Trash Hauling Contract Is Oasis in Desert Of Big Landfill Costs

Chelsea Village Council has approved a new one-year trash-hauling contract for $83,976 with Marshall's Rubbish Removal.

The contract, approved last Tuesday, was not increased from last year, and will likely have the effect of maintaining the status quo for another year.

Under the contract, village residents are being restricted to two bags of garbage twice per week rather than the previous three bags. That restriction, village officials say, is not likely to be a hardship for the majority of village residents.

It's also likely, though not guaranteed, that village trash service will continue to cost residents $12 per month until next November. Rates were doubled from $6 last year. There have been three increases since 1983.

when the charge was boosted to $4. According to Solid Waste Committee Chair Frank Hammer, "our intent is not to keep raising rates."

However, Hammer also said the village faces "an uncertain future," with regards to several potentially expensive matters involving the village landfill.

The village and Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships have still not come to an agreement about splitting more than $800,000 in costs for closure of the old landfill, which consisted primarily of hauling in thousands of yards of clay to cap it. How that situation is worked out could have a major impact on how costs will be shared for monitoring the old landfill for 30 years as well as cleaning up purported groundwater contamination.

Although the village knew the old landfill would have to be closed, no money was set aside for the project.

"I don't think the village anticipated costs would be so big," Hammer said.

"Because of DNR requirements placed on the old landfill, the village has some enormous costs to cover without extra money in the landfill accounts."

The village is also absorbing costs associated with the new recycling program. Materials collected have generated almost no income while some equipment has been purchased. The village is using its own employees to operate the program.

Half of the current $12 fee is being used to defray some of the costs associated with closing the old landfill. The other $6 is what is needed to run the current landfill, as well as haul the trash away, said village manager Robert Stalker.

However, village collection rates could be substantially higher. This year, for the first time, the village is (Continued on page four)

Many Brave Cold To Watch Vets Parade

The annual Veterans Day parade, co-ordinated by the Washtenaw County Council of Veterans, was held in Chelsea, Sunday, Nov. 11.

Veterans and military units throughout the country, in addition to the Chelsea school bands, and several Scouting groups participated in the parade.

Minutes before the start of the parade, snow flurries made a sudden appearance in Chelsea, and winds were brisk as marchers braved the chill to honor the nation's veterans.

The citizens turned out in large numbers, lining either side of the parade route, showing their own personal method of respect as the flag passed.

The reviewing stand, past which each parade unit marched or rode, was set up in front of the UAW Hall on Main St., where Larry Stalker identified each unit as it appeared.

When the parade disbanded, participants returned to the UAW Hall for refreshments and to renew friendships before everyone began the homeward trek.

Margaret O'Connor Wins By An Eyelash, DuRussel Elected Commissioner

State Rep. Margaret O'Connor, 52nd district, won a narrow victory over Democratic challenger Jim Douglas, 15,119 to 15,079.

Manchester potato farmer Mike DuRussel, who whipped incumbent Ellis Pratt in the Republican primary for district 1 county commissioner, beat Milan Democrat Marcia Hancock 5,222 to 3,536. District 1 stretches all the way from Chelsea to Milan.

County commissioner Marty Straub of Dexter township ran unopposed.

Republican Bill Van Riper ran unopposed for Lima township supervisor as did Geraldine Reith for Lyndon township treasurer.

In a key vote in Scio township, residents overwhelmingly voted against charter township status, 2,845 to 937. It was the second time in five years voters rejected the proposal. The vote, in some respects, was seen as a vote against higher taxes as charter status, when conferred by vote, enables a township to levy up to five mills. Charter status by board approval, or general law status, holds the millage ceiling at 1.16 mills.

County voters also overwhelmingly turned down a proposed one-quarter mill for human services, 35,866 to 18,950. Money would have been used for a wide variety of counseling and job training programs.

County clerk Peggy Haines retained her post with a 32,241 to 31,229 victory over Democrat Eula Tate.

In state races, Gov. James Blanchard was narrowly defeated by Republican challenger John Engler, 1,279,745 to 1,280,811. Secretary of State Richard Austin and Attorney General Frank Kelley easily won their races.

State Sen. Lana Pollack, 18th district, easily beat Republican challenger Rich Birkett, 47,416 to 26,903.

In races with national implications, Democratic incumbent Carl Levin retained his U.S. Senate seat with a 1,407,971 to 988,089 victory over Republican Bill Schuette. In addition, Republican incumbent Carl Pursell held on to his 2nd district seat in the U.S. House of Representatives with a 76,831 to 43,147 victory over Democrat Elmer White.

Philip Power and Shirley McFee were elected to the University of Michigan Board of Regents with 979,495 and 984,557 votes, respectively.

Dee Cook and Jack Shingleton were elected to the Michigan State University Board of Trustees with 818,830 and 787,328 votes, respectively.

Cemetery Told To Stop Burning Leaves

Leaf burning, banned generally throughout the village but long a tradition in Oak Grove Cemetery, will apparently stop in the cemetery as well.

Someone recently issued a complaint with the village, forcing the village to discontinue its policy of looking the other way.

However, the cemetery's huge leaf problem still remains.

Last week Dave Strieter of the Oak Grove Cemetery Association asked village council how to resolve the problem.

The cemetery has 15 large oak trees, which can deposit leaves up to a foot thick in some places. Strieter said he is worried about the grass dying.

Village council agreed to try to help. Some alternatives included bringing more prison labor into town or waiting until the village's leaf vacuum gets back from Dexter.

Jon Oesterle fulfilled a long-held ambition of opening a gym in the heart of downtown Chelsea. The Westside Gym, in the upstairs of the former Harper Pontiac building on W. Middle St., had its grand opening Nov. 15. "Some people go into this business to try to make a lot of money," Oesterle says. "Right now, I just want to get on my feet. This is something I've wanted to do for a long time."

A Manchester man wanted for felonious possession of cocaine by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department was picked up by Chelsea police after a routine traffic stop. He was pulled over for a traffic violation on Old Manchester Rd., police said. A routine check found that Vacek was driving illegally on a restricted license and was wanted on an outstanding warrant on the cocaine charge.

Chelsea police captured a Cassidy Lake Technical School walkaway at gunpoint near "McKinnon Memorial Library. According to police, Carl E. Neal was serving two to five years for manufacturing and possessing a dangerous weapon, and two to five years for carrying a concealed weapon, fled on foot through downtown Chelsea as police were attempting an arrest. Neal stopped running after officer John Dettling drew his service revolver.

Cavanaugh Clams might well be the most well-known average amateur softball team in the country. "Owner"/actor Jeff Daniels, who had a starring role in the movie, "Something Wild," talked about the team, among other topics, as a guest on the Tonight Show, with Johnny Carson. "Bought myself a softball team," Daniels told Carson. "I call them the Cavanaugh Clams." "Oh, come on now," Carson said. "My brother's the manager, it's a hardware-drugstore league. We take it very seriously. We have new uniforms and we had a winning season," the Clams, who played in the Chelsea Recreation Department's summer leagues, were 13-12 Daniels said. "It's been a dream, more so than the movie thing."

Kathy Schmitke, 17, a CHS senior was cited for outstanding performance in writing by the National Council of Teachers of English, and was named a finalist of the 1976 BCCE Achievement Award in Writing contest. Miss Schmitke was one of 850 finalists selected to represent high schools in all 50 states, the District of Columbia, and American schools abroad.

Chelsea police report that a routine arrest of two village boys, led to the solving of six area burglaries. Police were first summoned to Chelsea High School, where school authorities advised officers that the Auto Shop had been illegally entered and ransacked.

"The crime spree was finally broken when two sharp-eyed high school janitors spotted a broken window in one of the classrooms," Chelsea Patrolman Robert Graves stated. Upon investigation, the janitors found a young high school student hiding in a corner of the room. Unknown to them, the youngster's accomplice had just jumped out a window and escaped. As one of the janitors left to call police, the cornered youth also dove out the window and escaped into the darkness. Arriving moments later, police were told of the incident by two excited custodians, who felt the boy must have hurt himself when he passed through the broken window. The next day, following a hunch, the officers checked the emergency room records at Chelsea Medical Center, and learned the name of a boy treated for a severely cut leg the previous night.

Community Colleges Make the Grade in State Survey

Nine of 10 current and former community college students from the state's 29 two-year institutions said they are getting or got their money's worth from their community college. The results were in response to two telephone surveys released by the State Board of Education.

Sixty-two percent of former students said their tuition is "very reasonable." If they had to do it all over again, 86 percent of former students and 93 percent of current students said they would enroll in a community college. Ninety-five percent of both groups said they would recommend a community college to their friends.

Both groups said their goals in attending community college were to earn university transfer credits or receive job training.

Faculty and programs scored high in the surveys, with 86 percent of current and 84 percent of former students rating full time faculty as "excellent" or "good" in presenting materials. Slightly fewer said the same about faculty taking an interest in the students.

Nine of 10 graduates agreed their community college had a high quality program in their subject area.

The poll, the first of its kind in Michigan, surveyed 2,400 persons, half of them former students. About 23 percent graduated from the community college and 21 percent

Senior Citizen Insurance Task Force Created

The Office of Services to the Aging and the state Insurance Commissioner jointly announced the creation of an insurance task force. Its purpose would be to develop recommendations to strengthen consumer protection provisions of the state's insurance code.

Aging Services Office Director and democratic candidate for Lieutenant Governor Libby Maynard said the sale of insurance is exploiting the aging network, especially in health insurance.

Insurance Commissioner Dhraj Shah said the task force's first order of business would be to document reported abuses.

Shah said with Medicare covering less and less of an older person's health care costs, the insurance industry must serve the needs of senior citizens.

He said responsible insurers and agencies are welcoming the formation of the task force and will work together to strengthen the consumer protection provisions of laws and the Insurance Bureau's enforcement of them.

Shah also announced authorization of an additional $10,000 to provide additional insurance counseling services throughout the aging network. The funds, he said, will allow expansion of a program whereby area agencies on aging provide volunteers to assist seniors with claims on insurance policies and public programs such as Medicare and Medicaid in Western Michigan and the Upper Peninsula.

Rules To Clean and Reuse Industrial Site Proposed

Two state department directors have unveiled proposed administrative rules that, if approved by the Legislature, will begin a new program aimed at cleaning up and reusing industrial sites. Natural Resources Director David Hales and Commerce Director Larry Meyer outlined the rules designed to govern the new Site Reclamation Grant and Loan program.

The program was included in the Protecting Michigan's Future Bond, which earmarked $425 million to cleanup contaminated sites. A portion of that amount, $45 million, was set aside to fund the site reclamation program.

Of the $45 million total, $40 million will be dedicated to facilitate cleanup of sites that have been listed as contaminated under the Michigan Environmental Response Act (PA 307, 1982). These sites have potential for economic development but have not received any funding under that act. Another $5 million will go for investigations of vacant manufacturing facilities and abandoned industrial sites that have not been identified as having contamination problems to determine if they are suitable for redevelopment and reuse.

The directors noted that PA 307 funds are specifically to be used to address sites that cause a threat to human health or the environment. The site reclamation dollars will combine those priorities for cleanups with an emphasis on economic development, they added.

Hales said manufacturing facilities in urban areas lie abandoned while the state is losing valuable wetlands and productive farmland and green fields as new sites for industrial development. "This is environmental and economic nonsense," he said.

Meyer added it doesn't make sense to walk away from facilities where all the infrastructure is in place and then try to duplicate the same conditions. "It is costly and leaves gaping holes behind in once viable cities," he said.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I like to half listen to the radio when I'm checking the papers after supper, and now and again I'll hear someone I'm reading about. One night recent I saw where two Americans shared this year's Nobel prize for economics, and right after that I heard one of em at a press conference explaining his work to reporters. I don't know nothing about economics and I git that mixed up, but I figger I got as much from that press conference as the reporters.

That listening and reading come to mind Saturday night at the country store when Zeke Grubb reminded the fellers that if all the economists in this country were laid end to end they wouldn't reach a conclusion. Zeke had read about the Nobel prize for economics, and he said he is surprised that all economists in this country ain't wimmen. For sure, he said, all wimmen are economists.

Why else, Zeke ask, would a woman that's got two shelves in her closet lined with hats pay $35 apiece for two more she don't like the shape or color of. The economist's answer is that they were marked down from $53 in her favorite shop's onct-a-year, reverse-price sale. To her way of running the economy the more stuff you buy on sale the more you save.

Actual, Zeke went on, you lose him when you go past buy low and sell high. He said he studied long and hard till he saw what was wrong with the git-rich-quick plan, he read about where some college boys would take in one another's washing and raise their prices ever week. Serious, Zeke said, he figgers by the time a Nobel prize economics professor talks through the waves on all his charts, Zeke said, he comes up with pritty much the same thing as wimmen buying hats and boys doing laundry.

Zeke said he onct heard that the natural interest rate is three percent, and everthing else is manmade to correct the course of the economy. This makes some kind of sense, Zeke allowed, till you add that ever economist thinks he knows best how to steer the boat.

Practical speaking, Bug Hookum

said, predicting allus has been a uncertain science. No matter how educated a guess is, it's still a guess. Bug said he wasn't counting the assorted, certified crazies that predict the end of the world ever few months, but he was thinking of the next worst natural disaster. Lately, he said all the earth experts have took to earthquake guessing, and this allus has been shaky at best. He had saw where one scientist says a quake will hit Southeast Missouri during the first two days of next month, another sees the earth trembling somewhere in the Midwest in the next few months. A third expert expects another major quake on the West Coast within 50 year, and a bunch of experts say all three are reckless and ought to be put away for alarming the country.

"As for predicting," Clem Webster said, "he allus has wondered about fashions in clothes. Do designers create the demand for 'em, or the other way around? Clem said he has saw where children started putting rubber bands around shirts and dyeing em different colors to make all kinds of patterns. Now tie dye clothes is a hot store bought item, Clem said, right up there with blue jeans that have been beat and actual shot full of holes to make em look wore out.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

CHELSEA HOMES TOUR - Dec. 2

Sponsored By Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary

These are three of the eight homes on the tour. Others will follow in the coming weeks.

TIM AND PAT WHITESALL 224 Jefferson Street (4)

The Whitesall home with its old fashioned country warmth welcomes you with its twinkling display of lights.

Holiday surprises fill the house with magic at Christmas time starting with Pat's Santa Claus collection in the foyer.

A family of furry friends decked out in their holiday finest joins in the celebration on Christmas morning under the hand cut Christmas tree.

Gleaming glass candlesticks illuminate the bay window and enhance the angels displayed there.

The large country kitchen is made festive for the holidays by adding ribbons and greens to Pat's graniteware.

All this combines to create a warm and magical Christmas feeling.

GARY AND GAYLE THOMPSON 206 Congdon Street (2)

Please enter the Thompson's English Tudor home from South Street and be enchanted by the country theme and collectibles charmingly displayed.

What child wouldn't want to wake up to Christmas morning and find a tree decorated in their own room. A colorfully decorated tree in each of their rooms will give the Thompson boys many happy Christmas memories.

The country style dining room delights the eye and warms the soul during the holidays.

The sharing of simple traditions and presents, crafted with love, brighten the Christmas season for the Thompson family.

BART AND ALISA BAUER 215 Jefferson Street (3)

Garlands of greenery and glowing candles, favorite doll ornaments tucked among the pine boughs, and white lights shimmering in the tree, all contribute to the warmth and excitement of the holiday season at the Bauer's Victorian cottage.

The woodwork throughout the house and the fireplace in the dining room have been lovingly restored and decorated by the Bauers.

Visions of sugarplums and other delights join together to create family treasures in the Victorian manner.

Trash Contract

collecting an additional 300 to 500 yards of garbage per week from private haulers working in the four-township area. Over the first 48 days of the new policy, the landfill collected an additional 1,894 yards at $12 per yard for an income of $20,328. Stalker said the same income could be generated by raising the fee to $18 per month.

The only other alternative the village has to raising fees is to levy a millage dedicated to trash disposal. Unlike other communities, the village has never used that option.

The new policy, however, will have the effect of shortening the life of the new cell, which will, in turn, force the village out of the landfill business perhaps sooner than it wants to be.

Village trash rates are not out of line with other areas. Service in the townships costs about $21 per month. In Dexter village the charge is $13 per month, with a hike anticipated soon, Hammer said.

Hammer said it is his opinion that the village will probably not stay in the landfill business once the current site is full.

"We've had estimates up to $30 million for the cost of expanding, operating, and closing a new landfill," Hammer said.

"It looks like no matter how much we might want a landfill, it's highly improbable."

Take this to heart

California Defeats Nation's Strictest Environmental Bill

Farmers are cheering the defeat in California of the "Big Green" environmental initiative, according to Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau. Nye said the measure, had it been approved, would have given California the strictest pesticide standards in the nation and raised food prices significantly.

Nye said defeat of "Big Green" should help blunt similar efforts in other parts of country. "However, in the long run, we want to continue to do some things that will improve the safety of the food supply and protect our environment even more," he said. "The main thing that we have to do is make sure that those things are balanced and that they're fair and equitable for both producers and consumers."

He said farmers will have to continue educating the general public on the agricultural impact of food safety and environmental issues.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
My name is Sheryl Decoster and I am the chairperson of the Whistlestop Park Association History Committee. We are in the process of restoring the old train depot in Grass Lake and would like to make a plea to the community of Grass Lake, as well as the surrounding communities, to help us out. We are looking for any information, photos, train tickets, old schedules, station agents names, letters, etc., that would pertain to the depot, the railroad, or the inter-urban electric train. We are in the process of developing a book of the history of the depot and are in great need of local input and artifacts to put into it.

I am not sure of the department this would go to, but we are a non-profit organization and would appreciate it if you could publish our plea in the "Voice of the People" or in the community news.

Anyone wishing to contact us on any of the above mentioned items, may contact

To the Editor:

I am currently deployed with the United States Marine Corps in Operation Desert Shield. I've been in the Middle East for three months now. What news I get out here consists of The Stars and Stripes and The Chelsea Standard, which my father has mailed to me.

I'm already seeing the signs of support from home falling. Are people so naive that they think this whole thing is only over oil? Chants like "Hell no, we won't go, we won't fight for Texaco" just add more evidence of the failing education system in America.

Is it the gas prices that have these people upset? Do they honestly believe that prices would not have gone up after Saddam Hussein had proclaimed himself emperor of the entire Middle East? Or maybe it's the hardships that WE, not them, are enduring that have them so upset.

Imagine, if that's possible, the tiny peaceful town of Chelsea being overrun by a totally overwhelming force. Would you then be voicing your complaints about the people who came to your aid?

The invasion of Kuwait was just that, overwhelming. Hussein stole one of his own peaceful allied countries from them in less than 24 hours. It wasn't expected, nor did the Kuwaitis have a prayer of stopping him. It was over before most people had heard it started. You can also rest assured that there were more countries on his list.

Everyday, reports leak more frequently out of Kuwait about the mistreatment of its people. Looting, assaults, denied medical treatment and executions are becoming commonplace. Are we to turn our eyes from this?

Hussein kept the entire world blindfolded while he built his army. It's time to take the blindfolds off and deal with the problem. It's not going to go away if we all come home and hide within our own borders.

So while you drive your petroleum fueled car to your rallies, demonstrations and flag-burnings, take some time to think of the people suffering within Kuwait's borders. You should also wonder why you have the rights to speak out and demonstrate when so many others don't. We need your support, not your whining dissent.

L/Cpl Joseph McDougall
USMC, Operation Desert Shield.

Area Resident Pleads Guilty to Indecent Exposure

A Stockbridge-area man pled guilty Oct. 31 in Chelsea 14th District Court to a charge of indecent exposure in connection with an incident on July 1, 1988.

Gale H. Rouse, 48, 16406 Farnsworth Rd., was arrested after an investigation by Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Det. Paul Wade.

Rouse, who works at W. A. Thomas in Chelsea, was represented by a public defender.

Indecent exposure is a misdemeanor.

Sentencing is scheduled for Dec. 6.

ATTENTION: BEREAVED FAMILIES WITH CHILDREN

NEEDED - Families who have experienced the death of either a parent or child and where there is at least one child in the home who is under 19 years of age. We are interested in discussing the changes that affect families and ways family members help each other after a family member's death. Each family would meet with an interviewer at least 4 times during one year. This study is funded through RE-CONNECT, a community of support for bereaved children and their families.

For more information, call Ruth Lendt, 994-0561.

Community Education Offers Childbirth Preparation Classes

Childbirth Preparation Series will begin in February at Dexter High School as a part of the Dexter Community Education program. The series will focus on Lamaze techniques, but will also cover other methods that are useful.

Viktoria Shayna is a nationally board-certified childbirth educator, Certified Health Education Specialist, Registered Dietitian and Certified Lactation Educator who has been in the field of maternal and child health for seven years. She received her two-year childbirth training at UCLA Graduate School of Nursing and is a member of A.S.P.O. (American Society for Psychoprophylaxis in Obstetrics), more commonly known as ASPOLamaze. She is currently teaching with Ann Arbor Community Education.

The seven week series will cover what expectant couples need to know before labor begins.

Class 1 starts with a discussion of the third trimester of pregnancy and moves forward to the signs of labor. By the end of the 7th class, discussion centers around what and how to feed the baby, including both breast and formula feeding with suggestions for the working mother.

Classes are small and informal, with about half of the time spent practicing and half in discussion. It also addresses the needs and role of the support person. Handouts are given on a weekly basis and come from a variety of sources to reflect the most current thoughts on a given issue. Students are encouraged to prepare a "birth plan" and to discuss material presented with their doctor or midwife.

Registration is ongoing. New classes are always starting. Class size is limited to eight couples.

For further information, call 428-0238 or 428-4008.

Film Available from Metropark System for Showing to Groups

"Gateways," a 1989 film in color with narration, music and natural sounds which illustrates the 13 Huron-Clinton Metroparks, is available for presentations to civic and other community organizations.

Metroparks serve the citizens of the counties of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw and are considered among the finest in the country.

For a "free" presentation, which should be scheduled a couple of weeks in advance of the desired program, contact the Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority, phone 1-800-47-PARKS (toll-free) or (313) 227-2757 (Administrative Headquarters c/o Brighton Township).

Women employed as executives, administrators and managers who worked year round full time in 1987 had median earnings of $31,874, only 60.5 percent of the $52,656 median earned by men similarly employed, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau. The 1987 ratio of the median annual earnings of all fully employed women compared with men similarly employed was 65 percent.

TAKING CARE OF YOUR EYES

Today's column will discuss glaucoma, a common eye disease among older adults. When diagnosed and treated early, blindness from glaucoma is almost always preventable. If you are over age 35, you should have your eyes examined for glaucoma every 2 or 3 years.

Glaucoma is caused by high pressure within the eye. This high pressure damages the optic nerve, causing loss of side (peripheral) vision. If glaucoma is not controlled, total blindness occurs.

Prevention is the key to stop glaucoma from damaging your eyes. Routine eye examinations, which should always include a glaucoma pressure check, will determine if you have glaucoma.

If glaucoma is diagnosed, there are many treatment options. The first are medications, usually drops. Laser surgery, which is performed painlessly in the office, is very effective in treating glaucoma. Only the most advanced cases of glaucoma require conventional surgery in the hospital.

Remember, routine eye examinations and early treatment can prevent blindness from glaucoma.

THE GIVING TREE: Faith in Action and Chelsea Senior Citizens have begun a joint Christmas project designed to provide winter clothing to area people in need. The tree, in the lobby of the new Faith in Action building, has more than 100 ornaments, and each ornament describes a particular item needed. Anyone who would like to provide an article of clothing is welcome to stop by the building and pick up an ornament. Gifts, which should be wrapped, will be placed under the tree and distributed after Dec. 19. The building is on the campus of Chelsea Community Hospital. Around the tree, clockwise, from right, are Olive Wiseman, Adrienne Grissom, Arnilla Reule, Marion Krieger, Nadine Shaneyfelt, and Pat Gauthier.

Third Festival of Lights Slated Friday, Dec. 7

Chelsea's third annual Festival of Lights is scheduled for Friday, Dec. 7. The event will begin at 5 p.m. at Chelsea Shopping Center with Santa's Reception. Parents and children will be welcomed by store owners and staff and will have a chance to visit with Santa Claus.

At 6 p.m. activities move to Pierce Park for the Tree of Lights illumination. Jack Merkel and Mark Heydlauff will preside over the ceremony.

At 8:30 p.m. Santa will lead participants and choirs down Main St. to the Living Creche outside Merkel's Home Furnishings. Hayrides from the park to downtown will also be available.

The celebration at the creche will include singing by area choirs. Revelers can proceed downtown where they will be greeted by traveling carolers. Stores will also be open for shopping and browsing. Santa will also be downtown in his workshop.

From 9 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. an all-community sing, accompanied by organ music, will be held at the Chelsea Depot. Lioness Club will also announce winners of the home and store decorations contest.

Laurie Gravelyn, owner of Dayspring Gifts, is organizing the event.

"The co-operation and enthusiasm has been wonderful," Gravelyn said.

"Every year the festival gets better. Area churches, merchants, and organizations have contributed to the planning of the festival. All activities are still in the planning stages and some changes in the schedule may occur. Over-all, we've got a nice evening planned."

Members of the festival committee include Mary Barkley, Ann Feeney, Mary Ann Merkel, the Rev. Erwin Koch, Kathleen Clark, Veretta Whitaker, Penny Trinkle, and Pat Kubany.

Further information about the festival will be published in The Chelsea Standard.

Publication Designed To Promote Chelsea

"Chelsea Is The Place." This is the old name of a new publication produced by the chamber of commerce and the Village of Chelsea to bring new business, new employment and more trade to the area community.

In 16 pages plus a colorful cover it describes the character of the community, the remarkable skills of its workforce and Chelsea's importance as an area shopping center.

A supplement is loaded with current statistics which will be updated as often as needed.

Within the brochure are photographs taken by Ann Feeney and The Chelsea Standard along with drawings by Cathy Muha.

The book was written and designed by Will Connelly. Printing was done by BookCrafters under the supervision of Pam Eddington.

It is a limited edition intended for businesses seeking a non-urban location in the marketplace of the Midwest. Facts about Chelsea of particular interest to employers are:

- A community where 82% of the homes are owner occupied

- Industrial activity dating back to 1852

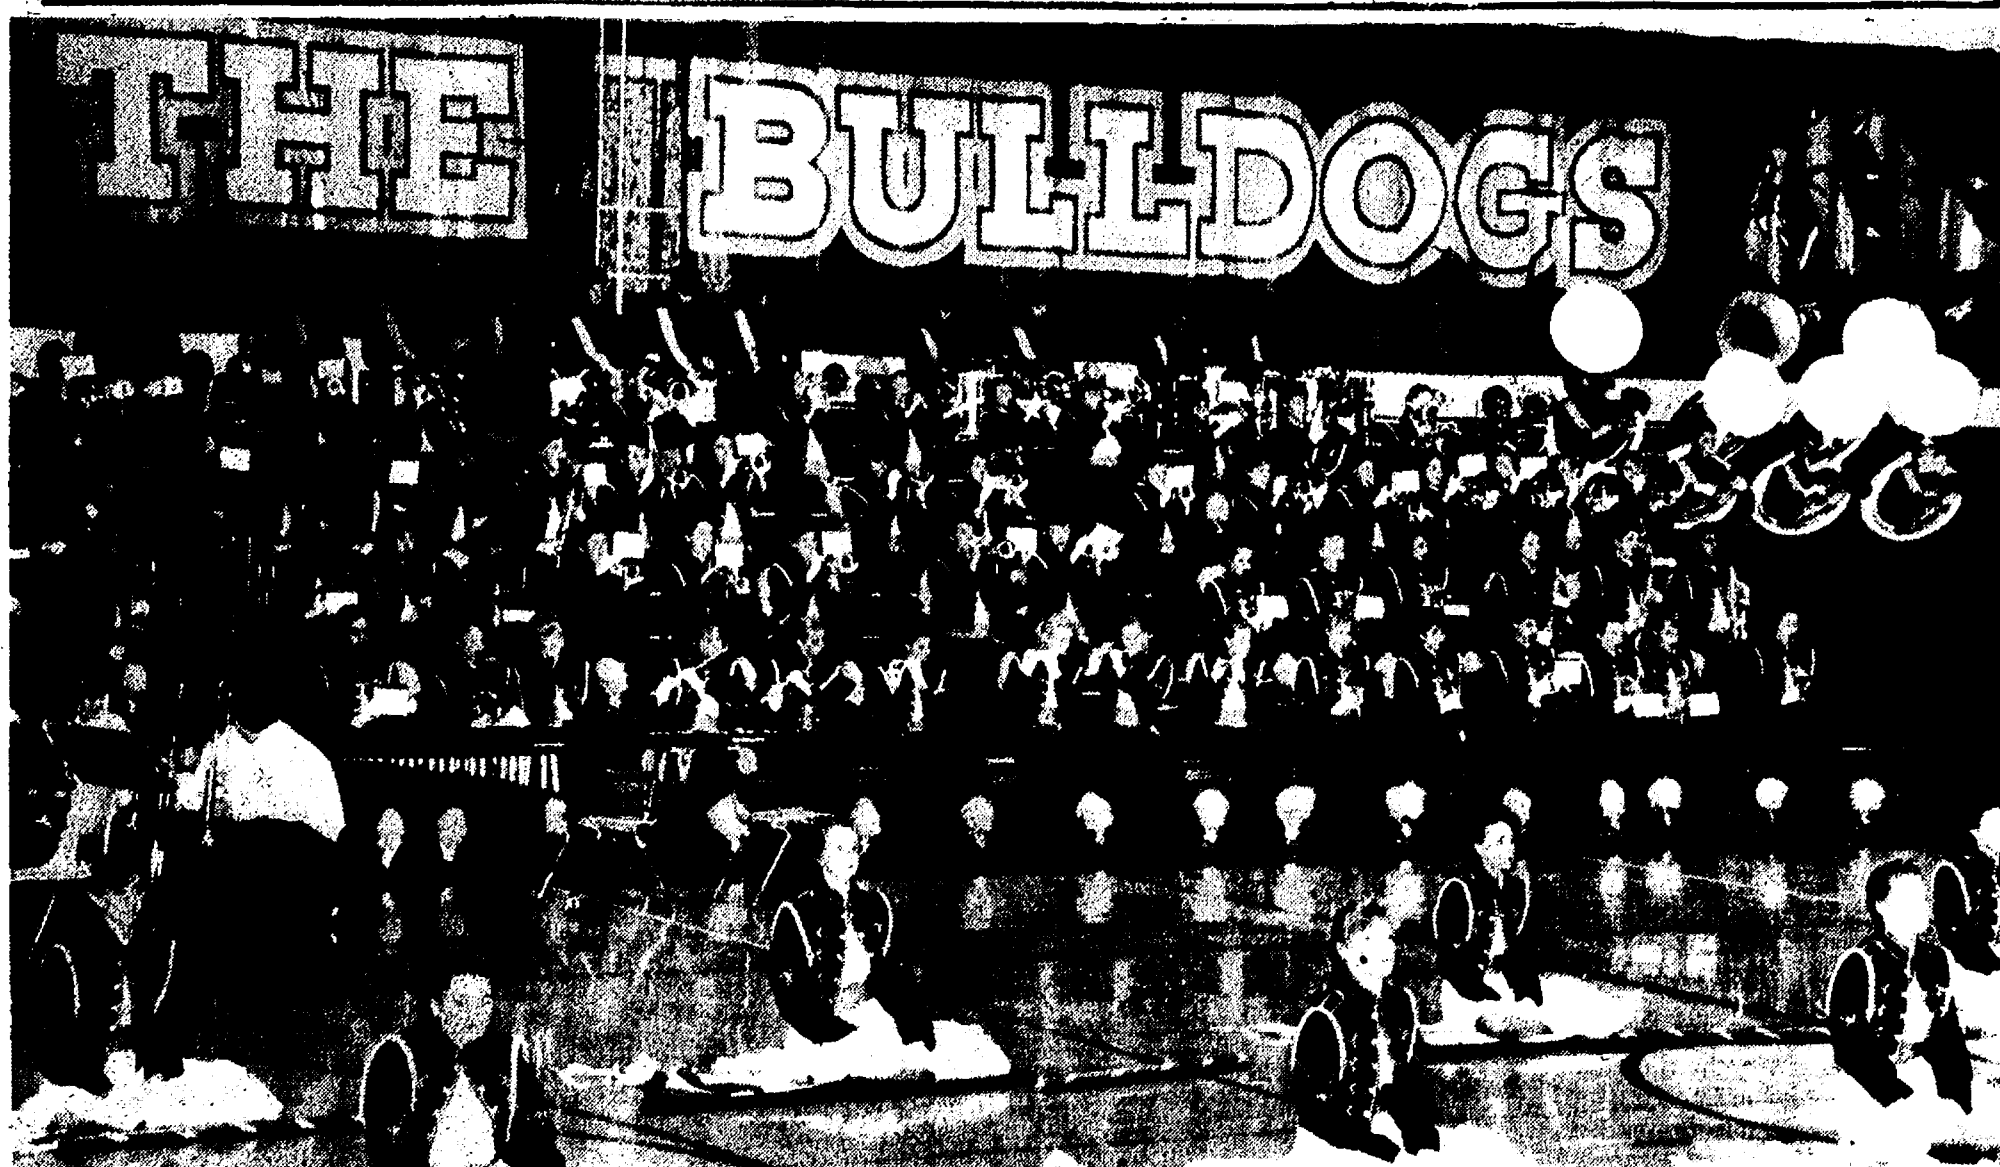

- Schools where 98.5% of high school seniors graduate and three-fourths go on to higher learning

- A low crime rate, an A-1 police department and a well-equipped, professionally trained volunteer fire department

- Ample municipal electric power, natural gas, pure water and a modernized $5.7 million waste treatment plant.

Other features in "Chelsea Is The Place" include churches, social and civic organizations, community hospital, Methodist retirement home, McKune library and 1880 rail depot.

A limited number of copies of the book are being offered for sale by the chamber of commerce at $2. Call 475-1145 Monday or Thursday 10 to 4.

Corn Yields Are Fine But Prices Too Low

Although yields for area corn farmers are good this fall, many farmers will be lucky to break even.

That's the prognosis of Klaus Bachmann of Provoco-Big H in Chelsea. The company will purchase about 600,000 bushels, much of which will be sold to feed mills in Pennsylvania and New York.

"Farmers are getting about $2.15 per bushel, but by the time they pay drying charges it's probably below the cost of production," Bachmann said last Thursday.

"If prices were 50 or 60 cents more per bushel everything would be all right. The crop looks very good. There's nothing negative we can pinpoint."

He said deer damage, although extensive in some places, has not been a major problem so far. He has also seen little disease.

Bachmann said that based on his conversations with farmers, yields are running about 100 bushels per acre. However, as of last week only about 25 percent of the crop had been harvested. Normally by this time in November about 70 percent has been harvested.

"The corn is taking a little longer to dry this year," Bachmann said.

One of the factors in the low price, Bachmann said, is that exports are about 50 percent lower than last year and virtually nothing is being exported to the Soviet Union.

"I think the price is going to stay very low because there's no shortage of anything in the countries that can pay for it," Bachmann said.

Another part of the problem is the changing American diet, Bachmann said. People are eating less meat, and virtually all corn grown in the country is used for animal feeds.

Bachmann said he is also worried that some farmers are selling two corn crops in one year because they didn't sell much of last year's crop. He said that strategy may make some farmers cash poor for next year's planting.

BookCrafters Gets Parking Lot Variance

BookCrafters, Inc. was granted a variance by the village zoning board of appeals to expand its Buchanan St. parking lot.

Although the board voted unanimously in favor of variance, there was opposition during the public hearing, not including zoning inspector Rosemary Harook's official recommendation against the request.

The variance involved shrinking the setback requirements from 20 feet down to five feet for a portion of the lot.

BookCrafters, which is zoned for industry, adjoins residential zoning in the form of Chelsea Trailer Park and Sharon Manor Apartments.

Village zoning ordinance also requires a 50-foot transition strip, 20 feet of which may be used for parking.

Company representatives gave a formal presentation that included not only practical problems, but warnings that a significant number of new jobs may be diverted to a plant in Virginia if the parking variance was not granted. They said the jobs could not be moved to the industrial park.

Residents of the trailer park objected to what they perceived as a potential loss of privacy, as well as likely problems with stormwater run-off.

Realtor Nelly Cobb questioned what the company might ask for as future expansion takes place.

The company seemed agreeable to various screening measures, from fences to trees, but those items are addressed by the village planning commission.

Harook said the problem was "self-created" by the company due to overdevelopment of the site, and that the plight of BookCrafters is not due to circumstances unique to the property.

Harook suggested a 10-foot setback with the construction of a stone or masonry fence as a way to insure privacy.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Win Third Straight SEC Title With Victory Over Saline

Chelsea Bulldogs won their third straight outright Southeastern Conference basketball title last Thursday with a 60-43 victory over the Saline Hornets in the Chelsea gym.

Chelsea finished the regular season at 11-1 in the league and 17-3 over-all. Tecumseh Indians were second at 10-2.

"We've been in first place since September of 1988," said Chelsea coach Rahn Rosentreter.

"The girls were upset after last week's loss to Tecumseh. They didn't want to share the title. I'm proud of the way they came back after that game to win their last two games."

In Thursday's big win, the Bulldogs were ahead 12-9 after the first quarter but early in the second quarter trailed by as many as three points.

However, Chelsea turned up the defensive pressure on the Hornets guards and began forcing Saline turnovers. By half-time Chelsea led 29-22 and a 19-6 third-quarter outburst gave the Dogs a 20-point lead.

"One of the things we talked about is Saline would have a better chance to win if it turned into a helter-skelter type of game," Rosentreter said.

"I think we got caught up in that a little at first. In the second half we played better defense and ran the offense a little better."

In the third quarter, Christine Burg scored eight points and Kristin Bohlender scored five to key the runaway.

Burg led the Bulldogs with 19 points and Bohlender had her best night of the season with 16.

"Kristin seemed to be the spark for us," Rosentreter said.

"She was all over the court and was very aggressive."

Colleen Scharphorn, Sarah Devine, and Mercedes Hammer each scored six points, Shawn Losey scored five, and Carrie Flintoft had four points.

Flintoft had eight rebounds, Hammer had seven, Losey had six steals, and Burg six.

Chelsea hit 24 of 59 shots from the field and 16 of 22 from the free throw line.

The Bulldogs wrapped up a share of the SEC title on Tuesday night with a 40-31 victory at Pinckney.

Chelsea jumped out to a 10-2 lead in the first quarter and led by eight or 10 points most of the way.

KRISTIN BOHLENDER drives inside for two of her 16 points against the Saline Hornets last Thursday. The Bulldogs rallied from an early deficit to easily defeat Saline.

"It was kind of a slow-moving night," Rosentreter said. "Our free-throw shooting got us over the hump."

The Bulldogs made 16 of 20 tries from the line.

Flintoft led the Bulldogs with 10 points, Burg scored nine, Hammer had eight, Bohlender seven, Losey four, and Colleen two.

"If we keep shooting the way we have been the last couple of games we'll be all right," Rosentreter said.

The Bulldogs drew a bye in the first round of the district tournament. They're scheduled to play tonight at 5:30 in Tecumseh against the winner of Monday night's Dexter-Brooklyn contest.

If Chelsea wins tonight they'll play in the finals at 7 p.m. Friday. Tecumseh is favored to win the other bracket.

Tecumseh and Chelsea split their two regular-season games.

Families maintained by women represented over half (52 percent) of all families below the poverty level in 1987, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau. Within these families lived 7.1 million related children under age 18. The average number of children in families maintained by women living below the poverty level in 1986 was 2.2.

MERCEDES HAMMER runs into a wall of Hornet defenders during the first half of last Thursday night's final home game against Saline. Hammer had six points and seven rebounds on the night in the Chelsea win.

CHRISTINE BURG goes up for the shot during Chelsea's victory over the Saline Hornets last week. Burg scored 19 points and the Bulldogs won their third straight Southeastern Conference title.

Quilter Named MVP

Senior running back Jude Quilter was named the Chelsea Bulldogs Most Valuable Player for the 1990 season. Quilter, a three-year starter, was the team's leading rusher and receiver. He was also a starting defensive back and punter.

Quilter shared the Best Back Award with junior defensive back Adam Taylor.

Best Lineman Award went to junior tackle Mike Terpstra and senior tight end Craig Ferry, who were both instrumental in the success of the Chelsea running game.

Most Improved Player went to senior tackle Dan Tassinari and senior running back Rick Westcott.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I've avoided using the "th" word all season long, you know, the word first made famous by the Los Angeles Lakers and later picked up by the Detroit Pistons. The Blueprint, the Chelsea High school newspaper, used it. Fans have yelled it, posters have proclaimed it.

Now that it's finally happened, however, I guess I have to acknowledge it. "Threepeat." The Bulldogs girls did it. Three straight undisputed Southeastern Conference basketball titles. An 11-1 conference season despite key injuries, not much depth, and other problems.

If you're a Tecumseh fan you just might feel a little jinxed. Your team has a 30-6 SEC record over the last three years and it hasn't finished first even once. Even worse, in each of those years your team has split the two regular-season games with Chelsea, but has lost to some lesser team over the course of the season. Those untimely letdowns have cost your team three straight shares of the title. Your team may have the last laugh this Friday at the district finals, but that's another story altogether.

This has been a remarkable season for the Bulldogs. Unlike past seasons, when girls like Allison Brown dominated the lane and Heather Neibauer could put the ball up from anywhere, the Bulldogs have had no star they could count on in the clutch, no girl capable of taking charge on a regular basis. In addition, a girl who might have been a star, Colleen Scharphorn, went out with an injury early on. It has taken a true team effort for the Bulldogs to win their third title.

(That brings up another question. Who would be the team's Most Valuable Player? My guess is it will go to the girl who has given the most to the team off the court, whomever that is.)

As I've mentioned before, this could be Rahn Rosentreter's best coaching job here yet. A job made even more remarkable by the fact that he's had a wedding—his own—on his mind all season long.

Congratulations to the Bulldogs on yet another fine season.

Chelsea is scheduled to play Dexter tonight at 5:30 in the district semi-finals at Tecumseh. They've beaten Dexter, I believe, seven straight times, which means at any moment the odds should be falling the Dreadnaughts' way.

The Bulldogs should win it, though, and face Tecumseh in the finals this Friday at 7 p.m.

And frankly, if the Bulldogs can beat Dexter, it will take the game of the season to beat Tecumseh. The Indians are playing like the team Rosentreter thought they would be.

Senior cager Carrie Flintoft is in the unique position of being the only Chelsea girls basketball player ever to play on three league championship teams.

I'll always remember her as the sophomore who calmly sank two free throws with no time left to put Chelsea in the region finals two years ago. One of the all-time great Chelsea sports thrills.

Robin Raymond's boys basketball team started practice bright and early Monday morning.

In a couple of weeks I'll tell you how the team looks from Raymond's perspective.

What follows, then, is pure speculation.

My guess is, Chelsea fans and the SEC are going to be surprised at how good the Bulldogs are this year. Even though Brian Burg, Chad Starkey, and Kyle Plank have graduated.

Here's why. Kerry Plank will be one of the two top players in the league and probably the best defensive player in the region. Jon Royce will take his game to a new stratospheric level and show just how well he can jump and shoot. Chris Haugen will have recovered from the knee injury that kept him sidelined most of last year. Jude Quilter and Tucker Steele will play like they did their freshman season. Jeremy Stephens will start to assert himself if he recovers from shoulder problems. A couple of guys, most notably Jake Rindie, will make you wonder why they weren't playing varsity last year. The team will play taller than it is. And no one will be able to keep up with the Bulldogs.

Now, if they can just do something about that Poppink guy from Tecumseh, the title is all Chelsea's.

My three-year-old son has become a great football fan this fall, except he thinks all quarterbacks are named Tucker, Patrick, or Boomer.

He's also showing signs of becoming a running back. He says, "Dada, tackle me, tackle me harder," which prompted someone to comment that he sounds just like Adam Taylor.

UP FOR A SHOT in heavy traffic is Chelsea's Kristin Bohlender during the first half of last Thursday's game at home against Saline. Chelsea won its two games last week to finish 11-1 in the SEC.

Hospital Gets Three-Year Accreditation

Chelsea Community Hospital has been awarded a three-year accreditation by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Healthcare Organizations as a result of demonstrated compliance with the Joint Commission's nationally recognized health care standards. The Joint Commission's on-site survey of Chelsea Community Hospital occurred in August.

"National standards mandate that attention to quality be a top-level priority that permeates an entire organization," said John Clem, director of the Joint Commission's Department of Hospital Accreditation Services. "Quality assurance standards expect health professionals to use indicators of quality to monitor and evaluate all areas of clinical care."

Clem said the community "should be proud that Chelsea Community Hospital is focusing on the most challenging goal: to continually raise quality. Accreditation is proof of Chelsea's organization-wide commitment to quality."

The real name of James McNeill Whistler's painting of his mother was "Arrangement in Grey and Black."

Tax Break for Health Insurance Resuscitated

The 26 percent health insurance tax deduction for the self-employed survived the budget battles in Washington, despite the fact that it had been dropped from the initial budget summit agreement, according to Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"There will certainly be efforts made to expand the deduction to a full 100% of the self-employed's health insurance costs," he said. "It will be a budget issue that Congress will have to consider, but in terms of equity it is only fair that self-employed people such as farmers be entitled to a full deduction of their health insurance premiums."

Almy said that many employees receive health insurance coverage as a tax free benefit of their jobs. "So it's only fair that farmers and other self-employed be allowed the same tax treatment of health insurance premiums," he said.

MOPH Commanders Tour VA Hospitals

An autograph of Julius Caesar is worth over $2,000,000.

Military Order of the Purple Heart (MOPH) past national commander Ernest "Gene" Brown and Dexter's Iver Schmidt, MOPH department commander, were among those who toured the Ann Arbor Veterans Administration Medical Facility, last week, with the hospital's acting associate director, Susan Palmer.

Iver Schmidt explained the visitors looked at what the facility offers veterans.

The first stop on their tour was the medical library, which Iver volunteered now has videotapes, in addition to books, which patients may use, on-site, to get information on various diseases and medical conditions.

Next on the itinerary was a visit to the cardiac unit, where the group was shown a heart-shaped pillow recommended for use when they cough by post-surgery patients in the cardiac unit.

A great deal of additional information was presented the tour participants during their stop at the hospital's cardiac unit.

The tour also included a visit to the physical training (PT) facility, before going downstairs to view equipment and facilities to serve patients in the hospital's oncology section, which provides rooms where family members of critically ill patients may be temporarily housed.

Iver explained the hospital's assistant administrator advised the group, the federal government plans to spend approximately $143,000,000 to upgrade the medical facility, beginning next year.

The hospital structure will be transformed, with the back and front of the building being reversed during the renovation effort.

Expanded and more effective parking areas are included in the plans.

Nov. 8 Commanders Meeting Department commander Iver Schmidt attended the Commanders Meeting on Thursday, Nov. 8, for a tour of the Grand Rapids VA Hospital, a nursing home facility.

Tom C. Lindsay, commandant of the Grand Rapids facility, coordinated the tour and conference, also attended by Clifford Kinney, commandant of the Veterans Administration facility at Marquette.

General Jerome J. Mathieu, United States Army Reserve, chief deputy director, department of military affairs, was the principal speaker at the meeting, and advised the commanders that the Michigan Legislature had approved the transfer of VA facilities in Michigan from the control of Health, Education and Welfare to the Department of Military Affairs, effective Jan. 1, 1990.

While in Grand Rapids, the commanders toured the Joseph W. Mann Building, a facility which serves approximately 475 veterans, with nursing supervisor Ann Vanderschuur, R.N.

The proportion of employed black women in management has edged up slightly in recent years, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Women's Bureau. Some 7 percent of employed black women were in executive, administrative and managerial jobs, an increase from 6.4 percent in 1987 and 4.9 percent in 1983. The largest proportion of black women in management is in government service.

WINANS JEWELRY has begun production of the "license plates" that will be affixed to chairs in the new Garage Theatre. The plates will have the names of donors who have contributed a minimum of $500. Above, Rob Winans gives Garage Theatre Foundation chair Gail Bauer a look at one of the first plates.

Garage Theatre Needs Variety of Equipment

Fund-raising efforts for the Garage Theatre have focused on monetary contributions to complete the renovations.

However, the non-profit community theatre is also in need of a vast array of equipment. Fair market value of the goods can probably be taken as a tax deduction like any other charitable donation, said fund-raising chair Gail Bauer.

Below are some of the needed items.

Hand tools: hammers, saws, saw horse, screwdrivers, wonder bars, socket wrenches, chalk line, steel storage cabinets, pocket square, framing square, 4' level, angle finder, work bench, mat knife, slip-joint pliers, adjustable wrench, tongue and groove pliers, tin snips.

Power tools: circular saw, drills and drill bits, cordless driver and bits, saber saw, band saw, table saw, radial arm saw, router and bits, air compressor and accessories, drill press.

Basement furnishings: couch, table and chairs, reading lamps, end table, washer and dryer, refrigerator.

Costumes: clothing, shoes, hats, accessories, specialty items such as jewelry and furs.

Office furnishings: bookcase, file cabinets with files and file holders, telephones, rolodex, computer (Mac II preferred), stapler and remover, three-hole punch, desk light, waste paper can, calculators, answering machine, slide projector/overhead and opaque, photocopier, 30" trimming board, first aid kits, fire extinguisher, desk accessories, wall clocks, fax machine, chalkboard, desks.

Maintenance supplies: mops, brooms, mop bucket, mop strainer, shop vacuum, standard vacuum.

Dressing room supplies: mirrors, lockers, ironing boards and irons, chairs and/or stools.

Make up: general make up and supplies, wigs and hair pieces, facial hair pieces, specialty items.

Chiropractic Health Care

Steroids
Cont'd.

Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman

Over the last couple weeks I have dealt with high school students and the growing use of anabolic steroids. We talked about the possible signs of steroid use.

This week I want to discuss what should be done if you suspect steroid use in an athlete (or even non-athletes).

According to the American Chiropractic Association (ACA) the player should be approached in a diplomatic, non-accusatory way. The player will probably deny usage. The athlete should be checked for steroids, and if tested positive, be given counseling. Parents, spouses and family should be included in the program, which would provide information and rehabilitation.

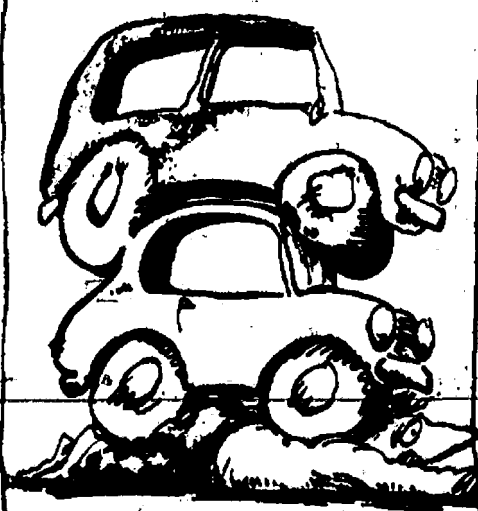

If the player refuses to accept help, he or she should be released from competition and athletic activity. This should be done both as a precaution against injury and also because the use of these drugs is illegal and in violation of competition rules.

The American Chiropractic Association (ACA) also believes strongly that those responsible for the prescription, sale or distribution of hazardous drugs should be terminated from positions which give them access to athletes. The ACA is in favor of stringent laws to prosecute drug dealers and deter sports abusers. Only through education and legislation can steroids be controlled.

Next week: How performance can be improved naturally without Anabolic Steroids.

Please address all questions and comments to Dr. J. Nicholas Koffeman, 138 E. Middle St., Chelsea, MI 48118. 313-475-2088.

Free Tree Pruning Guide Available from Arbor Day Found.

During winter dormancy is a popular time to prune trees, and a free booklet is available from the National Arbor Day Foundation to show you how.

The illustrated, easy-to-follow guide called "How To Prune Young Shade Trees" has been prepared for homeowners.

How a tree is pruned in its first few years of life will affect its shape, its strength, and even its life span.

The How to Prune guide includes step-by-step illustrations showing how proper pruning in the early years of a tree's life can save money in the long run and result in safer, more beautiful, healthy, easy-to-maintain trees.

The booklet is filled with illustrations showing you how to make a pruning cut... how to prune for desired form... how to strengthen your tree by removing certain branches... how to maintain the tree's health by removing trouble spots... when to leave temporary lower branches, and when to cut them.

The booklet even shows how to hold a pair of pruning shears and how to make pruning cuts at the proper angle.

You'll learn how to shape and guide a shade tree when it's young so that it's tall, straight, strong, and healthy when it's old.

The design of the booklet makes it easy to browse through to pick up tips. You'll discover why tree paint isn't necessary, even on large cuts... how to select and care for pruning tools... how to prune according to the tree's function.

To obtain your free copy of this valuable booklet, send your name and address to: How To Prune, National Arbor Day Foundation, Nebraska City, Neb. 68410.

New Travel Guide Lists Winter Resorts, Facilities

The new Michigan Winter Travel Guide and Calendar of Events is more than just that. This year's edition is also a beginner's guide to winter — listing resorts and facilities that offer lessons in downhill and cross-country skiing, snowboarding, and even snowshoeing.

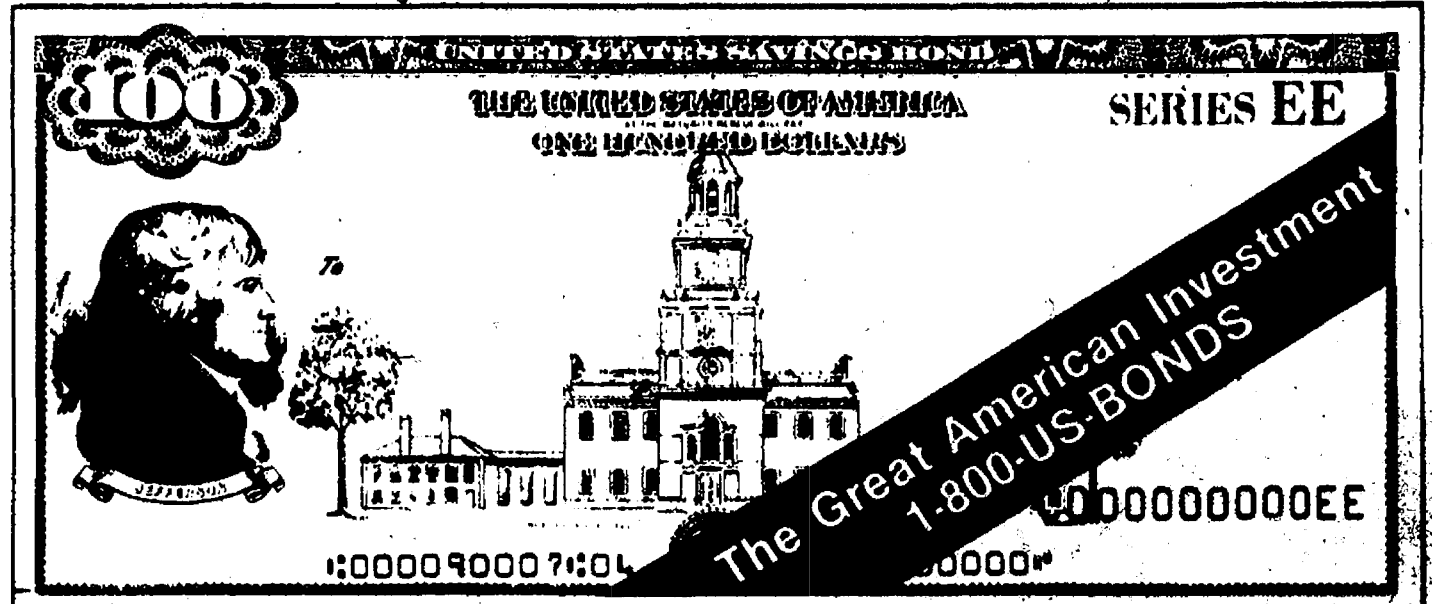

Perhaps the most familiar and popular how-to program is "Learn to Downhill Ski Free Day" on Friday, Jan. 18, 1991. 30 Michigan resorts will offer free beginner downhill ski lessons and beginner-area lift tickets to those who pre-register. The brochure listing participating resorts and phone numbers is available from the Michigan Travel Bureau at 1-800-5432-YES.

Another familiar Michigan ski program is Silver Streak Week. During the week of Jan. 23 - Feb. 1, anyone 55 years old or older who shows proof of age can downhill or cross-country ski free at 48 resorts. The brochure listing participating resorts and phone numbers is also available from the Michigan Travel Bureau.

The Winter Travel Guide's ski pages include the more than a dozen resorts that offer lessons, designated snowboarding, runs and snowshoeing trails.

Its snowmobile section includes a map highlighting Department of Natural Resources trail locations.

The Michigan Winter Travel Guide and Calendar of Events may be obtained by writing the Michigan Travel Bureau, at P.O. Box 30226, Lansing 48909; or calling 1-800-5432-YES. The hearing impaired may call the bureau's TDD number at 1-800-722-8191 (in Michigan only).

Triple-Base Means Flexibility for Farmers

Some farmers will have more planting options than others next year depending on their ability to plant alternative crops on triple base acres, according to Michigan Farm Bureau economist Bob Craig. He said some producers may want to take advantage of the "zero 92" option that allows the planting of minor oilseed and experimental crops on permitted acres. At the same time, this program also allows farmers the security of receiving 92 percent of their usual base deficiency payments.

"It's very important, if farmers feel that they may see a glut in the market for wheat or corn next year, that they explore this important marketing tool," Craig said.

Livestock producers may also harvest a possible benefit of the triple base provision, according to Craig. He said that under the program, year-round haying and grazing is allowed on the mandatory non-payment acres.

Over-all, Craig believes there will be only modest changes in planted acreage and production due to triple base.

Today's Investor

By Thomas E. O'Hara
Chairman, Board of Trustees
National Assoc. of Investors Corp.
& Consulting Editor, Better Investing

Q. I have been intrigued by closed-end funds and would appreciate it if you would explain why they so often sell at a discount to their net asset value. A few months ago there were a number of foreign closed-end funds placed on the market and for a while some of them sold for as much as 25% above their net asset value. Now they have come down. I don't understand why some sell above or below net asset value and would appreciate your comments.

A. First, for the benefit of other readers, let us describe what the net asset value of a closed-end fund is. A closed-end fund is different from the more common open-end fund in that it sets a certain number of shares to be sold and when those are sold the fund is closed. The public can only buy shares from someone who already owns them. You cannot go to the fund and buy new shares at any time as you can with an open-end fund. When you sell shares of a closed-end fund, you cannot sell them back to the fund as you do with an open-end fund. The shares trade on the market like the shares of any other company and you have to find a buyer and take what he will pay when you want to sell them.

Funds, open- or closed-end, generally put the money they receive from shareholders into the securities of companies which are publicly traded in the market. At any one time, if you add up the current market price quote of all those securities which the fund owns, add in the cash and other assets the fund has and deduct its liabilities, you have the net asset value of the fund. If you divide that total by the number of shares outstanding, you have the net asset value per share.

That figure is important in an open-end fund because that is what the company pays when it buys back shares, or gets when it sells new shares. Because open-end funds are continually buying back and selling new shares, they calculate net asset value twice a day. Because closed-end funds are not buying back or issuing new shares, there is no need to continuously calculate net asset value and they usually make that calculation once a week. Since their shares sell in an auction market, like any other stock, the price is determined by the individual buyers or sellers.

Most of the time, closed-end funds seem to sell for less than net asset value. That is probably because there is no sales force pushing them. The Wall Street Journal lists the net asset value of closed-end funds each week along with the percent above or below net asset value of the current offer. Currently many very good funds are selling at more than a 10% discount. This means you are getting 10% more assets working for you than in an open-end fund. Of course, if you sell that fund, you may find it is selling at a discount, but you will have had 10% more working for you while you owned it.

Closed-end funds like other stocks sometimes become very popular and sell at a higher price because of the demand. This is what happened a little while ago when the funds invested in foreign securities were very popular. When you buy a closed-end fund and see you paid more than net asset value, you have a clear picture of how much more you have paid than its actual value.

There is no reason other than current supply and demand to account for their selling above or below net asset value.

Mr. O'Hara welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column.

They're out
for blood.

At first, it was only once a week. Then three times. Now they're out for blood every night. And they're not alone. They're just two of the thousands of people all over the country who are finally starting to do something about the disease that kills almost 32,000 Americans every year—and afflicts another 38 million. It's high blood pressure. And once you know you've got it, you can usually control it. By following your doctor's advice on exercise, weight control, salt intake, and medication. Talk to your doctor today about getting started on a program that will keep you out for blood. And in the running.
