SEWER LINE is being replaced in several areas of town as part of an effort to upgrade the capacity of the new wastewater treatment plant. Here workers dig down to replace pipe on North St. Recent warm weather has made the job a little more pleasurable.

Hall, Steele, Kanten Win Race for Village Council

Village trustees Dennis Hall, Stephanie Kanten, and Richard Steele successfully denied a challenge by former village president Charles Ritter and were re-elected for two-year terms Monday.

Mild weather aided a relatively heavy turnout at the polls at Sylvan Town Hall, where 233 voters, or 16 percent of the registered electorate, cast their votes, according to clerk Allen Anderson.

Voter turnout increased dramatically during the day. By 11 a.m. only 60 residents had voted.

Among the incumbents, Richard Steele, who was elected to a fourth term, received the highest number of votes with 173. Hall was elected to a second term with 162, and Kanten, who has served on council most of the decade, received 156.

Ritter came in a distant fourth with 102 votes. It was his third-straight defeat in a run for office. In 1986 he was defeated in a bid for village president and last year he lost in a try for council.

There were no other contests in the election.

Anderson, unopposed in his bid for a second two-year term as clerk, received the highest number of votes of anyone running for office, 195.

Zoning inspector Rosemary Harook received 177 votes for assessor.

Candidates for three-year terms on the McKune Memorial Library Board, Fred Holdsworth and Gary Zenz, received 178 and 161 votes, respectively.

Council Votes To Annex Land for Office Complex

Ten acres of land that would be used for Chelsea's first office complex will be annexed into the village if the county gives its blessing.

On March 7, village council voted to annex the land belonging to developer Rene Papo. The land is located off Old US-12 next to Chelsea Community Hospital in Sylvan township. Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners has the final say.

Papo wants to build a 40,000-square-foot office complex that would primarily be used by physicians. He wants the building to benefit from village services, particularly sewer services. His building would tie into the system on hospital property. In addition, it's likely the road into his complex would extend through to the hospital.

"I don't see any major problems with the project," said village consultant Lee Fahrner.

"The flow to the wastewater plant will be very minimal. What Papo's proposing is really needed in the village. We don't want to lose those professional people if they can't find a place for their practices here. Most hospitals do have office space nearby. It just makes sense for the village to annex the land."

However, Papo was told by village president Jerry Satterthwaite that the village can't approve site plans until the land is annexed.

Village manager Robert Stalker said the plans also shouldn't be approved until the land is rezoned from agricultural to office use.

Papo had asked that the village approve his site plans contingent upon the annexation and zoning change as he wants to speed up the process.

"If it's going to take six months (for the approvals), I'd rather do it in the township," Papo said.

"You can't do it in the township unless we say we can't service you, and we're not going to say we can't service you because we can service you," Satterthwaite said.

Satterthwaite suggested that all the details of the plans be worked out in sufficient detail that the planning commission would not have to table them for lack of information.

Papo would be required to pay consulting fees and other expenses incurred by the village.

Village's Biggest Budget Passes With No Comments

After a March 7 public hearing village council approved a $1,419,000 general fund budget for 1989-90.

The public hearing lasted less than two minutes as no one from the audience commented on the village's biggest budget ever. Council passed the budget unanimously.

In a related issue, council also approved a four percent raise for non-union personnel, the same raise union employees are receiving. Non-union personnel include supervisors, dispatchers, crossing guards, and some office workers.

An initial $55,500 shortfall in the first draft of the budget disappeared in the final version. In the final version, revenues were increased $19,000 while expenses were trimmed $36,500. The new budget is $79,443 more than last year's actual unaudited budget.

Areas that were cut in the final version were general services ($4,000), police protection ($10,000), fire protection ($9,000), insurance, bonds and fringes ($6,000), other activities ($10,000), and parks and recreation ($500). Public works added $3,000.

Village Clears Way for Domino's By Granting Non-Conforming Use

Village Zoning Board of Appeals cleared the way for Domino's Pizza to set up a store downtown when it approved the substitution of one non-conforming use for another at the proposed site.

The former site of Ralph Fletcher's Friendly Service at the corner of S. Main and Lincoln Sts. will be the home of the new store.

For as many as 50 years a gas station had operated on the site. When zoning took effect, the area was zoned for residential use, although the gas station was allowed to remain because it pre-dated zoning.

However, Eugene and Becky Belknap purchased the building and the adjacent home on Lincoln St. for the new business. They own all the Ann Arbor Domino's stores.

Planning commission secretary

Warren McArthur told the board that some members of the commission were opposed to allowing another non-conforming use. In fact, the commis-

No Easter Egg Hunts This Year?

For the first time in many years, there apparently won't be a community-wide Easter Egg Hunt in Chelsea.

No one has approached the school district about using the high school grounds this year. In past years the Chelsea Jaycees have sponsored a big event there. However, the Jaycees have disbanded.

Chiropractor Warren Atkinson, who has held hunts the last two years, has also gotten out of the hard-boiled egg business.

sion had asked for an interpretation of the ordinance by the board, which pays a building must be changed to its zoned designation if it has stood vacant for more than 180 days.

However, the interpretation, listed second on the board's agenda, became a moot point when the board allowed the substitution.

At least two board members, chairman Jerry Satterthwaite and Phil Boham among them, went on record as saying they believed the pizza business would be a vast improvement over businesses that have inhabited the site.

The board allowed the non-conforming use only for the site of the former service station. The house, which is also part of the property, is not included.

KIWANIS CLUB OF CHELSEA made its annual donation to Chelsea Social Services Monday night. Club vice-president Tom Davis, left, made the presentation to Don Dancer of CSS. One of the major projects of CSS is Christmas baskets for the needy.

IT WAS A SLOW MORNING AT THE POLLS Monday at Sylvan Town Hall, but by the time the polls closed 233 residents had voted and returned the incumbents to office.

Although their sign had not yet been completed, members of Chelsea's Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-Day Saints held their first Sunday morning worship in their new building on Freer Rd. The 70-member church previously used Rebekah Hall on M-52.

Richard Dotts led a field of 26 players at the end of the first game round of preliminary play in the Chelsea cribbage tournament with an 8-2 record. Jeff Williams, Skip Schlupe and Barbara Corser were in a triple tie for second at 7-3.

One hundred and nine of Chelsea's 2,506 registered voters turned out for village elections. There was only one contested race, that for village treasurer. The race was between William E. Storey or write-in candidate Kathleen Chapman.

Chelsea High school swimmers capped a fine state meet by finishing their undefeated dual-meet season with a fourth-place finish at the Michigan High School Athletic Association's Class B-C-D state swimming meet championships. Chelsea took seven swimmers and one diver to the meet. The swimmers included Craig Miller, Mike Coffman, Scott Pryor, Mike Carignan, Jeff Nemeth, Brent Bauer and Don Skiff. Mark Westhoven was Chelsea's diver.

Department of Natural Resources gave up efforts to live-trap wild turkeys in the Waterloo Recreation Area. Biologists tried to lure the birds into baited areas and capture them in nets. Attempts were unsuccessful. The wary birds either wouldn't come to the bait or dodged out of the way before nets could come down on them.

Coach William Coelius reported that the Forensics team representing Chelsea High in the District Tournament had been chosen. Members were chosen through competition through the high school. Placing first in Men's and the Women's Oration at Chelsea were Brad Glazier and Coleen Coomes. Other first place winners in Chelsea's school competition included Brenda Shadoan, Dale Heydlauff, Merry Hoffmeyer, Dianne Burg, Rick Haller and Robin Schneider.

Chelsea wrestlers did well in State and Regional Tournament action. Darryl West concluded a very fine wrestling career with a state championship on his third attempt at the 145 lb. title. Dennis Bauer won a regional title. At 170 lbs., with some fine wrestling, Dennis placed over Captains Darryl West and Mike Agopian, both who placed third in the regional.

New to St. Paul's United Church of Christ was the Rev. R. J. Ratzlaff. He was welcomed in a special installation service at the church with a reception for the pastor and his family following the service.

Dedicated seniors at Chelsea High school gave their final performance in the year's musical "Once Upon a Mattress." Among the seniors included in the cast was Cindy Turcott, a four-year veteran of the Chelsea High school stage. Other seniors acting in the play were Jodi Daniels, Steve Figg, Jim Powers, Skip Foytik, Keith Cockerline and JoAnn LaFontaine.

Senior class members had the help of the community in production of the well-known musical "Oklahoma." Over $150 was donated by area businessmen and industries to provide the financial support which was needed for the performance.

The first Science Fair to be attempted by the pupils of Chelsea Junior High school was reported to be a huge success. Gayle Winans was first-place winner in sixth grade with her project on "Mammals." Seventh grade first-place winner was Rod Powers with his project, "Soil Testing." "Oil Well" was the title for Tom Gardener's first-place project in the eighth grade division.

A protest was made by 10 local ministers at the Village Council meeting. The ministers against "unnecessary shopping" on Sundays expressed their belief that the "high spiritual health of the day must be observed by the community," and requested that citizens of Chelsea "encourage, by their patronage, those stores which observe Sunday."

Helen Harrison, Sunday school teacher at the Chelsea Methodist church, reported that while first grade was in session and it was snowing outside, they looked out the window and discovered six yellow crocus plants very bravely sticking their heads up in hopes of spring. These were the first crocus plants reported for spring.

State Police To Test
Laser Speed Gun

The State Police will test a new laser speed gun which officials hope will give officers an edge against speeders now able to use radar detectors to frustrate current speed measurement machines.

Michigan is one of the first states to use the pilot units manufactured by International Measurement and Control Co. of Denver, Colo.

The lasers would be in addition to, not a replacement of, radar guns as part of the police arsenal against speeders, said Ken Casperson of the Traffic Services Division.

"They would be one way to eliminate the current problems associated with fuzzbusters," he said. An attempt by Governor James J. Blanchard in 1987 to ban radar detectors, which national insurance studies indicate are in one of seven cars, was rejected by the Legislature and has not been renewed.

He vetoed a speed limit increase bill because the ban was not included, but signed a later measure without a ban because of other enforcement measures it included. Detectors are banned only in Connecticut, Virginia and the District of Columbia.

Casperson said 8-10 laser guns would be obtained by the end of the month or the first of April, with the company furnishing two machines and the police buying the rest at a cost of $2,700 each.

The laser gun emits a thin infrared light, undetectable by radar detectors, that can isolate a single car up to a third of a mile away, an advantage over radar guns whose broader beam makes it harder to pinpoint speeders.

However, one expert said the laser gun technology is "years away" from being useful for traffic enforcement.

David Fischer of the Michigan State University Electrical Engineering Department who tests devices for the State Police said lengthy tests must yet be done on what he calls an experimental machine to prove to courts the equipment is trustworthy and that operators are properly trained.

Casperson acknowledged that will be necessary, adding district judges have been alerted that troopers will begin testing the new gun. He said police will work with both courts and prosecutors to gain acceptance of the reliability of the device.

"We believe it will be more accurate than radar," Casperson said. Both he and Fischer said one drawback is that it must be operated from a stationary position, while most police agencies prefer moving patrol cars on which radar can be used.

Fischer said technical requirements make it unlikely the laser could ever be operated while moving, but said it might still be useful for over-all surveillance of traffic.

The State Police pilot operational test will be conducted in relatively confined areas in a variety of conditions, including rural and urban roads and high and low traffic volume areas, Casperson said. And, he said the Motor Carrier Division will also be involved because most trucks are equipped with radar detectors.

Casperson said the tests will help determine if the laser guns are useful for general situations or only under specialized conditions.

Fischer said he will go to Washington, D.C. next month for a National Institute of Traffic Safety meeting on laser gun testing. He said the first phase of a study would be to determine the potential for problems with the laser gun, such as false readings by interference from other sources like neon lights or CB radios, the ability to single out one car and calibration requirements.

The second step would be to set criteria for the guns to meet and test them against that criteria, he said.

Although no laser detection devices have been marketed, an official of International Measurement said the kind of optical jammer needed to be effective against the laser gun would probably cost too much—about $1,500—to gain widespread use.

Halting Mandated Benefits Top Legislative Priority for Chamber
Stopping legislation that calls for businesses to provide mandated government benefits and pushing for unemployment insurance and product liability reform head the list of legislative priorities for the Michigan Chamber of Commerce for 1989-90, Rich Studley, vice-president for government relations, said.

Studley also said that his organization has not yet taken a position on the latest school finance reform plan that passed by the House and may not take one until it goes before the voters, which would result with passage by the Senate. "If it stays on such a fast track, that's a possibility," he said.

Studley said his membership wants to be sure it has studied the plan and not be forced into making a "hasty" decision.

Nonetheless, mandated benefits are the biggest worry for the organization's members, Studley said. He said the issue was rated the No. 1 priority "by a mile" over any other in a December survey the chamber conducted.

"We're in a no-compromise position on mandated benefits. We haven't talked to a single businessperson who thinks any government mandated benefits are a good idea," Studley said.

He added that because the business community is "very united" behind this issue and Governor Blanchard has taken a similar approach, the chamber is "optimistic" that it can thwart any such legislation.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the fellers at the country store Saturday night that spending called for in the first Bush budget breaks down to $13,000 for ever household in America. And ever American will have to borrow another $1,500 to cover the built-in deficit allowed by law. Living beyond your means is a contagious disease, Clem said, and all you got to do to prove that is to show that ever American still is full convinced that money from Washington is the cure for whatever ails them, their towns, counties and states.

Clem's report got the fellers talking about leaks in the pipes from givers and gitters, and it was moved and passed unanimously that the tail we call Government service has been wagging the dog that's the rest of us for a long time. The idea of bureaucracy at any level is to think up still more ways to punch holes in the pipeline.

For instant, Bug Hookum pointed out where he had saw the new North Carolina school superintendent had announced a cutback. He said he had found as many as 18 clerks were assigned to some agency and divisions heads, but with the dawn of the new efficient day, they would be cut to one.

However, Bug went on, by the time the dust settled and everybody could get a look at the new cut-to-the-bone staff, it was seen that some people had been given new titles and a few clerk jobs actual had been done away with, but nobody was losing his job. You got to know, Bug said, that the new school superintendent's surplus people will be turning up on another state Government payroll to live happy ever after, or until their new boss wants to make leaner operation a re-election issue and they'll have to move again.

Zeke Grubb was agreed. He was reminded of the feller that allus put a dollar and a dime in the collection plate at church. He said the dime was for the Lord and the dollar was to pay the dime's way. He had the transportation cost figured about right, was Zeke's words. When you think about it, he went on, you know we get more mileage from our postage stamps, rates and service being what they are, than from any other service of Government. No wonder the Government keeps trying to tell us the Postal Service has been set up to run like a private business, Zeke allowed.

Ed Doolittle agreed that we dogs pay high for the privilege of being wagged by our Government tails. Ed said somebody commented recent that the United States has entered the Jackass Age, and it's hard not to agree that the American taxpayer stands at the head of the class. For sure, Ed went on, it's a lot harder to get help through that pipeline from Washington than it is to get that dime to the Lord.

General speaking, went on Ed, it's hard to figger a country like ours. Onct we set our national will nothing on earth is more certain than what we want. But we only agree on someone about twice a century. So far in this one, he ask, what can we count after making up our mind to win World War II?

As for Government debt, Ed said, we can see inflation as Government breaking a promise to pay. We buy bonds at a certain rate, and by the time they mature we see that inflation has eat up the interest, so the Government got the use of the money free.

Like the preacher said, if the heat don't git you the humidity will.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.ST. PATRICK'S DAY

Australian Lunch Enjoyed By Lima Extension Group

Fourteen members of Lima Center Extension Group, carrying their assigned Australian food dish for a pot-luck, gathered at 10:30 a.m. March 8, at the home of Fran Coy. Merle Coy helped as co-hostess.

A 45-minute VCR movie of "Australia, the Land Down Under" was enjoyed by the extension members and guests. Australia was first inhabited by the Aboriginal tribes; then discovered and used by the English. This movie explained state-by-state how the land was used, where the major cities were developed; and the tourist attractions significant to each.

The luncheon meat dishes were of lamb, veal and fish; because of their prevalence on Australian farms. Spices, cream and fruit were added to the meat dishes, as well as the desserts and punch. All were very tasty.

A business meeting was conducted by chairperson Margaret Sias and secretary Donna Bradbury. Janet McCalla, council delegate, referred all members to the outline of upcoming activities she handed out. She emphasized registration dates. April 6, College Day in Ida, register by March 29. May 2, Spring Rally; $5 dinner registration, money to be paid by April 26.

April 11, is the annual Extension Men's Night held at Lima Hall. Arrive at 6:30 p.m. with dish to pass and your guests. At 7 p.m., Fran and Ed Coy will present, "At Home With the Wok."

Homemakers Club Members Observe 25th Anniversary

On Feb. 21, Homemakers Club members met at the Chelsea Community Hospital dining room for their "25th Anniversary Celebration."

In 1964, eleven industrious women got together to establish a group to meet on a monthly basis to share information, craft ideas and companionship. They decided to call themselves the Young Homemakers Club. Members included Arlene Grau, Bea Lesser, Polly Patterson, Jean Satterthwaite, Leila Bauer, Else Heller, Mary Nagle, Bev Beuerle, Barb Wolfgang, Carol Gish and Vonnice Wirtz.

Over the years the membership changed and grew. The homemakers were not so young anymore, and in 1978 they decided to drop the word young from the name. But, the idea for the club never changed. Area women still needed a group of their peers with whom they could share ideas, work together to reach common goals, and just have fun.

Through the years the club was involved in community service functions as varied as making tray favors for convalescent homes and curtains for the fair service building, to fund-raisers in support of the Burn Center and Cancer Research. They have had auctions, both silent and otherwise, to raise the funds needed to support these groups. They had auctioneers from the area such as Braun & Helmer, Loren and Bob Heller, and Leila Bauer to assist in their efforts. They have held dances, raffles, box socials, and sales of various kinds. They even put together a quilt to auction. In fact, the Homemakers Club has contributed to at least 17 area organizations whose purpose it is to make life a little better or a little easier for others.

Past and present members enjoyed a delicious dinner with a program following. Diane Horning was mistress of ceremonies and introduced all present and past members, according to the year in which they joined, starting in 1964. Three original members are still with the club. They are Arlene Grau, Else Heller and Barb Wolfgang and were honored with beautiful corsages.

The program was an interesting "Antique Fashion Show" presented by Gloria Mitchell, which was enjoyed by all members. Models were Amy

Soundings Center Offers Pre-Employment Training for Women

Soundings: A Center for Women will offer a pre-employment training program for any woman who is single-head-of-household, separated or divorced, widowed or whose husband is permanently disabled, and who needs a job now or in the near future to support herself.

The four-week program, which begins March 21, will help each woman explore career/job options, prepare a resume, learn interviewing skills and conduct a job search. Also included are workshops on stress management, assertiveness training, and techniques for decision making, goal setting and problem solving. Personal counseling and a support group complete this program designed especially to help women in transition.

Pat Paulsell Wins MSU Computer Contest

The second annual HyperCard contest sponsored by Apple Computer at Michigan State University was won this year by Chelsea resident Pat Paulsell, associate professor of German at MSU.

HyperCard is a program that runs on the Apple Macintosh, a microcomputer which utilizes a mouse pointing device and graphical interface for user interaction.

Professor Paulsell developed a HyperCard "stack," which appears on the screen like a collection of "cards" that visually present many subtopics and exercises on the theme: "Federal Republic of Germany as Industrial Nation and World Trade Partner."

This stack will be used to supplement course materials used in the popular three-term course on Business German she has developed and taught.

First prize in the contest was a Macintosh SE/20 computer and was awarded at a presentation ceremony at the Kellogg Center on Thursday, Feb. 23. Ms. Paulsell demonstrated the stack to the audience and will also present this software at the EMU Conference on Languages and Communications in Ann Arbor on March 30.

Pat and her husband, Don, have lived in Chelsea for 10 years and have owned a Macintosh since its introduction five years ago. Their daughter, Karen, is in her first year at MSU.

Bands, Orchestras Earn Top Ratings

Beach Middle school orchestras and high school bands earned first division ratings at the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association District 12 Festival this past weekend.

Beach seventh grade string orchestra and eighth grade orchestra performed Saturday at Clague Middle school in Ann Arbor.

Both groups distinguished themselves with their musical playing. This marks the first time both middle school orchestras have earned a first division at the festival in several years.

The high school bands performed at Saline High school on Friday evening. The symphony band and wind ensemble received first division ratings. The ensembles, directed by William Gourley were praised for their sonority of sound, musical sensitivity and musicianship.

This Saturday, the high school orchestra and Beach Middle school bands will perform at their festivals. The orchestra will perform at Saline High school and the middle school bands at Ida High school.

Sylvan Won't Hold An Annual Meeting

Tell Them
You Read It in
THE STANDARD

This year, for perhaps the first time ever, Sylvan township will not hold an annual meeting.

The township has opted to take advantage of a new state law that requires a resolution to be passed only if the township wants to have the annual meeting.

The annual meeting is normally used to discuss the budget for the coming year. However, that business will be taken up in a regular meeting this year.

Supervisor Don Schoenberg said he is against the idea of not holding the meeting. However, none of the township board members made a motion at the March regular meeting to hold the annual meeting.

"There's a lot of talk that there's no participation in local government anyway," Schoenberg said.

"Basically that's the reason the law was passed."

Ireland is the Land of Love, Legends and Laughter

There are many, many legends about St. Patrick's Day, about the Shamrock and the Blarney and the Leprechauns at play. And that most delightful story that God blessed the Emerald Isle with the Beauty of His Goodness and the Sunshine of His Smile, and how a dear, beloved Saint taught the Irish about God just by showing them a Shamrock that was grown on Erin's sod. He told them of the Trinity, the Living Three in One, the Holy Ghost... the Easter, and His Beloved Son... And all these lovely legends of the well-loved Irish race have given every Irishman A Very Special Place not only just in history but in everybody's heart. For of this old earth's laughter, the dearest, finest part is made of "smiling Irish eyes" and mirth-filled Irish jokes—and what a dull world this would be without God's Irish Folks.

RURAL BUSINESS PARTNERSHIP, a new state program designed to spur economic growth in rural areas, held a public meeting at Chelsea Community Hospital on Monday. A dozen business leaders from the area took part in the meeting, which included a discussion of the merits

Auto Accident Leaves Four With Injuries

Chelsea police are investigating an accident on M-52 near Chelsea Lanes last Monday, March 6 at 4 p.m. which left four people with serious injuries.

A northbound car driven by Carol M. Schulte of Manchester crossed the centerline into the southbound lane where it struck a car driven by Joan P. Vandegrift, 14325 Jerusalem Rd. Another vehicle driven by Clay Davis of Edmore was forced off the road onto the shoulder.

On impact, Schulte's car spun around and came to rest in a driveway at 1196 S.S. Main St.

Vandegrift's car also spun around and stopped facing north in the southbound lane.

Schulte's two children, Peter, 7, and Paul, 10, were also injured.

All four victims in the accident were taken to University of Michigan Hospital.

Chelsea police attempted to interview Schulte about the accident on Monday but were told by University of Michigan Hospital that she didn't remember what happened and that she was too ill to be interviewed.

Domino's Approval

Domino's will be allowed to have two 18-square-foot signs on the building. Zoning inspector Rosemary Harok had suggested total signage of 40-50 square feet.

The pole and sign at the corner of the lot will be removed.

There was some argument as to whether seven or nine parking spaces should be required, but that was left to the decision of the planning commission. Village consultant Carl Schmitt had suggested that the Main St. curb cut be closed, which will have an impact on parking. Zoning board chairman Jerry Satterthwaite said he thought the curb cut should stay open to allow a better flow of traffic.

Fourth of July Fireworks Seem Certain This Year

Chelsea resident Harold Allen is planning a Fourth of July fireworks display that he says will be "60 percent bigger than last year."

Allen, president of Chelsea Community Fireworks, Inc., a non-profit organization, approached village council about the event on Tuesday, March 7. In past years, Allen and council have had their visible squabbles. This year, they seem to understand each other well enough that any problems might be minimal. Discussion was short. Council voted to allow the display if Allen meets the list of guidelines established last year.

Village president Jerry Satterthwaite said it was unlikely council would donate money toward the show. He was non-committal on a request by Allen to use a village backhoe to prepare the display at the fairgrounds.

The primary requirement, a $3 million liability insurance policy naming the village as one of the insured parties, has not changed from last year. Final approval for the show will probably come at the last minute again because insurance companies won't commit themselves to a rate until a few days before the event.

"This is going to be one of the biggest shows around," Allen said.

"Last year we had 61 five-inch shells, this year we're planning 150. Last year we had three 10-inch shells, this year we're planning 10. It will be real obvious to everyone how much bigger this show is than last year's. We're also going to have all kinds of special shells. The finale will be increased by three times."

Allen has begun work on fundraising events as well, although many of them are in the initial stages. He said he'd like to have a raffle and sell t-shirts, among other activities. And he's hoping area businesses and individuals will contribute as well. He said he plans to approach organizations outside the village in areas such as Dexter and Manchester.

Allen said that last year he was $461 short of covering the show, which is a fraction of what he lost two years ago.

Allen has also planned changes in how the fireworks are ignited. He said he wants to use a system that will eliminate five people from the actual firing process, which he hopes will improve the timing of the explosions.

"We'd like to have one go off every three seconds," he said.

"We want to make it a more productive show."

This will be Allen's third year of organizing the event on his own.

Pioneer Craft Fair Set Saturday at Dexter High

Spring is on its way, so take a break before you begin those outdoor tasks and visit the 18th annual Pioneer Craft Fair. The Fair, which is sponsored by the Dexter Historical Society will be presented this coming Saturday, March 18, at Dexter High School, 2615 Baker Rd.

While the Dexter Pioneer Craft Fair is small in comparison to other craft shows presented throughout the area, this fair is considered to be one of the best. Small in size, it presented an opportunity for the public to converse with the demonstrators and a chance to really see the items presented, rather than having to peer between others in an attempt to see what is being crafted. Demonstration of each participant's craft is a pre-requisite of being accepted into the fair.

Attending this year for the first time will be Ken Tobias of Whitmore Lake. Helping Tobias will be his wife, Barbara. The Tobias table will be loaded with hand-made wooden items. Tobias has had a life-long interest in wood working and it shows in his work.

Some of the items Tobias will be showing and demonstrating will be a replica of an antique car, hand-turned wooden candlesticks and vases, as well as other toys. All of the toys that Tobias presents will be finished with vegetable oils, assembled without nails, and made of natural hard woods so they will be safe for small children.

At another table will be Helen O'Toole and Annette Anderson demonstrating the centuries old art of origami. If you have ever wondered how to fold paper into those intricate forms that represent cranes, frogs, and panda bears, check this out. This table will also have fiber baskets adorned with origami flowers.

Harriet Beach will return this year with her delightful pottery and will again allow hands-on demonstration for the kiddies. Ben Bower will also have a hands-on demonstration of pencil drawings for the kids. Let your youngsters try their hands at one of these two crafts. They just might surprise you.

The Fair is fortunate this year in being able to present the Ann Arbor chapter of the Embroiderers' Guild. The ladies manning this table will show how to do different needlework techniques. They will be showing needlepoint, pulled work, counted cross stitch and much more. This work will be demonstrated only, none of the work will be for sale.

There will be two booths with teddy bears this year. Hough of Ann Arbor will have both her delightful bears as well as some lovely bunny rabbits. Vaughn, also of Ann Arbor, will be showing how to assemble her bears and will discuss the old types of furs used for bears as well as the newer types of furs.

There will be scherenschnitte and silhouette cutting in one area. Soap making will be demonstrated in another space. Children, as well as adults, will be interested in learning how our ancestors provided soap for their homes. Instead of purchasing it at the supermarket.

Many of the regular artisans will also be participating at the Fair. There will be rug weaving, oil painting, ink etching, candlemaking, as well as many other crafts. There will be something for everyone as there will be nine new craftspeople at the show.

The baked goods table is always a popular space as the good cooks of Dexter will be preparing cakes, cookies, breads, pies, and candy for the public to purchase.

Dexter Heritage Guild will again offer a home-made lunch of knock-wurst, sauerkraut, German potato salad, hog dogs, desserts and beverages from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. in the cafeteria.

To keep the show fresh and new, the committee searches throughout the year for new craftspeople to complement the old favorites. If you would like to know the procedure for being a part of the show, have comments or questions, look for one of the committee members during the Fair. Each will be wearing a name tag. Committee members are Margaret Asmdill, Wana Baldus, Phyllis Crawley, Hazel Kaufman, Alice Pastalan, Rose Van Aken, and Betty Zabinsky.

Admission for the Fair will again be $1.50 for adults, 50 cents for grades 1-12. There will be only one door prize this year, with tickets available at booth 56. The prize this year will be a corn husk doll, our logo, by the very talented Mary Rush.

Sheriff's Deputies Busy With Many Personal Injury Accidents

At approximately 9:30 p.m. Friday, March 10, a vehicle driven by Damian Andrew Marzec of Chelsea was travelling eastbound on Waterloo Rd. at what deputies described on the accident report as an excessive rate of speed.

Marzec apparently lost control on a curve, just east of Clark Lake Rd., the vehicle slid sideways and exited the roadway, sheared off a tree, the report indicates. The vehicle was airborne for about 60 feet, then impacted a large tree on the vehicle's right rear, the report notes.

Apparently, the injured driver was transported to Chelsea Community Hospital by a friend, hospital authorities notified police.

The driver was issued a citation for careless driving.

A spectacular crash during which the vehicle driven by Timothy Lloyd Hodges of Gregory left Roepke Rd. in Lyndon township at 3:20 p.m. Wednesday, March 8, crashed and burned, just north of M-52, sent the driver to Chelsea Community Hospital, transported by Huron Valley Ambulance.

Lee Ann Shanahan reported that, prior to the arrival of the Chelsea Fire Rescue team, four neighborhood residents pulled the seriously-injured driver from the burning vehicle, after prying a door.

Ice Remains a Problem
 Anne Louise Zuehlke of Chelsea told deputies she was westbound on Roe Rd., at 10:40 p.m. Monday, March 6, when she rounded a curve, hit a big patch of ice and lost control of the vehicle, which slid off the road and struck a tree.

William Delbert Boike of Grass Lake said he was unable to see brake lights on the vehicle in front of him, because of the sun's rays, at 8:15 a.m. Thursday, March 9.

Driving on Jackson Ave., one-half mile east of Staebler Rd., Boike's vehicle struck a second vehicle driver by Paul Firehammer of Ann Arbor, the accident report explained.

Firehammer was attempting a left turn into a private drive when the Boike vehicle struck the rear of his automobile, according to the report.

Wayne Welton Named Interim Athletic Director

Chelsea High school teacher and coach Wayne Welton has been named the district's athletic director on an interim basis.

According to superintendent Joe Piasecki, Welton was selected from among six candidates who officially applied for the position. He may or may not be offered the job for good later this spring.

Welton takes over for Larry Reed, who resigned after 13 years in the district to take a job as pool director at Cummins.

"We're excited about Wayne taking the job," Piasecki said.

"He's well-known, he grew up here, has many friends, and gets along well with the coaches."

For the spring, Welton will be a half-time athletic director in the morning. He'll teach his normal schedule in the afternoon, and be allowed to remain as baseball head coach this spring.

After about six weeks the position will be re-evaluated, Piasecki said. If the district is pleased with Welton's job, and Welton wants to continue as athletic director, he's likely to have the job on a permanent basis. If not, the district is likely to search outside the district.

"What we're really concerned with is getting through the spring," Piasecki said.

"The district has some obvious discussing to do about our philosophy concerning the position, and wages. Traditionally we have thought the athletic director should not be a coach. If Wayne is the permanent athletic director, would we consider it? We'll be able to work those things out over the next six weeks."

Welton is also an assistant football coach and has been a key part of head coach Gene LaFave's staff.

Terry Curtis has agreed to move full-time to the high school to teach Welton's morning classes. Ann Schaffner will take over Curtis' classes at Beach Middle school.

"We wanted to do the least disruptive thing for the kids," Piasecki said.

Dog Tankers Show Improvement At Competitive State Meet at U-M

Chelsea Bulldog swimmers took part in the class B state meet at the University of Michigan last week-end to close out their season.

"Once again, the boys showed much improvement, which was the story of much of the season," said Chelsea coach Dave Jolly.

Chelsea's only point in the meet came when Garth Girard placed 12th in the 500-yard freestyle.

"When I told people that Garth would break five minutes there were many skeptics," Jolly said.

"Garth trained like a champion all season and truly deserved 12th place," Girard's time was 4:59.27.

Girard also participated in the 200 freestyle where he placed 14th with a time of 1:51.29.

The medley relay team of Brett Paddock, David Oesterle, Girard, and Dirk Colby, "crushed all their goals," by placing among the top 20.

"It was truly unbelievable when those guys swam on Friday," Jolly said.

"Their 1:45.15 was extremely fast. Probably the biggest reason for their success was the effort of Dirk Colby as the anchor. His time of 22.98 seconds was super human considering he was only going 35 seconds at the beginning of the year."

Jolly said the most difficult part of the meet was watching an off-performance by Paddock on Friday.

"His improvement over the course of the season was excellent, but everyone has an off-day and Friday was Brett's."

Paddock finished 14th in the 200 individual medley in 2:07.21 and 15th in the 100 backstroke in :58.31.

Another highlight for Jolly was the performance of Oesterle in the 100 breaststroke, where he finished with a personal best time of 1:04.42, good for 19th place.

"David has made marked improvement in his stroke over the last six weeks," Jolly said.

"He's quite a leader and I look for him to be a big factor in the team's success next year."

Holland Christian dominated the field while Southeastern Conference foe Milan finished a distant second.

JAMIE BASSO qualified for the diving portion of the class B state swim meet last Friday at the University of Michigan.

Bareis, Dittmer Keeping Pace At Adrian College

Chelsea's Mark Bareis is averaging four points per game through 23 basketball games at Adrian College.

Bareis' numbers also include a 1.5 rebound average, and a 1.0 assist average. He has started two games.

Dexter's Daryl Dittmer is averaging 9.5 points and 5.6 rebounds. He has started 17 games.

Bulldog Softball Program Provides Fine Talent for College Teams

While most high school softball programs would feel fine about having one former player on a college team, the Chelsea Bulldog program can boast of 11 who are having success in the college ranks.

No less than seven former Bulldog pitchers are starters.

Former all-stater Beth Unterbrink and Chris Defant each start at the University of New Mexico. Unterbrink recently defeated the University of Michigan 6-1 while limiting the Wolverines to four hits.

Kelly Hawker, another Chelsea all-stater, is the senior starter for Wayne State University. She was a second-string All-American last year and was also named to her all-conference squad.

Yet another all-stater, Pam Brown, is a starting pitcher at Grand Valley State University this season.

Joanne Tobin is a senior starter for the University of West Florida. She had a 28-5 record a year ago.

And two of last year's Bulldogs are expected to be starters for their respective teams. Peggy Hammerschmidt is attending the University of Detroit and Jenny Pichlik is at Oakland Community College.

The bonanza of ex-Bulldogs playing in college is not limited to pitchers. Former all-stater Anne Weber is starting at second base at Siena Heights while her former teammate, Jennifer Cattell, starts at second base for Albion College. Cattell set a base-stealing record last season.

Another member of last year's team, Alisha Dorow, is expected to compete for the starting second base job at Penn State University. Dorow was an all-state shortstop and an academic all-stater.

Angie Defant, Chris' younger sister, has transferred to the University of Detroit, where she will compete for the catcher's job.

This year's Bulldog team should also provide more talent for the collegiate level. There are eight seniors, and four of them are pitchers.

About 14 million or 28 percent of all women workers in non-agricultural industries held part-time jobs (less than 35 hours a week) in 1987, according to the U. S. Labor Department. Seventy-nine percent of the part-time workers were employed on a voluntary basis. Almost two-thirds (65.2 percent) of all part-time workers were women.

Young Wrestlers Earn Medals At Jackson County Western

Chelsea freestyle wrestling team competed at Jackson County Western last Saturday, March 11 and 13 members came home with medals.

Twenty-seven members participated.

In the 9-10 age group, first place went to Brent Young, and Mike Alber, and Andrew Kargel placed second.

In the 13-14 group, Kevin McCalla and Colby Skelton each took first place; Tim Wescott, Paul Taylor, Vince Stahl, Jason Szostak, Shane Herbert, and Matt Herbert each took second; and Andrew Parker and Matt Dymond each were third.

Others competing included Dan Alber, Kevin Bloemensaar, John Bobo, Jeremy Feldkamp, Casey Wescott, Gary Farmer, Cameron

Farmer, Tom Poulter, Rick Hower, Joby Setta, Chris Kargel, Brian Cunningham, Bryndon Skelton, and Rourke Skelton.

The wrestlers compete Saturday at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

8th Grade Spikers Rally for Win

Beach Middle school eight grade volleyball team rallied to take a four-game victory over Pinckney last week.

The Bullpups lost the first game 8-11 but won the next three 11-4, 11-0, 11-3. "Poor serving in the first game was too great to overcome," said Pup coach Ann Schaffner.

Leading the way with six service points were Sarah McKeighan, Julie Durst, and Katie Neal. Sandy Schmid, Michelle Schertzing, and Jill Heim each had four service points. Gretchen Knutsen played well at the net.

On Thursday the Tecumseh Indians handed the Pups their second loss of the season, 8-11, 11-10, 7-11, 8-11. The Pups have lost only two matches this season and both were to Tecumseh. "It was a good effort by the team, but we really struggled with Tecumseh's hard serves," Schaffner said.

Durst accounted for 13 service points for Chelsea, including all the points in the second game. Knutsen and Melissa Thiel each had six service points, and McKeighan and Jill Heim had three each. Schmid and Molly Dilworth played their best game of the season, Schaffner said.

Bring Back the Bluebird Workshops Slated in Area

"Bring Back the Bluebird" workshops have been scheduled for the fourth consecutive year this winter and spring by the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Natural Heritage Program.

Forty-eight sessions, designed to teach how to help bluebirds by building and placing nest boxes in suitable habitat, have been planned in co-operation with Michigan State University's (MSU) Co-operative Extension Service.

More than 12,000 people have attended the workshops in the past three years, and 6,000 are expected this year. Thousands of bluebird boxes have been built by workshop participants and placed around the state.

"Bluebird sightings have increased significantly during the past two years," said DNR Director David F. Hales. "We believe these workshops are a primary force behind the recovery of bluebirds in Michigan."

Some participants in each workshop will be given a ready-to-assemble bluebird nest box kit through cost-sharing efforts of the Non-game Wildlife Fund and the Michigan Civilian Conservation Corps (MCCC).

"Through the combined efforts of the Non-game Wildlife Fund, MSU Co-operative Extension Service and the MCCC, we hope to re-establish the bluebird as a common songbird of the farmland and large forest openings in the state," said Bob Hess, supervisor of the Non-game Wildlife Program.

Each year at these workshops, a key species or group of species is highlighted in addition to the bluebird. This year "forest cavity nesters" such as the great crested flycatchers, black-capped chickadees, barred owls, screech owls and bats will be featured. Tips on how to help these species, plus nest box construction plans for many other species will be available at the workshops.

In this area workshops are scheduled in Whitmore Lake on March 18, at 10 a.m. in Whitmore Lake Township Library.

A similar workshop is to be held in Ann Arbor on March 20 at 7:30 p.m. Bobbi Lawrence will be in charge of this session at 4133 Washtenaw Ave., sponsored by Washtenaw County MSU Co-operative Extension Service.

Contributions to the Non-game Wildlife Fund make these workshops possible. Michigan residents can help the bluebird, loon, bald eagle, peregrine falcon and hundreds of other non-hunted species and endangered plants by "looking for the loon" on their state tax forms and giving to the Non-game Wildlife Fund.

Village Wants More Information Before Annexation

The owner of the former Jiffy Market on Sibley Rd. has asked to have the property annexed into the village.

However, the village has asked the owner, Dr. Prehlad Vachher of Plymouth, for additional information before it acts.

A letter from the village attorney has asked for a copy of the deed or land contract showing ownership and title insurance; a survey or sketch showing actual lot dimensions; his plans for tap-in to village services including the water and sewer systems; and an agreement among the Washtenaw County Health Department, the village, and Vachher if the current septic field is going to be used.

The market has stood vacant for several years.

Village Wants To Raise Fines

Village of Chelsea is working on an amendment to its zoning ordinance that would raise fines from $100 to $500.

Zoning inspector Rosemary Harook suggested the change during a February council meeting.

Zoning ordinance covers how land is used.

The amendment would have to be adopted by a vote of village council.

So A Chiropractor Is Really A Family Doctor?

Yes.

HERE'S WHY...

Most people think of doctors of chiropractic as specialists in treating health problems of the back and spine. And they are, for chiropractors have been extremely effective in relieving pain and getting people back on their feet without drugs or surgery.

But doctors of chiropractic do more. They diagnose, determine whether other illnesses may be related to structural problems, which often is the case.

Chiropractors take an interest in your total health and well-being. And if a problem is indicated which requires specialized treatment, the doctor of chiropractic will refer you to the appropriate health specialist.

Support Group For Abused Women Started in Chelsea

The Domestic Violence Project/SAFE HOUSE of Ann Arbor has begun a weekly support group in Chelsea for area women who are involved in "abusive relationships," according to seminar leader Suzie Harness.

The meetings run from 7-8:30 p.m. at Kresge House on the campus of Chelsea Community Hospital.

Harness, a Chelsea resident, is working on her master's degree in psychology at the Center for Humanistic Studies in Detroit.

"We want to help women in these kinds of relationships," Harness said.

"We want to let them know that they are not to blame for what is happening to them and that their assailant has to take responsibility as well. We want to help them find the best way to handle the problem, but not necessarily help them get out of the relationship unless that's what they want to do."

Harness said the abuse can be physical, emotional, or psychological in nature. For example, a woman who is constantly put down by her mate would be more than welcome at the workshop.

"We stress the utmost confidentiality," Harness said.

"Some women could end up in more danger if their husbands found out they were seeking help."

Harness said that in 90 percent of cases of physical abuse, drug or alcohol abuse is also prevalent. She said physical abuse is also found at all socio-economic levels of society.

Domestic Violence Project/SAFE HOUSE also provides temporary emergency shelter, counseling, information and referral, and other services for victims.

Child care and transportation assistance are also available.

For more information about the Chelsea support group call 973-0242. For crisis help call the 24-hour line at 995-5444.

SUZIE HARNESS is running a weekly support group for women who are victims of domestic violence. The support group meets at Chelsea Community Hospital.

'Oklahoma' Well Done By High School Cast

By Russ Ogden
Free Lance Drama Critic
and EMU Professor

April 1st for Rodgers and Hammerstein refuted the term Fool's Day 38 years ago when a unique story musically captured the hearts of the skeptical Broadway critics in their first Broadway production as a team. Thus "Oklahoma" swooped into town with dancing, story, and music integrated into one marvelous unit, an unheard event up until 1943.

Chelsea High school's super charged energetic singers, actors, and dancers honored Broadway's Rodgers and Hammerstein with a most entertaining and fast moving "Oklahoma" on opening night in the auditorium of Chelsea High school on March 2, just 30 days shy of "Oklahoma's" annual birthday.

Picture, if you will, a somewhat undeveloped middlewestern state in the 1890's with statehood pending in Washington with the name of the territory described as Oklahoma.

Into this setting insert multiple farms and ranches (farmers and cowmen) and populate it with an Aunt Eller (Judy Bareis) and her marriageable-aged niece Laurey (Jennifer Bennett). Hanging around as the friendly "sort of boy friend" cowboy is Curly (William Coelius, IV).

A caricature of a real-life cowboy—Will Parker (Marty Heller)—saunters on stage with friends: Ike Skidmore (Howie Brooks), Fred (Mike Steinaway), and Slim (Jeff Latimer). Will Parker's limited brain power seems consumed with having a good time and women, particularly Ado Annie Carnes (Kellie Kanten).

In the simple plot in which "evil is evil and good is good," Jud Fry (Don Gerstler) is the reliable hired hand, but his motives to almost everyone are suspicious. But he is destined to wear the "dark hat" of the so-called outlaw to the end of the show!

Matching Will Parker in the brainless category is Ado Annie Carnes whose amorous intentions magnetically attract the nearest available man.

Country folk join into the celebration which seems to be a box supper that evening in town where the women bring their picnic baskets and the men bid for both the basket and the young lady attached thereto.

Happy endings were the thing in those days and Rodgers and Hammerstein rang up a rousing finale featuring the entire cast with the title song: "Oklahoma!" Wisely the vocalizing started at a slow pace and then both in volume and tempo becomes a forceful "hallelujah!" ending.

Escorted out in an imaginary survey, newly-weds Laurey and Curly return for the grand finale tunelessly with "Oh, What a Beautiful Mornin'."

Douglas A. Beaumont's magnificent direction with an amateur high school cast is much admired. Although Pavoratti need not worry about retiring just yet from the challenge of the Chelsea musicians, the cast's ability to carry tunes consistently throughout the production was indeed a surprising element.

Movement of people and the lack of awkwardness by the actors lent to the amateurish smoothness of the production. We assume Alisa Bauer helped in this area too. Jed Fritzmeier's ability to adjust the pit orchestra to accommodate on-stage singers is meritable, as is the high school orchestra composed of Sheila Tillman, Angel Lawton, Maria Kattula, Tim Mayer, Kristi Smith, Christine Young, Jeremy Guenther, Melanie Broughton, Joanie Marsh, Leslie Manning, Holly Jorgenson, Katie Giebel, Andy Hafner, Julia Boyle, Tony Moisan, Ben Manning, Dave Morgan, and student emeritus Steve Radant.

Lighting of the total stage and individual production numbers certainly complemented the on-stage action. Scott Marsh, Joe Beaudoin, and Erich Maybaum formed the lighting crew.

Chelsea's "Oklahoma" cast was most unique inasmuch as they maintained their individual characters throughout the play, an unbelievable happening even in a professional company. One might argue about individual interpretations, but their chosen interpretations were held until the curtain fell.

Undoubtedly the outstanding true musical voice on stage was that of Howie Brooks (Ike Skidmore) whose short singing and speaking treatises were both well performed verbally and sung with excellence.

To me the ladies' singing chorus of Katie Flynn, Sarah Gegenheimer, Heather Kendrick, Beth Kimball, Susan Maynard, Helena Mimer, Martina Street brought forth an extra complementing energy to several of the musical numbers.

The dream ballet sequence with Meredith Hall performing Dream Laurey was done with taste and professional precision and undoubtedly to many was another pleasant highlight of the production.

William Coelius, IV, was an absolutely marvelous stitch as Curly and the attractive Jennifer Bennett's Laurey was believable and perkily demure as she should be. The gusto and energy brought to the Will Parker roll by Marty Heller was high school superb and Kellie Kanten's demurring eyes lent believable character to Ado Annie Carnes. Comedic roles always seem easy to do but Ado Annie is most demanding and give Kanten a professional pat-on-the-back for capturing the essence demanded of this role neatly on opening night.

The total cast deserves plaudits for an enjoyable evening, both for parents and friends, and even to strangers sitting in the auditorium at Chelsea High school.

Capably helping to make "Oklahoma" a success were cast members: Melissa Check, Lori Wetzel, Amy Carley, Sarah Teare, Stacy McDaniels, Matt Carlson, Julian Mason, Jeff Diesing, Kate Peckham, Mary Kemp, Debbie Gerstler, Chris Craig, and Tim Parkkila.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Editor, Better Investing Magazine

Q. With the world shrinking, I keep hearing about foreign investments and potential growth of other nations. When I asked my broker about investing in some stocks, he said one of the best approaches would be through ADRs. Could you explain what they are?

A. Investing in ADRs can be a much easier way to purchase foreign stocks than having your broker deal with exchanges in other countries. ADR is the abbreviation for American Depositary Receipt. It is basically a receipt that indicates shares of a foreign company are held by a depository bank in the United States. The ADR can represent one or up to 10 shares of a company.

An ADR may be listed on a stock exchange or traded over-the-counter just like shares of U.S. companies. The commission structure for buying and selling ADRs is the same. When a dividend is paid, it is received by the depository bank, converted to U.S. dollars and then paid to holders of the ADRs.

Remember that there is an extra element to investing in ADRs—currency fluctuations. The underlying stock trades in the home currency. If that currency is weak versus the dollar, chances are the ADR would decline in value and the dividend received would be less. Of course, the opposite is also true.

There are many familiar names among the ADRs available to investors such as Jaguar, Honda, British Airways, Beecham and Reuters to name a few of the more than 700 available to American investors.

A complete study of the company is recommended, as it is for U.S. stocks. Just because a company is foreign-based, doesn't mean it will automatically be a good investment.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. Readers who send in questions on a general investment subject or on a corporation with broad investor interest and whose questions are used, will receive a complimentary one-year's subscription to the investment magazine, Better Investing. FORENSICS STUDENTS at Chelsea High school made the finals of a huge tournament at Eastern Michigan University last week-end. Thirty-six schools, mostly class A, were represented. Left is Bill Coelius, IV, who placed fourth in drama. Right is Tim Parkkila, who took third in prose. And center is their teacher, Bill Coelius, III.

CHS Forensics Team Takes 7th at Meet

Chelsea High school placed seventh among 36 schools at the opening forensics meet of the year at Eastern Michigan University last week-end.

Three students reached the finals and eight students made the semifinals.

Among the finalists were seniors Tim Parkkila and Bill Coelius IV. Parkkila placed third in prose with "Walk a Mile in the Duke's Boots." Coelius was fourth in drama with "Hatful of Rain."

Senior Sarah Schaeffer was accidentally left out of the finals. After the competition, a re-count of her score showed she had a higher score than three of the finalists. She ended up taking sixth in poetry with "Crescent Moon Like a Canoe."

Those who reached the semifinals included Chris Birtles in television broadcasting; Carrie Flintoft in extemporaneous speaking; Kathy Moulton and Chris Walter in prose; and the multiple-called "Heartbreak Hotel" featuring Sherry Dukes, Jennifer Bennett, Lori Wetzel, and Debbie Gerstler.

"It was an extremely difficult event," said teacher Bill Coelius III. "It was probably tougher than the state meet will be."

WalkAmerica For Printers Coming Soon

The annual "Sept Out with the Printers" walk for the March of Dimes will take place on April 30.

This is a challenge issued to local printers in Washtenaw and Livingston counties to form the largest team in proportion to the company size. These teams will then participate in the walk (which is part of WalkAmerica) held in Ann Arbor.

The event is sponsored by Airborne Express, Malloy Lithographing, Inc., and Sureway Air Traffic. All proceeds will go to the March of Dimes.

If you work for a local printer and would be interested in taking part in this, please contact Joanne Russell or Tim Scarbrough at Malloy Lithographing, Inc., in Ann Arbor.

Anyone who wants to have fun with team members, compete for a traveling trophy, and, most of all, fight birth defects should consider participating.

Tuesday Is Diabetes Alert Day

About 11 million Americans have diabetes, but almost half of them don't know it.

Diabetes is a chronic disease whereby the body does not produce or properly use insulin, a hormone that is needed to convert sugar, starches and other food into the energy necessary for life. The resulting high blood sugar can severely damage the heart, blood vessels, kidneys, eyes, and nerves. If left untreated, diabetes can lead to death.

Tuesday, March 21 has been proclaimed by the American Diabetes Association as the second annual observance of the American Diabetes Alert. On this date Americans will be asked to "Take Charge of Their Health" by taking a simple health quiz, which is available at participating businesses and Chelsea Community Hospital.

The awareness campaign is aimed at alerting Americans who may already have the disease and are unaware of it which alarmingly, is estimated at 200,000 persons. Test scores will help people determine if they are at a high or low risk for developing diabetes.

The American Diabetes Association urges all those considered "high risk" to see their doctor annually for checkups which include overweight persons, a family history of diabetes, and mothers who have given birth to babies over nine pounds.

Furthermore, Americans should be aware of the diabetes warning signs: unusual thirst, frequency of urination, hunger and weight loss.

For more information about diabetes, contact the American Diabetes Association at 1-800-525-9292 or Chelsea Community Hospital's Diabetes Education Program, 475-3944.

The forerunner of the Labor Department, the first Bureau of Labor, was created in June, 1884, as part of the Department of Interior, according to "The Origins of the U. S. Department of Labor," a Labor Department publication. Carroll Davidson Wright was appointed to head it. Eleven years earlier, Wright helped turn the fledgling Massachusetts bureau of labor statistics into an objective agency, and his influence is credited with establishing the objectivity which is fundamental to today's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

JOHN BARTH, JR., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Barth of Glazier Rd., was a guest at the White House in February as a senior on the 1988 Army football team. The seniors were invited to receive the Commander in Chief's Award from President George Bush. The award is presented to the champions among the three service academy teams. Last fall West Point beat both the Naval Academy and Air Force Academy. The seniors spent the afternoon with the First Family. As they sat in the Oval Office they were served lemonade and cookies by Barbara Bush. They also were given a tour of the living quarters. Outside John played with the First Family's dog. John reports that the President and First Lady were very down to earth and that for him it was an overwhelming experience.

Free Tax Help Available to Handicapped

"We are now prepared to assist taxpayers in completing their income tax returns at convenient locations in their own neighborhood," said IRS District Director John Hummel. "This free tax help is available through our VITA, Volunteer Income Tax Assistance, and TCE, Tax Counseling for the Elderly, programs throughout Michigan."

According to the IRS, VITA helps older, handicapped, non-English-speaking taxpayers, and others who cannot afford professional assistance, fill out Form 1040EZ, Form 1040A, or the basic Form 1040. The TCE program provides assistance to people age 60 or older, especially those who are disabled or have other special needs. Volunteers also alert taxpayers to the special credits and deductions for which they may be eligible, such as the child care and earned income credits, the tax credit for the elderly, and deductions for certain medical and dental expenses.

"We encourage people to bring this year's tax package, usually received through the mail, wage and earnings statements (Form W-2) from all employers, all interest and dividend statements (Form 1099), a copy of last year's tax return, if available, the social security number of any dependent age 5 or older, and any other relevant information about their income and expenses," said Hummel.

Locations of VITA and TCE sites are available by calling the IRS toll free on 1-800-424-1040.

X-Rays Are An Essential Diagnostic Tool

Q: How important are dental x-rays to proper care? I'm concerned about too much radiation.

A: X-rays are one of the most important diagnostic tools available to your dentist. Radiographic examinations are a necessary part of complete, comprehensive dental care.

The main concern about x-rays are what possible harmful effect will the radiation have. Will it cause cancer or possibly harm an unborn child? The dental profession is acutely aware of these concerns and is constantly taking steps to protect the public health. With today's sophisticated radiographic equipment, the amount of radiation exposure required to produce diagnostic x-ray pictures is minimal. In fact, with today's sensitive films and precisely timed exposures a complete mouth set of radiographs (up to 18 films) requires only 1/10 of 1% of the exposure needed by a 1920 x-ray unit!

In recent history exposure to radiation from building materials, nuclear energy, etc. has come to nearly equal the amount of natural radiation present in the environment. Although this would be expected to roughly double the natural rate of mutation it is estimated that dentistry contributes less than 0.1% of the genetically significant dose of radiation to the U. S. population. By using a lead apron to shield the patient the amount of radiation reaching the majority of the body and reproductive organs is so small as to be nearly unmeasurable.

Your dentist should use prudence in the frequency and type of x-rays he or she orders. Routine screening x-rays should be avoided during pregnancy despite their very low risk. Bitewing radiographs are the most common type of x-rays and these are designed to detect decay hidden between the teeth as well as early stages of periodontal disease, faulty restorations, etc. Depending on the previous decay rate and the condition of the patient's mouth, bitewing x-rays might be recommended as often as every six months or as infrequently as every three years.

A periapical x-ray shows the entire tooth including the tip of the root and some of the surrounding tissues. Unlike bitewing x-rays this type can show an impacted tooth, the effects of more severe periodontal disease, as well as many other problems like abscessed teeth that aren't yet symptomatic. The other most popular type of dental radiograph is the panoramic x-ray. This picture shows all of the upper and lower teeth on one large film as well as the jaws, sinuses, joints, and other structures. They are used to show the extent of growth, tooth eruption, orthodontic problems, and impacted wisdom teeth. The panoramic x-ray can also reveal cysts or tumors in the jaws and surrounding tissues that might otherwise go unnoticed for a long period of time.

As a patient you have the right to refuse radiographic examination. However by choosing not to have recommended dental x-rays you will be severely restricting the diagnostic abilities of your dentist and perhaps setting yourself up for a toothache or other serious problems which could have been easily prevented.

Is the Chest Pain Angina?

By Linda Warren, R.N.
An episode of chest pain can be very frightening. Chest pain may be caused by many body systems, including the respiratory system, the muscular system, the digestive system and the cardiovascular system. When chest pain is caused by the cardiovascular system, it is called angina.

Angina is a temporary chest pressure, tightness or pain caused by a reduction in blood flow through the coronary arteries. This results in a reduction of oxygen to the heart muscle and causes the pain. Sometimes the pain radiates to the neck, the arms or the back. It frequently is triggered by exertion, emotional stress or exposure to cold temperatures.

Classic angina occurs with coronary artery disease or arteriosclerosis, commonly called hardening of the arteries. This hardening causes a loss of elasticity and it happens gradually throughout a lifetime. Arteries can also become narrowed or clogged with fatty deposits. When a considerable portion of an artery is blocked, angina may occur.

Treatment for angina uses a combination of lifestyle changes and drugs. Many episodes of angina will subside with resting until it passes. Long-term treatment includes weight reduction to an ideal body weight for height, cessation of nicotine and alcohol habits, an exercise program with medical guidance and relaxation techniques for stress reduction.

The two classes of drugs used to treat angina are nitrates and beta-blockers. Nitrates may be used in three different forms. They may be used under the tongue, as a long-acting pill to prevent the episodes of angina or as a chest patch in either an ointment or slow-release disc to prevent or relieve an attack of angina. Another class includes beta-blockers which help prevent attacks by slowing the heart rate and lowering the amount of oxygen the heart muscle needs by reducing its workload. If angina is caused by a coronary spasm, a new class of drugs, calcium channel-blockers, may be effective. Muscles require calcium for contraction; if calcium is reduced in the coronary vessel walls, spasms may be prevented.

Coronary bypass surgery or balloon angioplasty may be recommended in some patients. Many factors enter into this decision.

No single treatment works well for all people. Treatments must be evaluated by individual physicians and monitored closely for effectiveness.

The difference between hearing sounds and listening to them.

There's a big difference between hearing sounds and being able to really listen to them. Take the sounds of music, for example. Unfortunately, most of the great classics and many of today's favorites were written for persons with perfect hearing—people who can hear and appreciate the difference between a violin and a cello.

So, if you've found you need to turn up the stereo a bit more than you used to, and your favorite stanza isn't as loud and clear as it used to be, now's the time to have your hearing tested professionally. With the technology available today there's probably no reason for you to miss a single sound.

Better hearing is a sound investment!

TAHITIAN DANCERS

Visit Hawaii, Tahiti Via Kiwanis Travel Film

On Saturday evening, March 18, the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea will present its fifth program of the Travel and Adventure Film Series at 8 p.m. in the George Prinzing Auditorium at Chelsea High School.

Experience the fun and adventure of island life as you roam from one gorgeous island to another with Rick Howard.

Look deep into the boiling crater of Kilawea volcano on the Island of Hawaii. Walk the beach at Waikiki. Roam through the Polynesian Cultural Center. Try your skill at surfing, then ride an outrigger canoe above and below the water!

Enjoy aerial views of all the Hawaiian Islands, strung like jewels in the Pacific.

Tahiti is also a celebration for the senses, beautiful and exciting. Hear the story of how another visitor, the French painter Paul Gauguin, was bewitched by the beauty of this special island.

Tahiti is full of wonderful surprises like the huge festival of Bastille Day in the city of Papeete. Join the extended party given by the "Yacht People," visitors from all over the world who sit out the bad sailing weather in this exotic port of call. See the world's largest sailboat, the French "Windsong," moored in the secluded cove that Tahiti is famous for. Enjoy the breathtaking sport of hang gliding.

Explore the fascinating smaller islands of French Polynesia like Bora Bora, Huahine, Raitea, and lovely Moorea. See for yourself why Moorea is often called the world's most beautiful island.

Help a shipwrecked German sailor get his sailboat off a reef. Meet a sailing family on their 48-ft. yawl, and hear about family life with two small children on a round-the-world journey.

Rick Howard finds fun and adventure wherever he goes. Join him on an incredible journey through the Polynesian paradise that is "Hawaii and Tahiti."

Single admission tickets will be available at the door.

During his last hours as President, William Taft signed the bill creating the Department of Labor, according to "The Origin of the U. S. Department of Labor," a Labor Department publication. The signing of the bill on March 4, 1913, was almost overlooked because it was inauguration day for Woodrow Wilson. Taft objected to the bill, feeling it would hinder efficient administration. But a veto would probably have been futile, as the incoming Democratic administration had already selected William Wilson as the first Secretary of Labor.
