm. And right now we're wondering if water is going to help at all. We're amazed that the corn that's up is surviving as well as it is."

Many area farmers went to a meeting last week to purchase what amounts to disaster insurance. Production Credit Office called its members with an offer that was only good for 24 hours, Trinkle said.

For $4.20 per acre, farmers could purchase $200 per acre coverage based on the amount of rainfall between now and the end of August. If the set amount of rainfall comes on Aug. 31, the company doesn't pay, even though the rain may not do the crops any good.

"At this point that premium's all I've got to lose," Trinkle said. "If it pays off, at least I've covered some of the expenses."

Trinkle said he can't remember when weather conditions were so bad so early in the season.

"I've heard a lot of the older farmers talk about 1934 and how they cut cattails to feed the horses."

What makes the current conditions so ominous is that virtually every farmer in the state is in the same predicament. When isolated droughts occurred in recent years, there was always someone who could help out. This year everyone needs help. The situation, apparently, is even worse in Ohio.

"We haul a lot of hay and straw," Trinkle said.

"In Hudson there's a farmer who doesn't usually buy from us until Christmas. Right now he's begging us to send him a load a week. He's already sold 34 cows but no one's interested in the rest of them. Many of us are going to have to dispose of some young stock."

Trinkle said he's heard that the price of cereal could nearly triple within a year due to the midwest-wide drought.

Chelsea Milling Co. plant manager Dudley Holmes said "we hope we can hold the line," on prices of Jiffy Mix products, but that he expects the cost of wheat to go way up.

"There'll be less berries and they'll be a lot smaller," Holmes said.

"That means we'll have to buy even more wheat to get the same amount of flour."

Holmes said Chelsea Milling primarily buys winter wheat, which is in better shape than spring wheat. However, he said he expects the winter wheat harvest to be a couple of weeks later than normal.

Funding, Not Insurance, Is Biggest Obstacle For Fireworks Display

If fireworks promoter Harold Allen can raise the money, it seems pretty certain that Chelsea will continue its tradition of an Independence Day fireworks display this year. However, as of press time, Allen said he hadn't even raised enough money to cover the cost of insurance, let alone the fireworks.

In addition, there are still several other details to work out.

This year's display is scheduled for Tuesday, July 5. Allen contracted with Colonial Fireworks of Ypsilanti for a July 5 show, believing the annual mud bog would once again be on July 4, as it has the past several years. However, this year's mud bog will be on the third at the fairgrounds. Allen checked, but the date couldn't be changed. Police Chief Lenard McDougall also supported a July 5 show for reasons of crowd control and availability of police.

Allen said he has an oral commitment for a $3,000,000 liability insurance policy from Western World Co., an A-plus rated company. He said it should satisfy the village's insurance requirements.

Cost of the policy is $2,650, Allen said. That's $250 more than the entire show cost the last year it was organized by the American Legion.

Allen originally wanted to spend about $8,000 on fireworks this year for "the best show ever," in his words. However, it looks as though he'll be forced to scale back and have the same show as last year which cost about $5,800.

Village requirements also say that only non-profit organizations can sponsor a fireworks display. Based on remarks at the June 7 village council meeting, Allen has yet to meet that requirement to the village's satisfaction. However, Allen said he has all the necessary papers to show that Chelsea Community Fireworks, Inc. is non-profit.

Last night was the final council meeting before the show, unless council opts for a special meeting.

Chelsea Community Fair Board has yet to give formal permission for Allen to hold the show at the fairgrounds. The board wants to see Allen's insurance policy first.

The largest monetary supporter so far has been native son and actor Jeff Daniels.

"Harold's worked hard on the show, and I hate to see all these obstacles thrown in his way," Daniels said.

"I guess the comment (from village council) that got me is they're worried someone might cross the street while watching the fireworks, get hit by a car, then sue the village. If they're worried about lawsuits, they should be consistent and cancel the fair, the fair parade, the mud bog and high school football."

Many of the downtown businesses have pledged money, although some who declined to give last year have declined this year as well, Allen said.

Allen and other fireworks supporters plan to stand on the street corners downtown to solicit funds. In addition, they'll be collecting at Polly's Market Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week and next week. Money may also be sent to the Fireworks Fund, c/o The Chelsea Standard, 300 N. Main St. If the show doesn't go on, checks will be returned. Cash will be donated to the Chelsea Fire Department, Allen said.

Allen claims that last year he was

Village Asks for Water Conservation

Village Utilities Superintendent Bud Hafner asks that village residents make a special effort to conserve water during the drought.

Village Council was scheduled to consider passing a resolution last night that would limit how often village residents could water their lawns.

Hafner said the village isn't running short of water but that water pumps are having a hard time handling the 35 percent increase in demand. He said that on Monday all the pumps came on at about 6 a.m. and hadn't shut off by midnight.

"If we lose a pump we could have a big problem," Hafner said.

A RIBBON-CUTTING CEREMONY is planned for Bridgetown Condominiums this Thursday afternoon. Chelsea's first condo project is being built by Lloyd Bridges, owner of Lloyd Bridges Traveland, and his son Jerry. A model is available for inspection. This is the view of the project from the back yard of Arthur St. residents.

FIRE broke out at Lee's Hoagies Monday morning and Chelsea Fire Department was on the scene shortly after 7 a.m. As of press time the cause of the fire hadn't been determined, according to chief Bud Hankerd. The damage estimate was $50,000. "We probably ruined more of the structure trying to get to the fire than the fire caused," Hankerd said.

LEE'S HOAGIES, the sandwich shop on N. Main St., suffered extensive fire damage Monday morning. Here firemen work to contain a small fire that broke out in the attic. They used a chainsaw to cut a hole in the ceiling to reach the attic.

School District Plans Long List Of Repairs and Improvements

Chelsea School District will spend virtually all of its $190,000 maintenance-millage money on a variety of projects this summer at all four schools.

Topping the list of expenses will be a $55,000 re-roofing of the Cameron Pool building at Beach Middle school. A membrane roof will be applied by Gundrum Roofing of Ann Arbor.

A portable classroom will be installed at North Elementary school and $40,000 is budgeted.

Seating in the George Prinzing Auditorium at the high school is scheduled to be repaired at a cost of $30,000. Part of the project was completed last winter.

Mayer Dr., the road leading to Beach Middle school, will be given $4,000 worth of repairs. The school district owns the road, not the village.

Painting of some classrooms at all four schools will cost $9,000. Drapes and shades for all four schools will cost $6,000.

Concrete steps will be installed at the high school football field so the players don't have to run down the side of the hill to reach the field. That will cost about $2,500.

A new sodium $500 light will be installed near the ticket booth at the football field to make negotiating the steps easier.

At North school, $5,000 has been allocated for re-working of bathrooms and stalls, and $5,000 will be used for drainage and blacktop near the playground.

South school will get a front facade facelift for $2,000 and a $1,000 repair of its master clock system.

At Beach school, hall lockers are being electrostatically repainted for $7,000, gym lockers and pool lockers are being repaired for $8,500, and another $5,000 will be used on repairs of stalls, the stage, and clock system.

The high school will receive $2,500 worth of sidewalk repairs, $2,500 in new lights for the home economics/conference room, and $4,000 in new ceiling tiles.

Information came from assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

Cast Chosen For Players '42nd Street'

Chelsea Area Players have chosen the cast, and are hard at rehearsing, for this summer's production, which will be presented on July 15-16-17-22-23.

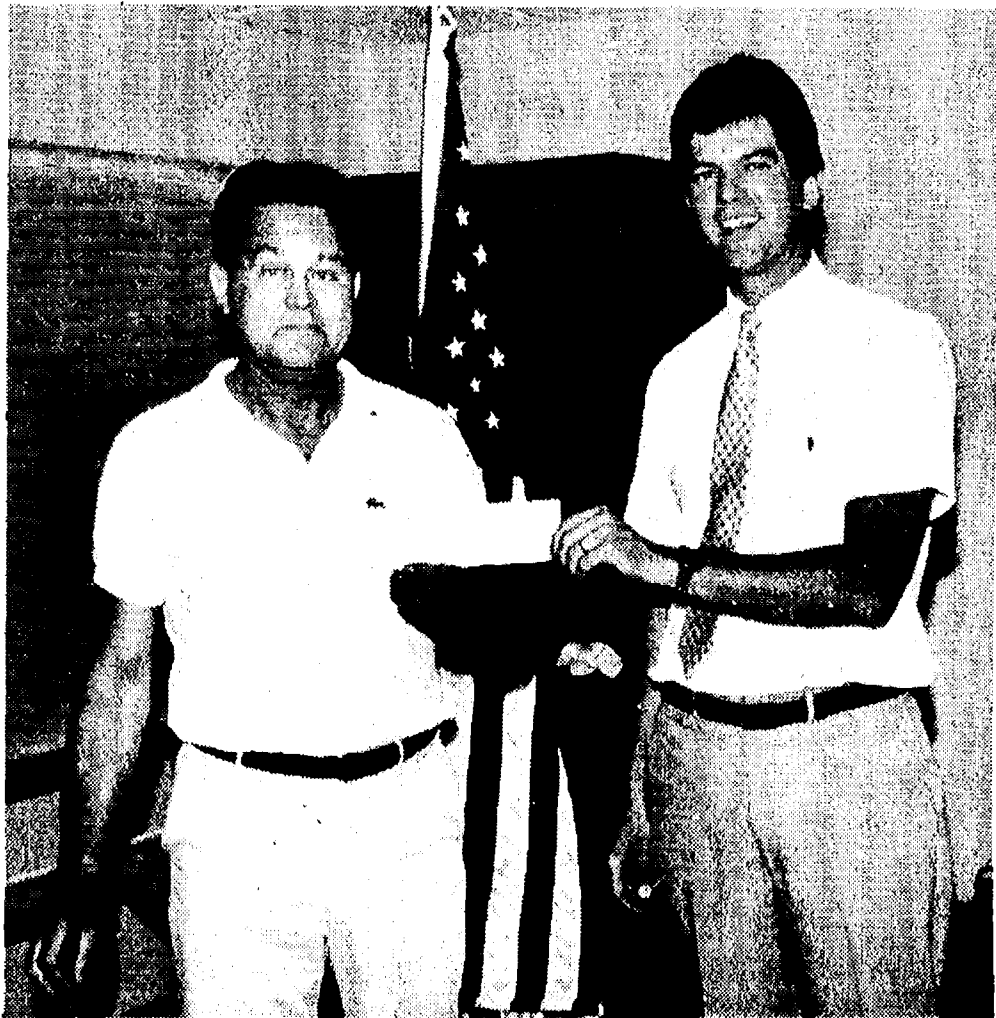

Leads will be played by long-time Chelsea favorite Joe Diederich as Julian Marsh, Broadway director, and a newcomer to the Chelsea stage this year, Susan Filipiak as Peggy Sawyer, our star-struck tap dancing heroine.

The cast is sprinkled with many C.A.P. veterans and Chelsea natives. Major roles include Ruth Kenny as Broadway star Dorothy Brock; Susan Schmunk as writer Maggie Jones; Rebecca Boeve as Ann Reilly, Ann Stevenson as Lorraine Flemming, Diane Waggoner as Phyllis Dale, Janet Tarolli as Diane Lorimar, Laura Lehman as Gladys, and Marge Lewis as Ethel, all "tap dance hoofers extraordinaire"; David Barth as juvenile star Billy Lawlor; and David Moore as erstwhile dance director Andy Lee. Also making his debut on the Chelsea stage this year is long-time area theatre veteran Charles Sutherland as writer Bert Barry.

Other roles include Tom Layher as Mac, the stage manager, stagehand James Lawrence, thugs Ross Heber and Kurt Metzger, and waiter Andrew Scheer. Linda Furuyama will perform the role of rehearsal pianist.

The chorus is chock full of tap dance crazy hoofers par excellence. They in-

THREE CHILDREN'S HOSPITALS in Michigan will benefit from a $1,500 check from the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea to the Kiwanis Foundation of Michigan. Money will go to hospitals in Ann Arbor, Grand Rapids, and Petoskey. Local club president Warren Atkinson, right, made the presentation Monday night to Andrew Parker of Brighton, a trustee of the foundation.

Farmers' Supply owner Anton Nielsen, nearing 80 years old, was interviewed by The Chelsea Standard. His journey was reported—from a young child living on a farm in Denmark, to Toronto, Canada, to Detroit, to Chelsea, as owner of the Farmers' Supply feed store in 1946. The Nielsens will leave on June 21, their 50th wedding anniversary, for a visit to Anton's homeland.

Jon Carey, Joe Simon, Rod Satterthwaite and Rick Proctor were selected to attend Wolverine Boys State in East Lansing.

Former Chelsea police chief Robert Aeillo was acquitted on a charge of embezzling more than $50 from the village parking fine fund. A jury of 10 men and two women in Circuit Judge Patrick J. Conlin's Ann Arbor court deliberated 3½ hours before delivering the not guilty verdict.

Chelsea's bid for a second Class B state softball championship in three years fell one game short as the Bulldogs girls lost a tight 2-0 verdict to Mt. Morris in the finals last Saturday at Midland.

Land owners of Sylvan township signed a petition requesting that part of the creek which runs through Chelsea and the southwest portion of Sylvan township, not now officially a part of Mill Creek, be so designated and become a part of the county drain. This would pave the way for cleaning out the main stream and deepening and widening where necessary, to bring the drain down to a level where it would eventually receive water from an area approximately 25 miles square.

MMA: Workers' Comp, Unemployment Insurance Biggest Negatives

The cost of workers' compensation and unemployment insurance continue to have the greatest negative impact on Michigan industry, while the proximity to customers and markets and the availability of labor have the greatest benefits, according to a survey released by the Michigan Manufacturers Association.

The results are based on a 20 percent response rate from 2,500 surveys sent to corporate decision makers.

However, 88 percent of the survey respondents said there is a fair, good or excellent likelihood they would increase the level of their work force in Michigan in the next two years.

MMA members also said state/local tax levies, the cost of labor and the cost of health care programs have a significant negative impact on their businesses. On the other hand, employers gave high marks to the state's transportation system and quality of life.

Restricting the right to hire and fire employees was ranked highest among several legislative proposals that pose the greatest risk to employers' businesses, while mandated health benefits and mandated parental leave followed.

Advance notification of plants closing and restricting employee drug testing ranked fourth and fifth, respectively.

Forty-six of the respondents who have multi-state operations said the cost of doing business in Michigan is rising faster than the cost in other states compared to 6 percent who said the costs are decreasing.

Insurance Group Reports "High Risk Pools" Cost $250 Million

A report released recently by the Michigan Association of Insurance Companies declared the cost of subsidizing the state's "high-risk pools" and funding other special state insurance programs exceeded $250 million last year.

The association, reiterating arguments it has presented to the Legislature, said subsidies required for Michigan's "pools" are highest in the Midwest and among the highest nationally.

Terry Buckles, president of the insurance association, said many of the special assessments paid by private insurers and their policyholders are used to subsidize state programs which provide below-cost insurance coverage for some residents.

The report listed the Michigan Basic Property Insurance Association, an organization created by state law to provide home insurance for people who might have difficulty obtaining coverage from regular companies, as one entity which collected $20 million from private carriers to cover losses.

The Michigan Automobile Insurance Placement Facility, providing below-cost auto coverage, collected $13 million from private carriers to cover losses, the report also noted.

Other special insurance programs listed and amounts collected included:

Michigan Assigned Claims Facility, $9.1 million; Michigan Workers' Compensation Placement Facility, $31.5 million; Workers' Compensation Second Injury Fund, $10.7 million;

Silicosis, Dust Disease and Logging Industry Compensation Fund, $2.8 million, and the Michigan Property and Casualty Guaranty Association, $21.9 million.

Deann Collins, Steven Rosentreter Exchange Vows at First Methodist

Deann Louise Collins, daughter of Robert and Norine Aello, 730 N. Main St., and the late John Collins, was married to Steven James Rosentreter, son of Niel and Dolores Rosentreter, 18740 M-52, on Saturday, May 14 at the First United Methodist church of Chelsea.

The Rev. Dr. Gerald Parker performed the ceremony.

Charles Mosher sang "The Wedding Song," and "Color My World."

The bride wore a satin, off-white dress with a full train, lace applique with seed pearls, fingertip veil with lace edging and seed pearls. She carried a white roses and carnations cascade.

The maid of honor was Carrie Bieske of Chelsea. She wore a teal-length royal blue dress with a lace handkerchief hem overlay. She carried nosegays of white and blue carnations.

The bridesmaids were Charisse Bufford of Chelsea, Sharon Crisp of Stockbridge, Carrie Alber of Manchester, Colleen Thompson of Chelsea and Shelly Boham of Chelsea. Their dresses were the same as that of the maid of honor.

Mother of the bride wore a flower print dress with pink accessories. The bridegroom's mother wore a light blue tea-length dress with cream accessories.

Flowergirls were Valisa Thompson and Elizabeth Fink of Ypsilanti, nieces of the bride. Ringbearer was Andrew Fink of Ypsilanti, nephew of the bride.

Outfits for the flower girls and ringbearer were made by Gloria Greenleaf, the bride's aunt. They matched the costumes of the other attendants.

Best man was Pat Birmingham of Ann Arbor. Ushers were Mark Rosentreter of Chelsea, brother of the bridegroom, and Mark Cozart of Ann Arbor, Keith Neibauer of Chelsea, Harold Polzen of Manchester and Shad Hiltz of Chelsea, all friends of the bridegroom.

A reception for 250 guests was held at the UAW Hall on M-62. Jodi Giest handled the guest book. Cake was served by Nadine Packard and Leah Giest.

The couple is planning a July honeymoon to Utah. They are residing at 610 E. Duncan, apartment B-13, Manchester.

The bride is a 1988 graduate of Huron Valley Beauty Academy and Chelsea High school. The bridegroom attended Chelsea High school and is employed at Rosentreter Excavating.

QUIET CREEK CONDOMINIUMS on the north end of the village are beginning to take shape. It is the second condo project to be started this year. Developer Bob Daniels is building higher-priced units than the ones offered at Bridgetown Condominiums on the opposite side of the village. It will also be a significantly smaller development.

THIS BLOOMING CATALPA TREE on Old US-12 near the old Weinberg Dairy caught the eye of more than one passing motorist. The tree is about 45 feet tall and is about 80-90 years old. Mrs. Merle Barr, Sr., remembers climbing the tree when she was a little girl.

Scout Troop 425 Holds Summer Court of Honor

On June 9, Boy Scout Troop held its summer Court of Honor family cookout at Half Moon Lake Park.

Before the awards were given out the boys that are going on a canoe trip next week were given a demonstration on how to pack a backpack to keep everything dry.

The boys have worked hard on advancement since their last Court of Honor back in March. They earned a lot of awards since then.

Skill awards were given to Kevin Hafner, 3, family living, hiking and swimming; Mark Kemner, 1, first aid; Matt Montange, 2, family living and first aid; Karl Wikman, 1, family living.

Merit badges were given to Jim Bennett, 1, first aid; Dirk Colbry, 1, personal management; Kevin Hafner, 2, first aid, personal management; Kirk Hedding, 1, lifesaving; Brian Jester, 3, fishing, personal management and sports; Mark Kemner, 1, first aid; Scott Long, 1, environmental science; Matt Montange, 1, first aid; Vincent Stahl, 1, environmental science; Karl Wikman, 2, communications and public speaking.

Boy Scout ranks were given to Jim Bennett, tenderfoot rank; Kevin Hafner, second class rank; Mark Kemner, second class rank; Matt Montange, first class rank; Scott Long, star rank; Dirk Colbry, life rank; and Brian Jester, life rank. After each boy received his badge he pinned a miniature badge on his mother.

New officers were installed at the

Nutritious Home Meals Delivered Hot

"For the frail elderly, or those recently home from the hospital, a hot meal delivered to their door is more than a luxury. It's a lifeline allowing them to stay in their own homes and community."

This sounds like Mary Ann Merkel who has been with Chelsea Home Meals Service since its inception in 1973 or Ann Feeney who joined the team a year later. Actually the quotation above is from an article in Minnesota Science about the home-delivered meal program in Minneapolis.

Throughout the nation in five recent years the number of home deliveries to seniors has risen from 31 million meals to 47 million. This number is certain to grow as the proportion of elderly people in our population continues to rise.

For those who have recently returned from the hospital, home delivered meals give them temporary support until they can regain their stamina. For the frail elderly, who are at risk from malnutrition, delivery to the door is an assured way to obtain one wholesome meal a day with no shopping, no kitchen preparation and no dishwashing.

The fact that the service is convenient is secondary. The great benefit is that it enables elderly people to continue living in their own homes. Men and women have starved to death rather than lose that privilege.

At the Methodist Retirement Home of Chelsea there is an exchange of values that many men and women have found worthwhile; they gain so much more than they lose. Elsewhere in some communities the alternatives to home living are so bleak, or so costly, they cannot be accepted.

Home meals in Chelsea are delivered for $2.25, a figure that is well below the cost of supplying them. All deliveries are made by volunteers using vehicles equipped with carriers for the trays of oven-fresh food. Most patrons can readily afford to pay for their meals. Those who can't afford $2.25 give what is comfortable or nothing at all. The nicely varied meals are prepared in the kitchen of the Methodist Retirement Home for mid-day delivery. They are expertly planned for nutrition and delivered in covered containers designed to retain heat.

According to Ann Feeney the delivered meals are consumed at various times chosen by the patrons themselves. Some meals are eaten all at once upon arrival, but others may be saved for later and re-heated. A number of patrons eat part of the meal when it is received and save the rest for later. Not surprisingly, the eating habits of Chelsea patrons correspond with those in Minneapolis.

Home economist Mary Darling, viewing a five-year study of elderly patrons, observed, "We found that without these meals their nutrient intakes were quite low. This meal was their major food for the day."

Chelsea Home Meals Service has 12 volunteer drivers, each of whom drives the route about once every two weeks. Currently there are 22 patrons. Drivers engage in pleasantries as they make the deliveries but their time is limited. They want that last patron on the route to receive the meal while it is good and warm.

The present corps of drivers consists of Ann Feeney, Danny Hackenback, Leonard Juergens, Mary Ann Merkel, Ann Mason, Jerry Piatt, Mary Beth Rosenberg, John Rozelen, Nadine Shaneyfelt, Arlene Spink, Helen Steele and Kathy Tassinari. After years of devoted service, drivers of two vehicles have found it necessary to say goodbye. They are Joyce Manley and Mr. and Mrs. Merton Teare.

CONSEQUENTLY, THERE ARE OPENINGS FOR TWO NEW VOLUNTEER DRIVERS. IF YOU ARE AVAILABLE, PLEASE CALL MARY ERSKINE AT 475-2821 OR 475-9494.

Chelsea Meal Service was started by Church Women United and the Jaycees 15 years ago. It is now sponsored by Faith In Action and supported by Chelsea United Way. The co-ordinator for this wonderful enterprise is Mary Erskine.

Keeping Home Sweet Home from Falling Apart

Elderly home owners who are still able to prepare their own meals may be troubled by other problems. Many find, as they grow older, that they are no longer able to perform maintenance and household repairs that were once routine. A leaking roof, caused by shingles that have blown away in a windstorm, can be a serious matter. Dad is too frail to climb on a roof. Mother never tried it and is not about to begin now. The odd job handyman, who once responded gratefully to a call, today needs help himself. As for calling a roofing company, the firm may put a small repair order on the waiting list, but if you are the caller don't hold your breath. You need six shingles replaced. Other orders awaiting their turn involve thousands of shingles.

The same applies to carpenters, preoccupied with such things as $75,000 construction projects who listen sympathetically to the request for a $150 repair job. (This is the same task that the home owner used to do himself for $15 when materials were cheap and his own labor was free.)

Is there a solution? I think it's right around the corner. New businesses are destined to be established for the handling of large volumes of home maintenance and repair jobs. The market is there.

Home owners are now reconciled to paying modern wage scales and modern prices for materials. They have to be realistic if they want the old homestead to stay in one piece. They can also afford it because retirement benefits have kept pace with the rising cost of living.

With such a potential market for sales and service to home owners, we can look forward to:

- Changing storm windows and screens
- Snow shovelling and grass mowing
- Window washing
- Painting and decorating
- Roof repair or renewal
- Gutters and downspouts
- Heating and cooling service
- Plumbing service
- Electrical service
- Major appliance repairs
- Other listed services

With such a source the home owner will be able to contract on a yearly basis for regular help with maintenance—and have definite status as a customer when help is needed for repairs.

Many of the specialized businesses around town (plumbers, electricians, carpenters, etc.) who now do their best to accommodate small customers, will find such a service company a comfortable adjunct to their own businesses. Such an alliance might serve as a source of referrals in both directions.

From a glance at the list of services above, an added benefit of social significance is apparent. Companies that provide services to home owners can provide employment for people with entry-level skills. Students can learn these skills while earning credits in high school and have some practical experience when they begin to earn a living.

No boy or girl can be harmed by training in Window Washing 101.

A VENT was cut in the roof of Lee's Hoagies as firefighters worked to contain a blaze at the restaurant Monday morning. The vent allows heat and smoke to escape. Excess heat can sometimes cause an explosion.

Recycling Program Hits Another Snag

Chelsea's recycling program is still in the works, but it's taking longer to develop than anyone connected with the program imagined.

The latest delay has to do with concerns that someone might use the recycling containers as a depository for a hazardous waste. The village, perhaps a little more sensitive because of its problems with the landfill, wants to make sure it is protected in such a case.

"It seems like every time we get one problem solved, something else comes up," said Washtenaw county recycling consultant Tom McMurtrie. Assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, who's been heavily involved in the project, said it has been one of his most frustrating professional experiences.

It's unlikely the problems will be resolved at least until late July. McMurtrie, who had hoped to launch the program in early June, said he couldn't set a firm start-up date.

In the meantime, promotional posters have been developed and a logo has been designed for the program.

The bins are scheduled to be located at Polly's Market.

Dry Conditions Result in Fires

Dry conditions have kept Chelsea firefighters busy putting out grass fires.

On Monday, June 13 a grass fire broke out at 18250 Bush Rd. at 5:30 p.m.

Another fire burned a field at I-94 and Fletcher Rd. at 9:20 a.m. on Tuesday, June 14.

Firemen battled a blaze at 17376 Waterloo Rd. on June 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Another fire broke out at the above Waterloo Rd. location on June 17 at 1:25 p.m.

And on June 20 firefighters were called to two separate grass fires near Werkner and Waterloo Rds.

Q. I bought Pfizer stock about a year ago and paid $74 a share. It went as high as $77 and then in the big October sell-off it went down to $40. After that it came up in the $50's but now it is back to the mid $40's. My broker had recommended this stock as a high quality growth stock that I could buy and hold, but now I am wondering if I made a mistake.

A. I think your broker made a good sound recommendation to you, but the price you paid was a little on the high side.

Pfizer is one of the major drug companies and has a long record of increasing sales, earnings and dividends. For the past 10 years sales have grown at about 9% compounded annually, earnings per share with the help of increasing margins have grown at 13% a year and dividends have grown just over 14% compounded annually. Owners of this stock have enjoyed a return well ahead of inflation.

Pfizer has some problems currently that seem to be the reason why its stock is down more than the average by which other stocks of its quality have declined. The earnings for the full year of 1987 are down from earlier expectations. The reason seems to be slower sales of its anti-arthritis drug Feldene due to adverse publicity concerning its safety. Also the company has increased Research and Development expenditures by about 20%. Pfizer has also had extra expenses due to its withdrawal from the heart-valve business. Since management's earlier stated goal was an increase in earnings of 10% to 15%, this is a disappointment to shareholders.

Of those three things the most serious is the decline in Feldene sales. It is difficult to judge how long and how severe that decline will be. But the increase in Research and Development should be a strong plus for the future. The closing out of the heart valve business gets rid of a drag on the total company.

Pfizer has increased its Research and Development expenditures regularly for several years and the results have been excellent. Value Line reports the company expects soon to introduce Alitame, a low-calorie sweetener, Fluconazole, an anti-fungal agent, and Doxazasin, for fighting heart disease. Assuming all goes well, it is believed that these three items alone will be adding 50 to 70 cents per share to earnings per share by 1990-92.

While Pfizer seems to be a little out of favor at this time, it appears to be able to resume its past growth rate and that should help move its price forward. Better Investing had a feature on this company in its January issue and I am sending you a copy.

When it comes right down to it, character stacks up as a mighty precious commodity. It is something that can't be rented, borrowed or bought at any price, even in the finest store.

Character is perhaps the finest product of our lifetime. It is the one tangible wealth we can amass in amounts of our own choosing. It is wealth others may envy but cannot steal from us; it is wealth that pays untold dividends from many sources, and its only possible devaluation must be the result of our own stupidity.

Safety Town Held Again For Pre-Kindergarteners

Safety Town program concludes its eighth year tomorrow. Since 1981 more than 800 children have entered the program to learn about the safety aspects of crossing streets at traffic lights and crosswalks. In addition, many of the children get their first opportunity to ride a school bus, among other activities.

Seven groups of children are split into morning and afternoon sessions. Teachers Carol Smith, Nancy Dymond, Mary Lou Bower and Debbie Osborne, and program director Mary Jane Davis guide the children through their activities.

A $15 entry fee was required, which paid the teachers' salaries.

Volunteer aides included Lesley Davis, Matt Dymond, and Erin Olberg.

Safety Town is co-sponsored by the Chelsea Police Department and Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. Chelsea officer Chris Minick and deputy sheriff Joe Yekulis volunteered their time.

Popular Misconceptions of Atomic and Particle Physics

To the Editor,
Ordinarily, no space would be devoted to such vacuous endeavors. It were not for the vast sums of money and resources being poured into the construction and operation of worthless particle accelerators. One of these giant accelerators consumes as much electricity as an entire city. The purpose of this is to expose the thought processes of physicists who have spawned the building of such monstrosities, and to evaluate what takes place in them.

The host of new particles observed by experimental physicists is produced by unnatural means, and has nothing to do with the operation of the atom. Their lifespan is so fleeting that a rational person would call them particles. "Phantom particles" would be a more appropriate term. Perhaps the most remarkable of these phantoms is the neutrino. It is true fragment of the imagination, since it has never shown up in cloud chambers. Physicists continually invent these particles, which possess special properties, to enable them to surmount difficulties. Such is the case with the neutrino.

A few decades back, theorists were apparently confronted with a violation of the law of conservation of mass energy, as determined by the theory of relativity. This was really because of a faulty interpretation of certain nuclear experiments and the fallacy of the relation $E=mc^2$. The discrepancy was blamed on some hypothetical and illusive particle called a neutrino. They had to assume it impossible properties to make conform with their other misconceptions. They assumed it must have rest mass of zero and a charge of zero!

The next step was to design an experiment to detect this wraith. Success was finally announced to the scientific world, after many years of frustration. However, an aspect of this great achievement was peddled. It was the reluctant admission the experiment only gave indirect, and hence inconclusive, evidence of the existence of a neutrino. Such a "minor" detail of the consideration that any number of interpretations that could have been placed on the results, would not find in the way of progress of physics long. Their enthusiasm was not to be denied after such a long period of suspense and frustration. Consequently, these annoying facts were pushed out of the way, and any others have been. The neutrino is now given the same status of reality as electron, proton, and even the neutron. They can now discuss the neutrino with reckless abandon, without displaying any sign of remorse or guilt.

Physicists picked out the most logical of all the various interpretations that could have explained the experiments, allegedly confirming the existence of the neutrino. Ironically the neutrino was invented to save conservation, but it was assigned properties which violated the law. How could a particle with a rest mass of zero and a zero charge ever acquire any momentum or produce any energy effects without creating something out of nothing?

This is an example of the quality of thinking in which academic physics indulges. Is there any reason to expect anything better in their present line of research, which cost billions of dollars? The comedy center around particle physics and its participants is too preposterous to have been conjured up by any dramatist prior to the advent of atomic physics. Instead of comedy, perhaps burlesque would be a more fitting description.

A theorist will dream of some weird drama which should take place with certain particles. This, in turn, necessitates the involvement of previously unknown particles with peculiar and unique properties. It then decided what type of path should produce in a cloud chamber long series of experiments followed with high-speed particles produced accelerators. Thousands of photographs are examined to see such paths can be found. Almost invariably, such diligent efforts are finally rewarded with success; another grotesque theory has been "confirmed." What usually follows great rejoicing and a celebration among the brotherhood. They have come a step closer to understanding the universe. There is an enigma usually connected with these events. It is indeed strange that right after the discovery nearly everyone starts finding them, although, prior to this, multitudes had been engaged in the search for weeks or months without success.

Their greatest ally in such endeavors is the law of averages. One can usually find any kind of path one wishes to find when a sufficient number of interactions is recorded. The conclusion that the illusion of increase of mass with velocity is only a cluster held together by magnetic fields has been demonstrated in some of these experiments. High-speed protons meeting head-on seem to produce a large number of new particles, which scatter in various directions. In reality, this is what happens when clusters collide. The collision causes the clusters to break up into many of the protons, which were captured by the magnetic fields of the aggregate. The end of a path in a cloud chamber is frequently interpreted as the destruction of a particle. In many cases, it only indicates the particle lost its kinetic energy, or was captured by an atom or molecule or by soft electrons. The names assigned to the fantasy particles are congruent with the odd thinking of the physicists working on these projects. Examples of these are quarks and charms. The real tragedy is the wasted time, effort, material, and astronomical sums of money poured into these worthless projects, which only test our intellectual excursions into dream worlds, which are far removed from reality.

So there you have it. The particles seen in a small particle accelerator are nothing but the same thing that happens when the "break" shot is taken down at the pool hall. The balls (protons) scatter in all directions when the cue ball hits the cluster of balls (cluster of protons). The same thing happens in a small accelerator that will happen in a monstrous multi-billion dollar Super Conductor-Super Collider. Nothing of value? You be the judge.

Ray Coulter
Grass Lake.

Dear Editor,

I am writing this letter in reference to Alan Conklin's Letter to the Editor dated June 15. Mr. Conklin in Section 4 accused the new home owners in the southwest corner of the lake of killing the weeds by the use of chemicals.

I am the owner of one of those new homes that as Mr. Conklin states were unfortunately built. I can assure you that my neighbor who owns the other new home next to mine or myself have not used chemicals in the lake. Second, the lakefront property behind my house is owned by the North Lake Beach Association. I am a member of this association and they have not used chemicals in the lake either. Thirdly, the weeds in front of our property are still in place.

I do not know what is killing the fish in North Lake. I am not an expert in the area of conservation. In my opinion the DNR or the Health Department have this expertise and should be the organization responsible for solving this important issue. I am extremely concerned about this problem and want to get the truth about it as soon as possible. My family enjoys the use of the lake as much as the other residents on the lake and we also want to know if the lake is safe.

Thief Takes Boat Ladder

A W. Middle St. resident reported the theft of a ladder from his boat on Sunday, June 19.

The theft took place on June 16 or 17 according to police reports.

The white, five-step ladder was in a boat that was parked on the property.

Thomas McDaniels Graduates From U. S. Air Force Academy

Thomas A. McDaniels, son of Edward and Ann (Schmunk) McDaniels, formerly of Chelsea, graduated June 1 from the United States Air Force Academy, Colorado Springs, Colo.

The 22-year-old Hudsonville man received a degree in aeronautical engineering and was commissioned as a second lieutenant in the United States Marine Corps.

McDaniels will attend Marine Officer Basic School at Quantico, Va., followed by flight school at Pensacola, Fla.

He graduated with honors from the Air Force Academy Prep School, Colorado Springs, Colo., in 1984 and is a 1983 honor graduate from Hudsonville High School.

McDaniels is the grandson of Charles and Nina McDaniels of Chelsea, and the late Arthur and Alice Schmunk.

Drought Delays Fair Landscaping

The drought has forced landscaping plans for the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds to be delayed until fall. That was one of the items discussed at the Thursday, June 16 meeting of the fair board.

In other business, a larger menu is being planned for the dining room this year, which will once again be run by Chelsea Community Hospital.

Refrigeration units will be in place for this year's fair.

More place mats will be printed this year than last, and they will be distributed more widely.

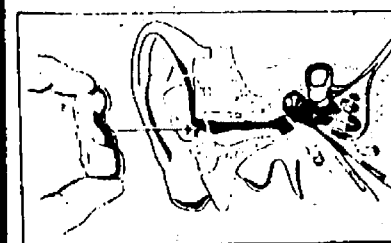

A work bee was organized to repair and replace some of the wooden bleachers.

Officers present for the meeting included president Bill Stoffer, executive vice-president Lloyd Grau, secretary Maryann Guenther, and treasurer Mark Stapish. Directors in attendance included Jim Dault, Harold Gross, Earl Heller, Jerry Heydlauff, Don Koenigter, Jeff Layher, Reuben Lesser, Jr., Bill Nixon, Tom Smith, Harold Trinkle, Walt Zeeb, and reporter John Wellnitz.

Others present were Linda White, who discussed a scholarship fund, Pat Merkel, public relations and advertising director, and Pat Dawson, dietary superintendent at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Emergency Management Personnel Win State Awards

The Michigan Emergency Management Association (MEMA) at its annual seminar, held this year in Holland on Thursday, May 26, presented special recognition to several Washtenaw county individuals and organizations.

Daniel R. Harsh was selected to receive the "Director of the Year" award at this year's conference.

Harsh, a Chelsea-Dexter area resident, serves as Washtenaw county's Director of Emergency Management.

"Special Recognition" awards were also presented to the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners, with Martin Straub and Howard Finkel accepting the award on behalf of the board, and Ronald J. Schebil, Washtenaw County Sheriff, who was personally in attendance to accept his individual "Special Recognition" award.

The awards signify past and continued support to MEMA's principles, and to Emergency Management, generally.

Additionally, "Presidential Citations" were given Robert Kramer, former emergency co-ordinator for Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES) in Washtenaw county; Thomas "Jay" Blethen, regional RACES director and assistant emergency co-ordinator for the Washtenaw county RACES unit; executive secretary Denise Wirtz, serving the Office of Emergency Management in Washtenaw county; C. Robert Snider, managing director of the National Weather Service's state forecast office, located in Ann Arbor, and Charles Herbert, deputy chief of police for the City of Saline, accepting on behalf of Jim Douglas, Saline police chief.

The Michigan Emergency Management organization, with more than 160 members, is dedicated to protection of life and property through emergency planning and mitigation of emergency potentials.

"Director of the Year" is the organization's highest award and represents consistent leadership in the field of Emergency Management by its recipient, while that individual also exhibits the highest degree of competence and commitment.

Daniel R. Harsh has served as Washtenaw county's Director of Emergency Management since 1979.

Prior to accepting the position, he served as executive director of the Southeast Michigan Council on Emergency Medical Services, a seven-county planning agency.

Harsh has served two terms as president of MEMA, two terms as chairman of the board of directors for the Washtenaw county chapter, American Red Cross.

He also served for several years on the Governor's Council for Emergency Preparedness Planning, including a stint as chair of the body's legislative committee.

He continues to serve on local boards, and as a volunteer, is active in several other organizations, both church- and community service-oriented.

Harsh's work currently includes positions as president of St. Joseph Parish Council, Dexter, and actively participating in the Salvation Army program.

He holds a master of business administration degree, earned at Wayne State University, and has completed course work in both the master of education program at WSU and Eastern Michigan University's master of public administration program.

Harsh's newest career involvement is an appointment to serve as "enhanced 9-1-1 co-ordinator" in Washtenaw county, a position he agreed to accept, in addition to his previous responsibilities.

Lima township residents, Dan Harsh and his wife, Donna, live on Dexter-Chelsea Rd., and are parents of three school-age daughters.

ACCEPTING AWARDS at the Michigan Emergency Management Association annual seminar, held in Holland, Thursday, May 26, were several Washtenaw county individuals, led by Daniel Harsh, who was cited as "Director of the Year" at the conference. Pictured from left, others recognized were Washtenaw County Sheriff Ronald J. Schebil; Deputy Chief Charles Herbert, accepting the award on behalf of Saline Police Chief Jim Douglas; Martin Straub, representing the Washtenaw County Board Commissioners; Robert Kramer, former emergency-ordinator for Radio Amateur Civil Emergency Service (RACES) in Washtenaw county; Thomas Blethen, regional RACES director and assistant emergency co-ordinator for the Washtenaw county RACES unit; Denise Wirtz, serving the Office of Emergency Management in Washtenaw county, and Robert Snider from the National Weather Service.

Everybody's Science

* Insect Scourge Followed By Radar ...

By Regina Wigen

In their efforts to control an insect which costs the American farmer $1.5 billion a year, U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists no longer believe that the sky's the limit. They'll gladly jump in a small airplane or hover over the screens of a ground-based radar system all night—if that's what it takes to track a voracious crop gobbler called the corn earworm (Heliothis zea).

As youngsters, corn earworms are stay-at-home types. They spend their time in ears of corn, gorging themselves on soft kernels. But when these larva grow up and become winged adults, they suddenly develop a case of wanderlust.

Recent radar studies have captured images of the mature moths in midair, taking to the sky by the billions. Traveling most of the night, they take off from farms in south Texas and northeast Mexico. Then, riding warm winds north, they head for destinations hundreds of miles away.

From the ground, scientists aimed a narrow-beam radar at the clouds of earworm moths. This equipment was so sensitive that it could pinpoint a single one-inch moth flying a mile away. A second radar, this one on board an airplane, measured how long the moths are aloft and how densely they fly.

"We now have evidence," says Alton N. Sparks of the USDA's Agricultural Research Service, "that these migrations eventually cover and infest a pretty wide stretch of America's corn and cotton belts."

Sparks has been studying corn earworms along both the U.S. and Mexican sides of the Rio Grand near Weslaco, Tex., and notes that the problem is an international one.

One way to stop these unwanted travelers that's being discussed is a joint U.S.-Mexico insect control program. Such a co-operative effort might succeed in stopping the moths while still in the immature stage, long before they take to the skies.

Learning about the moth's flight patterns also may lead to an "early warning system." With advance knowledge on where and when to expect these invaders, farmers could prepare a proper welcome—the right amount of insecticide, applied only when and where it is needed. (Agricultural Research Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.)

Field Day Scheduled For Amateur Radio

All amateurs in the Amateur Radio Relay League (ARRL) field organization, plus the Yukon, NWT and foreign stations will join members of the Chelsea Amateur Radio Club and the Jackson County Radio Club, the Cascade Amateur Radio Club (CARS), for a field day at Park Lyndon, Saturday and Sunday, June 25-26.

The 24-hour operation of amateur radio equipment on emergency power will challenge the skills and serve to acquaint the public with the capabilities of amateur radio operators.

The public is invited to stop by Park Lyndon and have a look-see at the group in operation, Chelsea's Bob Schantz explained, this week.

Fuel shortage: More than a third of the world still relies on wood for cooking and home heating. According to International Wildlife magazine, when wood demand outstrips the growth of new trees the results can be disastrous. In some parts of the world, the search for wood has resulted in the leveling of whole forests. Silent victims of this deforestation are birds and other wildlife whose survival depends on trees.

How Can You Tell A Tough Tractor?

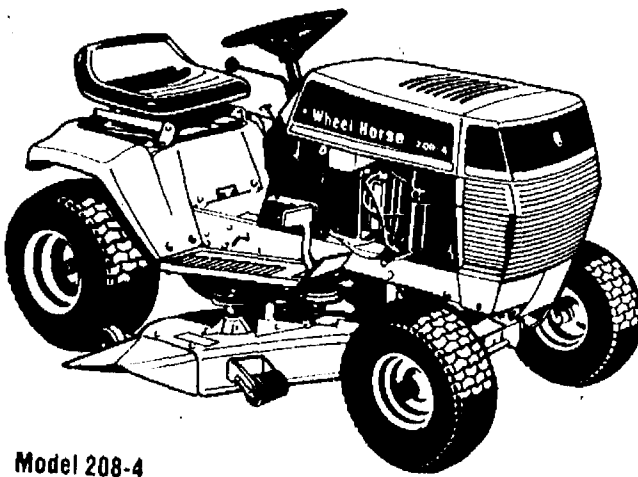

LOOK BETWEEN THE WHEELS.

The front axle is the key to a smooth ride and long life. That's why every Wheel Horse tractor, right down to our smallest lawn tractor, has a cast-iron front axle. It absorbs the bumps on any terrain, yet keeps its shape.

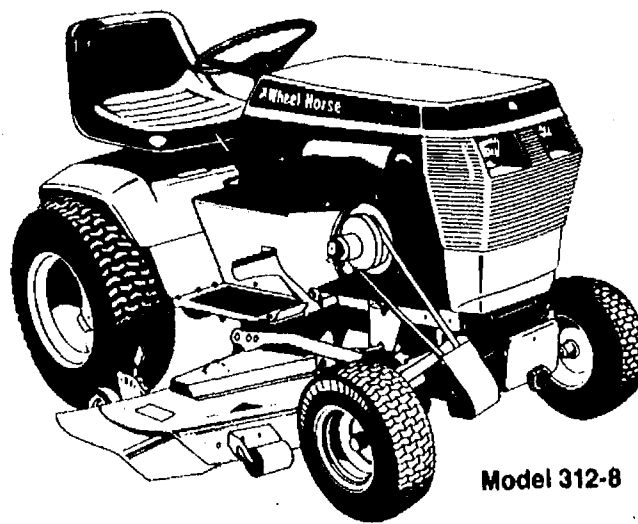

On many small tractors, you'll find the front axle is stamped out of steel, often as part of the frame. When you consider the amount of weight it supports and the ground it works on, you'll understand the importance of the Wheel Horse front axle. It's a difference you'll measure in years.

LIMITED TIME OFFER!

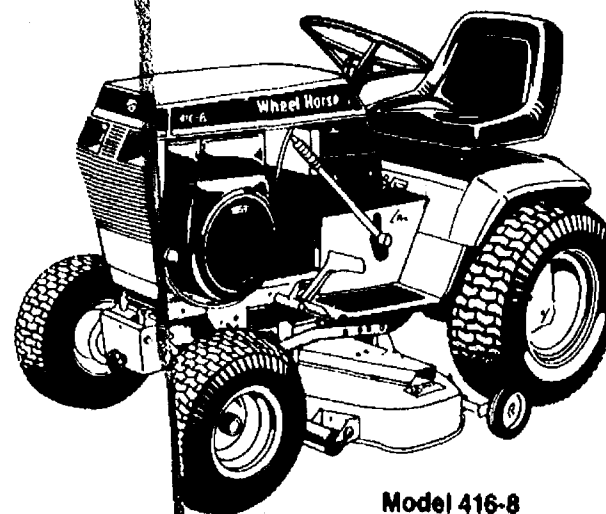

You'd expect to pay more for this kind of engineering. Especially when it results in better performance and longer tractor life. But right now, your Wheel Horse dealer is making a special offer.

Senior Law Day Slated Saturday

Sponsors of Senior Law Day, the Women Lawyers' Association of Michigan and the Washtenaw County Bar Association, hope Senior Law Day will become an annual event. This year, it will take place from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. at the Washtenaw County Courthouse on Saturday, June 25. All senior citizens and those interested in senior citizen issues are encouraged to attend.

Senior Law Day will provide a forum for the discussion of legal issues pertinent to the elderly.

The program is being supported by Turner Geriatric Services, Catherine McAuley Health Services, and others. It will include presentations on settling disputes out of court, legislation affecting seniors, estate planning, divorce issues, grandparent visitation and employment discrimination. The day will also include enactment of true to life legal issues in the courtroom by attorneys and senior volunteers regarding issues of guardianship, landlord-tenant law and terminal illness. A light lunch will be served.

Space limitations require pre-registration and those interested should plan to register early. This program is free of charge and participants may register by calling Ms. Arlene Shock at the Probate Court in the Washtenaw County Courthouse at 994-2476.

For more information, call Patti Magyar at 475-3929.

Children's Theatre Workshop Underway

School may be over for the summer, but the magic of the theater is still alive at Chelsea High school.

Chelsea Area Players are once again giving young people the chance to express themselves on stage by sponsoring a three-week Children's Theater Workshop. CAP board member Brenda Beaver is the coordinator.

The Children's Theatre Workshop is directed by Pat Coelius and she is assisted by Melissa Check. The two directors of the workshop are Laura Koeple and Jeff Boyer. Laura Koeple is a senior at Depaul University in Chicago, majoring in Sound Recording Technology. Laura, a 1985 graduate of Chelsea High school, is starting her third year as being a teacher for the Theater Workshop. Her assistant is Bill Coelius, IV. Jeff Boyer received his bachelor's degree of Science in Education at Eastern Michigan University. Jeff is also part of Boyer and Fitzsimmons Comedy Magic. This is Jeff's second year as a teacher for Theater Workshop and he is being assisted by Chris Craig.

During the next three weeks the children will be attending classes on acting and set construction and will be listening to special guest speakers. The speakers will be Heather Grenier, stage presence; Sue Williams, basic make-up; Shelley Wheaton, sound and technology. Don Paulsell will be taking the children on a backstage tour.

The workshop is held five days a week, from 10 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. Morning classes, last until 12:15 p.m. After lunch, assigned play groups begin for rehearsals. The final performance will be on June 29 at 7 p.m. in the George Prinzing Auditorium at Chelsea High school. Tickets are available at the door for $1.

Summer Baseball Teams Open With Two Losses

Chelsea's summer baseball team composed of boys in the Chelsea High school baseball program opened their season with two losses last week.

On Thursday, June 16 Chelsea was beaten 7-5 by Sloan Construction of Ann Arbor. On Saturday, Abate Auto outslugged the Bulldogs 22-12.

In the Thursday game, Chelsea had the tying runs on second and third when the game ended.

"We struck out 15 times and that's way too many if you expect to win," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

Doug Wingrove's home run in the first gave Chelsea the early lead.

After Sloan tied the game in the bottom of the inning, Chelsea regained the lead in the top of the second as Kerry Plank singled in Mike Kushmaul.

Again, Sloan tied the game in the second.

Kerry Plank scored Chelsea's third run of the game in the fourth to give Chelsea the lead again.

However, in the fifth Sloan scored five times.

Chelsea collected eight hits but failed in a couple of key situations with runners in scoring position, Marshall said.

Wingrove was the only Bulldog with two hits. Kushmaul added a double and Jude Quilter, Tucker Steele, Matt Forner, David Adams and Kerry Plank each hit a single.

Wingrove pitched a complete game and "pitched well enough to win," Marshall said.

Wingrove allowed eight hits, struck out six, and walked two. The defense allowed four unearned runs.

In week-end action, Abate Auto scored 18 runs in the fifth and sixth inning to seal their 22-12 win.

"We had them 12-4 but our defense let us down," Marshall said.

"We committed eight errors in the last two innings. We just didn't get the job done."

David Adams' double scored Chelsea's first run in the first.

Abate scored three runs on one hit in the bottom of the first.

However, Chelsea scored five times in the second, highlighted by a two-run homer by Matt Forner.

Chelsea scored five more times in the fourth to take a 12-4 lead.

Then came the Abate barrage.

The Bulldogs picked up 12 hits for the game. Adams had two doubles and a single, Kyle Plank tripled and singled, Forner homered and singled, Tom Mesnard doubled and singled, Wingrove doubled and Kerry Plank and Jeff Marshall each singled.

"We only struck out five times which was a big improvement," Marshall said.

After allowing three runs in the first inning, Kerry Plank pitched well," Marshall said.

"No pitcher can get the job done when you give a team six or seven outs an inning," Marshall said.

"He should have had a complete-game victory."

Chelsea's next game is Thursday at 6:15 p.m. at Pioneer High school. Saturday they play a doubleheader at Vet's Park in Ann Arbor starting at 5:30 p.m.

The summer teams are basically made up of players who will try out for the Bulldog varsity team next spring. Players on the week-end team are Larry Nix, Matt Forner, Jeff Prentice, Jason Stevens, Mark Larson, David Adams, Jeff Marshall, Tom Mesnard, Doug Wingrove, Kyle and Kerry Plank, Jude Quilter and Brandon Murrell. Joining them to make up the week-day team are Mike Kushmaul, Steve Emmert, Lance Satterthwaite, Kevin Bell, Tucker Steele, Rob Clem and Craig Ferry.

Both teams are coached by Akel Marshall.

New Track Club Seeks Participants

Chelsea has a new track club. The Bulldog Running Club is open to children eight years and older.

Practices will be held on Wednesday from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. and Friday from 9 to 11 a.m.

Chelsea High school boys track coach Ted Wilson will coach the club.

Anyone interested should simply show up at the high school track.

For more information call Vickie Eresten at 475-9096 from 8 to 9:30 p.m.

ALISHA DOROW, shortstop for the Chelsea Bulldogs, has been named to the All-State Second Team for 1988. Dorow played almost flawlessly at her position, was one of the quickest players on the team, and was one of the team's hitting leaders. In addition, she was a cum laude student. Teammates Peggy Hammerschmidt and Leah Enderle also were named to the Honorable Mention team. The only other player from the Southeastern Conference to earn state honors was Dexter pitcher Maryann Doletzky, who was named to the third team.

Kelly Cross on Record-Setting Relay

Chelsea's Kelly Cross, a member of the Ann Arbor Swim Club, was a member of a 200-meter relay team that set a state record last week-end in Toronto.

Kelly's team swam a 1:57, bettering the previous record by almost four seconds.

Kelly swam the second leg.

Merchants Softball Team Plays Well in Tourney

Chelsea Merchants softball team, composed largely of recent Chelsea High school graduates, played in the Ditch Witch Tournament in St. Charles, Ill. last week-end.

"We were one of the better teams," said Chelsea coach Charlie Waller.

The Merchants opened play by defeating Ken's Kittens on Friday night, 7-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Jenny Pichlik. Jenny also had two hits. Sara Corwin of Manchester scored two runs.

Peggy Hammerschmidt pitched the Merchants to their second win, another 7-2 victory over the Rockford Rocketts on Saturday. Hammerschmidt struck out eight batters and walked three. All-State shortstop Alisha Dorow led the attack with two hits and two runs scored. Holly Purdy of Dexter had the only extra base hit to lead off the three-run seventh inning. Hammerschmidt drove in three runs with a single in the seventh.

The Fast Thunderbirds of Arlington, Ill. nipped the Merchants in their third game, 5-3. Kelly Stump took the loss when the Thunderbirds took advantage of the rock hard nature of the infield to bounce the ball over the third baseman. Stump led the hitting attack with two hits while Purdy hit her second double of the tournament and Pichlik tripled her home.

The Merchants opened the single-elimination part of the tournament by defeating the Burbank Bandits, 2-1, behind the pitching of Pichlik. Pichlik tossed a four-hitter, struck out five and walked one. She also had the big hits of the game. She singled, and later scored on a hit by Stump. She also put another runner in scoring position with a double.

The Merchants were knocked out of the tournament on Sunday morning by the Sidney Zoo in extra innings.

Hammerschmidt took the 3-2 loss, losing on the international tie-breaker rule in which each team has the chance to score a runner from second base.

Chelsea collected 11 hits but "runner after runner died at third," Waller said.

Chris Kennedy of Tecumseh and Stump led the hitting attack, followed closely by Laura Unterbrink and Chris Basso.

Other members of the team include Beth Kenney, Ceia Murphy, and Lisa Unterbrink of Chelsea, Sheila Hatton of South Lyon, and Kim Kurzyniec of Tecumseh.

Other coaches include Art Cobb and Russ Pichlik. Team managers are Nancy Pichlik and Joanne Waller.

Kelly Hawker Named to GLIAC All-Academic Team

Kelly Hawker is one of five Wayne State University student-athletes to be named to the Great Lakes Intercollegiate Athletic At-Large All-Academic Teams.

Hawker was named to the first team. The softball junior pitcher has a 3.55 grade point average in elementary education. She was the only unanimous selection to the women's at-large team.

Hawker was an NCAA Division II Second Team All-American this season after finishing with a 17-7 overall record and 0.36 earned run average in 154 innings. Hawker is both first and second on the single-season strikeout list. She fanned 120 this year, 28 short of her previous high in 1986. She was also named to the NCAA-II All-Central Region First Team and the All-GLIAC Softball First Team.

Federal SSC Visit Termed 'Successful'

Michigan won't know until late November, at the earliest, just how much of an impression it made on the Department of Energy (DOE) visitors last week.

But a sense of accomplishment expressed by members of the state and local team suggest high marks for the Great Lakes State in its competition with six other states to win the huge federal Superconducting Super Collider project. The DOE is scheduled to announce its "preferred site" after the fall elections.

"We're here to 'kick the tires'," explained Wilnot Hess, chairman of the 24-person DOE Site Task Force that visited the Stockbridge area and toured the 63-mile proposed SSC ring location from May 31 through June 3. Michigan's site was the fourth of seven to be inspected by the federal team. Arizona, Texas and Illinois were seen prior to their visit here; Colorado, North Carolina and Tennessee remain.

During the four-day examination of Michigan's entry in the SSC sweepstakes, the federal officials figuratively looked under every stone, asked questions almost continuously, and viewed the state's presentations with apparent keen interest.

The visit opened with a DOE press conference in Ann Arbor on May 31, followed by a three-hour formal presentation by the state using live speakers and a video screen. A wide range of topics was covered during the overview, including a description of the site geology, regional and academic resources available to the SSC, a description of community support for the project, and a briefing on the environment and setting of the site area.

Most members of the DOE Task Force boarded helicopters the next morning for an aerial survey of the SSC ring path and Central Campus areas, while others attended a Regional Resources briefing in Ann Arbor. When the helicopters landed at about noon at Stockbridge High school, the visitors were bussed to the Town Hall where they were treated to a buffet lunch catered by Han's Sausage House and served by village volunteers.

That afternoon, the main group toured the site ring by bus while the remaining federal team members flew over the area.

Thursday's agenda included a series of meetings in Lansing and Ann Arbor between the federal and state and local officials on topics such as transportation, housing, schools, construction and institutional support. Several of the top DOE officials, meanwhile, visited the National Superconducting Cyclotron Laboratory at Michigan State University in East Lansing.

Michigan's construction industry delivered a one-hour presentation of its capabilities on Friday morning in Ann Arbor, followed by a "Technology Transfer" presentation at the University of Michigan Engineering School. The DOE concluded its visit with an afternoon meeting with state officials at which it presented 25 follow-up questions that must be answered by July 1.

Officially, the DOE thanked Michigan for its assistance, but was cautiously non-committal on any preference among the seven states vying for the SSC.

In a closing letter to Governor James Blanchard, Site Task Force Executive Director L. Edward Temple stated: "The members of the DOE team appreciate the help you have given us to clarify information in your proposal and to examine the Stockbridge site."

"Your State of Michigan team was extremely co-operative and helpful in making our trip a successful one," Temple's letter continued. "Please extend our gratitude to each member of your team."

Michigan SSC Commission executive director John Haneski described the mood among state and local officials as "We're feeling real good."

"We were trying to show DOE two things," Haneski said.

"First, we were trying to demonstrate the technical superiority of our site with an improved geology, our outstanding regional resources, and our advantages including two world-class universities nearby. Second, we attempted to show that it's very easy to work with Michigan—that we are co-operative, responsive and competent."

"I believe we exceeded our expectations on both," Haneski said.

He added that an on-going Environmental Impact Review will conclude this fall with DOE returning to each of the seven states for public hearings. Haneski added that the state SSC Commission will keep the area residents involved and informed on the progress of the project.

"We have a continuing responsibility in the area of public information," Haneski said. "As we learn additional facts, we will be sharing them with the public."

Margaret Wild, who with her husband owns more than 600 acres of farmland in the Central Campus area of the proposed SSC site about three miles southwest of Stockbridge, attended the state's formal presentation on May 31.

"I considered it to be the winning presentation," Mrs. Wild said. "We have a lot of confidence in the SSC staff. They have treated us very fairly."

Stockbridge farmer Joe Kimbirauskas, who also attended the opening presentation, demonstrated his support for the project by spelling out "SSC" in bales of hay on his land for officials to see as they flew overhead on June 1.

Archer Earns Business Degree At Spring Arbor

Michael A. Archer, 16770 McClure Rd., earned a bachelor's degree in business administration at Spring Arbor College this spring.

Spring Arbor College is a four-year Christian evangelical liberal arts college near Jackson.

Baccalaureate and commencement services were held Sunday, May 22.

ACCIDENT ON HANKERD RD. resulted in injuries to David Paul Warren of Dearborn, driver of the vehicle pictured. At 4 p.m. Sunday, June 19, Warren was northbound on Hankerd Rd., approximately two miles north of North Territorial Rd., when he observed a vehicle described as a "red Mustang" coming toward him and his passengers. In an effort to avoid a collision, he apparently swerved toward the right shoulder of the road, then lost control, swerved to the left, overcorrected back to the right shoulder, when his vehicle ran up a bank and flipped on its top, where it remained to slide an additional 50 feet. Warren was transported by Huron Valley Ambulance from the accident scene to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

The youngsters, selling their lemonade at 35 cents, raised $8 last Wednesday, $2 on Thursday, and $3 on Friday. Hot weather is scheduled to continue.

McKUNE MEMORIAL LIBRARY NEW BOOK LIST

"HIGH PRIEST" by Warren Murphy and Molly Cochran. By the authors of the national bestseller, GRANDMASTER, a vivid portrait of two men, sworn enemies, born under the same ominous stars, whose lives must be forever locked in mortal opposition.

American superspy and chess prodigy Justin Gilead, and Alexander Zharkov, head of the feared secret Soviet agency, are the protagonists—proven masters of the sudden-death game of global espionage.

"THE CHARM SCHOOL" by Nelson DeMille. A rapid-fire journey through the backstreets of Moscow and deep into the heart of the Soviet countryside. Rich in detail of life in the Soviet Union, The Charm School evokes a thrilling and gritty realism reminiscent of Martin Cruz Smith's Gorky Park.

"THE GREENLANDERS" by Jane Smiley. A novel of subtly unfolding enchantment. It conjures up a vast Greenland of fjords and glittering ice, of sun-warmed meadows and high, dark mountains. By an act of literary magic, a strange and distant time, place, and people are made not only real but dear to us in a novel that will delight and thrill the reader.

"GREEN CITY IN THE SUN" by Barbara Wood. A magnificent saga, the story of two proud and powerful families—one British, one African—and their battle over Kenya's destiny in the 20th century. It is a story with all the drama, violence and fierce

Elevator Bankruptcy Settlement Shows Value of Receipts

Settlement this week of the Weamac grain elevator bankruptcy in Clinton county underscores the value of a farmer insisting on a warehouse receipt when he sells his grain, according to Michigan Farm Bureau economist Bob Craig.

"Farmers who had warehouse receipts received full payment of their claims," Craig said. "Unfortunately, those who did not have warehouse receipts and, in most cases everybody had scale tickets, received only 21 cents on the dollar."

Craig said Michigan farmers would benefit from the creation of a commodity insurance fund that would be financed by a small checkoff on grain and bean sales. The fund would be designed to reimburse all farmers for approximately 80% of their losses due to an elevator bankruptcy.

Michigan Floriculture Is Growing Industry

Michigan placed fifth in the nation last year in the production of floriculture crops and Michigan Farm Bureau economist Bob Craig says the industry has room for even more expansion.

"We have seen tremendous growth over the last 10 to 15 years in cut flowers and bedding plants in a number of foliage areas," Craig said. "With wholesale sales going to $92 million in 1987, a sizeable increase over the past few years, we see this potential getting even better in the future."

Only California and Florida have more square feet of greenhouses than Michigan. Michigan leads the nation in the production of potted geraniums and ranks second in output of Easter lilies and flats of flowering and vegetable bedding plants.

Traffic Slowdown For Repairs on US-23

Traffic on 13 miles of US-23, from south of US-23 north to the west junction of M-14 in the city of Ann Arbor, will be slowed for construction of a passing flare and resurfacing beginning Tuesday, May 31, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said. Work includes pavement repair, concrete barrier work, bridge deck repair and resurfacing.

Intermittent, daytime lane closures will be in effect. While the bridge work is being done, traffic will be restricted to one lane in each direction.

Spaulding. Not pictured is Lawrence Tisch. Deceased are Donald Wheeler, L. D. West, Ralph Oesterle, Eugene Martin, Lucille Hoover, Virginia Gilbert Ferris, Adolph Duerr, Richard Collins, Doris Haselschwerdt Wineland, Chester Kennedy, and Earl Koch and Willis Mayer, who both died in World War II. Missing from the reunion were Alice Sager Herder, Cecelia Birch Neale, Ruth Riemenschneider, Marjorie Heurion Myers, Adalme Scripster Stone, L. Dean Steinaway, Eleanor Slane Holmes, Theodore Brueckner, and Erwin McHenney. There were 46 members of the class. After gathering at the Vogel Home the group traveled to Jackson in a rented school bus for dinner at Gilbert's.

Equity Bonus Proposed for Farmlands Needed By SSC

The Michigan Superconducting Super Collider Commission is considering a proposal to pay an equity bonus for farmland needed for construction of the $4.4 billion Superconducting Super Collider (SSC).

The proposed equity payment would help compensate for any declines in farmland values over the past 12 years. Such declines, if documented by agricultural real estate records, would be the basis for the equity payment if the land is needed for the collider's 16,000 acre site.

The payment would be in addition to the farmland's fair market value as determined by state appraisers in accordance with the state constitution. If proposed by the commission, the equity payment would need legislative approval before it could be determined and made to the eligible property owners.

John F. Haneski, the commission's executive director, said the commission is determined that farmers and other property owners be fairly and equitably compensated for the property they would be required to sell if Michigan is chosen as the national site for the SSC.

"The State of Michigan is pledged to use its resources to make the relocation of property owners and occupants as financially, physically and emotionally painless as is possible within the law," Haneski said.

"It now appears that an equity payment may be necessary to ensure certain farmers against losses associated with the current, legally-ascertained values of their property," Haneski said.

Haneski said the commission has initiated a survey of farmland values in the site area to document the specific price swings, up and down, since 1975. The survey is being conducted by Michigan State University's Co-operative Extension Service and the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"If the survey results document the declines, they would be used to develop a proposal for a 'fair deal' equity payment based on the indicated price swings," said Haneski.

The Michigan Department of Transportation is serving as advisor to the commission on the land acquisition program. The department was assigned to the task because of its familiarity with state and federal land acquisition and relocation laws. The firm of Gilbert/Commonwealth of Jackson has been awarded the contract to manage the land acquisition and relocation program, under the supervision of the commission.

The commission's agents are now in the field to begin the acquisition process. The first task: examination of local tax rolls to determine the exact ownership of more than 300 parcels expected to be involved. About 6,000 acres will need to be purchased in fee simple. Subsurface rights (stratified fee estates) for the 53-mile-long accelerator tunnel also need to be purchased.

Aerial photographs also are being taken by survey crews prior to their on-the-ground work. Property owners will be notified before the crews visit to make their surveys.

The procedures for appraisal, acquisition and relocation are being developed with special emphasis on properties earmarked for the SSC's main campus, future expansion, and the so-called near cluster campus area. These comprise the first properties expected to be transferred to the Department of Energy in June 1989.

Negotiations with owners of properties to be acquired are expected to begin later this year. Here is the acquisition schedule:

June 1, 1989—Campus, first 25 percent of collider properties transferred to U.S. Department of Energy.

Fall 1989—Property Management. Security and maintenance of all purchased properties will be provided. Removal of any acquired improvements will begin.

Sept. 1, 1989—Injector, second 25 percent of collider properties transferred.

Dec. 1, 1989—Third 25 percent of collider properties transferred.

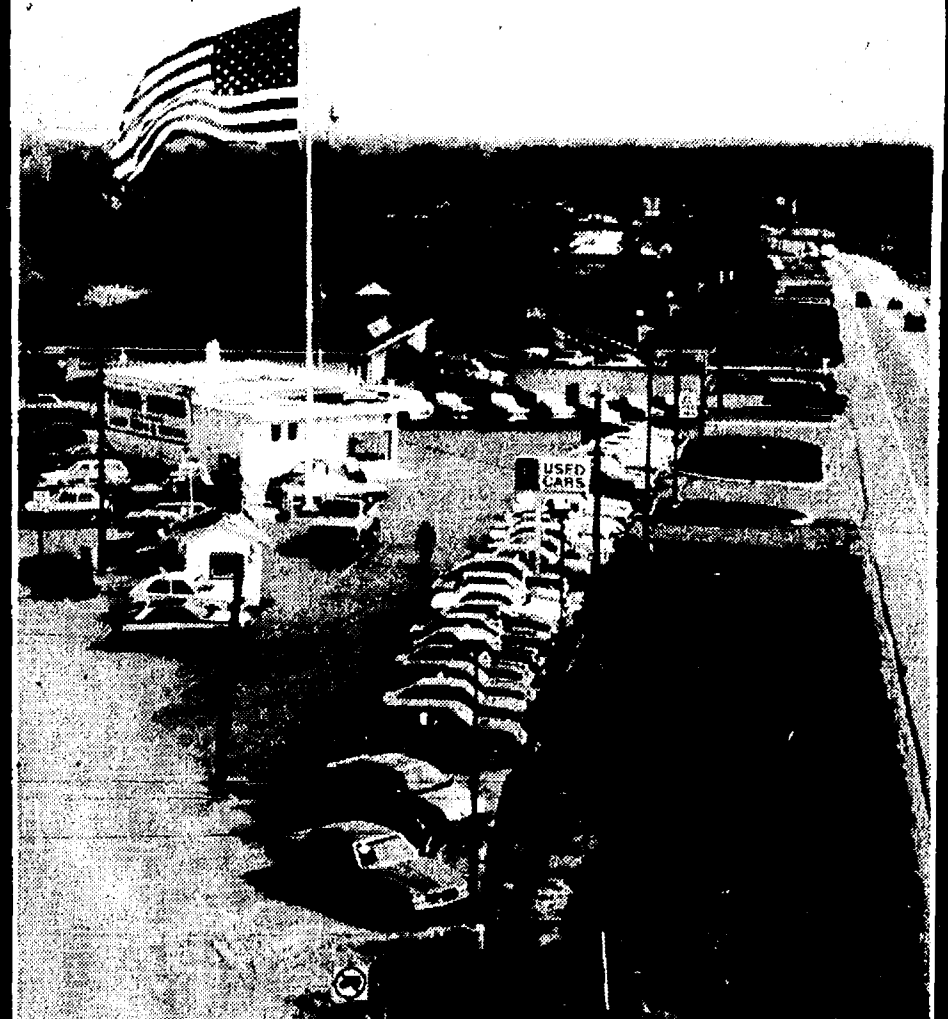

March 1, 1990—All remaining areas transferred.

Not Much Relief Seen For Parched Crops

May was one of the driest in history for mid-Michigan, and the current outlook for the rest of the summer is not encouraging.

"Projections indicate that we will have chronic hot and dry conditions the rest of this month," says John Kotke, an agricultural meteorologist for the National Weather Service in Indiana.

That may change slightly. "A semi-permanent high pressure ridge that has kept much of the Corn Belt dry is expected to move eastward by July," Kotke says. "When this ridge moves, farmers in Michigan can expect to see a return to normal precipitation in July and August."

That won't be a big improvement, however. Michigan normally gets about six inches in those two months, which makes it the driest state east of the Mississippi River during that time.

Kotke says that some areas in the Midwest will be droughty all summer and that any relief will come in the form of typical summer rains, which tend to be spotty.

Still, he says, Michigan has generally fared better than other Midwestern states because of the effect of the Great Lakes.

That, however, will not help a lot of farmers, who have not completed planting operations.

Bill Bortel, Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service director in Tuscola county, says that the rains that fell last week provided enough moisture to encourage planting of dry beans in some areas. The moisture also spurred seedling corn and soybean growth, but it was not enough to help alfalfa and small grains.

Oran Hesterman, MSU extension agronomist, says that though the first cutting of alfalfa was generally good, farmers should be careful about taking their second cutting of hay.

In sum, he says, wait until rain promotes sufficient growth.

"It's hard to make a general statement about what should be done, but one thing to remember is that alfalfa plants do not need to be cut to stimulate second growth," Hesterman says. "So if there is a very light harvest and it's not worth a farmer's while to go out and harvest that light crop as a second cutting, just leave it alone and the crop will regrow for another cutting if we get rain later in the summer."

Farmers who have not been able to plant corn by this time should probably consider something else, Hesterman says.

"For almost all areas in Michigan, we would consider it too late to plant corn at this time," Hesterman says. "By the seventh of June, I would say that it is too late to expect a decent crop."

If land is open and soil moisture is adequate for seed germination, farmers may want to consider soybeans, or if forage is needed, sorghum or sorghum-Sudan grass, Hesterman says.

"The third alternative is to plant nothing at this time and plant winter wheat this fall," Hesterman says.

The drought conditions have also had a detrimental effect on fruit crops in Michigan's western counties.

"We've had a larger than normal June drop for sweet and tart cherries," says Steve Fouch, Grand Traverse county extension agriculture agent. "If we don't get rain, it will affect the size, quality and yield of the cherry crop."

Fouch says it is too early to predict what total effect the drought will have on yields, but he expects yields to be less than predicted. Fouch explained that growers were originally expecting a large crop this year because there was no frost damage this spring.

Orchard diseases, common during wet weather, are not much of a problem this year, Fouch says.

Apple producers in the Paw Paw area are reporting that trees are wilted and the drought has severely affected fruit-set.

Grapevines, because of their deep root systems, have not been seriously affected by the drought to date, according to Mike Thomas, extension district horticulture agent in Van Buren county.

Russell Kidd, extension district forestry agent in Roscommon county, says that the dry weather is retarding the growth of Christmas trees and is creating damaging insect problems in woodlands, particularly in the large red pines.

The first traffic light in America was installed in 1914.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 18, 1988, at 8:00 o'clock p.m. at the Board of Education Room, E. Washington Street, Chelsea, Michigan, the Board of Education of the Chelsea School District will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1988 of an additional proposed millage rate of 2.4033 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, Section 211.34, MCL.

The Board of Education has the complete authority to establish that 37.3760 mills be levied in 1988 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1988 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by 6.8719 percent (6.8719%).

In accordance with Act 5, the Base Tax Rate Fraction (BTRF), as calculated by the County Equalization Office, for 1988 is 0.9357. This BTRF would allow the Board of Education to levy up to 34.9727 mills (37.3760 x .9357) of the authorized 37.3760 mills without holding a hearing. The 2.4033 mills difference represents a 6.8719% increase in income for operating purposes for the 1988 tax levy.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

RAISIN RIVER MILL in Sharon township, has been renovated and now houses catering a la Cart! of Ann Arbor. They have been appointed exclusive caterer of Chateau Grand Traverse Winery for their Champagne Cellars located at the restored mill.

Raisin River Mill Now Houses Champagne Cellars

Catering a la Cart! of Ann Arbor has been appointed exclusive caterer by Chateau Grand Traverse Winery for their Champagne Cellars at 5701 Sharon Hollow Rd., near Manchester.

Plans include use of indoor and outdoor space for special events at the historic Raisin River mill where the champagne cellars are located.

The mill, originally built in the 1820s, was restored by Henry Ford almost a century later when he put in a generator to produce electric power. Today it is the cellaring facility for the champagne method sparkling wines produced by Chateau Grand Traverse. Also, the winery operates a public tasting room at this location.

The addition of exterior decking and party canopies will accommodate up to 300 persons for special events.

Stone work and a lovely river frontage create a beautiful country setting for weddings, garden parties, and summer outings. The mill itself offers a cozy retreat for smaller get togethers or corporate meetings, with full service catering available through A la Cart!

Under the direction of Virginia Newell, Catering a la Cart! has specialized in off-premise catering for 10 years. The company's commercial kitchen facility is located at 777 E. Eisenhower Parkway, Ann Arbor. They serve a wide-ranging corporate and university clientele in addition to offering custom planning services for weddings, cocktail buffets, theme parties and other special events.

Her activities include four years in band, three years as varsity choir accompanist, drama club officer, church youth group officer, Women in Science intern program participant, and Optimist Citizen of the Month award.

Diabetes Patients Must Find Ways To Cope

Diabetes is a chronic illness which affects millions of people. One of the hardest things about having diabetes is learning to cope with the feelings that go along with it. These feelings can cause serious problems that will affect a diabetic's physical well-being if he or she does not find ways to cope with them.

One very common reaction to being told that one has diabetes is denial. The woman who eats an ice cream sundae and says it won't hurt her is using denial to avoid admitting that she has diabetes. Although denial is a very normal feeling, it can prevent the person with diabetes from doing what is needed to maintain health.

People with diabetes often feel angry about their illness. Anger can be a reaction to the changes one must make and to the frustration that goes along with those changes. It can come from feeling different from everyone else. Some people ask "Why me? It isn't fair!" while others may take out their anger on family, friends, or physicians. Expressing anger can be helpful as long as it doesn't hurt oneself or others. A person with diabetes needs to identify angry feelings and learn to express them in healthy ways.

Some people with diabetes feel guilty after cheating on their diet or neglecting some of the responsibilities of their daily routine. Others may feel guilty because they think they brought on their diabetes by eating too many sweets. Sometimes feeling guilty can help people to change bad habits. But sometimes guilt feelings are not realistic and should be examined more carefully. Having diabetes is difficult without blaming oneself unnecessarily.

Depression is a feeling which often comes from fear of the unknown. People with diabetes may be frightened about possible complications in the future. They may also feel depressed about real or imagined lost opportunities or career goals because of diabetes. Sadness about loss is a normal response. When feelings of depression become overwhelming or interfere with daily living, however, it is important to seek professional help through a physician or counselor.

There are many coping strategies that people may use to help themselves deal with feelings related to having diabetes. Communication is a very important one. People with diabetes may find that their family members are supportive and willing to listen. Some people prefer to seek out a group of others with similar problems who may provide support and helpful suggestions. Still others want to talk about their feelings individually with a social worker, counselor, or minister. A person with diabetes should find some kind of support network with whom to share their feelings.

Reducing stress is also necessary to cope with diabetes. Identifying stressful situations and changing them may be necessary. Engaging in enjoyable hobbies, spending time with friends, or exercising can be helpful. There are also classes which teach stress-reducing methods such as meditation, biofeedback, and yoga.

Education is another way to cope with diabetes. When a person learns about her or his disease, it helps to reduce fear of the unknown. It is especially important for a person with diabetes to know correct information about diet and medication. A person with diabetes can learn more about his or her disease through hospital programs like the Outpatient Diabetes Program offered by Chelsea Community Hospital.

Most people with diabetes find that they eventually reach a level of acceptance of their condition. They use communication with others, stress reduction and education to help them cope with feelings of anger, frustration, guilt and depression. They do not necessarily like living with diabetes but they recognize what they must do to stay healthy. They learn to feel good about themselves. It may take time and patience, but acceptance of diabetes is a goal worth reaching.

Lima Township Board Proceedings

Regular Meeting
June 6, 1988

The regular meeting of the Lima Township Board was called to order at 8:00 p.m. on June 6 by Supervisor Bauer and opened with the Pledge to the Flag.

Present were Supervisor Bauer, Clerk Bareis, Treasurer Messman, Trustees Heller and Trinkle; also present, Dale Hepburn and Charles Burgess.

Approved minutes of the May 2, 1988 meeting.

The treasurer's report was received.

Zoning Inspector Burgess issued 14 permits.

Approved to hold the July meeting on Tuesday, July 5 due to the holiday.

Approved motion to withdraw membership from SEMCOG.

Approved motion to request the Washtenaw County Road Commission to apply dust control to Hershey Lane East and the drive off Dexter-Chelsea between Dancer and Steinbach at the expense of the residents living on those drives.

Approved motion to send the request by Sharon Hubbard for home occupation back to the planning commission for legal hearing and enforcement guidelines.

Fire reports were discussed. There were a significant amount of false alarms and controlled burns to which the fire department responded, which cost the residents of Lima Township a large amount of money. PLEASE call the Chelsea or Dexter Fire Departments for a permit to burn before so doing. Failure to obtain such a permit could make future fire billings subject to payment by the person or persons in violation.

Approved the 1988 tax systems agreement.

Approved to contract on a three-month trial basis a clerical person to help with filing, phone answering and typing, four hours per day, three days per week and a Lima Township resident.

Approved to accept the bid from Bart Bauer to construct and paint a new Lima Township hall sign.

Approved payment of bills as presented.

Meeting adjourned at 9:55 p.m.

Arlene R. Bareis, Clerk.

Smith was one of 618 students to receive a bachelor's degree.

Tending your own garden: Living inside giant clam shells are millions of tiny plants. According to Ranger Rick magazine, the giant clams provide a nice, safe home for these houseplants and even fertilize them with their own wastes. In return, the plants give off chemicals that the clams need for energy. And as the plants die, the clams digest them. Without the food the giant clams get from their "garden," they couldn't survive!

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, June 13 were Grau, Satterthwaite, Feeney, Cherem, Wales, superintendent Van Meer, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Benedict, Wescott, assistant principal Larson, community education director Rogers, athletic director Reed, curriculum director Bissell, guests.

Prior to the Board meeting, a public budget hearing was held at 7 p.m. at Beach Middle school. There were no district residents in attendance.

Board approved the minutes of the May 16 meeting.

Board approved the minutes of the executive session of the May 16 meeting.

Entered as official communications were (1) letter from Mike and Clara Smith, who expressed their appreciation of the TRIAD program, and commended Janet Rossi and Connie Marshall; (2) letter from the Rev. Jerry Parker, president-elect of the Ministerial Association, expressing appreciation for the district's hosting of a recent ministerial meeting in the Administration Building; (3) letter from the North school faculty expressing appreciation for School Family Day; (4) letter from Mr. and Mrs. Paul Weber pertaining to the policy of fund-raising by the band.

The board presented certificates of appreciation to students Wendy Hunn and Kim Allen and parent Roger Sager. Ann Schaffner was present and spoke on behalf of these volunteers who helped with the middle school's track program. Superintendent Van Meer also commended Ann Schaffner for her efforts in building a strong program; approximately 60 girls take part in the program.

Superintendent Van Meer reviewed the four board goals for 1987-88, and indicated that the results of activating the four goals were very satisfactory.

Social worker Vicki Utke presented an update on the student-at-risk program. She indicated that she had 66 students involved in cross-age tutoring, and commended the elementary staff for their supportive efforts. She has formed a group for children of divorced parents, and has initiated a lunch club in which students who have work-completion problems are taught study skill methods. In addition to individual counseling next year, she will do more with substance abuse, as it is apparent that it has become, in some cases, a family issue.

Van Meer reviewed the end-of-the-year closing of the schools, indicating a very successful culmination of activities, including baccalaureate ceremonies, class night, and graduation exercises.

Community education director Jackie Rogers reported on housing for senior citizens, indicating that an architectural firm from Chicago will be in Chelsea to look at some housing patterns.

Curriculum director Laurie Bissell summarized the Technology Education curriculum, indicating that the first course, Exploring Technology, has been revised. She outlined the second-level courses, which include a course in Laser and Acoustic Technology, and noted that the courses will continue to go through constant change as they are taught. She also described the curriculum course of study for Language Arts/English: Writing and Speaking, indicating that a core curriculum for K-10 was developed and course objectives for three writing/reading courses in grades 11-12 were developed. Grade-level objectives and teacher activities were written for each level.

New textbooks were proposed for a pilot spelling series, grades 1-8, and English texts for grades 6-7-8. A teacher resource book for writing for grades 1-6 was also discussed. New textbooks for Basic English, grades 9-10, were proposed.

The board approved a nine-week leave of absence for the 1988-89 school year to Barbara Locks for the purpose of child care.

The board authorized a resolution adopting the amended 1987-88 General Fund operating budget for the Chelsea School District, with a revenue of $9,017,516 and expenditures of $9,009,939.

The board approved a resolution to hold a Truth in Taxation hearing on July 18, at 8 p.m.

The board authorized a resolution adopting the 1988-89 General Fund operating budget for the Chelsea School District, with revenue of $9,206,028, and expenditures of $9,354,770.

The board certified the following results of the June 13 Annual School Election to elect two members (four-year terms) for the Board of Education: Joseph M. Redding, 112; John Eisenbeiser, 114; write-in, 1.

The board accepted the low bid of $53,348 of Gundrum Roofing to re-roof the pool building. Other bids received were: Co-Operative, $53,887; Schreiber, $65,550; Firebaugh, $54,847.

ATTACK OF THE KILLER DOUGHBALL! Young Andrew Howard looks a little reluctant to stand near this huge wad of dough his parents found growing in their back yard on E. Middle St. Monday afternoon. The heat of the day caused the dough to rise rapidly and above is about five feet long by three feet wide. Andrew's parents aren't really sure how the dough arrived in their back yard, but they suspect an employee of a nearby pizza parlor dumped it off in the middle of the night.

Fair Queen Program Seeks Chelsea and Dexter Candidates

Chelsea and Dexter civic groups and organizations are urged to sponsor candidates for the 1988 Chelsea Community Fair Queen Program by organizers Kathy Powers Patrick and Penny Trinkle.

Dexter High school classes are also urged to enter candidates.

Entry deadline for the Friday, Aug. 26 show is Saturday, July 15.

Girls who will be attending either Chelsea or Dexter High school this year are eligible.

Each girl must be sponsored by a high school class, or community club or organization.

Girls will be judged on poise, appearance, talent, and a personal interview with the judges. The talent may be either a performing art, such as singing, or a creative art, such as painting. Each girl's choice, which must be presented on stage, is subject to approval by the Fair Queen Committee.

Each sponsoring organization must provide a float for its candidate to ride on during the fair parade. In addition, each girl must have the use of a convertible automobile to ride in during the Children's Parade.

For more information contact Trinkle at 475-3442, or Patrick at 475-8912, after 6 p.m.

The U.S. Labor Department reported that the youth labor force is expected to reach 25.3 million in July 1988. This is slightly below the level of last summer's work force of youth 16 to 24 years.

NEW FLAG FOR COURTROOM: The Chelsea Standard recently announced an unmet need of the new Washtenaw County Probate Court at Mercywood Neuro-psychiatric Hospital. The court was established almost a year ago to serve patients at the hospital. Judge John N. Kirkendall requested the newspaper to announce that the court needed flags to display. Janice M. Meabon, president and Americanism chairman of Ann Arbor VFW Post 423 Auxiliary read the article. The VFW Post and the Auxiliary then arranged to purchase an American flag and a Michigan flag for display in the courtroom. The flags were recently presented in a ceremony at Mercywood. Shown, from left to right, are Rosalie Mayfield, administrative co-ordinator, Gary Miller, PhD., director of social work and clinical services, Jan Meabon, president and Americanism chairman of Ann Arbor VFW Post 423 Auxiliary, Mary Bleakley, administrator for behavioral services at Catherine McAuley, the Hon. Suspicious Fire Burns Utility Poles

A suspicious fire behind the village garage on North St. resulted in the burning of 21 wooden electrical poles on Sunday, June 15.

The poles were in a rack off the ground and were stacked about three feet deep.

When firefighters arrived, they found the smoking remains of a bale of straw.

"There was no reason for the poles to catch fire," said fire chief Bud Hankerd.

"As far as we're concerned, it was a suspicious fire."

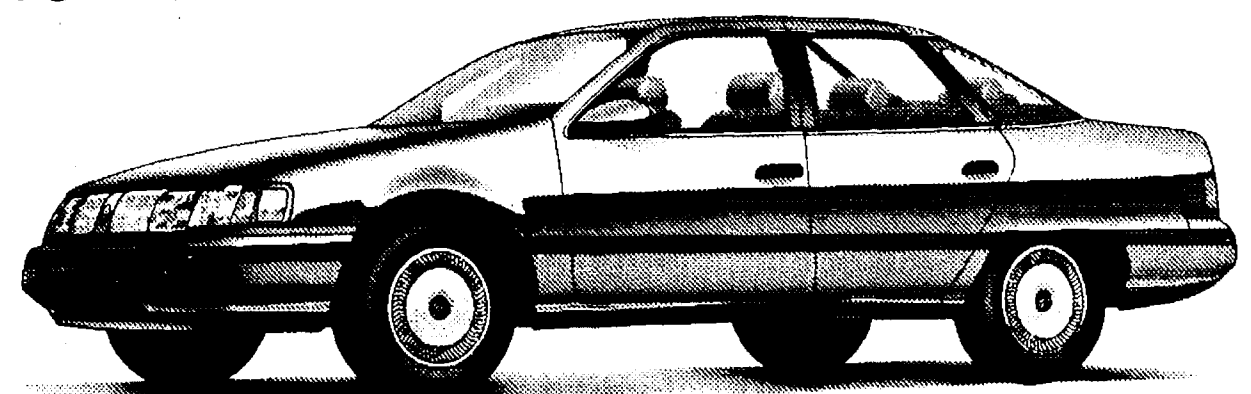

The fire was reported by area resident Ishmael Picklesimer.

Spring Arbor Troupe Will Perform at Free Methodist Church

"Take 2," a Christian comedy and drama troupe from Spring Arbor College will be performing at the Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7665 Werkner Rd., Chelsea, on Sunday, June 26 at 7 p.m.

The troupe is comprised of five Spring Arbor College students.

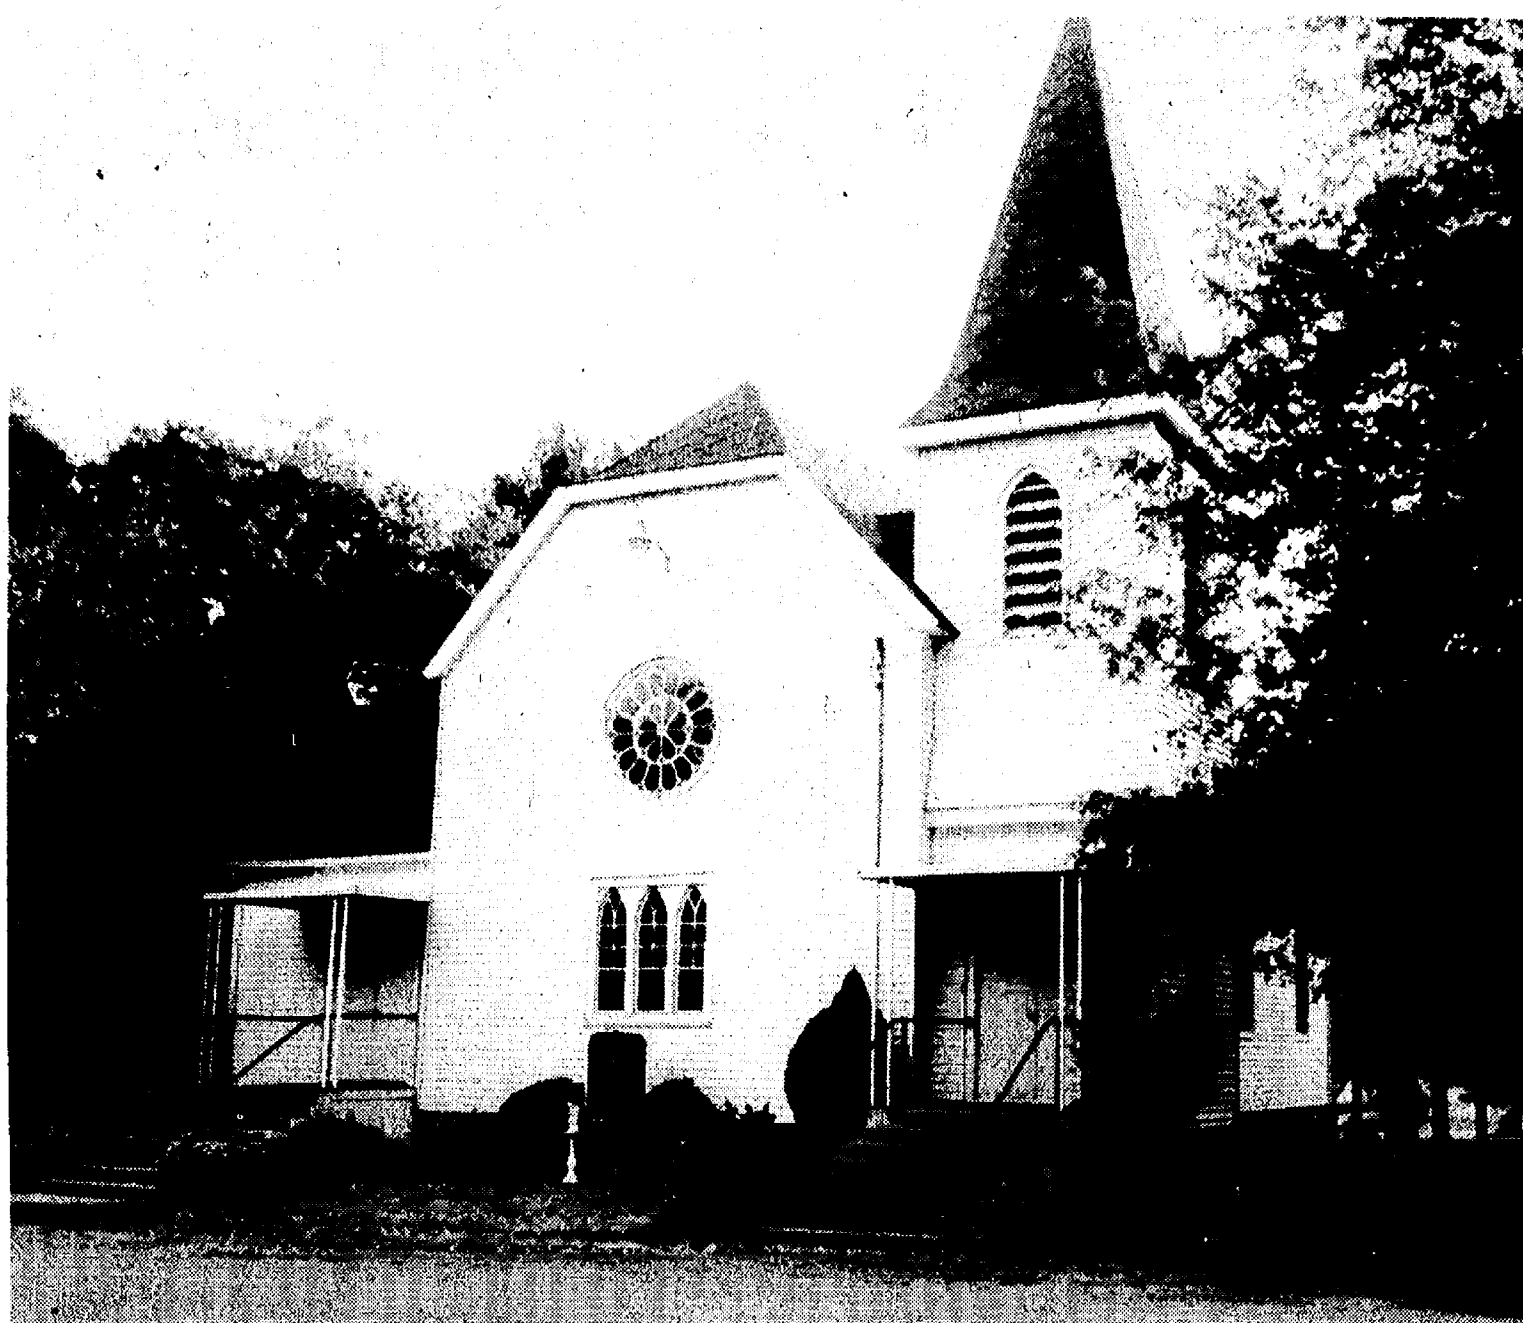

"Take 2" offers a wide variety of ministry including skits, comedy, story-telling, music and puppets. Their versatile repertoire allows them the flexibility to minister effectively to young and old alike. The troupe's main purpose is to share the Gospel of Christ in a creative and concise way and to help encourage local congregations in their commitment to Christ.

Supper and a time of fellowship with the "Take 2" troupe will follow the program for the teens.

Notice to Church Secretaries

All church schedules must be in our office at 300 N. Main St., Chelsea, in writing, no later than Thursday at 1 p.m. in order to appear in the next week's edition.

SALEM GROVE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH is celebrating the 100th anniversary of the dedication of the church building this year. The building, on Notten Rd. was constructed largely of local materials. It has gone through many changes over the years.

Salem Grove United Methodist Church Celebrating Centennial Of Church Building Dedication

The history of Salem Grove United Methodist church dates back to 1852 when the Rev. Jacob Rothweiler, a German minister came to the area to visit the early settlers who had taken up land from the government.

The Rev. Rothweiler's pastorate was in Detroit but he decided to include this community in his territory. Services were held in the homes until 1857. At that time William Riemen-schneider donated property to be used as a building site. In 1858 volunteer workers constructed a frame building and services were held there for 30 years.

As the community grew in numbers it became evident that a larger building was needed. In 1888 a new and much larger structure was built.

It is very interesting to note that many local materials were used. For instance, hand-hewn trees made up parts of the structure, and green sapplings were used as rafters. The beams and posts in the basement were also hand-hewn. Evidently local saw mills furnished dimensional lumber.

The builder built well, for the church is as sound today as it was 100 years ago.

The design is functional, and has served the congregation well.

It has instilled pride in the congregation as is evidenced by the many improvements they have made over the years, contributing time, labor and materials.

The church was originally heated by a huge wood burning furnace with a large central register. Sitting close to the register meant you would be much too warm, and being any distance away meant you would suffer from the cold.

Gas lights were used until electricity became available.

Many changes have been made over the years. In 1912 the basement was enlarged to accommodate social affairs. In 1952 the front entrances were completely rebuilt. In 1962 the sanctuary was completely renovated and remodeled. A new kitchen has been built in the basement in recent years. The building has been re-sided and the beautiful stained glass window at the front of the church was completely redone. In 1986 the chimney was rebuilt.

Many memorials have been presented to the church. These have helped to beautify the interior.

The various organizations have done much to support the work of the church.

First came the Ladies Aid Society, then the Women's Society of Christian Service and now the United Methodist Women's Group, all have served the church well.

Sunday School has always been a vital part of the church program, and many fine choirs have contributed much to the services.

The first young people's group, namely the Epworth League, was a vital part of the church for many years. This was followed by the Youth Fellowship. In the early 1950's they were responsible for the purchasing of an electric organ for the church.

In years past the Foreign Missionary Society played an important part of the program.

The church celebrated Centennial in 1953 and its 125th Anniversary of the Dedication of the Church Building.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone who would be a part of the celebration.

The Holy Cows, Chelsea-Based Rock Group, Taking Off

The Holy Cows, a Chelsea-based rock group, is having success breaking into the Ann Arbor bar scene and has now issued their first tape. The band is made up of Mike and John Popovich, sons of John and Lynn Popovich; Mike Feeney, son of Ann and Mike Feeney; and Scott Salyer, son of Janet and Luther Salyer.

Mike Feeney and John Popovich have been playing together in combinations with various other players since they were in seventh grade. People in Chelsea may remember some of their past incarnations: "The Eds," "The Out Crowd," and "The Living Daylights."

Mike Feeney and John Popovich write most of the songs and share the lead vocal honors. Feeney plays the bass and Popovich the rhythm guitar.

Scott Salyer, who was in their last band, "The Living Daylights," plays the lead guitar and bongos. When "The Living Daylights" drummer quit eight months ago, Popovich's brother, Mike, was invited to replace him. The group then changed their name to "The Holy Cows."

The Holy Cows have played in Ann Arbor at Rick's American Cafe, Dooley's, and The Alley Door. They have played gigs at other places in the state including Mt. Pleasant and East Lansing. Their most recent Chelsea appearance was at the St. Patrick's Day dance. They have also made a live radio appearance on WRIF's Local Riffs program.

Their tape, "Greener Sidewalks," which contains 10 original songs, was produced locally at Muschen Studios on the corner of Pierce Rd. and Cavanaugh Lake Rd. Salyer directs and is co-founder of the studio. The next project for the Holy Cows is to produce a record.

The dedication on the tape is as esoteric as some of The Chelsea Standard birthday ads. "Thanks to Ourselves, Marty (use of his 12-string), Wendy (cover photo), Mom, Dad, and Everybody except Booby, Isaac, Clyde, and Tank."

All four of The Holy Cows are self-taught. They do their practicing in Feeney's garage. Feeney and Popovich sometimes collaborate on songs, but mostly they work individually, with the rest of the band members making suggestions for the instrumentation of their parts.

The group lists as influences a diverse group of artists including Led Zeppelin, Beatles, Slim Whitman, Hank Williams, Jr., Jimi Hendrix, and Barbara Streisand.

The Holy Cows hope to someday earn their living by playing music, but in the meantime, all have outside jobs. Salyer works in Ann Arbor at the Music Mart. Mike Popovich works at the Sprout Farm in Chelsea, and plans to enter Washtenaw Community College in the fall. John Popovich works for John Ruhlig construction. Feeney is attending Michigan State University.

This summer The Holy Cows plan to tour in northern Michigan and in the surrounding states: Ohio, Illinois, Wisconsin, as well as Canada.

Asked what their parents thought of their musical endeavors, the Popovich brothers said, "They support us. They want us to give it our best shot." With such backing, Mike Popovich believes "Stardom's right around the corner."

The group does not yet have a manager. In the meantime, John Popovich says any questions or fan mail may be addressed to him at 250 Wilkinson St., Apt. 213. His phone number is 475-4601.

THE HOLY COWS in a playful mood. Shown, left to right, are drummer Mike Popovich, leader singer and rhythm guitarist John Popovich, lead guitarist Scott Salyer, and lead singer and bass player Mike Feeney. They are hopeful that their success in the Ann Arbor area will be matched in the rest of the state when they tour this summer.
