Village Votes To End Participation in Recycling; Landfill Costs Mounting

With little discussion and no dissent, Chelsea Village Council voted last Tuesday to discontinue its participation in Washtenaw county's recycling project.

The village had been notified that the county will no longer pay to have the recycling bin in Polly's Market emptied after July 31. It was estimated that the village would have to pay about $175 per pick-up or nearly $1,400 per month to continue in the program.

Village president Jerry Satterthwaite called the county "chicken for backing out of the program." Council voted to have the county pick-up the container for good as of the end of the month.

The county claims that it was backed into a corner when the Ann Arbor and Chelsea landfills quit contributing to the program 50 cents for every yard of garbage it collected. That meant a loss of an estimated $215,000.

"I'd like to see the program continue but, as far as I'm concerned we've got no choice," Satterthwaite said.

The only recycling that will continue in Chelsea is a bin for newspapers supplied by Chelsea Cub Scouts in a couple of locations.

The village still plans its own recycling program, but details have yet to be worked out and any formal program is probably months away from implementation.

In a somewhat related matter, the village is looking for alternative methods of generating money from waste disposal. A landfill budget deficit is part of the reason the village opted out of the tipping fee program.

Village manager Robert Stalker told council that landfill operations produced a $19,400 deficit last year, even with an infusion of $120,000 from the general fund. This year $40,000 has been budgeted from the general fund and $70,000 is expected to be contributed by Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships.

According to Stalker, the landfill fund already owes the electric fund $110,000, mostly due to consulting fees related to complying with the landfill consent agreement signed with the Michigan Department of Natural Resources. The village has spent more than $184,000 on engineering fees, and the work is not yet completed. It is not yet known how much ongoing work will be necessary to comply with the consent order.

The consulting fees include the development of what has been called a "state of the art" bromide tracer system, which will allow engineers to determine whether the proposed new landfill ever leaks contaminants into the groundwater. Landfill operator Cecil Clouse told council that he was told the system will be the first of its kind in Michigan.

Engineering consultant Lee Fahrner has recommended that the village consider raising its garbage pick-up rates, even though "certainly no one will like it." Township residents pay nearly three times as much as village residents for garbage pick-up.

Fahrner also said that assuming the townships pay 80 percent of the engineering costs, their portions will be more than $20,000 each.

"It does seem clear that the cost share to the townships will not be a one time expense but likely an expense that they will have to budget for over a period of years," Fahrner's report said.

Stalker told council he intends to develop specific recommendations about the generation of money.

The one big uncertainty in the overall problem is whether or, more likely, when the village will receive a new landfill operating license. All license application information was scheduled to be submitted late last week, Stalker said. The application process has been hounded by delays since last winter.

If the village obtains the license, pick-up fees will almost certainly be less than if it has to contract with a garbage hauler to take the trash to another landfill. In addition, the village is considering the purchase of a garbage truck and handling the pick-up itself. A curb-side recycling program could also be in the works.

Chelsea Shopping Center Plans Grand Opening

Rene Papo, president of Arcus Corporation, a real estate development company, has announced the grand opening of the new $3 million Chelsea Shopping Center.

The 90,500 square foot shopping center began construction in June, 1988, and is currently at 85 percent occupancy.

Current tenants include Ames Department Store, Chelsea Pharmacy, Cottage Inn Pizza, Village Instant Photo, Gemini Beauty Salon, Uniglobe Travel and Especially Yours, a women's apparel shop. Future tenants will include: H & R Block which will open in August and Gina's Cafe, a family style restaurant opening in mid-September.

"We have received tremendous interest from a wide variety of prospective tenants. We are highly concerned about selecting quality tenants that will benefit the area's economy yet at the same time maintain the warm, small town personality unique to Chelsea," Papo said.

Papo estimates that well over 100 local new jobs have been created as a result of the new shopping center.

The grand opening celebration is to be held on Friday, July 28, beginning at 12 noon. The public is welcome. Free Cottage Inn Pizza and other refreshments will be served. Entertainment for children will also be provided.

Chelsea Sidewalk Festival Begins Thursday With Activities for Everyone

Art Scholarship Fund Set Up In Memory of Joe Beaudoin

An art scholarship fund has been set up in the memory of Joe Beaudoin, who was killed in an automobile accident earlier this month.

The Beaudoin family is trying to raise enough money so that the interest from an account can provide annually a scholarship to a promising art student at Chelsea High school. Joe, who would have been a senior this year, was intensely interested in art and had even planned to display and sell his work during this week's Sidewalk Festival.

"There's not much money out there for artistic students," said Joe's father, Bob.

"If we can help out another student, so much the better."

Joe had been interested in art his entire life, said his mother, Mickey, who also works in watercolors.

"It used to drive his elementary school teachers nuts because he would rush through his tests and then he'd sit there and draw all over everything," Mickey said.

Joe and Mickey even worked together occasionally, with Joe picking up and finishing a piece that Mickey began.

Although Joe was involved in swimming and other activities, art was his passion, Mickey said. He would spend hours at a time working in watercolors or air brushing. Much of his art was surrealistic.

"He wanted to either become a high school art teacher or go into automotive design," Mickey said.

"He was very much influenced by Kerry (Kargal, his art teacher). He admired Kerry a lot."

Anyone who would like to contribute to the scholarship fund may write to P.O. Box 178, Chelsea 48118.

Man Faces Weapons Charge

Charges are being sought against a 26-year-old Flint man who was carrying various weapons in his car when he was stopped on Old US-12 Sunday night.

According to Chelsea police report, the man had a cut-down shotgun on the seat of his car when he was stopped at 9:53 p.m. Also in the vehicle were a sword, with a 3'-4' blade, and a butcher knife.

An area resident tipped off police.

Stalker's License Plate Stolen

Someone stole the license plate from a car belonging to village manager Robert Stalker on Friday, July 14.

Stalker's vehicle was parked in the Municipal Parking Lot when the incident happened sometime during business hours.

LUTHER "BUD" KUSTERER, left, received a long-overdue award from the Chelsea Kiwanis Club Monday evening. The plaque recognized his "long, continued dedicated service to the club" spanning a period since 1952. Although Luke always humbly shunned the limelight, he has long been the steady hand behind the scenes in the club's many service projects. As a member of the board of directors, his vision has been a guiding force in steering the club financially and in helping choose worthwhile projects. George Palmer, who presented the award on behalf of the club, expressed the unanimous feeling of appreciation for members.

Court Decision Poses Possible Threat To State Budget

The state's general fund budget could be forced to cough up $300-$400 million next year to local governments if a recent Court of Appeals decision is not overturned by the Supreme Court, Management and Budget Director Shelby Solomon reported recently.

If the decision is upheld, the case will have a "significant impact" on budgets such as higher education and natural resources, he said.

Last week the appellate court ruled that state funds that are paid to a local unit of government for state obligations, such as mental health care services, cannot be treated as local spending within the state budget.

The state has followed such a budgeting practice since the 1980-81 fiscal year, when it began the practice of classifying money spent for the care of mentally ill and developmentally disabled individuals as spending paid to local units of government.

Should the ruling stand, Solomon said it has a potential cost to the state of between $300-$400 million. "It would be a major hit to state-side spending, which is a great portion of the budget," he said.

There is a "likelihood" there will be an appeal filed with the Supreme Court, Solomon said, but a decision will not be made until he talks with Attorney General Kelley, probably next week.

Gary Olson, a budget analyst for the Senate Fiscal Agency, said figures produced by his agency indicate the state budget for 1989-90 would be short by over $230 million if the decision stands.

A worst case scenario would be if it is not upheld, but made retroactive. Such a ruling, Olson said, could cost the state $1.947 billion.

"It's not a cut and dried thing by any means, but who knows what the (Supreme) Court will do," he said. A more likely occurrence is if the case is upheld, Olson said, the state would have to pay local governments out of the 1990-91 budget.

The budgets for K-12 education and community colleges would benefit, he said, but the vast majority of budgets, such as higher education, general government, mental health, corrections and social services, would suffer.

"If they say we have to do something immediately, I don't know what we'll do," Olson said. "Supplemental budgets may be required to add funds to those budgets affected."

Solomon said "I'd hate to speculate" on how the budget would be handled until the final court ruling is made. He noted that if revenues grow in the 3- to 5-percent range as expected, that still would not cover a deficit of $400 million, which accounts for about 6 percent of the general fund budget.

He also discounted raising taxes as a solution to the problem. "I don't think there's an interest to that approach," Solomon said.

Solomon said the Court of Appeals decision "flies in the face" of the state's decision to begin deinstitutionalizing mental health patients. "I do believe that when community mental health went to a community-based system, it became essentially a local program," he said.

Five Cities To Be Named Models For Recycling Projects

The Natural Resources Commission has recommended five communities be named Clean Michigan Communities and become models for recycling projects with funds provided through the Quality of Life Bond Issue approved last fall.

The commission also recommended solid waste management program grants and loans totaling more than $12 million to 75 communities for projects which include recycling, composting, hazardous waste collection, landfill closure, waste stream reduction and developing markets for recycled products.

The five Clean Community projects recommended were Buchanan Berrien county; Delta Solid Waste Management Authority, Delta county; Village of Caseville, Huron county; Isabella County and Southeastern Oakland County Resource Recovery Authority, Oakland county.

The communities will divide up to $10 million earmarked for demonstration programs intended to build acceptance of recycling and composting as viable waste management options across the state.

On the average, men have longer job tenure (years on the same job) than women, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau. This is primarily because uninterrupted labor force participation has been common for men, but a more recent practice for women. The median job tenure for young women and men is similar. At age 35 and older, however, tenure for men becomes significantly longer than for women. In 1983, the median tenure for men age 35 to 44 was 7.7 years, compared with 4.6 years for women in the same age group.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

By the time Ed Doolittle got his clippings organized by subject and news value Saturday night at the country store, Bug Hookum already had gone through two cans of potted meat, half a tube of soda crackers, a big wedge of cheese and he was polishing off Twinkies and a Pepsi. Ed said Bug was laying it in like he hadn't eat in a week, and Bug said Ed got it right.

What has happened at his house, Bug declared, is his old lady is in another of her battles of the bulges. She had trouble getting into her summer frocks and she announced that now with all the fresh vegetables coming in was a good time to take off a few pounds. She has took to peddling a stationary bicycle she got for a reducing campaign a few years ago, and Bug got the exercise of bringing it down from the attic.

The trouble with all this, Bug said, is that she won't go into battle alone. She took him along, and what she's been feeding him lately wouldn't keep the cat alive. Bug said he ask how come he's on her one-way trip to starvation, and all she said was that cooking was to much of a temptation. Bug said he's eat so much lettuce his ears are growing and he's got a hop in his walk, and there ain't no let up in sight.

Farthermore, Bug went on, his old lady and a bunch of wimmen at church have got up a contest to see who can lose the most weight in two months. The losers have to buy a big dinner for the winner. Bug said his old lady is bound to win, but she ain't made no mention of taking him along for a square meal. He said he's been sneaking down to the store for between meal snacks that are more than the meals, and if conditions don't improve he might even break down and do some cooking hisself. The only hope he sees is that his old lady is canning everthing in the garden, like she allus does, so he has a good chance of eating this winter if he can last that long.

General, the fellers lamented Bug's situation. It was Zeke Grubb that noted all their wives were at a stage of life they might as well let the pounds stick where they fall. However, Zeke said Bug ought to admire his old lady fer trying. Zeke said his old lady made one stab at reducing some years back after she outgrew her girle. She bought some candy that's supposed to cut back the appetite and in three days she eat four boxes of the stuff on top of her regular meals.

Farthermore, Zeke went on, folks natural don't like putting out the effort if they can't see the results. We all want the gain without the pain, like golfers that ride around in electric carts and play the game for exercise. He said one of his preacher's boys got real fat when he was about 20 and doing some serious courting. He hated being heavy but he wouldn't cut down on eating, so he had his jaws wired shut to keep him off solid food. He didn't lose a pound in a week and his parents thought he had a gland disorder til he confessed he'd been sipping about eight double malted, double ice cream milkshakes a day.

Ed final got the floor to say he had a item that had to do with eating. He had heard of convicts on hunger strikes, but a feller in the Kansas State Reformatory recent eat most of his bedsprings to protest the prison food. It bit off more than he could chew, digest or pass and he refused treatment. Prison officials had to git a court order to put him in the hospital and reduce the iron in his system.

Yours truly,

Uncle Lew.

Extension Service Offering Home Correspondence Course in Canning

Co-operative Extension Service is offering a home correspondence course for those interested in home food preservation.

The latest recommendation on freezing, canning and drying foods may be studied in the comfort of your own home at your own pace.

This course is especially designed to help individuals who have never preserved food to learn to do it safely and avoid costly mistakes. But it will also update experienced canners who are unaware of the latest changes in USDA recommendations.

Seven lessons, a series of extension bulletins and mail-in work sheets are included in the course. The seven lessons include food safety, canning low-acid foods, canning acid foods, pickling, jams and jellies, freezing foods and drying foods.

The cost is $15 for the seven lessons. Call 971-0079 for a registration brochure.

RALPH McCALLA, for the sixth consecutive year, brought his team and wagon for hay rides, a popular activity enjoyed by all ages at the annual Ice Cream Social sponsored by Spaulding for Children in Chelsea.

JIM ADAMS of Dexter provided a special bonus by sharing, giving rides on his antique fire truck at the annual Ice Cream Social sponsored by Spaulding for Children in Chelsea.

Spaulding for Children Holds Successful Ice Cream Social

Spaulding for Children held its annual Ice Cream Social for Spaulding friends and families on Saturday, July 15 at the agency's farmhouse. The event was attended by nearly 300 people who participated in the many planned activities. New attractions this year included antique fire truck rides by Jim Adams of Dexter, t-shirt painting and a petting zoo with animals provided by Becky Schultz of Ann Arbor and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Griffin of Manchester.

Staff and volunteers were kept busy organizing sack- and three-legged races, volleyball games, face paint-

Erodible Farm Land May Be Retired in CRP

The Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is a voluntary program for retiring some of the most highly erodible cropland in the United States. The Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) will accept CRP sign-ups from July 17 to Aug. 4. There will be additional sign-up periods in the future. So far in Washtenaw county 35 farms have been contracted to retire 900 acres now in cultivation. These acres will be established in grass and trees.

The Soil Conservation Service (SCS) is directed by law to make determinations regarding eligibility of highly erodible lands. These determinations are based on farm management practices and soils information. After eligibility of the land is determined, and it is found to be highly erodible, farmers who want to enroll submit bids to the ASCS office. Each bid specifies the annual rental the farmer would accept to retire individual fields. If the bid is accepted, a SCS soil conservationist and the farmer develop a conservation plan which must be approved by the Soil Conservation District (SCD). The plan outlines conservation practices that will be cost-shared at the 50% rate. Then the farmer and ASCS sign a 10-year contract which obligates funds for 50% cost-shares and annual rental.

Farmers may not make commercial use of the reserve land so long as the contract is in effect. This means no grazing or cutting hay on reserve lands. On land planted to trees, no commercial harvest of any wood product is allowed during the life of the contract. This will minimize economic impacts on the existing cattle, forage, and wood products industries.

Farmers may withdraw from the reserve at any time. If they do, however, they must reimburse the government, with interest, for all payments they receive for cover establishment and annual rental.

CONSTRUCTION HAS BEGUN on a fence around Cassidy Lake Technical School, the minimum security prison on Waterloo Rd. The prison is the only penal facility in Michigan that does not have a fence. Prisoners have walked away from the prison on a fairly regular basis over the years. The fence should be completed late this summer.

Prison Escapists Hitch Ride From Wrong Three Guys

Three men who escaped from Camp Waterloo minimum-security prison flagged down a ride from the wrong people early Monday morning.

Paul McDonald, 26, Nicola McKenzie, 24, and Steve Pomeroy, 20, were trying to hitch a ride on eastbound I-94 near Pierce Rd. and off-duty Chelsea police officers Steve Jaskot, Richard Boham, and Scott Sumner stopped to give them a lift—to jail.

The policemen recognized the men from a description that had been given out earlier.

When on-duty Chelsea police arrived at the scene, the escapists were lying on the ground.

Senior Center Closed Three Days

Chelsea Senior Center at North Elementary school will be closed today through Friday for cleaning.

Lunch will be served in the school cafeteria. Seniors should use the door next to the handicapped parking.

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"Conscience is the voice of the soul"

—Rousseau

Fortunately for civilization, most of the world's peoples have a conscience. At times, it might appear that they are very small voices indeed, not always heard at first above the tumult of greed, dishonor and just plain foolishness that is so much a part of the everyday scene.

Sooner or later the voice of conscience manages to make itself heard and many great wrongs are righted. Even the most pessimistic folks among us are usually able to see some encouraging signs for the future of mankind, because of this influence within us.

Friendly service that anticipates every need has always characterized our relationships with the families of this community. Call on us at any hour of the day or night; someone is always here to provide the help you need.

Grass Lake Twp. Continues Ban on Zoning Changes

The proposed huge housing and shopping development for Grass Lake township will be delayed for a few months while the township reviews its zoning ordinance.

The township has had a moratorium on zoning changes in place for a while, which will be extended at least through September, and probably longer, according to township supervisor Al Mollenkopf.

"We're still trying to sort through all the input we've gotten," Mollenkopf said.

"Our attorney is working it over. It will have to go to the Region II Planning Commission, and eventually it will have to go to the county," Mollenkopf said.

The proposed development by Agee

& Associates of Ann Arbor would nearly triple the township's population. It features a mix of housing, shopping, and a wastewater treatment plant.

"In my judgment, there's no way they'll be able to start any construction this year," Mollenkopf said.

Michigan ranks number one nationally in total registered boats (716,441), representing 7 1/4% of the U. S. registered boats. One out of 13 residents now own a boat. Sixty-one percent of Michigan boating takes place on inland lakes, 28% on Great Lakes and 11% on inland rivers and streams. Michigan leads the nation in the sale of marine accessories and ranks fourth in the sale of boats. Boaters spend approximately $1.8 billion in Michigan on boating related goods and services.

Stockbridge Man Serving with Navy In Western Pacific

Navy Seaman Apprentice Timothy A. Jacobs, son of Dennis C. and Karen A. Jacobs of 221 W. Main, Stockbridge, recently deployed to the Western Pacific Ocean while serving aboard the tank-landing ship USS Barbour County, homeported in San Diego, Calif.

During the six-month deployment, Jacobs will participate in numerous military exercises and visit several foreign ports.

A 1988 graduate of Stockbridge High school, he joined the Navy in October 1988. His wife, Renee, is the daughter of Arbria and Sue Shepherd of 207 Garfield, also of Stockbridge.

Decision Due Soon Concerning Dredging Issue

A ruling is expected within a week on whether farmer Todd Lee will be able to drain water from Joslin Lake to irrigate his crops.

Rick Schramm of the Department of Natural Resources has personally inspected the area and said he will issue a ruling once he has completed reading all the letters and other correspondence on the matter.

In addition, Schramm said he has to make a final determination as to whether Lee is keeping his work confined to his own land or is working on state property.

"I want to make sure we haven't missed anything," Schramm said Monday.

The issue has been a subject of heated debate. Joslin Lake residents are concerned that Lee's activities could drain too much water from the lake, especially during drought conditions when water levels are at their lowest. Many expressed their concerns at a public hearing June 14.

Lee sees the diversion of water as a way to make sure his farm survives.

Schramm has to determine who has what rights to the water. Two state laws come into play, the Wetlands Protection Act and the Inland Lakes and Streams Act. Schramm said Lee does not need a permit to dig a farm pond under the wetlands act but that he might under the other.

Lee said he has been given conflicting information by different state agencies.

Attorney General's Ruling Puts Funding for Chelsea DDA on Hold

A ruling by the state attorney general has put future funding for Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority in question and perhaps even the group's viability. According to village manager Robert Stalker, Frank J. Kelley ruled on June 20 that the two-mill special assessment allowed by the DDA act, which has been levied against property within Chelsea's downtown development district, is subject to a vote of residents within the district. The assessment, here, was enacted after a vote of the village council.

Chelsea's DDA has asked its legal counsel, Miller, Canfield, Paddock, & Stone for an opinion. "It will be a very politically-charged issue all over the state," Stalker said. In the meantime, village council voted to allocate $1,100 to finish the DDA's parking project. The money will be used to purchase signs and change wording on parking meters. DDA should collect about $22,000 from this year's two mill assessment, Stalker said, some of which will be used for DDA's operating expenses.

If the special assessment is put to vote of the registered electors who live in the Chelsea DDA district, only a handful of people would be eligible to vote, many of them renters. Downtown businesses, which have the most to gain from DDA activities, would have almost no say because most business owners live outside the district.

A NEW SEWER LINE has been tunneled under N. Main St. from Veteran's Park onto property owned by Art and Ruth Dils on N. Main St. The new line will also eventually require that Letts Creek be dammed up temporarily so that sewer line can be placed underneath.

Clerk/Register Office Struggles With Increasing Work Load

"More people, more traffic, more law suits filed, and more elections requested each year," Washtenaw county clerk/register Robert M. Harrison explained, Monday morning.

All of this increase is still handled by the same staff of seven people in Harrison's office, one of the most efficiently operated offices in the county.

A tough taskmaster, who demands as much of himself as anyone, Harrison and his staff take pride in doing a consistently good job, covering many categories of public service.

Harrison explained it's very discouraging to his staff, and yes, even to him at times, to receive the type of communications the office is beginning to get more of—the little "ha ha's" from politicians and other local officials.

Complaints from the judges, worried that the documents they require on pending cases may not be ready in time, messages from both citizens and other departments which question the length of time needed to get copies, a dearth of information is disseminated by the clerk/register's office.

A good deal of the "corrections to official records" is now being relayed to the state, but we're not able to keep up with the many mail order requests, the clerk/register advised.

"We're referring a lot of applicants seeking passports to the United States Post Office, we find we can't handle the big demand, especially when people want the passports in a short time, as often is the case," Harrison said.

"Our mail order requests come mainly from people who aren't Washtenaw county residents. The majority of people requesting information or copies of records concerned with vital statistics—births, deaths, marriages, discharges from military service, etc., need the information soon after they actually request it," he added.

Right now, the staff at the clerk/register's office finds itself in a bind.

The budget crunch currently being experienced by Washtenaw county adds to the dilemma.

Harrison admits he has repeatedly recommended the facility which Washtenaw county originally planned to establish in Ypsilanti be at least temporarily axed.

"If we're to offer the services we now provide at the clerk/register's office in Ann Arbor, we need experienced staff."

Harrison sees the county budget crunch the result of a number of different conditions, some related to a change in plans of how and where to locate a second facility for social services, some resulting from significant monetary settlements, involving medical costs for indigent citizens and for law enforcement personnel, dictated by the courts.

How will the county emerge from the crunch? Harrison admits he sees no quick and fast solution. It's a tough situation, one that's going to require a lot of thought and careful decisions.

With three people from his staff of seven assigned to the elections division, in addition to Mildred "Micki" Crawford, Harrison's experienced, hard-working assistant, a Sept. 18 date was okayed, early this week, answering a request from the Dexter Community Schools.

The election will seek approval from voters for one mill operational levy, for two years.

In addition to the Sept. 18 school election in Dexter, elections are scheduled by Ypsilanti township, Tuesday, Aug. 8, by school districts in Chelsea, Lincoln, Saline and Ypsilanti, Monday, Aug. 14, by Superior township, Tuesday, Aug. 22, and the City of Saline's regular election will be Nov. 7.

Harrison advised, "Our people like to do a lot of the preparation well in advance of the election dates, in order to insure efficient election operation."

It's a mammoth and demanding undertaking, the operation of the clerk/register's office, but in Robert M. Harrison, Washtenaw county is fortunate to have one of the most dedicated public servants available to supervise the work and the equally dedicated staff.

More than 100 years after the first Labor Day observance, there is still some doubt about who proposed it, according to the U. S. Department of Labor. Some believe it was Peter McGuire, general secretary of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners and co-founder of the American Federation of Labor. Recent research, however, indicates the holiday was proposed in 1882 by Matthew Maguire, secretary of the International Association of Machinists in Paterson, N. J.

Turkey Hunt Applications Due By Aug. 1

Turkey permit applications for this fall's hunting season are available from requesting license dealers, Department of Natural Resources (DNR) district offices, and the DNR Information Services Center, Box 30028, Lansing 48909; phone 517-373-1220.

The deadline for application is Aug. 1. Recent successful breeding of Michigan's wild turkeys, combined with several mild winters, has led to a substantial increase in the turkey population.

The season will be Oct. 4 to Nov. 14, an increase of 12 days from last year, and hunters will have a choice of 13 hunting periods, compared to six in 1988.

Six areas, encompassing 5,671 square miles, will be designated for turkey hunting. This is an increase from last year when there were only two sites in the Upper Peninsula, covering 973 square miles. This year is also the first time a fall hunt has been scheduled in the northern Lower Peninsula since 1968.

With the expansion of turkey hunting areas, the number of fall turkey permits increased to 5,900, compared to 1,350 permits in 1988.

The bag limit for the 1989 fall hunt is either one or two birds (any sex), depending upon the hunt area. Last year, the bag limit was two birds.

For detailed information on hunting periods and dates, contact the DNR's Wildlife Division, Box 30028, Lansing 48909; phone 517-373-1263.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
As many others, I am not in favor of the upcoming millage vote. It is not that I want the proposed cutbacks, but that I am very concerned about some things that are occurring in our schools.

For example, did you know that during the 1988-1989 school year AIDS and Sexually Transmitted Disease education was given to all the ninth graders in the health classes without parental notification? This is against the law! Not only were parents not given the opportunity to preview the material used, some of it was not even approved material for use in the classroom! An example is a video featuring an Atlanta feminist group having a 'safe-sex party.' I contacted the teacher involved and wrote a letter, of which I sent copies to teachers, school officials and each school board member. I have never received a reply to my letter, but one school board member did call and thank me for sending him a copy.

At a Sex-Ed committee meeting I pressed the issue and was told it was an "oversight." Parents have the right to have their children excused from such classes, this is state law. For the record, I am not against AIDS and STD's education, but we need to teach the students only health facts not values espoused by a group such as this.

Another thing I am concerned about are statements like "A couple of homosexual experiences in your teens do not mean you are homosexual." This may be true but it implies that homosexual activity is acceptable. I do not think our community is interested in giving this idea to our youth.

What about the music played over the loud speaker during lunch hour? Somehow I feel lyrics like "I used to love her but now I don't, so I killed her and buried her in the back yard" are not really what our kids need to hear at school.

I am also concerned about the overall theme of the ninth grade reading class. The majority of the readings dealt with violence, death, killing, and premeditated murder. There is so much good and encouraging literature available that would give the students a more positive and hopeful outlook on life.

I sent the high school principal a request form for reconsideration of instructional materials. Again I sent copies to a number of school officials and to the school board. I requested a bedroom scene be edited out of a Romeo and Juliet video. I was told that the editing would most likely be done. I requested a written reply as to what action the school would be taking on this matter. I also asked for some kind of guarantee that our children would not be subjected to this type of material again. This took place on May 9th and to date I have received neither a written reply nor any type of guarantee.

I know that there are some good and positive things happening in our school. I also know that if a school system does not correct matters such as these they are no longer a good school system.

Parents and all concerned with what our children, tomorrow's leaders, are being taught must not ignore what is going on any longer. We must talk to our kids, find out what they are being taught, read textbooks and handouts, and look over home work assignments, both before and after the teacher looks at them. You may make some important discoveries. If you like what you see let the teachers and school officials know, if not, likewise.

I attended a number of school board meetings this past school year. I was absolutely shocked at the lack of parents and concerned people who were there! I challenge the people of our community to show you care enough to become involved.
Shirrell Fischer.

Dear Editor,
I am concerned about the negative letters in this newspaper about our upcoming school millage election on Aug. 14.

My family and I moved here a few years ago and primarily chose Chelsea for our home because of its excellent school system. We came from a system which had millage problems and wanted one with positive support from its community, hence, we chose Chelsea. Now I read these negative letters in this column and I get very discouraged.

I have been very impressed with the Chelsea teachers. They have all been very caring and devoted people. My kids are with them seven hours out of their day, a large part of their life. I want this quality of teachers to continue for them. You cannot get quality teachers if you don't pay them. Their salaries have been frozen for two years. Telling them to go to neighboring communities that pay better is childish. We need them here and we need to pay them what they deserve.

Mr. Piasecki has an extremely difficult job which has required much education and preparation. His job is immense and he's doing it very adequately. I sure wouldn't want his job and I doubt if any of the writers of the negative letters would either.

Let's put our priorities in perspective here. Let's give up our cigarettes and our boats and whatever other extras and put it into our schools for our kids' sake! Our schools need our support and they need it now. I am more than willing to give something up and put that money (which may be for the average homeowner $160 for the whole year) into my taxes for our schools. I can't think of a better way to spend it! They will definitely have my yes vote on Aug. 14—for my kids' sake and for all the kids of Chelsea.
Sue Gillikin,
Chelsea.

To the Editor,
The recent death of Joe Beaudoin while delivering pizzas has touched our family very personally. Accidents will always happen, but we wonder if delivering pizzas against a time-line isn't setting the stage for another such tragedy.

We know that companies who hire young people to make deliveries for them emphasize obeying all the traffic laws, but in the heat of the event—trying to beat the clock to make a buck—it is easy to forget to be careful.

Soon there will be another pizza concern in town making deliveries which will certainly add more competition and competitiveness.

It's our concern that the citizens of Chelsea love their children, and even in the pursuit of money some concessions can be made. Why not, for instance, use the village limits as the boundary for a guaranteed delivery time? The thought of having kids driving around unfamiliar rural roads in all kinds of weather, where the speeds are higher, the weeds taller and the addresses hidden from sight can create a dangerous situation. Who really cares if their pizza is delivered in "X" minutes? Personally, we buy ours where they taste best.

Next time you order a delivered pizza, if you live in the country, why not tell them, "take your time, get it here when you can." Thank you.
The Dan Teare family.

Famous Manchester Chicken Broil Cancelled Due to Wet Conditions

For the first time in the 36-year history of the event, the Manchester Chicken Broil had to be called off.

The event, scheduled for last Thursday, was the victim of too much rainfall on Tuesday and Wednesday, according to chairman Eugene Bentschneider.

"There was water all over the field," Bentschneider said of the old athletic field where the event is held. "The sand in the barbecue pits was soupy and even if we could have gotten the fires started I doubt if anyone could have gotten into the field to eat the chicken."

Bentschneider said the decision was made about 10 a.m. Thursday to cancel the event. Calls were made to area radio stations, which broadcast the news.

There was no way the event simply could have been postponed due to the number of people who work the pits and other areas. About 400 people give their time in various shifts.

"A lot of those people get off work special and I don't know when we could have gotten them all back," Bentschneider said.

"The way the field was, we couldn't have even held it Friday if we wanted to. The decision was made a long time ago that if anything ever happened, we'd just have to cancel it."

The chicken broil is billed as the largest in the Midwest. Four 100-foot pits have been constructed and more than 12,000 chicken halves are cooked in the four hours.

The Optimist Club sponsors the event and Bentschneider has been chairman or co-chairman for the last 20 years. This is his last year, and not because of the rain-out.

When news of the cancellation spread, there were many people who took advantage of the opportunity to purchase cheap, although uncooked, chicken. More than 170 of the 250 cases were sold while preparations were being made to ship the rest back from where it came. The chickens were sold, essentially, at cost.

The Optimist Club has used proceeds from the event for various community activities, including the construction of ball diamonds.

Anyone who purchased a ticket for the event may return it to where it was purchased and obtain a refund. However, within a week refunds will have to be obtained at the Great Lakes Bancorp office in Manchester.

Council Authorizes Study of Village's Electric Rate Structure

Village of Chelsea will spend $8,400 on a study of its electricity rates by an outside consulting firm.

The engineering firm of Cummins & Barnard will conduct the study, which will ultimately result in recommendations for rate changes. Rates are expected to rise but how much is not known.

According to village manager Robert Stalker, the last rate study and rate adjustment took place in 1983.

Stalker, in his report to council, cited several factors to justify the study. Among them were an increase in Consumers Power wholesale rates; the need to finance growth of the system due to increased demand; and the need to determine how Chelsea's rates compare to other public and private utilities.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

It was interesting to read James Drolett's article in The Dexter Leader, dated, July 19, 1989, stating that many were spreading half truths, misquotes and outright fabrications in the township. I believe James Drolett was talking about himself. He has a habit of speaking out on many things that he does not look into before he speaks.

He kept insisting that I had property on Portage Lake at several Dexter township meetings even after I informed him that I do not have property on Portage Lake, nor do I have any access to Portage Lake.

He promoted with the Sewer Authority for Dexter township to get easements for the Sewer Project by offering property owners $1.00 for an easement and not telling them what the easement would consist of. Now . . . the Dexter township finds that by taking these easements makes the property so much smaller that the property does not conform to the Township Zoning Ordinance. This type of action was consistent with their planning of the Sewer Project.

This is why we registered voters want to vote on the Sewer Bond issue.

Dear Editor,

Regarding the coverage of Dexter Council on Page 16, July 19 edition of The Dexter Leader, may we say that we are pretty disgusted?

As taxpayers, we are tired of administrative bureaucrats abusing funds to glorify themselves and so-called accomplishments they want to be credited for.

It was hard to take when the Dexter School District Board of Education approved over $2,000 of school funds to hold their annual "Staff Recognition Picnic" at Weber's Inn last March complete with buffet dinner, a band, and a cash bar. When questioning Dr. Hansen about the necessity of school funds used in this manner, he responded that every time such "picnic" had been scheduled in the past, it had rained, so they decided to move it indoors this year. Well, parents of cheerleaders and athletes honor them at banquets held in the high school cafeteria with "bring your own" dish to pass, as well as bring your own table setting with a meat entree and milk and coffee provided for by the Athletic Boosters Organization. Seemed to us that the Knights of Columbus Hall on Dexter-Chelsea Rd. could have kept the rain off the "picnic" just as well as Weber's could and that a B.Y.O. style of dinner fare could be had at a much less cost.

Now comes Dexter Village Council approving funds up to $3,000 to "celebrate" Dexter's new Industrial Park as suggested by Clerk Donna Fisher. It is SO easy to spend other people's money. Perhaps if Ms. Fisher thinks such an event is necessary, she could take a collection from the businesses located there. She could make up the difference from her clerk's pay. Why should taxpayers homeowners contribute to a celebration of increased traffic congestion, which will result in increased damage to already in bad shape roads, and add to the already bad traffic situation at the corner of Dan Hoey and Baker Rds. during school children in jeopardy that puts school children in Jeopardy during school arrival and dismissal times because of heavy traffic flow?

Celebrate what, indeed! How many Dexter residents will be guaranteed jobs at these "new" businesses? At what pay scale? $5 an hour? Celebrate increased tax revenue for the Village when 12-year-tax abatements have already been granted?

We remember hearing at the public hearings held prior to annexation of the land where the Industrial Park is located, that by putting industry out on Dan Hoey, it would be moved out from the downtown area. Plans then were to renovate the downtown for more retail business and improve the Mill Pond area so a public access park could be there. Well, DAPCO's "old" plant by the cemetery is for lease. Does the Village, or DAPCO really intend to move industry out of downtown? We think not.

We've lived in Dexter for 10 years, and moved here because we liked the rural charm, and felt it was a good safe place to raise children. Now, because of the Industrial Park, we feel we aren't even safe to take a walk on Dan Hoey because of the traffic. Traffic has increased steadily and now we wonder if we'll even be able to get out of our own driveway in the morning after the park is opened with so many employees arriving for work on Dan Hoey Rd.

Why not spend the $3,000 towards sidewalks to assure residents and children a safe place to walk? The Dan Hoey-Baker Rd. corner is so close to the schools. Scio township residents pay more mills in school taxes than any other tax, yet there are no safe places on Baker Rd. south of Dan Hoey for elementary age kids to walk to Bates, or Wylie.

When we complained to Dr. Hansen about safety of kids on foot in the area from Dan Hoey corner to the crosswalk between Bates and the High school, he said, "We know it is a bad situation and unfortunately it will get worse before it will get better." That was unacceptable to us. We kept urging the village and the schools to do something about it. Do you know what they did finally do? They agreed to have a traffic impact study done and then squabbled about who would pay for it, and decided to split the costs.

So how many children, how many people who want to enjoy a stroll will be put at risk before administrators get their priorities right? Over $2,000 was spent on a school party, (and now they want us to approve another mill increase in September). Up to $3,000 has been approved to spend on another party. How much has been spent or approved to spend on public safety?

From our experiences at Board meetings, both school and council, when only one or two citizens voice their concerns, they are labeled as dissidents and pooh-poohed. So, how about it taxpayers? Do you believe our dollars should be spent so administrators can pat themselves on the back? Or should that money be spent on public safety? Elected officials MUST be held accountable how funds are spent. As long as people just pay their taxes and do not question how it is spent, the kinds of abuses cited above will continue. Public service is a thankless job. The reward lies in doing the best you can with the interest of your community members at heart . . . as Councilman Tim Klever has repeatedly shown.

Jerry & Karen Dworek.

To the Editor,

The article by James Drolett, Dexter township supervisor, in the July 19, 1989 Dexter Leader, demands point-by-point response, clarification, and elaboration.

The most obscene bit of misinformation in that article pertains to the referendum petitions. Mr. Drolett claims, "If you have signed a referendum petition, you can get your name taken off by calling the circulator of the petition and requesting it be stricken. You may also call the Dexter township clerk, William Elsenbeiser, and ask that your name be removed."

FACT: To quote Washtenaw county clerk, Robert M. Harrison, "When a person signs a petition, possession goes to the circulator. No one may remove it." That is a court ruling. Mr. Drolett should know that, or should have checked out that specific information before writing such a thing.

Mr. Drolett's Points:

1. What Kind of System? We have been concerned about the aquifer some 35 feet below ground on Stinchfield Woods Rd. Two 5 million gallon aerated lagoons, (which are open air septic tanks for raw sewage), will be "quite deep" according to Mr. Smit, project engineer. If I may reasonably interpret "quite deep" to mean at least 12-15 feet, that raw sewage is now only 20 feet above the aquifer. Is there a single citizen in this township who would like to have at least 68 million gallons of raw sewage passing 20 feet above his or her aquifer each year for the next 15-40 years? If so, please make yourself known. Perhaps I can offer you a drink of water.

The sand basins totaling 5.5 acres are not just numbers. My own property is 5.7 acres. Therefore, I know visually, exactly how big that sand pit, (which is really an open air leach field), will be. It will be mammoth. Come stand in my yard and look at my property lines if you want to see the dimensions of the basic sand pit. Now, consider one gallon of effluent water per square foot of land on the 5.5 acres, going into the ground each day, seven days a week, for 15-40 years. That's 240,000 gallons per day on 240,000 square feet of ground. Again, may I, or any of my neighbors, offer you a drink of water.

Mr. Drolett says "all" the "renovated water" will travel towards the "swamp." He can't guarantee "all" in an area of complex geology where his site sits on a "drainage divide." And the "swamp" is a beautiful wetlands area, not something murky, muddy, and filthy. Drive north between Big and Little Portage Lakes and look to the west. You see it. You decide.

Drolett also says, "In fact, the water from the treatment facility will be many times cleaner than that which now flows into the lake from the Portage River." No argument. All studies, for years, have shown that the Portage River is the biggest polluter of the lake because it runs through farmland, carrying in some animal wastes and much fertilizer run-off. Just don't try to give the impression we are comparing this sewer water with a clean river.

The majority of 1,000 septic tanks and drainfields are not harmfully discharging into the lakes. See studies in township files from 1981, 1982, and 1985.

2. The DNR posted notice, then issued a waste water discharge permit specifying servicing 2,400 people. That was an average of 100 gallons per person per day (ppd). That was safe for the DNR because the average ppd by industry standards is 75 gallons ppd. However, the specifications for this system, submitted to the Washtenaw County Board of Health show instead of 2,400 people, it is instead projected to service over 4,000 people. The Board of Health likes that number because it wants a project like this to service as many people as possible. This is, none the less, a major discrepancy with the DNR permit. The 4,000 ppd service means that they are allowing for processing only 60 gallons ppd. That is 15 gallons ppd or 60,000 per day total that they seem to be under-estimating.

Further, Mr. Drolett states the engineers are figuring 200 gallons per home per day. Yet, the average home has 3.2 people, and 3.2 x 75 gallons equals 240 gallons per home. The 40 gallons per home under-estimated, times 1,150 homes, equals 46,000 gallons under-estimated in the figuring of daily water processed. Use whichever gallonage you wish. The engineers' projections come up short by between 46,000 and 60,000 gallons per day. That is an under-estimate on a system they want to go on line at basically full capacity. Wouldn't any informed citizen be alarmed?

3. The life of this proposed system is very debatable. None have been in service anywhere for much more than 10 years, according to Bruce Monson of the Huron River Watershed Council. Nobody really knows for sure.

4. Some people on the lakes are already planning to turn some summer homes into year round residences. Some lots that aren't buildable because of failure to pass percolation tests, will now be buildable with a sewer system available. Indeed, some real estate agents have been observed by this writer, seeking out property descriptions of vacant properties in the lakes townships so they may be properly marketed. Reasonable deduction says the percentage of year round homes will only increase, and the system, built at capacity, will be overburdened.

The P.B.L.O.A. says it doesn't want growth. The actual activity we see runs counter to the wishes of both the P.B.L.O.A. and us, the opponents of this particular system.

6. Regarding alternative sites. Six alternative sites were suggested by the County Board of Health a few years ago when the idea of sewers apparently first came up. That paper-work and map is in my possession. The alternatives were ignored as was the Dexter Village option. The Stinchfield Woods Rd. site was chosen arbitrarily and settled upon, because of price, and also the desire to prevent other possible commercial development on Stinchfield Woods Rd., which would impact the lakes area. Reason indicates that an establishment like a restaurant, is a great deal less threatening than an 88 million gallon per year sewage processing site. No, I don't want a restaurant there.

7. Will this system work? See everything above. Regarding the letters of MSU Professors, Mr. Drolett told the public the professors would be writing letters withdrawing their statements and qualifying their positions. They did not, they have not, and they probably will not. Dr. Mokema walked the site and charted the soils. So much for misinformation.

8. Dexter Village option. See last week's letter to the editor section in The Dexter Leader for 10 reasons of support.

9. The Wording on the Petitions. The wording on the petitions being circulated in the four townships is taken off of the Dexter Township Public Notice of the BONDING ISSUE, published in the June 28, 1989 issue of The Dexter Leader. That wording was carried to the Washtenaw county clerk, the Livingston county clerk, the Putnam township clerk, and the Dexter township clerk, all of whom had "no problem" with the wording. If Mr. Drolett has a problem with the wording, he has a problem with the wording of his own notice to the public regarding the bonding issue.

All of the petition gatherers have written instructions, and to my knowledge, none has said that all the township residents will pay for the sewers. We have clearly said that all taxpayers will have liability in the event the sewer assessment district defaults or in any way fails to meet its financial obligations. The only misleading information being spread here is by Mr. Drolett and company, claiming that we are not being truthful. We don't have to lie. We have too many facts, and too much rather obvious logic in our position arguments.

10. Cost of the system. The township and engineers are not totally sure of its cost. They have no hard bids from contractors yet. Question: How can people be charged interest on the assessment from Aug. 1, when the coming referendum election won't be held until late October or November.

11. Other costs. If a physical plant has to be built, you can be fairly sure there will be additional cost. Our contention, based on all our information and research, is that a plant will have to be built in addition to the holding ponds and the sand pits. If the E.P.A. mandates additional treatment, the plant won't be built for free. The E.P.A. has been studiously avoided in developing plans for this system. To involve them would require an Environmental Impact Study, or at the very least, an Environmental Impact Statement. Is the idea to get the system built, and then, if the E.P.A. injects itself into the situation, fix whatever needs fixing? Do sewer users think that "fixing" is free?

12. Federal or State Grants. See Mrs. Peabody's letter to the editor last week.

13. At last investigation, the number of homes with septic systems polluting the lake was 3-4 on Baseline, and 3-4 on Portage. P.B.L.O.A. Newsletters are the source of these numbers.

14. Easements. No contrary comment.

15. Pumping Stations. No contrary comment.

16. Should I or should I not sign a petition? This section really irritates anyone who loves the concept of "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," and periodically utters with sincerity at public functions, "with liberty and justice for all." Here we have Dexter township citizens being told by Mr. Drolett, "if the voters say no, the project will be delayed until alternate financing can be arranged through the county DPW or Drain Commissioner's Office. The residents of Dexter will be pledging the full faith and credit of the county instead of the township under these financing methods."

We actually elected this "gentleman" to represent us and he turns around and puts into print, words that mean in effect, "I don't care what you as voters want when you vote on the referendum. We are going to do this project as we conceived it because we are all-knowing about this situation. Whether you people like it or not, you are going to have the financial liability, and if not through the township, then through the county."

I will close by using Mr. Drolett's own words with my personal words interspersed in bold print. "I'm sure many of you have already heard many of the half-truths, misquotes, and outright fabrications by some of the PROPONENTS of the sewer system, but I urge you not to be misled by PEOPLE whose sole purpose is to COMPLETE this project FOR A FEW OF THE LAKES RESIDENTS, not the welfare of ALL the residents of the townships."

Thank you for taking the time to read all of this, and to contemplate it. And again, thanks to all those citizens who have supported their right to vote coming referendum election won't be held until late October or November.

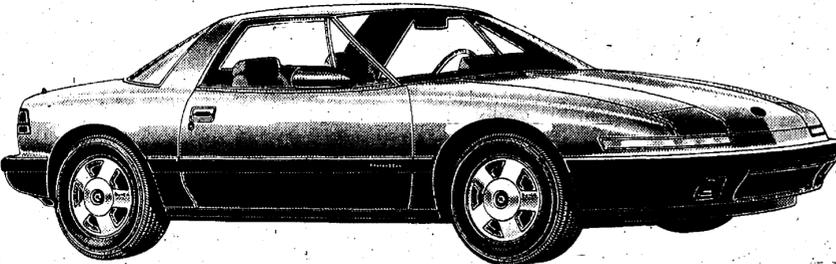

Gregg E. Magnuson.

Papo Office Land Annexed into Village

Land for a proposed office complex between Old US-12 and Chelsea Community Hospital has been officially annexed into the village. Action was taken recently by the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners.

Developer Rene Papo has applied to have the zoning of the area changed from agriculture to office. That, according to village zoning inspector Rosemary Harook, is a three-month process. Site plan approval would follow.

Papo wants to build the office complex primarily to serve the medical profession.

In another Papo project, the proposed Chelsea Pines condominium project for land between Lincoln and Wilkinson Sts. will apparently proceed as it was originally conceived. That should make final approval a relatively quick procedure.

Papo said there are five phases to the project and total of 37 duplexes or 74 units. The initial phase will contain eight buildings or 16 units.

"I'm going to go slow," Papo said last week.

The first phase will be constructed off Wilkinson St. The phases move gradually toward Lincoln St.

The development will eventually have a condominium association, Papo said.

'Chelsea Together' Progress Reported

Approximately 40 people attended a meeting held at the Fellowship Hall at Our Savior Lutheran church on July 17 to discuss the sub-group's progress reports and recommendations to the main committee. The following sub-groups were formed at the June 26 meeting: Education, Medical/Mental Health, Recreational, Religion/Churches, and Parenting/Family.

The Parenting/Family Group reported that they had found there were several resource groups available to our community such as the "New Beginnings" grief group, which will be reactivated in our community in September (more specific information will follow), and through "Faith in Action," the Parent to Parent group, Parents Anonymous, and Teen Parents group, to mention a few. There is also an "Interfaith Counseling" group available with the accent on the "Spirit" in its counseling. The "Peer Listening" group for teens has been established at the high school, and a "Task Force Response Team" is also in existence at the high school to respond to emergency situations. There is currently a number for the Kiwanis-sponsored "HELP LINE"—475-0111, and research is being done to see who to connect this line to for 24-hour response.

Stephen Hartwell reported on the Education Group's research and commented on the list which was passed out at the meeting. A resource guide for parents and children was suggested and thoughts were given to mail it to the Chelsea Community parents and be published in the newspaper. Possible lecture series were also discussed that would teach parents how to listen and respond to their children. A training program for teens to become peer counselors is also suggested. Quest International, a school program which is a curriculum aimed at increasing children's ability to cope with peer pressure and negative influences was proposed. Also, a possible "Big Brother, Big Sister" program might be implemented.

The Religion Group indicated that all the churches are available and the pastors are on call for counseling without denominational bias. A group of lay people (with training) to assist the pastors was suggested along with prayer chains being used more extensively.

Several teens attended the Recreation Group's meeting and indicated that they would like to see more activities held locally such as teen dances, concerts in the park with teen oriented music, a Battle of the Bands, ice skating at Vets Park, and also the possibility of building a Teen Center.

The Medical Group stated that there were many resources available through the local Hospital and Family Practice Center.

It was agreed by everyone that Chelsea Together's main objective is to find local resources, communicate to the public, and assist parents, kids, and anyone in any way possible to help them function better while under stress, grieving, and just coping with day-to-day situations.

It was decided that short-term planning must be done and some action taken now, such as instituting and using the HELP LINE as soon as possible and getting publicity to the public that this is done. Then set some long-term goals and deal with them.

A "board" for Chelsea Together was formed and consists of the following people: Conrad Knutsen, Tiffany Browning, Tammy Browning, Kim Roberts, Stephen Hartwell, Pat Zangara, Gail Cordell, Joe Roberts, Jim Webb, Blake Thomson and Moira Hubbard. This board will meet Aug. 2 to prioritize the top 10 suggestions and bring them back to the general meeting on Wednesday, Aug. 16 at the Savior Lutheran church's Fellowship Hall at 7 p.m. In the meantime, if anyone in the community has any more suggestions or needs they want addressed, please feel free to contact one of the above board members and they will address these needs.

CATARACTS

Cataracts are one of the most common causes of loss of vision. They cause a gradual loss of vision, making it difficult to focus well, and often cause problems in bright light. They can occur at any age, but are more common the older we are. Many people think that a cataract is a film growing over the eye, but actually a cataract is a clouding of the natural, living human lens inside the eye. No one knows for sure what causes a cataract, but they are more common with aging, and with years of exposure to the sun. They can also be seen after an injury.

Fortunately, modern surgery enables us to safely remove a cataract, and replace it with an implant lens, to restore good vision in the great majority of cases. We no longer have to wait until a cataract is "ripe"; surgery can be done when vision is blurred for everyday activities such as reading or driving. Nowadays an overnight stay in the hospital is not required, and patients are back to their normal routine in a short time.

Girl Scouts Enjoy Busy Week of Activities at Summer Day Camp

Brownie Scouts were busy making wind wheels, fliers, balloon rockets and rafts at Girl Scout Day Camp, held last week at a Chelsea area farm. Dexter's Dianna Borel was camp director, assisted by first-aiders Shirley Gorse of Saline, and several other interested adults.

A scientific theme dominated the program at Day Camp, but the activities were planned at a level the girls could easily understand, and proved interesting as well.

Movers and Science Magic were topics chosen for the younger girls to study.

The Brownies cut paper squares and drew a pair of diagonal lines, corner-to-corner, on the squares, before cutting halfway to the center from each corner and sticking a pin through the square to secure it to a stick for the finished wind wheel.

For the fliers, the Brownies cut a piece of paper in half, length-wise, folding the paper twice, the long way, then folding it cross-wise and putting a paper clip on the last fold.

The points were folded down, and the Brownies dropped the helicopters to see if they would fly.

To make circle gliders, they attached both a long, and a short, strip of paper to the ends of a straw, with paper clips, forming circles, before they tested the little craft for flight.

Balloon rockets were made by taping a straw to the top of a balloon, lying on its side. A thread was put through the straw, and girls held the ends of the thread, let the balloon go, and watched it travel along the string.

Probably one of the most exciting vehicles for transportation put together by the Brownies was a miniature wooden raft.

The girls glued popsicle sticks together, edge to edge, then glued two additional sticks, cross-wise, to provide supports.

A tiny mast was fastened to the raft with glue, with a paper sail attached to the mast before the raft was set afloat on the pond at the farm.

In the Science Magic category, Brownies had a magnet hunt, designed to determine what materials are attracted to a magnet.

They blew up balloons and rubbed the balloons on their hair, then tested to see if little pieces of paper or thread stuck to the balloons.

Fun making it, and more fun tasting it—home-made butter.

The directions said, "Pour cream into a jar, add three or four ice cubes, put the top on and take turns shaking the jar for about 15 minutes. Next, place the jar in the refrigerator for an hour, and pour the contents through a strainer."

The girls agreed the process worked just fine. They spread the butter on crackers, tasted it, and reported good results.

During the chemistry magic experiment, each girl put 10 pennies in a cup and covered them with vinegar, adding a teaspoon of salt.

They swirled the cup until the pennies were shiny and all the tarnish was dissolved. After removing the pennies, they placed one or two nails in the cup. Within five minutes, the copper from the pennies coated the nails.

Who made the home-grown crystals at day camp? The Brownies did.

They mixed four tablespoons each of salt, water and bluing, and one of ammonia, drizzled the mixture over coal, added a little more each day for three days, put a few drops of food coloring in on the second day, then watched the crystals grow.

While the Brownies were working to complete their scientific studies, the Junior Girl Scouts were just as busy.

They used an electromagnet, made by wrapping wire around a bolt, then holding the ends of the wires against the terminals of a battery.

In a tall, narrow jar, the girls dissolved as much sugar in water as the water would tolerate, heating the mixture in the sun to assist their experiment.

They hung strings into the syrup from a stick and left the jar with the syrupy mixture until sugar crystals appeared on the strings.

To make a siphon work, the girls filled plastic tubing with water, and kept both ends lower than the water level of a full jar of water. The water emptied into an empty jar.

Their day camp program allowed experiments to float objects heavier than water, make wave bottles and megaphones, keep records of the kinds of clouds in the sky during the week at camp, and search for clues to show that a glacier had once been where they camped.

Juniors made barometers, too, and observed how the level of tinted liquid in the barometers changed with atmospheric pressure changes.

During the floating activities, the girls placed various objects on cardboard, leaves, or popsicle sticks, added salt to the water and stirred the water to dissolve the salt.

They discovered the floats would hold a heavier load, after the salt was added.

Adding an inch of mineral oil to a half-full bottle of colored water, then tilting the bottle on its side, was a method used by the girls to study how waves move.

Each day, they recorded the clouds they observed, consistently choosing one time each day. Using the charts borrowed from Girl Scout headquarters, they studied the kinds of weather associated with the various cloud formations.

Final activity on the list for Juniors was to search for clues that would show a glacier had been at the location used for day camp.

The girls checked for erosion, and to find evidence that intense heat was present at some time—igneous rocks.

They tried to find five minerals or rocks, and looked in a mineral book borrowed from Girl Scout headquarters for information on the five samples.

Wildflowers Bloom Along Many State Highways

The roadsides of Michigan are blooming with a spectacular array of colorful wildflowers.

Many of the plants are native wildflowers, while others were introduced here by early pioneers.

The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) began helping nature out in 1984 by planting native wildflowers at selected sites along portions of its 10,000-mile highway system. Since then, it has planted more than 100 acres along state highways.

Visible now are a variety of both native and non-native wildflowers. Right now, ox-eyed daisies, with white petals surrounding yellow centers, are blooming abundantly. The bluish, purple tones of purple vetch appear almost iridescent as they wind over fences and slopes.

Brown-eyed Susans, with bright yellow petals around brown centers also are blossoming, as well as red cardinal flowers and fireweed.

An MDOT brochure on Michigan wildflowers is available at all 13 of its welcome centers, or may be obtained by writing to the Michigan Department of Transportation, Public Information Office, P. O. Box 30050, Lansing 48909.

Minority displaced homemakers are even more likely to have children in their care, according to the U. S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau. Thirty-eight percent of black homemakers and 51 percent of Hispanics have children under 18 at home as compared to 17 percent of whites.

JESSICA FORSHEE, LEIGHA YOUNG, were two of the 80 Girl Scouts who participated in the 1989 Girl Scout Day Camp, held this summer at a Chelsea area farm. The girls represented units from Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester and Saline. Dianna Borel of Dexter served as camp director, with Shirley Gorse from Saline covering the first aid duties. Ages ranged from five to 13, with a wide range of activities available.

NOTICE TO VILLAGE RESIDENTS

Lawn-rakings, grass-clippings, shrubbery trimmings and other debris should not be loosely placed in the streets or public right-of-ways.

Village residents who wish to dispose of these items must place them in plastic bags and set them at the curb for the regular Tuesday and Friday garbage and refuse collection. The total limit is three (3) bags per household for each collection date.

As in the past, Village Public Works crews will continue to pickup and dispose of tree trimmings. However, we do request that tree trimmings be cut in lengths not exceeding eight (8) feet and placed neatly near the curb.

Please keep in mind that the pickup is for tree trimmings only, not entire trees.

Rains Fall at Wrong Time For Local Wheat Farmers

For some farmers, the recent rains have been a mixed blessing. The rain will go a long way to help ensure big corn and soy bean crops. However, the rain came at just the wrong time for the area's wheat farmers. Hot, dry weather would have been welcomed over the last 10 days or so, just as the wheat was reaching a perfect condition for harvesting. Rain hit big in the middle of last week and the moisture is beginning to take its toll. White wheat is starting to sprout, which makes it unsuitable for a number of millers, including companies like Chelsea Milling Co. "We've seen as much as 20 to 50 percent sprouted wheat," said Proviso

Big H (formerly Honegger's Inc.) General Manager Klaus Bachmann. Bachmann said about 20 percent of the area crop was brought to the company early the week of July 17, about two weeks later than last year. He expects most of the rest to be in this week, weather permitting. Farmers want the wheat to dry out, but every day they wait they will lose some bushels, some of it due to just falling on the ground. Weight is down per bushel, Bachmann said, ranging from 55 to 57 pounds per bushel. He's seeing almost none in the 58-61 pound range, which he did see last year. In addition, yields are ranging from about 40-60 bushels per acre, down from last year as well. Price, however, is in about the same range as last year, with the highest early price at $3.76 per bushel. Bachmann said that Ohio weights are in the 56-57 pound range. "I think what we're going to see is a premium price for heavy test weight wheat," Bachmann said. "The Russians have bought a lot of wheat but it has to be in the 58 pound range to be exported. There's not much of that around."
