Ag Director Schuette Meets Area Farmers

Bill Schuette, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, met Washtenaw county area farmers and business owners face to face at an open meeting at the Freedom Township Hall last Friday morning.

The main issue of concern was the Washtenaw County Health Department Community Right To Know Regulation of 1989, an ordinance administered by Director of Emergency Management, Daniel Harsh, and overseen by the Washtenaw County Board of Commissioners. Washtenaw county is the only county in Michigan with its own chemical inspection program, and it conflicts with the authority of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, according to Warren McArthur, executive vice-president of the Washtenaw Area Business Association and owner of a dry cleaning business in Chelsea. "It places substantial filing fees on local businesses," McArthur said, ranging "from $100 to $800 per year."

The Right To Know law requires businesses handling chemicals in quantities from five gallons to 27.5 gallons to file with the Health department. A Health Department inspection is required for those handling over 27.5 gallons.

McArthur is testing the law in the circuit courts.

Doug Spencer, supervisor of the Community Right to Know Program at the Washtenaw County Environmental Services Bureau said the department inspects all businesses at least one time to see if in fact there are any chemicals or hazardous waste products on the site, at no charge. Inspection fees are charged to the businesses based upon the quantities of chemicals on the site.

"In small businesses, such as a dry cleaner, fees range from $100 to $200. In medium sized businesses, such as auto related facility with above ground tanks, we find 55 gallon tanks of anti-freeze, fresh and waste motor oil, and even a drum of gasoline. The larger facilities—such as GM, Ford—have a lot of what we consider to be hazardous waste or toxic chemicals," Spencer said. He acknowledged the litigation in the courts. He said one circuit court action and several district court actions have been filed, but declined to comment about the cases.

"The majority of the people, even the business people we are regulating find it is a worthwhile program and will get businesses to clean up their act—there are those that could and are using our help and suggestions. It is a prevention program to audit and point out and require them to put in preventive measures to prevent spills and cleanups that can run into thousands of dollars."

Washtenaw County farmers are exempt from the ordinance, but were included in its original plan. The farmers who were present said they support the business owners in their legal fight. Luke Schaible, chair of the local affairs committee of the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau, said, "Small businesses are being prevented from starting up and are forced to leave because of inspections from the county and that affects job opportunities. We need to keep businesses in the county to keep people employed."

Powers ruling over farmers and businesses are the Michigan Department of Agriculture, Environmental Protection Agency and the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodent Act. "The MDA should render control until there is legislation that designates them not to," Schaible said. "The existing legislation should be improved. More does not need to be created. When two entities try to regulate, it can lead to conflict."

Schaible felt Schuette was not using his opportunity as director at its fullest in some areas. "He's going to let legislation determine over what jurisdiction he has and how much. He shouldn't. Wherever agriculture is related, he should be over it."

Conscientious is how Randy Forest, an Ann Arbor farmer, described Schuette. "Schuette and Engler both have farm backgrounds and I think they're doing all they can; they have to operate within certain guidelines." (Continued on page three)

Big Fireworks Crowd Could Cause Parking Problems in Village

If you're planning to drive into the village to watch the July 4 fireworks display tomorrow night at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds, best advice is to arrive early.

A larger-than-usual crowd is anticipated for the 10 p.m. show due to fireworks blackouts in Ann Arbor and Whitmore Lake this year.

Also, the only official area for free parking is in Chelsea Shopping Center. The fairgrounds parking lots will not be open.

Knights of Columbus is offering parking in their lot on Old US-12 opposite the fairgrounds for a price.

So spectators who want free parking will be forced to park on side streets and in other legal public areas.

No one other than fireworks company professionals will be allowed on the fairgrounds.

The show should last about half an hour, said Mark Baily of Chelsea 1995, the sponsoring organization.

Police plan to issue citations for anyone shooting off illegal fireworks. This year there will be no warnings. Police also plan to look for open intoxicants. Extra Chelsea police will be patrolling the area.

Chelsea Fire Department will also be on hand to help with any kind of emergency.

Preceding the fireworks show, Chelsea 1995 group is sponsoring an Ice Cream Social at Chelsea Shopping Center near Gina's Cafe beginning at 8 p.m. Cost is $1.50. Members of the Chelsea Rotary Club will be scooping the ice cream.

The only community event during the day will be the annual Chicken BBQ sponsored by the American Legion Post 31. From noon to 4 p.m. the Legion will sell dinners for $5 at the post home at 1700 Ridge Rd., Cavanaugh Lake.

The only other fireworks display in the area will be in Manchester.

Council Votes To Fund Chelsea-Ann Arbor Bus

The Chelsea-Ann Arbor bus route is here to stay for at least a few more months.

Last Tuesday, village council approved a subsidy of $3,088 to continue the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority route through September.

Whether the route will continue after September, however, depends on several factors.

On Monday, the fare was increased from $1 to $1.75 each way. In addition, council approved the elimination of Saturday service. The combination means the village was able to knock almost $8,000 off its requested subsidy. Initially, AATA had asked for $9,053 to keep the service through September, which prompted council to ask AATA to consider cost-cutting and other measures.

AATA Executive Director Michael Bolton also offered the alternative of keeping Saturday service at an additional cost of $2,405.

AATA estimates that the local share to keep the route going from Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, 1992 will be between $5,500 and $7,000.

"I have to emphasize that ridership levels have to stay the same or increase," said village manager Jack Myers, characterizing the next three months as an evaluation period.

Village president Richard Steele said if ridership drops off, the village would have to seriously consider whether it can continue to subsidize the route.

Jim Finch Appointed to Village Council

Chelsea resident Jim Finch was appointed last Tuesday to fill the remaining eight months of a village council term.

Finch, who served on the council in the mid-1980s but did not seek reelection, was appointed 6-0 to fill the term of Jack Myers, who was recently named village manager.

The proposed appointment had drawn criticism from zoning inspector Rosemary Harook as a violation of the village's nepotism policy. Finch's son, Rob, is a village mechanic. Before the vote, however, there was no mention of the matter.

O'Hagan on Planning Commission

Chelsea attorney Terrence J. O'Hagan has been appointed to the village planning commission.

O'Hagan takes the place of Dave Prohaska, who resigned due to other commitments.

O'Hagan has an extensive legal background and practices locally in the office of O'Hagan & Darnton. He served on the Lyndon Township Planning Commission from 1981-83 and in 1988 was a candidate for Washtenaw county prosecutor.

Area Thief Trades Up

A Park St. resident told Chelsea police that someone stole a bicycle out of his front yard and left a small scooter in its place on June 23 or 24. Stolen was a BMX bike. Police are investigating.

Motorcycle Crash Seriously Injures Ypsilanti Man

An Ypsilanti man was seriously injured Saturday afternoon when he lost control of his motorcycle on Werkner Rd. and crashed head-on with an oncoming van.

Mike Sukach, 47, of Beemis Rd., was taken by Survival Flight to University of Michigan Hospital, where he underwent emergency surgery. He suffered numerous broken bones.

According to Sgt. Harley Rider of Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, Sukach was driving his motorcycle north on Werkner Rd. at 4:35 p.m. near the Noah farm when he tried to negotiate a right hand curve, lost control, and crossed the center line. The motorcycle had an empty side car, which substantially changes the handling characteristics of the motorcycle, Rider said.

The motorcycle hit a minivan driven by John Knox of Chelsea. Sukach was thrown from his motorcycle, hit the windshield of the van, and bounced to the pavement. Knox, as well as five passengers in the van, were taken to Chelsea Community Hospital and treated for cuts, mostly from flying glass.

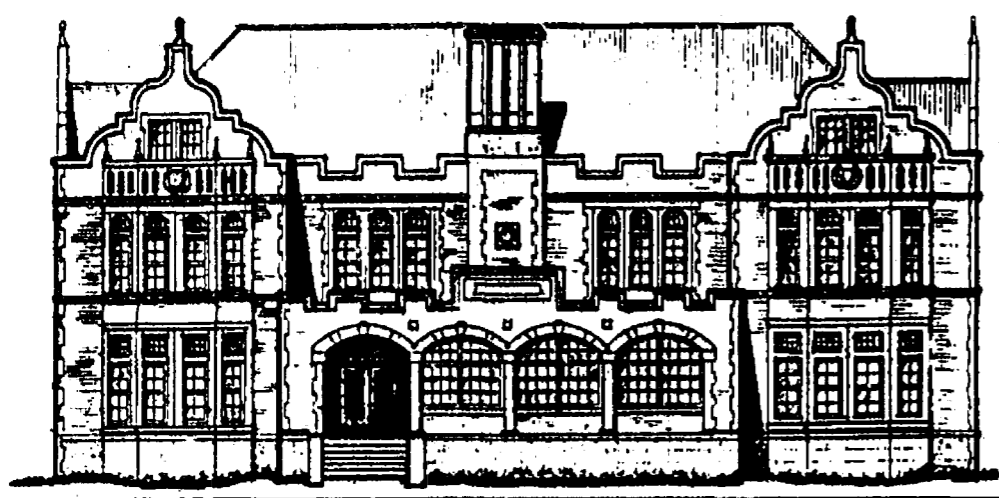

Sukach was riding his 1989 Harley-Davidson with Art Farley of Chelsea, co-owner of Chelsea Motorcycle Supply. Farley was riding ahead of Sukach and was the person who made the emergency telephone call.

CHELSEA POLICE have shifted gears and are now patrolling village streets during the daytime on bicycles when the weather permits. The department has always had a bicycle patrol, but it has been used mostly at night and was voluntary during the daytime. About a month ago the bicycle patrol became mandatory under rules instituted by chief Lenard McDougall. McDougall requisitioned the bikes from the department's inventory of recovered bicycles that were never claimed.

ONE OF THE ATTRACTIONS at last Friday's Kelly Miller Circus at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds was elephant rides. Here, Cheryl Cremer of Chelsea takes Kara, 15 months, for a ride, while Timmy and Jessica Gillespie of Chelsea take in the sights from behind.

Bob Daniels, owner of Chelsea Lumber Co. and developer of Lanewood Subdivision, planned to enter the Chelsea bout with condominium fever by constructing 13 buildings just northeast of Lanewood.

Bob Browning, a Sugar Loaf Lake resident, was first runner-up for the State of Michigan's Correction Officer of the Year award. There are approximately 6,000 corrections officers in the prison system. Browning has worked at Cassidy Lake Technical School for the last six years and previously worked at Camp Waterloo. Browning was president of the state-wide Michigan Corrections Officers Union and was president of the local at Cassidy Lake. According to Cassidy Lake Warden John Staten, Browning has always been willing to take on additional work and has given "outstanding performance" to the minimum security prison.

Lynn and David Stoll of Chelsea were the new owners of Village Flowers and Gift Shop in Dexter. They purchased the shop from Dick and Marty Kolander. Asked why she purchased the shop, Lynn Stoll replied, "Flowers have always been a big part of my life."

Judge Allows Out-of-State L.L.R.W. Disposal Until 1993
Michigan may resume disposing of low level radioactive waste in other states' facilities under a decision released by U.S. Federal District Judge Robert Holmes Bell in Grand Rapids.

The judge interpreted federal law to require states with approved disposal facilities to provide access to them until 1993, when state governments or regional compacts have to provide for safe disposal of the waste.

"Judge Bell's 27-page decision reflects his serious review of this precedent-setting case," said Michigan Coalition of Radioactive Material Users Director Bill Lukens.

"His conclusion affirms our belief Michigan has a right to dispose of wastes in the (only) three states with existing disposal facilities. The three states—South Carolina, Nevada and Washington—had one interpretation of federal law, and we had another."

MichRad filed the lawsuit on Nov. 13, when the states began denying access to Michigan generators of low level radioactive waste, forcing waste to be stored on-site at 51 facilities in 18 counties.

Michigan's hospitals, industrial firms, universities and utilities produce about 30,000 cubic feet of waste each year through power generation, medical treatments and diagnosis, research and industrial processes.

"If this were a game, we could view this decision as a victory," Lukens said. "In reality, our action has bought state government 18 months to act to safely handle this waste. We hope the state will use that time constructively, since there are no other actions we can take to help."

Reiterating the administration's position that Michigan is not an appropriate host site for a regional disposal facility, John Truscott, spokesman for Governor John Engler, said the decision buys the state time to negotiate with other states to find a permanent waste site. "This allows us to get rid of the waste that has been building up," Truscott said.

"We thought we should have access all along," said Elaine Brown, associate commissioner for the Low Level Radioactive Waste Authority. "Michigan was denied access for the wrong reasons."

Brown said generators have managed the on-site storage but some that were not planning on-site storage until 1993 may have had difficulty later if the judge had not decided in Michigan's favor.

In his decision, Bell said Michigan met the requirements established in the 1985 act's system of incentives and penalties linked to the first three of four milestones dated July 1, 1988; Jan. 1, 1988; Jan. 1, 1990; and Jan. 1, 1992; making it eligible for guaranteed access to facilities under federal law until 1993.

To meet the milestones, Michigan has ratified legislation joining the Midwest Compact; Michigan and the Compact have designated the state as the host site, developed a siting plan and delegated authority to implement the plan; and Michigan filed the governor's certification that the state is capable of providing for storage, disposal or management of waste after Dec. 31, 1992.

The defending states have charged Michigan is not continuing its compliance with the 1988 milestone dealing with determination of a site.

The judge ordered the three states to make disposal capacity available and permanently enjoined them and their agents from denying access to Michigan waste generators.

The defending states could appeal the case to the federal circuit court in Cincinnati. David Bloss, a Grand Rapids attorney serving as local counsel for the defending states, said attorneys from the three states have had enough time to determine whether they want to file an appeal but are considering it.

"We're disappointed," Bloss said. "Judge Bell is accepting the idea that Michigan could be in compliance with the milestone and then back off from it with no harm to the state."

The states first denied access to their facilities when the search for a regional disposal site in Michigan slowed and Michigan requested more money from other members of the Midwest Low Level Radioactive Waste Compact to continue looking for an appropriate site.

Brown said they were trying to use Michigan as an example since other states have fallen behind in meeting the 1993 deadline for a regional facility.

Court action is expected this fall in a lawsuit Michigan filed against other Compact members to obtain more funding or seek withdrawal as host site for the Compact.

The other states have pressured Michigan to soften its "overly restrictive" site selection criteria. Truscott said the Engler administration would like to stay in the Compact but with a different state selected to host the facility.

Bloss said federal law requires Michigan to be working "in good faith" to come up with its own disposal facility. The lawsuit with other Compact members and indications from the Engler administration that Michigan will not be a suitable site for a facility demonstrate a lack of good faith, Bloss said.

Bell's ruling tells Michigan it does not have to work in good faith without penalty, Bloss said.

"Bell's decision clearly gave the state only 18 more months, but I don't think it should have gotten those," he said.

Brown said as long as it is a member of the Compact, Michigan will continue searching for a site once it obtains adequate funds from other member states.

She added 10 to 12 of the 51 disposal facilities in Michigan will have to improve their storage capacity to continue operations after 1992, when they are expected to provide on-site storage until Michigan has found a permanent facility.

The first guaranteed employment was offered by the National Wallpaper Co. in 1894, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. The company assured its workers of 11 months of employment.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellers at the country store Saturday night got to wondering how the country will take note of Independence Day. With all the parading and flag waving we've been doing lately, Bug Hookum said, it's going to be tough to make the celebrating stand out.

Then Bug went on to answer his own question. He figured we will have two schools of holiday thought like we allus do. One class wears itself to a frazzle, the other lays back and catches its breath and both are like flavors of religion that take different roads trying to git to the same place. When you think about it, Bug said, you can't be more American than making room for all the flavors.

Bug said he was of the laid back school. He got more than enough of the other when he was a boy and as regular as July 4 come his Pa took Ma and all the children to the biggest picnic with the longest speeches. Fer him, Bug said, waiting fer the fireworks was like squirming through two extra sermons to git to the covered dishes.

The fellers general agreed that America is the land of different courses fer different horses, but Zeke Grubb was of a mind that however we celebrate the Fourth we ought not to lose sight of where we come from and where we want to go any more than the different religions do. Zeke said we're the only hope the world's got of spreading democracy.

Furthermore, Zeke went on, the more he reads about the Soviets' latest form of blackmail the less he thinks of it. He said democracy is the only form of Government that can't be forced on folks, and it can't be bought or borrowed like surplus wheat.

Ed Doolittle said Zeke was on the right track, but as usual the train is going the wrong way. It ain't the Soviet people that democracy is being forced on, it's the leaders of the Soviet people. What the people over there want is what the leaders know will put them out of business. So the leaders make all the reform motions with one hand and beat the people over the head with the other. How else, Ed wanted to know, can you explain why the Soviet Government keeps spending so much on its military and keeps Communist Cuba propped up when the Soviet people can't find enough to eat.

General, Clem Webster, allowed, he worries about what more billions would buy us in the Soviet Union; But we need to keep in mind that we might not of been able to send the British packing if it hadn't been fer the French and the Germans. Fer sure, he went on, they had their own reasons that had nothing to do with democracy, but we were mighty thankful fer their services all the same. We got some good reasons of our own fer helping the Soviets now, Clem said, and trade has got to be about as high on the list as peace. We just got to be sure our aid is helping us, was Clem's words.

Personal, I kept thinking during the discussion of them Cold War ism meanings. Communism is when you have two cows you give both to the Government and it gives you some of the milk. Capitalism is when you have two cows you sell one and buy a bull. I figger what the Soviets need is less bull and more bulls.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

State Representative Margaret O'Connor, who asked Schuette to address the group, asked the director for his comments about Farmers Act 118. The Act gives a tax break to farmers for agreeing to keep their land as farm land for a certain number of years.

"The farmers promised to keep their land agricultural but their land is being assessed at higher rates, either as residential or developmental," O'Connor said.

O'Connor is developing a bill to correct the problem. The bill will ensure that when properties are purchased, "it won't shoot the agricultural assessment up," O'Connor said. "Call it what you want, but don't make the taxes higher, tax it as agricultural."

Safety Town Instructs 120 Future Chelsea Kindergarten Kids

Chelsea Safety Town program drew 120 of Chelsea's 190 kindergarten

During the two-week class, children learned and practiced many safety lessons, from crossing the street to stranger danger. The teaching team reinforced the lessons with songs, verses, and group talking.

The children were taught by Chelsea police officer Chris Minick and deputies Jon Seicluna and Stan
Yates of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department. The children also visited the Chelsea Fire Department and heard assistant chief Dan Ellenwood, and fireman Randy Stowe.

The children were encouraged to go home and talk about what they learned with family and friends, as well as practice reciting their full names, their parents full names, their address and telephone number.

Other teachers included Mary Lou Bower, Lana Ching, Becky Morse, and Lois Ann Kapp.

Other volunteers included Abby

Woman May Build Three Condos Without Access to Clear Lake

A Clear Lake woman will be able to build a three-unit condominium but condominium residents will not have access to the lake, the Waterloo township board has ruled.

Patricia Koch of Clear Lake wants to convert a former recreation building into a condominium complex. She initially applied for a conditional use permit in 1988, but the time limit passed. She reapplied this year, but since 1988 had changed the deed to the property to allow direct access to the lake through a 30-foot strip of lake frontage she owns.

The township board feared that if

Koch is allowed to "funnel," or give those residents direct access to the lake, eventually four other parcels around the lake could be developed in the same manner and possibly add as many as 150 boats, said township supervisor Everill Huttenlocker.

"[The access] was not in the original application," Huttenlocker said.

The board put two conditions on the conditional use permit to allow the condos. First, the easement to the lake must be deleted from the master deed. And, second, the project has to be built with a well and septic tank rather than another waste disposal system.

Clear Lake is a 138-acre lake with about 80 residents. It is spring fed and has a clay bottom, which means pollution has nowhere to go.

Koch also has 12 other lots on her property which could be developed. Huttenlocker said he doesn't know whether Koch planned to take her case to district court, which is her next avenue of appeal.

Site Work Costly For Electric Building

Site work for the village's new electric and water building could add as much as $120,000 to the cost of the project.

The village plans to build the new complex on two lots at the back of the village's industrial park on Sibley Rd.

A recent estimate for all site work came in at $118,640. A major portion of the expense, $29,700, is for hauling in about 5,000 yards of fill dirt to raise the grade about two feet. The site is lower than the stormwater drainage ditch that serves the lots.

The estimate included some work, such as the installation of pipes and manholes, that can be handled by village labor, which could cause the final figure to drop.

Ann Arbor Design Build won the original construction bid for the building with a base bid of $179,500 for the building alone.

Village manager Jack Myers said the building is a budgeted item in the 1991-92 budget. Revenues from the sale of electricity and water will eventually pay for the building.

The village had to construct the new building due to soil contamination by leaky underground gasoline tanks at its current North St. facility.

The back industrial park lots were chosen, in part, because the village anticipates it will eventually build an electrical substation in the area.

UP TO $500 REWARD FOR INFORMATION LEADING TO THE ARREST AND CONVICTION OF VANDALS OR THIEVES OF MEMORIALS IN THIS CEMETERY

PLEASE REPORT INFORMATION TO ARNET'S, BECKERS & BURRELLS MONUMENTS

313-665-3658

Additional information about reward available at Arnet's

LARRY ARNET, owner of Arnet's, Becker's & Burrell's Monuments in Scio township, is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the conviction of thieves or vandals of cemetery memorials. He is creating these signs to be posted in all of the area's cemeteries.

Reward Program Offered To Nab Grave Vandals, Headstone Thieves

In an attempt to thwart would-be cemetery vandals and headstone thieves, a Scio township man is beginning a program he hopes he'll never have to use.

Larry Arnet, owner of Arnet's, Becker's & Burrell's Monuments on Jackson Rd., is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the conviction of anyone who steals or vandals a cemetery marker. That kind of destruction of property is fairly common.

Arnet has created signs detailing the program that he is offering to any area cemetery.

"I saw a story about a town out east that had a horrible problem with this kind of destruction," Arnet said.

"Ever since they offered the rewards, they haven't had a single problem."

Arnett said most cemetery vandalism occurs around high school graduation time and probably involves groups of teen-agers. He is counting on teen-agers being willing to turn in a friend for a reward. Or, more to the point, he's hoping that potential vandals who see the sign will wonder whether they can trust who they're with and think twice.

"After all, if they were trustworthy people, they wouldn't be out there in the first place," Arnet said.

About 100 signs have been distributed to 25 cemeteries. Any cemetery that wants to secure a sign is urged to contact Arnet.

"I figure I've got my neck stuck out about five miles and this may not end up being too bright," Arnet said.

"But it can't do any harm. I thought it was about time somebody did something about the problem."

Arnet may be reached at (313) 665-3658.

July 4th Independence Day

The Flag is many things. It is a mark of identification of ships at sea and of armies in the field. It is a means of communication. When you see our Flag in front of a home, it says for all the world to read, "Here lives a family that is American in spirit as well as in name." The Flag is a mirror, reflecting to each person his own ideals and dreams. It is a history. Its thirteen stripes and fifty stars embrace a record written greatly during these years since 1776. It is a mark of pride in a great word—the word "American." It is an aspiration of what small children want their lives to be. It is a memory at the end of life of all that life has been. It is a ribbon of honor for those who have served it well—in peace and war. It is a warning not to detour from the long road that has brought our country and its people to a degree of prosperity and happiness never even approached under any other banner.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

As residents of Chelsea we thank the DDA (Downtown Development Authority) in getting off to a good start on improving the downtown area. We all appreciate all the time the DDA Committee has put into planning such a project. We know there will be parts of this project that won't please everyone. The question we have to ask is, "What right does the DDA have to go into residential neighborhoods and place commercial grade signs in front of residents' homes?"

At three different locations:

1. Washington St. and Madison St.
2. Madison St. near A. D. Mayer Dr.
3. Freer Rd. near A. D. Mayer Dr.

A 5'x8' metal sign has been placed to give direction to the high school and Beach middle school. The signs were made and installed by an out-of-town sign company. They are brightly painted and attractively styled, but they are very non-conforming with the area they are placed in.

We have talked with many of our neighbors and they agree that the size and type of sign does not belong in residential neighborhoods.

Most everyone who lives in or around Chelsea knows where the schools are. So the signs are only to inform out-of-town people how to get to the high school or Beach school. It looks like we have gone to great expense to direct people through our residential neighborhoods for craft shows, sporting events, plays, or whatever other business the schools are attracting out-of-town people for.

The signs are placed on road right-of-way, but there are a few questions we must ask the DDA and the Village Council:

1. Do we need any signs at all?
2. Why was no one informed of the size and locations?
3. Could we have used the money spent on the signs in a more beneficial way?
4. Would a small sign, like the one at Van Buren and Main, have been just as good?
5. Of what benefits to the downtown Business District are these signs?
6. A total of six signs were placed for the two schools. Are they going to place six more for the other two schools? How about the Library, or the Methodist Home, or the Farmers Market, etc.?
7. Are the signs legal under the zoning laws of the village for residential areas?
8. Who paid for these signs?

We feel the signs are not appropriate for the area and should be removed immediately.

We want to encourage everyone who agrees to call or write the village offices, or attend the next council meeting to express your view point.

When you go by and look at these signs, just ask yourself one question, "Would I want this sign in front of my home?" We don't think so!

David & Debbie Walker.

FRONT TEETH ARE VALUABLE

A front tooth is worth $309,300 or 12 cents, depending upon how you figure, according to a survey by the American Association of Endodontists reported in the Chicago Tribune. The materials that go into making up the average tooth—calcium, phosphorus, water, etc.—cost only about 12 cents to buy. But in a survey of 1,023 men and women taken by the association, people put a much higher value on their teeth than that. When asked how much they would take for a front tooth, nearly one-fourth of the respondents said they wouldn't sell a tooth for anything. About 15 percent said they'd want at least $1 million, but the rest weren't so demanding and the average asking price from the entire group came out to $309,300.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider

* Pets and the Heat

As July and August approach, the temperatures in lower Michigan rise, bringing some dangers for our pets. One of the most serious is a parked car. Many people enjoy taking their dogs along on errands and excursions, and a few people even take their cats with them. However pets are often unwelcome in places of business and pleasure. It is therefore tempting but very dangerous to leave a pet in the car. Pet theft is a concern year-round, but the hot summer sun can literally bake an animal who is trapped in a locked car with no escape.

Though the outside temperature may be as low as 80 degrees, the temperature inside the car can climb rapidly to an unsafe level in just several minutes, even with the windows slightly open. Dogs and cats cannot cool themselves as efficiently as humans, who have sweat glands over much of their bodies. Pets can only sweat through the pads of their feet, and pant. Overheating quickly leads to brain damage and death from heat exhaustion.

If you find a pet in a closed car in the summer, immediately call the police. And please leave your dog or cat at home when you drive to places where your pet is not welcome!

The warm summer days also mean that we are outside with our pets more frequently. Remember that overheating can occur during heavy exercise out-of-doors too. If your pet's body temperature rises to 107 degrees, heatstroke is imminent. The animal may become weak and wobbly, or may collapse and show signs of shock. Immediately move the pet to the shade and cool his or her body with cool (not ice) water. An emergency trip to the veterinarian is often required to save a life.

The Fourth of July is probably a pet's least favorite holiday. The loud explosions of firecrackers cause many dogs and cats to become highly nervous. They may try to hide from the commotion or actually run away from the area. On the day after the Fourth, the Humane Society of Huron Valley receives an unusually large number of lost pets. Never force your pet to stay near fireworks. It is safer and more humane to keep him or her indoors in a quiet room all night. Very nervous animals may require your companionship also.

Enjoy the warm summer days with your dog or cat, but be sure to be aware and responsible for your pet's safety too!

4-H Clubbers Visit MMPA Plant

Members and adult leaders of 4-H Clubs and FFA Chapters from several Michigan counties gathered at Michigan Milk Producers Association (MMPA) headquarters in Novi June 25-26 for the 54th annual 4-H/MMPA Milk Marketing Tour.

The tour, co-sponsored by MMPA and Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service, is designed to familiarize the 4-H members with the principles of milk marketing, as well as the duties and operations of a dairy farmer cooperative. For many of the students, this visit was their first formal exposure to the principles of a cooperative.

Elwood Kirkpatrick, MMPA president, discussed the purpose and benefits of co-operatives. Milk marketing and its pricing structure were emphasized by general manager Walt Wosje. Laboratory supervisor Gil Johnson explained the various quality tests performed on milk and discussed MMPA laboratory procedures.

While in Novi, the group toured the MMPA office, including the on-site laboratory. They also participated in "Real or Imitation" taste tests, and divided into several co-operatives where they formed "boards of directors" that worked to develop and defend a policy statement on BST, a current issue in the dairy industry.

MMPA, established in 1916, is a milk marketing co-operative owned and controlled by 4,000 dairy farmer members.

Huron River Day Offers Something for Everyone

It will be anything but a lazy river when Ann Arbor floods to the Huron River on Sunday, July 14, for its 11th annual Huron River Day celebration.

Sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation and the Huron River Community Coalition, the event takes place from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. and hosts a variety of free and paid activities including children's games and crafts, environmental displays, canoe lessons, a tree clinic, a classic canoe display, windsurfing demonstrations, bike maintenance instruction, a 1 mile run and a 5K Fun Run, a youth fishing derby, and more. In addition, the specially-designed water crafts provided by the Freedom on the River Rowing Program will be available for use by the mobility impaired.

For canoe enthusiasts, there will be a variety of canoe races sponsored by the Ann Arbor News. Beginning at 8:30 in the morning, there will be 8-, 4- and 2-mile races, a Corporate Challenge in which area businesses compete for a "Corporate Supremacy," a Mayor's Race, and races for the specially abled. Adult, child, male, female, tandem, solo... there's no need to be a spectator and every reason to be a participant.

Registration information is available at the Parks and Recreation Department, 5th Floor City Hall or Gallup Park Canoe Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd., Ann Arbor.

If you prefer something a little less active, you can sit by the river and listen to the melodious sounds of the Ann Arbor Civic Band or jazz pianist, Jerry Perrine. Or you can indulge your sweet tooth at the Bryant Community Center Ice Cream Social.

If preservation of our natural resources is a high priority for you, then stop by the display tent in the afternoon for informative displays on ecology. Or take in a slide presentation or lecture on a variety of topics.

The day promises something for everyone. For a complete schedule of events, stop by the Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation or any city-owned recreational facility.

* Trash in the Lakes...

Plastics pollution has been, and continues to be, a major concern in the world's oceans. Tales of sea-going creatures mistakenly ingesting a floating plastic bag and dying of internal complications abound. Photos of sea birds struggling, most times in vain, to free themselves of plastic six-pack rings are distressingly common.

Thankfully, few similar stories have surfaced in connection with the Great Lakes. That's not to say that "trashing" of the Sweetwater Seas is not a problem. The truth is... little conclusive research would seem to have been performed on the plastics problem as it affects the Great Lakes and few hard facts published.

Less still has been said about the problem in our state's inland waters.

However, it's been estimated by Coast Guard authorities that every recreational boat excursion taken today results in the dumping by the boat's skipper of one pound of plastics trash into the water. The same quantities which have made plastics so successful—durability, light weight, strength—make plastic debris a menace in our nation's waters.

Effective Dec. 31, 1988, it became illegal for any vessel to dump plastics trash in the oceans or navigable waterways of the United States. (The law also applies to other types of trash dumping as well.) Then why does the problem continue? Probably because it's somehow "easier" to dump unwanted trash in the water than to bring it back to shore for proper disposal.

You can help battle plastics pollution and other undesirable dumping by:

(1) making it a boat policy that positively no trash is to be discarded overboard. As mentioned, illegal dumping has been banned and is now punishable by a maximum $25,000 fine, (2) encouraging your dock or marina to provide convenient trash disposal facilities, (3) when feasible, retrieving all trash encountered in the water or on shore, (4) installing trash compactors aboard larger vessels, and (5) participating in local beach cleanups and leaving beach areas clean after visits.

Ultimately, the solution to plastics pollution lies with those individuals who care about the future of our state's aquatic environment and its living resources. While not the total answer, the practice of plastics recycling may just contribute to that solution.

Increasingly, plastic materials are being successfully recycled. Many of the everyday plastic items we regularly use and take for granted—things like plastic milk jugs, foam cups, laundry detergent containers—are being used to make such useful items as park benches, plastic lumber and, yes, even more detergent containers.

Estimates are that plastics account for some 18 percent of all landfilled material at present. Sadly, most all plastic items have traditionally been tossed after a single use. But, that situation may be changing—industry officials indicate they hope, within five years, to be able to recycle fully 25 percent of the plastics now thrown away.

Conrail To Close M-52 Crossing

Conrail is scheduled to repair the Main St. railroad crossing in Chelsea for the next four to six weeks.

As a result, the crossing will close, perhaps as early as Friday, July 5, but more likely early next week.

Conrail will re-route north and southbound traffic around the village. Southbound traffic will probably be routed to Wilkinson St., Old US-12, and back to M-52. Northbound traffic will probably be routed down Old US-12 to Freer Rd., McKinley St., and Dewey St.

The crossing is scheduled to be open in time for the Chelsea Community Fair, which begins Aug. 20.

Residents in those areas should be prepared for a substantial increase in traffic.

Three Area Men Place in Tough Mountain Bike Race

Three area men placed in the World Cup Mountain Bike Race in Traverse City last week-end.

Jim Daly of Chelsea took eighth place in the 18-mile Veteran Men Sport Class race, consisting of three laps around Sugar Loaf Mountain. The race is for men age 35-44. His time was 1:52:36.

Matt Dacy of Pinckney won the same event with a time of 1:40:59.

Another Pinckney resident, Thomas Jones, placed seventh in the Master Men Sport Class Race, an 18-mile race for men age 45-54. His time was 2:05:28.

Old-Fashion July 4th Celebration Slated at Cobblestone Farm

Cobblestone Farm in Ann Arbor will be the site of an annual 4th of July celebration. Activities include a reading of the Declaration of Independence, horse and wagon rides, storytelling, traditional lawn games such as sack races, a watermelon eating and seed spitting contest, and an apple pie raffle.

Guests will also be able to tour the historic mid-19th century farmhouse. In the farmhouse, activities will include the baking of an Independence Day cake in a wooden stove, making ice cream the old-fashioned way, and the "What's It Box" game sponsored by the Washtenaw Historical Society.

Ice cream and lemonade will be available. Hours are from 12 noon to 4 p.m. Fees vary depending on the activity.

Nature Events Slated At Area Metroparks

Several nature events will be held at the Huron-Clinton Metroparks during the period of July 6 through July 9.

"Did They Hatch Yet?" a program focusing on bluebirds, chickadees, swallows and other birds using the nesting boxes in the park, will be held at the Activity Center of Hudson Mills Metropark near Dexter on Sunday, July 7 at 1 p.m.

Three nature events will be held at the Nature Center of Kensington Metropark near Milford/Brighton.

"Walking Wildwing," a naturalist-led walk along Wildwing Trail, will be held on Saturday, July 6 at 1:30 p.m.

"Alien Walk," a look at plants from other parts of the world, will be held Sunday, July 7 at 7 p.m.

"Adult Evening Nature Cruise," a naturalist-led cruise aboard the Island Queen excursion boat for adults only, will be held Tuesday, July 9 at 8 p.m. There is a charge of $2 per person and participants should meet at the Boat Rental Dock.

Most programs are "free," some may have a nominal charge. Advance registration and a vehicle entry permit are required. For information/registration, contact the Huron-Clinton Metroparks, phone 1-800-47-PARKS (toll-free).

Mr. B Trio Headlines First Concert in Park

The fourth year of Chelsea's Concert-in-the-Park series gets underway this Sunday afternoon in Pierce Park with a performance by the Mr. B. Trio.

Mark Braun, critically-acclaimed as Mr. B., has performed solo concerts here the past two seasons. He has several albums to his credit. His style of boogie-woogie and blues piano has been one of the major events of the summer.

This year Mr. B. brings with him Andrew Conlin on drums and Kurt Krahnke on bass.

Conlin is regarded as one of the area's premier stylists of swing-era drumming and is a protege of the late J.C. Heard.

Krahnke is one of the Detroit-area's most sought-after and acclaimed young jazz bass players and is regularly called upon by touring musicians.

Both men have toured with and regularly accompany Mr. B.

The year's opening concert will feature a new attraction—Art in the Park. Beach Middle school artists, students of Bev Yelsik and Judy Parker, as well as artists from the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home and Chelsea Senior Center, will show their creations in an outdoor art show.

Concert runs from 4:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. Sponsors are Chelsea Recreation Council and Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

Concertgoers may bring lawn chairs, blankets, food, beverages and any other creature comfort. However, alcoholic beverages are prohibited.

Kiwanis Kitchen will be set up in the parking lot for anyone who would like to purchase a sausage sandwich, drink, or other items. Chelsea High school Key Club will operate the wagon as a fundraiser.

Free parking is available on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital. The concert is also free of charge.

MARK BRAUN will bring his Mr. B Trio to Pierce Park this Sunday for the first installment of the Concert in the Park series.

Village Uses Electric Fund To Pay Off Equipment Loan

Village of Chelsea has decided to dip into its electric fund to pay off a loan for the purchase and installation of $68,417 in 9-1-1 emergency equipment.

Village manager Jack Myers suggested that council borrow the money from its electric fund and pay the loan back from the general fund at 5.5 percent interest, the lowest non-taxable interest rate charged by Chelsea State Bank.

The loan will be used to pay off a 7.4 percent note from Society Bank. Myers said the savings will amount to $8,058.32 in interest.

"In addition, we'll be paying ourselves back," Myers said.

The emergency equipment has been activated for a couple of months, although so far it has not been frequently used. County residents dial 9-1-1 in case of any police, fire, or medical emergency.

Council Approves New Ordinance on Home Occupations

Village council last Tuesday adopted a new home occupations ordinance designed to regulate businesses residents operate out of their homes.

There were several instances in recent years in which the village and business owners disagreed about the language in the ordinance. The most recent case involved Royalty Limousine Service, which is now out of business. However, a civil suit against the village is pending.

Council had asked the village planning commission to consider allowing home businesses in multiple family units such as apartments. However, the commission decided there was too much potential for a nuisance to be created and they recommended limiting the businesses to single-family homes.

Council voted 5-1 in favor of the ordinance, with trustee Stephanie Kanten dissenting. She said, as an example, a senior citizen who wants to prepare taxes in his apartment for clients should be allowed to do so.

The ordinance is intended to allow a home occupation in such a way that "the average neighbor, under normal circumstances, will not be aware of its existence." The business will not create a change in the neighborhood, create a nuisance for residents, or create a public financial burden. The ordinance will not allow a business simply because a similar business was allowed in the past.

The ordinance governs employees, floor space, parking, signs, use of utilities, noise and other pollution, and potential hazards.

Plant, Finches Stolen from Porch

The woman said a family of finches was living in the flower pot.

Social Services Names New Director, Plans Fall Project

This spring has been a busy one for Chelsea Social Services with the addition of a new director as well as several new board members.

Debra Treadt Brinklow has been named to replace Linda Ormsby as director of the organization. Debra moved to the area one year ago and brings with her extensive background in working with children and families.

Ms. Brinklow received her master's degree from Western Michigan University and has worked the last six years with several different organizations of Child and Family Services throughout Michigan. Her work has included responsibilities in direct service, supervision, and administration. She has worked in the areas of infant and special needs adoption, regular and intensive foster care, pregnancy counseling, child care referral services, and youth emergency services.

As director, Ms. Brinklow recently met with numerous community leaders in an effort to identify current unmet needs. Several recommendations were made from individuals representing the schools, churches, human service providers, and the business community. At its last meeting, after reviewing Ms. Brinklow's report, the Social Service Board has decided in principle to take the following course of action:

1) Maintain traditional services to the underprivileged. This includes direct monetary assistance for specific crisis situations, short-term provision of food supplies, and the traditional distribution of new clothing and food baskets at Christmas.

2) A new project will be started shortly entitled the "Fall Friends Program." The purpose of this program will be to assist with providing necessary clothing and supplies for children starting school. While maintaining confidentiality as to the identity of the recipients, CSS will provide The Chelsea Standard with weekly profiles of selected needy children in an effort to match community donations with specific needs.

3) Expand existing counseling services to address specific needs of the community as a whole rather than only the economically disadvantaged. Utilizing Ms. Brinklow's extensive background and experience in child and family counseling, these services could include support/education groups to deal with issues like families experiencing divorce, grief recovery, socialization skills, effective parenting, etc. These programs would be made available for a fee based on a sliding scale so as to provide wide access to individuals from all income levels.

4) Establish a volunteer program and develop a directory for those interested in volunteering as well as a guide to match services with those in need.

5) Co-ordinate activities with Faith in Action, the Ministerial Association, and other service organizations to avoid duplication of services and to allow optimal utilization of talents and resources from different groups.

6) Expand community awareness of the existence and mission of CSS and explore expanded avenues of funding.

Chelsea Social Services was founded in 1966 to meet three primary needs for families in the Chelsea School District. These needs included: 1) counseling services, 2) referral services, and 3) distribution of food, clothing and other forms of assistance.

Chelsea Social Services is a private non-profit agency that is generously supported by Chelsea United Way, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, local churches, and private donors. The Chelsea Boy Scouts have generously supported Chelsea Social Services with their annual canned food drive. Many organizations and individuals have been supportive of Chelsea Social Services throughout its years of service.

New board members to Chelsea Social Services for 1991 include Will Susan, Nancy Grau, Randy Musbach, and Marie Colombo. They join returning board members president Don Cole, vice-president Bonnie Castleberry, treasurer Luther Kusterer, David Swan, and Kay Heller. Jacqueline Riethmiller provides secretarial services and staffs the office on Thursdays.

Chelsea Social Services is located on the second floor of the Municipal Building in downtown Chelsea with office hours from 10-4 on Thursdays. Inquiries and/or donations may be made during office hours or a message may be left on the answering machine at 475-1581.

Summer Baseball Team Has Tough Week With Three Losses

Chelsea's Connie Mack baseball team had a rough time last week as they won one of four games.

Chelsea beat Walled Lake, 16-5, but lost to Wayne, 6-1, and Ann Arbor Cliff Keen, 7-6 and 14-7.

In the first action of the week at Wayne Memorial High school, Wayne took a 2-0 lead in the first inning on one hit, two Chelsea errors and two pass balls.

Chelsea scored their lone run in the second inning as Tim Wescott walked and eventually scored on an error.

Wayne scored one run in the third and three in the fourth.

Chelsea had four hits but stranded 10 runners in the game. Chris White doubled and Colby Skelton, Casey Schiller and Rob Jaques singled.

Rob Clem pitched for Chelsea, struck out 12, walked one, and gave up six hits.

"If you look at Rob's stats, you wonder why he didn't win," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

"But Wayne made their hits count and we had five errors."

On Thursday Chelsea hosted Walled Lake and jumped out to a 1-0 lead in the first inning. Jaques singled and eventually scored on Ken Slane's double.

In the second inning, singles by Wescott and Kerry Plank pushed the score to 2-0.

A three-run homer highlighted a five-run fourth inning for Walled Lake to give them a 5-2 lead. Walled Lake had three hits and a hit batsman to go along with three Chelsea errors.

Chelsea rallied in the bottom of the fourth as they sent 18 batters to the plate, collected 12 hits and scored 14 runs.

"It was a coach's dream," Marshall said.

"We seemed to wake up after the top of the inning."

The mercy rule took effect after Chelsea set down Walled Lake in order in the fifth.

White improved his pitching record to 3-0 as he allowed six hits, struck out three, and walked two.

"With the exception of the fourth inning, Chris was pretty much in control the whole way," Marshall said.

Chelsea had 18 hits, including two each by White (two doubles), Slane, Jaques, Plank, Steve Grau, Chris Dunham, Kevin McCalla, and Wescott. Rick Clouse doubled and Ed Waller singled.

On Saturday, June 29, Chelsea played Cliff Keen at Pioneer High school.

In the opener, Chelsea took a 4-0 lead in the first inning as Slane, Plank, and Clem singled to load the bases. Grau walked to drive in the first run, White sacrificed the second run home, and Clouse singled to drive home two more.

By the fifth inning Chelsea held a 5-3 lead. However, Cliff Keen pushed four runs across the plate in the sixth inning, with some help from the Chelsea defense.

Chelsea scored one run in the seventh inning and had the bases loaded, but a strikeout ended the inning.

Clem struck out eight, walked four, and gave up five hits.

Chelsea had eight hits, including a double and two singles by Slane, two singles by Plank, and singles by Clem, Grau, and Clouse. Chelsea stranded seven runners.

In the second game, Cliff Keen scored three times in the top of the first inning.

However, Chelsea rallied with three runs in the bottom of the inning, highlighted by singles by Ben Hurst and White.

Cliff Keen scored four more runs in the second inning to take a 7-3 lead, and in the third inning increased the lead to 9-3.

Chelsea scored twice in the third on McCalla's bases-loaded double, and two in the fifth on one hit by Clouse.

Cliff Keen finished their scoring with four runs in the seventh inning. Hurst pitched three innings, Slane pitched into the seventh, and Plank pitched to the last two batters.

Chelsea had five hits.

Chelsea's record drops to 3-4. The next game is Tuesday, July 9 at 6:15 at Chelsea High school.

Welton Named State Coach of the Year

Chelsea High school baseball coach Wayne Welton, who guided his Bulldogs to a 33-3 record and a class B title this season, has been given the state's highest coaching honor by his peers.

Welton, named Class B Coach of the Year, was also named Coach of the Year among all four classes in a vote of the Board of Directors of the Coaches Association. As such he was also selected coach of the Dream Team, the all-class state all-star team. Chelsea's Jake Rindle is a member of the team.

"It is quite a thrill and quite an honor," Welton said.

"But it was nicer to win the championship and I'd trade it for another one."

The award, Welton said, should be shared with his assistants Akel Marshall, Randy Brier, Todd Starkey, and Fred Holdsworth, as well as junior varsity coach Jim Ticknor and freshman coach Mike Bohlender.

"We have a lot of fine people who work with us and who have made the program," Welton said.

Welton, a 13-year veteran, has a 263-133-6 career mark. His teams have won three full Southeastern Conference titles, as well as five regular-season titles. The Bulldogs have been first or second in the SEC in each of the last seven years. In seven of the last eight years the teams have won at least 20 games.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It's been a period of withdrawal for me over the last couple of weeks. After watching the Chelsea Bulldogs during two tremendous week-ends of baseball, I find myself wondering whether any sports event will ever be as thrilling and satisfying here again.

I remember, however, thinking the same thing a couple of years ago when Pat Clarke's girls cross country team won the state championship. What a thrill as the official scorer filled in Chelsea's block on the board last, signaling to the girls they had achieved the highest honor.

I recall other sensational moments, too. Carrie Flintoft's two free throws in the regional basketball tournament with no time on the clock. Andy Poppink's free throw with no time to give Tecumseh the easy road through the district basketball tournament. All classic moments for Chelsea fans.

None of them, however, can compare to the two intense week-ends the baseball team gave us. The first week-end's gripping victory over top-rated Divine Child left me wondering whether the improbable could happen again. Then, as though following a script, they made the Divine Child game look like a little warm-up along the way.

It's funny, but as I write this I can't recall the scores of any of those games. But I can recall the feeling of being there as though it was yesterday. I miss it. I want more of it.

Congratulations are in order for Chelsea baseball coach Wayne Welton, named the top coach in the state this year by his colleagues. Top coach, all classes, all schools.

I have referred to him this year several times as the "veteran" coach. The first time caused him to gasp for breath and grab the Bromo Seltzer out of disbelief. Welton, who's closer to 40 than 30, at heart is still a high school baseball player who has merely lost his eligibility. Coaching is the best way for him to stay connected to the game and the kids. And he certainly doesn't feel old enough to be called "veteran."

It's partially Welton's youthful delight for the game that has helped his program maintain its success during his 13 years as head coach. While this year's 33-3 record and 20 straight wins to close the season ranks as Chelsea's best season ever, it is just the highest point in a program that has been perhaps the best in the area over the last decade. His teams have won 20 or more games in seven of the last eight years, and have finished first or second in the Southeastern Conference each of those years. He has three outright SEC titles and has shared in a number of others.

Yet even a graybeard coach is expected to set an example for our youth, and that's where the wise one excels.

It was a pleasure to see how a guy who's more than double the age of all of his players is able to relate to them so easily and command their youthful respect. All through the regional and state tournaments, I never once heard a player bad-mouth any other player or umpire, express any disappointment with a teammate, or question the coach's senile strategy of constantly calling on sluggers Craig Ferry and Jake Rindle to bunt. They just went about their business, encouraged each other, and tried not to look at the glass with the dentures in it next to the water jug.

That kind of behavior, as well as their all-star performance, is reminiscent of a bygone era of baseball, one Welton knows from experience and teaches well. So, congratulations to the veteran coach. We all hope he has time enough left to win the honors again.

Chelsea Village Council Proceedings

Regular Session.

Tuesday, June 11, 1991

The meeting was called to order at 7:15 p.m. by President Steele.
Present: President Steele, Clerk Morrison, Village Manager Myers, Assistant Village Manager Kuehn, Administrative Assistant Fredette.
Trustees Present: Steele, Hammer, Dorer, Kanten (until 7:35 p.m.).
Absent: Merkel (until 7:25), Anderson.
Others Present: J. Finch, G. Finch, M. Wonderly, J. Satterthwaite, K. Chapman, P. Newhouse, Sr., P. Alman, J. Shackelford.

President Steele took a moment to officially welcome Mr. Jack Myers, Village Manager, and to thank the Village employees for their efforts while the Village was without a Manager.

Mr. Mark Baily, 1991 Fireworks Committee, notified the Council that the Chelsea 1995 Committee and the 1991 Fireworks Committee have accepted a quote by Colonial Fireworks for the July fireworks. They have selected this vendor because they have Council's requirement of $2 million worth of liability insurance and the proposed show will offer substantially more fireworks for the investment.

President Steele inquired about the Certificate of Insurance and whether Mr. Springer had reviewed the liability insurance policy. Mr. Baily reported that Mr. Springer has reviewed the insurance policy. President Steele, on behalf of the Council, informed Mr. Baily to proceed.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Kanten, to approve the Consent Agenda. All ayes. Absent: Anderson. Motion carried.

Council reviewed Ordinance No. 79 QQQ re: Home Occupations which is an amendment to Ordinance No. 79-RRR. Assistant Village Manager Kuehn reported that the Planning Commission met in May and received no comments on Ordinance No. 79 QQQ. Zoning Inspector Harook asked for clarification of Section 3.A specifically on the wording "single family dwelling." Trustee Kanten questioned the $200.00 filing fee and thought it was excessive. Assistant Village Manager Kuehn will take the 79 QQQ Ordinance back to the Planning Commission for clarification.

Assistant Village Manager Kuehn submitted Ordinance No. 79-RRR for approval. This Ordinance pertains to the Site Plan Guarantees. The purpose of the amendment is to clarify how and when a site plan bond or other performance guarantee is required. The proposed amendment requires financial guarantee anytime a developer wants a Certificate of Occupancy before all of the site improvements are made as required by the site plan.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, that the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea does hereby adopt, approve and promulgate Ordinance No. 79-RRR AMENDMENT TO CHELSEA VILLAGE ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 79 TO AMEND SECTION 5.7(1) REGARDING PERFORMANCE GUARANTEES, and the Clerk of said Village be and is hereby directed to cause the same to be published in the Village of Chelsea, in The Chelsea Standard, or any other paper of general circulation, and otherwise record said instrument within the book of ordinances.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to adopt the above Resolution. All ayes. Motion carried. Resolution adopted. (Ordinance 79-RRR attached as Appendix A.)

Chelsea Fire Department Chief Hankerd submitted the May 1991 Fire Report.

Zoning Inspector Rosemary Harook reported that she is still compiling information on her Spring Pick-Up Research.

Paul Newhouse reported that the Water Tower lights are now working, and the necessary preparations for the house move have been made to South and West Middle Streets.

Mike Wonderly reported that the new police car will be in service next week.

Trustee Hammer reported that Ann Arbor Transportation Authority (AATA) will be at the next meeting to submit a plan. Trustee Hammer and other members of the Council, who recently met with AATA, feel this proposal is reasonable.

The fifth grade PATHFINDERS from both North and South Elementary School presented their end-of-the-year progress report. The PATHFINDERS entertained the Village Council and members of the audience with skits they have created that represent the benefits of having a Linear Park and Bike Path as well as the consequences of not having the same.

The Council was impressed with the PATHFINDERS' enthusiasm and commitment to the Linear Park and Bike Path. The PATHFINDERS asked that the Council strongly consider a Linear Park in Chelsea and asked how they will let the PATHFINDERS know of their decision.

Mrs. Stellstra reported on the PATHFINDERS meeting with the DNR in Lansing, and the children presented Council with a token of their appreciation which was inscribed "Chelsea Village Council, TRIAD 1990-91, Thank You From Our Hearts!, From the CPS Pathfinders."

RESOLUTION

PATHFINDERS PROPOSAL

WHEREAS, the Pathfinders, a group of fifth graders from North and South elementary schools, have developed a proposal for a 9.7 mile bike path and linear park that traverses the Village of Chelsea; and

WHEREAS, the proposal considers the needs and interests of children and adults, residents and visitors, merchants and customers; and agencies, individuals, groups and officials for the bike path and linear park;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Chelsea Village Council supports the idea of a bike path and linear park as proposed by the Pathfinders, and further that the Council congratulates the students and their supporters on their accomplishments, and thanks them for their superb effort on behalf of the citizens of Chelsea.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to adopt the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Anderson, Kanten. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

Bill Holmes, Chelsea 1995 - Chelsea Fallfest '91 Committee, reported on the activities being planned for the Fallfest to be held on October 5, 1991.

Mr. Mark Heydlauff, DDA, reported that the house will be moved from South Street to West Middle Street Wednesday.

Jan Shackelford, Wastewater Treatment Plant Assistant reported that the Village Garage and Landfill will need permits if the Federal Stormwater Mandate is adopted. Mr. Shackelford spoke in opposition of the mandate stating that it will be very costly to the Village and that it will be resource intensive.

The Michigan Municipal League strongly urges cities and villages to draft and pass a Resolution in opposition to the mandate.

FEDERAL STORMWATER PERMITS RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, on November 18, 1990, pursuant to the 1987 amendments to the federal Clean Water Act, the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) promulgated rules requiring municipalities and selected industries to apply for stormwater discharge permits under the National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) by a certain date; and

WHEREAS, all cities and villages, regardless of population, are required to apply to the Surface Water Quality Division of the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for stormwater discharge permits, if those municipalities own and operate certain municipal "industrial facilities" as defined in the federal stormwater discharge rules (40 CFR, Part 122); and

WHEREAS, in order to comply with this new unfunded federal mandate, Michigan's cities and villages will have to expend significant financial resources and staff time identifying sources of stormwater runoff, mapping stormwater outfalls from municipal "industrial" facilities, gathering and analyzing quantitative data, and preparing the two-part permit application required by the rules; and

WHEREAS, the steps a smaller municipality must take to obtain a NPDES stormwater permit, including stormwater source identification, data gathering, quantitative analysis, and preparation of documentation will have no discernible improvement on the quality of surface receiving waters in the state of Michigan; and

WHEREAS, the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States are empowered to order a delay in the implementation of the stormwater permit requirement for municipalities under 100,000 population by adopting the National League of Cities-initiated municipal stormwater amendment to the fiscal year 1991-92 HUD/Independent Agencies appropriations bill; and

WHEREAS, adoption of the amendment will give Congress and municipalities time to fully analyze the financial impact of the stormwater permit program on municipalities, and craft an amendment to the federal Clean Water Act to mitigate this impact;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the City/Village Council of the City/Village of Chelsea expresses its strong support for the National League of Cities Municipal Stormwater Amendment to the fiscal year 1992 HUD/Independent Agencies Appropriations Bill to defer implementation of the federal stormwater permit requirements for municipalities under 100,000 population; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the City/Village Clerk is directed to send a copy of this resolution to U.S. Senators Donald Riegle and Carl Levin, and U.S. Representative Carl Pursell, among others.

Motion by Dorer, supported by Hammer, to adopt the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Kanten, Anderson. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gillikin wish to erect a fence at 9 Maple Court in the rear portion of their yard and asked Council's approval. Council tabled this matter, after much discussion, until the next meeting when they have had an opportunity to research this matter.

President Steele reported that during the next meeting an appointment to the Village Council will be made to fill the vacancy created due to Jack Myers resignation.

Mr. Satterthwaite notified Council he was no longer interested in pursuing the open position and that he supported Mr. James Finch for Trustee.

Mrs. Harook, Village Zoning Inspector, mentioned the Village's nepotism policy and that she would like a copy of the Village Attorney's interpretation as it pertains to the possibility of Mr. Finch and the open Trustee position.

Motion by Merkel, supported by Dorer, to adjourn Regular Session. All ayes. Absent: Kanten, Anderson. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned at 9:05 p.m.

Suzanne C. Morrison, Village Clerk.

July 4 Holiday Brings Summer Travel Urge

The Chelsea Standard, Wednesday, July 3, 1991

With this year's Fourth of July falling on a Thursday, patriotic travelers will come in three types: those who stretch the holiday into a long weekend, those who wrap a week's vacation around the midweek date and the day-trippers, who plan one-day celebrations and return to work Friday.

The latter group mirrors a trend in summer travel this year—more frequent and shorter closer-to-home trips, according to AAA Michigan.

"We're seeing more people planning one- to five-day trips, instead of the traditional two-week vacations," said Peter Erickson, AAA Michigan Club Services director. "People still want to travel, but they're looking for ways to keep costs down."

"More than 80 percent of the people vacationing this holiday will do so by car or recreational vehicle," Erickson said. "That's up 2 percent from last summer."

A check of Michigan tourism barometers shows:

- Good weather and the closer-to-home travel trend have pushed theme park ticket sales up almost 39 percent at AAA Michigan branches.

- Mackinac Bridge crossings are up more than 2 percent through May.

- During the recent Memorial Day week-end, 43 to 55 state park campgrounds in the Lower Peninsula were full.

"Michigan state park officials are ready for the typical Fourth of July picnics and swimming, especially if the recent hot weather continues," Erickson added. "Traditionally, July 4 is one of the busiest days at state parks, so we recommend arriving before noon to secure a spot on the beach along Lakes Michigan and Huron and also at Huron-Clinton Metropark facilities."

Travelers already have booked many campsites at state parks. A check shows only Southeast and Upper Peninsula state parks still have reserved sites available for Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. First-come first-served sites remain available and commercial campgrounds also offer spots for campers.

"Camping is one of the most economical ways to enjoy a vacation, particularly this summer," Erickson noted. Campers will pay an average of $9 to $12 per night for state park sites with electricity and an average $12.50 per night for a similar commercial campground site.

Michigan motorists are expected to log 940 million miles on state roads during the Independence Day holiday period, a 3 percent increase from a similar July Fourth holiday period in 1988.

The holiday officially starts at 6 p.m. Wednesday, July 3 and ends at midnight Sunday, July 7.

Motorists will pay about $1.17 for a gallon of self-serve unleaded gasoline along major travel routes, according to AAA Michigan's "Fuel Gauge" survey.

While that's 10 cents more a gallon than last year, the higher price only adds $1.50 for a 300-mile trip in a car that gets 20 miles per gallon.

After a day at the beach, vacationers can cap off the holiday in more than 70 communities planning fireworks displays July 4. Week-end displays also are planned in more than a dozen other towns.

The first state legislation prohibiting discrimination in employment on the basis of race, creed or color was the Ives-Quinn Act in New York in 1945. The first federal fair employment legislation was the Civil Rights Act of 1964, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Churches of Christ Join In Nation-Wide Crusade

Five area evangelists from the Church of Christ will trade pulpits July 14-17 as part of a nation-wide campaign to bring the good news of the New Testament to the U.S.

Ministers from the Ann Arbor, Brighton, Chelsea, Milan and Tecumseh congregations will visit each other's assemblies to present a special series of lessons on "God's Wonderful Plan for Us." This cooperative effort will follow what organizers are calling "the largest mailing in U.S. history," an eight-page brochure entitled "One Nation Under God," to be sent to every U.S. household between July 1 and July 14.

The preachers will speak at the five participating congregations, presenting the following topics: "The Bible: God's Wonderful Guide," R.D. Parnell; "Jesus Christ: God's Wonderful Savior," Larry McCoy; "The Church: God's Wonderful Fellowship," J. Terry Wheeler; "Salvation: God's Wonderful Gift," Dan Corp; and "The Judgment: God's Wonderful Day," Tom Hawkins.

Services will be held at the regularly scheduled times on Sunday morning and evening, July 14; and at 7 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, July 15, 16, and 17.

Churches participating in the "preacher swap" are: Ann Arbor Church of Christ, 530 W. Stadium Blvd.; Brighton Church of Christ, 6026 Rickett Rd.; Chelsea Church of Christ, 13661 E. Old US-12; Milan Church of Christ, 825 Church St.; and Tecumseh Church of Christ, 312 W. Chicago Blvd.

The eight-page brochure is the centerpiece of the "One Nation Under God" campaign, begun in 1990 by the Sycamore Church of Christ in Cookeville, Tenn. The brochure addresses problems facing the American people, including substance abuse, pornography and family difficulties. "One Nation Under God" presents Jesus Christ and His message in the Bible as the answer to these problems. Readers are invited to visit their local Church of Christ and to call a toll-free phone number (1-800-245-9010) for a free Bible Study course.

"One Nation Under God" will be mailed to about 102 million households. The brochure will be supplemented by magazine, newspaper, television and radio advertising, at an

Bob and Becky Concert Planned For Immanuel Bible Church

Bob and Becky Brunton, a husband and wife vocal duo team from Eaton Rapids, Michigan, will present a concert of sacred music at 11:00 a.m. July 7, at Immanuel Bible Church, 145 E. Summit St.

They have been seen by millions on national syndicated television. Their records are heard on radio stations from Canada to Ecuador and from Korea to West Africa. They have had concert tours taking them from Maine to California, and from North Dakota to Texas and even beyond the border of the U.S. Today as it becomes more important to discern between Christian music entertainment and Christian music ministry, Bob and Becky have become a standard of what ministry in music is about.

The concert will include familiar songs as well as some of their own compositions and will feature something for all ages and musical tastes.

Bob and Becky were married in 1963 and were involved in educational careers for many years in the Lansing area. Becky, a music teacher for the Michigan School for the Blind, and Bob, Director of Payroll for Michigan State University, resigned their positions in 1979 to begin their singing ministry. They currently have eight albums released on the Pinebrook label.

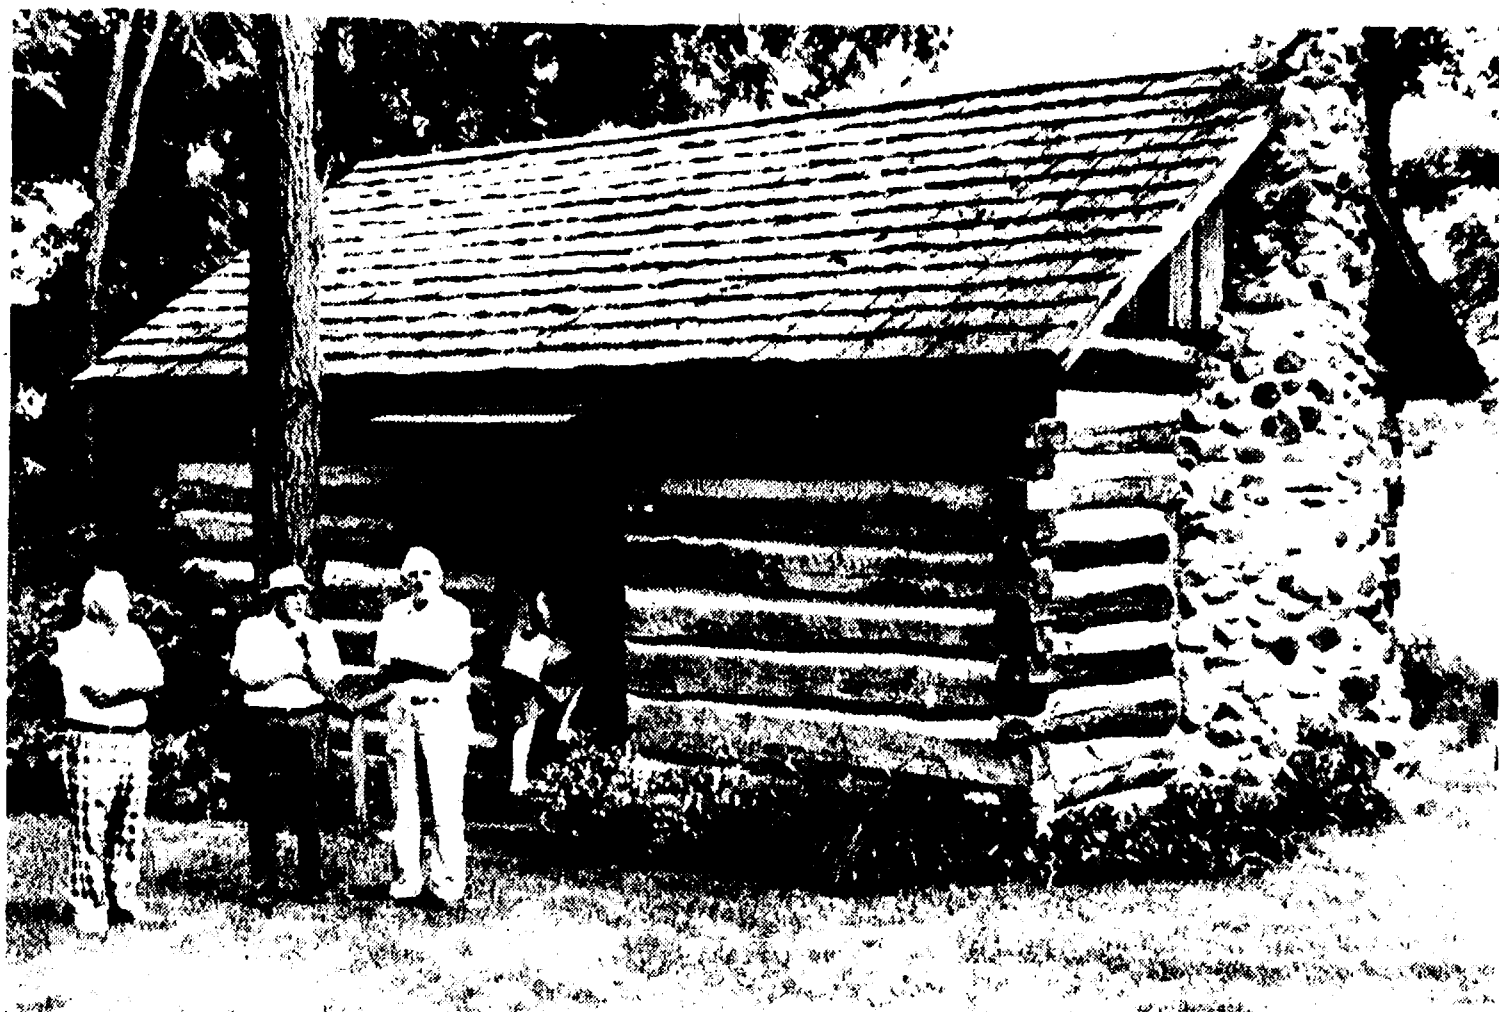

Their delivery is crisp and dynamic, featuring the use of live piano, synthesizer, violin, and taped accompaniments. The concert which is open to the public, will challenge, encourage, and share their joy.

Council Issues New Homebuyers' Checklist

Michigan Consumers Council has published the sixth edition of its Homebuyers' Checklist. The Checklist, one of the Council's most popular publications, is a step-by-step guide designed to allow potential homebuyers to compare and evaluate the relative merits and shortcomings of the various homes they are shown.

The new edition provides a general review of the major rooms of any home, giving the prospective homeowner a look at any deficiencies in a home that could cause headaches or necessitate large repair bills later. Among the useful tips shared with consumers are such items as how to check for water problems in the basement, verifying that all electrical outlets have power going to them, and determining if there are any right-of-way or easements on the property. Additionally, the booklet looks at such important environmental factors associated with home ownership as groundwater contamination and indoor air quality.

Kent S. Wilcox, director of the Michigan Consumers Council, stated, "The purchase of a home is the single largest investment any consumer can make. This guide is designed to help consumers get the best value for their money while reducing some of the stress and frustration of becoming a homeowner."

"The Homebuyers' Checklist," added Wilcox, "can also be a valuable leverage tool for the potential homebuyer in negotiating the selling price of a home through the Checklist's charts that show where major capital outlays may be necessary to make a house safer and more liveable."

While the importance of this booklet is clearly indisputable for the potential homeowner, it could also prove to be a useful guide for the seller in the early stages of marketing his or her home in today's fluctuating real estate scene.

Copies of the Homebuyers' Checklist may be obtained by sending 50 cents in postage per copy to the Michigan Consumers Council, 414 Hollister Building, 106 W. Allegan St., Lansing 48933. If there are any questions, the telephone number is 517-373-0947 or 517-373-0701 (TDD for the hearing impaired ONLY).

THE GARDEN CORNER

★ Squash Family Plants Hit By Beetles, Bugs

Planting cucumbers and squashes in your garden is like sending dinner invitations to a number of garden pests. A combination of cultural and chemical controls, however, can keep plants healthy and high yielding.

Ed Grafius, Extension entomologist at Michigan State University, says the three main pests of the cucurbits—the plant family that includes cucumbers, summer and winter squash, melons and pumpkins—are cucumber beetles, squash bugs and squash vine borers.

"Cucumber beetles often seem to be waiting for the first seedlings to emerge," Grafius observes. "In a way, this is true, because these insects overwinter as adults in fence rows, woodlots, ditch banks and other sheltered areas. They feed on the young plants for a few days, then mate and lay eggs at the bases of the plants. The larvae then feed on plant roots."

Spotted cucumber beetles are yellowish green with 12 black spots on their hard backs. Striped cucumber beetles are yellow with three lengthwise black stripes.

Direct damage from these 1/4-inch beetles can stunt or kill young plants. The main threat, however, is that the beetles carry the organism that causes bacterial wilt. Once a plant is infected, it can not be cured and must be removed and burned. The only sure way to prevent the disease is to control the beetles with routine applications of a home garden insecticide labeled for that purpose. Hand-picking beetles and not planting cucurbits for a year are non-chemical approaches that may help.

Because both striped and spotted cucumber beetles overwinter elsewhere and come into the garden only when cucurbit plants are present, a fall garden cleanup of plant debris is not an effective control. Sanitation is very important in controlling the squash bug, however.

Squash bug adults overwinter in garden debris and lay eggs as plants begin to emerge. Adults and newly hatched young feed together, sucking plant juices from leaves and stems. Leaves shrivel, turning brown or black. In severe cases, whole plants may wilt and shrivel. Late in the season, the bugs will even attack the fruits.

Adults are 5/8 to 1 inch long and ashy-gray to brown. The immature stages look much like the adults except that they lack fully developed wings.

Though squash bugs are fairly easy to control with chemicals, a little preventive attention early in the season may reduce the need for pesticides. Look for and remove and destroy egg masses in the spring, Grafius suggests. Look for them between two main veins on the underside of a leaf. They look much like potato beetle egg clusters except that they are yellow to brown rather than bright orange.

Squash bugs can also be trapped under boards placed in the garden at night. Simply lift up the boards in the morning and destroy the bugs. Or bury a cake pan to the rim in the soil, pour a little soapy water in the bottom and place a board over it. Bugs crawling under the board will fall into the pan, where the slippery water will prevent their escape.

A sudden and dramatic wilt of squash stem or runner is usually the first indicator that a squash vine borer is at work. The borer is the caterpillar of a clear-winged moth that resembles a wasp. The moth lays its eggs on the plant stems, and the young bore inside, where they feed on the pith. Behind them, the stem or runner wilts.

Squash vine borers are most attracted and most damaging to the hard winter squash varieties. A clue that wilting in these crops is due to borer activity rather than bacterial wilt is the presence of greenish yellow frass (caterpillar droppings) oozing from holes in the stem. The hollowed-out stem behind the borer is likewise packed with it.

Once the borer is inside the plant, it's safe from ordinary garden insecticides. If damage has been severe in the past, you can spray the bases of young plants every 7 to 10 days with an appropriate insecticide, starting about the time plants tip over and start to runner. If borers are only an occasional problem, you can slit the stem and kill or remove the insects. This is rough on the plant, of course. Covering the damaged area with moist soil may induce it to root and so save the rest of the stem and fruits it might bear. If that doesn't work, you're no worse off than you were before you tried, Grafius notes.

Tilling the garden thoroughly in the fall or in early spring should help reduce borer problems, he suggests. The insects usually overwinter as pupae in cocoons in the soil beneath garden debris. Tilling may bury or damage them and so reduce adult emergence and egg laying. Adult moths can fly in from other areas, of course.

Chelsea May Have Its First Television Station This Fall

A Chelsea man has secured permission from the village to begin broadcasting on the village's dedicated cable television channel.

Village council granted, Beeman Rd. resident Alex Weddon permission to use the cable channel, provided for in the village's franchise agreement, as soon as he can get organized. Weddon tentatively plans to use the call letters WHLC.

Weddon told council the station can be self-funding and he has already obtained sponsorship from several downtown businesses. He did not say whether he would provide advertising time on the channel. There would be no cost to the village.

"This will be a community station," Weddon told council, who said he would act mostly as a broadcast coordinator.

Weddon said he envisioned the station could be used to educate citizens about recycling and other issues, as well as provide timely information on village events. He said he did not expect to broadcast governmental meetings. Subscribers in Sylvan and Lima townships will also receive the channel.

Weddon also said the station would be a valuable tool for the Chelsea School District. He said, for example, members of the forensics team could perform, sports events could be broadcast on a delayed basis, and the district could provide practical information, such as information about snow days.

Weddon said he had contacted Chelsea High school radio and television teacher Bill Coelius, who supports the idea and made various suggestions.

"I've seen other [community access channels] and some of them are horrible, nothing but white letters on a blue background," Weddon said.

"I think with a little creativity, it could be useful and entertaining, and could help bring the community together."

Exactly how the station will operate or what will be broadcast is still undecided, Weddon said.

Weddon was talking to McKune Memorial Library about setting up a studio on the premises, partly because it is close to the point of access to the station on the village water tower.

Weddon, who works in advertising, said the television work would be a part-time job and that he would make some money.

THE GARDEN CORNER

★ You May Call It Vegetable, Flower or Fruit

The vegetable of the day at your favorite restaurant may be a grain, a fruit, a flower or almost any other plant part that you care to name. The part of the plant that you eat varies with the plant.

"We usually apply the term 'vegetable' to plant foods other than grains and what we commonly call 'fruits'—apples, peaches, pears, plums and such," says Tom Stebbins, Master Gardener Specialist at Michigan State University. "This means a lot of unrelated plants are lumped into one broad category. And some of them are technically fruits."

To a botanist, a fruit is the female portion of a flower, swollen and enlarged to provide a protective structure for the seeds that began to develop when the flower was pollinated. That means that tomatoes, eggplant, squash, pumpkins, peppers, cucumbers and melons are fruits in the botanical sense, though only melons are commonly classed in that category. The rest are generally considered vegetables.

Seeds in pods also form as a result of pollination, but they lack the fleshy covering found in fruits. Beans, peas, okra, corn, dill, and many other herbs and spices are either seeds or seed pods. Corn, of course, though we usually consider it a vegetable, is actually a grain.

Of the plant foods everyone agrees are vegetables, the part of the plant eaten may vary from the leaves to the stems to the flowers or the roots.

Leaves are the portion eaten when we consume lettuce, spinach, cabbage, kale, endive, collards, mustard, parsley and other leafy herbs. Brussel sprouts, though they resemble cabbages, are actually vegetative buds.

With rhubarb and asparagus, the stems are the edible part. Heads of broccoli and cauliflower are immature flowers. (A mass of yellow flowers on top of your broccoli plants means you waited too long to harvest.)

Grown for their underground parts are carrots, leeks, radishes, parsnips, rutabagas, salsify, turnips and sweet potatoes (all roots), potatoes (tubers) and onions (bulbs).

Often a plant grown for one part—turnips, for instance—have other edible portions—in this case, leaves. Others with edible parts may have inedible or even poisonous parts. Potatoes, for instance, sometimes produce little round fruits that resemble tomatoes but should never be eaten.

"If you're not sure about the other parts of a plant, stick with the parts you know are good to eat," Stebbins suggests. "If in doubt, don't eat it."

AMENDMENT TO CHELSEA VILLAGE ZONING ORDINANCE NO. 79. TO AMEND SECTIONS REGARDING HOME OCCUPATION. AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHELSEA VILLAGE ZONING ORDINANCE (Ordinance No. 79) AS FOLLOWS:

The Village of Chelsea Ordains:

SECTION 1. Delete Section 2.2.27 Definitions and add in its place and stead the following provisions:

SECTION 2.2.27 Home Occupation

An accessory use of a dwelling unit for gainful employment involving the sale of goods and/or services.

SECTION 2. Delete Sections 4.1(A)(4), 4.1.2A(2), 4.2.2(A)(5), 4.2.3(A)(6) Permitted Uses, Home Occupation, and add the following Sections 4.1(B), 4.2.5(B), Special Land Uses, Home Occupation.

SECTION 3. Delete Section 5.09 Home Occupations and add in its place and stead the following provisions:

The purpose of this section is to establish regulations that will permit certain occupations to be conducted in a single family dwelling unit, but which will also insure that such occupation, either by itself or in conjunction with other home occupations in the same neighborhood will not create a change in the neighborhood character or create a nuisance for neighboring residents and properties. These regulations are intended to prevent home occupations from creating significant costs to the public and to assure equal protection for all persons concerned. It is the intent of this ordinance to prohibit as home occupations all uses except those that conform to the standards in this section. Custom and tradition are intentionally excluded as criteria for approving a use as a home occupation. It is further the intent of this section that a home occupation shall be an accessory use that will be so located and conducted that the average neighbor, under normal circumstances, will not be aware of its existence. The standards for home occupations in this section are intended to insure compatibility with other uses permitted in the district in which located and with the residential character of the neighborhood.

A. A home occupation shall be permitted only in a single family dwelling unit or in a building accessory thereto.

B. No person other than the members of the family residing in the dwelling to be used for the home occupation shall be employed or otherwise engaged in that occupation. The dwelling unit so used shall be the bona fide, permanent residence of any person employed in the home occupation. No subcontractor shall operate on the premises of a home occupation.

C. The use of the dwelling unit for the home occupation shall be clearly incidental and subordinate to its use as a residence. The total floor area used by the home occupation shall not exceed 20 percent of the total floor area of the dwelling unit. In calculating this percentage the floor area of the basement or of any other attached or detached accessory buildings shall not be included in the floor area of the dwelling unit.

D. There shall be no change in the exterior appearance of the structure or premises to accommodate the home occupation, or other outdoor visible evidence of conduct of the home occupation, and there shall be no external or internal alterations not customary in residential areas. Signs as permitted in this section shall be exempt from this subsection.

E. No article shall be sold or displayed anywhere on the premises except that which is prepared or produced by the home occupation.

F. Parking for the home occupation shall not exceed one space. The space shall be provided on the premises, in accordance with Section 5.3, herein. The parking space for a home occupation shall not be located in any required yard or on a public street.

G. No exterior storage associated with or resulting from a home occupation shall be permitted.

H. No equipment or process shall be used in a home occupation which generates noise, vibration, glare, fumes, odor, or electrical interferences that are nuisances to persons off the premises. Any electrical equipment processes that create visual or audible interference with radio or television receivers off the premises or that cause fluctuations in line voltages off the premises shall be prohibited.

I. Hazard of fire, explosion, radioactivity, or chemical contamination shall not exist at any time as a result of a home occupation. Annual certification of compliance with this provision by the State Fire Marshal may be required as a condition of approval of the special use permit.

J. Not more than one sign, not exceeding two square feet in area and attached to the dwelling unit, shall be permitted for a home occupation.

K. A home occupation shall not involve the use of commercial vehicles for delivery of materials to or from the premises. For the purposes of this section a commercial vehicle shall be defined as one with any sign, markings, address, telephone numbers, or other form of display that advertises or is associated with a home occupation on that premises. This section shall not change the parking requirements of Section 5.3, herein.

L. No home occupation shall cause an increase in the use of one or more utilities (water, sanitary sewer, storm sewer, electricity) so that the combined total use for dwelling and home occupation purposes exceeds the average for residences in the neighborhood.

SECTION 4. All other provisions of Ordinance No. 79 and any amendments thereto, are hereby reaffirmed and ratified.

THESE SIGNS have prompted a number of complaints by village residents. They say the signs are too big for a residential neighborhood.

Residents Complain About Various Signs

Two different kinds of signs have had residents complaining to village officials over the last week.

Residents in the eastern part of the village are upset about the size of new directional signs installed by the Downtown Development Authority. Signs on Freer Rd., Madison St., and near the intersection of Washington and Madison St. have drawn the criticism.

The signs are part of the new DDA beautification plan and are the only part of the plan that includes areas outside the established downtown district.

The signs point the way to schools. Village manager Jack Myers said a meeting was scheduled for Tuesday (yesterday) to consider the size and placement of the signs. He said it's likely they would be replaced with signs about half their size on only one post. The current signs would be repainted and relocated to non-residential areas.

Another sign, technically a banner, on the south side of the clock tower building, has also drawn complaints. The sign advertises a business in the building.

Zoning inspector Rosemary Harook said the sign is legal because any business is allowed to have a special promotional banner for 30 days twice during any year. The business applied for a permit as required. The sign is temporary.

Complaints have arisen over the aesthetics of the banner.

Additional questions or inquiries may be directed to Jan Baltzell at 475-2577.

The first federal employer's liability legislation was passed in 1906, but it was declared unconstitutional, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication. A revised measure was adopted in 1908.

CONSTRUCTION of the new parking lot behind downtown businesses on the west side of Main St. is progressing rapidly. DDA says the project should be completed near the middle of the month, in plenty of time for the annual Sidewalk Festival the first week-end in August. The lot will more than make up for parking spaces lost on the street during the construction process.
