THESE YOUNG GIRLS DRESSED UP as old ladies and attended a sophisticated afternoon Fancy Lady Party at the home of Mary Ann Sprague last Wednesday, May 17. The girls were taken to the party by Marvin Schiller of Royalty Limo service, where they were served tea, sandwiches, petit fours, and sparkling apple juice. The girls also played fancy lady bingo, experimented with make-

Survey Shows Seniors Drinking, Smoking More, Using Other Drugs Less

Chelsea High school seniors appear to be drinking and smoking more, but using marijuana and other drugs less than they were three years ago.

Those are some of the statistics to be gleaned from a survey conducted by Chelsea High school senior Sarah Schaeffer for the school's Focus Program.

The Focus Program is essentially an independent study program in which a senior is paired with a "mentor" in the field in which he/she would like to work. Schaeffer hooked up with Dr. Tom Flagg of Eastern Michigan University, a professor of health psychology.

The surveys were given to sixth graders, high school freshmen, and seniors. They were filled out during a required class period to ensure the greatest return. The surveys were not signed and information was tabulated by a scanning machine.

The surveys dealt with more than drug and alcohol use. They touched on loneliness and depression, including suicide, pressure, exercise, and diet. Each grade was given the same set of questions, with one exception—sixth graders were not asked "in the past six months have you seriously considered suicide?" Beach teachers thought it was inappropriate.

SENIORS

For seniors, the drug and alcohol questions were compared to national averages included in the University of Michigan annual study called "Illicit Drug Use, Smoking and Drinking by America's High School Students, College Students, and Young Adults."

In every category of drug and alcohol use, statistics for Chelsea seniors were lower than the national numbers. For example, 84 percent of Chelsea seniors said they have used alcohol at some time compared to the national average of 92.2 percent.

However, this year's seniors were also compared to seniors of 1986 and in several categories their numbers were higher than three years ago.

Only 79 percent of seniors three years ago had used alcohol, 31 percent said when they drink they tend to drink at least four drinks compared to 24 percent (then, however, the basis was five drinks). However, the biggest increase was in smoking, where 13.7 percent of this year's class reported using cigarettes on a daily basis compared to 8 percent in 1986.

In all other categories, usage was down. Daily use of marijuana fell from 2 to 1 percent; alcohol use (within the past 30 days) fell from 66 to 53 percent; cocaine (ever used) fell from 10 percent to 7 percent.

Space limitations prevent printing all the results of the survey. However some key numbers follow.

42 percent of seniors said they often feel lonely or depressed, girls 50 percent, boys 37 percent.

74 percent said they feel under "lots of pressure," with girls at 79 percent, boys at 69 percent. Kinds of pressure ranged from academic (68.5 percent) to "to engage in sexual activity" (17 percent). Pressure to make money was felt by 50.5 percent. 62.5 percent said the pressure comes from "myself."

20 percent of seniors said they had seriously considered suicide in the past six months, girls 31 percent, boys 7 percent.

28 percent said they find it hard to relax or sleep.

18 percent said they sometimes drive or ride with someone under the influence of drugs or alcohol.

35 percent said they have attended school under the influence of an illegal drug.

51 percent said they often eat from the four food groups each day.

FRESHMEN

There were no comparative statistics available for Chelsea High school freshmen, so the statistics have to be judged by themselves.

30 percent of freshmen have used cigarettes and 9 percent use them daily.

53 percent have used alcohol, girls 71 percent and boys 37 percent. 10 percent said when they tend to drink at least four drinks each occasion. 27 percent have used alcohol in the past month.

12 percent have tried marijuana, and 3 percent have tried cocaine. 9 percent have tried amphetamines.

11 percent have attended school under the influence of an illegal drug. 45 percent say they often feel lonely or depressed, 64 percent of girls and 27 percent of boys.

72 percent say they're under lots of pressure. Academic pressure is tops at a 67.5 percent. "to be popular" is 47 percent. "to engage in sexual activity" is 13 percent.

21 percent have seriously considered suicide in the past six months, 30 percent among girls.

31 percent say it's hard to sleep or relax.

11 percent have driven or ridden with someone under the influence.

SIXTH GRADE

13 percent of sixth graders have tried cigarettes.

15 percent have tried alcohol and 4 percent have used it in the last month.

2 percent have tried marijuana. 2 percent have tried other drugs but no one has tried cocaine. 1.5 percent have attended school under the influence.

40 percent say they often feel lonely or depressed.

30 percent say they are under lots of pressure, with "to be popular" felt by 28.5 percent. Academic pressure and "to succeed in sports" tied at 10.5 percent. 1 percent said "to engage in sexual activity." 22 percent said friends provide the pressure.

22 percent say it is hard to relax or sleep.

6 percent say they sometimes ride in a car with a driver who is under the influence.

Schaeffer said there were a number of things she would like to have done with the survey but time didn't allow.

Memorial Day Services Are Monday at Cemetery

Memorial Day Services to honor deceased war veterans will begin Monday, May 29 at 10 a.m. when veterans, officials, school bands, and residents gather to parade through the village to Oak Grove Cemetery.

The local observance will be led by Herbert J. McKune American Legion Post No. 31. At 10 a.m. they will step off under the guidance of Parade Marshal Pat Merkel. Don O'Dell will be Sergeant of the Guard. All veterans are invited to march.

All parade participants should plan to meet at the Municipal Parking Lot at 9:30.

Color guards from the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars will lead the parade from Main St. to Park St. to East St. to E. Middle St., and into the cemetery. Following behind will be a firing squad and Chelsea veterans.

Chelsea High school band, under the direction of Bill Gourley, will play marching music for Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Cub Scouts, Brownies, and members of the Chelsea Baton Corp. Beach Middle school band, directed by Warren Mayer, will also take part.

Jim Knott will again be the master of ceremonies. The Rev. Dr. Jerry Parker of the First United Methodist church will give the invocation.

The featured speaker will be Don Cole of Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel. Title of his speech is "Risk Taker—Peace Maker." Cole served in the U.S. Army in Germany from 1957-59.

At the conclusion of the service there will be a salute from the firing squads, taps, and the combined bands will play the national anthem.

Chelsea School District To Start Asbestos Removal Program in July

Chelsea School District will spend $19,900 on the first phase of an asbestos removal program in the district's four schools. The board of education approved the expenditure at their regular meeting Monday, May 15.

According to superintendent Joe Piasecki, the bids ranged to more than $76,000 and the low bid was lower than expected.

The first phase will involve replacing the wrapping on pipe joints. Work is expected to begin July 24 and be completed by Aug. 20.

"We tried to look for a time when not a lot was going on," Piasecki said. Certified Abatement Services, Inc. of Flint was the low bidder.

The second step of the project will involve the removal of tile.

In other school board news, the district will pay $350 to Michigan State University professor Dr. Fred Ignatovich to conduct a Chelsea-area population projection.

The idea is to provide statistical information for the board's facilities committee so that more accurate projections can be made concerning building needs over the next several years. Both elementary schools and Beach Middle school are at capacity. "Our projections have been pretty accurate until recently," Piasecki said.

"We've gotten a lot of new students from the outside and Chelsea is continuing to grow."

North Elementary school will continue to use its portable classroom for at least another year as the Chelsea Senior Citizens organization has been given a year extension on its space in the building.

"If they didn't have a place to go, it could cause a serious disruption in their program," Piasecki said.

"However, next school year is absolutely the last year."

The board also approved a pilot project in Supported Education, which will involve one trainable, mentally-impaired student in the fifth grade next year.

The idea is similar to mainstreaming except that additional help will be available for that student.

The board approved a one-year leave of absence for Chelsea High school teacher Marian Williams.

The board also appointed area resident David Cooper to the Chelsea Recreation Council.

Nester and Marie Henning, DeWitt council members, Phil Boham and Richard Steele, Chelsea council members, and Marge Lotrie, DeWitt clerk/treasurer. The local tour took officials to Chelsea Milling Co., BookCrafters, Chrysler Proving Grounds, and Chelsea Community Hospital. They finished the day with dinner at the Woodshed Eatery.

Village Tax Rate To Drop One Mill

Village of Chelsea taxpayers should see their millage rates drop, although not necessarily their taxes, with summer tax bills.

Village manager Robert Stalker told council last Tuesday that millage rates should drop 1.02 mills over 1988, thanks to a combination of an 11 percent rise in the Standard Equalized Valuation of property within the district and the complete pay-off of 1989 debt service.

The rise in SEV translates to a drop of .29 mills in the general fund millage, to 11.47 mills; a drop of .1 mills in 1970 debt service, to .6 mills; and a drop of .39 mills in 1987 debt service, to 3.53 mills. The 1989 debt service dropped .24 mills.

The 1 mill levied for the McKune Memorial Library will remain the same.

The total 1989 millage rate would be 16.6 mills.

Total SEV for the village has risen from $55,589,120 last year to $61,552,250 this year, a difference of $5,963,130.

Pierce Park Has Become Painted Rock's New Home

The rock has been saved. Chelsea village council voted last Tuesday to have the rock at the corner of East St. and Harrison St. moved to Pierce Park.

The rock has been a traditional target for local graffiti enthusiasts for decades. Names, words, slogans, poems, and pictures have all been painted on it.

However, owners of the Schoolhouse Apartments, where the rock resided, said they would have the rock buried due to concerns of vandalism and the fact that the painting often takes place late at night and the painters are often boisterous.

Letters in favor of keeping the rock were written to council. Earlier this month council members Phil Boham and Stephanie Kanten said they favored keeping the tradition available. At last Tuesday's vote, village president Jerry Satterthwaite cast the only no vote.

Chelsea High school class of 1989 has promised to donate paint to cover up any offensive words that may occasionally appear.

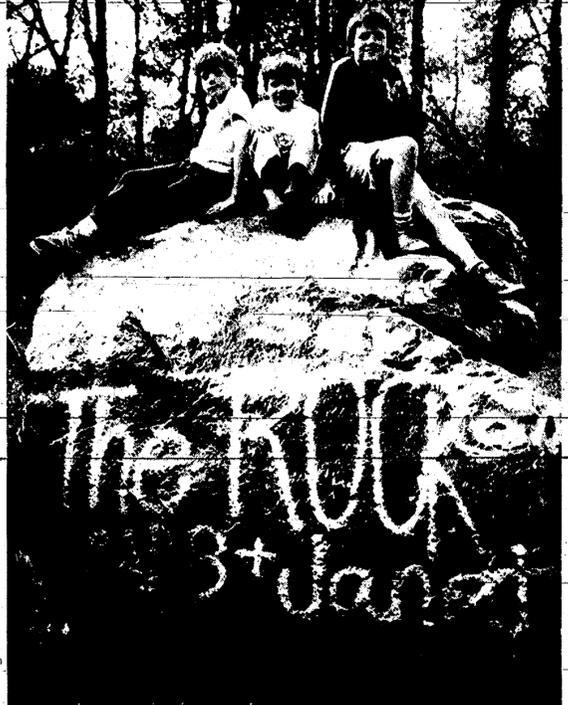

Klink Excavating offered to move the rock free of charge.

Baccalaureate Set For Sunday Evening

Chelsea High school Baccalaureate Services will be held this Sunday, May 28 at 7:30 p.m. in the George Prinzling Auditorium.

Pastor Mark Weirauch of Zion Lutheran church will be the guest speaker.

Further details were not available as of press time.

"THANKS FOR SAVING THE ROCK," read a message from "Barb and Janet," a message which reflected the feelings of many people about preserving the large rock which has carried painted messages through the years, initiated and read by Chelsea citizens. The rock was moved to Pierce Park, Saturday, May 20, from its former location on the Schoolhouse Apartments property. Some of the first kids to climb and slide on the rock after it was re-located are shown above. From left, they are Ethan Rendell, seven, Alexander Rendell, five, and Andrew Rendell, 10.

Local favorite Howdy Holmes qualified for the Indianapolis 500 race, which was run with a 10-lap speed of 206.372 miles per hour. He was to start in the middle of the seventh row, about two-thirds of the way back in the 33-car pack.

A McKernan Dr. resident was awakened early Wednesday morning by a man who was later arrested as he apparently made himself at home in the resident's kitchen drinking a soda pop and listening to the radio. Police reported that Gary Robert Vogt was charged with breaking and entering following the incident. He was also found to be in possession of a 1983 Chevrolet van stolen from Romulus.

A partial albino hen robin apparently had mated and was building a nest in the backyard of the home of Paul Schwinner living on E. Delhi Rd. in Dexter. Schwinner described the bird as being white on the back and wings with pinkish-orange breast feathers, a rarity in the world of robins.

Feminists protesting "sexist" signs had been busy painting them over in Ann Arbor and it looked as if the movement had spread to Chelsea. A sign stating "men working" had the word "men" blocked out and "people" inscribed above it.

Not complete but almost, a large group of women gathered at the home of Carole Flintoft to join their individually made colorful patches together to make one beautiful quilt. The group made the quilt for a raffle. Proceeds went toward the Cancer Crusade. The idea was the brainstorm of Carole Flintoft and Barbara Brown, just one of the many activities given by local women in an effort to raise funds in the fight against cancer.

In state regional track competition held in Okemos, Chelsea's female track stars placed sixth. Chelsea was one of 17 schools participating in the meet. Shelly Warren and the 440 relay team of Colleen Collins, Kathy Treado, Connie Pearson and Sue Frisbie placed in the regionals qualifying them for the state finals.

Mary Landwehr, Kathy Buck, and Glenn Passow were to be among those from all over the state to meet in Mt. Pleasant for the State Special Olympics. The three students of Nancy Oswald were chosen to go to the state competition as a result of regional competition held the previous weekend.

The legislation includes: —recycling market development, with bills providing for an interstate compact to promote recycled materials, a state recycling authority linking recycled product businesses with customers, and changes in state purchasing policies to encourage use of recycled materials.

—a ban on dumping used oil or other injurious liquids.

—use of money from the Clean Michigan Fund for research and demonstration projects for waste reduction.

—separation of potentially hazar-

ous batteries from solid waste disposal.

—adding container deposits to juice and tea bottles and cans.

—incentives to more convenient recycling.

—a requirement that new waste incinerators or co-generation facilities are linked with a recycling program.

—a fee increase, yet to be determined, on material sent to landfills; the fee is now $18.18 per ton while the DNR estimates landfill costs are as much as $50 per ton.

—a ban on burning and landfilling of yard waste such as grass clippings, brush and other materials which can be composted.

—a household surcharge of up to $2 per month or $25 per year for use by counties on local waste reduction and recycling efforts, including programs to support separation of waste by categories of recyclable and disposable materials.

—a requirement that convenience stores use recyclable packaging materials for certain fast-food items.

—a tax on tire retailers for use to clean up discarded tire piles and for recycling programs, and to regulate storage and management of used tires.

—a possible program of plastic recycling. The NRC had urged separation of plastic milk containers by 1990 as an incentive for such an effort.

Rep. Tom Alley (D-West Branch) said the bills assigned to his House Conservation Committee will be approved "as quickly as possible."

State Monitoring Milk After Contaminants Found in Feed

The Department of Agriculture has announced it is testing milk from 31 northwestern Michigan farms after contamination of a potential carcinogen were found in 23 instances, but Agriculture Director Paul Kindinger said chances of any contaminated milk reaching consumers were "extremely small."

The farms found to be contaminated are located in Missaukee, Osceola and Wexford counties.

Positive tests for alfatoxin were first reported in a routine milk screening test last week. The alfatoxin, which is found in cottonseed and cottonseed supplement used for animal feed, has been traced to seed imported from Cottonseed, Inc., of Corinth, Miss., and distributed by the Falmouth Co-op in Falmouth.

State-wide tests for cottonseed have turned up negative in 13 samples, Kindinger said. The department has issued an advisory to farmers that they abstain from feeding cottonseed or cottonseed meal to dairy cows until all tests are completed.

"The milk which tested positive did not reach the food chain," said Burton Cardwell, Department of Agriculture chief deputy director, "and all indications are that the state's milk supply is safe."

But Kindinger, while saying that "chances of (contaminated milk reaching consumers) are extremely small" because of the department's sampling procedures, there is "no way to guarantee" that some of the milk did not reach the marketplace.

The contamination levels in the feed is anywhere from 20 to 300-plus parts per billion, well above the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's tolerance level of 1/2 part per billion for alfatoxin.

Alfatoxin is a naturally occurring fungus that is carcinogenic in animals and poisonous to humans. Possible effects on humans over a period of time include poisoning and increased incidence of liver cancer.

Department officials said the levels found in the contaminated feed should not harm the animals.

Kinder added that department officials are still trying to figure out why only one area of the state has been affected by alfatoxin. Mississippi officials have told the department the feed in question met testing requirements before it was shipped. "We don't have all the answers yet," he said.

Mrs. G. Walworth who had been affiliated with Chelsea's public library since it was founded by the Child Study Club in 1932, had announced her retirement. Her resignation was "reluctantly accepted," according to Library Board members.

Continued safe use of the Chelsea Junior High school would require repairs and rebuilding estimated to cost $125,000, according to a survey made for the Board of Education by Holforty, Widrig, O'Neil & Levin Associates, an independent consulting engineers firm. Almost all of the improvement and modernization required was in the two oldest sections of the building, which were constructed at various times.

Ed declared, but wimmen started fixing it anyhow, and now they have got themselves in a fix. Two income families is the rule, not the exception, and when wimmen git off work they march around carrying signs on sticks griping about the next thing they're unhappy about. Ed had read where one bunch of wimmen calls themselves Friends of Animals and they're trying to stop men from hunting altogether.

Probable, broke in Zeke Grubb, they want men to stop hunting animals and go back to hunting wimmen. The way unisex and equal everything is working, Zeke allowed, men are feeling more like the hunted than the hunter on the domestic front. Farthermore, Zeke went on there's no pleasing wimmen. He had saw where another bunch is carrying signs to git laws passed to make three-year marriage contract legal. Which looks like the wimmen want men around the house, but not fer long.

General speaking, the fellers more than agreed with Ed and Zeke, they egged em on. Bug Hookum noted that most of the 27,000 volunteer fire departments in this country are short of volunteers. It ain't hard to see why, Bug declared, when you got men being pulled over which way by wimmen wanting em home, but in the yard and garden out of their way. There's just Actual, went on Bug, wimmen are using jobs outside the home fer not doing their jobs at home. He had saw where a trend is ordering in. A wife and mother works at an outside job so she can buy dishwashers and microwaves that make cooking easier, then she says she's to tired to go in the kitchen when she gits home. She decides what she wants to feed the family fer supper, she calls up and has it delivered.

And we're not talking pizza and burgers, Bug went on, but new businesses that do nothing but home deliver full meals. Bug had read where one California outfit called Resterant Express has deals with 36 eating places, and it is delivering a average of 450 orders a week. And we all know, Bug declared, that when California sneezes the hole country catches cold.

Final, Clem Webster noted that men allus talk to men about wimmen because they don't want to git em riled. Fer one thing, wimmen could vote ever man in the country out of office. And fer another, Clem said, ever man realizes, fer all the persecution he suffers at the hands of wimmen, that fer what little they eat he wouldn't be without one.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Solid Waste Package Aims To Cut Landfill Volume By 70 Percent
A 17-bill package designed to educate and give incentives for recycling and waste reduction should conservatively reduce material sent to landfills by 70 percent over the next 15 years, supporters said recently.

Natural Resources Director David Hales said no large scale single action will produce the change, but said it will take "small victories" in altered waste handling across the state.

"Solid waste is a crisis we choose to have. It is one we can choose not to have," Hales said.

Governor James J. Blanchard called solid waste disposal "Michigan's most-serious pollution threat. We must act now, and decisively, to protect the environment and public health of our citizens."

The legislation builds on a solid waste policy approved last year by the Natural Resources Commission. Currently, about 80-85 percent of solid waste goes to landfills, and the NRC goal is to reduce that to 10-15 percent by 2005. Hales said 50 percent of landfill materials are recyclable.

While the state has made little headway since the NRC adopted its first solid waste policy six years ago, Hales said a 25 percent reduction in the amount of solid waste going to landfills by 1992 is a conservative goal.

Sen. Vern Ehlers said the recycling effort "consists of small decisions by millions of people. We must offer inducements to people so they will join in." He said recycling must be made less expensive as well as more convenient through ways such as curbside pickup.

The legislation includes: —recycling market development, with bills providing for an interstate compact to promote recycled materials, a state recycling authority linking recycled product businesses with customers, and changes in state purchasing policies to encourage use of recycled materials.

—a ban on dumping used oil or other injurious liquids.

—use of money from the Clean Michigan Fund for research and demonstration projects for waste reduction.

—separation of potentially hazardous batteries from solid waste disposal.

—adding container deposits to juice and tea bottles and cans.

—incentives to more convenient recycling.

—a requirement that new waste incinerators or co-generation facilities are linked with a recycling program.

—a fee increase, yet to be determined, on material sent to landfills; the fee is now $18.18 per ton while the DNR estimates landfill costs are as much as $50 per ton.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night were lamenting the sad state of what is called domestic relations in polite company. Ed Doolittle started the discussion when he allowed that his old lady had cranked up her annual nagging campaign and she has been worrying the fire out of him about doing all the jobs around the house that she spent all winter dreaming up. He said he would hold short of calling this a battle of the sexes, but it is a skirmish of the stubborn.

Ed said his old lady in full cry sends his thinking back when God was in His heaven, when men were men and wimmen were glad of it. Wimmen took care of everthing at home and welcomed their men from hunting and fishing. She knew that what he brung back was what the family eat. He was called the breadwinner and she was known as the homemaker.

That system didn't break, Ed declared, but wimmen started fixing it anyhow, and now they have got themselves in a fix. Two income families is the rule, not the exception, and when wimmen git off work they march around carrying signs on sticks griping about the next thing they're unhappy about. And we all know, Bug declared, that when California sneezes the hole country catches cold.

Final, Clem Webster noted that men allus talk to men about wimmen because they don't want to git em riled. Fer one thing, wimmen could vote ever man in the country out of office. And fer another, Clem said, ever man realizes, fer all the persecution he suffers at the hands of wimmen, that fer what little they eat he wouldn't be without one.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Memorial Day
A Special Tribute To All Americans
★ Memorial Day — a time when Americans throughout the nation pay tribute to all those who died in the name of their country.
★ Let's also consider this national holiday — special time for each of us to honor all loved ones who have passed on. The people who may have added a special meaning to our own personal lives.
★ Set aside this day to reflect upon the joys and the love that they brought into our hearts. Let's remember them all on this Memorial Day.
With deepest respect, we pause and pay tribute to the memory of all who are cherished.

CHELSEA PHARMACY began its grand opening Monday at Chelsea Shopping Center with a ribbon cutting by one of the original founders, Charles Lancaster, who still has an interest in the business. Village Considering Alternatives For Routine Legal Services

Village of Chelsea may retain an attorney outside the village for at least some of its routine legal services to avoid potential conflicts of interest. Village president Jerry Satterthwaite told village council last Tuesday that village manager Robert Stalker was seeking proposals for alternative services from legal firms outside the village. The firm of Keusch & Flintoft of Chelsea has handled most of the legal work for years, although the firm has not been appointed the village's official legal counsel. Most of the work has simply gone to the firm on a routine basis. Other firms have been used in specialized cases, such as the village's squabbles with the Department of Natural Resources over the landfill.

The issue came to a head recently when Belser Estates developer Charles Belser was sent a letter by Stalker notifying him that two lot owners had temporarily had their zoning compliance permits suspended. Stalker made the decision after consulting with Peter Flintoft, who represents the village in most matters. However, Flintoft was also Belser's attorney, which put Stalker in an awkward position. At Tuesday's meeting, Belser accused Stalker of ignoring advice by Flintoft to hold off sending the letters. However, Stalker said last week he got no such advice. Various council members, as well as Satterthwaite, supported Stalker's actions in the incident. Also on Tuesday, the conflict of interest potential came out in another matter. Auto dealer George Palmer has begun parking new trucks in the vacated Hop-In lot opposite his dealership on Main St., which some members of council objected to. It was mentioned that Flintoft also represents the owner of that property. Council member Phil Boham openly objected to the conflicts of interest and suggested that the village consider legal alternatives. That's when Satterthwaite mentioned that Stalker was working on a proposal. "I wish (Flintoft) would have come to us and said, 'I represent too many people in town and there is too much potential for conflict of interest,'" Boham said after the meeting. Keusch & Flintoft represent the Chelsea School District, as well as area townships, as well as private individuals. "No matter what the village decides to do, everyone is going to understand what is expected of them," Stalker said.

Chelsea Police Capture Three Escapists

Chelsea police captured two prisoners who escaped from Camp Waterloo on Friday, May 19.

According to police reports, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department requested assistance from Chelsea police after receiving a call from a Sylvan Rd. resident. The woman said two men had stopped at her home and asked for directions to Detroit, saying they were lost. The men were wet and muddy.

Chelsea police arrested the men at about 11 a.m. near Old US-12 and Pierce Rd.

Chico Rodriguez, 47, of Detroit, was serving time for embezzlement and felonious assault. Donald Pillow, 46, of Edwardsburg, was serving time on drug charges.

Three other Waterloo inmates escaped on Wednesday, May 17, and were reported missing at 3:12 a.m.

Edwin Snerling, 18, Devell Lamont Adams, 19, and Gary Demmarco Wilks, 18, all of Detroit, had not been captured as of press time.

Snerling was serving time for receiving stolen property, Adams was in on drug charges, and Wilks was convicted of carrying a concealed weapon.

Lansing Company To Fence Prison

The fencing of Cassidy Lake Technical School should begin by June 1, according to state Sen. Lana Pollack's office.

The state has accepted a bid of $225,560 from the U.S. Cyclone Fence Corp. of Lansing to perform the work. It was the lowest of nine bids submitted. The company has to meet certain criteria concerning insurance and other matters before it wins the job.

Pollack's office said Labor Day is still a reasonable target for completion of the project.

Cassidy Lake is the only facility in the state's prison system that is not fenced.

THANK YOU

If a community's greatness can be measured by the love and concern of its people, then the Chelsea area has to be one of the greatest places on earth in which to live.

We are so grateful to all who gave of their time, shared of their food, and for the many flowers, also the expressions of sympathy and their prayers, in our time of sorrow of the death of Margot, a wife, mother, daughter-in-law and friend.

We are very appreciative of St. Mary's Church Parish. The Rev. Father Phillip Dupuis, the Rev. Father Joseph Rinaldo, and the Rev. Father Geromono and Sister Patricia, we thank them all for their love and support through our most difficult time.

We are so thankful to our friends of the whole community who stood in the long lines to express their love and concern of the loss of Margot. We do consider this a great tribute of sharing, and makes us glad indeed that we live in and have been a part of this caring community.

Words fail us to express our thanks for the ones who put together the beautiful floral arrangements, and to the St. Mary's church people who prepared and served the wonderful meal, also to the Staffan-Mitchell Funeral Home and their fine staff for their help in these most difficult times.

Sincerely, Thank You.

How Do You Score On Swimming Safety?

Every year around this time public safety agencies vie for the attention of America's largest sports audience, 175 million swimmers and boaters. They contend for a chance to remind us of the rules for water safety, lest we forget. Here are 10 of the most important for you to score yourself:

- 1. I know how to swim well enough to meet any emergency.
- 2. never swim alone; always with a trusted companion.
- 3. never allow a child under my supervision to swim alone.
- 4. never dive into water of an unknown depth.
- 5. never swim distances when fatigued or overheated.
- 6. know how to administer resuscitation (CPR).
- 7. stay out of the water when there is danger of electrical storms.
- 8. never rely on a flotation device for support except in an emergency.
- 9. always swim clear of diving boards or platforms.
- 10. never cry for help when I don't need it.

How did you do? Was No. 6 one that you missed? You can enroll for CPR (cardiopulmonary resuscitation) at Chelsea Community Hospital.

The 10 review questions, and others, reflect the persistent advocacy of such organizations as the National Safety Council, the American Red Cross, the National Safe Boating Council and the U. S. Coast Guard. They've done such a great job that annual drownings in America have dropped since 1975 from 8,000 to 5,300. But these devoted people are far from satisfied. They know that most of these deaths are preventable. They know that if people would just remember and obey water safety rules, thousands more could be saved from drowning.

You get an insight into what they mean, and how deeply they feel, when you consider the problem of young children and backyard swimming pools. Of the hundreds of drownings, half of them happen to children under five . . . more often than not in their own family pools.

Investigators from the U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission studied 1986 drowning and submersion accidents of children under five in home pools in Arizona, California and Florida. The aim was to document the events leading to these accidents.

Seven out of 10 of these little children were last seen in the house or near or around the pool just prior to the accident. Almost eight out of 10 had been seen five minutes before they were missed—and subsequently found in the pool. There were no cries for help.

Proper prevention begins with a four-foot fence on all sides of the pool with an access gate or door that cannot be opened by small children. If the child's caretaker must leave the pool, however briefly, the child should be taken along and the pool locked behind.

Pool covers should be completely removed when the pool is in use. Basic lifesaving equipment should be on hand—a strong, lightweight pole (10 to 12 ft.) and a circular lifebuoy with line attached.

If a swimming pool accident is intercepted in time, survival for the victim depends upon quickly restarting the breathing process. In the meantime, someone not involved in the CPR effort can call for medical assistance.

Everyone in the community should be actively conscious of the perils to little children in backyard pools. Many water accidents have been turned into rescues by neighbors and passersby.

Opportunities to Learn and Practice

There are, of course, special rules for safe conduct in larger pools that have tile decks, deep ends and diving boards. Children learn safety and discipline as they attend swimming classes in the Cameron Pool at Beach school. Instruction periods are held for all grades from third through eighth, and optionally for students in grades 9 through 12. A convenient way for the whole family to learn these rules is to take the family for swims and lessons in the Cameron Pool during recreation periods.

Children have additional, year-round opportunities to develop their swimming and diving skills as members of the Chelsea Aquatic Club. There are special periods in the pool after school for beginners ages 3-4, 5-6 and 7 and over. Swimming and diving for experienced boys and girls are scheduled at other times. For information call Jenny Jenifer after 4 p.m. at 475-1425. Alternate numbers are 475-2488 and 475-1488.

Many drownings in rivers, lakes and ponds occur within 50 feet of safety. A lifetime defense against drowning is a knowledge of how to swim well. One basic test around Chelsea is the ability to swim at least one length of the Cameron Pool, 75 feet.

For more information on swimming safety you will find the Red Cross book LIFESAVING, RESCUE AND WATER SAFETY an excellent, well-illustrated reference. Copies are available at the McKune Memorial Library.

Boating and Other Water Accidents

Accidents in small boats, mostly under 16 feet long, cause more than a thousand deaths a year. Two thirds of these are caused by capsizing or falling overboard. According to the Coast Guard, alcohol is involved in 50 percent of all boating accidents and the CG estimates that only 5 or 10 percent of all non-fatal accidents are reported.

Most of these accidents are caused by overloading the boat, improper distribution of weight, leaning over the edge, high speed maneuvering of the boat, and inattention or carelessness on the part of the operator. Even so, a majority of deaths or injuries from such accidents could be prevented by knowing how to swim or having life preservers, officially known as personal flotation devices (PFDs). There should be one for each occupant of the boat.

When it comes to home drownings, we know that more than half occur in swimming pools. One-fourth, however, occur in bathtubs and the rest is wells, cisterns, cesspools and other bodies of water. We all recognize the strict rule about never leaving a toddler alone in a bathtub. This also applies to the care of very elderly people when taking baths or showers. Someone should be nearby and on the alert. For the elderly all tubs and showers should be equipped with grab bars.

Hypothermia—The Chill that Kills

It is a scientific fact that cold water chills 25 times faster than cold air. Anyone falling from a boat where the water is 60° or below is in mortal peril unless the person escapes quickly. Immersion in cold water deprives the body of energy so rapidly that the victim's first concern should be to conserve it. A skilled swimmer wearing heavy clothing can perish trying to swim 100 yards in water near freezing. More crucial than the distance is the time it takes. Even when water is 60° it is 38.6° below normal body temperature.

The Red Cross advises you to make no effort to swim unless reaching safety is clearly practical or the alternative is something even more disastrous such as being swept by the current over a dam. If at all possible secure some kind of flotation or hand anchorage. Or trap a large bubble of air inside your outer garment and use it to float quietly on your back until rescue arrives. No effort should be made to warm yourself by means of exercise because it will only make you colder.

A parting change in subject: For many years I have been accustomed to swim 1,000 yards a day, five or six times a week, in a pond, lake or swimming pool. This has always been my favorite exercise. For those who prefer other ways to fitness, may I suggest the addition of swim workout sessions several times a year, just for safety's sake?

LIONESSE PRESIDENT MARY STEELE presented a donation from Chelsea Lioness to the Rev. Jerrold Beaumont, director of Faith in Action. Faith in Action continues its fund-raising efforts for a new facility in conjunction with the Chelsea Seniors.

Spaulding Receives Funding From Skillman Foundation

For the third consecutive year Spaulding for Children, a Chelsea/Detroit-based agency which creates permanent families for children with special needs, has received a grant from the Skillman Foundation for the organization's model Post Adoption Services Program. The $60,000 grant brings to over $200,000 the total amount awarded to this Spaulding program from Skillman since 1987.

The Post Adoption Services Program serves adopted children and their families in the Wayne county area. Most of the children are black, have multiple disabilities and are at risk for family disruption. The Skillman Foundation grant provides the basis of support for Spaulding to accomplish Foundation grant provides the basis of support for Spaulding to accomplish three major program objectives:

- 1) To help keep families intact by offering educational and therapeutic support services to adoptive families
- 2) To increase community involvement in the delivery of post-adoption services
- 3) To increase the expansion of post-adoption services by developing a model for other agencies to initiate a similar program.

Spaulding for Children also announced that they will initiate a State Task Force comprised of members of the Michigan Federation of Private Child and Family Agencies to study the need for ongoing post-adoption services and to investigate alternative funding sources.

"Our goal is to maximize parent and community involvement and to set in motion a model for other agencies to build on our success," said Judith McKenzie, executive director of Spaulding for Children. "We appreciate the continued support of the Skillman Foundation and applaud their efforts in the area of family permanence."

BLACK GOLD

Caviar describes the eggs, or roe, of sturgeon. But not just any sturgeon will yield caviar. International Wildlife magazine reports only three sturgeon varieties found in Russia's Caspian Sea produce what gourmets consider caviar. And they're not small fries. Spawning sturgeon have been caught weighing up to 1,800 pounds. These big fish can yield more than 500 pounds of caviar.

MEMORIAL DAY

A time to pause in tradition and tribute

On this solemn occasion we proudly pay tribute to our honored dead . . . and most especially express our thankfulness to those who gave their last full measure of devotion for our country, on the fields of battle. Now, as we are enabled to pause in respect and gratitude, we observe Memorial Day in the tradition of our great nation . . . and we feel privileged to be a part, and to take part, in all that has contributed to our precious freedom.

34 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, May 24, 1955— Three downtown-Chelsea business places were in the process of doing extensive remodeling. These included Gambles, where a 20 x 60-foot basement showroom was nearing completion; Chelsea Bakery and the store directly south of it which were undergoing complete transformation; and Chelsea Drug Store, which was being modernized by installation of a new aluminum front with a wide expanse of glass showing the interior of the store.

Judith Ann Gilbert, Chelsea High school senior, had been awarded a scholarship in the School of Education at the University of Michigan. The award was made by the Ann Arbor Alumnae Club of the university on the basis of character and citizenship as well as on the student's high school scholastic record and the result of a competitive written test.

The Bulldogs beat Milan, 3-1, in a well-played ball game. Chelsea scored first in the second inning as Gary Packard singled home Bob De-Fant who was safe on an error. Bruce Hoffman gave up six hits, struck out 10 and walked three in registering his sixth victory of the year.

Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31, American Legion, had completed erection of attractive metal signs at all entrances to Chelsea cautioning motorists to drive carefully and protect the children. The signs were erected as one of the Legion's community service projects with Charles Spencer and David Strieter assigned the responsibility of their placement.

KEN UNTERBRINK has been selected "Knight of the Year" by the Chelsea Knights of Columbus Council 3092. Unterbrink has been a member of the Knights for 21 years and is known as "Mr. Bingo" among his peers for his efforts at co-ordinating Sunday night bingo at St. Mary's school. He is deputy grand knight and is often asked to perform functions in the absence of the grand knight. He also serves as chair of the membership retention committee. Grand Knight Larry Kranick called Unterbrink a "Knight's Knight," and said his untiring efforts are exceeded only by the generosity in his heart. Senior Law Day Scheduled For June 3

Washtenaw Women Lawyers Association and Washtenaw County Bar Association are sponsoring their second annual Senior Law Day on Saturday, June 3. The event, which is one of the few held nationally, will be held in the Washtenaw County Courthouse at the corner of Huron and Main Sts., in Ann Arbor. The hours of Senior Law Day 1989 are from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m., with registration and sign-in starting at 9:30 a.m.

Senior Law Day 1989 is a program of free information, a panel discussion, and four courtroom dramas tackling topics of particular interest to seniors. The aim of Senior Law Day 1989 is to enable seniors to learn about the courts and the law, meet informally with judges, lawyers, and legislators, and to be able to ask questions and to receive information about legal issues of particular concern to seniors in a relaxed and friendly atmosphere.

Saturday morning will begin with a sign-in at 9:30 a.m. and an opportunity to enjoy free coffee and muffins while meeting people and looking over the information provided by local groups and service organizations. The panel discussion will feature prominent attorneys talking about planning for disability, wills and probate issues, and selected legislation that seniors should know about.

Later in the morning, realistic courtroom trials dealing with several issues of particular concern to seniors will be held. The trials will feature judges, attorneys, and seniors as actors in the actual circuit courtrooms of the county courthouse. This year's topics include guardianship and alternatives to guardianship, crimes affecting seniors, a personal injury trial, and the dilemma of stopping medical treatment.

Each of these trials will be repeated after the free lunch so that participants may attend more than one courtroom drama.

Registration is limited and may be done by writing Arlene Shock at the Washtenaw County Probate Court, Washtenaw County Courthouse, P. O. Box 8645, Ann Arbor 48107, or by calling Ms. Shock at 984-2476.

Faith In Action Loses Appeal

Chelsea's Faith In Action wanted to squeeze out four more parking spaces, but village council said no.

Faith In Action is building a new headquarters on the campus of Chelsea Community Hospital. It will also contain the Chelsea Senior Citizens Center.

The Rev. Jerrold Beaumont, on behalf of the social services organization, asked the village zoning board of appeals for a variance to cut the setback requirements for the new building from 20 feet to 10 feet, to allow four more spaces behind the building.

However, residents on the adjoining property objected to having the FIA parking lot so close to their property, claiming it would erode the value of their property.

Council member Stephanie Kanten made the motion to deny the variance on grounds that it didn't constitute a hardship case.

TELL YOUR DENTIST IF YOU HAVE A HEART MURMUR!

Q. On my last dental visit the dentist had me fill out a health questionnaire. One of the questions had to do with having a heart murmur—why is that important? I have had a slight heart murmur since I was a child but my doctor says not to worry about it.

A. Your doctor is probably right. Most heart murmurs have little effect on your overall health. However, certain types of heart murmurs, those with an organic cause, require special precautions when having dental work.

Heart murmurs are caused by a disturbance in the flow of blood through the heart. Many people have a heart murmur as a child and some women develop a murmur during pregnancy due to the increased workload on the heart. For the most part these are termed "functional" heart murmurs and are of little consequence. Other murmurs may be the result of some damage to the heart valves like that which can result from rheumatic heart disease, and others are caused by mitral valve prolapse or a "floppy" heart valve. These "organic" heart murmurs concern your dentist for the following reasons:

Everybody has bacteria present in their mouth and saliva. Whenever you have dental work done including routine cleanings, there is usually some type of bleeding or hemorrhage from your gum tissues. The result is that some of the bacteria in your mouth find their way into your blood stream. If there is a disturbance of the flow of blood through your heart then little areas of stagnant blood can pool, sort of like the backwater in a stream. These stagnant areas are a perfect place for bacteria to congregate and multiply and can result in a very serious heart infection called bacterial endocarditis. The bottom line is that the American Heart Association has recommended prophylactic antibiotic coverage for dental work for patients with these types of murmurs and certain other conditions including prosthetic heart valves or congenital heart defects.

If you are one of these patients then as a preventive measure your dentist will prescribe a small dose of penicillin or erythromycin, usually one dose before your dental appointment and one dose after in order to stop any complications before they start. If you have any questions about the need for such premedication ask your family doctor and don't forget to alert your family dentist!

Let's Go

Bulldogs!

Chelsea Baseball Takes League Championship

Chelsea Bulldogs won their first Southeastern Conference baseball title since 1984 with a third place finish at Saturday's SEC tournament.

Chelsea, which won the regular season with a 10-2 mark, needed only to win a single game in the tournament.

And it took two tries to accomplish the feat.

The Tecumseh Indians scored six times in the top of the seventh inning to take a 9-3 win in Chelsea's first game of the tournament. The Bulldogs earned a bye in the first round, and Tecumseh upended Pinckney in their opener.

The Indians were shut out by Milan in the championship game, 7-0.

The Bulldogs went on to whip the Lincoln Railsplitters in the battle for third place, 11-1, and take the conference championship.

"I am real proud of these guys," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton of his Bulldogs.

"At the beginning of the season our goals may have exceeded our expectations. But the kids came through and reached their goals. They have had an excellent year."

Doug Wingrove improved his record to 7-0 against Lincoln in the five-inning contest.

Catcher Junior Morseau had a pair of hits for three RBIs.

Chelsea scored three times in the first, once in the second, four times in the third and three times in the fourth.

Morseau's double was the big hit in the first, and his hit scored a run in the second.

Kyle Plank had an RBI single in the third, and Jude Quilter and Brandon Murrell each had singles in the fourth.

Welton admitted his team played poorly against Tecumseh and that Morseau, who pitched, deserved a better fate.

Chelsea gave away three runs on some sloppy fielding early and had to fight back.

The defense had problems again in the seventh.

"I guess what bothered me the most is we didn't swing the bat well and we had been hitting well," Welton said.

In non-conference action earlier in the week against a conference opponent, Chelsea whipped the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 6-3, in a pre-district qualifying game.

Chelsea goes on to play Mt. Morris this Friday in Mt. Morris.

The Bulldogs led throughout the contest, picking up single runs in the first, second, and third innings, four in the fourth, and one in the fifth.

Jeff Prentice had a run-scoring double in the first, and Wingrove matched him in the second.

The fourth inning featured hits by Matt Forner, Kerry Plank, and Jude Quilter.

Wingrove singled in Mark Larson in the fifth for the final run.

In other non-conference action, Brighton kicked Chelsea in a double-header on Tuesday, 13-6 and 11-1.

Brighton took a 10-0 lead after three innings in the first game to cruise to the win.

Quilter was 3-3 with a walk to lead Chelsea.

Rob Clem and Shawn Castleberry pitched the second game. Prentice had a pair of hits.

Chelsea was 22-11 before last night's action.

KERRY PLANK lays down a perfect sacrifice bunt as Chelsea lost 9-3. However, the Bulldogs redeemed themselves with a win over Lincoln, which gave them the SEC title.

The track team ended the dual meet season with a 92-45 loss to the Pinckney Pirates on Tuesday, May 17.

Tecumseh Tops Bulldogs For SEC Softball Title

For the first time in recent history the Chelsea Bulldogs are not Southeastern Conference softball champions.

The Bulldogs, who have tied for or won the title outright over the last eight seasons, were shut out by the Tecumseh Indians in the SEC Tournament championship game, 1-0, last Saturday in Milan. The teams had tied in the regular season with 11-1 marks.

So Chelsea finishes second. "We threatened several times, but couldn't get the key hit when we needed it," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"It was a great game to watch but we came up a bit short. Tecumseh is a fine team and deserved to be champions. We'll just have to try to regroup for the district tournament."

For the second time in three meetings this year, Tecumseh's Kris Russell provided the big blow, this time a run-scoring triple in the first inning off starter and loser Jenni Smith. Russell's home run, also off Smith, stopped Chelsea the first time the teams met late in the regular season.

Smith allowed four hits, struck out eight, and didn't walk a batter, a performance that will win most games.

The Bulldogs, however, couldn't hit Tecumseh ace Kim Kurzyniec, who tossed a three hitter, giving up a pair of singles to Shannon Losey and a single to Amy Thomson.

Chelsea reached the championship game with a 9-2 defeat of the Pinckney Pirates.

Smith threw a one-hitter, struck out 13 and walked one in the rain-delayed contest. Both Pinckney runs came in the top of the seventh.

Smith's sacrifice fly gave Chelsea a 1-0 lead in the first.

A three-run error gave Chelsea a 4-0 lead in the second. Laura Unterbrink, Christy Petty, and Thomson had all reached on hits.

A passed ball scored one run in the fourth.

Chelsea's final four runs came in the sixth as a bases-loaded walk to Losey scored one run, and consecutive singles by Easton, Smith, and Laura Unterbrink each scored a run.

Heather Neibauer, Lisa and Laura Unterbrink, and Smith each had two hits in Chelsea's 12-hit attack.

In a non-conference game at home last Thursday, Lisa Unterbrink got her first start of the year on the mound and blanked Ypsilanti 11-0 on a four-hitter.

"Lisa pitched very well in her first start of the year," Clarke said.

JV Softball Team Wins Three More

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity softball team improved their record to 22-3-1 with victories over Fowlerville and Ypsilanti last week.

The Bulldogs swept a double-header from the Fowlerville Gladiators, 9-2 and 18-6 on Tuesday, May 16 at home.

Colleen Scharphorn struck out 10, walked seven, and allowed just three hits.

Chelsea scored seven runs in the first on a double by Sarah Musolf, and singles by Carrie Flintoft, Heather Pulley, Jennifer Teare, Christine Burg, and Kelly Cross.

Chelsea scored their final two runs in the fifth on a walk, single by Scharphorn, and three wild pitches.

Musolf pitched the second game, allowed seven hits, and struck out seven.

Chelsea scored in every inning but the third as they took an 8-0 lead after two.

Scharphorn had two hits for the game, including a three-run homer. Jenny Bobo had three hits.

"We didn't hit as well as usual, but walks and wild pitches helped a lot," said Chelsea coach Ken Sullins.

Flintoft and Cross tossed a combined five-inning no-hitter as Chelsea had no trouble with Ypsilanti last Thursday, 26-0.

Chelsea pounded out 21 hits, including five by Teare, three by Bobo, and two each by Losey, Musolf, Kathy Issel, Pulley, and Carrie Vargo.

The Bulldogs scored 13 runs in the second inning as they sent 19 batters to the plate.

Disbro, 800 Relay Qualify For State B Track Meet

Chelsea Bulldog girls track team finished seventh out of 17 schools in Saturday's Regional Meet at Hillsdale.
Dexter won the meet with 86 points and runner-up Columbia Central had 68.
Chelsea, who scored 33 points, had two state qualifiers: Danica Disbro, who was second in the 100, and the 800 relay of Disbro, Leisa Schiller, Jeanene Rossi and Anne Steffenson, who bettered the additional qualifier time in their event.
Disbro struggled a bit in her preliminary heats, but was out of the blocks like a shot in the 100 final and finished second to Tammy Whitten of Three Rivers. Both runners were timed at :13.0. It was the first time Disbro, a senior, has qualified in an individual race.
"Danica has done a lot for this team, and has been a leader for four years" said coach Bill Bainton.
We were pleased to see her qualify. She has worked hard for this," Disbro also finished third in the 200.

DANICA DISBRO

Bullock also won the 3200 and was second in the 800. Grau was second in the 800 in 2:42.5 in her first appearance in that race this season. Mignano was third. Smith was third in the 3200. Amy Carley was third in the 100 hurdles in :17.8, a personal-best, and Becky Erskine was third in the 300 hurdles.
Rossi was second in the 100 and took the 200 in :27.9. Richardson was second and Heather Hamilton third.
Anne Steffenson won the 400, equaling her season-best time of 1:03.1 and Martina Street was second with her top performance of the year, 1:08.9.

In the second game, Chelsea again fell behind early, 4-1 in the second inning, before scoring nine runs over the next two innings.
Ferry pitched all seven innings and had 12-hit support from his teammates.
The fourth inning was the big one for the Dogs as they scored seven times to break the game open. Tom White's triple brought home two runs. Kelly Beard, Alex Hammerschmidt, Vince Dunn, and T.J. Hackworth each had an RBI in the inning.
Stephens hit a three-run homer in the sixth to put the game virtually out of reach.
"We played well all day and came back well in the second game," said Chelsea coach Jim Ticknor.

In the second game, Chelsea scored 15 runs in the first four innings for a mercy-rule win.
Chelsea was the beneficiary of numerous walks and pass balls. They had just six hits for the game, two by Brian Bell.
Ben Hurst picked up the pitching victory as he struck out eight and allowed three hits.

At first singles, Craig Maynard won his match, 6-2, 6-0.

Chris Wilson was victorious at number two, 6-2, 6-3.

Eric Frisinger won by default at fourth singles.

The Bulldogs dominated the doubles as well.

At first doubles, Jason Richardson and Eric Worthing won 6-0, 6-1.

John Collins and Shawn Capper took second doubles, 6-2, 6-2.

Ben Manning and Chris Haugen won at third doubles, 6-1, 6-0.

Chelsea finished the season at 6-6.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar
 Often when people enjoy seeing something in nature, they want it to stay just the way it is so they can enjoy it again and again.

With living communities, however, often the only way to keep them the same is to temporarily change them.

Remember when the wildfires were raging in Yellowstone National Park and the debate was going on whether to let the fires burn or to try to control them? The argument for letting the fires burn was that it would clear out aging forestland and renew the forest and wildlife habitat. Without that renewal, the character of the forest and its wildlife would change. To keep it the same, then would require a seemingly drastic short-term change.

Something similar happens in Michigan, though on a much smaller scale, every spring. Temporary wetlands, ponds and puddles in March, April and May host a fascinating array of wildlife ranging from nearly microscopic invertebrates to ducks.

One of the most obvious of the smaller creatures in spring ponds are fairy shrimp, also known as "sea monkeys." These shrimp-like invertebrates become very abundant starting soon after the ice melts in March. By May, they may be as long as two inches. Then the ponds dry up in early summer and they're gone until the next spring.

A closer look may reveal tiny tadpole shrimp and clam shrimp. I'll never forget my first experience as a city boy finding what appeared to be miniature clams no bigger than my little fingernail in the puddles in a rutted dirt road one spring. I was amazed to find these tiny clam-like organisms several miles from the nearest major body of water. (Later I found the same creatures high in the Blue Ridge Mountains.)

These same ponds and wetlands are very important to tree frogs, toads and salamanders because they mate and lay their eggs in the water and the eggs hatch and develop there.

The survival of these small animals depends not only on the pond's being there in the spring, but also on its drying up in the summer.

Some species that lay their eggs there are so well adapted to the wet and dry cycle of these temporary wetlands that their eggs may require the drying of the pond. Without it they don't survive.

All of the creatures that make use of temporary wetlands and ponds would be in trouble of another sort if those ponds became permanent. If water were present all year round, these areas would support aquatic predators such as water boatmen, damselflies and dragonflies, and fish. These could greatly reduce or even eliminate many of the other puddle dwellers.

If you want a demonstration of the abundance of life in these short-term wetlands, all you need to do is scoop up a jar of water on a warm May day and examine it in good light. You'll probably see water fleas, aquatic mites and, with a little luck, some fairy or tadpole shrimp. Swish a large aquarium net through the water, and especially through any flooded grass, and you're sure to catch some of these creatures. Collect some of the bottom and you may scoop up some clam shrimp too.

Bring some pond water indoors, put it in an aquarium, give it some light and let it warm up, and you'll see an impressive concentration of plant and animal life.

Of course, you don't have to do this to appreciate the population explosion going on in a nearby pond. Simply step outdoors on any mild May evening and you'll hear the frogs. The spring peepers are the earliest. They usually begin their spring song of "peep, peep, peep" in March or early in April in southern Michigan. The chorus frogs chime in next. The most distinctive of these produces a rising trill that sounds like a fingernail running along the teeth of a plastic comb. Listen closely and you might hear the "chuck, chuck, chuck" of the tree frog. A little later, you can make out the constant trill of the common toad.

Much of the frog chorus on these spring nights comes from these vernal ponds. If these ponds existed all year round, predators would eliminate many of the frog and toad tadpoles.

The principle of changing to stay the same is true of many of the things we enjoy in nature—meadows, wetlands and forests. Periodic disturbance keeps them from evolving into something else. We don't have to have a forest fire to see this principle in action. We can see it in the vernal ponds that are part of nature from your backdoor.

Wrong Number Given for NRA

In last week's edition of The Standard a news feature accompanying Will Connelly's Inquiry column contained a verbatim plea from the National Rifle Association. It described the dire consequences if proposed laws now before Congress should succeed in banning semi-automatic guns used by millions of law-abiding sportsmen. Then it urged readers to call 1-900-448-2000 to have their protests forwarded to lawmakers in Washington.

The free phone calls were a great idea, except for one thing. Michigan Bell does not accept calls for 1-900. That number belongs to another phone company such as ITT or MCI.

For sportsmen and other concerned citizens who wish to protest the proposed laws banning semi-automatic hunting and target guns (S. 386 and HR 1190) write to these Michigan legislators:

The more education a woman has, the greater likelihood she will seek employment, reports a fact sheet prepared by the Women's Bureau of the U.S. Department of Labor.

According to March 1987 data, among women 25 to 54 years of age with 4 or more years of college, 82 percent were in the labor force. Among women of the same age group with less than 4 years of high school, 70 percent were in the labor force.

Beach Girls Track Team Finishes With a Flash

Beach Middle School girls track team concluded their season with decisive victories over Lincoln, 113-10, on Monday, May 15, and over Dexter, 99-24, on Wednesday, May 17 ended season with a record of 8-1, a Tecumseh Relay Championship and a runner-up finish at the Jackson Northwest Relays.

"It was a pleasure to work with this group of girls," said coach Ann Shaffner.

"They were talented and dedicated."

The eighth graders contributed greatly to our success and should make immediate contributions to the high school athletic programs."

Lisa Monti led the group of fine distance runners. She broke a school record (3 school records—800m, 1600m, 3200m) or lowered her own each time she ran. Her 3200m record time of 11:42 against Dexter was the latest. Katie Migneno broke the 55m hurdle school record held by Cherie Alexander (1983, :10.2) running a :10.15.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On May 17 this column contained a letter from Floyd Boyce, which in several ways confused and distorted the efforts being undertaken to combat Eurasian water milfoil on North Lake. He correctly reported that a meeting was held on April 5, 1989, in which an overwhelming majority of residents in attendance voted to undertake (and pay for!) the application of the herbicide 2,4-D to areas of North Lake infested with E. milfoil. He also reported that he spoke out against the treatment. Indeed, he did so at some length, especially considering that he afterward acknowledged that he had collected his sole source of data only a couple of hours before the meeting.

The expert limnologists at the meeting were patient in dealing with his questions, as were the residents present at the meeting. After that, the large group of property owners who attended the meeting voted for chemical treatment and also voted for voluntary "self-assessments" at the rate of $100 per waterfront property. Floyd Boyce and two others voted against treatment.

(A follow-up letter to all residents, reporting the results of the meeting and including a "mail ballot" on the treatment plan, produced three additional dissenters and a goodly number of additional supporters. A substantial majority of all North Lake waterfront owners have given their support.)

Was Floyd being a courageous and concerned citizen of North Lake when he spoke out and voted as he did? My wife, who chaired the North Lake Protection Association Lake Study Committee, assumed that he was, and she wrote him a letter to that effect shortly after the meeting. I want to share the main contents of that letter with readers of this column, because it says a lot about the way the E. milfoil problem on North Lake was approached, and also because it reveals a lot about my wife that would never be guessed from Floyd Boyce's letter: Dear Mr. Boyce:

I want you to know I appreciated your courage in voicing your concerns about the use of pesticides and voting in opposition despite an overwhelming majority doing otherwise. The committee's recommendation to go with treatment was made after much searching through the public library and the University of Michigan Natural Science Library, and numerous conversations with state, county, university, and local health, environmental, and water-resource officials and scientists, and officers of other lake associations. All this after years of my own strong feelings for protection of the environment.

Over these months I've spent many sleepless hours at night because of this problem. It continues to be a very difficult decision; no matter what we do there are risks. We know that if we do nothing, the problem of E. milfoil is highly likely to become a major one in North Lake, bringing about a clamoring for action to restore the lake. At that point with a much greater percentage of the lake infested, control would require season-long harvesting or much larger quantities of 2,4-D. We are hoping that the course we've chosen will greatly inhibit the milfoil in this early stage and that we will develop a strong enough association to be really effective in the long term for careful and co-ordinated lake management protecting the watershed much more than we are now, avoiding haphazard individual chemical treatment, enabling us to go with a harvesting program if necessary, and taking advantage of government aid.

I encourage you to continue looking into this problem, let us know when you find important information, and join the committee if you like. (But I warn you, it is painful!)

Virginia Bachman

Now I ask you, readers of this column, do those sound like the words of someone eager to dump chemicals indiscriminately into North Lake? The irony of Floyd Boyce's letter, as one of our neighbors and board members pointed out is that Ginny Bachman needed more convincing than anyone that the 2,4-D treatment was the best available alternative. Certainly the Floyd Boyce alternative ("Let's suffer a little with this weed until natural decline lessens its impact on us.") would not work, because many of the residents simply would not put up with it. This weed in North Lake increased from an estimated 10 acres last fall to about 25 acres this spring (it does grow during the winter!); and if left alone it would choke off large portions of North Lake. But before that happened, a lot of individual property owners would undertake treatment of their own frontage, and the over-all chemical input to North Lake would be far more extensive, and much less carefully controlled and coordinated, than the approach decided upon by the property owners working through their lake association.

Boyce's letter referred to that association as "a committee calling itself the North Lake Protection Association..."—implying some sort of pick-up team that just gave itself a name and set itself up for business. In fact, the North Lake Protection Association has been in existence for many years. It is designed to represent all residents of the lake; it meets annually (and more often when necessary); it elects board members representing each area of the lake; it collects dues; it prepares a newsletter (the Laker) from time to time. In short, it is a typical lake association. At the 1988 meeting of the NLPA, concerns about lake quality, including the spread of E. milfoil, led to the creation of a Lake Study Committee. The members of that committee met a number of times, selected a team of consultants to survey the lake last fall, and studied the report (which recommended the treatment of E. milfoil with 2,4-D). We then searched for the best company to carry out such a treatment (if approved), and presented our recommendations to the NLPA Board of Directors. That led to a mailing to all residents, and the general membership meeting on April 5th. Only after all those steps, culminating in votes by the membership, was the decision made to treat the E. milfoil in North Lake.

Is the 2,4-D treatment going to eradicate every last shred of E. milfoil? Floyd Boyce implied that when he wrote "Imagine 3 years of 2,4-D in our waters under a chemical program and then one dirty boat prop at the public launch to start this whole cycle again." In fact, it was pointed out several times at the meeting that E. milfoil is not likely to be completely eradicated; it will probably require small amounts of spot treatment each year to prevent a resurgence of growth. But the amounts of chemical involved are likely to be much smaller than the usual levels of dosage in recent years by individuals acting to eliminate nuisance weeds on their own lake frontage areas. (We hope to introduce harvesting in North Lake as an alternative and preferable way of dealing with other nuisance weeds; however, because E. milfoil spreads by fragmentation, we are strongly advised against harvesting until the milfoil is under control.)

Now what about the approximately 3/4 ton of 2,4-D that Floyd Boyce said would be introduced into North Lake this year? In fact, almost all of that is simply an inert ingredient (clay). Only 3 percent of the material is active ingredient, so 3/4 tons turns out to be 45 pounds of 2,4-D. We expect a good deal less will be necessary next year, and still less the year after that.

One of the most annoying and frustrating aspects of Floyd Boyce's letter is that these and other instances of distortion or misinformation could have been cleared up with a single phone call. But he never accepted my wife's invitation to join the lake study committee, or share information. His only effort was the letter in this column. And what did that letter accomplish? It produced a total of two phone calls, one from a North Lake resident who had not attended the meeting and no longer had either of our recent mailings (my wife then sent her duplicate copies), and one call from a Chelsea resident (my wife gave him a clearer picture of the North Lake situation than he had gotten).

Chemical treatment of a lake is not something which should be undertaken lightly, or on the basis of little information. The point I am trying to make is that a great deal of study and effort went into the decisions with respect to North Lake. We do not expect North Lake. We do not expect everyone to agree, and we respect those who differ. But we respect them more when they make the effort to get their facts straight and to work together with their neighbors to solve community problems, rather than making an occasional splash at a meeting or in the newspaper. Much work remains to be done, and we continue to welcome those who would like to help.

Jerry Bachman, Co-Chair
North Lake Protection Assn.

To the Editor,

This is concerning the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, a landmark in Chelsea and very much a part of our community.

On Thursday, May 11, 1989, there were several nurses assistants who walked off the job, this was not done in haste—we tried working things out with no avail. We were taking a stand on what we felt was right, and that is: the care of the residents in nursing on K-1. With working short and call-ins, the residents on K-1 have not gotten the proper care they need and deserve.

The results of the walk-out, four people were discharged. The four that were discharged had tried to see the administrator, Judith Williams, to talk of the problems. She refuses to meet with them and avoids everyone involved. These four loved the residents and gave them the best care possible. I feel these four nurses assistants were discharged unfairly. All we ask is to be heard and to let the administration know the problems we face so we can take care of the residents at the CUMRH.

The purpose of this letter is for the community to realize there's a problem and a great need to take care of our elderly. We can learn a lot from these dear people. If you have a loved one at this retirement home or at another one get involved, make sure they're getting the proper care. They deserve it!

I'd also like to take this opportunity to thank the Director of Nursing for all her help and support. Hang in there Tanya—you can make a difference!! Janet Carpenter.

To the Editor:

As a concerned member of this community I feel a need to address any young people who may be contemplating suicide.

The essence that is YOU will be sorely missed by all those persons close to you whom you will leave behind. Your mother, father, sister, brothers, grandparents, aunts, uncles, and friends will have a void that no one else in this world would ever be able to fill.

To say that you are unique is an understatement. No one else has your particular way of looking at this world—your sense of humor, your talents (many of which may yet be undeveloped), and yes, your set of problems. But, do not despair over your set of problems thinking no one else has any. Almost as a prerequisite to being human, we were each dished out a set of problems. The only good thing to be said about problems is that they fluctuate from time to time, and from person to person, so that when you really look around, you can always find someone who has more problems than you do.

Everyone makes mistakes, so don't be afraid of them. Mistakes are simply errors in learning, so profit from yours. Believe me, help and understanding are available to you. Please seek it.

If you cannot talk to your family or friends, there are dozens of clergymen in our area, as well as teachers, school counselors, and Suicide Prevention: 996-4747.

My heart aches from the number of recent suicides and attempted suicides. YOU are wonderful. Please give yourself a chance to work these problems out. WE need YOU!

A Caring Person.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teenager who has been reading your column for as long as I can remember. It's the part of the paper that I grab first. There are times when I think you are square or just plain goofy, but deep down I know you make a lot of sense and I respect what you say.

While back my parents split. Usually when this happens, the kids are torn up because they don't know which parent to go with. In my case, neither one wanted me.

I became depressed and decided to kill myself. Then I read a letter in your column about teenage suicides. It changed my mind.

I know a lot of people don't like it when you rerun a letter, but I think this one is important and some kids may have missed it. Will you please print it again?—A Fan Forever in Boston.

Dear Forever: You bet. Here is the letter and my response with no apologies. Thanks for asking.

To the Editor (of the Arkansas Gazette in Little Rock): Every year we lose several young people in our community to suicide. We keep hoping it will stop, but so far it hasn't. I hear it is a national epidemic. Every 90 minutes a teenager in this country commits suicide. This message is for every youth who is considering ending it:

You haven't seen the world that exists outside your family. Soon you will be on your own and then you will understand what is important and what is not important.

What you don't know is that 15 minutes after you decide to kill yourself, you might have felt better. Or two hours later, or two days or two years.

What you don't know is that you are stronger than you think. You can find another girlfriend, or you can stand being shamed more than you realize. Failing in school or getting into trouble with the law may be painful, but you can get over it. You can fix it. Don't be killing yourself over events that you may barely remember 10 years from now. What you don't know is that there is nothing romantic or mysterious or "deep" about killing yourself. It is a god-awful mess that you can never understand until you have kids of your own.

What you don't know is that suicide is sneaky and spiteful and filled with anger. If you are thinking about suicide, you are furious with somebody. You can be furious without killing yourself or thinking you need the punishment of death.

What you also don't know is that suicide is forever, and nobody, not your parents or your doctor, can fix it. You won't be around for the funeral. And you won't be coming back.

So get smart. Join the Marines. Go to California. Find a therapist. Lapse into sickness. Become mad as the dickens. Do your time in jail. But get off the suicide kick. It's a dead end.—Tom Heisler, Wynne, Ark.

Dear Tom Heisler: That was a sensible piece you wrote—and in language kids can relate to. I hope somebody listens. Nothing in this world causes more grief and suffering than the suicide of a child.

Suicide is often an irrational act, an immature response to disappointment, fear and anxiety. It can also be punitive. If these kids would just cool it and look ahead a week or a month, they might live to see the best days of their lives.

To the Editor,

I would like to extend a community thank you to the following persons for the role each of them played in saving "The Rock," formerly located on the corner of East St. and Harrison St. and now located at its new resting place—Pierce Park:

The Chelsea Village Council who voted to save "The Rock"
John Klink who donated his time and equipment to relocate "The Rock"

Dave Bulson who donated his time to relocate "The Rock."
This "geological wonder" has been a long-time source of entertainment for many Chelsea residents for many years via the traditional painting of "The Rock." At one time, however, someone decided it would also be fun to paint the sidewalks, the street and eventually the buildings near "The Rock." It was the aforementioned artwork that led to the controversy and near destruction of this harmless, non-violent, perfectly legal form of amusement.

Now that "The Rock" has been relocated and saved for the enjoyment of future "Picassos," let's not abuse it again or we may lose it forever.

Barbara J. Fredette.

MEMORIAL DAY 1989

To the Editor,

Memorial Day is a time to remember, but how quickly we forget. Our ability to forget is perhaps more developed than our ability to remember, yet we say "I will never forget, I will always remember."

One of the most important happenings for us to remember is the purpose of the recognition of "Memorial Day" each year. It came into being back in 1888 when General John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic issued his famous order to honor the memory of departed comrades. Many of us recall Decoration Day which was always on May 30th but the National Holiday Act of 1971 changed everything and many veterans organizations have petitioned Congress to restore the May 30th date for Memorial Day. To date only 14 states have adopted the change, however Florida and Michigan are not one of those states.

To forget rather than remember our departed comrades deprives them of the honor they deserve and we find that we have forgotten the price they paid for us to remain a free people in a free land.

Our ability to remember will determine the future of us as a people and of a nation. Wars are being fought at any given time on our planet. To work every day of our lives for the vision of a "World Without War" is the best tribute we can offer our honored dead.

What are your plans for Memorial Day? Will it be some gigantic sale, fishing, boating or just having a good time or will you take the time to remember. We all call the earth our home, and we have been given the responsibility for future generations.

BEDTIME DAY: The two-year-old classes at Chelsea Children's Co-Op Nursery recently enjoyed "Bedtime Day." Free Farmer's Tax Guide Booklet Offered By IRS

IRS Publication 225, "Farmer's Tax Guide," is available by writing or calling the Internal Revenue Service. The free tax guide covers such topics as farm business expenses, tax credits, sales of farm land, and soil and water conservation expenses. Written in easy-to-understand language, the guide can be a valuable resource at tax time as well as a handy reference all year. It contains a sample return with step-by-step directions on filling out not only schedule F, "Farm Income and Expenses," but also other forms and schedules dealing with tax situations common to most farmers. The guide contains a calendar of important tax dates, tips on methods of record keeping and accounting, and other useful topics. The first page, "Important Changes for 1988," alerts readers to important changes in the tax law. The "Farmer's Tax Guide" was prepared by the IRS with the assistance of the Extension Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Extension Service of the State Land Grant Universities, and the Regional Farm Management Extension Committees. It is available by using the order blank in the IRS tax return package or calling IRS toll-free, at 1-800-424-3676.

Hospital Participates in National Tissue/Organ

Chelsea Community Hospital has joined hospitals and concerned individuals throughout Michigan and the United States in recognizing the need for tissue/organ donation. "Break the Silence" a campaign to increase public awareness of the need for tissue/organ donation continues with the declaration of National Tissue/Organ Donor Awareness Week, April 23-29. Currently, in the state of Michigan, more than 750 people await a kidney transplant, 300 await a cornea transplant and over 1,000 people are waiting for a bone or tissue transplant. Recent Gallup Polls have shown that most Americans have heard of tissue transplantation and know that tissues can be donated. Very few, however, understand how the donation process works. Hospitals facilitate tissue/organ transplantation in co-operation with the Michigan Tissue Bank. In 1988, Chelsea Community Hospital assisted with six tissue/bone donations. One of Michigan's newest donation laws is, Required Request. The law provides that the next-of-kin to a family member who has expired and has healthy organs or tissues must be asked about donating those organs and tissues. Chelsea Community Hospital along with the Michigan Tissue Bank urges families to discuss their wishes concerning tissue/organ donations before a crisis occurs.

TWO OF THE TOP-DONORS OF TIME to Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary are Ann Wood (4,000 hours), and Ralph Fairchild (10,793 hours). Not pictured are Vera Briston (7,595), and Jean Schneider (7,012).

MHA Report Questions Rural Hospitals Survival

The "very survival" of many smaller and rural hospitals is questionable, according to a new Michigan Hospital Association report, which found 78 percent of the hospitals losing money on patient care.

The findings came in the annual MHA "Status of Michigan's Smaller and Rural Hospitals," an overview on the health of Michigan's 108 smaller hospitals. "Smaller" hospitals are those with fewer than 100 beds, and most are in rural areas. These hospitals, which serve over 1.5 million people, play a vital role in maintaining the rural health system, according to the report, yet they are "facing greater pressures and problems than ever before."

One reason cited for the continuing strain on smaller hospitals was severe reimbursement shortfalls, particularly through the Medicaid and Medicare programs. Medicaid shortfalls are a problem for all state hospitals, a recent study conducted by a national health cost expert found that the average hospital is paid only 79.5 percent of its costs under Medicaid programs. Medicare underpayment, another state-wide problem, was found more severe for smaller rural hospitals, due the greater number of elderly patients in rural areas. Eighty-three of the hospitals studied, or 78 percent, lost money on patient care in 1987, the latest year for which data is available. This is up from 73 percent in 1986. The report also found smaller hospitals have greater problems and less flexibility in attracting personnel, and in coping with Michigan's medical liability climate.

A key part of the study was a survey of 170 hospital executives, medical staff, trustees and civic leaders. Financial problems were high on the list of smaller hospital ills cited. Forty-eight percent of respondents said their hospital's financial problems had worsened over the past year, and over 60 percent said their net patient revenues had fallen in the past five years.

The financial problems of smaller hospitals have grown so serious as to destabilize the smaller hospital structure, according to the survey. Respondents estimated that eight of Michigan's small hospitals would close within a year, and 19 within five years. These estimates were higher than those made in the 1988 MHA survey. Perhaps most disturbing, 16 percent of hospital executives predicted their own hospital's closure within five years.

Copies of "The Status of Michigan's Smaller and Rural Hospitals" are available from the Michigan Hospital Association.

Chelsea Chamber Hosts First Annual Meeting

On Thursday evening, May 18, the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce hosted its first annual Membership Meeting, along with its regular Business After Hours social gathering. There were more than 50 members and guests who heard President Jaclynn Rogers outline the various activities of the Chamber. In addition to the president's report, Jim Holefska of BookCrafters, Inc., the 1989 Chairman of the Chamber Golf Outing, announced the Sept. 22 date and reminded the guests to mark their calendars.

Bill Nilan, chairman of the Concert in the Park committee, promised another series of well done music events at Pierce Park. The first concert is Thursday, June 29 at 6:30 p.m. The banners will again be displayed up and down Main St.

Jackie Mallard of Care/Choices/McAuley Health Plan gave a brief background of the formation and affiliation of this health maintenance organization. Since Chamber members are eligible to join this plan, she announced the open enrollment period which is now until June 10.

The major focus of the meeting was the announcement of the radio promotional campaign being sponsored by the Chamber in conjunction with the public relations department at the Chelsea Community Hospital. Pat Kubany and Lenore Matloff presented the plan to the members, along with a sample taped message of the "Meet Me in Chelsea" campaign. The official color which will be featured in the T-shirts and promotional materials, is a teal/emerald-green/blue—unique and distinctive. The committee would like to see the t-shirts be sort of the trademark of the promotion, worn by lots of business owners as well as residents.

The copy department at WPZA-AM 1050 and WPAG-FM 107.1 will write material to match the features a particular business wants to highlight. The hope is that Chelsea's restored attractiveness and the small-town-but sophisticated atmosphere will, with some clever promotions, entice folks from around the county who will want to "Live, work, play, or getaway."

Businesses or organizations who wish to investigate the possibility of participating in the ad campaign, may contact Ann Feeney at the Chamber of Commerce office, 475-1145.

Downtown Merchants Plan Sidewalk Sales

On May 4, Chelsea Downtown Merchants met to discuss this year's Sidewalk Sale Festival. The festival will take place on Friday, July 28 and Saturday, July 29.

The organization is planning a bigger and better festival this year. Entertainment will include clowns, magic shows, musical presentations and more. There will also be community sponsored events such as the crimemobile, sight screening and cholesterol screening.

More arts and crafts will be brought in and organized by Marcy Stump. Church groups are being asked to participate in an ice cream social or similar event.

John Mitchell is once again organizing the annual antique car parade. It was agreed that the festival chairman, Fred Model, send a cover letter to Chelsea industries and businesses asking for donations to make this year's Sidewalk Sales a festival for the entire community.

TIFFANY CARPENTER was one of two ringmasters at South school's First Grade Circus last week. Without her, the show could not have gone on.

New Film Slated Sunday at Free Methodist Church

"Love thy neighbor as thyself."
It's the second greatest commandment in the Bible, and one of the hardest to obey.

Mike Adkins discovered the power of love when he grudgingly obeyed that command and became a friend to his "unlovable" neighbor, Norman. The humorous and moving story of their unusual relationship is told in the new film presentation "A Man Called Norman," which will be shown Sunday, May 28, 6 p.m. at the Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7665 Werkner Rd., Chelsea.

In this release from Focus on the Family Films, Adkins describes how he befriended Norman—a misfit who had been rejected by everyone in town. As their relationship grew, Adkins discovered that the road to recovery was a two-way street with very tangible rewards for both men. The film chronicles the unusual friendship—sometimes humorous, sometimes touching—between two individuals whose lives have been changed forever.

Most of the film was shot before an audience of 5,000 people in the Chicago area. Also included is footage filmed on location at a major league baseball game in St. Louis and at Norman's house in the coal-mining community of West Frankfort, Ill. "Mike Adkins' stories about Norman are hilarious and heartwarming," said Producer Steve Stiles, "but the film also contains a knockout message that will change lives."

3. To claim your prize, simply present your sticker to any teller at your local Trustcorp, Ann Arbor office. Stickers must be presented by June 2, 1989.

ICE CREAM SOCIAL: Lexa Knight, first grade teacher and member of the Ice Cream Social committee at South school looks over game prizes with (back row) Ben Keynhout, Jamie Stimpson, Jesse Hallman, (front row) Joie Elkins, Kate Huehl, Jennifer Rosentreter and Tiffany Carpenter. NOELLE NEIDERMEIER studied adhesives for her Enrichment Triad Project at South Elementary school this year. The fifth grader didn't even come unglued during her live presentation before a capacity crowd in the school cafeteria in which, among other things, she dunked a doll's head in glue. Above, she points to the stickiest substance in her display.

MAKING PAPER: Mrs. Van Blaricum's second grade class at South school is learning about trees. Each child adopted a tree from the nature area surrounding the school. Characteristics, bark rubbings, drawings, collecting nuts and leaves were observed and recorded by the children. The class paired up and each child had a chance to be a teacher and a listener about their adopted trees. The recycled paper in this picture was made from old paper the children saved in their classroom. Children appearing in the picture, above, left to right, are Lily Sacks, Amanda McConeghy, Phillip DeMontigny, Dana Meza and Shelly Cameron.
