Teachers Union Files Grievance Over Latest Shuffling of Jobs

Chelsea teachers union has filed a grievance stemming from the movement of personnel that followed the appointment of an interim athletic director two weeks ago.

When Wayne Welton was appointed half-time athletic director, Terri Curtis was moved from Beach Middle School to the high school to take Welton's classes. And Ann Schaffner, moved from a half-time position at Beach to a full-time slot.

The grievance, filed by the Chelsea Education Association, contends that the half-time job that Welton vacated should have been posted.

"If it is a posted vacancy, the district has to call back someone who was laid off," said Uniserv Director Walt Benton, referring to former teacher Rahn Rosentreter, who was laid off at the end of last school year.

"They just decided that since it was a half-time slot, and it was on an interim basis, that they wouldn't post it. It just seems to me that the logical thing to do would have been to call Rosentreter back. He knows the kids at the high school."

Benton processes grievances for the Michigan Education Association. He was in the middle of both grievances filed last year involving Rosentreter after Welton was moved to a full-time teaching job at the high school.

Benton said he does not agree with superintendent Joe Piasecki's contention that the shifting of teachers was "least disruptive for the kids."

Benton said he also does not understand the logic of continuing to pay Rosentreter unemployment compensation rather than giving him a part-time job for which he is certified.

"We have made contact with the MEA attorney to see if there is any legal action we can take in regards to this most recent situation," Benton said.

Benton also conceded that it's likely the school year will be over and the athletic director position decided on a permanent basis before the grievance is resolved.

According to contract, there are three levels for a grievance. First the decision is appealed to the supervisor in charge. Second level is the superintendent and third level is the school board.

Piasecki would not comment on the grievance, saying he preferred to work privately through the channels laid out in the contract.

However, Piasecki met Monday with parents of girls in the basketball program and told them he couldn't give them any definite answers about the situation.

CEA has begun new contract talks as the current contract expires at the end of this school year. Benton refused comment on whether these issues that have prompted the three grievances over the last year would get special attention in the new contract.

"Both sides have agreed not to discuss the negotiations in the media," Benton said.

Chelsea teachers, however, have joined the Washtenaw Livingston Education Association, which adds an extra approval layer for any new contract. WLEA has to approve a contract before it can go to CEA for ratification.

Lima Township Man Arrested In Marijuana Import Conspiracy

The Federal Bureau of Investigation has arrested a Lima township man on charges that he dealt more than 100,000 pounds of marijuana.

James F. Hill, 40, of 8930 Trinkle Rd., proprietor of the Lovin' Spoonful ice cream shop on Main St. in Ann Arbor, was the subject of a 16-month search by the FBI, according to reports. FBI says Hill is the man listed at John Doe 1, or the "Joker" in a 136-page indictment issued in 1987 by an Indianapolis, Ind. federal grand jury. He is being held without bail.

Hill was allegedly part of a 34-member conspiracy that imported and distributed more than 150,000 pounds of marijuana between 1975-85.

"Joker," said to be Hill's code name, is the name of Batman's arch enemy. The joker allegedly received several shipments of up to 2,000 pounds during the nine-year period. However, during 1985 he is accused of receiving loads ranging from 18,000 pounds to 40,000 pounds. The marijuana was then transported to various locations in Washtenaw county, reports said. There was no indication as to whether Hill's 80-acre farm was one of the sites.

Board Rejects Offer To Buy Fairgrounds

A developer made an offer to the Chelsea Community Fair Board to purchase the fairgrounds, executive vice-president Lloyd Grau confirmed last week.

Although Grau did not say who made the offer, he did say the board is not interested in selling the property.

"It means too much to the community," Grau said.

At the board's regular meeting on Thursday, March 9, it was suggested that a changing room for small children be provided this year.

Country Mudders inquired about holding a mud bog on May 21.

Chelsea Community Hospital Food Services will operate the fair kitchen for the third year in a row.

Plans for an addition with first-floor bathrooms and a handicap access ramp were discussed.

Members who attended the meeting included Grau, Maryann Guenther, Mark Stapish, Walt Zeeb, Dennis Trinkle, James Robbins, Harold Trinkle, Charlie Koenig, Jeff Layher, Richard Bollinger, Harold Gross, Earl Heller, Ken McCalla, Joe Merkel, III, and Tom Smith.

A barn owned by James Shedd at 1410 S. Grove Rd. in Ypsilanti township was the storage spot for the 40,000 pound load, federal officials said. Shedd was sentenced to seven years in prison last December after pleading guilty to conspiracy to import and distribute marijuana. He refused plea bargaining and would not identify Hill as the Joker.

The only other people who knew the Joker's identity with certainty fled to Austria prior to the indictment, officials said.

According to reports, one of the Indianapolis conspirators had heard the Joker addressed as "Jim" and thought his last name might have been "Hall." An FBI investigation led to Hill. A computer check turned up a traffic bench warrant. Hill's picture was taken and sent to Indianapolis, where he was identified as the Joker. The Joker was named in nine counts of the indictment. One of the charges, operating a continuing criminal enterprise, carries a mandatory minimum prison sentence of 10 years.

Dead Deer Heaved Through Window At High School

A group of four boys threw a dead deer through the office window of Chelsea High School Assistant Principal Ken Larson during the night of March 11 or early morning March 12.

The mess was discovered by groundskeeper Ron Joseph and was cleaned up before students arrived for school, said police chief Lenard McDougall. Police were not notified of the incident until several days later, according to McDougall.

According to McDougall, the deer had apparently been hit by a car before the youths found it and transported it to the school grounds.

Damage from the incident was estimated at more than $600 by assistant superintendent Fred Mills. A window was shattered and pieces of glass damaged a telephone in Larson's office.

The four, whom police have so far declined to identify, face charges of illegal possession of a deer, and malicious destruction of property over $100, a felony. A permit is required from the Department of Natural Resources before a road-killed deer can be taken from the scene of an accident.

Police said two current students and two former students are believed to be involved.

Village Mall Back on Track

Village Mall, the complex under construction next to Polly's Market, is back on course.

After legal delays caused by the filling in of a retention pond south of Polly's Market, developer Mike Kennedy has met all conditions imposed on him. The last obstacle, the submission to the village of $50,000 in letters of credit, was hurried last week.

"We're rolling," Kennedy said last week.

"The back walls are almost up."

Kennedy also has signed leases from two of his biggest tenants, ACO Hardware and Arbor Drugs, both of which will compete with existing Chelsea businesses.

Kennedy also plans to have a Subway store, which specializes in submarine sandwiches, and a frozen yogurt shop.

Another "good possibility," he said, is a major Detroit videotape rental store, which would take 5,000 square feet.

Other possibilities include a sporting goods store, two custom jewelers, a coney island shop, and a high-quality catering business out of Ann Arbor that also specializes in cakes and pies.

Kennedy also said he has not ruled out renting some space as offices.

"We've had several inquiries about office space," Kennedy said.

Kennedy hopes to have the mall open in early summer.

Spring Break Starts Friday

Chelsea School District third quarter marking period ends this Friday, March 24 at 11:10 a.m. with the beginning of spring vacation.

School age children will arrive home early Friday.

School resumes on Monday, April 3 with a full day of classes. Report cards will go home with students according to building level schedules.

Allen To Organize Easter Egg Hunt

Chelsea resident Harold Allen has decided to come to the rescue of the annual Easter Egg Hunt at Chelsea High School.

Allen said he decided to hold the event after reading last week's account in The Standard that no group had stepped forward as a sponsor.

Allen worked on the event several years during his time as a Jaycee so he is familiar with the amount of work involved.

The hunt will be held on Saturday, March 25 at 10:30 a.m. on the high school grounds. Allen and his helpers will dye 120 dozen hard-boiled eggs.

As in past years there will also be special eggs good for various prizes.

"I have a meeting set up with the Bunny this week, so I don't want to leak any details," Allen said.

Allen is also organizing the July 4th fireworks display.

Another hunt has been scheduled at 11:30 a.m. by McDonald's in the vacant lot next to the restaurant.

Children 12 and under are invited to participate. Parking will be available at McDonald's. The public is asked not to use the church parking lot.

BLOCK WALLS are going up at a fast clip at the new Village Mall next to Polly's Market on M-52. Developer and Polly's manager Mike Kennedy has met conditions by the village and was able to obtain all permits.

Governor Outlines Plans for First

$101 Million of Bond Proposal

Gov. James J. Blanchard has asked the Legislature to approve $101 million of the $800 million in bonds approved by voters in November toward cleanup of 65 hazardous waste sites, closing 89 unlicensed landfills, improving 43 state parks, and aiding wastewater treatment and protection of the Great Lakes.

The amount is the most the Department of Natural Resources can spend this fiscal year "to get the job done and not waste money," Blanchard said.

The Natural Resources Commission approved emergency rules last month to implement the bond program, rather than seek legislative approval of regular rules, in order to ensure money could be used for work this summer.

The governor's recommendation will have to be approved under a supplemental appropriation bill yet to be introduced in the Legislature.

Management and Budget Director Shelby Solomon said that process would get underway as soon as possible, but did not have a timeframe in which he hoped the bill would be passed.

The bonds needed for the approved projects will be marketed as soon as the Legislature passes the supplemental, which the governor hopes will be done before interest rates rise any higher than 7.5 percent now existing.

The governor's proposal includes:

—$23.2 million in hazardous waste programs, for final cleanup at four sites, final plans at seven others, surface cleanup at 35 sites and further investigation at 20 sites.

Natural Resources Director David Hales said the sites are not the top 65 listed in the department's priority list of worst sites demanding attention because not all are at similar stages for action.

The largest amount for final cleanup is $1 million at the Hartley and Hartley site in Bay county for such things as fencing, installation of a purge system and additional monitoring wells.

The largest amount recommended for any site, $5 million, would go for surface cleanup of the Sunrise Landfill in Allegan county to cap the landfill and remove and characterize the waste; another $225,000 would be used for remedial investigation.

—$20 million for 114 projects at 43 state parks for things such as renovation and repair of sewage systems, resurfacing roads and parking lots, updating electrical systems, repairing and renovating buildings and addressing beach-erosion.

Of the proposed funds, $3 million will be spent in the Upper Peninsula, $2.7 million at Lake Michigan parks, $5 million on the east side of the state and $8 million in Southeast Michigan.

The governor said action would be taken as soon as possible on anticipated requests by local governments for their parks and recreation areas.

—$8.2 million, to be matched by $41 million in federal funds, for a revolving loan fund to aid local financing of new or improved wastewater treatment facilities.

—$21.9 million for proper covering and monitoring of the state's remaining unlicensed landfills, which officials say pose threats of groundwater contamination. Communities must apply for the funds by Oct. 15.

—$25 million as the state's contribution to the eight-state Great Lakes Protection Fund.

Sen. Phil Arthurhult (R-Muskegon), chair of the Natural Resources Appropriations Subcommittee, said most problems in dealing with the recommendation will be technical in nature.

He said the questions he will have are whether the hazardous water funding follows the criteria of the state hazardous waste response act without being bent for political reasons, and that the DNR is not "biting off more than it can chew."

Governor Opposes Lake Michigan

Water Diversion Plan

Gov. James J. Blanchard has said he would not approve a plan giving the Army Corps of Engineers complete authority to divert Lake Michigan water to facilitate barge traffic on Illinois rivers and canals.

The Corps has requested the authorization to divert Lake Michigan water at Chicago in the event of "an emergency which can restrict commerce or impede navigation on the Illinois Waterway."

Under the proposal, the emergency condition, including the need to complete repairs or maintenance of navigable facilities, on the Illinois waterway, could be eased by temporarily increasing flow from the prescribed average of 3,200 cubic feet per second to a maximum of 10,000 cubic feet per second for 10 days.

"This proposal simply renews the debate we had last year over using the Great Lakes to solve water problems elsewhere," the governor said.

"I continue to oppose the idea. I believe the best answer to water scarcity both here and elsewhere is improved water conservation and alternative methods of transporting key items of commerce."

Attorney General Kelley said the Corps' request contradicts federal law.

MCRC Annual Meeting Scheduled March 28

Mill Creek Research Council's annual meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m. on March 28 at the Lima Town Hall.

Included in the evening's agenda will be the usual business with election of a board of directors to serve 1989-1990. There will be some discussion of county and regional happenings which might affect the local area.

The proposed Mill Creek Park is still on the Regional Recreation Plan and has tentative county approval. MCRC board members continue to monitor most Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority monthly meetings. Robert Marans from Ann Arbor is the current Washtenaw county delegate serving on the HCMA board. Dr. Marans is a U. of M. professor of architecture and urban planning.

HCMA simply has not had sufficient funds available to undertake a project as costly as the proposed Mill Creek Park. Construction funds are being used to further develop existing parks. Nearly $1 million is being spent on a new 18-hole golf course at Hudson Mills. The golf course entrance will be located near the intersection of Dexter-Pinckney and Wylie Rds.

Mill Creek Research Council was organized in the spring of 1965 as a local response to the announced intention of the U. S. Army Engineers plans for a huge, nearly 13,000 acre, sewage handling project when "the solution to pollution was dilution." Local opposition stalled the proposal and newer methods of sewage handling became accepted.

A few months after the Army Engineers proposal was abandoned, HCMA announced plans for using about 4,500 acres in the Army Engineers proposal for a major HCMA Mill Creek Park. Lima, Chelsea, and Dexter residents questioned many aspects of the proposal. Of special concern was the intent to have up to 45,000 visitors on nice summer week-end days.

The following persons were elected to the Research Council's board in 1988: Charles Arnold, Dave Bacon, William Chandler, Barbara Eby, Wally Fusiller, Janet McCalla, Betty Messman, Gerald Myers, Charles Powers, Margaret Sias, Janet Tarolli, Linda White.

Janet Tarolli is retiring from the board this year.

Dues of $10 per year are payable to treasurer William Chandler, $12 for new memberships.

The difference between hearing sounds and listening to them.

There's a big difference between hearing sounds and being able to really listen to them.

Take the sounds of music, for example. Unfortunately, most of the great classics and many of today's favorites were written for persons with perfect hearing—people who can hear and appreciate the difference between a violin and a cello.

So, if you've found you need to turn up the stereo a bit more than you used to, and your favorite stanza isn't as loud and clear as it used to be, now's the time to have your hearing tested professionally. With the technology available today there's probably no reason for you to miss a single sound.

Better hearing is a sound investment!

A good night's sleep isn't an impossible dream.

After a full day of activities, sleep is vital. But many people of all ages suffer from sleep disorders which deny them a good night's sleep.

In some cases, sleep disorders can be signs of more serious medical problems. Sleep apnea, a serious sleep disorder, can even cause life threatening oxygen loss and heart irregularities.

If you often have difficulty falling asleep, staying asleep, or staying awake, you are probably suffering from a sleep disorder.

The two most common symptoms of sleep disorders: Daytime sleepiness

Heavy snoring
Other symptoms of sleep disorders include: Morning headaches

Excessive use of sleeping pills.
Breathing irregularities during sleep.
Leg movements during sleep.
Personality changes.
Irritability.

If you are struggling with any type of sleep disorder, contact Chelsea Sleep Disorders Program at (313) 475-3963 for more information or to schedule an evaluation.

Q. I have a stock which has really treated me well. I used the care you have so often urged your readers to use, and I wanted to write and tell you how well it works. In September of 1978 I began to look at UST, the company that used to be called U. S. Tobacco. As I looked at the company, I found that sales and earnings per share had been growing between 18%-20% per year. That looked very good. Also I found the stock could be bought at 14 times earnings, which was pretty good since most stocks in the Dow were selling at a higher price earnings ratio.

I thought I had found a bargain and I bought the stock at $28 a share a month before the big market crash. In a month it was selling at 20 1/8. On the 20th of October, 1987, I checked with my broker and he said the company was buying a lot of its own shares at that price. I looked at the figures I had checked on the company and decided to buy 200 shares more.

I'll admit I was nervous, but the company sure looked good to me. In December, just three months after I bought the stock, the company increased its dividend to $1.48 a share. That convinced me to buy some more which I got at $22 a share. From then on things got better and better. A year from my first purchase at $28 a share, the stock was selling at $35 a share. I'm very happy I bought those additional shares at 20 1/8 and at 22.

The company announced that earnings per share were up 36% to $2.72 a share and the price took off again and went to $42. It has now dropped off again, but the company has declared a 2 for 1 stock split. My shares will soon be selling around $20 but I will have twice as many.

I know I have been lucky, but I just want to tell people that if you follow some of the simple rules we are given to guide us in the picking of stocks, it is possible to make out very well, even in a time when most people are saying it's best to invest in something besides stock.

A. Congratulations on the success you have had, and thanks for writing my column.

Only Our Rottenest Felons Deserve These $80,000 Beds

Our Governor is in the midst of a campaign to capture and incarcerate 31,500 of the meanest, most dangerous criminals in Michigan. Target date is in the 1990's. The state already has 13,000 beds for them and is building 18,500 more at a cost of $1.5 billion. That's $80,000 dollars per bed—much too much to invest in a traffic offender, a check forger or the author of some other victimless crime. Such costly prison accommodations should be reserved for the upper scum such as murderers, rapists, armed robbers and arsonists.

Our present prison population of about 20,000 is actually a two-tiered society with 3,000 to 4,000 dangerous career felons on one level. The remaining 16,000 or 17,000 are non-violent lawbreakers anxious to earn their way out through good behavior. The bad guys, trapped inside prison, murder guards and inmates, destroy property and instigate riots.

In January, 1988, worried guards at the State Prison of Southern Michigan in Jackson demanded and got a hearing on their problems from the House Corrections Committee. A panel of members went to Jackson for eye-witness testimony on how prisoners had virtually taken control of the world's largest walled prison. Alan Phillips, a guard with 14 year's experience, testified, "I've never seen it so bad. We have no authority in there. The prisoners have it all."

During this same year, 1987, in which two guards were killed by inmates, three convicted murderers escaped and three other inmates met brutal deaths. Despite all this, a woman corrections officer scoffed at whispers that a "contract" was out on her. Just hours later a knife missed her jugular vein by 1 1/2 inches.

Following the 90-minute hearing, an Associated Press dispatch concluded, "Guard after guard told how correction department policies prevented them from gaining control of the institution. They told of being spit at, slapped and urinated upon by the inmates."

In 1988 this situation at Jackson was corrected by drastic administrative reforms. The Governor was also backed by a strong support from the Legislature. They passed a bipartisan package of 69 anti-crime bills strengthening law enforcement throughout the criminal justice system. Among other actions, the worst-behaved felons were transferred to maximum security cells. For better control the great prison is being divided into three segments.

"The Wrong State for Criminals"

In his 1989 State of the State address Governor Blanchard boasted, "We have toughened our laws, imposed tougher sentences, better equipped our police and built the prisons necessary to take thousands of additional criminals out of our neighborhoods." He continued, "Michigan is the wrong state for criminals. We are the toughest, most punitive state in the Midwest when it comes to sentencing policies, imprisonment, probation, and parole. In some cases our sentencing laws, particularly on drug trafficking, are the toughest in the nation."

Turning to sentencing, he added, "The penalty in Michigan is life imprisonment without parole for drug dealers who are caught with as little as 23 ounces of a major controlled substance. The penalty for first degree murder is life imprisonment. There are 1,288 felons in our prisons convicted of these crimes, and they cannot be released unless the governor commutes their sentences. I do not intend to do so."

Most prisoners are well-behaved, compliant and anxious to earn early release through good behavior. Members on both sides of the Legislature feel that most non-violent offenders do not belong in prison and that alternatives must be found. Governor Blanchard says it all when he avows, "We must be sure that we are not wasting limited resources by imprisoning those who are not a threat to the public."

One resource, now receiving added emphasis, is intensive supervision. More case workers can be afforded for probationers, parolees and occupants of halfway houses. Why? Because their "clients" are no longer occupying costly prison cells. Another improvement in the corrections system is the monitoring of sentenced individuals by means of electronic tethers. These devices, attached to the wrist or ankle, enable law officers to maintain constant awareness of the wearer's movements. By the end of this year, 1,500 tethers will be in use. Wearers of the tethers pay a daily fee for their electronic freedom.

Another innovation is the "boot camp" at Camp Sauble in Fremont which enables convicts to choose the harsh life of a Marine-style boot camp in preference to the boredom of confinement. Camp Sauble is intended for young first offenders inbuing them with a sense of discipline and values that may last a lifetime.

Last year the Legislature passed Public Law 511 to give judges the authority to sentence non-violent first-offenders to a broad range of punishments outside of prison. These include work programs designed to compel defendants to reimburse crime victims while participating in education, job training and drug treatment programs.

DNA On the Way

As part of their 1989 efforts to apprehend criminals, the state police will begin to make use of DNA identification technology. This is the fabulous genetic code which individually marks every human being, except identical twins who share a single identification. The state police will begin acquiring equipment this year for DNA molecular profiling. The unique molecular code for each criminal can be stored in computers. It will be there for immediate comparison with samples of tissue, hair, blood, semen, saliva and other body fluids. An attacker's skin tissue, caught under the fingernails of a fighting rape victim, marks the identity of the rapist almost as though he had left his driver's license. DNA codes can also resolve the question of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young's alleged parenthood.

Everyone involved in the law enforcement/criminal justice system is preoccupied with the spectacular crime wave brought on by the new, cheap, pervasive form of cocaine known as "crack." Open war between police and street gangs, both armed with assault weapons, is spreading. The 1989 efforts of state and local police are being reinforced with heavier weapons, more manpower and money. The state of Michigan is seeking authority to make use of wiretaps, long a tool of federal officers.

State prisons are using drug testing on inmates. There is a constant game of cat-and-mouse between prison authorities and enterprising visitors who succeed in smuggling narcotics into prison. Suspected visitors are searched but neither strip nor cavity searches are permitted. After entering, a visitor may go to a washroom and take a balloon containing drugs from a hiding place and conceal it in her mouth. During a kiss with the inmate it is passed to his mouth, swallowed and later retrieved from his feces.

Inmates at Michigan prisons were selected at random last year and tested for drugs and alcohol. Here were the percentage of those testing positive at three local prisons: Huron Valley Men's Facility, 15.1 percent; Huron Valley Women's Facility, 9.3 percent; Cassidy Lake Technical School, Chelsea, 7.9 percent.

Average for all 22 of the state's prisons was 6 percent, and the worst was at Jackson with 19.5 percent. The use of drugs in prison is an extremely difficult problem short of eliminating all visitors or using glass walls to separate inmates and their visitors.

All in all, the prison system of Michigan represents a whole complex of challenges, many of which have not even been touched upon in today's column. All in all, the 1989 program of the governor with bipartisan backing from the Legislature is heartening.

Energy Regulation Comm. Rejects Consumers Power Request for Rate Increase

In a major victory for electric customers of the Consumers Power Co., the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission rejected as inadequate Consumers Power's application for a $9.35 million dollar increase in wholesale electric rates on March 6. In a letter to Michael C. Morris, executive vice-president for Consumers Power, the Commission described the proposal for an increase as "patently deficient."

Any rate increase would ultimately be paid by the retail customers of municipal and rural electric systems throughout Michigan. These include retail customers of the cities of Bay City, Charlevoix, Chelsea, Eaton Rapids, Harbor Springs, Hart, Howell, Petoskey, Portand, St. Louis and of the Wolverine Power Supply Co-operative and the Southeastern Michigan Rural Electric Co-operative.

The Commission criticized numerous aspects of the proposal because of Consumers Power's failure to abide by various Commission regulations and provide adequate documentary support.

The Commission also criticized Consumers Power's proposal to impose a "service conversion charge" on wholesale customers who decided to discontinue purchasing electricity from Consumers Power in favor of purchasing the transmission of electricity provided by other sources. Through the charge Consumers Power had hoped to force its wholesale customers to pay for a large portion of the costs for its abandoned nuclear power plant in Midland. The Commission called this proposal "discriminatory."

In opposing the proposed rate increase the Michigan Ratepayers Association called the position illegal, claiming that it violated both the Federal Power Act and federal anti-trust laws. The Commission cited the inclusion of the "service conversion charge" as a reason for rejection of the proposed increase. Members of the Ratepayers Association presently purchase electricity from Consumers Power and other sources for resale to their customers.

In discussing the application the Commission noted Consumers Power's failure to provide "information concerning potential anti-competitive impacts" of the wholesale rates. The Commission also stated that the company had failed to provide support for its estimates of the costs it expected to incur in and the amount of electricity it expects to sell in 1989.

"It is a very major victory for all of us," said Rex Wambaugh, president of the Michigan Ratepayers Association, a group of municipal and rural electric systems in Michigan. "The application submitted by Consumers Power was ill-conceived. Not only did it contain discriminatory provisions and fail to contain support for the rate increase, it also sought to pass on to us substantial costs associated with the failed Midland project, costs which should be borne by the stockholders of Consumers Power and not by the ratepayers."

The ratepayers group also argued that in arriving at its proposed rates Consumers Power had, in violation of Commission regulations, relied upon the projected cost to other companies of providing service, rather than relying upon the costs which Consumers Power expected to incur. The Commission criticized the company for basing its rates on this "proxy group of utilities instead of the costs Consumers Power Co. expected to incur in 1989."

The Commission's action in rejecting the filing was highly unusual, according to Robert Jablon, attorney for Michigan Ratepayers Association. "The Commission virtually never rejects an entire rate filing, although it will grant summary judgment on specific issues or seek additional data from time to time. However, as we told the Commission in our motion to intervene, and as the Commission accepted, the filing simply lacked the support necessary to justify the proposed rate increase."

The battle over who should pay for the loss sustained by Consumers Power when it abandoned the Midland plant is also being fought in a proceeding at the Michigan Public Service Commission. The MPSC regulates Consumers Power's retail rates in Michigan. Michigan Attorney General Frank Kelly stated that customers of the company should not be forced to pay for the loss. "The Utility's customers should not have to pay more for their electricity to pay for Midland—in fact, they should get a refund of over $500 million of progress payments which they paid the utility between 1968 and today," Kelly said.

Consumers Power will be able to file a new application for a future rate increase. In the interim, the ratepayers association and Consumers Power are negotiating over a potential rate increase.

Modular Home Company Plans Two Models in Sylvan Twp.

A modular-home company plans to build two model homes on property in Sylvan township adjacent to I-94 near Pierce Rd.

Boston Homes, owned by Stan Kint and Robert Williams of Jackson, plan to build two homes which will also serve as offices. The homes are manufactured in Nappanee, Ind., by Heckaman Homes. They are shipped by truck and lifted into place by a crane.

Sylvan Township Planning Commission approved site plans for the company after a public hearing last Wednesday.

Kint said the model homes will be a ranch and a Cape Cod. He said he has enough land to build six houses but will probably build no more than three or four.

"We tried to do this in Lima township but we ran into too many problems," Kint said.

The homes will be visible from I-94. "These are similar to stick-built homes," Kint said.

Kint said the homes should be delivered and on site within 30 days.

Cancer Society's Great American Lock-Up Underway

American Cancer Society's Great American Lock-Up will be held on March 28, 29, and 30 from 9 to 5.

For $25 you can have anyone "arrested." The "offender" of your choice will be picked up by a uniformed officer and spend roughly one hour in either the Dooley's or Arborland Mall slammer.

After an unjust trial, "convicts" will raise their assigned bail by calling friends, co-workers and relatives for pledges to the Washtenaw County American Cancer Society.

While doing their "hard-time" the "jailbirds" will be fed bread and water (perrier and croissants).

This is a lighthearted, fun-filled way for the community to raise money for the Washtenaw American Cancer Society's programs of cancer research, education and service, and rehabilitation.

Call 971-4300 to have someone "arrested" on March 28, 29, or 30.

OVER THE HILL JILL!

As a kid she was a brat
Hit a playmate with a bat
Hid under the bed and really did wail
Till Dad pulled her out by the pony tail.
Then the first time she parked out in back
A poor ole light pole she did attack.
Went to pick raspberries but she didn't know
You don't drive into the swamp where they grow.
So she plants her bulbs in the early spring
Hoping they'll grow when the robins sing.
But good old Jill she's such a clown
Your bulbs my dear are all upside down.
Men used to wink when they'd meet
Boy Scouts now help her to cross the street.
She's forty now, going on seventy-two.
Poor old Gary we feel sorry for you
You picked a fine one for a mate
Next time make sure you get a rebate.
Her knees now knock, her hips have spread
Looks like something there is made from lead.
Known to sip once in a while on a fifth or two
Then her old back pops out, this is true.
Forty years old and she's a wreck
You might say a real pain in the neck.
But we love you Jill just the same
Even though you are old, tired and lame.
Happy Birthday Jill you've aged a lot.
Your friends still care though you've gone to pot!

MARCH IS READING MONTH is being observed at South Elementary school this year with the theme "Read Across America." The school has set a goal of more than 2,200 books to be read during March. Each time a certain number of books is read, students color in a state on a map on the cafeteria wall. In addition, principal Bob Benedict

Health-O-Rama Coming April 15

Project Health-O-Rama will be offered at Chelsea Community Hospital again this year. It will be held on Saturday, April 15 at the Hospital from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

A variety of free health screenings will be available to adults age 18 and over. A number of health professionals from the hospital service area will be assisting in the free screenings.

Screenings will include: height and weight, vision, blood pressure, hearing, pulmonary function testing, breast exam, nutrition and medication counseling.

In addition, glaucoma screening will be offered by Dr. William Hawks; oral/dental screening will be offered by Drs. Sally Stommer, David Swan, Clare Warren, Ron Edegar, Bruce Bates, Gary Adiska, Gary Gochanour and Barb Wher; skin cancer testing will be offered by Dr. Charles Ellis. Colo-rectal screening kits will be available for $3.

A blood panel chemistry will be offered which includes screening for protein, cholesterol, calcium, diabetes, gout, kidney disease, liver disease and anemia for $10. Those interested in blood panel chemistry should fast for four hours before the test.

Prostate and testicular examinations will be offered by Dr. Leonard Wollin. Pap smears will be available for $5. Body fat composition screening will be $5.

Health screening counseling and summary will be provided by University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea physicians and Drs. Steve Yarows, Martin Gleespen and Doug Portz.

Project Health-O-Rama is sponsored by Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, Channel 7 WXYZ-TV, and United Health Organization. People with abnormal test results are referred to their health care provider to receive further evaluation.

Health screening is not meant to replace a physical examination by a health care provider. It is, however, good medicine to use a screening test so that if a condition is developing, there may be a chance to detect and treat it early.

No advance registration is required. Take advantage of this special event offered by Chelsea Community Hospital.

For more information, call 475-3935.

Chelsea Schools Survey 1988 Grads

Do Chelsea schools prepare young people for the future? One way to answer this question is to get an accurate picture of what recent graduates are doing and how their high school education helped them.

Data from graduates provide input for planning and for improving educational programs. To this end all graduates of the class of 1988 (or their families) will be called during March and April. The questionnaire is very brief but does seek to determine whether graduates are continuing their education, or working, or both. It also provides opportunity for the graduates to share their view on how well their education prepared them for their "future."

If you have information on a graduate who has moved out of the district or would prefer to provide the follow-up information rather than be called, or if you have any questions, you may contact the survey coordinator, Bob Miller, at 428-8327.

Looks Like Good Year For Beef Producers

Beef producers can look for 1989 to be a good year, according to Michigan Farm Bureau livestock specialist Kevin Kirk. He also predicts it won't be a bad year for hog producers, either.

"Over the past 10 years, the cattle industry has been in a liquidation process, and yet we've seen some increase in pricing," he said. "In 1989, the Michigan cattle industry looks good because prices should be real sound."

"Hog numbers over the last year have tightened a little bit, yet at the same time prices are starting to come back up, too. So between the cattle industry and the hog industry, 1989 looks great," Kirk said.

On the demand side, Kirk said consumption of beef and pork has increased 3% to 5% over the past 15 months.

Public Meetings Slated for Rural Economic Growth Program

Part of a series of 31 public meetings to hear the needs, ideas, and opinions of rural residents, business leaders and government officials by the newly created Rural Business Partnership, took place March 13 at the Chelsea Community Hospital.

Information collected in the public sessions scheduled through March 31 will help establish an agenda for the partnership, which was announced by Gov. James J. Blanchard in his State of the State address to spur new economic growth in rural communities.

"During the past six years, we have found that rural Michigan, taken as a whole, has not shared in the economic recovery and prosperity enjoyed in other portions of the state," Gov.

Blanchard said. "The Rural Business Partnership and its $10 million economic development fund is a step toward resolving that inequity."

We cannot, however, expect to walk in from Lansing and know both the needs and solutions for rural communities," the Governor continued. "That is why we must reach out through public meetings to learn the questions and possible solutions, regarding economic development opportunities in rural communities."

The Governor appointed Michigan Business Ombudsman Dick Allen to serve as executive director of the partnership program. He will work with Michigan State University's Cooperative Extension Service and the Department of Commerce to design and implement the partnership.

"We need more communication among rural communities. When one community in the Upper Peninsula finds a solution that might help a community in another part of the state, we need to share that information," Allen said.

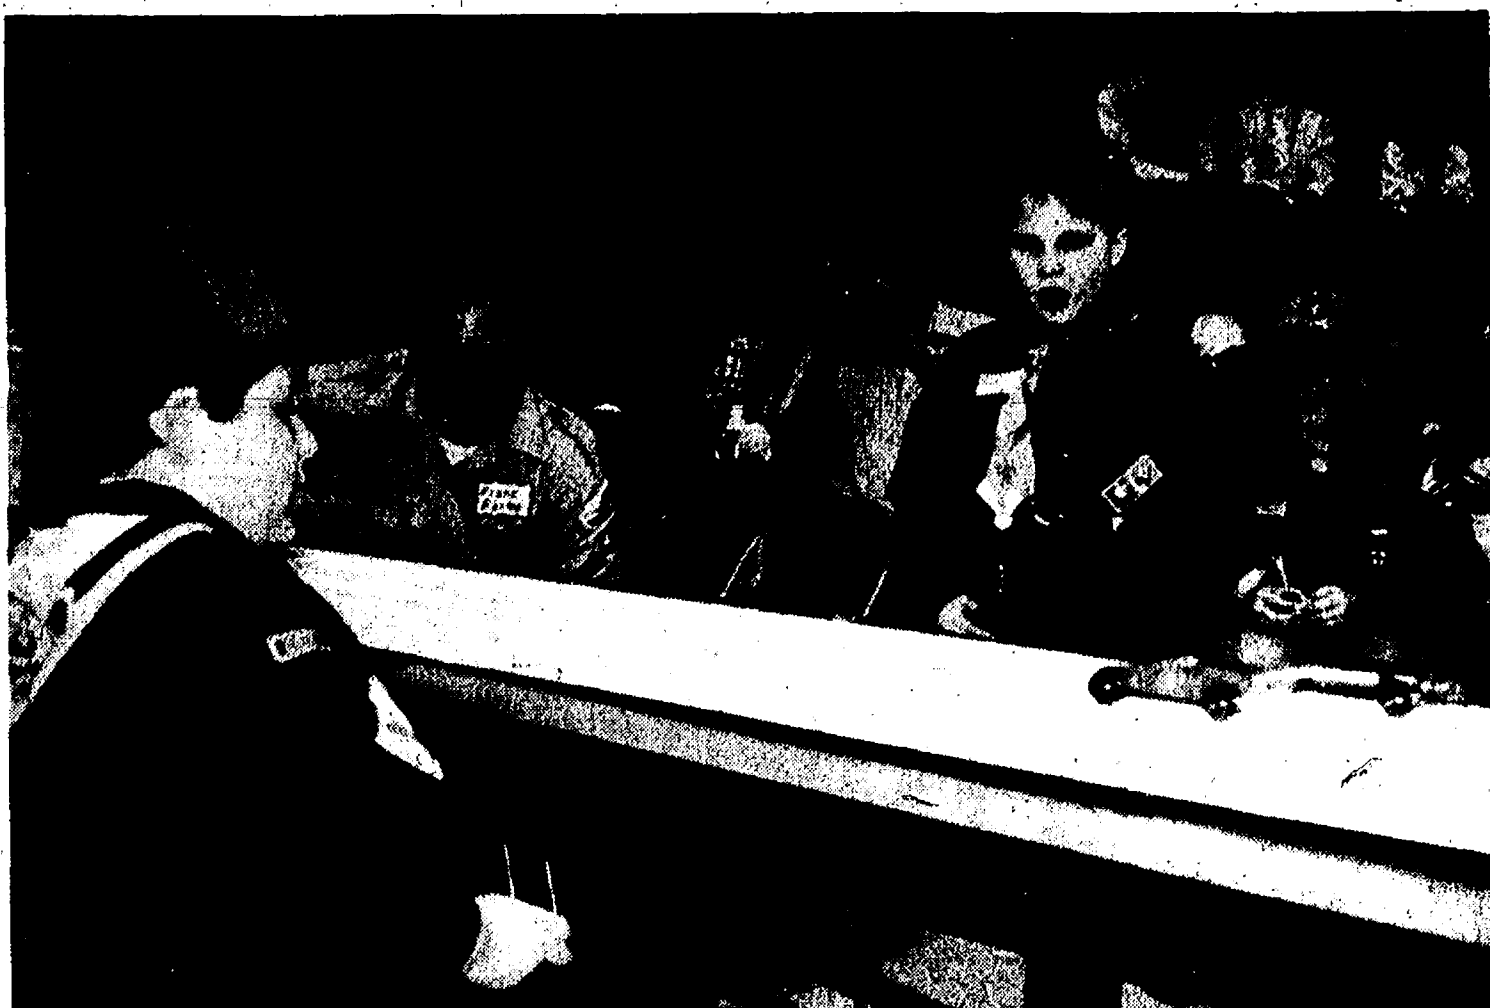

Pollution patrol: In the Canadian province of Ontario, they're pinching petty polluters. International Wildlife magazine reports that residents who remove anti-pollution devices from their cars may find themselves holding a ticket. The Canadian Ministry of the Environment launched the unique program to keep small violations from building to big environmental problems.

Bulldogs!

Bulldog Baseball Team Loaded With Inexperience

The story of the 1989 Chelsea Bulldog baseball team might be as much about who's missing as who will play.

Seniors Larry Nix and Jeff Marshall are out with injuries. Nix has a chronic back problem and Marshall tore up his knee during basketball season.

Besides carrying one of the best power bats on the team, Nix was the starting shortstop and projected number two pitcher.

Marshall was the likely number three pitcher.

"I really feel bad for those guys," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton.

"It's tough when you can't play your senior year, especially the last sport of the year. They will be tough to replace."

Welton said the pitching staff might have been "a little thin," even with Nix and Marshall healthy.

That moves junior Doug Wingrove up to the number two spot behind senior Junior Morseau, one of the best all-around players in the area. Wingrove got some spot duty last year.

Junior Kyle Plank, sophomore Kerry Plank, and sophomore Rob Clem figure to round out the staff. Junior varsity hurlers Craig Ferry and Ben Hurst may well be moved up on week-ends for some mound time.

"The key to this season is how our younger pitchers perform," Welton said.

"We have the potential but only two players with any varsity pitching experience.

Tom Mesnard is also likely to be worked into the staff.

Morseau, a first-team All Southeastern Conference player last season, will have his work cut out for him. When he's not pitching he'll be the team's starting catcher. He'll also hit third.

"Junior is definitely the core of the club," Welton said.

"I've never asked as much from a player as I am from Junior and I never plan to again. But Junior is the kind of guy who can thrive on it."

Senior Jeff Prentice is co-captain with Morseau. He'll play right field. However, Welton is counting on Prentice's bat as much as anything.

With Nix out, Welton has had to juggle the infield around. It's possible he could have a sophomore shortstop-second base combination.

Back-up catchers to Morseau include senior David Adams, who will catch when Morseau pitches, and juniors Steve Emmert and Tom Mesnard, who can fill in when Morseau tires.

Senior Mark Larson, another Bulldog with a good bat, should play first base. Kyle Plank is the likely back-up, if he isn't playing third base or the outfield.

Sophomore Jude Quilter has the edge at second base. He's also the quickest Bulldog and the probable lead-off hitter. Senior Matt Forner, and Adams and Wingrove can also fill in.

Wingrove may be the starting third baseman, although he could also end up the starting shortstop.

"Doug probably has the best overall package to play shortstop, although Kerry Plank is looking good and is a very fluid athlete. Jude is by far the quickest and can cover the most ground, but I think his arm is more suited for second base."

Depending on who plays second and short, Prentice could start at third, as could Kerry Plank.

Senior Mike Kushmaul is the likely leftfielder although Emmert, the Planks, and junior Brandon Murrell can also play there.

Welton won't know who will play centerfield until he knows who's in the middle infield. Quilter, Kerry Plank, and junior Mike Connell all have a shot.

Mesnard and junior Lance Satterthwaite are the likely designated hitters.

Welton said he's optimistic about the team's offense, especially if Quilter proves to be a good lead-off hitter.

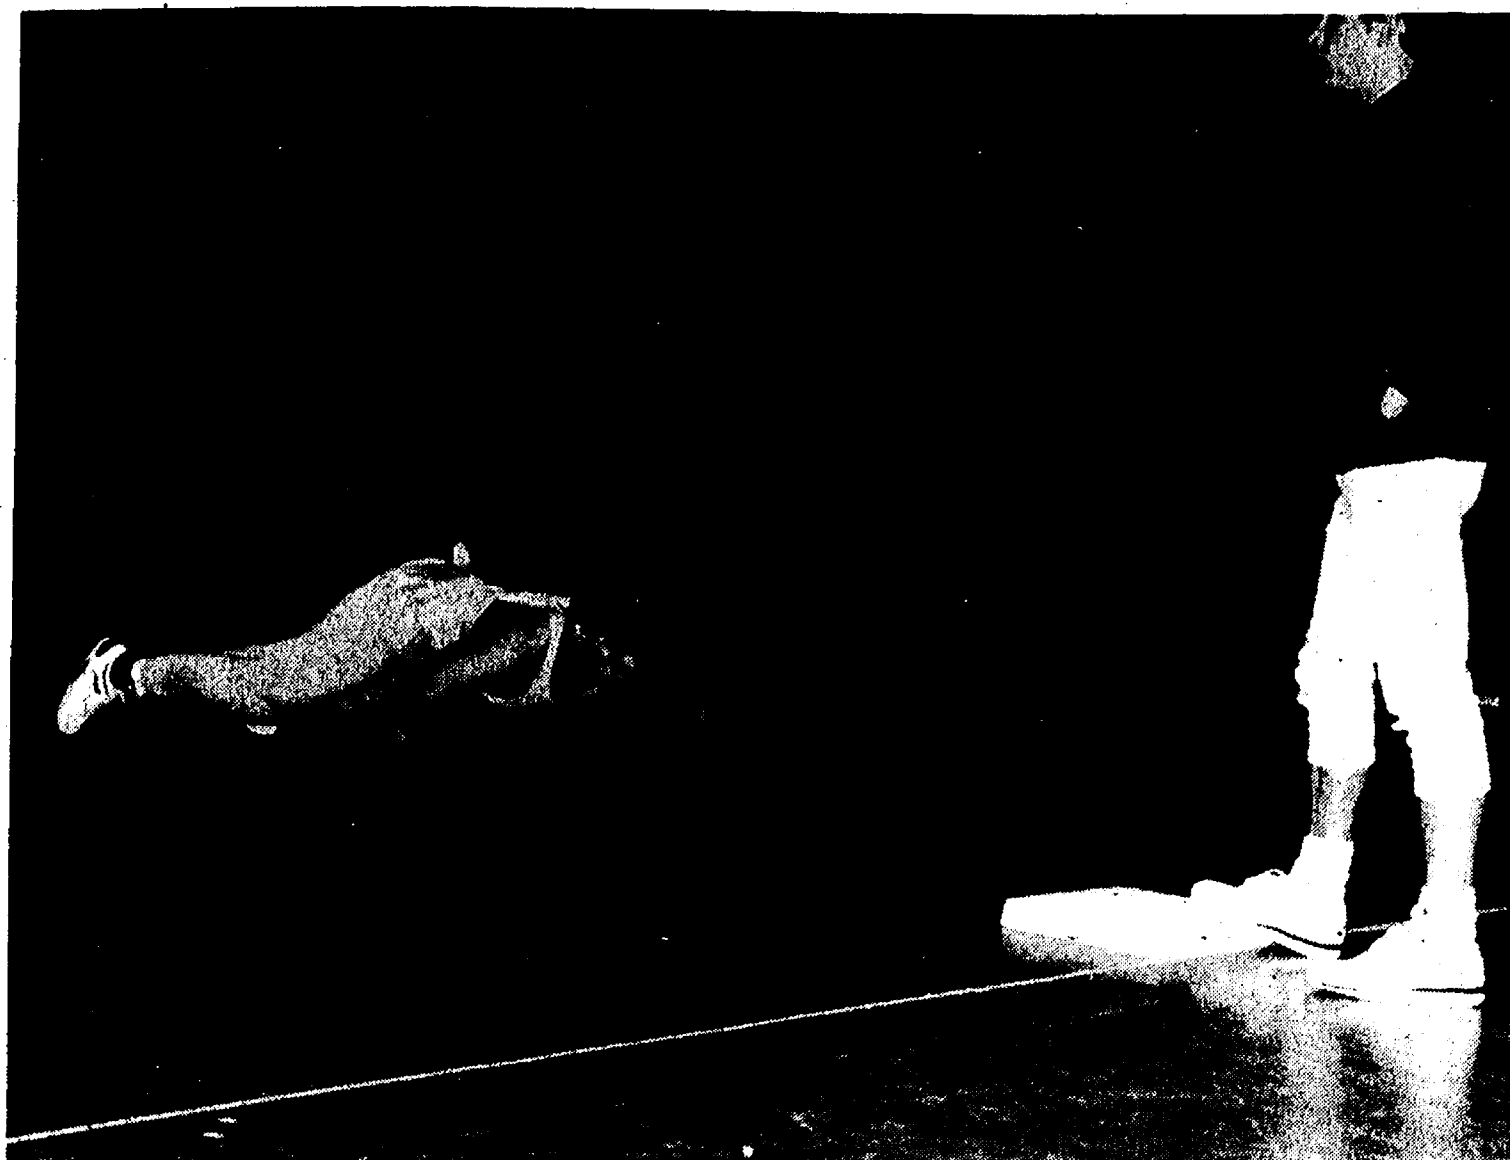

Virtually everyone in the line-up can hit, although maybe not in the tradition of the heavy Bulldog hitters in recent years.

"We're an inexperienced team," Welton said.

Only four or five of the team's 16 players have much varsity experience at all.

"I'm looking forward to taking this team south," Welton said of the team's annual spring trip to Venice, Fla.

"I just hope we have five days of good weather so we can get some good practice time."

Mike Taylor Plans Trip to China

For the second year in a row, Chelsea High school wrestler Mike Taylor has qualified for the Michigan Wrestling Federation Cultural Exchange Team.

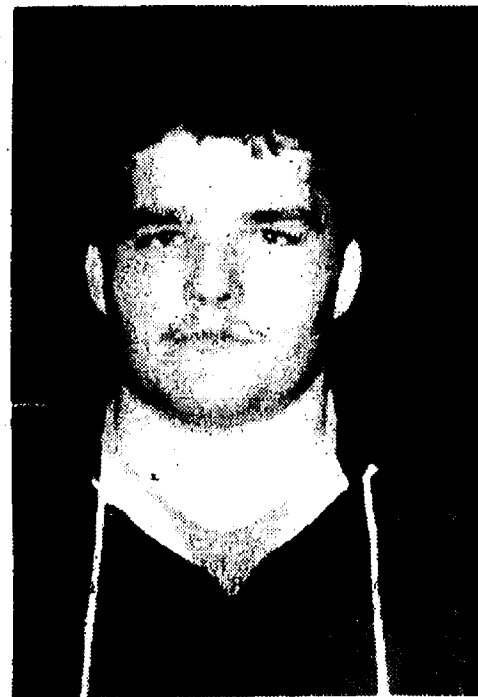

Last year Taylor won the right to tour Japan. This year the team is going to China.

Taylor had to win four matches at the Eastern Michigan Freestyle Invitational March 11 to qualify. Taylor wrestled in the heavyweight division. He pinned his first two opponents on decisions.

The team will leave for China in late June. In the meantime, Taylor has begun to raise the $2,500 necessary for the trip.

Four other Chelsea wrestlers also competed in the meet but failed to qualify for the team. They were Pat Taylor, Craig McCalla, Dean Sutherland, and Eric Hanna.

Freestyle wrestling is the same as Greco-Roman wrestling, which is an Olympic event.

OLYMPIC GOLD MEDALIST Steve Fraser spoke to Chelsea High school students in the media center on Monday as part of the school's Reading Month activities. Fraser, 30, earned his gold medal in Greco-Roman wrestling at the 1984 Los Angeles Olympics. He was the first American ever to win a medal in wrestling. Fraser was invited to the school by media specialist Sherrill Pryor, who has been co-ordinating "March is Reading Month" activities. Fraser demonstrated wrestling holds on a volunteer and showed a replay of his medal-winning match. His speech stressed the importance of goal-setting, planning, setting the plan in action, and learning from mistakes. Fraser is special projects co-ordinator at Domino's Pizza Distribution Corp. in Ann Arbor. He's a native of Hazel Park, where he won a class A state wrestling championship. He went on to compete for the University of Michigan.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Sudderar

If you've been making changes in your landscape with the aim of providing food for wildlife, March is the time when you're most likely to see birds and animals taking advantage of those food sources. You might say it's pay-back time, when you get paid back for your time and effort and expenditure.

In March, the birds that spent the winter in Michigan and the first of the returning migrants often turn toward the remaining fruits on trees and shrubs to get them through until new food sources become available. That's when your tree and shrub planting begins to pay off.

The hawthorns, crabapples, viburnums and other fruit-bearing ornamentals that hold their fruits through the winter will be providing food for a variety of birds. Robins and cedar waxwings, for instance, will flock to hawthorns and Siberian crabapples and other small-fruited crabs. Often they will be hungry enough that they'll stay in the trees while you walk quite near. You may find yourself developing a new appreciation for the cedar waxwing, in particular, whose muted colors and subtle markings make it a bird to be enjoyed most at close range.

Unfortunately, crabapples may also provide a meal for thousands of starlings. Starlings have their place in the general scheme of things, of course, but because of the problems that they cause homeowners and farmers, it's hard for me to get as excited about them as about hundreds of cedar waxwings, for instance.

The building that houses my MSU campus office has Boston ivy climbing up the outer wall. I don't see cardinals in the ivy by the hundred, but a pair of cardinals flitting about just outside my window as they eat the ivy berries makes me glad someone planted the vines and thinks it's worthwhile to maintain them.

As March goes by, the birds that spent the winter here are joined by the early returning migrants, such as the towhee and rose-breasted grosbeak.

The towhee is a bird of the forest, but at this time of year it can frequently be seen scratching for food under the crabapple trees along the edge of a woodlot near my office. It's much easier to see it there than in the woods itself, where the ground is more thickly covered with vegetation.

The grosbeak is as big as a blue jay and often arrives so late that only the remnants of the previous fall's fruits are left. It can frequently be seen pecking at fruits that some other bird has already dined from.

Unlike the grosbeak, which often has to settle for what's left, the birds we see feeding early in March may be quite choosy in their feeding. They may eat just the seeds from a fruit or eat parts of several fruits and drop the rest. The fruit parts that drop to the ground generally aren't wasted, however: as the tracks in the snow the next morning reveal, the local rabbits and mice are quick to take advantage of the berries that the birds drop.

All this talk of March as pay-back month is not to say that you don't enjoy the fruits of your landscaping labors at other times of the year. But if seeing animals making use of the plants you have put in your landscape is your goal, March is a good time to realize it because of the numbers and proximity of animals using the foods you have grown for them.

If the dividends from your planting motivate you to add to your plantings, or if this is the year you're going to start landscaping for wildlife, this is a good time to make your plans because the spring planting season is just around the corner. Fruit-bearing ornamentals that provide food for wildlife include viburnums, crabapples, hawthorns and flowering dogwood. Other plants that provide nutritious though less palatable foods—you might think of them as emergency foods—include highbush cranberry, Russian olive and old-fashioned roses. Animals generally won't eat the fruits of these plants unless no other food is available. But when everything else is gone—as is often the case in late March and early April—and animals are hurting, these emergency foods will keep them going until new foods become available.

If you were planning to make some landscaping changes but hadn't considered the wildlife appeal of various ornamentals, why not rethink your choices in that light? By something as simple as choosing a shrub with long-lasting fruits over one without them, you could be adding significantly to your enjoyment of nature from your backdoor.

RICHARD NIETHAMMER, a 1988 graduate of Chelsea High school, has recently completed "Pro 2", a second phase management training program for Taco Bell. The course was held in Atlanta, Ga., where he finished third in the class. Rick is the current assistant manager of Chelsea Taco Bell. Another trip to Atlanta is planned in May for final phase training and a management certificate.

Girl Scout Cookies Still Available

If you didn't get a chance to order Girl Scout cookies this year, don't worry. Cookies are available over the counter at the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council office. The office is located at 19 N. Hamilton St., Ypsilanti. Office hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Girl Scout cookies come in seven varieties this year: Thin Mints, a chocolate covered chocolate wafer; Samos, a vanilla cookie with caramel, coconut and chocolate swirl topping; Chocolate Chip, a blend of oatmeal, raisins and chocolate chip cookie, covered with a honey glaze topping; Trefoil, a buttery shortbread cookie; Tagalongs, a vanilla cookie topped with peanut butter and covered with chocolate; Echos, a chocolate sandwich cookie with vanilla filling; Do-Si-Dos, an oatmeal sandwich cookie with a creamy peanut butter filling. All of these mouth watering delights may be purchased at $2 per box.

Council cookie proceeds provide camp scholarships, council-wide programming, maintenance and purchase of equipment for camp property.

Troop cookie proceeds provide means to pay for troop projects, supplies, badges, troop camping and educational field trips. Troops also use cookie money to finance service projects such as neighborhood clean-ups, assisting senior citizens, flag ceremonies and much more.

So when you buy a box of Girl Scout cookies, you're not only helping a Girl Scout but your community as well. Buy your cookies now, it's for a good cause.

Jamie C. Hoffman, daughter of George and Janet Hoffman of Chelsea, was elected to the position of State Exploring Representative on Saturday, March 11, at the annual President's Association Conference on Exploring held at the Holidome Inn West in Ann Arbor.

Exploring is the young adult, career oriented program of the Boy Scouts of America. It's for any 14 through 20-year-old who wants to learn more about their chosen career interest field. The Wolverine Council of Ann Arbor has 80 Exploring posts specializing in several career areas. Jamie, an Explorer with the Chelsea Police Department, attends Michigan State University, is highly involved with the Wolverine Council Exploring program, and has been very involved with state, regional and national Exploring activities.

"I intend to have at least 220 Explorers present at our 1990 PACE Conference, and to have more Explorers from the Wolverine Council attend next year," said Jamie at her debate against her Detroit area Exploring opponent.

This is not Hoffman's first Exploring achievement. In 1985 she attended the Michigan Law Enforcement Academy in Grayling. In 1986-87, she was the Captain of her Chelsea Police Exploring group. In 1987, she was one of only a few national Explorers who was chosen to go to Washington, D.C. to the FBI Law Enforcement Training Academy, and she also maintained the presidency of the Wolverine Council Exploring Officer's Association. And in 1988, Hoffman was on the staff for the National Law Enforcement Conference held in Boston, Mass.

JAMIE C. HOFFMAN

"I plan on utilizing my past Exploring experience for this position," said Hoffman. "I'm hoping to have the best 1989-90 Exploring year in our area ever!"

The great coverup: On the surface, the Guadalupe Dunes in California are nesting grounds for seabirds including the endangered least tern. But according to International Wildlife magazine, it's what's below the sand that makes these dunes unusual. When Cecil B. DeMille finished his epic silent movie, "The Ten Commandments" in the early 20's, he had the massive Egyptian set buried under the dunes. Soon, archaeologists will begin excavating the artifacts. But they'll be working only during the months when seabirds aren't nesting.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Just three brief months separate the birthday of Jesus and the glory of His resurrection—for all Christians these 40 days of Lent—are a very special time of growth. Growing through taking on the spirit of Christ by prayer, fasting and self denial of some of the pleasures we indulge ourselves in throughout the 325 other days of the year. Above all, we grow in charity with one another—another word for charity is "love." No, sorry, it's not referred to as the sexual love our media, advertising and book writers refer to—but Christian love—an active reaching out to others and looking beyond what our eyes see to find Christ in each one, looking back at us.

The great joy of Christmas and the unmeasurable love of Easter have a time, a day between them we have come to know as "Good Friday"—the day that recalls for Christians the suffering and death of Jesus Christ. In each life, there are "Good Fridays"—a time of cross carrying—a time when we feel so burdened, and just know there is no one who understands. Perhaps it's a loss of a loved one. Maybe you, or someone you love is caught up in alcoholism, or drug abuse of another nature. Maybe you're watching a loved one ill and caring for someone who has been in terminal disease. Maybe you're caring for an aged parent. There is no "cure all" or "instant miracles" for many, the words of the following may make it easier to surrender to and accept what is now—a "Good Friday" and look for that very special "Easter" that comes to each of us.

YOUR CROSS
The everlasting God has in His wisdom foreseen from eternity the cross that He now presents to you as a gift from His inmost heart. This cross He now sends you He has considered with His all-knowing eyes, understood with His Divine mind, tested with His wise justice, warmed with His loving arms and weighed with His own hands to see that it be not one inch too large and not one ounce too heavy for you. He has blessed it with His holy name, anointed it with His grace, perfumed it with His consolation, taken one last glance at you and your courage, and then sent it to you from heaven a special greeting from God to you, and alms of the all-Merciful love of God.

May these words reach out and touch your readers in time of need and may each of us know the unlimited Joy and Peace of Jesus Christ on Easter Sunday, and keep it in our hearts all year through. Remember, God loves you, and any friend of God's is a friend of mine.

Millie Warner.

To the Editor,

Being a Chelsea resident for 11 years plus, I am concerned about being over-charged for merchandise in and around the Chelsea area.

There is a state law that covers this situation. It is called "Consumer Pricing and Advertising Act No. 449 Public Acts 1976."

Simply stated the law says: If you are overcharged for an item recorded by an automatic checkout system, the seller has two days after notification to tender the amount of the overcharge plus 10 times the amount not to be less than $1 nor more than $5. This law only pertains to one item on your bill.

If seller refuses to follow the law the buyer may pursue and obtain a declaratory judgment against the seller.

Check your receipts.

Jack Boote.

To the Editor:

Did you know giant pandas were on the endangered species list? If you did not, please keep reading. Did you know that there are less than 1,000 pandas left in the world?

Pandas are dying because the bamboo they eat is dying. Two species of bamboo in the panda's diet have reached a stage in their life cycle when they flower then they die. There is just not enough bamboo for the pandas to eat. Therefore they cannot keep their stomachs full to obtain calories to live. Another reason pandas die is because wild animals in the mountains kill the babies, so they cannot grow up. Also, traps set for other animals, such as musk deer, often kill pandas. With your help, pandas may be saved!

The Chinese government has 11 preserves where pandas live. The preserves have plenty of bamboo for the pandas while the bamboo die-offs are going on. In 1975 all the umbrella bamboo died. In 1983 all the arrow bamboo died again. In the end, more than 200 pandas died.

If you would like to help, contact World Wildlife Fund at 1250 Twenty-Fourth Street, N. W., Washington, D. C. 20037. You may send a donation to help the pandas. Please help!

Good Friday Service Will Be at St. Paul's

Community Good Friday Service, sponsored by the Chelsea Ministerial Association, will be held Friday, March 24, from 1 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at St. Paul United Church of Christ, 14600 Old US-12. Pastors from 10 area churches will participate, with two choirs singing.

The theme is: "I Will Be the One." It was suggested by Pastor Mearl Bradley, who, with his wife, recently returned from a five-month mission in the Philippines. "I will be the one" is but one of the many beautiful phrases they heard while there. A person would say that phrase when their intention was that you would put your burden down and they would carry it for you. "I Will Be the One" is what Jesus prayed in the Garden of Gethsemane, and His death spoke these words from the Cross: "I Will Be the One."

Speaker for the first segment of the service will be Dr. Jerry Parker, First United Methodist, on the topic: "I Will Be the One?" The Chelsea Free Methodist church will provide special music.

The second segment will feature a four-part chancel drama, "The Terrible Meek" by Charles Rann Kennedy, a powerful conversation between the Roman captain, a soldier, and a peasant woman after Jesus had been crucified.

Special music will be provided by the Men's Choir, St. Paul United Church of Christ.

The offering will be divided between the Chelsea Senior Center Furnishings Fund, flood relief for Bangladesh, and the work of the Chelsea Ministerial Fellowship.

'Requiem' Performance Slated on Good Friday

The immensely popular "Requiem" by John Rutter will be performed at St. Andrew's church, Division at Catherine, Ann Arbor, on Good Friday, March 24, at 8 p.m. St. Andrew's Festival Choir will present the work. Featured will be Bruce Khallany, boy soprano, in the performance of the Pie Jesu movement.

The Rutter "Requiem" has enjoyed many performances world-wide since its publication in 1986. It was first performed in Texas in 1985, with the composer conducting. In its conception, it is closely allied to the Faure "Requiem," with an emphasis on the blessed rest of those who have died in the Lord. There are many moments of singular beauty in the piece which have contributed to its popularity both with choirs and audiences.

The 22-piece St. Andrew's Festival Orchestra will accompany the work, led by St. Andrew's organist and choirmaster Dr. Thomas Strode.

The concert is free and open to the public; a free-will offering will be encouraged at the door.

Further information about the performance may be had by calling the church office at 663-0518.

Civic Theatre Cast Enters International Competition

Julie Vorus of North Lake, will be part of the cast when the Ann Arbor Civic Theatre is competing in the AACT/FEST International Theatre competition of one-act plays. The first leg of the journey takes place in Grosse Pointe the week-end of April 1-2. It will involve community theatre groups from all over Michigan.

The Civic Theatre is sending a remounted version of James McLure's "Laundry and Bourbon," named best Ann Arbor Civic Theatre MainStreet production of the 1985-86 season. Wendy Wright is directing the play again, joined by Kim Mackenzie in her critically acclaimed role of Hattie Dealing, Susan Morseth moves to the role of Elizabeth, and Julie Vorus joins the cast as Amy Lee.

If successful, the production will be part of the national competition in Omaha. With luck, the troupe could go on to represent the U.S. in Monaco next August.

A one-night-only public performance and send-off will be held at 8 p.m. on Thursday, March 30, in the Civic Theatre's MainStreet Theatre, 1035 S. Main (the intersection of Pauline and Main.) Tickets are $2.50.

Congregational Church Schedules Holy Week Activity

First Congregational United Church of Christ of Chelsea will observe Holy Week by having the Sanctuary open for personal reflection and prayer each day. Also, there will be a Lenten Study on Wednesday, March 22 at 10 a.m. and at 7:30 p.m. All who are not otherwise involved are invited to attend the Maundy Thursday worship with Holy Communion, followed by the Office of Tenebrae.

On Friday, March 24 we will attend the Community Good Friday Worship in St. Paul United Church of Christ from 1 to 2:30 p.m. Again, all are invited and encouraged to attend this community observance.

The church will observe Easter—the Resurrection on Sunday, March 26 with an early worship in the sanctuary at 7:30 a.m. All are welcome. Following the early worship at 8:30 a.m. an Easter Breakfast will be served. The regular Easter Worship will be held at 10 a.m. Holy Communion will be celebrated at each of the worship services of the day.

We'll show you all the advantages of a Homeowner's Reserve, and how easy it is to apply for it.

Trustcorp Bank wants to help you save on taxes.

READ ACROSS AMERICA is the theme of March is Reading Month at North Elementary schools this year. North has set a goal of more than 2,200 books to be read in March. Each morning a tally is taken. When an appropriate number is read, a state on a map is colored in, and, as an added inducement, principal Bill Wescott's tie is cut a little shorter by a student, this time by Leslie Parker. By the time the goal is reached, Wescott's tie should be up to his chin. Students with Wescott include, from left, Chris Herter, Linda Engles, Cindy Richards, and Mike Pratt.

The drive was held Thursday, March 16 at Our Savior Lutheran church.

Of the many churches participating, St. Mary's Catholic church had the highest number with 22, followed by the First United Methodist church, and Our Savior Lutheran church with 13 each, and North Lake Methodist church with 11.

Relief from Covered Truck Law Sought For Farm Products

Michigan's House of Representatives is considering legislation that clarifies the state law that exempts farmers from having to put a cover on trucks loaded with agricultural commodities. According to Michigan Farm Bureau legislative counsel Ron Nelson, the measure recognizes some unique aspects of transporting farm products.

"Take string beans, for example. The product would deteriorate rapidly if it were covered because there needs to be an air flow through the product," Nelson said. "Should a string bean escape from the truck, which would be a violation subject to a ticket, it is not going to cause substantial damage to the motoring public."

Nelson said that under the legislation, even though farmers don't have to cover their trucks, they are still responsible for making sure the product is loaded properly so it doesn't spill onto the road.

K. of C. Council Recognized By International Headquarters

The international office of the Knights of Columbus has announced that Chelsea Knights of Columbus council 3092 in Chelsea has been named a winner of the organization's 1988 "Share the Spirit" membership contest.

In announcing the winners, Virgil C. Dechant, Supreme Knight of the Knights of Columbus said, "It gives me great pleasure to 'Share the Spirit' with your council and commemorate your achievement. Every one of your members should be very proud of this effort."

In recognition of their achievement, the local group has been awarded an official Knights of Columbus flag. The K. of C. flag was offered as an incentive to those councils that recorded a 5% net gain in membership for the period Jan. 1-Dec. 31, 1988. It is the first official flag in the 106-year history of the Knights of Columbus, and its design combines blue and red from the Order's emblem, yellow from the papal flag and white and green from the expeditionary flag of Christopher Columbus, the Order's patron.

The flag incentive was conducted in conjunction with an ongoing "Share the Spirit" membership recruitment campaign. Throughout 1988, Knights were asked to recruit new members in honor of the Supreme Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, Bishop Thomas V. Daily. In total, more than 100,000 new members were recruited worldwide during the 1988 calendar year. A new phase of "Share the Spirit" has been instituted for 1989, honoring all members of the Catholic clergy.

The Knights of Columbus is a Catholic, family, fraternal, service organization founded in New Haven, Conn. in 1882. Currently, the Knights have nearly 1.5 million dues-paying members who belong to 9,500 local councils throughout North America and the Philippines. Prospective members, or anyone desiring information on Chelsea K. of C. may contact Grand Knight Larry Kranick at 475-1517.

Petsch was previously coach of Beach Middle school's academic games team for two years, where he led them to two state championships. This year his Stockbridge team won the state title in On Words, an English board game. It is his fourth consecutive state title. Because of his success, the league directors unanimously selected him as coach of the year.

Petsch is also active in the Chelsea community where he works for the recreation council, gives drug prevention talks for the Chelsea Police Department, and is the voice of Chelsea Bulldog home football games.

In-Home Family Treatment Program Reports Success

Karen Leach, daughter of Melvin and Barbara Leach and graduate of Chelsea High school, announces the success of Huron Services for Youth's (HSY) newest program, in-home family treatment.

HSY is a private, non-profit child welfare agency offering a range of treatment programs and services to abused, neglected, or delinquent youths and their families. The programs the agency offers are residential treatment, specialized foster care, supervised independent living, and in-home family treatment. The agency was established in 1969 as Family Group Homes for Youth by concerned local citizens.

The in-home family treatment program was established in June of 1988 and served 28 families with a success rate of 89 percent in its first seven months. HSY anticipates that the program will serve at least 48 families in its second year. Referrals for the program, which serves Washtenaw, Wayne, Oakland, and Macomb counties, come from social service agencies and juvenile court. The program has been able to serve families in Chelsea.

Funding for the program has come through a $312,000 grant from the Skillman Foundation of Detroit, and a $5,807 grant from the J. F. Ervin Foundation of Ann Arbor and Adrian. "We are grateful to the Skillman Foundation and to the J. F. Ervin Foundation for funding this program," says Leach. "They have given us our first opportunity to offer a prevention program to the community. With the alternative of in-home treatment, many families will not need other more costly and disruptive programs."

A family qualifies for the program if one or more of the children are in immediate danger of being removed from the home due to abuse, neglect, or delinquency. In-home treatments is an intensive, four-to six-week program that offers the family any type of therapy and training necessary for proper functioning. Training may include menu planning, budgeting, parenting, and job-hunting.

The program operates in the family's home and consists of a treatment team made up of a social worker and two family support workers spending up to 20 hours per week with the family. Certain basic needs such as food and clothing may have to be met before treatment can even begin. The family is given follow-up care upon completing the program.

Goal of the in-home treatment program is to prevent removing children from their homes, and to link the family with supportive community resources that will help them maintain a healthy family environment once treatment is completed. "The guiding principle of Huron Services for Youth is to keep families together; this program gets us one step closer to doing that," comments Leach.

The in-home treatment program also operates in Lenawee county under the name Families First. The program is made possible in Lenawee county through a contract with the Department of Social Services.

QUESTION: What Kind Of People Go To Chiropractors?

ANSWER:

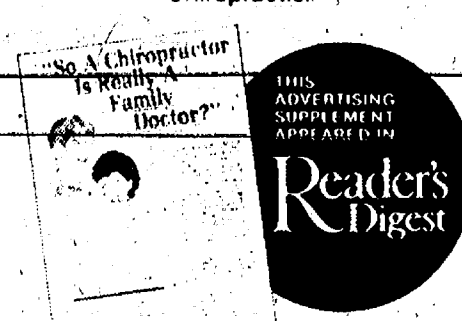

People Who Want
To Get Well
Without The
Use Of Drugs
Or Surgery.

Chiropractors treat people from all walks of life: older people—children; laborers—office workers; professional athletes—weekend sports enthusiasts; business people—and other health-care professionals go to chiropractors. The reason: chiropractic is an approach to health which utilizes the body's inherent and natural recuperative powers. And often, chiropractic has been successful where other treatment has failed.

You don't have to have a special kind of health problem to visit a chiropractor.

Meeting Scheduled To Plan Depot Historical Marker

A meeting on Wednesday, March 29 at 7 p.m. at the Depot is planned to discuss ideas for co-ordinating "A Visit to a Small Town" with an Amtrak tour from Detroit and points east.

The Depot Association plans to dedicate the Depot's Michigan Historical Marker on July 29. On July 29 the depot will be open to serve as a reception and information center as well as having planned activities. There will be brochures indicating points of interest and walking tours of the Village.

Chelsea is looking pretty slick these days. Let's show off! Join the group on March 29 at 7 p.m.

The meeting is being arranged by Marj Hepburn, of the Depot Association; Kathleen Clark of the Chelsea Area Historical Society; and Ann Feeney of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

Chrysler Decides To Move Center from Proving Grounds

The partially-completed Noise, Vibration, and Harshness testing center at Chrysler Proving Grounds has been dismantled and moved to the company's technical center.

The $15 million center may have been about one-third completed, according to a company spokesperson who wanted to remain anonymous.

"Building suddenly stopped and I think the move took everyone by surprise," the source said.

"I'm sure the township and the school district were upset when they found out about it, too. I think the company just decided the facility was being built in the wrong place."

Both Sylvan township and the Chelsea School District stand to lose a substantial amount of tax money by not having the facility here.

The technical center is near Oakland University.

The first concrete road in the U.S. was laid in Detroit in 1908.
