A WATER MAIN BROKE on Main St. over the weekend, forcing a detour of traffic for most of the day. Village employees worked into the night to stop the break, which had water gushing onto Main St. According to utilities superintendent Bud Hafner, the pipe involved was probably some of the original pipe in the village, which was installed before the turn of the century. Three water lines have broken in the last week, Hafner said.

Athletic Director Reed Resigns To Take Position With Tecumseh Schools

Chelsea School District Athletic Director Larry Reed has resigned his position to become the pool coordinator in Tecumseh.

The resignation became official at Monday night's school board meeting. The Tecumseh board also officially hired Reed Monday.

Reed, who was instrumental in starting Chelsea's swimming program nine years ago, has the chance to build another program from scratch. If Tecumseh decides to organize a swim team, Reed will be the coach.

"This will be the same thing I did when I came to Chelsea," Reed said. "It's an exciting thing to do. It will also give me the opportunity to work with kids, which I love to do. My job as AD has been a good job and the district has been extremely fair."

Reed gave up coaching four years ago when he became athletic director. He took over for Ron Nemeth, who's now working in Texas.

Reed's last full day at Chelsea will be Tuesday, Feb. 28. He'll be working on a part-time basis until the middle of March.

School Superintendent Joe Piasecki said the position would be posted internally for a week. He'd like to find someone who has been involved in an athletic program.

"We have a month to make something happen," Piasecki said Monday.

"We'd like to find someone with experience in coaching who has an understanding of what the job entails. It can be a very complex and time consuming job. The person has to have the ability to run everything connected with an athletic program. We're not necessarily interested in a person with a degree."

Piasecki said the unfortunate part about the timing of Reed's departure is the spring sports season usually has a number of rain-out contests which have to be re-scheduled. That involves a lot of co-ordination concerning facilities, officials, and other matters.

Piasecki said the district could hire someone on an interim basis. If no candidate emerges quickly, he said, the district might be forced to make re-assignments to get the job done.

The district has a policy that the athletic director does not coach. Piasecki said that also might be negotiable, depending on who applies for the job.

Salary for the new director would also be negotiable.

"Larry has done a fine job for the district," Piasecki said.

"He's been a dedicated, hard-working employee and we wish him well in his new responsibilities."

Substance Abuse Counselor Resigns

Chris Dillon, Chelsea School District's substance abuse and mental health counselor, has resigned her position, effective at the end of the school year.

Dillon is officially an employee of Chelsea Community Hospital but she spends half her time at Chelsea High school.

Dillon's husband has been transferred and the couple will be leaving the area.

"It's a key position and we're really sorry to see her go," said superintendent Joe Piasecki.

"We hope to find someone just like her."

Dillon, the district's first such counselor, had set up a number of programs at Chelsea High school.

Her resignation became official at Monday night's school board meeting.

Village Prepares for Arrival of New Manager

Village of Chelsea has begun work on the transfer of the administration to new manager Robert Stalker, II, who will begin work March 6.

Stalker's contract was approved at the Feb. 7 village council meeting. His starting salary is $37,500 in the first year of a three-year contract.

Exactly which office will become Stalker's new professional home has not been decided. Village manager Fritz Weber's office has been taken over by administrative assistant Barbara Fredette. However, Stalker has reportedly asked for an office with a window, which Weber's former office does not have. In fact, only one downstairs office has a window—the former office of assistant village manager Lee Fahrner at the back of the building.

"We want to get all these details decided well before he starts," said village president Jerry Satterthwaite.

"We don't want him to start on the sixth, but move in on the seventh or eighth."

Exactly how Weber is going to be eased out of the position has not been revealed by the village. However, Satterthwaite said recently, "you can't have two bosses." Discussion at several council meetings has indicated the village wants to retain Weber on a consultant basis.

Stalker faces a heavy agenda once he arrives here. Decisions have to be made on the hiring of an assistant manager, removal of asbestos from the basement of the village office building, marketing of the industrial park, and co-ordination of a sewer line project, among many other day-to-day activities. In addition, he'll have to get up to speed on the landfill situation, the wastewater treatment plant project, and various developmental projects.

And just a week after he starts, village council could possibly have a new face—former village president Charles Ritter, who's running for council. Ritter, who three years ago ran for village president, threatened to have Weber fired if Ritter was elected.

Ritter, who visited The Standard recently, said he'd be willing to give Stalker a chance to prove his ability.

"Whoever they hired, I'd give him that much consideration," he said.

Ag Banquet Set March 16 At Chelsea

The 1989 annual Washtenaw County Agricultural Banquet sponsored by the Washtenaw County Dairy Livestock Council and the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service will be held Thursday, March 16, at Chelsea High school.

The night's activities will start with dinner being served at 7 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Featured speaker will be Merrill Lundgren from Brighton. Lundgren is living out his second career, following his retirement as market vice-president of Maccabees Mutual Insurance. He believes that each of us is unique and unrepeatable but that many of us sleepwalk through our lives and therefore live far below our potential.

Lundgren's topic, "Building Team Spirit By Making Your Life A 10," addresses how to awaken the sleeping giant within ourselves and thus to reach our potential. He has conveyed this message at numerous workshops, breakfasts and dinner meetings, and conventions. He has worked with the Michigan township officials and the Michigan Municipal League in developing their team efforts.

The evening will end with the drawing of prizes donated by the supporting agri-business of Washtenaw county.

Tickets are available from the following dairy-livestock members: Harold Trinkle, Bob Heller, Mark Blumenauer, Nick Heller, Charles Koenn, John Brooks, Larry Hopkins, Willard Blumenauer, Reuben Lesser, Dennis Trinkle, Jim Bristle, Dave Wolfgang, Loren Heller, Richard Cort, Bill Nixon, Paul Rothfuss.

Tickets are also available at Diabie Feeds, and Gross Farm Equipment/Feldkamp Tire.

Fire Department Not Selling First Aid Kits

Chelsea Fire Chief Bud Hankerd wants area residents to know that the Chelsea Fire Department is not sponsoring the sale of any first aid kits. Someone has been making calls in the area trying to sell kits over the telephone.

"I don't know exactly what they're saying, but we're not behind any solicitations," Hankerd said. "They're making it sound like we are."

According to village president Jerry Satterthwaite, who received two complaints about the calls, the kits are on sale for $35.

Landfill Closure Plan Sent As Scheduled to DNR

Village of Chelsea has sent a landfill closure plan to the Department of Natural Resources as part of the requirements of the consent decree signed last year.

The plan, concerning the old landfill that has been filled for several years, calls for a cover of 7,000 cubic yards of clay to prevent permeation by rainwater. The clay cover would be added to the existing cover.

Once the cover is completed, plans call for the construction of two wooden observation decks for the public to use to view wildlife in the surrounding wetland. The plan also says no hunting would be allowed from the deck. Hiking trails would also be constructed. There would be enough parking for 12 visitors.

The plan says it does not anticipate problems with leaking methane gas as has been a problem at other landfills where the gas is routinely collected. It says most of the gas has probably leaked out the sides of the landfill and that the surrounding wetland probably has a higher concentration of the gas.

The village plans to award bids for the work by March 21 and have the contract completed by May 19, weather permitting.

According to consultant and former assistant village manager Lee Fahrner, DNR has not responded to a report issued by village consultants in September that outlined work necessary to complete the closure of the landfill. The plan is based on that information, Fahrner said.

Farmers' Night Scheduled for Next Monday

"Farmers' Night," a major event of the year for the Chelsea Kiwanis Club, is set for 7 o'clock Monday evening, Feb. 27, in the Chelsea High school cafeteria. Herman Koenn is master of ceremonies of this event, which is co-ordinated by Ray Van Meer. Bill Rademacher will present the "Farmer of the Year" award. About 50 farmers usually attend the annual event.

"Ins and Outs of the Agriculture Budget" will be the topic of the principal speaker, Dr. Fred Whims, assistant dean of the MSU College of Agriculture and Natural Sciences.

Planners OK New Long-Term Parking Lot

Chelsea Village Planning Commission has approved plans for the Downtown Development Authority's proposed long-term parking lot.

The lot would be located behind the Chelsea Fire Department on W. Middle St.

More than 60 spaces would be created. The idea is for downtown employees and people on courthouse business to use the lot. That would free up short-term space for area shoppers.

DDA plans to work with the village to create additional short-term parking in existing lots.

SARAH SCHAEFFER, left, a senior at Chelsea High school, is going to help the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce put together a brochure with up-to-date information on the area's many service organizations. The chamber plans to continue the project each winter. Seated is executive secretary Ann Feeney. Her office is in the Chelsea Depot.

Cham. of Commerce To Organize Info On Service Groups

Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce has begun a project to provide a central source of up-to-date information on the area's service and civic groups.

The chamber, with the help of a Chelsea High school student, will compile a Community Service Directory each winter. This year senior Sarah Schaeffer will set the project in motion, with the help of executive secretary Ann Feeney.

"We get so many requests for this kind of information," said chamber president Jackie Rogers.

"The groups should be advised that Sarah will be contacting them for information on their officers, mission, and various service projects."

The information will be available in written form, probably for a minimal charge, Rogers said.

The first directory will include information on nearly 50 area groups, both inside and outside the village. She said the directory would later be expanded to include churches after the initial information is put on computer.

CHELSEA FIRE DEPARTMENT purchased a new pumper truck for $193,413. It will be put in service this week as soon as a radio is installed. The new truck has a six-man cab, which will allow firefighters to put on their air packs on their way to the fire. It's capable of pumping 1,500 gallons per minute and it holds just over 1,300 gallons. The village and surrounding townships tripled their equipment budgets for three years to pay for the vehicle, as well as a truck to fight grass fires, which will probably be purchased in a year or two, according to fire chief Bud Hankerd. The units of government within the fire district are paying for it on a pro-rated basis, based on their use of the fire department over the last 20 years. That means Sylvan township is contributing almost 28 percent, the village has a 22 percent share, and Lima township has an 18.5 percent share. They are the three highest contributors. The new truck is replacing a 1975 tanker truck with 14,428 miles and a transmission that is not holding up well. The village will probably keep the old truck.

Wednesday, Feb. 20, 1985—Chelsea school district students received an unexpected vacation this week because of a combination of bad weather and a scheduled "Patriot's Week-end."

Replacement of the radiographic/fluoroscopic equipment was underway at the Chelsea Community Hospital. Request to replace the 10½-year-old equipment was made to provide better diagnostic capabilities.

The January thaw finally arrived. The temperatures rose above the 32-degree freezing mark for the first time in 38 days. The warm spell did not last long. In fact it gave way to a really nasty stretch of weather.

Chelsea High school's boy swimmers ended their season with a 112-60 victory over the Jackson Vikings. The win kept the team's perfect record of 10 wins and no defeats. Mark Westhoven, Don Skiff and Jeff Nemeth highlighted the meet with state qualifications in diving, freestyle and 100 backstroke, respectively.

Thursday, Feb. 20, 1975—Chelsea varsity debaters, State League champions, placed eighth in Class B state finals of the Michigan High School Forensic Association championship debates. The squad of Brad Glazier and Kurt Allhouse, negatives, and Keith Cockerline and Brenda Shadoan, affirmatives, recorded a 3-3 record in the qualifying round to end what Coach William Coelius called "a fine season."

Chelsea's senior co-captain Dave Alber was one of three unanimous choices to the Southeastern Conference All-League Basketball first team for 1974-75. Senior guard Gary Wonders, received a spot on the second team, and Rick Sweeney and Ron Kiel each were accorded honorable mention in the voting. Coach Tom Ballstrere said he was pleased with the selections.

A check for $450 was presented to McKune Memorial Library board treasurer, Mrs. E. W. Eaton and president Mrs. Frederick Wagner by Mrs. Richard Borton, president of Chelsea Child Study Club. Funds were raised through the club's annual Make and Bake Christmas sale.

Give A Gift Subscription to
The Chelsea StandardState Health Care Policy Needed,
Hospital Association Says

Medicaid funds must be maintained as part of an over-all state health care policy before launching new health care initiatives, the president of the Michigan Hospital Association said recently.

The remarks were in response to Governor Blanchard's State-of-the-State message and his 1989-90 budget proposals announced earlier last week.

The governor's budget cuts $128 million ($58 million in state funds) in Medicaid programs. Some of that is reduced coverage rates, some by eliminated covered services, and some by revised pharmaceutical policies. Providers of Medicaid services, like welfare recipients, would not get any cost of living increase.

Spencer C. Johnson, MHA president, said that while the governor's call for new programs such as treatment programs for childhood AIDS and minority health initiatives are good, attention must be paid to the "crumbling" structure that is used to deliver these services.

"The new initiatives, as good as they are, only add more weight to an already crumbling basic health structure," Johnson said. "Unfortunately, there is no state health policy to go along with these words."

Johnson, who said the state of Michigan's health care is on the "critical list," said such a policy should: restore Medicaid funding to its current levels, address medical liability insurance reform in the Legislature, and address the issue of uncompensated care.

Johnson said the proposed cuts are only the most recent in a series of health care and human service funding shortfalls. Johnson added that since 1984, state spending on Medicaid, through such things as hospital reimbursement rates, has gone down while state spending for other programs has increased by an average of 35 percent.

Johnson said 1 million Michigan residents are without health insurance, and hospitals are spending an estimated $1 million a day taking care of uncompensated patients. In order to help hospitals recover some of that money, he is urging all employers to provide mandatory health care insurance.

The health care needs of Michigan's rural communities could be better addressed by having more flexibility in the certificate of need process and swing bed programs, and by providing more planning money to local health boards so they can better understand community health needs, Johnson said.

State Losses Not Softened

By Bush Budget

The federal budget revisions by President Bush does not make a significant change in the $150 million in cuts and additional spending that had been expected under former President Reagan's proposals for 1989-90, but the state's budget chief said he is nonetheless encouraged by what he sees.

Management and Budget Director Shelby Solomon said it appears many details of the $1.16 trillion budget recommendation are yet to be negotiated, but described as positive the policy guidelines scaling back defense spending and increasing programs in areas such as education, housing and the environment.

"We're encouraged by the direction," Solomon said. But he added it is not yet clear how new proposals by Bush can be supported without additional cuts, particularly in light of his call to reduce the tax on capital gains, and still come in with a lower deficit figure ($91.1 billion) than Reagan.

Solomon said it would be difficult for the federal government to treat Michigan better under the budget because it is "saddled with huge deficits and we want to get them down."

When Reagan submitted his budget proposal, Solomon had expressed hope Bush would make revisions, particularly in the defense spending side. Bush proposed a defense spending freeze, which cuts $2.6 billion, or less than 1 percent, from the $293.8 billion Reagan had recommended.

The $150 million built into the state's 1989-90 budget because of extra costs associated with federal cuts and new requirements include such things as a higher state share in welfare, federal wastewater treatment cuts and new nursing home regulations.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle brings his usual batch of clippings to the country store Saturday night, and he got the floor at the opening bell. He reminded the fellers that he allus had been a fan of the funny papers, so he was pleased to report that we're getting a rerun on one and a copy of another golden oldie, as the radio says.

Ed had saw some old Li'l Abner strips in one of the papers recent, and now he sees that Pogo is being redrewed by a young artist named Neal Sternecky. What we're getting is the same Dogpatch, which is still funny but stuck in its time that has passed, Ed said. But if the new possum and the other swamp critters have any of the bite of Walt Kelly's old ones, younger folks that read the comics are in for a new kind of education.

There's no doubt that a great picture can do the job of 1,000 ordinary words, Ed went on, because that is proved in the papers ever day by the really good editorial cartoonists. And anybody that doubts the power of a panel of pictures, Ed said, weren't around in the heyday of Pogo and Joe McCarthy. Kelly done more to open the country's eyes to the dangers of what has come to be called McCarthyism than all the Congress and Justice investigating committees put together, was Ed's words.

Furthermore, Ed said, Kelly was able to give a fresh twist to the tried and true newspapering idee of poking serious fun at people in high places in such a way they enjoy enduring it because they know the country is laughing with em as much as at em. This tool has been preserved and sharpened by some of the best cartoonists working today, was Ed's words.

While he was on his feet, Ed, that carries a picture of Lincoln in the back of his watch, took the chanc to note this is the month of Abe's birthday. He went on to say that the Great Republican would be amazed at what he saw today, but onct he learned the circumstances he might look kindly on the new President and Congress. If the Federal Government is serious about streamlining the military and forcing some honesty into defense contracting, Ed said, we can hope we're moving away from hound dog politics.

Democrat Clem Webster broke in to say Ed ansered his own prayer, and the anser is no. After what President Bush spent gitting hisself coronated, there ain't much reason to think he's serious about spending cuts. Besides, Clem went on, the circumstances are Republican made, and there's far to many old heads at the trough to think the hound dog will be kicked out. When one starts barking the rest of em allus will want to help him, even if they don't know what the noise is about. They know that all dogs will have their day. Soon or late the lead hound wants to let up, but he feels he's got to help his pals, so round and round it goes.

The hound in one yard may be howling to save a Army base that has plenty of personel but no purpose, and the hound next door may want to git some help with a new post office or expanding the airport. So after a few yelps, Clem said, they relize duet is stronger than solo, and the first thing you know you got the same old chorus yipping and jumping about fer low-rent housing, golf course grants and all the rest.

But then, Clem said, Abe had more than a few hounds under his table to. Yours truly, Uncle Lew.

Social Security Numbers Now Available at Birth

Beginning this year in Michigan, parents can apply for Social Security numbers for new-borns simply by answering yes to a question on their baby's birth certificate. This enables Social Security to issue a Social Security number to the child by mail.

This means you don't have to fill out a special application for a Social Security number by mail or in person and furnish supporting evidence. Although your child will be too young to have a Social Security number. In fact, most parents (more than two-thirds) apply for Social Security numbers for their children before the children are three years old. Beginning in 1990 with the 1989 tax year parents must furnish Social Security numbers for any children over two to claim them as dependents on their tax returns.

Although getting a Social Security number is strictly voluntary you will not get a Social Security number unless you ask for one when you provide the information for your baby's birth certificate. Experience has shown that the vast majority of parents do request a number at birth under this new procedure. For more details on these or other provisions affecting your Social Security, Supplemental Security Income or Medicare benefits, phone 1-800-234-SSA or write to Social Security, P. O. Box 8886, Ann Arbor 48107. The Social Security office is located in the Federal Building, 200 E. Liberty St., Ann Arbor 48107.

Ag Census Report Shows 51,172 Farms in Michigan

Early data from the 1987 Census of Agriculture show that the state had 51,172 farms, 24,180 of which had annual product sales of $10,000 or more. Land in farms totaled 10,316,881 acres, 80 percent of them in farms with $10,000 or more in sales, the Commerce Department's Census Bureau reported.

The census showed that the state's farmers and ranchers sold $2.5 billion in agricultural products and that farms with $10,000 or more in sales averaged $101,514 per farm.

The agriculture census obtains information on all identified farm and ranch operations in the United States.

The Census Bureau defines a farm as any place where $1,000 or more of agricultural products were produced and sold or normally would have been sold during the census year. Sampling is used to collect data for selected items and to account for non-responding farm operations.

Reports for individual counties may be obtained by writing the Information Office, Agriculture Division, Bureau of the Census, Washington, D. C. 20233, or by calling (301) 763-1113. The printed reports also are available from the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Home Equity Loans Full Speed in Reverse

For years the banker traditionally lauded home ownership as the greatest investment that most families would ever undertake.

Then came Son of Banker who still paid homage to the home investment but strongly encouraged installment loans for cars, boats, airplanes, world tours, home improvements and, as payments piled up, debt consolidation loans.

Next came Corporate Banker with the ubiquitous plastic card that could be used by families between paydays at 18 percent per year. Plus new branch offices as far as the eye could see.

With the advent of the 1980's Son of Corporate Banker, known as CBII, entered the profession in an atmosphere of takeovers and mergers where such trivia as identity and traditions were shoved into the background. He was an MBA from one of the great business schools, and faced with the challenge to innovate. The prospects seemed bleak for a while. Then, lo, CBII had a pyrotechnic inspiration—a treasure trove of three trillion dollars worth of loan collateral, THE HOMES OF AMERICA!

It was unbelievable in its magnitude and simplicity. All across the nation thrifty home owners were faithfully paying off their mortgages and building thousands of billions of dollars worth of equity. Why not throw the whole system into reverse and have one of the greatest borrowing-spending sprees the country has ever known?

This was the great financial invention, the Home Equity Loan. Yes, and with an almost prophetic acronym, HEL.

What triggered the idea was a loophole in the Tax Reform Act of 1986 which phased income tax deductions on all interest payment except home mortgages. CBII and others soon realized that an owner could borrow on his home and use the money to buy cars, furs or whatnot. And the interest would be tax exempt because it was technically a home loan!

When the shades are drawn aside a home equity account is essentially a line of revolving credit, secured by the investor's home, and activated by a check book or a charge card. The lender wants the account holders to borrow money. Tell CBII you want to borrow to buy a snowmobile and he'll tell you, "Buy five, one for each member of the family!" Comerica offers Equity Line in amounts up to $200,000.

Consumer Reports, bitter about the improvidence of equity lending, quoted an ad which urges, "Turn your home into a giant credit card." And another, "Squeeze your home for cash." And a third, "Take a trip, buy a car, sail a boat, put in a pool, go to school, fly a plane, buy a computer, add a room. On the house."

The American Bankers Association tried to get its members to rein in on the equity hype, and also to disclose the terms under which such loans are made. Without success the ABA even demonstrated what the wording of loan terms would look like set in type large enough to read without magnifying glasses.

So far Americans are estimated to have converted $300 billion of home equity savings into consumer purchases. Occasionally, of course, the money has been used for worthy purposes. I know of one couple whose business enterprise was starved for lack of expansion capital. A loan, based on their home's equity, enabled them to get the company back on track.

The Terms

Interest charged on home equity accounts ranges from 1.5 percent to 2.5 percent above the prime rate. Many HEL accounts are at a variable rate; when the prime goes up, the equity loan rate keeps ahead of it. You will recall, possibly with some pain, that the prime hit 20.5 percent in 1978 and once more in 1981. If that happens again, HEL customers will be paying a base rate of 22.5 percent.

Some bankers put a cap on how far a variable rate can escalate. Great Lakes Bancorp, for instance has a cap of 18 percent on its Silver Line Plus home equity account.

It is important to know that in addition to the interest rate borrowers on their home equity must also pay for filing fees, title insurance, and appraisals. Some lenders require credit life insurance in case the borrower should up and die on them. Some banks also charge an annual account fee of $15 or $20. All lenders have an initial charge for processing known as points—2 or 3 percent per $1,000. Points for a $20,000 line of home equity credit could cost $400 to $600.

Different lenders, of course, have varying combinations of initial and ongoing expenses. It definitely pays to shop around.

A Tax Loophole

For many years the interest paid on a first or second home mortgage has been tax deductible. Under the 1986 Tax Reform Act it became the only game in town. The one way to get a tax deduction on the interest paid for a new car is to make a loan on your home. Renters, and buyers of homes on land contracts, are ineligible for such tax breaks. You know Congress won't wait much longer before plugging this unfair and unintended tax loophole.

While it still exists is this sort-of-tax economy worth investigating for you? Unless it involves a substantial amount of consumer outlays, I doubt it.

Nevertheless, if you have the time to spare, you may want to investigate the idea. First shop around among the lenders who are offering HEL loans. Compare the interest rates, including caps. Find out about the cost of points, appraisal, title insurance, credit life requirement and so on. Then figure out the same transaction(s) and see what the benefits will be, if any, in tax savings.

The greatest risk faced by home equity borrowers is the loss of their homes. This is inevitable if borrowers get far enough behind in their payments or fail to meet a "balloon" payment at the end of the loan's term. Some lenders minimize this danger, if they mention it at all. A New York City official had to warn a dozen banks against HEL ads that "encourage frivolous spending at the risk of foreclosures." His department deplored the flippant language in a HEL ad, "And you can write yourself a loan whenever you want, for whatever you want, simply by writing a check." Such misleading practices in ads for home equity loans were found to be in violation of the City Consumer Protection Law.

Sometimes the wrongdoing of lenders lies in what has been left unsaid. They may neglect to reveal that attractive introductory rates of interest, known as "teasers," will go up after a brief initial period. Other banks require payment in full at the end of a five- or ten-year contract, but fail to mention it at the time of signing the papers. The amount of the final "balloon" payment may be $10,000 or more. If the family can't pay it, or arrange re-financing, they wind up in the street. No persons should sign a contract involving their home ownership without having their lawyer present or fully advised of the proposed transaction.

My family has deposits in each of our three local financial institutions. We like the people in them all but we especially admire Chelsea State Bank. It is an unmerged, free-standing state bank on the verge of becoming a $100,000,000 institution. It has three generations of founding families working in today's group of officers. They do their best helping people to make loans. But CSB is the only bank in town that has steadfastly refused to succumb to the temptations of HEL. That just isn't their style.

Right To Farm Meeting Slated March 15 in Howell

Like all other segments of the economy, animal agriculture has changed significantly from past years and will continue to do so in the future. The trend toward larger facilities with increased animal numbers per farm brings new management challenges dealing with manure and odor generated.

Animal agriculture in Michigan must have the flexibility and opportunity to change agricultural enterprises and to adopt new technology as it becomes available to remain viable and competitive in the market place.

If a healthy, growing livestock industry in Michigan is to be assured, efforts must continue to address the concerns of livestock producers and their neighbors, particularly in two areas: 1) producers who use good waste management practices in their livestock operations should be protected from harassment and nuisance complaints, and 2) persons living near livestock operations which do not follow good management practices need to have concerns addressed when odor nuisance or water quality problems occur.

The Co-operative Extension Service will conduct an informational program addressing the topic of Animal Waste Management on Wednesday, March 15. It will be held at the Extension Building, 820 E. Grand River, Howell, from 10:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m.

Howard Person, extension specialist in agricultural engineering, will be the speaker. The objective of the meeting is to outline how livestock producers can comply with the generally accepted and recommended good livestock waste management practices as outlined by the Right To Farm interim guidelines.

Producers planning to attend should make reservations by calling the Livingston County Co-operative Extension Service at (517) 546-3950.

If you enjoy top-flight entertainment, you're invited to join the celebration, Saturday and Sunday, March 11-12, when the Ann Arbor Figure Skating Club presents the 47th annual edition of "Melody on Ice."

This year's featured guest skater will be Erik Larson, 1985 Junior Men's World Champion and winner of the 1988-89 Golden Spin Award.

Erik was the fourth-place winner in the Senior Men's National Championships, held at Baltimore, Md., during February.

Also featured will be precision teams and local skaters for a great show, designed to be a fantasy on ice.

Club members from Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Saline and Ypsilanti all help to make the Figure Skating Club and this year's annual show a very special event for all ages.

Show time will be 7:30 p.m. Saturday, March 11, and 2:30 p.m. Sunday, March 12.

Tickets are available from club members, local businesses, and at Veterans Ice Arena. For further information, call 761-7240, Veterans Ice Arena.

Scott M. Hasselbach, 7575 Jennings Rd., Whitmore Lake, has been nominated to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point. Hasselbach attends Dexter High school.

Each institution makes the final decision regarding any appointments. Students given final approval will begin their academy careers in July.

Pursell's nominations were based on a number of criteria, including the recommendation of his citizen advisory panel, which interviewed candidates throughout the district.

Sleep Disorders Can Be Helped

The Chelsea Sleep Disorders Program began at Chelsea Community Hospital in May of last year. Since that time the program has helped men and women of all ages by diagnosing and treating sleep-related disorders.

The Hospital's CardioPulmonary Department provides the program under the medical direction of Donald G. Dimcheff, M.D., a pulmonary medicine specialist. A team of highly trained physicians, clinical polysomnographers and specialists evaluate the patient's condition to determine the most effective course of treatment. Specialty consultants to the program include neurologists, internists, pulmonologists, psychiatrists, pediatricians, urologists, nutritionists and surgeons.

Sleep disorders occur in any age group and segment of the population. Men and women over the age of 50 are more prone to sleep disorders. Men who are overweight, have high blood pressure and snore are most likely to have "breathing interrupted" sleep disorders. Elderly who suffer from leg jerks or movement throughout the night causing brief periods of waking often have sleep disorders. Shift and on-call workers, especially those who move from days to nights every week, are prevalent among those with sleep disorders. Children may also have sleep-related disorders.

Symptoms of sleep-related disorders include difficulties in falling asleep, staying asleep or remaining awake. The most common symptoms may be daytime sleepiness and heavy snoring. Other symptoms may be morning headaches, nighttime chest pains, excessive use of sleeping pills, breathing irregularities during sleep, leg movements during sleep, personality changes and irritability. Symptoms of sleep-related disorders in children may include bed-wetting, sleepwalking or sleep-talking. In addition to the detrimental impact sleep disorders have on physical, mental and emotional health, some (such as sleep apnea) can be life threatening.

Treatment for sleep-related disorders varies. Some may require a change in daily habits or work schedule. Weight loss may be recommended, or medication prescribed. For some patients a nighttime positive air pressure treatment or (in some cases) surgery to open breathing passages may be indicated. In all cases, an accurate medical diagnosis is essential for determining the best course of treatment.

Patients may refer themselves to the program or ask their physician to refer them. Most major insurances cover the services of the program.

More information about the Chelsea Sleep Disorders Program is available by calling 475-3963.

"If luck comes to you, offer him a chair..."
—Old Yiddish Saying

When good fortune calls it is a good idea to invite him in to stay awhile. Luck can be of a one-time nature, bringing a single reward of a non-recurring variety. In other instances a stroke of luck can be maximized to reap extended benefits over a period of time.

Sometimes occurrences which we are prone to accept as lucky breaks may be, in actuality, rewards for hard work and effort expended. Should we accept the immediate rewards and fail to recognize the possible long-term benefits which may be in the offing, then we will not, as the saying suggests, "offer luck a chair."

The facts concerning Social Security, Medicare and Veterans benefits are available from us for the asking.

Farm Bureau Seeks Firm Stand on Hormone Issue

Declaring that the United States' position on the hormone issue is "correct," Farm Bureau has urged U. S. Trade Representative Carla Hills and the Bush Administration to hold the line in trade dispute negotiations with the European Community.

Farm Bureau's request came amid indications the administration is softening its position on the trade dispute and considering ways to meet the Europeans' demand for the U. S. to ship only beef certified "hormone-free."

"For years, Farm Bureau has strongly supported the government's position that the EC's hormone directive constitutes an unjustifiable trade restriction," said Jack Laurie, Tuscola county dairy farmer who serves as president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"We've been right in our insistence that the Europeans submit the matter to a scientific panel," he declared. "That position has been, and still is, correct."

"If we back down now, it will seriously undermine our negotiating position. Obviously the value of trade is small, but the principle involved is not. There is little disagreement that the EC's hormone ban has no scientific merit," he said.

Laurie said that concessions to the Europeans would damage a long-standing U.S. position that health regulations which restrict trade must be open to challenge on their scientific merits. "If this principle is lost, the value of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) Standard Code to American agriculture will be near zero," he said.

"The United States has a superior system in which growth promotants are tested and licensed for use," he said. "Our products have been declared safe by U. S. and international health panels. The Europeans have banned the use of all hormones and in doing so encouraged a thriving 'black market' of unregistered hormones."

Congressmen Urged To Oppose Gas Tax Hike For Reduction of Deficit

Members of Michigan's congressional delegation have been encouraged to co-sponsor a House Resolution opposing the proposed motor fuel tax to reduce the federal deficit. In a letter to U.S. Representatives, Michigan Farm Bureau's public affairs director, Al Almy, said their co-sponsorship of H. R. 41, introduced by Congressman Glen Anderson, chairperson of the House Public Works and Transportation Committee, "will help to send a strong signal that motor fuel taxes are inappropriate for use in reducing the deficit."

Farmers Bullish On Dairy Future

More than 70 dairy farmers were in Lansing Feb. 14 for the Michigan Farm Bureau dairy conference. According to Wayne Wood, Sanilac county dairy farmer who serves as vice-president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, the farmers who attended seemed optimistic about the future of their industry.

"I would have to say the future looks encouraging. I think Michigan's dairy industry stands to be a strong and viable industry," Wood said.

Wood said that dairy farmers do have some challenges to overcome.

"We need to continue to lower our debt-to-asset ratio and put more equity into the industry. But, on the same vein, we have to do something with the capital structure that is out there and with our facilities," he said.

Wood said nearly all the dairy producers have taken a "wait and see" attitude about the use of bovine somatotropin, the new "wonder tool" for boosting dairy production.

would impose a negative impact on the general economy," Almy told the Michigan congressmen.

A gas tax for deficit reduction would discriminate against middle and low income motorists, Almy said, with low income gasoline users paying more than three times as much for deficit reduction than would more affluent citizens.

IRS Offers Tax Tips

"Reading the instructions, double checking math and rounding off figures to the nearest dollar are a few tips that will help taxpayers avoid mistakes that could cause delays in processing a federal income tax return," said IRS district director John Hummel. Hummel explained that common errors such as not computing the standard deduction correctly, or not claiming the Earned Income Credit when eligible, will usually be corrected by the IRS but will delay processing and hold up the refund.

Walk-in taxpayer assistance is being made available on several Saturdays, Hummel said. The walk-in office in Ann Arbor will be open Saturday, March 18 and April 15 from 9 a.m. to noon. The Ann Arbor office, located at Wolverine Towers, 3001 S. State St., is also open weekdays from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The Jackson office is located in the Security Center building, 301 W. Michigan Ave. Hours are the same as for the Ann Arbor office.

"File early and accurately," added Hummel, "and remember that the IRS is available to provide assistance and answer questions to help make taxes less taxing this year."

JANET TAROLLI of Chelsea plays an angel in the Saline Area Players production of the musical "Anything Goes." The play will be presented March 2-5. Cole Porter wrote the musical score for the play, which includes soloist, a full chorus, and tap dancing. Ann VanDemark of Dexter is the choreographer.

Saline Area Players Will Present 'Anything Goes'

Saline Area Players have announced the production of their upcoming musical "Anything Goes," which will be presented Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, March 2-4 at 8 p.m. and Sunday, March 5 at 2 p.m. at Saline High School Theater, 7190 N. Maple Rd., Saline.

The memorable Cole Porter score includes "Friendship," "I Get a Kick Out of You," "It's Delovely," "Blow Gabriel Blow," and "Anything Goes." The show is complete with soloists, full chorus and fantastic tap dancing.

Come aboard the "America" as it heads from New York to England. On board is celebrity Reno Sweeney, an ex-evangelist now turned night club singer, with her four "angels." Watch Billy Crocker as he stows away on ship using multiple disguises while trying to win Hope Harcourt away from her fiancé, the Englishman Sir Evelyn. Also travelling is Moonface Martin, Public Enemy No. 13, with his girlfriend Bonnie, who hopes to get a lower number since 13 has brought him only bad luck.

The cast features Roxanne Kring (Reno), Joe Diederich (Billy), Beth Stempky (Hope), Kathi Genik (Mrs. Harcourt), Al Hainen (Evelyn), Tobin Hissong (Moonface), Robin Lounsbury (Bonnie), David Strait (Whitney), Bliss Charles (Bishop) and Tom Layher (Captain). The four angels are played by Chris Hall, Donna Humbert, Ruth Kenny, and Janet Tarolli (of Chelsea). There are 18 others in the chorus.

Artistic Director is Conrad Mason; choreographer is Ann VanDemark (of Dexter); vocal director, Kim Martin; orchestra director, Jon Krueger.

Children's Center Wins National Accreditation

Chelsea Community Hospital's Children's Center is among the first employer sponsored day care programs in the United States to be accredited by the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs.

The Academy administers the only national, voluntary, professionally sponsored accreditation system for child care programs.

The Academy recognizes programs which meet national standards of quality in early childhood programs.

Chelsea Community Hospital's Children's Center, which is located at St. Paul United Church of Christ, on Old US-12 in Chelsea, serves 58 children daily from ages two weeks through 12 years, according to its director, Kathleen Young.

"Accreditation helps answer the question, 'What is a quality child care program?'" said Dr. Marilyn Smith, executive director of the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC), of which the Academy is a division. "Most parents want to find the highest quality program for their young children, but few parents know how to assess whether a program meets more than just minimum standards required by state licensing."

Accreditation is not meant to replace parents' on-site visits to centers for selecting the program that best meets their child's needs," Smith said, "but accreditation does help point out to parents the varied components that should be present in a quality program."

To become accredited, Chelsea Community Hospital's Children's Center voluntarily underwent a comprehensive process of self study to meet a variety of strict criteria. These criteria related to the provision activities appropriate for children two weeks through 12 years, having well qualified and trained staff, meeting stringent health and safety standards, and offering opportunities for parental involvement. The accreditation process included an on-site study of the program and review by a three-member national commission. The accreditation is valid for three years.

ADULT SERVICE AWARDS for outstanding help with Boy Scout Troop 425 over the years were made to three persons at Monday's Court of Honor. Brian Jester, left, above. Recipients of the award were Linda Penhaggon and Jim Branham. Mary Hedding who was not present, also received the award.

Kristina Steffenson Appearing in Play At Albion College

Albion College freshman Kristina Steffenson appeared Feb. 16-18, and will make three additional stage appearances as Bridget in the production of Shakespeare's comedy, "Measure for Measure," which is presented at the Herrick Center Auditorium on the Albion College campus.

Ms. Steffenson is the daughter of Drs. Daniel and Carol Steffenson, 11240 Trinkle Rd.

A graduate of Chelsea High, her chosen field of study at Albion College is philosophy.

She is active in the choir, dance repertory, and the Gerald R. Ford Institute for Public Service.

"Measure for Measure" is considered a dark comedy because of its serious underlying themes. Philip Edwards, professor of English literature at the University of Liverpool, describes the comedy this way: "Shakespeare had an uncanny knack of anticipating what were later to become major problems in western society, though they were not so pressing in his own day. In 'Measure for Measure,' he touched a sensitive 20th century nerve in treating problems of sexual permissiveness and governmental control of private morals."

Seven Businesses Open In Renovated Sylvan, Three To Open in March

The Sylvan took off its plastic and scaffolding facade earlier this month to reveal a storefront that is unique in the downtown. The magnificent building, next to Gambles on Main St., also has a tenant base that is unusual in the area.

John and Anne Daniels began the renovation project a year ago January after they purchased the brick Sylvan Hotel building from George Merkel. The building had stood for more than two years with plywood over the windows and black smoke stains by the windows, signs of the tragic fire that killed two tenants and destroyed the building in the summer of 1985.

The building, with the exception of the interior load-bearing brick walls, was completely gutted. Now there's an elevator on the north wall, and a staircase in the center, bathed during the day by sunlight through a huge skylight.

Businesses have rented space on three floors. Two spots upstairs remain to be rented out at $10 per square foot.

Three businesses have yet to move in. Jan Schmidt's Antiques, Mike's Deli, and a portrait studio are scheduled to take up residence in March. The new antique store is coming from Dexter, the delicatessen will be operated by the owner of the North Lake Country Store, and Chelsea resident Steve Leeman, owner of MotoFoto, will open the studio.

"It's been a lot of work but we've enjoyed it," said John Daniels. "At this point we're real happy with the way it's all turned out."

What follows are thumbnail sketches of the tenants open for business.

Uptown Antiques and Little Wares
Chelsea residents Marj Daniels, John's mother, and Lenore Mattoff are the co-owners of the new business on the main floor.

Marj Daniels has been in the antique business for a number of years in Tecumseh and Stockbridge. It's a family venture for Mattoff, who has worked as a model in television commercials.

The store specializes in antiques, old collectibles, and made-in-Michigan reproduction furniture.

Daniels and Mattoff buy items from other people for resale. They especially like antique linens, and period clothes, and they'll consider any unique piece. However, the store has items for collectors of all stripes. There's glass and artwork, and even local hand-made knick knacks.

They'll even keep an eye out for collectors interested in a particular item as they keep a file on area collectors. They're open 10-5, Monday through Saturday.

JULIE KOZISKI, principal owner of A Taste of Chelsea, heads downstairs toward her store on the main level of The Sylvan building on Main St. The stairs, with a skylight overhead, are an attractive addition to the building.

Main Street Flower Shop
Local resident and builder Duane Luick is the sole proprietor.

Luick owned a flower shop in Farmington six years ago. He sold out to his partner and concentrated in the building business. Then, when the opportunity arose he decided to re-enter the business here. Before his first stint in the business, he was a flower wholesaler.

The store is managed by Teresa Perkins. It is a full service flower shop that will handle weddings, funerals, or any other large event. They wire flowers and deliver locally.

They're open 9-5:30 Monday through Friday and 9-5 on Saturday.

Taylor Places Third at State Wrestling Meet, VanSchoick Takes Fifth

Chelsea Bulldog wrestler Pat Taylor placed third in the state at 112 pounds last Saturday, while teammate Tim VanSchoick finished fifth at 189 pounds. Mike Taylor took eighth at heavyweight, and Doug Wingrove failed to place at 140 pounds.

The state tournament for individuals was held at Battle Creek-Lakeview High school. The top 16 wrestlers from each weight class among class B schools participated.

"The kids are real happy and I'm pleased with their performances," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"It's good that three of the four are coming back next year. Now they know what it takes to place at state, that every point is important and they can't give anything. It's good news for next year."

Only Mike Taylor will graduate. Pat Taylor came ever so close to reaching the finals. After winning his first two matches, Taylor was paired with Shannon Morford of Comstock, who had a 34-2 record and was the eventual champion. One of Morford's losses was to Taylor.

Taylor was leading 5-4 with 50 seconds left. However, Morford scored a takedown and a near fall to win 8-5.

"It was so close," Kargel said.

"Pat could have won it."

Taylor earned a 7-2 decision in his first match against Brian Maksimowski of Grand Rapids West Catholic, who had a 38-3 record. In his second match he defeated Brian Prather of Monroe Jefferson 9-3. Prather also had a 38-3 record.

After losing to Morford, he wrestled Maksimowski again and won 6-2. In the consolation finals, Taylor pinned Ken Buckland of Portland in 2:17. Buckland was undefeated going into the state tournament.

VanSchoick, who finished fourth in the regionals, earned an 8-6 decision over Keri Burke of Reed City in his opening match. Burke had a 42-3 record.

Mike Alexander of Clintondale was VanSchoick's second victim as he lost 7-3.

Jason Loukides of Albion, the eventual state champ, defeated VanSchoick 8-2 in the third match.

Russ Swinson of Pinconning, who had a 50-4 record, narrowly defeated VanSchoick, 5-4. Swinson, a four-time state placer, was last year's state champ at 150 pounds.

The match was tied 4-4 going into the third period. VanSchoick was called for locking his hands momentarily, which scored a point for Swinson.

"If that hadn't happened I think the match would have gone into overtime and I think Tim would have won," Kargel said.

VanSchoick won his final match against Mike Holsinger of Perry, 5-0. "Tim was really wrestling well," Kargel said.

"I'm always looking for a wrestler to turn the corner and Tim did that in the last couple of weeks. He was wrestling hard and with confidence and was not intimidated by anyone."

Mike Taylor faced "one of the best fields of heavyweights I've ever seen," Kargel said.

"They were never as physical as this year."

Taylor opened with a win against Tim Johnson of Sanford Meridian when Johnson was disqualified for stalling.

However, Taylor met Anthony Stevens of Clintondale in his second match and lost a major decision, 17-3. Stevens had a 44-4 record.

Taylor dropped down and faced David Fox of Riverview Community, whom he beat 5-1.

Tim Nelson of Lake Odessa beat Taylor 6-5 in the final match.

The boy Taylor nearly beat on several occasions this year, Chris Kleckner of Jackson County Western, was the state champ.

Wingrove lost his only two matches. In his opener he faced Arnette Turner from Mt. Clemens, who had a 41-3 mark. The match was tied 2-2 late in the third period when Wingrove made a mistake and was pinned at the 5:28 mark.

"Doug relaxed, and you can't afford to do that at the state level," Kargel said.

"You have to keep the intensity level up and keep moving."

Andy Heintzelman of Belding beat Wingrove 5-2 in the second match. Both of Wingrove's opponents finished in the top six.

"It's great anytime you get a state qualifier or state placer because a lot of kids never have the opportunity to go to state," Kargel said.

PAT TAYLOR finished third in the state at 112 pounds and was very nearly the state champ as he lost by a few points to the eventual state champ, a boy he had beaten earlier in the season. Taylor was one of four Bulldogs to participate in the meet, but he placed the highest.

MIKE TAYLOR took eighth place at the state wrestling meet last week-end. Coach Kerry Kargel said the heavyweight division was the toughest he's ever seen it. Taylor also helped the team advance to the state meet this week with two victories in the regionals.

JV Cagers Continue Season-Long Slide

The hard times continued last week for the Chelsea junior varsity basketball team.

On Tuesday, Feb. 14 the Bulldogs were beaten by Dexter, 43-37.

And on Friday, things went from bad to much worse as the Tecumseh Indians embarrassed the Dogs 76-32 in Chelsea.

"I tell the kids that I can't play for them," said Chelsea coach Jeff Dils. "At some point they're going to have to get excited about playing. I'm sure they want to get better, but I'm not sure they know what it takes to get better."

Jon Royce scored more than half of Chelsea's points in the Dexter game. The freshman had 20 points, and Dils said, if anything, Royce should have shot more often.

Chelsea trailed by a few points most of the game. Their biggest offensive output was 13 points in the third quarter.

Four other Bulldogs scored. Jude Quilter scored seven points, Tucker Steele had five, Garrett Kern had three, and Jeremy Stephens scored two.

In Friday's contest, Chelsea fell behind 22-11 in the first quarter and that was as close as the game got all night.

"Tecumseh is probably a better team than we are, but not 46 points better," Dils said.

Royce scored 12 points to lead Chelsea. Steele had four points, Quilter had three, Matt Steinaway, Kyle Erickson, Vince Dunn, Erich Hammer, and Alex Hammerschmidt each had two points, and Chris Haugen scored one.

Chelsea made just 4-23 shots in the second half.

Chelsea was 5-13 after last week's action. The final game of the season is Friday at Pinckney.

Bulldogs Fall to Tecumseh, Dexter in Tough Week

Chelsea Bulldogs came within an eyelash of knocking the Tecumseh Indians out of the Southeastern Conference basketball title chase last Friday night as the Indians won a thrilling 61-59 game at the Chelsea gym.

In other action last week, the Dexter Dreadnaughts ended the Bulldogs' five-game winning streak with an 81-76 victory in Dexter on Tuesday.

Chelsea never had the lead against the Indians, but had a chance to tie at the buzzer.

Senior guard Junior Morseau hit a three-point jump shot from the top of the key with 19 seconds to go to cut the Indian lead to 61-59.

Tecumseh reserve guard Chad Ward had a chance to give the Indians some breathing room as he had a one-and-one opportunity with 12 seconds left. The shot missed, Kerry Plank took the ball down court, and a good shot under the basket hit the rim and bounced away. Plank also appeared to be fouled on the play, but no call was made.

Chelsea coach Robin Raymond tried to call a time out with six seconds to go as Plank was hustling down court with the ball. However, no one saw his "T" hand gesture.

"Normally I don't like to call a time out because it gives the defense a chance to set up," Raymond said.

"But we looked a little unorganized so I tried to call a time out. However, Kerry got the inside position and we couldn't have asked for a better shot. It looked like he was fouled on the body. My feeling is we should get the shots and if he makes them the game is tied, and if he misses, Tecumseh wins."

Tecumseh led by as many as eight points in the fourth quarter after holding a three-point lead at half-time and a three-point lead after three periods.

The Indians scored the first five points of the fourth quarter to take a 51-43 lead. However, Kyle Plank scored the next five points, all on free throws in one-and-one situations. Kerry Plank followed with a steal and a full-court drive for a lay-up to cut the deficit to 53-50.

With Tecumseh ahead 57-52, Morseau's heroics began. He scored the Bulldog's last seven points of the game in the last 2:20. He led Chelsea

KERRY PLANK drives for two points during the Bulldogs' loss to Tecumseh at home last Friday. The sophomore had two fine all-around efforts last week although his team lost both games.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It looks like a pretty good trade for both teams.

Tecumseh gets Chelsea Athletic Director Larry Reed. Chelsea gets Tecumseh assistant city manager Robert Stalker, II. Even up swap. No cash or draft choices involved.

Reed, it was announced almost simultaneously Monday night here and in Tecumseh, is going to direct Tecumseh's fledgling pool program. He's been a consultant on their new pool for much of the school year.

Tecumseh would be hard-pressed to find someone more qualified, no matter what certain members of the Chelsea Aquatic Club might think. Reed came here from Milan nine years ago to get the programs going at the Cameron Pool. Most people I've talked to connected with swimming seem to think he's done a pretty good job, although the swimming program hasn't necessarily been his number one concern since he took over as athletic director four years ago.

Reed said he misses coaching, misses interacting with the kids, which is one big reason he's leaving Chelsea. He has a chance to build another program, although he may not have the opportunity to coach right away if Tecumseh doesn't pass a millage issue this year.

And I'll bet that if Reed is ever offered the AD job in Tecumseh, he won't take it.

At any rate, I wish him all the luck.

The AD job has to be one of the biggest pain in the butt jobs in school administration, right up there with high school assistant principal.

The AD, I would bet, hears more complaining than just about anyone. Wrong uniforms, it's his fault. Poor officials, it's his fault. Weird schedule, it's his fault. Wrong coach, it's his fault. Bad coach, it's his fault. Make any decision, and someone somewhere is probably going to hate it. He has to deal with some coaches who are always in his office and others he can't find to save his life. He has to spend a good portion of his life at sports events.

But just as importantly, how much praise does he ever get when things go just right? It takes a special kind of person to want that kind of job.

And that brings up another point. Reed is leaving well before the end of the school year. In fact, he's leaving before spring sports begin. So it ought to be fun to see how the school district deals with this dilemma. They certainly can't go on an entire sports season, make that an entire SOFTBALL season, without an athletic director. Do they try to find an interim director, perhaps someone already on staff? Or do they find a permanent director, which could also be someone on staff. It seems as though it would be tough to find someone outside the district on such short notice.

Could this all lead indirectly to the re-hiring of Rahn Rosentreter for a teaching position? That's pure speculation but I can see how it could happen given the right circumstances.

Apparently the Chelsea School District has a rule that the AD is not allowed to coach. Perhaps that rule could be bent a little bit. In Georgia, every athletic director I ever met was also the head football coach. That doesn't necessarily make it right, but it does work elsewhere. Even college athletic directors sometimes coach, such as the guy just down the road in Ann Arbor.

Anyway, the person I can see who might have the right to panic most about this situation is Reed's secretary, Pat Zangara. For a while she might be the only person who really knows what's going on. Or people might assume she knows what's going on when she doesn't. I have the feeling she's really going to earn her money.

The news about Reed has made this one of the most unusual sports weeks I can remember in quite a while.

Four Bulldogs went to the state wrestling meet. Pat Taylor took third place at 112 pounds and Tim Van Schoick finished fifth at 189 pounds. They could both end up state champs next year.

Mike Taylor, Chelsea's heavyweight, finished eighth. Official placers are the top six.

Doug Wingrove ran into some tough cookies and lost his first two matches. But as coach Kerry Kargel said, Wingrove certainly knows now what it takes to place at state. I'll bet he does next year.

And the entire Bulldog team is going to the team state tournament this week. They won their region for the first time in a couple of decades.

But perhaps the most amazing sports news of the year is that a Bulldog actually slam-dunked a basketball during an official game. Freshman Jon Royce did the honors in a JV game of all things. Varsity coach Robin Raymond said it may have been eight or nine years since that's happened.

Raymond seems to think he'll have four players next year who can dunk—Royce, Kerry and Kyle Plank, and Brian Burg. Now that would be nothing short of sensational. Air Chelsea. The stands would be packed for every game. Nothing could top it for sheer excitement. Even if there was one dunk a game, the anticipation alone would be worth the price of admission.

Freshman Cagers Split Two Games in Conference Action

Chelsea Bulldog freshman basketball team lost to Tecumseh but beat Pinckney in action last week.

On Monday, Feb. 13 the Bulldogs lost to the Indians 71-56 in Tecumseh.

The loss put Chelsea in second place in the Southeastern Conference.

"We started the game with no intensity at all and fell behind 12-0," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"To be successful we have to play hard the entire game."

The Bulldogs fought back to trail by one point at half-time, 29-28.

However, a dismal third quarter put Chelsea in a 12-point hole going into the final period.

Despite their lapses, the Bulldogs made 26-34 shots from the free throw line.

Jake Rindle led Chelsea with 21 points, Ben Hurst scored 13, Dan Stahl had 11, Adam Tillman scored three, and Jason Allen, Aaron Tanner, Jeff Gietzen, and Chris White each scored two points.

led most of the way and took a 61-51 win.

"We got back to running our plays on offense and the result was a number of easy baskets throughout the game," Quilter said.

"Pinckney tried two different presses and we handled them pretty well. On defense we kept the pressure on as evidenced by their 27 turnovers. It was a good team effort."

Stahl led the Dogs with 18 points, Rindle scored 14 to go along with 11 rebounds, Hurst had 11 points and five rebounds, Tillman had seven points, John Weinberg scored five points, and Allen, Robert Coelius, and Chris White had two points each. Chelsea out-rebounded the Pirates 29-15, shot 55 percent from the field, but just 32 percent from the free throw line.

Chelsea is 8-2 in the Southeastern Conference, and 8-5 for the season.

Bulldogs Open Tourney Play Against Brooklyn

Chelsea Bulldogs will begin district basketball play with about the best situation they could hope for.

The Bulldogs open on Thursday, March 2 at 6 p.m. against Brooklyn Columbia Central at Siena Heights. The Bulldogs lost their opening game of the season to BCC after blowing a big lead. A win against BCC would put the Dogs in the district finals on Saturday.

District play opens Tuesday with Saline matched against Tecumseh. The winner of that game will play Dexter on March 2 at 8 p.m.

Swim Team Places 3rd In Chelsea Invitational

This past week, the Chelsea varsity swimming team hosted the Chelsea Invitational. Out of a six-team format Chelsea finished third behind a very strong Novi team and an equally strong Adrian team.

"Our team turned in fantastic performances with either season or career best times taking place in each event," coach Jolly explained. "I am very proud of each member of our team. All the hard work is beginning to pay off."

The meet began with diving and an excellent performance turned in by Jamie Basso as he led the Bulldogs to a second place finish in the event. Mark Luick also dove well, finishing in eighth place, and Ron Stacey continued to improve, finishing in 12th place.

"Jamie's performance was the best I have ever seen him do. He is going to do very well this year at diving regionals."

The swimming began with the medley relay event. The "A" relay of Brett Paddock, David Oesterle, Garth Girard, and Dirk Colby, swam a season best time of 1:48.58, good enough for third place.

The next event was the 200 free. Our first swimmer in the event was Scott

Marsh. Marsh swam a season best time of 2:03.88 and set up a group of best times the rest of the meet.

The third heat of the 200 free saw Joe Heutteman, Rob Totten and Girard all with fantastic performances. Heutteman's time of 1:56.53 was a season and career best by almost four seconds. Rob Totten's time of 1:59.48 was a season best time by almost four seconds also. Girard finally broke the 1:56.0 barrier and swam his way to a season and career best time of 1:55.71.

The 200 IM was no different as they turned in exceptional swims. Jim Alford dropped six seconds to go 2:28.43. Mike Hollo dropped six seconds to go 2:32.64. Brian Brock, in the very next heat, dropped four seconds and swam a most impressive time of 2:18.39, good enough for seventh place.

Brett Paddock continued to be very impressive, placing second in the event.

The next event was the 50 free. Adam McArthur, Greg Goren and Dirk Colby paced the team in the event. McArthur continued to improve his stroke and looked very strong. Goren dropped 1/2 a second and placed 10th. Colby also dropped

1/2 a second and placed ninth.

The next event that the Bulldogs competed in was the 100 free. Goren and Colby were the core 100 free swimmers and both had season best times. Goren placed seventh with a time of 54.76 and Colby finished 12th with a time of 56.37.

Probably the best event for the Bulldogs was the 500 free. Totten and Marsh hit the water in the second heat. Totten dropped 20 seconds and placed fifth (5:18.42). Marsh dropped one second and finished seventh (5:36.16). Heutteman and Girard were in the last heat. Heutteman's time of 5:17.05 was a seven-second drop, good enough for fourth place. Girard swam strong and finished second with a time of 5:07.09.

The 100 backstroke saw McArthur drop three seconds to go 1:21.54. Brian Brock dropped three seconds and went 1:05.04, good enough for sixth place. Paddock's 59.84 earned him second-place honors.

The last individual event saw the breaststroke core swim very well. Oesterle, Hollo and Alford all swam season best times. Hollo dropped six seconds to go 1:11.36. Alford dropped three seconds to go 1:12.07. Oesterle's (Continued on page 13) with 21 points, including three, three pointers.

"We had a lot of chances," Raymond said.

"We didn't shoot as well as we have been. That was one of the keys to the game. The other was Chad Ward, their guard off the bench. He was able to penetrate and dish the ball off for some easy baskets. Except for their penetration, we did a good job defensively. I was real proud of the kids. Two or three times Tecumseh made a big run and when they got ahead by eight points I thought the game might get out of hand."

Chelsea had a hard time matching up with the taller Indians, whose front line runs 6-4, 6-3, with two 6-4 subs. Chelsea center Brian Burg was pushed around all night and finished with 10 tough points, one of his lowest totals in recent weeks. There was no one to give him any significant help inside.

Kerry Plank finished with 12 points, five rebounds, and seven of Chelsea's eight steals.

"He had an excellent all-around game," Raymond said.

Other scorers included Kyle Plank with eight points, and Chad Starkey and John Collins with four each.

Chelsea shot 40 percent from the field, 9-13 from the line, committed 20 turnovers, and was out-rebounded 38-31.

Dexter guards Andy and Marty Walsh made life miserable for the Bulldogs early in Tuesday's game, and center David Schmidt took over down the stretch.

"If they played as well all year as they did against us, they'd be right at the top of the league," Raymond said.

"The two Walshes played really well. Andy is so quick that he was just about impossible to stop. He scored 18 of his 28 points in the first half. Marty had 13 of his 20 points in the second half. Schmidt scored six points in the fourth quarter. Dexter simply outplayed us."

Chelsea was down by three points, 79-76, late in the game. The Bulldogs set up a three-point shot but Andy Walsh stole the inbound pass and the Dreadnaughts converted the turnover into a basket.

Morseau, hit two three-point shots in the last two minutes.

Also late in the game, Marty Walsh hit a breakaway lay-up and Morseau was called for an intentional foul on the play. Although Walsh missed the free throws, Dexter got the ball out of bounds.

Collins scored 13 points, Starkey had 12, Kyle and Kerry Plank each had 11, Burg had seven points in an off night, and Jeff Marshall scored one.

Kerry Plank had eight rebounds and six assists.

Despite the good play of the Dreadnaughts, Chelsea lost the game at the line, where they were 8-22. The team has hit 68 percent for the year. Chelsea hit 44 percent from the field, held a 39-34 rebound advantage, and committed nine fewer turnovers than Dexter with 18.

Chelsea was 7-11 over-all after last week's play. They play at Pinckney Friday in the final regular season game of the year. They're still holding on to third place in the league.

Charterbook Lists Michigan Private Charter Services

The Michigan Charter Boat Association, a Michigan non-profit organization has announced that its annual publication called "Michigan Charterbook" is available for distribution.

The reference guide offers an extensive listing of private charter services which include fishing, sailing, diving, duck hunting, cruises and excursions. It allows the reader to target a specific state area and find the available charter services for that area.

Michigan has one of the largest charter boat fleets in the nation. According to the Michigan Department of Natural Resources the number exceeds 900. Boats used for charter services must be licensed by the state and pass a strict inspection.

Denny Grinold, president of the charter association, stated, "through boat charters the tourists can experience a wonderful world of fishing, diving or cruising without making a major investment. It allows anyone to spend time on a professionally operated vessel for an affordable daily rate. Many of our captains have the same families or groups returning year after year. Fishing is the biggest part of our business and it's always a thrill to see the look on a kid's face when they hook a big Michigan salmon."

The book also contains an illustrated section that shows the different type of Michigan sport fish.

"Michigan Charterbook" is available free from the Michigan Travel Bureau by calling toll-free 1-800-5432-YES.

So A Chiropractor Is Really A Family Doctor?

Yes. HERE'S WHY...

Most people think of doctors of chiropractic as specialists in treating health problems of the back and spine. And they are. For chiropractors have been extremely effective in relieving pain and getting people back on their feet without drugs or surgery.

But doctors of chiropractic do more. They diagnose to determine whether other illnesses may be related to structural problems, which often is the case.

Chiropractors take an interest in your total health and well-being. And if a problem is indicated which requires specialized treatment, the doctor of chiropractic will refer you to the appropriate health specialist.

Firefighter II Exams Held in Dexter

Firefighters from the Dexter Area Fire Department were joined by members of other area fire departments to complete the Firefighter II final examination, Saturday, Feb. 11, at the Dexter Fire Hall.

Participants included Timothy J. Raymor, Derek Wiseley, Larry Wagner, Kris Kensler, Mike Claffey, Debbie Claffey, Loren Yates, Niles Mayrand, Michael West, Troy Maloney, Tom Claffey, James Ferris, Manchester Assistant Fire Chief Keith Johnson, Glenn J. Gilinski, Carl A. Ferch and Scio Fire Chief Wilmer R. Dane.

The exercise was supervised by Chelsea Assistant Fire Chief Danny Ellenwood, with Keith Weisgerber from Michigan's State Fire Fighters Training Council attending as an official observer.

The exam concluded a Firefighter II training program of several weeks, conducted under the auspices of the State Firefighters Training Council.

Twelve testing stations were included in the skill performance examination, a practical follow-up to the weeks of classes.

Inspection and Operational Check

At station one, each firefighter trainee was required to explain "what he/she was doing" during a backstrap check for water, damage or tangles, and during a check for full extension of face-piece and harness straps.

The trainee was also required to check the face-piece assembly for cracks, tears, broken headstraps or damaged threads on the connector, and to check cylinder pressure for recommended capacity of manufacturer.

In addition to the above checks, each candidate was required to open the cylinder valve to charge the unit, to check the high pressure connection, the hose assembly and the regulator, for leaks.

In checking the regulator, if it varied more than 200 pounds from the cylinder gauge, the trainee was required to remove the unit from service.

To check position of the regulator valves, trainees checked mainline valves, fully opened and locked, and checked the emergency by-pass for proper operation, fully closed.

Each firefighter breathed through the unit, opened the pressure flow valve (if the unit was so equipped), shut the cylinder valve, and breathed pressure off the unit.

Trainees checked the low-pressure alarm to confirm proper operating condition and checked all parts to be sure they were clean, before returning the unit to storage mode.

Ellenwood explained the individual trainees were evaluated on whether the maneuvers outlined above were conducted in a safe manner.

Donning the Airpaks

At station two, trainees checked cylinder pressure on their airpaks, opened the cylinder valve and checked the regulator gauge; verified the operation of the low-pressure alarm and donned the airpak unit.

Making certain all straps were secure, each trainee applied the face piece, adjusting straps and the face-piece seal, and confirming the exhalation valve operation.

Trainees attached low-pressure tubes to regulators on specific models, and if present, checked the donning-mode switch position.

The men and women put protective clothing in proper position, and were evaluated on whether the maneuvers listed were completed safely and competently within 75 seconds.

Rescue Evaluation Using Airpaks
In maneuvers required at station three, trainees were evaluated on rescue procedures.

Attached to a lifeline or dragging a hose, and attired in full protective clothing, trainees crawled into a room, maintained wall contact as they followed a left- or right-search pattern, and probed the area with arms, legs or rescue tools.

Searching through and behind all furniture, the Firefighter II trainees looked under beds, in closets, and paused to listen for possible victims.

Search areas were marked, and trainees were required to operate an airpak by-pass, on command, shutting off the mainline valve.

They exited the room, using a by-pass valve for breathing.

Instructors observed whether the procedures were completed in a safe, timely and competent manner.

Blanket Drag, Rescue of Victim
Each trainee placed a blanket beside a face-up victim, rolled the victim toward him/her, and gathered the blanket under the victim.

As the trainee rolled the victim onto it, the blanket was straightened, and the rescuer grasped the blanket, lifted the victim's head and shoulders off the floor, pulling the victim a minimum distance of 20 ft. to safety.

Once again, a competent, safe manner was required, and completion time was important.

Carry, Place, Climb Ladder

During the task execution sequence outlined at station five, trainees disengaged locks, removed a ladder from brackets on a fire truck, and demonstrated a low-shoulder carry, butt end down and facing the direction of movement.

Checking for overhead obstructions, the trainee heeled the ladder against the building, and raised the ladder to near-vertical position by a hand-over-hand method on the rungs.

Each trainee moved the butt of the ladder away from the building, steadying it with foot and leg.

HERE COME DA JUDGE(S) who officiated at the final exam which climaxed the weeks of training classes for men and women of several area fire departments. Shown at the Dexter Fire Hall, Saturday, Feb. 11, are Lt. Keith L. Weisgerber, state-certified fire training advisor, from Roseville, and Chelsea's Assistant Fire Chief Dan Ellenwood, instructor certified by the State Firefighters Training Council to supervise the Firefighter II training program.

MANCHESTER FIREFIGHTER-KRIS KENSLEK prepares to don his face-piece during the Firefighter II final exam, which concluded many weeks of classes for men and women from several departments, conducted by Dan Ellenwood, certified instructor for Michigan's Firefighters State Training Council, headquartered in Lansing.

NO VIOLENCE INTENDED, BUT ADVANCED training for firefighters, as Steve Jaskot checks off Mike Claffey's performance at one of the testing stations. The two joined other candidates from several area fire departments gathered at the Dexter Fire Hall, Saturday, Feb. 11, to take the Firefighter II final exam, concluding weeks of training classes under the supervision of Dan Ellenwood, Chelsea, an instructor certified by the State Firefighters Training Council.

While checking for proper angle, each trainee confirmed the heel was firmly set in the ground and beams were safely resting against the building.

Each firefighter climbed the ladder and executed a leg lock, before descending the ladder, using acceptable body position.

The ladder was lowered, replaced and locked in the brackets on the fire truck.

Restored Sylvan Adds Businesses

call themselves "president" and "vice-president." Koziski is the majority owner.

Koziski, of Ann Arbor, has a degree in food and nutrition from Western Michigan University. She has worked at the Sheraton Inn in Ann Arbor as assistant catering director and at the University of Michigan in food service.

Feeney, a Chelsea High school graduate, earned a degree in hotel and restaurant management at Grand Valley State University. She has worked at Baker's Square in Birmingham. She also sold wines for J. Lewis Cooper.

The women knew each other as friends and decided the time was right to go into business together.

The store specializes in gourmet food to go, although there is a small eat-in area in the store.

Baked items include everything from scones to cookies and muffins and Chelsea buns. They'll even make custom wedding cakes and other specialty cakes. They have exotic take-out salads and will soon be offering take-out dinners. They have a variety of pre-packaged items available as well, from olives to pure maple syrup. They'll cater any size function up to about 200 people.

"We're still growing and experimenting," Koziski said.

"We make everything from scratch. Our workday starts at 6 a.m. but we do a lot of prep work the night before. It has a lot to do with organization."

The Village Shoppe

Chelsea resident Neta Mills is the sole owner. She moved the store here from Manchester in November, partly to be closer to home.

Her Manchester store specialized more in antiques but the limited floor space here prevents that.

The store contains a blend of country folk art, Victorian items, and general gifts. It is a competitor of Dayspring Gifts, another downtown business.

"We have kind of a gentleman's agreement to stay away from things the other person has," Mills said.

The Village Shoppe carries several lines from area artisans, such as lithophanes from Manchester artist Dave Jefferson. There is custom, one-of-a-kind sterling silver jewelry, and an extensive line of Santa Claus and other merchandise for Christmas. Plus there are greeting cards, toys, wallets and more.

"I want to be very selective in what I carry," Mills said.

Store hours are 9:30-5, Monday through Saturday.

Kennedy-Bell-Vogel Draperies

Sandy Vogel, former assistant principal at Chelsea High school, is the sole owner. The business was started in Jackson in 1926 and has had only three owners. Vogel bought the business in 1984.

The Chelsea store is the first away from the main Jackson store. It's on the lower level of the Sylvan.

The store specializes in custom "window treatments," according to manager Jennette Hoffman. For sale are everything from draperies to blinds and shutters, as well as drapery hardware. In addition, there are bath items, including whirlpool baths. Eventually they hope to get back into the carpet business.

"It was a smart business move to set up a store here," Hoffman said.

"There are so many things going up in the Chelsea area every day."

The store also offers a complete interior decorating service.

"Our through-store business has been moderate but our in-home business has been excellent," Hoffman said.

Hours are 9:30-5:30, Monday through Friday and 9-4 on Saturday. Evening appointments are also available.

Rain Barrel Antiques

Owners are Nancy Dietrich of Manchester and Sue Summers, who splits time between Manchester and California as her husband is an airline pilot.

The women have never had their own storefront before have operated out of Manchester Mall and the Hitching Post in Tecumseh. Dietrich has been in the antique business for 20 years.

The store carries a primitive and general line of antiques, including everything from clothes, furniture, posters, jewelry and knick knacks. There are even a couple of old church pews and a painted wooden Indian in the store.

Most of the merchandise is from the turn of the century.

Store hours are 9-5, Monday through Saturday.

R.A. Steger & Co.

R.A. "Gus" Steger moved his accounting business to the top floor of the Sylvan in November. For 13 years he was located over the Secretary of State's office on Main St. After that he moved to the northeast corner of Old US-12 and M-52.

The emphasis of Steger's business is on taxes and consulting, although he also does a limited amount of financial planning. This is one of his busiest times of the year.

"The traditional place for professionals is in the downtown," Steger said of his reasons for moving.

Sheep Shearing Schools Sponsored At Three Locations

The schools are as follows:

—March 17-18 at the Michigan Livestock Exchange in Manchester.

—April 28-29 at the Michigan Livestock Exchange in St. Louis.

—Nov. 3-4 at Glenn Manning Farm near Hubbard Lake (in Alpena county).

Instructor for the schools will be Paul Taylor, of Marysville, O.

The cost is $35 per person for each school. Classes at each location will run from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. each day. All equipment, class materials and sheep are provided. Participants will be responsible for their meals and lodging.

Registration deadline for all schools is March 8. Registration must be made in writing. Send your check, made payable to MSU Shearing School, to Margaret Benson, 105 Anthony Hall, MSU, East Lansing 48824. Each school will be limited to 20 participants.

The buses are checked annually in 31 major categories, from lights to brakes to exhaust to steering. Each of Chelsea's 37 buses must pass the inspections. The district receives only a few days warning that the inspections will take place. Martin is one of 22 officers state-wide who do nothing but inspect buses. The service is provided by the state at no additional cost to the district.

SCHOOLWIDE ENRICHMENT TRIAD PROGRAM
CONGRATULATIONS!
YOU ARE A PUBLISHED AUTHOR!

I AM SPECIAL

By: Shannon Schuyler, Kindergarten, Mrs. Wilson
Because I love my Mom and Dad and Condi and Ralphie.
Because I set the table. Because I make funny faces.
Because I go to school. Because I'm me.

HORSES

By: Derek Klein, Kindergarten, Mrs. Carlson
I like to ride my horses. Most of them are mine. My brother owns a cat and a calf. I have chickens and roosters. I wear a helmet when I ride on a bull. He is wild. I put a mask, with holes for his eyes, on his face. I fell off once and he stepped on my hand. If I'm nice to him, he's quite nice to me. I feed my animals.

TRACTORS

By: Michael Konieczki, Kindergarten, Mrs. Carlson
I like tractors. Yesterday we bought a John Deere Size B tractor. We can plant corn with it. We had a John Deere A before, and it's a motor start one. The B is a hand start. I ride on it with my dad, and he lets me steer it. All John Deeres are green. I have a pedal tractor with a wagon.

THANKSGIVING

By: Emily Rose, First Grade, Miss Vogel
I am thankful for the food that we can eat and for the families that we can have.

JERKY TURKEY

By: Ryan Cook, Second Grade, Mrs. Hansen
I have a turkey
That was very jerky.
When he went to bed
Then he was dead!

MY CAT

By: Amanda McConaghy, Second Grade, Mrs. Van Blaricum
My cat's name is Buffy. He is a wild cat and I love him and he loves me. My sister loves my cat. My cat loves my dad. We love him.

THE TURKEY

By: Katie Harper and Amanda Tarantowski, Second Grade, Mrs. Piper
One day we met a turkey. He was very nice. And he talked too. He was magic, that's why his head was purple. The funny colors he had on him was the magic. We liked him so much and he liked us too. We would visit him everyday.
One day when we went there he was laying on the ground. We thought he was dead but he was only sleeping. And he woke up and we played and we lived happily ever after.

THE CIRCUS

By: Amy McCalla, Second Grade, Mrs. Peltier
The circus is funny. I like it. There are clowns and acrobats, and there are elephants. The best of all is the ring master. The ring master tells the people what to do, and that's not the end. There's more. There are tigers and there are lions. There are other animals that belong to the cat family. There is popcorn, and there are drinks and other good things to eat. The big top is where all the neat things are.

JACOB'S THREE WISHES

By: Beth Wegenschütz, Third Grade, Mrs. Moore
Once upon a time there was a boy named Jacob. Now, his mother was very poor. He was very poor too. His best friend was Chris. They were the poorest kids in the whole school. At school they were having a "HULA" party and everybody had to wear Hawaiian clothes. So he told his mother, and she gave him a real 14k gold garbage can and told him to sell it. When he went to sell it, he met a woman who was poorer than he was. She had a robe to cover herself. She asked him for the garbage can. He said "What will you give me for it?"
She said she would give him three wishes, every time he went outside. She would grant a wish. Now, the only bad thing about it was that he would have to go outside every week, and he liked to go outside every month. But he agreed. Once he got home his mother yelled at him for she thought the wishes were fake.
That week he went outside and wished he had everything he needed. His wish was granted, but his mother was still poor, so next week he went outside and wished his mother had everything she needed, and his wish was granted. The next day at school, he told Chris about his wishes, so Chris asked if he could have one, and Jacob said, "Sure, you're my best friend."
So the next week he wished for 2 more wishes, and his wishes were granted, so he gave one to Chris, but when Chris wished, he got nothing. So Jacob had to wish for him, but it didn't work. Then he figured it out. He should have said, "I wish for 2 more wishes that work."
He was so stupid.
The End
The moral of this story is to always say things in a full sentence.

THE AWFUL PICNIC

By: Heidi BeGole, Third Grade, Mrs. Quilter
One day a sparrow was drinking from the creek. A small napkin floated down the creek. The sparrow hopped away to a camping ground. People were having an argument at their picnic. The little bird watched them. A baby was crying, "waa waa!"
"Mom, will you tell Carrie to shut-up!"
"Mommy, can I have some grapes?"
"No, you may not!"
"Oh boy, has this been a bad day."
"Mom, I want Carrie to please be quiet!"
"I'm trying, I'm trying! Everybody, be quiet, Carrie is asleep now! Would you all like a banana?"
"Yes, please."
"Here you go."
But just then, ants took it away! "Oh well, come on, let's go home. Go get dad, it's starting to sprinkle."
And they all went home unhappy!

MY FAVORITE SEASON

By: Beth Redding, Fourth Grade, Mrs. Walton
I like summer alot but I think my favorite is winter. When it's snowing and icy. I love the cold.
I like having hot chocolate and burying myself in blankets. I like just sitting in the snow, and I LOVE skiing and Christmas.
I like laying by the heater and I have sewing and ice skating classes. And I like seeing my friends.
But summer is too hot. I burn up all the time.

SUMMARY OF CRICKET IN TIMES SQUARE (By: George Selden)

By: Beth Koengeter, Fourth Grade, Mrs. Nance
A cricket came from Connecticut to New York City. In the Times Square subway station, he met a mouse, a cat and a boy named Mario. Mario wanted to keep the cricket. His mom didn't want him to keep the cricket but she let him. Mario had to keep him in the news stand they owned.
The cricket, mouse, and cat got into a lot of mischief. The cricket learned songs from the radio. He put on concerts and soon became famous. He got tired of putting on concerts. He put on a final concert and left to go back home to Connecticut.

THE MAGIC CHECKERS

By: Aaron Atlee, Fourth Grade, Mr. Smith
Once there was a boy named Charles who wanted a checker game but didn't have the money.
One day on his way to school he met a man with a very white beard. The man handed him a checker game and went by. Charles looked back and the man was gone. "Hooryay!" he shouted.
At home he opened the box and suddenly the game popped out and set up by itself.
"Find someone to play with," said a voice.
Charles got his Mom to play three games with him. He won all three and all he had to do is sit back and the checkers moved by themselves.
They played another game and Charles moved the checkers by himself. He won this time too.
He liked his magic checkers.

THE BLUE BOX

By: Ruth Neustifter, Fifth Grade, Mrs. Stevens
Oh, what a surprise! I jumped out of bed, ran to the window, and saw a big, blue box. I ran downstairs to see it better. It was about four feet tall, the sides were bulging out, and OH, PU! It smelled like animal! It was cold and wet with dew. I hurried to open it. Inside I found what I had always wanted—$200,000!!! I ran upstairs and told the good news to Mom and Dad. I said, "Pack your stuff, we're moving out!" I grabbed the keys, the money, and my parents. We moved to Wisconsin. I still have that big, blue, bumpy, stinky, wet, quiet box.

JACKSON SPACE CENTER

By: Jason Selbor, Fifth Grade, Mrs. Moore
I liked going to Jackson Space Center. I saw the Apollo space capsule and early space suits. I saw the rover which is the buggy that was put on the moon. They had meteorites that were in glass boxes—with gloves you could touch them. They had a machine that was like a scale and it would tell you how much you would weigh on the nine planets and the Sun. They had engines that were in space ships too.

MY CAT'S GRAVE

By: Amie Miller, Fifth Grade, Mrs. Rossi
My special place is my cat's grave. This place is special to me because one of my best friends was buried there. There are many things there. First, there are two bricks marking his burial, and his name was Zipper. He was white and brown, with a brown spot on each side of him. He died being hit by a car. When you would rub him on his stomach you would feel the softest fur ever. Anyhow, let's get back to the things around the bricks. There is an old apple orchard, and on the other side there is a pretty sort of pine-tree forest. It smells nice. In the spring it smells like apple blossoms and apples. There is a rough stone in front of you. In the back there are some flakey wood chips. There is also a hard piece of wood under you. This place is very special to me. I feel very sad when I go there, and I want him back but I know that his death was meant to be.

Massachusetts pioneered the world's first bureau of labor statistics in 1889, according to a Labor Department publication, "The Origin of the U. S. Department of Labor." During its first four years, the bureau was run as a voice for labor reformers, but in 1873 Carroll Davidson Wright was appointed. Wright is credited with the quotation "Figures won't lie, but liars will figure." He laid the foundation for objectivity, and by 1883, 12 other states had established their own bureaus of labor statistics.

Fahrner and Steingold; Ted Von Voigtlander, co-developer and executive vice president of Discount Tire Co., Inc.; Dana Dougherty, civil engineer with Ayres, Lewis, Norris and May; Dave Kubany, planner and design co-ordinator, principal with Landscape Architecture and Urban Planning Services; and John E. Cooch, co-developer and partner in Saginaw Hills Development Co.

Scio Board Approves 420-Acre Residential Property, Golf Course

Saginaw Greens, a 420-acre residential development surrounding a championship golf course, received zoning approval as a planned unit development by the Scio township Board of Trustees at the Friday, Jan. 20, meeting, according to John Cooch and Ted Von Voigtlander, partners in Saginaw Hills Development Co.

Saginaw Greens, located west of Wagner Rd. and University of Michigan's Saginaw Forest, and bounded by Liberty, Zeeb, and Park Rds. on Ann Arbor's west side, lies within the Ann Arbor school district.

Co-developer Dominic Liburdi's Troy-based LCC, Inc., will handle lot and home sales for Saginaw Greens.

Liburdi says the development offers several features unique to the area. Approximately 370 half-acre residential lots will be developed in five distinct neighborhoods around a first-class golf course that highlights the site's natural contours, trees and wetlands.

The developers explained their project has been planned with sensitivity to the area's natural beauty and topography.

Homes will connect to an underground network of electricity, telephone, natural gas, water and sanitary systems.

Principal home-builders for the development are Burgin/Liburdi Builders, Inc.

Liburdi Development Corp., the parent of LCC, Inc., recently completed what it terms the successful

Scio Hills development in Scio township's northeast section.

According to Liburdi, architectural and building standards have been set for all homes in the complex, including a 2,000 sq. ft. minimum size, and material guidelines emphasizing the use of stone, brick and wood. He expects the first of the development's five sections to be on the market by summer, ready for homes which range from $175,000 to $225,000.

Some homes in other neighborhoods of Saginaw Greens are expected to sell for $350,000 or more. Liburdi indicated plans include building three or four model homes in several price ranges for prospective home owners to tour during the summer.

Saginaw Hills Development partner Ted Von Voigtlander says the quality of the golf course is generating a great deal of interest. "Our goal is to make it among the finest in the Midwest," he explained.

The 18-hole course was designed by William Newcomb Associates, Ann Arbor-based architects and master builders of quality golf courses nationwide, including the acclaimed "Monument" course at northern Michigan's Boyne Falls, named one of the nation's top 10 resort courses in 1987.

The 170-acre Saginaw Greens golf course, which will be open to the public, features a central core of 11 holes, a luxury clubhouse, in addition to its own practice putting green and driving range.

Its owners have invested in bent-grass fairways, computer-controlled irrigation systems, and numerous water and earth-work features to equal other world-class golf courses.

Newcomb & Associates used the site's natural features to create a golf course with a Scottish flair.

They have located seven holes in suitable terrain throughout the development, increasing the length and challenge of each hole.

The over-all length of the course ranges from a 5,800-yds. forward tee to a 6,800-yds. championship tee.

Alexander Associates Architects of Ann Arbor designed the $2.5 million clubhouse, to be faced with natural stone.

Amenities will include a pro shop, 200-seat restaurant with central fireplace, bar, banquet/meeting rooms to overlook the course.

Newcomb says the golf course is scheduled for seeding in the fall of 1989, with play beginning in the fall of 1990.

"Saginaw Greens represents a new age in residential development, offering a central focus and purpose for the community, and an enhanced quality of life," explained project co-ordinator David Kubany, president of Landscape Architecture & Urban Planning Services.

For more information about the development, call John Cooch at Saginaw Hills Development Co., 994-5292.

Contact LCC, Inc., 683-1840, for information on lot and home sales.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Remember Love Canal? Toxic pollution so widespread it endangered the lives of an entire community and forced families to abandon forever their homes and property?

It's scheduled to happen right here in Michigan unless we do something right now to stop it. Without immediate steps, not only is our Water Wonderland doomed to become a toxic wasteland, but we and our children could become an endangered species! State officials, without the knowledge and approval of most of us, have agreed to let Michigan become a toxic dump for the poisonous and radioactive wastes of seven states.

They are putting at risk the safety of 27 million people by threatening the contamination of 95% of our nation's fresh water—the Great Lakes and all the rivers and water basins of the region, including even the underground water tables. All against the advice of national science groups and health authorities, who warn that the waste dump WILL LEAK!

We need your help to stop this madness which could risk all that we love and live here for! Please join us in letting Governor Blanchard and our legislators know how we feel. Write to Don't Waste Michigan—Northern Chapter, Box 445, Petoskey 49770.

Free Pops Concert By Ann Arbor Band Slated Sunday

On Sunday, Feb. 26, at 3 p.m., the Ann Arbor Concert Band will present a special Pops Concert in the Auditorium at Pioneer High school. The concert will feature a guest appearance by WAAM morning show personality Bob Taylor. Taylor, perhaps best known to local audiences as "Fat Bob, the Singing Plumber," will join the 65-member Concert Band in an assortment of familiar melodies from Broadway shows.

Also featured will be trumpet soloists Dan Wagner, Phil Rhodes and Warren Buckleiter, in a performance of "The Three Trumpeters" by Agostini. Other music selected for the concert by conductor Victor Bordo includes Rachmaninoff's "Italian Polka" and the "Third Suite" by Robert Jager. And, of course, no pops concert would be complete without at least one march by John Philip Sousa.

Admission to the concert is free.

For more information, call 971-2099.

THE GANG at Calamity Jane's Mantrap Saloon includes Steve Manville, Jerri Cole, Jerry Martel, Rob Rawson, Norma Graflund, Debbie Olsen, Alan Anderson, Hal Wendeleen, Sherry Lawton, Dan Reed, Patti Fitch, Amy Klinke, John Williams. These characters, and

CAP Giving Benefit Performance For St. Louis School for Boys

Things were booming at Beach Middle school on Feb. 17 and 18. The Man-Trap Saloon and patrons of Beach School Saloon had a rip-roaring time watching the antics of Deadwood Gulch. Therefore, due to popular demand, the Man-Trap Saloon has not left town but is still located at Beach Middle school. The rumor is true, the saloon will be in residence there for one more night, the night of Saturday, Feb. 25. Anyone who hasn't had the chance to see for themselves the events of Deadwood Gulch can now do so. Deadwood Dick, the masked rider of the Black Hills will ride again that night.

Chelsea Area Players are proud and pleased to present their production of "Deadwood Dick or the Game of Gold" as a benefit performance for the St. Louis School for Boys. Saturday, Feb. 25 will see the Deadwood Gulch gang alive and active. Anyone who has not had the opportunity to see this outlandish production or would enjoy seeing it again may purchase tickets at the Chelsea Pharmacy for the one benefit performance on Feb.

25. Tickets are $7 at the Pharmacy and $8 at the door of the saloon.

This is not the first time Chelsea Area Players has done performances to help in the community projects. They were able to give donations to the Courthouse restoration and the Depot restoration from their productions. The money that can be donated to these community events comes from the ticket sales for their productions. Therefore you, the audience, are the donors. The entertainment you receive from the performances is their way of thanking you for your help in CAP contributions to community projects. The more you help, the more CAP can help.

Please encourage your friends and neighbors to join you for a night of laughter and enjoyment at the Man-Trap Saloon (Beach Middle school) to see the shenanigans of the people of Deadwood Gulch and find out who is Deadwood Dick, the masked rider of the Black Hills. (If you know who he is, don't ruin the surprise by telling.

"DEADWOOD DICK; or, THE GAME OF GOLD"

THEATRE R.e.v.i.e.w

By RUSS OGDEN
Free Lance Drama Critic & EMU Professor

Cold winds prevailed in the parking lot, but inside Calamity Jane's Man-Trap Saloon heated festivities were underway with a dramatic flourish of the first degree. Whether the on-stage citizens of Deadwood Gulch were having more fun than the off-stage audience would have been a debatable item. But obvious enjoyment ruled throughout the "saloon" on opening night of "Deadwood Dick; or, the Game of Gold."

Corn popped all through the night, sometimes on stage and sometimes at tables where it was contained in rustling sacks! Drinks, too, from coffee to soft sodas were available throughout the evening.

Audience favorites certainly included a piano solo by Fingers McGee (Sherry Lawton) played between Scenes in Act II, while another applause getter was See-Saw Sam (Jayson Eyster) with his wily singing saw between scenes in Act I. But winning the most laughs were Cal and Clara Kactis in a Nelson Eddy/Jeanette McDonald refrain in which Cal's body temperature "heated up!"

Indeed one star of the evening did stand out in the person of Molly, Sheriff Loveless' wife, more "sinned against than sinning." Valerie Worden's Molly spelled melodrama of the Old West with a capital "M."

To see the ladies of the dance hall—Susan D. Schmunk, Jerri Cole, Debbie Olson, Amy Klinke, and Patty Fitch—giving their all in the true Chelsea fashion was a real hoot to me.

And to see Tice G. Aten as Pong Ping (not Ping-Pong) provided several gasty laughs during the evening at Calamity Jane's (Norma Graflund) Man-Trap Saloon.

Rob Rawson as "Black'n Red," a true-blue villain, received his share of hisses both on and off stage, while Ned Harris (Deadwood Dick) Ward Beauchamp, and Wild Bill Hickok (Ken Beauchamp) shared both boos and hallelujahs in their respective roles.

To fully describe the action of the Gold Rush characters would take a full script but never have I seen people in all my reviewing, again on and off the stage, having such a rip-roaring good time.

New costumes by Jerri Cole and Norma Graflund were terrific and added much to the total melodramatic effect of the Western fun-fest.

And a special toast to the Miners and Toughs: Tony Moison, Lonnie Mitchell, Stephen Manville, Jerry Martell, John Williams, Jeff Boyers, and Allen Anderson and also to the riotous and righteous hatcheteers: Sue Williams, Mary Ann Stevenson, Shelley Wheaton, and Jan Baltzell.

Congratulations to a most remarkable aggregation of illustrious actors known as the Chelsea Area Players. Continued success with that summer musical!

Incentives Offered for Geo-Thermal Heating

Ever since cavemen first stumbled onto a hot spring, people have known that receiving heat from water is a pleasant experience.

With a nod to the basic principles involved, Consumers Power Co. is launching a major initiative in coming weeks which will encourage rural electric customers who heat with propane or heating oil to consider switching to a water-based geothermal system that can both heat and cool. The initiative, called System:GT[®], short for system:geothermal, will be directed primarily at the utility's 375,000-electric-only customers, representing approximately 1 million people, in Michigan's western, southern and northern Lower Peninsulas.

"By switching to a geothermal water-based system, a customer could save between $250 to $600 in heating, cooling and water heating costs each year depending on their house size, compared to the cost of using propane or heating oil," said J. Gregory Northrup, manager of marketing and sales for Consumers Power. "Homeowners receive three benefits in one machine—heating, cooling and water heating."

"With System:GT[®] there is no combustion taking place in the home, ensuring safety and the quality of air inside the home," Northrup said. "There is also no unsightly fuel tank or distribution lines."

Homeowners who express an interest in learning more about System:GT[®] will receive a courtesy call from a Consumers Power representative. The representative will perform a computerized home energy analysis, explain how geothermal heat pumps operate and make an estimate of savings by using System:GT[®].

"Unfortunately, many of our electric customers in rural areas are presently paying more than they need to for home heating," said Northrup. To help customers purchase a geothermal water-based heat pump,

Consumers Power will be offering incentives ranging from $25 to $160, depending on the size of the home and performance efficiency ratings of the installed unit. In addition, the State of Michigan is offering a tax credit of up to $1,050 for installation of a water-source heat pump, due to the energy conservation value of these units.
