Village Plans To Sign Potentially Expensive Landfill Consent Order

By Brian Hamilton

Village of Chelsea apparently will sign a consent order negotiated with the Department of Natural Resources in order to obtain a new landfill operating license.

Village council had hoped to sign the agreement at a special meeting last Wednesday but several details had yet to be hammered out.

The consent order was on the agenda again last night. The second one-month extension of the current landfill operating license expires tomorrow.

Another extension, said village attorney Matt Zimmerman, doesn't make sense because the landfill is almost out of room.

"I don't think we have any choice except to sign it," said Village President Jerry Satterthwaite.

DNR has been holding up the issuance of a new license until the DNR and village sign a consent agreement.

The consent order will force the village to spend an estimated $75,000 to study the extent of the alleged pollution and submit a plan to the DNR. The agreement will also force the village to clean up any polluted groundwater or soils, cap the old, unlined portion of the landfill, monitor the groundwater for at least five years, and provide clean drinking water to homes whose water is contaminated by the landfill.

The $75,000 figure was an estimate by the village's consulting engineering firm. No estimates were available on the potential cost of clean-up, which could include the pumping and cleaning of the ground water and the hauling of contaminated soil to another landfill.

However, Zimmerman said, "when you get to that point you get up into six or seven figures."

Zimmerman told the council that it's likely the village would have to take responsibility for cleaning up any contamination whether it seeks the new license or not. He said at some point, perhaps "decades" from now the DNR would force the issue because the landfill is on the DNR's list of pollution problems. However, because the village is seeking a new license, the village landfill moves up in priority on the list.

"We're playing a little bit of a poker game," Zimmerman said.

"The DNR is partially responsible for making sure solid waste is disposed of properly. They want to see solid waste disposal in properly lined landfills. There's no question that the new cell that we want to open is properly constructed and properly engineered. They want to see us putting the garbage into that. If they push us too far and we can't afford what they ask us to do, then who knows where the stuff's going to go."

"There are problems at most of the landfills that are within close enough hauling distance."

"What happens when you shut down available options is people start dumping garbage off the road and out in the back 40 and that hurts everyone. So there's a little bit of a poker game as to how far they can push us and what they can make us do."

"But the DNR feels like they have the upper hand. They feel like the townships and the village need to have a place to dispose of their solid waste at a close area so they don't have to pay double or triple the hauling fees and they think the village and townships need it bad enough that they'd be willing to do a lot of investigation work and a lot of remedial work in a much sooner time frame than they otherwise would have had to."

Exactly who would pay for how much of the clean-up is not clear. Zimmerman advised the village and supervisors of Lyndon, Lima, Dexter and Sylvan townships to notify their liability insurance companies of the problem. He said that in a little more than half the cases nationwide, liability claims for pollution have been upheld by the courts.

The townships are involved because from the time the old cell was built until 1984, they and the village were the exclusive users of the landfill.

"The village is looking to the townships (for financial assistance) because the townships have all participated in receiving the benefits of the landfill," Zimmerman said.

Satterthwaite suggested that financial responsibility would be handled on a pro-rated basis as to how much garbage each township and the village has taken to the landfill. That information can be gleaned from the landfill records.

Zimmerman said the easiest parties to pin down are big businesses who have used the facility.

"Basically it comes down to a policy

Armed Robbery Report At Gallup One-Stop Store in Chelsea Area

An armed robbery was reported at 6:28 a.m. Monday, July 4, to deputies at the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, by employees at the Gallup One-Stop store on Fletcher Rd. near Chelsea.

The report advised two black males entered the store, one of the men went toward the juice and ice cream section, then walked to the counter, apparently to pay for the items.

The second man, brandishing a crow bar, reportedly yelled, "This is a robbery—open the cash register and give me the money. Keep quiet, don't scream, don't do anything."

After one of the store cashiers, Sherri Valliere, 22, opened the cash drawer, the man is reported to have reached over and taken approximately $70 from the cash register.

Other store employees at the scene of the robbery included Karen Bronson and Lorene Wygant.

The suspects had left the Fletcher Rd. location prior to deputy Roger Stielow's arrival to investigate the incident, but a description of the two suspects and the vehicle in which they fled were given to law enforcement units within minutes.

A short time after he heard the vehicle description, deputy Bill Moffatt from the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department made a traffic stop near Interstate-94 and Whittaker Rd.

Deputy Stielow transported the Gallup One-Stop employees to the

U.S. Supreme Court Upholds Reversal of Kozminski Convictions

Chelsea-area farmers Ike and Margarethe Kozminski and their son John had their slavery conviction reversals upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court last Wednesday, June 29.

The Kozminskis had been convicted of enslaving two mentally impaired men on their farm for for than 10 years.

The court ruled that a conviction of slavery or involuntary servitude could not be based on psychological coercion alone.

The court also ruled that there was enough evidence of other types of coercion to justify a new trial.

According to reports, the U.S. Justice Department has not decided whether to retry the case.

Ike and Margarethe Kozminski were found guilty in the 1984 case of holding two mentally-impaired men, Robert Fulmer and Louis Molitoris, as slaves on their Peckins Rd. dairy farm south of Chelsea. John Kozminski was found guilty of conspiracy.

Witnesses said the men were told they could not leave the farm. In addition they said the men lived in filthy quarters, were forced to work long hours for no pay, and were poorly clothed and fed.

All three Kozminskis were fined $10,000, put on probation and given a suspended prison sentence in Federal District Court. The convictions were overturned by the U.S. Sixth Circuit

Grievance To Be Heard By Arbitrator Aug. 1

The grievance filed by the Chelsea Education Association on behalf of laid-off Chelsea High school social studies teacher Rahn Rosentreter has been scheduled for an Aug. 1 hearing, according to CEA Grievance Chairman Phil Jones.

A last-ditch effort by the union to have the Chelsea School Board reconsider ended Monday, June 27 when the board took no action on the request, Jones said.

The arbitrator, Jones said, has agreed to decide the case by Aug. 18. Rosentreter, a full-time social studies teacher and two-sport coach, was notified this spring that he would be laid off due to declining enrollment at the high school.

In the meantime, the district plans to move Wayne Welton, who until this year split a full-time position between North Elementary school and the high school, into a full-time position at the high school. CEA contends that Rosentreter is qualified for the half-time position that Welton will be taking.

"At this point our strategy hasn't been fully planned," Jones said. Rosentreter said last week that he still plans to coach girls varsity basketball next fall. He also said he plans to consult an attorney about his options and may take legal action independent of the arbitration proceedings. He said he has support from some board members although he declined to name them.

"At this point it's just a matter of right and wrong and I think I'm being cheated," Rosentreter said.

Rosentreter said that if he loses in arbitration he'll probably take his unemployment compensation for the full year, which works out to about what he would be paid as a half-time teacher. In the meantime, he is working on a master's degree at Michigan State University.

Rehearsals Underway For '42nd Street'

Rehearsals for the Chelsea Area Players' summer production of "42nd Street" are in full swing at Chelsea High school auditorium. The tap dancing musical will be presented at 8 p.m. on the evenings of July 15 and 16 and again on July 22 and 23. In addition, a matinee is scheduled for the afternoon of July 17 at 2 p.m.

The Players have assembled an acclaimed staff and talented cast for this first-ever local theatre production. The artistic director, choreographer, and set designer is Jim Posante, a notable local area theatre impresario making his Chelsea area debut. Community theatre fixture, Dil Murrell leads the orchestra. His last show with CAP was "Camelot" in 1986. Musical director is Ruth Kenny, long-time CAP actress, producer, and musical director on several past CAP productions.

This year, a special treat is provided by professional designer Lary Hafner, making his Chelsea area debut as the show's costume designer. All of the show's many gowns will be original creations of Hafner and his Ann Arbor studio, Dream Dresses, Inc.

Hafner is a Chelsea native, who has been designing professionally for 10 years. He has displayed his gown specialties in many beauty pageants such as Miss Ohio, Miss Toledo, and Little Miss Michigan. He made his local theatre mark as costume designer for the Ann Arbor Civic productions of "Side By Side by Sondheim," "5th of July," and "Painting Churches." He also was the costume designer for the University of Michigan's 150th anniversary, and the Premier Center's production of "Thousand Stars."

The cast is loaded with talented Chelsea and local area veterans headed by Joe Diederich, Susan Filipiak, Susan Schmunk, Charles Sutherland, Ruth Kenny and David Barth. And tap dancing galore! This show is a tap dancing delight, featuring Rebecca or Jan Tupper at 475-1311, ext. 3930.

The Chelsea Historical Society's float carrying scale models of the village clock tower and the railroad depot, won first place in competition among entries in the Sesquicentennial Parade. "Mill Creek Moonshiners" took second, and Chelsea Woodshed took third place with their woodshed replica. The "North Lake Queen" won fourth place.

Will Connelly was the Sesquicentennial Parade Marshal. Will rode in a Dodge 600 convertible driven by Chrysler Proving Grounds test driver Doug Helek.

At Waterloo Pond, northwest of Chelsea, Sesquicentennial groups celebrated with a canoe race and log rolling contest. Diane Freeman, the brother-sister team of Mike Roskowski and Lynn Roskowski, and Art Farley won trophies in the events.

A well meant idea (to have the depot repainted in time for the Sesqui celebration) went wrong, and as a result Chelsea's railroad depot was left standing with a garish mixture of colors—light and dark green and two shades of tan. At this time Conrail was owner of the depot.

Chelsea High school graduate Kevin Colombo was the 1984 recipient of the Palmer Memorial Scholarship.

Report Shows Death, Disease Rates

Much Higher for Minorities

The death and disease rates for minorities in Michigan are considerably higher than for whites, according to a Public Health Department report.

The report by the department's Task Force on Minority Health was based on various sources of health statistics primarily for the early to mid-1980s.

The report found Michigan's minorities died in 1985 at a rate 18 percent higher than minorities nation-wide, up significantly from 1978 when minorities in Michigan were dying at a rate only slightly higher than minorities nation-wide.

The report attributed much of the disparity to Michigan's worsened economy and a result of increasing death rates for heart disease, cancer, cirrhosis, infant mortality and homicide for Michigan's minorities than for minorities in the rest of the nation.

The report found that blacks die from homicide at 12 times the rate of whites, die of heart disease at a rate more than 27 percent higher than whites, have hypertension at a rate 40 to 50 percent higher than whites, have cancer at a rate 20 to 37 percent higher than whites, have an infant mortality rate 156 percent higher than whites, and are infected with AIDS at nearly five times the rate of whites.

The report recommends the creation of an office of minority health, improved data collection on minority health, health programs targeted at minorities, private sector involvement in addressing the problem, better opportunities for minorities in health professions and more culturally sensitive health care.

Blacks are by far the largest minority group in the state, representing about 14 percent of the state's population. Minorities comprise nearly 20 percent of Michigan's 9.1 million population.

The report also found that Hispanics, the second-largest minority group in Michigan, appear to have lower over-all cancer rates than whites, but higher rates for cancers of the gall bladder, stomach, cervix and kidney.

Hispanics also appear to have more hypertension, obesity and diabetes than whites, and Hispanic males are more often victims of violence than white males.

American Indian males suffered stroke and other related disease at a rate 84 percent higher than white males. Arab Americans have a high infant mortality rate as a result of inadequate pre-natal and post-natal care for females, while 12 percent of all Asian and Pacific Islander deaths in the last three years are a result of accidents, which is three times the rate among whites.

Also, Southeast Asian refugees have tuberculosis at 22.5 times the rate of whites.

81 Counties Qualify for Drought Assistance

Governor James J. Blanchard has announced that 81 of the state's 83 counties have been approved by the U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for emergency haying and grazing because of the shortage of feed caused by the continuing drought.

The governor said livestock farmers may now use those portions of the land designated for two USDA set-aside programs, acreage conservation and conserving use for the purposes of feeding their own animals.

He added the USDA has also given preliminary approval to farmers in eight Upper Peninsula counties—Alger, Baraga, Chippewa, Delta, Gogebic, Luce, Mackinac and Schoolcraft—to harvest hay on land they have enrolled in the third USDA set-aside program, the conservation reserve program.

Additional Michigan counties are expected to be added to the set-aside program in the near future if drought conditions worsen, Blanchard said.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR

Two of the hottest entertainments right now are Vietnam and marriage. Movies about the late lamented war have led to a rash of television shows, and one national circulated magazine about brides and weddings that come out last year done so good we are gitting more of the same aimed at different parts of the country.

Zeke Grubb took note of these trends during the session at the country store Saturday night, and he said the newest TV show is about wimmen in Vietnam. He told the fellers it don't take a social genius to see what's going on. Men are being left out again, he said, because of all the things beyond their control, wimmen, weddings and wars lead the list.

Fer sure, Zeke went on, the fellers like to set around and swap war stories about all three, but they allus tell what was done to them, not what they done. A man is never as helpless as when he's laying in a foxhole or standing at an altar, Zeke allowed, and fer him to see hisself important in either situation shows how wild imaginations can run.

General, the fellers were suprised that Zeke had put so much thought in such matters. But Bug Hookum was quick to point out that magazines aimed at certain readers was a old trick. Bug recalled the story of the feller that wanted to write a book, and he learned that books on presidents, medicine and animals sold the best. So he called his book "Lincoln's Doctor's Dog" to cover all the bases. Nowadays, long after TV was supposed to kill off print, we got more than 6,000 magazines on that many subjects, so there's bound to be room fer one more.

Speaking of wimmen, men and marriage, Clem Webster said he has been gitting strange signals from the papers on this combination. One piece he saw told how more unwed couples that live together are deciding to have and raise children. Another reported where marriage is on the increase in this country in general, not just in June, and that these couples are waiting longer to have children. Stir into that the filler he saw in the paper recent where 150 American babies are born ever minute, Clem said, and you got some kind of a mix.

Fer instant, he went on, the wed and the unwed have got carts in front of horses. The time to have children is after you're married and before you're old to stay awake with em and keep up with em, was Clem's words. He recalled the preacher that wrote to a feller he had argued with. The preacher said he didn't hold a grudge, and if the feller's parents ever wanted to git married he'd be glad to perform the ceremony. Clem said he'd feel better about society if that offer still was an insult.

Practical speaking, Zeke said, we got different courses fer different horses. There's one school of thought, fer instant, that holds if college and high school graduates can survive all the speeches they're ready fer the world. This is accenting the positive, like the report that air in Siberian salt mines is so pure the miners never have lung problems. It don't consider that them slaves would trade double newmonia for a breath of freedom any time.

Ever now and then, though, somepun works fer the best. I saw recent where a woman in England has so much electricity in her body she can't touch electric appliances. Sure by now they've got her grounded and she's found work as a floor lamp.

Lioness Club Closes Year With Pot-Luck Supper

Chelsea Lioness Club ended their 1987-1988 year Monday, June 27 with a June pot-luck supper at Barb Vosters' country home. Final committee reports were read and accepted.

Plans were made for helping out at the Spaulding for Children summer ice cream social to be held July 16. Thank-you notes from Special Olympics participants were warmly received.

Recently elected president Mary Steele announced new committees for the 1988-1989 year.

A pledge of $100 was discussed to support the Chelsea Fireworks. There was further discussion about making this an annual pledge and encouraging other area organizations and businesses to do the same. It was noted that there are not many events that can involve the entire Chelsea Community as the fireworks can, with the exception of the Chelsea Fair.

The next regular meeting of the Lioness Club will be Sept. 12.

Baton Corps Plans Disney World Trip For Summer '89

Chelsea Baton Corps Boosters held their final general membership meeting of the 1987/88 class year on June 14 at the Ann Arbor home of corps director, Rita Howard.

Among the major items of discussion was the success of the Twirling Unlimited contest sponsored by the Corps Boosters on May 14 held in Chelsea. The success of the contest was the result of the large showing of contestants, particularly pom pon teams, from across the state.

Another major item of discussion for the group was the decision to set the goal of having the Corps travel to Walt Disney World in Florida during the summer of 1989 to perform and enjoy the park. The group's decision to set the goal of Disney World will mean active participation from all Corps members and Boosters in the form of successful fund-raisers which will begin immediately.

During June many of the twirlers will be attending baton camps held in different locations for the various skill levels. Eight of the beginners will be attending camp in late June at Adrian College and five of the intermediate twirlers will be sharpening and developing skills at camp in New Jersey.

The corps' summer performances tentatively scheduled at this time include the Dexter St. Joe's Festival on July 17, the Manchester Chicken Broil on July 21, and the Chelsea Fair Parade.

Highlight of the summer schedule will be the national baton twirling competition held at Notre Dame in late July—the American Youth on Parade. Approximately 26 corps members will be competing this year in the various divisions.

Peeholes into Your Privacy.
Do You Mind the Errors?

Most of us realize that we are at risk because we have entrusted confidential information about our lives to all sorts of people we have never seen or heard of. We have done it repeatedly over a period of years so that thousands of bytes of private, personal information are now scattered in computer memories across the nation.

To identify yourself among tens of millions of Americans you have, for openers, given your name, address, telephone listing and social security number. This identification has been fleshed out with your birth date and birthplace, your sex and driver's license number. Before the advent of color photos on your operator's license, it also included your height, weight, color of hair and eyes.

Still other memory banks contribute such information as your marital history, family, schooling, employment record, business or professional status, investments, mortgage, insurance, net worth, personal health, social and political affiliations and past or present uses of credit.

Some credit bureaus which rely on field investigations may also have explicit data on your personal habits, friends, entertainment preferences and lifestyle.

This array of information can be brought to light—the green light of a computer screen—just as though the inquisitive cameras of "Sixty Minutes" were grinding away with Mike Wallace on the prowl.

This is Your Life, Part One.

Next comes Part Two, The Feds and Lansing. This contains closets full of sensitive personal and financial information stored in government computers: You begin with the Internal Revenue Service and the Social Security Administration. You add the FBI if you have ever been employed by the U. S. government, belonged to the armed forces or required federal agencies that have records of Chelsea area citizens on file. Local farmers have had numerous dealings with branches of the Department of Agriculture. And someday when we replace the missing memorial plaque in Veterans Park should we have it entered in the computers of the American Battle Monument Commission?

It is safe to say that most of us feel secure from leaks in our confidential dealings with the federal government. All of us, however, are in jeopardy from erroneous entries or mixups. Somewhere, somehow a blunder may result in your being identified as a cheat, deadbeat, sex deviate, felon, ex-convict or possessor of some repugnant disease.

The July issue of Changing Times cites several examples of errors in various computer files:

- A Michigan man was arrested at gunpoint several times because he was mistakenly identified in police records as an armed murderer.
- In California a diabetic woman was refused health insurance because her symptoms were erroneously diagnosed—and entered in the records by an emergency room doctor—as alcoholism.
- Three times within a year a man was arrested for being AWOL from the Marines. These arrests occurred three months after he had been discharged from the service. The error was made by the National Crime Information Center, computer data base of the FBI.
- An editor of Changing Times magazine once discovered that a credit bureau had his occupation listed as "Changing tires."

The magazine went on to say, "The frequency of foul-ups can only be guessed at, but according to some estimates, 50% of current FBI records are inaccurate or incomplete." It further pointed out that only 12 to 49% of state criminal records are accurate, and 87% of federal agencies fail to audit their records.

Experts advise that you check your social security account at least once every three years, using Form SSA 7004. This form is available free at the Ann Arbor social security office. Your lifetime benefits from social security may amount to a fortune, and this is a way of making sure you get what's coming to you. Internal Revenue responses to your tax returns deserve vigilant scrutiny. If the tax reviewers down in Cincinnati make any substantial revisions in your tax return, try to determine if they are in error. If they are, call it to their attention. If the IRS change is evidently intentional, check your income tax guide to find out why, or consult an advisor. Should you conclude that you do have a grievance, ask for a review. The same applies to your state tax examiners in Lansing.

Now let's turn to auto insurance. If you are faced with an increased rate or diminished coverage because of what the insurers find in your driving record, you may be able to clear things up without leaving town. Just visit the Secretary of State's office at the corner of Main and Middle. They know their stuff and they try to be helpful.

Credit bureaus who keep track of our accounts are likely to be spread all over the country and include huge regional bureaus. Even though you have an impeccable credit history, errors introduced into your file by a careless computer operator can cause trouble and embarrassment. Bureaus turn people down by the thousands for retail credit. Other applicants are disqualified from going into business, buying homes or making major investments.

These bureaus gather employment information and data on incomes, plus current and past indebtedness of individuals. In addition they may accumulate and memorize anything of public record such as age, sex, birthplace, schooling, divorce, lawsuits, arrests, judgments and tax liens.

Consumer investigation companies, some of which are equivalent to financial detective agencies, gather information about a person's financial and social habits, health problems, associates and lifestyle. This deeply personal stuff is collected in interviews with friends, neighbors, work associates and landlords. Such methods of interviewing are susceptible to grave and erroneous interpretations. Any person who becomes aware of a hurtful playback from such investigation should find the source, or the origin of the source.

In the case of a government investigation, the offended or injured person has the right under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) to examine, repudiate, and make file corrections of practically all federal agency records.

Citizens have similar rights in dealing with states. In the event that any department of the state of Michigan fails to respond to an inquiry or give you satisfaction, appeal to a higher level of authority in the department and mark FOIA prominently on the envelope. If even this fails, write to your champion in Lansing, Representative Margaret O'Connor, Room 220 1/2, State Capitol, Lansing 48909.

The same protections are provided under the Fair Credit Reporting Act when dealing with credit bureaus. As a rule, when a credit bureau makes a mistake they are anxious to correct it because their reputation is at stake.

Health information comes under a special category. Physicians, hospitals, medical laboratories and health insurers may share information with each other about individual patients. They are honor bound not to divulge such privileged information to unauthorized third parties. What upsets some people is that the patients themselves are not permitted to see their own medical files. The doctors fear that such information in the hands of some patients could get out of bounds and lead to ill-advised self-treatment. No doubt physicians are fearful too that their own files could be used against them in malpractice suits.

If you ever went to the effort and expense of retrieving all that was revealed about you in your computerized dossier, you would probably be amazed. You might also be impressed or frightened, amused or appalled. Certainly such an introspection might lead to a moral self-renewal: Pay all bills on time and obey the Scout Law.

"Troubles, like babies, grow larger by nursing . . ."
—Mark Twain

Troubles have a habit of growing out of all proportion to their true importance. They are destined to be always with us in various forms and to varying degrees. We cannot ignore them any more than we can avoid them.

We must accept troubles philosophically as part of life and work with courage and determination to rise above them. Remember that troubles, tempered by time, often turn out to be blessings in disguise.

We are guided by a sincere desire to render the most efficient yet sympathetic assistance to those who come to us at a time of great emotional stress.

Village Ponders Consent Decree

"Anybody who feels they are paying too much can turn around and point to someone else who is not paying and say 'they contributed to the landfill, too, but they are not paying'."

DNR may even be among those to help out financially, Zimmerman said because DNR has used the landfill.

"The courts have upheld nailing the DNR to pay their share," Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman said there are "enough ambiguities and holes" in the proposed consent order that "we can live with it." He said that according to his firm's experts, the village may not have to do anything more than the testing.

"Then it becomes a case of our experts against theirs," he said.

Council appeared to agree that once a new license is obtained the landfill will only be available to the townships and village. Satterthwaite said that otherwise the new cell could be filled in six months.

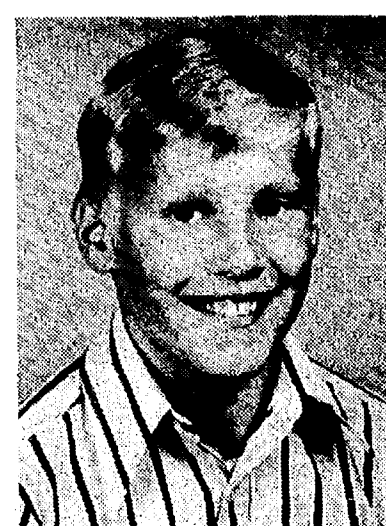

"Frankly, I look at this as giving us three or four years of breathing time until we can figure out what to do next," Satterthwaite said.

"Recycling is not going to be easy. The kids took a poll on the street and 80 percent said they weren't even in favor of recycling."

'42nd Street' Cast in Rehearsals

Boeve, Marge Lewis, Diane Waggoner, Ann Stevenson, Janet Tarolli, David Moore, Tom Layher, and a tap dancing chorus of more than 20 "hoofers."

The show is set in the post-stock market crash days of the early 1930's. Julian Marsh, famous director of the time, is desperate to stage a hit production on the depressed great white way of Broadway. It means financial recovery, a revived reputation, and jobs, jobs, jobs for his many ardent theatre followers—the dancers, actors, production staff and all those who have been severely hit by the depression. He thinks he has found the vehicle in a show called "Pretty Lady," written by his old associates Maggie Jones and Bert Barry. He has snared the leading lady of the day, Dorothy Brock, to star in the show and has even garnered the financial backing necessary from her latest paramour, wealthy Abner Dillion. The hard working cast and crew of "Pretty Lady" is thrown into despair, however, when Brock breaks her ankle on the eve of opening night. In true Broadway tradition, the frantic Marsh miraculously coaches heroine Peggy Sawyer, a neophyte chorus girl, into replacing Brock at the last minute. She triumphantly saves the show. The show must go on, and a star is born!

In typical Broadway tradition, the show is full of memorable hit numbers, cascading one atop another. Songs such as "Go Into Your Dance," "You're Getting to Be a Habit with Me," "Getting Out of Town," "Dames," "We're in the Money," "Shuffle Off to Buffalo," "About a Quarter to Nine," "There's a Sunny Side to Every Situation," "Lullaby of Broadway," and of course "42nd Street" fill the stage in big, flashy, production numbers. This truly is a tap dancing delight!

Tickets for evening performances of "42nd Street" are $8 at the door for adults. A dollar discount is provided for all adult tickets reserved and paid for by Wednesday, July 13. Adult tickets for the July 17 matinee are $5. Tickets for children 12 and under are $4 for all performances. Tickets are available at Casual Sports on Main St. in Chelsea, or at the Michigan Theatre box office in Ann Arbor.

For information or special group purchase discounts for senior citizens and other groups, or for other ticket information call 475-7414.

Secretary of Labor Ann McLaughlin plans to recognize employers and labor organizations which develop innovative approaches to providing child care for American workers.

U.S. CONGRESSMAN CARL PURSELL, second from right, received a guided tour of the renovation work taking place at the Chelsea Railroad Depot. Pursell was instrumental in helping the depot association obtain the property from AMTRAK. At left is Charles Shiver, the renovator, Walter Berjeski, an association trustee, Pursell, and assistant village manager Lee Fahrner.

KIWANIS SAUSAGE WAGON handled about three times as much business as the club thought it would last Thursday during the first installment of the Concerts in the Park series at Pierce Park. Chelsea High school Key Club was one of the beneficiaries of the business as they provided most of the workers.

Village Planners Hear Results Of Senior Housing Survey

Senior Citizen Task Force is exploring the feasibility of constructing a housing development on the village's north side and the group presented results of a survey to the Chelsea Village Planning Commission last Tuesday, June 28.

The task force has its eye on 27 acres of land owned by Dana Corp. off Sibley Rd.

The task force conducted a survey of seniors in the area. Some of the results of the survey follow:

- 79.4 percent own their homes and 3.4 percent are renters.
- 46 percent have incomes under $15,000, two thirds which are married couples.
- 17.1 percent of seniors in the under $10,000 annual income group pay between 49.2 percent and 64 percent of annual income for housing.
- In the $10-15,000 annual income group, 28.5 percent pay between 32.3 and 33.6 percent toward housing.
- In the $5-10,000 income group, owners of homes paid an average of $344 per month compared to a cost of $323 for renters.
- In the $10-15,000 income group, owners of homes paid $344 per month compared to $398 per month for renters.
- 142 respondents indicated that social security formed the major portion of their retirement income.

• Transportation was the most often listed desirable service for senior housing.

The survey was sent to about 1,000 seniors plus another 200-300 "significant others" who may or may not be seniors.

There were 179 responses, but only 134 gave full income/cost comparative information, which was the chief goal of the survey.

In other business, the commission considered plans by developers for Chelsea's first motel near I-94.

Planning consultant Carl Schmult, Jr., suggested changes in the plans that would allow future access to a back piece of property.

The commission took no action on the 51-unit motel.

No action was taken on the proposed home occupations ordinance. However the commission will consider it at their July meeting.

The commission considered a letter from the village to Sylvan township concerning the proposed re-zoning of township land on Old US-12 for moderate density housing. The land in question is likely to be annexed by the village at some point. The village asked that it be allowed to comment before the township makes its decision.

THIS TIMBER FRAMED HOME is being constructed on McKinley Rd. by Erick Erickson of Ann Arbor. Riverbend Timber Framing provided the oaken beams but Erickson and members of his family are doing most of the work, including the interior carpentry and much of the assembly of the frame. Erickson learned that assembling one of these post and beam homes can be rather harrowing when he shimmied up one of the diagonal posts to the peak of the house to guide one of the beams into place.

Cassidy Lake Receives Donation for Training Use

Cassidy Lake Technical School recently received a generous donation of brake components from Nuturn Corp. for use in their automotive service training program.

Included in this donation was a unique feature of "Brake-in-the-Box" brake components (seals, hardware and bushings, in addition to the brake shoes, are included in their "Brake-in-the-Box").

In addition to the components to be used in the hands-on-training portion of the program, Nuturn donated 10 copies of Nuturn's Brake Service Training Manuals.

Nuturn Corp. has been in existence since 1977. And in 1985 Nuturn produced its first bonded non-asbestos material with quality and efficiency comparable to that of asbestos. Formed to manufacture and market friction, brake and suspension products for heavy duty vehicles and passenger cars, Nuturn has acquired one of the best production lines nation-wide under the brand name Grizzly.

Additionally, Nuturn offers an extension friction product line. And today Nuturn is the first to offer to the rebuilder bonded non-asbestos materials.

Senior sales manager for Nuturn, Sal Novelli, stated that the corporation has a policy to offer help in educational programs that lead to qualified mechanics performing automotive repair for its customers. Through this policy many successful automotive mechanics have been produced.

Wallet Stolen From Automobile

A wallet and bank book were stolen from a car on Chandler St. during the night of July 1.

Chelsea police said the items were in the car's glove box. However, neither the car or compartment were locked. The car was parked in the victim's driveway.

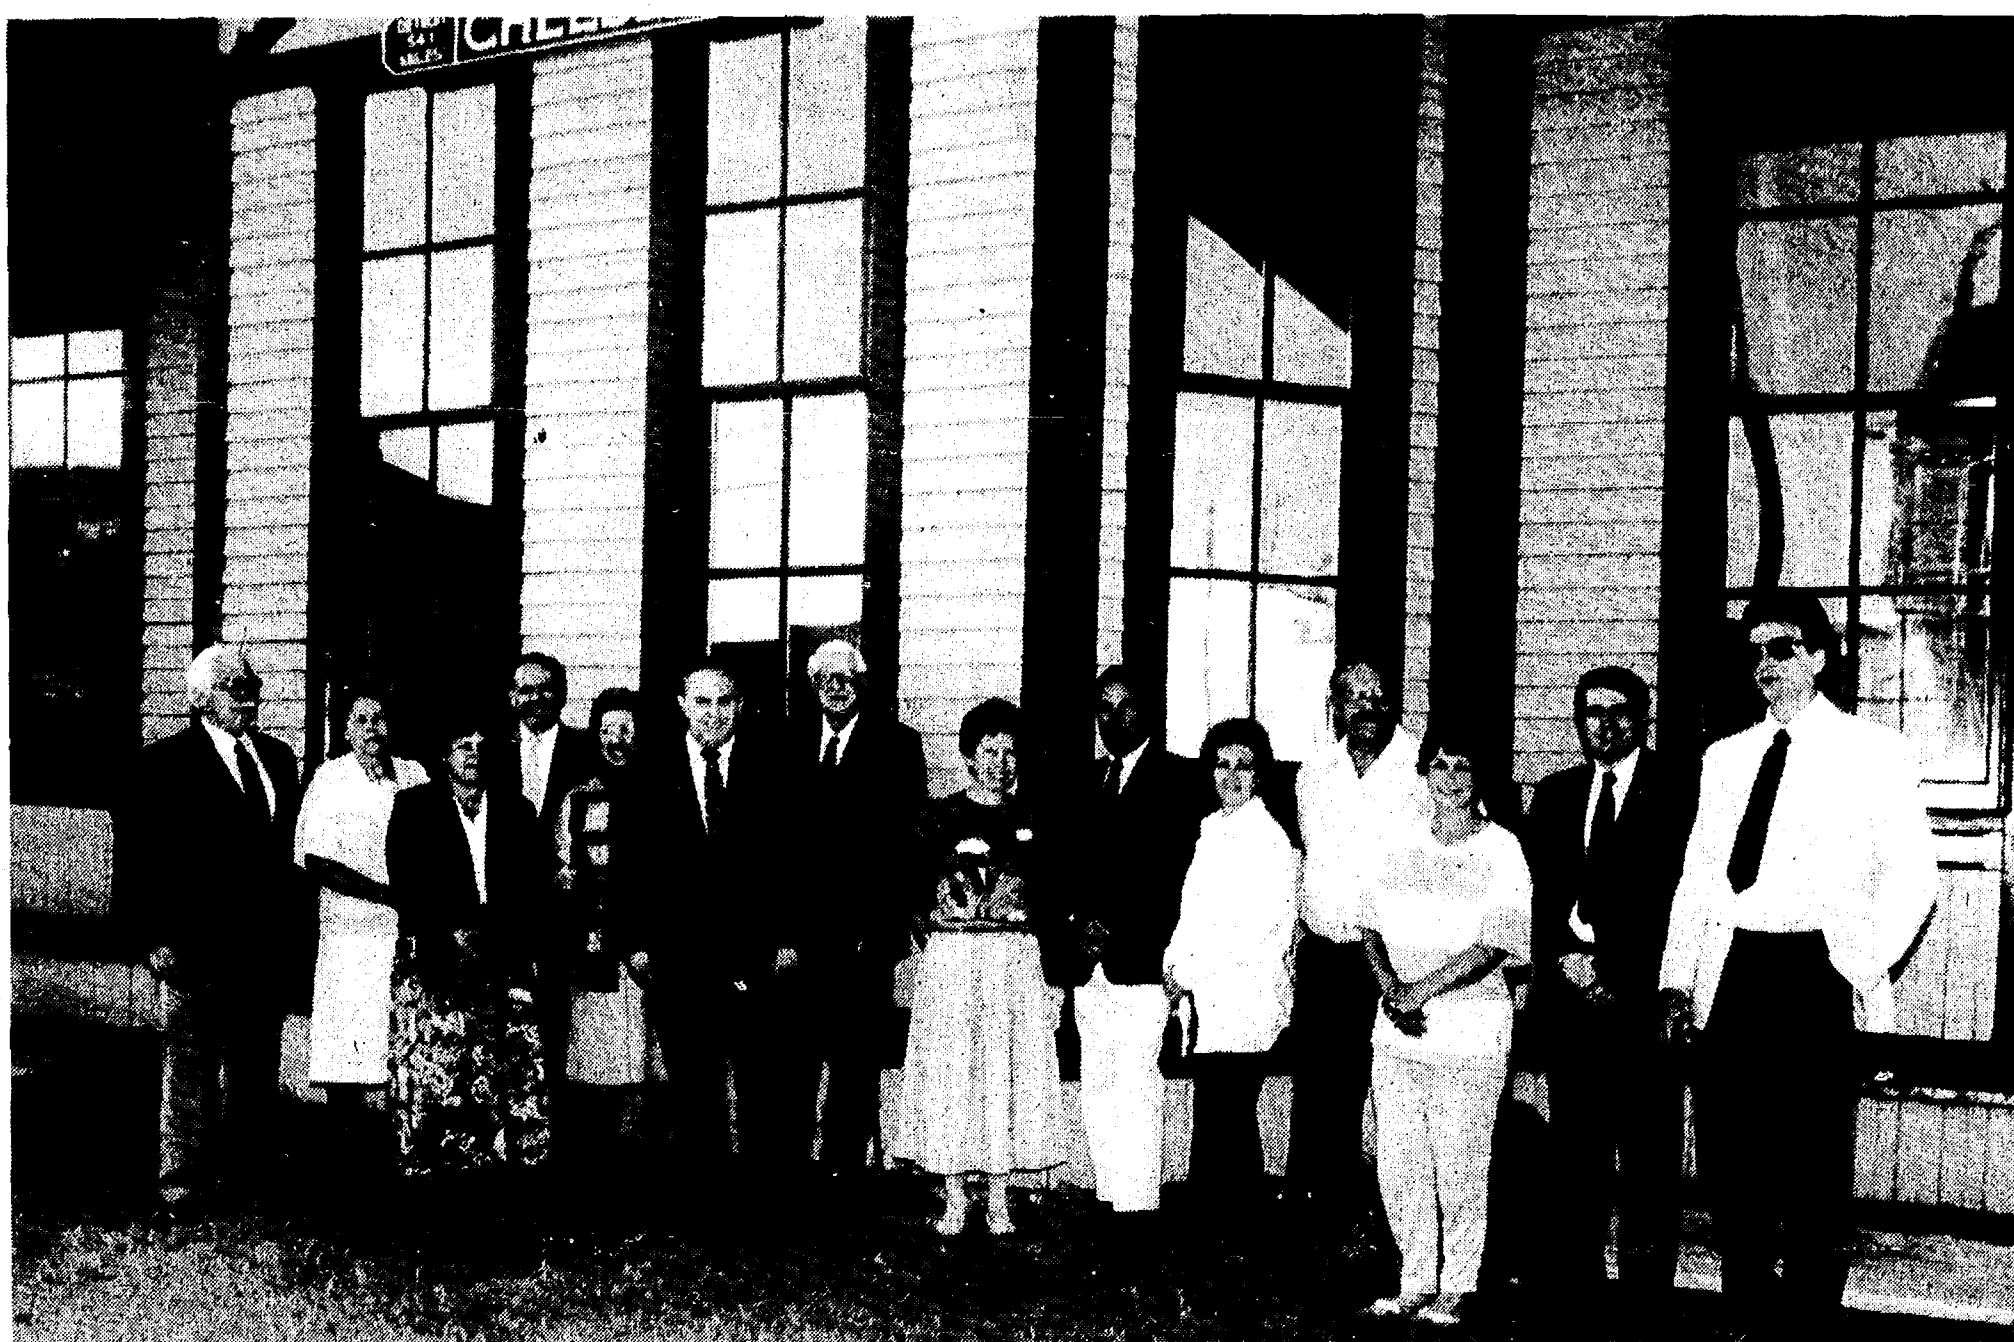

The wallet apparently contained no cash.

Summer Baseball Team Picks Up First Victory

Chelsea's summer baseball team won their first game of the season as they beat Abcot Auto, Tuesday, June 28 in a one-run game, 8-7. But later in the week they couldn't keep their winning ways going and lost to Pinckney, 14-1, on Thursday, June 30.

Chelsea met Abcot Auto Supply and took a four-run lead in the first inning. Chelsea received four walks plus Lance Satterthwaite connected on a three-run double. The Bulldogs also scored one in the third and two in the fourth while Abcot rallied for five in the fifth to tie the score at seven.

In the last inning Jude Quilter ripped a one-out single. Then the catcher tried to pick him off but threw wild and Quilter raced all around the bases and slid in under the tag to give Chelsea an 8-7 lead.

After a hit batsman, Chelsea turned a double-play—Matt Forner to Quilter to Jeff Prentice (short to 2nd to 1st). After a double, Prentice caught a line drive to end the game and give Chelsea their first win.

Although they scored eight runs, Chelsea still only had five hits in the contest—Steve Emmert (two singles), Satterthwaite (double), and Mike Kushmaul and Quilter (a single each). Chelsea was helped by six walks and four errors by Abcot.

Doug Wingrove recorded a complete game victory as he pitched just well enough to win. He allowed 10 hits while walking three and striking out two.

"Our defense finally came around and committed only one error," said coach Akel Marshall.

"And Wingrove was tough when needed. He got the job done."

It was a different story against Pinckney. Once again Chelsea took a quick 1-0 lead as Prentice hit a first-inning double that drove in Matt Forner, who had singled.

But Pinckney scored in every inning after that while Chelsea just couldn't get anything going.

Emmert led the hitting attack with two singles and Kushmaul, Forner and Kevin Bell each had one single to go with Prentice's double to give Chelsea six hits for the contest.

Forner pitched the first four innings after that while Chelsea just couldn't get anything going.

Chelsea Aquatic Club Loses to Barton Hills

Barton Hills Country Club swim team edged out the Chelsea Aquatic Club Saturday, June 5, 309-268.

Said Chelsea coach Julie Woods, "The kids swam well in this first dual meet of the summer. We were small in numbers, though, due to a Girl Scout conflict. We also had only two competing divers. Some of our kids were swimming in their very first swim meet, and it was great to see the smiles on their faces after their races."

COUNTRY MUDDERS ran Sunday's mud bog at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds. The local four-wheel drive club had a good turnout for their annual event. Above are some of the workers around the pit.

Beach Students Submit Ideas For Landfill When It Closes

The students made their presentations to the village planning commission at the commission's June 28 meeting.

Each team was to develop a plan for 1992, when the landfill is projected to be closed, covered, and seeded. The students will be eligible to vote in 1992.

All but one of the suggestions concerned using the area for recreation. The other plan, submitted by Rob Coelius, Ben Manning, Jeff Diesing and Lee Skyles, proposed a clinic for alcohol and drug abusers. Their plan showed a clinic, dorms and recreation area.

Other plans included a campgrounds; a general recreation area including a skating rink, petting zoo, playground and off-road vehicle area;

Each day

U. S. CONGRESSMAN CARL D. PURSELL invited constituents to meet with him to express any concerns in the Woodlands Room at Chelsea Community Hospital, Friday morning, July 1. Representing a good spectrum of interests, citizens discussed the nation's budget with Pursell, in addition to talking about their specific concerns. Shown with Pursell, pictured second from left, are Melinda Morris, candidate for Washtenaw county circuit court judge, Ann Comeau, trustee, Chelsea Board of Education, and Warren McArthur, who operates small businesses in Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester and Pinckney.

Fire Department Has Busy Week-end With Grass Fires

Chelsea Fire Department had a busy July 3-4 as they responded to 14 requests for help over the two-day period.

On July 3 firefighters were dispatched to four grass fires, one at 2:30 p.m. on Cassidy Rd., another at 8:57 p.m. at I-94 and Kalmbach Rd., a third at 11:43 p.m. on McClure Rd., and a fourth at 11:48 p.m. near Chelsea Lanes.

On the same day they responded to three car fires and a rescue at the concession stand at Chelsea Community Fairgrounds.

The department went to three more grass fires on July 4, one at 2:50 S. Fletcher Rd. at 2:18 p.m., one at I-94 and M-52 at 4:03 p.m. and the third on Kalmbach Rd. at 11:01 p.m.

There were also calls for an accident at I-94 and Kalmbach Rd. at 4:10 p.m., a medical emergency at 131 E. Middle St. at 4:24 p.m., and an emergency at Bridgetown Condominiums at 5:18 p.m.

Swimming Pool Safety Tips . . .

Few summertime activities are as enjoyable and healthful as a cool, refreshing swim. Safety awareness and a few precautions can save a life. Here are some tips:

• Make sure the swimming pool is enclosed securely. The fence should be high enough so that it cannot be climbed over and there should be no openings large enough for a child to crawl through. Gates should be self-closing and self-latching with latches out of a child's reach. Lawn chairs and picnic tables should be situated so they cannot be used for climbing over fences around pools.

• Be alert to safety hazards. No glass or dishes should be allowed near the pool area. Remove sharp or broken objects from the lawn and pool site. Check settled or uneven walkways that could cause tripping and get slippery when wet. Keep electrical wiring and devices well away from the swimming pool and use and store chemicals according to directions from the manufacturer.

• Never let anyone, child or adult, swim alone. Always provide supervision when the pool is in use. Don't rely on flotation devices or swimming lessons as substitutes for supervision.

• Keep a rescue pole and throwing rope with a float at poolside. Make sure the emergency rescue equipment is in good condition and ready for use. Don't attempt a water rescue unless you're a proficient swimmer and lifesaver. An unskilled rescuer can easily become a victim.

• Learn CPR. Contact your local American Red Cross or heart association for classes. Keep emergency rescue numbers ready for immediate use. If possible, have a telephone installed near your pool.

Don't be a heartbreaker that a violation is permitted to exist shall constitute a separate offense. The imposition of any sentence shall not exempt the offender from compliance with the requirements of this Ordinance.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Permit a response to one of the letters in the 6/29 Standard.

In it, the writer suggested that anyone who opposes mud bogs or favors gun control must be one of four things: a wierdo from California or New York, a homosexual, a druggie, a Communist. That kind of logic makes about as much sense as if I were to suggest that hanging around loud trucks and guns must affect a person's ability to think clearly, so I won't suggest that. Name-calling should have been discarded long ago as an effective tool of persuasion. What I will suggest is as follows:

I want my children to believe that God put us on this good earth to improve and protect it, not to pollute it with noise and litter or to tear it apart in the name of sport or recreation or competition. He put us here to love one another, not defeat each other or to kill each other.

I want my children to grow up in a world where violence is not seen as a solution to problems. In all the history of the world, it has not worked, it has only led to death, most often for the innocent, not the guilty. Guns don't kill people, but people with guns do.

I want my children to realize that to play non-violent games or even to love people of the same sex is not a sign of homosexuality. Maybe there would be less homosexuality if our children were taught that to love someone need not mean that we have sexual feelings about them. In fact, homosexuality may sometimes be brought on by competition: we've got to be better than somebody else, especially if they are the opposite sex; and some people, rather than compete, opt for a philosophy that says, "If you can't beat 'em, join 'em." Is it queer not to want to compete? Is non-violence a sickness? Jesus didn't think so.

I want my children to be aware that alcohol (even beer) is a drug, too. It is one of the major causes of family violence and death in our society. The fact that its use is legal does not mean it is always safe. Too often having a little fun over a few beers has a tragic result. Think what you might say if the police came to your door with the news that your child was killed by a drunk driver: "Thank God the driver wasn't using marijuana?" Nonsense!

I want my children to grow up knowing that the reckless use of vehicles is not a responsible outlet for energy or a safe source of amusement. Too many young people are dying both on and off the road because we have glorified the "Dukes of Hazard" attitude toward vehicles, with a corresponding disrespect for the laws of highway safety.

I want my children to grow up free. But freedom carries an awesome price tag of responsibility. Freedom respects the rights of others, even if they are different from us, come from another state or nation, or disagree with us. If we don't take good care of each other and of the world in which we live, we aren't going to live here very long.

Finally, I want my children to grow up feeling that love is not a sign of weakness but of strength. In the end, it is our only chance for survival.

Franklin H. Giebel.

Golf Outing Aids Research In Diabetes

They did it again! Over $5,000 was raised to benefit diabetes research at the second annual "Swing Away for ADA" golf tournament held at Brookside Golf Course in Saline on June 18.

Thanks to the tremendous community support of local businesses in Washtenaw county (who sponsored holes and donated food and prizes) and the 100 golfers who participated in the event (coming from as far as Syracuse, N. Y. and Columbus, O.), the tournament was even more successful this year.

In two years, $10,000 has been raised for the American Diabetes Association to benefit diabetes education and research in Michigan. All research money will fund grants at the University of Michigan, Michigan State University, and Wayne State University research centers.

To get on the list to play or provide sponsorship for next year's tournament call Wilbur and Barb Hanselman of Saline (429-4688) or Jeff and Lois Emmert of Chelsea (475-7789).

Dog Bites Not Funny to Post Office

By Chelsea Postmaster
Larry Williams

There's nothing funny about a dog bite.

The confrontation between dogs and letter carriers seems to have become almost classic humor. But what's funny about the pain, lost worktime and possible delay in mail delivery caused by dog bites?

The Post Office doesn't think dog bites are a laughing matter, and neither should anyone in this community.

Last year, more than 3,000 of this nation's letter carriers were bitten by dogs. Many of the injuries were serious, and some of the victims suffered permanent disfigurement. The cost to the Postal Service and dog owners who subsequently paid both injury costs and punitive damages in many dog bite cases exceeded $3 million. Many more dollars and injuries can be counted among non-postal workers and individuals who were also bitten by dogs.

Nobody's laughing now. The common assertion that "he doesn't bite" is not supported by these painful statistics. Any dog will bite if it feels it is protecting its territory or its owner.

The problem isn't the dogs, however; it's with dog owners.

The simple (and painless) solution to this problem is for pet owners to recognize their responsibility to keep their dogs restrained by a fence or secure leash or tether. To do so is just being a good neighbor.

Most dog owners are responsible about restraining their pets, but there are a few bad apples. And for those dog owners who don't choose to act responsibly, the Postal Service is ready to put some teeth into protecting its letter carriers.

Dog owners who do not restrain their pets risk lawsuits and interruptions of home mail delivery. The Postal Service will seek to recover damages when a carrier is bitten, and counsels its injured carriers wishing to sue on their own. The Postal Service will also interrupt mail delivery where loose dogs are a problem—including, in extreme cases, to entire neighborhoods. And there's nothing funny about that.

CHELSEA LLAMAS CAME to Dexter's parade, Saturday, July 2. One of the llamas decided to balk a bit as it approached downtown Dexter, but owner Bill Griffin persuaded the animal to continue along the parade route.

Griffin, his wife, Susan, and their 10-year-old daughter, Laura, began raising llamas within the past year on their Chelsea area farm.

Social Security Administration says:

ONE OUT OF FOUR WORKERS FACES TOTAL DISABILITY

Suppose you're disabled and lose your job. What will you do? Where will you turn?

How will you survive if you can't earn a living?

Relatives and friends will want to help, certainly. But they have expenses of their own. If your spouse is working, that income probably is already pledged to important bills.

Social Security disability benefits are limited, and less than half the applications get approved.

But there is a dependable plan that will protect your income.

It's called WageSaver. It's income insurance tailored to meet your personal needs and budget. And it's surprisingly affordable... It can provide income to age 65, and it starts paying early so you won't have to use up your savings. WageSaver. You can count on it! Get all the facts now.

Chelsea-Area Man Charged With Destruction of Property

A 25-year-old Chelsea man has been charged with malicious destruction of property in connection with an incident in the parking lot of Wolverine Food & Spirits on June 28.

According to police, the man, a Luick Dr. resident, and a companion were arguing with softball players from BookCrafters when police arrived at the scene at 6:31 p.m.

Two vehicles in the lot allegedly had been damaged. A truck window and bug shield had been broken and another car had been dented in several places.

According to a restaurant employee, the man became angry after the bartender thought he had had enough to drink and refused to serve him.

Police took both men to the station and the second man, after supplying false identification, eventually escaped but was found near Garfield and Lincoln Sts. He told police he was frightened. He was not charged in the incident.

LAURA GRIFFIN described llama care to students at Klager school in a recent visit.

NEW TO CHELSEA AREA: Laura, Sue and Bill Griffin show three of their llamas which they are raising on their farm near Chelsea.

Local Llama Breeder, DNR To Set Park Policy on Animals

A Chelsea resident, Bill Griffin, has been asked by the Central States Chapter of the International Llama Association to take one of his llamas to Lansing to visit the Department of Natural Resources.

A llama, for those of you who are unfamiliar with the animal, is a woolly domesticated animal commonly found in South America—and now in Chelsea.

It seems that llamas are becoming popular in Michigan. So popular that llama owners, who apparently like to take their animals backpacking on trails, have suggested that the DNR adopt regular policies for llama use in the state parks.

As one might imagine, llamas are rare enough that such policies have not been adopted as yet. Bill has agreed to take one of his 13 llamas to meet with officials at the DNR to better acquaint them with the animals.

Bill and his wife, Susan, and daughter, Laura, have started breeding llamas within the last year. Laura, who just turned 10, points out that the first baby llama born in the Chelsea area was born at their place last fall.

Laura showed one of the Griffin llamas in Nebraska this spring at a Llama Show that attracted 2,000 spectators. She is getting ready to be a participant in the first llama competition at the 4-H Fair in Saline this July.

The Griffins have taken some of their llamas to visit students at Emerson school in Ann Arbor and Klager school in Manchester. The children were reportedly enthralled by the experience. Bill explains that during the visit the students are allowed to pet the animals while he describes proper care and handling techniques. He and his wife, Sue, walked the animals through eight of the student classrooms.

The Griffins transport the llamas to schools and shows in their motor home. As Bill describes it "They jump right in and out with no trouble at all." The only problem arises when one decides to look out the window and startles other motorists driving by.

How did the Griffins get interested in llamas? Sue saw an advertisement in her Arabian Horse World Magazine and subsequently talked to a co-worker who was raising llamas in Colorado.

Bill points out that there are now at least eight other llama owners in Washtenaw county.

It was after talking to a number of llama owners in Michigan and elsewhere that the Griffins became convinced that they would enjoy raising and training llamas. Bill is now working with the animals on a full-time basis and describes the experience with enthusiasm. "I enjoy telling people about the animals and I like the travel associated with showing and learning about them."

The Griffins will be taking their llamas to other local fairs later in the summer.

How Can You Tell A Tough Tractor?

LOOK BETWEEN THE WHEELS.

The front axle is the key to a smooth ride and long life. That's why every Wheel Horse tractor, right down to our smallest lawn tractor, has a cast-iron front axle. It absorbs the bumps on any terrain, yet keeps its shape.

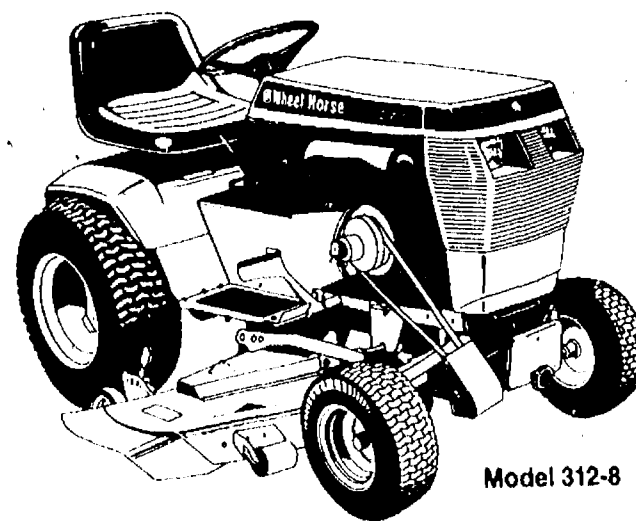

On many small tractors, you'll find the front axle is stamped out of steel, often as part of the frame. When you consider the amount of weight it supports and the ground it works on, you'll understand the importance of the Wheel Horse front axle. It's a difference you'll measure in years.

LIMITED TIME OFFER!

You'd expect to pay more for this kind of engineering. Especially when it results in better performance and longer tractor life. But right now, your Wheel Horse dealer is making a special offer.
