ONE HUNDRED-EIGHTEENTH YEAR—No. 15

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1988

22 Pages This Week

A TEMPORARY CLASSROOM has been added to North Elementary school and this year is being used for music classes. The former music room is being used by a fourth grade class. A ramp to accommodate handicapped children, and make moving the piano easier, is scheduled to be installed this week. Principal Bill Wescott reports that for the most part things have gone smoothly with the new building, although there were a few glitches to deal with, such as no curtains. The building is being rented as the district anticipates the Chelsea Senior Citizen Center, located at North school, will eventually move to the new Faith In Action home, which should free up two more classrooms for the school.

RENE PAPO wants to develop land to the north and east of St. Paul United Church of Christ on Old US-12. He proposes an office center for area behind the church and apartment buildings for the rest. He has asked that the 52 acres be annexed into the village contingent on the area being re-zoned to allow the projects.

Papo Proposes 3 More Development Projects for Retail, Housing, Offices

Developer Rene Papo has apparently just begun.

Fresh from the start of Chelsea Shopping Center at M-52 and Old US-12, Papo has proposed three more significant projects for the village. He has submitted site plans for one and re-zoning requests for two.

Site plans have been submitted, for a retail complex called Chelsea Square between Polly's Market and Village Motors on M-52. His initial drawings show an 80' by 400' building with 32,000 square feet, about one-third the amount of space in Chelsea Shopping Center. Plans were presented to the planning commission last Tuesday, Aug. 30 but no action was taken.

However, there is a significant amount of wetland on the property and it's unknown whether the Department of Natural Resources would approve such a project if it destroys any of the wetland.

Papo has been unavailable to comment on what kind of businesses might locate in such a complex.

Papo has also requested to have 52 acres in Sylvan township annexed into the village contingent on the village re-zoning the parcel to allow an office center and rental housing complex.

The parcel is between Chelsea Community Hospital and St. Paul United Church of Christ off Old US-12.

Papo wants the eastern portion of the land to be re-zoned for a planned unit development for apartments. The western portion, closer to the hospital, would be re-zoned for offices.

Papo's annexation request was presented to the planning commission but no action was taken.

The village's general development plan has the area earmarked for moderate density single family homes.

"We feel that our proposed uses better suit the village since there is not an office area and there are no residential rental units of any considerable availability in Chelsea," Papo's letter to the village says.

"This annexation and the first proposed office building will increase the village's tax base by $1,500,000, with a future increase to exceed $10,000,000."

Papo indicated he would go ahead with the project no matter what the village does as long as he can get necessary approvals from Sylvan township.

Village Signs Landfill Agreement With DNR At Special Meeting

By Brian Hamilton

Village of Chelsea signed a landfill consent agreement with the Department of Natural Resources at a special council meeting held last Wednesday, Aug. 31.

The vote was unanimous, although it was evident no one was happy about signing the agreement.

Although the document was hammered out over the last several months by village attorneys and the DNR, there was some concern the DNR might not sign it due to a late-breaking development.

The agreement says the village will cap the old unlined portion of the landfill to certain specifications by the end of the year. However, the village's consulting engineering firm said the village will have trouble meeting that schedule due to the size of the job and the unpredictable weather of fall and winter. Consequently, council signed the document contingent on the DNR giving the village until May 30 to complete the capping. The landfill will require a one-foot clay cap on top of the existing cap.

Even if the DNR allows the date change, there is some question whether a new landfill license will be issued promptly, attorney Matt Zimmerman told the council.

According to Zimmerman, a tracer system to monitor possible groundwater pollutants from the new landfill cell has to be established before a permit will be issued.

Village consultants devised a dye system based on what has been approved by DNR on several occasions this year.

"It looked like our system was going to be approved as late as last week," said Gary Evans, the village's consulting engineer.

"We took great pains to find out what DNR has approved in the past. However, some calls this week have indicated there is some shift in thinking within the DNR. What has probably happened is one office hasn't talked to another up to this point."

That shift in thinking apparently involves using a tracer chemical rather than a dye. So the tracer system may have to be changed, which could delay the permit.

"The problem I have with the DNR is I don't trust them," Zimmerman said.

"They say go ahead and sign this consent document and don't worry about those details. But I worry about it. It could be a matter of days, weeks, or months before the details are worked out (and a new license is issued)."

The agreement is essentially the same document approved by council at a special meeting in June, with a few changes. The agreement maintains all the village's rights under the law, which has been the major snag over the last several weeks.

"I talked with the assistant attorney general and he said we would always have our variance rights," Zimmerman said.

If tests show that contamination exceeds standards "by a minimal amount," the village can apply for a variance from the Natural Resources Commission, which is separate from the DNR, Zimmerman said.

Some provisions of the consent order include the following:

- The village will have to perform soil, hydrogeological tests and provide a schedule for restoring any contaminated waters to background levels.
- The village will have to monitor the groundwater for pollutants for at least five years.
- Water will have to be provided at the village's expense for any resident whose water supply has been contaminated by the landfill.

• The village can't sell the landfill unless complete provisions are made for full compliance with the consent agreement.

Exactly who will pay for the testing, estimated at $75,000, and any subsequent clean-up, has not been determined. However, the village intends to ask Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships to contribute, probably on a pro-rated basis, as those townships and the village were the exclusive users of the old landfill, where most of the possible pollution is likely to be coming from.

Now's Your Chance To Question President

Chelsea Village President Jerry Satterthwaite has agreed to participate in what we hope will become a regular feature in The Standard.

Satterthwaite will answer your questions about the village in a new forum called, "Ask The President."

Simply drop a note or postcard with your question to The Chelsea Standard, 300 N. Main St., Chelsea, 48118, c/o Ask the President.

You don't have to be a village resident to ask a question, and you don't have to sign your name. However, each question should deal with a topic relevant to the village.

From the questions submitted, Standard editors will choose one on a regular basis and ask Satterthwaite to provide the answer. The editorial staff will also write the answer based on his response. If necessary, the staff will ask follow-up questions if we feel the president's response is incomplete or needs clarification.

We encourage Letters to the Editor on Satterthwaite's answers. However, those letters must be signed and show an address and telephone number for verification.

Manchester, Stockbridge Teachers Negotiating For Salary Increases

Manchester school teachers, compared to their colleagues in Dexter, Chelsea and Stockbridge, receive the lowest pay. Manchester teacher salaries rate near the bottom of those in Michigan, 314 on a scale of 661 Michigan districts, according to Bill Davison of the Washtenaw-Livingston Michigan Education Association.

Chelsea rates the highest of the four, ranking 116 in the state. Stockbridge's ranking is 147; Dexter's, 180.

Stockbridge and Manchester the two schools of the four currently enmeshed in heated teacher pay negotiations allot the most to administrative services: Manchester, 13.28 percent; Stockbridge, 13.22. Chelsea spends 10.21 percent; Dexter, 10.9.

Davison commented that he wasn't sure if there was any relation between the fact that the two schools with unresolved contract issues have the biggest administrative budgets, though he found it interesting.

MEA's figures are derived from data collected by the Michigan

Department of Education from the 1986-87 school year. "Each district fills out a Form-B, sends it to the state and we have access to it," Davison said.

Chelsea schools have the highest average annual salary of the four, $31,846. Stockbridge is second with $30,860; Dexter follows closely in third with $29,974; Manchester is a slightly distant fourth showing $26,723, according to the MEA.

"That's quite a significant range," Davison said. "There's a five thousand dollar difference between Chelsea and Manchester. Wouldn't you like to have an extra five (thousand) per year?"

The schools are the closest on operating expenditures per pupil, a figure arrived at by dividing the total budget by the number of students: Chelsea, $3,485; Dexter, $3,414; Manchester, $3,438; Stockbridge, $3,263.

But the schools differ again when it comes to instructional costs per pupil: Manchester spends the least, $1,767 per pupil; Stockbridge, the second

4 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, Sept. 5, 1984—

A small tornado touched down on the east shore of Four Mile Lake early Thursday morning, then struck again along Beach Rd. before dissolving. A twisted tree was left in the aftermath of the storm at the N. Lima Center Rd. home of Mike and Anita Spears.

Attendance was down somewhat from the record of 35,000 set last year, but it was still high enough to make the five-day Chelsea Community Fair a success. Fair officials blamed the low day-time turn-outs, in part, on the fact the Chelsea schools opened and were in session during fair week. Another factor was this summer's drought which held down agricultural exhibits and spectator interest in them.

Mary Grifka received the Fair Queen crown at the 1984 Chelsea Community Fair.

The Class of 1986 won first place in the Fair Parade with "A Chance for Heaven," an elaborately decorated float. A fountain of blue water flowed down stairs at the feet of queen candidate Laura Damm.

Thursday, Sept. 5, 1974—

This year's grand champion steer owned by Gary Thornton was entered in the Fair Auction. Fritz Schumm of Schumm's Restaurant purchased the 1,065-pound steer for $1.65 per pound.

Leading the way for the rest of the lengthy Chelsea Fair Parade was Mrs. Fred (Gerry) Klink, who acted as parade marshal. Like the rest of the women featured in the parade, Mrs. Klink received flowers and was hustled around in a fancy car to the afternoon's activities.

"Bridging the Years," Chelsea United Methodist Home's float entry, took first place for the fourth consecutive year in the adult division. It was ridden by Home king and queen the Rev. Scott Westerman and Ruth Woomer, and youth representatives Marcia Warren and Ellen Herst.

Four hard workers made the Chelsea Fair kitchen the liveliest restaurant in town for five days.

John and Bill Buppig Haist, Richard and Linda Haist.

The Haists topped all entrants and guaranteed the largest margin a year ago when he pulled 408 pounds on his John Deere tractor.

The Chelsea Community Fair was the grand champion of the fair, and it was sold to the highest bidder for more than $200,000. The auctioneer at the Fair was Dan Clark's.

M.E.T. Applications Divided

Among All Age Groups

The Michigan Education Trust, the state's guaranteed college tuition program, has received an actuarial boost when it was revealed that applications were widely spread among all age groups.

Accountants told the MET Board that the prices that were tentatively set in June will likely remain unchanged because of the distribution of applications.

A breakdown on the 82,495 MET applications received during Aug. 1-5 reveals that 37.1 percent of all applicants have not yet entered kindergarten, and 58.5 percent of the applicants are in grade 2 and below.

The highest age group of applicants was from children born in 1987, 7.9 percent, while only .3 percent of high school seniors applied. The percentage of applicants drops off with each grade following grade 1's 7.4 percent.

"By not having (MET) benefits drawn in any one year, it makes for an ideal world," treasurer and board chair Robert Bowman said. "Such a diversity of ages among MET applicants assures parents that the trust will be financially sound."

Bowman said the MET board would wait until it had completed a zip code analysis—expected to be completed Thursday—of applicants before finalizing its price structure.

The accounting firm of Coopers & Lybrand reported that 24 percent of University of Michigan students are from Oakland county, and if a high percentage of Oakland county residents sent in applications, it could force a change in the price structure previously announced ($1,689 per year for a newborn).

Bowman also plans to do an income tax analysis of the applicants, hoping to disprove the theory that the MET program only benefits the middle class. He said he will turn over the results of the income tax analysis to the Legislature.

Other major items that could affect actual results unfavorably would be if an excessively large portion of the fund is locked in when interest rates are rising rapidly, substantially decreased participation in future years, or if very few of the applicants actually participate in the program.

If every applicant participates in the program, the state will have $550 million to invest, assuming all purchase four years of guaranteed tuition at universities. Only 400 applicants, or 1/2 percent, indicated they will purchase contracts for community and junior colleges only.

The MET board also unanimously approved final contract language, which will allow Bowman to take the slightly-revised contract to the state Administrative Board for approval.

Youth Corps Workers Rate Program A Success

A Harris survey released recently showed that most former Michigan Youth Corps workers say they would participate in the program again and even prefer it to direct state aid for college.

Louis Harris, in releasing the findings, said his firm conducted extensive interviews with 1,000 participants early in the program and 718 following completion of the program in 1987.

The results indicate that though three out of four youths joined the Youth Corps to earn money, by the end of their work experience they valued self-improvement, teamwork, responsibility and completing a project above getting a paycheck.

Youth Corps members were asked to choose between their experience in the program, employment in state government or the private sector, or direct financial aid for college.

Fifty-eight percent chose the work experience, with only 17 percent saying they would rather have direct college aid.

Other survey results indicated that 94 percent of the participants gave the program an over-all positive rating, and 87 percent said it enhanced their personal maturity.

A second part of the study, interviews with 497 of the 1987 participants, conducted this summer, "confirms last year's Harris results: the Michigan Youth Corps is the finest job ever done in training young people anywhere, any place, any time," said Elizabeth Howe, director of the Department of Labor and the Youth Corps.

Drunk Man Tries To Steal Ham

An intoxicated man attempted to steal a package of ham from the Hop-In on Main St. on Aug. 21 at about 1 a.m., Chelsea police reported.

Police said the Chelsea man, who may face charges in the incident, took a bag of potato chips and a loaf of bread to the cash register but had the ham in his shirt. When the attendant asked him to remove the package, the man walked back to the cooler, but returned to the register with the meat still in his shirt. He was then approached by an off duty police officer who happened to be in the store.

Antique Cars Coming Through Area Enroute To Greenfield Village

High-wheeled bicycles, one- and two-cylinder cars and motorcycles built at least 75 years ago will attempt to travel 100 miles on Saturday, Sept. 10 in the Lansing to Dearborn Run.

The run will begin at the R. E. Olds Transportation Museum in Lansing and finish at the Henry Ford Museum in Dearborn where the entrants will attend the Old Car Festival.

Now in its sixth year, about 40 of the old vehicles are expected to chug and pedal through the backroads of Southeastern Michigan, visiting Mason, Stockbridge, Dexter, Ann Arbor and Plymouth. The drivers expect to complete the run while earning the cheers of the local people along the way and at the finish line in Greenfield Village.

Arthritis Support Group To Meet Monday

The arthritis education and support group will meet from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday, Sept. 12, in Suite 5008 of the Reichert Health Building at Catherine McAuley Health Center, Ann Arbor.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle came to the country store Saturday night with a clipping that he said called to mind a story his daughter told when she was in high school. A friend of hers went to one of the Africa countries on a 4-H exchange after spending some weeks studying the language. When he got to the village where he was to stay the chief and his teenage daughter was waiting. The chief greeted his guest and, wanting to fit in, the boy replied in the chief's language.

When the boy spoke, the chief glared at him, turned with his girl and walked away. Later, the boy learned that instead of saying "your daughter is lovely" he had said "put the pig back in the pen." A heap of this world's problems, Ed said, come from not being able to put thoughts into words.

What brung the 4-H boy to mind, Ed said, was a piece in the paper about a feller that works as an interpreter. The item said the feller's hobby was collecting unusual translations, and it mentioned a few. One of em was a Italian doctor's sign that said "specialist in women and other diseases." Another from a travel pamphlet in Switzerland said "take one of our horse-drawn city tour. We guarantee no miscarriages."

The feller was full agreed on the need for clear communication. Bug Hookum said the last time he paid his power bill he went to the counter and ask for a clerk. The feller said they didn't have clerks any more, but that he would call one of his accounting technicians. And Bug said he had saw where secretaries now are calling themselves administrative coordinators. It ain't no wonder, Bug said, that words like "waitperson" fer waiter and "keyperson" fer kingpin are catching on in this country like the metric system.

The plain fact is, Zeke Grubb allowed, that we have enough trouble with the words we got. Fer instant, we tell ourselves we elect our President and Vice President. Actual, the President picks the Vice President and the Electoral College picks the President. We live in a time when the sum of man's knowledge can be stored in one plastic cane no bigger than a corncob, and we're still filling the most powerful office on earth the same way we were 200 year ago because we say counting all our votes would take too long.

This is so, Zeke went on, because we keep fooling ourselves into thinking old fashioned politics. A candidate might buy a minute of television so he can be seen all over America at the same time, but he'll be making the same promises candidates made on the courthouse steps in front of 25 people 100 year ago.

We allus want to be told things the way we want them to be, not the way they are, Zeke said. We see a well dressed woman wearing a girdle, that's a figger. We ain't interested in the unpleasant fact she might be without the girdle, was Zeke's words. Personal, I'm strong fer clear language. I recall the Episcopal church in St. Louis years ago that sent plans for a education building to be reviewed by the bishop's office. The plans came back with some Latin wrote across em. After the building was half up, somebody translated the Latin to mean "are they angels?" and then somebody noticed they had fer-got to put bathrooms in the building.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

ABWA Members Plan Joint Meeting With Area Chapters

The Aug. 30 meeting of the Chelsea Chapter of the ABWA was an informal picnic at the Sugar Loaf Lake home of Esther Kujawa. Plans for our Sept. 20 joint meeting with approximately 10 other ABWA chapters from Ann Arbor, Jackson and other neighboring communities which the Chelsea Chapter is sponsoring were finalized at this meeting. It is expected that between 200 to 250 local business women will join the Chelsea group at the Chelsea Fairgrounds for dinner at 7 p.m. in the Community Building. Papo Projects

The third project involves a single-family housing development off Gene Dr. with business associate Harold Allen. Papo and Allen have asked that 13 acres of agricultural land be rezoned to allow medium density single-family homes.

The re-zoning petition was presented to the planning commission but was deferred for 30 days as there are concerns whether the village can provide services and roads.

In a related matter, former village resident Curt Farley, now a resident of Richmond, Ky., has proposed an 18-home project in the general vicinity of the Papo/Allen project.

However, the Farley property is already zoned for residential use.

Entitled "Silver Celebration," the annual event consisted of four consecutive three-day seminars that focused on building consultants' professional sales techniques, marketing and product knowledge.

Teachers Negotiating

least, $1,847; Dexter, $1,980; Chelsea, $2,038.

Information supplied by the school districts themselves seems to paint a slightly different picture, though one has to bear in mind that all figures presented are averages, meaning actual salaries may be higher or lower, as Davison stressed. Salaries quoted herein are in exact also because some schools have 1987-88 averages available, while others cite estimates for the current year.

Chelsea schools report that starting teachers with a BA get $18,463; MA, $20,017; PhD, $20,942. After "10 steps," which are roughly equivalent to 10 years, a BA gets $32,865; MA, $37,484; PhD, $40,805.

Dexter schools use an "eight step" system in which the number of college credits earned beyond the BA or MA level also play a role. A beginning teacher with a BA makes $23,433; after "eight steps," up to $33,268. An MA gets $25,913-$37,730; MA, plus 20 credits, $27,364-$39,699; PHD, $30,136-$44,204.

Stockbridge schools report a BA starting salary of $18,238, with a $400 raise after five years. BA with a permanent or continuing certificate (versus a provisional one which must be renewed every three years), $18,962-$30,835. MA earnings range from $19,202-$33,929.

Manchester schools list $17,204-$31,158 as the BA salary range; MA, $18,160-$35,190.

The American Federation of Teachers recently published that the average 1987-88 Michigan teacher salary was $34,050, which puts the state fourth in the country, behind only Alaska, Washington D.C. and New York.

The bottom two districts in the state, according to the AFT, are Alba and Rapid River; in the country, Arkansas and South Dakota.

Computing teacher salary averages is not an exact science.

"We don't agree with them (the AFT). We say the average annual teacher salary in Michigan is $32,826 for 1987-88," Davison said. "They're sort of our (the MEA's) competition. We get our information from the state and they don't even say where they get theirs from."

Hearing Set On Chelsea Drain Districts

A public hearing has been set for Monday, Sept. 26 on whether or not the county should establish two drainage districts in Chelsea.

A board of determination, put together by Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner Delores Sigal, will make the decisions at the 6:30 p.m. meeting.

One drain would run east from M-52 and drain into Pierce Lake, taking storm water from Polly's Market and the proposed Village Mall.

The second drain would run west from M-52 and carry stormwater from Chelsea Shopping center and other land west.

According to Sigal, if the board approves either of the drains, affected landowners have 10 days to file an appeal in circuit court.

The board of determination consists of county landowners outside of Chelsea and Sylvan township.

NOTES

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"As a general rule, a man is just about as big as the things that make him mad..."

True enough, we sometimes become angered over small matters... trivialities, which might be best ignored entirely.

The fact that one is occasionally angered by small matters is not the big consideration; the speed and pace of the times has added a bit of volatility to most tempers, it would seem. It is when small matters rather consistently cause anger that we must step back a pace and take stock of just what our stature must be in light of our actions.

Our counsel and advice to the bereaved we serve is available throughout the period of adjustment, which only starts with a beautiful funeral service.

Lottery Funding of Education Helps, Local Support Needed

By Michael J. Carr, Commissioner
Bureau of State Lottery

I don't know how many times I've been asked, "Where is all that lottery money going?" or, "Why should I vote for a local millage issue when my taxes are already too high and the lottery was supposed to reduce them?" Furthermore, because lottery funding for education is so frequently misunderstood and difficult to explain, local school boards have an even tougher job convincing voters to support millage proposals.

Several things contribute to misconceptions about lottery support to schools, especially the fact that a lot of people just don't realize how much it costs to educate our young people. According to Department of Education figures, the total cost of educating the 1.6 million children currently attending public school in Michigan is a whopping $6.7 billion. That's billion dollars, not million.

Secondly, I suspect many assume the state provides the lion's share of funding for schools. This is simply not the case. More than half of this revenue must come from local taxpayers—in spite of the fact that the largest share (34%) of the total state operating budget goes for education.

The State of Michigan's contribution to education is primarily in the form of revenue from the School Aid Fund, and that's where the lottery comes into the picture. Since 1981, all net lottery revenues have been specifically earmarked for inclusion in that fund to help support kindergarten-12th grade public education. Lottery money amounts to about 16% of revenue in the School Aid Fund annually, or $407 million last year. The rest comes from a variety of other sources including the state's General Fund.

The School Aid Fund is then distributed by the Department of Education according to terms of the state School Aid Formula, established each year by our elected representatives in the Michigan Legislature.

The School Aid Formula is the method used to determine which school districts are eligible for state aid (in-formula), and those which are not eligible for state aid (out-of-formula) because local taxpayer support is adequate to provide quality education with minimal state assistance. So, school districts with a poorer local tax base receive more state aid than those in which there are adequate local resources.

Nevertheless, lottery support of education has indirectly saved taxpayers money because the state no longer has to pull a comparable amount out of the state's General Fund—made up primarily of money collected from taxpayers—to fulfill its role in supporting education. (During just the last two years, lottery funding was the equivalent of about $250 per Michigan household.)

It's also important to note that both lottery contributions and General Fund money for education have increased over the past few years.

Maybe all the confusion began back in 1972 when the lottery was first begun. I'm sure many who voted on the referendum which permitted its establishment wanted to believe it would be a cure-all for educational funding woes. It's even possible that some proponents contributed to this misconception. But, the fact remains that the lottery is not a panacea.

My intent here is not to downplay the role of the Michigan Lottery. It has, and will continue to be, very important in helping provide needed revenue for our schools. But, the lottery's contribution can never be anywhere near large enough to carry that burden alone.

As citizens who understand that our hope for the future rests with the children of today, we must support our local school boards and approve millage proposals when needed.

Teen Court Established To Hear Juvenile Cases

A new court has been established in Washtenaw county. Entitled Teen Court, it is a newly initiated program co-ordinated by the Washtenaw County Juvenile Court.

In the Teen Court a jury of 11th and 12th grade students from local secondary schools hears juvenile proceedings and returns advisory verdicts concerning the disposition of pending cases. Defendants in those cases will be juveniles accused of traffic infractions or other minor offenses such as shoplifting or curfew violations. The accused juvenile (and his or her parents) must consent to participate in the Teen Court and must also admit responsibility for the offense of which he or she has been accused.

Teen Court will be held at the Washtenaw County Juvenile Court monthly on a rotating basis of participation by the high schools. Washtenaw County Juvenile Judge Judith James Wood, views the program as "an innovative idea that will bring the students, the Court, and schools into closer communication. It is my experience that jury duty is an interesting and stimulating experience for the students and that their verdicts are perceptive and fair. The Teen Court also provides them with a hands-on overview of our court and the juvenile justice system."

"I have also found that the defendants have responded positively to being judged by a jury of their actual peers. The Teen Court experience seems to benefit all involved—the offender, his or her parents, the court, the schools and the student jurors."

Teen Court is next scheduled to be held at the Juvenile Court facilities at 2270 Platt Rd., Ann Arbor, on Oct. 7.

CHS Yearbook Staff Headed by Carol Hanke

With the start of a new school year, there comes a new Chelsea High School Yearbook staff. Although summer vacation is a time to be away from school, the adviser and editor of the yearbook have been making preparations. The yearbook adviser, Phil Jones, has chosen Carol Hanke to be editor of the 1989 Yearbook.

Hanke, daughter of Jay and Kathy Hanke, is a junior at CHS. Hanke attended a journalism workshop this summer at Ball State University studying copy writing, design, and theme development. Hanke is also a varsity football cheerleader, Key Club secretary, and varsity baseball manager. Hanke is employed at Murphy Pharmacal. Hanke was a member of 1988 Chelsea Community Fair Queen Jennifer McAfee's court.

Hanke will have the responsibility of breaking in two new Macintosh computers and a LaserWriter printer. This new desktop publishing equipment will make the preparation of the book much simpler and more professional. The first order of business for Hanke was a Monday, Sept. 6 meeting to recruit new members. After Hanke and adviser Jones have chosen the staff, the staff members will be selling $6,000 worth of advertisements to the community. This is the best way for the community to support the $13,000 CHS Yearbook.

Last year's 1988 Yearbook will be distributed Wednesday, Sept. 7.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

Being a college freshman, I was eager to see something in my mailbox. When I opened it up and realized it was The Standard. I was excited to read about back home. I didn't even get past the first page without being upset. No, not homesick, furious.

I don't know all of the facts (it is kind of hard being 1,200 miles away), but tell me why three new teachers were hired when two were laid-off, even though one was reinstated?

Back in the spring of 1988, I spoke in front of the Board of Education on behalf of Mrs. Alice Leith. I was relieved to hear that she was still going to be in the Chelsea School District, but I do believe that her talents and expertise were an important part of the C.H.S. English department.

I guess the hiring of Ms. Marion Krutty is understandable.

But as I looked through the paper, I couldn't help notice that our "new" math teacher is also an assistant football coach. I know there were openings on the football staff, and I am not putting it down either, but I just wonder could it be just coincidence that the new math teacher just so happens to coach football? It is just a question I have pondered.

Another thing I don't understand is why a new position was opened. The School Board made a comment about the attendance in the school system is declining. So why make a new position? Add another class? I would also like to know where are they going to hold class?

I just hope that the community will get involved about the education their children are getting. I am delighted with college, even though it is hard. But with the help of a few teachers I know that I am ready for it. It is not C.H.S. as a whole, but the QUALITY of these teachers that have prepared me for my future.

Kelly Stump,
Florida State Student.

To the Editor:

I am writing to express my extreme disappointment in the organizers of the Chelsea demolition derby at the community fair.

I recently moved to Chelsea from Ann Arbor and have enjoyed coming to the derby over the years. This year some friends and I decided to participate in the derby (which we have always wanted to do) because of our interest in building cars. We decided to paint and detail our car so we could also enter it in the "best appearing car" contest at the beginning of Tuesday night's show.

After the judging was over, I was told that we had won "best appearing car." I told my friends and we excitedly went to claim our trophy.

Upon arriving at the concession trailer, our excitement faded—there was no trophy for best appearing car. We were told "there are hardly enough trophies to give out to the heat winners, so we decided to give you guys a check instead. That way you can go out and buy your own trophy." On top of that no one even took the time to announce the winning car over the loudspeaker.

We were not expecting to win a lot of money or a 10-ft. trophy, but a little appreciation would have been nice. I hope the organizers of the demolition derby realize that without the participants they would have no spectators, and in turn, no derby.

Joe McGrath, Chelsea.

The first states to pass equal pay legislation for women were Michigan and Montana in 1919, according to the U. S. Labor Department.

Dear Editor:

Could you somehow relay for me a message to the 1988 Chelsea Community Fair Board, and the entire community of Chelsea, thanking them for such an excellent Fair this year? I would like to commend everyone who was involved in making this Fair so enjoyable, and so family-oriented.

My four-year-old son and I visited the Fair several times this past week and I noticed several positive aspects which, in my history of going to a local Fair each year since I was 8 or 9, I have not seen for some time. In general, we noticed a friendly atmosphere, from the excellent rides and activities for young children, to the generosity shown by the parade participants, to the cheerful gate attendants. There was a variety in the kinds of animals and exhibits on display, the food available (which was clean and priced well for a fair), and in the parade, with nearby areas contributing as much as Chelsea itself. We enjoyed the horse shows, tractor pulls, and even the demolition derby. The good planning and proper preparation were evident to me; if there was any last-minute rushing, I didn't see it. I also noticed a lack of trash drifts around the animal barns, and on the windy days we were there that is where it should have landed; the groundskeeping was thorough.

Over-all, we enjoyed this Fair more than any Fair I can remember, especially because most of the people were so friendly, and the atmosphere was so open to families with young children. You have some valuable qualities in your community. Again, please thank the Chelsea Community and Fair organizers for an excellent 1988 Chelsea Community Fair.

Mrs. K. Pappas
Ann Arbor.

New Vaccine Recommended For Infants

The Public Health Division of the Washtenaw County Human Services Department has received the new Haemophilus influenza type b vaccine from the Michigan Department of Public Health, and will be offering it after Aug. 19. The old vaccine is no longer available.

The development of the new vaccine is important for several reasons. Children under two years of age, the group most at risk for disease, can now be immunized. The vaccine previously used for Haemophilus influenza was not capable of producing effective one dose protection in children younger than 24 months of age (when given at 18 months a booster was needed at or after 24 months). A booster vaccination is no longer necessary with the new Hib vaccine.

It has been recommended that all children between 18-23 months of age be immunized with the Haemophilus influenza type b vaccine.

Haemophilus influenza type b, also referred to as "H flu" or "Hib," is a bacterial infection that primarily affects children under the age of five. Although "influenza" is a part of the bacterium's name the organism does not cause the "flu." The most frequent outcome of a child who has been infected with the Hib bacterium is meningitis. In the United States it causes approximately 12,000 cases of meningitis each year. Meningitis is an inflammation of the membranes that cover and protect the brain and spinal cord. Hib meningitis, which can be fatal (1 in every 20 cases), is also the primary cause of acquired mental retardation (1 in every 4 cases) in children. The Hib bacterium can also cause other diseases including pneumonia and infections of the ear, joints, blood, and the covering of the heart (pericarditis). This disease can be prevented through the immunization.

The Public Health Division holds free immunization clinics three times per month: the first Wednesday of the month at Public Health, Service Center, 4101 Washtenaw, Ann Arbor (1:30-7:30 p.m.); the second Wednesday of the month, Eastern Subcenter, 555 Towner, Ypsilanti (1:30-4:30 p.m.); and the fourth Wednesday, Department of Social Services, 2350 W. Stadium, Ann Arbor (1:30-4:30 p.m.).

No appointment is necessary. For more information call the Public Health Division at 971-3393.

Grant Will Help Special Ed

Chelsea schools will be able to improve their special education program this year as a result of receiving $20,000 in funds from a $100,000 innovative grant provided by the county for the intermediate school district, said Henry DeYoung, director of Chelsea schools special education.

Chelsea's program for the emotionally impaired, which services about 30 pre-school, elementary and middle school children from Manchester, Dexter and Whitmore Lake, as well as Chelsea, will benefit as a result of the funds.

DeYoung feels that the funds will allow the staff psychologists and social worker to provide better services by increasing the amount of time they will have to spend with the children, parents and teachers involved.

The funds come from a millage passed in Washtenaw county two years ago. "The intermediate school district promised to spend $100,000 innovatively on special education. We got $20,000 of that $100,000 after writing a grant proposal last spring so I'm pretty happy," DeYoung said.

Marla Rubenstein, the elementary school psychologist who was working part time, will work another full day. Susan West, the middle school social worker, and Nancy Smith, the pre-school psychologist, will both have some contracted-out help to alleviate them of some of their more routine work, such as diagnostic testing. The contractees will come from psychologist and social worker temporary agencies in Southfield and Ann Arbor. West and Smith will then be free to spend more time with parents, especially, De Young said.

"We want to offer expanded services to parents because problems of the emotionally impaired aren't just limited to school time. They also have problems at home and just in life in general."

All three staff members will offer some evening office hours for working parents who were previously unable to make contact with the school psychologists. "We want to create a school-home link. We may also be going to people's homes," he added.

DeYoung hopes that with the grant money Chelsea's program can offer services more on the line of Ann Arbor's day treatment program held at Lakewood which services 100 county-area children, including about five from Chelsea.

"One of our goals is to be able to keep more of the kids here in Chelsea instead of sending them out to Ann Arbor."

About 200 children, or 10 percent of the total number of children enrolled in Chelsea schools, are in a special education class comprised of 11 different categories, including learning disabled and speech and language. Most of them also attend some regular classes.

"The old idea of special education being a group outside the regular classes is long gone. The goal now is to reduce the amount of time kids spend in special education and with this grant I think we'll be better able to do that."

Manchester Teachers Are Without Contract

Manchester teachers—working without a contract since the current one expired Aug. 31—will meet today for the third time with state mediators, said Dick Gray of the Washtenaw-Livingston county Michigan Education Association.

Gray said he didn't know if the teachers are planning to strike, but conceded that "there's always a potential to strike when they have an unsettled contract."

Issues at the heart of the contract negotiations are teacher pay and whether teachers or the district should be responsible for cost increases in health insurance premiums.

At the last talks on Wednesday, the teachers elected to work on a day-to-day basis without a contract, rejecting the board's offer to extend the contract. "They didn't want to lock themselves into a 30- or 60-day extension," Gray said.

"Manchester teachers' salaries compare very poorly to the county average," Gray added. The teachers are asking for a 9 percent increase. The board has offered a contract with a 4 percent raise the first year, 4 1/2 percent the second year and 5 percent the third year.

According to Manchester schools superintendent Ronald Niedzwiecki, health insurance premiums have risen 52 percent over the past two years. Projected to rise 31 to 32 percent this year, they are expected to cost the district a total of $220,700 for its 60 teachers. That's an $54,345 increase over last year, Niedzwiecki said. Manchester schools' 1988-89 operating budget is $4,430,717.

Motivational Course Begins Tuesday

"Because I Care," the non-credit motivational course offered by Chelsea High school math teacher Ken Sullins, will begin its sixth year on Tuesday, Sept. 13 at 7:22 a.m. in room 402.

Any high school student is welcome to attend the weekly sessions.

The idea of the class is for students to learn and understand what success is all about, and how to go about achieving goals.

Sullins said that if enough people attend the classes on a regular basis, he has speaking commitments from University of Michigan and Michigan State University assistant football coaches.

The course will run for nine weeks.

Bulldogs Win Opener In Thriller at Mason, Face Saline on Friday

By Brian Hamilton

Chelsea defense stopped the Mason Bulldogs within a foot of the goal line as time expired to preserve a 12-8 win at Mason last Friday evening in the opening varsity game of the season.

Mason began the final drive of the game with 3:39 left in good shape as substitute punter Larry Nix, kicking into a stiff wind, shanked a punt 16 yards, giving Mason the ball at their own 41-yard-line.

Mason's quick running back Kevin Barber, who gained 173 yards on the night, took the ball on all but two plays in the final drive. He gained 18 yards running around the left end on a fourth and two situation with just over a minute to play. With 1:05 remaining, Barber ran 10 yards for a first down at the Chelsea seven.

However, Mason was out of time outs and there was no time to call a play from the bench. The quarterback ran up the middle on the final play and met Tim VanSchoick, Chris Birtles and Jason Overdorf.

"I think if he had pitched back to Barber, he would have walked into the end zone," said Chelsea assistant coach Wayne Welton.

"But give our kids credit. They stopped a good team."

Unlike the last couple of years, Chelsea played error free in the opener while forcing two big Mason turnovers, which both turned into Chelsea scores.

Down 8-0 late in the first half, linebacker Jeff Prentice broke through the line to block a Mason punt, with less than a minute to go. After a Mason interference penalty gave Chelsea the ball at the one yard line, Jason Overdorf powered through for the first Bulldog score with :16 left.

Then, late in the third quarter, after Chelsea turned the ball over on downs at the Mason 19, tight end David Zerkel recovered a fumble at the Mason 21.

Nix passed six yards to Kerry Plank to give Chelsea a first down at the Mason 10. A face mask penalty followed by an interference call put the ball at the two before Jude Quilter ran the ball in for the score with 1:24 remaining.

Although Mason outgained Chelsea 248-153, Chelsea defense made the big play when it had to.

Quilter broke up a long fourth down pass in Mason's opening drive. Early in the second half, tackle Mike Taylor's sack put Mason in a fourth and 20 situation. Another sack by Taylor put Mason in a third and long situation late in the third period, and eventually the Bulldogs punted the ball away. And in the fourth quarter, Chelsea stopped the home team on a fourth and two play at the Chelsea 35.

But perhaps the biggest story of the defense is they didn't give up the long play, which they were prone to do last year.

Chelsea also moved the ball well, even though senior running back and punter Junior Morseau was bounced from the game in the first half on a personal foul penalty.

"Losing Junior made a big difference," Welton said.

"I thought we would throw to him in key situations, and he would have tried a field goal as well. Our strategy changed quite a bit in terms of how open we'd play."

Welton praised the play of Nix, who was 8-17 for 65 yards but had at least four passes dropped, including one up the middle which was almost a certain score.

"He could easily have been 12 for 17

ALTHOUGH THE MASON DEFENDER appears to have made the interception, Chelsea's Jeff Marshall managed to get his hands on the ball as the two fell to the ground. The catch was awarded to the offense.

with well over 100 yards," Welton said.

"Larry has come a long way. A year ago he would have put the ball up for grabs in a couple of situations."

Quilter gained the bulk of Chelsea's rushing yardage, 71 yards on 15 carries and showed somewhat surprising ability to take the big hit. With Morseau out, Overdorf took over the power rushing duties. The game plan had him penciled in as a blocking back.

"The offensive line played a solid game," Welton said.

"They pass protected very well, especially when we went straight back."

Kerry Plank caught three passes for 34 yards to lead the team.

Saline Hornets, another quick and powerful team, comes to Niehaus Field this Friday at 7:30. The Hornets are fresh off an 8-6 win over Dearborn Robichaud, a pre-season ranked team.

"Saline has two fine tailbacks, two big tackles and a big fullback," Welton said.

"Jeff Poore and Brian Bozo can score anytime they get the ball. Saline will be as physical as Mason but more skilled. As always they'll be well-coached."

The last time Saline came to town the Bulldogs took a double over-time win in one of the most thrilling games ever at Niehaus Field.

MAKING THE SACK of the Mason quarterback is night's season opener. Taylor and the rest of the defense Chelsea defensive tackle Mike Taylor during last Friday came through in the clutch to give the Bulldogs a 12-8 win.

Girl Cagers Open With a Win

Strong man-to-man defense in the second half gave the Chelsea Bulldog varsity girls basketball team a 40-33 victory over Adrian in their opening game of the season last Thursday in Adrian.

"Adrian took the lead early in the third quarter and we switched from a zone to a man-to-man which seemed to make the difference," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter.

"Kelly Scott didn't score any points but she was extremely aggressive and controlled the defense. But the game shouldn't have been as close as it was. We only made 16 of 31 free throws, and Adrian had only seven free throws the entire game."

The Bulldogs outscored the Maples 24-15 over the final 12 minutes, partly due to aggressive defense which forced Adrian into 15 turnovers for the game and five bad passes in the fourth quarter.

Rosentreter called the play of senior Jenni Smith the "real bright spot." Smith shot 50 percent from the field as she scored 10 points, and played an aggressive inside game.

Senior Heather Neibauer, the team's leading scorer last year, paced the Bulldogs with 17 points on three field goals and 11-17 shooting from the line.

Sophomore Carrie Flintoft and junior Allison Brown scored five each, and junior Scharme Petty had three points.

"Whatever Carrie gives us is a real bonus at this point because she's going to take a while to learn the system," Rosentreter said.

Chelsea shot 12-32 from the field and was out-rebounded 18-15 as the Maples had a big, physical team.

Chelsea JV Cagers Open With Victory

Paul Terpstra's junior varsity girls basketball team edged Adrian 44-39 in the first game of the season last Thursday in Adrian. "It was a pretty good first game for us," Terpstra said.

"We were able to steal the ball on the press and get a lot of uncontested lay-ups. One of the keys was that Adrian hit a couple of shots early from 18 to 20 feet and kept on shooting from the outside but didn't make as many." Improved free throw shooting in the second half also contributed to the win. Colleen Scharphorn, who finished with 15 points, was 7-8 at the line in the fourth quarter.

Shawn Losey paced the Bulldogs with 17 points and eight steals as she played 31 of 32 minutes in an extremely hot gymnasium.

"She has shown a lot of improvement over last year," Terpstra said. Mercedes Hammer added 10 points and Kate Dilworth scored two.

Chelsea made 18 of 44 tries from the field and 8 of 19 from the line. Losey and Scharphorn each had six rebounds.

Tennis Team Beats Howell

Chelsea Bulldog varsity tennis team lost its opener to Saline, 0-7, on Wednesday, Aug. 31.

"We were very intimidated by the strength of their team and the fact that we played them first," said Chelsea coach Terry Curtis.

"We played very tentative tennis and could have played much better." Freshman Amy Mitchell had one of the best outings for Chelsea, Curtis said, as she was beaten by a junior in three sets.

Chelsea rebounded to defeat Howell on Thursday, Sept. 1, 4-3.

Two matches went three sets and two others were settled by tiebreakers.

"We have a better team than I thought we would this year as we lost seven out of 10 of our varsity team and had to replace some with newcomers to the sport," Curtis said.

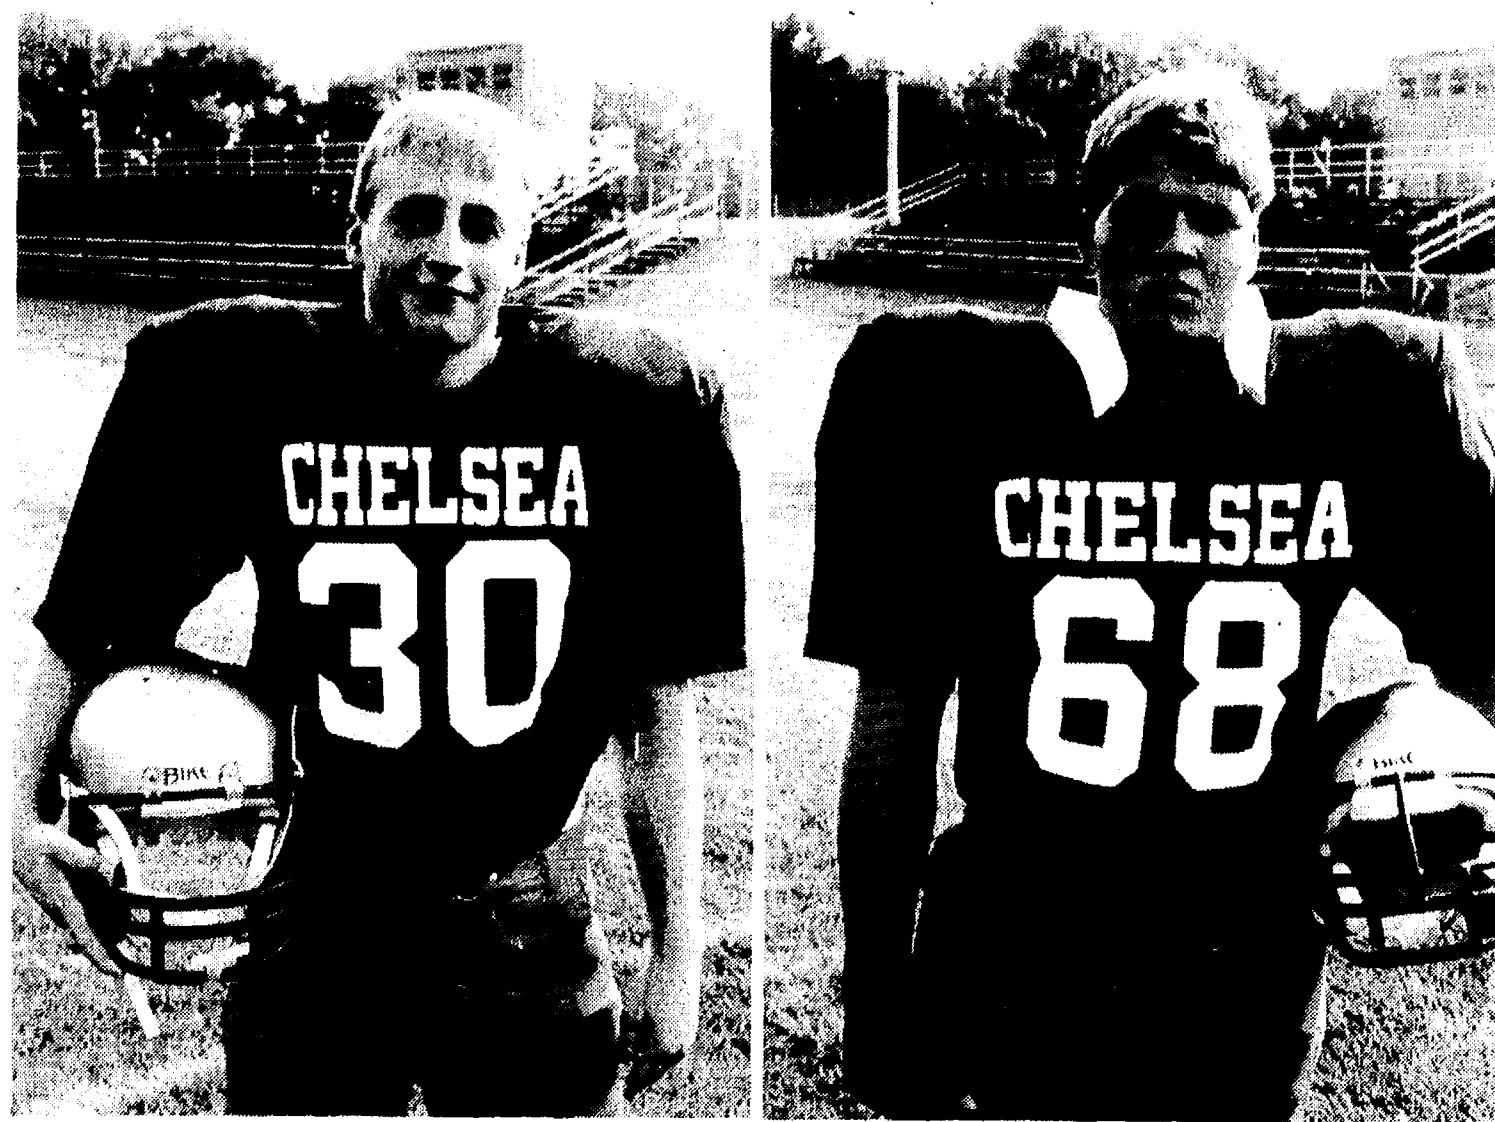

Angel Lawton, playing first singles, defeated Jill Sparrow 6-3, 7-6. Nicole Ponty defeated Chelsea's Karina Colombo, 6-4, 6-3. Mitchell lost to Erin Nagle, 6-1, 6-1, and Lissa Hamrick went down to Nadine McLearnson, 6-1, 6-3.

In doubles, Laura Comeau and Jennifer Robinson of Chelsea beat Christine Anscombe and Lynn Charette, 7-6, 6-4. Bulldogs Leslie Manning and Jane Pacheco defeated Rebecca Andrews and Tiffany Wakeman, 6-0, 4-6, 6-3. Sara Musolf and Sarah Gegenheimer won a three-setter over Aurora Toomey and Heather Jeffery, 5-7, 6-1, 6-1.

"The girls made a nice comeback after our defeat by Saline the night before," Curtis said.

"The tension was gone and the girls relaxed a little."

The first eight-hour law for state and municipal workers was passed in New York in 1870, according to the U. S. Labor Department.

ATHLETES OF THE WEEK are Chelsea High school seniors Jason Overdorf, left, and Mike Taylor. Jason is the son of Rand and Merridene Overdorf, 13620 Riker Rd. and brother of Susan. He plays inside linebacker and running back for the Bulldogs this season and is in his second year on the varsity. He scored the first touchdown of the season last week. Jason, an honor student, is active in forensics at CHS. In his spare time, he likes to lift weights, read, and participate in sports. Mike is the son of Donna and Lon Taylor, 17110 Boyce Rd., and brother of Danielle, 14. He is a starting defensive tackle and is being counted on as one of the big play people for the Dogs. Mike is also one of Chelsea's top wrestlers and last summer participated in a wrestling tour of Japan.

JEFF PRENTICE (70) leaps high to block a punt. The Bulldogs went on to win the game as they halted a which led to Chelsea's first score at Mason last Friday. Mason drive at the goal line in the final seconds.

Heart-healthy eating is a piece of cake.

Or pie. Or many of your other favorite foods. Because heart-healthy eating doesn't mean giving up the things you love. It simply means reducing the fat and cholesterol with a few creative substitutions and minor adjustments to recipes. If that sounds good, come to your grocery store during the American Heart Association's Food Festival September 11 to 17, and we'll give you plenty of appetizing tidbits about heart-healthy shopping and eating. And the fact that heart-smart cooking is usually lower in calories? Well, that's like icing on the you-know-what.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

If Chelsea running back Junior Morseau can manage to get himself thrown out of seven or eight more games this year, it looks like the Bulldogs will have a pretty good chance of going undefeated.

Just kidding, Junior.

I'm not sure anyone except Junior knows what happened last Friday night, but the durable senior found himself on the bench for most of the game as his team went on to beat a pretty good Mason Bulldog team, 12-8. A double personal foul was called and a player for Mason was ejected as well. I have a hunch, though, there was a quick whistle involved considering some of the stuff I've seen go on in games when no one was thrown out. It was the first game for the officials as well, and they were probably a little jumpy.

It was under a strange set of circumstances, too. Morseau had just launched a punt about 52 yards and out of bounds, about as fine a punt as you'll see in high school football.

After the incident, which head coach Gene LaFave apparently did not see, either, LaFave told the official, "I sure wouldn't trade my number 22 (Morseau) for their number 75 (ejected Mason player)."

With Morseau gone, Chelsea coaches were forced to alter their game plan, at least a little. Morseau is, in a way, a shorter version of Mark Mull, who played here a few years ago. He can catch, block, and run around and through defenders.

But the Bulldogs found to their delight that they can move the ball fairly well even with Morseau on the bench. And that has to make everyone feel a little better since the offense was billed as the big question mark this year.

Sophomore Jude Quilter had a fine game and scored what will be the first of many touchdowns in his career. His TD in the second half gave the Bulldogs the lead.

Newcomer Andy Dehring ran the ball a few times. When he and Quilter are in the backfield together the Bulldogs have more speed than they've had in many years. And Jason Overdorf showed his power. The senior scored Chelsea's first touchdown.

Senior quarterback Larry Nix was right on target most of the night. Several easy catches were dropped, some probably due to opening night jitters. By the time the season is over, Nix is going to be one of the best QBs in the area. He looks smooth, confident, and a far cry from the beginning of last season.

What won the game, though, was Chelsea's defense. The line came through and stopped Mason at the one foot line as time ran out. It was a pressure-packed situation, on the road, and the defense could easily have broken down. That kind of play can give a team a lot of momentum and have a big impact on an entire season.

I have to admit, though, I was a little mystified as to why Mason chose to run the ball up the middle when their halfback Kevin Barber, who was faster than just about anyone on the field, was having so much success on the outside.

If nothing else, the Bulldogs will be fun to watch this season. Fans couldn't have asked for a more exciting opening game.

This week Saline comes to town. Get your seats early.

Dog Boy Runners Show Early Talent

CHelsea Bulldog boys cross country team lost 12 of its top runners to graduation last year. But coach Pat Clarke said the current group has some talent and could develop as the season progresses.

Senior co-captains Paul Hedding and Matt Riemenschneider lead the team into action this Saturday. Hedding was the regional two-mile champion last spring, and Riemenschneider has looked "exceptionally strong," Clarke said.

Junior Holden Harris has also had a fine pre-season and should be a factor. "Three other junior letter winners should also play major roles this fall," Clarke said.

"Jeff Latimer, Brian Zangara, and Erich Hammer are all running well. Sophomore Jim Hassett should also challenge for a varsity spot. Other sophomores who could help out include Alex Hammerschmidt, Kelly Beard, Justin White, Ben Vermeulen, and Brian Address.

"Freshman Rob Jaques has looked real good so far and could make the varsity team," Clarke said.

"Other freshmen who could help are Jake Rindle, Jason Allen, Ryan Skelly and Kirk Hedding."

Lincoln Railsplitters are the defending champions and again look to be strong, Clarke said. Milan Big Reds and Saline Hornets could also challenge. Pinckney, Dexter, and Tecumseh could be the surprise teams in the league.

"Our own young Bulldogs will have to fight for everything they can get and could develop into a strong team if they continue to improve," Clarke said.

Bath Invitational is the first meet this Saturday.

Girl Harriers In Rebuilding Year

What does a cross country coach do when he loses eight seniors to graduation from a team that was undefeated and finished third in the state in 1987? "I cry a lot," admitted coach Pat Clarke, whose girls' teams have compiled one of the best records in the state over the last several years.

"This year we are young and inexperienced, but it is an enthusiastic and exciting group to work with."

Debi Koenn is the only returning senior and is the team's captain.

"Debi is coming off a year of illness and his hoping for a fine season," Clarke said.

"Her leadership will definitely be needed this year."

Joining Koenn is junior co-captain Sarah Grau. Grau was an all-Southeastern Conference runner last year and "is looking exceptionally strong," Clarke said.

Returning to the team after a year in Panama is junior Vicki Bullock, who could add a big boost to the team.

Other junior letter winners are Becca Burkel, Sheila Haab, Kim Roberts, and Stephanie Wagner.

Clarke also likes the early signs from three sophomore letter winners—Leisa Schiller, Angie Nagel, and Brenda Brede.

Newcomers to the team include sophomores Christine Mignano, Stephanie Miklos, Stacey Gallagher, and freshmen Carmen Smith, Martina Street, and Sarah Franklin.

"Milan should be by far the best team in the league with an almost all senior line-up," Clarke said.

"Saline should be very strong and could challenge. The other teams are young and will be rebuilding like we are. It should be an interesting season if we continue to improve."

The girls open at the Bath Invitational this Saturday.

Troopers Challenge WCSD Deputies to Softball Contest

Although the fall season is definitely in the air, the excitement of the summer softball fields has not yet disappeared, and Michigan State Police troopers have challenged their counterparts on the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department to a 5 p.m. softball game, Wednesday, Sept. 14.

The game will be played on the field across from Ford Motor Company's Rawsonville plant on Textile Rd.

Registration Set For Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club

Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club will hold its 1988 registration for new members Sunday, Sept. 11 from 2 to 4 p.m. at Yost ice arena. The winter session will run for 19 weeks beginning on Sept. 25. Club representatives will be available to answer questions about classes and professional coaches.

The AAFSC offers a full range of programs for both children and adults, beginning skaters through advanced, in dance, figures, freestyle, and precision team skating. The club sponsors four precision teams: the Arborettes (12 and under), the Jr. Hockettes (13 through 15), the Hockettes (16 and up), and the Debonaires (adult). Space is still available on the Hockettes and Debonaires for those interested and qualified. Age exceptions can be made for the Hockettes if qualified. In addition, every club member has an opportunity to participate in the annual show, Melody on Ice.

Further information is available from the membership chairman at 665-3808.

The first state laws authorizing the eight-hour day were passed in 1867 in Connecticut, Illinois, Wisconsin, New York, Missouri and California, according to the U. S. Labor Department.

CHS Golf Team Beats South Lyon

Chelsea varsity golf team split two matches last week.

On Tuesday, Aug. 30 the team took a 161-163 win over a strong South Lyon team and coach Loren Winn called the victory an upset.

Low scorer for Chelsea was Chad Starkey at 39. Mark Larson shot a 40, and Matt Forner and Steve Emmert each shot 41.

Chris White shot a 45 for the JV team.

On Thursday, Sept. 1 the team lost to Dexter, 184-180, in a match Winn felt the team should have won.

Forner and Emmert each shot 45 to lead Chelsea. Starkey and Brandon Murrell each shot 47.

Doug Wingrove shot a 49 for the JV team on the toughest side of the course.

Chelsea Depot Association is offering to the residents of this area an opportunity to identify with their roots in Chelsea.

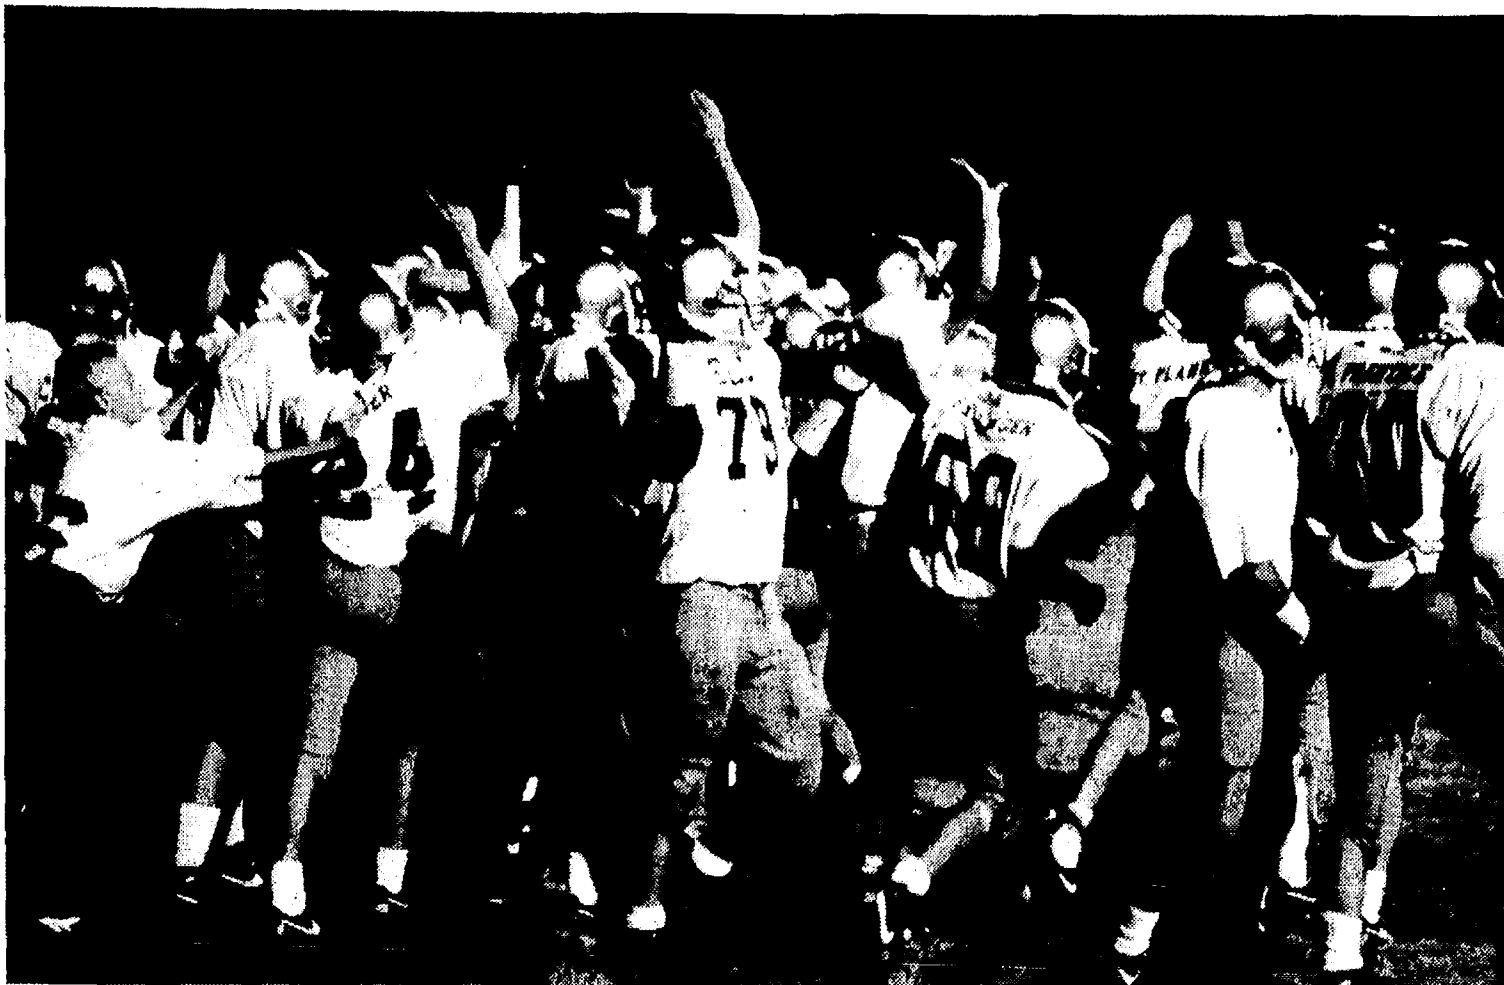

In early 1989 the Depot Assoc. will landscape and build new brick sidewalks around the historic Chelsea Depot.

The Depot was purchased in 1985 and partially restored with donations from community organizations and individual residents, to house a historical museum, Chamber of Commerce headquarters, and large public meeting room.

A limited number of Depot bricks are now available for engraving. You may have your name inscribed on a brick to be permanently placed at the Depot grounds for $50.00. What a thoughtful gift for a parent or grandparent, child or grandchild—and this is a nice gift for anyone you wish to remember.

CHELSEA BULLDOGS REACT as the officials verify that Mason was stopped short of the goal line as time ran out. The gutty stand preserved a 12-8 victory for Chelsea and may have provided a little momentum for this Friday's home game with Saline, one of the top teams in the Southeastern Conference.

Outdoor Report

From DNR District Office in Jackson

Wildlife . . .

Canada Goose season opens for 10 days starting Sept. 1. Many locally raised birds are around but can be difficult to hunt. Areas that produced the most consistent success last year during the early season were around newly cut alfalfa fields, recently planted winter wheat fields and golf courses. Few hunters take advantage of this early season. Landowners are usually co-operative in granting permission to hunt if they are approached in the proper manner. Lake front property owners are sometimes receptive to hunting as well.

All state game areas in District 13, as well as the Lake Hudson Recreation Area are open from Sept. 1-10. Only small portions of both Waterloo and Pinckney Recreation Areas are open from Sept. 1-5. On Sept. 6-10, all of these two areas (except around campgrounds and refugees) are open to goose hunting. Check with the local park office or the District 13 headquarters for specifics.

Wildlife biologists are seeking co-operation from successful goose hunters during this early hunt. They need parts collected from geese in order to separate migratory birds from locally raised geese. Co-operators should save the head and tail section, including reproductive organs, and place these parts in a plastic bag along with the location and date of kill. Put these in a freezer. Contact the Department and these parts will be picked up immediately following the close of the early season.

Fisheries . . .

The Jackson Prison walleye rearing pond was drained and harvested during the week of Aug. 22-26. This was the latest time in the summer we have ever harvested walleye fingerlings at Jackson and the fish were correspondingly larger. The fingerling walleyes averaged four inches in length and a few of the fish were up to 10 inches long. These healthy walleyes will have a much better chance of surviving and growing to catchable size than the two-inch fingerlings stocked in previous years in mid-June.

The following lakes in the Jackson district were stocked with large walleye fingerlings: Coldwater Lake (Branch county), 25,500; Duck Lake (Calhoun county), 17,500; South Lake (Washtenaw county), 5,200; Big Portage Lake (Jackson county), 11,500; and Big Wolf Lake (Jackson county), 14,500. In addition to these lake plants we estimated that 6,000 fish were released into the Grand River from the pond during the harvest operation.

An additional 150,000 1½-inch long walleye fingerlings were harvested from the Jackson Prison Pond in late May and stocked in Jackson District waters.

We are very excited about this year's larger walleye fingerlings. These fish should create bonafide walleye fisheries in the waters stocked. Our previous success with two-inch walleye fingerlings has been spotty at best. In most water, two-inch fingerlings have produced very modest fisheries with only an occasional walleye being taken.

Man Faces Charge Of Indecent Exposure

An Ann Arbor man faces charges of indecent exposure after Chelsea police saw him urinate on a gas station wall Saturday, Sept. 3.

According to reports, Chelsea police were on routine patrol at Village Mobil Station at 8:54 p.m. when the man went to the back of the building and urinated.

When police asked him why he didn't use the unoccupied and unlocked men's bathroom, the man said, "none of your business."

Study Says SSC Would Have Minimal Environment Impact

Government officials said the environmental impact analysis of Michigan's site for the Superconducting Super Collider "confirms that the SSC would be an environmentally benign job-generator" if constructed in Michigan.

"A close examination of the 4,000 page Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) released Friday establishes that the huge project would have only minimal environmental impact," said John F. Haneski, executive director of the Michigan SSC Commission.

He said construction of the $4.5 billion scientific research machine may even enhance the protection of Michigan's abundant wetlands and other ecologically sensitive acreage.

"We believe that the SSC project will actually help preserve environmentally sensitive lands which would otherwise be lost piecemeal to urban-rural migration," he said.

"Areas within the 16,000-acre site that are not built upon will remain in their natural state and wetlands that have been drained for farming or development could be allowed to reform," he said.

"The SSC means thousands of jobs and millions of dollars for Michigan's residents," Haneski said. "We see it as an environmentally benign job-generator that will help Michigan grow from a national center for high-technology to a world center for high-energy research and technological development," he said.

Officials of the Michigan SSC Commission said many of the estimated 2,800 wetland acres earmarked for transfer to the Department of Energy will be "preserved and protected." The EIS said that many acres intersect the 53-mile-long path of the collider ring and would be impacted.

However, the EIS noted that only 620 acres would be directly affected by construction. "And most of that—some 360 acres—would be only temporarily disturbed by construction and could be allowed to return to the natural state when the building is completed," said Haneski. "Therefore, only about 260 acres would be permanently affected by the SSC surface operations," he said.

Actually, he said, Michigan stands to lose less environmentally sensitive land than any of the other competing states. "By our count, Colorado would permanently lose 690 acres, North Carolina 680, Arizona 570, Tennessee, 420, Texas 380 and Illinois 300," he said.

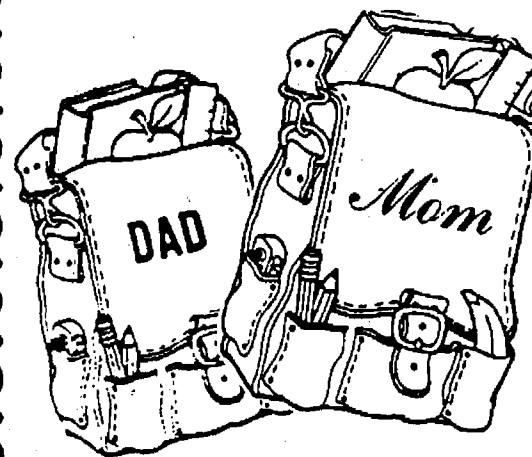

Haneski said Michigan plans to replace any wetland acreage lost to the project by creating new, comparable wetlands either on the SSC site or on nearby state-owned property, such as in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

"There should be no net-loss of high-quality wetlands because of Michigan's policy of avoidance where possible, alternative construction techniques and in-kind replacement of impacted wetlands," he said.

According to the EIS, none of the Michigan wetlands which might be lost or severely impacted by construction are known to be of special significance or high value ecologically or recreationally. "The collider ring is situated so as to avoid the most productive and valuable of wetland habitat in the area," the analysis stated. "Loss of this habitat is therefore of only moderate concern, particularly in light of the presence of wetland habitat of high value in the immediate area and regionally," it said.

Deathly delicious: Perhaps the most sinister of tropical fruits is the akee, whose toxic flesh and seeds have killed more than 5,000 people since 1865. National Wildlife magazine reports that the fatal fruit is still popular in Jamaica. The akee is both safe and delicious when fully ripe and cooked.

Farm Net Cash Income Promising Despite Drought

Even with the drought, farm net cash income this year could equal or even top last year's figure of $57.1 billion. According to Michigan Farm Bureau economist Robert Craig, a combination of forces will hold up 1988 net cash income.

"Net cash income measures cash receipts against cash outlays without taking inventory changes into account," Craig said. "Higher prices for 1988 crops, government outlays for drought assistance and sale of grain stocks already on hand at prices well above expectations are the factors that will support cash farm income," Craig said. "However, the income will not be evenly distributed to all segments of agriculture. Livestock feeders, for example, will suffer from having to pay higher costs for feed. Government price support payments will also decline because of higher grain prices.

"If farm income holds its own despite the drought, it will indicate that farmers' concerns have been met on maintaining farm income while drawing down grain stocks. These were some of the key goals of the 1985 farm bill," he said.

Craig said that net farm income, which does include inventory changes, could fall as much as $8 billion below last year's $46.3 billion level.

WHIRLAGIGS by Frank and Carolyn Blough of Grass Lake was one of the popular exhibits in the Merchants Barn at the community fair this year. Creating the windmills is a full-time occupation for the couple, who are natives of the Chelsea area. Each windmill takes from 4-8 hours to complete and Frank says the painting takes most of the time. Frank says that even though the Chelsea fair is not a big moneymaker for them, it is still their favorite show. "It makes me feel better when I come to this show because I see I'm not the only one getting older," Frank says. The couple has sold Whirlagigs to customers in China, Japan, Germany, Italy, and France. Their big ambition now is to hold a big show in Alaska.

A GROUP OF JAPANESE FARMERS arrived by tour bus to see the Chelsea Community Fair first hand on Thursday, Aug. 25. Many of them sat in on the Livestock Auction, which seemed to be a lot of fun for the group. Many Chelsea youngsters who raised livestock will be in photo albums in Japan.

Youth Group Attends International Conference

Eighteen teens and three adults, all members of the Chelsea Free Methodist Youth Fellowship, recently returned from an International Youth Conference, held Aug. 14-20 at the YMCA Camp of the Rockies, in Estes Park, Colo.

Sponsored by the Free Methodist Church of North America, our area youth convened with teens from 10 different countries for a week of seminars, rallies, fellowship and recreation. Nationally known speaker and author, Josh McDowell, challenged the youth with his "Why Wait?" series which focuses on moral and sexual behavior from a Biblical standpoint.

Other speakers included Al Menconi, dealing with the good and bad of rock music; Oreon Tricke, focusing on forgiveness; and how to be a leader with Fred Thomas as lecturer. There were also dialogs with missionaries and the youth from other nations as they described their culture, church and faith. A special concert was given by David Meece, popular contemporary Christian singer and composer.

During their free time, the young people enjoyed exploring the Rocky mountains and hiking the streams and trails and also shopping in nearby Estes Park.

All the teens returned challenged by the theme of the conference, "Vision Decision... We Will Serve the Lord!" The next conference will be held in 1992.

Representing Chelsea were Becca Fischer, Tyler Schultz, Dennis Fischer, Bobby Pratt, Rachel Fischer, Angie Sager, Erin Schultz, Krista Smith, Krista Johnson, Pat Hassett, Sherrill Fischer, Kirk Hedding and Larry Moore. From Dexter were Eric Loy, Mark Stebleton and Lisa Stebleton. Stockbridge representatives were Karen Anderson, Katie Anderson and Dawn Libby and from Grass Lake, Chad Baird.

Topics for discussion will include the curriculum and parental expectations for their children's spiritual growth. All parents are invited to attend.
