ONE HUNDRED-NINETEENTH YEAR—No. 3

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 14, 1989

ELECTION WORKERS Kathleen Arnett, right, and Memarie Walter made sure the ballots stayed in the boxes Monday during school district elections at Chelsea High school. Voters denied a Headlee Amendment waiver and returned two incumbents to the school board.

School District Voters Deny Headlee Waiver, Re-Elect Incumbents

Local voters told the Chelsea School District it will have to tighten its belt next year as a proposal to waive the provisions of the Headlee Amendment was defeated Monday, 707-568.

The Headlee Amendment was designed to protect property owners from rapidly rising assessments by adjusting the millage rates downward when the increase in assessment is higher than inflation. By passing the Headlee waiver, voters would have allowed the district to collect its full authorized millage.

It was a rare defeat for a millage issue in the district.

However, voters overwhelmingly approved a 5.8 mill renewal, 791-490.

An $8.6 million bond issue proposal for the Washtenaw Intermediate School District was also defeated locally, 683-593, but passed over-all in the county. WISD said the average assessment would rise .22 mills.

In the school board election, incumbents Ron Satterthwaite and Anne Comeau easily fought off a challenge by John Ruhl. The vote was Satterthwaite, 863; Comeau, 804; and Ruhl, 442. Six write-in votes were cast for Joe Fowler while Fred Holdsworth, Ray Coulter, and Brian Gunderson were each a write-in candidate on one ballot.

Comeau, the current board president, was elected to a third four-year term while Satterthwaite was elected to his second term.

The defeat of the Headlee waiver means the district will receive about $488,000 less than it would have with its full operating millage of 38.52 mills. This year's levy will be 36.42 mills. The tentative budget for 1989-90 is $10.1 million, a seven percent rise over 1988-89. Assistant superintendent

Fred Mills said the budget was prepared with the assumption that the waiver would be defeated.

"Obviously we are disappointed that (the Headlee waiver) did not pass," Mills said Tuesday morning.

"I think the people did not understand it fully. There were a lot of little things that were confusing about the issue. People have to feel comfortable about what they are voting on."

Comeau also said she believes voters did not understand the proposal.

"I don't know if we didn't try hard enough to explain it," Comeau said.

Mills said it's possible that the district could hold a special election in August, either to propose another Headlee waiver or to ask for the equivalent, 2.1 mills, in additional millage.

Administrators had scheduled a meeting for yesterday afternoon to discuss the scope of the cuts that would be needed to offset the $488,000. Superintendent Joe Piasecki said it's possible some vacant teaching positions will not be filled.

"In retrospect, perhaps we should have gone after additional mills rather than (the Headlee waiver)," Piasecki said.

Piasecki said that perhaps some people believe the state is going to bail out the school districts, including Chelsea, with a tax reform package. "I'm not sure any reform is going to have any effect on the Chelsea district," Piasecki said.

"The people in Lansing are not as responsive to education as they used to be. I have been told that education used to be the top priority but now it is third priority behind prisons and social services."

The Headlee override was shot down in every school district in the county where it was proposed.

"I guess that should tell us all something," Mills said.

In other school district news, the Chelsea Education Association, the local teachers union, ratified a new contract Monday night. However, the school board, as part of its normal process, decided to wait until at least next week before taking a vote.

Joe Beard, a member of the CEA negotiating team, said there was "strong support" for the contract, which has already been approved by the Washtenaw Livingston Education Association.

Details of the contract have not been revealed by negotiators.

Both Piasecki and Mills said the contract will not be affected by the provisions of the Headlee Amendment.

"It's a good contract for the district and it was negotiated without animosity, which to me is important nowadays," Mills said.

The board also officially named Wayne Welton the district's new athletic director and director of physical education.

"I think he will be good in the position," Comeau said.

"He is a fine person and has great rapport with the kids."

Welton's salary has not yet been set.

According to Piasecki, Welton's physical education teaching position at the Chelsea High school will probably be filled by moving existing staff. Due to low counts in the technology program, Jim Tallman will probably become a physical education teacher.

Construction To Start On DDA Parking Lots With Paving Program

Chelsea Downtown Development Authority should see its first project get off the ground late this week or early next week as the village begins its summer paving program.

DDA's new long-term parking lot behind the fire department on W. Middle St., as well as improved parking facilities next to the Chelsea Depot are scheduled to be started along with village paving projects on W. Middle St., Dewey St. and Jackson St. All the projects were bid in a package. Barrett Paving won the contract at a total cost of $48,490.36.

About 30 new long-term parking spaces are scheduled to be built on Chelsea Milling Co. land behind the fire station. Curbs will be installed, the lot will be paved and lined, and lighting will be installed. When the project is completed the village plans to change most of the remaining parking downtown to two-hour spaces. DDA, and the village, hope that downtown employees, as well as visitors to the courthouse, will use the long-term lot, leaving the rest for shoppers.

Work at the depot will include paving the parking areas on both sides of the building. In addition, there will be a small section of storm sewer installed, as well as sidewalk and landscaping. The Depot Association is also picking up some of the cost.

The DDA's total cost for the projects, which include sewer work, landscaping, lighting, and other parking improvements, is estimated at $75,000. The village has already donated $28,000 from its parking fund and DDA is borrowing $47,000 from the village until summer taxes are collected.

Village manager Robert Stalker told village council last Tuesday that the DDA will be collecting more than it initially thought from its two-mill special assessment on downtown property. Consequently, the loan will be paid back within six years.

The village plans to pave W. Middle St. from Wilkinson to Hayes St. Curb, gutter, and drive approaches will also be replaced. A final course of asphalt will be put down from Hayes St. to Main St.

In addition, the entire length of Dewey St. is scheduled to be capped, with some curb work, and an 18' by 200' section at the east end of Jackson St. will be paved over.

Deadline for completion of all the paving is July 17.

DNR To Hold Hearing Tonight On Dredging Near Joslin Lake

A public hearing will be held tonight, Wednesday, at Lyndon Town Hall at 7 p.m. concerning dredging activities by a local farmer near Joslin Lake.

The hearing has been called by the Department of Natural Resources as part of the process that farmer Todd Lee must go through to obtain a permit for the dredging.

The DNR, according to Richard Schramm, district representative of the DNR's Land and Water Management Division, called the meeting for the purpose of hearing comments on the project. DNR will not answer questions about it, Schramm said.

Lee, who began the dredging without a permit, was stopped by conservation officer Craig Wales. Area residents have said they are concerned the work, supposedly undertaken as a method of crop irrigation, will affect the depth of Joslin Lake. Schramm could not say if that is a valid concern. Lee will reportedly be on hand to explain the project. Schramm said that as part of the process he will conduct his own on-site inspection.

BB Gun Toter Shoots Windows

Someone shot out a car window and two house windows with a BB gun on Saturday, June 3.

According to Chelsea police reports, the rear window of a car parked on Sycamore St. was vandalized between 7 p.m. and 11:55 p.m.

After 10 p.m. a home on Main St. had two front windows shot out. They were valued at $400. Police found BBs at the scene.

Schramm said that Lee initially applied to dredge a canal 10 feet deep by 20 feet wide, but that was considered to be "death trap" by the DNR due to the steep bank that would be necessary to create it. DNR suggested a width of 60 feet.

Also, as part of the application and notification process, Lee listed the State of Michigan and another governmental body as adjacent landowners, which was a factual statement, Schramm said. However, his department obtained the names of two other landowners from the plat book. As it turned out, those owners were dead.

"It was really a comedy of errors," Schramm said.

"It makes it look as though he gave us the names of dead people, but that was not the case."

Village Plans To Hire New Assistant Manager

Village of Chelsea plans to hire an assistant manager this summer.

Tuesday, June 6 Village council authorized manager Robert Stalker to begin advertising the position in various trade magazines such as the Michigan Municipal Review and the Michigan Society of Professional Engineers. Stalker said last week he'd like to begin interviewing by August.

Stalker plans to seek someone with civil engineering or city planning experience. Former assistant manager Lee Fahrner was a civil engineer.

"Due to the workload which the village government deals with, the employment of an assistant village manager is justifiable," Stalker wrote in his regular report to council.

"With the growth pressure currently found within the village, planning or engineering skills would be of great benefit. I would expect to pay an annual salary of $28,000 to $36,000 depending upon experience and professional skills or certifications."

Stalker also said he plans to review the resumes of people who applied for his position to see who might be qualified.

Stalker attached a four-page job description, to his report outlining the responsibilities of the new person.

The new assistant would report directly to Stalker. He or she would supervise all department heads and have the authority to issue reprimands.

Some of the assistant manager's duties would include advising the manager, performing liaison with governmental bodies, assisting in the purchase of goods and services, preparing correspondence and records, preparing grant applications and administering grant programs.

Guard Watches Ornament Theft

A security guard at Chelsea Community Hospital watched a young man steal a hood ornament from a car parked on the hospital grounds, Monday, June 12 at 2:58 a.m.

The guard was able to give an accurate description of the thief and police traced the getaway car to an 18-year-old Dexter-Pinckney Rd. boy, who may face charges in the incident.

providing staff support to village boards and commissions, and attending various meetings. Someone with an engineering background would also have numerous engineering duties.

Stalker said enough money was included in the village budget to pay about half a year's salary for a new assistant.

Also in his report to council, Stalker recommended (and council supported) that administrative assistant Barbara Fredette's position be reclassified to administrative services co-ordinator/assistant.

"I believe this title... is an accurate reflection of the duties which are currently being performed and expectations for future responsibilities Stalker wrote.

With the change, Stalker suggested the position be given the status of department head.

Fredette supervises the village's clerical and accounting staff. She will also act as deputy village treasurer and clerk.

CURB WORK has finally begun at Belser Estates off Freer Rd. on the eastern edge of the village. It has been a long process for developer Charles Belser, who began working on the development nearly two years ago. Village council recently told Belser that his development agreement with the village would not be amended to allow him to bury some sewer line at a shallower depth.

STREET REPAIRS continue in the village along W. Middle St. The village plans to begin its annual paving program this week or next week. This portion of W. Middle St. is getting new curbs and driveway approaches.

Eventually W. Middle St. will have an entire new surface all the way from Wilkinson to Main St. The paving program will also include a new parking lot behind the fire hall.

Due to several questions about public safety, the cost of fireworks and the cost of liability insurance, the American Legion decided not to put on a Fourth of July fireworks display in Chelsea. According to American Legion Commander Don Doll, the major concern was spectator safety.

A special meeting of the board of trustees of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea was held at the Community Hospital and grants totaling $2,000 were approved. The trustees voted unanimously to provide a grant of $1,000 in "seed money" to assist the Chelsea Substance Abuse Task Force in its initial operations.

Incumbent Anne Comeau and newcomer Ron Satterthwaite were elected to four-year terms as trustees on the Chelsea Board of Education. Clara Smith also made a strong showing as a write-in candidate.

Young writers Anne Stephenson and Stephanie Wagner accepted a $50 savings bond from Herbert Pearson of the Chelsea Lions Club for their part in designing a cover for the club's calendar. Anne and Stephanie worked together on the project, which began as a classroom art assignment for teacher Judy Parker. The assignment was to depict "What I like about Chelsea," and they drew Beach Middle school, their school.

Wholesalers Give Up Claim To Unclaimed Deposits

Beverage distributors and wholesalers backed off from a bill giving them the first $12 million in unclaimed bottle deposits, supporting a substitute the House adopted to divide whatever money is available to retailers, substance abuse programs and environmental cleanup efforts.

The bill (HB 4704) is intended to counter the drive by the Michigan United Conservation Clubs to put most of the money to environmental programs and some to retailers, but its fate in the House remains uncertain even with the changes.

As the bill was reported by the House Liquor Control committee earlier in the month, beer, wine cooler and soft drink wholesalers and distributors would have divided $12 million, and anything in excess of that amount would be split evenly between retailers and environmental efforts of the state.

Supporters of the MUCC drive estimate as much as $40 million may be kept in unclaimed deposits.

As the substitute for HB 4704 moved into place for final passage, hazardous waste cleanup programs would receive 60 percent of all unclaimed deposits, the Office of Substance Abuse Services within the Department of Public Health would receive 15 percent; and retailers would receive 25 percent.

Patrick Laughlin, lobbyist for the Michigan Beer and Wine Wholesalers Association, said, "As far as we're concerned, this is a donation. We believe that it's ludicrous for all this energy to be tied up with an issue that's really not as significant as other environmental issues," he said.

A memo to House members said "it would not be in the best interest of our industry or the state" to enact the bill in its original form. Fairness is not always a political reality. Legislative timetables and political considerations have led us to conclude that if we wish to avoid the draconian measures being proposed by the MUCC . . . now is the time for action.

Meanwhile, MUCC officials said their petition drive to seize all the unclaimed deposits for the state, mostly for environmental programs, continues to gain momentum.

Assistant Executive Director Richard Jameson said signatures have been obtained from 72 of the 83 counties.

The group hopes to amass 300,000 signatures by Oct. 10 when the petitions must be filed; 191,726 valid signatures are required to put the issue on the ballot.

The bill would accumulate the unclaimed deposit money for 10 years, thereafter using 80 percent of the earnings on the fund and the annual sums for solid and toxic waste programs and 20 percent for retailers to offset their costs.

Officeholder Expense Fund Rules Approved

Regulations on Officeholder Expense Funds—those separate accounts many officials have to cover expenses "incidental to holding office"—were approved by the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules on Wednesday.

The 10-1 vote caps an extended debate over setting tighter controls on the OEF accounts, sparked in 1987 when dozens of officials were notified of "errors or omissions" in their annual reports and some had used OEFs to make personal loans or to profit from interest on the money on deposit.

Only Sen. Ed Fredricks (R-Holland), who opposes OEFs in general, voted against the rules.

Phillip Frangos, director of the Office of Hearings and Legislation for the department, said the rules "fill the void. At least they provide general standards and boundaries and give us an enforcement tool which we didn't have before."

He said the rules essentially reflect the standards and customs which have evolved over the past 12 years.

The rules establish categories of activities which are incidental to holding office, including such things as office furnishings, communications with and assisting constituents, costs to attend conferences and events, travel/lodging/meal costs, charitable contributions, contributions to ballot question committees, continuing education, non-campaign polling, membership fees.

It also sets standards for the secretary of state to disapprove expenses.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers were wondering Saturday night at the country store how many parents in cities in this country know where their children are. We have got to the place in to many places, Zeke Grubb allowed where we expect our public schools to look after em all the time.

Where there's a family need, Zeke allowed, the schools have been called on to meet it. Some children weren't getting breakfast at home, so schools started serving it. Some were having to go home to a empty house, so schools set up after-school school. Some run wild at home and don't know how to behave at school, so the schools set up special classes for em so they won't disturb the rest of the students.

Now that school's out, Clem went on, there's talk about what a waste it is fer schools to stand empty all summer and about how we ought to have year-round school to get the most out of our investment. Zeke was of a mind all the push fer this kind of economy comes from working parents and precious little from teachers. Furthermore, it's coming from poor working parents, because them that can afford to are lining up Junior and Sis fer a different camp ever week. Ever time you pick up a paper, Zeke allowed, you see where a new camp has been set up fer jump rope or hop scotch or somepun.

Keeping in mind budget squeezes most local Governments are in, declared Bug Hookum, it ain't no wonder more of em are falling back on parents to be parents. Bug had saw where a woman in California recent was charged with failing to be a mother fer her son that was running with a gang and getting in trouble. Wisconsin is starting to use an old law about parents having to support and be responsible fer their unmarried children through the teens.

And Federal law, fer another instant, allows eviction from public house of hole families if one member uses or sells drugs. Bug said this will stand only til some civil rights outfit makes a federal case out of it, but it does show that Governments have started looking to parents fer help with family problems.

You would think, said Clem Webster, that fer all the trouble children can be, folks would catch on to what causes em. But ever June is as full of weddings as the last, Clem noted, and fer all the lifestyles that get an the attention, marriage still is the situation most likely to lead to children. It's like young people ain't been paying attention, and they still figger matrimony is the state to be in. Clem said he allus hears that a bachelor is a feller that ain't made the same mistake once, but he takes note that them telling him are victims that didn't take their own advice.

The fellers were full agreed that marriage is a natural condition. Josh Clodhopper, that does more listening than talking, said that in light of all the trial and tribulation in the world, it's easy to lose sight of what's right. Josh said a solid family is the bedrock of a solid community, a solid state and a country with the best yet to be.

Josh got Ed Doolittle's vote, but Ed went on to complain that the groom is gitting in the same fix as the bride, so men ought to get more attention in wedding writeups.

Incidental, I mentioned Ed's point to my old lady, and she was agreed that most wedding reports sound like one hand clapping.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Because OEFs may accept corporate contributions and candidate campaign committees may not, the rules require the candidate committee to pay for expenses of a fund-raiser in which money is raised for both accounts when corporate contributions are accepted for the OEF.

The rules also set guidelines for dissolution of the funds.

The joint fund-raiser provisions were the latest hang-up in rules first submitted for committee approval in November, and the final language is a compromise from initial sections prohibiting joint events.

Rep. Michael Griffin (D-Jackson) said he was pleased with the final version of the rules.

Legislation applying IRS definitions to the OEFs was passed by the House last session but it died in the Senate.

Secretary of State Richard Austin had requested the bill after getting nowhere with his repeated pleas to abolish OEFs.

Antiques Returned But Suspect Eludes Police

A West Bloomfield man who allegedly stole two antiques from a Chelsea store last Saturday escaped the custody of a Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department deputy who had stopped the man in Manchester.

The proprietor of the Chelsea store noticed an antique planter and pitcher missing from her store after she let the man inside while the store was closed.

When she noticed the items missing she telephoned the Manchester store because the man had asked directions to other nearby antique shops.

About half an hour later, the owner of the Manchester shop called to say the man was in the store. The sheriff's department was called and a deputy eventually questioned Kenneth C. Ponagajba of West Bloomfield.

The man, who was driving a rental car, managed to elude police. However, the stolen antiques were seized when police made the stop.

MichCon Retirees Senior Spectacular Set Saturday

The MichCon Retirees Club will present its seventh annual "Senior Spectacular" for area seniors on Saturday, June 17, at 1:30 p.m., at the Michigan Theater in Ann Arbor. Admission is free for all area seniors, although tickets are required and may be obtained at area senior centers or the Michigan Theater Box Office.

Always a popular event, the Senior Spectacular has attracted more than 1,200 people each year. In response to the overwhelming success of last year's "Vaudeville Today," the MichCon Retirees have developed a similar show this year. Two performers, O.J. Anderson and Gemini, will be welcomed back. Delighting the audience with his witty style and wonderful sense of humor, O. J. will once again act as the emcee for the day. Sam and Las Slomovits, the Gemini twins, will perform in their unique style featuring their amazingly blended voices, a host of instruments and many new songs.

New this year to the "Vaudeville Today II" program will be Tom Saunders and Surf Side Six. The Dixieland Jazz band has become an institution in the Detroit-Windsor area, playing 13 years at the Presidential Inn in Southgate. An accomplished cornetist, Tom Saunders is also much in-demand in the jazz community as a solo artist.

An appearance by the Ann Arbor Chapter of Sweet Adelines will complete this year's Senior Spectacular. The award-winning Sweet Adelines have appeared throughout the Ann Arbor area, and recently headlined a concert at the Power Center.

Also playing a part in the Senior Spectacular will be Ann Arbor's favorite talk show host Ted Huesel from radio station WAAM. Broadcasting live from the Michigan Theater Lobby, Huesel will be interviewing seniors during the event.

Adding to the entertainment will be well-known organist John Lauter playing the Michigan Theater Barton Organ.

Free tickets, transportation and refreshments will again be part of the day's event. Transportation to and from the Michigan Theater from designated points will be arranged by the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority.

Tickets, bus schedules and more information regarding the Senior Spectacular may be obtained from most area senior centers, or by calling the Michigan Theater at 668-8397.

Council Corrects Benefits Problem For Sandra Weber

Chelsea Village Council moved quickly last Tuesday, June 6 to correct an oversight that could have denied the widow of the former village manager medical benefits.

A resolution passed by council on Jan. 17 extended medical benefits to Sandra Weber upon the retirement of her husband, Fritz, who was scheduled to take a disability retirement June 1. Although the Webers were not mentioned by name, the resolution was intended specifically to address their situation. One criterion was 20 years of service to the village.

However, Weber died May 26, before his retirement, which could have ruled out those benefits under the wording of the Jan. 17 resolution.

According to the June 6 resolution, Sandra Weber will be entitled to "medical insurance equivalent to the benefit provided spouses of non-union salaried employees of the village until she qualifies for coverage under Medicare, at which time the village will provide her with a Medicare supplement insurance, if necessary, to provide her with medical insurance coverage equivalent to that provided to spouses of its non-union salaried full-time employees provided she is not receiving medical insurance or Medicare insurance supplement from some other source."

At the same time, the village got rid of another potential problem by rescinding the Jan. 17 resolution altogether, which will deny the coverage to any other non-union employee who happens to meet the criteria. Some village officials were worried that if the village provided those benefits to non-union personnel it would become a bargaining chip in the next contract talks for union workers.

Suicide, Grief, Are Focus Of Community-Wide Meeting

About 450 people attended a community-wide meeting at Chelsea High school last Monday, June 5 that dealt with the issues of grief and teen suicide.

The meeting, called by superintendent Joe Piasecki in response to the several tragedies that have hit the Chelsea community since last fall, was attended by parents, staff, and students, many of them Chelsea High school students.

"Over-all I think the meeting was positive and those who attended left with helpful information," Piasecki said.

Free Tree Pruning Guide Offered By Arbor Day Found.

How a tree is pruned in its first few years of life will affect its shape, strength and even its life span.

An illustrated, easy-to-follow guide called "How To Prune Young Shade Trees" has been prepared for homeowners. It may be obtained free of charge by writing the National Arbor Day Foundation.

The How To Prune guide includes step-by-step illustrations showing how proper pruning in the early years of a tree's life can save money in the long run and result in safer, more beautiful, healthy, easy-to-maintain trees.

This valuable booklet is filled with illustrations showing you how to make a pruning cut... how to prune for desired form... how to strengthen your tree by removing certain trouble spots... when to leave temporary lower branches, and when to cut them.

The booklet even shows how to hold a pair of pruning shears and how to make pruning cuts at the proper angle.

You'll learn how to shape and guide a shade tree when it's young so that it's tall, straight, strong, and healthy when it's old.

The design of the booklet makes it easy to browse through to pick up tips. You'll discover why tree paint isn't necessary, even on large cuts... how to select and care for pruning tools... how to prune according to the tree's function.

Richard Schneider with four fellow students at Michigan State College and a chaperone, left to begin a unique experiment among migrant workers on the west coast. The five planned to become migrant workers in the northwestern part of the country, principally Washington, Oregon and the northern part of California. With this experience they hoped to learn first-hand problems that the workers face.

Davy Crockett was at the Chelsea Public Library and children of the community were invited to come in and see him and register for the summer reading program. When five books had been read, the reader would be given a "b'ar" or raccoon to be identified as his own. The "b'ar" or raccoon would go along with Davy as he "followed the sun."

Secretary of Labor Elizabeth Dole has proposed a major new regulation to protect an estimated 5.3 million workers against the AIDS and hepatitis B viruses and other blood-borne pathogens. The proposal was made on May 23, 1989.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

We loudly applaud the actions of the Administration of the Chelsea United Methodist Home to fire four nursing assistants for walking off the job. It is very difficult to imagine that these people would want us to believe that they care about the residents. In fact, the nursing floor on which they worked is quieter and people are doing their job for a change. Employees like the four that walked off are the kind that keep things in an uproar and give homes a bad name. It is about time someone did something to eliminate those kinds of employees from the Chelsea Methodist Home.

Four Nursing Assistants That REALLY Care.

Mr. Editor:

Through the last 10 years or better, some things have developed which by nature have weakened the age old belief that "Father is head of the family," and "Father knows best."

Things like Equal Rights for Women, have diminished the role of this uniquely special person. Lack of prayer life, or expressive open practice of faith has taken its toll. Endless demand of this materialistic society we rub elbows with, all coupled together are the reasons.

Thank heavens for the extra special day, June 18, 1989, we call "Father's Day," to honor and focus on this extraordinary person. Father, had such an important role helping God give us our Gift of Life. Dad, this is your "Place in the Sun."

Science has proven the fact that as a child in the womb we hear. In that remarkable miraculous growing process we then are aware of the outside world before we are born. So, it is no wonder that a father's voice is no strange sound to us, but a familiar one which takes the form of a person as we know him. The love ties between father and child are formed right from the beginning of conception.

Right from the start Dad you're a very extraordinary hero. Our own "superman." You're a mountain of strength, and somehow there is no need to be afraid when you are near. Oh, how much your children want to be like you! You are the child's ideal person. Someone he wants to copy the rest of his life. As a very wise person has put it, "Mother is the Court of Appeals, and Father is the Supreme Court in the Family."

Sometimes we put Papa on a pedestal in our mind, and then just because he too is a human being with faults and shortcomings, our perfect picture develops cracks in it, and we become somewhat disillusioned. It is a child's love given to Pa, without understanding the real reason for dimming glow of their "glowing light," that reaps a change of heart for Pops and even a lasting cure.

How blessed too, are those children who share a very special and unique relationship with Daddy for you were chosen from many to be loved through adoption. What a priceless experience is yours. Perhaps, Mr. Editor, the following words say it best.

GOD'S REFLECTION A FATHER
A Father is God's gift to children
To be His eyes, His ears,
His hands, His feet,
To be gentle yet firm;
Always with love.
God gave Fathers
A speck of His Courage,
A measure of His patience,
A dash of His wisdom,
An ounce of His Knowledge
Adding a few human faults, and weaknesses for humility.

God gave Fathers,
Warmth of smile to show:
Pride, Love, Happiness, Gratitude.
God even placed tears
In a Father's eyes,
To be used when needed,
For the tough times of
"Growing pains."
He gave Father an Endless sense of humor.
God taught Fathers how to pray,
Not just with words, but,
With the way they live their lives.
"Father," to God Himself
We cannot give a Holier Name.
One of Life's greatest blessings is Having a Father like you!

Millie Warner.
May the Good Lord, Bless and Keep all Fathers, ever near to Himself.
Dedicated to all Fathers living and deceased.

Summer Reading Programs Start June 17 at McKune

Summer Reading Program at McKune Memorial Library runs from June 17 through July 29 for children who have completed grades 1-4.

"Reach For The Stars" is part of a state-wide reading program, which included games, drawings for paperback books, and a final party. A matching Read-To-Me program is planned for preschool children over the same time period. The program is designed to encourage parents to read to their children and use the public library. A puppet show will conclude the six-week program. Registration will be held Saturday, June 17 from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the library. For more information call the library at 475-8732.

Inadvertently omitted from the photo of the Chelsea High school class of 1939 published June 7 in The Standard was Betty Seitz Bust, who attended the Saturday evening festivities. Also omitted; but not attending the reunion was Rita Bycraft Urbony.

Libraries Offers Students Chance To Better Reading

Chelsea High School Library/Media Center and McKune Memorial Library have joined together to prepare a series of reading lists for high school students. These lists were available at the High School Library/Media Center before the end of the school year, but are also available at McKune Library.

- Five separate lists are available for the high school student looking for good books and entertainment over the summer.
1. Outstanding books for the college bound student.
 2. Books voted best by young adults.
 3. Adventure and mystery sizzlers.
 4. Science fiction and fantasy sizzlers.
 5. Potpourri of Sizzlers (contains poetry, fiction and short stories.)
- Reading, as with any other skill, must be practiced in order to be improved. Summer is the perfect time to encourage reading, whatever form newspapers, books, and magazines. Libraries are free! Check it out from the McKune Memorial Library!

Grass Lake Township Plans Meeting on Huge Development

Grass Lake Township Planning Commission is scheduled to hold an informational meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall on a proposed development that could dramatically change the character of the township.

Agee & Associates, Inc. of Ann Arbor is proposing to build what amounts to a $400 million community on 1,400 acres south of Michigan Ave. over the next 13 years. If completed, the project would more than double the population of the township, which now stands at about 4,000. The project includes a wastewater treatment plant, as well as homes and shopping.

The project had been discussed late last year but was temporarily shelved by developers. Since then, however, the scope of the project has grown, according to township supervisor Al Mollenkopf.

The meeting has been called to receive comments by the public. In addition, the project will be explained by the developer's engineering firm, Mollenkopf said.

"There is no question in my mind that there will be opposition to it, but it will be interesting to see who's against it and who's for it," Mollenkopf said.

Most of the land for the project, Mollenkopf said, is apparently owned by Traveler's Insurance Co.

No matter how quickly the developers plan to move, they face at least a temporary delay as the township has imposed a moratorium on zoning changes. The township wants to review its zoning ordinance before further zoning changes are made.

Under proposed changes, the developers would have to change the land from agricultural to residential, then apply for a special use permit, Mollenkopf said. The project would then be completed in a planned unit development, which would give the township more control over most aspects of the project. He said the proposed ordinance goes into much greater detail about the requirements for planned unit developments.

"We have told them that right now we will not accept their petition for a zoning change," Mollenkopf said. The township has scheduled a public hearing on Thursday, July 6 to receive comments on proposed changes to the ordinance.

Bulldogs Place Eight On All-District Squads

Eight Chelsea Bulldog softball and baseball players were named to their respective all-district teams.

Six Bulldog softball players were named to their all-district team. Included were pitcher Jenni Smith, shortstop Heather Neibauer, second baseman Kim Easton, first baseman Laura Unterbrink, and outfielders Amy Thomson and Shannon Losey.

"That was an amazing accomplishment considering that Hartland won more than 30 games and had an all senior infield," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

Chelsea baseball co-captains Jeff Prentice and Junior Morseau also made their all-district team. Prentice was the Bulldogs' leading hitter and Morseau was the team's best defensive player at catcher.

Neither Bulldog team got past its district qualifying game this season.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar

In my years of working with homeowners, hearing about their interests and complaints about wildlife and doing some informal investigation into these things, I've become reasonably familiar with most of the common phenomena and familiar in detail with a fair portion of them. But every once in a while, I get reminded that I don't know everything—not by a long shot.

Totally unfamiliar questions or complaints tend to fall into two categories: accurately described occurrences that really are unfamiliar, and familiar phenomena described so inaccurately that I don't recognize them at first. The trick is to decide which I'm dealing with.

Twice this past month I've had to make that judgment. Both times, it's turned out to be an accurate description of something unfamiliar.

The first time was when someone had called me to say that a mama mallard had taken her babies into his swimming pool and they couldn't get out. There's nothing unusual about this—it happens every spring. I gave him some general directions for getting the babies out. He then asked what he should do about the male mallard—he was pacing up and down by the pool and acting as if he would defend his mate and young.

That's very typical behavior for Canada geese, but very untypical for mallards. Usually the drake mallard defends a mating territory but loses interest once the hen starts incubating eggs. By the time the young hatch, he's usually nowhere around.

I described a male mallard—green head, ring around the neck, etc., etc.—and the caller assured me that's what the duck looked like. Since his home was on my way home, I decided to check it out.

And it was just as he described it. There was mama duck and the babies in the pool and papa duck pacing and acting solicitous of her and her young. When the two of them moved away from the pool, he stayed between me and his mate. I netted the babies and put them in a box until I'd caught them all, then released them. They all ran to mama and she and the male, still acting protective, took them off toward the Red Cedar River.

That's not normal behavior for mallard ducks. But it happened. It illustrates very nicely that there are no hard and fast, all or never rules where wildlife is concerned. What we think of as standard behavior has its exceptions.

The second call I received about unfamiliar phenomena came from a county agent in a county I was going to visit for other reasons anyway, so I had a chance to check it out first-hand, too. I was curious because what the agent described matched a couple of other calls I have received during my more than 15 years in Michigan, calls that had left me wondering.

The homeowner's problem was mounds in the lawn. All kinds of things can cause mounds in the lawn, and some of them are so distinctive that I can usually identify them immediately. Sometimes I can ask a few questions to clarify a description and then make an identification. This time, the description was familiar because I had heard it a couple of times before, but it didn't fit any of the common causes.

The mounds were about 3 inches high and 3 to 4 inches across. The grass wasn't pushed up, as on a mole mound—rather it seemed to be growing up through the mound. No hole was readily visible in the mound.

Given all that, I was suspicious of earthworms, specifically night-crawlers, but I had never seen mounds that large made by night-crawlers.

Now I have.

The mounds were exactly as they'd been described. There was a hole in each mound, but it was partly filled and covered by worm castings. With a trowel, I scraped them aside and found the hole just the right size for a nightcrawler. I also found strips of dead vegetation in the holes where the worms had pulled them in to eat them.

So I'd been right—it was earthworms. I hadn't been able to think of anything else that could've made those mounds, but I could hardly believe I was right until I'd had chance to check it out.

The next question was related to the size of the mounds. In my yard, worms make puny little mounds that you have to hunt for. In this lawn, they were big enough to make the lawn look like a green moonscape. They were so big and numerous that the elderly homeowner could hardly walk across the lawn without tripping or a turned ankle or a fall.

A look at the soil told the story. It was a highly organic sandy lawn, very dark, rich and loose, and the lawn was lush and well tended. It was evidently supporting a large population of big, healthy nightcrawlers that found the soil ideal for tunneling and mound building. The soil in my lawn, on the other hand, is mostly clay, and the lawn is thin. The worm mounds are barely an inch in diameter and cause no problem at all. Maybe clay isn't as conducive to the mounding of castings; or maybe my thin lawn permits the castings to spread out.

Chelsea Bulldog freshman baseball team finished the season with a 3-14-1 record under the guidance of coach Mike Bohlender.

Chelsea lost their last three games. They were swept by Tecumseh on May 15, 7-6 and 12-7.

In the opening game, Chris White threw an eight-hitter but Chelsea couldn't get the key hit, Bohlender said.

Chelsea played solid defense, committing only two errors. Rob Dunahoo had an exceptional game in right field.

Jason Adams was 1-1. Other hitters included Jeff Moore, Rob Jaques, White, Tim Bowers, and Dennis Clark.

Jake Rindie had a good relief performance in the second game as he struck out the last five batters he faced.

Neil Klink had two hits, including a triple, and scored two runs.

Adam Tillman walked four times. Matt Gaken, Moore, Mike Eder, and Rick Clouse each had hits.

The final game of the season was against Scarlett school in Ann Arbor. Chelsea lost 10-6.

"The record didn't show it, but we improved a lot over the course of the season," Bohlender said.

"The kids had a great attitude."

Drinking While Boating Can Be Hazardous Practice

When they're out boating, people face a few natural risks—wind, waves and navigational hazards. But the biggest hazard is one the boater can control, says the National Safe Boating Council. It's drinking while boating.

Most people who die in boating accidents fall out of boats or capsize boats and end up in the water. Once in the water, even able swimmers lose co-ordination and can drown.

Alcohol affects a person's balance. A moment of dizziness or a misstep may not cause harm on the patio or in a restaurant, but it can spell disaster on a boat.

A small boat is unstable in the best of conditions. Entering or leaving it or moving around in it is hazardous even for a sober, agile person. People seldom notice problems with their balancing ability after a drink or two, but a small, tipsy boat does.

The Council urges people not to drink while boating.

Overnight Bike Ride Planned to Waterloo Area

On Saturday and Sunday, June 17 and 18, the Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation is sponsoring an overnight bike trip. The 40-mile round-trip route is an ideal trip for families and cyclists who have never been involved in an organized bike ride.

Cyclists will begin in Dexter and ride 20 miles to the Waterloo Recreation Area, where they will camp at Waterloo's rustic cabins, returning to Dexter the next day. After dinner activities will include a nature hike and singing around the campfire.

Fee for participants 15 years and up will be $20, while those under 15 may register for only $10. Riders under 15 must register with an adult. Meals, camping, instruction, sag, and ride supervision are covered by this fee. All riders must wear helmets.

Pre-registration is required. For more information, call 994-2780.

Pam Brown Ends Season at 15-6

Grand Valley State University sophomore Pam Brown of Chelsea finished the 1989 softball season as the Lakers' number one pitcher.

Brown posted a 15-6 record and a 1.78 earned run average. The team finished 28-21 over-all.

Brown was one of two sophomores on the team to earn a varsity letter. She was also named to the NCAA All-Central Region Second Team.

Burghardt Honored On 50th Year as Licensed Mortician

Louis H. Burghardt, formerly of Chelsea, was honored for his 50 years as a Mortuary Science Licensee at a special luncheon on Thursday, May 4, in conjunction with the 110th annual convention of the Michigan Funeral Directors Association.

Burghardt is the former owner of the Cole-Burghardt Funeral Chapel in Chelsea.

Burghardt was presented a plaque from Robert Vandenberg, vice-president and treasurer of the Michigan Funeral Directors Association.

Vandenberg told the assembled group of about 100 people that "dedication and perseverance are the hallmarks of funeral service, and those qualities will never be better represented than by these very special people we honor today."

The principal speaker at the luncheon was David Techner, president-elect, of the Michigan Funeral Directors Association.

Burghardt served the Chelsea area from 1951 until 1977 when he retired and sold his business to Donald A. Cole. For approximately 10 years Burghardt and his wife, June, enjoyed extensive travels and have now made their home at 8620-159 N.W. 13th St., Gainesville, Fla. 32606.

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU

I would like to say thank you to everyone who has been there for me since March, through my surgeries at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital — and since my return home. Thank you to Dr. Michael Smith, Dr. Warren Atkinson, Dr. Lawrence Handelsman, Dr. Steve Swanson, and the nurses on the 6th floor B hall at St. Joe. With all of your caring concern, you got to the root of the problem. My biggest thank you goes to my supportive husband, Gary, and my children, Jason, Julie, Jennifer, Kevin, and Renee. Thank you to my in-laws, Wilbur, Helen, and Lynda Koch, my sister and brother-in-law, Linda and Patrick Milliken, Pastor Ron Smeenge, and Penny Laier who went above the call of duty for me. Thank you to all of my friends, family, church member, and organizations for the many floral arrangements, plants, cards, calls, visits, food, and prayers. Everything has been very much appreciated, thank again.

Karen Koch.

New Book Traces History of Early Electric Lines in Southern Michigan

Wayne, Washtenaw and Jackson counties are featured in the latest book on early travel across Southern Michigan by award winning authors Schramm, Henning & Andrews.

This is the third volume in the award winning series featuring the absorbing story in text and rare photos of train, interurban, boat, and bus operations in Michigan. This latest work, "When Eastern Michigan Rode the Rails, Volume 3," has 350 rare illustrations spread over 224 pages plus a fascinating narrative of early travel in Eastern Michigan.

Climb aboard the interurbans, street cars, buses and the railroads operating west from Detroit across the state. Sail the Lake Erie and Lake Michigan passenger boats as they connect with the varied modes of transportation in Michigan. It is the only publication that portrays all the major public transportation systems in this area under one cover.

Volume three covers the Michigan Avenue corridor with its story of the DYAA&O interurban built by the Angus-Hawks syndicate, and later taken over by the Detroit United Railway (DUR) as the Detroit, Jackson & Chicago Railway.

The DJ&C served Dearborn, Wayne, Plymouth, Northville, Ypsilanti, Saline, Ann Arbor, Chelsea, Grass Lake and Jackson.

The story includes the Boland system which attempted to compete with the DJ&C and did succeed in building a 12-mile parallel line from Jackson to Grass Lake which later became a Jackson suburban line.

This volume further carries the interurban story across the state. In words and pictures including the Michigan Railway, Michigan's other large system. Owned by Consumers Power Co., it ran north from Jackson to Lansing, St. Johns and Owosso and west to Albion, Marshall, Battle Creek and Kalamazoo.

From there we ride a 1914 state-of-the-art high speed line to Grand Rapids with connections for Holland or Muskegon.

There was also a steam interurban which was never electrified, that operated from Kalamazoo to South Haven. Today a portion of that track is a tourist line, reviving the former name of the Kalamazoo, Lake Shore and Chicago Railroad.

One chapter covers in depth the Ann Arbor transit history, from the first electric in 1890 (two years prior to Detroit's electric line), through the 1925 conversion to buses, the DUR's first all-bus city. This is followed up with the various bus companies that have operated in Ann Arbor with photos of their varied equipment, including the present AATA. Covered, also, is the tiny U. of M. electric railroad.

Special sections cover the little known intercity bus lines operated by the DUR as the Peoples Motor Coach Co., later part of the Eastern Michigan system. By the mid 1930's it had become the largest intrastate bus company in Michigan, and in 1941 was sold to Great Lakes Greyhound. Included too, are the suburban bus companies, starting with the 1920's Detroit Motorbus Co., which was forced off Detroit's streets in 1932. Reorganized as Dearborn Coach Co., it continued to serve the Michigan Avenue area. Later it became Intertown Suburban, then Metropolitan Transit prior to the current SEMTA operation.

To round out the travelers' options to cross Michigan, volume 3 presents a chapter on Michigan's first three steam rail lines. Their conquests of survival in the shaky days of the 1830's and 1840's and the one-day apart arrival of rival "through" trains to Chicago in 1852, is a story movies are made of. It is the story of the Erie & Kalamazoo Railroad (the branch to Clinton is 150 years old in 1988 and is operated by a railfan group). The Michigan Southern Railroad and the Michigan Central Railroad, prior to the completion of tracks from New York to Chicago, operated their own passenger steamers. A complete ship list has been presented with some photos. Lavishly illustrated are the Great Lakes ships that connected with the interurbans along Michigan's west shore.

Transit historians. Jack Schramm, William Henning and Richard Andrews have received "Award of Merit" from the Historical Society of Michigan for their work in producing four volumes on eastern Michigan transportation. Extensive research for the past 14 years included uncovering heretofore unpublished maps, old transfers and collecting extraordinary photographs of electric and steam trains, buses, and lake boats.

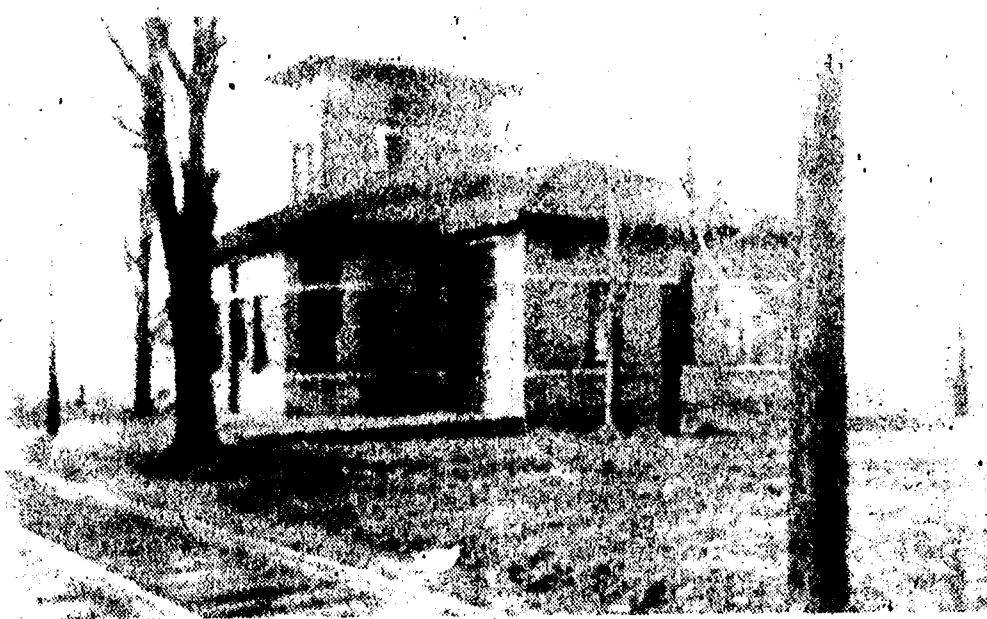

This trio of transit researchers and writers have previously published popular books on Detroit's street railroads from 1863 to 1956 in two volumes. Their interurban series covers rail routes from Detroit to Pontiac including Royal Oak, Birmingham, Orchard Lake, Northville, Rochester, Romeo, Imlay City, Lake Orion, Oxford, Ortonville, and Flint under the title, "When Eastern Michigan Rode the Rails, Volume 1." Volume two covers the transportation route from Detroit to Mt. Clemens, resorts along the St. Clair River and the rail and bus lines at Port Huron. In its book review of the series the Smithsonian stated that while a series, each volume is able to stand alone in presenting a complete history of the corridor. A future volume, number 4, will cover the remaining corridor, Detroit to Toledo.

Schramm is the retired superintendent of payroll with the Detroit Department of Street Railways. Henning is active as professor of communications at Macomb Community College. Both men were co-founders of the Michigan Transit Museum, Mt.

Clemens. Richard Andrews is retired from the Auto Club of Michigan where he was a staff instructor for the travel and map department. He also is a recent past president of the Michigan Railroad Club.

This volume number three "collectors item" book lists at $39.95. It is available at selected book stores or by mail from the Michigan Transit Museum (in Mt. Clemens), P.O. Box 12, In Ann Arbor this book is available at Rider's Hobby Shop and Little Professor Bookstore. In Jackson it is available at the Toy House.

Tillman Wins Bell & Howell Company Scholarship

Sheila Tillman of Chelsea was one of seven students nationwide selected to receive a 1989 Bell & Howell Company Scholarship.

Bell & Howell employees whose children are in their junior year of high school and have taken the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Contest are eligible to apply for the scholarships, which range from $500-$2,000 based on financial need.

'Singin' in the Rain' Cast Plans New Twists

Newell Kring, Chelsea Area Players' director for the summer production of 'Singin' in the Rain' is shaping his talented cast into what may be the best entertainment of this summer season.

No longer just Chelsea Area Players, he has now devised the concept of Chelsea Pictures. Newell says that a film crew will be on hand at each of the performances and guided tours will be available on performance nights with all having the opportunity to watch the filming of 'Singin' in the Rain.

In the meantime, Newell is whipping cast and crews into shape. Joe Dieterich, playing Don Lockwood, is busy sharpening up his toe tapping ability under the enthusiastic direction of Susan Filiplak. The big Broadway productions with gorgeous, elegant, and exciting beauties is being overseen and choreographed by Dana Leahy. The cake is being engineered by Don Paulsell so that Roxanne Kring, playing Cathy Selden, can emerge and tap her way into your hearts without a hitch. Will there be rain? Newell is not telling.

Newell is telling a lot about his cast and the raw talent from which he has been able to draw. His only minor problem is that he would love to have some more men to sing in the chorus. That aside, Newell has utilized some "tried and true" talent like Joe Dieterich, John Williams, and Margaret Lewis. He will also introduce us to some new faces like Marcia Weston, look for her in the cake dance. Another new talent to our area is Roxanne Kring, a wonderfully talented lady who has actually acted professionally, but has decided to "retire to the real world." Look, also, for Ron Lylte, another newcomer,

CLASS OF 1989 adult education graduates were honored after last Thursday evening's commencement at a reception in the cafeteria. This cake displayed all the names of the graduates.
