CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 19, 1988

MILLING TRUCKS removed old blacktop from E. Middle St. at McKinley St. to Main St. and several hundred feet of W. Middle St. as a new layer of blacktop is being applied. The road is one of the most heavily traveled in the village, and gets a lot of truck traffic as well.

RESURFACING of E. Middle St. began last week and the street was still closed to through traffic as of Tuesday. The project, however, is moving quickly as the first layer of blacktop was in place by Monday. When E. Middle is completed, the village will begin on W. Middle St.

Papo Files Suit To Stop Pierce Lake Drain Project

Developer Rene Papo has filed suit in circuit court to stop the Pierce Lake drain project.

An independent board of determination, put together by the county drain commission, came to the conclusion that the drain project was necessary after a public hearing Monday, Sept. 26. The village filed the petition for the project earlier this year, partially to solve run-off problems in Pierce Park.

The drain would handle stormwater run-off from much of the east side of M-52 from Pierce Park south. Included in that area is a significant amount of land owned by Papo's concerns. He has submitted site plans, which are scheduled to be considered by the village planning commission this month, for a 32,000-square-foot retail center just south of Polly's Market. That project would be included in the district.

According to the appeal, Papo disputes the village's contention that the project is necessary for the public health, convenience, and welfare of the village.

Papo has said that his land naturally drains into Pierce Lake anyway, so he doesn't see why he should have to pay for a large portion of the project assessment.

Papo had also disagreed with the routing of the drain, which went through the center of his property. Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner C. Delores Sigal recently met with Papo to propose a new route. She said the new route apparently didn't please him, either.

"I have to meet with corporate counsel to see what happens next," Sigal said.

"I have never personally been involved in one of these cases."

Sigal said appeals are unusual, but they can end up taking years to work out in court. She said one case in Augusta township has been in the courts since 1984.

Papo's proposed project is across M-52 from his Chelsea Shopping Center, which has been under construction for several months. The project would possibly require filling in wetland area, some of which is used for stormwater run-off from Polly's Market. Whether the Department of Natural Resources will allow that to happen remains to be seen.

Meanwhile, developer Mike Kennedy, who plans the 42,000-square-foot Village Mall next to his Polly's Market, said his shopping mall project will begin soon. He has pulled all his grading permits and plans to begin construction this fall. That project will also be assessed in the drainage district.

"His appeal shouldn't have any effect on my project," Kennedy said. "My plans are all approved and ready to go."

Another drain project for the west side of M-52 that was also approved by the board of determination has apparently not met any opposition, Sigal said.

However, it's likely to be several months before any work begins on what is called the Wilkinson St. drain. Engineering work has to be completed, and bids sought.

Like the Pierce project, the village also petitioned the county for the Wilkinson project.

Because the village was the petitioner, the village will pay for a larger portion of the project than it otherwise would have, Sigal said. She estimated the village's share of the Wilkinson St. project to be about 20 percent.

DNR Schedules Public Hearing To Explain Landfill Situation

By Brian Hamilton

Chelsea area residents concerned about the village landfill on Werkner Rd. will have a chance to find out everything they want to know about the facility from the perspective of the Department of Natural Resources at a public hearing Thursday, Oct. 27 at 7 p.m. in the village council chambers.

DNR waste management geologist Barb Vetort will run the hearing. Also on hand will be Synthia Noble, a DNR engineer, and various village officials.

"This will be an informational meeting about the landfill," Vetort said.

"We know there have been concerns from nearby residents who have arsenic in their drinking water. We also turned down the village's landfill license application and we want to let people know why."

The meeting has the potential for verbal fireworks. All during the licensing procedure, which now has lasted more than a year, the village has accused the DNR of dragging its feet by changing rules and other tactics. In addition, the village was essentially forced to sign a consent agreement to clean up any groundwater contamination in order to secure a new operating license. That did not sit well with many council members.

Assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, who leaves his job Oct. 21, has promised he'll be there. Fahrner has been more closely connected to the situation than anyone else in village government.

The village is operating the facility without a license, and can do so legally until early December. That's when a 60-day administrative appeal period runs out.

The village and DNR have been trying to work out a chemical tracing system to monitor the new landfill cell. According to Vetort, a license will not be issued until all the details are in place. She said when the village made its application, the village had not conducted tests of "background" groundwater, water that flows in the direction of the landfill.

However, according to Fahrner, the reason those tests hadn't been performed is the DNR had already approved the use of a dye as a tracer. Then, Fahrner said, DNR changed the rules at the last minute and wouldn't allow the dye.

"Each tracer is site-specific," Vetort said.

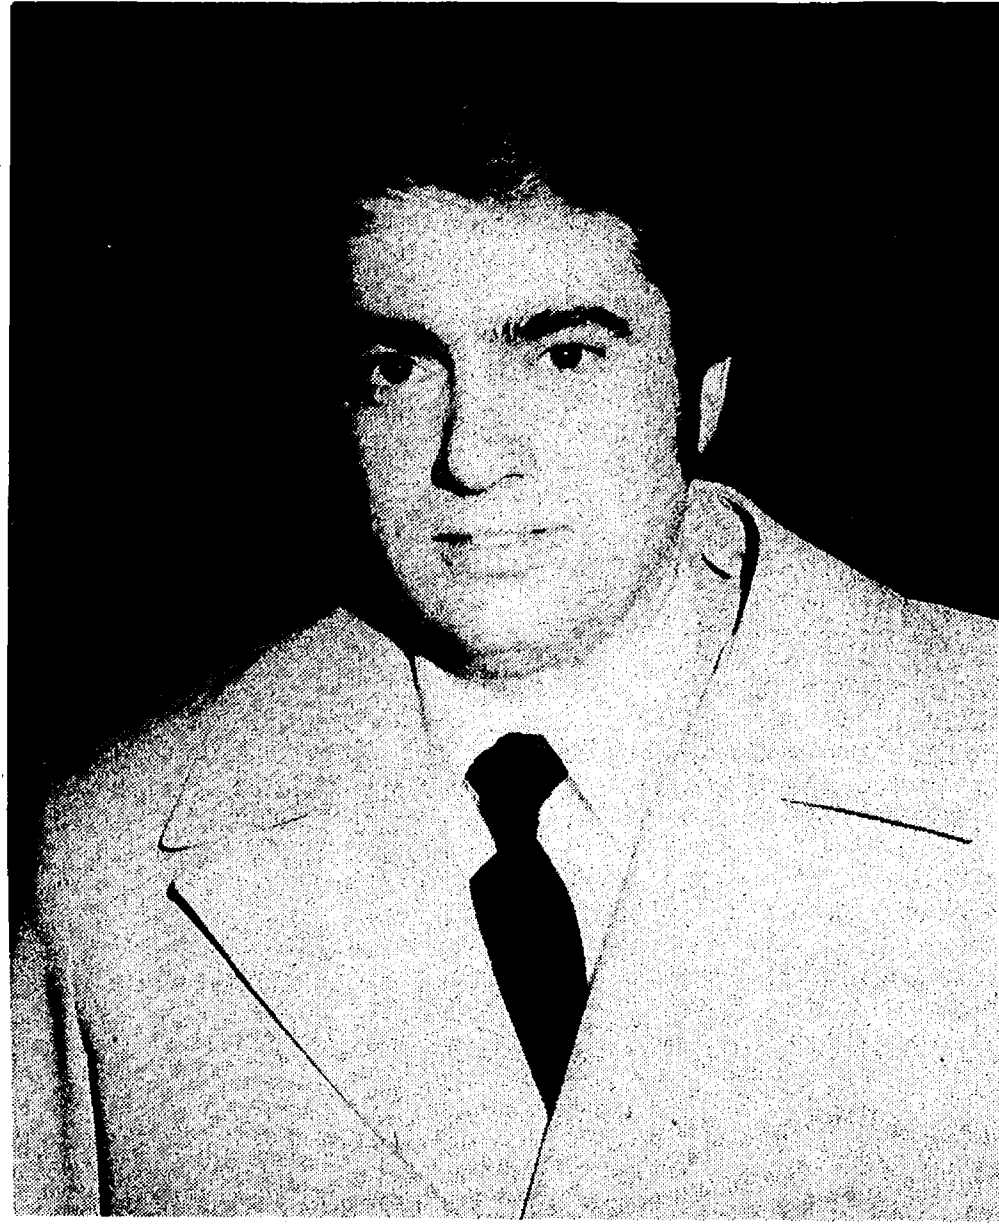

"You have to come up with a system that is compatible with the site. In Chelsea's case, it would have been physically impossible for the dye to penetrate the clay underneath so we'd never know if there was contamination or not. I don't know what happened in Chelsea's case, but the wording in the state law is very specific."

Now there is some doubt as to whether the village will have a new license by the end of the 60-day appeal period. Vetort said when the new application is filed with all the appropriate data, it enters an approval process that could take up to 90 days. It's conceivable the landfill could be forced to close for at least 30 days.

"I'd like to see it within 60 days," Vetort said.

"I hope it will be a good submittal from the village and we can go ahead and issue a license."

ASSISTANT VILLAGE MANAGER Lee Fahrner's last day on the job is this Friday, Oct. 21. He's taking a job in a private engineering firm. Fahrner, a civil engineer, has been the village's contact person for virtually every major building project over the last three years, including the wastewater treatment plant and Chelsea Shopping Center. The village plans to find a replacement for Fahrner as soon as possible.

United Way Agencies

Thanks to support of area contributors, the Chelsea United Way is able to continue efforts to improve the quality of life in this community. Chelsea United Way is unique in that it is solely operated by volunteers and is therefore highly cost efficient in the percentage of funds that are actually received by the participating agencies.

In conjunction with the 1988 campaign, which runs through the end of October various agencies, who are recipients of Chelsea United Way allocated funds, will be featured each week. The two featured agencies this week are Chelsea Social Service and the Huron Valley Child Guidance Clinic.

Chelsea Social Service . . .

Chelsea Social Service will continue to assist families in need that reside in the Chelsea school district in the following ways.

- Food from the agency commodity cupboard.
 - Purchase orders for foods not in the cupboard.
 - Purchase orders for prescriptions.
 - Checks written to utility companies.
 - Clothing both new and second handed.
 - Referrals to the various Human Service agencies in the area that serve on-going needs such as Dept. of Social Service, Public Health Nurse, Catholic Social Service, and many others.
- The Chelsea Social Service charter does not afford great growth in program or services; however, growth is always obtained with the positive caring way that service is given, also because of population growth and any

MANCHESTER RESIDENT Grant Burgess was killed Monday afternoon in a one-truck accident on Sylvan Rd. at about 2 p.m. Burgess, 39, 18451 Pleasant Lake Rd., a driver for United Parcel Service, apparently lost control of his truck as he went over the crest of a hill, according to the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. The truck started to slide, ran off the road, hit a tree and turned over. Burgess, who apparently was not wearing a seat belt, was partially ejected from the truck, and the truck rolled over on him. He was pronounced dead at the scene, according to Sgt. Harley Rider. Rider said no other vehicle appeared to be involved in the accident, although someone driving in the opposite direction may have passed him and not realized there was an accident because it would have been out of view.

State to Intervene in Suit Against

Firm Accepting N. Y. Waste

Michigan has filed a request to intervene in a lawsuit against Bill Kettlewell Excavating in an attempt to stop plans to dispose at its Fort Gratiot Sanitary Landfill 5,000 tons of waste a day from New York.

The suit, filed in St. Clair County Circuit Court, seeks an injunction to prohibit Kettlewell from accepting any waste that originated outside of the county.

Kettlewell is being charged with violation of the Solid Waste Management Act.

Under the act, counties are required to adopt a 20-year plan for the disposal of solid waste, assuring that future wastes generated in the county can be disposed of properly in facilities which comply with environmental safeguards.

Once the county plans are approved by the Department of Natural Resources, they are combined into one state solid waste management plan.

The 1984 act restricts acceptance of solid waste into the county which is not included in the county plan.

Governor James Blanchard said allowing the practice of accepting outside wastes sets a dangerous precedent.

"It could prevent the county from properly managing its own waste and set a precedent allowing vastly increased shipment of out-of-state wastes into Michigan," he said.

Attorney General Frank Kelley said the additional waste would have a "devastating effect" on both the county and state plans, while DNR Director David Hales said Michigan is not responsible for assuming other states' problems. "Our tax-payers should not have to subsidize their lack of management," he said.

Sen. Dan DeGrow (R-Port Huron) and Rep. James Docherty (D-Port Huron) both praised the state for intervening, calling it a state-wide issue.

The company disputes the state estimate of the amount of waste which would be imported.

Previously, the House passed HB 5524 restricting the ability of counties to accept wastes from outside sources.

Poll Shows Michigan Best State

For S.S.C., Governor Says

A nation-wide poll of high energy physicists shows Michigan has what the Superconducting Super Collider will need, Governor Blanchard told U. S. Department of Energy Secretary John Herrington.

The poll was released by the governor in Washington, as Michigan officials made the state's final case to be selected as the site for the $4.6 billion SSC.

The poll, conducted by the Gallup Organization, questioned 547 physicists about what they are looking for at an SSC laboratory, wherever it is located.

The poll did not ask where the SSC should be placed, but was an effort to determine what types of living arrangements and facilities the scientists will need once the SSC is in operation.

Three important areas of concern were highlighted by the survey: strong education systems, professional employment opportunities for the spouses of SSC employees, and a powerful computer network to link the SSC with other laboratories and universities.

"This poll confirms my belief that Michigan is on target as the best location for the SSC," the governor said.

"We have a long commitment to a quality education for our young people. Job opportunities in Michigan are growing every year, especially in the high-tech sectors of our economy. And Michigan, as headquarters for the National Science Foundation's super computer network, combined with our own extensive in-state network, has unsurpassed capabilities in this critical area."

Joining the governor at the meeting were U. S. Sens. Don Riegle (D-Flint) and Carl Levin (D-Southfield); U. S. Reps. John Dingell (D-Trenton), Bob Traxler (D-Bay City), Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) and Bob Carr (D-East Lansing); Michigan SSC Commission Chair David Adamany, president of Wayne State University; Commissioner William McCormick, chair and chief executive officer of CMS Energy Corp.; and other state officials involved in the project.

DENTAL SEALANTS CAN PREVENT "FILLINGS"

Q: When I took my son in for his last checkup the dentist suggested he have sealants placed on some of his teeth. What are sealants and what are they for?

A: Sealants are used to prevent decay in the biting surfaces of permanent back teeth. They are made of a material very closely related to that used in cosmetic bonding of teeth.

Tooth decay can be classified into several types. Interproximal decay occurs between the teeth where they contact each other. Decay can also occur at the gumline or on the exposed root surface of a tooth. All these kinds of decay can be reduced by proper brushing, flossing, and diet. The most common area for decay to occur however is in the deep grooves on the biting surface of the tooth—this is termed occlusal decay.

Fluoride does a wonderful job of hardening tooth enamel and making it less susceptible to decay but occlusal decay is still fairly common because it is impossible for a toothbrush to clean all of the food and bacteria (plaque) from the deep grooves on the teeth. Sealants are designed to prevent occlusal decay by filling in these deep grooves and forming a smooth surface which is more easily cleaned. Not everyone needs sealants and not everyone will benefit from them. Your family dentist is best qualified to decide if your child would be a good candidate for this procedure.

Sealants are not too difficult to place and don't require any anesthesia or drilling but they do take some time to do properly. As with most dental restorations, most sealants will require repair or replacement as time goes by and they become worn. Unfortunately most dental insurance plans do not provide coverage for the preventive placement of sealants. That situation will hopefully change in the future since sealants have proven to be a valuable and effective component of a total preventive dental care regimen.

Historical Society Discusses Methodist Home Plans

Chelsea Area Historical Society held their first meeting in the newly restored west-end of the Chelsea Depot on Monday, Oct. 10.

A postcard of the original Chelsea Methodist Home building was donated by Mrs. John (Wilhelmina) Eder. The donation prompted discussion on the home's plans to remove the original building to make way for a new structure. Katie Chapman reported that the pillars would not be preserved, but the fountain would be removed, but the statue and entrance gates would be saved.

There was general agreement among the members that the changing of the Methodist home, a local historic landmark, would be a great loss to the community.

An antique pedal organ was given to the society by Mary Leeman. As soon as the bench is restored, the instrument will be moved from Mary's Lehman Rd. farmhouse (built in the 1840s) to the depot.

Daily records of C.H. Kempf, dated 1853-1867 were donated by Lillian Sanderson.

Other agenda items included furnishing the depot's interior with shelves, display cases, and artifacts.

It was reported that 1989 historical calendar sales have reached 120. 350 are available.

A committee was formed to complete plans for decorating the depot as part of the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary Christmas Walk Dec. 4. Marge Hepburn, Arlene Lynch, Kathy Clark, and Lynda Collins are on the committee.

All CAHS members were asked to locate antique toys and children's items for the display. Girl Scouts are crafting decorations and the auxiliary will serve refreshments.

The November meeting will feature a long-time resident with a Chelsea question and answer theme.

In December the group plans a trip to David Jefferson's studio on Lima Center Rd. to view his Christmas display.

Long-time active members Tom and Phyllis Vaillencourt earlier announced their plans to move to northern Michigan. Cake and ice cream was provided to honor the Vaillencourts before the official meeting.

For more information about membership in the historical society call 475-7047 or 475-7558.

Michigan SSC Site Offers Premier Center For Computer Networks

Research physicists who would use the Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) are looking for high-speed, sophisticated computer hookups linked to national networks as their top priority—and Michigan is already the national center for such technology.

A recent Gallup poll of high energy physicists around the country found distinct differences in many of the features they would want to see at the SSC site, depending upon whether the scientist would be a visitor to the accelerator conducting experiments or a staff member of the facility. But both groups agreed that access to a state-of-the-art computer network was the most important criteria.

"Computing facilities adequate for the data analysis and communication needs of research physicists working on high energy experiments represent one of the most important resources of a research laboratory," the Gallup report said.

Among the respondents, 83 percent said computer networks that would link them to their home university was very important, followed closely by 80 percent who said a network that would hook them up with other physicists at different insitutions was very important. Only 10 percent of the scientists interviewed said the current state of computer networking at physics labs is good. The Gallup poll did not ask physicists to express a preference for any SSC site over the others, however.

Professor Jay Chapman, a physicist at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor, echoed the feelings of his colleagues.

"High speed computing is of premier importance to the physics community," Chapman said. "We need to be able to transmit data back and forth, and the presence of a close-by primary node connected to the national network is very important."

Chapman pointed out that the University of Michigan is the national center for computer networks since it won the bid to build and operate the National Science Foundation Network (NSFNET) on the North Campus at Ann Arbor. Right now, the NSFNET is capable of transmitting up to 1.5 megabits (millions of bits) of data per second almost anywhere in North America. In a year or so, it will be upgraded to handle 45 megabits per second. More than 280 regional computer networks tie into the center now. "We are the central hub for high speed computer information exchange today," Chapman explained. "If the SSC is built at the proposed Stockbridge site, not only will it be close to a primary node, the NSF network center will be only 30 miles away."

Two advantages are apparent—the SSC computer system could be connected immediately to the network hub nearby, and the technical expertise would be within a 30-minute drive to help work out problems that would occur.

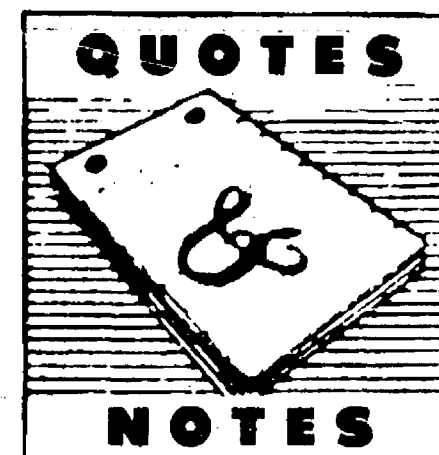

"To have the experts 30 miles away is clearly an advantage," Chapman said. "They could assist in the computer set up at the SSC."

Research scientists made up about three-fourths of the 547 high energy physicists interviewed by Gallup, while staff scientists at existing accelerators comprised the remainder of group studied. While they agreed on the need for a computer network, their other wants varied substantially.

Since the researchers would be visiting the SSC from a week or two at a time up to several months to design, set up and run experiments, most want inexpensive accommodations close to the facility. They also will look for a cafeteria on the premises, nearby restaurants or a kitchen in the room, and accommodations which can be reserved on short notice.

Staff physicists, however, listed good schools for their children, affordable housing within reasonable commuting distances, job opportunities for their spouses and quality health care among their top priorities for an SSC site. These long-term residents also seek cultural and recreational opportunities as important criteria.

"The chains of habit are generally too small to be felt until they are too strong to be broken..."

—Samuel Johnson

We seldom recognize a habit when it starts. We just don't expect anything we try to become habitual. Even when repeated a few times, we're sure that we have control and can regulate the extent of our indulgence.

We are surprised to learn we have formed a habit that holds us with an unbreakable grip. We rationalize by vowing to start to break it "tomorrow." It's far easier to permit only good habits to develop to the point where breaking them is difficult.

The type and cost of our funerals are always specified by the families we serve. We recognize the preference of some for non-traditional, low-cost services.

Over the past several years, the clinic has set a goal of extending and increasing service to Chelsea Area families. They are currently sending several of their professional staff to the Chelsea office several days a week to be available to families.

The Disaster Assistance Act of 1988 requires that producers receiving disaster benefits based on losses exceeding 65 percent of a crop carry insurance on that crop for the 1989 crop year.

A producer who anticipates that he/she may need crop insurance in order to comply should make application for winter wheat. The closing sales date for 1989 winter wheat crop insurance is Oct. 31.

Huron Valley Child Guidance Clinic

Huron Valley Child Guidance Clinic dates back to 1944 when it was established by the State Department of Mental Health to provide direct diagnostic and treatment services for emotionally troubled children (0 to 8 years of age) and their families. The clinic merged with the Washtenaw County Community Mental Health Center in 1972 and became Children's Services.

Services have since expanded from individual group and family outpatient counseling to include pre/post care for hospitalization, hospital and community residential placement, in-home treatment as an alternative to hospitalization, an eight-week summer therapeutic day camp, and case management services for severely emotionally impaired children.

Children's problems may include temper or behavioral problems, social or peer problems, fears and worries, poor school achievement despite good ability, hyperactivity, school and home truancy, conflicts with parents, overly aggressive or withdrawn behavior.

Parents refer directly to the program by calling (313) 434-1150 to make a referral or to talk with a staff person regarding a potential problem. There is no charge for this consultation. Fees are determined on a sliding scale and no one is refused service.

Drainage District

A board of determination is scheduled to decide the fate of the Bridgetown Condominium drainage project at a public hearing on Wednesday, Oct. 26 at 7 p.m. in the village council chambers. The village also petitioned for this project as it is concerned about any liability should run-off from the project cause problems for property owners downstream from the condominiums.

Jobs in the professional occupations requiring a college degree are expected to grow by more than 40 percent between 1986 and 2000, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. The most rapid growth will be among engineers, computer systems analysts and health occupations.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar

When we think of animals storing food for the winter, the first one to come to mind for most people is the fox or gray squirrel and the way it buries nuts. This activity often takes place in the front lawn or flower bed, where it's obvious to homeowner and passer-by alike.

The red squirrel, too, stores nuts for the winter. It may bury them or stash them in a tree, a nest or a convenient attic. These caches may be quite large, amounting to two or three grocery sacks full. Flying squirrels also make large food caches like this.

The familiar chipmunk is another larder stocker. The chipmunk actually digs a separate compartment off the main tunnel of its burrow and fills it with food.

The deer mouse, or white-footed mouse, will stash its winter food supply in an abandoned bird's nest, a hollow log or tree or, if it's moved into your home for the winter, in an old boot or a kitchen drawer. Piles of firewood are also favorite places for the deer mouse's food cache. The best story I've heard was about a child's rocking horse stored in an attic. The hollow horse had a mouse-sized hole in it, and by the time the mouse was done putting seeds in it, it was significantly heavier than it had been and it rattled when it bounced on its springs.

Another animal people commonly think of in connection with storing food for the winter is the beaver, which prepares for winter by jamming branches in the mud under the ice. This underwater larder eliminates the need to risk coming out on the ice or the shore in the winter to feed.

A lot of the members of the weasel family make food caches, though they're temporary rather than sufficient for overwintering. I received a call recently from a homeowner who found two dead squirrels, some dead mice and a dead bird in the backyard woodpile. The caller thought someone was playing a joke on him by putting road kills on his woodpile. The joker was likely a skunk. When food is abundant, a skunk can find or kill more than it can eat. Like weasels and minks, the skunk may cache the surplus in a handy woodpile or hollow tree. If you find a pile of small dead animals on the edge of your suburban or rural backyard, you can bet one of the members of the weasel family has been active there.

In the bird world, three birds that are familiar to most homeowners stash food: the nuthatch, the bluejay and the common crow.

The nuthatch stashes seeds and fruits in cracks and crevices. Sunflower seeds from the bird feeder stashed under the edges of shingles are common signs of the nuthatch at work.

The bluejay will fill its throat sack full of sunflower seeds, then fly off in search of a place to hide the food. A clump of sunflowers growing where none were planted by humans probably indicates a bluejay food stash that was never revisited. The jay may also tuck acorns away in the ground.

Crows will do basically the same thing, except that crows eat and cache a wide variety of foods. You're less likely to see the food-stashing behavior of crows, of course, because they tend not to be backyard birds.

Though fable and myth attribute wisdom to the animals that put food away for lean times, the fact is that food storing is strictly an innate or instinctive behavior. Animals store food in relation to its abundance—the more there is, the more they store. Weather folklore attributes some significance to the quantity of nuts that squirrels put away for the winter. But squirrels' storing large quantities of nuts has more to do with the good growing season for nut trees than the severity of the winter to come.

If food is abundant and an animal has sufficient storage facilities, it may continue the food stashing beyond all reason, storing far more than it could consume. The seeds in the rocking horse are probably a good example of an animal that responded to available food and an ideal storage place by storing more than it could possibly use. In a situation like that, storing may go on until the food, the storage space or the animal is exhausted.

Not all wild animals store food externally, but most of them store food internally by putting on layers of fat during the summer to get them through the winter.

Human beings tend to be the exception to the rule on food storage being a universal characteristic. Most of us don't stock the larder with an entire winter's food supply—we count on the food industry to do that for us. And we tend to put on weight during the winter and lose weight in the summer. You could say that's an illustration of just how far out of synch we are with the seasonal rhythms we observe in nature from your backdoor.

Bulldog Offense Explodes For 35 Points, 440 Yards As Chelsea Routs Indians

By Brian Hamilton

A balanced Chelsea offense, led by a 190-yard effort by sophomore running back Jude Quilter, gave the Bulldogs an impressive 35-15 victory over the Tecumseh Indians at Niehaus Field last Friday. It was the most points the Bulldogs have scored all season and their 440 yards in total offense was a season-high as well.

The entire Chelsea offensive line was named Player of the Week for the Bulldogs.

"Our line couldn't play much better than it did against Tecumseh," said Chelsea Head Coach Gene LaFave.

"The last two weeks they've played very well. They just went out and did what they were supposed to do."

The line, playing against one of the conference's biggest defenses, produced some of the biggest holes of the year for Quilter and junior Andy Dehring (72 yards) to run through. Quilter could easily have run for 250 yards as he had runs of 70 yards and 35 yards called back due to penalties.

In addition, quarterback Larry Nix played what LaFave called a solid game as he completed 10-15 passes for 178 yards and two touchdowns. Junior Morseau, who caught five passes for 98 yards, was his favorite target.

"Larry threw the ball very well," LaFave said.

Chelsea scored on five of their eight possessions of the night.

Again, as has been the case most of the season, Chelsea had to come from behind. On the Indians' second possession of the game, Tecumseh's big fullback, Chad Hawley ran left 48 yards for a touchdown. The extra point gave the Indians their only lead of the night at 7-0 with 8:17 to go in the first quarter. Hawley had a big night as he carried the ball 27 times for 170 yards.

After Quilter took the kick-off to the Chelsea 45, Dehring sprinted 26 yards to the Tecumseh 29. A pass to flanker Morseau (five catches, 58 yards) took the ball to the 12. Four plays later, Quilter scored from three yards out. Rob Staal's extra point tied the score.

The Dogs forced the Indians to punt on their next possession and took the ball at the Chelsea 41 to begin a five-play, 59-yard scoring drive. Key plays were a 15-yard pass to Morseau and a 37-yard touchdown run by Quilter on fourth down and five. Quilter broke one tackle and eluded two Indians for the score. Staal's kick gave Chelsea a 14-7 lead with 1:38 left in the first quarter.

One of the key plays of the game occurred on the Indians' next possession. Behind the running of Hawley, Tecumseh took the ball from their 20 to the Chelsea 10. On fourth down and one from the two-yard line, Chelsea defense stopped the Indians inches short.

From there, Chelsea began a 98-yard scoring drive, aided by a key offside penalty on the Indians at the Chelsea 10. Key plays in the drive were a 26-yard pass play to Quilter, a 31-yard pass to tight end David Zerkel, and a two-yard scoring run by Quilter.

Chelsea took a 21-7 lead into intermission.

Chelsea didn't score again until the 9:44 mark of the fourth quarter when Nix found Zerkel all alone in the right corner of the end zone and hit him with a six-yard pass. The drive, which began at the 22, featured a 52-yard pass play from Nix to Morseau. Morseau simply ran by the Tecumseh defense and was all alone in the middle of the field.

Down 28-7, Tecumseh started to throw on virtually every play. And the Chelsea defense seemed willing to allow the short pass plays. The Indians scored with 4:48 remaining.

Chelsea removed any doubt about the outcome on their next possession. Four runs by Quilter set up another short pass to Zerkel, who caught the ball in almost the same place he scored his first touchdown.

LaFave made a couple of defensive changes, some of which may be permanent. Eric Frisinger was moved from linebacker to tackle as senior Mike Taylor sat out with a shoulder injury. Mark Chasteen got his first start at inside linebacker, where Morseau also played for the first time.

Tackle Tim VanSchoick led the team in tackles with nine, Kerry Plank in the defensive backfield had eight, Chasteen had seven and Morseau was in on six.

Pinckney, whose only loss this season was to Saline, hosts the Bulldogs this Friday for the Pirate homecoming.

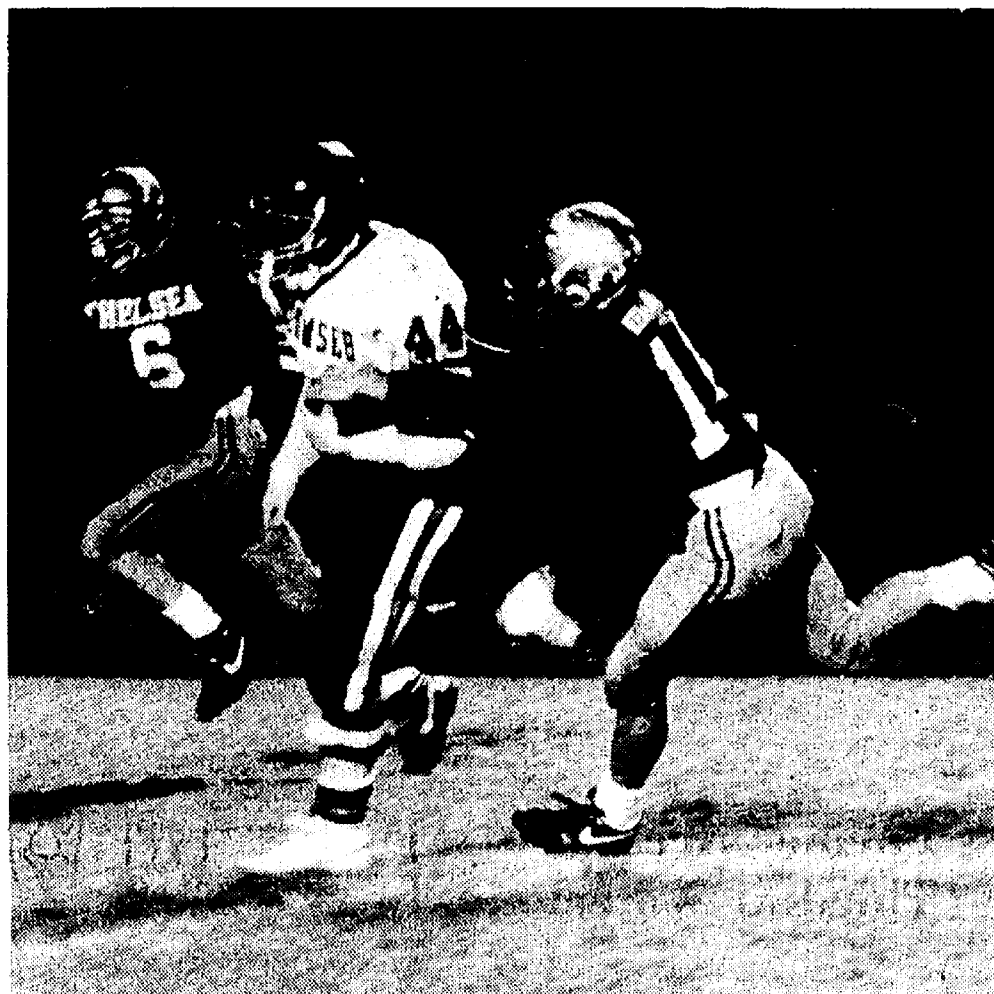

"If we don't mind our p's and q's, we could get blown out," LaFave said. "Pinckney has the best team speed we'll see all year and they have several outstanding backs and receivers. They are talented and physical."

The Pirates have kind of a grab-bag offense featuring everything from the I formation to the wishbone.

In addition, the Pirates have changed defenses from week to week, so the Chelsea coaching staff isn't exactly sure what to expect.

"I look for a real good game."

Chelsea is 4-3 over-all and 2-3 in the Southeastern Conference. A win would ensure an even record in the league and a winning record over-all.

TECUMSEH RUNNER CHAD HAWLEY'S performance was overshadowed by that of Jude Quilter of Chelsea. Hawley ran for 170 yards and a touchdown as the fullback proved to be hard to bring down. Above, defensive back Matt Herter tries to strip the ball on an open field tackle.

Girls Outrun Dexter

Chelsea girl harriers took seven of the top eight places to whip the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 16-47, at Hudson Mills park last Tuesday, Oct. 11.

"Junior Sarah Grau and Vicki Bullock ran excellent times for the Dexter course," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"Senior Debi Koenn and sophomore Christine Mignano also ran well to complete our sweep of the top four places."

Grau led the pack in 21:13. Bulldogs behind her were Bullock, 2nd, 21:57; Koenn, 3rd, 22:10; Mignano, 4th, 22:15; Sheila Haab, 6th, 23:08; Carmen Smith, 7th, 23:24; Angie Nagel, 8th, 23:34; Leisa Schiller, 10th, 24:01; Becca Burkel, 11th, 24:03; Brenda Brede, 12th, 24:56; Stacey Gallagher, 15th, 26:26; Martina Street, 18th, 28:53.

"Junior Sheila Haab ran well after returning from a one-week lay-off," Clarke said.

"Freshman Carmen Smith and sophomore Angie Nagel both looked better after recovering from illness."

The girls are 2-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

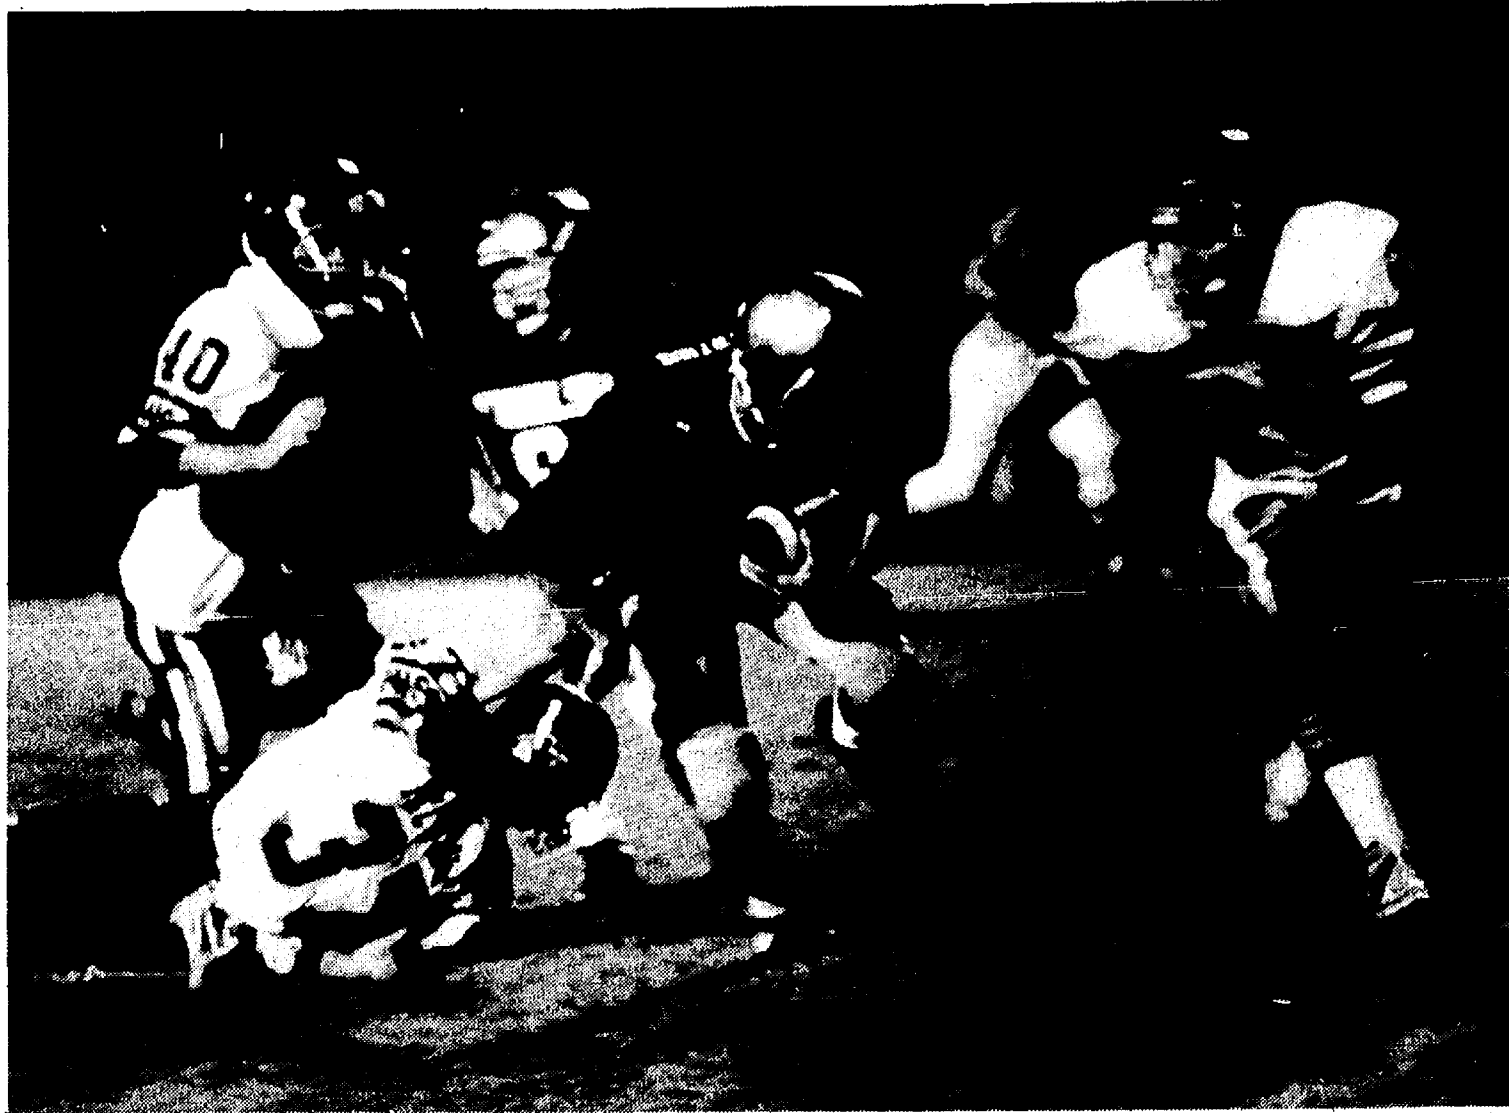

Induction of Acree Into Hall of Fame Delayed Two Weeks

The induction of Chris Acree into the Chelsea Football Hall of Fame was delayed two weeks due to technical problems with the public address system.

Acree, a 1987 defensive back for the Bulldogs, will be inducted at half-time of the final game of the year Oct. 29 with Crestwood.

The public address system did not work for the entire game with Tecumseh last Friday.

Bulldogs Demolish Hornets, Whip Pirates To Share League Lead

Chelsea varsity basketball team moved into a tie for first place in the Southeastern Conference last week with victories over the Saline Hornets and Pinckney Pirates.

On Tuesday the Bulldogs beat the first-place Pirates 37-27. Thursday, however, the Bulldogs set a single game scoring record while whipping the Hornets 88-28.

In Tuesday's game, Chelsea pulled out to a 20-8 half-time lead and the teams essentially played even the rest of the way.

"It was a very physical game," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter.

Allison Brown got in foul trouble right away and we didn't shoot well from the line. It was one of those games like last year. We got our shots but not enough of them."

The Bulldogs took just 39 shots for the game, making 16.

Jenni Smith led Chelsea with 15 points on six field goals. Heather Neibauer was the only other Bulldog in double figures, finishing with 10 points. Scharme Petty scored six points, Brown had four, and Laura Unterbrink scored two.

"Scharme played very well off the bench," Rosentreter said.

Chelsea played a very young, inexperienced Saline team on Thursday and shot better than 50 percent from the field on their way to an 88-point record.

"I've been on the other end of games like that a couple of times," Rosentreter said.

Chelsea jumped out to a 34-0 lead in the first quarter and held a 50-2 half-time lead.

"We had seven steals in the first quarter, they had five turnovers, and they missed a lot of easy shots. We had 24 shots in the first quarter alone."

JV Cagers Dominate Pinckney, Saline To Improve to 9-1

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity basketball team took two more lopsided wins last week to run their record to 9-1 over-all.

Tuesday the Dogs blew out Pinckney at home, 77-13, and Thursday knocked off Saline, 57-22.

In Tuesday's contest, Pinckney scored two points in the first quarter and six points in the first half and at the intermission were down 42-6.

"They couldn't handle our defensive pressure," said Chelsea coach Paul Terpstra.

"We ran our offense with consistency and it was a pretty lopsided game the whole way."

Chelsea put up 83 shots for the game and made 33. They were 11-23 at the foul line, and had 20 steals.

Colleen Scharphorn scored 18 points, and Mercedes Hammer and Christine Burg each scored 17. Shawn Losey also finished in double figures with 11 points. She led the team in steals with six. Rounding out the scoring were Kate Dilworth with four, Jenny Bobo with three, and Kristin Bohlender with two. Bohlender led the Dogs with seven steals.

In Thursday's game with Saline, Chelsea ran off to a 39-8 half-time lead.

"We didn't play as well as we could have," Terpstra said.

"We had 26 turnovers and they shot the ball 50 times."

Scharphorn scored 26 points to lead Chelsea. Hammer was the only other Dog in double figures, with 14. Burg had six, Losey scored four, Dilworth, Bobo and Petty scored two each, and Bohlender had one.

Hedding Wins in Hail But Dogs Lose to Dexter

Dexter boys cross country team edged the Chelsea Bulldogs last Tuesday, 24-33.

Bulldog Paul Hedding was the top runner for both teams, finishing in 16:46. He pulled ahead of Dexter's Mark Lauzon in the final half mile at Hudson Mills park.

"Paul Hedding ran a fine race to win in a hail storm," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"Paul's time was excellent. Brian Zangara and Jeff Latimer also turned in respectable performances. We do not have a fifth runner and it cost us dearly in this meet. We will continue to work on this weakness and hopefully find a solution."

Bulldogs behind Hedding were Zangara, 5th, 18:19; Latimer, 7th, 18:43; Holden Harris, 8th, 18:44; Kelly Beard, 13th, 19:15; Erich Hammer, 14th, 19:25; Jim Hassett, 16th, 19:45; Jason Allen, 17th, 20:02; Jake Rindie, 19th, 20:21; Justin White, 20th, 20:23; Ben Vermeylen, 21st, 20:28; Brian Andrews, 26th, 23:08.

Frosh Gridders Rally For Victory Over Tecumseh

Chelsea Bulldog freshman football team finished their season with a 4-0 record in the Southeastern Conference with a come-from-behind victory over the Tecumseh Indians last week.

Chelsea rallied from a 22-6 deficit to win 36-22. Tecumseh failed to score in the second half as the Chelsea defense had one of its best efforts of the year. Neil Klink blocked a punt to key the rally.

Quarterback Ben Hurst and Adam Taylor combined for 210 yards passing and two touchdowns.

"The entire offensive line, including Mike Eder, Mike Terpstra, Matt Gaken, Mike Kelly and Lee Skyles provided excellent pass protection," said Chelsea coach Tom Hardin.

"We also got excellent special teams play, especially from the three Kazoos—David Burkel, Greg Tone, and Tim Bowers."

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

In case you didn't know it, Vice-President George Bush and Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis are avid baseball fans. I happened to be up late one night last week and watched the two on some cable TV station talk about baseball. The moderator had apparently wanted to get into a light-hearted discussion about baseball and the World Series.

What follows is, more or less, what transpired.

MODERATOR: Mr. Dukakis, if you could be any player on a baseball team, what would it be?

DUKE: Probably a shortstop. I'm as short as any of those Dominicans, I speak their language, and I don't mind saying I have a heck of an arm. And as everyone knows, the shortstop is the key to the whole left side of the infield.

MODERATOR: How about you, Mr. Bush?

BUSH: Oh, I'd probably be a catcher. It's the key defensive position on the field. And they have to have a lot of guts. It takes guts to be behind the plate, just like it takes guts to be president. And now that you mention it, therein lies a real difference between us. He's a short wimp, I'm a tall, grifty guy, ready to take the kind of pounding a president takes. And, to point out another difference, as the governor said, he wants to key the LEFT side. Why is he always on the left, anyway? Must be a genetic defect. Now that I think about it, it is appropriate that the big green monster, symbol of liberal spending, is in left field in Fenway Park.

DUKE: As you know, Mr. Bush, this has nothing to do with left and right, it has to do with values. I value the left side of the infield. I was brought up that way watching the Sox. I happen to think it's the right place to be. I think I would be a good shortstop. A team needs a shortstop who knows when to take the sure out at first or to try for the double play and flip to second. A team needs somebody who can make quick decisions, somebody who has had to make those decisions in the past. We don't need someone like Mr. Bush who's been a utility player all his life. Look at all the stuff he's done. In baseball terms, he's played second, center, and most recently right field, and never batted over .185. He can't seem to make up his mind. Which George Bush am I talking with tonight?

MODERATOR: We're getting a little bit off the subject. Mr. Bush, who do you think has been the most valuable player in baseball this season?

BUSH: Without a doubt, Jose Canseco of the Oakland Athletics. Why? Because he proves you can't win from a position of weakness. Talk about ammunition! This guy hit over 40 home runs, stole over 40 bases, and had well over 100 RBIs. Now, think about where Oakland was before they got him. About the same place the country was when Jimmy Carter was president before we got Ronald Reagan and a Republican administration. Oakland would be crazy to get rid of Canseco, just like this country would be crazy to go back to the weakness of the Democrats. Golly, my opponent even believes in free agency for murderers for heaven's sake.

MODERATOR: Mr. Dukakis.

DUKE: First, let me respond to Mr. Bush. Suppose the team owner was going bankrupt, was buried in a pile of debt, and couldn't afford Mr. Canseco's salary. If that's Mr. Bush's idea of the way to run a business, well it's no wonder the deficit is so large. It's just a fact that some teams can't afford all those big guns and some tough choices have to be made, and they need general managers who aren't afraid to make them, unlike Mr. Bush. And can you imagine Mr. Bush as a catcher. He'd probably lose a pop-up in his thousand points of light. Now, who's my most valuable player? A guy you probably never heard of—Santana Hernandez. I met him last week. He was called the next Spanish Pee Wee Reese. He dedicated his life to baseball, even though his parents couldn't afford health insurance. He tried for a scholarship to college, but all federal funds had been cut. He decided to try out for a minor league team and during his tryout he broke his leg sliding into second base. Since he didn't have insurance, his leg healed funny and he's permanently disabled. Now he's homeless in Los Angeles. He kept battling despite all the obstacles, and one day I hope he'll make a comeback. I want to help the millions of Santanas out there like him. He has shown us we can do better and give everyone a chance at the American dream.

MODERATOR: Since California is such a key state in this election, I'd be interested in knowing who you're picking to win the World Series. Mr. Bush?

BUSH: Too close to call.

DUKE: All Americans win during the World Series.

Karen McKeachie Training For Ironman Triathlon in Hawaii

When Karen McKeachie goes to spend a week in Hawaii, she'll sun and swim like most tourists, but in a slightly different style. The former Webster township resident is participating in the Ironman Triathlon, which involves a 2.4-mile-long swim, 112-mile bike ride followed by a 26-mile marathon run.

It's McKeachie's fifth time competing in what is considered one of the most popular and "most grueling" sports events in the world. It will be held on the Big Island of Hawaii Oct. 22, starting at 7 a.m. About 4,500 athletes apply to compete, out of which 1,250 are chosen.

McKeachie said the races' most challenging factor, blistering temperatures of at least 100 degrees, is the reason her husband, Lew Kidder, also a triathlete, does not do the Ironman. "But I like the heat better than if it's too cold," she said.

McKeachie prepares all summer for the race, about 20 hours per week for four months. "This year, the temperatures in Michigan were about the same as they'll be in Hawaii which was a plus," McKeachie said. She is also considering going somewhere to train where it is hot, such as Texas during the two weeks before the race.

McKeachie qualified for the event with her score last year. Others get in by placing in another ironman triathlon or qualifying event, or by being one of the 100 selected in a lottery held last April.

This year, McKeachie is hopeful of getting a trophy for coming in first in the age group that she will be in for the first time, 35 to 39. "I'm the best in my age group in the country," she said. There are 20 age classifications, in the Ironman, from 18-24 on up. The first two years she competed, McKeachie placed second in her age group. The third year, 1986, she hurt a tendon in her knee half-way through the run and had to drop out. She placed 23rd over-all last year, fifth in her age group.

McKeachie finds the professional versus age group classifications frustrating. "In a triathlon I did last week-end, I came in eighth over-all, and first in my age group, but a person who was running 10 minutes behind me said they were professional, so they were considered to have come in before me," she said. "The way the classifications are done is kind of complicated and silly. Hopefully it's changing."

"But in this one (Ironman), everyone just runs. The first 10 women and 15 men who finish get the top prizes which are in the thousands. Tenth prize is $500. Then the next people who come in win according to which age group they're in."

The way triathletes got designated into the two groups, McKeachie said, is that the executive director of the Triathlon Federation, whose headquarters are in Sacramento, Calif., had a son who was running as a professional. "That's what started the feeling that they (professionals) were special and that anyone else competing was riff raff that should be separated out," she said.

As a result of this policy, sometimes professionals start the race five minutes earlier than the others.

McKeachie and her husband bunk at a condominium in Kona for a week with several other couples who are also participating.

The hardest part of the race, McKeachie said, is the marathon run, since it comes after a strenuous swim and lengthy bike race. "I get off the bike at 1:30 p.m. which is the hottest part of the day," she said. In the past she has managed to finish the course before dark. Running after dark would be even more difficult. "In Hawaii, when it gets dark, it's light one minute and then it's dark, really dark, and the pavement is so black, it isn't easy to run on."

The Hawaii Ironman Triathlon got started, McKeachie said, when several sports organizers were arguing, over who the best athletes were in Hawaii, those in the 2.4 mile swimming race, the 112-mile bike race or the marathon. They ended the argument by putting all three events together in a triathlon, first held in 1978 in Honolulu, in which 15 triathletes competed. In 1980, there were 108 participants, and in 1981 the race was moved to the Big Island of Hawaii. It is televised in February. Sponsors wait to televise the event rather than trying to compete with fall football season. McKeachie said she has never been on the "Wide World of Sports" but she did appear on "Kelly & Company" in 1984.

McKeachie graduated from Dexter High school in 1971. She and her husband, who is from Baldwin, live in Ann Arbor where they have published a magazine for triathletes for the past two years. They began producing the 45,000 circulation magazine after Kidder, who had been writing articles on triathlons for Michigan Runner, decided there was a large enough market to start their own triathlon magazine. Another national magazine on triathlons exists, but McKeachie doesn't feel it covers the sport in a timely fashion or in enough depth.

KAREN McKEACHIE, former Webster township resident, charges towards the finish line which is within 100 yards. Her time on the triathlon held this summer in Gaylord, featuring an 1,100-yard swim, 31-mile bike race and 10 K. run, was two hours 19 minutes. In October, McKeachie will compete in the Ironman triathlon held on the Big Island of Hawaii.

8th Grade Cagers Whip Lincoln

Beach Middle school 8th grade basketball team ran its record to 5-2 with a 34-25 win over Stockbridge and a 36-23 victory over Lincoln last week.

Leading the way against Stockbridge were Molly Dilworth, 11 rebounds, 6 points; Shelly Beeman, 10 rebounds, 7 points; Heather McConeghy, 7 steals, 15 points; Theresa Hurst, 5 steals, 4 points; Brook Pitts, 6 rebounds; Tina Blackford, 7 steals; Julie Durst, 6 points; Michelle Barksdale, 5 steals, 2 points; and Liz Lundquist, 2 points.

The numbers against Lincoln were Dilworth, 9 rebounds, 8 points; McConeghy, 5 steals, 10 points; Hurst, 4 rebounds, 6 points; Durst 5 rebounds, 4 points; Beeman, 4 rebounds, 4 points; Pitts, 4 steals, 2 points; Tina Hassett, 4 rebounds, 2 points; and Lundquist, 6 steals.

Coach Jon Schaffner said passing was the key against Lincoln.

The proportion of American workers without a high school diploma has dropped sharply, from 24 percent in 1978 to 15 percent in 1988, according to the U. S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Despite this swing, however, the proportion of workers ending their formal education with a high school diploma has remained stable, at about 40 percent.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Oct. 17 were Comeau, Redding, Satterthwaite, Wales, Cherem, Feeney, Eisenbeiser, superintendent Piasecki, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Stielstra, Benedict, Wescott, assistant principal Larson, athletic director Reed, special education director DeYoung, community education director Rogers, curriculum director Bissell, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by president Anne Comeau.

Board approved the minutes of the Oct. 3 meeting.

Entered as official communications were (1) copies of Media Specialist Sherrill Pryor's thank-you letters to Dan Murphy for continuation of magazine subscriptions and Cathy Vleck for Student Council's sharing of the cost of a security system for the Media Center; (2) letter from Chelsea Recreation Council providing the names of members and their terms; (3) letter from Washtenaw County Public Health Service summarizing services provided to the district; (4) request from Barbara Locks for extension of leave through Jan. 8, 1989; (5) letter to president Comeau from MASA, expressing appreciation for the superintendent's participation in the new Superintendents Conference; (6) invitation to board members to attend the senior citizens' Thanksgiving dinner on Nov. 18 in the high school cafeteria.

Assistant superintendent Mills reported on the request of Michigan Bell for an easement across the Beach Middle School property, which had been approved by the board at a previous meeting. Michigan Bell will provide free installation of telephones at North, South and Beach schools to provide a direct link to the mainframe computer at the high school.

At the request of the board, principal Darcy Stielstra discussed the athletic eligibility policy recently implemented at Beach school. He reviewed the process of its development, which included input from Beach staff, and indicated that it will be monitored and evaluated. Athletic director Larry Reed discussed the eligibility policy at the high school. Several board members expressed the thought that a general district-wide athletic eligibility policy should be in place, and that each building's eligibility rules, although different, should be consistent with the general district policy.

In action items, the board approved:

- the Outdoor Club's spring trip to Kentucky, May 3-6, 1989.
- the revised 1988-89 budget, with income of $9,342,598 and expenditures of $9,527,365.
- extension of leave for Barbara Locks through Jan. 8, 1989.

Meeting adjourned at 10:05 p.m.

"AUTUMN BUCK," an oil painting on masonite won Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year for 1988 for David Conklin of Port Huron. This was the third time Conklin has won the title in the nine years the competition has been held.

Port Huron Man Repeats As Wildlife Artist of Year

A 39-year-old self-taught artist from Port Huron is Michigan's Wildlife Artist of the Year for 1988.

In winning the top honors, David Conklin became the first person in the nine-year history of the competition to win the title three times. Conklin was chosen Wildlife Artist of the Year in 1983 and 1985.

His oil on masonite board rendition of a white-tailed deer entitled "Autumn Buck" was the top choice of the five member panel of judges in the annual competition conducted by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC). This year's competition featured more than 60 entries submitted by wildlife artists across the state.

Conklin will receive a check for $2,000 from MUCC and will have his prize-winning painting reproduced on the cover of the December issue of Michigan Out-of-Doors, the MUCC's monthly magazine. Conklin's painting also will be reproduced on the cover of the 1990 Michigan Out-of-Doors Wildlife Art Calendar, which will be available from MUCC in October 1989.

The MUCC will issue a limited edition of 750 prints of Conklin's paintings signed and numbered by the artist. The prints will be available from MUCC for $75 each plus $9 for tax and shipping. Orders for the prints should be sent to the MUCC, P.O. Box 30235, Lansing 48909.

Proceeds from the sale of the prints help support MUCC's wide ranging conservation and environmental education programs conducted in schools and nature centers across Michigan.

A native of St. Clair Shores, Conklin began painting wildlife as a youngster and sold his first painting at the age of 16. In order to refine his understanding of animal anatomy, behavior and habitat, Conklin and his wife Michelle moved to the middle of a wilderness area in the Upper Peninsula in 1974. Over the next nine years, Conklin had many sell-out exhibits. He was a finalist in the Michigan Duck Stamp Competition in 1983, took home many first-place and best-of-show ribbons, and had successful one-man art shows in Cincinnati, Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

Now settled in Port Huron, Conklin has worked successfully in virtually every medium. Now working mostly in oils, Conklin's favorite pieces are those which stir the viewer's imagination to the point where they are surprised and excited, not simply impressed with the artist's technical skills.

Other artists in the top five in this year's Michigan Wildlife Artist of the Year competition were: Jon LaBeau of Grand Rapids, second; Tim Widener of Haslett, third; Michael Calandra of Monroe, fourth; and Chris Wozniak of Alpena, fifth.

Genealogical Society Will Hear Alma Professor

Dr. Ronald Kapp of Alma, will address the Genealogical Society of Washtenaw county at 1:30 p.m. on Sunday, Oct. 23. "Genealogy-Your Place in History" will be the subject of his address. The meeting will be held in Lecture Hall No. 2 of the Liberal Arts and Science Building of Washtenaw Community College, 4800 E. Huron River Dr., Ann Arbor.

Dr. Kapp is a professor in the Science School at Alma College. His lecture will focus on how our perceptions of textbook history can change as the result of genealogical research done many years later.

Attention all
Chrysler employees:

Find out what a difference my plan makes!

A Difference In Coverage. My old plan used to only cover me when I was sick. But Care Choices HMO covers me when I'm well, as well as when I'm not. That means most of the costs of routine medical care are covered, like doctor's office visits, physicals, immunizations and lab tests. They also cover pre-natal and well-baby care. And of course, hospitalization is covered, even more completely than with my old plan.

A Difference In Paperwork. I used to have to fill out a lot of claim forms with my old health plan. But Care Choices even covers the paperwork!

A Difference In Cost. Unexpected doctor bills used to sneak up on me. But with Care Choices, after a small co-pay, there are no doctor bills. Care Choices HMO even covers emergencies when I'm out of town. So, surprise out-of-pocket costs can't put the bite on me.

A Difference In The Way I Feel. It's no wonder I'm so confident. Some of the best doctors and hospitals in the area are part of Care Choices HMO, over 400 private practice physicians in all. And some of the most respected hospitals are included, like Catherine McAuley Health Center, Chelsea Community Hospital, Saline Community Hospital and McPherson Hospital. Together they work in partnership with Care Choices to keep the costs down and the quality of care up. Find out what a difference my plan can make for you. Ask your employer about Care Choices Health Plans today. Or for more information, call 800-852-9780 or 313-489-6200.

What a difference my plan makes!

Deer Creating Hazards for Area Drivers

Beware the deer—they're increasingly plentiful on the roadways in western Washtenaw county, warn deputies at the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

Providing a real road hazard to the motorists, the deer are evident at all hours, recently.

Eric Walter Jorgenson of Milan told Deputy Troy Bevier a doe jumped on the roadway and the vehicle Jorgenson was driving struck it about 6:20 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 8.

The incident occurred on Dexter-Pinckney Rd., just south of Wylie Rd.

Nancy Elizabeth Farrell explained she was travelling southeast along Island Lake Rd., about half a mile south of Dexter-Pinckney Rd. at 2:15 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 15, when a doe ran out from a field and struck the vehicle she drove.

There have been numerous other incidents in which drivers were unable to avoid colliding with deer which suddenly appeared on the roadway, and deputies advise motorists use extreme caution.

Such collisions may prove dangerous, not only to the deer but also to drivers and their vehicles.

Communicate Before You Medicate

Nearly 2.3 billion conversations about prescription medicines should have taken place in 1987, or one for every prescription dispensed, according to the National Council on Patient Information and Education (NCPPIE). That's because communication about prescription drugs can give patients information that is critical to proper medication use. It can also give health professionals information they must have to prescribe or dispense medication safely and effectively.

Studies, however, suggest that fewer than half of those conversations ever occurred. The result of this silence is a serious and persistent public health problem, say the more than 240 consumer and health organizations that make up NCPPIE. Some of the problem's consequences are obvious, such as the 54,000 adverse drug reactions in 1986 resulting in 1,347 deaths and 4,481 hospitalizations. Other facets of the problem are less dramatic, but equally significant—the chronic disease isn't controlled or the infection doesn't go away.

In October, 1988, NCPPIE is spearheading "Talk About Prescriptions Month," to put a month-long focus on an every day problem. This national public health event, which has steadily grown in participation and activity over the past three years, features the theme "Communicate Before You Medicate."

"This is a campaign everyone can support," says NCPPIE chairman and former Congressman Paul Rogers. "Organizations can sponsor educational programs for their members or the community. Health professionals can make an individual commitment to talk to their patients every time a medication is prescribed or dispensed. And consumers may come to the doctor's office or pharmacy prepared to speak up and ask questions about all the medicines they take."

Elect NANCY C. FRANCIS Circuit Court Judge

WASHTENAW COUNTY NEEDS AN EXPERIENCED TRIAL ATTORNEY AS CIRCUIT COURT JUDGE.

Circuit Court is a trial court and the judge of that court should be an attorney who has extensive jury trial experience, who is schooled in the psychology of the courtroom—the interplay among attorneys, defendants, plaintiffs, witnesses, jurors and judges.

Nancy Francis is the only candidate for Circuit Court with extensive jury trial experience. She has handled civil and criminal trials in 24 state & federal courts.

"Overall, the WTLA membership felt that it was Nancy Francis' extensive trial experience, her knowledge of the trial process, her awareness of the problems facing the Circuit Court and her decisive willingness to deal with these problems that gave her the edge for the endorsement."

Band Night Held Oct. 8 At Eastern

The quality of the Band Night held annually at Eastern Michigan University varies from year to year, but this year's, was a particularly good one, said Max Plank, EMU band director. Twenty-six high school bands, including Chelsea and Pinckney, attended the program on Oct. 8.

Chelsea High school won the Flag Corps contest out of 14 schools competing. The competition was held at a rehearsal the afternoon before the EMU-Central Michigan University football game. Chelsea's Flag Corps was determined the best according to the following criteria: precision, uniformity, creativity, unique style, performance, and communication with the audience.

The bands were hosted to a complimentary dinner by the EMU athletic department.

During the "order of review," a procession of the bands held before the game, each band played its school song. During halftime, the band formed a giant "EMU" on the football field and performed en masse. Selections included: "Elsa's Procession to the Cathedral" from the opera "Lohengrin" by Richard Wagner; "Salute to the Big Bands," a medley of tunes from the 1930's and 1940's. The bands also performed "Rock Around the Clock" while the Chelsea Flag Corps performed a solo.

"I was pleased by the quality of the performances of the bands. They sounded really good. Some years are better than others and this was one of the very good years," Plank said.

BUILDING TRADES CLASS is constructing a 2,000-square-foot home in Belser Estates on Freer Rd. this year. Students get hands-on instruction from a professional builder in everything from framing to roofing. Tentative completion date is May 31. An open house will be held as well. Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

Several years ago, a small clinic was started in Chelsea by Dr. Papo and Dr. Botsford. Then came Dr. Shadon, Dr. Waldyke and Dr. Stubbs. Later, they started a small clinic near where the hospital is now.

Then Dr. Papo and Dr. Botsford had a dream, and out of their dream came the Chelsea Community Hospital. Since then many new units were added on and we are grateful for it.

Now, Rene Papo, you are building us a new shopping center. I remember when you were a little boy, and you and your sister came to the congregational church, for I was your Sunday school teacher. Later, you transferred somewhere else. You and your sister were both attractive and intelligent children. Good luck in all you strive to do.

You see, I am a Senior Citizen and rarely go out of town to shop, as do many other Senior Citizens, so we are grateful to all of our friendly and courteous merchants in Chelsea who go out of their way to make us welcome.

Now, Kim Fouty and husband have opened a new store and we welcome them. By the way Kim is the daughter of Jim and Sally Nicola who are active in our community.

Dr. Krausse & Associates have built a beautiful new clinic. Also, North Territorial clinic has been built which is run by Dr. Waldyke, Dr. Smith and associates; also, the offices of Dr. Hawker and Dr. Miller.

Lloyd Bridges has built new condominiums. We have Belser estates, Daniels Condominiums, and Warren Porath & Associates, along with my son, has built new homes and remodeled others.

John and Anne Daniels have renovated the hotel, and Tom Dunlap & Associates have renovated the building where the Barber Shop used to be.

Chelsea Pharmacy has also renovated its building.

We have BookCrafters, Chelsea Industries, and Dana Corp., plus Federal Screw Works and Chelsea Milling, old time businesses.

Chelsea State Bank has a new Branch Bank.

We have McDonald's, A & W, Schumm's, Big Boy, Taco Bell, Pomas, Thompson's Pizzerias and the Woodshed.

We have the Tower and a new wastewater treatment plant.

Palmer Motor Sales has also expanded, and we have Buick-Olds-Chevrolet, Auto Parts, Chelsea Lanes and Meabon's.

We have fairly new schools and many churches.

We also have a new pastor and wife at First Congregational church and last but not least our own newspaper, The Chelsea Standard.

May God bless all of you and thank you for making our village a better place in which to live.

Helen Harris.

Novice Debaters Are 4th at First Tourney

A Chelsea High school novice debate team took fourth place over-all in a tournament at Muskegon Mona Shores last Saturday. Twenty-six teams took part.

The team of Carol Hanke and Kate Peckham (affirmative) and Kyle Plank and Matt Herter (negative) finished with a 6-2 record. Peckham was named second best speaker among novices, and Hanke was named ninth best.

Chelsea's second novice team of Trevor Harding and Allison Brown (affirmative) and Amy Thompson and Mark Chasteen (negative) finished 3-5.

The varsity team of Erich Maybaum and Tony Moisan (affirmative), and Mindy Ryan and Sheila Tillman (negative) was 1-7.

Chelsea's tournament coach is Jeff Koepele, a former CHS state qualifier who's now a graduate student at Michigan State University.
