ONE HUNDRED-NINETEENTH YEAR—No. 40

CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 28, 1990

THE PALMER-BALDWIN DRAIN, which has been plugged up for years, has become a particular nuisance for the Chelsea School District at Mayer Dr., where there has been standing water since last spring. The recent melt-off, combined with rain, has compounded the problem. Washtenaw county has begun to take some measures to try to solve the problem.

County Acts To Correct Big Local Drain Problem

Washtenaw county has taken preliminary steps in an attempt to solve a major local stormwater drainage problem.

The Palmer-Baldwin drain, which drains Oak Grove Cemetery, Beach Middle School, the Nature Center on Mayer Dr., much of N. Freer Rd., as well as numerous acres of farmland on the east side of Freer Rd., has been plugged and a source of problems for more than a decade.

The Herrst farm south of Belser Estates has an area of at least five acres that is two feet under water. The Nature Center is slowly becoming a swamp and nearly half of the previously usable land is too wet. Water has been continually standing on Mayer Dr. since spring and the road is slowly eroding away. And the area between Mayer Dr. and the cemetery drive is under water.

The standing water off Mayer Dr. is also a mosquito haven, and is deep enough for a child to drown in.

"We may lose Mayer Dr. this spring," said assistant superintendent Fred Mills, who petitioned the county on behalf of the school district to do something about the problem.

More than 300 feet of the drain adjacent to what has become the Herrst pond has been dug out to a depth of 2-3 feet, according to deputy county drain commissioner Kevin Sullivan. Over the years it had filled up with silt. He said he hopes that will drain away the standing water on the Herrst property, and allow the county to repair some of the broken drain tile that handles water from the school district property.

"We need to drain that (Herrst) water away from the tile so we can get to the tile," Sullivan said.

Relief of the flooding problems in the cemetery-Beach school area is probably at least a year or more away, Sullivan said. His office has decided to see how well the recent excavation works before determining whether more extensive action is needed. He said it will probably take at least a year to a year and a half for the Herrst property to drain. After that a board of determination will probably be formed to decide whether a more extensive project is needed.

"Even if we wanted to go ahead with a full project right now, it would still take 1 1/2 to 2 years before we could do anything," Sullivan said.

"That's because of the amount of work this office has, as well as the length of the legal process involved."

Mills said he agrees with the drain office's approach.

Former drain commissioner James Murray held a public hearing on a complete clean-up of the drain about eight years ago. It was decided that the cost of the project was too high for the relatively few property owners who would be assessed, and the project was dropped.

Village Electric Rates Raised 16.5 Percent For Residential Users

The bad news is, if you live in the village, your electricity bill is going to increase at least 16.5 percent beginning March 1.

The good news is, your bill will still be lower than it would be if you were buying from Detroit Edison, and, after another year, Consumers Power Co., according to the village.

At their Tuesday, Feb. 20 meeting, Chelsea Village Council passed a rate hike of 1 cent per kilowatt hour for almost all rate classifications. The residential increase, from 6.05 cents per kilowatt hour to 7.05 cents represents a 16.5 percent hike. The average residential bill, about $35, will rise by about $6 per month or $72 per year.

Commercial users will pay a 14.2 percent increase for the first 10,000 kilowatt hours (7.2 to 8.2 cents per kilowatt hour), and a 15.1 percent increase for any additional electricity used.

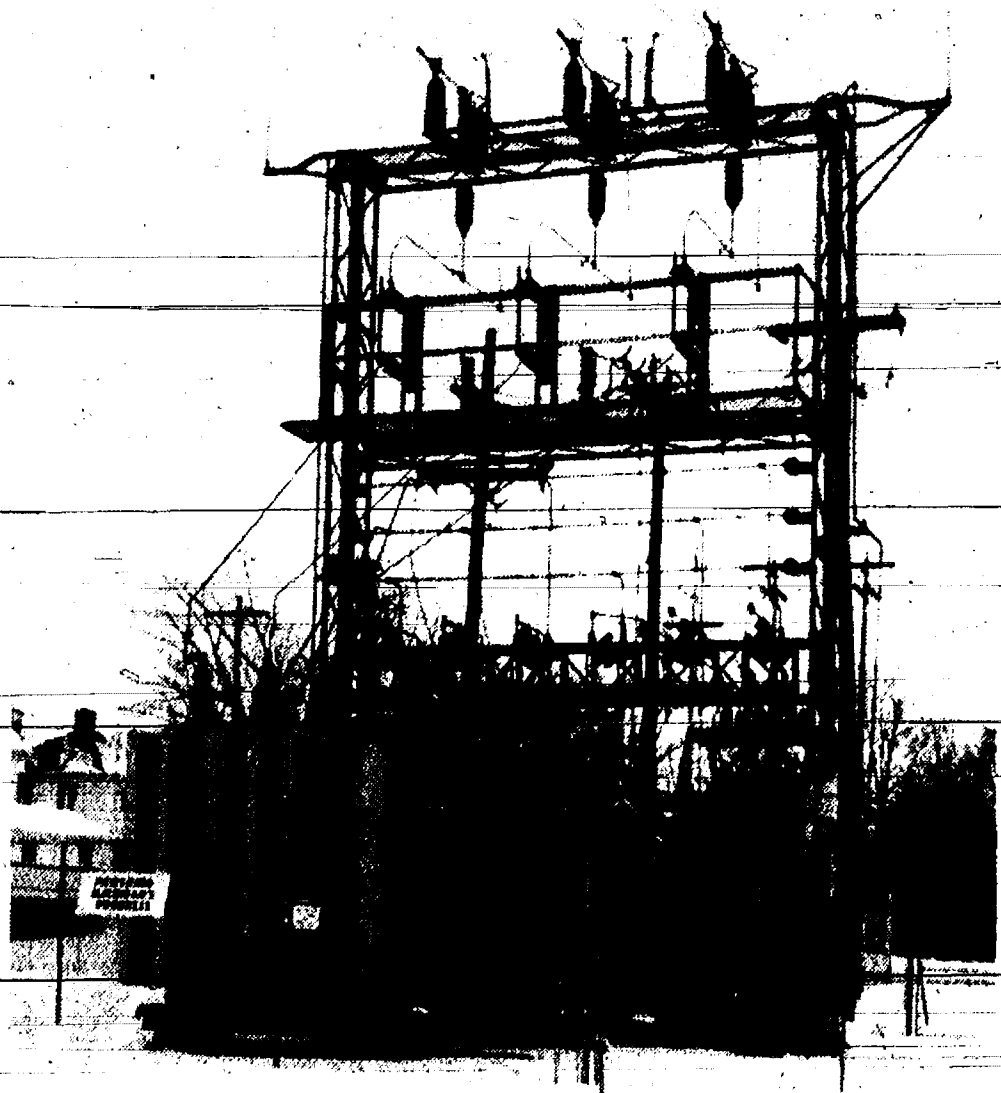

Industrial prices will also be raised 14 percent per kilowatt hour.

Council, which initially appeared to prefer a stepped increase over the next six years, voted unanimously for the entire increase up front due to a report on retained earnings.

Village manager Robert Stalker indicated the village will lose as much as $750,000 in retained earnings (essentially profits) through 1996, even with the new rates. With a stepped-in approach, even more would be lost.

Stalker said that by the end of the fiscal year (technically today), the village would have about $850,000 left in electric fund, which he called, "an unacceptable amount." He said he wants to get the balance up to $1 million.

THE VILLAGE has accepted a bid of $30,350 by Newkirk Electric Associates of Muskegon for work to upgrade the village's electrical substation on Garfield St. Village manager Robert Stalker said the substation is now barely adequate in the summer and major problems could arise if hot weather prompts heavy air conditioning use this summer. It is one of many reasons the village has raised its electric rates.

Village Decides To Convert Meters On Main St. to 2-Hour Parking

Village of Chelsea will begin an experiment in parking on Monday, March 5.

Meters on Main St., with a few exceptions, will be bagged to allow shoppers to park free for two hours.

However, meters will be still be used on the side streets, and in front of the post office, as certain businesses want a more rapid turnover of vehicles.

Village council, on the recommendation of the Downtown Development Authority, adopted a resolution containing the changes at their regular meeting last week.

In addition, certain spaces in several parking lots, including the Municipal Parking Lot, Heydlauff's lot, Harper Pontiac lot, and the depot lot, will be officially enforced as two-hour spaces. They are now long-term spaces.

The experiment is scheduled to run until Sept. 5. However, it will be re-evaluated after three months to determine whether it is meeting the needs of businesses as well as how much money the village is losing through meter revenues and gaining through fines. The village has hinted at a limited interest in funding the program.

"Nobody knows what's going to happen with this," said village president Jerry Satterthwaite.

DDA wants to stress free parking for downtown shoppers, something Chelsea Shopping Center and Village Plaza have plenty of. DDA also wants the plan to be rigidly enforced as it believes too many downtown workers are parking on Main St. and the close-in lots.

Trustee Stephanie Kanten cast the only dissenting vote. She told council that she had consulted with an expert in the field who told her that parking meters would provide a quicker turnover than un-metered two-hour spaces.

"If you want parking downtown, get rid of the meters, if you want shopping downtown, keep them," she said.

Violation of the two-hour limit carries a $3 fine. However, parking meter violations still carry a $1 fine.

Meet Your Candidates

This is the second article in a series about candidates for village office in the March 12 elections. This week we profile Charles Ritter and Joe Merkel, who have long been active in Chelsea politics. They are candidates for trustee. The Standard does not endorse any particular candidates for office.

Charles Ritter, 509 Maywood St., has run for office several times since serving as village president in 1980-81. Ritter, an outspoken opponent of village president Jerry Satterthwaite and village administration in general, says he is running for several reasons.

"I'm concerned about the people in this village on fixed incomes that cannot continue to pay these high prices," Ritter said in regard to recent rate hikes for almost every village service and utility.

"They have been raised to a level where the cost is a terrific burden. Also, there needs to be some kind of accounting for all the bills they're paying. There's almost runaway expenses."

Ritter said he questions why the village's electric fund, which is essentially the village's savings account, has been depleted to about $700,000.

"I keep getting different answers," Ritter says.

"They say it's the old landfill, the new landfill, or something else."

Satterthwaite has admitted Ritter's decision to run for office was at least partially responsible for changing his mind about seeking another term as president. Ritter says he sees a little humor in that.

"I want to know what he's afraid I'm going to find out," Ritter says.

"Why is he so gung ho for me not to be there?"

Ritter says one of his main qualifications for office is he has time to do the job. While he was president, Ritter was notorious for personally checking to make sure village

Auto Stolen From Mall Lot

A car belonging to an Ann Arbor man and driven by a Dexter man was stolen from in front of Ames Department Store on Tuesday, Feb. 13, according to Chelsea police.

According to police, Donald J. Pickell, 20, of Dexter, borrowed a 1981 Toyota station wagon from an Ann Arbor man, who was attending a swim meet. Pickell, and another man, drove to Chelsea and stopped at the shopping center at 7:45 p.m.

However, they told police that when they returned at about 8 p.m., the car was gone. They told police that the ignition key had been broken off in the ignition. They also said the doors were not locked.

A Chelsea man told police that he saw a white man, about 30-40 years old, with straight hair, driving the vehicle out of the lot.

Police are investigating the incident.

Taylor St. resident and Chelsea native Joe Merkel is seeking his sixth term as village trustee. He is the senior member of council and serves as Mayor Pro Temp.

Merkel, owner of Wolverine Food & Spirits, the largest nightspot in the village, could not be reached to comment for this article.

Merkel, according to at least two village employees, had not planned to run again but reconsidered at the last minute due to the candidacy of Charles Ritter. Again, that could not be confirmed by Merkel.

"The common taxpayer's voice in government," is the way Merkel has described himself. When village residents have called him about their particular problems, Merkel has often been known to make a personal inspection and eventually get the problem solved.

Merkel's most frequent contributions to council meeting usually involve problems that require hands-on common sense. For example, when the village wanted to remodel a

Recycling Bins To Be Moved to Dump Thursday

Village of Chelsea's recycling bins are scheduled to be moved from Polyl's Market to the Werkner Rd. landfill tomorrow, according to administrative assistant Barbara Fredette.

Once the bins are moved, newspaper will no longer be accepted.

In addition, the bins will only be available during regular landfill hours on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, and Saturday. They will, however, be available for anyone who wants to use them.

Blood Drive Slated Friday

Anyone who can possibly give blood is urged to do so at the Chelsea Community Blood Drive this Friday, March 2 at St. Paul United Church of Christ.

The American Red Cross is in desperate need of blood of all types.

The drive will run from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. Babysitting will be available all day.

DALEEN HARPER is opening her Harper Shoe Co. at Village Plaza tomorrow. She is one of the first tenants in the main indoor-plaza area.

Harper Shoes Plans To Open Thursday

Chelsea's first full-time shoe store, Harper Shoes, is scheduled to open tomorrow in Village Plaza.

Chelsea-area resident Daleen Harper is the owner. She and her husband, Bill, who's a salesman for Xerox, built many of the store fixtures. Daleen will run the store.

It's a first-time venture for Daleen, who began literally at ground level.

"I even had to find out where to get shoe laces at wholesale," she says.

In addition to shoes, Daleen plans to sell purses, hosiery, and other accessories, polish, laces, and just about anything having to do with shoes.

Her selection of shoes runs from casual to dress.

Women will be able to choose from Naturalizer, Dexter, L.A. Gear, and Keds. Men's shoes will include Dexter, L.A. Gear, and Lake of the Woods. Buster Brown, as well as Keds and L.A. Gear will supply children's shoes.

Most standard sizes, including 7-9 for women and 8-12 for men, will be available. Other sizes can be ordered.

Dance shoes will be available in the fall.

"I'll be sticking with basic, traditional styles until I can learn the market here," Daleen says.

Store hours are Monday through Friday, 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Concern over a long range effect of treating the waters of Hi-Land Lake with chemicals to eliminate or at least control the unusual growth of eurasian water milfoil in the lake prompted members of the Portage and Base Lakes Owners Association to invite officials of the Hi-Land Lake Association to attend the monthly meeting of the PBLA board of directors to discuss Hi-Land Lake's intended use of 2-4-D, as reported in their newsletter.

With chocolate ice cream dripping off his face, Jeff Mason was declared the winner of the ice cream eating contest during the Thursday lunch hour. Mason clobbered his opponents, as he downed the ice cream using nothing but his mouth. Utensils and hands were not allowed. It was all part of the annual Winter Carnival at the high school. A variety of activities and competitions were planned for each day, pitting the classes against each other.

Chelsea High school senior Susan Overdorf was named a finalist in the competition for a National Merit Scholarship. Fewer than one half of one percent of all high school seniors become finalists for the $2,000 scholarships. The award was based on high school grade point average, and performance on the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test (PSAT) and the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT).

Bob Torres, a senior at Chelsea High school, was nominated for an appointment to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point by Congressman Carl D. Pursell. Pursell made a total of seven nominations to the various service academies. The nominations were based on a number of criteria, including the recommendation of his citizen advisory panel.

Wetlands Problems Oust Ontonagon, St. Clair from Waste List

The Michigan Low-Level Radioactive Waste Authority is concentrating solely on the land tract in Riga township in Lenawee county for location of a regional waste dump after eliminating areas in two other counties because of wetlands problems.

The authority last fall had selected the three tracts for further study for the waste dump to serve seven midwestern states and officials said they are not taking any immediate steps to initiate studies in counties that were next on the list.

James Cleary, authority commissioner, said the tracts in Ontonagon and St. Clair counties were excluded because of the difficulty in identifying areas large enough and far enough away from wetlands to provide the flexibility needed for the 1,200-acre planned dump site.

He said the two counties were excluded under state criteria which prohibits placing the dump within 6,000 feet of areas where groundwater discharges to the land surface, but added: "This by no means should be interpreted as (meaning) Lenawee county is the candidate site."

Sen. Dan DeGrow (R-Port Huron) said exclusion of St. Clair county was a foregone conclusion because "you'd have one heck of a time finding 1,200 acres not affected by wetlands."

And, he said it is unlikely any other areas in the state would be appropriate, adding, "It will be very difficult to find a site in Michigan. Dry area states would make better sites."

Cleary agreed. "We're going to have a difficult time anywhere in the state" to place the site in an area not affected by wetlands, he said. "We're getting close to that point."

Sen. Norm Shinkle (R-Lambertville) said the dismissal from consideration of the areas in two other counties was not a surprise, adding, "What does disturb me is that they are not considering any other sites than Riga township."

He declared the Lenawee county area also will not be selected for the dump, principally because of its high water table.

Shinkle said the water table varies from six inches to four feet below the surface and discharges onto the land surface, factors which he said have not yet been taken into account by the authority.

Mike Thomas, the environmental manager for the authority, said Riga township has been drained and its land use, site-specific surveys will be needed to determine if it falls under the wetlands act.

Cleary said the potential site's groundwater will also be a key issue in determining its viability. "I have a question in my mind if Lenawee will make it through the next phase," he said.

Shinkle had already unsuccessfully urged the authority to take into consideration the population density of metropolitan Toledo just across the Michigan border from the area under review.

Cleary, who had intended to develop three potential site areas later this spring, said the decision does not mean all sites will be in Lenawee county.

He said the area will continue to be evaluated, noting additional wetlands information for the area and other criteria such as water well logs and groundwater data will be considered.

The final site was scheduled to be selected by 1991. Governor Blanchard, stating no Michigan site would be suitable for a nuclear waste site, has announced plans to sue the federal government challenging the constitutionality of the national waste compact act which produced a potential of 12-15 regional waste dumps.

Rep. Tim Walberg (R-Tipton), whose district also includes Riga township, said he and Shinkle will meet in Washington with a congressional delegation and also with officials from the Department of Energy.

They are continuing efforts to meet with Vice-President Dan Quayle as well, Walberg said.

Support from Congress, Walberg added, has been tentative. "They are still holding the party line that the state asked for this . . . so the compact was an arrangement put into place. I understand that . . . however, hindsight often changes things. Maybe it would be good for Congress to rethink it."

Shinkle said if the authority does not look at other areas of the state, "the only avenue is to petition the compact to relieve us of the responsibility for the dump."

The compact states selected Michigan because at the time it produced more waste than any of the other six. They are Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa and Missouri.

Capital Punishment Group Officially Starts Petition Drive

Supporters of a petition drive to reinstate capital punishment officially opened the petition drive process and set a June 30 target date to complete the drive.

Organizers, led by Sen. Gilbert DiNello (D-East Detroit), are hoping to gather as many as 350,000 signatures within the next 180 days. The proposal needs 239,657 valid signatures to ask voters in November to approve the death penalty for a conviction of "capital murder."

The proposed amendment to the Constitution would authorize the penalty of death upon conviction of capital murder as defined by law. DiNello said if the drive is successful and voters approve the change in November, he hopes to model Michigan laws on Texas capital punishment statutes which have been upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court.

The capital murder definition includes murder of a peace officer or fire fighter acting in the lawful discharge of an official duty and who the person knows is a peace officer or fire fighter; murder in the course of committing or attempting to commit kidnapping, burglary, robbery, aggravated sexual assault, or arson; murder for remuneration or the promise of remuneration or employs another to commit the murder for remuneration or promise of remuneration; murder while escaping or attempting to escape from a penal institution; murder of employee of penal institution while incarcerated in the facility; or murder of more than one person.

Correction

Last week's story concerning candidates for village council should have said that Frank Hammer works for the National Sanitation Foundation rather than the National Science Foundation.

CAROL HANKE, a senior member of the Charles S. Cameron Chapter of the National Honor Society at Chelsea High school, was named the chapter's most valuable member during a NHS League Luncheon on Wednesday, Feb. 21. Last year, Hanke was the junior chairperson for the fall and spring blood drive. She was also the league luncheon chairperson. She participated in Tag Day, a fundraiser for the scholarship fund. This year she is chairperson of the fall and spring blood drive, and will participate in this year's scholarship fundraiser. Other school activities include two years as yearbook editor, vice-president of the Key Club, varsity football cheerleading, senior class secretary, student council member, mock trial, and varsity baseball statistician. She works at Chelsea Pharmacy. Hanke plans to major in business at Eastern Michigan University.

Winter Carnival Enjoyed Despite Cold Wind, Blowing Snow

North Elementary school PTN Winter Carnival was held Saturday afternoon, Feb. 24 at North school and was attended by a large, enthusiastic group. They enjoyed the games, food and entertainment of Beverly Feldkamp who played on her banjo, dulcimer and fiddle.

The wind, cold and blowing snow did not keep the North schoolers away from the fun.

Deborah Torbet and Cindy Batzdorfer were co-chairpersons of this year's PTN Winter Carnival.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows that gather round the stove at the country store have been through some of the best schools in the country. They never set in class or spent any time in any of the libraries, they just went through em for one reason or another. So Bug Hookum called the quorum to order Saturday night and declared we were in the best position to get public education off the sidetrack and running on the main line because we have a complete objective view of the situation.

General speaking, Bug said, what we got to do is reverse our thinking. We got to quit trying to lower the river and work on raising the bridge, was Bug's words. Schools at all levels in the country have got to realize you can't educate by television and you can't lower standards enough to suit everybody. They got to go back to teaching teachers to teach and letting em teach, and they got to hold the standards high enough where meeting em will mean somepun, was Bug's words.

The fellows were full agreed. Clem Webster took note where high schools put colleges between a rock and a hard place by not holding kids to standards colleges need, so the dumbing down cycle is set. To many schools let to many children spend to much time going to pep rallies and selling doughnuts, Clem said; until colleges are stuck with doing the high school job or offering courses in fly fishing and movie appreciation. He has saw where a list of courses at Duke University includes "Education Through Nonsense," which is the way a heap of it is.

Furthermore, Clem went on, even in the early grades the first thing children learn is they don't have to learn. From pictures in the paper, Clem said, you think that ever morning they all go out in the yard and let loose balloons to celebrate Git Out of Class Day or Pet Day or some such. Maybe this will let up now that the balloons have been found to be hazards to the health of birds and other animals that eat em.

As for standards, Zeke Grubb noted where the U.S. Postal Service is coming with the same plan used in education. Since the mail ain't meeting the delivery times it has, Zeke said, it wants more time to make its delivery reports look better. Fer instant, the USPS promises one day delivery within certain distance of big mail centers, but it don't make it more than 60 percent of the time. So it wants to go to two days for all except right around the center so it can report meeting the standard 90 percent of the time.

The idea is, Clem said, if postal workers put less effort in getting mail to further away places they can put more into keeping their one day promise close in. Practical speaking, he went on, this would mean folks out in the country would be cut to zero chance of overnight delivery in order to give them in the big cities a better chance. This is another case of the cure being worst than the disease, was Clem's words.

Ed Doolittle got the floor to say standards are falling everywhere. He had saw where states are turning prisoners loose because they don't have room for em in prison. They said they ain't no honor among thieves, Ed said, but here's a chance for em to show togetherness. If enough crooks start doing crime none of em will have to do time because we'll have to make most crimes legal.

Bureaucracies never learn anything because they understand everything to quick, was Ed's words.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Lima Homemakers Study Medications, Their Reactions

Valentine's Day, at 10:30 a.m., Lima Extension Homemakers were greeted at Historic Lima Town Hall by their hostesses, Jane Schairer and Margaret Sias.

Sixteen members listened to Mary Ann Burgett, a nurse and member, as she talked of "Medications and their Interactions." She suggested we obtain a book on medications that can be found at any book supplier.

Much discussion followed especially after the article titled "Painkiller May Pose Danger," was read. Many of the group or their family members are on arthritic medications that this article referred to. Janet McCalla read the October 1988 article titled "Making Pills Easier To Swallow."

Luncheon pot-luck was enjoyed on tables decorated for the day with cupid and hearts. Home-made muffins were a treat.

The monthly business meeting was busy planning future dates and our part in organizing them. March 14 we meet at Donna Bradbury's with Lois Bradbury her co-hostess. The lesson, "Are We Women Who Make A Difference," is supposed to be very, very good. April 17 is tentatively scheduled for Guest Night with Dale Lesser and his story on farm life in Europe.

Lima Extension is organizing the County Extension Spring Round-Up, May 1, at noon, in Dexter.

May 17 we are joining other counties for a Tri-County Day.

In June, we look forward to a tour and lunch at Brookhaven Manor with Elsa Ordway one of our many 50-year or more members.

A candy heart at our plate was a treat to rebuild our energy after the meeting adjourned and to wish us well on our way home. More members are always welcome into extension.

McAuley Health Center Will Host Lecture On Midlife Changes

Catherine McAuley Health Center will sponsor a lecture on women meeting the challenges of midlife changes, Thursday, March 1, from 7-9 p.m. in the Education Center at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, 5301 E. Huron River, Dr., Ann Arbor.

The lecture will focus on the common challenges of midlife and how a woman's personal approach to the changes will influence her situation.

The session is one in a continuing series of programs in the Women's Health Lecture Series presented by McAuley Services for Women. The cost for the program is $5.

For information on this or other sessions in the series call 572-5946.

Nursing Scholarships Will Be Offered By McAuley Health Center

"The McAuley Commitment to Nursing" scholarship program has been established by Catherine McAuley Health Center, Ann Arbor, to support individuals in the community who are interested in entering nursing as a profession.

"The nation-wide shortage of nurses is well known. In some hospitals the nursing vacancy rate is as high as 25%," commented Barbara Hill, administrator for Nursing and Emergency Services at the Health Center. "While we do not have this problem at the Health Center, we are committed to taking long-term action that will bring more people into the nursing profession."

The annual program will award two to four scholarships, ranging from $1,000 to $2,000 each. To qualify, students must have a demonstrated commitment to nursing, be formally accepted into an accredited associate or baccalaureate degree nursing program and have a minimum 3.0 grade point average. There is no geographic restriction on applicants.

Applications may be made through local high schools and colleges or directly through the Health Center. The deadline for applying is May 15. Applicants will be notified by Aug. 1.

For more information, call the Nursing Resources Office at Catherine McAuley Health Center, (313) 572-4099.

Secret Signs of Spring Will Be Pointed Out on Botanical Gardens Walk

Believe it or not, sharp observers of Nature have already seen a number of signs of spring! It is not necessary to wait until the first robin appears on the lawn or until the first daffodils bloom to be assured that spring is really coming. In fact, some wildflowers are blooming now and the cardinals have been singing!

All interested persons are invited to join the Docents at Matthaei Botanical Gardens for a trail walk on Sunday, March 4 at 2 p.m. The topic of the walk is the Secret Signs of Spring. Meet the Docents at the steps to the building.

Participants are encouraged to dress warmly and wear warm water-proof footwear. The walk will last between 1½ to 2 hours.

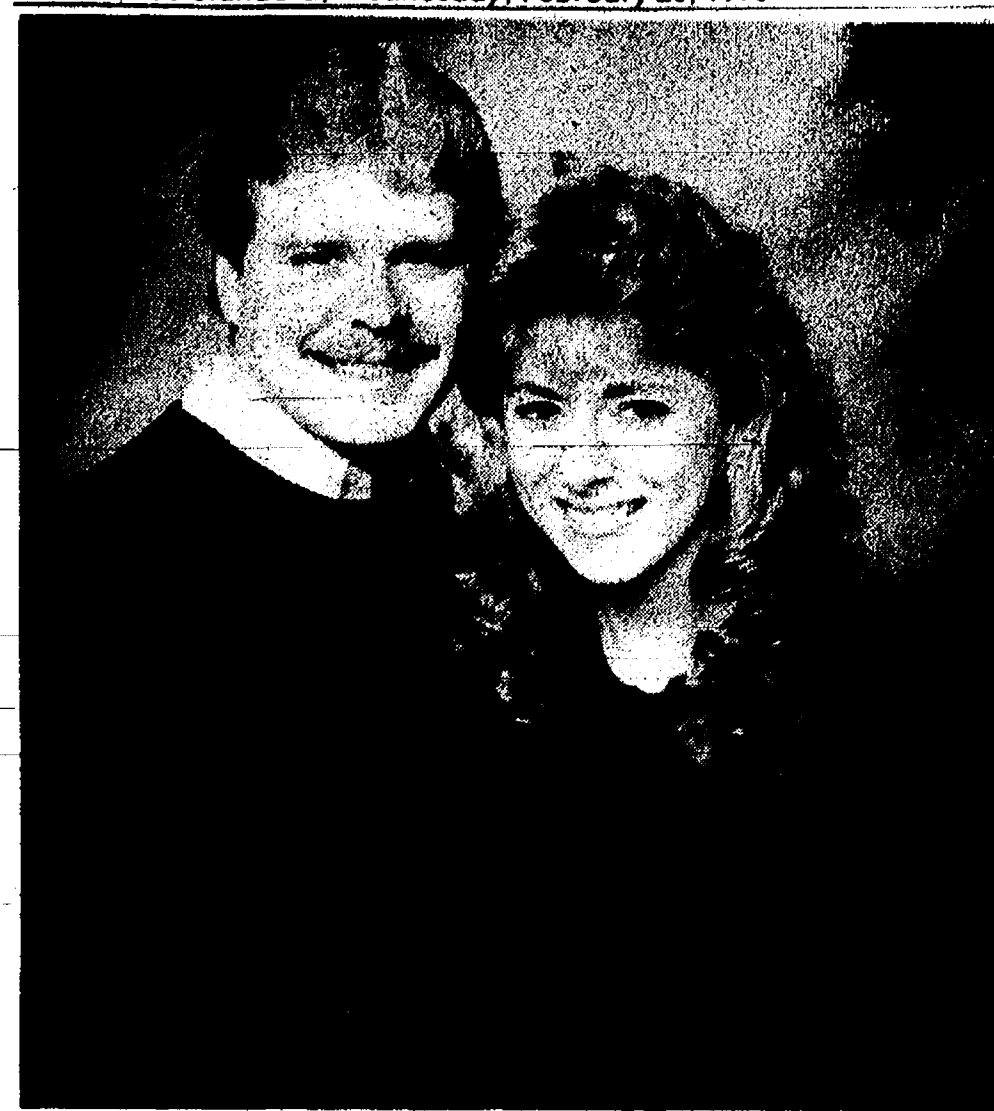

Matthaei Botanical Gardens is located at 1800 N. Dixboro Rd., Ann Arbor, ½ mile south of the Plymouth Rd. intersection.

Both newborns and children frequently need transfusions of blood and blood components.

To Our Body Glow Students, past and present,

Body Glow was born April, 1981, with a belief that fitness could be fun as well as provide positive results. "Sweetening to the Beat" became a regular routine for many Chelsea-area women. With our goal of giving a safe and effective workout and still touch the personal and positive side of each participant, Body Glow grew and flourished.

Today, February, 1990, almost nine years later, it is time for the studio portion of our business to close and for us to move on to other challenges in the fields of fitness and wellness. It is with much sadness that this occurs, but circumstances with the present landlords and the condition of the building have lead to this decision.

I am unable to personally thank all of those who have touched my life through exercise, but I do wish to tell you that your support and enthusiasm during those nine years have added greatly to the success of Body Glow, and I sincerely thank you! You all have added a sparkle to my professional, as well as my personal life. Continue to make exercise a part of your daily routine. Strive for a "Quality" lifestyle for yourself as well as those around you.

Body Glow has not expired, it is just taking every needed rest. We will inform you as to where we will be "kicking up our heels" and "dancing our socks off," so that you can "shake your booty" with us.

Again, thank you for your support and STAY FIT!!!!

Sincerely,

Peg Skelton/Mouilleseaux

Council Boosts Electric Rates

The retained earnings are kept as almost a village savings account, which is used to finance all sorts of village projects and problems, including the recent major landfill expenditures.

"We really need to have that much in case a tornado comes through or there's some other emergency," Stalker said.

In addition, Stalker said, electrical costs are increasing. The village will pay a 3 percent increase to Consumers Power Co., which now supplies about 36 percent of the village's electricity. He said it is projected that Consumers Power could raise its rates nearly 50 percent by 1993.

Chelsea Shopping Center, Village Plaza, Bridgetown Condominiums, and other development has caused the village's demand to rise substantially as well, Stalker said. He also said more people are using air conditioning.

After 1993, the village plans to purchase a large portion of its electricity from the Belle River plant, which will go on line that year. That power is projected to cost substantially less than Consumers Power.

The village also has a number of electrical system projects planned, including a substantial upgrade of its Garfield St. substation, which Stalker called "marginal during the summer. We were lucky it wasn't hot last summer."

Stalker said the new village rates will still be only about 77 percent of the current Detroit Edison rates. However, he said the village will initially be about 10 percent higher than Consumers Power Co. In about a year, Stalker said, Consumers' rates should surpass village rates.

"Hopefully our rates are going to be frozen for quite a while," Stalker said.

There are an estimated 20 million acres of lawn in the U. S. and some 600 trillion grass plants. For most types of grass, the proper length is 2 to 3" long to encourage healthier roots and provide natural shade for the ground which absorbs soil moisture retention.

Everybody's Science

★ Strange Source of Bug Killers . . .

By Jessica Morrison
A cat's paw, the Himalayan mountains, a car bumper in Iceland. Highly strange places to find insecticides.

But there they were. In soil from these and other unusual places—almost always brought back by vacationing friends—scientists have found 72 new strains of soil bacterium that kills insect pests.

The bacterium, Bacillus thuringiensis, or Bt, was once thought to be an insect disease, obtainable only from dead insects. But according to entomologist Russell S. Travers of USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Beltsville, Md., Bt is a normal component of many soils. It poses no threat to the environment either in its natural state or in insecticides.

Three of the 72 new strains—two from beside an airport near Baltimore, Md., and one from the banks of the Snake River in Jackson, Wyo.—are as good as the best available chemicals at killing cabbage loopers and cabbage worms, said Travers' colleague Phyllis A. W. Martin. They're also 10 times more potent than strains of the bacterium used today in $40 million worth of commercial insecticides. The three new strains await patents.

The cat's paw Bt, which killed mosquitoes in lab tests but hasn't been tested in the field yet, came to the lab in a strange way.

"A scientist from another lab walked in one day and said, 'Your lab always smells like my cat Fluffie's feet.' So almost as a joke we gave her a dish and told her to imprint Fluffie's paw on it," Martin said.

Results: a Bt variety dubbed fluffiensis. "She got it from her clay kitty litter," Travers said.

But the similar odor was from the Bt itself. "It has a very distinctive odor, like wet dog fur or fermented grain," he said.

The Bt-rich soil from the car bumper in Iceland and from the Himalayas was brought by an adventurous friend who likes mountain climbing. "We made him collect and carry jars full of soil at almost 19,000 feet," Martin said.

After exploring Nutt Cave in West Virginia, he also scraped cave soil off his dirty clothes for Travers and Martin. In it, they found two new strains and named them nutti and cavi.

The two scientists isolated the Bt from the soil samples with a new chemical technique they developed using sodium acetate.

"It's a lot faster," Martin said.

"The 24 strains known before we started work took about 85 years to find. Our technique turned up 72 more strains in just two years."

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Intellectuals and the Anti-Drug War

By Philip C. Clarke
William Bennett, who heads the government's drug control policy, has an answer for trendy intellectuals who insist that the war on drugs is a "loser" and that cocaine and other illicit narcotics should be legalized.

Addressing the prestigious Kennedy School of Government at Harvard, the "drug czar," as he's commonly called, said suggestions of surrender are "morally scandalous" and an invitation to "disaster." Instead of undercutting the drug dealers and reducing crime, said Bennett, legalization would lead to greater than ever narcotics consumption. Soon, he added, drug criminals would be selling their poisonous stuff at cut-rate prices and catering to teen-agers too young to buy legally.

Bennett cited the current crack epidemic as evidence of what happens when drugs become cheap and widely available. "When powder cocaine was expensive and hard to get, it was found almost exclusively in the circles of the rich, the famous, or the privileged. Only when cocaine was dumped into the country, and a $3 vial of crack could be bought on street corners, did we see cocaine use skyrocket—this time largely among the poor and disadvantaged."

"The lesson is clear," said Bennett. "If you're in favor of drugs being sold in stores like aspirin, you're in favor of boom times for drug users and drug addicts . . . The price to American society would be intolerably high: More drug-related accidents at work, on the highways, in the airways, and even bigger losses in worker productivity. Our hospitals would be filled with drug emergencies. We would have more school kids on dope, and that means more dropouts."

Legalized drugs would have tragic costs even to the unborn. Said Bennett: "More pregnant women would buy legal cocaine, and then deliver tiny, premature infants. I've seen them in hospitals across the country. It's a horrid form of child abuse, and under a legalization scheme, we would have a lot more of it. For these women and those babies, crack has the same effect whether it's legal or not."

Bennett had an answer as well for the would-be appeasers who argue that at least marijuana should be legalized. "In my previous position as Secretary of Education," said Bennett, "I realized that, given the state of American education, the last thing we needed was a policy that made available a substance that impairs memory, concentration, and attention span. Why in God's name foster the use of a drug that makes you stupid?"

Nor, said Bennett, should the nation's experience with Prohibition be used in support of legalizing narcotics. "If the question is, can we accept both legalized alcohol and legalized drugs, the answer is no . . . Drug use—especially heavy drug use—destroys human character. It destroys dignity and autonomy, it burns away the sense of responsibility, it subverts productivity, it makes a mockery of virtue. As our founders would surely recognize, a citizenry that is perpetually in a drug-induced haze doesn't bode well for the future of self-government."

"And don't listen to people who say drug users are only hurting themselves," advised Bennett. "They hurt parents, they destroy families, they ruin friendships . . . Drugs are a threat to the life of the mind; anyone who values that life should have nothing but contempt for drugs. Learned institutions should regard drugs as the plague."

Farm Bureau Backs School Reform Bill

The state Senate Committee on Education and Mental Health is considering a school improvement and quality education measure. The bill is a Senate Substitute for House Bill 4009.

Michigan Farm Bureau associate legislative counsel Vicki Pontz said the legislation is supported by the state's largest farm organization. "This is based on the fact that several of the items in the bill are consistent with Farm Bureau's policy, such as requirements for a core curriculum, for schools to file an annual report and for schools to work together with their school boards, teachers, students and parents to come up with a school improvement plan," she said.

Farm Bureau also supports the school accreditation and drop-out prevention programs included in the legislation.

"That's why," Bennett told his Harvard University audience, "I find the surrender of many of America's intellectuals to arguments for drug legalization so odd and so scandalous."

34 Years Ago . . .

Wednesday, March 1, 1955—

President Eisenhower announced yesterday that he was available for a second term. The announcement was made at a Washington news conference and the President said at the same time that he planned to talk to the people of the country on nationwide television and radio networks. Giving reporters permission to quote him, President Eisenhower said, "My answer will be positive-affirmative."

March 3 is Pork Day in Washtenaw County. According to the Agricultural Extension office at Ann Arbor, pork was plentiful. People were eating pork out of the "spring pig crop" which was the largest in recent years, but from then on, most of the pork was to come from the "fall crop," pigs born last June through November. The fall crop, too, was a big one. The U.S. Department of Agriculture was predicting generous supplies of pork for the next several months.

Washtenaw county 4-H youths joined a nation-wide event to celebrate National 4-H Club Week, announced Marvin Boss, Washtenaw county 4-H Club agent. During National 4-H Club Week, groups reviewed their accomplishments of the past year and made plans for the year to come. Michigan 4-H set a record by having the highest total enrollment it has ever attained—61,000 boys and girls with more than 9,000 local leaders and 2,300 junior leaders.

ORAL HYGIENE SHOULD START VERY YOUNG!

Q: What can I, as a parent, do to help my baby fight plaque problems?

A: Plaque is a sticky colorless film of bacteria that continually forms in the mouth. The bacteria has the ability to form acids which ultimately cause tooth decay. Plaque is also responsible for bad breath (halitosis) and gingivitis (periodontitis).

For the most part, plaque problems begin with the eruption of the first tooth. On the average this occurs around 6 or 7 months of age. As soon as the first tooth erupts the time has come to begin oral hygiene. This means keeping the teeth healthy by removing plaque daily and, therefore, protecting the baby's teeth from decay.

As the new teeth erupt, parents find that rubbing with a moistened gauze pad or a soft, clean wash cloth is helpful in removing plaque and keeping the teeth clean. This important step—aimed at a lifetime of dental health—is great help in getting your infant used to a "clean mouth" feeling.

Later, when the child is about a year old parents should start brushing their child's teeth with a small, soft, children's size toothbrush after meals and before bed. Even though many children quickly learn to "brush" their own teeth they lack the proper coordination and dexterity to do so properly until they are 4 or 5 years old so parents should supervise and aid their children in brushing their teeth until that time.

Merkel . . .

village-owned farmhouse on Sibley Rd., Merkel made the first contact with a contractor. He often speaks in support of workers in the Department of Public Works or the police department when they need new equipment. When someone addresses council about a problem, Merkel will often be the trustee to ask the nuts-and-bolts kinds of questions, as opposed to the big-picture types of questions. He's not likely to question the legality of a solution if it seems to make common sense.

As another example of his common sense approach, Merkel recently complained about practicality of the islands that have been incorporated in shopping center designs to handle traffic flow and provide some landscaping.

"They should take Mr. (planning consultant Carl) Schmutz out with them when they're plowing snow."

At meetings, and apparently in his behind-the-scenes work in government, Merkel seems to be uncomfortable with formalities, including legal formalities, especially if he can see a way to tackle a problem without them.

Merkel also seems to be extremely loyal to people he considers fair and honest, and particularly when they are local people.

For example, when Merkel ran for office two years ago, he advocated a more thorough marketing of the village's industrial park. As it turned out, village council listed the park with local realtor Mark McKernan, partially based on Merkel's recommendation that he had known McKernan for a long time and that McKernan was an honest man—not that McKernan had any particular expertise in marketing industrial property. No other bids were sought by council.

Merkel, like many long-time Chelsea residents, is usually skeptical about anything to do with Washtenaw County or Ann Arbor as it relates to Chelsea. However, he did vote to retain membership in the Washtenaw Development Council, primarily, as he said at the time, because McKernan thought it would be a good idea.

Merkel, as history shows, usually receives more votes than any other candidate for any office.

Ritter . . .

workers weren't goofing off. He says he also toured the village streets an average of four times a week. He promises to be active as a trustee.

"How you going to know what's going on unless you get out and take a look?" he says.

Ritter has been critical of the village's handling of the landfill squabble with the Department of Natural Resources by saying it's only serving to make attorneys rich. He would have preferred that the village deal directly with the DNR in Lansing as well as legislators who work directly with solid waste issues.

"I'll bet there isn't anyone (on the council) that knows who those people are," Ritter says.

Ritter says one of his administration's top accomplishments was keeping the Secretary of State's office in Chelsea.

"We spent a lot of hours on that, and it was the only office that was saved among the ones they were going to eliminate because the others didn't put in the time and effort."

Ritter is a 30-year resident of the village. He works as a manufacturer's representative for MacDermid, Inc.

Farm Bureau Supports Federal Extension of Ethanol Tax Break

Michigan Farm Bureau is supporting federal legislation to extend and modify the various incentives for the production and use of ethanol. Farm Bureau Public Affairs Director Al Almy thinks ethanol production means a lot, not only to farmers, but society as a whole.

"We think that ethanol is very important not only from agriculture's standpoint because it would provide an expanded market for corn and other commodities that might be used to produce ethanol," he said, "but it's also very important for meeting air quality standards and enhancing mileage standards for vehicles."

The legislation is co-sponsored by Michigan Congressman Bill Schutte. Among other things, the bill would extend the six-cent per gallon federal excise tax credit for ethanol fuels.

Chiropractic Health Care

'The A.M.A. vs. Public Wellbeing'

Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman

In last week's column I wrote about the Federal Courts finding the American Medical Association guilty of monopoly, fraud, and conspiracy in their long battle to destroy the chiropractic profession. The A.M.A. has made people believe that they are the guardians of public health and the watch dog of the medical industry. They are in fact a trade union whose sole purpose is to look out for the greedy interests of its member.

Historically the A.M.A. has been against social changes such as health care for the elderly (Medicare) and any competition to its members. With regard to competition, they fought against the psychologists, optometrists, podiatrists, and dentists. All these professions were seen as a threat to the pocketbook of its members. The A.M.A. even lobbied against warning labels on cigarette packs while it owned stock in the tobacco companies!

The chiropractic profession and especially its patients have suffered, the worst. The long term, systematic attempt at destruction of our profession has done untold harm. It has resulted in needless death and misery for the people and has caused a spiraling of health care costs beyond belief.

Next week we will discuss in detail some of the tactics of deceit and what the Federal Courts had to say about them.

If you have any questions or comments, or would like a copy of the court's opinion, please write to:

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Consulting Editor, Better Investing

Q. I owned 100 shares of General Nutrition Center and recently encountered a tender offer for 93% of the company's stock. I submitted my shares to be tendered to the company since it was fairly valued at $11.50 per share. My broker forgot to tender the shares. It wasn't until the shares had dropped 7 3/8 that he sold them on the market and told me that, since it was his mistake, he would honor the terms of the original tender offer. This is my problem. My broker is claiming the tender offer was for 93% of the stock, so I am now stuck with seven shares worth about $37.50. My broker claims tender offers like this happen all the time. If I had known this, I would have sold all the shares outright. I have never heard of such a thing and cannot believe that a company would buy 93 out of 100 shares surrendered in a tender offer. This would place no value on a tender offer.

A. It is not unusual to see a tender offer for a certain percentage of the shares outstanding. If 100% of the shares were tendered, then the company making the tender offer would purchase 93% of each person's tender, thus leaving you with seven shares. There was another provision to the tender offer made by the Thomas H. Lee Co. It will exchange an equivalent number of $11.50 preferred shares for the shares held by the remaining shareholders.

While I did not see a copy of the offer, Value Line has a report on General Nutrition which indicates more than 91% of the shares outstanding were accepted for cash payment. My interpretation is that somewhere between 91 and 92% were offered, so the company bought them all. If your shares had been tendered, all of them would have been purchased.

Unfortunately, it looks as though the telephone number for General Nutrition is no longer in service, so I could not verify the figures. If they are correct as reported by Value Line, then I feel you have a legitimate reason to ask the broker for proceeds from the remaining seven shares at $11.50 each.

Perhaps you could work out a compromise with the broker, asking to sell the shares and not charge a commission on the sale. Even if you were to end up with the preferred and could sell it at $11.50, the total would only be $80.50 and the commission would eat up a great deal of that amount.

Pursell Receives U.S. Chamber Award For Voting Record

Second District Congressman Carl D. Pursell will receive the U.S. Chamber of Commerce's "Spirit of Enterprise" award this spring in recognition of his 1989 voting record.

Pursell scored 100 percent based on the Chamber's 10 key votes for the first half of the 101st Congress.

"The votes selected reflect the Chamber's legislative mission to create and protect a climate for business that promotes economic growth, creates new and better jobs, and fosters greater reliance on the private enterprise system," said Al Bourland, the Chamber's vice-president for congressional relations.

The issues selected included a minimum wage increase, repeal of Section 89, deregulation of natural gas, and a proposal to reduce the capital gains tax.

This is the second year the Chamber has presented the award, and Pursell's second time to be honored.

"I believe this award recognizes my support of policies which would enhance free enterprise and foster continued economic expansion," Pursell said.

Scientist Says Milk Production Booster Could Help Industry

Bovine somatotropin, or BST, is the controversial new product that boosts milk production in cows. One of the world's top experts on BST recently told the Michigan Farm Bureau board of directors that contrary to industry fears, adoption of the product doesn't necessarily spell doom for the small dairy producer.

"It's not a question of small farmers and big farmers," said Jim Lauderdale, director of the reproduction and growth physiology research unit for Upjohn. "It's a question of efficient farmers and inefficient farmers. And traditionally, as we look at our data, the inefficient farmer is the one who's going to go out of business whether they are small or large. Bovine somatotropin, because it increases the efficiency of milk production, i.e. reduces cost of production, has a very positive opportunity to even allow the inefficient farmer, if they'll use it, to become more efficient."

Lauderdale predicts that one or more of the four companies developing BST will have the product on the market late this year.

683,254 pounds of cardboard, 515,850 pounds of high grade paper, 799,606 pounds of glass, 190,280 pounds of scrap iron and tin, and 24,276 pounds of aluminum, copper and brass.

The Chelsea bin collected 278,300 pounds of newspaper, 11,340 pounds of green glass, 6,540 pounds of brown glass, 53,900 pounds of clear glass, and 19,020 pounds of cans and metals.

The Dexter bin collected 274,960 pounds of newspaper, 11,020 pounds of green glass, 6,480 pounds of brown glass, 47,020 pounds of clear glass, and 17,040 pounds of cans and metals.

The Webster township bin collected 35,800 pounds of newspaper, 840 pounds of green glass, 540 pounds of brown glass, 4,960 pounds of clear glass, and 1,440 pounds of cans and metals.

Ag Secretary Pushes for New Farm Products

Promoting international trade is important to the agricultural economy, but it's also crucial to increase the domestic demand for agricultural products, according to U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Clayton Yeutter.

Yeutter addressed farm leaders, legislators, university, and government officials Feb. 15 at the Michigan Biotechnology Institute in Lansing. The secretary's one-day visit to the state was sponsored by the Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Although we've talked a lot about using research and technology to develop industrial uses for farm products, through the years it's been mostly rhetoric and not much reality," he said.

Yeutter said that he thinks there is considerable potential for new developments in farm products. "It looks like we're getting very close to having commercialization of biodegradable plastics, maybe in a very big way."

He also noted what he sees as the substantial potential for using farm based motor fuels to help reduce air pollution.

"If we're going to have a switch to alternative fuels in this country, because of air pollution problems, then the question is what are we going to burn in those automobiles, trucks and maybe even tractors," he said. "And clearly the most environmentally friendly fuel beyond any doubt is ETEB, which is a derivative of ethanol."

Yeutter said that for ethanol-based fuels to become successful, they must become price competitive with petroleum derivatives and the major auto manufacturers must be convinced that the fuels are viable.

Yeutter also visited the Caledonia dairy farm of retired Michigan Farm Bureau president Elton R. Smith and met with area agricultural leaders in Grand Rapids.

Washing machines use about 14% of the water consumed in the home, 32 to 59 gallons of water for each cycle. You will save much water if you wait until you have a full load of wash. Up to 90% of the energy used for washing clothes goes to heating the water. A warm wash and cold rinse will clean clothes as well as hot water on nearly all clothes. A front-loading washing machine uses one-third less water and two-thirds less soap than a top loader. A typical family of four could save 5,304 gallons of water a year with a front loading washer.

Life Review Training Class Set March 13

A free training program for volunteers interested in helping elderly people tape-record their life stories is being offered by the Nursing Home Enrichment Project of the University of Michigan's Turner Geriatric Clinic.

The program will be Tuesday, March 13, from 1 to 3 p.m. in the Crippen Building of the Chelsea Methodist Retirement Home. It will be co-sponsored by the Methodist Home and the Chelsea Senior Center.

To register or to get further information, call the Turner Clinic in Ann Arbor, 764-2556, or Ruth Smith at the Senior Center, 475-9242 by March 2.

To review one's life, to recall influential events and values, to search for the meaning of one's life is an important part of putting one's life in order. Elderly people face many losses: loss of physical abilities, death of family members and peers, loss of occupation, sometimes even loss of feelings of identity. The life review process can enable them to maintain or regain self-esteem, share their history and acquired wisdom with family and friends, and go on with their lives with a renewed sense of themselves. Volunteers use careful listening and questioning tailored to the individual while tape-recording the interviews. This can be an enriching process for the volunteers.

Volunteers with typing skills are needed to transcribe the tape-recordings and are welcome to the training session.

Insurance Premium Rollback Meeting Scheduled March 1

Washtenaw County Farm Bureau will sponsor an information meeting on the proposed insurance premium rollback currently under consideration by the Michigan Legislature. The meeting is scheduled for March 1, 7:30 p.m., at the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau office, 5095 Saline Rd., Ann Arbor. The speaker will be Howard Kelly, legislative counsel for the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau has called the unanimous passage of the 30 percent auto premium rollback legislation (H.B. 5313) an "irresponsible election year maneuver." The state's largest farm organization urged House and Senate leadership to "remove the issue of rollbacks from your political agendas and encourage efforts for real reform and real insurance savings in Michigan."

WCC Auto Services Program Moves to On-Campus Building

Engine repairs and front end alignments take place on campus this semester as the Automotive Services department at Washtenaw Community College starts its first full semester in its new facility in the Occupational Education Building. The program moves on campus from its site of 20 years on Carpenter Rd.

The Automotive Services department includes two-year associate degree programs in Automotive Body Service and Automotive Service Technology; one-year certificate programs in Automotive Body Repair, Automotive Mechanics and Automotive Spray Painting; and several specialty courses such as small engine repair.

The new campus facility offers many new features.

Demo classrooms will now accommodate a full-sized car and large equipment for hands-on demonstration and instruction.

Down-draft paint booths bring in clean outside air, filter it, heat it to a desired temperature and draw it out through the floor to prevent contaminants from settling on the freshly painted surface.

A secured student storage area is now available for tools and personal items.

The campus bus stop is located outside the building, making automotive instruction accessible to AATA commuters.

New instruction equipment, the latest in automotive technology, includes:

Laser disk technology in the form of a Mitchell On Demand data retrieval system which provides students with technical bulletins, schematic graphics and printouts of repair manual supplements. Disks are updated monthly.

A Hunter D111 computerized diagnostic alignment system allows students to learn wheel alignment on a simulator or a car—with the help of Hunter parallel electric lift racks.

Two new Sioux cylinder head work centers allow four students to work on a project at one time.

For more information or a tour of the new facility, call 973-3841.

Beginning, advanced, and senior (age 50 plus) classes will be available in both high and low-impact categories. A complimentary massage and healthy brunch will follow from 11:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

Registration for Fitness Fest will take place on March 4 beginning at 9:30 a.m. To register, all participants must collect pledges prior to the event via the support of generous sponsors.

All aerob-a-thoners will receive a free workout package, and gifts will be awarded to those who collect the most in pledges. Prizes include a week-end trip to Toronto from Boersma Travel; massage certificates from Peak Performance; a one year aerobic membership from the Ann Arbor Court Club; and much more.

Vaudeville Lives Again In Buddy Graf

An effervescent Buddy Graf accepted the "American Award" presented by the Toledo Veterans of Foreign Wars last Friday evening for his devotion to patriotism, personally and on the musical stage, for his current show "Monkey Business '90" which ended its four-week run at the Westgate Dinner Theatre this past week.

To see Graf at work on stage in his continuous revival of vaudeville (his second natural mother) brings forth unbelievable admiration for this talented Top Banana in a revue with the latest title of "Monkey Business 1990."

Avoiding national invitations to tour with such shows as "Sugar Babies," reminiscent of old-time vaudeville, and for entertainment spots on national television, Buddy and his wife, Carol, professionally exist at Bear Creek Farms, the headquarters of Richards' Restaurants near Bryant, Ind.

The dynamic duo of Mother Nature and Father Time have cursed showman Buddy Graf at different curves on the road of life, but by losing a significant number of pounds in the last two years and humoring his physical heart, Mr. Vaudeville, Buddy Graf, has arisen from behind the scenes of show business and come to the front as Top Banana in his own show: "The Goodtime Players."

At the ripe age of 60 years, the last 10+ in front of the curtain, Graf's energy seems endless in his desire to entertain. Graf's modern version of vaudeville charmed patrons nightly at Westgate Dinner Theatre in Toledo. Currently he is sunning in Florida prior to returning to Bear Creek for the annual March to December season.

Born in the traditional "showbusiness trunk," Graf spent his formative years in Chicago. Upon reaching age 16, Graf assumed the duties of his father, managing everything from costumes to scenery in the heyday of vaudeville in Chicago's Stratford Theatre.

"Vaudeville," Graf explains, "is not burlesque." "Burlesque's funeral occurred when a battle between the 'curvaceous beauties,' Graf smiles, and the comedians caused more clothes to disappear in the acts and the comedians countered with bluer and bluer jokes." Finally the filth suffocated what had at one time been magnificent entertainment.

But he does not retreat to those pleasant dreams of the past. In earlier days of vaudeville, he met and formed friendships with the hospital bound Sammy Davis, Jr.; the currently touring Donald O'Connor in "The Sunshine Boys" (ironically a story about vaudeville); and the always bronzed millionaire/actor George Hamilton of Hollywood. All of these and many others began their careers through vaudeville.

Shoes—Graf owns 45 dozens of them—not Florsheim but every kind that a crazy clown might wear! Countless idiotic costumes currently at rest at Bear Creek Farms along with 200 different hats he uses in performances during nine months of the year with his Goodtime Players.

And at his Bear Creek office a special file cabinet is literally jammed full of vaudeville skits purchased from the estate of Jesse Mackey (Las Vegas) for $3,000. The purchase yielded 538 pounds of scripts, some of them are being used in his current performance. Graf, a living encyclopedia of vaudeville information, joins with these props to again appear successfully on stage.

When he comes on stage with his somewhat balding head and hair seeking a place to attach itself, Graf's initial appearance in irreverent costumes always brings down the house. When he does "Mule Train," one of my favorite numbers in his recent Toledo production, his pants seem to hang almost indecently just above his knees! An unbelievable sight.

Graf, on stage, pleads, begs, teases, intimidates, and above all, absolutely enjoys his audience. Sometimes his infectious laughter is enough cause for other people to laugh. But the kindness and caring exemplified by this "showman and trouper" can only be observed behind the scenes. "Everyone is fair game in comedy," Graf states.

Shaking hands with each individual patron attending the current performance is almost a spiritual high for him!

Graf's working other half is Carol. She's currently at Bear Creek Farms arranging for hundreds of buses to come to the isolated farm near Bryant, Ind., fast becoming an entertainment mecca.

Graf's father died when he was age 16 with 32 years to follow as a stage hand and manager of stage unions. His survival has run from acrobatic for five years to serving Uncle Sam in the Air Force (18 to 22 years of age) for five years; teleprompting for NBC in Chicago; working for Wisconsin's Tommy Bartlett's Ski Show in Wisconsin; all jobs that kept him behind the entertainment scene.

Vaudeville required an ensemble production with normally the Top Banana (with Graf fulfilling this role with zest) holds the show together. In Toledo, he presented a sextette of young, energetic and professional entertainers (Suzanne Ogden, Rick Delaney, Elizabeth Ann Morgan, Randy Clinker, David Ward, and magician Rusty Ammerman) attired in colorful costumes, provided harmonious music, snappy dance routines, and comedic skits to sew together a highly satisfying evening.

In late February at Bear Creek Farms, young entertainers will join Graf in a newly constructed theatre to present continuous entertainment for nine months.

Who is this Vaudevillian Buddy Graf in 1990? An extremely kind and generous individual, muchly concerned about his "acting family," with a heart passionately desiring to bring a chuckle and perhaps a belly laugh to the American public.

"He has great respect and love for the world," and vaudeville is his way of expressing those feelings.

His finale is one of simple sincerity, a verbal and musical salute to America and its grand old flag in an honest salute to outright patriotism! But that patriotism is uniquely sincere with Mr. Buddy Graf, a lively vaudevillian of the '90's, 1990's, that is!

Buddy Graf, following his Florida vacation retreat, has been invited to appear at Eastern Michigan University where vaudeville will be demonstrated and explained before Eastern and community secondary school students. And the Westgate Dinner Theatre has penned in another January 1991 appearance for Graf and his entertaining vaudevillian entourage.

Parents will be able to choose two 50-minute presentations from the 11 that will be offered that evening. From 7 to 7:50 p.m. the following seminars will be offered.

Going Beyond Knowledge with Higher Level Thinking: Parents will learn how to question their children about what they have learned in school on a particular day. It is a seminar on higher-level thinking skills and the development of "celebration" products applicable to all students in any grade. Ruth Stielstra, co-ordinator of the Enrichment Triad Program, is the presenter.

Do All These Tests Make a Difference? High school counselor Sue Carter will discuss standardized tests, how educators use the results, and what parents can do with the results.

And Now, The Rest of the Story: Middle school teacher Leonard Solomon will discuss parental influence, the material society, the impact of television, educational accountability, and public attitude toward the classroom teacher. It will be an open exchange between the teacher and participants.

What's New in Reading: Reading specialist Sandy Hamilton will explain the new definition of reading that had been adopted by the National Reading Council and the Michigan Department of Education. She will also discuss how it has affected reading education. Activities and methods for enhancing reading at home will be discussed.

Improving Your Child's Self-Esteem: Social worker Susan West will define self-esteem, how to develop it, build it up, and tear it down.

Examining Homework Without Tears: High school teacher Jim Winter will review the book "Homework Without Tears," a book for parents who are interested in learning how to motivate their children to do their homework.

The awareness night is an effort by local teachers and staff to establish a direct way to reach the parents of Chelsea school students with important information.

Let's Go

Bulldogs!

Wikman Wins State Title at 103 Pounds, Three Others Place

Chelsea junior Karl Wikman took the state championship at 103 pounds last Saturday at the Kellogg Center in Battle Creek.

In addition, three other Bulldogs placed among the top four in what coach Kerry Kargel called a record-setting performance. Chelsea was the only school to place four wrestlers in the top four.

"We had an excellent two days of wrestling," Kargel said.

"In a way, when Karl won it was like a challenge to our other wrestlers."

Senior Pat Taylor, the victim of a referee's controversial decision, finished second at 119 pounds. Senior Doug Wingrove was third at 145 pounds and senior Tim VanSchoick took fourth place at 189 pounds.

Jim Hassett also wrestled at 140 pounds, but didn't place.

Wikman, who took second at the regionals, beat Ed Grace (38-7) of Mt. Clemens in the finals with a pin in 1:23. Grace put Wikman in a cradle, Wikman countered and returned the favor, which Grace couldn't escape.

"Karl has good agility and is very quick and is a very skilled wrestler," Kargel said.

"He counters well. When someone would take him down he got the points right back. At the state level you've got to be moving all the time, and Karl does that well."

Wikman won his first three matches by decisions. On Friday he opened with Gene Anderson of Gross Ile (31-10) and took a 7-4 decision. In his second match of the day he beat Eric Seifert of Stevensville-Lakeshore (40-9), 7-4. On Saturday he opened with Brian Beuchelaere of Dearborn Divine Child (35-3) and won 11-9 to qualify for the finals.

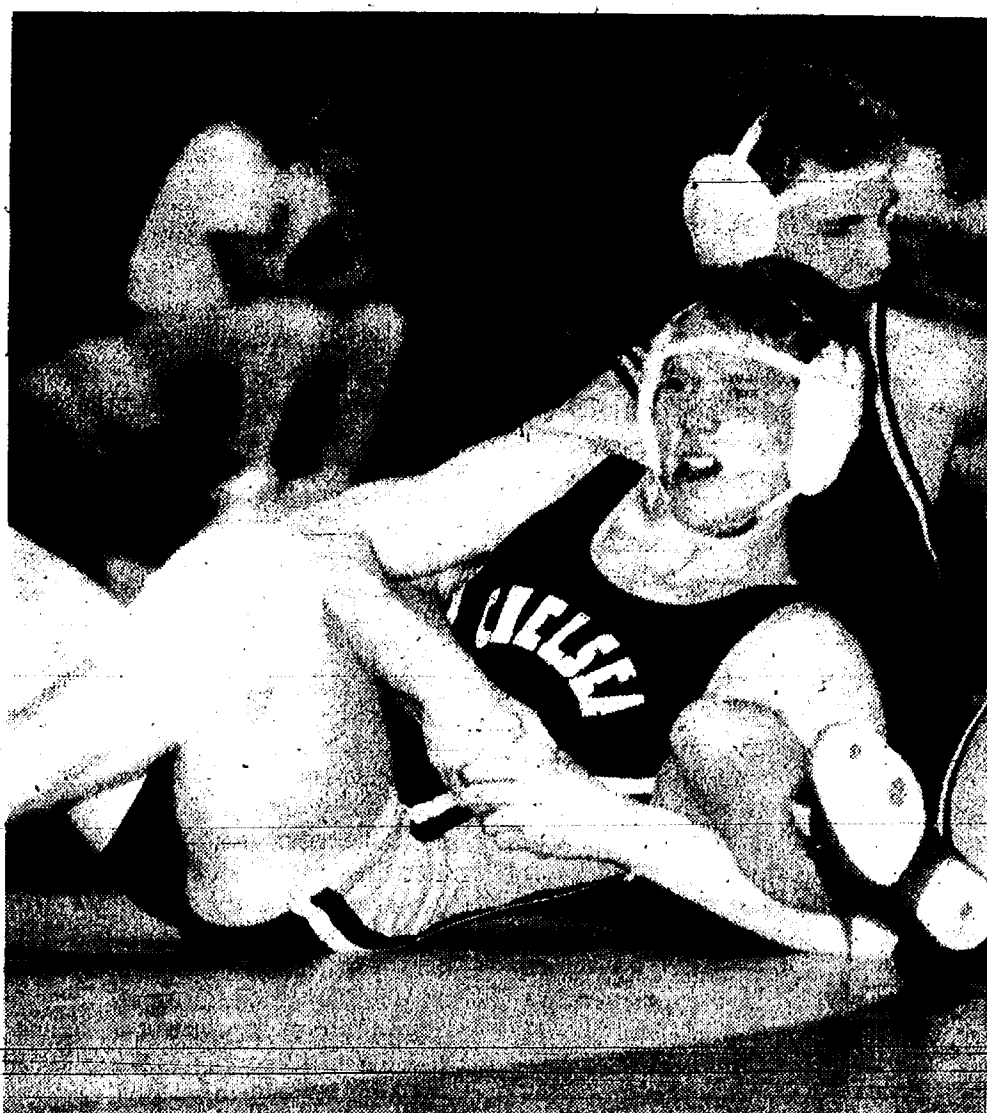

Wikman finished the season with a 44-2 mark.

Kargel admitted he was furious about Taylor's final match, which ended with a 5-4 loss to Phil Judge of Eaton Rapids.

Kargel said Taylor was awarded two points for a near-fall in the middle of the match, but the points were then waived off for no apparent reason. At that point Kargel had the match stopped to question the decision, which is his right.

"I feel bad for Pat because he'll

JUNIOR JIM HASSETT participated in the state class B wrestling meet last week-end, but didn't place at 140 pounds. However, he is still one of the 12 best in his weight class in class B.

Bulldogs-Tecumseh Meet in First Round Of District Tourney

As the luck of the draw would have it, the Chelsea Bulldogs face the Tecumseh Indians in the first round of the district tournament next Monday, March 5 in Chelsea. They are the top two teams in the district.

The Bulldogs-Indians match-up starts at 7 p.m.

Saline, which drew a bye, will play the winner in the second game on Wednesday. The first game on Wednesday, at 6 p.m., will feature the Dexter Dreadnaughts against Brooklyn Columbia Central.

The finals will be held on Friday at 7 p.m.

A total of 750 tickets will be available on a pre-sale basis according to the following schedule.

Parents of players in the high school boys basketball program, ninth grade, JV, and varsity, and parents of high school basketball cheerleaders, can purchase tickets, today, Wednesday from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the high school athletic office. A maximum of four tickets per family will be available.

High school employees can each purchase two tickets on Thursday, March 1 from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the athletic office.

Students will be able to purchase one ticket each during lunch on Thursday.

The remaining pre-sale tickets, about 200, will be available for the community at large on Friday from 8:30 a.m. to noon, two tickets per person maximum.

The remaining 500 tickets will be available at the door on Monday beginning at 5:30 p.m.

"We've measured the bleachers and figure we can sell about 1,600 tickets," said Chelsea athletic director Wayne Welton.

"We've allowed 16 inches per person."

No passes will be honored. Chelsea High school gets one-third of the net, which could come to more than $1,000.

Chelsea, Tecumseh Tied In SEC as Indians Win Showdown at Home

The Southeastern Conference basketball championship will be decided this Friday as the Chelsea Bulldogs host the Pinckney Pirates and the Dexter Dreadnaughts host the Tecumseh Indians on the final night of the regular season.

One of three scenarios can happen. The Bulldogs can secure the title outright by beating Pinckney combined with a Tecumseh loss. A win by both teams means they would share the title. And a loss by Chelsea combined with a Tecumseh win means Chelsea would take second.

The situation was set up last Friday when the Indians played nearly flawless basketball and handed Chelsea a 73-63 loss at Tecumseh.

Each team has one league loss as each team won the head-to-head match-up on its own court.

The gym was filled to capacity even before the junior varsity game started. While Chelsea had a sizeable turnout, their cheers were often drowned out by a huge, boisterous Tecumseh contingent that occasionally made it difficult even to hear the officials' whistles. It was too tight for Tecumseh's student body and they stood and cheered the whole game.

Chelsea Athletic Director Wayne Welton said he has talked to numerous Chelsea fans who simply went back home when they couldn't get a seat in the gym. A large crowd watched the game on closed circuit television in the cafeteria.

"I don't know if the crowd bothered us or not," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"It was a long day and we might have been a little mentally tired at the end. However, we did execute pretty well considering the noise."

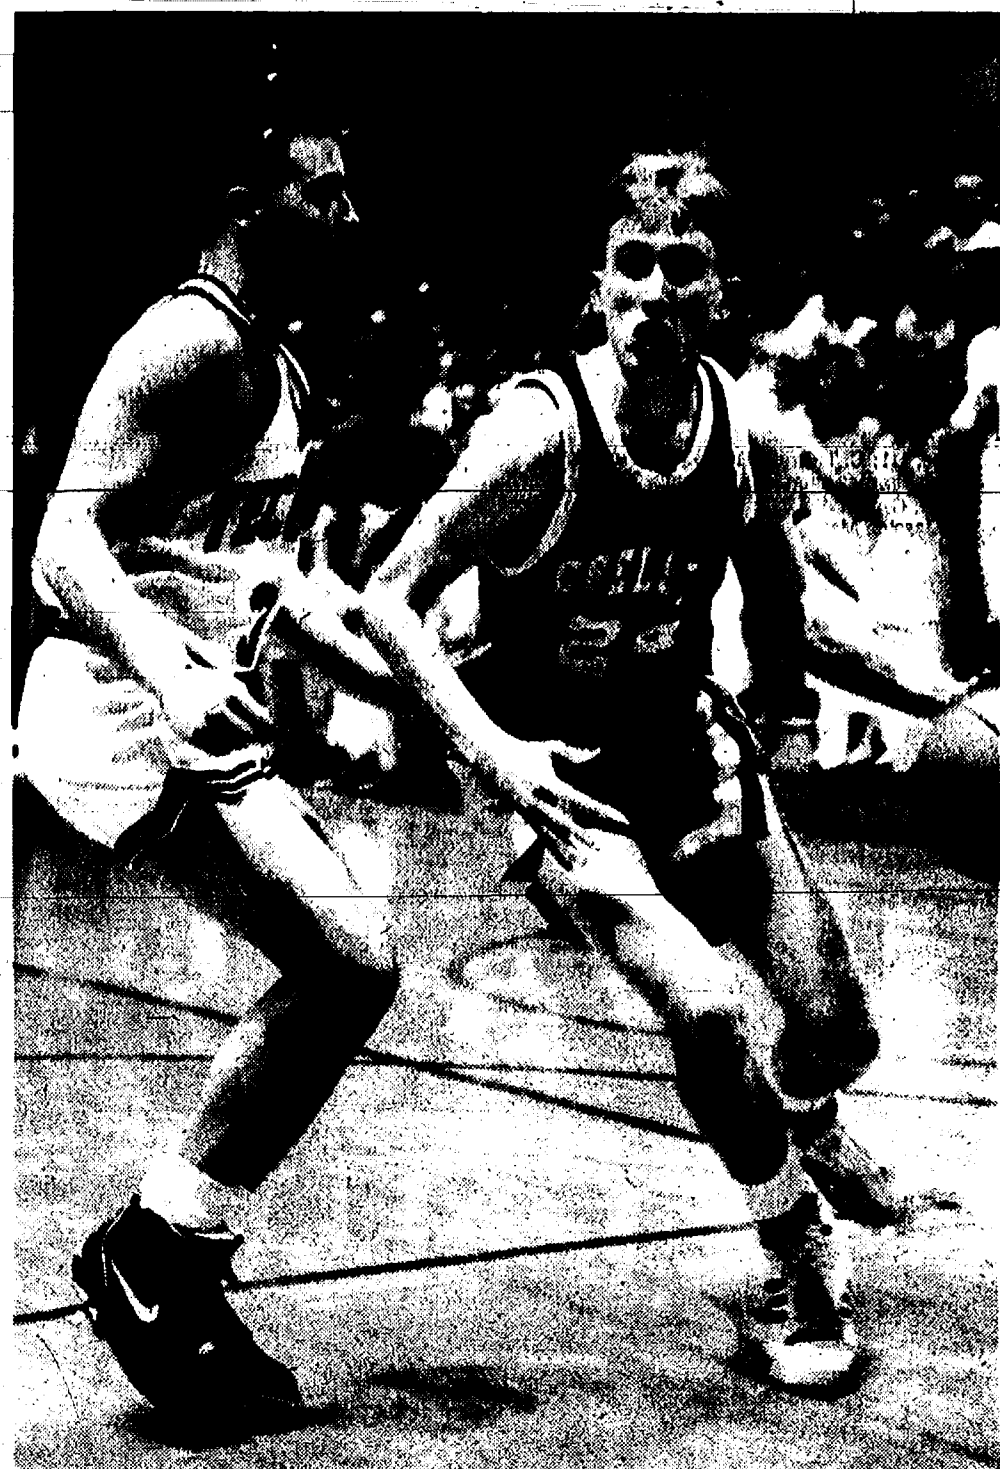

Chelsea coaching staff held up cue cards to indicate offensive and defensive plays.

Whether or not the crowd made a difference, the game was won by the Indians on the court as they exposed the weaknesses in the Bulldogs' game. Tecumseh's bigger front line gave Chelsea all they could handle on the inside.

"We don't have a lot of body weight, and that hasn't been exposed until now," Raymond said.

"They were a little more physical than we were."

In addition, Tecumseh had surprising quickness.

CHAD STARKEY tries to drive around Tecumseh guard Chad Ward during Friday's spirited contest in Tecumseh. The Bulldogs lost by 10 points, but are tied in the SEC with the Indians.

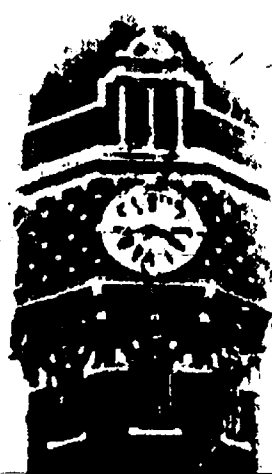

"They even beat us one-on-one in the half court, which really surprised me," Raymond said. "I've seen them play four times this year and they were quicker than I've ever seen them. They didn't do much wrong."

Tecumseh's size, combined with its quickness, took Chelsea out of its normally effective transition game. The Indians got back on defense as well as any teams the Dogs have played this season. Raymond also said the Chelsea wings were slow getting down court, which also hampered the running game.

Bulldog Tankers Finish Second in Four-Way Pilot Conference Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs finished second in a meet last week-end that next year is scheduled to become the Southeastern Conference Championship Meet. Milan won the meet easily with 413 points, while Chelsea had 273, Dexter 201, and Pinckney 147. Next year, Lincoln, Tecumseh, and Saline are scheduled to participate. On Friday, Milan and Chelsea took the top spots, but Saturday is the day when "Chelsea really showed how their hard work has paid off," said coach Dave Jolly.

After being beaten by Milan in the preliminaries, the Chelsea 200 medley relay team of Brett Paddock, Garth Girard, Von Acker, and Wally Schmid edged the Big Red in the finals with a time of 1:45.33. Their preliminary time of 1:44.72 will send them in the top four in the state meet, Jolly said. "These three young men have been the core to our success this season," Jolly said.

"They are not the easiest people to work with but you sure can see the fruits of their labor time and time again." In the finals of the 200 freestyle, Chelsea placed three in the top six. Rob Totten took four place with a time of 1:54.32. Girard placed fifth with a time of 1:54.6, and Joe Huettman placed third and just missed the state cut with a time of 1:53.65. "Both Totten and Huettman had the meets of their lives," Jolly said.

Pup Netters Win Two Matches

Beach Middle school seventh grade volleyball team defeated Tecumseh in four games on Tuesday, Feb. 13, 8-11, 11-3, 11-5, and 11-2. In the first game, the Bullpups had problems receiving serves, but did a much better job in the remaining games. Nancy Pidd led all Chelsea servers with 13 points, while Lori Ritter served six points and Jayma Spears had four.

On Thursday, Feb. 22 Chelsea hosted and defeated Saline in three games, 11-0, 11-1, and 11-6. Spears was the leading server with 10 points, all in one game. Christie Lonskey had six points, and Erin Garigus served four. The Pups have a 7-1 record.

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team defeated Tecumseh and Saline in recent action. On Monday, Feb. 19, Chelsea won 11-8, 11-6, and 11-4. Jamie Collinsworth played well, said coach Ann Schaffner, as she served for 10 points and played well at the net.

Tracy Haas served for five points, and Sarah Stolaski and Katie Harr served for four and three points, respectively, and played their best games of the season, Schaffner said. On Thursday, Feb. 22 the Bulldogs won 11-5, 11-5, and 11-1. "I was pleased with the way we received the serves, it was our best effort of the season," Schaffner said.

Beth Bell led with six points, Collinsworth and Theresa Royce served for five points each, and Maya Holleman and Katie Harr served for four points each. "If I had to give a most impressive meet award, they would tie." Three Chelsea swimmers also placed in the 200 individual medley. Brian Brock placed 10th in 2:20.61 and Steve Brock was sixth in 2:19.44. "Steve is the freshman of the year in my book," Jolly said. "He scored the most points of all the freshmen at the meet." Paddock placed second in 2:08.85, which Jolly called an "outstanding effort." In the 50 freestyle, Dirk Colby finished seventh in the outside lane. Schmid and Acker finished 1-2 in :23.48 and :23.56, respectively. In diving, Jamie Basso was second with 303.50 points, Richard Barnes took 10th place with 222.5, and Brett Salamin was 11th with 202.6 points.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I could have guessed what was going to happen last Friday night in Tecumseh.

A day that began with my son waking up in the foulest mood he's ever known, followed by my dog relieving herself on the rug, followed by me blowing out a tire in a pothole at Freer and Washington, had to end in a Chelsea basketball loss. It was the perfect finish to a horrible day.

The funny part about the game was, as badly as I wanted the Bulldogs to win it, I didn't feel so terrible when it was over. Tecumseh fans, by far the most spirited in the league, deserved the win.

Tecumseh's million dollar effort to support their team made anything Chelsea home crowds have accomplished this year look like a few pennies in a panhandler's cup.

The Tecumseh gym was packed nearly 45 minutes before the JV game even started. Closed circuit television broadcast the game to several hundred people in the cafeteria who couldn't get seats.

It was toga night, ala "Animal House" and several hundred kids dressed in bed sheets and sunglasses.

But most of all, the kids stood and cheered the entire game. Organized cheers and general pandemonium. The Indian cheerleaders hardly played a part. And the kids were extremely polite about it. No profanities, no baiting of individual athletes that you see so often. They booed a lot, but so what? These days that's pretty tame.

When I finally got to the quiet of my car, I realized my ears were ringing. That hasn't happened since the Los Lobos concert a couple of years ago. And never after a high school basketball game.

It was pretty obvious there was a certain amount of method to the Indian fans' madness.

Can that kind of support happen here? Not without substantially more effort than there has been in the last several years. The Bulldogs have a hard core following, which can scream and yell with the best of them. But I've never seen a Chelsea team, any Chelsea team, that had the overwhelming support of the majority of its student body as Tecumseh had last Friday.

That's the missing ingredient—mass mobilization.

Chelsea student fans have plenty of opportunities left, however. Chelsea hosts Pinckney this Friday. The outcome, combined with the Dexter-Tecumseh contest in Dexter, will determine whether Chelsea wins the SEC title outright, takes a share of the title, or is the league runner-up.

Then Chelsea hosts the district tournament, which features a re-match with Tecumseh right off the bat Monday night.

The fans made a big difference last Friday, especially for the Indians. That constant roar of the crowd kept the Indians at a peak all game long. And it was partially the Bulldogs' inability to take the crowd out of the game early on, perhaps with a slam, that helped put them in a hole.

The game itself was outstanding, exactly what high school basketball is all about. Both teams played hard, but tempers never flared. No technical fouls were called. The game, from my perspective, was well-officiated.

Chelsea played well, but Tecumseh was exceptional.

Brian Burg dominated the first half and scored 21 of the Bulldogs' 31 points. Kyle Plank hit two three-point goals early. Chelsea was down by three points at half-time after the Indians scored the first five points of the game.

However, for one of the few times all year, Chelsea's offense was one-dimensional. Chelsea got a great game from Burg, but little else until Kerry Plank took over down the stretch. While Burg has been the scoring leader in most games, the Bulldogs' best games have been when three or four players score well into double figures.

Also, Tecumseh controlled the pace. The Bulldogs had few points in transition, which has not been their forte. Their half-court offense, playing catch-up basketball showed near the end as they had no one to fire up the long-range bombs, especially after Kyle Plank fouled out.

The Indians punched the ball inside, as is their game plan. Junior guard Andy Poppink, Tecumseh's high scorer, did a little bit of everything. He hit a three-pointer, tipped in his own missed shots, made the passes, and blocked shots.

However, to me the difference in the game was the play of Tecumseh guard Chad Ward. Chelsea had no one quick enough to keep him from penetrating. And once he got inside, he made the passes to his big guys.

Ward also made the shot of the game. With four seconds left in the third quarter he hit a three-pointer from beyond the top of the key that gave Tecumseh their biggest lead at 11 points. It was the demoralizing basket of the game. Had he missed the shot, Chelsea might have gone into the fourth quarter down by six points.

The game lived up to its billing, which is not always the case in such an anticipated game. It was pure pleasure to watch, even though Chelsea lost.

I expect next Monday's game to be more of the same.

I just hope Chelsea can get by Pinckney and claim at least a share of the title. The real heartbreak would be for the Bulldogs to finish second with their best team in recent memory.

Congratulations to all five Chelsea wrestlers who participated in the state meet last week-end. You worked hard and deserve your success.

Junior Karl Wikman, who won the state at 103 pounds, became Chelsea's first state champ since Pete Hanna several years ago.

Is there anything left for Wikman to accomplish his senior year?

"Yes," he told Kargel. "I want to be better than my coach."

Kargel, of course, was a state champ back in the ancient days of wrestling.

Senior Pat Taylor, at 119 pounds, should have been Chelsea's second champ, but a referee's ruling made the difference in the one-point decision.

Two points were awarded to Taylor for a near pin, then taken away for no apparent reason. Kargel said he "was about ready to tear the roof off."

"To me, Pat was a state champ," Kargel said.

Senior Doug Wingrove took third place at 145 pounds and senior Tim VanSchick was fourth at 189 pounds.

"We made history again," Kargel said.

"We've never had four wrestlers place in the top four at state."

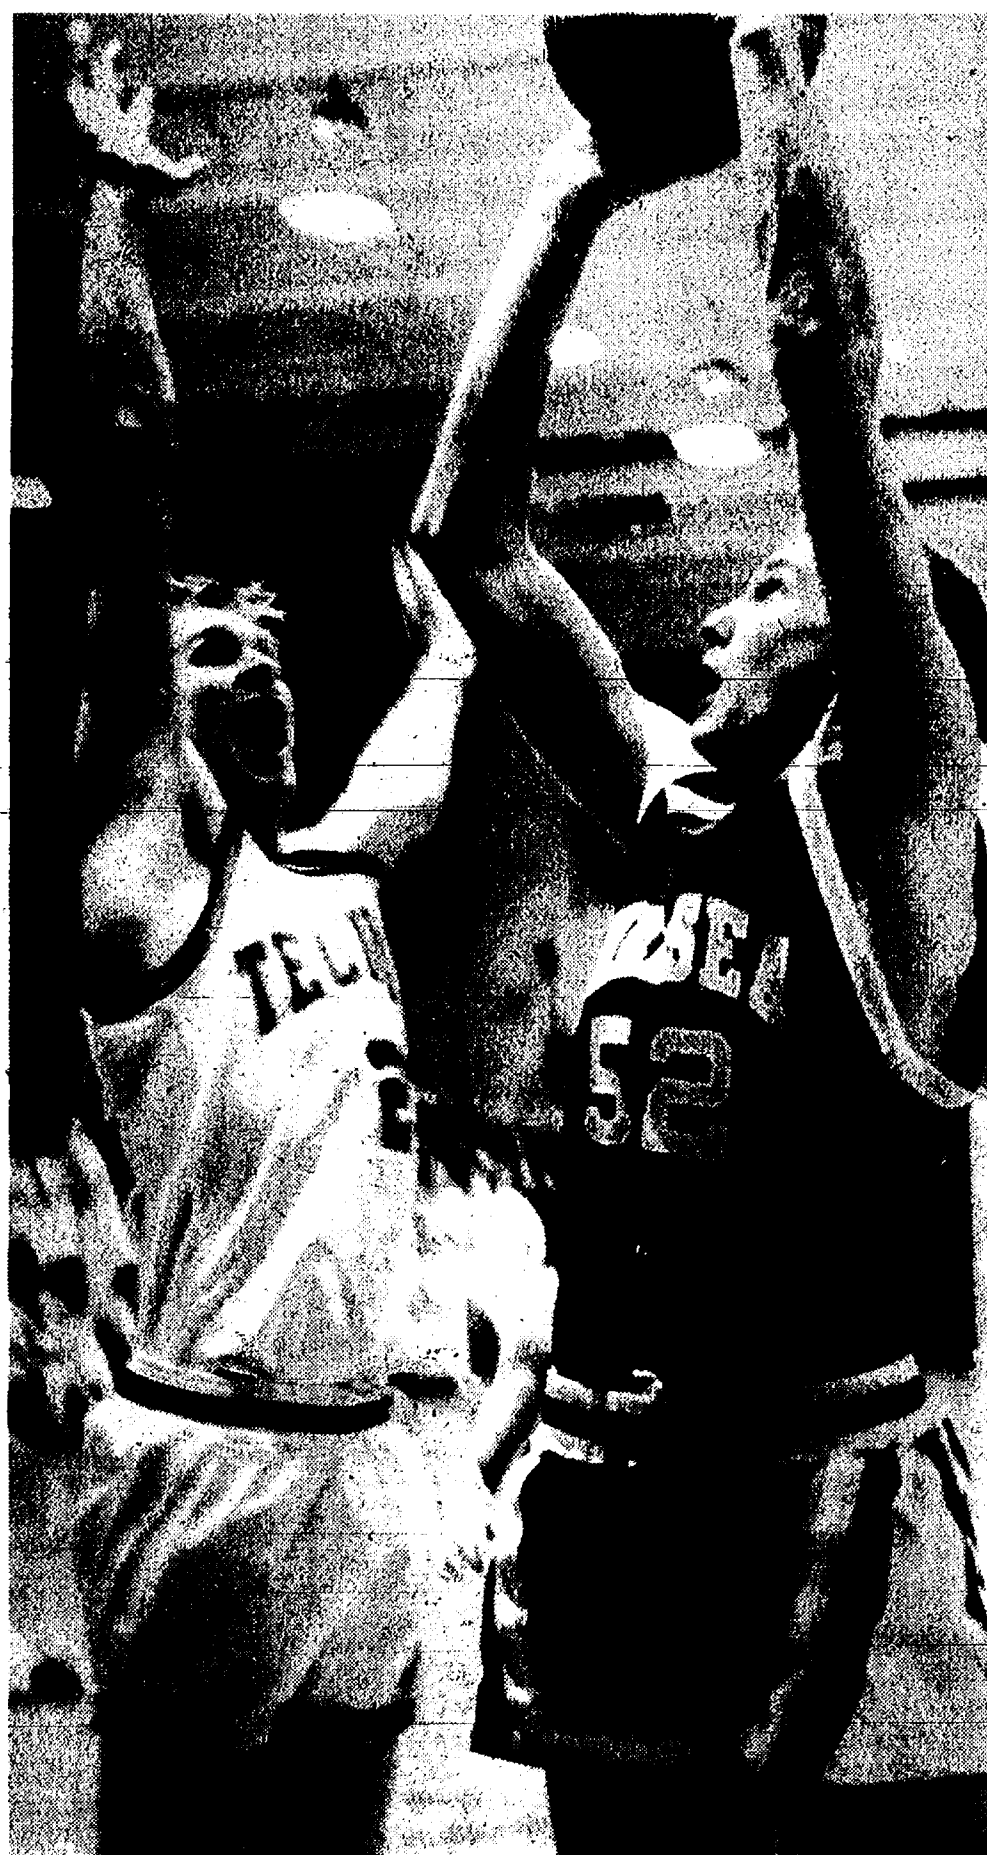

Junior Jim Hassett, at 140 pounds, didn't place, although he won a match.

"We were kidding him about being a tourist this year," Kargel said.

By tourist, Kargel means a guy who goes to the state tournament simply to see what it's like. A guy who's happy to be there rather than a guy who's there to win it all. It's a common affliction among first timers, guys who often can't believe their own success.

It was a great year for Bulldog wrestlers.

My thanks, again, go to Bill Hanna, our ace wrestling photographer. He's provided excellent shots for at least the last four years.

BRIAN BURG goes up for two of his game-high 30 points in a 10-point loss the Chelsea Bulldogs suffered at Tecumseh last Friday. Burg was virtually unstoppable in the first half, when he scored 21 points.

Varsity Netters Have Rough Week

Chelsea Bulldogs volleyball team suffered through a tough week as they lost matches to Tecumseh, Ypsilanti, and Saline last week.

On Monday, Feb. 19 at Tecumseh, Chelsea was beaten in two games, 15-4 and 15-3.

"We knew going in that we didn't have much of a chance of winning because Tecumseh is, by far, the best team in the league," said Chelsea coach Sue Steeves.

"I just told the girls to have fun, and I think they did."

On Wednesday, Feb. 21 at Ypsilanti, the Bulldogs were beaten in five games, 14-16, 15-13, 15-11, 13-15, and 14-16.

"The team didn't play well, but we hung in there," Steeves said.

"We were missing Barb Scriven, our best setter, but Jane Pacheco did a fine job of covering Barb's as well as her own position on the court."

Pacheco had 28 assists and 10 digs. Lisa Park had 12 kills, seven blocks, and five digs. Scharme Petty had eight kills and served two aces.

On Thursday, Feb. 22 at Saline, the hosts won in two games, 15-1 and 15-13.

"We came on strong in the second game with good serving by Jill Nowatzke, but it wasn't enough," Steeves said.

"Scharme Petty also served well." Scriven had nine assists, Nowatzke had four kills, and Park led the defense with five digs and four blocks.

The district tournament is Saturday, March 3 at Stockbridge.

Beach Wrestlers Honored at Pizza Party and Awards Banquet

Beach Middle school wrestlers held their awards banquet Monday afternoon. The team finished 8-0 in dual meets and took first place in two tournaments. Last Saturday Chelsea sent 24 wrestlers to an eight-team tournament and came home with 18 medals.

Seventh graders Chad Brown and Bryndon Skelton, and eighth graders John Bobo and Colby Skelton won an award for their combined teams points and grade point average.

Seventh graders Matt DeLong, Marc Sparaco, and Eric Montagne, and eighth graders Tim Wescott, Eric Dougherty, and Dan Alber were honored for scoring the most team points.

Seventh graders Gary Farmer and Mike Lucas and eighth graders Paul Taylor and Paul Lopez were named most improved wrestlers.

Other wrestlers included Matt Horn, John Hoffenbecker, Eric

Bergman, Jay Westcott, Steve Picklesimer, K.C. Harr, Jim Sarna, Nathan Talbot, Mike Bainton, Brad Martell, Jayson Lien, Dan McGuire, Jayson Rianer, Greg Richerd, Zack Gayeski, Eric LaFurge, Drew Kyte, Simon Wallis, Justin Roush, Chris Kargel, Jason Rosentreter, Jeff Shoemaker, Bill Carmack, Chuck Alexander, and Mike Black.

"Just to give you an idea of how well these young men wrestled, Jay Westcott was 19-2 with eight pins, Steve Picklesimer was 6-1 with six pins, K.C. Harr was 9-2 with seven pins," said coach Mike Walton.

"I don't like to mention records at this age level, but almost everyone on the team had an outstanding season. I can't wait to see all these guys wrestling as seniors."

This year's captains were Wescott (14-1), Colby Skelton (13-2), Westcott, Bobo (14-1), Dougherty (11-1), and Taylor (8-3).

Beach Tankers Sparkle at Erie-Mason Invitational

Beach Middle school swim coach Dave Brinklow is going through the rest of the winter with a cold face after telling his 200 medley relay team that he would shave his beard if they broke 2:00.

The team of Jason McVittie, Matt Montange, Matt Fischer, and Craig Vosters saw to it that their coach would have a clean face by swimming to a first place finish and a time of 1:58.8 at the Erie-Mason Invitational. The relay was the first of a long line of excellent performances turned in by the Chelsea team as they finished third out of 10 teams.

"A meet like this is what coaching is all about," said Brinklow.

"To see these young men and women come out of the water with such excited expressions after having an incredible time drop, makes every minute of long practice hours worthwhile. They came in and amazed me with their performances during prelims in the morning, and then came back for finals in the afternoon and swam even better!"

Also scoring in the medley relay was the team of Mike McEachern, David Stimpson, Corey Brown, and Matt Dymond, who scored eighth.

Betsy Schmunk was the lone scorer in the 200 free style in eighth place, and Erica Street and Nineteen Vermeylen both turned in excellent swims, Brinklow said.

The 100 individual medley was a big event for Chelsea with Fischer taking second and Kevin Kolodica in fourth place.

McVittie had a personal best time in the 50 free style which was good enough for second place, while Craig Gourley, Hailey Orr, and Bridgette Reinhardt each had personal best times.

Tom Leach and David Stimpson both competed in the diving event. Fischer swam in the 50 butterfly, where his personal-best time was good enough for a second-place finish. Corey Brown and Vermeylen each had personal-best times as well.

Vosters placed 10th in the 100 free style while Dymond and Orr both had best times.

McVittie swam another best time in the 100 backstroke and again placed second. Schmunk was 10th and Street also swam well.

The 100 breaststroke was Chelsea's strongest individual event as Montange placed second, Kolodica was third and McEachern had an incredible time drop to place-fourth. The 400 free style relay team of Vosters, Schmunk, Montange, and Kolodica finished second while the team of Brown, Dymond, McEachern, and Street was eighth.

Seven Middle school swimmers finished the season by competing in the Junior High School State Swim Meet which was held at McDonald Middle school in East Lansing.

The 200 medley relay team of McVittie, Kolodica, Fischer, and Vosters turned in the third fastest time in the meet.

Schmunk placed fourth in the 200 free, and Street had a personal-best time.

In the 100 individual medley, Fischer was third, David Brock eighth, and Kolodica 10th.

McVittie was fifth in the 500 free style and Fischer sixth in the 50 butterfly.

Vosters was 12th in the 100 free style. In the 100 backstroke McVittie was second, and Brock, eighth. Kolodica finished fifth in the 100 breaststroke.

KYLE PLANK looks to shoot inside against Tecumseh junior guard Andy Poppink during last Friday's game in Tecumseh. Plank had 10 points in the loss. The teams will meet in the first round of the district tournament on Monday.

Bulldogs Need Win Over Pirates for Title

jump shots, especially in the second half, was also a telling factor.

In the first half, Kyle Plank hit two three-pointers, which seemed to loosen-up the inside for Brian Burg, who finished the first half with 21 points. The Bulldogs were down 34-31 at half-time after the teams played a dead-even second quarter.

In the second half, however, Chelsea seemed to abandon its outside game, and Burg was held to nine points.

"We figured they would be determined to stop Brian inside," Raymond said.

"But we didn't hit put the ball up from the outside. We didn't need to shoot three-pointers, but we had to hit the 15-foot jump shots."

Kerry Plank led Chelsea in the second half with 14 points, but all came from the inside.

Chelsea held a 40-39 lead in the middle of the third quarter before the Indians went on a 13-2 run. An NBA-length three-point shot by Tecumseh guard Chad Ward with four seconds left in the quarter gave the Indians a 55-44 lead.

Chelsea cut the Tecumseh lead to four points with less than two minutes to play on a three-point play by Kerry Plank. From there it turned into a free throw contest for Tecumseh, who made most of their shots down the stretch.

Tecumseh 6'5" junior guard Andy Poppink was credited by Raymond as the difference in the game. Poppink, who led Tecumseh with 24 points, scored five points during the Indians' 13-2 run in the third quarter on two tip-ins, and six straight free throws down the stretch. He also caused problems on defense as he blocked a couple of shots coming from the weak side.

Statistically, the game was nearly even. Each team took 49 shots, Chelsea made 23 and Tecumseh made 25, including four three-pointers.

Each team shot 68 percent from the line as Chelsea was 15-22 and Tecumseh was 19-28. Tecumseh had a 34-32 rebound advantage and had three fewer turnovers, 11-14. Fouls were also nearly even as Chelsea had 20 and Tecumseh had 19.

"They outplayed us and deserved to win," Raymond said.

"But I think we're as good as they are."

Other Chelsea scorers included Kyle Plank with 10 points, Chad Starkey with six, Jon Royce with two, and Jude Quilter with one.

The teams meet in the rubber game this Monday in Chelsea in the first round of the district tournament at 7 p.m.

Both teams were 16-2 over-all and 10-1 in the SEC after Friday's game.

Chelsea was scheduled to play a tough Jackson County Western team last night.

Pinckney, 6-5 in the league, is entirely capable of upsetting the Bulldogs. They play a fast-paced game and if they're shooting well it could be a long night for Chelsea.

"If Pinckney has the touch, we'd better be ready to score," Raymond said.

"They're in a no-lose situation. They can determine the champion, and they'll be ready to go."

Bulldogs-Pirates Basketball Games Start 2 Hours Early

Chelsea Bulldogs and Pinckney Pirates will play their final regular season game this Friday in Chelsea two hours earlier than usual.

The JV game is scheduled to start at 4 p.m., with the varsity game to follow.

The change has been made so there will be no conflict with the high school's winter musical play that evening.

Freshman Cagers End 10-6 With Two Close Defeats

Chelsea Bulldog freshman basketball team lost two close games last week to Tecumseh and Jackson County Western.

On Monday, Feb. 19 Chelsea was defeated by Tecumseh, 38-37, after blowing a nine-point lead in the fourth quarter.

"We just went cold and couldn't get anything to drop," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"Defensively we played well enough to win."

Chelsea hit 1 of 9 attempts from the field in the final period.

In some ways the Indians were their own worst enemy as they made just 12 of 32 shots at the free throw line and 13 of 53 shots from the field.

Colt White led Chelsea with 11 points, Erik Brown and Chris Dunham each had eight, Nick McCalla scored six, and Ed Waller and Dana Schmunk each scored two.

On Thursday, Feb. 22 at home the Bulldogs lost to Western, 58-55, in overtime.

Chelsea, down by six points with less than 90 seconds left, managed to tie the game with one second left in regulation play on two pressure free throws by Brown.

Excellent free throw shooting was one of the highlights for Chelsea as they made 19 of 25 tries, including 9-10 by Brown, 6-9 by Tom Poulter, and 2-2 by White.

Quilter praised the post play of Poulter and Schmunk.

McCalla led Chelsea with 16 points. Brown and Dunham each scored 11, Poulter had 10, White scored four, and Schmunk had three.

Chelsea finished the season with a 10-6 mark.

Indian Cagers Scorch Bulldogs

Chelsea Bulldog JV basketball team was trounced by the Tecumseh Indians last Friday on the road, 77-40.

Chelsea fell behind 27-15 in the first quarter and 48-25 at half-time.

Chelsea was held to just 10 field goals.

Dan Stahl paced the Bulldogs with nine points. Other scorers included Adam Tillman 8, Jake Rindle 7, Ben Hurst 5, Aaron Tanner 4, Rick Clouse 4, Rob Jaques 4, and John Weinberg 1.

Four Wrestlers Place at State have to live with that his whole life," Kargel said.

Each match had two referees, with one sitting on the sidelines. However, the referee on the sidelines did not contribute to the decision. That, Kargel said, he plans to ask state officials about.

"Why do they have two referees when the other referee doesn't have any input at all?" Kargel asked.

"I was upset."

In addition, Kargel said that two officials sitting with him, who were not involved in the match, agreed with his assessment.

Taylor opened on Friday with a pin of Todd Jennings of Algonac (43-4) in 3:44. His second match he won by injury default over Chris Doucette of Grand Rapids North (39-5). He was leading 5-0 when the match was stopped. On Saturday Taylor defeated Adam Vedewa of Portland (48-1), 6-5.

Taylor finished with a 43-3 record and improved from his third-place finish at state last year.

Wingrove had to wrestle five times. In his first match he defeated Tony Lopez of Battle Creek Lakeview (31-7-1), 9-4. In his second match he stopped Aaron Robinson of Gross Ile (35-2), 8-3. Jason Wright of Cedar Springs (44-0) pinned Wingrove in his third match in :43. Wingrove came back with an 11-2 decision over Sean McGuire of Centerline (33-1) and an 8-2 decision over Mark McKie of Stevensville-Lakeshore (42-5).

"What Doug did is extremely tough to do," Kargel said.

"He was one match away from the finals and got pinned. Most kids will go out and lose their next match because they can't get mentally prepared."

Wingrove finished at 42-5. He was a state qualifier last year.

VanSchoick also finished at 42-5 on the season. He opened with a 9-4 decision over Dave Andrus of Sparta (39-6) and followed that with a pin in 3:58 over Tim Grinage of Caledonia (31-2). The eventual state champ, Mike Argersinger of Mason (36-4) beat VanSchoick in the third round, 6-2. VanSchoick had beaten him earlier this season.

VanSchoick rebounded with an 11-2 decision over Jamie Murray of Hastings (31-6-1), then lost to Seth Rinks of Mt. Morris (50-3), 8-1. He placed fifth at state last year.

Hassett had to open with last year's state champ, Kevin Ranger of Battle Creek Lakeview (39-0) and lost 18-3. In his second match he defeated Derek Ellers of Monroe St. Mary's (28-15), 15-4. He was knocked out in the third round with an 8-6 loss to Matt McCloughan of South Haven (32-3).

"The regional we were in had eight state champions," Kargel said.

"That's just an indication of how tough our regional was."

Kargel said he felt he would probably have one state champion, "but which one it would have been hard to say."

What Is The Soul?

(part 2)

If we are to truly understand what the soul is there are two things which we must do first: 1) lay aside the doctrines of the traditions of men which have defined our understanding of the scriptures; and 2) open our hearts and minds to what the scriptures define as being the truth. The word "soul" is translated from two words in the Bible. The first word, nephesh, is found in the Old Testament, and the second word, pneuma, is found in the New Testament. Both words have the same denotation and connotation. The literal meaning of both words is: life, or a living, conscience creature. There is no translation, no reference, no concordance, that defines the original, literal meaning of soul as the never dying part of man, or a small, intangible inner being that continues to live after man dies. Without respect to traditional, popular teaching, the word soul means literally "to live or to have possession of life." No other definition has compatibility with the Word of Truth. Notice the events that transpired in the Garden of Eden when God brought the inanimate, sculptured elements, which man is composed of, to life. Gen. 2:7 reads, "And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Note that God did not breathe a soul into man, nor did he make a soul and place it in man; God breathed air into man, and, in following, man came to life, he became a living, conscience, thinking, animate being. The soul is not a part of man, the soul is man. When Adam came to life, he became a soul, a living soul. At death, as we see in Ezekiel 18:4, the soul, or the creature that once possessed life, dies. The death of a man is inseparable from the death of a soul, for as man, the possessor of life, dies, then also dies the ability to possess life, and life itself ceases to exist within man.

GOD IS NOT DEAD

He is also not just some impersonal, unconcerned being unaffected by what happens on planet earth. He cares for every individual and does not want anyone to perish. BUT "the wages of sin is death; (eternal separation from God in a place of eternal torment.) "But the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord." Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Should you ever need examples of courage, integrity, and fidelity to hold up to the children of Dexter township, simply speak the names of Earl Doletzky and Julie Knight. These two people are members of the Dexter Township Board.

Mr. Doletzky is a township board trustee who has been involved in government service for well over 35 years and has a reputation for integrity, both in speaking his mind and remaining true to his forthright convictions. Anyone with any reasonable point of view can approach Mr. Doletzky. He will hear the person out, and consider the information and point of view. He also votes his conscience on the township board. Clearly, his position in the history of Dexter is secure and well respected. In short, the man has character.

Mrs. Knight is the township treasurer. For years, she has done her job with dedication, thoroughness, and competent fidelity. She also looks at the issues facing the township board, asks questions, is persistent in wanting answers or assurances about given matters, and will talk with anybody and everybody. She is the person who brought the nomination of a problem solver to the sewer authority board. You could probably say the genes and chromosomes of outstanding parentage, heritage, and upbringing course through her veins. Most people know she is the daughter of Earl and June Doletzky, and in short, the woman has character.

Now, having a trait like character also means having courage, backbone, and moral strength. Some people are a little upset with both of these board members right now, because of these very traits. Mr. Doletzky and Mrs. Knight dared to vote "no" last Tuesday evening on the question of asking the county land its "full faith and credit" to backing the bonds for the proposed sewer system around Portage and Base lakes. The motion still carried by a 3-2 vote. You will recall this past November, the citizens of Dexter township themselves voted "no" on this very matter, because of various concerns about the project "as it is proposed," not the least of which are the potential danger of aquifer contamination at the treatment plant site and possible negative impact on Little Portage Lake.

These two board members have concerns about the project. They also question how, as elected officials, they can simply disregard the will of the voters who elected them. They apparently question the propriety of pushing the financing question over to the county level when the project has been neither modified or altered, and when Dexter township citizens already voted "no" by a 57.5% to 42.5% margin on the project "as it is proposed."

The people who are upset with them are, of course, members of the "Lakes Lobby" who can't seem to tolerate that a vote, which still went in their favor, is only 3-2. How dare anyone not agree with THEM and vote contrary to THEIR desires. How dare anyone take a moral and ethical position of upholding the vote of the citizens of the township. How dare those two be willing to talk to "anyone and everyone, (even we opponents) at anytime."

So, consequently, there are some who fume and swear. There are those who kick chairs and slam books on the floor. There are others who taint opponent's mailboxes and make late night anonymous telephone calls. And they speak the names of Doletzky and Knight with disdain and disgust.

Yet, there IS hope. There is hope of reconciling the split in the fabric of the township. Some proponents of the sewer now seek dialogue and resolving of problems, respect opposition positions while not agreeing with them, extend simple courtesy, and also recognize the sincerity of the opponents over this sewer issue. Perhaps reasoning brains will yet prevail over brawn. Perhaps the will of the voters may yet be observed. And Julie Knight was THE critical factor in causing this to occur, by bringing Tom Ehman to the sewer authority board.

One thing is uncontested fact. As long as people like Earl Doletzky and Julie Knight serve the public, the public will be well served. There will be someone to actually "hear" the voters, any of the voters, at any time. Doletzky and Knight were the minority vote of the board the other night, but in short, as I said previously, they have character. And that means they also have integrity, courage, strength, and admirable moral fiber. And that is why they deserve the respect which they have earned over the years, and why the vast majority of the public supports them as township board members, thus holding them in such high regard.

Am I lucky? You bet, because if it hadn't been for this damn sewer controversy, I would have never had the occasion or the privilege of knowing them. But most of you people, you knew them all the time.

Gregg E. Magnuson.

To the Editor,

The Ann Arbor News on Monday, Feb. 12, presented two cases, separated by thousands of miles, concerning the rights of individuals to demonstrate for human rights. First was Nelson Mandela's release from prison and second was legislation introduced by Lana Pollack and Perry Bullard to penalize those protesting abortion clinics.

Nelson Mandela of South Africa is a hero for protecting the rights of those who have little or no representation in their own country. As Martin Luther King was prepared to break the laws of his state in order to obtain equal rights for black citizens who were discriminated against and powerless, so Mandela made the same stand in his country.

The same principle is at stake when men and women stand against abortion. Like Martin Luther King, these individuals are sufficiently concerned about the lack of choice for unborn babies that they are willing to risk prison and being fined to help these helpless victims of someone else's choice.

Would Lana Pollack and Perry Bullard have urged stiffer fines and long jail terms for those who were protesting for the rights of black citizens in the 60's? I hope not! Would Lana and Perry have urged punitive fines or imprisonment for those who risked their very lives to help Jews escape from certain death in Germany?

Whenever individuals do not have firm principles to measure all their decisions against, they will be driven by their own motives and appear to be inconsistent to those who are driven by principle.

Margaret O'Connor,
State Representative,
52nd District.

To the Editor:

Why I voted to request county funding for the Portage and Base Lake Sewer and Water project through PA 185.

As the Dexter Township Clerk for over 20 years, I have tried to serve in the best interest of all of the people of Dexter township. It is undisputed that there is a need for the sewer system. The township has, with the aid of the Washtenaw County Health Department studied the problem for over three years and has concluded that a sewer system is needed to alleviate waste treatment problems. An engineering firm was hired to study possible treatment sites and it was concluded by the engineers and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources that the site on Stinchfield Woods Rd. was an excellent site for the treatment plant.

A referendum vote was held in November, 1989. The township voters stated that they did not want Dexter township to pledge its full faith and credit for the project. This made it necessary to seek an alternative method of financing. I voted to request the county to handle the financing through P.A. 185 without the township's pledge of full faith and credit.

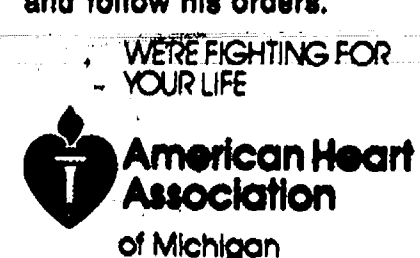

There has been a tremendous amount of heated debate on this issue and the township officials have been pressured and at times threatened with recall. I feel this project has been studied extensively and will be continually reviewed and improved. These studies along with D.N.R. acceptance of the plans insures the safety of all Dexter township residents. It therefore would have been both morally and fiscally irresponsible for me to do anything but vote yes to request county financing of the sewer system.

If threats of recall come to fruition I hope that the residents of Dexter township keep in mind that the elected officials are trying to serve all residents. A failure of this project can seriously hinder future sewer projects in other parts of the township.

William Eisenbeiser,
Dexter Township Clerk.

High Blood Pressure?

Only your doctor can tell. Like more than 10 million other Americans, you could have high blood pressure and not know it until it leads to stroke, heart or kidney failure. It has no special symptoms and often gives no warning. But your doctor can detect high blood pressure (he may call it hypertension) and usually control it. So see your doctor... and follow his orders.

Chelsea Readers: Stand Up and Be Counted for Library

Chelsea Public Schools and the McKune Memorial Library are sponsoring "March Is Reading Month." Our theme this year is "Stand Up and Be Counted," to coincide with the census. This will be a community-wide effort to encourage reading. Each school and McKune is initiating special activities to encourage students and adults to read.

At North, South, and Beach schools a stadium will be displayed. For every five titles submitted, a sticker will be placed in the stadium. Books read by other family members and friends can be submitted to the schools for McKune. McKune Library will ask patrons to write the number of books they have read on slips of paper each time they visit the library. The school tallies will be given to McKune Library on a regular basis so that their stadium can reflect totals of the entire Chelsea community. To see how many books our community can read in a month check it out at the libraries!

This is a golden opportunity for the community to emphasize the importance of reading and the pleasures it can bring.

McKune Library announced an "Afternoon Storytelling" program beginning Wednesday, March 7, for children 3rd grade and up. Storyteller Karen Chalmer will spin tales from 3:45 to 4:45 each Wednesday afternoon for all who would like to come. No registration is necessary.

"ELVIS" and several of his cohorts from the Chelsea High school faculty and staff performed a lively version of "Jailhouse Rock" during last Friday morning's pep rally in the high school gym. Elvis, also known as assistant principal Joe Rossi, has been kidded for his emphasis on discipline and class attendance, hence the choice of songs and attire.

Videos Help Farmers in Soil Conservation Work

A videotape featuring tips to help Washtenaw county farmers do much of the soil conservation work needed to keep them eligible for USDA program benefits is available from a number of loan points within the county.

The eight-segment videotape, "Conservation on Your Own," shows farmers how to measure and manage crop residue; how to lay out contour lines and use field borders; how to lay out contour buffer strips; points to consider in contour stripcropping; how to control small gullies; how to plant and maintain field windbreaks; and how to keep terraces working.

Each of the segments discusses points to consider before beginning, tools needed, how the practice works, and "how-to" details. The information is told to farmers from a farmer's perspective. It is intended to help farmers carry out basic soil conservation practices.

All of the segments, none of which will be longer than 10 minutes, are packaged on one VHS tape. The tape was produced by the Soil Conservation Service in co-operation with the National Association of Conservation Districts.

The videotapes are available for loan from the SCS office located at 6101 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor.

"We hope farmers in this county will take advantage of the tapes and written materials to do as much of their own soil conservation as they can," says Bill Fishbeck, chairman of the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District.

Farmers with highly erodible cropland who want to remain eligible for USDA commodity programs already have prepared conservation plans that outline how they will reduce soil erosion from that land.

The soil conservation practices included on the videotape have been chosen by many Washtenaw county farmers as ways to protect their highly erodible land. Farmers must complete the soil conservation practices outlined in their conservation plans by Jan. 1, 1995, to stay eligible for USDA program benefits.

"The tapes include basic information for anyone interested in taking better care of the land, but they will be especially useful for farmers who want to stay eligible for USDA programs," Gary Rinkenberger, district conservationist says.

The tapes were produced, Rinkenberger says, because many SCS offices do not have enough technical specialists to help all farmers complete their conservation work. More than 400 farmers in Washtenaw county need to install conservation practices on more than 41,000 acres within the next five years. The tapes will help farmers do many of the simpler practices on their own.

The tape may be purchased for $7.50 from the National Association of Conservation Districts, 408 E. Main St., P.O. Box 855, League City, Tex. 77574-0855 (telephone number 713-332-3402.)

'Friends' Report Library Week Is Big Success

Friends of McKune Memorial Library expressed their appreciation to the community for helping make "Love Your Library Week" a great success. The Friends welcomed the input and co-operation they received from area businesses, schools, and community members. The response from the community was so great it shows that we need more people to join the "Friends." $435 was raised through the raffle for an original watercolor of the library donated by local artist Ben Bower. Pauline Miller from Waterloo won the painting, and Grace McCalla, who resides in the village of Chelsea, received a black and white framed print of it as a second prize. An additional $198.06 was raised from the Winter Book Sale.

The "Friends" are a group who are interested in helping the library in many ways. Ideas range from raising money for building improvements, an outreach program for seniors, and helping to promote the library through activities such as "Love Your Library Week" and participating in the Fair Parade. McKune Library provides many wonderful services such as the Reference Service, local historical information, access to other libraries' collections through an Interloan Service, pre-school storytimes, and the Summer Reading Program and we feel the need to help the library board and staff in their endeavors. People are invited to join the "Friends" to help with these and other projects.

If you have a special interest, ideas to share, or would like to help with future plans attend a "Friends" meeting held at the Library on the first Wednesday of the month at 7:30 p.m.

If you are not interested in attending a monthly meeting but would like to help on special projects from time to time, contact the Library. We would like to create a community network that can help with projects that involve toddlers through Senior Citizens, whatever your special interest is.

Senior Aide Program Has Part-Time Jobs

Perhaps you or someone you know is 55 or over and looking for a way to brighten up his or her life.

Full-time employment is more than they can manage but they would like to work with people and a little added income would help out as well.

There is a wonderful program sponsored by Title V of the Older Americans Act which these people need to know about. Operated locally by Child and Family Services of Washtenaw, the Senior Aide Program pays these mature adults an average of $3.60 per hour plus benefits. They work 20 hours per week, gaining valuable job experience and references, should they wish to enter the job market at some point.

Right now, there are openings at the Chelsea United Methodist Home for two Senior Aides. Persons applying need to be able to push wheelchairs and to enjoy leading and participating in various activities with older people.

In order to qualify for the Senior Aide Program, one's income must be at or below $7,475 for a single person and $10,025 for a couple. Of course volunteers are always welcome at the Home as well. Many a volunteer has used his or her experience to qualify for a paid position at the Home or in the community.

Inquiries should be directed to Bonnie Halst or Connie Amick at 475-8633.

THE REVEREND MOTHER, played by Tammy Browning, and Fraulein Maria, played by Jennifer McAfee, talk during a scene from "The Sound of Music." Chelsea High school's musical play. Performances will be held Thursday, Friday, and Saturday in the George Prinzing Auditorium at the high school at 8 p.m. Tickets may be purchased in advance at Chelsea Pharmacy.

Kiwanis Club Asks Seniors To Host Service Club

Kiwanis Club of Chelsea has asked the Chelsea Senior Citizens organization if they would sponsor a Kiwanis Golden K Club in Chelsea.

The Golden K Club would be an extension of the Chelsea Kiwanis Club that would specifically meet the needs of retired people.

Meetings would be held one morning each week and focus on the service needs of Chelsea. The club will not compete with the Kiwanis Club or other Chelsea service clubs.

An organizational meeting will be held on Thursday, March 1 at 9:30 a.m. at the Senior Center at North school. Men and women are invited to attend.

Farm Bureau Takes On Another EC Trade Distortion

Farm Bureau has asked the U. S. Trade Representative's office to give the removal of variable levies on U. S. farm exports priority status in 1990. The variable import levy is widely used by the European Economic Community to protect a major portion of its agricultural production from foreign competition.

"The variable levy is one of the purest forms of import protection possible," said Al Almy, director of Michigan Farm Bureau's Public Affairs Division. "It ensures that foreign commodities, no matter how price competitive, cannot compete with domestic EC commodities. In addition to insulating the EC market from outside competition, the levy generates revenue which is then used to subsidize EC exports into the world market—exports made possible only because of the surplus production that results from high domestic prices protected by the variable levy."

Commodities subject to variable levies include wheat and wheat products, feedgrains, dairy products and most other livestock products.

"The effect of the variable levy on U. S. agricultural exports over the years has been profound," Almy said. "Exports to the EC have been maintained or increased only in products not subject to the variable levy."

Almy estimated that the effect of removal of variable levies on U. S. farm exports would be calculated in billions of dollars.

Hospital Plans Races in Village

"Heart and Sole 10K and 2 Mile Run-Walk" will be sponsored by Chelsea Community Hospital and Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce on Saturday, June 2 in the village and Lima township.

An estimated 30-50 people will take part in the two-mile run walk, which will start at the hospital, and proceed down Lincoln, Grant, Summit, East, Washington, Flanders, Wenley, Book, and Wood Sts., with the final leg on the hospital trail.

About 150 people are expected to run the 10-kilometer race, which will also start and end at the hospital and follow Main, Summit, and Washington Sts., as well as Freer, Trinkle, Fletcher, and Dexter-Chelsea Rds.

The hospital hopes to make the run an annual event.

Food Price Rise To Moderate in 1990

The U. S. Department of Agriculture this week announced that it expects domestic food prices to rise 3 percent to 5 percent in 1990, largely because of a decline in pork production and the severe December freeze in Texas and Florida fruit and vegetable areas.

However, the department said that ample supplies of most foods this year will keep the food price rise below the 1989 level of 5.8 percent.

If 25% of American homes used 10 fewer plastic bags a month, we'd save over 2.5 million bags a year.

Big Buck Official Hunt Is Underway

Commemorative Bucks of Michigan's 101 official measurers have begun their annual big buck hunt.

During this hunt which will last from now through March 15, no shots will be fired or arrows released at deer since this hunt is to determine the biggest bucks taken in Michigan's recently concluded deer seasons.

To make the hunt a success all hunters who took large antlered whitetail buck deer in Michigan's 1989 deer seasons are asked to participate in this no-cost big buck hunt. Lucky hunters should contact the nearest C.B.M. official measurer so their buck's antlers can be measured and a score determined based upon these measurements.

The measuring system used by C.B.M. measurers is the Boone and Crockett System which is also used to determine North American Big Game Records. C.B.M. is a non-profit Michigan corporation founded in 1981 to compile and maintain Michigan's Big Game Records. They are recognized as these record keepers by Michigan's Department of Natural Resources.

Based upon the scores compiled from this year's entries, winners will be determined and awards presented at C.B.M.'s annual Award Dinner on Saturday, May 12 at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center in East Lansing.

There are 24 deer classifications that will be recognized, provided qualifying entries are made in them.

In addition to deer awards, additional awards will be presented to hunters who took the largest Michigan bear and elk so these hunters are also encouraged to contact their nearest C.B.M. measurer.

For more information on this hunt for Michigan's biggest buck deer, bear and elk taken in 1989 for Commemorative Bucks of Michigan contact: Commemorative Bucks of Michigan, Inc., 3215 Old Farm Lane, Walled Lake 49088, phone (313) 689-4750.

DYSLEXIA

This is a condition that creates a great deal of confusion and anxiety. Parents frequently ask as if their child's eyes are the cause of their learning disability, and if there is anything we can do to improve their reading ability.

Dyslexia is a disorder of the brain in which "processing" of information is impaired. Usually the affected individual has difficulty recognizing written material, and may have trouble writing. More severely affected dyslexics may have difficulty understanding things said to them.

While the causes of dyslexia are not fully understood, we do know that it involves a brain defect, is not an eye problem, and that it may be hereditary. This brain defect does not affect intelligence, and the affected person may even be above normal in intelligence.

Symptoms of dyslexia include poor comprehension of reading material, poor performance on written testing despite adequate intelligence, slow reading or repeated reading of the same material, or reversing words of letters when writing. A child's inability to perform in school may lead to low self esteem, which may result in withdrawal or rebellion.

If parents suspect their child has a learning disability, they should inform the teacher or principal, who will arrange diagnostic testing. Children or adults with dyslexia can be helped by specifically tailored educational programs, and emotional support is needed to emphasize success in other areas.
