School Board Faces Operating Cuts of $130,000 This Year

Chelsea School District will be forced to make about $130,000 in cuts from its operating budget this school year due to new state legislation, assistant superintendent Fred Mills told the board of education Monday night.

The legislation, House Bill 4287, dubbed the "Robin Hood bill," will force the district to give up 46 percent of its tax growth in commercial and industrial property this year so it can be redistributed by the state to poorer school districts. The legislation will take the money from 125 in-formula districts and give it to 425 out-of-formula districts.

The legislation will take about $197,000 from Chelsea this school year, the equivalent of about .8 mill, according to Mills. By subtracting a small surplus in the budget, Mills came to the $130,000 figure.

Mills said the recommendations for cuts would probably come in several areas, but they would probably not include lay-offs. He said the cuts would come from future orders of teaching supplies, the maintenance budget, and a little more than half would come from fund equity, or the district's savings account. The school board has to approve any cuts. The board finance committee is scheduled to meet next Monday.

"Obviously, if we had known the state was going to do this to us, our budget would have been different this year," Mills said.

Mills said he hates the thought of using fund equity to solve the problem because it is using non-recurring money for a recurring expense. However, he sees few alternatives.

"We've made commitments to people and we really need to honor them," he said.

"This is really a tragedy. We try to plan but then they dump something on us like this at the last minute. It's also a tragedy that the people in Lansing don't accept the responsibility to fund education. They are petrified of being recalled and I think they're totally paralyzed."

Mills told the board Monday night that cutting $29,000 in teaching supplies is going to cause some big problems.

The district has a fund equity balance of $538,246, or about four percent of the district's operating budget, according to Mills.

The legislation will continue in the years ahead unless it is repealed. It is not for one year only.

Mills said it's a myth that the legislation only affects commercial and industrial property because the only way the money can be replaced is for district residents to approve higher taxes on their homes.

The school district expressed its concern about the legislation to state Sen. Lana Pollack at Monday night's school board meeting (see related story this issue.)

Pollack Hears Complaints About School Funding At Board Meeting Monday

Chelsea residents and school district administrators expressed their displeasure with state property tax laws and other issues related to school financing in a question-and-answer session with state Sen. Lana Pollack Monday night before the regular school board meeting.

Pollack, who spoke to Chelsea High school seniors earlier in the day, was on the firing line for about 90 minutes Monday night, although there were many more empty seats than occupied ones in the high school media center.

Much of the discussion was devoted to the pending "Robin Hood" bill waiting for Gov. John Engler's signature. Chelsea School District stands to lose about $197,000 from the legislation.

Under the legislation, the state's 125 out-of-formula districts will be required to funnel back to the state about half of new tax revenue resulting from increasing commercial and industrial property values. That money would then be distributed to 425 in-formula districts.

Pollack, who voted for the bill and said she didn't "regret doing it," said she realizes the legislation isn't fair, but that the larger issue of more equitable funding of poor school districts is an overriding concern. She also cited a possible court case resulting from uneven funding levels.

"As long as we depend on the property tax, collect it locally and spend it locally, we will be buying one quality of education for one group of kids and another quality of education for another group of kids," Pollack said, explaining the sharing concept.

"I don't think we can continue for legal reasons, as well as reasons of reasonableness to say 'I'm sorry, you happen to live in a district that doesn't have any property so you're going to have to [get out of school early].'" Pollack said some districts in the state are so strapped for money that they've been forced to shorten their school days.

"This is the beginning, I don't think we're going to go back," Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki protested strongly to the timing of the legislation.

"We've hired teachers, we've ordered supplies and textbooks, we've got all our expenses set," Piasecki said.

"Then we find out the last week of September that money we've already spent can't be spent because it's going to be taken. We're all concerned about the districts that don't have as much, but what we're all saying is there

School Board Begins Work On New Bond Issue Package

Chelsea Board of Education is trying to decide what to do next in light of the overwhelming defeat of a $23.75 million bond issue last month.

The board discussed the issue briefly Monday night and came to no firm conclusions about the direction it will take.

Board member Jane Diesing said she wants more information about why the bond issue failed to determine whether there are major underlying issues. Superintendent Joe Piasecki drew up a list of 51 reasons people have told him they voted against the issue. However, there was no way of knowing if one or more of those reasons were overriding concerns of area voters.

"Every single part of the bond issue was attacked by somebody," Piasecki told the board.

"That causes some difficulties in focusing on what the big issues are. However, I still think the big issue is the taxation issue," Piasecki said the longer it takes for a package to be approved and authorized by voters, the more difficult it will be to complete and the more costly it will be.

It was not clear whether the board might authorize a formal survey of the type conducted by Project Outreach a couple of years ago to determine why voters rejected the project as well as what kind of project might have enough support. Assistant superintendent Fred Mills said such a survey would likely cost about $5,000.

Board member Ron Satterthwaite

said there's probably no reason to get more information from the facilities committee because "I'm not sure they can give us more input."

Fire Department Open House Slated Sunday Afternoon

Chelsea Fire Department's annual open house will be held this Sunday, Oct. 13 from noon to 4 p.m. at the fire station on W. Middle St.

Once again it will be an afternoon of demonstrations, displays and refreshment designed as much for children as adults.

A schedule of events will be posted at the fire hall. Most events will take place at least twice.

Included in the afternoon will be demonstrations of all kinds of firefighting equipment. The department's ladder truck will be on display, children will have the chance to use an actual fire truck hose, and rescue workers will show how they use "Jaws of Life" to cut a car apart and free a pinned-in driver or passenger.

There will also be a smoke tunnel for children to crawl through to learn how to deal with smoke, demonstrations on how to extinguish various kinds of fires, and a demonstration of the fire department's new heart defibrillator, recently purchased with private contributions.

And there will be plenty of firefighters to answer questions. The event is free to the public and will be held rain or shine.

Industrial Park Developing in Sylvan Township

An industrial park is slowly developing off Brown Dr. in Sylvan township off I-94 on land owned by Chelsea Lumber Co. owner Bob Daniels.

The land, originally a 120-acre farm owned by Albert and Dorothea Pielmeier (brother and sister), already has one business, Chelsea Self Storage. All Season Comfort, for many years on W. Middle St. downtown, wants to build a new facility for the heating and cooling business. And Northwest Propane Co. plans to have a propane storage/distribution facility. That leaves about seven 10-acre parcels, which Daniels wants to sell but hasn't aggressively pursued.

Chelsea Industries Gets Bomb Threat

A bomb threat was telephoned to Chelsea Industries, Inc. late Tuesday afternoon, forcing evacuation of the building.

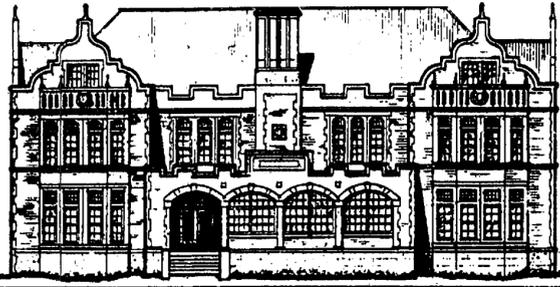

According to plant manager Wayne Weston, a woman called the business at 4:20 p.m. and said a bomb would go off in 20 minutes. The company moved employees out to the east side of the complex and called Chelsea police. Bomb-sniffing dogs were also called in.

As of press time, the complex had not exploded.

Headlee Signatures Jeopardized By Petition Form

A violation of a statutory requirement on some Headlee tax cut petitions have put over 16,000 signatures in question, although the Board of State Canvassers deferred a final decision until elections officials review for the second time the validity of 212,071 signatures.

The redetermination was approved by the board pursuant to a Sept. 11 Court of Appeals order for a more precise count of voters signing the 20 percent tax cut proposal.

An earlier check of a 1,610-name sample estimated the petitions fell 7,336 signatures short of the 191,726 required to force a vote on the issue. Headlee backers had submitted 224,048 signatures.

The 16,746 signatures now in question are on petitions which changed a statutory requirement warning petition signers they may only sign once, by placing the warning on a different location on the petition, reducing the required type size or omitting the word "warning" which is required to be printed in all capital letters.

The board tabled a motion by Democratic board member Michael Pyne to disqualify all the signatures. Last year when Pyne raised the issue, his motion was not even seconded.

Republican board member James Alexander said he was troubled with the violation, but added he was hesitant to disqualify all the signatures. "It seems to me that is a pretty stiff penalty," he said in urging the issue be deferred until other legal precedents could be researched.

Alexander said the issue should be whether the petitions, despite the revision to the form, were in "substantial" compliance with the statute.

The circulators had obtained board approval of a proper petition form, which was used for most of the signatures.

Kevin Moody, attorney for the Michigan Education Association which is challenging the petitions, said, "Quite clearly, these petitions are in substantial non-compliance."

He said the rate of duplicate signatures on the altered petitions is twice that on petitions with the proper form.

Tom Downs, attorney for the Headlee proposal, said the petitions do substantially comply. He said the statutory requirement is for "guidance" and the petitions merely rearranged where the language appeared.

Patrick Anderson, a leader of the Headlee proposal, said the board action was welcome because it also permits reopening the question of technical compliance with signatures which the staff invalidated under long-standing precedent because of such violations as checking the improper election registration box. "It's a positive move and we look forward to a review and counting the registered voters who signed the petitions," he said. "We're confident we are well over the 191,726 required."

Elections Director Chris Thomas, who urged the board not adopt the court's alternative for a larger 5,000-name sample, said it will take four to five months to complete the review of the petitions.

Bill McMaster, chair of Taxpayers United, called that time frame "unfair," noting some petition signers have moved or died since the proposal was circulated. But elections officials note that local records go back far enough to verify if the persons were registered voters at the time.

Other issues that will again be raised include whether to disallow over 11,000 names alleged to be duplicated. Headlee backers contend the first signature should be counted in the case of duplicates, but courts have upheld board policy disallowing all duplicated names as a means of enforcement.

Elections officials will check the signature list as it begins the verification process. They will also distinguish which signatures violate some technical requirements, such as the box check or improper dates, and verify whether signatories were registered voters at the time.

Those are standards which Headlee proponents challenged in the Court of Appeals, but which were not addressed in its redetermination order. The board deadlocked on whether to relax box check and duplication standards.

The board set an Oct. 14 deadline for any new challenges to be filed to the signatures.

to Michigan generators because they concluded Michigan was not fairly working toward developing a dump site for the Midwest Compact.

The other Compact members last summer evicted Michigan for the same reason, and no further plans have been developed by state officials to handle the waste.

U.S. District Judge Robert Holmes Bell had ruled the three states had no authority under federal law to bar Michigan shipments until Jan. 1, 1993, the deadline for Compacts across the country to begin operating their own dumps.

In staying the Bell order, the appellate judges said the three states have a sufficient probability of success because the Michigan court may not have jurisdiction of the other states, the states would suffer irreparable harm if forced to dispose of the Michigan wastes while the harm to generators is relatively slight, and the public is not at greater risk by the temporary storage.

U.S. Appeals Court Order Keeps Nuclear Waste in Temporary Storage

Michigan generators of low-level radioactive waste must continue to store the material on site under a U.S. Court of Appeals order temporarily barring enforcement of a lower court decision requiring dumps in three other states to accept the waste.

The three-judge panel scheduled a Nov. 12 hearing in Cincinnati on whether to permit shipment of the accumulated wastes, which total about 30,000 cubic feet stored at 51 locations.

Bill Lukens, executive director of MichRad, the organization of waste generators, said the order "was not the one we wanted. But it indicates the court is looking at this very seriously."

The waste has been accumulating on site since last November when South Carolina, Nevada and Washington states closed their dumps

Daniels said he plans to extend Pilemeier Dr. off Brown Dr. 1,000 feet into a temporary cul-de-sac, the maximum length the township zoning ordinance allows without a variance. Once the other parcels are sold, the road would extend all the way through to Old Chelsea-Manchester Rd., just north of the lumber company, and meet all Washtenaw county specifications, Daniels said. At that point he would like the road to be dedicated to the county.

Businesses in the development would be limited industrial, Daniels said. The development, he said, does not have a name. No part of it would be within the village limits.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

With the way they're freezing us now to thaw us later, changing our genes and exchanging our parts, pretty soon death might not be as certain as taxes. But for sure, Zeke Grubb told the fellers at the country store Saturday night, post office deficit will allus make the certain list. If a new fiscal year comes, he said, you-know post office pore mouting will follow.

No sooner did he read the proper-gander about the 20th anniversary of the Postal Service, Zeke went on, than he saw where it would run $1.6 billion in the hole for the year that ended with September. The birthday features told how the old, tired, slow Post Office Department was bogged down in politics and patronage, and how the new streamlined USPS set up the mail on a business base free of meddling from Congress.

Practical speaking, Zeke ask, what private business ain't at the mercy of Congress, for one thing, and fer another what business can run to Congress fer handouts whenever the till runs dry. The truth that jumps at us in ever budget, Zeke said, is that the mail service wasn't broke, and when we went ahead and fixed it we made it worst.

It is odd, Zeke went on, that the more we read about "privatizing" Government service the tighter the mail clamps down on the monopoly it was give by the Congress that it says was the root of its trouble. Private business has showed it can beat Parcel Post at its own game, Zeke declared, and the last thing USPS wants is to give the private side a shot at the rest of the mail.

Actual, broke in Bug Hookum, from what he reads the big reason for this year's USPS red ink is that it has priced itself out of the market it's supposed to have locks on. Bug had saw where mail will be down by two billion pieces this year, and hundreds of tons of what would of been third class mail is being delivered by private outfits. The same carrier that brings the morning paper can make a catalog run the same day, if the price is right, was Bug's words.

Farthermore, Bug said, what business that's losing income will stop the bleeding with higher outgo. This year, Bug noted, the post office went to a 29-cent first class stamp and now it wants 30 cent. At the same time it give out $20 million in "performance" bonuses to 1,200 top managers and pays wages and benefits averaging $37,000 compared with private industry's $25,000.

The fellers were general agreed the new mail is as slow and clumsy as the old, but Clem Webster pointed out the big chunk of this year's deficit can be laid on creative bookkeeping. Clem had saw where $800 million going to retired postal workers was moved from the regular Federal budget to the USPS budget to make the Federal deficit look a little better.

Fer sure, Ed Doolittle said, we all know the leeches are everwhere trying to drink the treasury dry. He had a clipping where the University of Michigan billed the Federal Government for $7.9 million worth of research that went fer such as football tickets, television commercials, Rose Bowl parties and even penalties paid to the IRS. Michigan, Ed said, is just one of the schools flunking accounting.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Lisa Lewis, Robert Kidd Marry in Methodist Chapel

Lisa Renae Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Lewis of Chelsea, and Robert R. Kidd, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Sparks of Salline, were married Sept. 21 at the Chelsea United Methodist Home chapel.

The Rev. Jim Simmons performed the ceremony.

Lori Minnick of Chelsea sang the theme from "Ice Castles" and "The Wedding Son."

The bride wore a satin gown with a wedding band collar, leg-of-mutton sleeves, and a heart-shaped keyhole back accented with a medallion of lace and pearls. It had satin ruffles cascading from the waist to the hem on a cathedral train. The headband of sequins, pearls, and roses held an elbow-length veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses, staphonitis, carnations, and pearls.

Maid of honor was Jennifer Lewis of Chelsea, sister of the bride. She wore a pink satin and lace sheath gown and carried a bouquet of pink and white sweetheart roses and snowdrift pom-pom mums.

The bride's mother wore a street-length gown of aqua lace, and a wrist corsage of sweetheart roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a street-length gown of sapphire blue lace, and a wrist corsage of sweetheart roses.

Flowergirl was Amanda French and ringbearer was Jessica French, both of Dexter.

Best man was Tom Kidd of Tucson, Ariz., brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Jim Gamblin of Jackson and Jason Stevens of Chelsea.

A buffet-luncheon reception was held at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor for 100 guests. Mrs. Frank Jackson, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Richard Collin cut the cake.

The newlyweds are living in Ann Arbor.

Nicotine Patches May Help Many 'Kick the Habit'

Irritability, anxiety, fuzzy concentration, insomnia and an intensified sweet tooth are just a few of the symptoms commonly associated with nicotine withdrawal. For those in the process of trying to kick the smoking habit, any such symptom can, in a moment of weakness, cause the best of intentions to literally go up in smoke.

Those who feel they cannot stop smoking cold turkey may find an ally in transdermal nicotine patches. Worn like a band-aid on the upper body, the half dollar-sized patch contains a gel that delivers a low, steady dose of nicotine through the skin and into the bloodstream. Nicotine patches, soon to be approved by the Food and Drug Administration, will join nicotine gum (sold under the brand name Nicorette) in the arsenal of nicotine-replacement therapy available by prescription, says Ovide Pomerleau, Ph.D., director of the Behavioral Medicine Program at the University of Michigan Medical Center in Ann Arbor.

The concept is simple: Administer nicotine in a vehicle different from cigarettes, transfer the nicotine dependence to the new modality, introduce various behavior modification techniques, and after about three months, gradually wean the person from the skin patch.

Nicotine patches seem to have an advantage over the gum, Pomerleau says, because it is user-friendly. "Unlike the gum, in which the patient must learn the proper way to dose, the skin patch doesn't require a complicated learning period. The patient just slaps it on in the morning and goes about his or her business." In addition, the patch seems equally effective as nicotine gum in reducing withdrawal symptoms—and increasing the likelihood of quitting success. "The patch can be up to 50 percent effective in controlled clinical trials. It doubles the quitting success rate," Pomerleau says.

In clinical tests at the U-M, the major side-effect of the patch was localized dry skin at the patch site. "After working with the patches for a while we were able to reduce those symptoms," Pomerleau says. The most severe reaction, which appeared in only one out of 60 test subjects, included hives and vomiting. "We try to screen people with hay fever and other allergies who might be especially sensitive to the patch," he says.

Senior Birthday Party Slated

Chelsea Tax Group Works on Strategy

The group of Chelsea-area citizens who visited Lansing recently to push for property tax reform has formally decided to call itself Chelsea Citizens for Property Tax Reform.

Ten members of the group who volunteered after the meeting to continue the effort have split up into several committees ranging from media relations to finances and have had more than nine hours of meetings since the trip.

"We're still working on some ideas that could possibly gain the attention of our state legislators," said group member Bob Daniels.

"We're trying to decide the most effective way to convince the legislature that the tax system needs to be put into balance."

The group's basic mission is to get property taxes reduced by raising tax revenue through some other source such as an increase in sales or income taxes. The group does not endorse any particular tax measures. Another focus of the group is to convince the legislature that changes in property taxes should not be decided by ballot referendum but through legislative action.

The citizens group plans to spread its message throughout the state, but hasn't yet decided on a particular method, Daniels said.

Cable TV 22 Still Seeking Volunteers

The Lary Hafner Showcase staff is growing and is still in need of volunteers for the many positions that are open. There is no need for experience, only the desire to have some fun and be a part of this unique community entertainment organization.

If you would like to see just what takes place during the production of a television talk show you may stop in and say hello to any of the present staff. They will be happy to answer any questions, or let them know by calling 475-8491 or in writing to: "Showcase," c/o Lary Hafner, 20700 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea 48118.

There has been so much positive interest from the community that the staff and volunteer list continues to grow. They are now in the process of negotiating administrative offices for the "Showcase" and are adding a house band that will entertain and be part of the "Showcase" on a weekly basis. The band is made up of nine Chelsea High school band members, including trumpets, saxophones, rhythm and bass guitar, keyboards, drums and percussion.

The Lary Hafner Showcase airs every Monday at 7 p.m. on Cable TV Channel 22. The public is invited to attend the taping of the show in the Chelsea Hospital dining room every Sunday from 8 p.m. to 9:45 p.m.

This week's guests will be the Rev. Merl Bradley and Desert Storm support group volunteer chairman Ginny Boyer; Lynn Harshbarger and her ancient musical instruments; Barb Rose, Mary Adams and Liz Taylor from the Chelsea High school cheerleading squad, and Chelsea Community Fair ladies day organizers Kris Bergman, Susan McCalla, and Kathy Cobb.

For more information please call 475-8491 or write to "Showcase," 20700 Waterloo Rd., Chelsea 48118.

Safe Foods With Microwave Cooking

By Debbie Barrow
Extension Home Economist
Microwave cooking has been around for about 40 years. As with other forms of cooking the concern over the presence of foodborne pathogens is a major concern.

Uneven cooking that leaves cold spots where bacteria and other foodborne pathogens can survive to cause illness can occur in microwaves for three reasons:

- 1.) the waves (that cook the food) bounce around the oven irregularly;
- 2.) microwaves heat food elements like fats, sugars and liquors more quickly than other elements; and
- 3.) microwaved food often needs to continue cooking even after you take it out of the oven. This is called "standing time."

Tips for safe microwaving:

- When you defrost food in the microwave, cook it immediately.
- Debone large pieces of meat before cooking. Bone can shield the meat around it from thorough cooking.

- Cook large pieces of meat at 50% power for longer periods of time. Commercial oven cooking bags also aid even cooking and tenderness.
- Do not cook whole, stuffed poultry in the microwave. Cook bird and stuffing separately.

- Use a meat thermometer or temperature probe to check for doneness. Check in several places, avoiding fat and bone. The internal temperature should reach 160 degrees F for red meat, 180 degrees F for poultry. Fish should flake.

- Arrange smaller items or mixed foods uniformly in a covered dish. Add a bit of liquid. The steam formed inside the dish helps kill any bacteria or other pathogens and ensures even heating. If your cover is plastic, make sure it doesn't touch the food.

- Move food inside a dish several times during cooking. Stir soups and stews. If you don't have a turntable, turn the dish during cooking.

- Mixed foods, casseroles, soups, stews and re-heated carryout and leftover foods should all be heated to at least 165 degrees F.

- For all foods, observe the standing time given in the recipe, usually about 1/3 of the cooking time. Food completes cooking during the standing time.

When in doubt read the book that came with your microwave for cooking, stirring, turning and standing times.

DENTISTRY CAN PLAY IMPORTANT ROLE IN THE HOSPITAL SETTING

Often forgotten in the hospital setting where there are so many life-threatening and other serious concerns for patients is the role of the dental consultant. Oddly enough, many patients regard their oral health and well being as a reflection of their overall fitness! The hospital dental consultant can assist the other hospital personnel in the day-to-day oral care that their patients require.

People end up in hospitals for a variety of reasons. A large percentage of most hospital populations tends to be made up of older individuals with all the oral conditions that seem to accompany the aging process. A patient may be physically or emotionally debilitated to an extent that they are unable to perform routine oral hygiene procedures such as brushing, flossing, and mouthrinsing. Several geriatric patients have lost all or several of their teeth and are wearing prostheses that require routine maintenance. Large changes in weight may make a denture loose or even unwearable.

In many ways the mouth does reflect the state of a person's health. A side effect of many medications is xerostomia or dry mouth. Loss of the natural buffering and cleansing effect of the saliva can result in widespread and sudden decay of the teeth. Patients need to be counseled about this. Many systemic diseases manifest themselves in the mouth. Diabetics, for example, are much more susceptible to infection and, therefore, to periodontal disease (a type of infection).

It is an excellent idea for patients to have a dental evaluation prior to major surgery where healing will be a prolonged process. The results can be catastrophic when an abscessed tooth was not evaluated and treated prior to heart bypass or artificial joint replacement surgery! A dental evaluation is mandatory protocol in the workup of an individual who is to receive large doses of radiation therapy to the head and neck area. Again, xerostomia is a side effect of such treatments and, as a result, these patients have special oral concerns.

The hospital dentist can play a crucial role in the acute and subsequent follow-up care in cases of trauma. Whether in the emergency room treating an oral abscess or an avulsed tooth, or performing extensive dental reconstruction following a motor vehicle accident, the hospital dentist can provide timely and comforting care in an area where most physicians, nurses, etc., have little expertise.

Another class of patients who seem to require a fair amount of dental care are those being treated for substance abuse. More often than not these individuals have neglected proper nutrition and diet. Their oral hygiene is poor and their substance abuse habit may have obscured dental pain! These patients often become aware of oral/dental problems during their recovery therapy.

Finally, you may find the hospital dentist in the operating room. Here, he or she is able to perform dental procedures on patients who require general anesthesia due to physical, emotional, or medical constraints that make it unwise or impossible to treat them in the office. It is clear that the hospital dentist can provide valuable help in treating a variety of conditions and situations found in the hospital setting.

Yvonne Sears Joins Other Authors At Opening of Little Professor

Yvonne Sears of Chelsea was one of 48 authors to take part in "An Abundant Assemblage of August Authors" at the opening of Little Professor Book Co. in Westgate Shopping Center in Ann Arbor on Friday, Sept. 20.

Sears was on hand to autograph her book "Amber's Halloween," which she both wrote and illustrated, and dedicated to her daughter, Amber.

The authors included writers of fiction and poetry, as well as children books, and non-fiction. They gathered at company headquarters in Ann Arbor for a short reception, then rode in classic cars to the new store in Westgate where they pulled the wrap off the new store. Then they went inside to meet the press, introduce themselves, and autograph their books.

Amber's Halloween was published by Y-Knot, Inc., a company Sears formed and operated for three years. BookCrafters, Inc. of Chelsea printed the book. It was based on her poem "Visions of Halloween," about a bewitching walk through a woods that becomes haunted with all the spirits of darkness that belong to Halloween.

"In my book, I emphasize the fun and happiness of Halloween and make Halloween the way I think it should be," Sears says.

"I never found a book about the traditional American Halloween so I wrote my own, to capture my feelings and share them with my daughter and others."

Sears has lived on 12 wooded acres in Chelsea for three years with her husband, Richard, a University of Michigan astronomer, and Amber, now an eighth grader at Beach Middle school. She was reared on a farm outside Ypsilanti and attended Lincoln Consolidated schools and Eastern Michigan University. She taught school for two years and worked as a secretary for several years.

Sears is working on her second book, "Amber Autumn," although she says she'll leave the publishing to another company because the business end of writing consumed too much of her time.

In her spare time, Sears likes to invent seasonal games, write poems, compose songs, paint, and draw.

Sears will read "Amber's Halloween" at McKune Memorial Library on Thursday, Oct. 24 at 7 p.m.

YVONNE SEARS joined other authors for the opening of the new Little Professor in Westgate Shopping Center. She has written "Amber's Halloween."

Sen. Pollack Gets Grilled On School Finance Measure

needs to be another spot for that money to come from. You just can't continue to take money from districts that are marginally out of formula so you guys can give it to Romulus or Willow Run. A lot of what we're facing is we're on the edge. We do have community support. But now you're telling this public 'you can't have all the money you should have because it has to be shared with districts throughout the state.' To me, as an educator, that doesn't make any sense at all. I'm going to have to go to the public next (year) and say to them 'we have no income increase except for 50 percent of our commercial and industrial. SEV increase, and we have an SEV freeze.' Where are we going to get the money to settle teacher contracts, pay for increasing insurances? You know where we're going to get that money. We have to back to the public and ask them for the money again. Is that fair?"

Chelsea High school assistant principal Joe Rossi objected to the legislation because "it forces us to sell the plan passed in Lansing. [School districts] are the only place people can vote 'no'." If the district can't sell the legislation, the district won't be able to get approval for increased operating millage if it's needed.

Board trustee Ron Satterthwaite suggested that if the state is going to freeze the district's income, it should "also freeze our expenditures." He also said that if income is frozen and expenditures rise, "we might be back to five hours [per school day] real quick."

Pollack agreed with the idea suggested by several people that school funding structure needs to be overhauled in general. She said she supports a graduated income tax plan. She also proposed that sales taxes be applied to services as well as goods to substantially broaden the tax base. She described the limitations posed on the state by the Headlee Amendment, which she said would virtually force a constitutional amendment in order for the state to collect more revenues for education. That's because the Headlee Amendment sets a ceiling on the amount of total taxes the state can collect.

Bob Daniels, who led a group of area citizens to Lansing recently to discuss property tax reform, again expressed his objections to the legislature's unwillingness or inability to solve the school funding issue.

Pollack agreed there is a lack of leadership in state government and said she's as frustrated as anyone else about the issue. She also commended the Chelsea group for recognizing that another tax would have to replace any decrease in property taxes.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

The School Board doesn't understand why the proposal was defeated? Let me tell you why I voted "NO," and why I would vote "NO" again for the same proposal.

First, why should all of Chelsea's taxpayers pay for an $80,000 pressbox? Why do we even need it? I have three sons who were never "good enough" in sports to make any team in any sport. Instead of a press box, why not fund an intramural sports program for those "not good enough" students. I'm sure it would be well received by more kids than are now in the current programs.

Why can't the athletic boosters have fund-raisers involving the sports-minded families, to raise this needed money. Stockbridge raised $100,000 for a press box and concession stand by running a bingo concession. The Chelsea Band Boosters sell candy bars for their activities. Are the athletic boosters any better than the band boosters and feel it beneath them to get out and raise their own money?

There are a lot of things they could do, like: bingo's, dances, candy sales, car washes. Yes, it may take a few years to raise the money, but wouldn't they appreciate it much more? Let them raise their own money. I don't want to fund it.

The second reason I voted "NO" was the issue of the early elementary school. Is this really necessary? Isn't there enough emphasis on education, which is great, but when does it stop? Is the next step, school on the day of birth? What's wrong with letting kids be kids? Do we have to have smarter kids than our neighbors?

What's wrong with good ol' nursery school. I sent my boys to nursery school so they could have other kids to play with. I didn't care if they learned their ABC's, numbers, or colors. I don't think they have been hindered in any way. I also PAID tuition. I didn't get a free ride.

Let the families who will use this facility fund it. Why should taxpayers pay for something only a small group of people will use?

I have no problem with updating and renovating the schools, these are a necessity and it benefits all families in the school district. I strongly object to funding programs only a small minority of the population uses when there are lots of things these special interest groups can do to help themselves.

Denise Martell.

"Great men never feel great; small men never feel small . . ."
—Chinese Proverb

Our judgment of ourselves is seldom perfectly objective. The Chinese long ago learned a fundamental rule of human behavior that may help as a guide to self-appraisal.

If we think we are great . . . that we have really arrived at the pinnacle, that we can do no wrong . . . we ARE wrong! The truly great man is fully conscious of his shortcomings, of which he thinks he has more than enough. He feels humble, small . . . thus proving he is not small. Conversely, the really small man never feels small because his inadequacies include the inability to admit to his own shortcomings.

We conduct all of our affairs in accordance with the strictest code of ethics. Ask any family that we have served.

34 Years Ago . . .

The Chelsea Community Chest goal was set at $13,311 for the 1958 budget. Frank Brewster, former Washtenaw county Sheriff's Department deputy, and William Lewis, who still is with the Sheriff's Department, were partners in the new Chelsea Bakery which opened for business in the former Turner Electric store on West Middle St. Congressman George Meader was the guest speaker at a Kiwanis club meeting.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor Annual Report for Fiscal Year 1990, coal mining fatalities decreased during the year to 67 compared with 69 deaths in fiscal year 1989.

WDC Will Show Reasons for Locating In Washtenaw

Washtenaw Development Council (WDC) will host its 9th annual Open House and Developers Showcase Tuesday, Oct. 22, 4 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. at the Radisson Resort and Conference Center, Ypsilanti.

The Open House, sponsored by Michigan Consolidated Gas Co., offers companies who are interested in relocating to or expanding within Washtenaw county the opportunity to become familiar with the WDC's comprehensive services and Washtenaw county's industrial and commercial resources.

Elected officials who are interested in relocation and expansion projects will also participate in the Open House.

The Open House reception will feature the following special events:

The "Building Washtenaw County's Future" Award Ceremony will recognize the following 11 companies, nominated by their respective communities, that have modernized their manufacturing processes over the past few years and/or located their operations here because of Washtenaw county's high technology environment: Arbor Technologies, Inc.; Chelsea Milling Co.; Crescive Die and Tool Co.; Door Controls International; ERIM; FAAC, Inc.; General Motors Corp.; Chevrolet-Pontiac-Canada Group, Willow Run Assembly; General Motors Corp., Powertrain Division; Malloy Lithography, Inc.; Pilot Metal Products; and Schlumberger Technologies CAD-CAM.

The Developers Showcase will include exhibits by architectural, engineering and construction firms, and will also highlight select industrial facilities, land and commercial development projects that are available for sale or lease.

Representatives of businesses that are interested in expanding or relocating with Washtenaw county may receive an invitation to the Open House and Developers Showcase by contacting the WDC at (313) 761-9317 before Oct. 15.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider
Education Department
Humane Society of Huron Valley

* The Fearful Pet

My poodle, Annabelle, is afraid of thunderstorms. So is my cat, Zappa. At the first hint of an approaching storm, Annabelle is on my lap, and Zappa is under the bed. Fear of thunder and other loud noises is common in pets as is fear of people, cars, bicycles, and other objects. It is not true that dogs and cats outgrow their fears. Luckily fears and phobias (intense irrational fears) can usually be successfully treated in our pets.

How do you know when your pet is experiencing fear? Common signs of fear in animals include lowering the head, flattening the ears back against the head, tucking the tail between the back legs, and avoidance of the feared object. A "grinning" expression may be noticed in some dogs, while other animals avoid eye contact, squat and urinate, or lie on their backs with a leg raised to show submission. Extremely frightened pets may become immobile, and some animals show aggression when afraid, either by barking or hissing threateningly, or by actually biting or lashing out with claws.

Helping your pet to conquer his or her fears is relatively straightforward, although you may need the assistance of a trained animal behavior therapist. Any animal who exhibits aggressive behavior when afraid requires the guidance of a behavior therapist for fear modification. Call your veterinarian or humane society for a referral to a qualified therapist in your area.

Easing your pet's fright involves two techniques used simultaneously; desensitization and counter-conditioning. Desensitization is exposing the pet to the fearful situation at such low level that the animal is not afraid. Then, very gradually, the feared noise is increased in volume or the feared object is brought closer to the pet. Counter-conditioning is training the pet to associate an emotion or behavior with the fear that is incompatible with it. For example, conditioning a dog or cat to experience pleasure and calmness during the fear-producing experience can help the pet learn a different behavior than anxiety. When both techniques are used together, they can help reduce and even eliminate your pet's fear.

For example, if your pet is afraid of thunderstorms, buy a realistic recording of a storm. Test the recording by playing it just loudly enough to recognize fear in your pet. The technique won't work if your recording doesn't elicit the fear response! Practice the behavior modification in half-hour sessions, once a day. Begin by playing the recording so softly that you can barely hear it. Praise/pet your animal and watch closely for signs of fear. Every few minutes, reward calm behavior with an extra-delicious tidbit. After five minutes, increase the volume slightly. Repeat the procedure until the session is over. If your pet shows any signs of fear, immediately reduce the volume, wait until the pet is calm, and then begin again. You must go very gradually!

Object fears are handled similarly, but with the feared object starting at 100 feet away from the pet, and coming closer step by step. It may take a few weeks of regular sessions for the animal to become desensitized, and occasional "reminder" sessions throughout the pet's life to completely banish the fear.

Next week: "Housetraining A Dog."

Saline Man's Work Chosen For State Photography Exhibit

The picture-perfect Saline scene photographed by Wayne W. Clements of Saline, is part of the new historical photography exhibit at the Michigan Historical Museum, in downtown Lansing.

A special feature of the "Still Memories: A Century of Michigan Photography" exhibit is the "My Michigan Hometown" slide presentation. The presentation includes slides collected from amateur photographers throughout Michigan during a summer-long contest. The 38 slides represent the photographers' hometowns through festivals, community gatherings, main streets and landscape scenes. They lend a contemporary perspective to the many historic hometown photos in the exhibit.

The top five winners of the photography contest were announced at a special reception on Saturday, Sept. 28. They received prizes donated by the Kodak Company's professional and amateur divisions; all entrants received certificates signed by Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, who serves as Michigan's official historian.

The "Still Memories" exhibit focuses on the years 1857 through 1957, when cameras evolved from a magical novelty to a common means of preserving memories. It features 75 photographs from the State Archives of Michigan, including ambrotypes, tintypes and daguerreotypes; "hands-on" activities; and life-size displays including a camera obscura, a turn-of-the-century photographer's studio, and a 1920's darkroom.

There is no admission fee for the Michigan Historical Museum, located at 717 W. Allegan St., about two blocks west of the State Capitol in downtown Lansing. Hours are Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.; Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.; and Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. The Museum is handicapped-accessible.

The Michigan Historical Museum and its nine satellite sites are operated by the Department of State, the official state agency responsible for preserving and protecting Michigan history. Through the Bureau of History, it also operates the State Archives of Michigan, the Michigan Historical Marker Program, the Archaeology Section, and produces historical publications including Michigan History Magazine. The Bureau provides staff support to and seeks advice from the Michigan Historical Commission, an advisory body to the Bureau.

Peggy Haines Named to Office in State Association

The Michigan Association of Registers of Deeds has announced the election of Peggy Haines of Superior township, as its third vice-president for the 1991-1992 term.

The election was held at the M.A.R.D. annual Summer Educational Conference, Aug. 13-16, at the Holiday Inn in Holland. The installation was performed by Sally Foust, Cass county register of deeds. The association's membership is comprised of registers, clerk-registers and several deputies in all 83 Michigan counties.

Peggy was appointed and subsequently elected Washtenaw county clerk-register in 1990 and has served a total of 30 years in the register's office. She has been an active member of M.A.R.D.

Fire Prevention Week Being Observed Oct. 6-12

Fire Prevention Week—Oct. 6-12, commemorates the 120th anniversary of the great Chicago Fire in 1871 which killed 250 persons, left 100,000 homeless and destroyed more than 17,400 buildings. First proclaimed in 1922 by President Warren Harding, Governor John Engler has declared Oct. 6-12 as "Fire Prevention Week" in Michigan. This year's "Fire Prevention Week" theme is "Fire Won't Wait—Plan Your Escape."

State Fire Marshal Wade Schaefer says it is vital that the citizens of Michigan, businesses, schools, service clubs and other organizations hear and take to heart this year's Fire Prevention Week message.

Schaefer reports, in Michigan, fire occurs every nine minutes, and someone dies as a result of a fire every 36 hours.

In Michigan, 59,301 fires accounting for 242 deaths and monetary losses of approximately $312 million were reported in 1990. Out of all the structural fires reported in 1990, 91% of the total deaths occurred in the home.

This data was extracted from the Michigan Fire Incident Reporting System maintained by the Michigan State Police, Fire Marshal Division.

The following fire prevention tips are provided by the Michigan State Fire Marshal:

- Establish and practice a home fire escape plan

- Make sure all possible exits are not obstructed and windows open easily
- Bedrooms of all infants, elderly or disabled persons should be near an exit and someone assigned to assist them in the event of fire

- Test your smoke detector monthly
- Teach even your youngest children to go outside whenever they smell smoke, see fire "where it doesn't belong" or hear the smoke alarm

- Never go back into a burning building
- Post emergency telephone numbers by every telephone

- Designate one meeting place outside the home
- Teach your children how to react if their clothing catches fire

- STOP—You must not run if on fire.
- DROP—Immediately to the floor or ground and
- ROLL—Over and over until the flames are gone.

Properly maintained smoke detectors can provide your family the assurance of early warning in case of a fire, and an established home fire escape plan is a habit that could save your life!

Rabbits, Squirrels Abound For Small Game Season

Michigan's nearly 200,000 cottontail rabbit hunters and 170,000 squirrel hunters can expect excellent hunting as small game season begins Sept. 15, a result of our four recent mild winters.

RABBITS (Sept. 15-March 31): The relatively mild winter and excellent brood-rearing spring of 1991 have combined to provide one of the highest cottontail populations in the past 10 years.

Rabbit hunters reported harvesting more than one million cottontails last year, a dramatic increase over the 870,000 taken just five years ago. Cottontail hunters continued to spend more time than any other small game hunting group in pursuit of their favorite game animal. More than two million days were spent afield by approximately 204,000 hunters during the 1990 season, the highest number in 10 years.

Since most rabbit hunting takes place on private farmlands, those who are new to the sport, or who have not hunted small game in recent years, may want to get a list of farms leased by the state for hunting from a license dealer in the southern part of the state. The DNR leases nearly 135,000 acres of private lands for hunting through the Hunter Access Program.

SQUIRRELS (Sept. 15-Jan. 1): An estimated 189,990 squirrel hunters reported harvesting more than 1,063,000 squirrels in 1990, one of the highest harvests on record.

The recent mild winters also have led to excellent populations of fox, grey and black squirrels across the state. Most crops are good to excellent over most of the Lower Peninsula, providing good hunting opportunities on both public and private lands.

Timbered portions of state game and recreation areas are favorite hunting spots. These areas total nearly 500,000 acres in the southern portion of the Lower Peninsula. Some 400 farms representing 135,000 acres of Hunter Access Program (HAP) leased lands are available for squirrel hunting.

Most state forest lands, game and wildlife areas and national forests in the Upper Peninsula and northern half of the Lower Peninsula have abundant squirrel populations. Private lands enrolled in the Commercial Forest Reserve program also should provide good hunting opportunities.

One change in the law should be of interest to hunters who have not hunted squirrels in recent years—the extension of the squirrel season from the previous Nov. 10 closing date to New Year's Day, state-wide.

The woodcock population is expected to remain about the same; ruffed grouse numbers may be slightly lower but still good hunting, report Department of Natural Resources (DNR) wildlife biologists. Soft mast (cherries, dogwood, thornapples) is reported abundant in all parts of the state. The bird season ends Nov. 14 for the firearm deer hunting season and continues to Jan. 1 in the Lower Peninsula.

MSU Conference To Discuss Farm Credit

Managers of farm credit institutions will meet Oct. 15 at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center to discuss trends in agriculture and lending practices.

During the annual Michigan Farm Credit Conference, managers will hear about the 1992 agricultural economic outlook and the current status of Farmer Mac. They will also discuss effects of the agriculture and Michigan polluters pay legislation.

The conference will run from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. Registration for the program costs $20 and includes a luncheon.

Speakers for the program will include MSU agriculture economists, farmers and representatives from the Federal Agricultural Mortgage Corp.

More information may be obtained from Ralph Hepp, MSU Extension agricultural economist, by calling him at (517) 353-7185.

U. S. Department of Agriculture researchers.

Dale Marshall, USDA researcher based at Michigan State University, says bagging apples causes more bruises than any other apple handling operation.

The new system, which he co-invented, reduced bruising in Golden Delicious apples by 93 percent.

Studies of the 1986-87 Michigan apple crop indicated that, on the average, 91 to 95 percent of a three-pound bag of apples were battered, with the average apple having approximately three bruises.

"The new machine will allow packing houses to maintain the standards needed for apples labeled U. S. Extra Fancy grade," he says. "That means there will be no more than one bruise per apple and a battered area of no more than 0.2 square inch per apple." The main thing the new machine does is reduce collisions between apples as they are put into the bag for shipment.

A padded box holds the apples in place as a collection pan is removed, allowing the apples to settle rather than fall into the bag. The box then moves the bag to a closing device and the closed bag slides away.

Field tests at the Belding Fruit Storage Co. in Belding demonstrated the effectiveness of the machine in reducing bruising. A minor drawback of the new system is that it's about three bags per minute slower than conventional baggers.

"It's definitely a step in the right direction," says Mark Zemaitis, Belding Fruit Storage production manager. "It's basically what we are looking for in a bagger."

Additional research will likely increase the speed of the new system and help retrofit existing apple bagging systems, Marshall says.

Farmland prices are expected to rise between one and three percent this year. This will be the fifth year in a row that farmland prices have gone up. But the U.S. Department of Agriculture says the price of farmland has not kept up with inflation.

Depot Association Starts Fund-Raiser

"Old buildings require lots of maintenance." That frequent quote is exactly what the Chelsea Depot Association has found while looking after the restored Chelsea Train Depot for the last six years.

Right now maintenance superintendents Elmer Kiel and Dave Shiel are suggesting a new roof and putting a new paint job near the top of their list.

Operating funds have come from rental of the Michigan Central East room, and rent from the Chelsea Chamber of Commerce and Chelsea Historical Society. Treasurer Gloria Mitchell said "We're keeping up with insurance, electrical, heat, window washing, general cleaning and snow removal, but there is no extra cushion for a major project."

Unanimously at the C.D.A.'s August meeting, the board voted to hold a 50/50 drawing. Registered with the State of Michigan, the event will yield cash prizes of $3,000, $1,000, $500, $200, and three $100 prizes. Only 1,000 tickets will be sold and the winners' names will be drawn at the depot on Dec. 13, at 7 p.m.

Chairperson Dudley Holmes, Jr., said each trustee has 100 tickets to sell, contact any one of them: Bill Chandler, Kathy Clark, Lynda Collins, Lee Fahrner, Dahlene Harper, Marge Heppburn, Elmer Kiel, Gloria Mitchell, Dave Shiel, or Veretta Whitaker.

Veretta added, "Bricks are still available, as the sidewalk is not full as of this date. The 50/50 is a fund-raising campaign in addition to the brick project."

The depot is open 10 to 4 on Monday and Thursday, and 1 to 3 on Saturdays.

The next community event held there will be the annual Festival of Lights, open house and musical gathering the first week-end of December.

Breakfast Club To Discuss Area Real Estate Market

A presentation and discussion on Chelsea Real Estate Development will be made by a three-member panel at the Chelsea Economic Breakfast Club on Wednesday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 a.m. in the main dining room of the Chelsea Community Hospital. Panelists will include Robert Daniels, president, Chelsea Lumber Co.; Rene Papo, president, ARCUS Corp.; and Thomas Fegan, director, Washtenaw County Metropolitan Planning Commission.

Title of the presentation will be "Real Estate Development - Where does Chelsea figure in the picture." Perspectives on both residential and commercial development will be considered as well as county-wide development growth.

The challenges of Chelsea's real estate market and related growth pressures will offer a wide array of topics for both the panelists and participants.

Chelsea Economic Breakfast Club is co-sponsored by Society Bank and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and meets in the hospital on the third Wednesday of each month. Topics and speakers which would interest members of Chelsea and the surrounding communities are presented.

The meeting is open to the public. A continental breakfast for $3 will be served at 7:30 a.m. The program, which includes a brief question and answer period will be adjourned at 9 a.m. Reservations are requested and should be made through Mark Bally, Society Bank, at 475-9154, or Ann Feeney, Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, at 475-1145.

Lt. John Poulter Completes National Guard Pilot Training

Air National Guard 2nd Lt. John W. Poulter has received silver wings upon graduation from pilot training at Williams Air Force Base, Chandler, Ariz.

He is the son of James A. Poulter of 13174 Riker Rd. and Marilyn J. Poulter of 345 Elm St., both of Chelsea.

The lieutenant is a 1985 graduate of Chelsea High school.

Window Broken On Backhoe

Conrail workers told Chelsea Police that someone broke a window out of a parked backhoe between Sept. 28 and Sept. 30.

The window apparently was broken with a rock.

Stolen Car Recovered Here

A Gregory resident's stolen car was found on E. Middle St. by Chelsea police on Wednesday, Oct. 2.

Police discovered the vehicle was stolen as they were preparing to ticket the parked vehicle.

Police found two radios and a quart of beer in the trunk.

SPRINT BICYCLE RACES were held downtown Saturday afternoon as part of Fallfest activities. All side streets were blocked off while racers sprinted from Van Buren St. to Middle St. Attendance was sparse, partially due to bone-chilling breezes and drizzly weather all day long.

IT WAS BEGINNING TO LOOK A LOT like Christmas at Saturday's Country Craft and Folk Art Show at Chelsea High school as numerous artisans had holiday-related items for sale. Here, Chelsea High school art teacher Kerry Kargel and his wife, Glenna, show their hand-painted, ceramic Santa Clauses. The event is held as a fundraiser for the Chelsea Senior Citizens organization.

MARIE DETTEN of New Baltimore was one of the many antique dealers from out of the area to display and sell their merchandise at the Antique Market at the Chelsea Fairgrounds last week-end. The three-day event, held in conjunction with the first Fallfest, drew a huge crowd to the fairgrounds.

Village Seeks Reimbursement for Expenses of Gas Tank Removal

Village of Chelsea plans to seek reimbursement from the state for $11,681.60 in expenses associated with underground gasoline tank removal at the village garage on North St.

The state has already denied payment because the village used a contractor not on the state's approved list to remove the tanks, dispose of them, and perform soil tests.

Total expenses incurred by the village are $21,681.50. The fund will reimburse expenses over $10,000.

The village will appeal to the Michigan Underground Storage Tank Fund Assurance program (MUSTFA) later this month or next month. In the meantime, the village is seeking a bid from an approved Ann Arbor contractor, Traverse Group, Inc., to perform further tests, village manager Jack Myers said.

"It's possible we might not have to tear down [part of] the building," Myers said at the Sept. 24 village council meeting. He indicated the disposition of the building depends on the test results. Underground gasoline storage tanks leaked at the site, sending pollution under the building, earlier tests showed.

Michigan Department of Natural Resources has already indicated part of the building should be razed and the site cleaned up. The village stands to save thousands of dollars if it doesn't have to perform an extensive clean-up. However, the village has already started site work for a new facility at the village industrial park on Sibley

Rd. That facility will be constructed no matter what happens with the North St. facility, Myers said.

"We can certainly use the space," Myers said.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Taylor Gains 190 Yards As Bulldogs Win Third Over County Western

Senior running back Adam Taylor rushed for 190 yards and a touchdown and senior backfield mate Ben Hurst rushed for 127 yards and two touchdowns as the Chelsea Bulldogs dominated Jackson County Western last Friday in Parma, 26-6.

It was the biggest game of the year for Taylor and one of the biggest for any Chelsea running back over the last several years. And he did it all on 18 carries, one a 58-yard touchdown on an option play in Chelsea's second drive of the night.

"Offensively we dominated the line of scrimmage," said Chelsea head coach Gene LaFave.

"We had an awfully good effort up front by a lot of people, Colt White, Mike Terpstra, Tom Poulter."

Sophomore quarterback Colby Skelton guided the option offense, and LaFave said he was happy with Skelton's progress.

"I'd say he progressed 50 percent last week and if he progresses another 25 percent this week we'll be very happy," LaFave said.

Western was willing to give up the pitch, and Chelsea ran outside often and easily, amassing 341 yards on the ground. Skelton tried just five passes, completing one for eight yards. He also had two interceptions.

The score would probably have been much worse had the Bulldogs not turned the ball over four times, twice on fumbles.

Chelsea scored three times in the first half to take a 20-0 lead at the intermission. Taylor's score gave Chelsea a 6-0 lead. Hurst's three-yard run in the second quarter, followed by a two-point conversion gave Chelsea a 14-0 edge. Skelton completed the first-half scoring with a one-yard sneak.

Western pulled to within 20-6 in the third quarter. A fumble on Chelsea's only completed pass of the night gave Western the ball at their own 20. They went on for their longest sustained drive of the night.

Chelsea wrapped up the scoring in the fourth quarter as Hurst ran off tackle for six yards after a time-consuming drive.

The Bulldogs had just three possessions in the second half.

Chelsea didn't punt all night. Drives either ended in a score or on a turnover.

The Bulldogs' defense held Western to 174 total yards, 150 on the ground. Taylor at linebacker and Poulter at defensive end each had a team-high eight tackles.

This week the Bulldogs host the Dexter Dreadnaughts for the annual homecoming game.

Dexter features one of the fastest quarterbacks in the area in Jeff Wood. "Dexter can present some problems for us," LaFave said.

"They have some speed on offense and they always play hard-fused defense. They beat Western, and they're also 2-1 in the league."

Chelsea Netters Take Fourth Place In Conference

Chelsea Bulldogs tennis team placed fourth in the five-team Liberty Conference Tournament last Saturday.

Final standings were 1. Saline and Jackson Lumen Christi (tie) 14 points, 3. Ann Arbor Greenhills 8, 4. Chelsea 5; 5. Pinckney 0.

Five Chelsea netters made it past the first round but fell in the second round.

"These are three formidable teams and are always tough to beat whereas Chelsea and Pinckney are more closely matched," said Chelsea coach Terri Curtis.

In singles, Chelsea's Amy Mitchell defeated Laurie Maciag of Pinckney 6-2, 6-2 but lost to Rani Nanda of Greenhills, 1-6, 3-6; Chelsea's Kate Neal defeated Andrea Power of Pinckney 6-3, 7-5 then lost to Tricia Cox of Greenhills 1-6, 1-6; Heather Wynn of Chelsea defeated Shana Stock of Pinckney 5-7, 6-3, 6-1 then lost to Amy Fors of Christi 3-6, 3-6; and Erin Boyle of Chelsea lost to Karen Coon of Pinckney 6-2, 0-6, 0-6.

In doubles play, Chelsea's Theresa Hurst and Monica Hansen defeated Gina Burton and Gretchen Linton of Pinckney 2-6, 6-1, 7-5 but lost to Grace Eng and Bethany Little of Saline, 4-6, 3-6; Becky Vetter and Christine McLaughlin of Chelsea defeated Tracy Freeman and Jodi Saleski of Pinckney 3-6, 2-6 then lost to Jill Peters and Ellen Miller of Saline 0-6, 2-6; and Chelsea's Myra Musolf and Sara Smith were defeated by Michelle Knust and Mary Hutchinson of Pinckney 4-6, 3-6.

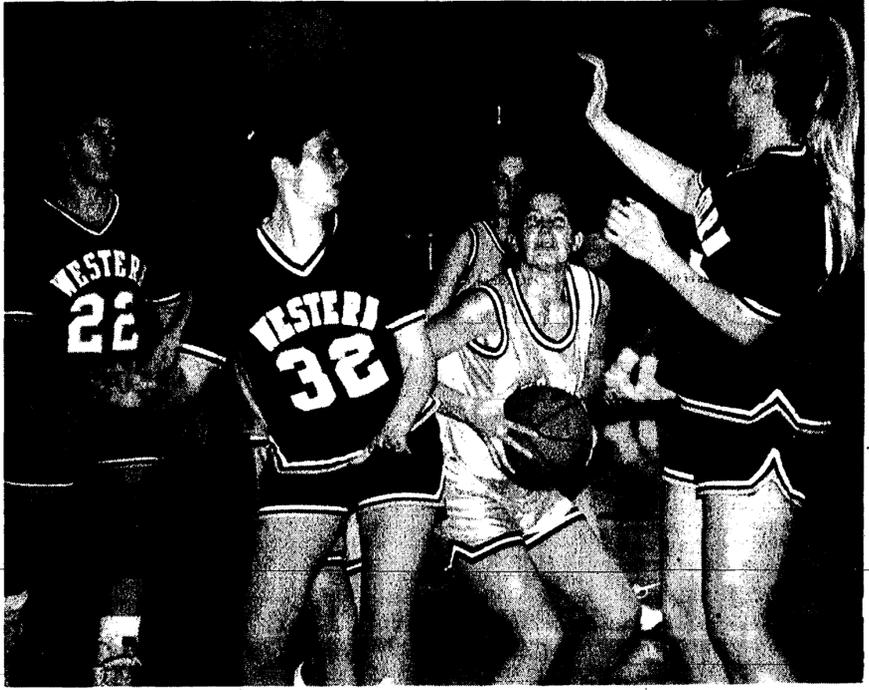

In action last Thursday, Chelsea beat the Pinckney Pirates 5-1. The seventh match was called due to darkness.

In singles, Mitchell defeated Maciag 6-4, 6-3; Neal topped Andrea Powers 6-1, 5-7, 6-1; Wynn lost to Stock 4-6, 7-5, 2-6; and Boyle defeated Coon 6-3, 6-4.

In doubles, Hurst and Hansen defeated Linton and Burton 6-3, 4-6, 6-4; Vetter and McLaughlin stopped Saleski and Tracy Extrom 6-4, 0-6, 6-3; and Becca Flintoft and Tracy Haas had their match with Knust and Hutchinson called due to darkness. Each team had won a set.

"Most of the matches went three sets and even though we started at 4 p.m. the final match was still going at 8 p.m. and the players couldn't see very much," Curtis said.

"Chelsea and Pinckney always have a closely contested match."

CHRISTINE BURG looks to take a shot in heavy traffic during the Chelsea Bulldogs' game last Thursday with Jackson County Western. Western, a team of hot shooters, won the game easily with a first-quarter blitz.

Chelsea Cagers Humble Splitters But Western Gives Dogs a Lesson

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team was involved in two blowouts last week, but only one in their favor.

On Tuesday, Oct. 1, Chelsea whipped the Lincoln Railsplitters 54-11 after taking a 10-0 lead in the first quarter and 26-3 lead at half-time.

"At times we looked good and at times we looked ragged," said Chelsea coach Dave Wojcicki.

Chelsea hit 22 of 69 shots from the floor and 10 of 22 from the free throw line.

Senior Christine Burg paced Chelsea with 22 points and Heather McConoghy added 13. Other scorers included Ginny Flannery 5, Nicki Piasecki 6, Martha Merkel 5, and Mara Smith 2.

Senior center Kelly Cross did not play due to injury.

On Thursday the Bulldogs lost to Jackson County Western 64-29.

Chelsea fell behind 25-5 in the first quarter and scored in double figures in only the third quarter.

"We kind of fell apart against their pressure defense," Wojcicki said.

"Western, though, is an excellent team. They have a lot more experience and are one of the best shooting teams I've ever seen. It just shows what good shooting can accomplish."

Western's press forced Chelsea into numerous turnovers early in the game. When the Bulldogs did get an open shot they had problems making them. They finished 11 of 49 from the field.

No Bulldog finished in double figures. Scorers included Burg 6, McConoghy 5, Flannery 4, Renae Skelly 4, Piasecki 4, Merkel 4, and Jacki Crawford 2.

Chelsea had just seven girls dressed for the game due to injuries.

Chelsea is 2-7 on the season and 1-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

JV QUARTERBACK DAN WEHRWEIN prepares to Bulldogs last Thursday in their victory over Jackson hand off to Jay Westcott, who had a big night for the junior County Western.

Monti Sets Junior Mark As Girls Win Invitational

Chelsea's Lisa Monti set a new junior record as the Bulldogs cross country team shut out the field in seven-team Mason Invitational last Thursday.

Monti's time of 18:49 broke Casey Anderson's 1986 mark by 32 seconds. Anderson went on to become an All-American at Hillsdale College.

The Bulldogs took the top six spots in the meet.

"The girls obviously ran well," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

"Freshman Molly Griebel placed ninth in her first varsity meet with a personal record (21:49). As amazing as her performance was, Molly could not hold the varsity position because the top three junior varsity runners beat her time."

Chelsea runners behind Monti were 2. Val Bullock, 20:17; 3. Beth Bell, 20:37; 4. Beth Williams, 20:51; 5. Sarah Brosnan, 21:08; 6. Robin Phelps, 21:20; 9. Griebel, 21:49.

Team results were Chelsea 15, Williamston 60, Fowlerville 108.

Lakewood 110, Dewitt 117, Olivet 136, and Portland (did not finish).

Chelsea junior varsity runners took seven of the top nine spots. Results were 1. Tracey Wales, 21:24; 2. Charity Allen, 21:35; 3. Jessica Holton, 21:40; 6. Lauren Sparaco, 22:44; 7. Sarah Henry, 22:55; 8. Carmen Smith, 22:56; 9. Laura Paton, 22:57; 12. Erika Leiter, 23:44; 18. Lynda Schaffer, 24:41; 19. Marie Kramer, 24:53; 25. Emily Anderson, 25:25.

Chelsea also easily won the Ypsilanti Invitational last Saturday with 31 points, just ahead of Dearborn Edsel Ford with 56.

Monti again placed first over-all in 19:38.

"The girls continue to run well and improve," Clarke said.

"Lisa had a good battle with a Ladywood runner for two miles before pulling away to win. Val Bullock ran 30 seconds faster than last year. The other girls were all 30 seconds to one minute faster than last year."

Behind Monti were 4. Bullock, 20:27; 7. Bell, 21:10; 8. Brosnan, 21:28; 11. Williams, 21:38; 12. Phelps, 21:40; 15. Wales, 21:55.

Chelsea's junior varsity team took second place.

Chelsea results were 3. Griebel, 22:41; 4. Allen, 22:58; 11. Paton, 23:33; 15. Henry, 23:44; 19. Smith, 24:03; 22. Leiter, 24:24; 34. Sparaco, 24:51; 37. Holton, 25:06; 41. Schick, 25:42; 42. Anderson, 25:52; 55. Kramer, 26:59.

Beach A Team Wins, B Squad Shows Improvement

Beach Middle school A football team remained unbeaten as they entertained the Lincoln Railsplitters at home, 28-20, on Tuesday, Oct. 1. Chelsea took a Lincoln punt and immediately drove the ball deep and scored as Scott Colvin hit Nick Brink on a 37-yard pass. The conversion failed but Chelsea had a 6-0 lead.

Lincoln answered immediately as the Lincoln back broke a long run to tie the score 6-6 to end the first quarter.

Chelsea again took the lead in the second quarter. The Chelsea running attack gained momentum as Jordan Dyer, Josh Bernhard and Sprawaka hammered at the Lincoln line for good yardage. The score came as Colvin hit Ricky Stahl on an 18-yard pass and Dyer ran the two point conversion in for a 14-6 Chelsea lead.

Lincoln responded just before the end of the second quarter, scoring from the five, after a long punt return. The score was 14-14 at half-time.

Lincoln and Chelsea exchanged scores in the third quarter as Sprawaka continued to gain good yardage behind the blocking of Sam Morseau, Greg McKeighan and the offensive line of Bill Carmack, Kent Young, Jeremy Feldkamp, Keith Maze, and Tom Barkman. Sprawaka finished the day with 159 yards in 15 carries.

Colvin picked up his third touchdown of the day as he connected with Sam Morseau to tie the game going into the fourth quarter.

Eric McCalla picked up his second fumble of the day to begin the final Chelsea drive. Keeping the ball on the ground the Chelsea team drove the ball deep into Lincoln territory and scored with less than a minute on the clock. Dyer went in for six points then two more on the conversion.

Damon McLaughlin again led the defensive effort with help from Mike Thayer, Leroy Zepeda, and Chris DeSarbo. Colvin, Stahl, Bernhard, Morseau, and Maze also played well on defense, said coach Charlie Waller. Team record is 2-0-1.

In the second game, the B team again went down to defeat, but continued to show over-all improvement, Waller said. He said the young Bullpups improved their tackling led by the outstanding play of John Beeman in the defensive secondary, and John Tyrrell on the defensive line. Offensively, Jorge Rosario led the team with a 40-yard scoring run in the second half, and Scott Stewart and Eric McDonald played well on the offensive line, Waller said. Team record is 0-3.

JAY WESTCOTT finds a hole in the Western line and runs for a long gain in last Thursday's home junior varsity game. Westcott had four touchdowns in the contest.

JV Gridders Whip Western As Offense Has Big Game

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity football team trounced Jackson County Western at home last Thursday, 47-13.

Jay Westcott scored four touchdowns, and Don Poppenger, Dan Wehrwein, and Eric Dougherty each scored one as the Bulldogs had little trouble moving the ball.

Chelsea took a 20-6 lead late into the second half. The Bulldogs defense stopped Western on downs at the Chelsea goal as the half ended.

"That was a big play because it could have been a one-touchdown game at half-time," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

Western closed the gap to 20-13 in the third quarter, but a 20-yard Wehrwein to Poppenger pass play quickly gave Chelsea a 27-13 lead. The Bulldogs scored 20 points in the fourth quarter.

"Western moved the ball three times on us," Mitchell said.

"Our defense was okay but not great. However, I was very impressed with our offense. Coach Joel Boyer did a great job with different schemes this week that involved more pulling and trap blocking, and the kids responded well. Jim Sarna, Tom Hubbell, and Randy Hurst all blocked well."

Defensively, Mitchell liked the play of Westcott at linebacker and Paul Lopez and David Stimpson at defensive back.

Chelsea is 4-1 over-all and 2-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

JV Cagers Nail Railsplitters, But Lose By Four to Western

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team handled the Lincoln Railsplitters 74-11 last Tuesday but lost a close game to Jackson County Western on Thursday, 43-39.

Four Bulldogs scored in double figures in the Lincoln contest as everyone played and almost everyone scored.

Chelsea scorers included Courtney Thompson-18, Laura Carty 13, Kate Steele 12, Erin Schiller 11, Jessica Flintoft 6, Lindsey Johnson 6, Tracy Patrick 6, and Liz McLaughlin 2.

In Thursday's game, Chelsea couldn't hold on to a five-point fourth quarter lead as Western sank 11-13 free throws down the stretch.

The game was lost by Chelsea at the line as they made just one of 11 shots while Western made 17 of 23.

"With the exception of our free throw shooting, over-all we played pretty well," said Chelsea coach Paul Terpstra.

"We shot 37 percent from the field, had 20 steals and outscored them by 12 points from the field, so it wasn't that bad a game for us. Western was blowing out just about everyone."

Schiller paced Chelsea with 19 points. Other scorers included Steele 8, Flintoft 4, McConeghy 2, Carty 2, Johnson 2, and Patrick 2.

Chelsea is 5-4 over-all and 2-0 in the Southeastern Conference.

Dog Golfers Top Lincoln

Chelsea Bulldogs golf team went 1-1-1 in action last week.

On Tuesday, Dexter and Pinckney challenged the Bulldogs at Inverness Golf Course. Dexter won the meet with a 179, while Chelsea and Pinckney tied at 187.

Chelsea scorers included Chris White 45, Sean Graflund 46, and Aaron Tanner, Nathan Oake, and Cory Brown each scored 48.

The junior varsity team beat Dexter 193-196 but lost to Pinckney with 187.

Scorers for Chelsea were Adam Beauchamp 42, Justin Navin 49, and Dirk Wales and Tom Payne 51 each.

Chelsea hosted Lincoln on Thursday and won 178-194.

Bulldogs' scores were Graflund 43, White 44, Tanner 44, and Brown 45.

The junior varsity team also won, 200-226.

Chelsea scores were Dave Seitz 49, Navin 50, Matt McVittie 47, and Craig Leonard and James Dising 54 each.

"With the season winding down I can sense a great deal of tension and competitiveness as each individual is trying his hardest to qualify for the end of the year tournaments," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

Chelsea's record is 4-5-1.

Yale University was named in 1718, after Elihu Yale, a governor of the British East India Company.

Chelsea Tankers Whip Ypsilanti, Place Fifth in Fenton Relays

Chelsea Bulldogs girls varsity swimming and diving team moved their record to 4-2 with a win over Ypsilanti on Tuesday at Chelsea's Cameron pool, 106-80, and a loss at Milan, 110-75.

In the meet with Ypsilanti junior Melissa Thiel led the way by breaking her own varsity record in the 100-yard breaststroke with a time of 1:13.34. Her previous record, 1:13.50, was set at the state meet last year.

"Melissa is training very well," said Chelsea coach Dave Brinklow.

It's certainly a good sign to have her swimming this fast in the middle of the season."

The meet began with Betsy Schmunck, Erica Boughton, and Carey Schiller joining Thiel to win the 200 medley relay. Erica Street, Nona Giebel, Jennifer Koch and Kristi Smith placed third.

Boughton then placed second in the 200 freestyle, followed by Sara Nicola third, and Sandy Schmid fourth.

In an exciting race in the 200 individual medley, Thiel missed placing first by two-hundredths of a second. Schmunck placed third and Koch fifth.

Schiller won the 50 freestyle while K. Smith was fourth and Maya Ponte fifth.

In diving, Christie Lonskey was second and Jennifer Schulz third.

Boughton won the 100-yard butterfly followed by Koch in third and Ponte in fourth.

Then Schiller, Nicola and Street were second, third and fourth in the 100 freestyle.

Schmunck was second in the 500 freestyle followed by Schmid, third, and K. Smith, fifth.

The 200 freestyle relay team of K. Smith, Nicola, Schmunck and Schmid finished second and Lonskey, C. Smith, Koch and Ponte were third.

Street won the 100 backstroke and Lonskey was third while Kristi Ostling was fourth.

Giebel was fourth in the 100 breaststroke while C. Smith was fifth.

Boughton, Nicola, Thiel and Schiller combined for first in the 400 free relay and the team of Schmid, Angie Wilson, Ponte and Street were third.

In the Milan meet, Schmunck, Thiel, Nicola and Schiller took second in the 200 medley relay, Street, Giebel, Koch and K. Smith were third and Ostling, C. Smith, Amy Hinshaw and Ponte were sixth.

Boughton was second in the 200 freestyle with Schmunck fourth and Ponte sixth.

Thiel was second in the 200 individual medley with Maya Holleman fifth and Koch sixth.

In the 50 freestyle, Nicola was third, K. Smith fourth, and Schmid sixth.

Lonskey dove her season-best for second place with Schulz taking third place.

Nicola was second in the 100 butterfly with Koch fourth and Ponte sixth.

In the 100 freestyle, Schiller was second, K. Smith fourth, and Street fifth.

Boughton was second in the 500 freestyle, followed by Schmunck fourth and Schmid sixth.

The 200 freestyle relay team of Schiller, Thiel, Schmunck and Boughton was second, Lonskey, Holleman, Koch and Schmid were third and Giebel, Ostling, Hinshaw and Ponte were fifth.

Schiller was second in the 100 backstroke while Street was fourth and Lonskey fifth.

In the 100 breaststroke, Thiel was second, Holleman third, and Giebel fifth.

Boughton, K. Smith, Street and Nicola were second in the 400 freestyle relay and Schmid, C. Smith, Lonskey and Holleman were third.

The girls had a great day at the Fenton Relays last Saturday as they finished fifth over-all out of 12 teams.

Leading the way for Chelsea was the 200 medley relay team of Schmunck, Thiel, Boughton and Schiller. Their first place time of 2:00.81 was a meet record.

Nicola joined Thiel, Schmunck and Schiller for a second place in the 200 backstroke relay.

Then it was Nicola, Boughton, Koch and Schmid with a third place finish in the 200 butterfly relay.

Schmunck, Thiel, Boughton, and Schiller again combined for a fourth place finish in the 400 medley relay.

Divers Christie Lonskey and Jennifer Schulz placed seventh in the diving relay.

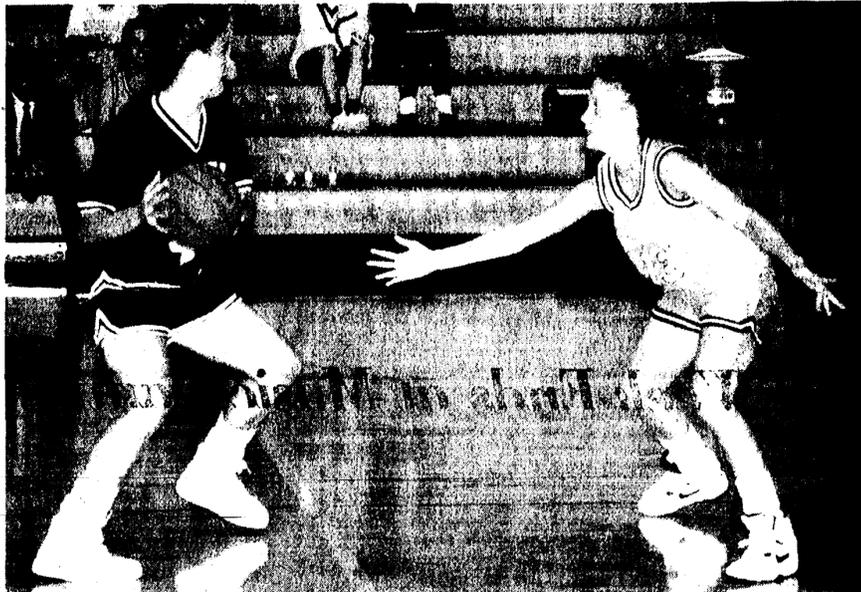

Another seventh place finish was turned in by the 200 breaststroke relay team of Koch, Lonskey, Wilson and Giebel.

The 400 individual medley relay team also finished seventh with Schmid, Koch, Maya Holleman and Nicola.

It was an eighth place finish for the 400 freestyle relay team of Street, Lonskey, Kristi Smith and Holleman, for the 800 freestyle relay team of Street, Smith, Schmid, and Holleman.

Another eighth place finish was turned in by the 200 freestyle relay team of Street, Smith, Ponte and Giebel.

In the 500 yard crescendo relay, the team of Hinshaw, Wilson, Ostling and Ponte finished 11th.

GINNY FLANNERY, right, works hard on defense for Western last Thursday night. Western was the best team Chelsea during the Bulldogs' loss to Jackson County the Bulldogs have played this year.

Boy Runners Take Mason Meet, First Invitational Win Since '88

Chelsea Bulldogs boys cross country team won its first invitational since 1988 with a 12-point victory at the Mason Invitational last Thursday.

Chelsea edged Fowlerville 51-63 to win the seven-team meet as freshman Chad Brown set a personal record by 34 seconds to take first for Chelsea and fifth over-all in 17:07. Other team scores were Williamston 69, Dewitt 85, Olivet 117, Portland 138, and Lakewood 154.

Junior Dan Zatkovich (17:40) and freshman Ryan Schultz (17:48) finished second and third for Chelsea and seventh and 10th over-all, respectively, despite cramping badly, according to Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

Other Chelsea results included 11. Mike Reese, 17:49; 18. Tobin Strong, 18:11; 23. Scott Hawley, 18:16; 30. J.J. Hanke, 18:58.

Junior varsity results included 13. Rob Jaques, 18:43; 25. Brian Atlee, 19:07; 27. Jim Bergman, 19:11; 28. Chris Leatham, 19:16; 45. Gabe White, 19:51; 60. Hans Kemnitz, 20:37; 61. Mike Kennedy, 20:38; 75. Jim Bennett, 21:18; 80. Nick Kramer, 21:39; 85. Dan Alber, 22:13; 95. Kevin Kolodica, 22:50; 100. Mike Peterson, 26:44.

Chelsea boys took their first trophy ever at the Ypsilanti Invitational last Thursday with their third-place finish in the 11-team field.

"The boys ran a smart race," Clarke said.

"The course was wet and slow. This year's team would have shut out last year's varsity."

Zatkovich placed first for Chelsea and eighth over-all in 17:50. Chelsea runners behind him were 10. Schultz, 18:03; 12. Brown, 18:10; 22. Reese, 18:26; 30. Hawley, 18:53; 42. Hanke, 19:13; 46. Jaques, 19:25.

Chelsea's junior varsity team placed fourth. Chelsea results were 16. Kolodica, 19:37; 20. Leatham, 19:43; 28. Bergman, 19:58; 44. White, 20:20; 68. Atlee, 21:12; 70. Kennedy, 21:13; 71. Metzler, 21:15; 72. Kemnitz, 21:15; 73. Bennett, 21:17; 85. Kramer, 21:45; 93. Schiller, 22:17; 98. Alber, 22:41; 119. Peterson, 27:39.

School Board Notes

Present at a regular meeting of the Chelsea Board of Education Monday, Sept. 23, were Comeau, Satterthwaite, Eisenbeiser, Diesing, McCalla, Redding, Knutsen, superintendent Piasecki, assistant superintendent Mills, principals Mead, Stielstra, Wescott, Stieber, assistant principal Rossi, community education director Tracy, curriculum director Bissell, athletic director Welton, special education director DeYoung, guests.

Meeting called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Anne Comeau.

Motion by McCalla, supported by Diesing, to approve the minutes of the Sept. 9 meeting.

Entered as an official communication was a letter from Thruun, Maatsch & Nordberg regarding procedures to be followed in the event of a successful bond-issue election. Such procedures would involve calling a special meeting prior to the next regular board meeting to set the millage rate.

Curriculum Director Laurie Bissell reviewed with the board some significant changes in the MEAP math test. She indicated that content areas of the test now deal with students' testing and reasoning power and their ability to conceptualize and to make application in real-life situations. Preliminary results of the MEAP testing will be available in November; board members will be informed of those results.

Superintendent Piasecki briefly reviewed the Governor's recent message on improving education in the State of Michigan. The Governor listed 24 items as top priorities.

Laurie Bissell briefly discussed with the board the recent changes in elementary report cards. The changes were developed by a committee composed of teachers and parents and subsequently considered by the Central Curriculum Committee.

Motion by Satterthwaite, supported by McCalla, to approve a contract for Sandra Dunn, Step 3 EdS, for the position of School Psychologist. All ayes.

Motion by McCalla, supported by Satterthwaite, to approve a leave of absence for Karen Henry beginning in November and ending on January 20, 1992. All ayes.

Motion by Satterthwaite, supported by McCalla, to ratify the results of the Sept. 23 bond-issue election as follows: 1,099 yes; 1,893 no; 26 invalid ballots; 8 absentee ballots unreturned; 3,026 total. All ayes.

Trustee Knutsen briefed the board on the Sept. 19 trip to Lansing of a 46-member delegation from Chelsea. The group, comprised of business leaders, senior citizens, retirees, educators, and professionals, met with three legislators to express dissatisfaction with the action of the legislature in trying to formulate a plan to relieve the dependence on property taxes for school funding. A subcommittee of the delegation will be meeting to formulate information which will be shared with the board and with the press.

CEA president Joe Beard expressed appreciation to the school improvement committee members for their hard work during a recent week-end work session at Cedar Lake.

Ann Feeney, chairperson of the Vote Yes Committee, expressed appreciation for the diligent efforts of those who worked in support of the bond issue.

Principal Wescott reported that (1) 96% of the students were represented at North's Open House on Sept. 18, (2) school improvement is an ongoing project, and (3) kindergartners will attend the Song Sisters' performance on Oct. 2.

Community Education Director Tracy reported that (1) approximately 135 persons attended the pre-school Open House, (2) adult education and enrichment classes have started, (3) Washtenaw Community College enrollment is again at an all-time high, (4) the Recreation Council will hold a public hearing on Sept. 30 to review the needs of the community under a five-year plan.

Athletic director Welton reported that several girls have qualified for state in swimming, and the girls' cross-country team ranks no. 1 in the state. The cross-country invitational will be held at Hudson Mills on Sept. 28.

Principal Mead reported that (1) attendance at this year's Open House was slightly lower than last year's, (2) enrollment at the high school is just under 700, (3) school improvement process is an ongoing one. He also reported that the 9th-grade writing class (team-taught by Phil Jones, Marcy Ott and John Capper) has been well received by students and staff.

Assistant Principal Joe Rossi reported that club advisors will be giving input as to how the student assistance policy should apply/relate to their programs/activities. A summary is expected to be submitted to the board in the spring.

Principal Stieber reported that PTS conducted a workbee at South on Sept. 12.

Special Education director DeYoung reported that he will have a recommendation for the teacher-consultant position (Beach Middle school) at the next board meeting. He expressed appreciation for the quality service which has been rendered by substitute Ann Lee.

Principal Stielstra reported (1) 57% of the students were represented at Beach's Open House, (2) a sixth-grade camp meeting will be held on Sept. 25, (3) the parent group continues to meet, (4) the 7-8 grade bands will participate in the home game with Lincoln, (5) one of the goals established during the week-end work session at Cedar Lake was North Central accreditation for Beach Middle school.

Superintendent Piasecki expressed appreciation to all of those who were involved in the bond-issue campaign, including the press, for placing the issues before the public, and Ann Feeney, for her time and effort in chairing the Vote Yes Committee.

President Comeau complimented Ann Feeney for an outstanding professional job of chairing the Vote Yes Committee and getting the information to the public. She thanked Superintendent Piasecki and Fred Mills for the number of hours they spent informing the community of the needs of the district.

Superintendent Piasecki reported that a representative of MASA will be present at the Nov. 4 meeting to discuss that group's analysis of the district's board policies.

Meeting adjourned at 9:05 p.m.

Chelsea Orchestra Students Enjoy Two Week-Ends at Music Camp

More than 120 Chelsea and Saline school orchestra students recently completed two successful music week-ends at Judson Collins Camp on Wampler's Lake in the Irish Hills.

Sept. 13-15 was the first opportunity in recent years for 7th and 8th grades string orchestra students to attend. High school students participated for the fifth year on the 29th-31st. Both Chelsea and Saline school systems have strong, active orchestra programs.

Along with emphasis on music, the experience provided a number of personal enrichment opportunities for area students. A total of 10 to 15 hours of concentrated practice was mixed with dances, student skits, and outdoor activities which included swimming, soccer, and basketball. Laughter and fun were encouraged. Students slept in dormitory-style rooms and shared dining, music, and social activities in the large main building.

In most cases students expanded their playing level by several months during the three-day week-end. Intensive attention was given to individual instruction and various combinations of small and large group work which culminated in a full group concert for families and friends on Sunday afternoons.

The success of this program extends beyond just the improvement of musical skills. Equally important are the opportunities for students to socialize with peers from another school system in an environment designed to encourage interaction. Another goal is to build "esprit de corps" between Chelsea students, since this bonding enhances classroom, competition, and concert performance throughout the year.

Chelsea orchestra director, Peter Rosheger, observes that students who have little in common achieve better respect and understanding of each other. This results in the ability to produce greater quality, both as an individual and in working within a group, which carries over to adult life. Pride from their effort greatly supports a healthy self-esteem along with allowing the students to feel they have an important role in their educational experience.

Special opportunities for leadership are provided to high school students who act as chaperons and instructors during the middle school week-end, under the supervision of both orchestra instructors and parent volunteers. These students are also exposed to young adult alumni from Chelsea and Saline during the high school week-end. The alumni are invited back to provide individual instruction on advanced levels. Their presence allows the high school students to associate casually with positive role models who can answer questions about approaching adulthood.

Rosheger went on to explain that the greatly increased participation experienced recently in the Chelsea academic music programs may be partly due to the fact that music opens a creative element to students. This is important to all participants, but becomes vitally important to the students who are less comfortable and have difficulty with other subjects. Rosheger asserts that "There are a thousand ways you can play one note." He further explains that the student is not being developed for the program; rather, the public school music program is developed for the student. Being creative, expressing themselves, and being part of a peer group during music can greatly improve how students judge themselves during these critical years of emotional growth by offering a sense of personal achievement and involvement.

Part of the philosophy behind the Chelsea orchestra program, which is open to district students as part of the middle and high school curriculum, is to provide an avenue of exposure that leads to appreciation of music as an aspect of our culture. Rosheger states that people would be hard pressed to find someone that music does not affect throughout life.

Free concerts involving middle and high school students are offered to the public three times a year. Every attempt is made to offer a professional presentation. Due to the serious commitment of both faculty and students these concerts are of high quality and have recently experienced a rapid increase in audience attendance.

Another factor in the increased popularity of the concerts is that the community has become more aware of the performances. More local citizens, who do not have children in the school system, are in attendance, simply to enjoy the chance to hear fine music. The aims of the concerts are to give the students an opportunity for increasing confidence through experience, and to allow them the excitement of having their personal work appreciated by the public.

St. Barnabas Starts Plan To Expand, Build Addition

The Bishop's Committee of St. Barnabas Episcopal church held a planning meeting on Sept. 24 and set a schedule to accomplish their goals of expanding the congregation and building an addition to the present church. The leadership of the committee was recently given a direction by the congregation to proceed with building plans. Other information discussed included the church's December craft and bake sale to be held in the lobby of Ames Dept. Store and the planning for Bishop Mayson's visitation on Oct. 27. St. Barnabas is located on Old US-12 across from the Chelsea Fairgrounds. Visitors and newcomers are always welcome. The Bishop's Committee will meet again on Oct. 8 at 7 p.m. at the church.

Schaeffer To Play Varsity Volleyball At Bluffton College

Sarah Schaeffer, a 1989 Chelsea High school graduate, will play varsity volleyball for the Bluffton College Lady Beavers this winter. Schaeffer, in her third season at the college in Bluffton, O., will play outside hitter. Last year the Lady Beavers finished first in the Western Buckeye Collegiate Conference and second in the NAIA District 22. The team will play 15 matches and compete in seven tournaments. Schaeffer is majoring in biology and psychology. She is the daughter of Robert and Virginia Schaeffer.

★ Allergy Season Nothing To Sneeze at ...

You don't need a calendar to tell when summer is almost over. Just ask anyone who's allergic to ragweed.

For most people in Michigan, the symptoms appear like clockwork in August and September, when ragweed pollen production is at its peak. Noses struggle for air, eyes water and itch, throats get scratchy and heads throb—all punctuated by frequent bouts of sneezing and wheezing.

In the Midwest, an estimated 10 percent of the population is believed to suffer from ragweed sensitivity, a major cause of seasonal hay fever throughout much of the United States. Symptoms of ragweed pollinosis, or hay fever, are triggered by exposure to airborne pollen, which causes the body to release histamine and other body chemicals. The release then causes inflammation and excess fluid to accumulate in the lining of the nasal passage, the sinuses and eyelids.

While far from life-threatening, hay fever is a major health problem, according to William Solomon, M.D., chief of the Division of Allergy at the University of Michigan. Ragweed hay fever can have significant effects on the lifestyle of those who are highly allergic. Secondary symptoms include sleeplessness at night and lack of vigor during the day.

In severe cases, the condition can force sufferers to relocate to seek relief from hay fever symptoms that resist treatment by antihistamines or other drugs. Among the areas in the United States that are less contaminated by ragweed pollen are the wooded regions in the northern part of Michigan.

Ragweed accounts for at least 95 percent of the airborne pollen in the Midwest during late summer and early fall, but other types of pollen produce hay fever symptoms in other seasons. Grass pollen, for example, is the major pollen allergen in the Midwest between late May and mid-July.

Other allergen sources that produce hay fever symptoms include airborne mold spores and particles of animals skin, hair and feathers. Even house dust, or the microscopic mites that infest the dust, can cause year-round nasal allergy.

There's reason to believe the cause of hay fever is at least partially hereditary. "About 50 percent of hay fever sufferers have immediate relatives who also suffer," Solomon said.

Sensitivity to pollen usually emerges in childhood, often at about age six, though some people will suddenly develop hay fever later in life.

Symptoms of hay fever and respiratory infections, while often similar, can have marked differences. For example, in bacterial infections, the nasal discharge is thick and puslike; in hay fever, it is usually colorless and watery. Also with an allergy, the mucous membrane of the nose is usually pale and swollen; in an infection, the nose becomes red and inflamed. In addition, a nasal allergy often produces intense nose, throat and eye itching, unlike symptoms of the common cold.

Specialized techniques are used to determine whether a person suffers from ragweed sensitivity or some other type of allergy. Skin tests, in which a physician pricks the patient's skin through drops of sterilized allergen extracts, are often helpful. If the skin site turns red and itchy, the patient is sensitive to the allergen applied there. Comparing such tests with the times and places that symptoms occur often allows a remarkably precise diagnosis.

Once the allergy is diagnosed, it can be treated many ways. In mild cases, over-the-counter drugs may provide relief.

But the first plan of attack is to separate the person from the allergen. In the case of ragweed, this can be done if an individual stays inside a closed building with central air conditioning as much as possible during peak pollen season, Solomon said.

Sufferers also can suppress their symptoms with medications in the form of pills, capsules, nose drops and nasal sprays, which dry up secretions or counteract sneezing, itching, eye irritation and nasal stuffiness. The most frequently prescribed drugs are antihistamines, which decrease nasal congestion and relieve itching by suppressing histamine effects, which in turn prevents hay fever symptoms.

When these measures fail, a physician may prescribe immunotherapy, in which the person is injected with a sterile, non-irritating extract of the allergen in gradually increasing doses, usually over several years.

CHELSEA SENIOR CITIZENS held their annual quilt raffle last Saturday at the annual Country Craft and Folk Art Show at Chelsea High school. Ann Friday, left, and Mary Herrst were the lively ticket sales ladies.

MAJOR ELECTRICAL WORK is being completed as part of the downtown streetscape project. Monday morning a new line was being fed down electrical poles between the railroad tracks and W. Middle St. DDA officials say much of the reason for the delay of the downtown project is due to slower than anticipated installation of new electrical service.

Card of Thanks 19

CARD OF THANKS Many thanks to our friends for the cards, plants, phone calls and visits. Also the Arbor Hospice nurses who cared for John with such love and understanding. A very special thanks to Pat and Clarence for always being there when we needed them. We will remember always. John Richard, James & Janice and Doris Perry.

CARD OF THANKS

We would like to thank our relatives and many friends for the support and kindness shown to us during the illness and loss of our loved one. Pastor Mark Weirauch and Pastor Kathy Battell for their visits and prayers and to the Mitchells for their help and comfort. The family of Arthur Barth, Sr. Arthur Barth, Jr. Shirley and Art Vandervoort Grandchildren and Great-Grandchildren.

THANK YOU

It is with deep appreciation that we want to thank all the relatives and friends who have transported or offered to transport us to the Reichert Building or St. Joseph Mercy Hospital these last seven months. Thank you to all who visited me at the hospital or sent cards or flowers. Special thanks to the Ladies Prayer Chain of the St. John's United Church of Christ, Jackson, the Rev. Alton Koenigter for his visit and prayers, the Rev. Ann Marie Coleman, the Rev. and Mrs. Ted Wimmler for their visits and prayers. There was food brought in too, thank you. Lodema and Harold Buss.

Memoriam 20

SLANE, MARTIN In loving memory of my husband who passed away 10 years ago, Oct. 9th. Gone is a face we loved so dear, silent is the voice we loved to hear, too far away for sight or speech, but not too far for thought to reach. Sweet to remember him who once was here and who, though absent, is just as dear. Sadly missed by wife. Edith Slane.

What makes popcorn different than corns raised for other foods or for animal consumption? It's the amount of hard starch in the kernel. The hard starch shell lets steam build up inside the popcorn kernel when heated, causing it to pop.

MERKEL'S HOME FURNISHINGS had an unpleasant surprise last week as mud poured into the store's basement through an old covered coal chute. Water from an adjoining parking lot, which would have been blocked out under normal circumstances, ran through the newly excavated ground in front of the store because demolished curb had not been replaced. Here, workers remove protective plastic from the area outside.

Everybody's Science

* New Sweet Potato Turns White ...

By J. Kim Kaplan

A new sweet potato has white meat instead of orange and a flavor like an Irish-type potato.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist developed the new variety. It's called Sumor—Old English for summer—because it has the sweet potato's tolerance for heat.

Sumor would make a good substitute crop where the climate is too hot to grow Irish potatoes, according to the variety's developer, Philip D. Dukes, a plant pathologist with USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

"I made potato salad out of Sumors for a family reunion and no one suspected that it was made with sweet potatoes," he said. Sumor also whips into perfect mashed potatoes, he added.

Dukes is based at the U.S. Vegetable Laboratory in Charleston, S.C. While Sumors have only a fraction of the vitamin A found in typical orange sweet potatoes, they have more vitamin C than do most tomatoes. "That makes Sumor qualify as a high-nutrition crop," Dukes said.

Oddly enough, when they first form underground, Sumor sweet potatoes start out yellowish orange. But as they near harvest, the color changes from yellow to tan to cream and finally fades to white by the time the sweet potatoes are mature.

Sumor sweet potatoes are commercially available from Foundation Seed Inc., at Clemson University in Clemson, S.C.

Q. My problem is a little different than some investors. My shares of Stryker Corp. and Wal-Mart Stores have done so well that 135% profit now comprises 59% of my holdings. My portfolio is now too concentrated in two stocks. What should I do?

A. One of the basic concepts of portfolio management is diversification. A portfolio should have stocks from at least eight to 10 different industries. The reason is to reduce risk. If an unexpected event causes the price of a stock to decline abruptly, a well diversified portfolio will only be hurt slightly. An investor with a poorly diversified portfolio can be severely damaged by a downdraft in one stock or industry.

When an investor inadvertently ends up with a poorly diversified portfolio resulting from excellent gains from a few stocks, he or she faces a problem.

If the investor sells part of the big gain stocks, he faces confiscatory capital gains taxes.

In this instance, the investor has unrealized gains of $11,277 in the two big winners. She also has unrealized losses of $2,824 in Browning-Ferris and Borden Chemicals. I suggest selling these latter two to realize the loss. Then sell enough Stryker and Wal-Mart Stores to generate a similar profit. In this case, the investor has an unrealized gain per share of $15.70 in Stryker and $21.50 in Wal-Mart Stores. A sale of 100 Stryker and 60 Wal-Mart Stores will produce a gain of $2,880, thus almost balancing gains and losses. This eliminates the tax liability.

The approximately $9,200 from the sale of the four stocks should be used to buy good quality growth stocks in different industries to achieve the diversification goal.

Another strategy is to gradually add other investments to the portfolio diversified among other industries and stocks that have good prospects.

An Investment Idea ...
Why buy Apple Computer now? The news media seems to be filled with bad news. Apple Computer (AAPL) was recently quoted at 42-1/2 compared to a 52-week range of 73-1/4 to 24-1/2. The company unexpectedly reported a loss of $0.44 a share in the June quarter compared to a profit of $0.96 a share a year earlier. Its inventories ballooned 150% to $733 million. The company's poor June quarter results were caused by price cutting of the products to stimulate sales and a huge $1.15 a share restructuring cost. Half of the non-recurring charge came from downsizing Apple's facilities and sales force.

We think the bad news is already reflected in the price. The stock of Apple Computer has several things going for it. The personal computer business is cyclical. It tends to outperform the market after a recession bottoms out, which is the current situation. Apple has excellent products and a strong growth record. Recently IBM and Apple Computer agreed to negotiate a co-operative technical agreement. This shows what IBM thinks of Apple's strong position in "user friendly" personal computers.

Apple Computer is an average quality stock. The $0.48 dividend yields 1.1%.
