STREET IMPROVEMENTS continued down the west end, some of the downtown streetscape work won't be completed until spring.

WIRE had to be fished through underground conduit in order to provide power to the new downtown old-style street lights, which have been installed on the east side of Main St. and part of the west side.

Village Planners Approve Site Plans for BookCrafters, Hospital

Chelsea Village Planning Commission approved site plans for major expansion projects at BookCrafters, Inc. and Chelsea Community Hospital in a special meeting last Tuesday, Oct. 29.

BookCrafters plans to add 4,000 square feet of office space and 30,000 square feet of warehouse space to its facility at the Chelsea Industrial Park on Sibley Rd.

According to company vice-president Randy Kuckuck, the office area will allow the company to expand its pre-press operations. The company has purchased a new electronic pre-press, which will allow BookCrafters to work directly from a client's personal computer diskette to create books, eliminating the traditional typesetting. In addition, the company plans to expand its telemarketing.

Kuckuck said the new capabilities will eventually create six to eight new jobs, and possibly more. Some employees at the Buchanan St. office will be moved to the industrial park.

The company has not made a final decision on when construction will begin.

Chelsea hospital's project, a $3.85 million expansion, includes 15,000 square feet of new space dedicated to laboratories, surgery preparation, operating and recovery rooms, and diagnostic imaging. Also included is a small, central energy control center to control the heating and cooling needs of the entire campus.

Area residents are worried about additional traffic the project may generate, although the hospital does not anticipate hiring more people due to the building.

According to vice-president Phil Boham, the project could get started early this winter, with completion sometime in 1993. Although it is one project, it will be completed in phases. A substantial amount of renovation work is involved and there are no areas that can simply be shut down while construction is completed.

Boham said he expects no major traffic problems around the hospital itself.

The new facility will be built near the current administration entrance. The energy center will be constructed behind the old Faith in Action building and will be incorporated into a hill, partly for aesthetic reasons. Underground piping will serve the campus.

As part of the project, the hospital plans to run a 12-inch water line from Flanders St., which would eventually hook up to Main St. In addition, two fire hydrants will be installed. The new water would help provide emergency water needs on Main St.

In other planning commission business, Louise Barner was granted a special use permit for her group child daycare home on Grant St.

The permit was given on the condition that the business remain licensed by the Michigan Department of Social Services.

Harper Pontiac owner Sumner Oesterle was granted a special use permit to turn the former All Season Comfort building next to the new downtown parking lot into a vehicle display and parts building. The permit was granted with the condition that cars for sale would not be displayed in the adjoining parking lot.

Oesterle became the owner of the building this summer in a complicated exchange of properties that allowed the Downtown Development Authority to turn the former Harper Pontiac display lot into a parking lot.

The commission also approved site plans for the expansion of the Village Motors display lot, which will be paved.

New Village Trash Service Starts Tuesday, Nov. 12

Village of Chelsea's new trash pick-up program officially begins next Tuesday, Nov. 12.

Starting Tuesday, all trash bags put out for curbside pick-up must contain a special sticker. The stickers are available at the village offices at a cost of $15 for 10 stickers. They are also available at Chelsea Pharmacy, Johnson's How-To, and Schneider's Grocery. After Jan. 1, there will be no more monthly billing for trash service. If a resident puts out fewer than eight bags per month, the new service will cost less than the former system. Trash bags may be no larger than 30 gallons. Residents may continue to put the bags in trash cans, but the bags must still contain a sticker.

Pick-up will only take place on Tuesday. There will be no more Friday service.

A major idea behind the new service is to encourage residents to recycle, while preserving limited Chelsea landfill space. The fewer bags residents put out, the less money it will cost. However, residents are allowed to put out as many bags as they wish. Buckets for curbside recycling are available at the village offices as well.

The village is also entering the trash-hauling business, a service it has contracted out in the past. The village truck will begin on the west side of the village, according to village manager Jack Myers.

Myers said the sales of stickers has started to increase recently.

Ypsilanti Woman Arrested in Bilking Of Chelsea Merchants

A 29-year-old Ypsilanti woman who allegedly bilked several Chelsea, Dexter, and Ann Arbor merchants for refunds on merchandise she did not buy, was arrested by Chelsea police on Saturday, Oct. 19.

Chrystal L. Murdock was also arrested the next day by Ann Arbor police on similar charges.

According to police, Murdock would either take merchandise she did not purchase into a store and ask for a refund, or simply take merchandise off the shelf and ask for a refund. On several occasions, police said, she would first ask about purchasing an unusually large quantity of some other item, then mention she wanted to return something else.

She was arrested shortly after an incident at Vogel's and Foster's downtown. Police said Murdock asked about purchasing 20 identical shirts, then tried to return a pair of pants, which records showed were never sold at the store.

Police said Murdock tried to return merchandise stolen from the D&C Store in Ypsilanti to the Chelsea store. Dayspring Gifts and Chelsea Office Supply were also victimized.

Murdock told police that her brother and sister often stole the merchandise, which she would later try to return for a refund. She said she agreed to split the proceeds with them and that she was trying to raise money to buy food for her children.

Octogenarian Night Slated for Nov. 11

Kiwanis Club of Chelsea will host their annual "Octogenarian Night" on Monday, Nov. 11, at 6:15 p.m., in the main dining room of the Chelsea Community Hospital.

This year's hosts of the event are Bill Rademacher and Walt Zeeb.

Former Retirement Home Employee Faces Charges

A former employee of the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home is being charged with two counts of sexual conduct involving two nursing home patients in October of 1990.

Mary Elizabeth Marshall, 36, of Dansville, who was employed as a nurse aide, is being charged by Attorney General Frank Kelley with second-degree criminal sexual conduct and felonious assault with intent to commit criminal sexual conduct. Marshall was arraigned last Tuesday before 14-A Magistrate George Parker, where she demanded a preliminary examination on the charges. The examination has been set for Nov. 13.

Marshall could face up to 15 years if convicted of either charge.

According to Kelley's investigation, Marshall initiated sexual contact with a 77-year-old resident on Oct. 13, 1990. On Oct. 20 she allegedly sexually assaulted a 91-year-old man. Both were physically and mentally incapacitated. One man, according to Chelsea Retirement Community Association President Seneca Foote, has since died.

Foote said another nurse aide at the community witnessed the incidents and reported them to community officials.

"We suspended the employee upon the report," Foote said.

"We called the Department of Public Health and did our own internal investigation, then turned the facts over to Public Health. They got in touch with the attorney general's office."

According to state law, a criminal sexual conduct case involving a nursing home employee is turned over to the attorney general's office, partly because a license is involved and the violation is considered a breach of professional standards. If it involves a visitor, it would be reported to local police.

CHRYSLER PROVING GROUNDS of Chelsea recently contributed a total of $5,358.30 to the Chelsea United Way Campaign. The total represents $2,310 in corporate contributions and $3,048.30 in employee donations. From left are Dennis Buza, human resources manager and member of the proving grounds United Way committee, John Mann, president of the Chelsea United Way, and Donna Taylor, co-chair of the proving grounds United Way committee and labor participation committee chair.

Recession Hurting Chelsea United Way

Chelsea United Way Campaign should crack the $100,000 mark for the second year in a row, but it may not reach its goal of $105,000, according to president John Mann.

Some of the largest contributors to the campaign, including Chelsea Milling Co., BookCrafters, Inc., Federal Screw Works, and Chelsea Community Hospital, had not finished their fund drives as of Monday, so it was still too early to say this year's goal was too ambitious.

However, based on pledges and contributions given so far, Mann said the drive may not reach its goal. "We went about $8,000 over our goal last year, which is why we were so aggressive about our goal this year," Mann said.

He said the recession appears to be the single largest influence.

However, he said some companies are increasing their contributions over last year and the commercial sector is surprisingly strong. He also said there are a few new contributors.

As of Monday, the drive had reached about 30 percent of its goal.

schools. To her right is North principal Bill Wescott. She is surrounded by first grade teachers Char Danborn, Bernice Packard, Kathy Thompson, and Beth Newman, and a few of the many children who have benefitted by her presence.

Closure Plans Formalized for Three Mental Health Facilities

In keeping with a move toward community-based operations and deinstitutionalization, Department of Mental Health director James Haveman formally announced that the state's facilities in Coldwater, Muskegon and Newberry will close next year.

While it had been expected that the three would be closed at some time, Haveman's announcement formally set the stage for the shutdowns.

The Coldwater Regional Mental Health Center, located in Branch county, and the Newberry Regional Mental Health Center, in Luce county, both which serve acute and long-term needs of adults who are mentally ill, will close June 30.

The Muskegon Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities, in Muskegon county, will close Sept. 30, 1992. It provides long-term residential care for adults with developmental disabilities.

"We are committed to providing comprehensive mental health services for persons in southwest Michigan, the Upper Peninsula and the northern Lower Peninsula and western Michigan," Haveman said. "Closure does not mean reduction in services. Rather, it signifies our commitment to provision of services in local communities."

Department of Mental Health spokesperson Thomas DeLoach said advancement of community placement, not the saving of funds, is the intention behind the closures, pointing out as did Sen. R. Robert Geake (R-Northville), chair of the Mental Health Appropriations subcommittee, that any savings will go to the community mental health boards in those areas served by those particular facilities. "If someone is suggesting that there are huge savings that will occur to the state general fund, that is incorrect," DeLoach said. "The need will not change."

But Geake noted that the current system is among the most costly: "There's nothing as expensive as 24-hour institutional care by state employees."

Geake also suggested that although it would keep any savings within the department, additional funds could end up supplementing the $9.3 million hole created with Governor John Engler's veto of the 4 percent classified pay increase. "Since the 4 percent pay increases is mandated by the Civil Service Commission, the money will have to be found by shorting other mental health programs. This means that some of the money saved by closing these facilities may go to pay the remaining state employees in the department, rather than follow the patients in the community," he said.

Despite Haveman's assurance that the closures will not result in reduced services, legislators whose districts include the facilities question the alternatives available.

Rep. Mickey Knight (R-Muskegon), whose district has the Muskegon facility, said he is not confident that alternatives will be ready. "We always knew it was closing at some time. The most difficult thing about it is making sure the services are available, and right now I don't believe that is the case," Knight said. "My concern is they are being dumped."

Sen. Nick Smith (R-Addison), with the Coldwater facility as part of his district, said the arguments to keep the center open "fell on deaf ears. I now intend to focus my energy on making certain that the patients who leave Coldwater are cared for in the best possible way."

Geake, although admitting "we still have a great deal of work to do in order to develop a comprehensive community mental health service program," said he believes such services will be available by the closure dates. "I intend to work towards that goal," he said.

If adequate services are not ready, Geake said, the backup plan would be to place the remaining residents in other facilities that remain open, as each of them would have a new, enlarged catchment area which would be responsible.

Knight also disputed that adequate notice has been given regarding the closures, pointing out that the 1992 mental health budget included language requiring that the announcement be made 18 months before the actual shutdown. "I don't know that that has happened," he said.

DeLoach acknowledged the closure language, but did not see it in the same light as Knight. "We don't interpret that as being a directive to stop doing what we've been doing for 20 years. We've been involved in moving services from the state to the community for 20 years," he said. DeLoach added that the department will comply with language requiring it to present a closure and alternative plan to the Legislature early next year.

Not only is the placement of patients under consideration, but also the employees who will lose their jobs at the facilities. As of Oct. 1, according to information presented by Haveman, Coldwater employed 333, Newberry, 250, and Muskegon, 330.

Geake said some will be eligible for early retirement, and others will be offered positions in other state programs. But that will not address the needs of everyone, he said. "There will be some for whom positions are not available and they will have to find a job in the private sector," he said.

Knight said the original amount allocated to help displaced workers find alternative employment, some $50,000, has been whittled to $25,000. "If we blink a couple more times that probably won't be there," he said. "There doesn't seem to be a great deal of sensitivity towards that (layoffs)."

As of Oct. 1, Haveman said, there were about 165 persons receiving psychiatric services at Coldwater, with the medical center providing care for seven persons. Muskegon had a census of 150 persons, and Newberry, 80.

Some of those served by Newberry are expected to receive assistance from an expanded inpatient psychiatric unit at the Marquette General Hospital, which is expected to be completed this fall. Many of those treated at Coldwater and Muskegon are from outside of its designated service area, so will return to their home counties.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

I got some idea how careful you got to be with words. And it's as much saying what you mean as it is meaning what you say. I recall the tale about the captain and the first mate having a falling out and doing things to needle one another. One morning the captain wrote in the log that the first mate was drunk the night before. The next morning the first mate wrote that the captain was sober the night before.

So when I read where somebody allegedly robbed the bank I take it to mean the bank got robbed and he might of done it. This is in line with being innocent until proved guilty, except where the IRS is concerned, in which case the reverse is the case. Anyway, papers sometimes get tangled up in these qualifiers. I read recent where two men were in court accused of the "alleged" shooting of a man and the "alleged" beating of a woman.

The piece went on to note that the man's testimony was taken in the hospital where he was laid up with a shotgun wound in the belly, and the woman was in court with "the entire right side of her face black and blue" from being smacked several times with a shovel that was presented in evidence. I figger the man, the woman and the court don't have much doubt about the shooting and the beating.

There's a lot to be said for the right words in the right place. I recollect the story of the feller in the big office building that wouldn't give a cent to the United Way campaign. All the other people give, and the office wanted to report 100 percent donations. They all begged the feller to chip in a dime, a dollar, somepup to qualify him as a giver, but he wouldn't budge. Final, the boss called him in and told him if he didn't make some kind of donation he could clean out his desk that minute. The feller plopped $20 on the boss' desk and told him how much he appreciated being told what a good cause United Way is in a way he could understand.

Words and their meanings got on the agender at the country store Saturday night when Ed Doolittle broke out a clipping about a $18 million grant give to the University of North Carolina in 1988 to reserch sex habits of teenagers. By late last year professors at the school had used their annual payments to work up questions to ask the teenagers. When word got out about the questions folks said the Government was invading privacy.

In late July, the secretary of U.S. Health and Human Services said he agreed the survey went to far, and that it was canceled. Two weeks ago, the papers had a report where professors at the school were doing sex survey business as usual. They said they had a grant, and they had not received "official word" that the study had been stopped. You got to know, Ed said, that when next year's funding don't follow this year's funding the professors will understand what cancel means.

Now, Ed went on, comes word out of California of a move to stamp out deodorants and perfumes because some folks are allergic to the smells. The next job will be to state in clear words what smells are legal and what ain't. Then we can get into the serious business of surveying the natural and unnatural odors of folks that could lead to a decision on rights of still another minority.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Substance Abuse Effects Is Topic For Health Lecture

Substance abuse, depression and humor are the three separate topics for free lectures presented at Catherine McAuley Health System's Center for Mental Health and Chemical Dependency on CMHS' E. Huron River Dr. campus. The Tuesday evening programs are scheduled from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the Center for Mental Health and Chemical Dependency cafeteria.

On Nov. 12, an informational meeting will focus on substance abuse, how to tell if someone needs help, the impact of substance abuse on the family, and why alcoholism is called a disease. Other related topics will be discussed at the request of the audience.

The Nov. 26 topic will be depression. Participants will learn how to recognize depression and what to do about it. They will also have the opportunity to complete a short self-assessment and to meet with a mental health counselor one-on-one.

A discussion on the effects of humor and laughter completes the lecture series on Dec. 10. The often overlooked positive uses of laughter and play in coping with stress will be discussed. This lecture is recommended as a way of coping with the holiday blues.

Each lecture is free of charge. For more information, call Ask-A-Nurse at 572-5555 or 1-800-472-9696.

Catherine McAuley Health System is a not-for-profit health care provider based in Ann Arbor, Michigan. CMHS units include St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, McPherson Hospital in Howell, Saline Community Hospital, and outpatient facilities in Washtenaw, Livingston and western Wayne counties.

The first permanent workers organization began in 1922 with the Philadelphia cordwainers. The group lasted less than a year but reappeared in 1924, existing until 1806, according to "Labor Unions in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

sion after a hard day at work, take a sleeping pill at night to sleep or celebrate a wedding with champagne. Therefore, in recovery, it's vital to look at how we cope with stress without the use of these chemicals. This free lecture will define the stress response and give some tools on management of stress—without drugs. Ruth Phillipben, R.N.C., B.S.N. has been working with Chelsea Community Hospital for 14 years in the area of Substance Abuse and Mental Health and she will present this lecture. SILVER ANNIVERSARY: David and Marilyn Jachalke of Chelsea were honored Aug. 10 in Farmington Hills on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary. The couple was married July 9, 1966 at the First United Methodist church in Ann Arbor. David is a police detective and Marilyn is a teacher. They are members of the North Lake United Methodist church, and David is a member of the Chelsea Lions Club. They have two children, Kristine and Matthew. July 11, the couple reaffirmed their wedding vows during a private service in the sanctuary of the church where they were married. The Rev. Tom Wachterhauser officiated.

The Roman emperor Trajan founded a school for baking about 100 A.D. The Romans had learned of baking from their Greek slaves.

Soil Tests Start At Village Garage

A second round of soil tests has started at the village's electric and water garage on North St. Traverse Group of Ann Arbor, a company approved by the Department of Natural Resources, will determine the extent of soil contamination caused by leaky underground gasoline storage tanks, which have since been removed. The first round of tests concluded that about half of the garage would have to be torn down. However, the company conducting the tests was not approved by the DNR. The village anticipates the new tests will probably come to the same conclusion, although there is a slight chance the building won't have to be torn down. The village plans to seek reimbursement for clean-up costs in excess of $10,000 from the Michigan Underground Storage Tank Fund Assurance program. It was necessary for the village to hire an approved testing firm in order to receive those funds. In the meantime, work is continuing on a new garage at the village industrial park.

Showcase Taping Back To Regular Sunday Time

The Lary Hafner Showcase is back to its regular scheduled taping time on Sundays. From this week on the show will be taped every Sunday evening at 7 p.m. in the Faith in Action building. The staff of the show have been putting weekly flyer announcements in windows of all the local businesses so the public can look one up at a local shop to find out who each week's guests will be. This last week Hafner went to South school and visited all the classes to initiate a new project for the children in grades K through 5. The show will play host on Dec. 8 to the new principal of the school, Ms. Lucy Steiber. The project for the children will be a contest of sorts to either draw a picture of their new principal or to write a short story or poem about her. These entries are due no later than Nov. 14 and a panel of teachers and Showcase staff will pick 15 to 20 of the most original in content. Artistry is not what the judges are looking for, rather the interesting and creative way the children see their new principal. Both Mr. Piasecki and Ms. Steiber have been very co-operative. Along with the new principal from south school there are many fun and interesting guests lined up for the Showcase in the near future. On the schedule for Nov. 24 there will be: Festival of Lights chair Laurel Gravelyn, Kiwanis Club's Duane Schiller, Dexter Children's Co-op singers, Mr. Stielstra will demonstrate "bee keeping," National Honor Society president Sara Devine, CHS superintendent Joe Piasecki, and flute player Maria Johnson. On the Nov. 17 show will be sign language expert Gloria Foster, American Business Women's Assoc. president Cindy Bear, Ruth Stielstra and her fifth grade class, Faith in Action's own Rev. Jerrold Beaumont, Wash-tenaw Community College director Dom Nair and regional director Mary Lou Riggs, Girl Scout leader Gail Turluck and the girls' new puppet show. This week's guests are: AA representative Al Trusty, Showcase fashion expert Penny Trinkle, Amy Mitchell, the comedy magic of Boyer & Fitzimmons, local author Yvonne Sears, Swiss Alp horn player Fayola Ash, the cast of "A Chorus Line," and Lake Shore & Lyndon Central Railroad's Don Drew.

Financial Tips for Veterans

Many veterans are still not aware of the benefits they have earned. In honor of Veteran's Day, the Michigan Association of CPAs offers the following summary of the financial benefits available to veterans.

Employment rights

When you return from active service with an honorable discharge, your former employer must restore your old job to you or offer you a comparable position. If you can no longer perform your former job because you became disabled while in military service, your employer must offer you another position of comparable seniority, status and pay. To qualify for reinstatement, you must contact your previous employer within 90 days after your separation from active duty.

If, for whatever reason, you decide not to return to your old job, you can receive assistance in looking for a new job. The U. S. Department of Labor is responsible for ensuring that veterans receive employment assistance through State Employment Offices throughout the country.

If you are interested in starting a business of your own, contact the Small Business Administration (SBA). Available help includes surety, bonding government procurement and financial and management assistance.

GI Housing Loans

One of the most far-reaching and popular veteran's benefits is the GI Housing Loan program for the construction or purchase of homes. This is a loan guarantee program that helps veterans finance homes at favorable interest rates, with little or no money down and long repayment periods. The Veterans Administration (VA) does not supply the money for the loan—it guarantees the loan with a private lender. The maximum interest rate of a VA home loan may vary due to changes in market conditions, but the interest rate will remain the same for the life of the loan. Eligible veterans must make their own loan arrangements through private lenders such as banks or mortgage loan companies. Prior to applying, a veteran should secure a Certificate of Eligibility from any VA office. There is no time limit for using your GI Home Loan benefit.

Educational Benefits

Almost every veteran is eligible for some sort of educational assistance or vocational training. Veterans who served on active duty after Jan. 31, 1955, but before Jan. 1, 1977, may be eligible for assistance under the old GI Bill. Veterans who served between Jan. 1, 1977 and July 1, 1985, are covered under the Veterans Educational Assistance Program (VEAP). The time limit for using VEAP benefits is 10 years from the date of release from active duty. The Montgomery GI Bill provides educational benefits for veterans who entered military service after June 30, 1985. Those service persons who participate in the program have their basic pay reduced by $100 a month for the first 12 months of service. Eligible veterans are generally entitled to a basic benefit of $300 per month for 36 months.

Pensions

A monthly cash pension benefit is available to some financially needy veterans. To qualify, you must have served during wartime (but not necessarily in actual combat) and you must be age 65 or totally disabled. VA pensions are based on financial need and how many dependents you have.

Tax Benefits

The Michigan Association of CPAs reminds you that most veterans' benefits are not included in gross income. Included in this category are educational allowances, disability payments, grants to seriously disabled veterans for specially equipped homes and motor vehicles, certain veterans' pensions and veterans' insurance proceeds.

the loan, which will be used for school operations until winter taxes are collected. Other bids submitted included 4.49 percent by Michigan National Bank and 4.50 percent by Farmers State Bank of Munnith. In other board news, two discussion items took up most of Monday night's meeting. The board considered a proposed community telephone survey about a new bond issue. The survey would be handled by local staff and would likely cost about $200-$300. Questions have not been formed. The board also considered whether to create a formal policy about Sunday use of school facilities, especially athletic facilities. The school district now discourages organized school activities, such as team practice. However, facilities can be used for recreational purposes, club meetings, or other activities. It's likely any formal policy will not represent a major departure.

CHELSEA KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS and the St. Mary's Religious Education Program held their third annual spelling bee Oct. 21-22. There were divisions for grades 4-6 and 7-9. Wesolowski won her division by correctly spelling "flirtation," while Setta won her division on the word "naive." Each winner received a new game called "Upwords" while each runner-up won the game "Boggle." The eight finalists will move on to Diocesan competition on Sunday, Nov. 10 in Mason. Cider was donated by Alber's Orchard and the K. of C. Women's Auxiliary provided cookies.

Several studies in the late 1970's showed that Japanese carmakers could produce an automobile with 10 to 30 percent fewer hours of labor than American firms, according to "Workforce 2000," a U.S. Labor Department publication. Between 1975 and 1980, output per hour in U.S. manufacturing rose by an average of 1.7 percent per year, compared to 3.8 percent in West Germany and 8.6 percent in Japan.

DUSTIN BAUER took first place in the 3-and-under most original category as a lobster.

Full House Greets Orchestra Concert

Chelsea Middle School and High School orchestras played to an overflowing house on Tuesday, Oct. 29 at their annual Halloween Concert. Middle school principal Darcio Stielstra noted, "This (the standing-room-only crowd) is wonderful! I remember when we could have held an orchestra concert in a classroom and still had room to roll a bowling ball! The growth in the numbers, spirit, and quality of the strings program in Chelsea is remarkable and laudable."

The groups were expertly conducted by Peter Roshager, spookily dressed as Batman in a costume designed and executed by Rita Nuestlifer, who also created the banners and other decorations in the high school auditorium. The eighth grade orchestra added to the eerie mood with the Adagio from Nellybel's "Danza" and continued to draw the mists about the audience with the Vivo movement. Later the group of pirates, hippies, princesses, clowns, and ghouls (including a devil with flashing red horns) performed beautifully the majestic "Great Gates of Kiev" by Mussorgsky and Sienicki's rousing "Hopak."

The seventh grade orchestra contained a bright yellow bee, but no buzzing was heard from them. Instead the audience was treated to a melodic rendition of Haydn's "St. Anthony's Choral," a favorite for beginning orchestras. Indians, shiaks, and cheerleaders co-ordinated beautifully in this effort. The orchestra's third piece featured a guest trumpeter (William Gourley) in the "William Tell Overture," known to those of 35 as the Lone Ranger theme. The trumpeter, dressed as the masked man himself, galloped off the stage after his cameo appearance, but returned to add a trumpet "Neigh!" in farewell.

The Sixth Grade Strings, most of them have only been playing their instruments for two months, were accompanied by the Select Ensemble of the High School Orchestra, a group so devoted to good music and to Roshager, that they meet for practice at 7 a.m. every Tuesday. The sixth graders were very impressive, both in garb and form. Jailbirds, chefs, puppy dogs, and a sack of potatoes have all learned to hold, finger, and bow their instruments well and entertained the audience with several folk songs. One song, "Boil Them Cab-pages Down," featured vigorous slapping by the budding bassists.

Music Boosters president, Janice Manning, reminded the audience that from Nov. 6-8 the Little Professor Book Store in Ann Arbor will donate 15% of any purchases you make to Music Boosters. She also encouraged them to buy the various holiday items that band, orchestra, and show choir members are selling to raise money this season.

Several members of the High School Orchestra led that group in raps during intermission, and at the re-appearance of Batman, he was loudly cheered, evidencing the students' deep appreciation for their leader. He was unprepared, I am sure, for the "flashers" in the Trumpet Section who stood suddenly, opened their trench coats revealing wild boxer shorts and yelled "Hi, Mom!" to the audience. Nevertheless, he began the next selection. After only a few bars, a damsel in distress crossed the stage and Batman had to go after her attackers. Fortunately, another director, Robert Phillips of Saline High School Orchestra, "just happened" to be in the audience and conducted the orchestra in the "Overture to Lucio Silla," music as only Mozart could write it. The melody soared and the orchestra showed remarkable control of the various dynamic contrasts required in the piece.

The wild and strange "Danse Macabre" was very appropriate for Halloween, and was wonderfully accompanied by Kate Fowler and Amy Milliken in an interpretive dance which they had choreographed themselves. The orchestra's section leader string players, Sarah Henry, Mark Wallace, Julia Gray-Lion, Becca Flin-toft, and Mark Kemner, ably led their fellow players in this Saint-Saens piece.

Roshager was re-costumed in a brilliantly colored bird outfit for Stravinsky's famous "Firebird Suite," the finale of the concert. This featured an extraordinary flute solo by Beth Williams as well as excellent solo parts by Melissa Smith on oboe, and Keri Kentalia on bassoon. The trombone section was appropriately bombastic. The orchestra showed remarkable ability to blend their sounds and listen to one another as well as a good grasp of the art of the extended tremolo required in this piece.

The concert ended after a standing ovation for the outstanding performance of these young people and their dedicated leader. A good time was enjoyed by all, from the gorilla with the blinking eyes who won the tickets to the Ann Arbor Symphony concert for best costume, to the smallest of the children who were fascinated by this extravaganza of sight and sound.

★ Cancer Prevention: Food for Thought

Cancer prevention, to a certain extent, is in your hands. More specifically, it's on your dinner plate. And in the air you breathe. And in the physical activities you choose. And in a lot of other things that you can control.

"While there is no way you can completely rule out ever getting cancer, there are simple changes you can make that will improve your chances of living a healthy, disease-free life," says David Schottenfeld, M.D., of the University of Michigan Cancer Center.

"Research is showing us a lot about how we can lower our risks through improved diet, increased exercise and avoidance of many cancer-causing agents."

Here are a few examples of areas in which changes can be made:

DIET. In Japan, about 24 percent of the calories in a person's diet come from fat. In the United States, our diets are made up of 40 percent fat calories. The Japanese also eat more fiber through grains and vegetables. Why is this significant? Because rates of colon, breast and prostate cancers are incredibly low in Japan, while in America, these same cancers are some of the most prevalent. A high-fat diet does seem to put people at greater risk of all of these major cancer killers.

A good, low-fat, high-fiber diet includes:

- no more than 30 percent of calories from fat
- lean red meats, trimmed of fat
- fish and poultry
- broiled, roasted or baked—not fried—meats and fish
- low-fat cheeses
- skim or low-fat milk
- limits on butter, margarine, shortening and vegetable oils
- avoidance of greasy foods such as potato chips
- plenty of fruits rich in vitamins A and C, such as oranges, grapefruit, nectarines, peaches, strawberries, cantaloupe and honeydew melons
- vegetables such as soybeans, cabbage, broccoli, spinach, kale, sweet potatoes, cauliflower, carrots and brussels sprouts.

PHYSICAL ACTIVITY. Doctors already advise regular exercise for a good cardiovascular workout. The same moderate exercise plan—at least three times a week for 30 minutes a day—may also decrease your cancer risk, says Schottenfeld. If you maintain both a good diet and a regular exercise routine you also may be avoiding another cancer risk—obesity.

According to an article by U-M cancer expert Dorit Adler Silver, M.D., after age 50, women who are 25 pounds overweight increase their breast cancer risk by a whopping 80 percent. Post-menopausal women who carry that weight in their abdomens are particularly at risk.

KNOWN CANCER-CAUSING AGENTS. The sun. Skin cancer—both the deadly melanoma and the more common, less harmful basal cell—are increasing at epidemic levels, health officials say. Wearing protective sunscreen, with a number 15 on the label, will block most of the sun's rays. You also should avoid the sun between its strongest times—11 a.m. to 2 p.m. during the summer. The National Cancer Institute (NCI) also says that fair-skinned people are at greatest risk.

Smoking. There is no debate anymore. Smoking causes lung cancer. And it kills more people than any other cancer. According to the NCI, smokers have 10 times the risk of lung cancer than non-smokers. Also, people who use chewing tobacco and snuff have a greater risk of mouth cancer.

Spouses and children of smokers also should beware. Passive smoking—when a non-smoking person inhales the smoke from another's cigarette—causes about 4,000 deaths per year, says Schottenfeld.

EARLY DIAGNOSIS. Your doctor should be the second person to notice some sort of change in your body that may be an early warning sign to cancer. You should be the first.

Women should perform monthly breast self-exams. Men should check for testicular changes. Everyone should be aware of the checks using the word CAUTION, as outlined by the American Cancer Society:

- Change in bowel or bladder habits;
- A sore that does not heal;
- Unusual bleeding or discharge;
- Thickening or a lump in the breast or elsewhere;
- Obvious changes in a wart or mole;
- Nagging cough or hoarseness.

In addition, go to your physician for regular mammograms, colon cancer testing and other preventive measures that can catch changes early—and save your life.

Please write to the University of Michigan Cancer Center at 101 Simpson Drive, Ann Arbor, Mich. 48109-0752 for free information on the preventive measures mentioned. For more information, call (313) 936-9583.

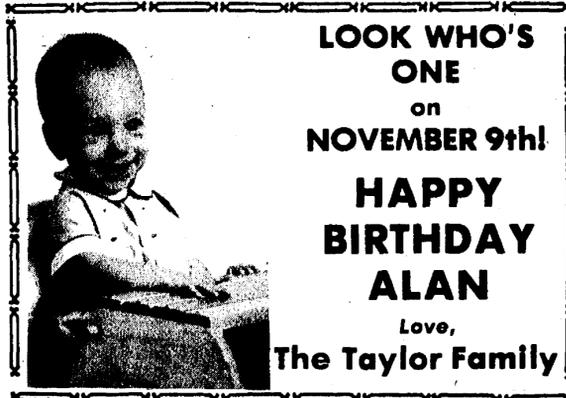

Social Security and Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits will increase 3.7 percent, beginning with the payments that Social Security beneficiaries receive Jan. 3 and SSI recipients receive on Dec. 31. The automatic cost-of-living adjustment is made annually.

For Social Security beneficiaries, the average monthly benefit amount for all retired workers will rise from $607 to $629. The maximum Social Security benefit for a worker retiring at 65 in 1992 will be $1,088 per month up from $1,022. The maximum federal SSI monthly payments to an individual will rise from $407 to $422. For a couple, the maximum federal SSI payment will rise from $610 to $633.

Social Security and SSI benefits increase each year based on the rise in the Consumer Price Index for Urban Wage Earners and Clerical Workers (CPI-W) from the third quarter of one year through the corresponding period of the next. This year's increase in the CPI-W was 3.7 percent.

The Medicare Part B Premium will rise from $29.90 to $31.80 per month. Social Security retirement test exempt amounts for 1992 for those age 65 through 69 increase from $9,720 to $10,200 per year and monthly limits rise from $810 to $850 monthly. For those individuals under age 65 the 1992 exempt amount increases from $7,080 to $7,440 with monthly limits increasing from $590 to $620. For people age 65 through 69 $1 in benefits will be withheld for every $7, in earnings above the limit. For people under age 65 $1 will be withheld for every $2 in earnings above the limit.

DON THIBODEAU, materials management specialist, demonstrates disposal of a recycled pulp paper product in use at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Biodegradable Products Help Cut Disposal Costs

The greening of hospitals has arrived. Chelsea Community Hospital has taken a leadership role in implementing a new system of pulp paper products designed to replace disposable plastic bedpans, urinals, and basins.

These natural paper products are manufactured by the Vernacore Corp. of Canada from telephone books and newspapers which have been treated with natural resins to help keep them strong and waterproof, while remaining completely biodegradable.

The pulp paper products are disposed of in a disposal unit which macerates the product and its contents into tiny cellulose fragments, like toilet paper, and flushes everything into the sewer system, safely and efficiently.

This new system greatly reduces the amount of plastic garbage being thrown out by the hospital which would otherwise end up in landfill sites or be burned in hospital incinerators.

The products are made from used telephone books and newspaper, with natural waxes to make them waterproof. They reduce the amount of trash produced and help make use of recycled paper. The use of molded paper products for human waste disposal in hospitals is new to North America, but has been in use in Europe for some years.

Most of the plastic bedpans and urinals being used by hospitals today are thrown out after use. This makes a sizeable contribution to the load of trash leaving a hospital. Pulp paper products are easy answers to the pressing environmental problems of landfill, incineration and disposal charges.

Beyond the environmental benefits, other features include reduced potential for contact with infected human waste, an important issue in today's hospital. The system is easy and time saving for the nursing staff. More important in these times of rising health-care costs, these products are cost effective when compared to disposable plastic products now used.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider
Education Department
Humane Society of Huron Valley
* Housetraining that Works - Part II

Last week we introduced the use of crates for effective humane housetraining of puppies and dogs. A crate, which approximates a den to the dog, works best when it is close to the length of the pet, measured from tail base to nose tip. Wire or molded plastic crates work equally well for housetraining. They should be furnished with soft clean bedding, a water dish, and safe chew toys. Young puppies accept crating more readily than adult dogs, who should be introduced to the crate more gradually.

Begin housetraining by establishing a crating routine immediately. Close your pet inside it for regular one- to two-hour intervals. Be sure to remove your dog's collar and tags before crating him, so that he doesn't risk becoming caught on the wires and strangling. Gradually increase the crating periods. Crate your pet whenever you must be gone for up to three or four hours.

Take your pet outside (on a leash) to the same elimination spot immediately before and after being crated. Use a command such as "go potty." Watch him and praise him if he eliminates. Never punish your pet for soiling the crate. Simply clean up the mess with a solution of 50% white vinegar and 50% water, and shorten the periods between trips outside.

Of course, your puppy won't spend all of time in his crate. In fact, overuse of the crate is abuse of the pet! Crate your puppy no longer than he can hold his bladder; up to four hours at a time. Puppies' bladder and bowel control develops gradually over a period of several weeks to a few months, depending on the dog. Housetraining adult dogs is usually quicker. Once fully trained, your pet should have the run of the house. A crate will no longer be needed.

If your pet is to be out of the crate for awhile, simply take him outside first and then keep him under a watchful eye. Sniffing or circling may indicate that the dog needs to go outside. You should discipline your pet only if you catch him in the act of eliminating. A firm "No!" and quick removal outdoors, followed by praise for finishing in the right place are sufficient. Even adult dogs cannot associate discipline with a mess they made only five minutes earlier. They "look guilty" only because you are obviously upset with them over something they do not understand.

Housetraining shouldn't be a terrible chore as it was with older methods. Call the humane society (882-5585) for names of places that rent and sell dog crates. Happy dog owning!

Car-Deer Accidents Not Funny to Local Victims of Collisions

Why did the deer cross the busy road? To make a big impression on an Impala.

Why did the driver speed up when he saw a deer? So he could pass the buck.

What do you call a deer who jumps in front of a speeding car? Deerly departed.

Car-deer accidents are becoming so common in Michigan, that jokes about them are starting to make the rounds.

One Michigan sheriff department even jokes about a phantom deer in the county: Drunks hit the ditch to avoid it, but there never seems to be a trace of the animal when officers arrive.

But to the 42 persons injured in car-deer accidents in Washtenaw county last year, car-deer accidents hold no humor.

In Michigan last year, there were 45,945 car-deer accidents, resulting in 1,957 injuries. In Washtenaw county alone, 952 car-deer accidents were reported to local law enforcement agencies during 1990.

Many motorists are taking the precaution of installing small warning devices on their bumpers to help keep deer off the roadway.

One of Michigan's largest insurance companies is offering the animal warning devices at a much reduced cost to Michigan motorists.

The device is activated by onrushing air and emits an ultrasonic tone, inaudible to humans, that startles deer and usually stops them in their tracks before they cross the roads.

More than two-thirds of car-deer accidents occur at night, so police advise motorists to be especially careful after dark.

Michigan State Police also advise:

- If you see one deer, watch for more. They often travel as a group.
 - If a deer runs in front of your car, do not swerve to miss it. You could lose control of your car, hit a tree, or roll over. That's more dangerous than what might happen if you hit the deer.
 - Don't go near a deer after you hit it. A stunned deer could leap up suddenly and inflict a serious injury.
 - Report the accident to police immediately.
- Even though half of all car-deer accidents occur in the fall, deer on the roadway are a year-round danger. "We pay thousands of car-deer accident claims every year," insurance spokesmen say. "They are common in any month of the year."

Chelsea Human Service Agencies Boards Co-ordinate Their Efforts

The combined boards of two local human services organizations, Chelsea Social Services and Faith in Action, met recently for breakfast at the Chelsea Community Hospital to discuss the future needs of the area.

Following an opening welcome by William Rademacher, chairman of the FIA Board of Trustees, the Rev. Dr. Jerrold Beaumont, president, made a short presentation outlining the various services FIA provides to the communities.

Debra Brinklow, director of CSS, provided a brief overview of CSS, its history, services and direction. She stressed the fact that, while both organizations serve people living in Chelsea, there are many unmet needs still requiring additional programs and services.

While each organization offers programs unique to itself, there are commonalities. For example, both provide free clothing which has been made available through contributions from local citizens. CSS accepts and distributes children's clothing, while FIA receives and provides both children's and adult's wear.

The two organizations co-ordinate efforts to meet the requests for emergency food assistance. FIA is the distribution point in Chelsea for government foods. Under this program people who meet the eligibility criteria are able to receive such food items as rice, flour, cheese, peanut butter, beans, butter, tomatoes, other canned vegetables and meat products. The mix of foods made available by the government varies from month to month, therefore, the distribution point does not know which foods will be supplied until shortly before they are picked up.

Currently FIA and CSS are busy co-ordinating efforts to assist individuals and families for the Thanksgiving and Christmas seasons. Contact either organization for additional information or to make a request for these holidays.

Each year churches and interested citizens donate food, clothing, toys and other gifts to brighten up someone's life. CSS and FIA welcome calls from anyone desiring to volunteer time or make donations. Call FIA at 475-3305 and for CSS at 475-1581. The agencies will be working together to maximize the number of people who can be assisted and to avoid as far as possible the duplication of the distribution of resources. It is planned that each individual will receive from either CSS or FIA or through the combined effort of both agencies.

A period of questions, answers and discussion took place to enhance understanding between CSS and FIA. These frank discussions led to a decision to appoint a committee from each charged with the task of discerning the best use of assets and resources. The committee consisting of three members from FIA and three from CSS will first meet in November and make recommendations to their respective governing bodies for future co-operative ventures.

Several board members expressed concern regarding the public's understanding about the agencies. To offer some clarification it was pointed out that while there are many similarities between them, there were also several differences. Both are private non-profit, tax exempt agencies supported by Chelsea United Way and many other area funding sources.

A major difference is that while CSS serves only those living in the Chelsea School District, FIA serves and receives support from an area which includes Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester and Stockbridge.

Sometimes, due to its name, Chelsea Social Services, is confused with the Department of Social Services which is a State of Michigan publicly financed agency. Faith In Action is not associated with any church or religious organization, however, churches provide a large portion of its funding.

All agreed that the joint meeting was of great benefit and additional similar meetings be convened in the days ahead.

Chelsea Recreation Ski Program Expands

Chelsea Recreation Council has expanded its winter ski programs.

The second annual ski clinic will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Nov. 20 in the high school cafeteria. Experts will be invited to speak on several topics.

Some topics for discussion will include how to tune up ski equipment as well as how to purchase new equipment. Ski packages at Michigan resorts and other areas will be reviewed. Strengthening and warm-up exercises will be outlined and demonstrated to help keep skiers injury-free.

Also included at the clinic will be a kick-off for registration for the Mt. Brighton ski trips, which were successful last year. This year the bus will leave the high school parking lot at 2 p.m. on Sundays and return at 10 p.m. Dates for the trips are Jan. 12 and 26, and Feb. 2, 9, and 23, weather permitting.

Registration will also be available for a new program, a ski week-end at the Shanty Creek-Shuss Mountain Resort from Jan. 18-19. The program is designed for families and adults. The reduced-rate package includes three nights lodging, three breakfasts, two dinners, three lift tickets (which allow skiing at both resorts), and a NASTAR race. Children who share accommodations with their parents will qualify for reduced rates. Less expensive rates for cross country skiers will be available. At least 50 people must sign up in order to receive the reduced rates and a deposit must accompany each registration.

For more information contact the Chelsea Recreation Department at 475-9830.

CHELSEA AREA TRANSPORTATION SERVICE (CATS) celebrated its 15th anniversary of service to the Chelsea community. In 15 years, CATS has carried more than 123,000 passengers more than 240,000 miles. The service provides transportation for the elderly and handicapped. In 1976 CATS served 1,213 riders with a budget of $1,500. This year it will serve 12,000 riders on a $40,000 budget. Bus fare is 50 cents, but the actual cost per ride is more than $4. CATS is funded by governments and community service organizations. Directors and officers are volunteers representing the village, Sylvan and Lima townships, the United Way, Kiwanis, Lions, Lioness, and Rotary clubs, Chelsea Senior Citizens Center, Chelsea Community Hospital, and Chelsea Retirement Community. With the bus is driver Paula Scherdt, who has served for 3 1/2 years.

Band Boosters Support School Music

The recent recession has everyone tightening their belts and looking for improved ways to work with money. Local volunteer organizations are doing their best not only to continue their previous level of service, but are now looking at ways to take on more responsibilities as traditional financing becomes increasingly scarce. Chelsea Music Boosters is one local organization facing these problems.

Dedicated to assisting the academic vocal, orchestral, and band classes taught at Beach Middle school and Chelsea High school, this group of volunteers works closely with the music department instructors to support and enhance the program. Funding of necessary equipment has always been a chief need, but recently this problem has taken on added significance.

The fund-raising efforts of this organization are constantly reviewed and improved. The most successful efforts include offering a quality service to the donor that also allows funds to be donated to the organization. These efforts often include the co-operation of businesses that are willing to share profits. Such is the case with Little Professor Books at the Westgate Shopping Center at Maple and Jackson Rds. in Ann Arbor. Organization member, Linda Dufek, works with the bookstore management in acquiring 15% of the total purchase price from sales of books and gift certificates on Nov. 6 through 10. Customers who want this 15% donated are only required to mention the Chelsea Music Boosters or Chelsea music program at the time of their purchases on those dates. Customers receive the merchandise they need at the regular price and, at the same time, give 15% of the purchase price to help support the more than 46% of Chelsea's school students enrolled in music classes.

Other ways used to raise funds include the snow cone wagon. Norma Huschke, students, and parent volunteers see that people attending community events during Chelsea summers can treat themselves to their favorite flavors on hot days or warm themselves with cocoa and coffee on chilly evenings. The 50 cents price ensures a pleasure that won't break the budget. More offerings that will be inexpensive and not compete with other community food wagons are being considered.

Alice Stimpson oversees the fine arts series scheduled for Dec. 6, and Jan Manning will host a December pancake supper at the local McDonald's restaurant. Clara Smith co-ordinates both the annual Dinner Dance, on Feb. 8, and the fashion show set for next spring.

Music Booster's president, Janice Manning, states that all funds raised by the organization go directly to the schools music teachers and are used for class needs that are not covered by the school budget. No money is offered to extra-curricular activities. In the past, the need has always been greater than the funds, but with dramatically increased participation in all areas of musical education coupled with greater budget difficulties in the school district, pressure on the organization is increasing. Manning asserts that every effort will be made to support the high quality of music taught in Chelsea by providing an enhanced environment for each student who participates in learning.

The first investigation into the relationship between child labor and school attendance was in Massachusetts in 1825. Partly due to this inquiry, a child labor law was passed in 1836, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication by the U.S. Labor Department.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Dog Girl Runners Take Second at State Meet

For most teams, a second-place finish in the state meet would be outstanding. For the Chelsea Bulldogs girls cross country team, it was something of a letdown.

The Bulldogs, ranked number one all season, fell to Jackson Lumen Christi, 95-134, in Big Rapids last Saturday.

Chelsea just edged out Big Rapids, who finished third, also with 134 points. The finish of the sixth place girls on each team made the difference.

The week before, the Bulldogs had beaten Lumen Christi in the region meet. In fact, the Bulldogs hadn't lost a meet all season.

Coach Pat Clarke admitted he was a little disappointed because "we did not run well as a team."

"However, it was a great season for us as we had all firsts with one second place at the end."

Clarke said if all his girls had run the times he had expected, the Bulldogs would have had their second state title in three years.

The meet was run in high winds, driving snow, and temperatures in the 20s, the worst weather any state meet has ever had.

Juniors Lisa Monti and Val Bullock each earned all-state honors. Monti placed second over-all and first for Chelsea in 19:47, while Bullock placed seventh over-all in 20:17.

"Lisa and Val both ran extremely well," Clarke said.

"It was Val's best race of the season and it was the second time she has made all-state."

Monti earned all-state honors for the third straight year.

Only one Lumen Christi girl finished in the top 10 (8th), but none of their top five finished lower than 31st, which made the difference in the race.

Chelsea, on the other hand, had two in the top 10, followed by Beth Bell, 28th, 21:05; Robin Phelps, 32nd, 21:15; and Beth Williams, 67th, 22:06.

"I think the weather really hurt

Beth Williams, especially at the end, because she was ill," Clarke said.

Big Rapids, surprisingly, placed three runners in the top 10, including first place finisher Annie Erlewine, who completed the course in 19:33. Their other runners finished 42nd and 76th.

Chelsea's sixth runner in was Tracey Wales, who finished 71st overall in 22:10.

JV Gridders Drop Finale To Stockbridge by Two Points

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity football team lost its final game of the season, 14-12, to the Stockbridge Panthers at home last Thursday.

Chelsea finished the season at 4-1.

"We played well and played hard," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

"Even though it hurt to lose, we played with a lot of class."

Stockbridge scored in the first quarter and led throughout.

Chelsea cut the Stockbridge lead to 8-6 in the second quarter on a 10-yard run by Matt Montange.

The Panthers lengthened their advantage to 14-6 after a fake punt went for 50 yards, which set up a five-yard scoring run.

Chelsea's final score came in the fourth quarter on a quarterback sneak by Bryndon Skelton.

"Our defense played well and only gave up one long touchdown," Mitchell said.

"Offensively we ran the ball well."

JV Cagers Whip Railsplitters But Lose to Northwest

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team whipped the Lincoln Railsplitters, 52-12, but lost to Jackson Northwest, 52-32, in action last week.

In Tuesday's game with Lincoln, the Bulldogs took a commanding 24-4 lead by half-time.

Chelsea got most of its scoring from the inside as Courtney Thompson scored 15 points, Erin Schiller had 13, and Lori Ritter had seven.

Other scorers included Liz McLaughlin 6, Laura Carty 4, Tracy Patrick 4, and Charlotte Ziegler 3.

Chelsea shot 42 percent from the floor and 53 percent from the line.

The Bulldogs met their match against a good Northwest team on Thursday, coach Paul Terpstra said.

"We didn't get many easy shots early, and we didn't shoot foul shots very well."

Schiller led Chelsea with 19 points. Other scorers included Ziegler with four, McLaughlin, Melissa Johnson, and Thompson with two each, and Hodgson with one.

Chelsea is 8-8 over-all and 5-3 in the Southeastern Conference.

TOM POULTER hauls in a pass for a substantial gain during Chelsea's victory over the Stockbridge Panthers in the final game of the season last Friday. Poulter had two touchdown catches on the night.

Bulldogs End Season With Win Over Panthers

The return of sophomore quarterback Pat Steele sparked the Chelsea Bulldogs to a 28-15 victory over the Stockbridge Panthers last Friday in the final game of the season for both teams.

Although Steele, returning from a broken collarbone, only played part of the first half, it was enough to give the Bulldogs a threat they haven't had since the third game of the season—a solid passing game.

Steele's third down pass to split end Colby Skelton on Chelsea's second possession of the game set up an eight-yard touchdown pass to tight end Tom Poulter to give Chelsea the early lead.

Those two passes, Steele's only completions, set the tone for the game, according to Chelsea head coach Gene LaFave.

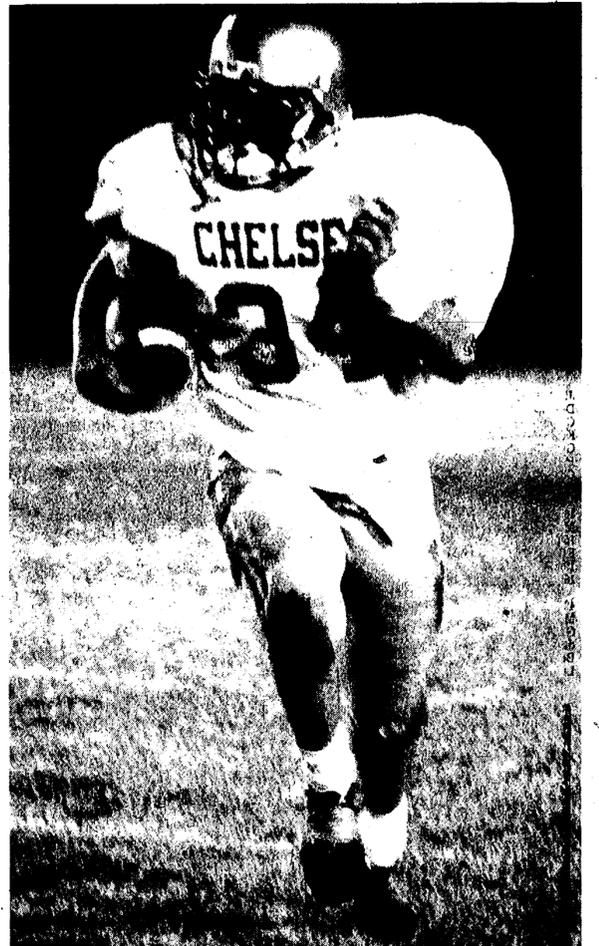

"It makes such a difference," LaFave said.

"It gives us another dimension. Colby is an excellent receiver and he made the big early catch for us. If we'd had those options in several other games, it would have been exciting. On the other hand, if we had been forced to run every play against Stockbridge, we might have had some problems. In our last two games against Tecumseh and Pinckney, we had nine or 10 guys coming at us on the line, which makes it tough to run the football."

Despite a strong wind and bone-chilling temperatures, Skelton had one of his best passing games of the season as he completed 5-10 passes for 69 yards and a touchdown. The touchdown, Chelsea's third of the first half, went 18 yards into the wind to Poulter, who was wide open.

The wind turned out to be one of the major factors of the contest. It not only aided Chelsea's early passing game, but contributed to a bad snap on a Stockbridge punt, which set up Chelsea's second touchdown. The Stockbridge quarterback also under-threw a pass with the wind, which BEN HURST rushed for 79 yards and a touchdown last Friday against Stockbridge. He fell just short of 1,000 yards for the season. Hurst and Adam Taylor were co-recipients of the team's Best Back award.

Football Finale

resulted in an interception by Skelton in the second quarter. Two other Stockbridge passes were picked off by Skelton.
Chelsea took a 21-7 lead into halftime. Hurst scored the Bulldogs' second touchdown on a one-yard run after the mishandled snap.
Stockbridge cut the lead to 14-7 in the second quarter. Hurst was forced to punt into the wind from the end zone, but the kick was blocked as Stockbridge sent virtually its entire team. Even with a good punt, Stockbridge would undoubtedly have had excellent field position due to the wind.
Skelton's pass to Poulter late in the second quarter gave Chelsea the 21-7 margin.
The Bulldogs lengthened the lead to 28-7 in the third quarter on a four-yard run by Skelton.
The Panthers put another score on the board in the fourth quarter on a 19-yard pass play.
"Defensively we played pretty well until the last set," LaFave said.
"We were a little out of synch at the end."
Chelsea finished the night with 209 yards in total offense, 108 rushing and 101 passing.
Hurst ran for 79 yards on 25 carries, Poulter caught three passes for 53 yards, Skelton caught three for 24 yards, and Hurst caught one for 24 yards.
Stockbridge rushed for 30 yards and passed for 120.
Chelsea finished the season with a 5-4 record as the Bulldogs won all three non-conference games.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I was all set to go to Saturday's state cross country meet in Big Rapids, but I couldn't persuade our Tennessee house guests it would be worthwhile to stand outside for an hour in 20 degrees and 40 mile per hour winds, let alone a small blizzard.

Actually, that's just an excuse. After spending Friday night in Stockbridge watching a football game in icy winds that could humble Gene LaFave, it didn't take much convincing for me to avoid another athletic contest that would take place in even colder temperatures and stronger winds. Not only that, but I'd have to drive three hours each way.

People have told me the snow was coming down nearly parallel to the ground. I find it remarkable that anyone goes outside in such weather, let alone runs in it, or worse yet, watches someone else run.

As it turned out, not only would I have frozen, but I would have gone home disappointed. Chelsea finished second, when I thought for sure they'd take the title. Number one all season but they couldn't hold on.

Can't blame anyone, though. In a meet of that size and intensity, anything can happen. When a variable like nasty weather is thrown in for good measure, the meet becomes as much a test of will as of talent.

I have no doubt this year's Chelsea team is as talented as any in the state. They beat this year's state champions, Jackson Lumen Christi, on at least two occasions.

With this team, however, we can say wait until next year because all the key runners will be back.

Congratulations are in order for Lisa Monti, who made all-state for the third straight year with a second-place finish, and Val Bullock, who won her second all-state honors. Both girls are juniors.

And congratulations are in order for the entire team, which had simply an outstanding season by any measure.

For me the best part about last Friday's varsity football game at Stockbridge was listening to their unusual public address announcer.

I understand some Chelsea fans didn't particularly appreciate what I considered to be an outstanding performance. The guy sounded like a combination of announcer, Stockbridge fan, and play-by-play analyst.

While I don't remember his remarks word for word, some of them went something like this.

"Now that the Panthers have the wind at their backs, we might see a little more from the passing game."

"Thank goodness Bill Smith was there for the tackle because the Bulldogs might have gone for six."

"That pass was right on the money, but he couldn't hold on."

"The Panthers weren't about to let Mr. Hurst get outside for the first down."

Gee, I didn't even know Ben's dad was in the game.

PAT STEELE leaps for one of three Chelsea interceptions against the Stockbridge Panthers last Friday. It was Steele's first action since the Milan game, when he broke his collarbone. Chelsea went on to win, 28-15.

Chelsea Cagers Win Big Over Railsplitters,

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team picked up its second Southeastern Conference victory last week with a 47-21 win over the Lincoln Railsplitters.

In non-league action on Thursday, Chelsea lost to Jackson Northwest, 56-42.

In Tuesday's Lincoln game, Chelsea outscored the Railsplitters 28-2 in the first half to take the win.

"Our press really hurt them in the first half," said Chelsea coach Dave Wojcicki.

"We got a lot of steals and turnovers."

The Bulldogs were paced by Christine Burg's 12 points. Other Chelsea scorers included Mara Smith 6, Kate Steele 6, Renae Skelly 4, Heather McConeghy 4, Ginny Flannery 4, Jessica Flintoft 4, Nikki Piasecki 3, Jackie Crawford 2, and Kelly Cross 2.

Chelsea held the first-quarter lead against Northwest, 13-12, before the Mounties rallied to take a 29-23 lead by half-time.

"Every time we'd make a run in the second half and get within six points or so, Northwest would make a big play," Wojcicki said.

"They had a couple of three-point baskets and three three-point plays. Over-all, I thought it was one of the better floor games we've played. We didn't have many mental mistakes."

Burg had a team-high 24 points. Other scorers included Flannery 6, Steele 5, Smith 3, Cross 2, and McConeghy 2.

Chelsea is 4-12 over-all and 2-6 in the Southeastern Conference.

Hunter Permission Card Helps Open Private Lands

Do you hunt on private property? Do you ever have trouble getting permission to hunt on private property?

If you answered yes to the first question, statistics would indicate that you probably answered yes to the second question also. Why? Well, for starters, three-quarters of all the land in the United States is privately owned and the majority (over 90%) of sportsmen and women will be hunting on private property this season. Couple that information with the fact that hundreds of thousands of acres of private land are posted with "No Hunting or Trespassing" signs each year and the problem continues to magnify itself.

Yet polls taken of landowner opinions show that most landowners do not mind hunting on their property but do want control over who uses their land for recreational purposes. So for most sportsmen, the question is: How do I approach a landowner and let him know that I am a responsible hunter who will respect his property and am willing to be held accountable for my actions?

Whitetails Unlimited through the corporate support of the Federal Cartridge Co., has a proven solution: Project P.O.L.I.T.E. Permission Of Landowner In-order To Enter.

Whitetails Unlimited has designed a hunter/landowner identification card which has opened thousands of acres and helped responsible sportsmen gain access to hunting private property. A generous donation from Federal Cartridge is making the cards available free of charge. Federal Cartridge understands the difficulty a growing number of sportsmen face in gaining access to private property.

This is how it works: when a sportsman has decided where he would like to hunt, he approaches the landowner for permission. Upon introducing himself, the hunter/landowner identification card is presented. Once permission has been granted, the landowner signs and dates the card which has been completed with all necessary information by the landowner (sportsman). The landowner retains the portion with the landowner's signature. The landowner retains the portion of the card containing the specific information on the landowner: name, address, phone number, vehicle make and license number.

The ID cards give the hunter a tool to supply a private landowner with proper identification. It also encourages the hunter to ask for permission to hunt on private lands. Properly implemented, it assists landowners in controlling hunters on their property. Proper identification will make private landowners receptive to allowing respectful hunters on their lands. This in turn will open and keep land open to regulated hunting.

Free hunter/landowner identification cards are available by sending a stamped, self-addressed legal size envelope to: Whitetails Unlimited, Inc., Attn.: Project P.O.L.I.T.E., P.O. Box 422, Sturgeon Bay, WI 54235.

Vietnam Veterans Memorial Dedication Scheduled Sunday

Over 5,000 people are expected to join Vietnam Veterans and their families for the dedication unveiling of a new memorial designed to honor and remember all Vietnam War Veterans from Washtenaw county. At 1 p.m. on Sunday, Nov. 10, veterans, families, and friends will gather at the Ypsilanti Township Civic Center for a ceremony during which the specially designed memorial will be unveiled for the first time.

The memorial, itself, was designed with the "The Wall," the National Vietnam Memorial in Washington, D.C., in mind. Its triangular shaped, dark gray granite structure is filled with symbolism for the men who served in Vietnam. The wall portion has five sides, representing the five branches of the military service; the seating area has three sides built to remember the three POW-MIA's from Washtenaw county; the distance from the back of the wall portion to the back of the seat will be 21 feet, representing the average age of the 75 young men listed on the Memorial; and the memorial itself will face Southeast in remembrance of the men who were lost in Southeast Asia.

The ceremony promises to be both emotional and prestigious as retired Generals Westmoreland and Davison join the proceedings to speak. There will also be a presentation from the parents perspective, given by University of Michigan Professor Emeritus, Woodrow Hunter, who lost his son, Michael, in the war. The dedication will also include color guards from military organizations all over the state as well as Ypsilanti's own Lincoln High School Band. Local celebrity, Fat Bob Taylor, will sing the national anthem and the memorial will be blessed by a local priest, rabbi, and minister.

"The entire ceremony and memorial project has been a community effort from the beginning," said John Kinzinger, Memorial Committee chair. "When we were looking for a home for this project, Ypsilanti township stepped forward and welcomed us. All of the labor for the memorial, from fund-raising to building has, in some way, been donated or gifted as a labor of love. The Ypsilanti people have really come together to bring this project about, and, even now, I receive daily calls from people who want to help."

Now we want the community to join us for this dedication ceremony and to welcome the memorial home."

As of mid-October, $69,000 of an estimated $83,000 needed for the wall had been donated to the project by area businesses, organizations, and community residents. Since the effort and time of administration and fund-raising for the memorial was doanted by committee members and friends, every cent of the contribution money has been put toward the construction costs of the project. Additional gifts to help complete the construction are still being accepted and should be made out to Vietnam Veterans Memorial and mailed to VVA, P.O. Box 3221, Ann Arbor 48108.

"We want people to take pride in this memorial," said Kinzinger. "We want a place where people can come to reflect, honor, and remember. The donations we have received, and are still receiving, are from people who share that goal and want to be a part of it. We are happy to be able to share this project with them and are grateful for their participation."

Anyone interested in attending the unveiling ceremony should plan to arrive early. The program will take place outdoors and special memorial parking areas will be available. They may be reached by taking I-94 to the Ypsilanti/Huron St. exit (#183) and turning south. From there, signs will lead the way to special memorial parking.

Marching Band Fall Concert Set Monday

The annual Chelsea Marching Band Concert will be held in the high school gymnasium starting at 7:30 p.m. on Monday, Nov. 11. Beach Middle School and Chelsea High School students will perform music featured during this year's football season.

In the warm, dry environment of the gym, the audience will be able to enjoy the top award winning moves of the high school marching band and color guard as they recreate their fall finest under the direction of instructor Bill Gourley.

The 7th and 8th grade bands from Beach will each perform separately under the direction of instructor Warren Mayer and will then combine with the high school band for a recap of the fall football show.

A total of 368 students will perform in the fall marching band concert. Emotions run high for senior students since this will be their last time to march. Many of these seniors have been performing for six years together and leaving the program that they have invested so much of their time and energy in is difficult. The Chelsea marching bands and color guard have been consistent award winners in performance for the past 11 years.

The concert is admission free and open to the public. Significantly increased attendance by local citizens in recent years attest to the quality, excitement, and pleasure of student performances.

USE OF ARTIFICIAL SWEETENERS CAN REDUCE DECAY RATE
Q: What are some of the differences between different artificial sweeteners?
A: For the last 30 years or so Americans have been consuming artificial sweeteners in massive amounts, starting with the "one calorie cola," in an effort to prevent weight gain. Artificial sweeteners include saccharin, aspartame (Nutra-Sweet), sugar alcohols (xylitol and sorbitol), and cyclamate.
Saccharin has been in use longer than any of the other artificial sweeteners. It is a no-calorie additive that does not promote tooth decay and is often used instead of sugar in foods, beverages, chewable vitamins, toothpastes, and mouthwashes.
Sugar alcohols like xylitol and sorbitol are found naturally in many foods. According to the Academy of General Dentistry, they are produced commercially for sweetening confections, such as chewing gums and candies. Some recent research found that xylitol users had a 90% decrease in cavities compared with those who used natural sugar. However a small number of chronic sugarless gum chewers have developed plaque in their mouths that will produce decay in the presence of sugar alcohols. They also have the unpleasant side effect of causing increased gastro-intestinal gas in some people.
Cyclamate is a food additive that was used heavily in the 1960's. It is a no-calorie sweetener that does not cause tooth decay. The Food & Drug Administration removed it from the market in 1969 when it was implicated as a cancer causing agent.
Aspartame (Nutra-Sweet) is currently very popular as a "natural" sugar substitute that does not promote tooth decay. It is 180 times as sweet as sugar and is used in a wide variety of foods that previously were sweetened with sucrose (table sugar) or saccharin. It can be made to have similar texture to table sugar but with far fewer calories due to its concentration.

Tickets Now on Sale For 'A Chorus Line'

Chelsea Area Players will present the original Broadway production of "A Chorus Line" Nov. 21, 22 and 23 at Chelsea High School Auditorium. Tickets are on sale now at Chelsea Pharmacy, or phone 475-9987 or 475-2898.

The show is a celebration of those unsung heroes of the American Musical Theatre—the chorus dancers. Taking the audience through the final grueling auditions for a new Broadway Musical, the director (Zach, portrayed by Tom Layer) wants to elicit a personal history from each dancer rather than having them read an audition scene; how they got into "show business," why they became dancers, what their hopes, fantasies and aspirations are. As their stories pour out, the audience as well as Zach, gets to know each one of these performers. After these brave dancers explain why they go through a life filled with rejection and injury, Zach makes his selection, eliminating the last group who reluctantly leave the stage. The lights fade on the final eight ecstatic dancers as they are told to prepare for rehearsals of their new Broadway show. They fade only to come up as each performer, now dressed in full, shimmering finale costumes, reappears to receive an individual bow before joining together to perform the brilliant dance finale and showing exactly the talent it takes to make it into a chorus line.

This production is being directed and choreographed by Michael D. Pilon, with orchestration by Peter Rosheger and vocal direction by Steven Hinz.

The board needs your support for the upcoming year, and hopes you will consider membership.

For additional membership information please contact Norma Graflund at 475-9646, or come to "A Chorus Line" early and talk to members before the show!

'Ties That Bind' at Garage Theatre

"Ties That Bind," a new play by Michigan playwright Kitty S. Dubin, will begin performances on Thursday, Nov. 14 at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea. The show will play Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. for a limited engagement of six weeks through Dec. 22.

the set and costume designer for the show and Victor En Yu Tan is lighting designer. Danna Dowsett Segrest is production stage manager.

"Ties That Bind" examines the strengths and weaknesses of intimate relationships in today's complex world. The play revolves around Dr. Karen Bloom, a psychologist whose best-selling book about personal relationships thrusts her into the celebrity spotlight. Her sudden success on the lecture and talk-show circuit interferes with her personal clients and nearly destroys her own 10-year marriage to her high school sweetheart.

This production of "Ties That Bind" is the third original script by a Michigan playwright to be produced by the Purple Rose Theatre Company since February, 1991. Playwright Kitty S. Dubin, a licensed counselor/therapist whose practice is in downtown Birmingham has had other plays produced at the Jewish Ensemble Theatre, State Fair Theatre and Wayne State University. Ms. Dubin was also a recipient of an Individual Artist Grant from the Michigan Council of the Arts in 1989 which began the development of the script for "Ties That Bind." The Purple Rose Theatre Company held workshops and readings of "Ties That Bind" during the summer and fall of 1991 before this world premiere production.

"Ties That Bind" will play for six weeks through Dec. 22 with performances Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. Ticket prices are $17 for Fridays and Saturdays, and $13 for Thursday and Sunday performances. Five low-priced preview performances will run from Thursday, Nov. 14 through Thursday, Nov. 21 with all tickets only $10. The official opening night is Friday, Nov. 22 with all tickets $25.

A cast of seven members portray the various relationships examined in "Ties That Bind." Jan Radcliff plays Dr. Karen Bloom with Arthur Pearson as her husband. Phyllis Lewis is one of Dr. Bloom's clients with Carl Knisely as her husband. AnnMarie Stoll and Gerald L. A. Smith are another pair of lovers who become involved with Dr. Bloom's professional and personal life. William C. Coelius, IV, completes the cast as a talk-show

"Ties That Bind" will be directed by Julie Nessen, the first visiting director at the Purple Rose Theatre Company. Ms. Nessen is also a lecturer in the Musical Theatre Program at the University of Michigan and has worked on "Ties That Bind" through the initial stage readings and workshop process. "PLAZA SUITE"

Julie Vorus' mother of the bride in "Plaza Suite" brilliantly reflects the comedic confusion existing on her daughter's wedding day. Vorus' portrayal requires a great amount of acting skill, fluctuating from a tormented guilty mother to an angered mother. Physical fun time is prevalent in their attempt to unleash the daughter from her hiding place. Mother of the bride Vorus gave one of her best performances as the super pizilated mother.

bathroom door. So in desperation they call Borden Eisler (Michael Dalley), husband-to-be, who goes to the bathroom door, says "Cool It" and leaves, with Mimsey following suit shortly thereafter.

"Plaza Suite" consists of three acts; each act concerned with a different story about two other couples. The first "Visitor from Mamoroneck" has become somewhat dated but the actors do a first rate acting performance with this serious comedy about the splitting up of a couple married many years.

"Visitor from Hollywood," the second act extravaganza, is about a Hollywood producer in visiting a former classmate to the Plaza Suite after several years have passed since their graduation. She succumbs to his advances in one of the funniest sessions Neil Simon has produced.

"Plaza Suite" was presented by the Saline Area Players last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday in the Saline Middle school to appreciative audiences.

Act 3 of "Plaza Suite" is set in Suite 719 at the Plaza Hotel. Mimsey Hubley (Andrea Little) hides in the bathroom on her wedding day refusing to come out for some unknown reason. Norma Hubley (Julie Vorus) calls her husband, Roy Hubley (John Cox), to join her in the "begging endeavor" required to unencase their anticipated bride-to-be from the bathroom.

Cox's stage presence and interactions with Vorus in this third act treatises provides theatrical excitement of the first class. However, the parents in a series of physical comedic mishaps finally decide that they cannot get the daughter to open the

Judge Connors Attending Judicial Writing Course

15th District Court Judge Timothy P. Connors is attending a judicial writing course at the National Judicial College in Reno, Nev. Nov. 4-8. Tuition for the week-long program was paid by a scholarship granted by the Michigan District Judge's Association. His scholarship was one of four awarded to state judges for continuing legal education.

TIMOTHY P. CONNORS

The college provides a unique educational opportunity for new and veteran judges. It was recently featured on "Sixty Minutes," the popular CBS television program. Located on the campus of the University of Nevada-Reno, the college is nationally acclaimed for its innovative and practical approach to continuing education. The curriculum includes programs in specialized adjudication, using technology in the court setting and course work in judicial administration leading to an accredited advance degree.

In October, Judge Connors was elected by his fellow judges to the position of Chief Judge, effective Jan. 1, 1992. He was appointed to the bench in August to complete the term of Judge George W. Alexander who retired following 18 years service to the state's judiciary. Prior to his appointment, Judge Connors practiced law in Ann Arbor and Ypsilanti. He is active in the Washtenaw County Bar Association's mediation and judiciary committees.

He recently completed a two-day program on "Strategic Planning in the Courts" and is scheduled to attend a week-long program for new judges in early 1992. Both programs are conducted by the Michigan Judicial Institute, a branch of the state's Supreme Court.

AARP Will Hear Volunteer Consultant

AARP, American Association of Retired People, Washtenaw County Chapter No. 4240 will hold their November meeting on the 14th at the Pittsfield Township Hall at 1:30 p.m. The speaker will be Jerry Wright, a Certified Protection Professional.

Wright is director of the Crime Prevention Unit of the Ann Arbor Police Department. He has been with the department for 24 years. Currently, he is chairman of the National Standing Committee on Crime Prevention for the American Society for Industrial Security and he is past vice-president of the Crime Prevention Association of Michigan.

Wright is also a volunteer training consultant with AARP. Members are trained to work with law enforcement agencies in crime analysis or prevention and Wright will discuss the program and inform the group on just what role the volunteers play. He will field questions on this program and also on personal safety.

Learning Disabilities Group Will Hear Speaker

On Tuesday, Nov. 12 from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. the Learning Disabilities Association of Washtenaw County will present a program for students, parents, educators and administrators at the Washtenaw Intermediate School District at 1819 Wagner Rd., Ann Arbor.

Adam J. Kline, president of the National Center for Achievement, has dedicated himself to educating parents, teachers and students about people with learning and physical disabilities.

These can get in the way of self-esteem, potential and self-worth. He will look at "labels," blaming" and their counterpart of taking one's own responsibility for a proactive stand through knowledge and decision making.

Rep. M. O'Connor Commended for Not Using PAC Funds

A government watchdog group has commended state Rep. Margaret O'Connor (R-Lodi Township), for accepting no campaign contributions from political action committees (PACs).

O'Connor was one of only three House members identified in a recent study done by Common Cause in Michigan who have refused PAC money.

"Our study showed a disturbing trend of legislators relying more and more on special interest groups to finance their campaigns," said Karen Holcomb-Merrill, executive director of Common Cause in Michigan. "So it's heartening that some lawmakers, like Representative O'Connor, recognize the importance of remaining independent of the influence of PAC money."

The fifth-term legislator never has accepted money from political organizations. She also has no officeholder expense fund, into which current law permits corporations to contribute.

"Public disgust at the cost, tone and manner of modern elections has eroded confidence in the political system," O'Connor said. "I do not want to be, or allow the perception that I am, beholden to any political group, and PAC money carries with it the appearance of influence-buying. I am not for sale."

According to the Common Cause study, the average House member received 68 percent of his or her campaign money from PACs; the average senator accepted 56 percent in PAC money.

O'Connor said the study provides further proof that Michigan campaign finance laws must be reformed.

"It is unfortunate that out-of-control costs of running for public office leave many candidates at the financial mercy of large-scale contributions," the lawmaker said. "Until campaign contributions and costs are capped, an increasingly cynical and disgusted citizenry will continue to think many of its public officials have been bought by special interest groups."

A House Republican task force last summer issued a comprehensive campaign finance reform package. Legislation to implement many of the report's 21 recommendations is expected this fall.

Between 1975 and 1983, the U.S. share of world steel production declined from 16 to 12 percent; for autos, the drop in volume was 22 percent, according to "Workforce 2000," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

A PROCESSION OF FLAGS, in which 12 different flags were displayed on United Nations Day, Thursday, Oct. 24, at St. Thomas the Apostle Catholic church, by students from Gabriel Richard High school, who gathered after the liturgy on the church altar. Flag carriers, and the flag each displayed, included Na Na Park, Korean; Sloux Webster, American; Mona Yousif, Swedish; Neda Yousif, Brazilian; Darrel Staveros, Italian; Laura Dumsch, Colombian; Eileen Gumaygagag, Papal; Dayna Recchia, Afghan; Jennifer Pfeiffer, Puerto Rican; Bridget House, Mexican; Julie Hutting, United Nations; Angela Jousma, Chinese. During the liturgy, prayers in seven languages were offered. Students from the Chelsea area who attend Gabriel Richard High include Rosemary Burskey, John Hoffenbecker, Brigitte Reinhardt and Ken Janowiecki, in addition to Joshua Jarvis and Kurt Vile from the Dexter area.

Puppy, Dog Training, Care Clinic Offered

The first state law restricting child labor was in 1836 in Massachusetts. It stated that no child under the age of 15 shall work in "manufacturing establishments" unless the child attended school for at least three of the 12 months preceding any year of employment, according to "Labor Firsts," a publication by the Labor Department.

The class will be held Sunday, Nov. 10, at 2 p.m. at the Ann Arbor Dog Training Club at 1575 E. North Territorial Rd. The cost is only $2 per adult. Free identification tags and informational handouts will be available. The class is for owners only, please do not bring your pet!

Memoriam 20

BENTLEY, ROBERT

In memory of my Grandson who left us 7 years ago, Nov. 9th. Wonderful memories of one so dear, treasured still with a love sincere, in our hearts he is living yet, we loved him too dearly to ever forget. So treasure him Lord in your garden of rest, for when on earth he was one of the best. Sadly missed by Grandmother

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
 As long as I can remember The Chelsea Standard has printed stories and pictures of local hunters who have been successful in their pursuit.
 I am aware that some people could care less about the subject, but I for one enjoy reading about local people I know who have had a successful hunt! By the same token, there are lots of articles that may offend me, or that I may not care much about. That doesn't mean The Chelsea Standard should quit writing them.
 It seems to me that if a person does not wish to read something then they should not read it, don't try to abolish it so no one can read it!
 In the future I hope to see just as many stories about local hunters as I have in the past! And my greatest hope is that some day the anti-hunters and animal rights activists will wake up and see the real world! Then there will be no reason for me to have to write letters like this. Thank you very much.

Erik J. Elston.

Dear Editor,
 I want to thank The Chelsea Standard for writing an article about the Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Ypsilanti to be dedicated on Sunday, Nov. 10 at 1 p.m., and including a story about my brother, SFC Michael J. Wallace.

I would like to clarify that my brother was declared "killed in action" as a legal matter so that his wife could go on with her life (i.e. collect insurance, remarry, etc.) but that his status as missing in action has not changed.

Thank you to all who care, to those attending the dedication, and to those who have made donations to make this memorial a reality. Thank you, Kathy Bouchard.

Capitol Experience Offered Teen 4-H'ers

How does government fund and operate our schools? What options does Michigan government offer pregnant teens? What challenges does substance abuse prevention offer government? Does the government care about school drop-outs? How is Michigan handling environmental concerns?
 These are just a few of the questions teens can explore through personal, hands-on involvement with legislators and government professionals at the 1992 4-H Capitol Experience March 22-25 in Lansing.

"Michigan Government in Action" is the theme for the 1992 Capitol Experience, a 4-H program in leadership and citizenship. Teen and adult delegates from all over Michigan participate in state and local government decision-making at the State Capitol complex.

During the 3½ days of the event, participants meet with legislators, state agency personnel, lobbyists, community organization representatives, legislative aides and newspaper reporters to discuss and actively participate in the process by which state government handles key issues that affect Michigan residents.

Teen participants will be expected to undertake a project before the event and apply what they learn to a citizenship activity in their county after they return.

4-H Capitol Experience is open to 4-H members who are at least 15 years old as of March 22, 1992. The cost for participants is $105, which covers three nights lodging at the Days Inn of Lansing, Sunday dinner, all meals Monday and Tuesday, breakfast and lunch on Wednesday, snacks and event materials. Scholarships are available.

Teens and adults interested in joining the 1992 4-H Capitol Experience delegation may pick up an application package at the Washtenaw County Extension Office at 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor, 971-0079.

Completed applications and a $50 registration fee must be returned to the County Extension Office by Jan. 17, 1992. Registration fees are fully refundable until 5 p.m., March 13, 1992.

4-H Capitol Experience is sponsored by 4-H Youth Programs and the Natural Resources and Public Policy program of the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service and the MSU Department of Resource Development.

Salvation Army Bellingrings Meet

A bell-ringers breakfast held Monday, Nov. 4, at the Salvation Army Corps church in Ann Arbor, 100 Arbana, signalled the start of the Christmas giving season this year.

Volunteers signed up to work in the county and Mrs. Captain Woodbury presented new programs planned for the year.

This year, the Salvation Army has planned a new adopt a senior program. Mrs. Woodbury said 125 seniors will be given gift certificates for Majors Thrifty Acres. This will help them purchase necessities they often cannot afford, she said.

Also new this year is a Santa's Workshop where children from low income families may choose a Christmas gift for their mom or dad. And, ladies in the county are making winter hats for children in the community.

Mentally impaired group homes and mentally ill adults will be sponsored this year.

New winter coats for children and adults are available at the Salvation Army Corps church in Ann Arbor. Coats are donated by J. C. Penny and Arborland Shopping Mall.

Last year, a total of 6,093 lives were touched by the Salvation Army Corps. More than 1,100 families in need were helped, Mrs. Woodbury said. Volunteers visited 1,400 patients in nursing homes in the county, providing companionship and fresh fruit.

Christmas dinner was served to 125 of the homeless, lonely, or persons in need.

Public Hearing Could Be Relocated

If tonight's (Wednesday) public hearing on fees proposed by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority produces a crowd too large for Sylvan Town Hall, the meeting will be moved to the UAW Local 1284 Hall next to the Chelsea Post Office on Main St., according to village manager Jack Myers.
A recent public hearing on the same matter in Manchester had to be moved from the Manchester Town Hall.
The hearing will be held in two parts, beginning at 7 p.m. for village residents and 8 p.m. for township residents. Proposed recycling fees are $17 for township residents and $30 for village residents. They would be included in winter tax bills for at least the next five years.
Money from the fees will be used for operating expenses and other costs associated with starting a recycling program that will involve most of the entire western end of the county. Governments in the authority include the villages of Chelsea and Manchester, and townships of Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, Manchester, Bridgewater, Sharon, and Freedom.
The authority has secured a $330,000 state grant to pay for 75 percent of building and equipment purchases.

The Women's Bureau was created at the U.S. Labor Department in 1920, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

Devere Elgas Named To Head Citizens Gas

From the corporate offices in Adrian of MCN Corporation, officials announced, last week, that Dexter resident Devere "Dee" Elgas has been named the next president of Citizens Gas Fuel Company, MCN's Adrian-based natural gas utility subsidiary.
He will replace current president Robert Nystrom, when Nystrom retires in December, 1992.
Alfred R. Glancy, chairman and chief executive officer of MCN Corporation, said, "The selection of Dee Elgas represents our intent to devote high-quality people and resources to Citizens, while maintaining the company's strong community role and image."
"Dee brings particularly strong skills of working with customers, community leaders, and the general public to this position."
Elgas has 24 years' experience in the natural gas industry.
He joined Michigan Consolidated Gas Company (MichCon), the state's largest natural gas utility, and also a subsidiary of MCN Corporation, in 1967, as a marketing consultant.
He was named manager of residential-commercial market services in 1975, and manager of conservation services in 1979.
In 1983, Elgas was named director of conservation services, and later that year, director of customer billing, customer relations and conservation services.
He was named to his current position, MichCon's director of customer information, in March, 1990.
Elgas earned a bachelor of science degree from Michigan Technological University, a juris doctor degree from the Detroit College of Law, and is a member of the Michigan Bar Association.
A life-long resident of Michigan, Elgas was born in Cadillac.
