Council Plans Change In How Village Uses Electric Fund Money

The village plans to make a major change in how it uses its electric fund, long a source of easy money for major construction projects and various village programs.

Although the change amounts to a change in accounting practices, it may force the village to postpone projects it would have easily completed in years past.

The electric fund has been a depository for profits from the village's electric system. At times it has had a balance of more than $2 million, but after the new budget has been adopted it will have a balance of about $1 million, according to village manager Jack Myers. The village has borrowed from it freely to finance all sorts of expenses, always with a resolution to pay the fund back with interest. Most recently it was used to wipe out a landfill fund deficit.

A resolution, scheduled to be considered by council last night, will only allow borrowing in certain circumstances. The primary change, however, is 6.5 percent of gross electrical sales annually will be put into the general fund, as a way to fund a portion of the general budget. For 1992-93 the new policy will put about $138,000 in the general fund.

The philosophy behind the change is the utility uses the village's infrastructure just as a taxed investor-owned utility would.

The resolution calls for the village to transfer $1.2 million from the electric fund to the general fund to cover "payment in lieu of taxes" since 1971. Much of that will be used to balance the 1992-93 budget without raising taxes. This year's village budget will reportedly top $2.2 million, up about $400,000 from last year.

Once the electric fund has a reserve balance of $2.5 million, it will be increased by the rate of inflation starting with fiscal year 2000.

The resolution recognizes that the fund is "necessary for the protection, improvement, replacement, and extension of the village's electric public utility" but also allows borrowing by other departments, but not the general fund. Loans have to be paid back in five years with interest at the prime rate, and there has to be "reasonable sources of revenue or funds associated with the borrowing departments." All loans combined cannot exceed $1 million.

Current debts owed by the landfill and industrial park funds will still be owed to the electric department.

In a related move, the village has decided to establish a Capital Contingency Fund. Money in the fund will be used on an emergency basis for repairs, services, and equipment that could not be budgeted. Expenditures from the fund would be at least $50,000 and would be repaid in three years.

Money from a landfill settlement with Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships would be deposited into the new fund.

Michigan Municipal Electric Association surveyed other utilities owned by municipalities concerning payments to their general funds in lieu of taxes. Each of the 10 cities surveyed paid some amount to its general fund, ranging from about 2-6 1/2 percent of gross revenues. Many also allowed borrowing from the fund, but many of them allowed no-interest loans.

School District Losses May Just Be Starting

Gov. John Engler's plan to force all out-of-formula school districts to pay social security for their employees next school year could be just the beginning of severe revenue losses for districts like Chelsea.

According to Nancy Stanley, education analyst for the Republican caucus, Engler wants to recapture an additional $414 per student in 1993-94, including $269 per student in employee retirement contributions and $145 in other categorical state aid. That means the district could face a deficit the year after next of about $1 million, regardless of how much millage voters authorize in this year's June election.

If Engler's social security proposal becomes part of this year's state budget, Chelsea stands to lose about $630,000, bringing a possible shortfall to about $1.2 million. The idea is that the money out-of-formula districts (so-called richer districts) lose would be distributed to less wealthy in-formula districts.

"We're getting a lot of calls from both in-formula and out-of-formula districts and they're all saying they're going to lose money," Stanley said.

"There are not that many districts that will have an actual loss of money. Most just won't get as much extra money as they were counting on."

Stanley said districts should have a pretty good idea of just what will be included in the budget by mid-April. This year educators were hit by the proposed tax base sharing concept at the last minute. Tax base sharing is being challenged in the courts. Engler has said he would support the repeal of tax base sharing if his social security proposal is adopted.

The Chelsea district, Stanley said, is actually in better shape than some because it is in the midst of contract negotiations. Many districts, she said, are already locked in to giving fairly substantial pay raises next year.

Nevertheless, Chelsea district voters will be asked to approve some sort of millage hike this June. Whether the school board decides to ask for enough mills to cover an entire $1.2 million deficit remains to be seen. It would take about four mills.

Stanley said she recommends districts in Chelsea's situation "go for the millage needed to cover" the social security proposal.

State Rep. Margaret O'Connor, Chelsea's representative, said she is dead-set against both tax-base sharing and the governor's new proposal because it penalizes districts that have voted enough millage to support their schools.

"It's too bad," she said, "because I'll have to vote against my governor's proposal."

Stanley said she hopes the skirmish over the budget will force the legislature to consider overhauling the way schools are funded.

Stereo Equipment Stolen from Car

Speakers and amplifier were stolen from a private vehicle at Faist-Morrow Buick, Olds, Chevrolet on the week-end of Feb. 15.

The equipment, which belonged to a Gregory couple, was valued at $1,400.

Manchester Man Arrested for Using Stolen Checks at Banks

An 18-year-old Manchester man faces felony charges for attempting to withdraw money from banks using stolen checks.

According to Chelsea police, Stephen Alber was caught after he unsuccessfully attempted to cash a Manchester Construction Co. check at Chelsea State Bank on Friday, Feb. 21.

Police said they were notified that a young man had tried to cash a check.

When the teller was delayed, the man got nervous and drove away.

Police then notified area banks. When he attempted to cash a second check at Great Lakes Bancorp, employees were able to get Alber's license plate number and notify police. Police tracked him down and pulled his car over.

Police confiscated $950 from Alber's vehicle. Some of that cash was believed to have come from Manchester Construction Co.

Chelsea Police Help Stop Pickpocket Ring

Chelsea Police Department helped investigators from Detroit and Ann Arbor crack a three-person pickpocket ring that was preying on elderly people at airports in eight states.

According to police reports, a man named Gregory Lee used a stolen credit card to obtain $3,000 cash at Society Bank in Chelsea on Dec. 2. Police said Society Bank followed proper procedures.

Chelsea police were contacted Feb. 19 about Lee, who had been picked up in Wayne Co. on another charge. He was suspected of being involved in similar incidents in Ann Arbor and Wayne Co. The agencies faxed copies of bank photographs to each other and were able to determine the same man was involved in several incidents.

Lee, who police say is from Boston and used as many as 33 aliases, apparently operated with another man and a woman. The credit card Lee apparently used in Chelsea belonged to a 91-year-old man, who had his pocket cut and wallet stolen at Detroit Metro Airport.

Police said the thieves would laminate their own pictures onto stolen identification cards to make it easier to use the credit cards. A laminating machine has already been confiscated in Wayne Co.

Meet Your Candidates

RICHARD STEELE

JERRY SATTERTHWAITE

CHARLES RITTER, JR.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the final installment in a three-part series of profiles of candidates for village office in the March 9 elections. This week we focus on the three candidates for village president. All three candidates were interviewed individually.

It should also be noted that it was not our intention to ignore Joe Merkel's candidacy for village trustee. He was given the same opportunity as other candidates to participate, but apparently chose not to.

Richard Steele, 46, 211 Lincoln St., is running for his second term as village president. He served three and a half terms on village council before ousting Jerry Satterthwaite in 1990.

Steele, a Chelsea native, and his wife, Margaret, have three children, a daughter, Sonya, and sons David and Philip. The president earns his living as co-ordinator of endoscopy at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Steele has been criticized by other candidates for failure to keep council members informed, becoming too deeply involved in decisions, failure to exhibit strong leadership, and spending village money on village matters without specific council authority, among other areas.

It has been a tumultuous two years for Steele and council. There have been ongoing landfill negotiations and other landfill-related problems, the dismissal of a village manager and the hiring of a new one, problems with

Jerry Satterthwaite, 50, 423 McKinley St., is seeking his fourth term as village president. He served from 1984-90 and was defeated by Richard Steele two years ago.

Satterthwaite, a lifelong resident of the area, is employed by Klink Excavating Co. He has also owned various businesses. He and his wife, Audrey, have six children and will soon have their 10th grandchild.

Although Satterthwaite admits he was not happy about losing to Steele two years ago, he says, "it was the best thing that could have happened. I had grown complacent and the time away has given me new perspective."

Based on that experience, Satterthwaite says he wants to investigate some sort of term limitation for elected officials, perhaps six years with the ability to run again after a year off.

Satterthwaite has made it known he is not pleased with Steele's job, which he says is the primary reason he is running again.

"The village president just hasn't shown the leadership," he says.

"I don't necessarily blame council. They haven't accomplished a lot because the council as a whole isn't involved. They haven't been given the chance."

Satterthwaite says he believes Steele has not kept council well enough informed about various issues, has tended to take council out of some of the key decisions, and is

Charles Ritter, Jr., 71, 509 Maywood St., has been a village resident for most of his adult life. He came here in 1939 and worked for Chelsea Spring Co. He now works for MacDee, Inc. of Chelsea.

Ritter served as village president from 1980-82. This will be his third attempt to run for office since 1986. In 1990, only seven votes kept him off village council, as he was edged out by Jack Myers, who is now village manager.

When Jerry Satterthwaite was president, Ritter was a constant critic of the village council and administration, and once threatened to fire former village manager Fritz Weber if elected.

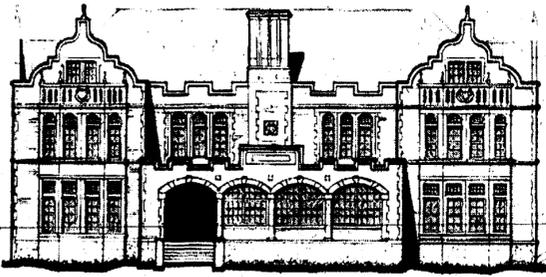

Ritter has been heard to complain more than once about Richard Steele's administration.

"The one thing about Charlie," says Satterthwaite, himself a candidate for president, "either you think like Charlie or he doesn't like you. Charlie at times is an asset because he comes up to council meetings and makes people think about the issues. But I don't think I have to agree with him."

That's about as close to a compliment as either man will make about the other.

Ritter is campaigning on primarily two issues. First, there needs to be more responsible money management in village government. Second, the village manager ordinance should be ditched.

80 Percent of 10th Graders Fall New Math Test

Nearly four in five 10th graders failed to demonstrate satisfactory skills in a revamped mathematics assessment test, the Department of Education reported.

Officials said they expected scores to decline under a test that puts more stress on reasoning and problem solving than on basic skills, but admitted surprise at how low they were.

Just 18.7 percent of the 10th graders had satisfactory (at least 65 percent correct) scores on the mathematics portion. But officials said they expect dramatic improvement in future years as schools focus more on teaching the conceptual skills that are embodied in the annual Michigan Education Assessment Program.

In other grades, 32 percent of seventh graders and 36.3 percent of fourth graders had satisfactory mathematics scores, which were not compared to earlier years because of the fundamental change in the test.

The reading test showed 10th graders have demonstrated "a small but significant improvement" over the past three years.

In the 1991 test, 38.7 percent had satisfactory scores on both informational and story selection sections, up from 28.6 percent in 1989 when the revised reading assessment program was first used.

The percentage of satisfactory scores for both fourth and seventh graders dropped in 1991 compared to a year earlier: down to 34.7 percent from 36.6 percent for fourth graders and down to 29.9 percent from 32.8 percent for seventh graders.

The most encouraging results were in science scores, where results were higher than last year for all three grades tested.

Results included: 69.4 percent satisfactory scores for fifth graders, up from 67.3 percent; 53.5 percent satisfactory scores for eighth graders, up from 51.4 percent; and 40.3 percent satisfactory scores for 11th graders, up from 39.8 percent.

New Superintendent of Public Instruction Robert Schiller said the tests provide a baseline to use to show improvements in future years in a system with higher expectations.

"The state is poised for change, he said. "This is a valuable tool to ask penetrating questions about what is taught, when it is taught and what we expect."

He added the date should be viewed within a context of a continuum of progress, not success or failure in a single year.

Dorothy Beardmore, president of the State Board of Education, said the tests are an indication to schools the direction they should be moving to teach skills that are being demanded after graduation. "This should bring about change in what is taught to all students," she said.

Discussing specifically the dismal mathematics scores, Sharif Shakrani, acting supervisor of MEAP, said state officials expect schools will augment their curricula and that scores will increase. "I thought the scores would be higher, but not that much higher," he said.

Engler Aides Cite Need For Tobacco Tax

Top administration officials laid out their case for increased tobacco taxes, saying they are disturbed at Michigan's alarming health indicators and its high rate of smoking.

Meanwhile, a leading Republican Senator is preparing plans to begin the tax increase movement in that chamber, but without support of leadership and still in search of bipartisan co-sponsorship.

Gov. John Engler will not urge approval of the proposed increase, and the joint statement by his appointees was an independent action.

The officials said proceeds from increased taxes should go to a designated fund with half going to health programs such as attacking deaths from chronic disease and half to help educate students at a young age to avoid beginning use of tobacco.

Public Health director Vernice Davis Anthony, Social Services director Gerald Miller, Mental Health director James Haveman and Office on Services to the Aging director Nancy Crandall outlined a series of specific health care needs that could be addressed with the $228.4 million that would be raised by a 50 percent cigarette tax increase and a new tax on smokeless tobacco and cigars.

Sen. Joe Schwarz (R-Battle Creek) is finalizing a tobacco tax bill that designates 60 percent of the revenue to education from kindergarten through university systems, and 40 percent of health programs.

He said the money must be as tightly earmarked for those purposes as possible to insure the tax provides extra support beyond that provided by the general fund.

"We need money for education and health programs, and it is an additional primary means of discouraging smoking," Schwarz said. He said the money must be earmarked because "I don't think the people are terribly trusting of any new dollars up here."

Under the priorities set by the department officials, $36.6 million would go for children/family programs including immunization, family preservation, family planning as a basic concept and maternal support services; and $77.8 million for community programs such as full matching grants for 11 required health services, chronic disease prevention, nutrition for the elderly and mental health services.

Their statement said the highest priority for using the money should be on early intervention and prevention of disease and disability.

A spokesman for Gov. John Engler said the statements by the officials do not indicate the governor endorses a tax increase, but views the action as a legitimate attempt to show how any money that is available should be used.

Press secretary John Truscott said, "It will help sharply focus the debate, which we think is appropriate." He said the governor will continue to wait to see whether the members of the Legislature will support a tax increase.

Clarification on Emergency Calls

Last week's story concerning early retirements in the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department needs some clarification (see Tom Osborne's letter to the editor this issue).

Chelsea Fire Department has advised people who live outside the village limits but in the Chelsea fire district to call the department directly, rather than 911, in case of a fire or medical emergency. This is because the department has experienced what it considers unacceptable delays due to the way calls are routed through the dispatching system.

However, they also advise village residents to continue using the 911 system because all calls go directly to the Chelsea Police Department.

Chelsea Fire Department's direct dial emergency number is 475-1338.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Ed Doolittle waved two clips early in the session at the country store Saturday night. He told the fellers he cut them from the same day's paper, and they remind that east is east and west is west and the twain still ain't nowhere near close. Ed noted that one item was dated Pasadena, Calif. and the other Rochester, N.Y. They deal with the same subject, but the reports are even farther apart than Pasadena and Rochester.

The Pasadena piece says NASA is spending $100 million to set up equipment in the Mohave Desert to do the widest and deepest search yet for radio signals from other life in the universe. The other item reports that scientists at the University of Rochester say there is no hope of finding other places that could support life.

The California crowd admits more than 50 searches have been done in the past 30 years, and not one hint of spark of life has been found. Rochester reasons this is because our best technology can reach only as far as light travels in 100 years, and that's just one percent of what's out there.

Ed said he's with Rochester for no better reason than it's cheaper, not to mention if there's intelligent life out there it don't want us to find it. The kind of money NASA is spending on that long a shot looks more like make work than serious science, was Ed's words. As piddling as that $100 million might be on the national spending scale, he's for putting the latest space life search on hold a few more light years or until the recession that never happened lets up a little, whichever comes first.

Clem Webster took note that Republican Ed was joining the President in saying there might be something to all the claims of economic slowdown, and there might actual be people out there that don't choose to be out of work. Clem said he was full agreed with Ed that we got more down to Earth problems than looking for more mouths to feed 100 light years away.

For starters, Clem said we ought to put a hold on the $10 billion we've been using to bribe the Israelis into talking with the Arabs. They have showed no sign of agreeing on anything, and for sure the last thing would be more Jewish settlements on the West Bank that Israel says it needs the "loan grant" to pay for. The truth is, Clem said, giving Israel more money would hurt, not help any chance of peace in the Middle East, and there are signs that the Administration is coming around to this thinking.

Meanwhile, Clem went on, folks in this country are trying to roll with the punches. He read reports of families taking their pets to the vet and not coming back for them because they can't afford to feed them. Clem said this is some improvement over parking Grandma in her wheelchair at the hospital emergency room, ringing the bell and running away, but these desperate measures show we are in desperate times.

Actual, it looks to me like we keep trouble in other parts of the world in the news to keep our minds off our own. The good news is, I see signs of America starting to pull together like a family. We can bad mouth ourselves, but nobody else can. All that Japanese politician said the other week is what we've been saying for the past 10 year.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

 "All these expenses are amazing," Ritter says.
 "Don't these people realize there is a recession on in this country? The way they spend money has not been appropriate."
 Ritter has been critical of village crews handling the Village of Manchester's curbside recycling program, although the intent is for the village to be paid back by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority for labor and materials. He points out Chelsea village will, in part, be reimbursing itself because a large percentage of the operating funds are being paid by Chelsea residents.
 "I want Manchester to pay," Ritter says.
 Ritter also believes the cost of village administration has gotten too high. He has been critical of village manager Jack Myers' use of an accountant for advice on the budget, both due to expense and the fact it wasn't specifically approved by council. He says not enough engineering and other consulting work is handled on a bid basis anymore, and he believes council and the village president are way over-paid at $50 and $200 per meeting, respectively (the new rate for president does not go into effect until after this election). He also says clerk Suzanne Morrison should not have been paid extra money to update voter registration records without the money being specifically authorized by council in public session.

"No money should ever be spent unless it comes before village council," Ritter says.
 Ritter also says he would work to repeal the village manager ordinance, which details the powers and responsibilities of the village manager. The ordinance was adopted shortly after Robert Stalker was hired.

Ritter believes the village manager has far too much power, especially purchasing and managerial power, whether he chooses to exercise it or not.

"Satterthwaite, (Gary) Bentley, and (Joe) Merkel were all on council when that ordinance was written," Ritter says of other candidates.
 "The manager should not have supervisory powers over the clerk and the treasurer. Otherwise, why do we elect them?"

Ritter's also been critical of the decision to hire Dan Rosentreter as the village's acting electric and water superintendent because Rosentreter had no experience in the field. However, Ritter has also said that Rosentreter is the hardest-working employee the village has.

Ritter promised that if he's elected, "everything is going to get checked. All expenditures will come under close scrutiny." He promised to cut down administrative expenses, but did not detail how he'd do it. He also promised, as he did in his previous term, to give the village back all money it pays him to serve.

He said he will run the village like a corporation, with the village manager in the function of chief executive officer and the council acting as the board of directors.

"We have to go back to council being responsible to the electorate," he says.

'More Fun Than Bowling' Extended 3 More Weeks

Purple Rose Theatre Company will add three weeks of additional performances of its current production, "More Fun Than Bowling" by Steven Dietz. Performances will be held Thursdays through Saturdays at 8 p.m. with Sunday performances at 2 and 7 p.m. through April 5 at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

"More Fun Than Bowling" began previews at the Purple Rose Theatre Company on Jan. 23 and has played to capacity audiences prompting the demand for additional performances.

Written by Steven Dietz, "More Fun Than Bowling" centers around the life and past loves of Jake Tomlinson, owner of the Dust Bowl Bowling Alley in the fictitious Midwestern town of Turtle Rapids. This production was the Michigan premiere of "More Fun Than Bowling," although Dietz has had other works produced at the Attic Theatre in Detroit and the Boar's Head Theatre in Lansing.

All five members of the original cast will remain in the Purple Rose Theatre Company's production of "More Fun Than Bowling" during the extension through April 5. Phillip Locker (Auburn Hills) portrays Jake Tomlinson with Cheryl Weaver (East Lansing) and Terry Heck (Ypsilanti) as his former wives, Loretta and Lois. Ms. Heck, Ms. Weaver and Locker are all members of Actors' Equity Association. Elizabeth Keiser (Ann Arbor) plays Jake's teen-age daughter, Molly, and Aaron Williams (Ann Arbor) portrays Mister Dyson, a mysterious figure who lurks in the shadows.

"More Fun Than Bowling" is directed by John Seibert, who played the dual roles of Sam, the shoe salesman and William Williamson, attorney at law, in the Purple Rose Theatre Company's production of Jeff Daniels' "Shoe Man - The Big Finish." Set design is by Bartley H. Bauer, lighting design by Peter Beudert, costume design by Nancy Davis and sound design by David J. Kron. Ms. D. D. Segrest will replace Dana Gamarrá as stage manager for the additional three weeks of performances from March 19 through April 5.

Reservations may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Box Office at (313) 475-7902. Reservations are recommended due to the limited seating. The Purple Rose Theatre Box Office is open Tuesdays through Fridays from noon to 6 p.m. and weekends of performances beginning one hour prior to curtain.

The three weeks of additional performances for "More Fun Than Bowling" will change the starting date for the next production, "The Tropical Pickle" by Jeff Daniels. Previews for

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"If you ever find happiness by hunting for it, you will find it as the old woman did her-lost spectacles, safe on her own nose all the time."

—Josh Billings

This homespun philosophy strikes close to home for many of us. Too often people go far afield in a frantic and often fruitless search for happiness... only to discover that it was near at hand all the while.

Surely, there are few among us who do not have the basic ingredients for a happy existence. Happiness is not something to be searched out; it is usually close by and readily attainable for the majority of us, if we only would recognize it.

Thoughtful families select their funeral director in advance of need, just as they do their doctor or lawyer. We would welcome a "get acquainted" visit with you.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

With regard to the statement in last week's paper about the 911 system. People who live outside the Village limits have been advised to call for fire and medical emergencies on our 475-1338 line. We have experienced many delays when 911 was used. This is due to the number of agencies that handle the call before it reaches Chelsea Fire dispatch.

This problem could be resolved if the townships would request that their 911 calls be directed to the Chelsea Police and Fire dispatcher.

At this time I have been advised that there is no cost to switch this service at this time. The decision is up to each township board as to where their calls are directed.

People who live within the Village should still dial 911, this call goes direct to our dispatcher and is the best way to dispatch emergency personnel.

* Gerbils and Hamsters, Inexpensive Fun Pets . . .

Many people with limited space, time, and resources can still enjoy pet ownership by adopting one of the small mammals. Gerbils and hamsters are two of the most popular small pets. Both have interesting personalities, are readily available, and require less time and money than either a dog or a cat.

The Golden Hamster first appeared in the United States in 1938. This rodent originated in Syria, where she lived in eight-foot deep burrows with her young. The name "hamster" is derived from the German word for "hoard" which is exactly what this animal does with her food, by filling her cheek pouches and then hiding the cache. Hamsters are clean, odorless, burrowing rodents. They prefer to live singly; two kept together often fight, even if they are the same sex. These playful nocturnal animals have a lifespan of two to three years, and are relatively disease-free. Their tiny tails help distinguish them from gerbils, whose tails are long and thin.

The Mongolian Gerbil is a desert animal. Gerbils tend to be more gentle and less apt to nip than hamsters, but frequent handling will socialize both rodents. It is best to house two gerbils of the same sex together, as they are gregarious animals who become lonesome without a partner. Due to their high breeding rate, gerbils of the opposite sex should not be kept together. Gerbils are burrowers also, and they "thump" their hind legs regularly. Since gerbils can leap a long ways, make sure that the top of their cage is covered.

Both gerbils and hamsters will thrive in dry 10-gallon aquariums. For bedding use wood shavings. The entire cage should be cleaned thoroughly and bedding replaced once a week for hamsters, and once every three weeks for gerbils. Hamsters need a small nesting box in their home; both rodents enjoy an exercise wheel. Keep the cage in a warm, dry place away from direct sunlight.

Pelletized hamster and gerbil food is available at local pet supply stores. In addition, small amounts of sunflower seeds, or an occasional date or piece of lettuce may be fed to either rodent. Feed both pets in the evening and make sure that fresh water is always available in a water bottle.

Handling will tame both types of rodents, especially if you start out with a weaned baby. Pick up a hamster by gently grasping the loose skin on the back of her neck, holding her from underneath with your other hand. The less excitable gerbil may be scooped up onto your open palm or picked-up by the base (not the tip) of the tail. If your hamster or gerbil becomes ill, she should be seen by a veterinarian who specializes in small pets. Consult the yellow pages or call the humane society for a referral. Both hamsters and gerbils are available at local pet stores, and at the humane society. Choose a pet that is healthy, living in a clean cage, active and alert.

If a dog or cat is in your future, consider taking the new class "Selecting the Perfect Pet" through the Ann Arbor Community Education program. Register before March 9 for this one-evening seminar. Call 994-2300 ext. 218 for details.

Pack Auto Insurance If Driving into Mexico

For travelers planning an auto vacation "south of the border" this year, there is now one more document that must be packed before leaving home—a copy of your automobile insurance policy.

"According to new entrance regulations issued by the Mexican government in January, a copy of the driver's auto insurance policy must be furnished along with the other documentation that has always been required to enter Mexico," according to AAA Michigan member services director Peter Erickson. "The auto insurance policy must have full coverage, with liability, comprehensive and collision coverage included."

Erickson said that the policy must be in effect for at least two months from the date of entrance into Mexico. Travelers to Mexico are still required to provide proof of nationality and a Mexican tourist card; a valid driver's license; and a copy of the vehicle title or an affidavit from the owner of the vehicle if the owner is not the driver, consenting to its movement into Mexico. Drivers will also have to purchase Mexican auto insurance before entering the country. Cost of the insurance is based on the value of the vehicle. An automobile worth $3,000 would cost about $4.85 per day to insure.

None of the document requirements apply to vehicles traveling within 12 miles of the Mexican border or within the states of Baja California and Baja California Sur.

What's Good About Our Economy

From the man in the street to the President and Members of Congress, the No. 1 concern these days is the ailing economy. But even the experts can't agree on what to do about it.

By Philip C. Clarke

Some economists and lawmakers would slash taxes so consumers could spend us out of the recession. Others suggest more public works projects to create new jobs, even if it worsens the budget deficit. Still others want the Federal Reserve to further reduce interest rates to stimulate investment. But critics warn that easier credit could spark inflation. And there are the conservative-minded who would do mostly nothing. They argue that too much tinkering could upset a recovery they believe already is slowly underway. Although he has pledged to get America's economy moving again, President Bush promised not to do "anything dumb." Election year politics aside, he sees no need to push any panic buttons.

Nonetheless, there is general agreement that consumer confidence badly needs a shot in the arm. According to the Conference Board, the nation's top business research group, the confidence level in November stood at 50.6, more than 3 points below the worst rating of the 1982 recession. And that was when unemployment exceeded 10%, compared to 6.8% today.

Why all the pessimism? Well, judging by the media, there's a lot of worry about shrinking paychecks, declining living standards and rising personal debt, exacerbated by ever higher taxes and the loss of jobs to Japan and other foreign competitors. Also, there are reports that the Federal budget deficit is out of control again, taxpayers are hit for billions more to bail out failing banks and S&L's, and that the national debt is headed for the $4 trillion mark, four times higher than in 1980. All of this while our balance of trade remains in the red—and while 1 in 4 Americans still drive Japanese cars.

Who's to blame? Critics complain that Congress and the President are too busy playing politics instead of getting their act together. They also see Washington kow-towing to special interests rather than meeting taxpayers' needs. Such negativism gets heavy play in the media, along with findings of doom about "a nation in decline" and the end of "the American dream." Small wonder public confidence is suffering.

What most of the media tend to ignore are some highly important and encouraging economic developments. For example, 1991's third quarter performance, though not great, did better than expected. Real consumption rose at an annual rate of 3.8%; business investment increased 6.6%, and durable equipment purchases climbed a whopping 17.1%. Meanwhile, both inflation and interest rates remained under control. And in one of the most dramatic turnarounds of all American exports of goods and services are on the rise around the world, something the New York Times conceded was "a bright spot" in the economy.

Although exports account for just one-tenth of our gross national product, their strength refutes any notion that the U.S. economy is about to collapse. There also are signs of pent-up consumer demands here at home. Housing starts, a key economic indicator, have jumped more than 40% since last January. And as the National Association of Realtors reported recently, the American family's ability to buy a home rose in late 1991 to its highest level in more than 14 years. It added, however, that "families find themselves intimidated by the economy."

Put another way, recession and recovery are in the eye of the beholder. As a recent New York Times survey reported: "The problem, as many executives see it, has more to do with sagging spirits than with dollars and cents." What the economy needs, said advertising executive Jerry Della Femina, is a "cheerleader-president" to lift our spirits. What our troubled economy does not need is a continuing campaign of politically biased media reporting in which prophecies of economic disaster could become self-fulfilling.

Science Fair Set March 13-14

For the eighth consecutive year, the Southeastern Michigan Science Fair will be held at Washtenaw Community College's Job Skills and Campus Events Building. Now in its 34th year, the fair was organized to spark students' interests in scientific projects. The Fair is scheduled for March 13 and 14.

This year's event is sponsored by the Exchange Club of Ann Arbor, WCC, the University of Michigan, the Ann Arbor News, and Southeastern Michigan Schools. The fair is open to public, private, and parochial schools in the counties of Hillsdale, Lenawee, Livingston, Monroe, and Washtenaw. Junior and senior high school students are invited to compete. Entries must be submitted two weeks prior to the fair.

David Cole, University of Michigan professor of mechanical engineering and applied mechanics, has been appointed honorary director for this year's fair.

Established in 1958, the science fair is a conglomeration of student exhibits designed to show biological, chemical, physical or mathematical principle; laboratory or logical procedure; an industrial development; or an orderly collection of materials related to the broad concept of any branch of pure or applied science or mathematics.

Competitions are separated into two divisions, juniors and seniors. Seventh and eighth graders are eligible for the junior division, who are encouraged to exhibit experiments, models, and collections. Seniors, grades nine through 12, submit exhibits in biology, chemistry, physics/engineering, mathematics, earth science, and science and society. First- and second-place winners are invited to attend the International Science Fair May 11-15, in Nashville, Tenn., all expenses paid.

Exhibits are evaluated by judges on the basis of originality, scientific thought, thoroughness, accuracy, skill in workmanship, clarity, and dramatic value.

Following judging, the fair will open for public viewing Saturday, March 14 from 2 to 6 p.m.

School Music Groups Offer Series of Concerts

Area residents have the opportunity to treat themselves to a series of free concerts performed by the orchestra, vocal, and band music students attending Beach Middle school and Chelsea High school. Each of the three areas presents a separate performance that is a blend of talent and dedication by the music department instructors and the students enrolled in academic music classes. Concerts are free and open to the public.

Each presentation gives the students a chance to display the skills they have learned, and to experience a feeling of success. Members of the audience are rewarded with professionally presented music calculated to thoroughly entertain.

On Tuesday, March 3, symphony bands from both schools will offer music at the high school auditorium from 7:30 p.m. Beach Middle school 7th and 8th grade band students will perform under the experienced direction of Warren Mayer. From the high school, Bill Gourley, music department director, will lead 180 musicians in offering selections that will chase away the winter blahs.

Thursday, March 5, beginning at 7:30 p.m. in the high school auditorium, 68 orchestra students from the high school and 73 students making up the 7th and 8th Beach Middle school orchestras will perform. Director Peter Rosheger has chosen a mixture of serious and light-hearted selections to be offered. This is an opportunity for local residents of all ages to sit back and enjoy themselves in the energetic and enriched atmosphere of classic fine music.

Third in the series of concerts, held at the United Methodist church in Chelsea on Tuesday, March 10, at 7:30 p.m., vocal director Steven P. Hinz leads the 38-member middle school, and the 39-member high school choirs through a wonderful collection of musical pieces. Voices weave a blend of depth and texture during the performance and the audience will be amazed at the skill level that has developed in these students.

All music groups performing in these concerts will be participating in district festivals during the month of March. At these festivals the groups are judged and rated on various aspects of performance. The students are given a chance to broaden their scope of experience by presenting themselves, and being exposed to the efforts of others in their peer range. This provides them with an opening to enhance personal responsibility, gain skills at working within a group, and increase individual understanding of areas and people outside of their daily routine.

Music classes are open to all students, regardless of talent level and experience. Classes require a student commitment of in-school learning and home practice.

Chelsea schools have been fortunate in having the skills of talented, dedicated, and experienced teaching professionals in the academic music classes. The growth in student music participation has been impressive in recent years and, according to school system statistics, 48.4% of this year's 1,316 middle school and high school students chose one or more of the music classes offered in the schools as part of their curriculum toward graduation.

Strong Second Half Gives Bulldog Cagers Win Over Dreadnaughts

Tough Chelsea defense limited the Dexter Dreadnaughts to five second-half field goals as the Bulldogs won their third straight game last Friday at home, 60-48.

The victory ended a five-game losing streak in the Southeastern Conference.

The Bulldogs, who fell behind at half-time 27-24 after leading for most of the first half, out-scored the Dreadnaughts 12-2 to open the second half and by the end of the third quarter held a 40-35 lead.

"We stopped being aggressive at the end of the first half," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"At half-time we said we had to re-establish control in the first four minutes of the second half."

Senior Jake Rindle opened the fourth quarter with a jump shot and tip-in to put Chelsea up by nine points. From then on the only thing that kept Dexter from being blown out was 8-9 free throw shooting. They didn't hit a field goal in the final period until the 1:37 mark.

"Our defense and rebounding were the best of the year," said Raymond.

"We had three goals going into the game—limit them to less than 10 offensive rebounds, keep Mike Ruhl and Scott Mayes in single digits, and have less than 15 turnovers. I told the kids if we make two of those goals we'll win the game."

Chelsea limited the taller Dreadnaughts to six offensive rebounds, and Mayes and Ruhl scored 11 points between them. Chelsea also out-rebounded the Dreadnaughts 48-28. However, the Bulldogs had 20 turnovers.

No Chelsea player had a spectacular game but several players had solid contributions, Raymond said.

Jon Royce had 15 points, Rindle scored 13 and had a team-high 15 rebounds, and Colby Skelton had 12 points. Other scorers were Ben Hurst 8, Chris Dunham 4, Tom Foulter 4, Dana Schmunk 2, and Pat Steele 2.

"In the last three games, our shot distribution has been a lot better," Raymond said.

Field goal shooting was the difference in the game as Chelsea took seven more shots and had six more scores than the Dreadnaughts.

Ryan Hill led Dexter with 21 points.

Chelsea improved to 4-6 in the Southeastern Conference. They play at Tecumseh Friday.

In non-conference action on Tuesday, Chelsea beat Jackson Northwest at home, 75-55.

The Bulldogs led all the way as they took a 42-23 lead at half-time and played even with the Mounties the rest of the way.

"I thought we ran the ball exceptionally well," Raymond said.

"We got a lot of easy shots. Northwest, however, didn't shoot very well."

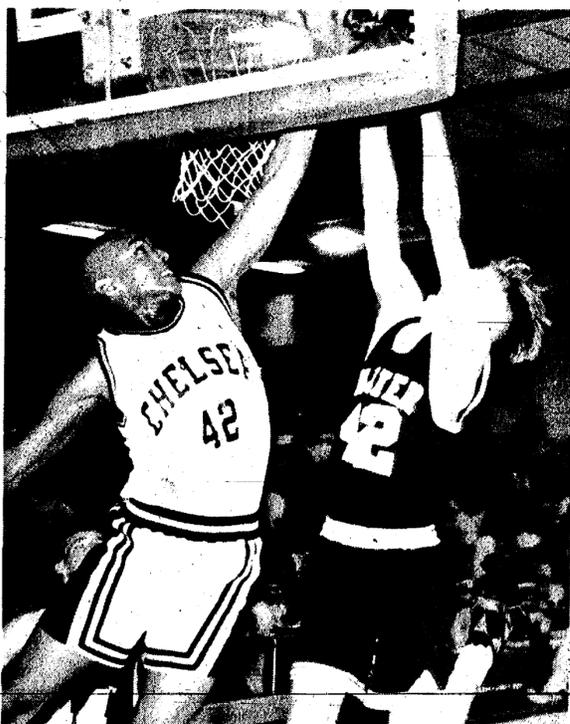

Chelsea was 35-60 from the field compared to 21-74 for the Mounties.

For much of the game Northwest couldn't get back on defense quickly enough to stop the Bulldogs. Raymond also said it was one of his team's best passing games of the season as the Bulldogs had 20 assists.

Steele led the Bulldogs with 17 points off the bench. Other scorers were Skelton 13, Rindle 9, Ed Waller 8, Dunham 6, Schmunk 4, Royce 4, Foulter 4, Hurst 4, Nick McCalla 4, and Jason Allen 2.

Chelsea held a 57-45 rebound advantage.

The Bulldogs' three-game winning streak is the longest since Chelsea opened the season last year with three straight victories. They were 8-9 on the season heading into last night's game against Jackson County Western.

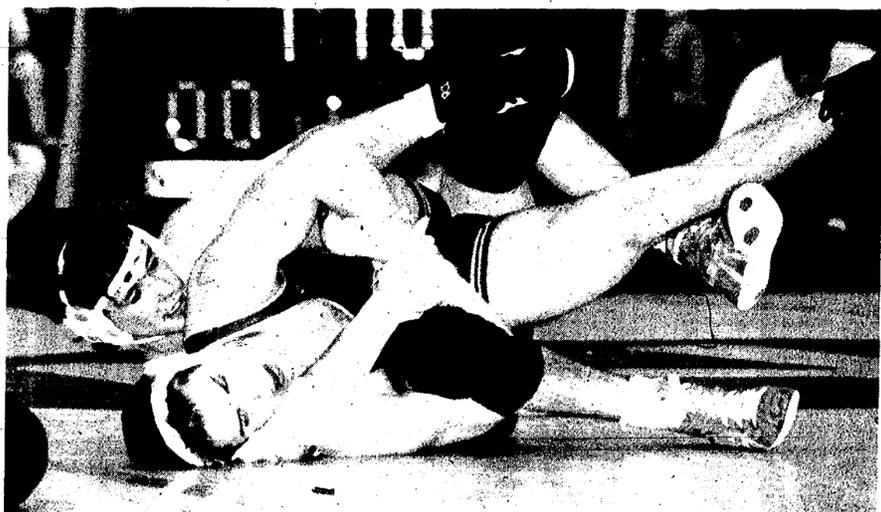

JON ROYCE of Chelsea leaps high to try to stop a shot by Dexter's Scott Mayes on a breakaway during last Friday night's game at Chelsea. Dexter held the half-time lead, but Chelsea won the game, 60-48.

CHRIS DUNHAM looks to make the pass underneath in the closing seconds of the first half against the Dexter Dreadnaughts last Friday.

A Galago is a tree-dwelling African animal known for its ability to leap great distances—as much as 15 feet—among branches.

KEVIN McCALLA, top, earned a trip to the individual regional tournament this Saturday by taking second place at the district tournament at 140 pounds. McCalla took an injury default in the finals, but should be in fine shape for this week's competition.

Terpstra, McCalla Move On to Region Tourney

Chelsea Bulldogs senior heavyweight Mike Terpstra and junior 140-pounder Kevin McCalla advanced to this Saturday's individual regional wrestling tournament in Battle Creek with their performances last Saturday in the district tournament at Brooklyn Columbia Central High school.

Terpstra took the heavyweight title with a 9-2 win over Jake Green of Mason in the finals. Terpstra gave up an escape and was called for an illegal hand lock but otherwise led the match the entire way. The last time the two met this year Terpstra won 8-5.

"The match wasn't close," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Mike controlled the match completely."

It was the only six-minute match Terpstra wrestled all day. He scored first period wins over Tony Harvey of Fowlerville, Grant Aiken of Dexter and Ramon Torres of Tecumseh on his way to the finals.

Terpstra, the defending state heavyweight champ, has to place in the top four of this week-end's regional to advance to the state tournament.

McCalla placed second at 140 pounds as he was pulled from the finals with an injury default. Although McCalla was feeling fine, Kargel said, by mutual agreement McCalla didn't wrestle because his opponent would have used a technique that would have likely aggravated McCalla's recent elbow injury.

McCalla started with a 15-0 technical fall over Chad Spratt of Hillsdale. He went on to pin Joe Martinez of Fowlerville in 2:48, then beat Dan Thome of Jackson Lumen Christi 5-0. His opponent in the finals would have been Mike Griggs of Eaton Rapids.

The only other Bulldog who came close to qualifying for the regional was sophomore Tim Wescott at 112 pounds.

Kargel said the chances are good both Terpstra and McCalla will reach the state tournament.

"Kevin's been wrestling tough and based on what I saw last week-end I think he can do it," Kargel said.

At the team district tournament last Wednesday at Central, Chelsea lost to the Dexter Dreadnaughts in the finals, 42-25.

The Bulldogs beat Central and Tecumseh to reach the finals.

"We scored more points against them than we did the last time," Kargel said.

"With a couple of breaks it might have been pretty close."

Varsity Spikers Take Dexter In Two Straight Games Thursday

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity volleyball team celebrated their Parents' Night at home last Thursday with a win over the Dexter Dreadnaughts in two straight games, 15-2 and 15-9.

It was the fourth consecutive Southeastern Conference victory for the Bulldogs.

In the first game, service aces by Leah Hadley and Jennifer Petty, along with kills on attacks by Tara Roehm and Amanda Nimke led Chelsea to an early 7-0 lead. A Gretchen Knutsen service ace followed by a Nimke ace and a spike for a kill put Chelsea ahead 10-1.

After regaining the serve on a Melissa Thiel spike, a Nimke kill followed by two service aces by Thiel put the Bulldogs up 13-2. Spikes by Theresa Royce and Nimke sealed the win.

The second game began with the Dreadnaughts taking a 2-0 lead on a Chelsea attack error and a Dexter block. The Bulldogs were able to tie the score 2-2 on a Nimke kill and a Petty service ace. Play then seasawed until the Dreadnaughts gained a kill and a passing error by Chelsea put Dexter up 4-2.

A service ace by Roehm and two aces in a row by Thiel tied the score at 6. A Nimke kill regained the serve for Chelsea and Petty stepped in to make five consecutive service aces to give Chelsea a 10-6 lead.

After scores by Dexter, a Nimke kill gave Chelsea the serve and two Royce kills put Chelsea up 12-8. A Nimke attack and Petty ace later gave Chelsea the win.

As a team, the Bulldogs served a perfect 24-24 in the first game, and 91 percent for the match. Jennifer Petty was tops in serving at 19-19 for 15 points, including eight aces. Knutsen was 8-8 with one ace, Thiel was 9-11 with three aces, Roehm was 4-4 with one ace, and Hadley was 5-6 with one ace.

On attacks, Nimke went 16-18 for nine kills, Royce and Thiel each had four kills, Roehm and Petty each had two kills, and Knutsen had one kill. Emily Carly and Amy Petty also contributed defensively at the net.

Chelsea seniors playing in their last home volleyball match were Hadley, Nimke, Petty, and Roehm, each of whom was presented a rose by coach Dan Montgomery.

Chelsea's record is 5-5 in the Southeastern Conference. The Bulldogs are in third place with Tecumseh.

GRETCHEN KNUTSEN serves for Chelsea during last Thursday's match against the Dexter Dreadnaughts.

Freshman Cagers Beat Northwest But Lose to Dreadnaughts

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost to the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 57-51, but beat Jackson Northwest, 59-52, in action last week.

In Tuesday's game at home against Northwest, Chelsea took a 15-8 lead in the first quarter and led throughout.

"This was the third game in a row where we had strong team performances by everyone," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We had way too many turnovers, but we also ended up with wide open lay-ups due to good passing."

Chelsea shot 50 percent from the field. They also limited Northwest to 3-16 shooting on three-point attempts.

Dan Wehrwein had a season-high 18 points to go with seven rebounds and three assists. Case McCalla added 12 and Scott Hawley scored a season-high 11 points.

Other scorers included Adam Beachamp 8, Bryndon Skelton 4, Brad Jeddle 2, Josh Inwood 2, and Dirk Wales 2.

Hawley had eight rebounds as the Bulldogs out-rebounded the Mounties 27-24.

Chelsea had 29 turnovers.

In Thursday's game at Dexter, Chelsea trailed all the way in what Quilter called "our poorest performance of the year."

"We were missing lay-ups and wide-open shots," Quilter said.

Chelsea shot 32 percent from the field (19-60), but had the shots they wanted.

Four Bulldogs scored in double figures, including Skelton 12, McCalla 10, Beachamp 10, and Wehrwein 10. Other scorers were Hawley 2, Kevin Coy 2, Wales 2, and James Diesing 2.

McCalla had a team-high nine rebounds.

Chelsea was 11-6 heading into Monday night's final game against Tecumseh.

The first May Day demonstration was held in 1886 as approximately 340,000 workers rallied for an eight-hour day in various cities. Beginning in 1890, such demonstrations became annual events, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a publication by the U.S. Labor Department.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

I don't know about you, but I'm not holding out much hope for the Chelsea athletic program next year. When we're talking about a possible school district deficit in the neighborhood of $1.2 million, I just don't see how we're going to come away with an intact program in 1992-93.

First of all, it's hard for me to imagine the district will ask for enough millage to cover that kind of shortfall. Would you pay another four mills in school taxes in this economic climate? A lot of people, including me, would say yes. But there are quite a few people who simply can't afford it, no matter how much they might want to support the schools. There are also plenty of people ready to cast a protest vote against the insanity of the way schools are funded, and I can't say I blame them. Dr. John Hansen, Dexter schools superintendent, recently wrote that he believes any new millage in his district, no matter how well justified, will face a tough battle. I suspect the situation is no different here.

So, assuming there is a fairly large shortfall, what gets cut? A teacher or two has told me that as many as 10 teachers could be laid off. And this is a district that needs more teachers, not fewer. Sports programs, even though they won't save all that much money, look pretty expendable.

No matter what happens, I can't believe the district would cancel athletics altogether. If you don't pay coaches salaries or officials, purchase equipment, or bus students to games, as well as get rid of the athletic director and his staff, the district might save around $250,000. That leaves the district with $1 million to go. When you consider how many kids are involved in athletics, and how many parents and friends enjoy attending events, that figure represents a real bargain.

Coaches I have talked to believe there could well be nothing more than varsity and junior varsity teams next year. Freshmen would play at the junior varsity level (which has always been the case for girls sports, anyway) and the youngster at Beach school would have to find something else to do, perhaps an intramural program. It wouldn't surprise me, however, if all we have is varsity sports and an elaborate intramural program.

The problem with athletics is it's just about impossible to cut corners in any substantial way because most of the cost is fixed.

This year, according to athletic director Wayne Welton, 18 varsity coaches are being paid $54,719. That accounts for about half of all coaches salaries. You can't avoid paying coaches, unless the new contract under negotiation allows it. That's about as likely as cutting the superintendent's pay in half.

The athletic department gets a district subsidy of $17,000. That, combined with about $30,000 in gate receipts and any donations, is supposed to cover officials, equipment, tournament fees, and other expenses. A football helmet costs $125. A player's entire outfit, including pads, etc., might be close to $400. Officials for three basketball games the other night cost $180.

You might be able to forego any equipment purchases. But you can't avoid paying officials, unless you play all your games on the road. You can't avoid paying bus drivers and using buses unless you play all your games at home.

So, I guess the point is, there's almost no way to cut a meaningful amount of money out of athletics without axing entire teams. Most of the major costs are built-in.

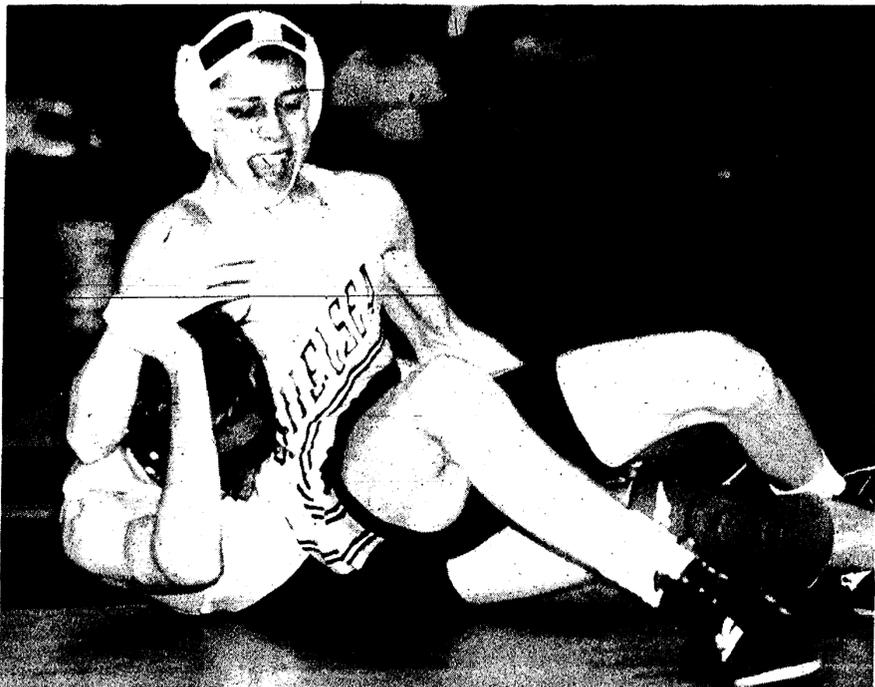

It's possible the board would allow private fund-raising efforts to restore programs. However, that raises a whole host of questions. If there's not enough money to fund all programs, which ones would get the money? And what about other extra-curricular programs that could be chopped? Are sports more important than the yearbook? What kind of fund-raising would be allowed? I haven't talked to anyone who supports "pay-to-play" because there are too many problems with it.

As far as the quality of an athletic program goes, it takes for more than a year to recover from one year of no middle school athletics. Just ask any coach who's been through it. If an athletic austerity program goes longer than a year, and it very well might, our varsity level sports may fall way behind.

Chelsea, Dexter, and Saline, the only out-of-formula districts in the Southeastern Conference, are all in the same capsizing boat, thanks to Gov. John Engler and his conspirators in Lansing. They all face losing a bunch of money in any of the proposed revenue redistribution proposals. Of course, each district could approach the problem in a completely different way. But what could happen is those three districts, supposedly the richest districts in the conference, may end up with the worst athletic programs because they'll be the ones forced to cut. The poorest districts in the conference, Lincoln, Milan, Tecumseh, Pinckney (those last two are hard to believe) may end up athletically rich, relatively speaking.

Even if Engler stands up tomorrow and says "Just kidding, that's all," the Chelsea district will still be faced with a sizeable budget deficit without new millage.

From here, it doesn't look good.

JV Spikers Win a Pair

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity volleyball team defeated Pinckney and Dexter last week.

The Dogs topped the Pirates, 10-15, 15-8, and 15-10.

"We were very flat the first game," said Chelsea coach Rainey Bassemier.

"Our passing hurt us." In the second and third games, Chelsea rebounded behind the serving of sophomore Tracy Patrick.

On Thursday the Bulldogs whipped Dexter, 15-10 and 15-12.

"We played really well against a team with a lot of talent," Bassemier said.

"We served 94 percent as a team and whenever we serve 90 percent we win."

Sophomore Gretchen Stahl led Chelsea with seven kills and nine service points. Freshman Kori White had six kills and seven service points.

"Kori White had a fine game for us," Bassemier said.

"Her serving won the first game and she had a big block in the second game to keep Dexter from coming back."

Chelsea is 40-15 and 17-5-3 in match play.

Chelsea Swimmers Improve But Lose in Final Dual Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs boys swimming team fell to the Ann Arbor Huron River Rats last Thursday, 117-69.

It was the last dual meet of the season for the Bulldogs heading into this week's Southeastern Conference meet at Dexter. Chelsea is in third place in the SEC, just behind Tecumseh and state power Milan.

Chelsea had several key swims, according to Chelsea coach Dave Jolly. Matt McVittie recorded a 1:48.69 in the 200 freestyle, which ranks as one of the top three times in the state.

Matt Fischer swam a 2:10.83 in the 200 individual medley for his best time of the season. It was half a second short of the state-qualifying time.

Dirk Colby swam a :23.67 in the 50 freestyle and a :51.84 in the 100 freestyle.

"Dirk continued his sprinting excellence," Jolly said.

"He is primed and ready to go. He has worked extremely hard all season and it's time for the pay-off."

Tom Hubbell and Jeremy Ziegler each had a season-best time in the 100 freestyle at 1:02.24 and 1:07.38, respectively.

Scott Long improved his technique in the 500 freestyle and looked strong, Jolly said, with a time of 6:21.33.

Matt Montagne, Kevin Kolodica, and Mike McEachern each had a season-best time in the 100 breaststroke at 1:09.93, 1:09.37, and 1:10.94, respectively.

The 400 freestyle relay team of David Broek, McVittie, Colby, and Fischer swam a 3:32.82, just 3 seconds off the state-qualifying time.

"They were all disappointed yet excited about the time and chance they have at the conference meet," Jolly said.

The two-day championships begin at 5:30 Friday with preliminaries. Finals start Saturday at 1:30.

Chelsea JV Cagers Lose Two Contests

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team suffered two heart-breaking losses last week, 60-58 to Dexter and 47-46 to Jackson Northwest.

Chelsea trailed all the way in the Dexter game but nearly pulled off a dramatic victory.

"I was proud of our players," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

"They were down by 18 points with six minutes to go and made a good comeback."

Nathan Mackinder paced Chelsea with 14 points and Cory Brown added 13. Other scorers included Chad Brown 10, Scott Larson 7, Jason McVittie 6, Matt Powell 2, David Stimpson 2, and Gabe Bernhard 2.

In the Northwest game on Tuesday, Chelsea was down 24-21 at half-time, but closed to within one point after three quarters. Each team scored 10 points in the final period.

Mackinder again led Chelsea with 14 points and Larson scored 11. Other scorers were Cory Brown 8, McVittie

5, Chad Brown 2, Stimpson 2, Matt Seitz 2, and Bernhard 2.

"Scott Larson had a good game," Mitchell said.

Chelsea is 5-12 on the season.

8th Grade Spikers Topple Saline

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team defeated Saline in four games last week, 6-11, 11-7, 11-7, 11-7.

"We did not receive Saline's serve very well and had our poorest serving night of the season," said Chelsea coach Ann Schaffner.

"To our credit, our passing and attacking continued to improve both in numbers and accuracy."

Leading in assists were setters Amanda Kivi, and Nikki Fite. Erin Baird was 8-9 in kills and Tracy Dufek was 4-6. Amy Oake and Dufek each had six service points. Sara Petty, Carrie Buss, Liz Holdsworth, and Jeanine Moulleseaux and Baird each had four service points.

Greg Haist on Siena Heights Baseball Team

Greg Haist of Chelsea is a member of the Siena Heights College baseball team.

The senior left-hander is being counted on to provide relief pitching and spot starting this spring, according to information supplied by the college.

However, his primary position may be at first base, where the coach is likely to platoon left and right-handed hitters.

Haist has been a designated hitter, outfielder and part-time first baseman, as well as a relief pitcher during his three years.

Genesis Offers Help In Grieving Process

Genesis. In the beginning, God... And man. And sin. Then, shortly thereafter man lost his job and his home. Then came death. And pain and grief. Genesis. In the beginning, God... also gave a promise and hope. Grief is the processing of loss. It is the ending of what was and the beginning of what is now. Have you ever suffered a loss and know there must be help available, but not known where to look? Have you ever wanted to read a book on your loss and not know which one would be helpful or where to get it? Have you ever wanted to hear a talk about what you are experiencing and not know who's saying what and when?

"Genesis" is an ecumenically based group that came together to raise the awareness of the grieving process at all levels with a Christian focus. It is based on the precept that "every new beginning starts with an ending." Its aim is to enable parishes to help their own congregations understand and process their losses. Genesis also wants to establish a resource center and educational programs. Its first program will be on Monday, March 23, at 7 p.m. in the meeting room at Society Bank on Old Manchester Rd. Bob Welkart, pastor and psychologist, will be speaking on "Good Grief: A Blueprint for Life." Any questions regarding the group and its program or anyone interested in Genesis may call Joe Brosnan, 475-1760; Dick and Nadine Shaneyfelt, 475-8193; or Sue Bennett, 475-8558.

Faith in Action Holds Annual Volunteer Recognition Dinner

The annual Faith in Action Volunteer Recognition Dinner was held Saturday, Feb. 15 in the Main Dining Room of Chelsea Community Hospital. Fifty FIA volunteers and their guests enjoyed an evening devoted to honoring their work on behalf of other people.

Each year a Special Volunteer is recognized as the Volunteer of the Year. The Volunteer selected for 1991 is Esther Nicolai, who was awarded a locket inscribed with the year and initials FIA. The recipient will have her own initials engraved in the form she desires.

In addition to the annual award, two special awards were made to acknowledge the efforts and devotion to the ideals of Faith in Action.

Nadine Shaneyfelt received her award for her years devoted to Faith in Action as a VISTA Volunteer. Her service in this capacity ended in 1991 and she is now a member of the staff with the position of assistant to the president.

Kathleen Chapman (Katie to everyone who knows her) was awarded a special silver locket. Katie has been a part of Faith in Action almost from its beginning at St. Barnabas Episcopal church. In his remarks while making the presentation to her, the Rev. Dr. Beaumont stated, "Katie and I made what was to be the very first delivery of food for Faith in Action and she has been a very vital part of our activities ever since."

Beaumont during a short commentary on the efforts of FIA during 1991 spoke about the increasing needs of people brought about by the various slashes in state programs and reminded people of how important they were in the lives of many people. While FIA does not receive state funding, the effect of the reduction in state programs is to increase the number seeking help. In 1991 over 5,000 sought assistance which is an increase of nearly 500 over 1990.

As a personal aside, Beaumont thanked everyone for their prayers, cards and good wishes during and after his surgery. He said he was delighted to report to them that the pathology reports were universally clean as were the CAT scans and that he was back in the office daily although on a limited hour basis.

generally far too involved in each decision. For example, he says "major personnel matters" should be discussed by the whole council, a reference to the recent demotion of Paul Newhouse in the electric and water department, which the village admits was the decision of the administration and the council personnel committee.

The village manager's position, as defined by the village manager ordinance, may also be too powerful, Satterthwaite says. Satterthwaite was president when the ordinance was adopted, but now says it may need to be amended to give more control to council.

"To me, the village manager is really a go-between" who executes the wishes of council, Satterthwaite says.

Particular issues of interest to Satterthwaite include the landfill, area growth, and making sure the electric department is in good shape.

The landfill, he says, may not have to be closed this year as Steele has suggested, but acknowledges the facility is a financial drain to the village.

"Some steps have to be taken first," he says.

"We've got to figure out how to get trash to BFI landfill. If we do it ourselves we've got to have a bigger truck because a driver might wait for hours to unload."

"We also have to decide how we're going to fill the landfill. We could turn it into a class three landfill for demolition."

Village growth during Satterthwaite's tenure changed the course of the village forever, he says. However, some housing projects, such as Belser Estates, have still not been completed. He says he'd like to see those projects finished to help the village expand its tax base. He'd also like the village to do more to market the industrial park, which is listed with a broker who specializes in industrial properties.

"We're going to be in trouble if we get up to our millage cap," he says.

The village should consider becoming a city, he says, to help with the tax situation. As a city, village residents would no longer pay their township taxes, which means they wouldn't be double-taxed for fire services and wouldn't pay for maintenance of roads both inside and outside the village. Once the landfill agreement with Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships is in place, it's likely village residents will be double-taxed for those costs, too.

In another matter, Satterthwaite says it's important for the electric department to be self-sustaining. While he did not call for a rate hike, he said rates should be reviewed, along with sewer charges.

"I'd like to say sewer bills will pay to revamp the sewer system, but I'm not sure they will," he says.

In other matters, Satterthwaite says: he would change most council committee appointments; he probably does not favor selling village lots on Park St. and renovating the current village hall because it would be too expensive; and he would feel "no obligation at all" to fill Allen Anderson's soon-to-be vacant council seat with one of this year's candidates. Village council has the final word in that decision but Satterthwaite would be free to make recommendations.

gasoline pollution at the village garage, and, most recently, the demotion of an electrical department employee, which resulted in a lawsuit filed against the village, but aimed at Steele, for discrimination.

Steele did not want to discuss the lawsuit. However, he says that he would not have changed the way the decision was made to demote Paul Newhouse from acting-superintendent.

"We did it the best way we knew how, with the involvement of the village manager and the personnel committee," Steele says.

He says he's happy with the job acting-superintendent Dan Rosentreter has done but "any application that is put in we will look at." A final decision about Rosentreter has to be made in about four months.

As far as accusations of not keeping council members informed, Steele says, "I think if you check most council people will say they're well-informed. I may have missed not calling somebody on particular issues, but I think that's more the exception than the rule. I think there's been adequate communication."

Steele admits he has spent a lot of time at being village president, but that circumstances have warranted it. He also says most council members have been far more active the last two years "than at any time I've been on council."

"We had a void there with no village manager," Steele says.

"Then we brought in a new person and there was a transition. I felt I had to get more involved. Council has also responded greatly and did a good job when we didn't have a manager. I guess there's a fine line between not doing enough and doing too much."

Steele has been accused of not being a forceful enough leader, which may stem as much from his soft-spoken nature (on many occasions at council meetings he has been asked to speak up so others could hear him) as any position he has taken. He has always had strong opinions on issues. As a council member he bucked the majority more often than any other trustee. But he is not the kind of speaker to generate much passion on any side of an issue and in public tends to be almost too orderly and business-like. And when he is challenged at council meetings, he tends to get drowned out by almost anyone doing the challenging, especially if he doesn't take the bait, which has happened on occasions involving the electric department, budget, and other matters.

In defense of his record, Steele says council has not had the luxury of being able to spend time on policy formulation during the last two years, primarily because of the number of extraordinary problems.

"It seems like we've had one problem after another," Steele says.

"We have the landfill negotiations with the townships, we had the landfill fund deficit situation with the state, we had the clean-up at the electric and water building, and we had to replace a village manager. It hasn't been easy to sit down and work on policy."

Policy formulation, Steele says, is what he wants to concentrate on during the next two years. That will focus on financing everything from infrastructure repair to remodeling or constructing a village office building.

"We'd like to make sure that some things that have happened in the past won't happen in the future," Steele says.

A Ways and Means Committee has been put into place. Council is scheduled to soon re-consider how the electric fund is used. The fund has been used as a source for loans for various village projects, but Steele says "it shouldn't be used that way." What is likely to happen, he says, is a certain percentage of revenues will be put into the general fund in lieu of taxes and all borrowing will cease. He says other municipalities, such as Zeeland and Dowagiac, have similar arrangements with their utilities.

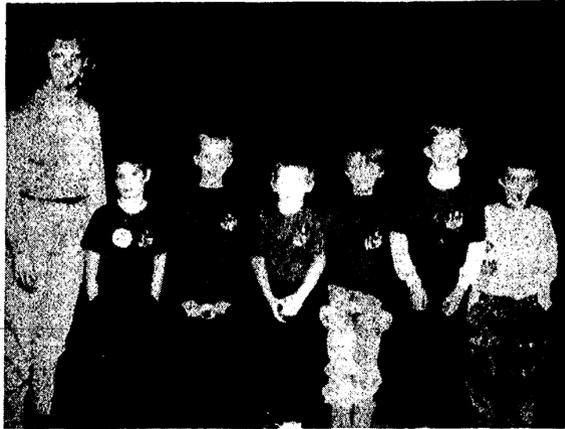

Steele says he'd also like to complete cost-sharing negotiations with the townships concerning more than $800,000 in accumulated landfill expenses. He said the focus of discussions has changed from how current expenses will be divided to how expenses for landfill monitoring will be shared.

He still favors filling and closing the landfill this year due to both financial considerations and changing policy on the part of the Department of Natural Resources.

Steele also says he may push for the village to become a city. He says he may initiate the long process in about a year. Any change would have to be voter-approved.

Area Residents, Service Groups Respond to 'Christmas in April'

The Christmas in April concept of people helping people and neighbor helping neighbor has sparked a flame in the hearts of many Chelsea residents and service groups. Groups like the Kiwanis, Lions, Lioness, Chamber of Commerce, American Business Women, and the Knights of Columbus as well as many local residents have already pledged their support and participation. St. Mary's Youth Community has also pledged to work on the project.

Chelsea Chapter of Christmas in April has set its goals at 150 volunteers and $10,000 in donations to help repair five area homes of the elderly and handicapped. "We realize that many homeowners and local store owners are suffering from 'donor fatigue,' but we can't forget about our neighbors and friends," said Dick Shaneyfelt, Chelsea chairperson for Christmas in April. "We are obligated to assist the elderly and handicapped, to improve their housing conditions and quality of life. We are looking for volunteers both skilled and novices and we are seeking donations of $5, $10, $20, etc., whatever one can afford."

If you would like to volunteer for the April 25 workday or would like more information, call 475-1581 on Wednesday from 10 a.m. til 2 p.m. or write Christmas in April*Washtenaw, 104 E. Middle St., Chelsea.

The Chelsea Council No. 3092 of the Knights of Columbus will sponsor a St. Patrick's Day Dinner/Dance on Saturday, March 14 at 7:30 p.m. with all proceeds going to the Chelsea Chapter of Christmas in April*Washtenaw. The cost is $25 per couple, a traditional corn beef and cabbage dinner will be served and the music will be furnished by Jerry Martell. Tickets may be obtained at the Chelsea Pharmacy.

ANN FEENEY of the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce is presenting to Richard Shaneyfelt, Chelsea chairperson for Christmas in April*Washtenaw, the first check donated by a Chelsea area donor.

Brownie Troop Has Lock-in Skills Day

North Elementary school third grade Brownie Girl Scout Troop 125 had its 1992 Lock-in Skills Day Saturday, Feb. 8, at North school from 10 a.m. to 7:30 p.m.

North Elementary school fourth grade Junior Girl Scout Troop 188 visited with Troop 125 in the morning, working on the Junior Aide patch by helping the Brownies prepare for Junior Girl Scouting. The troops together cut soup labels for a service project for North school, watched the first movie about Girl Scouting made for recruiting members in 1918, and made clothes for and decorated teddy bears to donate to the Chelsea Community Hospital Auxiliary for their "From the Heart" program.

The rest of the day featured a hike through downtown Chelsea to view historical buildings, badge work, dancing, cooking, artwork, and friendship building activities. Parent volunteers assisted co-leaders Gail Turluck and Kimberly Williams to ensure a smooth transition from activity to activity.

Christian Smith Named BookCrafters Employee of Month

BookCrafters recently presented Christian Smith with Employee of the Month honors for February. Chris came to BookCrafters right after graduation from Chelsea High school in 1988. During the past 5½ years, his expertise as a platemaker and his value to the company have continued to grow.

Chris and his wife, Kim, live in Ann Arbor. Outside work, his interests include archery and music as well as playing the guitar.

At the end of February, Chris will be leaving BookCrafters to serve in the United States Air Force. During the next 4 to 12 years, Chris will be challenged in many new ways. As an exciting part of his program, he will attend college, with the goal of completing a degree in Psychology.

Boy Scouts Will Be Guests of Kiwanis Club

On Monday evening, March 2, the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea will be holding their annual "Scout Night." This year, club members Ray Kemner and Dennis Bauer will be the program chairmen. Meetings are held at the Chelsea Community Hospital's Main Dining Room at 8:15 p.m.

For details, call John Knox at 475-3819.
