Area Churches Schedule Special Holiday Services

Chelsea-area churches plan special services on Christmas Eve and/or Christmas day to celebrate the birth of Jesus Christ.

At most churches, special Christmas Eve services will be held in addition to regular Sunday services.

St. Mary Catholic church, 14200 Old US-12, will have a special Children's Mass at 4 p.m. on Sunday, followed by a Family Mass at 6 p.m. The late night mass has been dropped. On Christmas day, mass will be held at 8 and 10 a.m.

First United Methodist church, 128 Park St., has scheduled a Family Christmas Eve service at 7 p.m. and a Christmas Eve Communion service will be held at 11 p.m. No services are planned Christmas day.

Chelsea Free Methodist church, 7665 Werkner Rd., plans a 8 p.m. Christmas Eve Worship, a candlelight service with special music for the entire congregation. No services are planned Christmas day.

St. Paul United Church of Christ, 14600 Old US-12, has scheduled a Christmas Eve Family Service and Holy Communion for 7:30 p.m. A late service with holy communion will be held at 11 p.m.

St. Barnabas Episcopal church, 20500 Old US-12, begins its Christmas celebration on Friday, Dec. 22 at 8:30 p.m. with caroling, tree trimming, and decorating of the church. On Sunday, Dec. 24, special Christmas Eve services start at 10 p.m. with lessons and carols. The annual Family Gathering will be held Christmas day at 8 a.m.

At Faith Evangelical Lutheran church, 9575 North Territorial Rd., the 10 a.m. worship service on Sunday will feature a special children's sing for children in kindergarten through eighth grade. No services are planned for Christmas day.

Our Savior Lutheran church, 1515 S. Main St., plans a 7 p.m. Christmas Eve service. No services are scheduled for Monday.

Zion Lutheran church, Fletcher and Waters Rd., plans a Family Candlelight and Communion service on Sunday at 7:30 p.m. At 9:15 a.m. on Christmas day, "Gloria," a carol setting for Holy Communion will be held.

Chelsea Area Man Killed In One-Vehicle Crash

A 24-year-old Chelsea-area man was killed in a one-car crash on Island Lake Rd. late Sunday night or early Monday morning.

James Robert Wallace, of Cottonwood Lane, was pronounced dead on arrival at Chelsea Community Hospital at 1:18 a.m.

According to Sgt. Harley Rider of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Wallace was driving his 1983 compact car east on Island Lake Rd. east of Stoffer Rd. when he lost control of the vehicle, slid across the road, and struck a tree on the driver's side of the car. Wallace was not wearing a seatbelt. There were no passengers.

The department was called to the scene at 12:38 a.m. after a passing motorist noticed the vehicle off the road. Wallace was transported by Chelsea Fire Rescue to the hospital.

A chemical test was requested, Rider said, but "they couldn't draw enough blood." It was not known at press time when the accident occurred.

Rider said he did not know whether conditions on the dirt road contributed to the accident but he said it's likely Wallace was driving too fast for conditions.

Civic Foundation To Vote On Funding for Projects

Board of Directors of the Civic Foundation of Chelsea plans to vote tomorrow, Thursday, Dec. 21 on whether to help fund three community projects.

The distribution committee has already given a favorable recommendation for the proposals, which include occasional household help for Chelsea senior citizens; the construction of a gazebo in Pierce Park; and the purchase of a scientific balance for Chelsea High school science classes.

Chore Program
Faith in Action has asked for $5,000 in order to formalize a service which the organization has been providing informally for the past 10 years. Chelsea's elderly population, mostly women, have a need for occasional household help.

VISTA has agreed to provide funds for a co-ordinator who will contact the persons in need and arrange help when possible. The cost to the individual will be determined on a sliding scale according to what he or she can afford. Seed money from the Civic Foundation would be used to subsidize the difference between the cost of services and what the individual can afford to pay. Future funds are to come from other sources such as United Way. The distribution committee will recommend that $2,500 be donated now and another $2,500 in the coming year when further need is shown.

Gazebo
The 30-foot diameter, hexagonal gazebo will be located in the southeast portion of Pierce Park. Rotary Club of Chelsea has been the sponsoring organization, but the gazebo committee is made up of a coalition of representatives of various local groups.

Materials, purchased from Chelsea Lumber Co. at a favorable price, will cost about $15,000. Trades and labor will be donated by members of the Chelsea Rod & Gun Club. Chuck Raeder, of the Rotary Club, will be construction co-ordinator. Village manager Robert Stalker is working with the planning commission on the site plan, as well as a way to waive fees. Rotary Club has pledged about $2,000 and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce has pledged $1,500.

Civic Foundation Distribution Committee has recommended a donation of $3,000.

Scientific Balance
Frank Hammer, a concerned parent with an interest in educational opportunities for high school students, has co-ordinated the campaign to purchase an analytical balance.

Through his business contacts, Hammer was able to arrange a purchase price of $1,200 for the $3,000 state-of-the-art piece of equipment.

The balance will enhance the science program by exposing students to equipment commonly used in laboratories and allowing them to weigh minute substances used in experiments.

The school is not in a position to pay for the balance during this year's budget cycle, and the price would likely rise later. More than half of the money has been raised and the distribution committee will recommend that the Civic Foundation donate the rest.

If the board approves all three grant proposals, the balance in the foundation's general fund will be significantly reduced. The foundation is in these midst of its annual membership drive and anyone interested in helping further the work of the organization is encouraged to donate generously. Coupons for membership are available in this edition of The Chelsea Standard.

Village, Dilses Settle Sewer Easement Dispute

Village of Chelsea's squabble with Art and Ruth Dils over the value of a sewer easement across their N. Main St. property has apparently been settled.

Attorneys for both sides have been arguing for more than a year about the value of the 30-foot-wide strip of property that runs from Main St. through to North Elementary school along the north side of Letts Creek.

The Dilses accepted a value of $5,500 determined last summer by a mediator. The value is $3,000 more than value set by an appraiser hired by the village but $12,500 less than the value set by an appraiser hired by the Dilses. The Dilses reportedly made a counter-proposal of $10,000 that was never voted on by village council.

The Dilses have contended that a home could eventually be built in what is now their side yard and the

Christmas Lights Stolen from Yard

A Harrison St. resident told Chelsea police that someone stole two strands of outdoor Christmas lights from her home sometime after 4 p.m. on Dec. 13.

The lights were taken from a tree in the front yard. An extension cord was left behind, however.

easement substantially lowers the value of the lot.

The village took the easement through condemnation proceedings in October of 1988 in order to build a sanitary sewer force main, which was installed last summer. The sewer line is designed to help carry the additional sewage generated by recent growth in the southern end of the village. Village engineers determined the project would be far more costly if the line was routed anywhere else.

The settlement will also pay the Dilses about $1,000 in legal fees, as well as other miscellaneous expenses, including interest.

A PICK-UP TRUCK full of new toys was donated to Chelsea Social Services by Palmer Ford-Mercury last week for distribution to area needy families at Christmas time. ## Manchester Boy Killed in Crash

A three-year-old Manchester boy was killed in a freak automobile crash on Jackson Rd. in Scio township early Monday evening.

According to Sgt. Harley Rider of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Patricia Smith, 38, of Manchester, was driving west on Jackson Rd. about one-quarter mile west of Baker Rd. at 8:18 when she swerved to avoid a stopped vehicle in the road. She lost control of her compact station wagon and skidded sideways into a row of mailboxes. A support from one of the mailboxes came into the rear window and struck Daniel Smith, who was secured in a child carrier. Patricia Smith was not hurt.

Daniel Smith was taken by Huron Valley Ambulance to University of Michigan Hospital, where he was pronounced dead at 7:16 p.m.

Police are trying to locate the owner of the vehicle that was stopped in the road. Anyone who witnessed the crash should call Rider at 994-8400.

SANTA CLAUS had his hands full as Danny Kreger, 4, was almost too big for his right knee and Danny's sister, Emily, 8 months, almost slid right off the other one last Saturday afternoon at the Chelsea Depot. The youngsters are the children of Jane and Jim Kreger of Chelsea. Santa's third and final visit was sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association.

The 105-year-old Chelsea rail depot was sold by Amtrak to the Chelsea Depot Association, Inc. Signing of the agreement took place in the office of Rep. Carl D. Pursell of the 2nd District of Michigan. The congressman was instrumental in bringing about the agreement which had gone through various stages of negotiation for nearly four years.

Chelsea schools were evacuated after a man called the district office twice saying a bomb was planted in one of the school buildings and was set to go off. Chelsea police were notified after the first call at approximately 10:20 a.m., according to superintendent Ray Van Meer. The buildings were searched and nothing was found. After the second call, all four school buildings were evacuated according to fire drill procedures. A subsequent search also turned up nothing. Apparently the caller was a young, adult male, who said that at noon a building was "gonna go boom."

Cager of the week was senior co-captain Ken Martin, who thrilled the home crowd last Friday with a game-winning shot at the buzzer to lift the Bulldogs over favored Saline. He led the team with 23 points. When basketball didn't occupy his time, Ken liked to show Morgan horses. His hobby, which occupied him since he was 10 years old, took him all over Michigan and to the National show in Oklahoma. His horses have appeared at the Chelsea Community Fair and the State Fair. Ken was involved with the 4-H club and was active at the North Sharon Bible church. He even liked to try his hand at the bowling alley.

If numbers of participants were the best judge of the Chelsea Recreation Council's fall program, it would've seemed that the desire to stay in shape was imminent in the minds of the 23 ladies who signed up for the Council's "Ladies Night Out." The evening exercise program under the supervision of Terry Shreiner led the list with the highest number of participants. Numbers however, were not everything, and according to Holly Porter, council director, "Ladies Night Out" was just one among many of the Council's fall programs that enjoyed success.

Chelsea representatives in the Bicentennial Youth Debates contest, Brenda Shadoan and Kim Brown had placed first in their respective divisions in district competition. Both young ladies were chosen to represent Chelsea when the local contest, sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club was held here. The girls were to continue in competition at the sectional level to be held in Marshall, they were also to compete for a first prize cash award of $1,000.

A 235-acre site equidistant between Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti was selected as the location of the Washtenaw Community College Campus. The college's Board of Trustees took the action unanimously. The property, then known as the Huron Valley Farms, was to cost $3,500 an acre, placing the total cost of the land at approximately $822,500.

A letter was received from Corporal James Weir shortly before Christmas that presented a new idea for Christmas gifts. Being stationed in Saigon during Christmas the previous year the Corporal knew how lonely it was, not to have contact with those at home in the United States. In his letter, he requested that his parents send gifts to the wounded men in the hospital rather than to him. He stressed that it would be very much appreciated by the men.

It was the "Golden Age of Christmas." The personal exchange of good wishes, visiting homes to toast a friend's good health, carol-singing, bringing in the Yule log and great family dinners were all in vogue. A new book was published that year. It told of Christmas goose and plum pudding, of happy family parties. It presented, and made immortal, Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim. The book was Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol," and the year was 1843.

Approximately 72 persons attended the Christmas turkey dinner party at the Legion Home. The dinner, attended by members of the American Legion and Auxiliary, consisted of turkey and the trimmings, with salads, vegetables and dessert dishes brought by the members. Santa Claus appeared to present gifts to the children who attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter P. Leonard, publishers of The Chelsea Standard, announced the birth of a daughter, Elizabeth May, at U. of M. Women's hospital, Ann Arbor. Contrary to some reports, a delay in deciding on a name for the baby was not because "a boy was expected" but simply because in the rush of the Christmas season at the office (and because a hearty choice in such an important matter did not seem advisable) there was no time to make the decision. The parents and the Standard staff are happy that the new arrival is a little girl. Mrs. Leonard and Elizabeth May were fine and were expected to be home from the hospital for Christmas.

Kelly Voids Part of D.S.S. Cuts Ordered By Governor

Legislators and Gov. James Blanchard's administration officials are discussing plans for spending cuts throughout government, probably with a supplemental reducing budget amounts. This follows a ruling by Attorney General Frank Kelley that social services cuts in Medicaid programs ordered by the governor were unconstitutional.

However, the amount of the cuts that will be required to keep the 1989-90 budget in balance remained unsettled with officials saying only it could be "substantially" more than the almost $50 million originally needed to keep DSS spending in line.

The Kelley opinion (No. 6607) said a 1984 state law which Blanchard used to make about $13.6 million of the DSS cuts amounted to an unconstitutional delegation of legislative authority to the executive. He said the Legislature cannot authorize the executive to change a law appropriating funds or provide a certain level of services.

The disputed savings were accomplished in part by implementing policies the Legislature had rejected and not implementing others it had approved.

Blanchard ordered the cuts in October after saying the Legislature failed to appropriate enough money to cover the services authorized in the DSS budget.

Kelley said the constitution clearly does not permit the Legislature to "delegate to a department director the authority to actually reduce or eliminate legislatively mandated services or programs because the amount appropriated is insufficient." He said the executive is authorized to spend less than appropriated amounts only by means of "economies and efficiencies."

Kelley put the onus on the Legislature to resolve budget problems associated with insufficient appropriations by either reducing programs and services or boosting appropriations.

While the constitution provides for the governor to issue executive orders to solve budget imbalances, Kelley noted that becomes operative when revenues fail to meet expectations.

Management and Budget Director Shelby Solomon called the opinion "encouraging" by preserving the ability of the executive to implement economies and efficiencies.

Solomon said he will work with the Legislature to resolve the budget problem, and said he will ask every department to examine its budget for additional savings.

Solomon said it is too early to tell how much will have to be squeezed out of the budget, but said over-expenditures will occur not only in DSS, but corrections, public health, mental health and state police as well.

The DSS cuts voided by the Kelley opinion include Medicaid spending in areas such as pharmaceutical and capital cost reimbursement rates and reinstatement of a health care access improvement initiative and cuts in the Office of Children and Youth Services.

About $32.5 million in other savings by administrative actions will essentially go forward unchallenged although legislators want further discussion of spending for fuel assistance and weatherization programs.

The administration had redirected about $1 million in oil overcharge refunds to the state to buttress heating assistance programs following the initial cuts.

Rep. David Hollister (D-Lansing), who raised immediate objections when the cuts were ordered, called the Kelley opinion "gratifying" in preserving legislative powers, but noted the budget problems remain.

Hollister had also complained that DSS was singled out for the cuts, and predicted the eventual size of reductions needed to keep the budget balanced "will be a hell of a lot more" than had been ordered for the welfare agency.

DSS Director C. Patrick Babcock said he intends to work with the Legislature and DMB to balance the budget, adding, "compromises will have to be made."

Rep. Ralph Ostling (R-Roscommon), Republican vice-chair of the House Appropriations Committee, said he is preparing a "negative supplemental" applying whatever percentage reduction is necessary to all departments to bring the budget back in balance. "We're back to square one," he said.

Solomon would express no preference for making cuts either by a percentage in all departments, or target specific cuts in individual departments.

Sen. Robert Geake (R-Northville), chair of the Senate Social Services Appropriations Subcommittee, said he will be "monitoring the numbers" on the DSS programs that Solomon sought to cut while working on the 1990-91 budget next year.

"It's entirely possible we'll have to make those corrections, but it's entirely too soon to say if we need to make adjustments," he said.

Geake agreed it is too early to determine if an executive order is appropriate.

Small Businesses Seek Agency To Provide Health Insurance
Saying small businesses either cannot afford to provide employee health insurance or are forced to pay a disproportionate cost for benefits, the Small Business Association of Michigan has proposed creation of a special authority to provide health care and to work to keep costs down.

A study requested by the group showed smaller businesses pay higher rates and must use a larger portion of their income for health coverage than larger employers who often can cut some costs through partial self-insurance.

A survey of 14 insurers and 6 HMOs indicated businesses with 10 or fewer employees (about 74 percent of all businesses in the state) can expect to pay 18-40 percent more for a full-insured health plan than a business with 500 employees.

The study by the Independent Business Research Office of Michigan concluded a single state entity, or no more than six regional ones, to consolidate purchasing power of multiple businesses is "the most promising path to cost control for small businesses."

It said the prime objective of the entity would be cost control, rather than assuring coverage.

The study noted health care costs are an increasing burden on all employers, rising at an average annual rate of over 10 percent during the last decade.

The $6.7 billion in employer-paid health care in 1988 raises the price of goods, takes away from amounts which could otherwise be used for employee wages or other benefits, and leaves millions of workers without adequate coverage as many businesses cannot pay the cost of insurance.

Lee Schwartz, government relations/communications director for SBAM, said while employees of many small businesses are left without health care coverage, the owners in many cases also are without benefits because of the cost.

The agency recommended by the group would be sponsored by the government or in conjunction with employers, and could be administered by a private contractor, or if several agencies are created along regional or urban boundaries, a sponsor could be appropriate private organizations.

It was recommended that health plans provided by such agencies direct all or most of the health care to certain providers to obtain better prices.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers were lamenting the limits of life Saturday night at the country store. Bug Hookum spoke fer all when he said truer words were never spoke than that we are to soon old and to late smart. Bug said he use to say if he'd known he was going to live so long he would of took better care of himself, but the way good care is going these days he's glad he didn't.

Fer instant, Bug had saw recent where decaffeinated coffee builds up more cholesterol than regular, so he's glad he stuck with killer caffeine through all the warnings. The next hot item to hit the grocery shelves will be low cholesterol recaffeinated coffee, he allowed, and then all we can do is wait fer the deadly results of using stronger chemicals to put the caffeine back than it took to git it out.

Furthermore, Bug went on, he recent had saw a report that claims reading all the reports about what's bad fer you is bad fer you. It puts too much stress on the system, Bug reported, to spend so much time fretting about what's good and bad fer the system. To put the stopper in the jug, he said, new research shows that jumping out of bed in the middle of the night puts strain on your heart. The item didn't say if the risk is in waking up sudden and realizing you ain't supposed to be in the bed you're in, Bug said, and it didn't consider options that ain't open to a feller with prostate problems.

Clem Webster said Bug's comments called to mind the British Army colonel that took sick some years after he retired. His doctor told him he had hydrophy, and when he demanded to know what that was, the doctor said it is caused by too much water in the body. "But I've never taken a drop of water in my life," the old soldier snorted. After giving it some thought, the colonel said "it must have been all those bloody ice cubes."

Practical speaking, Clem said, he supports the reports about risks of reading report. If we look long and hard enough, he said, we allus will find somepun to blame our condition on. Furthermore, Clem went on, we are going to crazy extremes to improve our chances. Folks keep smoking and drinking and they keep looking fer healthy ways to feed their habits. The no-tobacco cigaret fizzled quick, Clem said, but smokers want the closest thing. They go fer cigarettes that have the least of all the stuff cigarettes have. Since nearly all the calories in beer is in the alcohol, light beer drinkers pay more fer less and figger they come out ahead.

But, broke in Zeke Grubb, that was at last report. Now comes word of a new beer that has no colesterall. A brewery in Drexel Hill, Pa. used oat bran instead of rice or corn and aims fer the feller that might be drove to drink by worrying about his colesteral count. Actual, Zeke said, regular beer is colesteral free to, but the oat bran brewer is out front with the marketing idee. Unless his beer checks in with a high calorie count that scares em off it might catch on big with the smoke healthy and drink healthy crowds, was Zeke's words.

We got to keep in mind, Zeke said, that our bodies will fail us soon or late, and the best we can expect is not to encourage em. Otherwise we can worry ourselves sick. Zeke recalled the editor Norman Cousins that believed laughing could make him well. He tried it and it worked, and now he's healthy and teaching at UCLA. The reason his remedy hasn't caught on is that it's free, was Zeke's words.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Some last minute gift suggestions

There is still time to give just a few more things in the real spirit of Christmas. And all they cost is a little of you. You can probably think of many more, but these are just a few suggestions to start with.

- ★ Ask someone who's far from home (or has no home to share your Christmas dinner
- ★ Use your mistletoe generously
- ★ Say thank you a lot
- ★ Take one of your favorite presents to that kid in your class you suspect Santa might miss
- ★ Take a thermos of hot chocolate to your school crossing guard
- ★ Pick someone up and take them with you to Christmas services
- ★ Put out bread crumbs for the birds and nuts for the squirrels
- ★ Pull out your mother's chair for her when she sits down to dinner
- ★ Offer to say 'grace' yourself
- ★ Invite someone who has no fireplace over to enjoy yours
- ★ Help the little kids in your neighborhood build their first snowman (if there's snow)
- ★ Tell someone you love them

Merry Christmas from the people who care

Julia A. Patrick, Patrick Young Making Dexter Their Home

Julie Ann Patrick, daughter of Jack and Kathleen Patrick of Chelsea, and Patrick James Young, son of Delmar and Iris Young of Ann Arbor, were married Saturday, Oct. 7, at St. Joseph Catholic church in Dexter.

The Rev. Fr. David Howell performed the service. Jean Welton of Chelsea played the guitar and sang during the ceremony.

The bride wore a silk beaded cathedral-length gown and hair piece designed by Cheryl Vogel of Ann Arbor. She carried a bouquet of Calla lilies and white mini roses. The matron of honor was Pamela Irene Bush of Chelsea, sister of the bride.

Bridesmaids were Renee Potter of South Lyon, Anna Bennett of Chelsea, Carlene Fornwalt of Dexter, and Barb Stevenson of Ann Arbor, all friends of the bride.

Attendants wore tea-length taffeta fushia and black gowns designed by the bride and made by Jill Burton of Ann Arbor. They carried a bouquet of white and fushia lilies.

Flowergirl was Lauren Kathleen Bush of Chelsea, niece of the bride. She wore a white tea-length dress also designed by Cheryl Vogel and carried a basket of pink flower petals.

Best man was Tim Young of Dexter, brother of the bridegroom.

Groomsmen were Delmar Young of Ann Arbor, Mike Doletsky of Dexter, Mark Wines of Dexter, all friends of the bridegroom, and Kevin Patrick of Salt Lake City, U., brother of the bride.

Ringbearer was Jeffrey Patrick Marsh of Dexter, nephew of the bridegroom. They all wore black tuxedos with fushia accents. The bridegroom wore a black tuxedo with tails and black accents.

The mother of the bride wore a two-piece silk creme dress and the mother of the bridegroom wore a silk periwinkle dress. The grandmother of the bride, Mrs. Charles Patrick, of Chelsea, wore a two-piece fushia and black crepe dress.

A reception was held at Washtenaw Country Club in Ypsilanti with Amy Poljan and Betsy Kolander, friends of the bride, serving as hostesses. The couple honeymooned in Maui, Hawaii for two weeks and are now residing in Dexter.

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"When we give Christmas presents in His name, let us remember that He has given us all we have and, to save us from our sins, He came to earth and gave us Himself."

—Sigrid Undset

Christmas is such a happy time. Children can hardly bear the excitement and suspense of waiting to see what presents they will receive. Who would deny the tiny tots the thrill of believing in Santa Claus?

As adults, we may wonder if Christmas hasn't been over-commercialized, with too much emphasis on gifts and too little on the underlying significance of the event we celebrate. Let's try to keep Christ in Christmas.

May the joys as well as the meaning of Christmas make the Holidays happy for you and yours. May Christmas be more merry for all because of its deeper significance.

CHELSEA SOCIAL SERVICES created customized Christmas boxes for 26 area needy families this year, annually the organization's largest project. The number of families was up from 22 last year. Each box included toys, food, clothes, and paper supplies. Major contributors to the Christmas project included Chelsea Milling Co., Federal Screw Works, Palmer Ford-Mercury, Chelsea Boy Scouts, St. Paul United Church of Christ, St. Mary's Catholic church, Zion Lutheran church, the Youth Fellowship of the First United Methodist church, and many area individual families. From left are social services board member Bonnie Castleberry and her daughter, Sarah, 5, social services director Jackie Riethmiller, and worker Carl Carpenter.

The first federal mediation service for labor disputes outside the railroad industry was created in 1913 by the act which created the Labor Department, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. The legislation authorized the Secretary of Labor to act as mediator in labor disputes. In 1947 the U. S. Mediation and Conciliation Service was made an independent agency.

Some Safe Holiday Cooking Tips Listed

Good food is as much a part of the holiday season as good company. But many of the foods prepared for the holidays can attract the bacteria that causes food poisoning, warns Dr. Fred R. Severyn, associate medical director of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan (BCBSM).

Stuffing, eggs, meat, poultry or fish deserve particular attention, as well as salads, cream pies, egg nogs, dips and dressing.

The secret to safe holiday cooking is simple, says Dr. Severyn: proper preparation and serving of food. For example:

- Thaw frozen raw meat poultry and fish slowly in the refrigerator. A quick method for thawing poultry that's also safe is dunking the poultry in its watertight package in cold water. This can take from as little as one hour to eight hours, depending on the size of the meat.

- Make sure work surfaces are clean before you begin preparation of food. Utensils should also be clean, including cutting board used for raw meat, fish or fowl. They can be breeding grounds for bacteria if not thoroughly washed with hot soapy water before and after use.

- No one with an infection should prepare or serve food.

- Wash your hands with warm water and soap before preparing food. If you've been handling raw meat, fowl or fish, wash hands thoroughly before beginning on another dish. This will prevent contaminating the new dish.

- Wash a utensil if you've tasted food with it. Keep your hands away from the mouth, nose or hair while preparing food.

- Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. Bacteria breed quickly when temperatures are between 40 and 140 degrees Fahrenheit. Foods left out for more than two hours within that temperature range could encourage dangerous bacteria.

- Use a food thermometer to make sure meats and poultry have been cooked thoroughly, reaching at least 140 degrees in the center.

- After serving, refrigerate foods as soon as possible to prevent them from reaching room temperature.

- Freeze cooked meat, poultry, stuffing or gravy if you plan to keep them more than a few days.

- Once you start cooking meat or poultry, don't stop. It's dangerous to partially cook these foods one day and finish the next.

- Don't use cracked eggs in dishes in which the eggs won't be cooked thoroughly.

Following these guidelines can help keep the holidays enjoyable for you and your guest, says Dr. Severyn.

The first use of arbitration and the sliding wage scale was in 1885 by the Pittsburgh iron puddlers, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

No person is a cripple unless he thinks he is. This has been illustrated many times by handicapped people who go on, ignoring their handicap and leading a normal, happy, productive life. A chap in Minnesota had both hands and feet frozen off several years ago, and manages very nicely on artificial ones. The editor of a newspaper in California is helpless from the neck down, and manages a paper very nicely. We know a lady who has been bedfast for 53 years, has written several books, carries on a large correspondence, and is as happy as a robin with a fat worm. What reasons do you have to grump so???

Piling Up A Fortune After the Kids Are Gone

In that bittersweet moment when your youngest child leaves home, there is a flood of tender memories accompanied by not-so-tender recollections of financial struggles. There were the years of self denial and hamburger-helper meals while you saved the down payment for a house. Later, and all too recently, there was a long string of overlapping financial semesters as the kids worked their way to college degrees.

Now comes the long-awaited time of liberation, and speculation about the future: Where do we go from here?

Bill and Bea Fox (not their real names) arrived at their decision shortly after the nuptials of their youngest child, Cathy. For the first time in 22 years, this man and wife will have some real options to do as they please and not as they must.

They have decided they are going to save a fortune, measured in hundreds of thousands of dollars. They are determined that they will never have to depend on their children for support, as their parents and grandparents did before them.

Bill and Bea Fox's game plan is simple and painless. No heroic sacrifices or years of scrimping await them. Henceforth they will invest 20 percent of their income in themselves, exactly as they had done, oh so recently, with their two children.

The Foxes are each on the threshold of 50 and earn $60,000 a year after taxes. Bill is the valued estimator in a tool and die plant and has a pension plan. Bea is a seamstress earning good money at home repairing and altering garments. Bill's pay and Bea's earnings increase at a steady 5 percent a year.

Before beginning their "liberation plan" they agreed that the house mortgage, with 8 years to run, would continue as a regular household expense. The same would apply to the 1988 car payments which have some months to go.

All credit accounts would be paid in full by Dec. 31, 1989. Thus they would begin their first year of liberation with a virtually clean slate. Thereafter, all bills would be paid in full every 30 days.

Plan with Three Legs

Their scheme will stand on a firm tripod:

1. Beginning in January 1990 they will deposit $1,000 a month into their joint investment fund plus an additional 5 percent every year.
2. Contributions to the fund will continue without interruption until they retire at age 65.
3. Based on advice before they started, the fund will be invested in high grade, fixed income bonds or an equivalent mutual fund. The goal will be an average return of 7 percent tax-free bonds or their equivalent in tax-free mutual funds. More on this later.

If all goes well, Bill and Bea will have accumulated $438,000 by the time they retire.

In 2005, having lived to age 65, Bill will have a life expectancy of 11 years. Bea can expect to make it past 81. Entering retirement with $438,000, plus two social security checks and a pension, the Foxes may elect to let their investment fund keep on compounding. It's just an option and not a necessity. But if they do let it accumulate at 7 percent compound interest, they will reach age 75 with a bond portfolio worth $1,010,000. At that time, in addition to their investments, they will own a debt-free house valued around $125,000 plus $25,000 to $50,000 in other possessions. They can cheerfully tell each other, "We are millionaires."

Finding Investment Advice

Like so many others who have earned their living outside the financial community, Bill and Bea are foggy about investments. They are familiar with bank savings accounts and certificates of deposit. They are aware of the stock market and want no part of it. They know that mutual funds exist but don't know how they work. They are among the 7 out of 10 investors who know practically nothing about municipal bonds.

To whom should they turn for advice? They resisted seeking guidance from people who are selling securities or life insurance. The president of Bill's company suggested talking to a trust officer of a large commercial bank such as Ann Arbor-NBD or Trustcorp. "Trust officers spend their lives helping people to conserve wealth," Bill's chief explained. "Their knowledge of investments is always up-to-date and is passed from one generation of trust officers to another. They are the best investment advisors I know."

The Foxes made an appointment with a trust officer known to Bill's boss. The trust specialist listened as his visitors described the investment targets they were seeking—something free from speculation, something tax-free and safe that could deliver a fixed income year after year. In response the trust officer talked about municipal bonds which government agencies and public institutions issue. The funds are used to build roads and highways, waterworks, sanitary systems, schools and hospitals. The bonds are offered at fixed rates of interest and income from them is federal tax free. Michigan bonds are also state tax free.

As an example, the trust officer cited the village of Chelsea which sold bonds in 1988 to help finance its sanitary sewer. The bonds pay 8 percent in semi-annual payments until they mature in 2006. An investor paying $5,000 for a Chelsea bond will receive $7,200 interest tax-free over 18 years and get the original $5,000 back at maturity.

Bonds are graded for quality by rating services such as Moody's and Standard & Poor's. The four top grades of bonds are rated by Moody's as AAA, AA, A and Baa. Standard & Poor's uses the same ratings except for the fourth grade which it designates BBB. These four prime categories are regarded as investment grade bonds by bankers. Lower grade bonds range from those which are somewhat speculative to the bottom of the ladder—in default or no rating at all.

Trust officers are aware of new bond issues as they appear on the market. The sellers of the bonds pay the cost of marketing them. An investor buys a $5,000 bond at the par value of $5,000, paying no commission.

In addition to municipal bonds, there are corporate bonds offered by large companies to fulfill various capital needs. These are subject to the same rating system as municipal bonds. It is important to note that the interest received from corporate bonds is federally taxable.

To get the same net income from a corporate bond as you get from a municipal, you must receive a higher rate of interest. An investor who can enjoy 7 percent on a grade Baa municipal bond must get 7 1/4, 8 or 9 percent interest. How much he needs depends on his tax bracket. Many quality corporate issues are pegged at higher rates of interest to offset the tax advantage of the municipals. Interest rates for quality municipal bonds during the 1980's ranged from 6 to 9 percent and are currently paying around 6 to 7.

The Wall Street Journal reports that some mutual managers of high yield, tax-free municipal funds increase their investment earnings by including bonds rated below Baa in their portfolios. These mutuals are so huge that an occasional default of an issue will ordinarily have little effect on the fund's performance.

Mutual Bond Funds Have Some Advantages

Your advisor can recommend conservative mutual funds to you. As an account holder, you make your monthly deposits to the mutual fund by mail and receive regular reports as to your holdings and current yields. You can also phone them anytime on an 800 number for information.

As you go along, you will accumulate substantial funds in your mutual account. Then, if your advisor sports a particularly attractive new bond issue, you can nail down the bonds by writing a check on your mutual fund account.

Maybe you won't make it to the $438,000 mark by age 65 but, then again, you may go over it. Either way, you'll be safely inside the security ball park.

Chiropractic Health Care

What Causes
Subluxation?

In last week's column we talked about the general causes of subluxation (spinal misalignments that cause many diverse health problems) and touched briefly on their structural causes. We said that stress to the body, in the form of structural, chemical or emotional, was what caused these misalignments.

Today we will discuss chemical distress to the body. In today's world, with its wide range of pollutants, a doctor of chiropractic who is in general practice, must consider chemical stress to the body when trying to resolve a patient's health problems.

A good history is essential and must consider work environment, dietary habits and allergies, as well as "hypersensitivity" to chemicals.

Petroleum products, alcohols and food additives are the most common things causing subluxations (and nerve impingement) and therefore health problems. There is a wide range of others, including detergents, fabric (synthetic, treated, softened) pesticides, synthetic vitamins, chlorine (in our water) and the list goes on and on.

Fortunately, there are some known patterns of spinal problems that point to these chemical distresses as being involved in a health problem. Also with the advent of the specialty of Applied Kinesiology within chiropractic, ways have come about to determine if the body is burdened by these chemical stresses.

In future columns we will talk more specifically about chemical problems in the body. There will also be more discussion of Applied Kinesiology, a diagnostic and therapeutic technique that has greatly refined the practice of chiropractic.

You won't hear these words from a chiropractor. In fact you might be surprised to learn that we don't prescribe ANY medication. There's a very good reason for this. We regard pain as a warning signal our body sends out to indicate that something is wrong. Drugs do not correct the cause of the pain. The human body's own natural healing abilities are often a far more viable way to achieve good health. For more information about the chiropractic approach to health care, please give us a call.

WALTER F. HAMILTON, JR.

JOHN R. C. WHEELER, PhD

Chelsea Community Hospital Elects Board

Chelsea Community Hospital Board of Trustees has elected its slate of officers for 1990. John R. C. Wheeler, Ph.D., was elected chairman, Frank X. Colligan, M.D., elected vice-chairman, Sally A. Stomen, D.D.S., elected secretary, and John W. Merkel, re-elected treasurer.

Wheeler replaces Walter F. Hamilton, Jr. Hamilton has served as chairman of the board for the past three and one-half years. He has served on the board of trustees for over 10 years. Hamilton is vice-president of Edwards Brothers, Inc., in Ann Arbor. He will remain on Chelsea Community Hospital's board to complete his term.

Newly elected to the board is William C. Emhiser, president and chief operating officer of Gelman Sciences, Inc., Ann Arbor. Appointed in 1988, Emhiser became the second president in the 30-year history of Gelman. He holds a BSE in biomedical engineering from Duke University. Emhiser resides in Chelsea with his wife, Marysue, and their three daughters.

Leaving the board is Cindy L. Bradbury. Bradbury has served two consecutive three-year terms and has been board secretary for the past two years. She has also served as chair of the Community Relations Committee.

The first president to act as a mediator in a labor dispute was Theodore Roosevelt in 1902, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. Roosevelt personally attempted to settle the anthracite coal strike of 1902.

'Tis the Season To Be Jolly - Or Is It?

By Frank X. Colligan, M.D.
Director of Psychiatry
Chelsea Community Hospital

It is not a secret to any of us that the holiday season can be a time for celebration and joy for some, and a time for sadness and loneliness for others. Words of the song "Tis the Season to Be Jolly" perhaps give a clue as to where some of the sadness or "holiday blues" originate. It is the time of the year when we are bombarded with images from television, radio, and newspapers, of idealistic pictures of happiness, gift giving and family gathering. For people who are alone, perhaps estranged from their families, or with limited resources, the expectation of being happy can be an obligation that weighs very heavy on their shoulders. Self blame, "everyone else is happy, why am I so miserable, is something wrong with me?" can be a frequent thought during this time of year.

Significant amount of holiday depression comes from unrealistic and/or disappointed expectations. What can we do about that? Keeping our expectations realistic, and deciding what gives us pleasure or what is likely to help us get through the holidays is important. Trying to meet some idealistic expectation is bound to lead to failure and an even greater sense of disappointment in ourselves.

What are some of the factors that tend to lead to "holiday blues"? Certainly there is an increased amount of stress at this time with shopping, meal preparation, family gatherings, etc. Usually this falls upon the woman in the household, who may already be shouldering immense burdens. Thus the holiday season may become a time of overwork and excessive stress.

Another stressor may in fact be family gatherings with exposure to family members with whom there has been a long standing conflicted relationship. This time of year can often bring back painful memories of earlier times, i.e., of earlier holiday seasons. We tend to have clearer memories of what happened on Dec. 25th when we were 14 years old, than we do of what happened on Feb. 25th.

So what can be done about all of this? For those who find the holiday time a challenge to get through as opposed to a time of excitement and joy, a number of things can be useful. One is simply being aware that this is a difficult time and planning for it rather than just worrying about it. Having some realistic expectations for ourselves as to how to structure our time. Spending our time on what we do find gives us pleasure, support or enjoyment is important. These activities may, at times, be quite different than what is portrayed in the media. Getting adequate rest, avoiding overindulgence in alcohol or food, can also reduce the vulnerability to stress and depression. If religion is part of our lives, often turning to our religion and to church activities may be an additional support during this time. The important message perhaps is to take good care of ourselves and our needs in whatever way works for us rather than trying to meet some idealized version of what we think we should be doing during this season.

Veterans Arena Has Extended Hours For the Holidays

Veterans Indoor Ice Arena will have extended hours for public skating during the holidays. Starting with Dec. 28 and ending Jan. 5, there will be general skating from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 8:00 p.m. on weekdays and Saturdays. There will be no public skating on Wednesday night, Jan. 3, because of a scheduled hockey game. Adults only skating will be held from 11:00 to 1:00 weekdays. On Sunday, Dec. 24 and Sunday, Dec. 31 there will be a Marathon Skate which allows the general public to skate from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. The rink will be closed on Monday, Dec. 25 and Monday, Jan. 1. The normal skating schedule will resume on Saturday, Jan. 6.

For a detailed skating schedule, call Veterans Arena at 781-7240. Or visit the Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation, 5th floor of City Hall.

VFW Ladies Auxiliary Notes

The Ladies Auxiliary to VFW Post 4076 met Monday, Dec. 11, with 11 members in attendance. A report of the Sixth District meeting held at Holt, Dec. 3, was given by Eulahlee Packard. Also attending from the Auxiliary was Lois Speer.

Lucy Platt gave a report on the hospital party held at the Ann Arbor VA Hospital on Nov. 24. Five Auxiliary and four Post members assisted her at this time, serving 47 patients. She also told of plans for the 7-East Wing Christmas party and $65 was allowed for expenses. Twenty-five dollars was allowed toward a Special Memorial being erected at the Veterans Facility in Grand Rapids. The Department Mid-Winter Conference, will be held in Lansing on Jan. 26-27, 1990, headquarters to be the Clarion Hotel.

The Department president, Evelyne Woodcock's testimonial dinner will be held March 10, at the Adrian's Romana Terrace, Comstock Park, and the National Mid-Winter Conference will be held at Phoenix, Ariz., March 22-25. The national president, Alice Hutto, will have a homecoming, Feb. 16-17 at Columbia, S.C. Hurricane "Hugo" spoiled the original plans.

A report of the Christmas party for the local Auxiliary and Post held Dec. 9 in the VFW Hall was given. A potluck supper took place, Santa Claus made a visit, and the party concluded with the singing of Christmas carols.

Other subjects covered were volunteers for the VA Hospital; "Share the Vision" and the many things supplied to the children of Veterans at the National Home; funds taken from the Veterans facility and sent to communist China, such as medical supplies, etc.; safety during the holidays; MIA's-POW's petition on flag burning and prayer in schools, facts about history, especially in Michigan.

The next regular meeting will be Jan. 8, in the VFW Hall.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar
As the holidays approach and the Christmas cards begin to trickle in, it's obvious that a favorite image on these cards is birds.

One of the most frequently seen is the cardinal. Originally a bird of the southeastern United States, the cardinal has moved steadily northward over the past 100 years. Now it's common throughout much of Michigan and New England, and it has been adopted by most Easterners as a symbol of the season, probably because the rich red color of the male cardinal is so striking against the backdrop of white snow and dark evergreens in our yards.

Two other birds are seen frequently on Christmas cards are geese and swans. The probable reasons for their association with the holiday are different from those of the cardinal and the chickadee.

Geese and swans are often portrayed on cards as flying against a backdrop of sky where a bright star is shining. The fact that these birds migrate clear across the continent and navigate by the stars parallels somewhat the journey of the three wise men.

Another connection is the timing of their migration. Though residents of northern areas tend to think of geese as fall birds, because we see the majority of them passing through in October and November, residents of more southerly parts of the country associate the arrival of these migratory birds with the beginning of the Christmas season. The same is true of swans, though they tend to pass through Michigan a little later—from mid-November to mid-December.

Another Christmas card bird is the dove. It appears on holiday greetings not because of its color or its biology, but because it has become a symbol of peace. Therefore the dove—usually a European dove or domestic pigeon—is a popular greeting card motif.

This idea of associating living things with Christmas started long ago and certainly isn't unique to Michiganders or North Americans. In Central America, for instance, swallows are the Christmas birds. In Michigan, we associate flocks of swallows dipping and swooping over the backyard or sitting along roadside utility wires with bright blue summer days or, in a sort of melancholy way, with summer coming to an end, because their congregating into flocks in late August or early September signals that they are preparing to head south. To residents of Belize and other Central American countries, however, swallows are the Christmas birds because they arrive there around the holiday season.

It's interesting that being aware of nature has resulted in natural objects or events taking on a holiday role. Making such associations seems to be a fairly universal occurrence. Frequently they transcend borders and even continents. We in North America, for instance, have within the past 50 years adopted the winter-blooming poinsettia of Mexico and Central America as a Christmas symbol. I seriously doubt, though, that swallows will ever displace our native cardinals and chickadees or migra-

The most popular entertainer in America tells the candid, no-holds-barred story of his life, from his poor Virginia background to his exalted status as the highest-paid performer in the world. Wayne Newton, "King of the Las Vegas Strip," lives in a blaze of publicity, gossip, and innuendo, but his closely guarded private life has never before been revealed.

Poodle Springs by Raymond Chandler & Robert Parker. When Raymond Chandler died in 1959, he left behind the first four chapters of a Philip Marlowe thriller. Now, 30 years later, Poodle Springs is published as a full length work. Robert Parker has brought to vivid life the gritty, gripping world of Chandler and his sleuth, Philip Marlowe, in a book no private-eye aficionado will be able to resist.

Straight by Dick Francis. In his stunning 28th novel, Dick Francis again proves he has no equal. As Derek Franklin, an injured steeplechase jockey, nears the end of his career, he is thrust into trouble and mayhem by the accidental death of his older brother, Greville. "I inherited my brother's desk, his business, his mistress," Derek says. "I inherited by brother's life and it nearly killed me." Once again Dick Francis produces a winner.

The first permanent federal mediation service was established by the Erdman Act, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. Pertaining only to railroad labor disputes, this legislation offered the first federal sanction to unionization and collective bargaining since it prohibited employees from requiring workers to refrain from joining unions as a condition for employment. This provision, however, was declared unconstitutional.

Americans Helping Americans With A Hands-On Approach

By Phillip C. Clarke

The cynics who once scoffed at President Bush's description of volunteerism in America as a "thousand points of light" are beginning to see the light themselves. One particularly bright beacon is shone by Eugene Lang, who was born 70 years ago in an East Harlem tenement and grew up to become a wealthy industrialist. Eight years ago, Lang returned to his East Harlem neighborhood and promised sixth-graders at Public School 121 a free college education if they graduated from high school, stayed off drugs and kept out of trouble. Today, half of the original 61 East Harlem sixth-graders are in college, and thousands of other youngsters are following in their footsteps.

Lang has established what he calls the "I Have a Dream Foundation" and has persuaded 130 other philanthropists and corporations to put up $40 million to underwrite scholarships for 9,000 deserving youngsters in 31 cities across the country. Lang uses a hands-on approach. He doesn't just offer scholarships and then walk away. He takes the students for outings, keeps his phone lines open to them and hires tutors when needed. In effect, Lang has become a kind of adopting father, even scolding the kids when the occasion demands.

Now, other wealthy patrons have also adopted ghetto schools and offered college scholarships to high school graduates. Sponsors include Ewing Kauffman, co-owner of the Kansas City Royals baseball team, and New York investment banker, Felix Rohatyn. But generosity from the private sector is doing more than providing opportunities for higher education to young people from low-income families who otherwise couldn't afford to send their kids to college. By keeping up with a student's progress, Lang lets youngsters know somebody out there really cares.

The idea is spreading. Patrick Taylor, a New Orleans oil man and friend of Lang, is currently putting 122 underprivileged Louisiana young people through college. And the Louisiana legislature has been persuaded to appropriate about $1 million a year to defray the college tuition costs of still more qualified high school graduates from needy families. Taking its cue from Eugene Lang, the New York state legislature has approved a program called Liberty Scholarships that beginning in 1991 will provide college scholarships for deserving students from poor and near-poor families.

Nor is college the only "point of light." In 1982, the American Express Co., working with the New York City Board of Education, created a two-year program to prepare high school juniors and seniors for jobs in the financial service industry that do not require a college education. Called the Academy of Finance, the program started with 35 students at a high school in Brooklyn. Today, it enrolls more than 2,000 students at 40 schools in 16 U.S. cities. And more than 150 companies have joined American Express in sponsoring the program, which combines classroom instruction with on-the-job experience.

James Robinson, the chairman and chief executive officer of American Express, says some might think the program is working too well. Today, 90 percent of the Academy's students choose college instead of jobs. Says an understanding Robinson: "We just hope they come back to us after graduation."

*Selecting Sex of Livestock May Be Possible...

By Vince Mazzola

A farmer's dream of selecting the sex of livestock may be a step closer to reality.

Think of it; a dairy farmer might elect to have his cows give birth to only milk-producing females while a beef producer might choose bigger-gaining all males.

A U. S. Department of Agriculture scientist says that may be possible, now that researchers have sorted and then inseminated female and male sperm in rabbits.

"We are using a new sperm-sorting technique to separate intact living sperm from rabbits into male- and female-producing batches. For the first time, we have produced live births when we surgically placed the sperm into rabbit does," said animal physiologist Lawrence A. Johnson of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

In 50 rabbits inseminated over the past year, the use of female-producing sperm led to more than 90 percent female offspring in rabbits, said Johnson. Male-producing sperm resulted in male offspring 80 percent of the time.

The technique works because female (X-chromosome-bearing) sperm have slightly more genetic material than male (Y-chromosome-bearing) sperm, he said. That eventually allows the female and male sperm to be sorted out, in the laboratory, using laser beams and computers.

"Being able to pre-select the sex of livestock could improve the economics of livestock production for farmers," he said at the ARS Reproduction Laboratory at Beltsville, Md. "It would also speed genetic improvements since many traits, such as growth rate, are closely associated with sex."

The researchers have inseminated sows with sorted batches of boar sperm. That work is not complete, but 75 percent of the offspring to date have been of the desired sex, he said. Studies with cattle and sheep are under way.

Some of the sperm also are being reanalyzed for DNA content, Johnson said, so that researchers can predict the sex ratio of the offspring from the time of insemination.

Johnson said the sperm-sorting technique is not yet ready for commercial use. "It currently is too slow to be profitable except in special situations," he said. "But our results represent a significant step forward." (Agricultural Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

WCC Offers New Course In Chelsea

Residents of Chelsea and surrounding areas have the opportunity to take a course that's being offered for the first time by Washtenaw Community College.

The course, Voice Improvement for the Business Professional, meets Tuesdays from 4 to 5:55 p.m. at WCC's Western Regional Center, 134 W. Middle St., Chelsea. The course begins on Jan. 1, 1990 and continues until Feb. 28.

This course will help student professionals improve relations with co-workers. It is recommended for anyone who works in management or employee relations and also for anyone who has regular contact with professionals.

The course structure includes a self evaluation and improvement style, which allows students to set their own communication goals and then work throughout the term to develop and achieve them.

For more information about this course or to register, please call the WCC Western Regional Center at (313) 475-5935.

College Football Playoff?

All of the college football polls agree: Notre Dame has earned the right to a No. 1 ranking and the title "national champion." There was little argument because Notre Dame remained the only undefeated team in the country this year.

But in most years, the issue gets a little cloudy, and some people are in favor of a college football playoff to decide the national championship. Personally, I think the current bowl system is working fine, and I'm against a playoff for several reasons.

One of the best reasons is that these athletes are students. They shouldn't have another two or three weeks added to their football season that would adversely affect them while they're supposed to be getting their education. A longer schedule also means more opportunities to get injured, especially since there is almost a month between the end of the season and when the bowl games start. After playing for 11 weeks, a kid can get out of shape in the two weeks they might give him off.

A playoff is also very impractical. In a particular year, there might be as many as five undefeated teams. Who would play then? It would still come down to voting on who should be invited to play in the playoffs. What about this past season? Even though the University of Miami played just about every bowl participant in the regular season, they had one loss that might have kept them from a championship playoff in a year with four undefeated teams!

Could the existing bowl games be reorganized into a playoff system? Again, I don't think so. There are traditional conference ties to bowl games — like the Pacific 10 and the Big Ten to the Rose Bowl and the Southeastern Conference to the Sugar Bowl — that would have to be broken. And what if a number of teams end up undefeated after the bowls anyway? It would be just as difficult as ever to decide who should be the national champion.

Another reason some people give for wanting a playoff is the prospect of a lower division champion being afforded the opportunity to get in and play with the Division I-A guys. Really, it couldn't happen. As good as a Division I-AA championship team may be, they can't compete with bowl-caliber Division I-A teams. They just aren't in the same class. I'm not saying that it can't happen in other college sports, like basketball, where highly ranked teams have been beaten by small schools, but I just don't see it happening in football.

So I think our national champion will always be decided by polls like the Associated Press and United Press International. Fortunately, the sportswriters who vote in the polls consider the strength of a team's schedule.

Talk of a playoff always arouses opinions from everyone, but I don't think it will ever be a reality. ll

The Stages of Addiction

By Fred Prezioso, M.A.,
Certified Addictions Counselor,
State of Michigan and Therapist in Chelsea Hospital's Chemical Dependency Unit

The stages of a developing addiction follow a predictable pattern. How far the disease has progressed is one of the best indicators of the level of treatment necessary to begin a successful recovery.

In the first state, the person is not yet addicted. He learns that there is a benefit from using the drug, whether it is alcohol, cocaine, heroin, marijuana or some other. There is a temporary mood shift, a relief from depression or from the routine pressures and responsibilities of daily life. There may be an escape from painful feelings or experiences (sadness, anger, frustration) or an exhilarating "high." The drug becomes a trusted friend. It works every time. The person is still in control. By regulating the amount of the drug used, the person can control its effect. After the drug wears off, the person returns to the physical and emotional state he was in to begin with.

In the second state, the person still experiences control over the drug and is able to limit its use to appropriate times and places. For example, if the drug is legal, as with alcohol, the person will not drink and drive. If the drug is illegal, as with cocaine or marijuana, the person will not be so obvious about his use that he gets himself arrested, nor is he likely to spend more money on drugs than he is able to afford. There are often self-imposed rules such as not using drugs until after working hours or until the week-end. There may be an occasional hangover from over-indulging, but not of the emotional pain (guilt, remorse) associated with addiction. Again, when the drug wears off, the person resumes their normal level of functioning.

Stage three marks the beginning of addiction, or one's shift to being physically or psychologically dependent upon the drug. There is occasional loss of control. The person is unable to predict how much of the drug he will use once he starts. He begins to experience the emotional pain of guilt or remorse when his drug use results in behaviors that violate his personal values and standards.

There is a growing preoccupation with getting the drug, and an organizing of one's life around meetings with friends who use, "happy hours" and other social or business occasions where alcohol or other drugs will likely be available. Any self-imposed rules are now regularly broken and the person finds himself using drugs at work or using more than he intends.

Tolerance, that is requiring more and more of the drug to achieve the same effect, now increases. The person will keep a "stash," sneak drinks and have a "couple" of drinks before going to a party where drinks will again be served. A person's health may now be adversely affected, relationships suffer and self-esteem plummets. Now, after the drug wears off, the person enters an emotional and physical state that is worse than where he began.

To escape this distressing state, a person is now dependent upon the drug just to help him feel "normal." The drugs are used now, not to get high, but to enable the person to function at all. There will probably be frequent "blackouts," or times when the person is outwardly functioning but does not remember where he was or what he did or said. He will "lose" minutes, hours, even days or weeks out of his life. Whereas in stage three it took more of the drug to achieve the same effect, in this fourth stage tolerance begins to drop. Now, less of the drug will cause intoxication and impaired functioning. The person will now repeatedly violate his own value system with numerous arrests for driving while intoxicated, criminal activities to support his drug habit, lies to cover his tracks or belligerence and obnoxious behavior in social settings. It gets increasingly difficult now to achieve any physical or emotional level of well-being no matter how much drugs are consumed. Finally, one begins to feel that life is not worth living.

The objectives of treatment are to arrest the progression of the disease through abstinence, to interrupt the deteriorating life style and to replace the addictive patterns of thinking, feeling and behaving with healthy patterns. It is a tall order and one that will not likely be achieved, no matter what the treatment, if the person continues to use mood altering drugs in any form.

Abstinence, education and addressing unresolved emotional issues are at the heart of treatment and recovery. The addict will need to replace the bond to his drugs with a bonding to a new life style and to a recovery-oriented support system.

Outpatient therapy usually works best for the person who is in stage one or two of the disease, before he has become so dependent upon the drug that he cannot stop using. Outpatient therapy often consists of one or more sessions a week with a counselor trained in addictions, and the additional support of participation in a Twelve Step program like Alcoholics Anonymous, Cocaine Anonymous or Narcotics Anonymous.

Christmas Dinner Offered Those Who May Be Alone

Each year on Christmas Day there are many who face the unhappy prospects of being far away from family and friends while for others, it results from no longer having a family.

Whatever the cause may be, the feelings remain the same; a sense of isolation from the rest of the community at a time when there is much merriment and hustle and bustle and laughter and music and joy. Someone once remarked that there is a great feeling of being alone in a crowd. It is, in some ways, a feeling of somehow being "different" and ignored as others go rushing past.

While Faith in Action has called this dinner a Christmas Dinner, it should be called a Family Dinner—open to all who would like to join in a "family" time of dining and fellowship.

The dinner from its beginning four years ago, is intended to be a time and a place of sharing. Sharing of food, yes, but also a sharing of family love at the Holiday Season.

Our dinner is made possible each year by the devotion of many people who plan, recruit help, acquire food and prepare it and generally see to it that no one goes away hungry in body or spirit.

All of us at Faith in Action invite YOU to join us and many of your community family on Christmas Day at St. Mary's school on Congdon St., beginning at 1 p.m. If you can, please call us (475-3308) so we will have some idea of the number attending.

Invite a neighbor or a friend to come along. If you need a ride or if you need a dinner brought to you because you can't leave your home, let us know.

The Faith in Action annual Christmas Dinner has become the sort of "tradition" in our community which brings to all who attend or work an equal feeling of family joy.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Dec. 4, were Comeau, Satterthwaite, Redding, Wales, Feeney, Cherem, Eisenbeiser, superintendent Piasecki, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Mead, Stielstra, Wescott, Benedict, special education director DeYoung, community education director Rogers, curriculum director Bissell, athletic director Welton, guests.

Meeting called to order at 8 p.m. by President Anne Comeau.

Board approved the minutes of the Nov. 20 meeting.

Entered as official communications were (1) letter to the board from the Michigan Women's Assembly regarding high school vocational programs and the economic and employment demands of the future; (2) letter from John Albertson and Conrad Knutsen, Chelsea Area Teens, asking for the board's support by becoming members of that group's advisory board.

Testing co-ordinator Sue Carter was present at the meeting to review the results of the recent MEAP and CAT tests. She reported that Chelsea students, over-all, scored better on the MEAP test than was expected by the state. CAT scores were similar to those of last year. Various curriculum committees will be studying the test results.

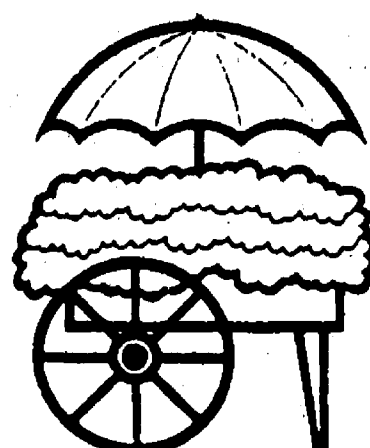

Assistant superintendent Mills reported that the Downtown Development Authority has requested the board to consider revising the agreement between the Village Council and the school district. DDA will be carrying on discussions with the Village Council and, if feasible, return with a proposal at some future date.

After a brief discussion on the current high school policy regarding substance abuse violations, the board agreed to retain the present policy. The provisions of that policy offer violators an alternative to suspension. Superintendent Piasecki informed the board that substance abuse counselor Moira Hubbard will present a detailed report to the board in January or February on the activities and services with which she is involved at the high school.

Because of the upcoming holidays, the board cancelled the Dec. 18 and Jan. 1 meetings, and scheduled meetings for Jan. 15 and 25, 1990. At the Jan. 25 meeting, to which all survey volunteer workers will be invited, the results of the Project Outreach survey will be announced. The location of the Jan. 25 meeting will be announced at a later date.

Meeting adjourned at 9:30 p.m.

are Jill Nowatzke, most improved; Kelly Cross, most valuable; Melissa Thiel, 110 Percent Award; and Debby Webb, most improved.

Kelly Cross Named MVP of Chelsea Girls Swimming Team

Chelsea Bulldog girl swimmers were honored at their annual swimming banquet last Wednesday, Dec. 13 at Chelsea Community Hospital.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of the first Deanna L. Zangara Memorial Award for excellence in diving and team motivation and inspiration.

Zangara, one of Chelsea's finest divers, was killed in an automobile accident. Her parents were on hand to give the award to four-year diver Debby Webb.

"It was a heartwarming presentation," said coach Dave Jolly.

Kelly Cross was named the team's most valuable swimmer for the second year in a row.

"She leads by example and has the mindset of a winner," Jolly said.

Webb and Jill Nowatzke were co-winners of the team's most improved award.

Webb's goal was to place in the state. She ended up fourth in the state and earned all-state honors in the process.

Nowatzke was honored for her improvements in distance events. She started as a sprinter three years ago, but her times stopped improving and Jolly said a change was in order. She proved herself as a distance swimmer this year.

Melissa Thiel won the 110 Percent Award, for "working above and beyond all expectations and doing it with a smile," Jolly said.

CHELSEA DIVER DEBBY WEBB, center, was presented with the Deanna L. Zangara Memorial Award at the girls swim team awards night last Wednesday. Presenting the award are Al and Pat Zangara, parents of the late Chelsea diver. The Chakor Doshi family, friends of the Zangara family, donated the award, to be given to a diver for special achievements in diving, team motivation, and inspiration to others. Debby is a four-year varsity diver and has "inspired others to continue when they wanted to give up," said coach Dave Jolly.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

I am writing concerning the music program in Chelsea last week at the high school. The thing that concerns me is not the program but the parents' reactions. Being at school that week at classroom activities I heard mothers talking about parents being irate with Bill Wescott and actually writing letters to the editor.

We were there from beginning to end and most disturbing thing that went on was the rudeness the parents displayed. We understand that because of babies and the elderly some people had to leave early. But certainly not the amount of people that showed no respect for the teacher or the class singing as they walked up and pulled their kids down.

What were their concerns? The crowd? Losing a child? We have a five-year-old and an eight-year-old. We followed instructions and didn't have a problem. The long wait? The long walk? I'm certain if it were a concert, a sports event, a hunting trip or a shopping trip, NO ONE would have complained.

The bottom line here is our children. Without parents complaining the children should have enjoyed it. Our children weren't aware of the problems, they were too excited about the musical. We also need not to lose sight of the fact that the people in charge are very responsible. Our children's welfare and safety are of utmost importance to them. Their hearts were in the right place even though things didn't work perfectly. The next day Bill Wescott had an apology letter go home to each parent. Why some people would continue to complain is hard to understand. Maybe they need to spend a little more time at school to appreciate what it takes to teach children.

Let's dwell on the good things and have a little mercy when things aren't perfect.

We are very impressed with the love and care our children receive at school. We commend Bill Wescott for all of his efforts.

Rick & Linda Tarantowski.

To the Editor:

I would like to respond to a Letter to the Editor printed in the Dec. 13, 1989 issue of The Chelsea Standard. This letter was from a concerned community citizen who was extremely quick to judge the ability and integrity of North and South School music director June Warren.

In this letter, Mrs. Cieglo questioned the ability of June Warren to relate to children. My personal experience would lead to the statement that June Warren's ability to relate is far beyond most. I began singing under the direction of Mrs. Warren when I was in second grade and continued until I graduated. I have never found a lack of ability, a lack of knowledge, or a lack of concern from June Warren. She stepped down from the high school level in order to continue and improve the talents of the children.

One other point I would like to make is that a combined concert of North and South school children was done to improve the ability and convenience for both parents and eliminate problems of having more than one concert to attend. It was of no benefit to June Warren considering the extra time she took out of her own schedule to make this concert possible, which she was happy to do.

The parents of elementary school children should be thrilled to have such a fine teacher as June Warren. She is continuing and trying to improve the music program. So this idea didn't work perfectly. Don't condemn her and question her ability. She is one of the finest teachers and she does know what she is doing.

Dale Cole.

To the Editor:

In response to Ms. Cieglo's letter regarding the elementary school concert, I would like to make a few comments. The gym was definitely overcrowded but we should all be pleased that the parents in this community are so involved with their children's activities that we are able to fill the gym. We would have all been complaining about the poor turnout if there had been empty seats.

While I agree with Ms. Cieglo that it was rude for parents to take their children and leave before all the classes had an opportunity to perform, I feel that my decision to leave with my two-year-old and kindergarten, after his performance, was probably the most courteous thing I could have done under the circumstances. My daughter and I were sitting in the upper bleachers, but due to the overcrowding and the late start, she was not sitting quietly. We then went down to the gym floor to stand in the area next to the bleachers so she could at least move without disturbing anyone. Disruptive behavior by a toddler during the performance of your child would have been considered just as rude, if not more so, than my leaving.

I explained to my son that it is not polite to leave when others are still singing, but since we were not able to sit and enjoy the concert, it was perhaps better if we left so others could at least enjoy it in peace.

We have all learned from this experience and now know that the outstanding community support for our children will require TWO concerts next year to allow everyone to fully enjoy their musical talents.

Kathi Wurzel.

KIWANIS CLUB OF CHELSEA'S annual Christmas party Monday night at the Chelsea Senior Center prompted a visit from St. Nick. Left is John Weber, son of Biff Weber and his wife, Suzie, and Sue Maynard, of the Chelsea High School Key Club, an organization sponsored by Kiwanis.

Dear Editor,

Last night I attended the "winter" concert of my grade school son. I expected to hear Christmas and Hanukkah songs. Only 25% of the music selections were "seasonal songs." The rest had nothing to do with winter even. This is a drastic change from previous years. Are we as a community minimizing (and eventually eliminating) that which we celebrate? I hope that those of you who wish to see our children know and learn the music and tradition of the season will call the schools and let them know.

I and my family have known great tragedy and loss. This year, though, we will still celebrate the Christ child of Christmas—the one of whom angels sang "Peace on earth, good will toward men." To those of you who believe it, to those of you who can bear it, I wish you . . . Merry Christmas.

Sue Bennett.

Chasteen, Harding Nominated To U.S. Service Academies

Two Chelsea area residents have been nominated for appointments to United States service academies by U.S. Senator Don Riegle.

spending no less than five years in the service following graduation.

Mark Chasteen of Chelsea and Trevor Harding of Gregory, both Chelsea High school students, were among the 43 students nominated by Riegle.

Chasteen was nominated to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point and Harding was nominated to the U.S. Air Force Academy.

Last year 39 of Riegle's 57 nominees were offered appointments to the various academies.

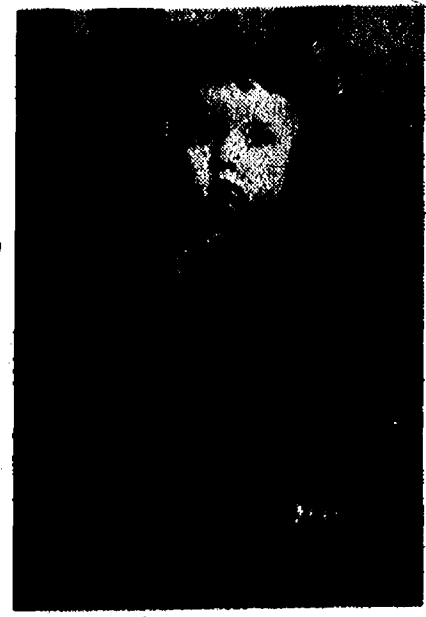

Admission to the service academies is based on scholastic examination scores, physical aptitude scores, high school class standing, leadership potential, medical examinations, and evaluation of the "whole person."

Each student will be committed to

Village Formalizes Attorney Agreement

Village of Chelsea has formalized its agreement for routine legal services with the firm of Kousch & Flintoft of Chelsea.

The firm, primarily Peter Flintoft, has represented the village on an informal basis for many years. However, several recent situations put the firm in what was believed by the village administration to be a conflict of interest.

The nine-page agreement, in many instances, puts in writing what has been past practice.

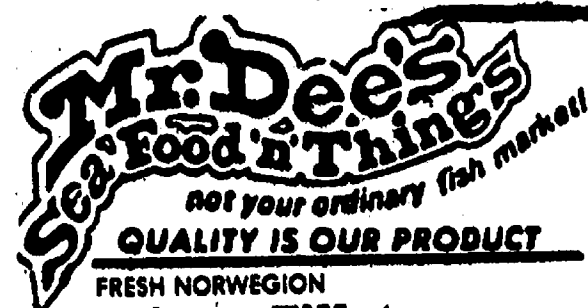

According to the agreement, village council will decide whether any conflict of interest is cause for referring the matter to a different attorney.

"A conflict of interest shall include situations where the attorney is asked by another client to provide a legal opinion or to take action of a discretionary nature, which is directly or indirectly related to the interests of the village in the conduct of its municipal affairs and operations," the agreement says.

The village agreed to pay for its legal services on a per-hour basis, to the tenth of an hour.

CHELSEA BATON CORPS members participated in a major competition on Nov. 11 at Lakeview for the National Baton Twirling Association state championships.

Baton Corps Members Win Numerous Titles in Two Matches

Chelsea Baton Corps recently participated in two large twirling competitions and once again were very successful.

NBTA State Competition
On Nov. 11 the Corps traveled to Lakeview for the NBTA (National Baton Twirling Association) State Championships.

The Corps was led by Kristie Hatch, 6, of Chelsea who had a great day and captured the NBTA state titles in modeling, best appearing, novice fancy strut, novice solo and novice flag divisions.

State titles were also won by the following Corps members: Sarah Skyles, best appearing, beg, basic strut, and novice fancy strut; Whitney Hampton, beg, best appearing; Linda Schaffer, int. solo; Laurie Honbaum, int. fancy strut; and Winston Howard, adv. basic strut, adv. flag and two-baton.

Linda Schaffer's first in intermediate solo was a very exciting win for her as this win changes her solo twirling status from intermediate to advance division.

Results of the day for the other Corps members were as follows: Emily Morgan: state beg, basic strut, 3rd.

Megan Morgan: open novice fancy strut, 2nd; open novice solo, 1st; state adv. basic strut, 3rd; state duet, 2nd.

TU Miss Holiday Contest
Saturday, Dec. 2 Twirling Unlimited (TU) held its annual Miss Holiday Contest in Temperance. The title of Miss Holiday Majorette is awarded in the various divisions to those individuals who place highest in modeling, fancy strut and twirling solo. Two Chelsea Baton Corps members won this title in their division.

Stacy Leatherberry, of Stockbridge, captured the title in the beginner 0-8 division, with Megan Morgan, of Chelsea, taking second place in this division.

Katie Sullivan, of Dexter, is Miss Holiday Majorette for the beginner 9-11 age division, with Jodie Rainey and Laura Roskowski, both of Chelsea, second and third, respectively, in the 9-11 division. Additional events of the day were MISS HOLIDAY CONTEST twirling competition held at Temperance on Dec. 2 resulted in the following local winners. Jodey Rainey, camp scholarship winner; Katie Sullivan, Miss Holiday Majorette, 9-11 age division; Stacey Leatherberry, Miss Holiday Majorette, 0-8 age division; Santa Claus who appeared as a guest; Kristie Hatch, basic skills winner.

STATE TITLE WINNERS in the Nov. 11 match held at Lakeview resulted in many Chelsea and Dexter top placers. Among them were Linda Schaffer, Laurie Honbaum, Kristie Hatch, Winston Howard, and Sarah Skyles.

LAURA ROSKOWSKI shared a congratulatory hug with her mother, Loreta Roskowski, after she won a first place in beginner solo, which moves her into the intermediate division.

the basic skills pageant, which is the combined scores for best appearing, basic strut, and solo. Again, the Chelsea Baton Corps was very successful. Kristie Hatch, of Chelsea, won the competition in the 0-8 division with Megan Morgan taking second. Michelle Lucas, of Chelsea, won second place in the basic skills for the 9-11 age division.

In addition to the pageants, a basic twirl camp scholarship twirl-off was held. For the third consecutive year, a Chelsea Baton Corps member won this scholarship. This year's TU Camp Scholarship was won by Jodie Rainey, which entitles her to a week of baton camp held by Twirling Unlimited at Hillsdale College in June.

The day's open events were highlighted by Laura Roskowski winning a first in beg. solo which advances her to the intermediate division for twirling. Whitney Hampton won a first in beg. modeling, which was titled as Miss Christmas. Laura Johnson won a first in basic twirl, which qualifies her to compete for the basic twirl camp scholarship.

The competition closes the competitive year for the Corps; but they are practicing and preparing for the winter competition.

Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Still Unbeaten, Whip Milan, Railsplitters

Chelsea Bulldogs pushed their record to 4-0 with victories over Southeastern Conference foes Milan Big Reds and Lincoln Railsplitters last week.

Chelsea and the Tecumseh Indians remain the only unbeaten SEC teams. They are scheduled to meet for the first time Jan. 13 in Chelsea.

The Bulldogs whipped Milan, 73-59, on Tuesday, Dec. 12 at home and Lincoln, 93-74, on the road Friday.

In each game, the score stayed relatively close until the fourth quarter, when the Bulldogs took advantage of their superior ball handling, passing, and aggressive defense to take charge. Milan was out-scored in the fourth quarter, 21-14, and Lincoln was manhandled, 29-17, in the final period.

"We're playing with a lot of confidence right now," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We seem to get stronger as the game goes on and that's good to see."

In addition, as a group, Kyle and Kerry Plank, Brian Burg, and Chad Starkey are shooting 62 percent from the field.

"If they continue to shoot anywhere near that percentage, we're going to be tough to beat," Raymond said.

In the Milan game, Chelsea led 35-31 at half-time and increased the lead to 52-45 after three quarters.

"Defensively, we did a nice job, especially on (guard Kevin) Wanty," Raymond said.

"He had 17 points but I never felt he was a major factor in the game. When we took Wanty out offensively, it really hurt them. He's a good player."

Chelsea had a good night offensively as well. They shot 55 percent (31-56) from the field, although just 9-18 from the line. Although the bench didn't score a point, an oddity for the Bulldogs considering how frequently Raymond substitutes, there was good balance among the starters.

Center Burg had 18 points and grabbed a career high 16 rebounds, including 10 of the team's 16 offensive rebounds. Burg dominated play on the inside down the stretch.

Starkey rebounded from a shooting slump in the Saline game to record a team-high 25 points.

KERRY PLANK drives for two points against Milan last Tuesday. The Bulldogs went on to win, 73-59.

Senior Chris Wilson scored a career-high 17 points, including two three-point field goals.

Junior Kyle Plank had 15 points, while brother Kerry had an off night with two points.

"Kerry had an excellent defensive game," Raymond said.

"There's no doubt in my mind that he's one of the best defensive players in the area. He picks everybody else up defensively. We were able to force Milan out of what they wanted to do."

Chelsea had its best offensive game of the year at Lincoln as the fast break offense was in high gear, especially late in the game.

"Lincoln tried to play a zone against us, and when we were still able to get inside, they went to a man-to-man," Raymond said.

"Then things got worse for them. They're quick, but we're certainly just as quick. They thought they could run with us but they don't handle the ball nearly as well as we do. The kids really passed the ball and we had a lot of three-on-two fast breaks. I'll bet 50 of our 87 shots were inside the paint."

Chelsea led 64-57 at the end of three quarters before victimizing the Railsplitter press to create numerous fast breaks. They shot 11-15 from the field in the final quarter and 7-11 from the line. The scoring was balanced as Starkey scored eight, Kyle Plank had six, Tucker Steele and Jude Quilter had four each, and Burg scored five.

"We adjusted real well to their press," Raymond said.

Starkey finished with a career-high 31 points, including 13-17 shooting from the field and 5-6 accuracy from the line. He also had four rebounds and a team-high four steals.

"Chad really did the job at both ends of the court," Raymond said.

Other scorers included Burg 19, Kyle Plank 17, Quilter 7, Kerry Plank 6, Steele 5, Wilson 4, and Jon Royce 4. As a team, the Bulldogs shot 58 percent (39-67) from the field, won the rebounding battle, 48-37, and had 22 turnovers.

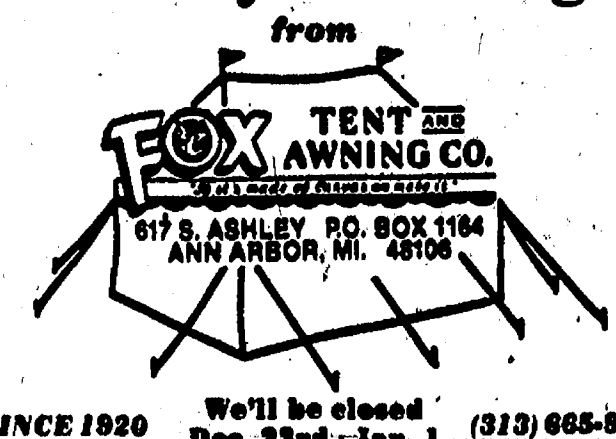

Raymond was, however, not pleased with some of his Bulldogs' defensive play and said "we were standing around in our half-court defense." They also gave up 19 offensive rebounds.

Chelsea hosts Gabriel Richard Friday in the final game of 1989. Richard features a deliberate, more physical style than the Bulldogs have seen this year.

Wrestlers Take Second At CHS Invitational

Chelsea Bulldog wrestlers took second place in the 11-team Chelsea Invitational last Saturday.

In other action last week, the Bulldogs knocked off Saline in their first Southeastern Conference meet and beat all three schools in a four-way meet at Charlotte.

The Chelsea Invitational was won by Addison, one of the top five teams in the state, who finished with 187 points. Chelsea scored 170. Other team finishes were Bath 115, Monroe Jefferson 112, Durand 81, New Boston 73, Albion 63, Fowlerville 54, Linden 41, Chelsea 39, Addison 38, and Saline 37.

Chelsea had four champions and nine placers, including Pat Taylor (119 pounds), who was voted the league's outstanding wrestler.

"Over-all we wrestled very well," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Addison is a tough team and I knew we'd have trouble beating them."

Chelsea's champs included junior Karl Wikman at 112 pounds, Taylor, senior Doug Wingrove at 152 pounds, and senior Tim VanSchoick at 189 pounds.

Wikman won three decisions, 11-6 over Carl Slater of Linden, 8-0 over Charles Bero of Addison, and 3-2 over Brian McClain of Bath, the number one seed and a state placer last year.

"Karl is really wrestling tough," Kargel said.

Taylor won his first two matches by pins. He nailed Mike Robbins of Linden in :48 and Charlie Henley of New Boston in 1:25 to reach the finals.

In the finals he earned a 16-0 technical fall over Todd Corbin of Addison, who earlier had pinned a state qualifier.

Wingrove started with a pin of Addison's Kevin Davis in 2:35. He followed that with an 8-2 decision over Jeremy Nichols of Fowlerville, a state qualifier. In the finals he defeated Paul Hill of Bath, the top seed, 11-2.

VanSchoick pinned all three of his opponents. He stopped Jeff Buckman of Linden in 1:21, Robert Knight of Monroe Jefferson in 1:04, and Jerry Agviar of Bath in the finals in 4:38.

Alan Hanna at 125 pounds finished second and was nearly the champion. He lost to Tony Hale of Albion, 6-5, as Hale escaped in the last six seconds.

"Alan really impressed me," Kargel said.

"He's starting to look like another tough Hanna. He's starting to be more positive and use more moves."

Hanna pinned Phil Watson of New Boston in :44 in his first match and took a 12-5 decision over Addison's Mike Mackley in his second match.

Todd Watson at 103 pounds, Rex Nye at 135 pounds, Kevin McCalla at 155 pounds, and Jim Hassett at 140 pounds each took third place.

Watson knocked off Terry Dasher of Addison in the consolation finals, 4-2.

Nye pinned Chris Good of New Boston in the consolation finals in 1:36. Along the way he also beat Chelsea's Chuck Kovick, who was wrestling with the B team, 5-2.

McCalla faced Chelsea's Ian Dyer in the consolation finals and won 5-2.

Dyer finished fourth. Hassett stopped Fowlerville's Chad Mills in the consolation finals, 10-4.

Heavyweight Mike Terpstra placed fourth with a 2-2 record.

Bulldog Tankers Swamp Ypsi To Open Dual Meet Season

Chelsea Bulldog swimmers began their dual meet season last week with an easy 101-69 victory over class A Ypsilanti last Tuesday, Dec. 12.

According to Chelsea coach Dave Jolly, the Bulldogs showed a powerful performance.

The medley relay team of Brett Paddock, David Oesterle, Von Acker, and Wally Schmid again qualified for the state meet with their time of 1:46.96. Chelsea's B team of Steve Brock, Jim Alford, Brian Brock and Greg Garen finished second in 2:00.94.

Girard swam a 5:10.59 in the 500 freestyle for second place.

"Garth is learning how to deal with pain this year," Jolly said.

"He's going to be a fine swimmer."

Paddock and Brian Brock finished 1-2 in the 100 backstroke in 1:01.5 and 1:09, respectively.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

One of the best laughs I've had in a long time came after seeing last Wednesday's front page of the Ann Arbor News, which proclaimed, "Bo to resign," in billboard-sized type. And, of course, the entire front page was devoted to the impending announcement. The first question I had was, if Bo Schembechler had retired on the same day World War II ended, which story would have had the bigger headline? Would the war have even made the front page or would they have simply sent Romaker out to do a feature story on it? And wouldn't it have been great if Bo had said, "well boys, I was going to quit, but I've changed my mind."

I spent a few minutes the other night teaching my two-year-old to say "bye, bye, big Bo."

Certainly Bo is a legend to a lot of people, but just a successful football coach to the rational minority.

A friend of mine, a UM grad, noted that in his in-law's family, Bo's stature has now surpassed that of legendary ex-president Ronald Reagan, and is closing in on legendary, dead, ex-singer Elvis. That's pretty elite company, especially considering that Bo never had the ability to either blow up the world or send millions of young ladies into a frenzy.

I grew up in Columbus (as the local bumper sticker proclaims, "Go south 'til you smell it, and east 'til you step in it"), so I am no stranger to over-hyped coaches. I was always amazed at what a to-do everyone made over Woody Hayes. There was a guy whose claims to fame, from what I could tell, were that he always wore a short-sleeved white dress shirt in sub-zero weather and he was capable of a major tantrum. In other words, he did all those things you don't want your two-year-old to do. And people loved him for it.

It seems to me this Bo-as-Legend stuff has intensified considerably over the last three or four years. Why? Maybe because he started winning his post-season games a little more frequently.

So, now shouldn't they rename Michigan Stadium the "Bo Bowl?" Doesn't that have a better ring to it than "Schembechler Stadium."

And if the Rose Bowl weren't hyped enough, now Bo has to quit which will probably make this year's hype 100 times worse. The drama of Bo's last game. Interviews with all those who coached for him. Interviews with Millie, Schemmie, and Bo's doctor. Interviews with the players. What will he say in his final pre-game speech? What will he eat in his final pre-game breakfast? What did Millie say before his final trip to the playing field? Will he remain as athletic director? Special presentations to Bo. How do you feel, Bo? What are you thinking, Bo? How many times will we hear that he coached 21 years and never won a national title? 6,000 or so? How many times will we hear that in spite of enormous pressure, he ran a "clean" program. If someone comes up with a Bo highlight film accompanied by Frank Sinatra's "My Way," I think I'll become homicidal.

So, why is it that a football coach who won a lot of games, swore a lot on the sidelines (it's not that difficult to read his lips on TV), threw a few tantrums, and refrained from illegal activities, is turned into a local hero? In some ways, it reminds me of the way some of the British regard the Royal Family, which on the whole are far less worthwhile than even a moderately successful football coach.

Sorry to say, but the Ann Arbor News headline probably was an accurate reflection of the way people in the Ann Arbor area feel about Bo. He's the most prominent, visible and highly regarded person in the community. And that's sad.

CHAD STARKEY had the hot hand last week as he scored 25 points against Milan on Tuesday and 31 against Lincoln on Friday.

JV Cagers Beat Milan Big Reds

Chelsea Bulldog junior varsity basketball team picked up its first victory of the season last week with a 56-45 win over Milan on Tuesday, Dec. 12 at home.

In other action, the JVs lost at Lincoln on Friday, Dec. 15, 69-60.

In the Milan game, Jake Rindie led all Bulldogs with 15 points and Ben Hurst had 11. Other scorers included Mike Wolpoff 8, Dan Stahl 7, John Weinberg 5, Chris Wright 4, Aaron Tanner 1, and Jason Garrigus 1.

In the Lincoln game, the Bulldogs and Railsplitters were even at half-time at 31. However, the Bulldogs were out-scored in each of the last two quarters.

The Bulldogs featured a balanced scoring attack as Rindie had 19, Wolpoff and Hurst each had 12, Stahl scored 10, Adam Tillman had five, and Rob Coelius scored two.

Freshman Cagers Drop Two To Stockbridge and Saline

Chelsea Bulldog freshman basketball team suffered through a tough week of action last week as they lost games to Stockbridge and Saline.

On Monday, Dec. 11 at Stockbridge, the Panthers took a 45-38 victory.

"We were not ready to play at game time and fell behind 12-7 after one period," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"Our defense wasn't that bad, but we hurt ourselves on offense by not moving and by shooting so poorly."

Chris Dunham and Colt White led the offense but did not receive enough support, Quilter said.

Chelsea shot 25 percent from the field and 42 percent from the free throw line, while Stockbridge hit 35 and 50 percent, respectively. Each team had 30 rebounds.

Dunham scored 13 points and White had 12. Other scorers included Jeremy Beauchamp and Ed Waller with four points each, Nick McCalla and Brian Horn with two each, and Eric Brown with one.

White had a team-high eight rebounds.

On Thursday, Dec. 14 at home against Saline, the Hornets trailed until the final minute and eventually won 47-44.

The Bulldogs held Saline to 14 first-half points and led 21-14 at half-time. Chelsea dominated the boards.

Quilter said the Bulldogs ran their offense well and had plenty of open shots but couldn't make them.

"We need to become more consistent and play four full quarters," Quilter said.

White paced Chelsea with 12 points. Brown, Beauchamp, and McCalla each scored eight; Tom Poulter had four, and Dunham and J.D. Alford each scored two.

Poulter had a team-high nine rebounds.

Eighth Grade Cagers Whip Dexter, Lose Another Big

Beach Middle school eighth grade basketball team was on opposite ends of two lopsided scores last week as they beat Dexter, 63-29, but lost to Pinckney, 55-34.

On Monday, Dec. 11 against Dexter, Chelsea jumped out to a 23-10 lead in the first quarter and a 30-19 half-time lead before running away with the contest.

"Everyone contributed toward the effort," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

Pat Steele scored 17 points and was the only Bullpup in double figures. However, 11 other Bullpups scored as well.

7th Grade Cagers Drop Two Games

Beach Middle school seventh grade basketball team dropped two games by narrow margins last week.

In the first contest on Monday, Dec. 11, Chelsea lost to Dexter, 24-23.

Chelsea trailed until the third quarter when the Pups rallied to take a one-point lead going into the fourth quarter.

The difference in the game was at the foul line where Chelsea hit 4-9 shots and Dexter hit 8-8.

Dirk Wales led Chelsea with six points, while Jon Michael and Case McCalla each had four.

On Thursday, Dec. 14 the Pups lost to Pinckney, 32-27, after leading by two points going into the fourth quarter.

"We were cold in the fourth quarter," said Chelsea coach Charlie Waller.

"We had the shots to win, but couldn't buy a basket in the fourth quarter."

Chelsea rallied from a 10-0 deficit to make the game an exciting one.

Chelsea was 5-4 after last week's action.

Bulldogs Beat Saline Hornets In SEC Meet

ed," Kargel said.

"I'm getting used to having two, three or four boys in the finals of these tournaments."

Chelsea beat Saline 36-30 last Thursday, Dec. 14 at Saline.

"I thought it might be close, but it was closer than I wanted," Kargel said.

"Saline's always ready and always pumped. I'm always glad when that meet's over."

Watson led off at 103 and was pinned by Saline's Mark Gray in 1:40.

Wikman posted a 14-1 victory over Tim Austin at 112.

Taylor pinned Steve Gray in 5:03 at 119 pounds.

Eric Hanna pinned Jason Peterson in 3:24 at 125 pounds.

Chelsea's Kelly Beard was pinned by Chris Voightman in 1:32 at 130 pounds.

At 135 pounds, Nye lost a 4-2 decision to Saline's Jesse Peterson.

McCalla won a 17-2 technical fall over Lance Bebe at 140 pounds.

Chelsea's Jim Hassett pinned Jim Jannausch in 2:34 in a key match.

At 152, Wingrove shut out Kevin Streeter, 8-0.

At 160, Chelsea's Matt Herter tied Jim Fritz, 2-2.

Pat Hassett of Chelsea tied Dan Woolley, 4-4, at 171 pounds.

Van Schoick pinned Jim Brown in 2:24.

Terpstra, at heavyweight, was pinned by Saline's Dave Olson at 3:18.

In a quad meet at Charlotte on Tuesday, Dec. 12, Chelsea beat Jackson County Western 58-8, Leslie 63-6, and Charlotte, 32-18.

Kargel installed several freshmen in the line-up. McCalla won once at 140 pounds and Vince Stahl went 1-1 at 103.

Chuck Kovick, a back-up at 135, won a match and Kelly Beard, a junior, went 2-0 on the day.

Bulldog regulars who went undefeated included Wikman, Taylor, Jim Hassett, Wingrove, Adam Taylor, and VanSchoick.

Michigan Photographer's Business Blends Aesthetics With Agriculture

Grass Lake—For over 35 years, Ann Arbor native Dale Fisher has created photographic art with a different perspective—from the air. Fisher, who is perhaps the only photographer in the world working full-time exclusively from a helicopter, notes that "creating photographs from a helicopter moving at speeds of up to 120 mph is a marriage of art and science—there's no margin for guesswork."

A broad sampling of Fisher's recent photographic art may be seen in his two self-published books. The first, entitled Detroit, was created with the enthusiastic support of the General Motors Corp. It features the Motor City in its many facets—industrial, architectural, recreational. The second book, Michigan from the Eyr of the Eagle, was the official sesquicentennial book for the State of Michigan. Produced in co-operation with the First of America Bank Corp., it focuses on the natural beauty and power of the state.

Two years ago, Fisher moved his entire operation from Ann Arbor to nearby Grass Lake, 15 minutes west of Chelsea. The art gallery forms an integral part of Fisher's 150-acre working farm, the Eyr of the Eagle. "There's no sharp delineation between my life taken as a whole and my photographic work," says the artist. The relocation of the gallery, then, was a natural progression. "In addition to housing a gallery for viewing my works," he adds, "I want the farm to be a place where my friends and patrons can visit and relax."

During the 1940's and 50's, the farm experienced a renaissance under the ownership of the late Eleanor Potter, who is best remembered locally for her home-grown herbs and unique bird house gourds which she marketed at the Ann Arbor Farmers Market.

After Potter's death in 1980, the farm sat vacant until Fisher purchased it in 1985.

Fisher has thoroughly renovated the farm's 100-year-old barn into gallery and work space. Although extensive, the renovation process did not alter the original character or structure of the building. Walls have been shored up, strengthened and insulated, the foundation has been made level, and a new roof has been built, all assuring the 19th-century barn a prosperity in the 21st century which most other barns of its age will never survive to experience.

Fisher has acquired three additional wooden barns of the same age that were destined for the wrecking ball. Over the next six months these barns will be painstakingly dismantled and components will be used to complete a 40x52 foot addition which will blend in architecturally and aesthetically with the original barn. Below ground, a full basement will serve as work space for Fisher's mounting, matting and framing operations.

While the new space will serve primarily as gallery space for the display of Fisher's works, he intends to make the unique building available to groups for retreat and meeting space. A picnic pavilion capable of seating 200 will be built of old barn materials in the spring of 1990.

Major landscaping projects now are underway at the Eyr of the Eagle farm. "We're working towards restoring the entire feel of the place to what it must have been 100 years ago," says the artist. This program includes revitalizing the large and aging apple orchard and construction of a traditional knot garden for medicinal, culinary and fragrance herbs. In most cases, plants and shrubs which are indigenous to the area and heirloom varieties are being selected in preference to modern hybrids.

The treasure trove of flora extant on the property, often hidden under trees and bushes now grown large, is being examined and old and rare species will be carefully propagated and used. By spring, one half mile of road which fronts hay, wheat and corn fields will have been planted as wildflower meadow using varieties native to the area. Daisies, asters, coneflowers, poppies and bachelor buttons were among the millions of flowers which literally stopped traffic last spring as passersby paused to enjoy the view and ask questions.

Regardless of the season, the farm affords many opportunities for observation and exploration. During the cold months of the year, Fisher supplies corn, sugar beets and hay to the large population of white-tailed deer who venture up from the woods to the orchard to snack on windfall apples.

The thick and varied undergrowth in the woods is home to many smaller animals, including rabbits, woodchucks and gray fox. A myriad of birds large and small populates the forest canopy. Periodically the stillness at nightfall is punctuated by the hoot of a great horned owl or the call of a sandhill crane.

Plans are being made to return one large hay field to natural grasses as a habitat for ring-necked pheasants, quail and other wildlife.

A recent addition to the property is a three mile long wagon trail which traverses the 150 acres through woods and field. During the gallery's month-long "Christmas on the Farm" open house and exhibit, visitors to the farm on week-ends will have the opportunity to go on walking tours or wagon rides along the trail.

The farm is a magical place, alive with wildlife and vegetation, home to a million small natural beauties which await the perceptive observer's notice. The uniqueness of the place is evident even to first-time gallery visitors, but especially to Dale Fisher who lives, works and creates there. "The Eyr of the Eagle Farm is the fulfillment of a lifelong dream," concludes the artist with contented finality.

Debaters Fifth

Chelsea High school novice debate team placed fifth in state competition last Saturday at Michigan State University.

Chelsea finished behind champion Muskegon Mona Shores, East Grand Rapids, East Lansing, and Birmingham Groves, all class A schools.

"This is our best finish since 1972 when we won the state," said teacher Bill Coelius.

Rob Stofer and Angie Nagel argued the affirmative while Jeanene Rossi and Kate Dilworth took the negative. Rossi and Dilworth finished with a 17-1 record for the season.

Chelsea beat Sterling Heights Stevenson, Birmingham Seaholm (both affirmative and negative), Hudsonville Unity Christian, and Southfield Lathrup. They finished with a 5-3 record.

Stofer's mother was a member of the 1972 state championship team.

AMBER HAMM, 3½, takes a candy cane from Santa during the old man's visit to the Chelsea Depot Saturday afternoon, sponsored by the Downtown Merchants Association. Amber, daughter of Laura Hamm, of Chelsea, would like a doll for Christmas.

What Is Christmas

Christmas is the time we celebrate the birth of JESUS CHRIST the Savior of the world.

For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that whoever believes in Him should not perish but have everlasting life.
John 3:16

For unto us a child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.

ORDINANCE NO. 56 IMPOUNDING AND DISPOSAL OF DOGS VILLAGE OF CHELSEA, MICHIGAN

effective November 4, 1986

21.100 An Ordinance regulating the keeping, impounding and disposal of dogs and penalty for the violation hereof.

The Village of Chelsea Ordains:

21.101 It shall be unlawful for any person owning, possessing, or harboring any dog to permit the same to go or stray beyond the premises of such person, or to run at large within the limits of the Village of Chelsea. Dogs on leash, or accompanied by their owners, or custodian having reasonable control over such dogs, shall not be deemed to be running at large. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.102 No person shall harbor or keep any dog which by loud, frequent or habitual barking, yelping, growling or howling shall constitute a serious annoyance to any of the inhabitants of the Village. The harboring, or keeping of such a dog shall be deemed to be maintaining a nuisance and may be punished as hereinafter set forth. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.103 No person shall possess, harbour (harbor), or have charge of, any dog known to be of ugly disposition, or dangerous to persons or property. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.104 No person shall possess, harbour (harbor), or have charge of, any dog which by destruction of property of others, or trespassing on the property of others, shall become a nuisance to others. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.105 No person shall harbor or keep a dog that has been bitten by animals known or suspected to have been afflicted with rabies, unless said dog has received the prescribed treatment for the prevention of rabies. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.106 Every person in possession of any dog, or who shall suffer such dog to remain about his premises for a period of three (3) days shall be deemed the owner thereof. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.107 It shall be the duty of the Village police officers to investigate all complaints relating to the violation of any provisions of this ordinance and to enforce all provisions hereof. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.108 Any member of the Village police force is hereby authorized to seize and impound any dog found running at large in violation of the provisions of this ordinance: the owners of such dogs, if known, or if said dog is wearing a license, shall be notified in writing of said impoundment, which dog may be released to the owner on the payment to the Village Chief of Police of the sum of $3.00 for each day of impoundment, and if any of such dogs are not redeemed within five (5) days after impoundment, they may be destroyed by the Village police officers, or delivered to the Washtenaw Humane Society, provided said dog is removed from the Village. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.109 Any person or persons violating any of the provisions of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than Fifty ($50.00) Dollars, or by imprisonment in the Washtenaw County Jail for not more than thirty (30) days, or both by such fine and imprisonment in the discretion of the Court. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.110 It is not the intention that this ordinance supersede the provisions of Act. 339 of the Public Acts of Michigan 1919, as amended, but shall be construed to be supplementary thereto. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.111 All ordinances, or parts of ordinances, including Ordinance No. 39, in conflict with this ordinance, are hereby repealed. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

21.112 This ordinance shall be in full force and effect twenty (20) days after its passage and publication. (Ord. no. 56 eff. November 4, 1986)

Published October 18, 1986.

PUBLIC NOTICE ICE AND SNOW REMOVAL

All owners or occupants of real estate in the Village of Chelsea must remove any accumulations of ice and snow which obstruct the free use of the sidewalk by pedestrians within 48 hours after the accumulation of such snow or ice.

ORDINANCE NO. 94

23.253-Sec3 - Ice & Snow Removal

It shall be the duty of the owner or occupant of every parcel of real estate within the Village which adjoins a public right-of-way upon which there has been constructed a public sidewalk, to remove any accumulations of ice and snow which obstruct the free use of the sidewalk by pedestrians, within 48 hours (Ord. No. 94, eff. June 21, 1985)

23.254-Sec4 - Failure to Remove Snow and Ice

Any owner or occupant of real estate which adjoins the public right-of-way upon which there is constructed a public sidewalk, who shall fail to remove accumulations of snow and ice, as provided in Section 3 (25.253), above, shall be guilty of a violation of this Ordinance, and the Chelsea Village Police Officer may make complaint and request a warrant from the appropriate judicial officer, or issue and appearance ticket or citation, as provided by Public Act 366 of 1984, directing the appearance of such owner or occupant before the appropriate judicial officer to answer the complaint. (Ord. No. 94, eff. June 21, 1985)

23.255-Sec5 - Removal of Obstructions or Snow and Ice by Village.

It shall be the duty of the Village Administrator, and Village Department of Public works, their agents and employees, on the order of the Chelsea Village Police Offices to remove any obstructions or accumulations of snow and ice, or cause the same to be removed, as soon as possible. The Village Administrator shall, at the next meeting of the Village Council, report any and all obstructions or accumulations of snow and ice so removed, together with the names and addresses of the owners and occupants of such premises, together with a statement of the costs of removal and the description of the real estate abutting the public right-of-way upon which there was located a public sidewalk and from which the obstructions or accumulations were removed. The Chelsea Village Council may cause the expense, or such portion thereof as the Council may determine to be just and reasonable, to be charged to such owner or occupant. Notice of the amount due shall be mailed by the Village Administrator immediately to the owner or occupant. The owner or occupant shall have thirty (30) days thereafter within which to pay the same. In the event that said amount remains unpaid, the Village Council may, at its next regular meeting, cause the amount of the expenses incurred for which said owner or occupant is liable, together with a penalty and collection fee of ten (10%) percent thereof, or FIFTY ($50) DOLLARS, whichever is greater, to be levied as a special tax or assessment upon the abutting lot or premises, in accordance with the procedures of Ordinance No. 80 (23.00), the Chelsea Village Special Assessment Ordinance. Such tax, when confirmed, shall be a lien upon such real estate, the same as other special assessment, and shall be spread together with such penalty and collection fee upon the roll as a special assessment, and collect it in the same manner as other Village taxes. The Village Council may elect, in addition to imposing a special assessment, to commence any action to collect such amount and penalty in an action at law together with the cost of prosecution. (Ord. No. 94, eff. June 21, 1985)

Design your own cards for friends and relatives

With the return to home and hearth, homemade greeting cards are back in vogue. This holiday season, add a personal touch to the festivities by taking time to design your own cards. Family members and special friends will appreciate the extra effort.

To make the lacy wreath card (pictured below, at left), simply spray paper doilies with a thin coat of silver paint. Cut out and glue to lightweight cardboard with Elmer's Glue-All.

Frame with thin strips of silver gift paper and mount on folded card. Adorn wreath with small plaid grosgrain bow and glue on glitter or beads for a three-dimensional effect.

For charming "country" cards, spread cardboard with Elmer's Craft Bond I adhesive, making sure to cover all edges. Spread calico or other country-type fabric over the entire card, then cut off excess. Cover edges with narrow ribbon.

Back leftover pieces of fabric with tissue paper (to avoid raveling when cutting small pieces) and cut out designs to attach to cards. Borrow motifs from early American patchwork quilts.

To hold all the cards you receive, make a card showcase. Cover a shoe or gift box with Elmer's Craft Bond I and smooth on a piece of red or green patterned fabric. Decorate the box with bits of lace and tie it with a complementary plaid or polka dot ribbon. SX891174

Throughout history, Christmas Day has been a date on which noteworthy events have occurred

December 25th is best known, of course, as Christmas—declared centuries ago as the day of Christ's birth. But, while no one can say for certain if accuracy has kept pace with tradition, numerous other noteworthy events have in fact occurred on Christmas Day.

In the year 800 A.D., Charlemagne was crowned Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire by Pope Leo III on Christmas Day. And, in 1066, another world-renowned leader, William the Conqueror, fresh from his success at the Battle of Hastings, ascended the throne of England on December 25th.

Crossing the Atlantic, in 1492, Christopher Columbus's ship, the Santa Maria, landed on the island of Hispaniola, today occupied jointly by Haiti and the Dominican Republic, on Christmas Eve.

Columbus left a colony of his sailors behind and headed back to Spain, convinced he had found not a "new world" but a short cut to the Far East.

One of the most famous occurrences of the American Revolution happened on Christmas evening in 1776, when George Washington and his troops crossed the Delaware River from their encampment in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania, into New Jersey.

There was good reason for this—Washington rightly assumed that the Hessian troops employed by the British and ensconced across the river would be in the midst of celebrations and therefore less alert to forays by the revolutionary army. SX891171

Alford Is President-Elect Of Animal Science Group

Chelsea resident James Alford, director of the Unit for Laboratory Animal Medicine at the University of Michigan, has become the president-elect of the American Association for Laboratory Animal Science (AALAS).

Alford assumed the office during the 40th AALAS Annual Meeting held Oct. 29-Nov. 2 in Little Rock, Ark. He will assume the presidency next October.

Alford, a 14-year AALAS member, has served in numerous leadership positions, including six years as treasurer and executive committee member. He was honored by the organization in 1979 with the George R. Collins Award for outstanding contributions to laboratory animal technology.

AALAS is an educational clearinghouse for more than 4,000 members representing 25 countries. The organization sponsors a national educational meeting each year, operates a certification program for lab animal technicians, and publishes a scientific journal, newsletter, and a variety of educational materials.

Christian Fellowship Has Guest Speaker For Sunday Morning

Chelsea Christian Fellowship, 337 Wilkinson St., is featuring the year-end, Dec. 31, with a guest minister, the Rev. Michael Sharkey of Saline, in the morning service at 11 a.m., according to the interim pastor, the Rev. Thode Thodeson.

The Rev. Sharkey is a graduate of Saline High school. He earned his ministerial credentials at Southwestern Bible College, Waxahatchie, Tex. He served as youth minister at the Saline Assembly of God church for 16 years. He is now teaching at Cope, Ypsilanti, which is an alternative education school for high risk youth.

The Rev. and Mrs. Sharkey live in Saline. The public is invited to meet this young man who is ministering to the troubled youth of today.

WHO IS GOD? (part 7)

In concluding our series of articles concerning the nature of God, I would like to address something that is climactic in our understanding of God Almighty, and that is his oneness. We have gained scriptural insight over the past few weeks on JEHOVAH'S omnipotence; his omniscience; his eternal existence; and his immutability along with many other characteristics associated with THE ALMIGHTY. If, however, these attributes were shared or equally inherent in any other being, spiritual or earthly, then there would not be a supreme being to whom we serve, but rather a heavenly cartel. The Father of heaven, the Very God, JEHOVAH himself does not exist in plurality, but in oneness. To believe otherwise would be to contradict a multitude of scriptural references as well as the LORD GOD HIMSELF! According to Deut. 6:4, spoken from the mouth of Moses just after receiving the commandments from JEHOVAH he says "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God is one Lord." That means that he did not share his virtues, or equality with any one or anything. Eph. 4:6 continues this thought by saying that there is "One God and Father of all, who is above all, and through all, and in you all." Even though God has imparted many spiritual gifts and abilities to men throughout the course of history, at no time has this heavenly delegation of authority given equality with the JEHOVAH. This was a teaching typical from Jesus Christ as well. In Luke 18:19 when a rich young ruler addressed Jesus as "Good Master," Jesus replied by saying "Why callest me good? None is good, save one, that is, God." Not even Jesus, with all the spiritual gifts that God bestowed upon him, was found in equality with God. Jesus quotes as saying in John 14:28 "... I go unto the Father; for my Father is greater than I." Though Christ now sits at the right hand of God, sharing the Kingdom of God, he does not share the name JEHOVAH, for as David says in Psalms 83:18 "That men may know that thou whose name alone is JEHOVAH, art the most high over all the earth." We serve a truly supreme God!

Girl Scout Troops Entertain Residents at Methodist Home

Members of Brownie Troop 719 and Girl Scout Senior Troop 777, Chelsea, held their Christmas Party with residents of the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home, Sunday afternoon, Dec. 17.

The day before the party, the Brownies met at the home of troop leader Cindy Harris to prepare the party food.

The menu included tea sandwiches, cookies, fruit kabobs, and punch.

With the help of their leader, and assistant leader Louise Barner, the Brownies planned the menu and the party activities.

Members of both troops caroled through the nursing section of the facility, then went to a special area reserved for the party to share the treats made by the Brownies.

Leaders of Senior Troop 777 are Sandy Schmunk and her assistant, Barbara Van Gorder.

After enjoying the treats, the group sang more carols, then exchanged gifts.

The Brownies gave their "big sisters" pictures which they took and made frames for, and their "big sisters" presented them the safety badges they earned earlier in the year.

A wonderful time was shared, everyone agreed.

Grass Lake Voters Face Bonding Proposals for Schools

Three bonding propositions totaling $2,085,000 will be the subject of a special election in the Grass Lake School District on Monday, Jan. 29.

In a Dec. 5 letter, Michigan State Department of Education authorized the Grass Lake Board of Education to put the bonding propositions before the voters.

Proposition I, for not more than $680,000, would fund the construction of additional classrooms at the George Long Elementary school, as well as site preparation.

Proposition II, for not more than $1,160,000, would fund the construction of a gymnasium at the junior/senior high school, as well as site work.

Proposition III, for not more than $225,000, would fund the construction of a stage in the junior/senior high school cafeteria.

They're out for blood.

At first, it was only once a week. Then three times a week. Now they're out for blood every night. And they're not alone. They're just two of the thousands of people all over the country who are finally starting to do something about the disease that kills almost 32,000 Americans every year—and afflicts another 38 million. It's high blood pressure. And once you know you've got it, you can usually control it. By following your doctor's advice on exercise, weight control, salt intake, and medication. Talk to your doctor today about getting started on a program that will keep you out for blood. And in the running.

JIM FINCH'S stuffed apples would make a nice alternative to cakes and pies this holiday season.

Jim Finch's Stuffed Apples

Jim Finch, who has shared more than one recipe with Standard readers over the years, devised this recipe for stuffed apples completely from scratch.

The apples would make a nice alternative to the heavy, rich desserts so typical of the holiday season.

Ingredients
6 servings tapioca pudding
1 C water
1 C sugar
6 good baking apples (Jim likes Connell reds)
6 oz red raspberry preserves
1 T brandy

Prepare tapioca pudding according to directions on the box. Let cool. Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Boil water and sugar for 10 minutes. Remove core from apples. Pare apples one-third of the way down. Put apples in a shallow baking dish. Pour sugar water over the apples. Bake for 35 minutes. Remove apples from oven and place in individual serving dishes. Fill center of apples with pudding. Heat raspberry preserves and stir in brandy. Spoon sauce over apples. Serve warm or cold.

CHS Graduates On State Champion Forensics Team

Two Chelsea High school graduates were members of Washtenaw Community College's state champion forensics team this fall.

WCC captured the state title on Friday, Dec. 1 at the annual Michigan Community College Speech League Fall Invitational.

Members of the team included Kathy Moulton, who took second place in narrative speech and third place in poetry interpretation, and Erin Haywood, who placed fourth in prose interpretation.

Chelsea Area Teens Planning Party for New Year's Eve

Chelsea Area Teens are planning a New Year's Eve Party to be held at the Chelsea Lanes. The "All Nighter" will begin at 9 p.m., Dec. 31, and end at approximately 5 a.m. Jan. 1. A wide variety of entertainment is being planned.

Activities will include, in addition to bowling, dancing—to a DJ or band; several movies—on a big screen TV; video games and board games. Food and soft drinks will also be available.

The use of the Chelsea Lanes is being provided by Ed Greenleaf to the high school teens of the Chelsea area. Admission will be $5 per person.

All teens in the area are invited to come and celebrate the beginning of a new decade! Volunteers are needed to help plan this event.

MEASURING VISION IN CATARACT PATIENTS

A recent report in the Journal of Cataract Surgery discussed the methods we use to measure vision in patients with cataracts. In most offices, the Snellen, or "E" chart is used to determine visual acuity. A person's visual acuity is based on the smallest size letters they can identify at twenty feet away.

This is fine for people with healthy eyes, but the article points out that people with cataracts often have much worse vision outdoors than what would be measured by the indoor "E" chart. This is due to glare and reduced contrast sensitivity suffered by patients with cataracts.

Glare occurs when light entering the eye reflects off the cataract. Some cataract patients are nearly blinded outdoors on a sunny day, even though they see fairly well indoors. Another glare problem is headlights from oncoming cars. Decreased contrast sensitivity means having difficulty distinguishing objects in different lighting situations. For example, some cataract patients read fairly well as long as they're reading black print on white paper, but have more trouble with colored ink or reading print on colored paper.

The doctor's "E" chart is indispensable, but it only tells part of the story. Visual disability from cataracts may be underestimated by this measurement only. Special devices can estimate outdoor visual acuity by measuring glare and contrast sensitivity.

TOYS FOR TOTS & TEENS: Thursday, Dec. 14 a new color TV donated by Palmer Ford-Mercury was awarded to lucky winner Lang Ramsey. The other lucky winner of a prize donated by Lynn Fox of Discovery Toys was Paula Curtis of Stockbridge. Ramsey and Mrs. Curtis were not the only winners. Chelsea Social Services, Faith in Action, and St. Louis School were the recipients of thousands of dollars in toys and cash donated by the generous community Chelsea. "Toys for Tots and Teens" was the brainchild of Suzie Palmer Weber, daughter of the George Palmers. All the toys and cash were placed in the back of a 1990 Ford Ranger pick-up truck located in the showroom of Palmer Ford-Mercury in Downtown Chelsea. Mrs. Weber was so thrilled with the support of the community she was heard to state "next Christmas we will have to use a full size Ford pick-up."

Christmas Greetings

May love and happiness decorate your holiday and everyone around your tree share the special joy that only Christmas brings! At this festive season we reach out to greet the friends who mean so much to us all year through. Thanks for being part of our lives.

Merry, Merry Christmas!
