POLLS WERE BUSY at Sylvan Town Hall throughout the day Monday at village voters elected a village president and three trustees. When it was all over, incumbents were returned to office.

Voters Return Steele, Hammer, Merkel, Elect Bentley New Trustee

Incumbents and a former trustee were returned to office Monday by voters in the annual village elections. Village president Richard Steele easily out-distanced former president Charles Ritter, Jr., 254-179, while former president Jerry Satterthwaite finished third with 129 votes.

Trustees Joe Merkel and Frank Hammer ran away from the field with 366 and 347 votes, respectively, while former trustee Gary Bentley, who ran a joint campaign with Satterthwaite, finished third with 242 votes. He takes the place of Jim Finch, who decided not to seek re-election.

A total of 585 ballots were cast in a fairly heavy turnout at Sylvan Town Hall.

Other candidates for trustee included Ishmael Picklesimer (181 votes), Brian Cashman (141), Harry Thurkow (127), and Rosemary Harook, (69) votes in a write-in campaign.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the election was the relatively low support for Satterthwaite, who served three terms as president from 1984-90 and had beaten both Steele and Ritter during that stretch.

Satterthwaite said Tuesday morning that he "feels betrayed by some people I thought were my supporters and friends." He said he was originally approached by two local business people to run because they were fearful Ritter might be able to beat Steele head-to-head. In the end, he says, those initial supporters backed Steele after Satterthwaite had already entered the race. He said the same thing happened in 1990 when he lost to Steele.

"The flyer they put out Sunday really hurt because there was no way I could respond to it," Satterthwaite said. The flyer, distributed door-to-door, was essentially a reprint of an advertisement that ran in The Standard last week supporting Steele, Hammer, and Merkel. It listed what "The Committee for Chelsea's Future" considered to be village council's accomplishments of the last two years.

"Some of [the things mentioned in the flyer] were in existence when I was in office."

Satterthwaite said he is through running for office.

"Twice burned, twice learned," he said.

Satterthwaite said he hopes "Bentley will be a sparkplug for council and will bring up some issues. That's my hope."

Steele said he was also surprised by Satterthwaite's showing.

"I thought Jerry and I would run quite a bit closer," Steele said.

Steele, whose first two years as president were consumed with dealing with major problems such as finding a new village manager and various landfill issues, said he feels "very grateful for the support" and believes the vote shows support for the direction he wants to take the village. He said he believes the support shown by The Committee for Chelsea's Future played a big part in the outcome.

"We have two more years to get going those things we've promised to do," Steele said.

Hammer said he believes the vote shows support for Steele, council, and the administration, including village manager Jack Myers.

"I feel like it's a vote of confidence for Richard and the way the village is going," Hammer said.

Personally, Hammer said, "it feels nice [to get such a large vote] but I'm not sure what it says."

First order of business, Steele said, will be to get the infrastructure maintenance planning and financing program underway.

"We need to get it on paper and set up a priority list," he said.

He also said he wants to work to get the landfill issue resolved with Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, and Dexter townships.

"We're also going to have to figure out what we're going to do with our trash once the landfill is filled. We just need to do a lot of planning."

Harook, who waged one of the most vigorous write-in campaigns in years, said she felt good about her showing. She said she really had 88 votes, including one for president, because 16 ballots were spoiled because her sticker was affixed to the ballot rather than the envelop.

"I was well-informed before I got into the race," Harook said.

"I knew it would be tough to pull votes. I believe I would have done a lot better if my name had been on the ballot."

She said she may run again for office next year.

$2.2 Million Budget Considered by Village

Chelsea Village Council was scheduled to consider last night a 1992-93 general fund budget of $2,195,273 following a public hearing.

If approved, it would be the first village budget to exceed $2 million.

Despite an increase in expenditures of about $400,000 over 1991-92, village manager Jack Myers said a tax increase would not be required due to the use of a large fund balance.

The resolution scheduled for adoption called for tax revenues of $900,000, up $80,000 from the previous year. It also called for state revenues of $350,000, $150,000 from fire contracts with area townships, $200,000 from refuse collection, and anticipates using a $348,773 fund balance left over from 1991-92.

The fund balance was created after village council passed a resolution authorizing the transfer of $1.2 million from the electric fund to the general fund "in lieu of taxes" covering 1971 through 1991. Another $138,600 will be transferred this year, the first annual transfer of 8.5 percent of revenues generated by the sale of electricity.

The largest single line item under expenditures is "other activities," which accounts, in part, for expenses related to landfill matters.

Myers noted that without the extra anticipated costs associated with the landfill, the budget would be virtually identical in total expense to the 1991-92 budget.

The second largest expense, $308,925, is for the police department, of which $300,000 is budgeted for salaries. Other major expenses include $290,750 for public works, $241,372 for fire protection, $191,185 for insurance and fringe benefits, $132,912 for executive expenses, and $108,400 for the general services administration.

Village administration has come under some criticism for using an outside consultant, R.A. Steger, to help with budget preparation. This is the first year Myers has worked directly with the budget.

Myers said the village has spent about $3,000 with Steger, mostly for advice.

Research has shown, Myers said, that Chelsea's budget is about the same size as those of other municipalities of comparable size.

Other expenditures outside of the general fund include $150,650 for major streets, $610,325 for landfill operation, $359,010 for sewer maintenance, $387,300 for the water service, and $2,530,387 for electrical service.

Elderly Woman Nearly Abducted From Supermarket Parking Lot

Chelsea police looking for information about a man who tried to abduct a 71-year-old Manchester woman in the parking lot at Polly's Market on Tuesday morning, March 3.

According to police chief Lenard McDougall, the Pleasant Lake Rd. woman left the store and walked to her car at about 10:20 a.m. After she unlocked it she was approached by a man who asked her if she could tell him what time it was.

When the woman said 'no' the man put a knife in her side and told her to get in the car or he'd kill her.

Before she could get into the car, another vehicle pulled up in the next parking space, which apparently frightened the man. He fled on foot toward Great Lakes Bancorp, then across M-52.

The woman went back into the store and told the manager, who called police.

McDougall said a store employee reported seeing the man hanging out in front of the store for much of the morning. The employee asked him if he needed any help and he said he was waiting for his mother.

Other witnesses reported seeing the man in the Chelsea Shopping Center parking lot.

Police described the man as white, in his late teens or early twenties, (Continued on page four)

Hatch Tax Abatement OK'd By Council

Village of Chelsea has approved a tax abatement of $4,904 for new equipment at the Hatch Stamping Co. facility in the village industrial park.

The abatement, called an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate, would cover $292,666.55 of new equipment, including a press, tapping machine, salt spray cabinet, and a magnetic slide conveyor.

Total ad valorem tax owed on the personal property would be $9,808.

The agreement to approve a tax abatement was specified in the village's contract with the company for the lots in the industrial park.

The State Tax Commission is responsible for final approval of the exemption certificates.

Police Union Agrees To Drug Test Policy

Chelsea Police Department has adopted a Drug-Free Workplace Policy as part of its last labor contract.

The policy amounts to a program for testing employees for alcohol and drug use through urine samples. Employees suspected of being under the influence of alcohol during work hours or using alcohol at any time on village property, or suspected of using or selling any illegal drugs may be tested. It is not a random-test policy.

Anyone who refuses a test ordered by a supervisor can be fired. However, an employee who admits to a problem before a test is ordered can avoid all punishment but will likely be required to enter a substance abuse program.

An employee who tests positive for drug use may request a second test of the same urine sample.

Depending on the circumstances of each case, an employee may be able to continue work while seeking treatment.

If an employee in a treatment program tests positive again, he or she will be subject to immediate dismissal.

Nominating Petitions Ready For June 8 School Elections

Nominating petitions are available for the annual Chelsea School District elections.

Seats held by John Eisenbeiser and Joe Redding are available in the June 8 elections. They are for four-year terms.

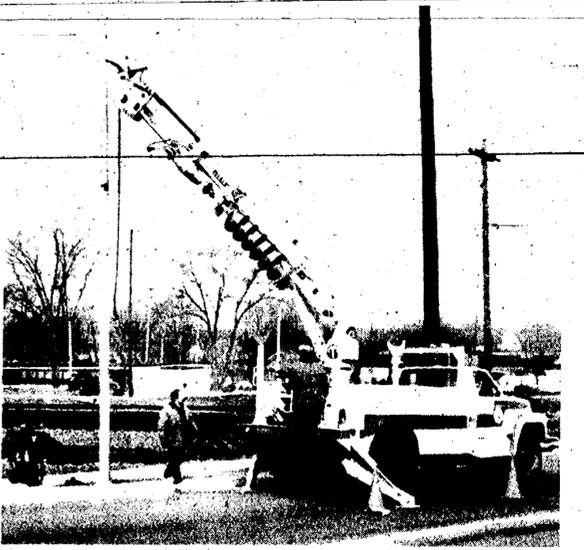

Nominating petitions must be signed by a minimum of 20 registered district voters. Signatures on each petition must all be from the same township, and candidates may obtain more than one petition.

Petitions are due at 4 p.m. on Monday, April 6. They must be filed with Eisenbeiser, secretary of the board, or Fred Mills, assistant superintendent.

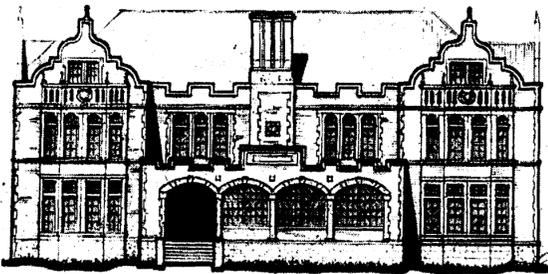

A candidate may not remove his or her name from the ballot after 4 p.m. Thursday, April 9.

Voters may sign no more than two petitions.

Petitions are available at the administrative offices at Chelsea High school.

VILLAGE EMPLOYEES took advantage of Monday's nice weather to remove one of old downtown cobra lights next to the village parking lot adjacent to Heydlauff's, Inc. The cobra lights became expendable when old-style lights were installed as part of the downtown development project, which is scheduled to be completed this spring.

Families First Program Saving Millions In Foster Care Costs, Miller Says

The Department of Social Services' Families First Program, expected to be expanded state-wide from its current 44 counties, is saving the state at least $20 million in foster care costs, director Gerald Miller said recently.

The 1992 expenditures for the program, first started in 1988 in 10 counties, were $12.1 million. That figure has been upped by $3 million in Governor John Engler's 1993 budget recommendation to accommodate the program across the state.

Without that $15 million for Families First, the 1993 recommended appropriation of $208.2 million in the foster care expenditures line would be at least $20 million higher.

And over-all, Miller said, the state would not be accruing the savings it is from Families First, which is designed to keep families intact while addressing significant issues of abuse, neglect or delinquency.

Currently, Miller said, the state is spending $4,000 to $5,000 per family through the intensive program, which operates at a six-week maximum. The cost to the state for foster care is $10,000 to $11,000 per case, and for institutionalization, which is sometimes the solution for the worst cases, the cost is $50,000 to $80,000, he said.

Miller backed the Families First program further by telling members of the House Appropriations Committee of Social Services subcommittee that its success rate is 80 percent.

"It is very, very encouraging to date," Miller said. "We're demonstrating some very major success. There is no question in my mind that the rate of growth (of foster care needs) in the Families First counties is much slower."

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

Two new models which would expand the length of the Families First program to four and eight months are being developed, Miller said, as the department continues its efforts to determine the most effective service.

If the same success rate is found for the longer programs as for the current six-week plan, he said, there will be no expansion.

Citing Michigan's Families First program as the largest of its type in the country, Miller said, all services are provided in the home, at a maximum of eight hours per week. Workers, who serve two families at a time, design the program with the families involved.

Ellis Reveals Liquor Privatization Plan to Panels

House Appropriations and Senate State Affairs and Military/Veteran Affairs Committee members grilled Commerce director Art Ellis as he laid out the administration's plan to privatize the Liquor Control Commission.

"Accomplishing privatization will provide a one-time infusion of $40 million into the state's revenue stream—money which is needed to support our schools and basic governmental programs," Ellis said, arguing wholesaling liquor through the commission is very inefficient and expensive to run.

But several committee members questioned the administration's intentions to alter a system that industry leaders say is working, generates revenue for the state and provides jobs to the 400 to 500 employees who would be laid off under the proposal. Sen. John Fridnia (R-Hubbard Lake) expressed concern regarding how distribution changes would affect rural areas and Sen. George Hart (D-Deerborn) cited problems with Iowa's semi-privatization effort, including a 6 percent hike in the price of affected beverages and inefficiencies.

Ellis argued it is up to the Legislature to decide whether government should participate in the sale of liquor in Michigan but the administration, with a majority vote of the commission, would take the necessary steps to make the most out of taxpayers' dollars by improving the system's efficiency.

Under the current system, many Detroit licensees are forced to accept delivery, case sales declined by 2 million during the past 20 years and prices have had to be increased to maintain revenue. The average cost per case in the Upper Peninsula is $15.28, compared to $3.22 in Detroit, where more cases are sold.

Under the administration's proposal, the commission would define appropriate regions for distribution and contract out the services for each region to get the product to the licensees faster and at a lower cost. All eligible private companies would be able to bid for regional warehousing and distribution rights. Companies awarded the contract would get the liquor from the distillers and deliver it to the licensees.

The three regional bailment warehouses receiving liquor from the distillers are currently located in Lincoln Park, Escanaba and Lansing.

The liquor is transported to state wholesale outlets where the licensees pick it up or have it delivered. Under the current system, only Detroit licensees are mandated to use the delivery service while outstate licensees can choose to transport it themselves.

The commission would manage the distribution and contracts and retain responsibility for purchasing, licensing and enforcement. No volume discounts would be available, the 17 percent discount to all licensees would remain, taxes would not be changed and the administration predicted no impact on alcohol consumption.

"Privatizing through administrative action will give us the ability to utilize the existing legal framework to keep a state-wide uniform price, no volume discounts, and a state control of who has the product," Ellis said. "The LCC has streamlined operations to cut costs, but the current system does not allow us the efficiencies needed to generate the revenue we need."

Ellis predicted a 1 percent increase in the price of spirits under the administration's proposal; a one-time savings of $25 million from the sale of the state's liquor inventory at its 73 state-run local wholesale outlets which would be eliminated; and an annual savings of between $15 million and $20 million based on the reduction in distribution costs and maintenance of the 4 percent excise tax and three other specific taxes and a 51 percent mark-up.

Operating costs would be reduced, vendors would own the liquor until it is ready to ship to the licensee, vendors would have to pay for the cost of liquor warehousing and transportation costs built into the current system would partially cover increased delivery costs, Ellis said.
He argued door-to-door service would be improved for all licensees under the proposal. The changes would take effect March 1, 1993.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Early in the session at the country store Saturday night, Bug Hookum took the floor to say recent reading got him to recalling hog killings when he was a boy. After feeding, watering and petting the hogs most of the year, Bug said, it struck him as cruel when he watched his Pa shoot them the cold morning set aside for making meat.
Bug said he would cry when his friends dropped at the crack of the rifle, and he would sniffle through the gutting and the scalding. But when a tenderloin come sizzling off the scalding vat coals for sampling, Bug said his tears dried up, and by the time the sausage was stuffed and the hams hung his grief had passed complete.

It just goes to show, Bug told the fellows, that cruelty is based on circumstance. The 4-H'er that cries like a baby when his prize beef calf brings top dollar at the fair soon will be laughing all the way to the bank. So Bug's been adding some grains of salt to the items he's been reading about cruelty to animals.

The bottom line is, Bug went on, animals ain't people. We call it sport when people try their best to kill one another in the boxing ring, he said, but we cry murder most foul when chickens do the same thing. City folks buy mice to feed live to their pet snakes, Bug went on, and when they pick out their chops and steaks they don't give a thought to the animals that made the ultimate sacrifice for them.

Recent, Bug saw where the British Parliament voted down a bill to outlaw fox hunting on grounds that fun of the sport escapes the fox. The vote came after some nobleman said if the bill passed all the horses fox hunters ride would have to be killed because they ain't good for anything else. Better a few hundred foxes than a few thousand horses, Bug said, which makes as much sense as most findings about animal cruelty.

General, the fellows were agreed that you need to know why before you choose sides. For instant, Zeke Grubb had read where a judge in Greensboro, N.C. used good judgment in a case where two Asians were charged with cruelty to animals because they cooked and ate a dog. The judge took note that in their culture dogs are food, so he put them in a program to learn American customs. Watching a homeless man catch a park pigeon for supper might be seen as cruel by folks munching fried chicken from their picnic basket, was Zeke's words.

Practical speaking, Clem Webster said, we take out most of our meanness on one another. He once heard a judge say the worst cases he heard in 35 years on the bench were family disputes, usual over land. Even if one didn't kill another, the judge said, three generations picked sides and wouldn't budge a inch. Animals mark their territory, Clem said, and respect one-another's marks.

Personal, I see cruelty all around. I see three stickers on a can of beans, and I think the least the store owner ought to do is scrape off the outdated prices. A hospital that means to do good will put us in them open back smocks and send us to the bathroom carrying a specimen through a crowded waiting room.
And now is that cruel time when we can't escape ads showing politicians standing in front of flags holding suit coats over their shoulders like they're ready to work for us.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Hospital Couples Bridge Marathon Play Continues

The March 1 meeting of the Couples (Pairs) Bridge Marathon for the benefit of the Chelsea Community Hospital was held in the Woodlands Room of the Hospital on Sunday evening at 6 p.m., with 22 persons participating in the new format for the group.

Winners for the evening's play were Mark and Pat Becker of Chelsea, with a total of 4,410 for the 20 hands played. Helen Lancaster and Joan VanOrman, of Chelsea, were second with a score of 4,100. Coming in third were Marlene and Bill Rademacher, of Chelsea, with a score of 2,840. The group is continuing in the same format as last year, with the exception that mixed pairs may play, beginning with the first Sunday evening of October and playing through the first Sunday evening of June, which allows more time for people to play the required five times to qualify for year-end prizes in this marathon event. Each time a person plays, he (or she) pays $2 for the hospital and 25 cents toward prizes for the evening.

The next meeting will be Sunday evening, April 5 at 6 p.m. in the Woodlands Room of the Chelsea Community Hospital.

If anyone is interested in being on the calling list for play, please contact either Marlene Rademacher (475-5020), or Roberta Barstow (426-3887).

★ Deducing Miscellaneous Itemized Deductions . . .

(Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants)

Deducing miscellaneous expenses has become more difficult in the last few years. Most miscellaneous itemized deductions are deductible only to the extent that the total exceeds 2 percent of your adjusted gross income. Passing the 2-percent floor can be difficult says the Michigan Association of CPAs, but it is not impossible. Here are some tips on how to maximize your miscellaneous deductions.

Employee Business Expenses
Business expenses are deductible only if you pay them out of your own pocket—not if you are reimbursed. Following are some of the more common employee business expenses:
Travel and lodging. When your business takes you away from home, you may deduct 100 percent of your allowable expenses—including the cost of traveling to the location and your lodging expenses.

Meals and entertainment. The law allows an 80 percent deduction for business-related meals and entertainment expenses as long as you discuss business during or immediately before or after the meal or entertainment event.

Subscriptions. The cost of subscriptions to job-related publications and trade journals is generally deductible.

Job-hunting expenses. In order to deduct job-hunting expenses, you must be looking for a job in the same line of work in which you are now involved. If you qualify, you may deduct such expenses as the cost of career counseling, employment agency fees, travel to and from interviews, phone calls, postage and the cost of having your resume prepared.

Business gifts. If you purchase a gift for a client or your secretary, you can deduct the cost of your kindness. However, there is a $25 limit on how much you can deduct for gifts to any one person in a year.

Employment-related education. To deduct educational expenses, you must meet one of two requirements. The courses you take must help you maintain or improve your present work skills, or your education must be required by either your employer or by law to keep your salary, position or job.

Work clothes and uniforms. To qualify for a deduction, the clothes you purchase must be required by your employer and not be suitable for ordinary or everyday wear. Clothing that protects workers from injury on the job—such as safety shoes, hard hats and work gloves—also qualifies.

Investment Expenses
You may also be able to deduct some of the costs that are associated with investments that produce taxable income.

Safe deposit box rentals. If you use your safe deposit box to hold stocks, bonds or other investments, you may deduct the annual rental cost.

Investment advisor and management fees.

Subscriptions. You may deduct the cost of magazines and other publications you purchase for investment advice.

Legal fees. You can deduct attorney expenses as long as the lawyer's advice relates to producing or protecting income.

Transportation and travel. The cost of travel to look after investments or to confer with your attorney, accountant or investment counsel qualifies for a deduction.

Tax-related deductions
Tax-related deductions may include expenses associated with federal, state, gift, estate, property or other tax categories.

Return preparation fees.

Representation fees. You may deduct fees paid to an attorney, accountant or other agent for representing you in an audit, examination or hearing involving any tax matter.

Tax planning books, publications and videotapes.

Phone calls and postage to the IRS.

For more detailed information on the types of deductions you may be overlooking, you should contact your CPA.

Lima Extension Group Makes Corn Husk Dolls, Flowers

Corn Husk Dolls and Flower Making was the fun activity for the morning Feb. 28, at Lima Township Hall. Lima Extension Homemakers had 14 members plus six guests present to learn the art of corn husk dolls from Norma Seyfried and corn husk flowers from Hilda Lindeman. Bleached and dyed husks brought in by Janet McCalla added a little variety and color to the crafts.

After a pot-luck lunch hosted by Jane Schairer and Margaret Sias, a February meeting was called to order by Mary Ann Burgess while all were still seated. Program chairman Barb Wing brought the group up to date on spring meetings and Extra Extension Mini College Day activities. March 31 is the scheduled Mini Day and enrollment can wait until the March 18 monthly meeting. Such meeting is our annual Food and People. History and foods are to be of Taiwan at the home of Mary Ann Burgess at 10:30 a.m.

Jane Schairer volunteered to take the lesson March 11 at the Extension office titled "Caring for the Elderly Parents." She will bring this information back to the Extension group June 17, 10:30 a.m., at the Methodist Home Dancy House with Mary Haselswerdt serving as hostess.

Taiwan food menus were passed out to members to prepare for the March 18 meeting at the Burgess home. Guests are welcome.

"WHILE THE LIGHTS WERE OUT"

Not even director Ward Beauchamp and the best of the Chelsea Area Players could save a poorly written play entitled "While the Lights Were Out" by Jack Sharkey. Subtitled "an off-the-wall" farce, this three-act melodrama combined stupidity with a few laughs along the way, mainly because of a few strong acting performances by the Chelsea players.

Seats around tables at the Beach Middle school served as witnessing places with an attentive audience on Thursday night. "While the Lights Were Out" played also on Friday and Saturday evenings. Tasty refreshments were served along with soft drinks, coffee and tea.

We are in the Wickenham's elegant home in Popliteal Beach, Bermuda, "about the middle of May." Water is in short supply, and Lady Monica Wickenham (Christine Lux) who has invited many guests for the week-end is unaware of this superimponderable problem. Lord Clive Wickenham (Tom Peckham) has not informed her of the water shortage.

Rounding out the regular members of the Wickenham household are Nancy Stafford (Megan Stielstra), the housekeeper; Mimosa (Meg DuVall), the maid; Algernon Wickenham (Michael Todd Glazier), Wickenham's dilettante son; and Roderick Remley (Dave Morris), the butler.

Into the household comes Alma Threedle (Julie Vorus), an assistant Inspector of Police, and Benjamin Braddock (Eric Black), an Inspector of Police who arrive by a written invitation signed by "M."

Guests arriving at various intervals for the week-end funfest include Bibi Cavendish (Phoebe Strong), a celebrated fashion designer; Pierre Pourri (Ken Beauchamp), an international playboy; Jasmine Perdo (Christine Koch), a houseguest from Alabama; Tom Groggins (Art Finger), an unexpected visitor; Fredonia Custerdine (Connie Scott), Monica's sister; Chloe Custerdine (Jennifer Bennett), Fredonia's noble daughter; and an Unidentified Blonde (Leigh Ann Nichols), an amnesiac and prime suspect.

Amongst these 15 people, a murder is committed, a mis-named murder is completed, and everyone suspicious everyone else with the final summary given by Assistant Police Inspector Alma Threedle. The playwright gives us so many on-stage characters with many multi-plots that it is almost impossible to keep up with the individual stories. None of this is the fault of Beauchamp or the Chelsea Area Players. The playwright earned a big flat "0" for his script.

What's to like about "While the Lights Were Out?"

1. Members of the Chelsea Community getting together for several weeks to put on an amateur play for local enjoyment.

2. The ability of all the members to memorize their lines, and in almost every case establish a physical identity with their role.

3. Plaudits were deserved by Julie Vorus as Alma Threedle, playing Benjamin Braddock's assistant to the hilt and her interplay with both him and the household members was very good. Eric Black as Benjamin Braddock pouring his heart and acting soul into his interpretation of the "none too bright" policeman. His interactions with Vorus were excellent.

Ken Beauchamp doing Saturday Night Live with the role of Pierre Pourri, the international playboy, was indeed a memorable gem. Oklahoman Connie Scott for her clarity of voice and establishment of the role of Monica's sister. Dave Morris as the butler "who didn't do it" but performed his duties, vocally and physically, in a memorable way.

5. The fine setting of the Wickenham's living room.

6. The courtesy extended by members of the Chelsea Area Players to me (and other people too, I'm sure), especially by Mark Nelson.

What was there not to like about "While the Lights Were Out?"

1. A valiant attempt to establish British accents but the inability to hear the translation in some of the player's translations.

2. Any play lasting more than two hours is asking a great deal from even an attentive audience.

3. Movement speeded up by director Ward Beauchamp by having people responding and interacting at a faster rate.

4. Sometimes the establishment of character suffered when the amateur actors tried to concentrate so heavily on their accents for their particular role.

Looking forward to "Pajama Game" in the summer as another solid hit of which the Chelsea Area Players show great promise always! An "A" for effort for the Chelsea Area Players; an "0" for the playwright of this imponderable script.

Recycling Authority Works on Final Cost Figures for Equipment

Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority hopes to have contracts with the county signed by all 10 units of government in the authority by the time WURA holds its next meeting March 25 in Dexter Town Hall.

In the meantime, final specifications for the authority's material recovery building at the Chelsea landfill are being determined.

Authority vice-chair Frank Hammer said some items for the comprehensive recycling program will cost more than originally anticipated, while others will cost less. The baller, and related equipment, including a conveyor system, will cost between $102,000 and $118,000, up from the original $91,000, Hammer said. That's because a larger baller is being ordered than originally planned.

Costs for the material center building are also expected to cost about $30-40,000 more than anticipated because a bigger building is being planned, Hammer said.

However, by purchasing a used bin-hauling truck, the authority has saved about $60,000, Hammer said.

Once a variance has been received from Lyndon township, construction on the materials facility should begin as soon as contractors are ready. No one has yet been awarded a contract.

The authority will soon begin an education campaign designed to familiarize area residents with the program, how it will work, what it hopes to accomplish, and why it's needed. The authority will target various community groups, including units of government, churches, and service organizations.

Authority members include the villages of Chelsea and Manchester, and the townships of Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, Bridgewater, Manchester, Freedom, and Sharon.

GIRL SCOUTS of the Chelsea Cluster gathered Sunday for their annual Father-Daughter banquet. After a potluck dinner in the high school cafeteria (filled to overflowing with nearly 400 scouts and fathers) all moved to the gym for a brief program and square dancing. An impressive color guard presented the U.S. Flag and the flags of each troop.

SQUARE DANCING with their dads was a highlight of the Girl Scout Father-Daughter banquet. Mass confusion reigned briefly as the couples paired off for dancing to

McKune Library Now Has Two New Educational Videos

McKune Memorial Library has recently purchased two educational videos, which are now available to their library patrons.

"Where There's a Will There's An A - How To Get Better Grades in Grade School" was developed by Professor Claude Olney, one of America's best-known educators and seminar leaders. This video, which includes a parents manual, teaches parents how to guide their children through the elementary school years in an easy-to-follow step-by-step program. In addition to teaching successful methods that top students use to master reading, math and memory skills, the seminar also offers solutions to learning difficulties associated with hyperactivity, dyslexia and stress.

"Where There's a Will There's An A - How To Get Better Grades in High School," also developed by Professor Olney, is a comprehensive guide to the mechanics of better learning for high school students. Whether it's knowing where to sit in class, when to study, how to take SAT's or how to select the proper courses, this highly motivational program teaches students how to study smart to get the better grades they want.

The Consumer Price Index, issued monthly by the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics, is used to adjust wages and salaries for millions of workers covered by collective bargaining agreements and to keep pensions, rents, royalties, alimony and child support payments in line with changing prices.

"One must be poor to know the luxury of giving . . ."

—George Elliott

The rich man, most of us believe, is to be envied. Yet there is one luxury he is forever denied . . . the luxury of giving! Oh, of course, the wealthy give . . . and very generously too . . . to worthy causes of all kinds. But, giving can only be a luxury when the giver makes some sacrifice in order to make the gift. For the rich, even a magnificent gift involves no significant reduction of his resources.

The person who has little of this world's riches, yet shares them gladly with those needier than himself, may enjoy a luxury greater than a rich man can ever know.

We provide a completely personalized service for everyone who comes to us. Our biggest contribution is the kindness and understanding which underlies our counsel and advice.

James Turner has just returned from the funeral of his son in Colorado Springs. James Turner, Jr., was born June 24, 1930 and died Jan. 15, 1992. His education was at Albion College and University of Colorado.

James' life of service in the military includes: duties at the Pentagon; duty in Korea and Vietnam; navigator in several types of planes with more than 4,000 flying hours. Decorations included: Legion of Merit, Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star and others. He retired with rank of Colonel and taught social services in high school. James leaves a wife, Jean, two children and two grandchildren.

United Methodist Women had the service Jan. 28 in the chapel. A fine program was presented. Joann Perez, president of Ann Arbor United Methodist Women, gave the message. Her theme was "Growing in Mission." She talked of what the women had been doing for the last 20 years, and of their goals for the future.

Others taking part in the service were Florence Simmons, Ethel Green and Lenora Manore. The song, "Help Me To Be Holy" was sung by the quartet: Charles Cookingham, Stan Hoffman, James Large and Bill Rupert, with Arley Lake as accompanist.

Kurtis Smith, grandson of resident James Turner, was speaker at the Jan. 13 meeting of the Men's Fellowship. Mr. Smith is a horticulturist and has a business near Monroe specializing in Bonsai miniature trees. He showed us how to shape and sculpt woody plants with small leaves into pleasing trees. He answered many questions from the men and women in the audience. Another feature of the program was a presentation of the percussive artistry of "The Rhythm Boys"—Ray Schairer and Bob Benedict, whose playing of the bones and the dancing doll were remarkable.

As a special mission project in March, the men will serve a pancake breakfast in the dining room. (Story by Charles Cookingham, condensed.)

A Good Samaritan
Your old reporter was out following those big January blizzard days, trying to remove a foot of snow from his car, like hundreds of other Chelsea citizens were doing. Also there was the problem, with cars parked on both sides, where do you put the white stuff?

Part of the roof was cleared, when a youngster, maybe 50, stopped his light panel truck and took out a shovel and broom. He started work on the other side of the car. We talked a little, and kept moving to keep warm. But we didn't introduce ourselves. We got the snow away from the rear end and enough away from the wheels so I could get downtown to spend my money. I guess I thanked him, but he was in the truck and "Away and Hi-Yo Silver" before I could find out who he was. If I could find him, maybe I could do him a favor someday.

Winnifred Martin, a 10-year resident here in the Home, just received a letter from Jean Isaacson, president of the Clawson Woman's Society of Christian Service with good news. The Clawson group has sent a gift to a missionary project, in her name. This was to honor her for more than 50 years of service as an active member. The church WCSOS has as one of its goals the making or asking donations for articles to make up 100 complete

Our Wildlife Need Help on Winter Days

Most of us love the birds, squirrels and other wildlife, but there are fewer numbers out there now. Not only now when the snow is with us, but in warm weather also. The state and national conservation people who are studying this trend all the time say that all wooded lands and wetlands are very important.

If you have been here in the Home for the last 10 years, you probably heard frogs hollering and saw more birds here than you see now. We have had a bird feeder on our patio and put out some food for them until the heavy snow came. Now they have had a spell when they could not find food, and they naturally would go south where they might find some. If we had a feeding place well covered from snows like we had, maybe more would stay around. Don't forget the squirrels. Put out some corn on the cob. Where are the garden toads?

As people came for dinner on Ground Hog Day, Feb. 2, in the main dining room, there was a little surprise. The surprise was dished up in the form of a full sized badger mounted to form a small rug, either to hang up or lay in front of the fireplace. This ferocious looking animal with a mouth in a snarl and four feet full of sharp claws sort of took our breath away. Carol Patrino, one of our nurses, brought him in. He apparently met his death somewhere in the country along the road. He should have stayed home.

Frank Harle is 97 years old. In years, but not in spirit. I talked with him out in the hall this morning. One of his jobs that he has been taking care of for many years is picking up the papers about three times a week. He puts them into shopping bags very neatly and turns them over to the Boy Scouts. Sometimes the price on paper is so low that scouts don't want them. But today, Frank's problem was with his legs. They are starting to slow down. And he is not feeling too well health-wise either. I told him to give up the job, and others would do it. But he wants someone to take over BEFORE he quits.

Remember, this is a volunteer job. Walking to the hospital or to go shopping—rain or shine—is just a little workout for him. He is always out shoveling snow, or sweeping the walk. But he has to slow down. If any of our readers want a small job like this, and the job is still open, you may volunteer. See Bonnie Haist. Your Roving Reporter, M. C. Martin

Newlywed Reception

Tipped off beforehand, we gathered in the living room on Dec. 28 to await a visit from newlyweds, Jack and Susan Amick. In a scene reminiscent of long ago, they drove down Middle St. in a horse-drawn carriage.

We thought we were back in the early days of the century, with Jack in swallow-tail and Susan in a long flowing gown, Bob and Connie Amick and Sandy and Charles Schmunk also dressed in the spirit of days past.

It was a nice informal party and a wonderful chance to meet the young couple.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider
Education Department
Humana Society of Huron Valley
★ Regular Health Care
Essential for Old Pets

Our dogs and cats can share 10, even 20, years with us. Keeping them healthy and happy well into their golden age is a commitment we should each make to that special animal in our life. Provide an older pet with a calm dependable routine, a proper diet approved by your veterinarian, and regular moderate exercise.

Groom an elderly pet regularly, brushing him or her daily if possible. This will benefit the skin and coat. Use a mild shampoo with plenty of clean rinse water when a bath is necessary. Feel all over your pet's body for lumps, wounds, or sore spots at least once a week. Early detection is essential for successful treatment of many diseases common to older animals. Brush your pet's remaining teeth at least three times a week to prevent gum disease. Trim the nails more frequently.

Your aged cat or dog should visit a veterinarian at least once a year for a complete physical examination. The vet may recommend a panel of blood chemistry tests for an old pet to aid in early detection of problems. Annual vaccination against rabies, distemper, and other serious diseases is especially important for old animals, whose resistance is lower.

Be alert for signs of problems in an aging cat or dog, and report them immediately to your vet. Breathing difficulty and coughing can indicate heart or lung disease. Increased appetite, water intake, urination, and activity level in elderly cats can be signs of hyperthyroidism. The same signs coupled with weight loss can point to diabetes in either cats or dogs.

Kidney disease is present in the majority of old dogs and cats, and can be signaled by increased water consumption and/or uncontrolled urination. Arthritis causes stiffness, especially in the hind quarters. It is more of a problem in larger animals, and is aggravated by obesity.

Hearing and vision loss are common in older pets. If cataracts are the cause of dimming sight, your vet can perform surgery. Most indoor pets adapt well to gradual sense reduction by memorizing their surroundings. Elderly pets become disoriented and frequently lose their way outdoors. They often don't see or hear cars very well and may wander into the street. Prevent tragedy by keeping your old pet indoors, and leashing or confining him or her when outside. Make sure your elderly pets wear collars with current identification tags.

Older animals are usually wonderful pets. Don't forget that your local humane society almost always has a displaced older pet in need of a loving home and a tender heart with which to spend his or her golden years.

AS PARENTS GROW OLDER: Chelsea Community Hospital will be offering a five-session course titled "As Parents Grow Older." The course will be held on Wednesday evenings from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m., beginning April 22 and extending through May 20. Advance registration is required. Shown above are Jean DuRussel-Weston, left, and Phyllis Meranck looking over course materials. For further information and to register, call the Chelsea Community Hospital Social Work Department at 475-3952.

Orientation Sessions Scheduled in Chelsea For WCC Students

For new students taking classes at Washtenaw Community College for Spring and Summer, the Western Regional Center in Chelsea will offer orientation/assessment sessions on March 17 and April 6 from 8 to 8 p.m. During these sessions, students will take the Asset test which measures their English and Math skills.

The orientation sessions are offered through the Western Regional Center to accommodate the busy schedules of prospective students in the area.

For information and an appointment, call the Western Regional Center at 475-5935.

Free Physical Exams Offered for Children

Washtenaw County Public Health Division is offering physical exams for children two months to 12 years of age.

The visit includes immunizations, lab tests, an opportunity to talk to a nurse about the child's health and referrals to community services. Regular health check-ups are recommended to help children stay well and prevent potential health problems. In addition, exams are available to Medicaid recipients to 21 years. Services are available to all county residents.

To make an appointment, please call 971-4777.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics issues a monthly report on the changes in retail prices that Americans paid during the previous month. Called the "Consumer Price Report," it shows how a drought in the Midwest, a freeze in Florida or a disruption of crude oil supplies affect the pocketbooks of American consumers.

National Agriculture Day Will Be Observed March 20

By Nancy Thelen, County Extension Director

The more than 20 million men and women who make the United States food and fiber system function will be honored during National Agriculture Week, March 15-21 and on National Agriculture Day, March 20.

The annual observance is intended to focus on the important contributions made to society by the food and agricultural industry, which employs about 17 percent of the nation's workforce.

"Without a national observance, it is too easy to overlook the importance of the food and agriculture industry in our lives," says Nancy Thelen, Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service director.

Part of the reason is that so many people are removed from agriculture and therefore are not aware of agriculture's tremendous variety, abundance and most of all, dependability, according to Thelen.

In 1790, more than 90 percent of the population was gainfully employed in agriculture. That figure has shrunk to less than 2 percent and continues to decline.

"For many people raised away from the farm, agriculture is as mysterious as a college level course in trigonometry," says Thelen. "They are unaware of the skill and technology required in agriculture and possibly don't know of the many safeguards built into the entire food and fiber system or appreciate its quality and abundance."

Because of agriculture and its associated technology, the U.S. food and fiber system offers consumers the broadest array of food products anywhere in the world.

In 1989, for example, the average supermarket stocked more than 26,000 agriculturally-derived products and during that year, industry introduced more than 12,000 new food and grocery products.

"Michigan's farmers contribute heavily to that abundance," says Thelen.

More than 60 agriculture commodities—cranberry beans to bedding plants, apples to mushrooms, rye to turkeys—are produced each year from approximately 11 million acres of cropland operated by about 54,000 farm families in Michigan.

Michigan's diversity in agricultural crops is exceeded only by California and Florida. More blueberries, dry edible beans, tart cherries and geraniums are grown in Michigan than anywhere else in the nation and Michigan ranks fifth or better among all states in the production of 22 other agricultural commodities.

"That abundance is in sharp contrast to many other countries of the world," says Thelen. "In the Commonwealth of Independent States (the former Soviet Union) for example, shoppers daily face the failure of their agricultural system."

"Shoppers must first pay and then line up with their receipts at separate counters," Thelen says. "On most days, food is spoiled and scarce. Shoppers frequently stand in line to get one food item, only to be told hours later that supplies are not available."

It's a fact that U.S. agriculture is the most efficient and productive in the world and our food and fiber production system exceeds all other countries in safety, quality and variety.

Women's Entrance into Auto Industry Reviewed

With the entrance of 200,000 women into the auto industry during World War II, the United Auto Workers (UAW) union was asked to make a "square deal" possible for the ranks of these new workers. In an excerpt from the new book Feminism in the Labor Movement: Women and the United Auto Workers by Nancy Gabin, the March/April 1992 issue of Michigan History Magazine explores the obstacles that stood between women and equality in the workplace.

"The integration of women into jobs formerly held by men and their placement in jobs created for defense production changed the makeup of our workforce forever," said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, the state's official historian. "In honor of Women's History Month, Michigan History Magazine examines the 1940s when working women brought about important changes in the gender-based division of labor."

Initially the UAW supported the gender categorization of job types enforced by the auto manufacturers. In fact, union officials feared that the introduction of women into men's jobs would depress wage standards and prevent unemployed men from returning to work. Some UAW locals sought to exclude women from most jobs, rather than apply the equal-pay-for-equal-work principle.

However, in March 1942 several women who were former Lansing Fisher Body workers complained to Victor Reuther, director of the UAW's War Policy Division, about the company's use of arbitrary standards to deny women jobs. Reuther's influence and support forced the Lansing local to intervene at Fisher Body and slowly the UAW began demanding better treatment of women by Michigan defense plants.

Other featured articles include an examination of the once-controversial 1917 founding of the Michigan State Police; a return to the heyday of Michigan's fur trade; a look at the significance of "V-mail" for Michiganders and their loved ones overseas during World War II; and an introduction to the Bureau of History's Office of the State Archaeologist.

Michigan History Magazine is available by single issue ($2.95) at many bookstores across the state, and by annual subscription ($9.95). The magazine, which explores all facets of Michigan's past and reviews contemporary historical events and publications, is published six times a year by the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History.

Orchestra Concert A Great Success

Chelsea was treated to another evening of exceptional music on Thursday, March 5, when the High School and Middle School orchestras presented their pre-festival concert.

The seventh grade performed admirably in the traditional festival piece, "St. Anthony Chorale," showing good dynamic contrast and demonstrating the fullness of the cello section. "Finale" was reminiscent of bagpipes and had the audience in a dancing mood. The modern piece, "Modal Festival" led with cellos and had the melody answer back and forth between the sections. The orchestra demonstrated their growing knowledge by performing well in the pizzicato section.

Next the Eighth Grade Orchestra offered "Chaconne," a typically Telemann piece with a regal flair and full, rich sound. The Saint-Saens' piece, "Poco Adagio" showed atypical harmonies which are challenging to young musicians and were handled well by the orchestra. Their most difficult piece was Tschalkowsky's "Finale for Symphony No. 2 in C Major." Tschalkowsky is known for his masterful melodies, and the orchestra did not disappoint the audience with the sweetness of this piece.

The High School Orchestra demonstrated its growth again in the Gearhart "Overture on Jewish Themes" which demonstrated contrasting styles and showcased the versatility of the orchestra. The "Capriol Suite" by Warlock had a haunting, almost medieval second movement that gave the impression of a Gregorian chant. The orchestra was smooth and well-integrated. They blended well and showed excellent attention to the director, effecting precision cut-offs and attacks.

The highlight of the concert was the High School's rendition of "March Slave," again by Tschalkowsky. This piece begins with a difficult cello entrance which was carried off admirably by the entire section. The entrancing melody flowed back and forth between the instruments and the violins often soared with it. The director maintained an excellent balance between the strings and woodwinds, with the over-all effect being a superb rendering of the music. The audience was brought to their feet for a standing ovation in response to this superb performance.

Over-all the orchestras again demonstrated the strength of the Chelsea music program.

ROSEMARY HAROOK passed out stickers to voters Monday in hope they would be used in her write-in campaign for village trustee. Harook collected 69 official votes, although her name also appeared on 16 spoiled ballots. She said she was pleased with the results but will never run another write-in campaign.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Dunham's Clutch Shot Gives Bulldogs Win Over Pinckney Pirates

It took all season, but the Chelsea Bulldogs finally closed the deal in a tight Southeastern Conference game. Chris Dunham's jumper from the foul line with one second left gave the Bulldogs a 58-56 victory at home last Friday over the Pinckney Pirates. They finished the SEC season at 5-7, and 9-11 over-all.

The Bulldogs, down 29-10 in the early going, fought back to trail by 13 points at half-time. By the end of the third quarter they trailed by four points, and finally took the lead midway through the final period.

Pinckney's Dennis Douglas hit a turnaround three-point shot to tie the game at 56 and set up Chelsea's final play. Pinckney pressed but Dunham was able to bring the ball to the center of the court for the game-winning shot. And Dunham was mobbed by his teammates.

"We knew they'd press us on the final play," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We had our best shooters in. We told Chris to read the defense, and he passes as well as anyone. He saw he had the shot, took a step back, and made it. That certainly has to rank as one of our most exciting games of the season."

At Pinckney earlier this season the Bulldogs fell way behind and fought back to tie late in the game. However, Pinckney's Jayson Shore buried the Bulldogs with three straight three-pointers in the closing minutes. In other games with Tecumseh, Saline, and Milan the Bulldogs were ahead late but found ways to lose.

Friday was a different story.

Raymond started the seniors, less captain Jon Royce, in their final home game. They played about four minutes before Raymond installed the regulars. The line-up of Jason Allen, Adam Tillman, Dan Stahl, Jake Rindie, and Ben Hurst gave Chelsea a small four-guard line-up.

Raymond said the 13-point half-time deficit didn't worry him that much. During the break his team primarily talked about playing with more intensity the second half.

"In the first half I thought we were standing around and not forcing the action," Raymond said.

"In the second half we were a lot more aggressive."

Although the Pirates had four three-point goals, their perimeter game didn't hurt Chelsea nearly as much as in their first meeting. That game Shore had six three-pointers by himself and the Pirates had seven as a team.

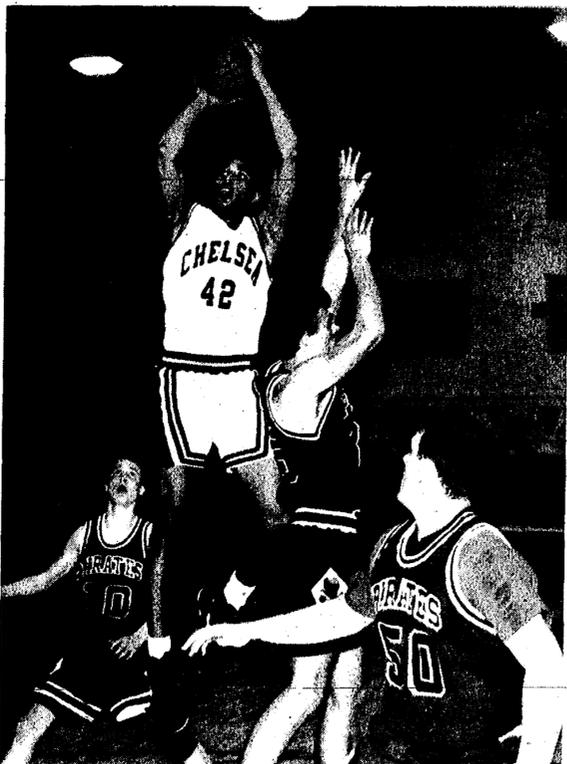

Chelsea used its height advantage effectively. They out-rebounded Pinckney 42-30 for the game and grabbed 12 offensive rebounds in the second half.

It was also a rare game for the Bulldogs in that they had nine fewer turnovers than their opponents. Raymond called Chelsea's 18 turnovers an "acceptable" performance.

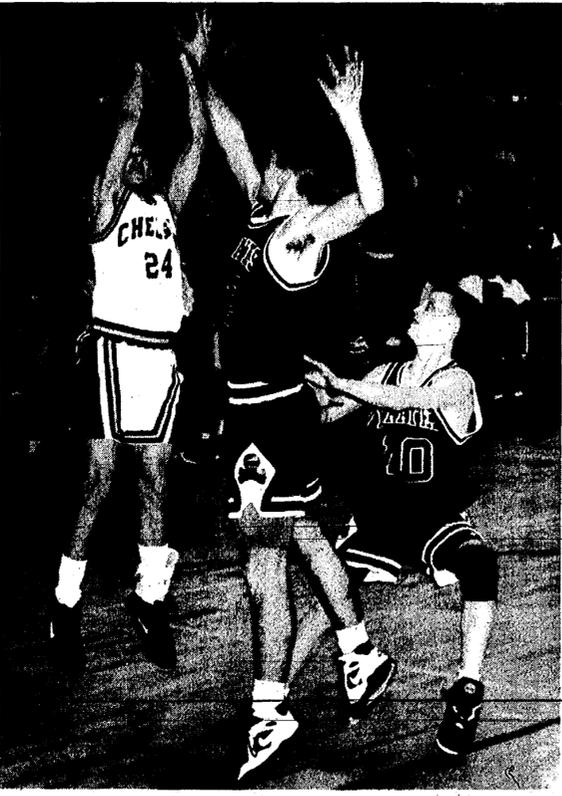

Chelsea was 22-60 from the field compared to 19-47 for the Pirates. Chelsea was 13-19 from the line while Pinckney was 14-18.

Rindie led the Bulldogs with 15 points, nine rebounds and four assists. Other scorers were Royce 13, Pat Steele 11, Dunham 6, Dana Schmunck 4, Hurst 3, Colby Skelton 3, and Ed Waller 2.

Douglas led the Pirates with 18 points and Brian Carruthers had 14.

JON ROYCE scored two of his 13 points on this short jump shot in the lane last Friday against the Pinckney Pirates.

COLBY SKELTON takes a short jump shot during last Friday night's final home game against the Pinckney Pirates. Skelton sank an important free throw in the closing seconds to help the Bulldogs win the game.

HEAVYWEIGHT Mike Terpstra, down, and his coach Kerry Kargel, work out in preparation for this week-end's state wrestling championships. Terpstra will attempt to defend his class B state title.

Dogs End Drought In District Tourney With Win Over Central

Chelsea Bulldogs will try to knock off the Dexter Dreadnaughts tonight (Wednesday) and advance to Friday's district basketball tournament final at Brooklyn Columbia Central.

For the first time since 1983 the Bulldogs won a district tournament game as they beat host Brooklyn in the tournament opener Monday, 75-73, to advance to the semifinals.

The Bulldogs beat the Dreadnaughts twice during the regular season, but coach Robin Raymond admitted he is not looking forward to playing the Dreadnaughts again.

"It's never easy to beat any team three times in one year," Raymond said.

"It should be a great game. If we play as well as we did Monday, we should win, no question. But we'll have to play very well."

Chelsea again had to scrap back Monday night, although they had the early lead but fell behind 45-39 at half-time. The turning point came in the fourth quarter when Jake Rindie was fouled on a lay-up. Chelsea held the lead the rest of the way, and the only reason Chelsea didn't win by five points was a half-court shot at the final buzzer that went in.

Central was hot early in the game as they hit 18-24 field goal attempts, including six three-pointers, in the first half. Chelsea, however, also had a good first half as Colby Skelton scored eight points in the first quarter and Rindie canned two three-point goals.

"I'm not sure Central could play any better than that," Raymond said.

Central, a team dominated by their guard play, had tougher going in the second half. Raymond switched defensive assignments, putting Jon Royce on hot-shooting Jason Marcano. Marcano, who hit five threes in the first half, was limited to one in the second.

"I think their guards were gassed at the end," Raymond said.

"We played hard and got after the ball."

In the meantime, the Bulldogs dominated the boards, 48-31, and grabbed more offensive (25) than defensive rebounds (21).

"We got a lot of tips inside," Raymond said.

"Their one big kid got into foul trouble and fouled out in the fourth quarter."

For the first time this season, Skelton led the Bulldogs in scoring with 21 points. He also had five steals and four assists in what Raymond called his best all-around game of the year. Skelton got most of his points on short jumpers in the lane.

Rindie scored 18 and Pat Steele had 16 points. Other scorers included Chris Dunham 6, Royce 6, Dana Schmunck 4, and Ben Hurst 4.

Chelsea hit 28-61 shots from the floor and 17-27 from the line, including 10-13 free throws in the fourth quarter.

"We're starting to control the ball better late in the game," Raymond said.

Game time tonight is 7 p.m.

Varsity Spikers Fall in Finals of District Tournament

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity volleyball team fell to state-ranked Jackson Lumen Christi in the finals of the class B district volleyball tournament last Saturday at Lumen Christi, 5-15, 5-15. Chelsea drew a bye in the first round, then defeated Stockbridge 15-4, 15-5 to advance to the finals.

"Although we defeated Stockbridge, we were not playing well and the team knew it," said Chelsea coach Dan Montgomery.

"We struggled all day on offense and although we played okay on defense, it still was not the level of play which the team has shown regularly through the season. When we faced Lumen-Christi, we could hold them to long rallies but we couldn't score many points on them. They not only had two returning all-state players, but they were solid at all six positions and were definitely the best team we faced all season."

Melissa Thiel led in serving for the day with 18-18. Amy Petty and Amanda Nimke were each 8-10, Leah Hadley was 20-23, and Gretchen Knutsen 11-13.

Chelsea finished its season at 18-14-4.

8th Grade Spikers End Undeclared

Beach Middle school eighth grade volleyball team finished the season with a 12-0 record by beating Milan and Tecumseh last week.

It is the second consecutive undefeated season for Beach eighth graders.

Chelsea won the Milan match 11-1, 11-0, 11-0. Liz Holdsworth led with 10 service points, Jill McKinnon had nine and Erin Baird had seven. The team served 92 percent for the match. Coach Ann Schaffner said Danielle Longe had her best game of the season.

The Pups defeated Tecumseh in three games, 11-1, 11-6, and 11-3. Schaffner said the team again served effectively for 92 percent. Lisa Beard was 6-6 for six points, Sara Petchy and Amanda Klivi had four points each, and Tracy Dufek, Heidi Wehrwein, and Jill McKinnon each had three points. Tina Richardson made several fine plays, Schaffner said.

"This was a talented and determined team," Schaffner said.

"They came from behind on two occasions and won the deciding fifth game in two other matches. They should make a significant contribution to the high school volleyball program."

7th Grade Spikers Finish at 11-1

Beach Middle school seventh grade volleyball team ended its season with an 11-1 record.

The Pups beat Milan at home 11-8, 11-7, and 11-0. Michelle Lucas scored seven points and Janelle Piers and Melissa Carty each served five.

In the last game of the season, Chelsea beat Tecumseh in three games, 11-5, 11-3, and 11-3.

Top server in the game was Amy Herrst with nine points. Erin Dougherty served six.

Brett Salamin in Albion College Theatre Production

Albion College freshman Brett Salamin portrays Conrade in Albion College's recent production of "Much Ado About Nothing" by William Shakespeare.

"Much Ado About Nothing" is a comedy based on the 22nd story in Matteo Bandello's "Novelle." The fable centers around two very different couples: Benedick and Beatrice, who come to love each other when not bickering, and Claudio and Hero, the play's star-crossed lovers who encounter numerous obstacles including charges against Hero's chastity and a faked death. The foursome's friendship and divided loyalties cause many humorous conflicts.

The play was originally set in the 16th century, but the Albion College Theatre thought it would be more interesting set in a 1930's atmosphere.

Salamin, a speech communication and theatre major, is a 1991 graduate of Chelsea High school. He is the son of Karen Salamin of Chelsea.

Albion College is a private, co-educational, liberal arts college located in the south central Michigan town of the same name.

Family Worship Center Joins With Congregation of Christian Fellowship

Chelsea Family Worship Center and Chelsea Christian Fellowship merged into one church effective March 1. The combined congregations will meet as the Chelsea Christian Fellowship and will maintain the regular Sunday and Wednesday meeting schedule.

Family Worship pastor Ed Sauvageau and co-pastor John Dambacker have resigned their pastorates and joined the Chelsea Christian Fellowship. They will both be workers in the new church as needed and under the direction of Chelsea pastor William Matthews.

"It was more practical that the two churches merge," Sauvageau said. He added that "this will bring better potential for growth and greater outreach programs."

Sauvageau and his wife Judy are very active in evangelical ministry and recently returned from a six-week trip that included a three-week visit to Alaska's corrections system. "We ministered to the men in 10 prisons and we've been invited back next year to visit all 14 prisons in Alaska," Sauvageau said. Additionally, the couple is preparing for a two-week outreach trip to Mexico in April and have invitations to bring their evangelical work to Nigeria, South Africa, Brazil, Latin America, Central America, and the Philippines.

Kim Roberts Gets Sorority Post

Agriculture has been recognized by the National Safety Council as one of our most hazardous major industries. Statistics show that each year 1,500 people, farmers and members of their families, die in farm related accidents and another 140,000 are injured. Accidents are the leading cause of death for children under 16. Twenty percent of the deaths and 15 percent of farm related injuries occur to children, and these are often machinery injuries, including ATV's.

To help make your farm and home a safe place to live and work, a "Safety Awareness for Every Farm" program will be held Saturday, March 28 at the Pleasant Lake Technical Center, 11700 Pleasant Lake Rd., Manchester. Registration begins at 12:45 p.m. and the program will conclude at 4 p.m. This program is intended for farm family members ages 7 and over accompanied by an adult.

The program will include tractor safety, safe handling of farm animals, first on the scene accident procedures, keeping your farm safe, ATV safety and machine safety demonstrations. Each family will also receive complimentary materials containing additional information.

S.A.F.E. Farm is sponsored by the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau Promotion and Education Committee and the Washtenaw County Farm Bureau Promotion and Education Committee and the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service, in co-operation with the Pittsfield-Union Grange, Washtenaw County Public Health, Michigan State University Co-operative Extension, Double Feeds, Inc., and Gross Equipment-Feldkamp Tire, Inc.

Pre-registration is requested by March 13 to insure adequate materials and space. To register call the Washtenaw Co-operative Extension at (313) 971-0079 or Washtenaw Farm Bureau at (313) 663-3141. All families are urged to attend.

Co-operative Extension Service programs and materials are available to all without regard to race, color, national origin, sex, handicap, age or religion.

Chelsea Author Lowell Cauffiel Publishes Second True-Crime Story

CHelsea AUTHOR Lowell Cauffiel has published a new true-crime book "Forever and Five Days." He'll be at Webster's Bookstore in Ann Arbor for an autograph session on Friday, March 20 from 6-9 p.m.

Chelsea-area author and award-winning journalist Lowell Cauffiel has published his second true-crime book "Forever and Five Days," the story of a series of murders in a Grand Rapids nursing home in 1988.

The hardcover book is his second in the genre. It's being reviewed favorably in publications throughout the country and novelist Elmore Leonard says "You can't make up characters more fascinating or a plot that keeps you turning pages faster."

The book tells the story of a series of six murders committed in Alpine Manor, considered the finest nursing home in Grand Rapids.

Cathy Wood, 28, a wife and mother, and Gwen Graham, 28, both nurses' aides at the home, were eventually convicted of the crimes.

However, Cauffiel's book leads to a conclusion rather different than the official record.

Wood and Graham were lovers. The murders were part of a love pact and originally they had planned to spell M-U-R-D-E-R with the victims' names.

Police believed Graham was the more violent of the two and Wood was more passive. Graham was sentenced to five life sentences and Wood received 20-40 years in prison.

However, Cauffiel shows that Wood, not Graham, masterminded the murders and was a vicious, destructive manipulator that he calls "one of the most diabolical psychopaths in the history of true crime."

He likens her to Charles Manson in her ability to draw followers and serial killer Ted Bundy because the murders were committed "with daring and split-second timing."

Cauffiel says she tried to play mind games with him by trying to pit him against a reporter for the Grand Rapids Press.

"I'll have to admit, there were times she had me doubting my own intentions," he says.

"Had me in an emotional uproar. Had me real confused. In the final analysis, it said more about her than me."

Cauffiel concludes, "the wrong woman is doing all the time."

In addition to a report on the crime itself, Cauffiel says the book is a "brutal commentary on nursing homes and the way the elderly are viewed in America." He says during the time of the murders patients complained they were being attacked but nobody believed them. There were complaints about Wood's and Graham's behavior on the midnight shift, which were ignored or dismissed.

"Several reporters told me I would have a hard time creating sympathy for the victims," Cauffiel says.

"Very little attention was paid to the dead patients in the news coverage. Among reporters and people in general I often heard, 'they were old and going to die anyway.' Think about that statement and what it says. On that I rest my case."

Cauffiel is scheduled to autograph copies of his new book at Webster's Book Store in Ann Arbor on Friday, March 20, from 6-9 p.m.

★ Don't Let the Cold Stall Your Exercise

While winter is a time for added caution when exercising and doing strenuous work, cold weather does not mean you need to discontinue your exercise program, according to exercise physiologists at MedSport, the University of Michigan's sports medicine and preventive cardiology clinic.

If you are a jogger, there is no reason to give up your workout in the winter. With proper caution for ice and slippery conditions, winter exercise can be beneficial and enjoyable.

One misconception about winter exercise is that breathing cold air is harmful to the lungs, exercise physiologists say. But the body warms the air sufficiently as you breathe it to prevent problems. If you do experience some discomfort, wear a scarf around your nose and mouth to make breathing easier. One caution: Increase warm-up time before beginning any outdoor winter exercise.

For those not inclined to run outdoors in the winter, other forms of aerobic exercise are recommended. Indoor running tracks offer a warm alternative; brisk walking is good exercise, and you can do that inside a shopping mall. Indoor aerobic equipment, such as treadmills, stationary bicycles, rowing machines and stair-climbers, also can provide good benefits.

MedSport's exercise physiologists recommend moderate exercise for at least 30 minutes three times a week.

Exercise specialists warn, however, that strenuous outdoor activities in cold weather can be dangerous for people who are at risk for heart problems. The risk is greater for people with heart problems or high blood pressure, or for those older than 40 with known risk factors such as high blood cholesterol, diabetes or who are overweight.

Shoveling snow or attempting to push a car that is stuck is especially dangerous for people with heart problems or those at risk for heart problems. Cold weather tends to constrict the blood vessels in some people with underlying heart disease, increasing blood pressure and forcing the heart to work harder, which increases its need for oxygen.

Muscle contraction caused by shoveling snow or pushing a stuck automobile further tends to increase blood pressure. People also have a tendency to hold their breath while lifting or pushing with their arms.

Anyone who is going to be working outdoors in the cold should avoid eating, drinking coffee or smoking just before going out. Digesting food and caffeine adds to the heart's load. Smoking fills red blood cells with carbon monoxide and reduces the amount of oxygen the cells can carry.

Pioneer Craft Fair Features 55 Artisans

Fifty-five artisans will be demonstrating crafts from our historic or ethnic background March 21 at the 19th annual Pioneer Craft Fair at Dexter High school, 2615 Baker Rd., Dexter.

Some of the new demonstrations this year include colonial beeswax candle dipping, pierced lampshade making, whirling and antique-style wooden figures made using an old foot powered jig saw, bridal sets made of antique laces and fabrics, and the creation of doll furniture.

Children will enjoy the exhibits too, especially the storyteller and the origami table. There will also be demonstrations on Ukrainian eggs, teddy bears, shaker boxes, bobbin lace, calligraphy, wheat weaving, basket and rug weaving, and silhouettes. Dr. Thomas Clark will be there to demonstrate his beloved-out snowflakes.

Lunch and home-made pies will be available from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Admission is by contribution. All proceeds benefit the Dexter Area Museum. Handicapped accessible.

In 1882 the first use of the prevailing wage concept (paying workers the going wage for the area) was used for federal Navy yard workers, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

SOFT DRINK MACHINE VENDOR BID REQUEST:
Pinckney Recreation Area is seeking bids from companies interested in placing soft drink vending machines at the Bruin Lake Campground. The Bruin Lake Campground is located in the northwest corner of Washtenaw County. The Campground has 220 modern campsites with attendance of 83,663 between mid-May to the end of September. Placement of the machines would be outside three restroom/shower buildings within the Campground. The period of time the machines would be required to be in place is from May 15 to September 30. None of the sites designated for vending machines have electrical outlets; it would be the responsibility of the successful bidder to install an electric line for an outlet from the existing electric service within the buildings. All machines will be kept stocked by the vendor. Each of the sites lacks on-site space for product storage. Parties interested in bidding within the confines as stipulated, respond on or before April 1, 1992, include the rate of return to the State of Michigan. Send bids to:

Mom Worries About Man Taking Photos

A McKinley St. woman told police that a man driving a beat-up, blue car appeared to be unusually interested in taking photographs of her daughter as the youngster climbed a tree in their yard on Thursday, March 5 at about 3:15 p.m.

The man, in his early 20s, with dark, wavy hair, and wearing a dark windbreaker, stopped on McKinley St. and took the photographs. When the girl's mother saw the man, he drove down the street, turned around, drove back past the woman, and away from the scene.
