Auto Vandalized At High School

A Loeffler Rd. resident told Chelsea police that someone vandalized his car while it was parked at Chelsea High school on Thursday, March 1 between 12:30 p.m. and 3:10 p.m.

According to Chelsea police, someone apparently jumped up and down on the hood and caved it in.

Two suspects were questioned but denied any involvement.

Steele Ousts Satterthwaite From Presidency, Two Novices Elected Trustees

Village Trustee Richard Steele derailed Jerry Satterthwaite's bid for a fourth term as president in Monday's village elections.

Satterthwaite, who withstood a challenge by Steele two years ago by 39 votes, was defeated 198-279. A total of 486 voters went to the polls, a relatively large number.

In the race for three village trustee seats, incumbent Joe Merkel drew 353 votes, and newcomers Frank Hammer and Harry Myers, Jr. received 282 and 229 votes, respectively. Former village president Charles Ritter received 221 votes, to lose a seat by eight votes. John McKenzie finished a distant fifth with 145 votes.

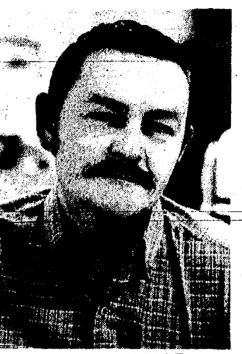

In the uncontested races, treasurer Katie Chapman received 407 votes, and McKune Memorial Library Board members Anne Belser and Susan Walter received 372 and 367 votes, respectively.

Steele will now be in the position to nominate someone to fill the remaining year of his term as trustee. That nomination would have to be approved by council. Tuesday morning Steele would not commit himself. However, two years ago, when he was potentially in the same position, he said he would nominate the person with the fourth highest number of votes. If he takes that route this year, Ritter would be nominated.

"I intend to have a nomination ready for the meeting after we are sworn in,'' Steele said. That should be Tuesday, April 3. Steele admitted he was surprised by the wide vote margin. "I really thought it would be a big

Laurie Honbaum Chosen Miss Michigan U.S. Teen

Former Chelsea Community Fair Queen Laurie Honbaum was crowned the 1990 Miss Michigan U.S. Teen on Saturday, March 10 at the Kalamazoo Center Hotel.

Honbaum, 17, a junior at Chelsea High school, is the daughter of Merritt and Arlene Honbaun.

Competition categories included interviews, evening gowns, modeling, leadership, community service, and scholastic ability. There was no talent portion. Seventy-two girls participated.

Honbaum will go on to compete in the National Miss U.S. Teen Pageant in Atlanta in August.

The pageant is 20 years old and recognizes outstanding young girls with scholarships, prizes, and career development opportunities.

Ninety-two percent of the girls in the contest have a grade point average of at least 3.5.

Honbaum received an engraved plaque for the over-all Leadership Award and recognition certificates for community service and scholarship. Her prizes included the crown, sash, flowers, cash, a trophy, gift certificate, photo session, and an allexpenses- paid trip to the national pageant.

Honbaum was sponsored by Chelsea Lumber Co., Dave Rowe Insurance, Vogel's Party Store, and Palmer Ford-Mercury.

LAURIE HONBAUM was crowned Miss Michigan U.S. Teen Saturday in Kalamazoo. With her is her long-time coach Rita Howard.

Pioneer Craft Fair Returns Saturday at Dexter High School

Winter has not been kind to anyone this year, so for a few hours put aside your chores, forget the housework and come out and enjoy the 17th annual Pioneer Craft Fair which will be presented Saturday, March 17 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Dexter High school. No, this is not "just another craftshow." The emphasis here is on the demonstration of crafts. Some of the demonstrators will have items for sale, but many of the people taking part in the fair donate their time and talents out of their love for a particular art form.

For all the graduates of the OLD Dexter High school, here is a news flash. Ben Bower did some ink sketches of the school and then had prints made. These will be at his booth for a very fair price. Bower will also be doing his usual fine job of demonstrating drawing using special colored pencils.

There will be "hands on" participation for the children.

Max Hesselgrave is a newcomer this year. Well qualified in the art of 19th century tinsmithing, Hesselgrave also teaches at Greenfield Village.

The lace making corner is always a fun spot to stop and browse. Jensen with her bobbin lace-making, Ole Carlson with his intricate knitted lace, Bea Christopherson will demonstrate the old craft of tatting.

Sherrie Cramer will join the fair with herbs. Nancy Cheresko will have doll furniture and show weaving of the chair seats, a very tedious task. Rose Muno will be on hand to demonstrate calligraphy. Don Larsen is going to work with barn wood again this year.

The teddy bears will be well represented this year with Jane Hough returning with her handcrafted bears and rabbits. Pat Murphy will have her unusual bears.

Don't miss this booth. It's always a great place to browse and chat with these talented ladies.

Another newcomer to the "quilting corner" this year will be Elanna Curningham of the Flat Rock area. Cunningham will have some small items for sale. Sally Smith of Dexter will have braided rugs to demonstrate. Val Campbell, always willing to stop and discuss her hooked rugs, will be with the fair again this year. Her demonstration will make you eager to get out your wool scraps and begin a

In the hallway will be some of the material from local historical societies. There will also be informational sheets concerning the quilt registry day that will be held at the museum in May. There will be a fibre display when the museum re-opens May 11 and 12 with more information

Thursday, March 11, 1976-Reports were many and varied concerning the ice storm that hit the Chelsea area as well as all of southeastern Michigan and other parts of the state. The storm which resulted in light to heavy damage of area landscapes was called the "worst" storm in 28 years. Ice laden limbs broke off, splitting the trunk sections of many large trees; and what appeared to be a winter wonderland was quickly marred that evening as area residents listened to the splitting and breaking of limbs.

Plans were underway for the developments of a "green island" on the site of the new Junior High school. The "green island" would serve as an outdoor laboratory and would be located on approximately 35 acres adjacent to the proposed building and the present high school. In addition to beautifying the grounds, the center would be designed for broad community use and to enhance the instructional program of the Chelsea schools, according to committee chairman, Mrs. Raymond Steinbach. The Chelsea Minister's Fellowship considered what a local Council of Churches could do for Chelsea. The meeting was at St. Paul United Church of Christ. The breakfast meeting considered the problems of scheduling anything of a religious nature in the important Lenten season. Two years ago the Lenten Series was scheduled for the Wednesdays of Lent, then last year it was changed to Thursdays because of the community criticism. Thursdays interferred with choir rehearsal and other community activities so that year a compromise was reached by having them on only two Sunday nights in Lent.

An expansion program which would greatly enlarge the size of the present Chelsea Products Division of Dana Corporation was planned. Although plans for the addition were not yet finalized, preliminary figures estimated an addition of more than 66,000 square feet to the present facility which would approximately double the size of the present plant. Included in the expansion program was to be the installation of new production equipment and complete rearrangement of the production facility.

Blanchard, Democrats Push Property Tax Cut, Business Tax Hike Plan

A $400 million plan cutting individual income taxes and limiting future property tax increases, offset by increased business taxes, is being rushed through the House by the Blanchard administration and House Democrats.

The plan, outlined for the first time just before the committee meeting. incorporates a circuit court decision which eliminated a business tax deduction while enriching a variety of income tax credits to individuals, implementing the governor's proposal to limit property tax assessments and giving a bigger break to small businesses.

The new proposal includes $22 million for Governor Blanchard's property assessment limitation plan, eliminating the need to squeeze that much money from the 1990-91 budget as he had recommended.

The total tax benefits for individuals in the package is $314 million, with small businesses getting a $30 million tax break. The other $56 million gained from the increased business taxes would go for local revenue sharing.

Blanchard said the plan closes tax loopholes and puts "property tax credits on the front burner."

Treasurer Robert Bowman said the assessment limit could stand on its own or without the business tax increase, but supported the committee action because "it gets the issue on the table."

He said the state's lawyers do not believe they can win the tax case in court, adding, "The issue is, then, how to best utilize that court-provided windfall."

He defended using the increased tax on businesses to cut individual taxes by noting the share of over-all state revenues provided by business has declined to 31 percent from 41 percent over the past two decades.

"If we're going to talk about cutting taxes, the first and foremost should be homeowners," Bowman said.

But the proposal was denounced as anti-business by business officials, who pronounced it dead on arrival.

And, Steve Young, State Chamber of Commerce manager of Taxation and Regulatory Affairs, said he was 'shocked" by Blanchard supporting the increased tax on business less than two months after he boasted in his State of the State message that Michigan would enter the 1990s with no new taxes.

The tax increase follows a circuit court decision, now on appeal to the Court of Appeals, disallowing the capital acquisition deduction available only to in-state companies, a tax benefit worth about $400 million a

Michigan Manufacturers Association President John Thodis was scathing in his reaction to the plan, calling it "one of the most negative signals to the business community I can ever recall. (It) is one of the most irresponsible and ludicrous messages the Legislature could send."

He said the credit, which he believes will be upheld on appeal, is "the only major pro-investment vehicle" in the business tax structure.

Expressing disappointment in the Blanchard administration, Thodis called "irrelevant" the arguments regarding the declining share of state tax revenue provided by business.

Young said the court decision is a "business community issue and should be resolved in the business community." He agreed that the appeals stand a good chance of losing, and suggested the state then cut the single business tax rate or revise the capital gains acquisition deduction to make it constitutional.

The assessment limitation plan. covering school operating taxes, reimburses homeowners where local assessment increases rise at a faster rate than inflation, with homeowners in other areas able to get some benefit as well if the state-wide average increase in taxable property value increases at a rate faster than inflation.

Speaker Lewis Dodak (D-Birch Run), in announcing the plan, said, "House Democrats want to ease the burden on Michigan taxpayers."

House Minority Leader Paul Hillegonds (R-Holland), who said he was surprised the governor is endorsing a business tax increase, credited Republican pressure to the property tax relief to a Detroit utility tax extension for the quick development of the proposal.

He said the caucus will probably follow the lead of GOP committee members in supporting the tax benefits but opposing the business tax

Aside from the assessment limit, other portions of the tax proposals for individuals include:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

There are times when Bug Hookum would rather climb a tree to tell a lie than stand on the ground to tell the truth. His old lady caught on early and broke him of the habit around the house. She told her church circle that she allus could tell when Bug was fixing to fib because he would swaller before he spoke and she could hear the swaller hit the bottom of the chair he was setting in. Natural, that word spread faster than if she had took a ad in the paper, so the fellers at the country store years ago took to cupping their hands to their ears when Bug begun handling the truth reckless. Bug onct announced at the store that he had proved there is nothing to that claim about oysters perking up a feller's love life. He told the fellers he eat a dozen fer supper two nights earlier and only three of em worked. So there was ear cupping all around Saturday night when Bug give a report on coffee. He had read where old folks that drink coffee have more active sex lives than them that don't. and he went to great lengths to tell what a coffee lover he is. The fellers weren't buying any. Zeke Grubb said he had improved on Bug's wife's sytem. You can tell when Bug is lying by watching his lips, he said. If they're moving, he is. It is true that Bug is old, Zeke went on, and it is true that he drinks more than his share of coffee. But the only thing coffee might do is help him stay awake through the 11 o'clock news, Zeke said, and he was of a mind that's about what it does fer everbody else.

General, said Zeke, the feller that said there are lies, dam lies and statics ought to of added studies. Like watching laws and sausage being made, Zeke said, a heap of what we learn from em we'd be better off without. And if half baked surveys ain't worrisome enough we are loaded down with facts we don't need. Fer instant, Zeke went on, with the hew and cry fer bigger letters in the new warning on alcohol beverage, Zeke went on, you'd think somebody would stand up and be counted fer smaller letters on what's in a jar of peanut butter that ain't peanuts.

The fellers general greed with Zeke. Clem Webster said good intentions pave a good many roads to places we got no business. Fer instant, Clem took note of Heartguide, a new public service of the American Heart Association. Fer a stiff fee it will test food and if the food passes the company can put the Heartguide seal on the package. Clem said the Food and Drug Administration is right to oppose it because it gives the public the idee that a seal means good food and no seal means bad food. The fact is, a company that makes good food might not want to pay the fee. Clem reported that one big food company said it-didn't want the Heartguide seal because it would give the impression that its products were the same as all products with the seal.

Practical speaking, Clem said, labeling has lost its meaning. Nobody knows any more what "light" means on somepun to eat or drink. It can deal with calories, color or texture, and another label can brag about all the vitamins and minerals while leaving out the part about the sait, sugar and

The same old truth is, Ed Doolittle said, folks that want to sell products find ways to accent the positive. The feller that pushed Castor Oil fer cough syrup told the truth. He said if you took enough you'd be scared to cough. Yours truly, tion day, the more I thought it would be very close," Steele said.

"I'm very pleased." Steele speculated that Satterthwaite's change of mind about running may have hurt him.

"Jerry's also served during some tough times," Steele said, referring to the landfill problems, times of big utility and service hikes, and businesses leaving the downtown Satterthwaite acknowledged that voters probably detected that his heart wasn't in a new term and that his first instincts about not running were probably right. He also said he might have been blamed by some for the recent rise in village property tax assessments.

"I'm not upset about it, especially as long as Charlie (Ritter) didn't get elected," Satterthwaite said.

"If I accomplished that much, that's enough. However, if council wants to appoint him, they'll have to live with him and that's their business."

Satterthwaite said he'll be available to consult with any members of council or village administration.

With a new president and three new trustees, village council will see one of its biggest changes in the last decade.

"There's going to be a lot of room for the trustees to get as involved in government as they want to be,"

"I expect them to be a very working council. There will be plenty of opportunity for everyone to throw in their two cents."

Half of the eight million people in New Jersey have run out of landfills and have to export their garbage to Pennsylvania and West Virginia. There it is greeted with the NIMBY watery, "Not in MY Back Yard!"

The odor of rubbish on New York's Staten Island attracts thousands of scavenging seagulls in a scene reminiscent of a Hitchcock horror movie. In the Atlantic Ocean, beyond our 12-mile international limit, garbage scows dump their cargoes at times and places where they will avoid confrontations with vigilantes from Greenpeace. Thirty-five hundred miles to the east, floating incincerators burn rubbish 100 miles off the coast of Holland.

West Germany has been exporting more than a billion pounds of trash a year to East Germany while land-poor Japan is managing to recycle half its solid waste. Families sort their rubbish into seven categories for pickup on separate days.

Nowhere, however, is the problem of solid waste disposal more acute' than in America. Our throwaway society generates twice as much trash as any other country in the world. The good news is that the United States does have acceptable solutions in sight but it may take most of the 1990's to achieve them. For a start we should begin with source reduction—not having so much trash to begin with. One way is to avoid products where the packaging results in more trash than its contents. Another is to avoid purchasing throwsway products in favor of ones that are re-usable.

Disappearing Landfills

Ten years ago there were 10,000 operating landfills in the U.S. Today there are 6,500 and the number is expected to shrink to 4,500 as facilities are exhausted or condemned. Chelsea's landfill facility consists of 80 acres, 19 of which have been used. Another cell of nine acres is due to go into operation. The new cell, like those of other modern landfills, will have a bottom of impervious clay or double liners of plastic. These will help to prevent seepage into the water table.

The cost of landfills is skyrocketing, not only because of more expensive contruction, but because of soaring prices for available land. Two years ago the National Solid Waste Management Association estimated the cost of building a 40-acre landfill at $16 million. By now it may be closer to $20 million. Investments like that may make municipal managers blanch. But that is the kind of money needed to render sanitary trash disposal service to a nation of 250 million people. Waste Management, Inc., the largest firm in the business, is estimated to have more than $3 billion in assets.

Regardless of who dominates the trash business, it is sheer madness to commit American land for the permanent burial of garbage.

Studies show that nothing in today's landfills decomposes easily. Paper products, organic materials and even food scraps are merely perserved in landfills and still recognizable decades after their burial. Recent excavations of some landfills have turned up newspapers buried 40 years ago that are still readable.

Fortunately, emerging technologies are making all but a small percentage of landfills unnecessary.

The EPA estimates the composition of trash collected from households. stores and commerical sources as follows:

Paper & paperboard......35.6% Food waste 8.9% Glass 8.4%

At present about 80 percent of this trash (amounting to 200 million tons a year) is sent to landfills. Ten percent is recycled and ten percent is burned in central incinerators.

Practically all of these materials are recyclable or burnable. By the year 2000 only five to ten percent of American's solid waste should require

More than 100 large incinerators, costing up to $100 million each, have been built and more are under construction. These furnaces, known as waste-to-energy plants, reduce trash up to 90 percent by volume and 75 percent by weight. They produce megawatts of electrical energy which are sold to public utilities.

Two problems accompany waste-to-energy operations. The first is air contamination. This can be prevented, at considerable expense, by treating incinerator exhaust vapors with equipment known as scrubbers. The second problem is that the burning process results in about 10 percent ash. When this residue proves to be toxic, it must be buried. Although the amount is but a tenth of the original waste, some landfill space must be set aside to accommodate it. Scientists are seeking a high-volume use for this unwanted substance.

Goal of Recycling

The first goal of recycling is to reduce the amount of land consumed by the burial of trash. Goal No. 2 is to recycle every bit of salvageable material, returning it to its original use or a new one. Some materials are interchangeable for burning or recycling. For example, when there is an oversupply of newsprint for recycling, it may be burned for energy.

Householders have shown (at least around here) that they are willing to exert a reasonable amount of effort separating trash into several categories. They have even demonstrated their willingness to sort and deliver trash to a central collection point such as Polly's. It is hoped they will find it convenient to deliver even greater quantities for recycling at Werkner Road.

As landfills close, recycling is going to experience intensive growth. Thousands of sorting companies, large and small, will find themselves vying for business in various specializations.

Paper, for example, will be sorted into newsprint, book paper, bond paper, paperboard, brown bags and so forth. Certain categories like coated paper or mixed papers will be burned. Metals will be sorted into separate lots of iron, steel, copper, lead, zinc and so on: In Michigan, with our container deposit law, we are already doing a great job with aluminum cans and glass bottles. Intensive industrial-type sorting will result in widespread employment. Fleets of trucks equipped with power take-offs will collect curbside trash and deliver it to sorting centers. Other haulers will head for the highways, making bee-lines to recycling and waste-to-energy plants. What about the long range future of Chelsea's 80 acres out on Werkner Road? The community has long been reconciled to its use for the disposition of waste. Since Chelsea and its neighboring townships will generate solid waste for all time to come, it makes sense to continue operations at Werkner Raod. Instead of burying our trash, however, we should put it to use with facilities for sorting area-wide trash, prior to recycling, and burning the rest in our own waste-to-energy plant.

Piano Students Take Part in Spring Achievement Testing

Nineteen local youngsters were among the nearly 350 plano students participating in Spring Achievement Testing, on March 10, at Eastern Michigan University.

The program offers systematic, graded music study in performance, instrumental technique, aural awareness (i.e. ear training), theory and sight reading for students on 10 levels. Its purpose is to ensure systematic procedures of instruction and a well balanced program for the student from elementary years up to college. Setting high standards for both student and teacher, it provides incentive for the student and an impartial check on the work accomplished by both during the year.

Participating students from the class of LaVonne Harris are Chris deSarbo, Keith Grifka, Kevin Grifka, Claire Isaaz, Nathan King, Kevin Klink, Kerry Lynch, Carey Schiller, and Corrie Schoenberg.

Students of Betty Rasmussen were Amelia Botsford, Sarah Broshar, Anne Frederick, Kristin Gaunt, Chris Grossman, Kimberley Grossman, Matthew Kennedy, Kyle Smith, Katle Wells and Ellyn Wheeler.

Hood Ornaments Again Objects Of Thefts in Village

The village was hit by another rash of hood ornament thefts between Tuesday, March 6 and Saturday, March 10, according to Chelsea

On May 6 an ornament was ripped off a 1965 Oldsmobile parked at Beach Middle school between 5 p.m. and 6:30

Wednesday, March 7 vandals hit the same location between 3:15 p.m. and 4 p.m. and removed an ornament from a 1977 Buick LeSabre.

Friday, March 9 a vehicle parked near Seitz's Tavern had its ornament removed between 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. Three thefts were reported on Saturday, March 10. The first one, between 4:30 p.m. and 5 p.m. occurred in the Municipal Parking Lot. A Pinckney man noticed the ornament missing from his Dodge Ram pick-up. Between 6:30 p.m. and 7 p.m., a 1984 Chrysler LeBaron lost its ornament in the alley off East St. Near 8 p.m. a 1985 Dodge Ram was relieved of its ornament in the same alley.

"Health Care Fraud"

Over the last few weeks, I focused on the federal court system finding the American Medical Association (A.M.A.) quilty of fraud, conspiracy to destroy the chiropractic profession, and monopoly.

This week the discussion turns to the court's finding a health care monopoly created and perpetuated by the A.M.A. This trade union for medical interests worked to suppress virtually every form of non-medical (drugs and surgery) health care. These include accupuncture, homeopathy, and especially chiropractic-to name just a few. At the same time they kept the relative number of medical doctors low. Through these tactics they created an effective monopoly.

With a lack of competition, costs (as well as dangerous therapies) spiralled; spiralled to the point that billions and billions of dollars are spent on health care. Still the U. S. has one of the worst over-all health indexes of any industrialized nation.

Along with this 2,000 people a week die from side effects of medication according to a Yale-Newhaven hospital study. Additionally 48,000 people a year die from complications of unnecessary surgery according to a John-Hopkins medical study. And still alternative, less dangerous, and less costly therapies are ignored!

Next week: Hope for a Better Futuré. Please address comments or questions to Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman, 138 East Middle Street, Chelsea, MI 48118 or call (313) 475-2088.

CONGRATULATIONS THOMAS F. DAULT

The Prudential Insurance Company of America would like to congratulate Thomas F. Dault for his truly outstanding accomplishments in 1989.

Since Tom started with the Prudential in April of 1989. Tom has achieved the Gold Record Club for outstanding new agent performance, has won the Gold Award for Multi-Lines selling, and led the State of Michigan in Property and Casualty. We realize that this could only have been accomplished by a lot of effort and hard work on Tom's part. Congratulations once again to Tom on an outstanding 1989.

Nature from Your Backdoor

By Glenn R. Dudderar It's that time of year again when I winter is affecting wildlife.

So far, in general, it hasn't been hard on wildlife. We've had an on again, off again winter, with the really severe weather coming at a time—December—when wildlife was well adapted to handle it. The next 30 days or so will be the critical period. however. Winter weather after March 15 can have devastating effects on wildlife.

migrating birds. The bluebirds, redwinged blackbirds and sandhill cranes will be arriving in large numbers fairly soon. Much of the naturally, available foods left from last year will have been depleted, and there won't be much new growth or large numbers of insects available for several weeks or more. If these birds hit a period of severe winter weather at this time, when they are physiologically gearing up for reproduction, their ability to reproducé or even survive may be in

Deer, too, can be hard hit by late winter weather. In December and January, deer are well adapted to handle cold temperatures and deep snow. But by mid-March they need to access to greater supplies of food. If start getting questions about how winter weather prevents that, survival and/or reproduction will be af-

Research has shown that, by late March, nut-caching squirrels will have dug up and consumed most of the acorns they buried or stashed last fall. With these stores used up, acorns disappear from their diet and they must switch to other foods. If ever squirrels are going to be raiding the bird feeder, it's in March and April.

For instance, consider the Because most natural food sources are depleted by this time of year, it's the easiest time to trap animals that have become problems or pests. A hungry groundhog, for instance, recently emerged from its winter sleep, is fairly easy to lure into a live trap with a bait of corn. Six weeks from now, with the abundance of food made available by the flush of early spring plant growth, the same groundhog will be a much more cautious and hard to catch creature.

You can see some of these relationships between weather, food and animal behavior at the backyard bird feeder in winter. The on again, off again pattern of weather we have experienced and the birds' response to it have revealed the relative importance of the feed we provide.

If you fill your feeder every time it's be able to move about more and have empty and keep track of how often that is, you have probably noticed that the amount of time the birds need to empty the feeder varies with the weather. In mild weather with little or no snow on the ground, it might take three or four days for the birds to empty the feeder. But in very cold weather with several inches of snow on the ground topped by an icy crust, the feed may disappear in a day. Part of the reason, of course, is that the birds need more food to fuel their bodies and maintain their metabolism. The other reason is that. during moderate weather with little snow cover, the birds can take greater advantage of natural food supplies. When seeds and fruits are covered with snow and ice, the birds turn to the feeder. When the snow melts and these stored foods become available again, the birds use them.

A study done in Maryland showed that birds there get more than half their food from natural sources rather than artificial ones (feeders) in winter. That research isn't directly applicable to Michigan because the birds in Maryland aren't subjected tothe prolonged snow cover and low temperatures common in a Michigan winter. The variable food consumption rates we see at our feeders suggest that something similar is going on here, however. When the weather moderate-more Maryland's-our birds rely more heavily on natural foods. But when severe winter weather locks up those natural food supplies-when the weather is more like what we expect for Michigan—the birds rely more heavily on our feeders.

Discovering patterns like this can sometimes uphold and other times discredit some of our beliefs about wildlife. For instance, it appears that birds are not quite as dependent on our feeders as we once thought. Advice given in the past about not starting to feed if you can't continue all winter is true only if winter weather is severe or continues well into March or early April.

That's when we need to be concerned about the effects of winter on wildlife-not in December or January, when it's supposed to be

Crowd Watches in Horror as Rescue of Deer on Ice Fails

A crowd of onlookers watched helplessly the evening of Feb. 27 as a deer struggled to get off the ice on Green Lake but eventually died of exhaustion, exposure, and perhaps even

The ice was too thin for a person to risk walking out on the ice to help the animal, said Glen Cutright, cruelty investigation officer for the Humane Society of Huron Valley.

The deer had apparently been chased onto the ice by a couple of big dogs belonging to nearby residents. Cutright speculated that when the deer ran onto the glare ice, it probably fell down and was attacked by the dogs. He could see blood on its coat. The deer eventually made its way to the middle of the lake, several hundred yards from shore, but reached a point where it couldn't stand up any longer. Every time it tried to regain its balance it fell down again. Cutright high heels.

Area residents, and curiosity seekers who stopped on M-52, watched in horror as the animal tried again and again to get up and walk off the ice. Some people were nearly frantic Cutright contacted Chelsea police, the Department of Natural Resources, and the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, none of whom could help. Local conservation agents weren't available.

"We were trying to procure a flatbottom boat so we could glide it out onto the ice," Cutright said.

"Even if we could have gotten to it and enthanized it, it would have been better than what eventually happened

Cutright was hampered even further when he discovered his cellular telephone wouldn't work in the remote likened it to trying to walk on ice in location, which meant every time he wanted to call an agency for help he had to go back into town. "From my point of view, it was a nightmare," Cutright said of the three-hour ordeal.

"We had limited equipment and it was such a visible rescue. It was also such a helpless feeling. We're not perfect and we can't make every rescue."

Some spectators wanted a helicopter to be used to airlift the animal. "People don't realize the cost involved," Cutright said. "It's also reserved for saving human life." Cutright said that if the dogs had still been near the deer when he arrived that they probably would have been shot. He said dogs are required by state law to be on a leash when they're not on their owners' property. That applies to dogs in the country as well. It is also illegal for them to attack wildlife, which is the reason they would have been shot.

"We found the owners of one dog and decided not to ticket them.

Cutright said. "They were very polite about it, and considering everything that happened, we thought they had been punished enough. But this wouldn't have happened if people had the common sense to keep their dogs on their own property."

Bulldog Tankers Finish Eighth in State Meet With Strong Team Effort

Chelsea Bulldog swim team lived up to its regular-season ranking by finishing eighth at the class B-C-D state meet last week-end.

The Bulldogs, with 48 points, finished just three points behind Southeastern Conference powerhouse Milan Big Reds.

Zeeland took the championship with 143 points, while Holland Christian was second with 133 points. Northview was third with 87.5 points, Alma and St. Joseph tied for fourth with 82, Coruna was sixth with 57 points, and Milan was seventh with 51 points.

Chelsea's 200 medley relay team of Brett Paddock, Garth Girard, Von Acker, and Wally Schmid, seeded third, finished third with a time of 1;41.56. That qualified the team for all-state honors.

"As each one of our guys hit the water it came alive," said Chelsea coach Dave Jolly.

"They were simply awesome." Girard joined Joe Huetteman in the 200 freestyle. Huetteman continued his fine season as he dropped .35 seconds, but failed to qualify for the finals.

"Joe gave us great hopes for next year," Jolly said.

Girard finished in 12th place, after being seeded 19th, with a time of 1:50.35.

Paddock was Chelsea's lone representative in the 200 individual medley. He was seeded 12th and finished 13th, although he dropped his time by 2.5 seconds to set a personalbest record of 2:05.62.

"Brett has the biggest heart," Jolly

"He always gives everything he has and we will miss his work ethic next

Senior Jamie Basso competed in diving after qualifying with an 11th place finish at the regional on Tuesday. He finished 22nd.

"Going into the state meet, Jamie was diving consistently and that's what it takes to place high at state," said diving coach Eric Burris.

"Jamie hit his first two dives and was sitting pretty good. However, going into the third and fourth rounds, he hit some turbulance. When you miss one dive at the state level someone else is right on your heels to take your spot," Burris said.

In the 100 butterfly, Von Acker entered seeded 14th, but finished fourth in the preliminaries and fifth over-all. He dropped 2.26 seconds off his best time to record a :54.86.

Rob Totten also finished on a high note as he placed 19th.

"What Acker did was nothing less than incredible," Jolly said. "I'm very proud of both Rob and representative in the 100 freestyle and fell a little short of making the field of 12 for the finals. He took 13th with a time of :50.36.

Girard was seeded ninth in the 500 freestyle and finished ninth as he dropped eight seconds to finish in

Paddock appeared to be snake bit again in the 100 backstroke as he finished 13th in the preliminaries. However, there was a scratch for the finals, which allowed Paddock to compete. He responded by swimming a life-time best of :57.38 for 10th place. In the final event for Chelsea, the 400 freestyle relay, Totten, Dirk Colbry, Joe Huetteman and Wally Schmid placed 10th after qualifying for state in their final meet of the regular season.

"It was a supreme effort," Jolly

"They really had to reach down to place.

Jolly said that placing among the top 10 teams is a "major accomplishment" for the Chelsea swim program. come for Chelsea swimming teams,"

Burg Unanimous Choice For All-SEC First Team

Chelsea seniors Brian Burg and Kyle Plank were named to the All-Southeastern Conférènce team in vote of the league's coaches. "I can't think of another year when we've had two first-team selections." said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond. Burg was one of two unanimous selections to the first team. The other was Milan's Kevin Wanty. No Buildogs made the second team, but jumor Kerry Plank and senior Chad Starkey made the honorable mention team.

Other first team selections included Pinckney's Jeff Carlson and Tecumseh's Jeff Thomas.

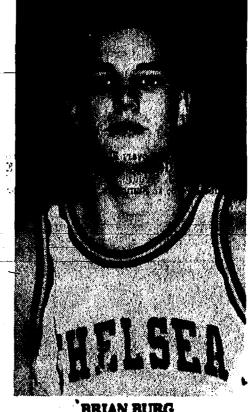

Perhaps the biggest surprise was that Tecumseh junior guard Andy Poppink was named to the second team.

"If I had to pick the league's most

Softball Meeting Slated March 27

An organizational meeting will be held Tuesday, March 27 for sponsors and/or coaches of men's and women's softball teams that plan to participate in the Chelsea Recreation Department's summer leagues.

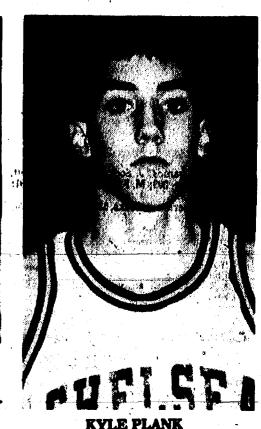

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High school valuable player, and I couldn't vote for any of our players, I would pick Poppink," Raymond said.

Others on the second team included Lincoln's Brian Laster, Dexter's Marty Walsh, Pinckney's Tom Reason, and Saline's Dan Roughton.

Burg averaged 19.3 points, 9.3 rebounds, and led the Bulldogs with 62 percent shooting from the floor.

Kyle Plank averaged 13.7 points, 6 rebounds, and four assists, and led the Bulldogs with 21 blocked shots and 17 three-point field goals.

Starkey averaged 14.4 points, 3.8 rebounds, and 3.8 assists.

Kerry Plank averaged 12.9 points, 8.7 rebounds, and had a team-high 57 steals. He also led in free throw percentage.

SPORTS NOTES

It took me the better part of a week to get over Cheisea's season-ending loss to Tecumseh in the first round of the district basketball tournament.

That tells me several things, one of which is that i'm probably becoming too much of a Chelsea basketball fan. I'd like to be able to watch the games with a little more objectivity, but the longer I watch the Bulldogs the harder that becomes.

I've found myself thinking about that game a lot more than I want to, going over all the "if-onlys." You know, things like if only Brian Burg hadn't gotten into foul trouble, if only Chelsea hadn't been called for a lane violation on a Chad Starkey free throw, if only the officials had asked for help to determine whether the clock had expired on the two buzzer-beating plays.

Admittedly, there was a certain amount of sour grapes involved. However, the biggest if-only was if only they had seeding in the tourna-

That would have meant, almost certainly, that Chelsea and Tecumseh would have met in the finals rather than in the first round. That may not have made any difference whatsoever as far as advancing to region play. However, Chelsea's season would have been one or two games longer and just that much more exciting. And it sounds so much better to say you lost in the finals rather than on opening night.

i don't think Chelsea has gone beyond the first round of district play in the five years I've been watching them. Most of those years they were pretty lousy, so it's really no surprise. But this year, they deserved to have a shot to be in the finals, just as Tecumseh deserved it. And obviously, by pairing the Bulldags and Indians in the first round, someone was going to make an early, and in my opinion, unfair, early exit.

The situation would have been just as bad if the Bulldogs had beaten the

There is no way a team like Dexter, a team that wasn't even close to .500 for the season, should be able to play one game against an equally so-so team, Brooklyn Columbia Central, and reach the finals. If there was ever an argument for seeding, that was it.

For whatever reason, the names are pulled out of a hat. Seeding could be an extremely simple process by using season records. In case of a tie for any position, as there would have been this year, use a coin flip. Two plays five, three plays four. Then the top seed gets into the fray the second night. Granted, that system has a few drawbacks, but in the end it's likely to be fairer to the good teams than the current system.

If you rank the teams by record this year, here's how this year's tournament shaped up. Number three, Saline, got a bye. Teams one and two, Chelsea and Tecumseh, or vice versa, played each other, and teams four and five, Dexter and Columbia Central, played each other. Then, to top it off, the winner of 1-2 plays 3 in the second game. It was almost the worst possible format.

Getting back to the game, it was just a horrible way to lose. It's a lot easier to accept losing by 10, as the Bulldogs did in Tecumseh, than to lose at the free throw line with no time on the clock. It would even been easier to accept a desperation field goal: It's a little like losing a baseball game in the bottom of the ninth inning on a walk when the pitch appeared to be in the strike zone. It was a game that should have gone into over-time.

It was also sad just to see the season end. This year's Bulldogs, especially the seniors, were a class act. They were skilled, worked extremely hard at both ends of the court, and were cool under pressure, not to mention a lot of fun to watch. Coach Robin Raymond said he never had a team that was as ready to play each game as this year's team was.

I, like many Chelsea fans, had been looking forward to this season almost since Raymond became coach, so that makes it even more difficult to let go.

Looking ahead, next year's team should be pretty good, anchored by Kerry Plank and Jon Royce, although it will probably be considerably shorter. It could even challenge for the Southeastern Conference title as a lot of the league's best players will be graduating. The development of Tucker Steele, Jude Quilter, Chris Haugen, and Jeremy Stephens before next season will be a big part of the story.

Raymond said that for the foreseeable future, a .500 season will be considered sub-par. There's talent at all levels, right down through biddy basket-

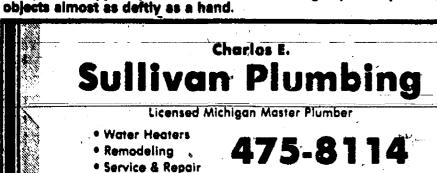

"We've seen tremendous improvement among the kids in biddy basketball," Raymond said.

"For instance, their ball-handling skills have improved dramatically. So the future of Chelsea basketball looks bright. And, I guess, that helps to take some of the sting out of the end of the season.

Legislature Passes Pat-Down Search Bill of O'Connor's

Pat-down searches of visitors at Michigan correctional facilities must be conducted by a member of the same sex, under legislation passed by the Legislature this week, State Representative Margaret O'Connor announced.

House Bill 4686 requires all corrections officers conducting searches to be of the same sex as the person being searched. The bill also states that if the necessary personnel is not readily available, a visitor at his or her option may sign a "search waiver" provided by the Department of Corrections.

The legislation was prompted by complaints from female visitors who claimed some male corrections officers were using the pat-downs as a form of harassment.

"Prison visits can be traumatic enough. Friends or relatives should not be subjected to the indignity of pat-down searches by corrections officers of the opposite sex," O'Connor said. "This bill eliminates that concern and will give visitors more digni-

The bill now goes to the Governor for his signature.

High Blood Pressure Linked to Kidney Disease

High blood pressure is responsible for 25 percent of the cases of chronic kidney failure. When high blood pressure is kept under control, the risk of kidney failure is reduced. People who exercise regularly and keep their weight down have less chance of developing high blood pressure. March is National Kidney Month. For more information about high blood pressure and kidney disease, contact the National Kidney Foundation of Michigan at 1-800-482-1455.

Boys Track Team Has New Coaches

Two former members of the University of Michigan track team have been hired to coach the Chelsea Bulldog boys this spring.

Chelsea resident Tim Jennings has been hired as the new coach, replacing Ted Wilson.

Jennings was a field events specialist while at U-M.

Jennings' assistant will be Dave Meyer, a former Wolverine distance runner.

Both men are self-employed. In another coaching change, Chelsea High school teacher John Capper has been named boys tennis coach. Capper is an avid player and his son is on the team.

The rest of the spring coaching staff remains the same. Wayne Welton is the varsity baseball coach and is assisted by Akel Marshall. Jim Ticknor will coach the junior varsity team, and Mike Bohlender has the freshman squad.

Pat Clarke is the varsity softball coach, and Ken Sullins returns as the junior varsity coach.

Bill Bainton, assisted by Bert Kruse, will coach the girls track team.

Loren Winn is the girls golf coach. Dave Brinklow and Ann Schaffner will coach the Beach Middle school track teams.

DONALD SCHOENBERG, Supervisor

Dated: Feb. 24, 1990.

Dear Editor:

Having witnessed what has been happening in Chelsea for the past year I feel compelled, as a resident of the community, to make my concerns known. As a planner working with counties, cities, villages and townships over the years I have observed almost every problem which can befall a community. One that is happening with alarming regularity and is very difficult to correct is the deterioration of a community's downtown area. It is ironic that once the downtown is in serious trouble communities spend huge sums of money and energy trying to bring it back but do nothing when it is starting to breakdown.

With the development of two shopping malls on the outskirts of town. the deterioration of our downtown is already starting to take place as evidenced by the loss of a grocery store, a hardware store, and the recent move from downtown by the Chelsea Pharmacy which has been the severest blow of all to date.

It is certainly not too late for us to do something to assure that our downtown remains a viable and pleasant place. But action by village officials, downtown merchants, and citizens must be taken right away.

Village officials must develop more parking downtown and co-operate with the Downtown Development Authority in the implementatin of the downtown plan which was prepared a few years ago. The downtown merchants must get their act together and establish competitive hours of operation and take a united stand on the implementation of the downtown plan.

Many downtown owners have made huge investments in the restoration of their buildings. Foster's, Vogel's, Johnson's How-To, and the Sylvan Building to name a few. The downtown merchants over the years have contributed much to our town. From the gifts for ladies day at the fair, to the high school yearbook and church bazaars they have continued to donate to our many causes and we should not turn our backs on

Most of us stayed here or moved here because Chelsea exemplified small town America with its beautiful neighborhoods and viable, diversified downtown. We must not let it become just another mall dominated suburban area oriented totality to the automobile.

Dear Editor and Friends, We should be proud of the young people in our community. On Monday, Feb. 12, more than 50 children par-ticipated in a "Historical Lesson" for the Senior Citizens of our community.

These children from South school were very well-behaved despite the warm, small space in which to per-

On Wednesday evening, Feb. 14, seven young people from the Beach Middle school displayed their projects. These persons used very good manners as they discussed their information with visitors.

The young people who enjoyed the "overnight" on Friday, Feb. 16, were well-behaved also.

Chelsea can be proud that our young people are being trained and encouraged to be good citizens and care about other individuals!

Thank you, young people. Sincerely, A member of the community.

To the Editor.

During a recent shopping day in Chelsea, I had the pleasure of being assisted by a disabled employee of one of the stores where I often do business. The service I received was prompt and courteous and given with more enthusiasm than usual.

I applaud all of the employers who are willing to hire an individual based on that person's ability to perform a job, and not on outward appearances. People with handicaps comprise a large and eager work force worthy of gainful employment, and I encourage more businesses to become true examples of equal opportunity. Kathy Kentala.

Dear Editor:

I am writing this letter concerning our town of Chelsea. What are people doing to our town? If they keep it up, our beautiful great town will be a ghost-town. Why not leave the parking like it is? I've lived here on Main St. for 18 years, and we have always parked down by the railroad in that parking lot. I know people can see since the drug store moved, and the other two stores went out of business. there are lots of parking spaces. Don't drive people out of town. We have a great town, and great people here, so think about it.

Mrs. Adeline Carpenter.

We want to give a very special and well deserved thank you to a couple of great and giving people—Marcy Bobo and Coach Mike Walton.

Without these two people, Chelsea Junior High Bullpups would not be an undefeated team for the past two years in wrestling dual meet competition. In fact, we would not have had a team for the past three years!

Three years ago, we were down to the wire with no coach—Marcy Bobo stepped in to coach a very successful year. During the past two years, Marcy has assisted Coach Walton, making sure that the sound equipment and mats are in place for each meet, she keeps score, orders pictures taken, shirts and sweatshirts orders, writes and prints information letters, etc.

These last two years, Mike Walton has been our coach, teaching our boys team work, being a good winner, (and more important to be good losers), teaching useful moves and countermoves. Mike has no children of his own in wrestling and he certainly doesn't do it for the money, the hours that he puts in every week-day and then on Saturdays at tournaments, the pay isn't enough. Mike does this for the love of the boys and the sport.

We as a community, owe these two our greatest thanks, not our criticism for a job very few, if any are willing to give the time to do.

Geriatric Assessment Unit Offers Help for Problems of Elderly

University of Michigan Family Practice Center at Chelsea is proud to offer a special team of professionals dedicated to the elderly. The Geriatric Assessment Team is designed to provide in-depth, comprehensive evaluation of older adult patients. Goals of the team are to help older persons maintain their independence and to promote and maintain op-timum health; in short—high quality

The team consists of a physician, nurse practitioner, social worker, pharmacist, and nutritionist. The evalution is performed during a home visit and two- to three-hour appointment at the Family Practice Center. The Center participates fully with Medicare, which covers most of the

The types of problems that would benefit from the Geriatric Assessment Unit (GAU) include memory or confusional difficulties, complicated medical problems including use of multiple medications, and difficult social situations such as need for a schange in living arrangements. As a result of the evaluation, a letter summarizing the team's findings and recommendations is sent to the pa-tient's regular physician to provide assistance in future care.

Interested persons may contact Diane Parisho, Monday through Thursday, at 475-1321, ext. 430, for more information.

If all consumers raised the setting on their air conditioners by six degrees, we could save 190,000 barrels of oil every day. Switching your air-conditioner to a colder setting will not cool your room any faster and will waste energy. Cleaning or replacing your air conditioner filters once a month will consume less electricity.

Jeff Layher Wins Truck in Promotion

A Chelsea auto parts jobber with a penchant for effective merchandising drove off in style in a 1990 Ford Ranger Pickup presented by SK Hand Tool Corp., of Chicago, Ill.

Jeffery Layher, owner of the Parts Peddler Auto Parts, serving Chelsea, Ann Arbor and the surrounding area. won the vehicle as the grand prize in SK's recently completed Delivery Truck Sweepstakes, a seasonal promotion in which tobbers and retailers from throughout the country qualified by ordering popular socket set merchandisers.

I. Ray Forte, SK's president and chief executive officer, selected Layher's entry from hundreds of qualifying names. Ten jobbers won valuable second prizes—SK's 342-piece Master Set of tools with a retail value of $3,200. Twenty-five third-place winners received prize packages of five "Flying Tiger" SK lackets.

Layher received his prize vehicle in presentation ceremonies involving Mike Miller, SK's vice-president of marketing, and Ed Kay, principal of K-Tool, Wixom based distributor for SK, which sold the Fall Promotion Merchandiser to Layher.

Layher said the Ranger will double as a delivery vehicle for his company and, occasionally, his family. Layher, and his wife Karen, are the parents of twin daughters.

Miller observed that it was fitting that the Ranger winner in the national sweepstakes hails from Michigan, within 60 miles of Ford headquarters. SK Hand Took Corp. is a major manufacturer of professional hand tools used by mechanics.

WHAT IS THE SOUL?

--- (part-3)-

Continuing our study on the soul from two weeks ago, we looked at various scriptures that gave us a detailed understanding on what the soul really is. In review, we defined soul, by the scriptures, and the literal meaning of the word, as being a living creature, a possessor of life, or life itself. SOULS ARE NOT IMMATERIAL! In the one book of Leviticus we see the characteristics of souls are quite different to the traditional considerations that are given: A soul can sin through ignorance.

A soul can sin. A soul can touch an unclean thing, A soul can pronounce with his lips.

A soul can eat flesh of a sacrifice. A soul can be cut off from his people. A soul can eat blood. A soul can be destroyed.

A soul can be smitten by a sword. Josh, 11:11 The above references can be found in Lev. 4:2, 5:1, 2, 4, 7:18-21, 17:12,

23:30. The soul is not a part of man, the soul is man. The characteristics mentioned above were all things that men/women did, not an immaterial part of the body that possesses life and dwells within man, in Num. 9:6-7, 10, reference is made in these three verses to the body of a dead man. The Hebrew word from which the phrase is taken is the same word translated "soul" in 428 other places in the Old Testament, This, in short, tells us that when a person dies he becomes a dead soul. Even animals are considered as souls, for do they not possess life as well? Gen. 1:21, 24 uses the phrase "living creature" in describing the animals. This too is the same word which is

Covenant Church Installs New Pastor

The Rev. Siegfried Johnson was installed Sunday, March 11, as pastor of Covenant church. Robert Koch, president of the Church Council, presided over the installment service.

The Rev. Johnson and his family are natives of Arkansas. They moved to Ann Arbor in 1985 when the Rev. Johnson entered graduate studies at the University of Michigan in Near Eastern Studies. He holds a B.A. from Central Baptist College in Conway, Ark., an M.Div. from Mid-America Baptist Theological Seminary in Memphis, Tenn., and an M.A. from the University of Michigan. He is presently a Ph.D. candidate at the U... of M. During the past four years, the Rev. Johnson has worked as Administrator of the First United Methodist church of Ann Arbor.

Philippine Expert To. Speak at St. Paul Church

George Baladjay of Lansing, will the Adult Forum of St. Paul United Church of Christ on Sunday, March 18. His presentation will follow a light lunch after morning worship, and conclude by 1:30 p.m.

Baladjay was a lawyer in Sebu, The Philippines, the second largest city in the country. He was involved with church leadership roles both locally and nationally, serving as the elected chair of the General Assembly, United Church of Christ of the Philippines (1982-1986), the first layperson to hold that position. As a lawyer, he served in Trade Union work, and organized several labor unions. He also served as city manager of Sebu, and was elected to the city council, the only Protestant member in a city that is 98% Roman Catholic.

He is a member of Edgewood UCC speak about the problems and of Lansing, and serves as chair of the challenges of the Philippine Islands at Board for Church and Society. He also chairs the Michigan Governor's Advisory Commission on Asian/Pacific American Affairs. He is employed as a Department Analyst, Administration Services Bureau, Michigan State Police, Lansing, working in the budget office.

The forum will deal with the current political and social situation in The Philippines. Baladjay has spoken frequently throughout Michigan in various panels and forums, and is a recognized voice when dealing with the intricate problems and challenges facing both The Philippines and American interests there. The public is invited to the Forum, at no charge. A donation may be given for the light lunch, served by members of the Forum Committee, Dept. of Christian Education, St. Paul church.

Icy Roads Force Cancellation Of School Last Friday

Chelsea School District students Should school be postponed again had to suffer through their third snow this winter, the day will have to be day of the winter last Friday, much to tacked on to the end of the year, the chagrin of superintendent Joe Piasecki said.

Actually, icy roads were the culprit. "Sally (Proctor, transportation supervisor) called me early and said 'we've got a problem.' '' Piasecki

"We went out and drove some of the back roads and it became obvious that we would get a lot of buses stuck." By contract, June 5, the half-day scheduled as a records day for teachers, will now become the makeup day. State law, Piasecki said, allows one-half a day to count as a full day when it comes to make-up days.

Kristina Steffenson

Named Albion Fellow Kristina D. Steffenson, daughter of Drs. Dan and Carol Steffenson was named an Albion College Fellow following the end of the fall semester.

The designation of Fellow is Albion's highest academic honor. A student must maintain a 3.7 grade point average for three successive on-campus semesters and successfully complete four units of credit during each of those semesters.

Steffenson is a junior and a graduate of Chelsea High school.

Cribbage Tourney Has Largest Field

A record number of 42 players is competing in the annual Chelsea Cribbage Tournament, which opened Tuesday, March 6.

This year the tournament is using the universal format for tournament established by the American Cribbage Congress. Game-point ties are broken by spread points. For example, a person who wins a game gets 10 spread points, and a person who loses a game by 20 points gets -20 spread points.

The tournament consists of three nights of 10 games against 10 different players for each participant. The top eight will then compete for four places and prizes.

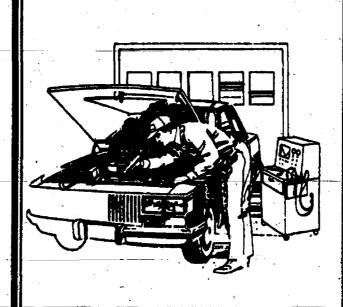

VFW Post No. 4076 donates their hall and furnishes coffee. Entry fees purchase the prizes and the remaining proceeds are donated to the VFW for use by needy veterans and families of veterans. Organizers are VFW post members Fremont and Duane Boyer, and VFW Auxiliary member Gini Boyer.

Everybody's Science

★ Pollution-Fighting System Is Safe for Crops, Animals By Vince Mazzola

A way for coal-burning power plants to reduce pollution has another payoff—it produces a by-product to help the soil on farms and strip mines, according to a 10-year study at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Technology gained from this study also could be used to develop electric generating plants that burn garbage without polluting the air. This might put an end to ocean dumping of wastes and be a boon to municipalities that are hard-pressed for landfill sites.

That by-product supplies gypsum and various essential plant nutrients: sulfur, calcium, magnesium, -potassium, phosphorus, iron. molybdenum, boron, copper and zinc.

Small amounts of toxic heavy metals like cadmium also are in the residue. But, "we found no unsafe levels of harmful substances in soil or plants," said soil scientist William L. Stout of USDA's Agirucltural Research Service. Cows and sheep had safe levels from eating forage grown on the land and the same was true for pigs fed corn, wheat, soybeans, fruit and vegetables.

"Our tests showed that the residue is best used as a liming agent to lower soil acidity," Stout reported. Gypsum gives the residue an advantage over lime by making near-microscopic particles of clay unite to form granules. He said the spaces between the granules give water and fertilizer better access to roots.

He said a new manual prepared by ARS researchers explains how to make sure that toxic contents in the residue and soil are within safe limits. All farm uses of the residue must be approved by the U.S. Environment Protection Agency.

About 70 U.S. power plants now use the pollution-control technology called atmospheric fluidized bed combustion. It removes acid-forming oxides of sulfur that are the major contributors to the formation of acid rain. said Stout at the U.S. Regional Pasture Research Laboratory, University Park, Pa.

Crushed coal and finely ground limestone are suspended or fluidized by jets of air and burned at a controlled rate and temperature, he said. Sulfur from the coal reacts with calcium in the limestone to form gypsum, calcium oxide and some heavy metals. Stout said the residue could be used in roadbeds and as an aggregate in cement and building blocks.

The studies were supported over a 10-year period by the U.S. Department of Energy and the Tennessee Valley Authority's National Fertilizer Development Center.

Participants in the investiture will include Judge Kenneth Bronson, who will become presiding judge in District 14A-3 courtroom on March 19; Ann Comeau, president of the Chelsea school board and vice-president of the Washtenaw Intermediate School District board; and George Parker, magistrate in District Court 14A-1.

A reception will immediately follow the investiture.

Other investiture ceremonies are scheduled for 11:30 a.m. in Ann Arbor where the Honorable Dennis W. Archer, Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court, will preside and for 2 p.m. in Ypsilanti where the presiding judge will be the Honorable Charles L. Levin, Justice of the Michigan Supreme Court.

The Ypsilanti investiture, the last of the three ceremonies, will be followed by a general reception at Paesano's Restaurant at 3411 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, from 4 to 7 p.m.

Everyone is invited to come and meet Nancy Francis at any of the events planned throughout the day on March 19.

Francis' name is not new to Washtenaw county. She ran for the Circuit Court 1988 coming in first out of four office seekers in the August primary and garnering 48% of the vote in November. Francis will be the first Black judge in Washtenaw coun-

Letters to the Editor,

Mr. Editor:

As human beings we have an endless need to love and be loved. Thousands of books are written and printed each year and extra-ordinary royalties are reaped by authors of love story after love story. With your permission, Mr. Editor, let us share an extra special love story, one that never grows old, and is as fresh the last time we read it, as, it was the first time werelived it.

The beginning came upon a Christmas Eve with His birth. For 33 years this lover of all mankind gave meaning, genuine meaning to the word "love." The last three years of those 33 years He spent healing, teaching and making miracles happen. Gave sight to the blind, and hearing to the deaf, as the lame walked. This lover of all mankind, forgave sinners and raised the dead. So what crime was his that He should die upon a cross?

He had a mission, this great lover. It was to open heaven's gates for you and me. Yet the world knew him not. and even His own rejected him, as yet even today.

We come together as Christians during these 40 days of Lent beginning with Ash Wednesday, as a period of time to unite with Jesus. To walk in His steps, each day. To relive the greatest love story ever told, by following the gospels of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. Written in the most sold, most read book ever printed, and one that lasted through these 1990 years, the Holy Bible. This is a Jesus to get excited about!

Lent is a time of preparation for each of us. Self reflection, growth and yes, spiritual improvement. Lent will be what each individual makes of it, and how much of themselves they put into the preparational season.

We grow through self-denial of the everyday pleasures we indulge ourselves in. From candy, treats, food, for some alcohol, TV viewing is lessened, or given up entirely. All this for renewal of person and reestablishing a missing characteristic in human behavior these days, self control.

Giving up of things is not all there is to walking in Jesus' foootsteps through Lent. We also "accenuate the positive," too. Simple acts like a smile given to another when smiling is not the mood of the moment. An unwritten letter sent. A reaching out and touching someone ill, alone, or homebound. Cooking the family's favorite dinner when you would rather eat cake, or out. Taking the ordinary "hum drum" tasks of each day and doing them just a little bit better. Praying more often. Taking a few moments each busy day and talking with Jesus. Lent means to take a hard look inward on ourselves and then turn the soptlight outward to others. A changing from selfishness to self-less-

Do you know each time one reads the life of Christ as related by Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, there is a new lesson that fits us today, no, right where we are?

One only need to reflect as Jesus submitted Himself to betrayal, arrest, put in prison, trial before judges, scouraging at the pillar, being spat upon, a crown of thorns was placed on His head. A wooden cross on shoulder so heavy that the wood weight wore Jesus' flesh to the bone. He walked the long painful way to Calvary. There stripped of His garment He was nailed to the very cross he carried.

Jesus knows all our human feelings and fears. Was like us in all things with the exception, that Jesus never sinned. As one looks upon Jesus' crucifix, somehow all our human everyday problems, pains and anxieties melt away. All because of this one solitary life of Jesus Christ.

I asked Jesus, "How much do you love me, Lord?" and Jesus said, "This much." Then He stretched his arms upon the Cross and died for me! For some the crucifix is a stumbling block, but for Christians the crucifix is a triumph of "Christ our King." The strife is over-the victory won! It was upon His cross that Jesus fulfilled the will of His Father and in doing so, opened heaven's gates for you and me, on Easter morning. A new beginning, a new Life. Liken to the springtime of the season.

So too, in each of our lives there must be a "Good Friday," before we can know the endless joys of Easter. Take heart and rejoice in the Good News!

A Blessed Easter to each and everyone, Alleluia, Amen. Millie Warner.

The Uproar Over Social Security

By Philip C. Clarke As most Americans unhappily discovered in January, their paychecks suffered a bigger than ever bite by FICA—the Federal Insurance Contributions Act—otherwise known as the Social Security system. For employers and employees alike, the FICA withholding tax is now 7.65 percent, or more than three times the rate of 20 years ago. Today, the combined FICA deduction of 15.3 percent exceeds the regular income tax for three out or four taxpayers.

Nonetheless, polls have indicated that a majority of taxpayers is willing to grit its teeth and accept the ever larger FICA bites in the belief their contributions are piling up in a Social Security Trust Fund, waiting to underwrite their future retirement checks. Indeed, last year's surplus in FICA collections over payments totalled a whopping $52 billion.

But what most Americans have not known is that these FICA surpluses actually have been diverted to the government for its current operations and to help hold down the size of the federal budget deficit. Instead of accumulating a lot of cash. FICA's surplus consists mostly of a stack of U.S. Treasury bonds, in effect IOU's to be redeemed later as needed. It's not necessary to read anyone's lips to guess where the money will have to come from to pay off all these IOU's.

Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan, the liberal Democrat from New York, has generated a political storm on Capital Hill with a proposal to roll back the lastest FICA increase-something he calls "thievery"—and to return the Social Security system to a pay-as-you-go basis. Moynihan, who is chairman of the Senate Finance Subcommittee on Social Security, has won considerable bipartisan support. The conservative Heritage Foundation calls the current FICA assessment a "stealth tax" and backs Moynihan all the way. President Bush, for his part, strongly opposes any cutback in Social Security levies. "This is an effort to get me to try to raise taxes on the American people by the charade of cutting them, or cut benefits," Bush told reporters. "And," he added, "I'm not going to do it." As the White House argues, the Moynihan plan is a Democratic ploy to force either a cut in Social Security benefits or an increase in other kinds of taxes.

The politics involved are pretty clear. As one administration official put it, "You've got people who are tired of paying Social Security. And you've got a Congressional election year. You've got a match, and you've got gasoline."

Besides politics, there also is a lot of public confusion over what really is at stake. The Wall Street Journal says it's a myth to believe that the Social Security Trust Fund will have the money to pay retired "baby boomers" because it's running a big surpluses now. In reality, says the Journal, "the IOU's in the Trust Fund represent nothing more than a promise by the government to tax or borrow enough in the future to make Social Security payments."

According to Stephen Moore, the Heritage Foundation's expert on federal budgetary affairs, "the best way for Congress to protect the solvency of Social Security in the next century is through a pro-growth tax policy. Part of this is the payroll tax cut recommended by Moynihan, Part of this is the capital gains tax cut urged by President Bush. And part could be by other tax reforms, like expanding Individual Retirement Account eligibility" to encourage savings and investment.

Moore contends that the Social Security tax never was intended to finance the federal deficit or to pay for any program other than Social Security. And he argues that "if the FICA tax is reduced to the level needed just to cover Social Security spending-and all other federal programs are frozen at 1990 levels-the budget can be balanced by the year 1994."

WE'RE HURTING.

Saving lives can be very expensive. The costs of our disaster relief and other humanitarian programs keep mounting. And we can't afford to come up short.
