ONE HUNDRED-EIGHTEENTH YEAR—No. 33

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 11, 1989

20 Pages This Week Plus Supplement

NEW OFFICERS of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea are, from left, Jeff Stommen, treasurer; Ray Van Meer, vice-president; Will Johnson, president; and Carol Kvarnberg, secretary. Other board members are Darla Bohlander, Jackie Rogers, Dennis Doan, Ann Feeney, Peter Flintoft, William Nuffer, Alice Thornton, Art Dils, Howard Holmes, and Sheridan Springer.

Civic Foundation Adds 3 Directors, Elects Officers

The Civic Foundation of Chelsea has started its annual membership campaign with the goal of strengthening the organization.

The Civic Foundation was founded in the spring of 1982 by a group of concerned Chelsea citizens with its purpose being the "development and encouragement of the social, civic, cultural, educational, charitable, and community well being" of those who live and/or work in the Chelsea area.

Primary function of the foundation has been to provide one-time grants, so-called "seed money," to worthy causes that for one reason or another could not be supported by other established agencies or service organizations.

Three new members join the board of directors this year. They are Randy Musbach, John Mann, and Dave Swan.

Randy Musbach has been a member of the foundation since its inception and, as an attorney practicing with William Rademacher, helped draft the original bylaws of the foundation. Randy is a Chelsea native who did his formal education at Miami of Ohio and Toledo University. He met his wife, Mollie, an Ohio native, while in school. They have two children—Kathryn, 3, and Jennifer, 5 months. Mollie, who is a special education teacher by trade, is busy preparing for the arrival of the couple's third child late this spring.

John Mann also grew up in Chelsea. After graduating from Albion College he went on to Duke University where he received his MBA degree. John came back to Chelsea last year a vice-president of the Chelsea State Bank. His wife, Ann, is a secretary at Chelsea Community Hospital and they have two young children—Alison, 3, and Timothy, 1. John is a member of the Rotary Club and serves on the board of the United Way Foundation.

David Swan is a dentist practicing here in Chelsea. He and his wife, Lynn, have a daughter, Jillian, 21 months, and are expecting their second child in late February. Dr. Swan received his bachelor of science degree and his dental degree from the University of Michigan. He decided to open his family dental practice in Chelsea since Lynn was a physician in town on staff with the University of Michigan Department of Family Practice. Dave is an active member of the Michigan and American Dental Associations and the Academy of General Dentistry. He also teaches graduate dentists part-time at the U. of M. Hospital. In addition to U. of M., Dave maintains hospital privileges at Sinai Hospital of Detroit and Chelsea Community Hospital.

The three new board members hope to help Civic Foundation president Will Johnson realize his goal of revitalizing the organization and re-examining its mission. The foundation has disbursed more than $50,000 in grants since its beginning, including $11,200 in 1988. Last year the foundation disbursed $5,000 to the Chelsea Depot Association, $450 to the South School Mileage Program, $750 to the summer recreation program for youth, and $5,000 to Faith in Action.

The foundation currently raises its funds almost solely from membership dues but has started an endowment fund in hopes of receiving other gifts from individuals over time.

All contributions to the foundation are tax-deductible. Last year about 100 individuals or corporations contributed funds to the foundation, down from about 150 members a few years ago.

Board members feel that the foundation lacks broad exposure in the village. (Continued on page four)

Honeggers Feed Division Bought By Ohio Company

Honeggers & Co., Inc. has sold its wholesale feed business to Provico, a major feed company located in Botkins, O. Value of the transaction was not disclosed.

The sale affects the Chelsea feed mill on Dexter-Chelsea Rd.

Employees of the local elevator officially received notice of the sale on Jan. 3, according to manager Jerry Heydlauff.

Under terms of the agreement, Provico will acquire all of Honeggers wholesale feed business, including trademarks and trade names, as well as almost all of its delivery vehicles. In addition, the retail operations of Honeggers at Trail, O. and Haysville, Ind., will be purchased.

According to Warren Loy, president of Provico, "It is our intent to integrate the Honegger business into Provico, keeping the Big H Feed names, logo, and products pretty much intact."

Heydlauff said the local operation will likely hire four or five more laborers for loading and unloading.

"If anything, (the sale) should make us stronger," Heydlauff said.

"Hopefully we'll be able to provide better service and a more complete line of products."

Provico has an Animal Health and Farm Supply Division, which should provide much of the expanded product line, Heydlauff said. That division produces products, which are not available through Honeggers, for treating sick animals.

Provico Seeds will also be offered to existing Honeggers dealers, according to Honeggers president Gaillyn Thomsen.

"It was a move that made a lot of sense for both companies," Thomsen said.

"We have been looking for a possible partner for some time so that we could merge with and combine our resources for a more efficient operation. Provico has been expanding into more dealer sales these last few years and Honeggers dealer network was a natural fit."

Honeggers sales and marketing staff will also go with the acquisition, which will be effective Feb. 3. Thomsen will become the assistant to the president of Provico.

Village Computer System Suffering From Lack of Memory, Support

Village of Chelsea will spend $13,195 to purchase additional memory for its computer system.

The money will be used to purchase hardware that will provide an additional 200 megabytes of memory. The original system purchased by the village two years ago had 90 megabytes.

The memory problem came to a head recently when the village tried to do its monthly electrical billing. Information for payroll, accounts payable, and general ledger all had to be taken off line to free up enough memory.

"I think part of the problem is New World Systems (the village's software company) had never done a program for electrical department billing and they didn't realize how complicated it was," said administrative assistant Barbara Fredette.

"I think we were a little misled," Fredette said. The village had been told that 90 megabytes would be plenty of memory for the village to grow. However, she said part of the problem is the police department also uses the computer and much of its information has to be stored for years.

In addition, the village has also had problems dealing with New World itself. Trustee Phil Boham told village council Jan. 3 that the company had not returned telephone calls from the village. He said he also had been told that the company is re-organizing, which is often the first step toward going out of business.

In fact, the village has gone for two years without a program to produce "past due" notices, which should have been part of the original electrical utility program, Fredette said. In addition, she said, a program to produce labels has also not materialized.

However, Monday morning a representative from New World was working on the system. The village had sent a letter of complaint to the president of the software company.

The village's problems with New World prompted Boham to recommend that the village consider hiring a programmer to work with the New World software. In addition, he suggested that one of the office workers be sent to school so that minor problems wouldn't require the assistance of a consultant.

"The problem that we have with New World right now is that if we have a power spike or we have something that goes wrong with our equipment, we're down. We have no capabilities to get into that and fix it because we don't have the source codes. The source codes are basically an access key for the programmer to be able to get into the library and program it. We need to force the issue with New World to get them out here and say 'either you support us or we should obtain a copy of those source codes and go to another firm that will support us.' Right now we're between a rock and a hard spot because New World won't respond and we don't have those source codes."

Boham also suggested that a copy of the source codes for the program be put in escrow with a third party. Then, if New World goes out of business, the village will have access to the information. If the village purchases the source codes outright, New World will not maintain the program. In addition, it was not known how much the source codes would cost.

The computer system also has the capability to maintain a village voter registration list, and inventory of village supplies. If the village can solve its memory and software problems, those enhancements may be made.

Detroit Men Arrested With Drugs, Rifle

Three Detroit men and one Detroit youth may face charges for possession of crack cocaine and marijuana possession after an incident near the Village Mobil station early Thursday morning Jan. 5. Officers from the Chelsea police department, and Washtenaw and Jackson County Sheriff's Department were all involved in the arrests.

A station attendant called police at 2:42 a.m. when he thought the men were preparing to rob the station.

The three 19-year-old men and a 15-year-old boy were sitting in a car with no license plates in the station lot.

One man went to the attendant and asked to use the telephone. The attendant advised the man to use a pay phone across the street.

When the man walked around the side of the building, the attendant called police. Meanwhile, the man went back to the car.

When Chelsea officer David Dettling arrived on the scene, the driver got out of the car, but Dettling advised him to stay inside, according to police reports.

The driver asked to use the bathroom. Dettling then, according to reports, asked the man if he had any weapons. The man opened his jacket to show he had no weapon, and pulled out a cigarette. In the process, Dettling noticed a leafy substance, believed to be marijuana, in the man's coat. Dettling also discovered that none of the four could produce identification.

Chelsea officer Chris Kruger then arrived on the scene, and Dettling began to search the trunk for contraband, reports said.

The driver then asked again to go to the bathroom, got out of the car and took off running across a field. Dettling then discovered a loaded semi-automatic rifle in the trunk. The gun had two 30-round magazines.

Two other men tried to get out of the car but were advised to stay seated with their hands in the air.

The driver then ran into the Lloyd Bridges Traveland lot. Police requested back-ups, which eventually involved a helicopter and tracking dog.

The driver was eventually caught by police near I-94 at the Pierce exit.

Reports also said that police found a black mask on the dash of the car.

A brown pouch under the passenger's side of the car contained what was believed to be crack cocaine.

Chelsea Police Car Recovered in Field

A Chelsea police car was stolen from in front of the police station early Sunday morning by four young men ranging in age from 18-22, according to police chief Lenard McDougall.

The car was found abandoned in a corn field near Dancer and Island Lake Rds. shortly after 6 a.m. by a Chelsea police officer.

The car has sustained about $1,400 in damage, McDougall said. In addition, radar equipment was stolen along with miscellaneous other equipment.

According to McDougall, the car was unattended and running in front of the station shortly after 1 a.m. when the theft occurred. The officer on duty was having trouble with his police radio and left the car briefly to check in at the dispatcher's desk.

"It was basically a crime of opportunity," McDougall said.

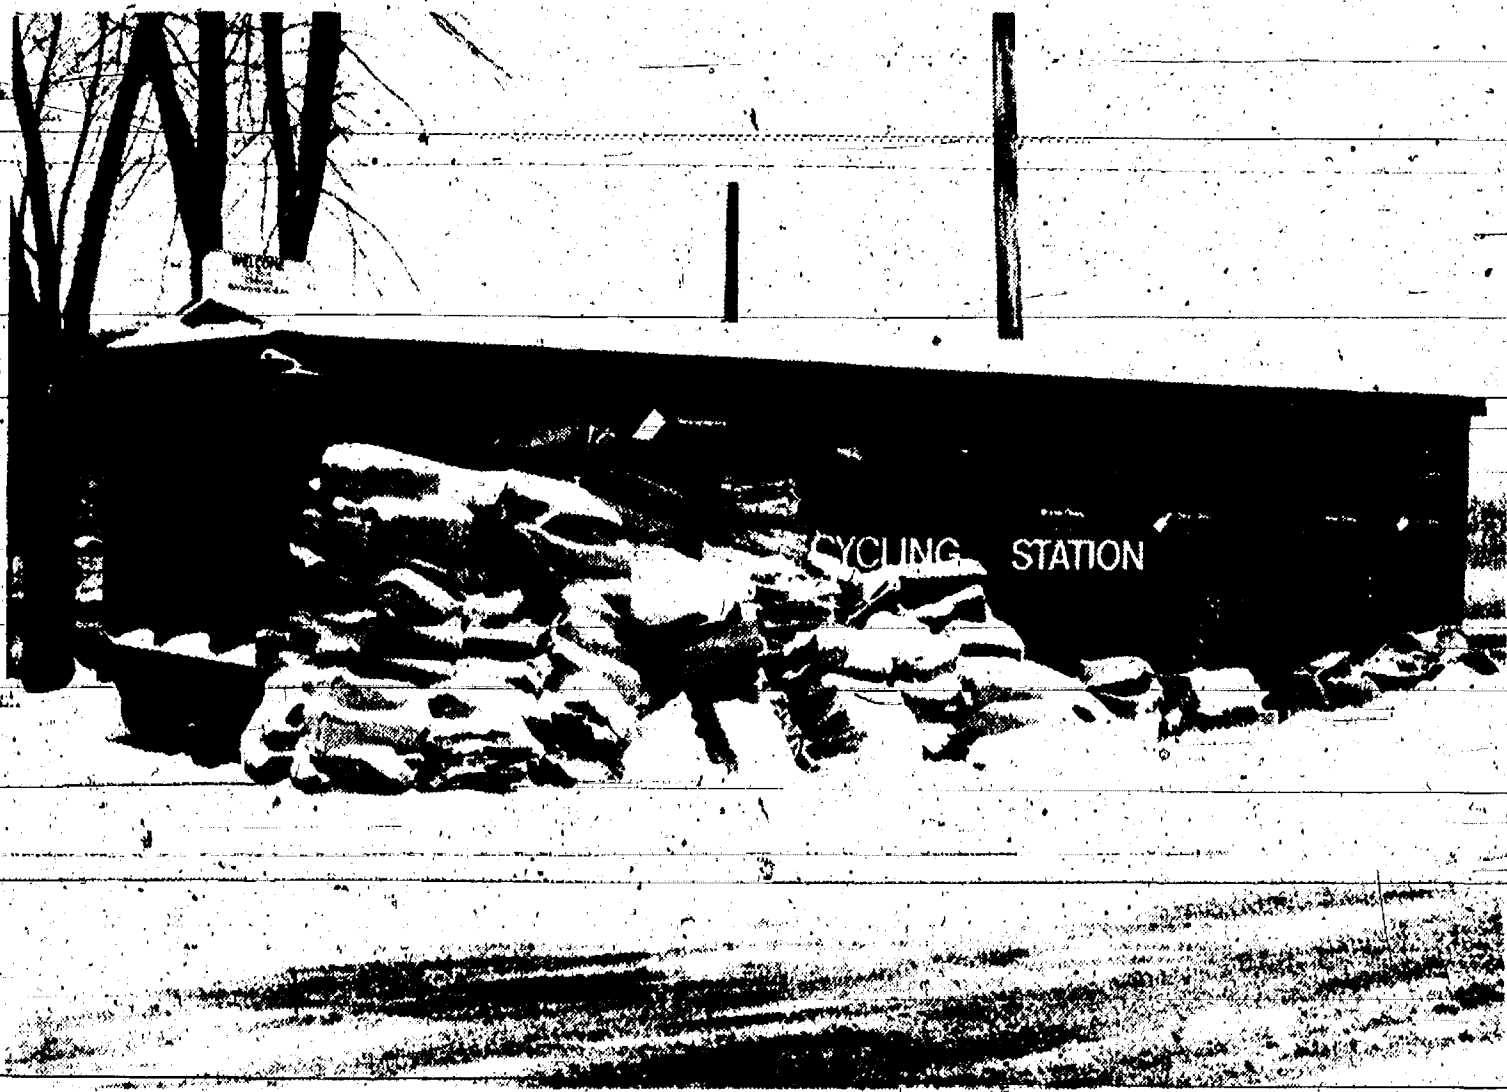

"They drove by, saw the car running, and decided to take it."

McDougall said the car had been run into pallets at Honeggers & Co. on Dexter-Chelsea Rd., and at some point had hit a tree. It was also damaged going through a ditch.

"We had about four informants who all gave the same names," McDougall said.

The car was recovered in a field out of sight from the road.

Police are seeking charges of grand theft auto, and malicious destruction of property over $100, both felonies. McDougall said some of the radar equipment has been recovered. He said the damage and stolen property was valued at more than $4,000.

CHELSEA'S RECYCLING CENTER had a little too much business over the holidays and the county also had problems with pick-ups. The matter was even discussed at village council meeting. The county has eliminated Tom McMurtrie's recycling co-ordinator position as of this week, so the county department of public works will be responsible for the program. The village recently voted to re-join the program for 1989.

BookCrafters, Inc., had begun to move into its new fulfillment house, the first building to be constructed in the Sibley Rd. industrial park.

Winter's first severe snow storm plagued the area. West Washtenaw largely escaped the problem that plagued the eastern part of the county, where several multi-vehicle accidents snarled traffic, especially on I-94 between Ypsilanti and Ann Arbor.

The mythical Manchester panther had come, this time close to Chelsea. A large, black, long-tailed animal was reported to have crossed Old Manchester Rd. just south of Chelsea touching off a renewed hunt for the beast.

Financial writers predicted slow, steady growth for the new year.

Ellsworth Petsch, a 19-year veteran village worker received the first of what was expected to be an annual series of awards honoring Chelsea's "employee of the year."

Twenty-five Chelsea wrestlers competed in the Ann Arbor Novice tournament. There were 480 wrestlers representing more than 255 schools taking part in the tournament. Chelsea had a champion in both the freshman and sophomore division of the tournament. Jim Stahl won the sophomore division and Leon Brown won the freshman division.

The Institute for Burns Medicine was $175 wealthier thanks to Chelsea Jaycee Auxiliary, which netted the amount in its "Bowling for Burns" tournament. Andy Fletcher turned in the top score in men's high series and Ann Hocking took the honors in women's.

The Rev. Jerrold Foster Beaumont, who was ordained at St. Barnabas Episcopal church in Chelsea on May 12, 1973 and served first at St. Barnabas, was named vicar of the church.

Construction work on the Chelsea schools additions had come to a virtual standstill during the holiday season. Workmen did get excavating completed and footings poured before the December snows halted most work.

The annual March of Dimes campaign was underway in Chelsea. The campaign was under the direction of Mrs. Merle Leach, president of the Modern Mothers Child Study Club, whose members voted to sponsor the January drive as a special community service project.

A hold-up and a truck theft occurred as two escapees from Cassidy Lake Technical School sought money and transportation at Bailey's restaurant, on Clear Lake Rd., at the I-94 interchange. The young men stole $2.00 and keys to the truck from Reba Moyers and Julia Gibson who were working at the restaurant. The pair was arrested and placed in the maximum security block at the State Prison of Southern Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Chadwick Parish of Jackson purchased Parker's Chelsea Cleaners. Thus, the business name was changed to Parish Chelsea Cleaners.

An open house reception was being held for the community and for friends of the Rev. Paul Schnake pastor of St. Paul United Church of Christ. The Rev. Michigan State College agricultural economists saw farm prices for wheat in Michigan about 20 cents under the loan value for the remainder of the 1954-55 season. If prices approached the loan value—ranging from $2.18 to $2.34 in Michigan—growers would start to sell.

Audit Criticizes Welfare Error Controls, M.O.S.T. Savings Claim
Michigan's basic welfare program, which faces a potential $110 million in federal error rate sanctions, continues to be inadequately monitored by the Department of Social Services, said a state audit released recently.

The report by Auditor General Franklin Pinkelman also criticized the department for overstating by $86.8 million the savings of a popular employment/job training program for welfare recipients.

The audit covered operations from March 1, 1981 through Dec. 31, 1987 for the eligibility controls for the Aid to Families with Dependent Children and food stamp programs, and the Michigan Opportunity Skills Training program, which was established in 1984.

The audit said $116.97 million was mispaid in the AFDC, food stamp and Medicaid programs in 1986-87, and recommended the department identify mispayments in the state-funded General Assistance program as well.

The audit said inadequate controls in the central administration and lack of accountability at all organization levels in the welfare program has been a major problem in the department's ability to meet the federal requirement for AFDC error rates of no more than 3 percent and food stamp rates no greater than 5 percent.

Michigan's latest AFDC error rate was 5.03 percent.

The audit said the Office of Quality Assurance does not sufficiently classify errors to identify underlying causes and related internal control weaknesses. It also lacks a monitoring system to ensure local offices implement corrective action plans or a process to evaluate successful error reduction methods, according to the report.

It said the department could not even identify the extent to which 350 full-time employee positions assigned to error rate reduction actually contribute to that effort.

In a review of 113 case file audits by the Office of Quality Assurance which identified 171 errors, the state audit found 109 were caused by the agency, almost all of them preventable if the department had established an adequate system of internal control.

Of the agency-caused errors, 33 percent were due to incorrect application of department policies. The department has in the meantime hired a consulting firm to identify department fiscal and administrative control processes and recommend changes to eliminate current weaknesses.

It also found 33 percent occurred at initial stages of processing (such as verifying client-report information and obtaining adequate documentation), 45 percent occurred when processing benefit changes to ongoing cases (because income updates were not made or changes in rents were not verified); and 53 percent of the 94 which required immediate recovery were not entered into the recoupment system, with another 48 percent entered inaccurately.

It recommended a stronger monitoring system to evaluate the error reduction efforts; combine planning for all programs to ensure a proper assessment of errors common to such assistance programs; a checklist of actions assistance payments workers take for each case; additional control over manual operations performed by workers.

Other recommendations included local office supervisors review and approve eligibility transactions on a sample basis; the DSS develop clearly written procedures; the DSS strengthen policies to ensure local offices correct errors found by the OQA; the DSS specifically define shelter verification requirements providing accurate documentation.

Karen Smith, DSS spokesperson, said, "Our goal is to reach the federal tolerance level, but we're not alone. Nearly all the states remain above the federal sanction rate at this time."

Department officials, criticizing the error rate goals as unreasonable, earlier this year said 90 percent of the states face sanctions. No state has yet suffered sanctions, and Congress has extended a moratorium on imposing the penalties.

Smith also said DSS Director C. Patrick Babcock has established an Office of Quality Improvement and a quality assurance team, which he heads, strengthened error rate reduction efforts, and has hired a chief financial officer whose first responsibility will be to assess internal controls regarding error rates.

As for the MOST program, the audit said the DSS in 1987 improperly claimed $72 million in welfare savings because they involved clients who found jobs but were not involved in the program.

It also said the department should have included $14.8 million in indirect costs to the $40 million in direct costs of the program.

The audit said the department should improve its planning process to better evaluate the program's success, and said it could not determine how effective it is because of lack of reliable data. The department reportedly is in the process of conducting a study for that purpose.

The audit also recommended the department evaluate the impact of other government employment programs on DSS recipients, expand its system for sharing information of successful and unsuccessful county programs, evaluate availability of child care services for clients, evaluate the

Court Orders
Papo's Sentence
Info 'Suppressed'

Chelsea Shopping Center developer Rene Papo was scheduled to be sentenced last month on drug possession charges. He was originally charged with possession of less than 25 grams of cocaine. He later pled no contest.

However, details of the sentencing have been ordered "suppressed" by the court, according to court personnel.

According to Washtenaw County Assistant Prosecutor Lynwood Noah, state law allows first-time offenders who have been charged with possession or use, but not the sale, of drugs to have information about the sentencing withheld from the public. A defense attorney may make such a request, Noah said, and the probation department may make such a recommendation. However, the court is free to deny either.

bidding process to encourage more bidders to participate; conduct a cost-benefit analysis, and establish county-by-county accounts for allocations and expenditures.

The audit said the department has not made full use of targeted job tax credits—a federal credit to employers of 40 percent of the first $8,000 in wages to a new employee—to assist MOST clients obtain jobs.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You can say a lot for this country of ours, Ed Doolittle allowed Saturday night at the country store, and one thing is that we the people never learn from our mistakes. We keep right on sending foxes to guard henhouses.

For instant, Ed ask the fellers, what can we say about a Congress that cries about national debts and budget deficits while it is cooking the books so it will get a automatic 50 percent pay hike? Greed is no respecter of party, Ed went on, so Democrats and Republicans worked this dirty trick so slick that nobody can take credit or blame for it, depending on the income and tax level of voters they're explaining it to.

Furthermore, Ed said, they're cutting the President, federal judges and top appointed people in on this $300 million caper, Ed said, so they ain't likely to run into any legal snags or high placed complaints.

All they got to do to git the money is nothing, which could be said for how they have earned their pay all along, was Ed's words.

The fellers were full agreed that the best way to git in office is to be in office, and as long as our elected politicians promise us everything we don't pay attention to what they give themselves. Clem Webster went on to note that if a fox was turned loose in the henhouse it's John Tower. He retired from the Senate to be a lobbyist for defense contractors, and at last report he was strong in the running to be Secretary of Defense. If that ain't laying down with dogs and infesting the Pentagon with fleas, what is, was Clem's words.

Actual, Clem went on, there's never been a Government servant at any level that couldn't do twice the job at half the cost after he left the job and come back as a private consultant at double his old pay—Ever one has a sure fire plan to save money in his old outfit, Clem said, and the bigger the outfit the better the plan. But, he went on, if one loses touch with reality and comes up with a cost cutting idea on the job he is quick to be hid in the basement file room out of sight and sound.

Right now, as at the start of ever Congress, Clem went on, talk is running heavy to closing military bases we don't need. One retired General Accounting Office expert that is back consulting at $500 a day claims we could save $1 billion easy and not weaken national defense at all. And what we got is what we allus git. Folks back home are hitting their Congressmen with how much them bases mean to them in jobs, retailing, state and local school money and so on.

The plain truth is, Clem said, economy is different to different people. If somepun is economic to a businessman it's efficient and profitable delivery of goods and service. A taxpayer's idea of economy is whether he and his old lady are bringing home paychecks and how much he was able to cut the power bill last month. What he thinks is not what a Congressman or a general thinks. Economic Government don't mean beans to one unless it means votes, and to the other it's penny wise and pound foolish not to buy the newest weapons system from the highest bidder.

Practical speaking, Bug Hookum said, that's how the green grass grows around and around. From what he reads, Bug said, PTL had the cure. Mail the money in and we'll spend it they said, no contracts, no bureaucrats, no bookkeeping.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.Community Education Programs

Host Families Sought for High School Exchange Students

Host families are being sought for high school students from Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Holland, Austria, Switzerland, Germany, Spain, France, Italy, Brazil, Australia and Japan for the school year 1989-1990, in a program sponsored by the American Intercultural Student Exchange (AISE).

The students, aged 15 through 18, will arrive in the United States in August 1989, attend the local high school, and return to their home country in late June 1990. The students, all fluent in English, have been screened by their school representatives in their home countries and have spending money and medical insurance.

AISE is also seeking American high school students, aged 15 through 17, who would like to spend a high school year in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Switzerland, Germany, France, Spain or Australia; or to participate in a five-week host family stay in Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Finland, Germany, France, or Spain.

Families interested in this program should call toll-free 1-800-SIBLING.

So A Chiropractor Is Really A Family Doctor?

Yes. HERE'S WHY...

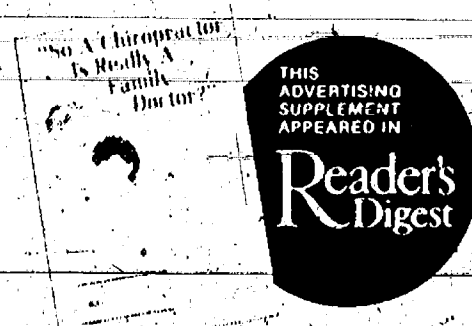

Most people think of doctors of chiropractic as specialists in treating health problems of the back and spine. And they are, for chiropractors have been extremely effective in relieving pain and getting people back on their feet without drugs or surgery.

But doctors of chiropractic do more. They diagnose to determine whether other illnesses may be related to structural problems, which often is the case.

Chiropractors take an interest in your total health and well-being. And if a problem is indicated which requires specialized treatment, the doctor of chiropractic will refer you to the appropriate health specialist.

Great Gains in Human Safety
Despite Grim Headlines

Americans today are far safer from death by accident than at any other period in our nation's history. In the course of a year, one citizen out of four will experience injury. Some injuries will be serious and perhaps crippling, but most will be simple cuts, sprains or bruises. When it comes to death, 20 will reach the end of life from natural or causes for which person who dies by misadventure.

This is the planned, earned outcome of a nation-wide effort to teach, preach and practice safety in our homes, at work, at school, in public and at play. It is also the combined achievement of 162-million motorists, the overwhelming majority of whom try to drive safely and succeed. It is commonplace any day of the year for hundreds of cars on local roads travelling in opposite directions to pass within inches of each other at combined speeds of up to 100 miles an hour. The drivers think nothing of it because they can trust each other.

Headlines and newsphotos in the press, and programs on TV, never focus on the uneventful ways we go safely through the day. And yet this is the most spectacular story of all. We are living exemplars of the triumph of our systems of safety. We work calmly next to huge whirling machines and think nothing of it because we are shielded from the moving parts. The woman works in her kitchen literally surrounded by 110 volts of electricity because she knows the safety rules for every appliance and outlet.

Safety is taught to us all. In turn we teach, pray, beg, cajole and holler at our children to get our safety messages across. How do we become so knowledgeable and proficient? How come school teachers, factory foremen, police officers, school crossing guards and playground supervisors know so doggone much about safety?

They know it because they, and we, are part of a nation-wide safety network which comes under the leadership of the National Safety Council. This is a non-governmental, not-for-profit public service organization which was chartered in 1913 by an act of Congress. Its membership includes local safety councils, schools, automobile clubs, chambers of commerce, industrial associations and departments of federal, state and municipal governments.

The Council publishes an annual report, Accident Facts, which is the country's most widely-distributed source of authoritative information on safety. Its 1989 edition is expected late in September. In the meantime the 1988 edition depicts the dramatic progress we have made over 75 years in our defenses against all kinds of accidents. Statistical tables are based on information obtained from many sources and cover the years 1985, 1986 and 1987 as indicated and I will quote a few.

The story of lives saved is revealed in the falling rates of accidental deaths per 100,000 people. In 1912, when Woodrow Wilson was elected president, 82 out of every 100,000 Americans died accidentally. By 1987 the rate had dropped to 39.

A total of 94,000 Americans were killed by accident during 1987. If the rate which prevailed in 1912 had remained in effect, 198,000 people would have met accidental death during that same year. Here in rounded figures is the over-all picture as reported by the National Safety Council:

U. S. ACCIDENTAL DEATHS—1987

All accidents	94,000
Motor vehicle accidents	48,700
Falls	11,300
Drowning	5,300
Fires, smoke and burns	4,800
Poisoning: liquids/solids	4,400
Suffocation/choking	3,200
Firearms	1,400
Poisoning: gases/vapors	1,000
Other	13,900

"Other" causes include fatal accidents with air transport, machinery, boats and excessive cold.

Getting started is the most hazardous time of life. Accidents are the leading cause of death from age 1 to age 24 with the years of adolescence and early adulthood most disastrous of all. In 1985 children 5 to 14 years of age had fatalities of 4,252 while youths of 15 to 24 suffered the nation with 19,161 accidental deaths. Almost three-quarters of these tragedies involved automobiles.

At all ages from 1 to 74 males meet accidental death more often than their sisters. Boys and men were victims of 69 percent of all fatal accidents in 1985.

45,900 Killed in Auto Accidents

More than half of all accidental deaths involved automobiles with young people aged 15 to 24 and 25 to 44 responsible for 64 percent of the fatalities. The death rate per 100,000 drivers was 11 for women compared to 28 for men.

Here is the over-all picture for motor vehicle accidents in 1987 as reported in Accident Facts:

Deaths	48,700
Disabling injuries	1,800,000
Cost	$64.7 billion
Motor-vehicle-mileage	1,909 billion
Registered vehicles	186,137,000
Licensed drivers	161,975,000

We can be grateful for our nation-wide system of school busses. The 1987 figures show that nearly 22 million pupils per day are transported with about 120 accidents nation-wide, mostly with other vehicles. Of equal importance to pupil safety are the patrol boys and girls who protect the movement of pedestrian pupils at street crossings.

Health and Safety

The population of our nation—now about 243 million people—produces statistics so large as to be misleading. It seems as though accidents will eventually wipe out our population. The fact is that accidents are responsible for only one death in 22. Here's how the big picture looks when we include health factors:

CAUSE OF DEATH—All Ages, 1985

Heart Disease	771,169
Cancer	461,563
Stroke	153,050
Accidents	93,457
Pulmonary diseases	74,662
Pneumonia	67,615
Diabetes	39,969
Suicide	29,453
Liver diseases	26,767
Nephritis/nephrosis	21,349
Homicide	19,893
TOTAL	2,086,440

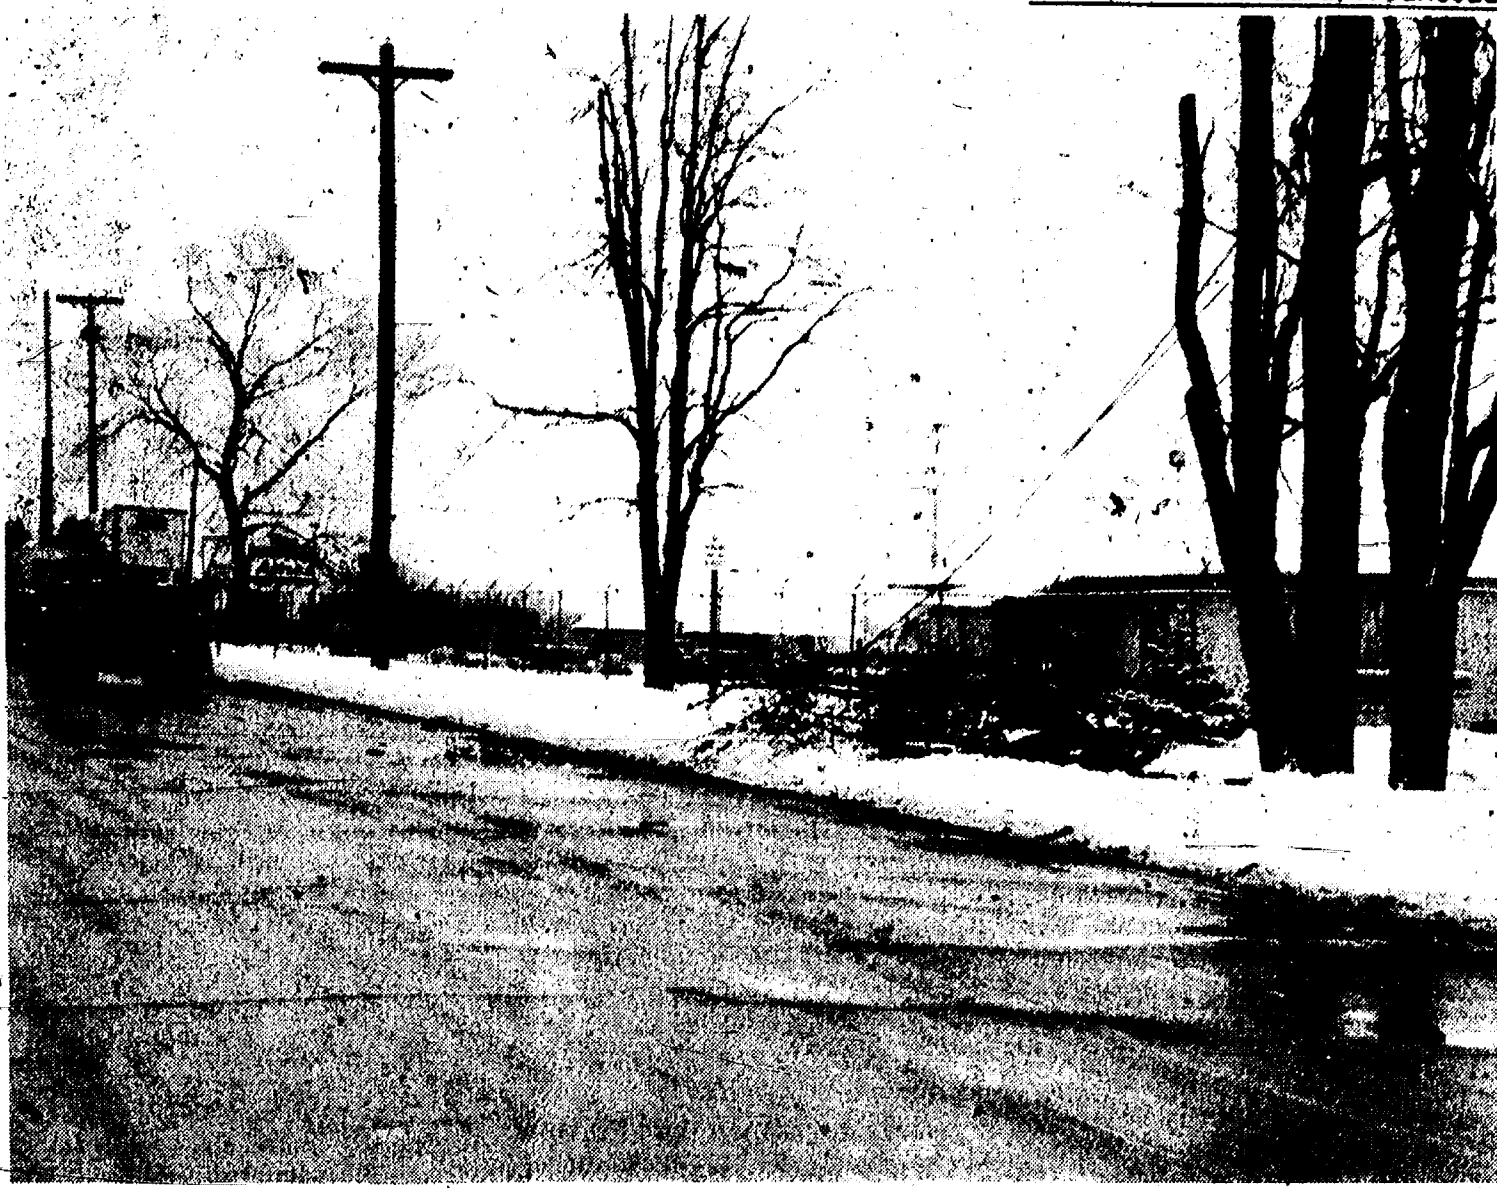

We are making progress with heart disease on many fronts including personal prevention by means of exercise, lowered cholesterol and weight control. Cancer is being attacked by medications and chemotherapy along with efforts to diminish carcinogens in foods and the environment. Reduced stress is seen as a sensible approach to the third largest cause of death in America, stroke.

A serious setback to the national health has come with the frightening growth of cocaine use and the almost instant addiction of anyone who experiments with "crack." It is doubly tragic because those affected are the ghetto dwellers who seek some alternative to despair and poverty. For a time it seemed that the upper and middle classes were making a fashion of cocaine but now they are turning their backs on this dangerous narcotic. Still at peril are any children who experiment with any kind of drugs, including nicotine.

The Elderly

As people go through their senior years they are increasingly handicapped by faulty vision, diminished hearing and impaired physical skills. Between ages 65 and 77 the leading cause of accidental death is the motor vehicle.

After 78 falls become the oldsters' greatest hazard. For those over 80,

ELECTRICAL WORK continued in the southern end of the village last week as the village continues to upgrade service in the area that has experienced the most development over the last year. Above, workers string new utility pole lines.

Brock Report Author To Speak at Farmers Day

Keynote speaker for the third annual Lenawee county Farmers Day will be Richard Brock, president of Brock Associates, a nationally known commodity marketing consulting firm that provides consulting services to farmers, agribusiness firms, and users of hedgable industrial commodities.

Brock Associates currently manages grain sales on approximately 300,000 acres of row crop production throughout the United States, and serves as a commodity marketing advisor and price forecaster to many of the nation's largest agribusiness firms, food companies and financial institutions.

Besides being president of Brock Associates, Brock also authors The Brock Report, a 32-page weekly newsletter which details commodity analysis and recommendations, and a monthly column for Agri-Finance. He has served as market editor for Farming, a financial agribusiness journal for the Farm Credit System. In addition, Brock's articles have appeared in Farm Journal and Californian.

nia Farmers. He is frequently quoted by news wires and The Wall Street Journal, and appears regularly on the television program Morning Agriculture Report.

In addition to the above obligations, Brock gives an average of 50-60 speeches per year, addressing audiences on the general economic and commodity outlook. He also serves as an arbitrator for the National Futures Association, settling disputes in the commodity industry.

Brock was born and raised on a grain and livestock farm in central Indiana.

Farmers Day will be held Jan. 25, at the St. Joseph's Hall, US-12 and Egan Highway (east of Cambridge Junction in Lenawee county). Agribusiness displays and booths will be featured throughout the day along with speakers on various ag-related subjects.

Groundwater Contamination Interim Report Issued

A recent interim report issued by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) indicates that "normal agricultural use" of chemicals has resulted in contamination of groundwater in at least 26 states. The EPA did not find any confirmed contamination in Michigan and, according to Michigan Army Bureau public affairs director Al Almy, even in the rest of the country, the contamination levels detected were very minor.

"The study is not based on actual testing done by EPA, but rather it represents a literature search by the agency of contamination reports by various water quality agencies," Almy said. "It's difficult to draw any hard and fast conclusions from the findings in the EPA report since many agricultural areas were not sampled and are not statistically represented."

Almy said there will be a clearer picture of the national groundwater contamination situation when EPA completes its survey of some 1,300 community and domestic drinking water wells located nationwide. The survey is expected to be completed in late 1989. A national analysis of the pesticide contamination of drinking water wells is scheduled for release in 1990.

Very few great Flamenco guitarists can read music. They learned their art from childhood.

hip fractures are a constant threat and 200,000 occur annually. For persons 90 and over the second greatest risk is suffocation while ingesting food or other objects.

As mentioned earlier, frequent news reports sometimes give us the feeling that we are being overwhelmed by accidents, especially when we look at 94,000 deaths and 62 million injuries in a single year. It is only by seeing how much better we are doing historically that we can find comfort in our inbuilt safety habits and safety education. In most respects we are either holding the line or making headway.

It has probably been said a million times before, but we can all say it again: Safety is no accident.

Hafner Wants To Hire Son For Water Dept.

Electric and Water Department Superintendent Bud Hafner wants to hire his son to work in the water department full-time.

Lee Hafner has been a part-time employee for four months.

However, what apparently was to be a routine hiring was at least temporarily delayed by trustee Joe Merkel, who said the personnel committee would study the recommendation and make its own recommendation.

Merkel told council he does not like the idea of a father-son, employer-employee relationship. Other trustees agreed but said they would support Hafner's decision.

"That's what we pay (Bud) to do," Gary Bentley said.

Bud Hafner, in a summary of candidates, said "it would be a sin on my part against the people of the Village of Chelsea to waste the past four months of experience and training during his part-time employment. As for father and son, if any problems develop from this, I will have to solve them."

"Don't fight with the pillow, but lay down your head and kick every worry out of the bed."

—Edmund Vance Cook

These words discourage us from taking our problems to bed. A new day often brings a new perspective and troubles may appear much less frightening, less insurmountable.

In reality, there is perhaps little if anything magical about a new day insofar as lessening the impact of our troubles are concerned. And, it is a certainty that, if we allow ourselves to fret and fuss over personal worries through a long night we will find ourselves in a poor state of mind to cope efficiently with our problems when the new day arises.

Locally owned and operated, we identify closely with this community which we serve with dedication, dignity and good taste.

Dry Bean Industry Study Group Releases Final Report

Representatives of Michigan's dry bean industry studying marketing trends, growing conditions in the state, quality, promotion and research have released the findings of their 18-month study.

According to Dick Leach, Saginaw county farmer and co-chairperson of the study committee, the Michigan dry bean industry was devastated by heavy rains and flooding in the fall of 1986, and the loss of nearly 70 percent of the state's heavy bean crop. The loss meant increased bean acreage by traditional producers in other regions and by new producers with no history of production.

"Because of the flood disaster in 1986 and the very dry conditions in 1987 and 1988, the dry bean industry in Michigan is at a crossroads. The industry is challenged to meet the threat from other production areas, regain credibility and reliability in the marketplace and set the future course of business for dry bean production in Michigan," said Leach.

PROMOTED: Navy Seaman Recruit Dale S. Black, son of Jean M. and Joe E. Black, Sr., of Pinckney, has been promoted to his present rank while serving at Recruit Training Command, Orlando, Fla. A 1988 graduate of Pinckney High School, he joined the Navy in August 1988.

Energy Conservation Grants Deadline Nears

The application deadline for Michigan Energy Conservation Program (MECP) direct grants is set for Jan. 30. According to Dennis Rice, Washtenaw county MECP technician, direct grants of up to $1,000 will be offered to farmers and forest producers who, under the MECP program, will complete energy efficiency improvements. The funds will be distributed by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District.

Applications will be reviewed in February and the applicants will be notified of the approval or denial of their grant application by March 30. Approved applicants will then have up to six months to complete their energy conserving practices with the assistance of the MECP energy technician.

Purpose of the direct grant program is to provide financial incentives to individuals, allowing them to make energy improvements in their enterprises. Grants will be available for improvements like planter upgrades, irrigation equipment improvements, sprayer calibration and improvements, logging equipment efficiency, and livestock facility efficiency improvements. The money will go toward material and/or equipment purchases only.

The Direct Grant Program is an integral part of the Michigan Energy Conservation Program and helps provide direct reimbursement to farmers and forest product producers who will be initiating energy conservation management practices into their businesses.

For further information and to obtain a Direct Grant Application form, call or visit Dennis Rice, MECP technician, at the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District office, 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor. Telephone: (313) 761-6721.

Farm Bureau Praises AG Secretary Choice

Michigan Farm Bureau President Jack Laurie called the selection of Clayton Yeutter as agriculture secretary for the Bush administration, a "very good" choice.

"Clayton has a solid background in agriculture plus several years of invaluable experience in agricultural trade issues," said Laurie. "He is an ideal choice for the issues we are facing, such as the upcoming budget debate, world trade talks and the 1990 farm bill debate. All these matters are tied together and each will have an important bearing in the next few years."

The farm leader said Yeutter was one of several excellent candidates for the job. "He believes in a market-oriented agriculture and strong competitive export policies. His choice will send a clear message to other countries that President-elect Bush views agricultural trade matters with the utmost importance," said Laurie.

RICHARD CLARK

Ice Fishermen Report Some Good Catches

Richard Clark of Grass Lake placed his nephew's ice shanty in exactly the right spot on the north shore of Cavanaugh Lake last Dec. 29. The ice was clear, and the shanty joined a cluster of six other shanties. The next day at 3 p.m., Clark brought in a 19", just under 5-lb. large mouth bass on Friday, Dec. 30.

His successful catch was the result of using a silver and green spoon (with yellow eyes) and a chunk of chub, then dropping it to a depth of about 17', and jigging the lure up and down. After no further luck, other than an 8" perch and a large bluegill, Clark moved the shanty close to shore. No one caught any fish there all week-end.

On Tuesday, Jan. 3, his nephews, Dennis and Jon Clark, decided to move the shanty back to the original spot. Fishermen nearby had claimed to have seen a huge pike named "Moe," said to be about four feet long. Not too many fishermen are on the lake Monday through Friday, so they were pretty much on their own. They re-drilled the holes, and outfitted a decoy using uncle Dick's green lure and a chunk of fish. A pike circled the bait, and Dennis speared it. The pike was 28" long. The boys were excited as it was the first Dennis had speared, and not being much interested in fishing, was a big surprise.

A pike limit keeper is 20", and now they are after a bigger prize with a lot of confidence.

Richard Clark, an avid hunter and fisherman, claims the bass he brought out of the lake was his largest bass trophy. He wrapped it in a damp towel and took it home with plans to have it mounted, if at all possible.

Bass season ended Dec. 31, and Clark plans to come back and look for old "Moe," if one of the other Cavanaugh Lake ice fishermen don't spear him first!

Legislature OKs Animal Industry Act Rewrite

Before the Michigan Legislature adjourned, members approved a rewrite of the State's Animal Industry Act of 1919. The law, which primarily concerns animal health, had been frequently amended since it was originated, but according to Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel Ron Nelson, "The act really needed to be substantially revised to meet the needs of modern agriculture."

He said the revision put forth an important section concerning farmer indemnification for animals which must be destroyed in order to control the spread of disease. Farmers would be compensated at 75 percent of the value of an animal, not to exceed $1,000.

"For the purpose outlined in this bill, the (destroyed) animals would be valued as grade animals," Nelson said. "In no event would additional consideration be given for registered or purebred animals."

County Historical Society Will Hear Artist Ben Bower

Chelsea artist Benjamin R. Bower will use his own paintings as a basis for his talk, "Interpreting Local History, Past and Present, Through Watercolors," at the Washtenaw County Historical Society meeting.

It will be at 2 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 15, at Bentley Library, 1150 Beal, on the University of Michigan North Campus near Veteran's Hospital.

His paintings are the result of much digging into local history, he says, many walks around Ann Arbor and Washtenaw county, much poring over old newspapers and photographs before he takes watercolor pencil in hand.

Bower, who has painted since he was a child, discovered watercolor pencils during World War II in the South Pacific when a buddy received them as a gift.

Uninterested, the buddy gave them to him and he has since made them his medium. He uses them both dry and wet to produce his pictures of local landmarks.

He was employed in the Waterloo Recreation Area office for the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for 25 years. Now officially retired, he owns and operates a picture frame shop as well as painting.

The meeting is open to the public free of charge. Free parking is available Sundays across the street with limited parking by library.

Rebates are nothing new, says the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association. Henry Ford announced plans to rebate $40 to $60 to each purchaser of a new Ford Model T providing the Ford Motor Co. sold more than 300,000 cars from August 1914 to August 1915.

Body Shop Purchases Option In Industrial Park

Roberts Paint & Body has purchased an exclusive option to buy a lot adjoining the business in the village's industrial park.

The lot would sell for $18,000 should the company exercise its option.

Under terms of the option, purchased for $500, Roberts Paint & Body would have to exercise its right within 72 hours of notice that the village has received an offer of at least $18,000 for the lot.

The $500 is non-refundable unless the lot is sold to another party.

The option runs for one year.

Roberts is one of three tenants in the industrial park.

MORMON CHURCH on Freer Rd. is planning a major expansion to its existing facility. The new building will include a half basketball court and seven classrooms. It will be financed almost entirely by the national church.

Mormon Church Plans Addition

Chelsea's Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints on Freer Rd. is planning a 5,500-square-foot addition to its 3,500-square-foot facility.

The addition, according to Branch President Wayne Winzenz, will give the church a large multi-purpose area, complete with a basketball half-court, as well as seven classrooms.

"The classroom space is especially critical to us," Winzenz said.

"The whole facility will allow us to grow by 70 percent before we expand again."

The project will be almost entirely funded by money from the national Mormon church. When the building is dedicated, it will be completely paid for.

However, the local congregation, which essentially comes from the western part of the county, will be responsible for building maintenance, Winzenz said.

"The nature of the construction is expensive," Winzenz said.

"It is essentially a double-shell because the idea is to minimize the heating and cooling expense and to make it as maintenance-free as possible."

The original 3,500-square-foot building cost about $350,000, Winzenz said.

The last church building project was completed in 1985. Since then the membership has grown from 55 to 125, Winzenz said. He said the church will be eligible to expand its facilities again, according to national rules, when it reaches 180-190 members who regularly attend church.

The church's building philosophy is a little unusual, Winzenz said, in that the most flexible space is built first, and the dedicated space is built last. That means a permanent chapel won't be constructed until the next phase.

Girl Scout Cookie Sale Starts Jan. 14

Girl Scout cookies were first sold in 1934 for 23 cents a box. There was only one kind—shortbread cookies baked in the shape of the Girl Scout trefol.

More than 50 years later, Girl Scouts are still selling shortbread cookies, along with six other varieties: honey glazed Chocolate Chips, chocolate sandwich Echo Echos, coconut caramel Samoas, chocolate Thin Mints, oatmeal peanut butter sandwich Do-Si-Dos, shortbread Trefolls, and peanut butter patty Tagalongs.

From Jan. 14-27, Huron Valley Girl Scouts will continue the tradition by selling cookies in Washtenaw, Livingston, western Wayne and Monroe counties.

Although plenty has changed since Girl Scout founder Juliette Low's time, Girl Scouts still learn to take the lead in their communities by participating in substance abuse awareness programs, outdoor education activities, and leadership training events.

The Girl Scout cookie sale is the financial backbone for providing these programs and services to nearly 12,000 girls in the four-county area the Council serves. Participation in this sale not only teaches girls about teamwork, it also gives them hands-on experience with the free enterprise system—experience that will help prepare them for the transition from cookies to careers.

Girl Scout cookies may be ordered from any Huron Valley Girl Scout. Cookies will also be sold at local Farmer Jack, Great Scott, A & P, and Kroger stores Feb. 18 through March 5.

For more information, call the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council at (313) 483-2370.

EDUCATION RESEARCH

Prepared by the National Association of Secondary School Principals (NASSP), Reston, Va.

★ Study Looks at Raising College Entrance Exam Scores ...

High school seniors who have taken advanced mathematics and science courses will earn higher scores in college entrance exams, according to a study conducted at the University of Iowa.

The higher the family income, the higher the test scores, according to George A. Chambers, professor of educational administration and primary author of the report which compared Hispanic and Caucasian student scores on the American College Test (ACT).

"The most significant outcome of this study is that all students, regardless of ethnicity or race, can benefit from increased academic opportunity," said Chambers.

Chambers compared scores of pairs of Hispanic and Caucasian students who had been identically matched on 13 characteristics. In addition to family income and coursework, those characteristics were gender, number of siblings and school attended.

"When Caucasian and Hispanic students have the same educational and family backgrounds, approximately two-thirds of the national variance in test scores disappear," Chambers said. "Family income and courses taken affect test scores more directly than any other factors including ethnicity and race."

For both Hispanic and Caucasian students, studying trigonometry and chemistry had the greatest relationship with improved test scores, Chambers explained.

"While we can't do anything about family income, we can do something about the courses our students take. We must raise their expectations, and encourage them to take courses which make a difference," Chambers urged. "Kids' achievement must not be limited by stereotyping. They must be encouraged to try other courses and must be shown that high expectations apply to them."

Chambers also urges greater federal support.

"Underclass, minority and immigrant children are not solely the children of states like California, or Texas, or Florida, or Illinois. They are the children of America, and federal assistance is needed."

Chambers recommends increasing federal support for education from the current $8 billion to $40 billion, the equivalent of approximately $1,000 per student, with the most assistance going to states with the highest rates of immigration, minority students, poverty and the largest cities.

"The current defense budget is nearly 40 times the total national expenditure for public education in kindergarten through 12th grade," Chambers said. "States must adopt equitable finance plans to support their educational systems."

He encourages establishing demonstration centers where new educational programs can be tested. He also urges expansion of curricular offerings in multilingual and multicultural education and an increased emphasis on teacher preparation in these areas.

Further information on this study may be obtained from Chambers, 319/335-5306.

Jennifer Cattell Spends Semester on Internship With Manchester Firm

Jennifer Cattell, daughter of Lynda Cattell of 358 Washington, Chelsea, worked this semester as a manufacturing-accounting intern for Johnson Controls in Manchester. This internship was arranged through the Carl A. Gerstacker Liberal Arts Program in Professional Management at Albion College.

The Gerstacker Professional Management Program requires that students complete at least two internships in their particular area of professional interest. These internships allow students to gain experience in developing work-related skills, along with the opportunity to observe and analyze the workings of a firm. The advantages of combining the practical experience of an internship with the theoretical knowledge of the classroom has been demonstrated by the successful placement of program graduates.

Cattell, a 1986 graduate of Chelsea High School, is a junior at Albion College.

Richard Haist Family Returns To Solomon Islands, for Now

Most people would probably love to go to the warm South Pacific about now as Michigan settles in for another long winter.

However, Richard and Bonnie Haist seem almost a little sad to leave here for the Solomon Islands. Bonnie and their three children have been visiting here for the last several months while Richard has been working with the United Nations to help the Solomon Islands government establish a department of energy. The kids have been attending school here this fall for the first time and have just gotten used to the change in climate.

They've also had a good chance to visit with their family and old friends.

But they all went back to Honiara, capital of the Solomon Islands, on Monday. On the map it's a little north and east of Australia. There are six or seven main islands among several hundred inhabited ones. They'll be there until at least the end of the year, when Richard's contract runs out. Then they hope to come back to the Chelsea area, where Richard grew up and graduated from high school in 1962.

But they may not. Richard has gained a lot of expertise over the last six years in helping developing nations with their energy problems. Richard and Bonnie spent two years in the Fiji Islands before moving on to the Solomons four years ago. They could end up in another tropical climate, or in some other part of the world. He has contacts literally all over the world.

"The UN philosophy is you shouldn't be in a country forever," Richard said.

"The idea is to develop skills in the people and get out. We will probably come back here, but it's possible we could hear about some other place to go. It's hard to look for a job here when you're 10,000 miles away."

Richard and Bonnie were living in Missouri when Richard found out about the job in the Fiji Islands. He had been working in the state's department of energy, specifically in the state solar office where he assisted people in building energy efficient houses through the use of advanced solar technology.

In Fiji he became deputy director in the Ministry of Energy and was in charge of special projects. In particular, he helped install photovoltaic devices in remote areas of the islands to create electricity. In addition, he helped establish electrical co-operatives.

Two years later, someone submitted Richard's name for the UN job, and he gladly accepted.

Solomon Islands was owned by the British government until 1978. Many of the English-trappings are there, such as driving on the left side of the road. English is the official language, but there is no main language spoken by a majority of the population. The country has a parliamentary government.

Guadalcanal, one of the islands, was the site of some of the fiercest fighting during World War II. In fact, in some places you can find shells of Japanese fighter planes in the jungles. You can even see the only Sherman tank used by U. S. forces.

Richard's job is a lot more administrative than hands-on. He's helping set up training programs and is advising on energy policy. The country is entirely dependent on imported oil, but has inadequate storage, so he's helping to organize tank farms in major provincial centers. In addition, he's trying to move the country to using hydropower to create electricity. But he's faced with practical problems such as finding qualified people to staff the energy department.

Bonnie's main job is raising her children, daughters Paloma, 8, and Lydia, 11, and son Jamake, 8. It's virtually impossible for her to get a job outside her home because paying positions are given to the locals. Consequently, she has spent much of her time in volunteer positions. She helped start a women's crisis center. She's been active in the Brownies, and has volunteered her time to her children's school.

The children attend an international school filled with the children of people from all over the world—England, China, and the Middle East among them—as well as Solomon Islanders.

The children lead an outdoor life as the weather is warm all year long. They go to the beach, ride bikes, build tree-huts, make bows and arrows, and similar activities. Plus, there is no television programming to watch, although the family does own a VCR and occasionally rents a movie. A big night of entertainment is generally visiting with friends.

"I'm kind of glad they're getting back to that kind of life," Bonnie said. "But I have real mixed feeling about leaving."

The school only teaches children up to age 12, and Lydia will be that age this year. After that there's no school for her to attend. That's another reason the Haists want to come back to Chelsea to live.

U.S. Retaliation Against E.C. Will Boost Michigan Cherry Juice Sales

The U. S. retaliation against the European Community, in the form of 100% tariffs on some imported products, should boost the market for Michigan cherries, according to Noel Stuckman, general manager of the Michigan Agricultural Co-operative Marketing Association (MACMA), a Farm Bureau affiliate.

The action was in response to the EC's ban on U. S. beef imports as of Jan. 1 and the list of products against which the U. S. will retaliate includes cherry juice.

"Doubling the price of imported cherry juice from the EC countries will make our cherry juice very competitively priced," Stuckman said. "Buyers going for the lower price should buy Michigan cherry juice instead of the European cherry juice."

Cherry juice is used in fruit juice beverages, jellies and preserves.

Let's Go

Bulldogs!

Balanced Attack Gives Dogs Big Win Over Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs evened their Southeastern Conference record at 2-2 with a relatively easy victory last Friday over the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 76-57.

The quicker, and sometimes taller, Dreadnaughts were out-hustled inside as Brian Burg and Kerry Plank combined for 31 points and grabbed most of the team's 40 rebounds. Excellent ball movement gave Chelsea numerous opportunities in the paint and the Bulldogs used the chances well as they shot 43 percent from the field. The Dogs ended with 17 assists as Chelsea's taller guards were able to find their open teammates.

"We played real well and real hard," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We also played with a lot of emotion and we played well as a team. We passed exceptionally well and our shot selection was as good as it has been all year."

Chelsea started out slowly and fell behind by five points early. At the end of the first quarter they trailed 18-14.

However, the Bulldogs out-scored the Dreadnaughts 20-14 in the second quarter to take the lead for good. A 7-2 run early at the start of the second half gave Chelsea all the room they needed.

Dexter narrowed the gap to 54-49 early in the fourth quarter, but Chelsea scored 13 unanswered points to take a 67-49 lead. During the stretch, senior guard Larry Nix had two of his four assists and the Bulldogs had three steals.

"The only difference between the first and second half is our shots didn't fall early," Raymond said.

Chelsea also made 21 of 25 attempts from the free throw line to just 11-19 for Dexter.

Defensively, Chelsea concentrated on stopping guards Andy and Marty Walsh, and center David Schmidt, who Raymond said are as good as any players in the SEC. Although the trio combined for 48 points, no other Dexter player scored more than two. Chelsea's trapping defense forced 24 turnovers as the Dogs were often able to double-team one of the Walsh brothers.

"They only seemed to run about two plays and the rest was one-on-one," Raymond said.

"They forced a lot of shots." Burg finished the game as the Bulldog scoring leader with 17 points. Kerry Plank and Chad Starkey each had 14 points. Junior Morseau and John Collins each had 12. Kyle Plank scored five, and Nix connected on one jump shot for two points.

"We can't ask for better balance than that," Raymond said.

Chelsea's record improved to 2-6 on the season, while Dexter fell to 1-8, and 1-3 in the league.

In non-conference action on Tuesday, Chelsea lost to Onsted, 79-63.

Chelsea led most of the first half and went into the intermission with a 36-35 lead.

However, Onsted came out hot in the third quarter to out-score Chelsea 23-11.

"We had a lot of foul trouble early as the officials were calling a lot of touch fouls and didn't let either team play aggressively, which is not good for us," Raymond said.

"They called it the same way for both teams, but we just didn't adjust to it very well. Onsted was playing a passive defense so the officiating didn't hurt them as much. In the third quarter we were a little timid and Onsted hit a lot of 14-foot shots."

Morseau and Starkey each had three fouls by half-time.

"We had the opportunity to win if we had just played better in the second half," Raymond said.

"Onsted is a good team, but certainly no better than we were."

Burg again led the team with 21 points and 13 rebounds and was the dominant player on the court, Raymond said.

"It was Brian's best game so far," Raymond said.

Rounding out the scoring were Kerry Plank with 12 points, Collins with 11, Sinisa Janicevic with six, Kyle Plank with five, and Starkey and Morseau with four each.

Chelsea was 19-44 from the field and 25-32 from the line. Onsted hit 27-43 from the floor and 23-34 from the line. The Dogs held a 32-27 rebound edge, but gave the ball away more times, 24-20.

CHAD STARKEY takes a driving jump shot good for two points in first half action. Chelsea took a surprisingly easy victory over the Dexter Dreadnaughts and evened their SEC record at 2-2.

Chelsea Tankers Lose to Adrian

Chelsea Bulldog swim team was handed a 109 to 83 defeat at the hands of Adrian last Tuesday, Jan. 3.

"The Adrian swim team was very deep with five swimmers in every event," said coach Dave Jolly.

"It is difficult for our young men to get up for a meet right in the middle of the hard training of Christmas break."

Garth Girard swam a season-best time of 1:56.53 in the 200-yard freestyle and Joe Huetteman's 2:03.21 was said by Jolly to be an exceptional time for this point in the season, as was Von Acker's 24:39 in the 50-yard freestyle.

Also in the 50-yard freestyle, two personal-best times were slated by Dirk Colbry and Adam McArthur at 26.80 and 35.73, respectively.

Mark-Luick received the first of Chelsea's two first places for the evening by winning the diving.

Chelsea's second win came from Wally Schmid in the 100-yard freestyle with a time of 52.93.

However, Jolly said the best swim of the meet was performed by Brett Paddock in the 100-yard backstroke, with a time of 1:01.79.

"Brett has improved his stroke in the past weeks and he looked excellent Tuesday night," added Jolly.

The next home meet for Chelsea will be tomorrow, Jan. 12 at 7 p.m. against Novi.

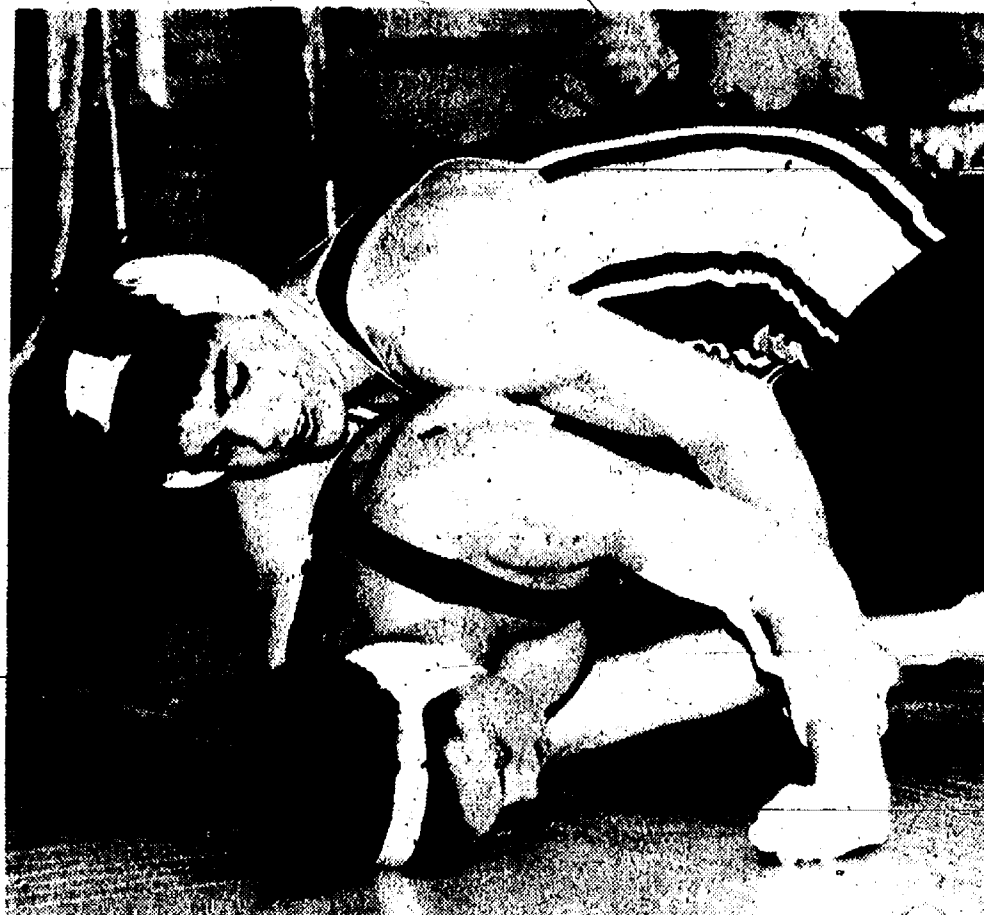

Jennifer Schweiger On Swim Team at Hillsdale College

Jennifer Schweiger of Chelsea, currently a freshman at Hillsdale College, is a member of the newly established Hillsdale College Women's Swim Team.

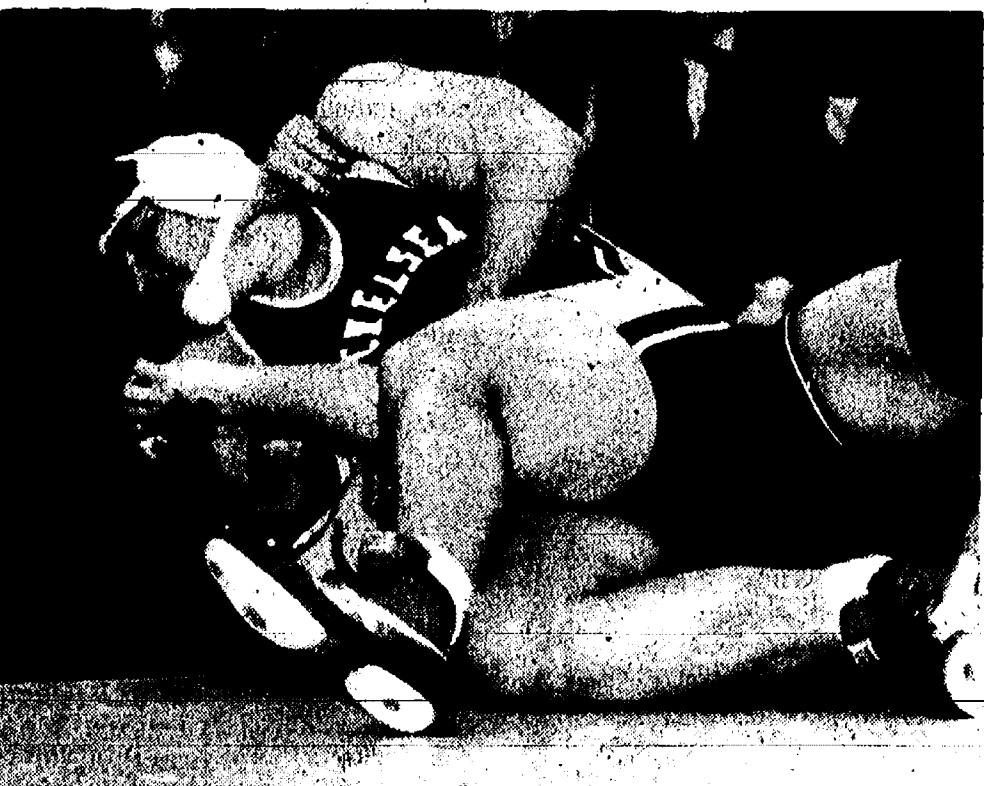

After the dedication of a new sports complex and natatorium on the Hillsdale campus, coach Dick Powers began to bring together a "walk-on" women's swim team.

Hillsdale swimmers compete with other GLIAC teams as well as with some non-conference competitors, and currently hold a 1-2 record in their premiere season.

Jennifer is the team diver and has competed twice in the one meter diving competition, capturing one second and one third place for the team. Jennifer also competes in swimming events, contributing to a fourth place in the 400-yard freestyle relay.

DOUG WINGROVE finished fifth at 145 pounds at the Jackson County Western Invitational last Saturday.

MIKE TAYLOR works on a pin during the competitive Jackson County Western tournament last Saturday. The senior placed third for the Bulldogs.

Wrestlers Murder Milan, Take 3rd at Invitational

Chelsea Bulldog wrestlers recorded what might be the first shut out in the history of the school with a 73-0 whipping of the Milan Big Reds at home last Thursday, Jan. 5.

The Bulldogs recorded eight pins in 13 matches. Milan scored only one point in any match all night long.

"Milan has an awfully young team," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

The first five Bulldogs all pinned their opponents. Carl Wickman at 103 pounds led off with a pin of John Schroder in 1:45. Pat Pinson, wrestling his first varsity match of the season, pinned Jerry Morawski in 1:20.

At 119 pounds, Pat Taylor pinned Eric Straub in 1:00. Reno Nye followed with a pin of Chico Arecheja in 5:33 at 125 pounds, and Craig McCalla ended the streak at 130 pounds with a pin of Scott Trout in 1:40.

At 135, Jim Hassett won a major decision over Dave Kent, 12-0. Adam Taylor won at 140 by default, and Doug Wingrove took 145 pounds by injury default.

Sutherland won at 152 pounds with a 13-0 major decision over Brian Graham.

Three of the last four matches were won by pins. Matt Herter pinned Bill Swift in :55 at 160, Pat Hassett pinned James Glenn at 171 pounds in :20, and Mike Taylor pinned Fred Spaulding in :55 at heavyweight.

Tim VanSchoick won a 16-1 major decision over Ray Sherry at 189 pounds.

In other action last Saturday, Chelsea finished third at the competitive Jackson County Western Invitational.

The Bulldogs had 155.5 points behind class A powerhouse Holt with 192, and Archibald (Ohio) with 230.5. Southeastern Conference foes Saline and Tecumseh finished fourth and fifth, respectively, with 98 and 96.5 points.

There were 17 teams.

"This is always one of the true tests of the season," Kargel said.

"And it always seems like we finish third, no matter what kind of team we have. It was a very physical tournament."

Chelsea had nine place-winners but no champions. However, Kargel said at least three more Bulldog wrestlers could easily have placed, as four wrestlers lost over-time matches.

"Those four losses really cost us a lot of points," Kargel said.

"With a break, we might have been able to place second."

Second place finishers were Pat Taylor at 119 pounds, and Sutherland at 152.

Taylor lost to Gary Kill of Jackson County Western in the finals, 6-0. Kill has qualified for the state tournament each of the last three years.

Sutherland lost in the finals to an Archibald wrestler.

"Dean really came out of the woodwork," Kargel said.

"He was seeded eighth."

Wickman placed third at 103 pounds. He was seeded seventh. Also placing third were VanSchoick at 198 pounds and Taylor at heavyweight.

All the third-place wrestlers had 3-1 records.

"Taylor's match was upsetting but

Pin Big Reds

Chelsea Bulldog JV wrestlers won all four of their matches against Milan last Thursday evening.

All four Bulldogs won by pin. At 135 pounds, Jeff Stump pinned Darrel Match in :51. Grant Kidd followed at 152 pounds with a pin of Mark Jeffers in 4:52. Andy Dehring, at 160 pounds, pinned Tom Stanley in 3:02. And heavyweight Mike Terpstra pinned Dave Budd in 4:53.

In other JV action last week, the team took fifth place at the Jackson Northwest Invitational on Saturday.

Terpstra, and Neil Klink, at 152 pounds, were champions in their classes.

Pat Pinson took second at 112 pounds, Kelly Beard took fourth at the same weight, and Kidd placed third at 152 pounds.

Correction

In last week's caption under the Chelsea varsity wrestling team, Terry Reynolds was mistakenly identified as a boy who had quit the team. In fact, Terry Reynolds is very much a part of the team. Another boy to his left was the one who had quit. We regret the confusion.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

My, oh my. What has happened to the Dexter Dreadnaught basketball team?

That's what I couldn't help wondering after watching Chelsea whip the Dexterites into submission last Friday. When I should have been ecstatic to see Chelsea play so well, instead I was wondering what dumpster the Dexter basketball program has been tossed into.

Dexter should be challenging for the conference lead. Any coach in the conference would love to have Andy Walsh; Marty Walsh, David Schmidt, and John King on his team. The first three, in particular, are superb athletes. They handle the ball well, can shoot and pass well, and know the game. Schmidt is about as good an inside player as you'll find in the league.

Dexter has won exactly one game this year. They had the same number of wins Chelsea had going into the game.

But Chelsea has been beset by injuries, and illness, and consequently, got off to a slow start. With a full house, my guess is the Bulldogs would easily be over .500, rather than 2-6.

As far as I know, Dexter hasn't had all those annoying problems. However, they have had to get used to a new coach, Gary Jordan, and his system.

It's the same situation the Bulldogs were in last year. Players left over from Rahn Rosentreter's regime all of a sudden had to get used to running their behinds off all the time. Raymond's and Rosentreter's styles are about as different as snow and steam. And the Bulldogs, with a lot of average players, had a horrible season in '87-'88.

I have no idea what kind of coach Gary Jordan is. He could be the second coming of Bill Frieder (that is supposed to be a compliment). Or he could be high school basketball's equivalent of Darryl Rogers (that's not a compliment). He hasn't had much of a chance to prove himself yet. Either way, I can't imagine that his style is as much of a departure from former coach Jim McCormack's as Raymond's is from Rosentreter's.

Anyway, the Dreadnaughts have enough talent and intelligence that they should be able to adapt pretty easily to a new system.

However, Friday night the Dreadnaughts looked so confused: If there was a team concept, I didn't see it. The players seemed to get frustrated with each other, the officiating, and the fans. One Dexter player, whom I won't name, turned to the less populated side of the court and yelled something that sounded like, "they're sick," a comment about the refs. It was shocking because I never would have expected that particular player to react like that.

There wasn't much fan support for the Dreadnaughts, either. The student section didn't even try to remind Chelsea fans about the outcome of last fall's football game, which was the least I expected. In fact, they were downright quiet, which I hope is not the result of this organization the school has formed called "Positive-Fan Committee." If it is, they ought to junk it before the fans start hiding out under the bleachers.

I hope the Dreadnaughts can turn it around and give Chelsea a better game next time. The seniors on that team deserve a good season. Heck, the Walsh family deserves better.

I still haven't heard a good explanation as to why Jim McCormack is not the Dexter coach this year. However, every coach I've talked to is under the impression that McCormack got a raw deal from whoever makes the hiring and firing decisions at Dexter. McCormack always seemed to be well prepared and his players were ready for every game.

Enough of Dexter.

Chelsea fans (except maybe parents and school board members) can rejoice!! NO more discrimination!! No more administrative interference!! They're being allowed to move the student section back into the balcony. And all without a hint of civil disobedience. No sit-ins in John Williams' office. No protests in the board room. Just heavy, behind-the-scenes negotiating. Did anyone see Jesse Jackson in town?

The change goes into effect at the Friday, Jan. 20 home game with Pinckney, not a moment too soon.

The students are apparently going to set up something called the "Dog Pound," on a three-game trial basis. There are a few rules, however.

Explosives and other noise makers are not allowed. Heavy making out is not allowed unless it is clearly visible and brought to the attention of the general public. No students may be tossed onto the court. Students will be frisked for toilet paper at the door. Parents will be given complimentary pith helmets at the door for anything that falls short of the court. If anything lands on the court, the entire Dog Pound will be euthanized.

The Bulldogs played an exceptional game last Friday. They are going to be a lot of fun to watch over the last half of the season. With everyone healthy, they're starting to look like a pretty good team.

I am one of many who hopes the Bulldogs can build on last Friday's game, if for no other reason than a good basketball season seems to make the winter a lot shorter.

BRIAN BURG GOES UP over Dexter's David Schmidt during the first half of last Friday's game. The junior center led the team in scoring with 17 points.

Bulldog Volleyball Team Ties With Milan in CHS Tourney

Chelsea Bulldog volleyball team finished tied for fourth with Milan in the Chelsea Invitational last Saturday.

The Bulldogs ended with a 4-6 record. Williamston was the winner, Pinckney was second, Stockbridge took third, and South Lyon was sixth.

New Chelsea coach Sue Steves said the competition was good and the Bulldogs played well.

Sarah Schaeffer led the Dogs with 12 kills and Lisa Park had 10. Mindy Ryan and Scharme Petty each had seven kills, Jennie Anderson had four and Meredith Hall had one.

Other members of the team include Jill Nowatzke, Stacy Norris, Barb Scriven, Chris Tallman, Heidi Boyer, Tonya Pugsly, and Michelle Graflund.

"Everybody had a chance to play," Steves said.

Ice Safety Precautions Must ALWAYS Be Observed

An average of seven people perish in ice-related accidents each year in Michigan, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) marine specialists report.

"The real tragedy is that these accidents, mostly ice sport related, are easy to prevent," said Sgt. Eric Olsen, DNR marine rules specialist. "People shouldn't be afraid of ice, but they should respect it and take proper safety precautions."

In 1982, four snowmobilers, unfamiliar with ice conditions on a lake, were drowned. In 1983, a particularly mild winter, 12 Michigan residents lost their lives in ice accidents; in 1984 DNR reports show five fatal accidents occurred. Michigan ice accidents for 1985, 1986 and 1987, produced eight, seven and five accidents, respectively.

"The majority of Michigan ice casualties involve cars, off-road vehicles (ORVs) and snowmobiles," said Olsen; "followed by ice fishing and kids playing on ice."

Early winter freezes and thaws render ice unsafe for any type of traffic, particularly in December and January, and again in March and April, as temperatures rise and fall.

"What constitutes a safe depth of ice is difficult to state," added Olsen: "While three inches of ice on a farm pond may pose little danger, that same three inches on a moving stream or a lake with springs, stumps and currents, could be very dangerous. On the Great Lakes, one step from three-foot ice may lead to nothing more than skim ice on the next step," he stated.

Safety precautions for ice sports are:

• Do not drive on ice.

• "Know Before You Go." Know the conditions of the ice before venturing out; continually test ice, with an ice spud or heavy bar, especially when skating or fishing.

• Be suspicious of gray, dark or porous spots in the ice, these may be soft areas. Ice deteriorates first around stream mouths, lake inlets and outlets, shorelines and around pilings and docks. Ice is strongest when it is hard and blue.

• Rescue gear for any ice activity should be handy. A ladder, 50 feet of rope or hose (tied around the victim), a tree limb, or even a spare tire or article of clothing can save a life.

• Assist ice victims from solid ground. If a rescuer must assist from ice, lie flat with weight spread as evenly as possible.

• Be familiar with the cold water drowning phenomenon. Start cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) and transport immediately to a hospital.

• If ice is doubtful, wear a personal flotation device or life jacket. Two large spikes can be used as a hand hold on the ice when crawling from a hole.

For unassisted ice-victims, follow these procedures:

• Turn on your back and kick to work your way out of the hole; your clothes will offer some flotation.

• Get out of the ice in the direction you walked on.

• Do not stand, rather, roll away from the hole until you can safely stand.

• Work fast, it takes only minutes before the cold water will affect your reasoning and grasp.

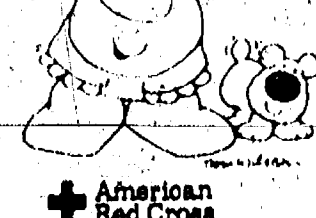

• Your clothes will soon freeze, walk to safety quickly.

For more information on Michigan ice accidents and ice safety tips, contact Sgt. Eric Olsen, DNR Law Enforcement Division, Box 30028, Lansing 48909, or call 517-373-1230.

Student Section Relocated To Balcony on Trial Basis

Chelsea High school students are "back in the balcony," according to a press release from the high-school publicity department.

Beginning Friday, Jan. 20 during the game with the Pinckney Pirates, students will be allowed to sit in the balcony during home basketball games, a practice that was discontinued last season. Students will be on a three-game probation after which the student-section status will presumably be re-considered.

The Student Council's Fan Committee, consisting of sophomore Brett Salamin, and seniors Laura Unterbrink and Bill Coelius IV, set up the "Dog Pound" after a meeting with school administrators and the athletic department.

The rules are, 1. no toilet paper will be allowed in the game, 2. nothing can be thrown, tossed, or lobbed onto the court, 3. no artificial noisemakers, such as whistles or horns will be allowed.

THE GRASS LAKE DEPOT, once one of the most beautiful structures in the village, somehow seems even more burned out with snow piled around it. A citizens group is working to restore the building, similar to Chelsea's successful effort to renovate its depot.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
Recent articles in The Ann Arbor News have explained different methods of curbside trash collection which encourage recycling and limit landfill use. One article described a proposal for mandatory recycling.

A recent article (12-28) explained the "orange bag" system Lansing has used since 1978. The City of Lansing sells distinctive orange trash bags in area stores. The orange bags are, then, the only ones the city picks up. This system is appealing because it is simple, encourages recycling, and is equitable: residents pay per amount of trash set out. Perhaps the Village of Chelsea could obtain and sell easily-identifiable biodegradable plastic bags for village residents' trash use.

Our small family "produces" approximately one bag of trash every week, as we recycle and re-use, compost, use a diaper service rather than disposable diapers, and try to limit the amount of trash we create. One way we limit the amount of packaging material in our trash is by buying bulk food from Ann Arbor's People's Food Co-op. Other village residents throw all recyclable materials (newspapers, glass, metal cans) and organic garbage in with other trash with little thought, or certainly, no attention to the quantity or destiny of the trash produced. Why should we pay as much for collection of four bags of trash per month as those residents who create 20 bags a month? We pay, and the environment pays.

Mandatory recycling is difficult to administrate and enforce; however, if it is to someone's financial advantage to recycle, they will generally do it.

Other suggestions to cut village trash pick-up costs, conserve landfill space, encourage recycling, and motivate people to examine their trash habits:

- 1) Cut trash pick up to once a week.
- 2) Educate people (Proposed variances are well-publicized in The Chelsea Standard. It was hard to find news of the long-awaited opening of the recycling station in the paper.)
- 3) Ban disposable diapers (as one New England town did, and consequently reduced the amount of garbage headed for the landfill by 25 to 33%).

We use and appreciate the recycling station at Polly's and encourage other Chelsea area residents to use it as well.

The future of the planet begins with us.

Kirsten Jensen,
147 Orchard.

Chelsea School Bus Damaged In Accident of Nature

It's tempting to say the Bulldog basketball team got a lot of bang for their buck last week as they were traveling to Onsted. But, as nature would have it, it was a doe that literally crashed into the side of the varsity and JV team bus on M-50.

Coach Robin Raymond saw the deer run across a field, straight for the bus. Without breaking stride, the full-grown doe plowed into the yellow school bus and was killed instantly. It crumpled two windows into the laps of varsity players Larry Nix and Junior Morseau. Neither boy was hurt seriously but each had to have small pieces of glass removed from his body.

"It looked like it wanted to jump over the bus," Raymond said.

"I don't know if it was attracted by the yellow color or what."

Someone who saw the accident stopped to take the road kill home.

The bus suffered about $250 worth of damage, according to transportation supervisor Sally Proctor.

By: Elly Wheeler, First Grade, Mrs. Gietzen

One day when I was walking in the woods, I saw an elf. The elf said, "Hello. My name is Sharon. Like to pretend. Would you like to pretend with me?" "Yes. What should we pretend?" "We should pretend that we're grown-up." So they pretended they were grown-up and then they drew a fish. The fish was blue and yellow. Then they had lunch. For lunch they had a cheese sandwich. Then they went outside and played catch. While they were playing catch, a ladybug landed on the elf. The elf shook it's hand. It flew off. The bear said, "What a strange bug." "That is a ladybug," said the elf.

THE MOUSE WHO WENT FOR A VISIT

By: Heather McKenzie, Third Grade, Mrs. Moore

Once there was a mouse who decided to take a visit to his grandparents house. He had to be careful because there was a house with a cat in it. The house was white with a black door. He sneaked under the door. He peeked around, the coast was clear. He ran up on the table and there was the cat! It was sleeping. Suddenly, the mouse ran into a teapot. It woke the cat. The mouse ran and ran and ran. He ran as fast as he could. Just as the cat laid his paw on his tail, he was at his grandparents. His grandparents pulled and pulled and pulled him into their house. At last he was safe—until the next time anyway.

THE TURTLE THAT FOUND AN ACORN

By: Carrie Stubbs, Third Grade, Mrs. Gullter

One day a turtle named Frank was walking down the road when he saw something. He brought it home. His mother said, "Why don't you plant it? It will grow to be a big, big oak tree." So Frank went outside and said, "Mom, I planted it." His mom said, "Good work. Now you can go outside every day and see if it's grown. You can count the days and then when it is full grown you can see how many days it took." Then when it was full grown, it was 3 feet high and Frank grew 2 inches. That was his favorite tree because every day he would go play on it. He loved his tree. The end!

You take the suitcase and start down the hall. You find a secret room and you open the door and you find a treasure chest. You open it, there is a lot of jewelry in it. You drag the chest down the hall and you drag it into the cupboard and set it on the stool and open it. Your sister pops out and surprises you by saying, "You're it!"

THE HAUNTED HOUSE

By: Jimmy Tobbutt, Fifth Grade, Mrs. Moore

One night, at twelve o'clock, I received a phone call. It said to come to the Old Smith mansion on Oak Street. The house was believed to be haunted. I rode my bike over, and stopped in front of the house. I walked up the stairs and knocked on the door. The door swung open, and a huge butler appeared in the door. He had a nice vest on and fancy shoes. I walked in and asked if someone was here. He said that there was someone upstairs in the library. I walked up the creaky stairs and into the library. Nobody was there. Then the book shelf moved, and a secret passage appeared. I heard a voice say "Enter." I went in. It was dark. Finally, I saw a light. At the end of the tunnel there was a room. I walked into the room and the door shut behind me! Then something wrapped in a blanket ran towards me! Then it stopped and pulled off the blanket. It was my friend Steve. Then he said "Scared you, didn't I?"

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. I would like you to name several stocks that would be good for me to invest in. I want stocks that you think are likely to be worth more four or five years down the road. At the same time I would like you to list four or five characteristics that these companies have and that I could use to help me select other companies in the future. I want simple points that anyone can find out about a company because I'm a good reader, but not a person who likes to have to do a lot of research.

A. Before we name the stocks, let's list some features the companies should possess in order to have the prospects of being better than ordinary investments. You will be able to find this kind of information on most companies at your public library in the Standard & Poor's or Value Line reports or in the same services at your brokers office.

The features I'm mentioning were listed by Ralph L. Seger, Jr., in a recent story he wrote for Better Investing magazine. He said first look at the company's sales five years ago and this year. They should be at least 50% greater. Earnings per share should show the same kind of increase.

Secondly, look at the company's price-earnings ratio at the bottom of the S & P sheet. You should be able to buy it today at a PE that is reasonable relative to what it has sold at in the past and in relation to its growth rate.

Third, look at the column "Return on Equity." This should be at least 12%. Compare this figure with the same figure for other companies that are competitors. The higher the figure, the better managed the company is and the more likely it is to have advantages over its competitors.

Lastly, look at the bottom of the front page of the Standard & Poor's report on the company for the "% payout." This shows how much of earnings are paid out in dividends. If the "Return on Equity" is above average and the company is retaining more than half of its earnings, then management is likely to have ideas for continuing to build the business and the skill to do it.

If you look at those figures for Abbott Laboratories, Apple Computer, Barnett Bank, Ethyl Corp., Quaker Oats, Ryder System and Wal-Mart, I think you'll like what you see and have a good start on building your own skill in recognizing what identifies a stock with better-than-average prospects.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investor interest and whose questions are used, will receive a complimentary one-year's subscription to the investment magazine, Better Investing. Notice to Church Secretaries

All church schedules must be in our office at 300 N. Main St., Chelsea, in writing, no later than Thursday at 1 p.m. in order to appear in the next week's edition.

SONGSISTERS, Ann Arbor residents who specialize in children's music, will give performances at Chelsea High school on Feb. 18 at 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. The performances are being sponsored by North and South schools' parents organization. Other activities PTN will sponsor this year include a family portrait day on Jan. 21, and a play, "Once Upon a Shoe," by Jerome Robbins and Joseph P. Shaw. The North School Players are rehearsing for their Feb. 11 debut at Beach Middle school. Performances will be held at 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. The group began the school year with a "futuring" process presented by Barbara Rose. At the conclusion of the session, PTN has organized the group's entire school year activities.

Host Families Sought for Japanese Exchange Youth

Host families will be needed this summer for 70 youth and six adults from Japan. The youth are from the LABO Party where they have been studying English and American culture for many years. They will live with Michigan 4-H families for about a month from July 20 to August 20. The youth range in age from 12 to 18 years old.

This is the 18th year Michigan has offered this tremendous experience to 4-H youth. Those hosting this summer will have an opportunity to visit Japan in 1990 and become a member of a Japanese family.

This cultural exchange is a unique experience for the entire family. Applications must be submitted to the Co-operative Extension Service Office by March 1. Match-ups will be made in April so that correspondence can begin prior to their arrival.

Free Dog Training, Care Clinic Offered By Humane Society

All present and potential dog owners are invited to a Dog Training and Care Clinic sponsored by the Humane Society of Huron Valley. A wealth of useful information will be available to help sharpen up your pet's manners and skills for the upcoming year.

The clinic will be held on Sunday, Jan. 15 from 4 to 6 p.m. at the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club located at 1875 E. North Territorial Rd., just two miles east of US-23.

Instructors from the Dog Training Club will be on hand to give valuable tips on topics such as health care, feeding, grooming, housebreaking, obedience training, and dog breed characteristics. There will also be demonstrations by the instructors followed by a question and answer period.

The clinic is free to the public; however, you must leave your pet at home. Relevant pet care literature will also be available at no cost.

For directions or more information, phone the Education Department at 662-5545.

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is a private, non-profit organization serving all of Washtenaw county and dedicated to preventing cruelty to animals and promoting respect for all life.

Computer Aided Design Class Offered By Community Education

Pinckney Community Education is offering a special training course in Computer Aided Design. The class will meet on Monday evenings, 6 to 9 p.m., for 10 weeks, beginning Jan. 16, in the high school CAD Lab.

The class is designed to teach 2D and 3D design on IBM Personal System/2 computers. The CAD lab has the latest software and hardware, a factory trained instructor, and a video output network to aid in this learning process. The class has a 30-hour requirement.

If a student is successful in passing the class, the student will be given a certificate from Versacod Corp. as this program holds factory authorization.

The class will provide hands-on experience, one student to a computer, in the areas of menus, functions, command structure, output, and DOS.

To take the class, participants must have had the equivalent of a high school drafting class and be familiar with drafting basics.

Cost of the class and a 2D and 3D Versacod Book with disks, which will be kept by the student, will be $250.

Please contact Pinckney Community Education at (313) 878-3115, ext. 240, if you have an interest in taking this class.

Winter Activities Will Chase Away Depression

It's trite but true that just about the time post-holiday depression sets in around here, it is complicated by mid-winter chills. Individually and collectively, both could present a problem in Michigan—but only to those who don't take the state motto seriously when it says "... look about you."

To paraphrase Samuel Johnson: He—or she—who tires of winter in Michigan—especially when it's at its peak—just hasn't tried hard enough. The state's Calendar of Events alone lists 259 activities for January, February, and March, while the Winter Travel Planner lists 213 attractions that welcome visitors all winter long.

And that is not counting the nearly 50 downhill ski resorts, the 1,448 kilometers of cross-country ski trails, or the 4,254 miles of snowmobile trails. Indoors or outdoors, vigorous or relaxed, sports or culture, you can keep warm any way you like—relaxing by the fire or blazing your own trail.

Make reservations to view the enduring art of Andrew Wyeth as expressed in "The Helga Pictures" at the Detroit Institute of Arts (DIA) (through Jan. 22), or the more ephemeral arts of master ice sculptors at the Plymouth Ice Sculpture Spectacular (Jan. 5-15).

Cheer your way through the Silver Stick Finals, international hockey championships at Port Huron's McMorran Center (Jan. 12-15 and 26-29), or the Muskegon Winter Games in Muskegon State Park (Jan. 14-28).

Participate or spectate at the Snowbound Open Tennis Tournament at Grand Traverse Resort Village (Jan. 20-22); take your pick among more than a dozen indoor and outdoor events at Marquette's annual Winnebago—a winter festival that takes up much of the winter (Jan. 20-March 4); or start your golf season early at the Polar Ice Cap Golf Tournament, which is held on the bayous of Spring Lake (Jan. 21).

Listen to all that jazz in the Farmers' Market Building at Ypsilanti's Depot Town Winter Jazz Series (Jan. 21, Feb. 18, and March 18), or catch fish and lots of action at a classic winter carnival on the ice of Houghton Lake—Tip-up Town U. S. A. (Jan. 21-22, and 28-29).

Cheer on some very special Olympians at the Special Olympics at the New Ski World, Buchanan (Jan. 28).

Three winter classics return on the week-end of Feb. 3-5: Michigan Tech's Winter Carnival, where engineering students turn their talents and imaginations loose on snow sculptures and structures, sports events and skits; Perchville U. S. A. on the frozen surface of Tawas Bay at East Tawas; and the 64th annual Grayling Winter Sports Carnival-Mardi Gras.

On that same week-end, the White Pine Stampede cross-country ski race is staged at Schuss Mountain-Shanty Creek near Bellaire (Feb. 4), the International 1-500 Snowmobile Classic is run at Sault Ste. Marie (Feb. 4), and Grand Haven starts its Winterfest (Feb. 4-11).

Alpena and Gaylord stage their respective Winter Carnival and Winterfest the following week-end (Feb. 10-12), while on Feb. 11 Charlevoix puts on its Winter Sports Carnival, Marquette hosts the Winter Guts Triathlon (cross-country skiing, jogging, and snowshoeing) at the K. I. Sawyer Air Force Base, and Grand Traverse Resort hosts the North American VASA Cross-Country Ski Race.

The Bay de Noc Indian Cultural Association and Bay de Noc Community College host the 11th annual Mid-Winter Pow Wow at the college in Escanaba, featuring dancers, drummers, singers, traders of Indian crafts, and craft displays (Feb. 11-12).

At the same time, Rockford invites you to "Fall in Love with Rockford"—the theme of its winter festival in Squires Street Square—and gives you a week to do it (Feb. 11-18).

On Feb. 14 the DIA opens a major exhibit of 175 masterpieces in the show "Cleopatra's Egypt: Age of the Weather Causes Minor Delays In Plant Completion

The main contractor on Chelsea's new wastewater treatment plant has notified the village that it will not be able to complete certain contract requirements until June 30, a delay of 206 days.

Clark Construction Co. said in a change order that poor weather has delayed exterior painting, roadway construction and painting, landscaping, sidewalk construction, and fence work.

The company's portion of the project is $5,068,805.

The plant went on-line on Oct. 31. The bulk of the work at the plant is completed.

Camp Waterloo Man Doesn't Return From Furlough

A Camp Waterloo man was listed as an escaped prisoner after he failed to return from a furlough on Wednesday, Jan. 4, according to Chelsea police reports.

Randall Miles Mink, serving time for breaking and entering and receiving stolen property, did not return from his leave. The Trenton man is described as white, 6' 1", 175 pounds, with brown hair, hazel eyes, and tattoos on both arms. He was last seen wearing black jeans and a gray sweater.

Six Candidates Interviewed For Administrator Position

The village has interviewed six candidates for the assistant manager/manager position.

Four out-of-town residents and two Chelsea-area residents are among the applicants.

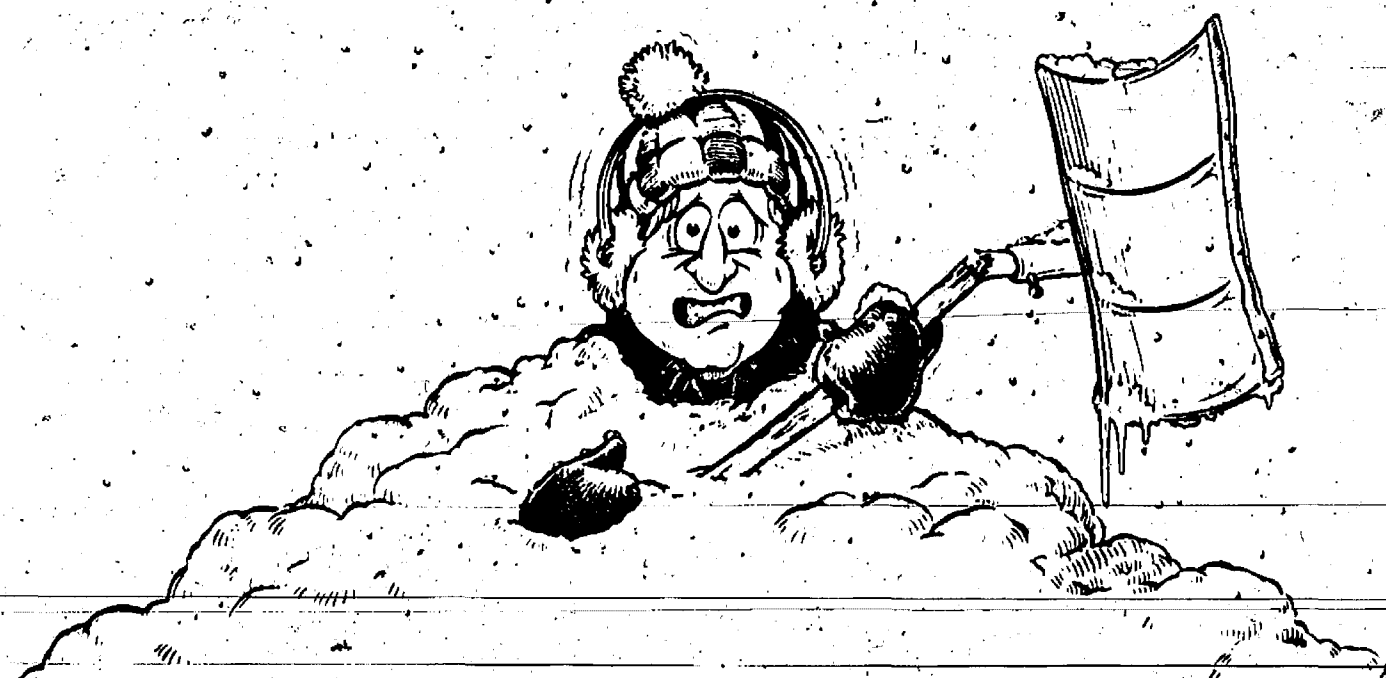

Three interviews were held last Thursday.

Village President Jerry Satterthwaite declined to say whether there is a leading candidate, or whether others would be interviewed. However, he did say the village may be close to making a decision.

The person who is eventually selected is likely to be hired temporarily as an assistant manager until manager Fritz Weber officially retires, probably in April.

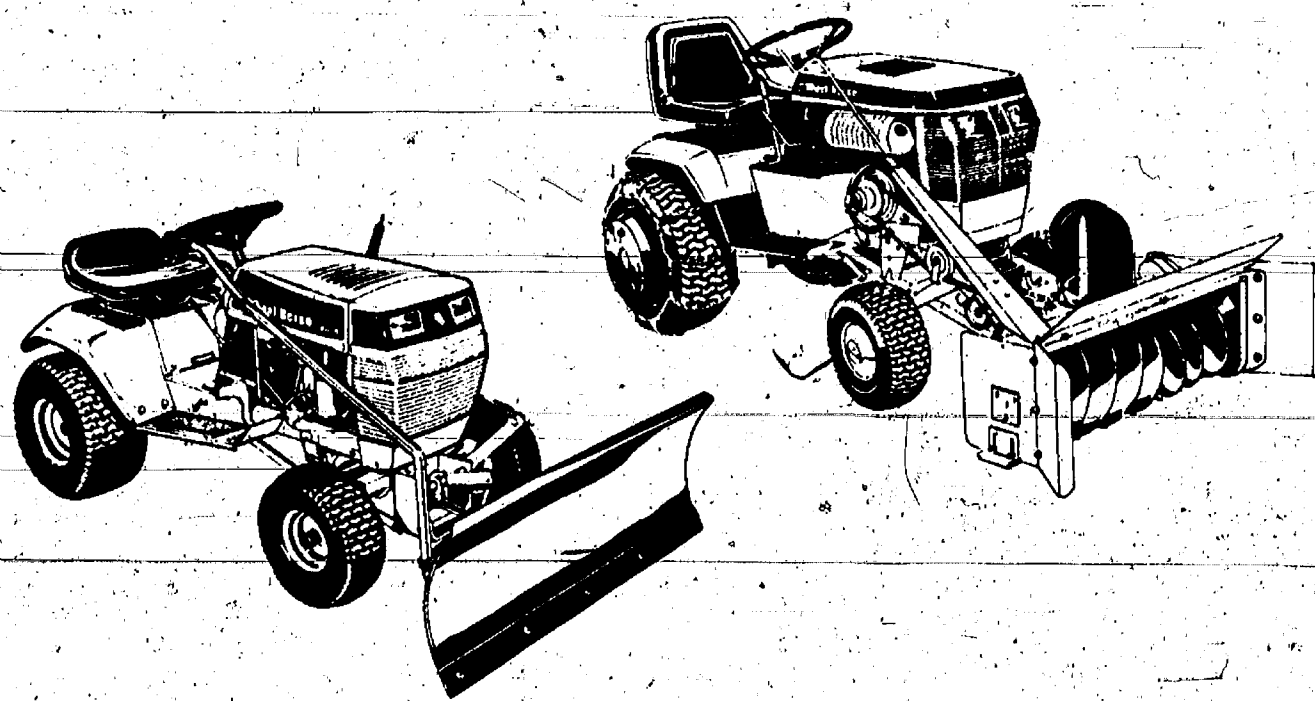

The Gray Fox is the only member of the dog family that frequently climbs trees.
