THIS PIPE BOMB, similar to pipe bombs that have been used to blow up rural mailboxes recently, showed up on the steps of The Chelsea Standard Sunday morning in this athletic shoe box. The box also contained a typewritten note that was taken away as evidence by police. State police secured the area in the vicinity of the Standard building and detonated the device. Three suspects were taken into custody Monday. Above are Det. Paul Wade of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department and David Dettling of the Chelsea Police Department.

Three Young Local Men Face Bombing Charges For Series of 'Pranks'

Three 1988 Chelsea High school graduates have been implicated in more than a dozen pipe bombings in the Chelsea area since July 9. They are also, police say, responsible for an incident on Sunday in which a pipe bomb was left in a shoe box on the steps of The Chelsea Standard building.

According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Det. Paul Wade, the teen-agers face felony charges as adults. As of press time they could not be identified because they had not been arrested.

Wade and David Dettling of the Chelsea Police Department had been investigating the bombings for nearly a month as a joint effort. Wade refused to say how they were led to the suspects but that Sunday's incident at The Standard building provided the final evidence.

Sunday a bomb about six inches long was found in the box by Standard publishers Walter and Helen May Leonard. The bomb, which turned out not to have explosive material, was later detonated by state police outside the building. However, before destroying the bomb, all train traffic through town was stopped and the area was sealed off. A nearby resident was warned to stay in his house. And Standard employees were hustled out of the building.

Inside the box was a typewritten note, which Wade characterized as a "letter to the editor with a bomb attached to it." The letter, read by Standard employees, indicated the bombings were going to stop.

"It's been fun, but we've got to run," the note read.

It also said, "here are some ideas to think about," and mentioned "Jesse and Dukakis in '88," raising the drinking age, and destroying nuclear weapons. It was signed by "Anti Homosexual, Neo-Nazi, Communist National Liberation Front."

There was also a PS: "Trust us, this bomb will not explode." The letter was addressed to the "Good People of Chelsea."

The note was apparently typed on a typewriter belonging to one of the young men, Wade said.

No one was hurt in any of the bombings, which Wade said was sheer luck.

Wade said the young men chose rural mailboxes of people they knew as most of their targets. However, they also put a bomb in a hole at Inverness Golf Course and damaged a green, and blew up a soft drink machine at the golf course.

"They weren't out to hurt anybody and they weren't trying to get revenge on anyone, they were just out to blow up mailboxes," Wade said.

"It was just a prank. But they are going to get zinged real bad. Actually they are lucky to be alive. They didn't know what they were doing."

The bombs were constructed of threaded pipe containing explosive material, with screw caps on both ends. Although the bombs are typically detonated using fuses, Wade said that friction, or static electricity, could have caused the bombs to explode.

One of the boys was threading pipe for his summer job, Wade said, so he had easy access to the casing material for the bombs.

The explosive material, Wade said, could be purchased locally.

After one of the boys confessed his involvement, he took police to a bomb that failed to explode on Cassidy Rd. That bomb was detonated Sunday night by police. Earlier this month a man found an unexploded bomb on Roe Rd.

One of the boys was a cum laude graduate, and another was on the track team.

All three boys will be charged with three felonies. The first charge, for possession of explosive, carries a maximum penalty of four years in prison and/or a fine of up to $2,000. The second charge, possession of bombs with unlawful intent, carries a penalty of not less than two years in jail and not more than five years. The third charge, in connection with the incident at The Standard, is sending explosives with an intent to frighten. The maximum penalty is four years in prison and/or a $2,000 fine.

Second Shopping Center Gets Final Approval from Chelsea Village Planners

If all goes according to plan for Polly's Market manager Mike Kennedy, construction will begin on Chelsea's second shopping center this month.

Chelsea Village Planning Commission gave final site plan approval for Village Mall at their regular meeting last Tuesday, July 26. The approval was granted with several minor contingencies.

The 41,000-square-foot center will adjoin Polly's Market to the south behind Great Lakes Bancorp. Combined with the grocery store, the entire complex will be about 69,000 square feet.

Kennedy, like Chelsea Shopping Center developer Rene Papo, has to sign a development agreement with the village specifying exactly what the developer will do and what services the village will provide at its expense. The agreement covers everything from landscaping to utilities.

"I'm so worn out with this," Kennedy said.

"It should only get better from here."

Kennedy said the project should take about six months to complete but that tenants will move in as the building is finished.

Although Kennedy said he's still talking with prospective tenants, he's likely to have a 10,000-square-foot discount drug store, an 8,000-square-foot hardware store, and a 7,000-square-foot farm implement store. He'll also have 16,000 square feet for smaller businesses who could rent any size unit they might want.

"I met with the two big tenants and I'm meeting with the general contractors this week," Kennedy said.

"I'd like to get started in the next couple of weeks."

Kennedy said he's confident he'll have no problem finding enough tenants.

In other business, the commission voted to recommend to the village council that the village annex a parcel of land just east of the Assembly of God church on Old US-12. The land, owned by Rene Papo, is scheduled to become the site of Chelsea Insurance Co. Papo has also inquired about having a 52-acre parcel adjacent to it annexed as well.

A public hearing was set for Tuesday, Aug. 30 regarding the re-zoning of a 13.5 acre parcel of agricultural land off Gene Dr. to medium density residential (RS-2). Papo and village resident Harold Allen reportedly want to build a number of single family homes in the area. RS-2 allows a smaller lot size than RS-1.

The planners also reviewed plans for the new Arbogate Inn motel near I-94 off M-52 but no action was taken.

Village, DNR Still Arguing Over Landfill Details

By Brian Hamilton

As of press time the Village of Chelsea and the Department of Natural Resources were still haggling over the details of a consent order regarding the clean-up of the village landfill on Werkner Rd.

DNR responded last week to the consent agreement approved by the village council in late June. The DNR's draft included a few new dates concerning deadlines for various types of testing, according to assistant village manager Lee Fahrner.

In addition, the two sides can't agree on language regarding the level of clean-up. Fahrner said the law allows a variance from the pollution standards if, for instance, the landfill's level of pollution is so close to the standards that it is not economically feasible to clean it up.

"We want to make sure we don't give up any rights," Fahrner said.

Fahrner said Monday the primary argument is over one word in the consent document.

In the meantime, the village is nearing the end of its third landfill license extension, which expires Aug. 7. The village has asked for, and received, its fourth license extension.

"This will be the last extension," Fahrner said.

At the July 19 meeting of the council, most of the members publicly expressed their disgust about the progress of negotiations. Village President Jerry Satterthwaite said, "we can't keep living on extensions."

The landfill may be forced to close if an agreement can't be reached. Space is running out quickly, according to village officials.

Fahrner said he planned to give each member of council a copy of a recent story in the Ann Arbor News that detailed the problems Ann Arbor is having with its landfill. According to the report, the story of the Ann Arbor landfill is very similar to the Chelsea story.

Main St. Roadwork To Disrupt Traffic

Michigan Department of Transportation plans roadwork on Main St. from the Chelsea Medical Center driveway to Sibley Rd. beginning this month.

The project, according to assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, is likely to be completed in November. And it is likely to be highly disruptive to traffic.

Fahrner said plans call for one lane of Main St. to be open at all times, which is likely to cause traffic back-ups.

"We hope it will be less and less of a problem as people start choosing alternate routes," Fahrner said.

In addition, the Chelsea Community Fair Parade is likely to be re-routed.

The roadwork will include recapping and re-paving of the road, and curb replacement.

County election officials were getting ready for the Aug. 7 primary. Plans for the election were thrown into turmoil when the Michigan Supreme Court on June 19 unexpectedly rejected a proposed new legislative apportionment plan and declared that the old districts should stay in place. Meanwhile, ballots reflecting the new legislative districts had been printed. They had to be junked, and a fresh start made.

State Courts Handled 3.4 Million Cases in 1987

Nearly 3.4 million cases were filed in the state's trial courts during 1987, according to the annual report released by the State Court Administrative Office.

State Court Administrator V. Robert Payant reported that the circuit courts showed the greatest success rate with 10,000 fewer cases pending at the end of 1987 as compared to 1986.

Cases pending over two years in the circuit court system showed a decline of 8.8 percent.

Payant added the circuit courts, in their friend of the court operations, reported collections of $629 million in child and spousal support, an increase of $31 million over 1986.

The report further noted that probate courts saw increased filings in both probate and juvenile cases.

Since 1983, filings have increased annually with 63,984 new supervised decedent estate cases, of which 19.9 percent were conservatorships and the rest involved trusts, adoptions and escheated property.

Of the 38,828 new cases in the juvenile division of probate court, Payant said 75 percent involved delinquency with the remainder being cases of juvenile neglect or abuse.

The 1987 annual report prepared by the court administrative office, noted that 100 district courts received over 2.9 million new cases during the year, an increase of 5.7 percent from 1986.

Seventy-seven percent of the filings were traffic related, 13 percent were civil and small claims, while 10 percent concerned criminal issues.

The report noted an average of 11,830 new cases per judge were filed in the district courts during 1987.

Community and Junior Colleges Get High Ratings

Ninety-three percent of Michigan's community and junior college students said they were "getting their money's worth," according to the first state-wide opinion survey of both full- and part-time community college students.

The survey, conducted by Project Outreach of the State Board of Education, polled 1,200 students.

Other areas receiving "good" or "excellent" ratings by students included library services (82 percent), admissions counseling (68 percent), computer labs and facilities (66 percent), course selection counseling (65 percent), study rooms and areas (61 percent), parking availability (57 percent), financial aid assistance (55 percent) and tutorial help (53 percent).

Also, 96 percent of the students rated tuition as either "very reasonable" or "somewhat reasonable."

Major Changes Made To Educational Testing

The State Board of Education has approved major changes in the Michigan Educational Assessment Program.

Superintendent of Public Instruction Donald L. Bemis said the proposed testing plan would cost about $150,000 to implement, due to additional printing and scoring costs, and the Legislature will be asked for the funds.

Under the changes science testing, which has been given students in grades 4, 7 and 10, would be shifted to grades 5, 8 and 11 in the fall of 1989.

Also, a test in writing skills would be given in the spring of 1989 in grades 3, 6 and 9.

The board said writing had to be assessed in the spring so Michigan teachers could help score it during the summer.

Every pupil science testing, plus sample and voluntary testing in health education, career development and social studies testing, were moved to grades 5, 8 and 11 so the testing burden on 4th, 7th and 10th grades would be reduced.

Study Skills Workshops To Be Held

Chelsea Learning Center, a service of the Chelsea Public Schools, is once again offering study skills workshops for area middle and high school students. Last year's workshops attracted nearly 40 area students, and a number of requests have been made for additional sessions this year.

According to John Groesser, Learning Center Director and workshop leader, "Our intention with these workshops is to provide students at the middle and high school levels with hands-on training in skills needed for effective studying and test completion. Groesser adds, "We've had good reports on last year's sessions, so we decided to provide sessions again this year for those who haven't been through one yet, and for those who want to add to what they learned last year."

During the sessions participants learn techniques that improve their text comprehension and listening abilities. Methods of preparing for and taking tests are also discussed and demonstrated. Each participant receives a packet of handouts that contain descriptions and examples of the techniques discussed.

This year's workshops will be held in room 112 at Chelsea High School on Aug. 16 for middle school students and Aug. 17 for high school students. Both sessions will run from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m. Registration is $15, and it must be made in person at the Chelsea Community Education office.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Summer was very much with the fellers at the country store Saturday night, so they give the drink box a workout. Not one of em has hit enough licks to break a sweat these past 20 year, but they allus fight the heat by keeping their whistles wet during their previews and reviews.

Ed Doolittle got the floor first, and he took the discussion in the direction of recent research. He had a clipping where a Pittsburgh management company had done a study on how folks use time. A survey of 1,000 married people showed, fer instant, that husbands and wives spend four minutes a day talking to one another, and 30 seconds talking with their children. Ed said nothing was said of how long the husband listens to the wife, or how long both set up waiting fer children to git home.

As fer time wasted waiting to do somefun, the study found five year of a average life is used up in lines of one kind or another and six months goes fer waiting fer the light to change. We eat six year, open junk mail eight months and look a year fer lost items like car keys and glasses. Ed said he was sure the grocery store checkout led the waiting list. Fer the life of him, Ed said, he can't figger why they put in eight cash registers and allus keep all but two of em closed.

Bug Hookum broke in to say his old lady said her microwave oven has give her a new appreciation of time. She has a timer on her regular oven, Bug said, but it takes so long she can go to circle meeting, come home and git some chores done while it cooks. With the microwave she stands and watches it or at least stays in the kitchen with it, so she has took to figgering what she can do with the two minutes instead of staring at the glass door. Bug said his old lady was of a mind that some time saving gadgets actual jest give us more time to waste.

Practical speaking, declared Zeke Grubb, research is all right in its place, but he's not sure its got any business in the toilet. Zeke had saw where two wimmen professors at Virginia Tech had done some serious work and found that wimmen take twice as long to go to public bathrooms as men. What's interesting, Zeke said, is not that this is so, but why anybody cares. The piece he saw explained the researchers were making a case fer putting more bathrooms in public places fer wimmen than fer men. The way things are going, Zeke declared, this is a relief. Men know wimmen ain't about to settle fer equal, so from a study like this you'd expect a move to even things up by keeping men in the men's and opening both to wimmen.

As fer finding ways to fill time, Zeke went on, Bug's old lady's microwave ain't got a thing on Northwest Airlines. Zeke had saw where it has put televisions in the backs of seats so folks can watch summer reruns while they're waiting to git where they're going. Fer what good they can git out of that modern gadget, Zeke said, they might as well drive.

Personal, I can see where we got to keep looking fer new and better ways, but I am concerned about giving new names to old problems. I saw where doctors have invented another children's disease and are working on all kinds of chemical and sychological remedies. They call it attention deficit disorder, and fer what I can read it is the old misbehaving epidemic at church and school that responded wonderful to a ruler brought down sharp across a palm.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Village Taking Otto To Court

Village Zoning Inspector Rosemary Harook is taking Wilkinson St. resident Vern Otto to court.

Otto has been accused of storing piles of junk in his yard in full view of his neighbors. She wants him to clean it up.

Harook said several neighbors have volunteered to testify for the village about the mess.

In addition, Harook said according to her records, part of the mess is on another landowner's property. However, she said the mess is entirely of Otto's making.

Home Canning Update Offered By Extension Service

If you are canning the same way your mother and grandmother did you may be in for a surprise. It may not work; the food may spoil or be dangerous for your family. Many changes are now recommended because there are new varieties of fruits and vegetables.

The USDA recently completed research on safe methods of preserving food. The last research was done in the 1940's. As a result, new times and pressures are recommended and alterations are suggested for different altitudes.

A home correspondence course has been developed by CES to inform consumers of these updated procedures. The course was designed with seven lessons, each covering one facet of food preservation. The seven sections include Food Safety, Canning Low Acid Foods, Canning Acid Foods, Pickling, Jellies and Jams, Freezing, and Drying. Participants are encouraged to complete the experiments included in the course and return the worksheets before receiving the new lesson.

A $15 fee for the correspondence course includes all the lessons, several extension bulletins and comments on each lesson's worksheet by the extension home economist. To register for the course, call 971-0079.

Pressure Gauges Will Be Tested By Extension Service

Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service offers free testing of dial gauge pressure canner lids to assure safe home canning of vegetables, meat, fish and poultry. Bring your pressure canner covers to the Co-operative Extension Service office at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw (entrance off of Hogback Rd.) any Tuesday or Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 p.m. during the months of July, August and mid-September.

Diabetes Information Sharing Group Meets At Chelsea Hospital

The next meeting will be Aug. 10. Pat Parr, R.N., diabetic education coordinator at Chelsea Community Hospital, will be guest speaker. Pat's topic will be "Risk Factors for Complications." For additional information, please call Mary Brehob, 475-3223.

Mr. and Mrs. John Williams McHarney
Mary Anderson, John McHarney Wed in Outdoor Ceremony

The marriage of Mary Margaret Anderson, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert F. Anderson and granddaughter of Mrs. Luella Houston, all of Chelsea, and John Williams McHarney, son of R. H. McHarney and Caryl McHarney of Albuquerque, N. M., was solemnized in a garden wedding held at the Anderson family home in Sharon township on May 29.

The double-ring ceremony was conducted by Pastor Orval Willimann of Bethlehem United Church of Christ, Ann Arbor. Music for the ceremony was performed on the keyboard by Mrs. John Engelbrecht of New Haven, Mo., cousin of the bride. Wendy Bloom of Ypsilanti sang "Sometimes," "First of a Thousand Wedding Days," and "Sailors' Benediction" during the wedding program.

The bride's hand-made wedding gown of rose-patterned cotton brocade featured a front apron with a deep flounce over a cascade of sheer ruffles revealed on the back of the skirt and covering her chapel-length train. The sheer yoke on her candlelight gown was overlaid at the shoulders with French Chantilly lace from her mother's wedding, hand-beaded and re-embroidered. Her grandmother's pearls were at the neckline. Her wrist-length veil fell from a crown of fresh flowers. She carried a long-stemmed bouquet of fresh flowers on her arm.

Ellen Anderson of Ann Arbor, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Anne Anderson of Ames, Ia., cousin of the bride, Kathryn Waldyke of Chelsea, Diana Lindquist and Vicky Vittitoe of Albuquerque. The attendants' teal-length dresses were of silk screened floral cotton, individually designed with different features for each maid. Each girl trimmed her wide-brimmed straw hat to her own taste with coordinated ribbons and flowers. All carried garden baskets of fresh flowers.

Best man was James Stallcup of Albuquerque. Groomsman were Andrew McHarney of Albuquerque, brother of the bridegroom, and Scott Snowden of Milwaukee, Wis. The men were attired in gray striped tuxedos. Ushers were Andy and Paul Anderson of Chelsea, brothers of the bride.

Following the 2 p.m. ceremony a reception buffet was held under canvas on the home grounds for 130 guests. A three-piece band provided music for folk dancing under the direction of Robin Warner of Chelsea.

Friends and family from several states were house guests for the extended week-end. Pre-nuptial parties included a personal shower for the bride hosted by Anne Anderson, a Navajo feast prepared by Norma Secatero of Canoncito, N. M., and Caryl McHarney, and a Huron River canoe trip followed by volleyball and dinner at the home of Dr. and Mrs. William Anderson of Ann Arbor, uncle and aunt of the bride.

Vicky Vittitoe hosted a kitchen shower for the bride in Albuquerque. A second reception for 75 guests was co-hosted by the parents of the bridal couple on June 12, at the Garden Center in Albuquerque, where the couple are residing.

Tree value: Keep in mind that the trees that are dropping those leaves in your yard are also saving you money. National Wildlife magazine reports that trees may cut cooling costs 50 percent or more by shading a house from sunlight. And come winter, trees may lower heating bills by as much as 15 percent by deflecting winter gusts. Lightning Strikes Twice: The idea that lightning never strikes twice is a myth. National Wildlife magazine says that not only does lightning strike some places more than once, but some areas like Castle Rock, Colo., and Cape Canaveral, Fla., are struck frequently. Upward moving air causes the frequent strikes near the Continental Divide, while converging sea breezes attract the lightning on the Florida coastline.

Food Safety Tips Offered For Summer

During these hot summer days, we need to pay special attention to how we handle and serve perishable food. When it's 90 degrees outside, the temperature in the kitchen can be almost as high, creating an ideal environment for the growth of food poisoning bacteria, says Sandra Andrews, Michigan State University Extension foods and nutrition specialist.

Families need to follow some simple food safety rules to stay healthy: —Keep cold food cold. This is the best way to fight bacteria. When food shopping, buy perishable items last. Make the grocery store your last stop when you're out running errands to avoid leaving perishable foods in a hot car. Immediately unpack groceries and put the perishables in the refrigerator or freezer.

—Keep the bacteria on your hands out of your food. Everyone involved in preparing, serving or eating food should wash his/her hands with soap and water first. If you're on a picnic and soap and water are not available, use pre-moistened wipes to clean up.

—Do not spread the bacteria from raw meat, poultry or fish to other foods. Wash your hands after handling raw meat, poultry or fish. If you're barbecuing, don't lick your fingers after spreading the sauce or other seasonings on raw meat. Use a different plate and utensils for raw and cooked meat to prevent contamination of the cooked product.

—Thoroughly cook raw meat, poultry and fish to kill any food poisoning bacteria present. Serve meat, poultry or fish hot. A rule of thumb is to cook red meat until there is no pink left, poultry until there is no red in the joints, and fish until it is flaky. If you enjoy your meat rare or medium rare, remember: the shorter the cooking time, the more likely that food poisoning bacteria will survive.

—Do not use food from damaged containers. Check all cans and glass jars for dents, cracks or bulging lids. Check paper packages for leaks or stains.

—Take "summer stock" of your refrigerator and freezer. Keep your refrigerator at 40 degrees or lower. Freezers and freezer compartments should be set at 0 degrees or lower.

—When packing foods to take on a picnic, make sure to pack enough ice to bring leftovers home. If your picnic lasts no more than four or five hours (from packing to go to unpacking at home) and your perishables were kept on ice when not being cooked or served, you should be able to eat the leftovers safely.

Upset 7-Year-Old Bikes 30 Miles To Grandma's Home

When Mom said "pick up your toys," 7-year-old Dawn Gould of Jackson had the perfect solution—run away from home, or more accurately, ride away from home.

Dawn started riding her small two-wheeler about 10 a.m. Tuesday near Meridian Rd. Somewhere around 3 or 4 p.m. she wound up at her grandmother's house on Hashley Rd. in Sharon township south of Chelsea, a journey of about 30 miles.

However, to add insult to injury, grandmother Dorothy Brady wasn't home.

Fortunately for grandmother, and parents Judy and Willard Gould, a neighbor saw the girl, knew grandmother wasn't home, and gave the girl a lift back to Jackson.

"We're all surprised she even made it here," grandmother said.

The girl's route took her along some crowded, high speed roads, including M-106 and M-52.

"She told us, 'I even stopped at the red lights because I knew I was supposed to,'" grandmother said.

"She said she stopped and looked both ways at the train tracks. She even stopped at the NAPA store to get a drink of water because she knew there was a fountain there."

Saturday Storm

(Continued from page one) Lake Rd. and Glazier Rd., but were removed by about 10 p.m. by the Washtenaw County Road Commission and Consumers Power crews.

At the Cavanaugh Lake park, south shore, trees were uprooted, peeling back the shoreline.

Severe damage was also reported by a Sager Rd. resident, south of the village.

Although no damage was reported in the village, the Chelsea Fire Department answered five storm-related calls within 90 minutes.

Free Colorado Blue Spruce Trees Offered for August

Ten free Colorado blue spruce trees will be given to each person who joins the National Arbor Day Foundation during August, 1988.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's effort to encourage tree planting throughout America.

"The Colorado blue spruces will have many uses in your home landscape," John Rosenow, the Foundation's executive director, said. "With their silver blue-green color and compact conical shape they can be used as individual ornamentals, an energy-saving windbreak, a privacy screen, or as living Christmas trees."

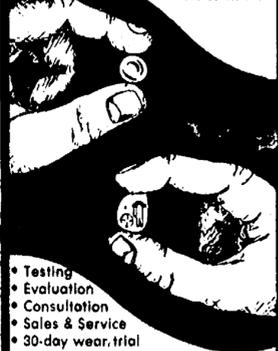

The trees will be shipped postpaid at the right time for planting in September or October with enclosed planting instructions. The six- to twelve-inch trees are guaranteed to grow, or they will be replaced free of charge.

To become a member of the Foundation and to receive the free trees, send a $10 membership contribution to Ten Blue Spruces, National Arbor Day Foundation, 100 Arbor Ave., Nebraska City, Neb. 68410, by Aug. 31.

Area Man Killed In Motorcycle Crash

A motorcycle accident on North Territorial Rd. in Lyndon township last Thursday, July 28 killed a 29-year-old Munith man.

According to reports, Nicholas Keiser was eastbound when he ran into a car blocking the road at about 3:15 p.m. Keiser apparently applied both his brakes but could not avoid the car driven by Beatrice Walters, 83, of Ferndale.

According to Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Sgt. Harley Rider, Walters was westbound and was looking for a driveway. She turned across the eastbound lane but missed the driveway. A van behind her maneuvered around her.

In the meantime, Keiser came over a hill and "essentially had no place to go," Rider said. He hit Walters' car on the passenger side door.

Keiser was taken to University of Michigan Hospital, where he died of head injuries at 9 p.m.

The incident is still under investigation. Walters has not been charged. She suffered minor injuries and was taken to Chelsea Community Hospital by her son.

Keiser was an employee at ITI Electric in Dexter. He was a lifetime resident of the Chelsea area.

Q. Could you tell me what to do with my Ginny Maes? I have invested $31,000 in them. The monthly interest is good but the price keeps going down. Would you explain why that is happening. I paid $11.58 a share. This week they are down to $10.42. Should I keep them or cash the shares. I keep thinking I should go back to CD's.

A. First you should ask yourself why you bought the Ginny Maes in the first place. It would seem to be that you bought them to get the income. They are not the kind of security you ordinarily buy for appreciation. The likely gain from appreciation in normal times is not great enough to make them of interest for that purpose.

If you bought them for interest income, then what difference does it make to you whether the price has gone up or down? You are going to get exactly the same amount of interest regardless of the change in price at which your bonds are selling. You will continue to get those interest payments until your bonds mature. And on the maturity date you will get the face amount of your bonds.

The reason the price of the Ginny Maes has gone down since you bought them is because interest rates have gone up. Therefore it takes less money today to purchase the interest income you got when you purchased your bonds. If interest rates would go down then it would take more money to purchase the income you are receiving and your bonds would go up in price. I cannot guarantee it but my guess is that interest rates will not change greatly in the foreseeable future. And consequently the price of your bonds will probably not change much.

If the regular income was your objective, I would relax and enjoy it and quit looking at the daily price in the paper.

After the major commotion that has taken place in the stock market in recent days and with a possible move under way by our reluctant congress to balance the budget, it's possible we may have a period of lower interest rates in the future. If that should happen, you would see the price of your bonds go back up.

I would only consider switching to a CD if you can lock in the same or higher interest payments you are now getting, and for the same period of time that your bonds have to run to maturity.

School Lunch Prices Increase

Chelsea School District lunch prices have been increased for the 1988-89 school year. The school board took the action at their regular Aug. 1 meeting.

Student lunches have been boosted from $1.25 to $1.50. Adult prices have been raised 30 cents, from $1.80 to $2.10.

Reduced-price meals will be 40 cents, and milk will be 20 cents.

According to district officials, the new prices will generate an additional $36,750. Last year the lunch program lost $22,000.

The board, Monday night, also oficially approved a total millage rate of 39.876 for the 1988-89 year.

Operating millage will total 37.3760, down 1.144 mills from 1987-88 due to the Headlee Amendment. Debt retirement will total 2.5 mills, down .2 mills from last year.

"The winds and waves are always on the side of the ablest navigators..."

—Gibbon.

It is always easy and a very popular course of action to assume that the successful individual is the "lucky" one. Some who have achieved little, assume that their neighbor's accomplishments are attributable to lucky breaks and good fortune. But as Gibbon tells us, good luck seems somehow to follow those who have the greatest ability.

This should be a source of encouragement to us all, for ability involves not only talent but the willingness to use that talent. Although we may not possess unlimited skills, there need be no limit on our willingness to use what skill we have.

Our understanding of needs, our consideration for feelings and our desire to help enable us to serve this community well.

Defense Scams Aimed At the Taxpayers

The Pentagon Scandals are nothing new. It's just that we can get a better view of what's going on, now that the FBI has turned on the lights in the bedroom.

Hearings began before a federal grand jury July 19 in Alexandria, Va., with dozens of individuals and famous corporations as defendants. The jurors will hear testimony on charges of fraud and bribery involving 85 contracts worth tens of billions of dollars—probably the largest criminal proceedings in the history of the Pentagon. Indictments, expected by the end of the year, are also likely to include charges of theft of government property, false statements to the government and conflict of interest violations.

Deeply involved in the investigations are consultants, often former government officials. Those investigated are accused of acting as go-betweens in the illicit intercourse of buyers and sellers. The trials, fueled by 275 subpoenas and three dozen search warrants, are expected to reveal how the accused consultants bribed defense officials and what the consultants got for their money.

Guilty defense employees are expected to reveal how they sold secret details of bids submitted by selected contractors. Next the prosecution will attempt to show how shady consultants then sold the confidential information to competing contractors. With such an insight, the purchasers would be in a position to take well-directed shots at coveted contracts.

When proven guilty, dishonest employees of defense agencies may be sentenced to long years at a federal prison such as Leavenworth.

Corporate executives are likely to receive the same kind of punishment as convicted inside-traders from Wall Street. Defense barons—so guilty that batteries of costly lawyers cannot spring them—are likely to be sentenced to a minimum security rehabilitation facility in Florida, perhaps known privately to its inmates as Heavenworth.

We taxpayers are currently facing an annual bill of $90 billion for defense procurement, and we are lucky to get 50¢ on the dollar because of:

- Weapons so badly designed they should never have left the drawing board
- Weapons already in existence—so ineffective that defense officials and contractors are afraid to have them tested
- Government change orders, occurring by the thousands, on weapons already deep into design, development or production
- Scandalous cost overruns by contractors, loaded with charges for non-existent overhead
- Underbidding on a contract to get the camel's nose under the tent, with losses subsequently recovered by expensive overruns
- Possible defense savings, such as cancelled contracts, closed air bases, etc. The hoped-for savings are then replaced by DOD or Congress with new spending to fill the gaps.

Congress does deserve credit for a law designed to contain non-competitive bidding by single sources of supply. This helps to prevent "sweetheart" deals between defense agencies and favored contractors.

Inflated charges by contractors for overhead expenses and spare parts is being tackled successfully by the Defense Department through auditing by the new office of Inspector General. It's about time. General Electric was suspended as a defense contractor for padding labor costs on warheads for the Minuteman. It pleaded guilty in Federal court and was fined $1.04 million.

The Electric Boat Company, a division of General Dynamics which builds submarines, had payments of $40 million a month suspended by the Department of Defense while awaiting an audit of Electric Boat's expense claims. Among the items under question were:

- $105,000 for Chairman Lewis' trips by company plane to his farm. His briefcase contained homework on defense contracts
- $100,000 to transport 70 company executives and their wives to a business retreat
- $1,125 to purchase earrings for the wife of an admiral who had supervision over submarine contracts
- $155 paid to a kennel for boarding an executive's dog while he attended a meeting

Business Week reported that the Pentagon's managers often seem as concerned about concealing waste as ferreting it out. In yet another issue, it reports that some military field commanders privately lament the retirement of economical old standby weapons in favor of costly new weapons of dubious worth. Other commanders look askance at glamorous new hardware when there are concerns about sufficient supplies of ammunition and spare parts.

Another problem is the duplication of equipment between services when all have virtually identical needs. For instance, the army, navy and air force each wanted helicopters and preferred to specify their own makes and models. For once, they were turned down, and all had to do with Sikorsky's.

Such bothersome details have never troubled Ronald Reagan, the Commander-in-Chief of the Armed Forces. Nor has anyone managed to deter him and his White House advisors from a defense spending spree that has cost the nation two trillion dollars and left the country badly in debt.

Ronald Reagan has been a popular president and his intentions have been good, but from the day he took office he has been in the grip of an obsession. He has been under the influence of Bill Casey, late head of the FBI, Caspar Weinberger, Richard Perle, onetime Assistant Secretary of Defense, and Ed Meese. Perle is credited with having been the mastermind of the costly military buildup.

These advisors to the President have been intransigent in their conviction that the Soviets are a permanent enemy, intent on our destruction. As early as 1980 Candidate Reagan said, "I wouldn't trust the Russians around the block. They must be laughing at us because we continue to think of them as people."

His attitude toward the Soviets seems to have softened since his meetings with the civilized Gorbachev. Unfortunately, there is no way to unspend all of the billions that have gone down the drain in the name of "defense."

Twenty-five years ago John Kennedy solemnly observed: A single nuclear bomb is almost equal in explosive power to all of the ammunition used by the Allies in World War Two.

The destructive powers of today's high tech weapons are even more awesome. Yet, the United States has 30,000 nuclear warheads in its arsenal, according to the Defense Monitor, and the Soviet Union 20,000. It is also known, and has been known since the 1960's, that America, with nuclear weapons deployed on land and sea throughout the world, can survive a first nuclear attack and rain Armageddon on the Soviets. And vice versa. Further exchanges might end up with Monaco becoming the largest country on earth.

It is clearly a no-win situation and it is time for both powers to stop wasting their substance on overkill. Let's disarm, under appropriate surveillance, and keep only enough nuclear weapons in the hands of a United Nations peacekeeping force for safety. Safety from what? From maniacs such as Muammar Gaddafi, and unborn madmen of the future, who would think nothing of setting the world on fire.

Our 1988 national budget calls for a state of defense which, in the opinion of experts, is only slightly more effective than it was in 1980. The amount this year is $304 billion which is 37% of the entire budget. In 1988 we must also pay $179 billion for past wars—another 22%. And that's a total of 51%.

It seems incredible that a 200-year-old society such as ours, with a peacetime budget of one trillion dollars, should spend more than half its income on past and future wars. We should spend our votes very carefully in this November election and be more diligent in elections of the future. A constant goal should be to select leaders in Congress and the White House who can address problems of security with common sense.

Let's insist on economy and quality in our armor.

And while we are at it, let's never again put a defense system into production that can't tell the difference between an airliner and a fighter plane.

AL TOWNSEND AND THE AMBASSADORS delighted a big Pierce Park audience last Thursday with their brand new work of his vocalists called The Diplomats.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

A recent letter to the editor from Cathie Parker regarding the lack of handicap access in Chelsea prompts me to point out another inaccessible public facility. There is no handicap access at McKune Library.

Surely I'm not the only handicapped person who would love to use the library.

P. Naud.

To the Editor,

Kenneth Barner is of course right. The same "hard scientific data" that shows a young earth, "only several thousand years old" also proves that the moon is made of green cheese.

George Coash.

To the Editor,

"Once when a journalist asked me (Albert Schweitzer) about civilization, I answered, 'It all begins with the dungheap. If a dungheap is looked after well and built as it should be, you can be sure that the people who built it are civilized!'"

Where, leaders of Chelsea, is our recycling center?

Kathryn Wozniak.

Marine Pfc. Charles K. Walters, son of Terry G. and Diana J. Walters of 7640 Grand St., Dexter, has completed recruit training at Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, Walters was taught the basics of battlefield survival. He was introduced to the typical daily routine that he will experience during his enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

He participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle.

A 1986 graduate of Dexter High school, he joined the Marine Corps in March 1988.

ROGER LUCKHARDT of Manchester is a member of the 17th Michigan Regiment, Company E which will camp at Waterloo Farm Museum Sunday, Aug. 7. An faithful re-enactment of a Civil War camp will be staged for the public with soldiers dressed in authentic Civil War uniforms.

Authentic Civil War Camp To Be Set Up at Waterloo Farm Museum

Civil War history will be lived in all its glory at the Waterloo Farm Museum, the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 7. Members of the 17th Michigan Regiment, Company E, will gather in full uniform, wives and families will join them, as they set up camp.

Roger Luckhardt, spokesman from Manchester, told the Waterloo Area Historical Society that the 17th Michigan was historically recruited in Ypsilanti at the Normal College (now, Eastern Michigan University).

Recruits saw action at South Mountain, Md., Antietam, Fredricksburg, and Vicksburg. It was at South Mountain that the regiment got its nickname, the Stonewall Regiment. Green troops rushed a stone wall in full dress uniform, white gloves in belt; they drove the Confederates off the mountain. There is a monument to that effect on South Mountain.

Members of the contemporary Company E come from Dearborn, Livonia, Detroit, and Manchester. Recently, they have "set up camp" at the Cascades and at Greenfield Village. They will be at the Crossroads Village the week-end following their stopover at the Waterloo Farm Museum. Luckhardt reports that their authentic camp will give the appearance of a company, whose men where marching through the area and have stopped for a rest at a local farm. They have been together as a "company" for 14 years and Luckhardt has been a member for four years. Company wives will show visitors how to make a patriotic ribbon called a cockade. These simple rosettes were worn to show allegiance to the Union cause.

Waterloo Farm Museum is located 3 miles north of the Village of Waterloo. Use exit 153, off I-94 and follow Clear Lake Rd. to the Village, where it joins Waterloo-Munith Rd.

The historic farm, as well as Dewey School Museum, is a memorial to the pioneer farmers of Michigan and offers a taste of family living in the 19th century. Tours are available and admission is charged. The farm is open every afternoon, except Monday during the summer months. Dewey School is open Sundays, only.

Seasonal Employees Get Pay Raise

Part-time seasonal manual laborers for the Village of Chelsea will be making more money.

New employees will be hired at $5 per hour and given a 25 cent raise after 30 days if performance is adequate. Every year they return they will be given a 50 cent raise.

The action was taken by the village council July 19 after assistant village manager Lee Fahrner reported that the village was having trouble finding employees who were willing to work for the minimum wage.

The first Labor Day parade was held in New York City in 1882 under the auspices of the Central Labor Union on September 5. This initiated the practice of celebrating a "labor day," according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication by the U.S. Labor Department.

THE SHORELINE WAS RIPPED BACK at the Cavanaugh Lake residences appeared to take the worst of the beating from the Saturday storm. Saturday night as high winds toppled this large tree.

Governments Plan Against Chemical Emergencies

A group of government officials, industry representatives, and private citizens in Washtenaw county are bringing about profound changes in the way hazardous chemicals are regulated as a result of a recent federal law.

The Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Act was passed as Title III of the Superfund Amendments and Reauthorization Act of 1986 (SARA). It requires that facilities that handle hazardous chemicals, in amounts over a given threshold, must make information on these chemicals available to state and local authorities. These authorities must then use this information to develop contingency plans in the event of any emergency at these facilities.

Chemical emergencies have found their way into the news more than once in the last few months. Emergencies involving a chlorine plant in Springfield, Mass.; a rocket fuel plant in Henderson, Nev.; and an oil refinery in Norco, La.; all have raised awareness of the need to be prepared for the worst case where hazardous chemicals are used, processed, or stored.

Counties and some of the larger cities in Michigan have formed Local Emergency Planning Committees (LEPC's) to develop emergency plans for each facility that handles hazardous substances as required by SARA/Title III. Both Washtenaw county and the City of Ann Arbor have organized LEPC's. All LEPC's are required to submit their initial plans by Oct. 17, 1988, to the State Emergency Planning and Community Right-to-Know Commission for review.

By coincidence, the SARA/Title III reporting requirements went into effect at about the same time as Washtenaw county's own, more stringent Community Right-to-Know law. While differences exist between the two laws, the information generated by the local ordinance has been tremendously helpful to the county LEPC in developing its emergency plans.

All LEPC meetings are open to the public. The information generated by the Washtenaw county Community Right-to-Know ordinance is also public and may be requested from the Washtenaw County Environmental Health Bureau at 994-2492.

The first state law establishing Labor Day as a holiday was passed in 1887 in Oregon. Similar legislation was passed in Colorado and New York late that year, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication by the U.S. Labor Department.

House Cooling Tips for Hot Summer Weather

You can choose to go through the summer without an air conditioner and still be comfortable in your home.

One cooling option is the whole house fan, says Cynthia Fridgen, Michigan State University associate program director for the Co-operative Extension Service's natural resources and public policy programs. This unit, installed in an upstairs hallway or in the highest, most centrally located spot in the house, will move summer heat buildup out of your house and into the attic.

The attic vents should be adequate to allow rapid exhausting of heat buildup, and household replacement air should come from the coolest source. This could be a low window on the north side of the house that's shaded by shrubs or trees.

Another option is the attic fan,

Fridgen says. Mounted on the gable end of the house, it exhausts heated air from the attic very rapidly. This means that attic heat will not "migrate" through the ceiling insulation and add to summertime heat load.

A third option, and perhaps the most sensible and simple, is to "manage" your house in a summer mode, she says. This means closing blinds, drapes and windows in the early morning to keep out sunlight and heat, then opening all window coverings in the early evening. Open windows low on the west side and high on the east side to provide an upward and outward path for heat exhaustion.

Remember to keep window coverings open all night—the night sky draws heat away from the earth and out of your house.

Let's Go

Bulldogs!

Summer Baseball Team Nips Pinckney in Finale

Chelsea Bulldog summer baseball team finished their season with their third consecutive win, an 8-7 victory over Pinckney, last Tuesday, July 26. Chelsea got off to a fast start as they scored three runs in the top of the first inning on three hits, a walk, and some aggressive base running.

The Bulldogs had defensive problems in the bottom of the inning and Pinckney came back to grab a 5-3 lead.

Pinckney held a 7-4 lead after four innings before the Bulldogs closed the gap to 7-6 in the fifth on only one hit.

Down by a run in the top of the seventh, Chelsea's Jude Quilter led off with a bunt single. He stole second and eventually scored on Doug Wingrove's double.

Jeff Prentice picked up the game-winning RBI when his single drove Wingrove home.

Chelsea had a chance to do further damage when Mark Larson doubled, putting runners on second and third with one out. However, a strikeout and pop-up ended the inning.

Wingrove pitched for Chelsea and after a shaky first inning pitched a good game. He gave up five hits in the first but allowed only four hits and five total base runners the rest of the way. He struck out four and gave up one walk.

"If Chelsea had played a little defense in the first inning, Wingrove would have allowed only two or three runs," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

Chelsea banged out 11 hits. Wingrove and Larson each had two doubles, Quilter had a pair of singles, David Adams doubled, and Matt Forner, Prentice, Mike Kushmaul, and Steve Emmert all singled.

The Bulldogs finished 5-7 in the week-day league and 1-6 in the week-end league.

"We ended the season on a promising note as we won three in a row," Marshall said.

"We finally started playing ball the way we can and we won a few games. Hopefully the experience this summer will help out next spring."

Hawker Among Leaders In NCAA Statistics

Wayne State University softball right-handed pitcher Kelly Hawker of Chelsea finished second in individual earned run average in the NCAA Division II for 1988, trailing the leader by only two-hundredths of a point. She also finished sixth in strikeouts per seven innings. The 1988 NCAA-II National Softball Statistics were compiled by the NCAA National Office in Mission, Kan., and released on Wednesday, July 20.

Hawker, a junior member of the Tartars in 1988, gave up only eight earned runs in 154.0 innings pitched, which is a 0.384 ERA. Dori Stankewitz of Florida Southern finished with a 0.362 ERA, allowing 10 earned runs in 193.1 innings pitched. Hawker's eight earned runs were the fewest allowed by the national leaders in 1988. She recorded 120 strikeouts, averaging 5.5 strikeouts per game, placing her sixth in the NCAA-II.

Wayne State's number one thrower the past three seasons, Hawker finished the 1988 campaign with the win, loss or save in all but one game pitched, compiling a 17-7 record and two saves in 27 appearances. She earned NCAA-II Second Team All-America, NCAA-II All-Central Region First Team, and All-GIAC First Team honors in 1988, received two votes for the GIAC's Player-Of-The-Year, and was the conference's Player-Of-The-Week once after winning three games leading Wayne to the 1988 GIAC Tournament championship.

This is Hawker's third appearance in the NCAA-II National Softball Statistics. In her sophomore season she finished 11th in individual strikeouts, averaging 4.1 strikeouts, recording 98 strikeouts in 168.7 innings pitched. In 1986 Hawker was 13th in individual ERA, finishing with a 0.56 ERA on 176.0 innings pitched, allowing only 14 earned runs. She also finished in the Top 20 strikeouts in the NCAA-II that year with a 5.5 per game average, and her 148 total strikeouts was a new Wayne record. Hawker is the only Tartar ever to break the 100-strikeout mark, and she has done it twice, in 1986 and last season.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Can it really be that high school football season officially starts next week? Wednesday, Aug. 10 is the first official day of practice, about half a week earlier than last year. Coach Gene LaFave's boys will spend the first couple of weeks comparing tans, telling macho lies about "how I spent my summer vacation," and trying to work off their summer lethargy and into some sort of reasonable physical condition. Then they'll put on their pads and helmets and beat each other silly for the rest of the fall.

I am a veteran of exactly one high school early season training camp. Never did the days seem so long as when I was out running laps, running through chains of tires, hitting dummies, doing calisthenics, and trying to convince myself that I really did like football and all the pain (no, more like torture) was worth it for the sake of the team. Those two-a-day workouts were murder. I especially hated those exercises that are designed to make your neck look more like a pedestal for your head rather than an orderly transition to the rest of your body.

I just hope for the sake of this year's team that the weather cools down a bit. Lately it's been too hot to practice even at 3 a.m.

I can remember almost nothing about last year's football season. What I can remember is wondering if my wife might give birth in the stands. Our doc was (and maybe still is) the Chelsea team doc. I remember worrying about what would happen if he had to choose between helping Larry Nix onto a stretcher and delivering a baby behind the bleachers.

Fortunately Drew waited until a few hours after the seventh game of the World Series to make his debut. Now, like a Bulldog puppy, he's crawling around like mad looking for things to chew on.

I do remember a couple other things about last season—the Mothra-sized mosquitoes at Saline and Milan, the cesspool of a field at Milan, LaFave and Wayne Welton in white shirts and ties, beating Dexter after a cheap penalty on the Dreadnaught coaching staff, and freshman Jude Quilter nearly scoring his first touchdown. I also remember those touching letters from the players objecting to the fact that I wrote about mosquitoes and what LaFave was wearing rather than the Magical Essence of Football.

Some people are never satisfied. And they probably won't be this year, either.

I have not talked to anyone on the football coaching staff about this year's team. Everything that follows is pure speculation on my part.

This year we're likely to see more sophomores on the varsity than at any time over the last several years.

Quilter should make the team easily. Over the next three years he may turn into one of Chelsea's all-time great runners. He has that potential. Potential, though, has to be accompanied by hard work and a little luck (no injuries, for instance).

Kerry Plank, a gifted receiver, is also likely to make it. Tucker Steele looks like LaFave's back-up at quarterback.

Any one of those kids could make it big this year with the varsity given the right circumstances.

My prediction is that by the time Steele and Plank are seniors, they'll be an even better passing combination than Dan Bellus and Todd Starkey were a few years ago.

Chelsea lost quite a few linemen to graduation. How well the replacements function will probably be one of the keys to the season.

With decent blocking Chelsea has the chance for an explosive team this fall. Junior Morseau can run, catch, and kick with the best. Quilter is a breakaway threat. Several other solid running backs return as well. Nix has an amazing arm for such a small guy and a year of experience should make him a lot better this season. He's also quick and can scramble for yardage. Just hope he doesn't have to.

With so many youngsters likely to skip from freshman ball to varsity, the junior varsity squad may be in a bind.

It will also be interesting to see how LaFave juggles the coaching assignments. Freshman coach Jim Tallman has decided to hang it up, at least temporarily, so that's one more spot to fill. Jim Ticknor isn't going to coach the middle schoolers anymore, either.

I have been told that Athletic Director Larry Reed had to fill 16 coaching positions for this year. I can think of some—a couple or three football jobs, a tennis job, a cheerleading job (varsity advisor Maureen Bohl is headed to Arizona), a couple of volleyball jobs, a swimming job.

Seems like a big pain in the neck.

Pets Need Special Care
In Hot Summer Weather

Almost everyone who owns a pet has commented that the pet's behavior is almost human at times. But when it comes to hot weather survival, our pets really are like humans. Overheating or heatstroke is the most dangerous heat-related problem treated by veterinarians, says Hugh T. Fauser, Holt veterinarian. Symptoms of heatstroke in your pet include excessive panting, lethargy, weakness and eventual collapse.

Dogs with long, heavy coats, overweight dogs, elderly dogs and breeds with extremely short or pug noses are more susceptible to heatstroke than others.

Cats tend to be less susceptible to heatstroke because they tend to be less active during the hottest part of the day.

You can prevent heatstroke in your pet by observing a few simple precautions. Make sure your pet has access to shade and plenty of cool drinking water. Don't exercise your dog on hot, humid days. Never leave a pet in your car on a hot day. Even with the windows cracked down, the internal temperature can rise to 120 degrees or higher in minutes.

If you suspect your pet is suffering from heatstroke, you need to act quickly. First get it to a cool place, such as an air-conditioned building or a basement. Encourage it to drink cold water. If possible, check its temperature with a rectal thermometer. If the pet's temperature is 104 degrees or below, these steps will usually cool it sufficiently so it can recover. If its temperature is above 104 degrees, cool the animal with a cool water bath and call your veterinarian.

Another problem to watch for in hot weather occurs when an animal is wounded. Be alert for any wounds or moist sores. They can become infected with fly maggots in a matter of hours, leading to severe skin damage and infections. Keep all wounds and sores clean and dry and keep the animal indoors until it starts to heal.

Animals, like people, have a harder time dealing with the heat when they are overweight. Keeping your animal in shape should be a year-round objective that will pay off during the hot summer months.

Tax Considerations About Lump Sum Distributions

Ironically, the biggest payday for millions of retiring workers—the lump sum distribution from retirement, pension or profit-sharing plans—also presents their most important tax decision. How it's handled could well determine the quality of your lifestyle in the years ahead.

The funds in these various benefit plans have been growing tax-free while you were working, but the tax was only postponed until withdrawal or distribution of the funds—not forgiven. Now that you have, or are about to receive, possession of this large sum of money, you have three basic options:

Pay Taxes Now—You may wish to take advantage of certain favorable tax rates now, and then use or reinvest the remaining balance as you wish.

IRA Rollover—If you have no immediate need for the funds, you can deposit them in an IRA Rollover Account within 60 days of receipt of your distribution. This option will keep the full value of your retirement funds growing, while further deferring taxes.

Partial IRA Rollover—You may also elect to roll over only part of the distribution into an IRA; however, you must pay ordinary income taxes on the amount you keep.

As is always the case in an investment decision, the option you select will depend on your own financial situation and future needs. There is no right or wrong answer, but most financial consultants agree on a few general guidelines.

If you are over 59½ and decide you need or want to keep the entire lump sum distribution, you may select either five-year or 10-year income averaging to reduce the tax rate. Five-year averaging generally will benefit investors with distributions in excess of $500,000 while others will probably do better with 10-year averaging.

If you were 50 before Jan. 1, 1986, but are under 59½ and participated in the plan for five or more years, you also may take advantage of five- or ten-year averaging due to a transitional rule in the Tax Reform Act of 1986. However, you will be subject to an additional 10 percent penalty tax (unless you are taking early retirement at age 55).

If you were under 50 before Jan. 1, 1986, you will pay ordinary income tax and a 10 percent penalty tax. You can avoid the penalty by rolling over your lump sum distribution.

Another general rule is that the larger the amount you receive and the longer you can afford to set the money aside, the more advantageous an IRA Rollover is likely to be. The main reason is that the full amount of your distribution will continue to grow in the tax-deferred account, and you will pay taxes only when you withdraw funds.

By comparison, if you pay taxes on the lump sum now, you will have less money to reinvest, and subsequent income earned from those investments may be subject to ordinary income tax each year.

It is hardly surprising that more than two-thirds of all investors today opt for an IRA Rollover to defer taxes and keep the full amount of their retirement funds earning interest. Prior to the far-reaching Tax Reform Act of 1986, 10-year averaging was the method used by most lump sum recipients.

The serious investor about to receive a benefit plan distribution should carefully consider all available options, such as his or her near- and long-term financial plans and needs.

Deciding how to receive your retirement funds is not an easy decision. You should gather as much information as possible to learn how you can benefit from an IRA Rollover. A tax specialist can help you determine which tax formulas are most favorable for your situation.

After a lifetime of hard work to earn a comfortable retirement, it is more important now than ever to invest a little more of your time before you invest your retirement money.

Other winners were Gilbert and Florence Noel of Jerome and Milton Weber and Cathy Green of Chelsea.

Michelle LaVigne Accepts Ballet Teacher Position

Several family members and friends attended her graduation ceremony on May 27 in Hartford, Conn. After the ceremony guests were treated with an outstanding performance by the graduates. A reception followed at the Hartford Courant Arts Center.

Michelle has accepted a position with the Wilkes-Barre Ballet Theater Company in Pennsylvania as both a teacher and company performer. She will be home the end of July before moving to Pennsylvania.

Michelle is a 1985 graduate of Chelsea High school. She was also a member of the Ann Arbor Civic Ballet and a former student and teacher with

Village, County Still Plan Local Recycling Program

Tom McMurtrie, consultant to Washtenaw County on the county-wide recycling program, was scheduled to address Chelsea Village Council last night concerning the village's recycling program. The local program has been delayed for several months due to a variety of problems.

According to assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, some of those problems have not been resolved. Fahrner said the village is still not crazy about having the center unattended at Polly's Market.

"We've been to meetings on these programs, and it can be a mess," Fahrner said of the unattended stations.

"On the other hand, in Grand Rapids they've been doing it for a while and the program is doing well."

Part of the problem is that some people use the recycling containers as places to dump pollutants like used motor oil, which contaminates everything inside the container.

In addition, the village and county still apparently do not have legal language in their proposed contract worked out completely.

Truck Window Kicked Out

A Grass Lake man told Chelsea police that someone apparently kicked out the window of his pick-up truck while the vehicle was parked at Thompson's Pizzeria on Friday, July 29 at 6:30 p.m.

The man told police that he suspected a man with whom he had been arguing with earlier in the evening.

The Grass Lake man said he had been driving west on Old US-12 when a young man turned his black car from Freer Rd. at a high rate of speed and nearly forced him off the road.

The Grass Lake man said he "flipped off" the other driver, who, in turn, made his own obscene gesture.

When the vehicles reached the traffic light at M-52, the Grass Lake man spit on the other driver's windshield.

The Grass Lake man said he suspects the other driver circled back and found the truck in the parking lot.

Award-Winning Rodeo Coming to Saline Aug. 12

The 1988 edition of the J-Bar-J World Championship Rodeo will stampede into the Saline Fairgrounds (Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds) on Aug. 12-14 for three action-packed performances.

For the past two years the J-Bar-J Rodeo Co. has taken home more honors than any other company in the business as recognized by the International Professional Rodeo Association (IPRA).

Named "Producer of the Year" for the past two years as well as having been part of the "Best New Rodeos of the Year" in 1986 and 1987 for Des Moines, Ia. and Huntington, W. Va., the J-Bar-J Rodeo Co. in co-operation with the Saline Jaycees, the Saline Area Chamber of Commerce, the Uptown Saline Assoc., and many other civic groups in the community are working hard to have the Saline Rodeo join that impressive list.

World Champion Rodeo Clowns John Gilstrap of Nashville, Tenn. (1986 and 1987 Rodeo Clown of the Year) and J. W. Snyder of Waco, Tex. (1986 and 1987 Rodeo Clown Bullfighter of the Year) will be on hand to thrill and entertain the crowds with not only their daring but their unique style of comedy as well.

The rodeo livestock for the Saline Rodeo have also won some very prestigious honors, from "Bucking Horses of the Year" to "Bucking Bulls of the Year" the J-Bar-J Rodeo Co. has sent more rodeo livestock to the International Finals Rodeo in Tulsa, Okla. than any other rodeo producer in rodeo. To many it may seem strange that this Michigan-based rodeo company (Claire) could be ranked so high among all of those rodeo producers in the U.S., particularly those in the southwest. J-Bar-J president and general manager Jim Zinser reminds us that, "An address does not make a cowboy," and in this case... a rodeo company.

The J-Bar-J Rodeo Co., producer of the Saline Rodeo, is known for its unique approach to providing good, clean family entertainment. This two and one-half hours of non-stop fun will excite the entire family, with events for dad, special events for mom and events that the kids can join in on themselves... the Kids Calf Scramble.

Combine the fun and excitement with the colorful opening production of pretty cowgirls on matched paint horses and you have the ingredients of one of the very best rodeos in the country... East or West!

Opening night of the rodeo is "Family Bargain Night" with all tickets just $5.

Saturday and Sunday tickets are $8 for adults ($7 in advance) and $5 for children (12 and under).

For more information and the location of a ticket outlet near you, call the Rodeo Hotline at (313) 429-4494 in Saline.

Commemorative Stamp Booklet Features Car Classics of the Road

The Postal Service today disclosed the designs for the five stamps that will make up its Classic Cars commemorative stamp booklet. Featured are the 1928 Locomobile, 1929 Pierce-Arrow, 1931 Cord, 1932 Packard and 1935 Duesenberg.

Postmaster General Anthony M. Frank will dedicate the stamps at an Aug. 26 ceremony in Detroit. The 10:30 a.m. first day event will take place at Cobo Hall before the start of STAMPSHOW 88, the 102nd Annual Convention of the American Philatelic Society.

The booklet includes four panes of five designs each, with subjects arranged from top to bottom in the order listed above. Designed by Ken Dallison, the horizontal-format stamps show the cars against a background split between dark above and white below. "USA 25" appears in the upper right in white dropout lettering. The year and name of each car is printed in red in the lower left.

Ken Dallison based his pen and ink wash designs on archival and personal photographs. A frequent contributor of U.S. stamp designs, Dallison also has extensive experience in automotive art, having worked more than 30 years with national automotive magazines.

Dallison's drawings were hand-engraved and converted for offset printing at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing. The titles were engraved for intaglio. Colors for the background and the autos were adjusted at the Bureau's Design Center.

The years 1925 to 1942 are considered to have been the age of the classic car, that rolling symbol of status and style. For many fortunate Depression-era buyers, more in a motorcar was obviously better—more speed, more power, more luxury. Though conservative in basic design, the large, fast cars of the period usually featured lavish appointments and the most advanced engineering of the time. Most were limited-edition production models, with exclusive styling and individual accents that reflected the taste of car's owner.

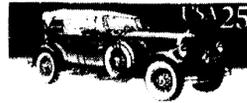

The most coveted classics incorporated only the chassis, engine, fender and hood from the manufacturer; the body and coach were custom built. Personal accents might include a bud vase for fresh flowers, gold trim, speedometers in the back seat, or special compartments for blankets set aside for cool evenings.

By no means were these multipurpose vehicles in the modern sense. Instead, they were built and purchased to serve two basic purposes: to transport four people, at most, in elegance over city boulevards, or to carry them in comfort, privacy and high speed, from city to seashore or mountain retreat.

One of the first companies to enter the classic market was Locomobile, a Bridgeport, Conn., firm which earned a reputation for scrupulous detail. After purchasing the Stanley brothers' steam-car design rights in 1899, J. B. Walker and A. L. Barber did brisk business with a small Locomobile steam runabout before moving up to gasoline powered cars. One of the firm's last and finest products, the 1928 model, is portrayed on the top stamp.

In 1865, George N. Pierce founded a company to manufacture bird cages, ice boxes and other household items. By the time the Buffalo, N.Y. manufacturer introduced his Pierce-Arrow motorcar in 1909, his reputation for fine craftsmanship was such that supply would never sufficiently meet public demand. Recognized for its distinctive headlights and archer hood ornament, the 1929 model also featured innovative standard equipment such as shatter-proof glass and an adjustable driver's seat.

The center stamp shows the 1931

Cord L-29, one of the sportiest cars of the classic era. This spirited machine boasted America's first successful front-wheel drive, and its handsome grille was followed by the longest hoodline in the industry.

Perhaps the most "over-engineered" of all classics was the Packard, with all components stronger, larger and more precisely machined than necessary. With more than 1,000 separate inventions, Packard contributed an extraordinary number of improvements to the motorcar industry. The popularity of the cars is reflected by an advertisement of the day, which claimed, with only modest exaggeration, that "Packard is one car the whole world recognizes."

The bottom stamp on the pane features the Duesenberg, a stunning automobile so far ahead of other cars of its time that it resisted comparison. Even today, it remains one of the most coveted of all collectibles. With 265 horsepower, the 1935 SJ was capable of unsurpassed power and acceleration. Some of the many jazz-age celebrities who paid dearly to harness the thrill of owning and driving a Duesy were Mae West, Clark Gable and William Randolph Hearst.

McKUNE MEMORIAL LIBRARY NEW BOOK LIST

HOT MONEY by Dick Francis. HOT MONEY is both a profound and moving family drama and an utterly baffling whodunit, with a large and colorful cast of suspects. When you are saddled with relatives like those of jockey Ian Pembroke you've got valid cause for concern. For starters there's Ian's father, Malcolm, a gold arbitrager with a Midas touch in everything but wives (he's had five). Then there are the ex-wives themselves: Ian's grudge-bearing mother; a vicious pair called "the witches"; a fourth dead in a tragic accident; and now the last and most detestable a murder victim.

THE SHELL SEEKERS by Rosamunde Pilcher. A magical novel, and the kind that comes along only once in a long while. Set in London and Cornwall from World War II to the present, it is the story of the Keeling family, and of the passions and heart-break that have held them together for three generations. The family centers around Penelope and it is her love, courage, and sense of values that determine the course of all their lives. THE SHELL SEEKERS is a novel of connection: of one generation to the next; of the parent that lives on in the child; and of the symbols and legacies from the past that come to represent the future.

Sondra Willobee, pastor of North Lake United Methodist church, and Anne Williams, of St. Mary's Catholic church. Standing, from left, are Karen Ziegler, of Faith in Action, and Dorothea Henry, of St. Paul United Church of Christ.

Hunger Walk Slated Oct. 9

Five people from various Chelsea churches and organizations met on Wednesday, July 27 to plan the first ever CROP Walk for Hunger in the Chelsea area this fall. The "CROP Walk" is a community-wide event sponsored by the Chelsea Area Ministerial Association to raise money for local and world hunger relief. It will be held on Sunday, Oct. 9, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Church and community members will be invited to participate in the walk and obtain pledges from non-walkers for each kilometer walked. The walk route will be a 10 kilometer loop through the village of Chelsea. Most of the money raised will be forwarded to CROP/Church World Service, an international relief and development agency. However, 10 percent of the monies received will remain in Chelsea for the work of Faith in Action.

In 1987 alone, 106 CROP Walks in Michigan raised over $1,050,000 for Church World Service and more than $213,000 for local community hunger agencies. Contributions from CROP Walks enabled Church World Service to respond to more than 40 disasters and emergencies world-wide and in the United States last year. Members of the Chelsea Area CROP Walk Committee include co-ordinators Anne Williams, St. Mary's Catholic church and the Rev. Sondra Willobee, North Lake United Methodist church and Charles Schmunk, First United Methodist church, Dorothea Henry, St. Paul United Church of Christ, and Karen Ziegler, Faith in Action, who will handle arrangements.

Faith in Action Board Elects New Member

The Board of Trustees of Faith in Action, Inc. at their regular meeting in July elected Ms. Jaclyn (Jackie) Rogers to the board. Her specific assignment is to represent the Senior Citizen Center and its members. Ms. Rogers is the director of Chelsea Continuing Education and has been deeply involved in the Chelsea Senior Citizens Center for several years.

New Pastor Serving North Sharon Church

North Sharon Baptist church is inviting the public to hear their new pastor, Bill Winingar, in four days of special services beginning Sunday, Aug. 7.

The meetings are scheduled for 10 and 11 Sunday morning as well as 7 Sunday evening. Monday through Wednesday services will begin at 7 p.m.

Pastor Bill Winingar served 9½ years in the United States Navy, during which time he served on the island of Sicily. He began preaching while still on the island of Sicily, and after being discharged from the Navy, enrolled at Hyles-Anderson College in Indiana, where he graduated with a B.S. degree in pastoral theology.

Benefactor Or Mistake?

Chelsea police reported that someone in a tan station wagon drove up to a McKinley St. residence, unloaded an aluminum extension ladder, put it on a ladder rack on the side of the house, and drove away.

However, the resident of the home told police he doesn't own the ladder and has no idea who unloaded it. He said the man drove away before he could get outside.

The resident also told police he wouldn't mind keeping the ladder if no one claims it.

Hot, Dry Weather Is Trouble for Turfgrass

If Michigan begins to get something resembling normal rainfall soon, the straw-colored grass in lawns around the state will probably recover.

"If we don't get some good rains in July and August, however, we are likely to lose significant amounts of grass this summer," says Paul Rieke, Extension turfgrass specialist at Michigan State University. "Turf loss will be much more severe if disease or insects such as chinchbugs or bluegrass billbugs also feed on the grass."

As Michigan homeowners know well by now, grass without water quits growing and gradually turns brown. This is a natural means of self-preservation, Rieke explains. When adequate rainfall resumes, the turf should begin to grow again.

What can homeowners do to save their lawns?

"To keep the grass alive—not to keep it green and lush, but merely to help the plants survive—homeowners need to water," Rieke says. "As little as a half-inch of water once every three weeks or so may keep the crown tissue—the part from which both the tops and the roots grow—and the underground rhizomes alive. This should enable the turf to survive."

Turfgrass experts aren't sure about the fate of parched lawns because such a severe drought so early in the season is unprecedented.

"We often see a short-term dry spell in July or August, but never like this in May and June," Rieke observes. "It's certainly the worst I've ever seen in my 25 years in Michigan. The combination of no rain, high temperatures, long days, low humidity and hot, dry wind makes for high water losses to evapotranspiration and conditions that are literally as dry as a desert."

Other than watering—if watering is possible; many communities have banned it—there's not much homeowners can do now except to plan what they'll do to help their lawns recover in the fall.

"Fall is the most important time of the year in lawn maintenance in many respects," Rieke says. "With adequate fertilizer and rain, the grass grows and spreads, filling in thin spots, thickening the lawn and making it harder for weeds to get a foothold."

Once the grass starts to grow again, areas where it died will be obvious. Small areas—the size of your hand or smaller—may fill in on their own. Larger areas will have to be either seeded or re-established by sodding.

The best time for seeding lawns is mid-August to mid-September, Rieke notes.

As grass begins to grow, so will weeds, making fall a good time for weed control efforts.

"Weeds must be actively growing for herbicides to give good weed control," Rieke points out. "There's no point in applying herbicides now on unwatered lawns, while both turf and weeds are under severe drought stress."

The weeds may be greener than the dry grass, but that's because many weeds have long taproots that reach advantage of water that grass can't reach. Except in irrigated lawns, the weeds are not growing actively and will not take up herbicides, so applying chemicals now would be a waste of time, effort and materials.

Getting the lawn in shape this fall may mean applying extra fertilizer in late August or early September, then again in late October. Rieke suggests using a combination of quick-release and slow-release nitrogen in the final fall fertilization. The nitrogen that's available immediately will be taken up and used for fall growth, which will strengthen the plants for next year. The slow-release nitrogen will be available for modest spring flush-up without the stress of a sudden spurt of growth caused by early spring fertilization.

It may be hard to think about next year's lawn when this year's grass looks like wheat stubble, but homeowners need to be planning for the future, Rieke emphasizes.

"It's essential to have a plan to get your turf healthy by Sept. 1," he says.

Those who have cancelled their lawn maintenance contracts for the summer need to consider renewing them for the crucial fall lawn recovery period, he suggests. Those who do their own lawn maintenance need to plan now to take advantage of the fall growth period to get their lawns in shape.

If they don't, the lawns will be thin and sparse next spring, and the open spaces will allow broadleaf weeds and crabgrass to get established. That can be the beginning of a decline in turf quality that can be hard to reverse.

THE ROYAL PAIR APPEARED after being selected during the King and Queen Contest, Tuesday evening, July 26, during the 1988 Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Show at the Saline Farm Council Grounds. ## Pavement Painting Is Big Summer Job

On a good day, the five-truck convoy drives at a steady 22 mile-per-hour clip and covers about 150 miles of state highway. The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) pavement marking crew carries 1,000 gallons of paint and four tons of tiny reflective glass beads as they head down the state's highways, stopping every 55 miles to fill up the immense tanks.

Painting center line stripes and pavement edging on Michigan's highways is a job that takes the entire summer. MDOT crews paint about 40 percent of the 9,550-mile state highway system. The department contracts out the work on the remaining highways, including special markings like crosswalks, railroad crossing bars and stop sign markings.

The work requires about 400,000 gallons of paint and 2.5 million pounds of glass beads which are applied to the paint to make it reflective.

The job costs about $5.2 million, 100 percent in state funds.

Paint used for highway striping is either a fast-dry variety which takes about one and one-half minutes to dry and lasts about one year, or polyester paint which is used in more heavily traveled areas, takes about 40 minutes to dry and lasts close to three years. Generally, bright orange construction cones are placed next to freshly-painted markings when polyester paint is used.

The length of time it takes the paint to dry is influenced by several factors, including humidity and air temperature.

"This time of year we like to remind motorists not to drive over any freshly painted areas because the paint is very hard to remove from vehicles," said Gerald Van Lew, MDOT supervisor of maintenance traffic services.

For two years, MDOT has participated in a co-operative paint testing program operated by the Pennsylvania Department of Transportation and financed by the Federal Highway Administration. Ten states participate in the regional effort.

The information gathered by PennDOT aids Michigan in making decisions about paint selection, durability and quality.

Village, Chelsea Milling Agree On Lease for New Parking Lot

Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority was scheduled to present a comprehensive parking program at last night's village council meeting.

The centerpiece of the program is the construction of a long-term lot on W. Middle St. behind the fire department. The land is owned by Chelsea Milling Co.

Chelsea Milling Co. President Howard Holmes has reportedly agreed to a 15-year lease arrangement with the village for $1 per year. In addition, the village would have to pay any taxes and other assessments against the property.

However, if the company decides it needs the land back for business purposes it could break the lease with 120 days notice.

Village Trustee Phil Boham, who has taken part in the negotiations, said it's not likely the land would be needed for business unless the company doubles or triples in size.

The long-term lot would have about 66 spaces and would be used primarily by people of courthouse business and employees of downtown businesses.

Most of the remaining parking downtown would become short-term parking.

Original plans called for the over-all creation of 110 spots. However, some of those places would have been on the west side of the railroad depot. That area, however, is apparently leased to Farmer's Supply and Longworth Plating and cannot be included in the plan.

Cost of the over-all parking plan was estimated at $72,500. Initially DDA will borrow $44,000 from the village's electric fund. Another $28,500 will come from the village's parking fund.

Village council recently approved a six-year extension of a two-mill special assessment on downtown property to help pay for the project.

KEVIN BLADES OF GRASS LAKE was owner of the 1988 Reserve Grand Champion goat, which he sold to Jonathan Hammer of Milan for $1.75 per pound during the Livestock Auction at the Washtenaw County 4-H Youth Show, Thursday, July 28, at the Farm Council Grounds, Saline. John Boullion of Dexter paid $2.50 per pound as the successful bidder on the Grand Champion goat, raised by Thomas McMurray of Chelsea.

Drought Gardening Tips May Help Plants Survive

The good news for home gardeners is that the drought is helping to control weeds, insects and diseases.

The bad news is that that's all the good news.

"There's not much to say about gardens except that if you don't water, you won't have one," says Lee Taylor, extension horticulture specialist at Michigan State University. "We're just not getting enough rain to germinate seeds and keep plants growing."

Critical times for vegetable gardens are just after sowing seed, at transplanting time and when plants are producing the fruits, tubers or seed pods that we harvest. Right now, for instance, potatoes are starting to set tubers and onions are forming bulbs. The next critical time for sweet corn will be during silking and pollination and ear formation. For tomatoes and other fruiting plants, it's during fruit formation. Insufficient water at these critical times will mean reduced yields.

Established landscape ornamentals often have extensive root systems that go deep into the soil, where water is still available. That explains why many trees and shrubs appear to be weathering the drought in fine shape, Taylor notes. Newly planted ornamentals, however, have very limited root systems and are extremely susceptible to drought stress. On hot, windy days, these shallow-rooted plants may wilt rather spectacularly because they lose more moisture from their leaves than their roots can replace.

Plants that wilt during the heat of the day but recover overnight are in better shape than plants that are still wilted the next morning, Taylor notes. He suggests observing plants both evening and morning to gauge their need for water.

"The obvious solution to the dry weather is irrigation," Taylor says. "The home gardener needs to combine it with weed control and mulching and apply water precisely through trickle irrigation rather than overhead sprinkling to make it efficient."

If you do use a sprinkler to irrigate, water on a cloudy day or early in the morning to reduce water losses to evaporation. Applying water directly into plant root zones through a trickle irrigation system is the ideal way to get maximum plant growth with minimal applications of water. For a makeshift trickle system, attach plastic gallon milk jugs to stakes placed next to individual plants—tomatoes, peppers, squash vines, etc.—and allow water to trickle from holes in the jugs into the soil at the bases of the plants.

Another strategy is to cut down on the size of your planting and take better care of fewer plants, Taylor suggests.

In the flower garden, established perennials may wilt and droop but should survive, though they may be less vigorous next year. Annual flowers tend to be shallow rooted and will need regular watering during hot, dry weather if they are to survive and grow. Those in shaded spots may need watering less often than those exposed to full sun, simply because they will lose less moisture from their leaves and the soil will retain moisture somewhat longer.

"In general, it's better to water your garden areas and landscape plants thoroughly and deeply once every 10 to 14 days than to sprinkle them lightly every day or two," Taylor advises. "A light sprinkling is likely to evaporate before it can do any good, whereas the water that penetrates deep into the soil will be available to plants for some time."

Dig down into the soil with a spade to check for soil moisture before you water, he suggests. If only the top half-inch or inch is dry, hold off watering all but newly seeded rows.

In his garden, Taylor is seeing more problems with rabbits this year because of the drought. "Because a vegetable garden or irrigated lawn is likely to contain the greenest, most succulent plants around, rabbits, deer and other wildlife will tend to feed there," he says. "Gardeners may find they need to put up more fencing than usual this year to keep the rabbits out. They may also have more trouble than usual with birds, which may use tomatoes and other juicy fruits as sources of water in dry times."

If you have landscape plants that need pruning, this might be a good time to do it, he suggests.
