CHELSEA, MICHIGAN, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 18, 1992

FARMER OF THE YEAR award, sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea, was presented Monday night to Herm Koenn of Chelsea, right, by club president Duane Schiller. Koenn, a retired dairy farmer, is vice-chair of the Washtenaw County Road Commission and works for Frisinger-Pierson Realtors of Chelsea. He is a past-president of the Chelsea Community Fair Board, past-president and current member of the Kiwanis club, and served two terms on the Chelsea Board of Education, among many other activities.

BILL SCHUETTE, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture, was the guest of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea Monday night for their annual Farmers Night. Schuette discussed protection of the food supply, among

Village Council OK's Record Budget After Short Public Hearing

Village of Chelsea's record $2,195,273 operating budget for 1992-93 was passed 6-0 with one abstention after a public hearing last Tuesday.

The only specific questions about the budget came from former downtown businessman Luther Kusterer. Most of his questions concerned specific line items and village manager Jack Myers was able to answer all but one question. There were no public comments or criticisms.

New trustee Gary Bentley abstained during the voice vote.

Village president Richard Steele implied that no new millage would be needed to fund the budget, which is up about $400,000 over last year.

Most of the increase in the budget is due to $383,000 being set aside for closing part of the current landfill cell, as well as the start of remediation for the old landfill.

"We were told to go ahead and start that work," Myers said.

At least a foot of clay, as well as topsoil and grass seed will have to be applied to the portion of the new landfill to be closed. Remediation work is likely to involve the installation of monitoring wells near the wetlands area.

Other major expenditures in the general fund budget include $398,925 for police protection, $290,750 for public works, $241,372 for fire protection, $191,185 for insurance and fringe benefits, $132,912 for executive fund, $108,400 for general services administration, and $63,726 for refuse collection.

The budget anticipates tax revenues of $900,000, up from last year's budgeted amount, but down from last year's actual amount of $914,786.

Other major sources of revenue include $350,000 from the state, $200,000 from refuse collection, $158,000 from fire contracts with the townships, and $130,000 from the electric fund in lieu of taxes. The village also plans to use a fund balance of $348,773.

The village also has 15 other funds covering a variety of functions that are self-sustaining.

Some of those expenditures include $2,530,397 from the electric fund, $610,325 from the landfill fund, $407,000 from the Downtown Development Fund, $359,010 from the sewer fund, $387,300 from the water fund, and $150,650 from the major street fund.

The village plans to spend about $140,000 to re-pave 650 feet of Wilkinson St., some of which should be reimbursed by the state because it is considered a major street, Myers said.

The village plans $200,000 worth of electrical work. Lines will be replaced on Madison St. from Mayer Dr. to Oak Grove Cemetery, on W. Middle St. from the east side of the county road commission property to Hayes St., and from Taylor St. along the recently-vacated alleyway between Chandler and W. Middle Sts. Other work includes the installation of a $50,000 reclosure at the Garfield St. substation.

About $12,000 has been budgeted for sidewalk repair, most of which will occur on Taylor St., South St., and the east side of Main St.

Myers said the village is working its way east and he'd like to have all sidewalk repaired within the next three years.

About 300 feet of sanitary sewer, starting at Wilkinson St. and running along W. Middle St., will be replaced at a cost of about $5,000.

Work planned for the water system includes the replacement of a storage tank for about $10,000 and the replacement of an iron removal filter for about $24,000.

The village plans to buy a used dump truck for about $50,000.

Contracts call for police salaries to rise about 5 1/2 percent and other salaries to increase about 5 percent.

Myers said the current reserve balance in the electric fund is about $1.5 million. According to a recent council resolution, that balance will be increased to $2.5 million, which Myers said could take about five years.

Last year's village SEV was $83,618,500. With this year's assessment freeze, that figure should be fairly close to the figure for 1992-93. Additions from new construction will provide the only new money.

Village operating millage is 10.94 mills. Other village millage includes 1.84 for McKune Memorial Library, and 3.25 mills for waterwater plant debt retirement.

Board To Consider Millage, Budget Cuts

Chelsea Board of Education is scheduled to set how much millage it will seek in the June 8 elections at its April 8 meeting.

The board will likely make a final decision on how to deal with a shortfall of $620,000 for 1992-93. That translates to about two mills in taxes.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills said those cuts do not take into account any likely juggling of funds by the state. Tax-base sharing, which has taken $56,734 from Chelsea this year, may be repealed and replaced with a withholding of social security payments for district staff members. In addition, there have been proposals to recapture all retirement payments the following year.

"It's tough to predict what might happen at the state level," Mills said. "I don't think we can ask for millage to cover that kind of situation."

Mills said he will recommend the district seek millage to cover one year only due to the financial uncertainties. Chelsea's entire operating millage, which now stands at 35.7785, is due for renewal.

In the event the state proposal to withhold social security is implemented later this year, a special election, budget cuts, or some combination will be needed.

The board will also consider a list of cuts that will take place if voters do not approve new millage.

Tax-Base Sharing Takes Less Money from Chelsea Than Was Anticipated

Tax-base sharing, the so-called Robin Hood legislation, hasn't hit the Chelsea School District as hard as the district originally thought.

Assistant superintendent Fred Mills told the board of education Monday night that the state's estimates of the effect of tax base sharing were based on faulty information regarding the value of property in the district, as well as a lack of information regarding Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority project.

The net effect is the district has lost $56,734 rather than $190,000. The payment was due March 15.

Mills said a township clerical error last year inflated Chelsea's SEV for personal property by $9,391,500. The amount was added twice.

However, the state was not notified of the error and was using the wrong information on which to base its calculations.

In addition, the state was not aware of the DDA's tax increment financing plan, which already captures a significant amount of the increase in value of downtown property. The plan is DDA's method of financing its streetscape project. Tax base sharing is designed to capture 50 percent of the increase in tax income in commercial and industrial property, but it can't take tax money that has already been pledged or given to DDA. The idea is to take that money and distribute it to poorer districts.

Mills said he was unable to do the precise calculations earlier because he didn't receive all the necessary information from the county equalization office until early this month.

The district had already adjusted its budget for 1991-92 based on the $196,000 figure by using $65,000 in excess revenue, $70,000 in fund equity, and $61,000 in cuts.

Mills said the reduction of tax-base sharing will allow the district to reduce the amount of possible budget cuts for 1992-93 to about $620,000.

Tax-base sharing is being challenged in the courts, but Mills said he believes a ruling won't be made until after the November elections. If the concept is ruled unconstitutional or is repealed by the legislature, the state may take even more drastic measures and withhold staff social

Kindergarten Registration Process Starts

Kindergarten Registration process for the 1992-93 school year is now underway in the Chelsea School District. There are several forms and programs available for each family about to enter the 1992-93 school year.

Every family with a 1992-93 kindergarten child will receive a packet regarding these programs. If you have not received this packet please call Chelsea Community Education Office, 475-9830, as soon as possible.

The registration program will be Tuesday, April 14 and Wednesday, April 15.

security payments. Mills headed his report "Some Good News—For Now."

Possible budget cuts also influenced reports from the Student Assistance Program and the Parent Teachers North (PTN) group. The assistance program helps students with substance abuse problems. It urged the board to keep the program in place. PTN also urged the board to ask for millage rather than seek budget cuts.

The board approved a proposal to allow seniors to earn non-academic credit for community service. Students are required to have a combination of academic and non-academic credits in order to graduate.

A plan, similar to an independent study plan, would have to be approved by the high school administration.

"It certainly fosters the concept of community service," Mills said Tuesday in support of the idea.

"Without that happening in this community, Chelsea would not be what it is today."

The board formalized what has been an informal School of Choice plan. Traditionally, students who live north of the railroad tracks go to North school and students south of the tracks go to South school. Parents who have a good reason for their children to attend the opposite school will be able to do so based on space availability.

Athletic Director Wayne Welton reported that gate receipts for athletic events for the year have totaled $30,062.40. Last year's totals were

Landfill Negotiations Stuck Over Long-Term Obligations

Landfill negotiations have stalled over how long-term costs should be shared between the village and Syivan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships.

The village and townships have been trying to agree on how to share $800,000 in accumulated landfill expenses, as well as how expenses for long-term monitoring and potential clean-up will be paid. At the very least, the Department of Natural Resources is likely to force the village to monitor groundwater in the area for 30 years to make sure toxic materials are not leaking out of the landfill. Just how extensively groundwater will have to be treated has not yet been determined.

Village manager Jack Myers told council last Tuesday that two separate agreements may be drawn up; one covering expenses to date and another covering long-term issues.

Village president Richard Steele

said recently that the townships do not believe they should participate in any long-term monitoring or clean-up. When asked whether that position might force the issue into court, Steele said, "I hope not." He said the sides have basically agreed on how to divide the accumulated costs, but would not say how the costs are likely to be divided.

The village anticipates further talks with the township supervisors.

Vandalism in the village caused more than $4,000 in damage to the football goalposts at Chelsea High school and to windows in cars, a home and a business. Probably after a dance at the high school, the goalposts in both end zones were bent over and dismantled. About 24 hours earlier someone had gone on a window-shooting spree in the village using a slingshot and possibly a BB gun. Village of Chelsea sent new fire protection contracts to Sylvan, Lyndon, Lima, Dexter, Sharon, Freedom and Waterloo townships but none of them had been returned. The new contracts would run for three years. The contract called for the establishment of a $90,000 equipment fund to pay for new fire trucks and other equipment.

Zoning Inspector Rosemary Harook was appointed village assessor in a unanimous vote of the village council. The position had been unfilled since the resignation of Chip Winans a number of years earlier.

Parts from two stolen dirt bicycles were found in an abandoned garage behind Harper Pontiac. The bikes had been stripped of wheels and sprockets and the frames had been repainted.

Haveman Unveils 18-Month Facility Closure Plan

Department of Mental Health director James Haveman has released to legislative appropriations committee members an 18-month plan to close Coldwater, Newberry and Muskegon regional centers and transfer responsibility of their clients to community mental health programs and other state facilities.

He called the plan a good partnership between community mental health, residential providers and his department.

Haveman said he has no plans to close additional facilities this fiscal year, but left that option available under certain circumstances. He added the state has 74 private mental health hospitals in addition to a sufficient number of public community and regional programs and facility beds to respond to the closures.

The plan also calls for the downsizing of Lafayette Clinic from 81 to 32 beds, with research activities continuing under a contract with Wayne State University for $2.8 million.

The clinic had 56 in-patient service recipients in February. Training and education activities will continue at a cost of $960,000. The clinic's mission and providing of both in-patient and out-patient services would remain the same.

If the Legislature does not approve the necessary transfer to downsize Lafayette, some 140 employees would be laid off, Haveman said, adding 50 of those persons could be re-hired by the department.

Haveman had announced intentions to close facilities last October, but the department was also required in its 1991-92 budget to notify the Legislature in writing of summary plans for these closures.

The plan leaves three state centers remaining for the developmentally disabled, eight psychiatric hospitals/units and five children's hospitals/units.

Citing a letter from the attorney general affirming the department's actions toward deinstitutionalization, Haveman defended community placement of hospital patients.

"We are tired of the criticism against community mental health. We're not dumping people into the community without a plan," Haveman said, adding Michigan offers a wide range of services to mentally ill and developmentally disabled persons. "We're talking about (providing) justice, dignity, respect, normalization. We have much to be proud of."

Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Mental Health Chair R. Robert Geake (R-Northville) said while he had not yet seen the plan, he expected it would not propose to close any more than the three that had been announced.

"That's always been the plan and I've supported it," Geake said. "It has been well planned."

Sen. James Berryman (D-Adrian), who has spearheaded efforts to reduce the pace of deinstitutionalization, said he still thinks the state is moving too fast with community placement.

The CMH boards have not been given adequate resources from the state, particularly to address the more difficult-to-place patients, he said. He argued safeguards, such as monitoring to guaranteeing quality of care, are not in place.

"What these people some times need is immediate medical supervision. That should be No. 1 priority," Berryman said. "What about response time? Group homes with physicians on call (instead of on-site) cannot compare to hospitals in emergency situations."

Berryman said many individuals are being put at risk and falling through the cracks because of community placement without adequate community resources.

Haveman reiterated his position that his department is following a policy begun under two prior administrations and noted patients were transferred from hospitals to community settings at a much faster pace in the 1970s. "If anything we've slowed it down," Haveman said.

But Kathleen Williams, committee staff aide to House Mental Health Chair David Gubow (D-Huntington Woods), said Mr. Gubow opposes the closure of Coldwater and the downsizing of Lafayette based on the extreme satisfaction families have expressed with Coldwater and the treatment of more difficult-to-place individuals at Lafayette.

While community mental health services have greatly improved in the past 15 years, Williams said, the patients being deinstitutionalized now are more difficult to place. Local boards need to have enough state centers available to them if community placement is not appropriate, she said.

"Community Mental Health boards are very stressed," Williams said, adding the costs of community placement may be underestimated since monitoring is needed in addition to programming to protect patients' rights when they live in a community.

Haveman listed specific placement for all individuals affected by the facility closures and downsizing, noting individual treatment plans have been developed for each patient by care providers from both the existing and designated facilities.

Bonnie Huntley, from Kent County CMH, said community agencies receive adequate state funding and challenged anyone who doubts the quality of care in community placement to personally visit her patients.

Other community mental health workers, including John Macek, executive director for Midland-Gladwin CMH, said the families who initially were alarmed at the idea of community placement have found their care to be better for their loved ones because of the staff-to-patient ratio in smaller facilities.

Haveman criticized certain legislative efforts to obstruct further deinstitutionalization on the grounds that dwelling on what goes wrong and ignoring the successes of community mental health has led to discrimination against patients trying to find jobs and homes in the respective communities where they can receive treatment.

According to department statistics, the Coldwater Regional Mental Health Center, which currently provides services for mentally ill adults, was built in 1936 and is scheduled for closure in June. It has 292 full-time employees serving 132 patients. Coldwater was appropriated about $14 million from the general fund this fiscal year.

Over 65 percent of Coldwater recipients were transferred from other facilities and are from outside the designated catchment area, making the facility's location inconvenient, Haveman said. About 75 of the facility's patients will be transferred to Walter Reuther Psychiatric Hospital or Kalamazoo.

Newberry Regional Mental Health Center also serves adults and is planned for closure in September due to a 90-day delay to avoid transfers to other hospitals or centers while group homes are being constructed or renovated. It has 313 full-time employees providing mental health services to 72 patients. Newberry was built in 1895 and currently receives $5.8 million from the general fund.

Of the 32 with developmental disabilities, all will have community placement. Six of the 40 individuals with mental illness from the Upper Peninsula will be transferred to another hospital or center. Residents from the Lower Peninsula are being placed in their home communities or transferred to area hospitals.

The third facility, Muskegon Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities, has 258 full-time employees and 138 patients. It currently has more than $4 million for operating costs from the general fund.

Muskegon is scheduled for closure in September. Most of the patients will be placed in community settings with up to 20 transferred to Mount Pleasant Regional Center for Developmental Disabilities.

Additional closures during the next 18 months would result from lower state utilization by CMH boards, unforeseen budget reductions, or loss of Medicaid certification, Haveman said. "Pheasant Ridge Children's Hospital in Kalamazoo, which had an average of 35.9 patients daily last fiscal year, and had 28 patients in February, is the most likely facility that would be closed because of insufficient demand for services, he added.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

It is general thought that this country is tilted so that all the crazy ideas cooked up in California roll loose and spread all over the lower 48. Clem Webster gave this notion a positive spin Saturday night at the country store when he allowed that what started as a joke in Los Angeles ought to be taken serious as a welcome change for the better everywhere.

Clem read where the 99 Cents Only Stores chain run a teaser ad there saying it was setting up a bridal register. It was meant for friends looking for little household items as gag gifts for betrothed couples, but more than 500 brides signed up. Because of the interest, the store is selling gift certificates up to $9 for big spenders that went more than a potholder in the bride's chosen pattern. Clem said this looks like what there's nothing stronger than, an idea whose time has come.

Judging from all the spying and shopping his old lady has done over the years to make sure her bridal gifts are in line with everybody else's, Clem said women ought to take the 99 cent ball and run with it. Instead of going for $75 spoons the bride will use maybe twice a year, think how many trips to the hardware store the newlyweds could save by registering for picture hanging wire, can openers and all the other stuff they're sure to need when they set up housekeeping.

Practical speaking, went on Clem, the way the economy is dragging this idea of sticking to the basics can help all over. For instant, he saw where President Bush has took the common sense road to helping folks with medical costs that's going up three times faster than wages. The President said all we got to do is exercise, eat right, don't smoke or drink and stay well so we won't have doctor bills. What can the liberals crying for socialized medicine do with a plan as logical and simple as that, Clem ask.

Republican Ed Doolittle said the President wants tax credits to help more folks buy health insurance, and has other ideas for Congress, but he's right that better habits would mean better health and lower health care costs. Ed reminded Clem that the President went on to say Americans have got to take some responsibility for their actions.

Zeke Grubb was agreed with Ed that our bad habits get us in trouble, and depending on somebody else to change our ways gets us in deeper. For instant, all the push for wellness programs on the job is costing us jobs. Zeke had saw where the Los Angeles Times fired a guard because she refused to lose weight and was seen as a health risk. The Ford Meter Box Co. in Indiana fired a woman that tested positive for nicotine after the company told all employees they couldn't smoke on or off the job.

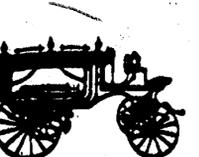

It's scary to think where this is going, Zeke said. How long before the company starts doing cholesterol tests and firing folks caught eating more than two eggs a week. And pity the poor devil that admits under oath he doesn't always floss to hold down claims on the company's dental plan. As for practical ways to deal with our problems, I think a heap of parents would agree that the solution offered by a poster I saw stuck on the back of a family's van at church. It said "Children, tired of being harassed by stupid parents? Act now. Move out. Get a job and pay your own bills while you still know everything."
Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

A billion dollars in assets isn't as important as making a loan a customer needs.

Some banks are all too eager to tell everyone how large they are. How many branches they might have statewide. A billion here, a billion there.

We can't say we're one of the largest banks in Michigan. We're not. We're pretty important to the Chelsea area, though. You see, we are what one would call a community bank. We're local people like you.

Whether we succeed as a bank depends on the folks right here in the Chelsea area. If we don't treat YOU right, we're at risk of not being around tomorrow.

We're the lenders who do make local loans, for new homes, to remodel a home, purchase a car and all the other cash needs you and the folks next door need from time to time.

Woman's Club Hears Program on History Of Ann Arbor Area

Woman's Club of Chelsea met in the McKune Public Library on March 10, at 7:30 p.m.

They were honored to have as their guest speaker, Wynsten Stevens from Ann Arbor.

Mr. Stevens graduated from the University of Michigan with a major in history. Following his interest in history he recorded life in Ann Arbor beginning in the 1970's by taking pictures and has a collection of about 75,000 slides and a large collection of memorabilia.

He was curator of the Kempf House for 13 years, a commission member of Ann Arbor's Sesquicentennial and the bicentennial of the United States. He is past president and a life member of the Washtenaw County Historical Society.

He presents slide shows depicting the history of Ann Arbor and the area in the form of historical postcards.

He presented these to the members of the club with historical narration entitled, "A Postcard Tour of Ann Arbor."

Cheryl Schoenberg, president, conducted the business meeting. Edith Lindberg and Virginia Johnson served a dessert.

Next meeting will be on March 24, at 7:30 p.m. in the library meeting room. The program will be "Truth in Taxation," presented by Don Schoenberg.

All area women are invited to attend meetings. For information please call 475-7273 or 475-3788.

"When Someone Close to You Drinks Too Much" is the topic of a free information meeting on Tuesday, March 24 from 7:30 to 9 p.m. The meeting will take place at the Center for Mental Health and Chemical Dependency cafeteria on the main campus of Catherine McAuley Health System.

Gary Clark from the McAuley Chemical Dependency Program will discuss the effects of alcohol and drug abuse on a family, how family members can cope with problems associated with alcohol addiction, and how an individual can help a friend or family member who has a substance abuse problem.

For more information on this free informational meeting, call ASK-A-NURSE at 572-5655 or 1-800-472-5655.

Catherine McAuley Health System is a not-for-profit health care provider based in Ann Arbor, Michigan. CMHS units include St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, McPherson Hospital in Howell, Saline Community Hospital outpatient facilities in Washtenaw, Livingston and western Wayne counties.

Breathers Club Will Meet Saturday At Chelsea Hospital

George DeMaagd, pharmacist, and assistant director of the Chelsea Community Hospital Pharmacy, will address the next meeting of the Chelsea Breathers Club when they meet Saturday, March 21, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., at Chelsea Community Hospital (Dining Rooms A/B) located at 775 S. Main St., Chelsea. The topic for this meeting will be "Medications Used in COPD."

Breathers Clubs are free educational and social support groups for persons with breathing difficulties caused by chronic lung diseases such as allergies, asthma, emphysema, chronic bronchitis, and lung cancer. They are sponsored by the American Lung Association of Michigan and made possible through the generosity of many volunteers. Family and friends are welcome and encouraged to attend.

For more information, please contact the American Lung Association of Michigan at 313-995-1030.

Alzheimer's Support Group Hosted By Retirement Home

Chelsea Retirement Community will be hosting an Alzheimer's and Dementia Caregiver and Family Support Group. The group will meet every third Saturday of the month beginning with Saturday, March 21, from 10:30 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Crippen Building of the Chelsea Retirement Community, 725 W. Middle St., Chelsea.

Alzheimer's Disease and related dementia involve a progressive decline in intellectual capacity and a decrease in ability to perform necessary daily activities. It is essential to recognize that dementia not only affects the person afflicted, but also greatly alters the lives of the family members, many of whom act as the primary caregivers. The person with dementia may become increasingly dependent upon the caregiver, needing constant guidance, support and assistance with personal care. As the disease progresses, the family is confronted with many emotional and practical difficulties, thus, making dementia a "family disease."

It is important that family members and caregivers do not face the stresses of the illness alone. Support groups are an effective way for caregivers to recognize that they are not alone in their situation. Groups provide an excellent opportunity for family members and caregivers to speak openly about their feelings with others who may be experiencing many of those same feelings. Support groups also offer practical information about behavior management, and where to find necessary resources in the community such as day care, respite care or legal advice.

If you would like more information about the Alzheimer's and Dementia Caregiver and Family Support Group or need directions, please call Evelyn O'Connor at 475-8833, ext. 414 or 407 with any questions. Adult Care will be provided on Wesley Hall during the meeting time.

Esther Whitaker Is BookCrafters Employee of Month
Esther Whitaker was recently chosen BookCrafters' Michigan Division Employee of the Month for March. During her 4½ years of service at BookCrafters, Esther has spent one year on the floor doing a little bit of everything and 3½ years as a very special receiving clerk. Since Esther co-ordinates the continuous flow of all incoming stock, she interacts with virtually every department at BookCrafters. Esther came to BookCrafters after raising her children and participating in the growing-up years of all their friends as well. Esther and her husband, Gordon, have raised two children in their Waterloo home—Tamra, 28; and Todd, 21. Three grandchildren add still more fun to the family—Devon, 6; Samantha, 5; and Trevor, 8 months. Esther's comment about herself is "What you see is what you get." Her co-workers know she has a real appreciation for life and all its experiences. Her interests are varied and include hunting, quilting, sewing, baking, and anything new. She enjoys working with "a great group at BookCrafters," and it's obvious by her co-workers' comments, they also enjoy working with Esther. Please Notify Us of Any Change in Address

Buy, Cook, Eat Fish Safely

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist
Recently, Consumer Reports featured a cover story on the safety of fresh fish and shell fish. Following are some guidelines they recommend—supported by Extension—for buying, cooking and eating fish.

- Think twice before you eat raw fish. Although raw fish may be fashionable at the moment and even taste good, you're taking a risk. You can never be absolutely sure the fish does not harbor parasites or high levels of bacteria.

- Cook fish thoroughly until it is opaque and flakes easily with a fork. Overcooking makes it dry. The best way to learn the technique is to practice.

- When buying whole fish, look for bright, clear, bulging eyes. Cloudy, sunken, discolored or slime-covered eyes often signal fish that is beginning to spoil. The skin of freshly caught fish is covered with a translucent mucus that looks a bit like varnish. The color is vivid and bright. Avoid fish whose skin has begun to discolor, shows depressions, tears or blemishes, or is covered with sticky yellowish-brown mucus.

- When buying steaks or fillets, look for moist flesh that still has a translucent sheen. Watch out for flesh that is dried out or gaping—the muscle fibers are beginning to pull apart. That's a sign of over-the-hill fish.

- Note how the fish is displayed and look for clues that the temperature may be too high. Fish that are piled high, displayed in open cases, or sitting under hot lights are perfect places for bacteria to grow. If fish fillets are displayed inside separate pans surrounded by ice, that's usually a sign the retailer is paying some attention to quality. Whole fish should be displayed under ice.

- Keep an eye out for displays featuring cooked and raw fish or seafood next to each other. There's a potential health hazard from cross contamination. Buying anything from them can be risky.

- Use your nose. Fresh fish smell like the sea, but have no strong odor. Fresh water fish in good condition sometimes smell like cucumbers. Strong odors usually indicate spoilage.

- Once you buy fish, refrigerate it quickly. At home, store it in the coldest part of your refrigerator, keep it in the original wrapper and use it fast—within a day.

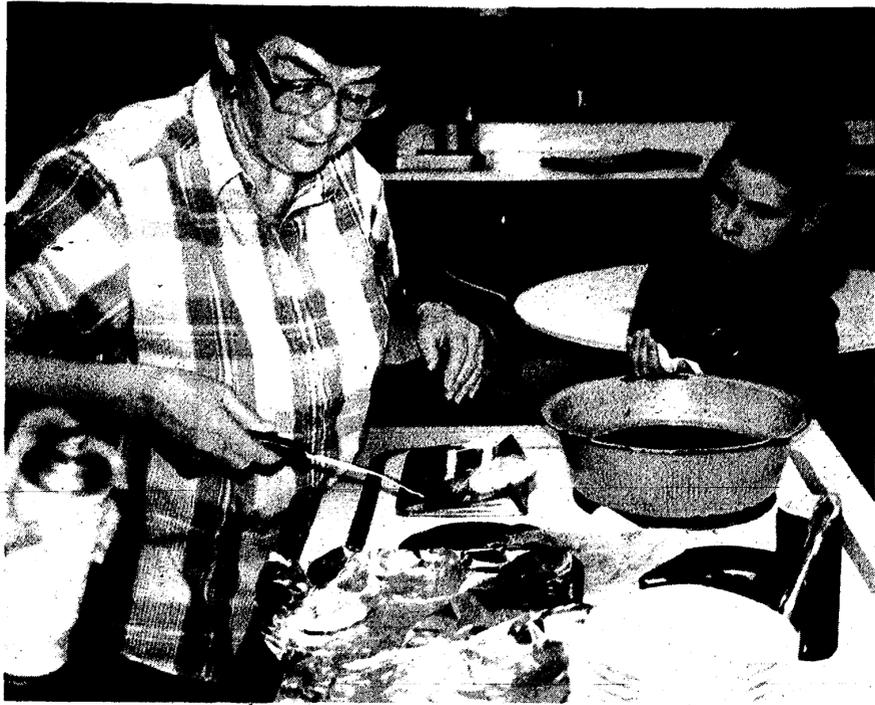

- If you're concerned about quality, look for evidence that fish has been frozen and then thawed. Look for chunks of ice floating in the fish liquid—a clue that the fish had been frozen. There's nothing wrong with frozen fish that's been thawed, but if you unknowingly refreeze it, its texture and flavor will suffer. It's probably better to buy frozen fish instead.

Grass Lake Man Receives Marine Commendation

Marine Lance Cpl. Kasey V. Marshall, son of Earl and Mary Marshall of 12831 Curtis Rd., Grass Lake, recently received a Letter of Commendation.

Marshall was cited for superior performance of duty while assigned with Marine Detachment embarked aboard the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga, homeported in Mayport, Fla.

He consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner.

The 1990 graduate of Grass Lake High school joined the Marine Corps in September 1990.

What About Reusing Those Bread Bags?

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist
What About Reusing Those Bread Bags?

Believe it or not, many home economists around the country are getting calls about the safety of turning bread bags inside out and reusing them to store food.

In case you are tempted to recycle bread bags as food storage containers, here are the facts.

The FDA regulates packaging that comes into contact with food. The outside of any package is not intended to come into contact with food, so the manufacturers of bread bags can use lead-based ink for printing labels on bags. When high acid foods come into contact with the lead ink, the food can become contaminated with lead.

A recent study, reported in the American Journal of Public Health, showed that if vinegar, a weak acid, came into contact with the label's printing, 5% of the lead in the ink would be dissolved in as little as 10 minutes. You would usually not store vinegar in a bag, but you might carry peeled oranges or other acid foods, including all fruits, tomatoes and pickled foods.

When bread bags are turned inside out, the ink on the print can crack and flake, and the flakes can fall into the food. If flecks of ink drop into the food, it can become contaminated with lead.

The risk of lead contamination is not the only problem with using inverted bread bags, however. Other items, such as dirty hands, insects and bacteria, can contaminate the outside of the bags and, in turn, contaminate food stored in inverted bags.

If you want to reuse a bread bag to carry food, turn the bag inside out, wash the inside with hot, soapy water, rinse and dry it, then turn the inside back in.

Trying to re-use commercial containers for food storage has added problems when the containers are made from recycled materials. One of the problems with using recycled materials in food packaging is that contaminants from previous product may exist in the recycled product. Cans and glass pose no problems because temperatures used to melt these containers are very high and contaminants are removed. The only recycled packaging products FDA allows for food use are egg (in the shell) cartons, berry baskets, harvesting crates and soda bottles. Recycled plastic soda bottles made with PET (polyethylene terephthalate) involving a regeneration process is the only FDA-reviewed process for recycling plastic containers for food use. Other approaches are being examined by FDA.

"The most valuable of all talents is that of never using two words when one will do..."

—Thomas Jefferson

Have you ever listened to someone expound on a subject or offer an explanation, only to wonder what they had said after they had finished?

Jefferson certainly hit the nail on the head. To have the talent to be brief but accurate in speech or writing is truly a valuable attribute. People will long remember you and the things you say or write if you can develop and nurture this quality. And, it can be developed with a little practice. Now that the point is made, this commentary should end!

A few words is all we need to tell you that the counsel and advice received from us is based on years of experience, and is yours for the asking.

Fish Consumption Advisory Released

The Michigan Department of Public Health (MDPH) has released its annual fish consumption advisory update. Public Health Director Vernice Davis Anthony said that the Department is pleased to provide the public with the most up-to-date advice possible. The advisories are intended to help the public make informed decisions about which fish are safe to eat and ways they can further reduce their exposure to contaminants in sport fish through recommended preparation and cooking methods.

Levels of some toxic chemicals in fish tissue have declined sufficiently to allow Michigan to initiate discussions with other Great Lakes states on a process for removal or relaxation of advisories. Accordingly, key leaders from other states will meet in April to compare test results and discuss a consistent multi-state policy. Governor John Engler stated "I support a process to relax fish advisories which is consistent with other states and when scientific tests support such action."

Four new advisories have been added as part of the 1992 update. These include a recommendation that people not eat whitefish larger than 23 inches if caught from the southern half of Lake Michigan (south of Frankfort). Four large whitefish collected from the Muskegon area in 1990 contained chlordane above the 0.3 parts per million level of concern. Smaller whitefish from this area had acceptable levels. Whitefish are not frequently taken by anglers from the southern portion of Lake Michigan. Large whitefish from Grand Traverse Bay and smaller fish tested from Big Bay de Noc (two areas where sport fishing for whitefish is more common) did not show significant contamination.

Chlordane is a pesticide previously used broadly in agriculture and for termite control in buildings. Most agricultural uses in the United States were banned by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in 1980; remaining uses for chlordane ended in 1988.

Another new advisory affects lake trout from Glen Lake in Leelanau county. Due to the presence of mercury at elevated levels, it is recommended that lake trout from Glen Lake not be eaten more often than one meal per week. Women of childbearing age and young children (less than 15 years old) should not eat more than one meal per month of these fish. It is recommended that lake trout larger than 30 inches from Glen Lake not be eaten at all because of elevated levels of both chlordane and mercury.

Walleye over 22 inches from lake Michigan are being placed into the "restrict consumption" advisory category due to mercury detected above 0.5 ppm in these fish from the Little Bay de Noc and the Muskegon areas. An advisory for Little Bay de Noc walleye was issued in 1989.

The fourth addition to the advisory involves walleye and redbreast suckers from the Menominee River. Walleye of all legal sizes and redbreast suckers over 17 inches should not be eaten by the general population more than one meal per week nor by women of childbearing age or young children more than one meal per month. The advisory is based upon the finding of mercury levels in these fish similar to levels found in most inland lakes state-wide.

The Department's special advisory issued in 1988 for all inland lakes remains in effect. Due to the widespread occurrence of mercury at levels of health concern, the Department recommends that no one should eat more than one meal per week of rock bass, crappie or yellow perch over 9 inches; or largemouth bass, smallmouth bass, walleye, northern pike or muskie of any size if caught from Michigan's inland lakes. Women of childbearing age and young children should limit consumption of these species to no more than one meal per month.

Anthony reminds anglers that they can reduce their exposure to organic contaminants like PCBs and chlor-

Saline Community Education Department Offers Builders Seminar
A four-week seminar being offered by the Saline Area Schools Community Education department is designed to prepare students to take the state builder's license exam. This class is also helpful to individuals who are interested in obtaining general information about building requirements for personal projects.
This seminar is conducted according to the state test breakdown and it will prepare those completing the classes to become a licensed residential builder. The course covers builder's state law, rules and regulations, construction, the Lien Act, and introduces all phases of residential building requirements.
The four-week seminar begins Wednesday, March 25 and continues through April 22, from 6-10 p.m. The class will meet in room 26 of Saline High school. Cost of the seminar is $135 per person.
Advance registration is required. To sign up, or ask about future seminars, call the community education office at 428-5454 ext. 288 or 242.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,
 On Saturday, Feb. 29, in the Chelsea High school auditorium, the Washington Street Show Choir presented "The Showcase of Show Choirs 1992." This showcase included performances by "Limited Edition" of Southfield High school; "Sterling Silver" of Sterling Heights High school; and Chelsea's own "Washington Street Show Choir" of Chelsea High school.

The performances of all three groups were TOP RATE and was approximately two hours of the best entertainment I've seen in a long time. It was entertainment enjoyable to all ages and could be enjoyed by the whole family.

The Chelsea group consists of approximately 40 students under the direction of Steven P. Hins. This group puts in a lot of time and hard work that is all extra-curricular. It should be noted with pride that each member is contracted to a no use of alcohol and drugs policy and to positive life choices.

I have waited for two issues of The Chelsea Standard to be published since their performances and I have yet to see any mention or a review of their excellent "Showcase." But in both issues of the paper there were numerous articles of other activities and happenings in and around Chelsea. I don't think sports activities are the only thing your readers are interested in.

To me this is unforgivable. This is a group of teens working hard and sacrificing a lot to lead a clean and productive life and are given no credit or recognition for their efforts.

I think The Chelsea Standard should print an apology to this group and put it on the front page.

William P. Osborne.

Dear Editor,
 I have just returned from hearing yet another wonderful performance of the Chelsea High School Orchestra. It brought to mind the letter written by Nancy Dymond a number of weeks ago regarding Christmas music and the audience sing-along. I, too, am disappointed in that for, amongst other things, it certainly eliminates tradition as well as good music.

Like Nancy's letter, this may seem late (or early) but needs to be addressed.

There is another aspect of "religion" that the school promotes unabashedly. We cannot talk about managers, shepherds, and wisemen at Christmas. We can only say Spring break, not Easter. But, for many teachers, the month of October is dedicated to witches, ghosts, and superstition, halloween was and is Satanic in origin. Why is this "religion" allowed so much freedom? And do you blame only candy for your child's wild activity on Nov. 1?

I commend Barbara Brown, North Elementary fifth grade teacher, for putting the holidays in perspective in the classroom this year. Thanks, Barb. You're super.

Sue Bennett.

Maple Sugar Festival Slated at Geology Center

What better way to usher in the springtime than to take a walk along Waterloo's many trails and treat yourself to some sinfully sweet maple sugar candy.

Waterloo Natural History Association would like to invite you to participate in a fun-filled day. Bring family and friends and learn how to tap and process the sap from those maple trees in your woods or backyard.

The Festival will take place at the Gerald E. Eddy Geology Center in Chelsea, on Saturday, March 21 from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., and on Sunday, March 22 from 12 to 5 p.m. There will be a variety of activities at the Festival in which you will be able to participate.

Enjoy visiting with an old-time farmer in the movie "Maple Sugar Farmer" which will be shown throughout the day.

If you are familiar with modern methods of maple syruping and think they are time consuming, just take a step back in time to see what hard work really is! You will have the opportunity to view sugaring equipment which was used by the pioneers, and Native American birch baskets and candy molds which were used in processing sap into syrup and sugar. Pioneer artifacts are on loan from the Waterloo Farm Museum, and the Native American equipment has been loaned by the University of Michigan, Museum of Anthropology. A history of both Native American and pioneer sugaring methods will be presented by interpreters.

After touring the building, step outside and gather around a simplified evaporator, one that you could easily set up in your own backyard. Volunteers will be available to discuss with you the process of converting sap into syrup. Did you know that depending on what kind of maple is tapped it will take between 40 and 80 gallons of sap to produce just one gallon of syrup?

Continue your tour by taking a stroll down to the Lowland Woods Trail where maple trees are tapped and sap is being collected. You will be able to view several kinds of collection methods and will learn all about the techniques that are involved in this aspect of the operation.

Interpreters will fill you in on how to drill a proper hole, where to drill it, how much sap to expect per tap, plus lots of other interesting facts. Most important they will show you how to identify a maple tree in the winter when there are no leaves on the trees. After all, you wouldn't want to be tapping the wrong species of tree!

In order to have enough energy to sustain you through the tour you might want to purchase some maple sugar candy which will be available for sale. If your taste buds still crave that wonderful maple favor be sure to take home some liquid gold that you can pour over your pancakes!

Proceeds from this event will be used to promote environmental education and provide recreational opportunities to people visiting the Waterloo Recreation Area. The Geology Center may be reached by taking I-94 to Exit 157. Head north on Pierce Rd. to Bush Rd. Make a left on Bush and continue for 1/2 mile. The entrance to the Center will be on your left. For additional information call 313-475-3170.

There is no admission charge to the Festival, but a Motor Vehicle Permit is required by all visitors entering State Parks.

Ann Arbor Pow Wow Set March 21-22 at U-M

The 20th Anniversary Ann Arbor Pow Wow, sponsored by the University of Michigan's Native American Student Association and Minority Student Services, will be held March 21 and 22 at U. of M. Crisler Arena.

The Ann Arbor Pow Wow has come to be recognized as one of the top Native American celebrations in North America. Traditional and fancy dance competitions, social dances and more are a part of this annual event. Special dance categories this year include the Grass Dance and Jingle Dress competitions.

Many Native American artisans and craftsmen from as far away as Arizona, Oklahoma, Washington, Maine, the Dakotas and Canada will display and sell authentic Native American made merchandise.

Pow Wow celebrations are a significant part of Native American history. The dances and gatherings have been held for hundreds of years. In the Great Lakes region these gatherings were usually held in the spring and summer. It was a festive event with lots of trading and exchanging of gifts taking place. After a long and sometimes harsh winter the native people had a chance to get together with their families and friends to celebrate the Creator's gift of life.

Today the people gather to sing, dance, meet with old friends and make new ones. They also take this opportunity to educate others to the Native American way of life.

The Pow Wow has three performances: Saturday from 1 to 4:30 p.m. and 6:30 to 10 p.m., Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at the U. of M. Crisler Arena, located at Stadium Blvd. and Main St. in Ann Arbor.

Admission is $7 adults, $3 children, weekend passes are $10 & $5, U. of M. students and senior citizens are $4, family rates are $20 per day.

Bands, Orchestras Receive Top Ratings at District Festivals

Chelsea music program has had a busy and rewarding two weeks.

The middle school and high school bands and orchestras participated in the Michigan School Band and Orchestra Association District XII festivals.

Bands and orchestras from Wayne, Washtenaw and Monroe counties were involved in the festivals held the first two weeks in March.

The music groups have been preparing for the festival for the past six weeks. Each ensemble had to prepare three selections to perform for the concert portion of the festival. After their concert performance, the ensembles then are required to play two selections they have never seen before in the sight-reading portion of the festival.

Chelsea had six groups earn First Division superior ratings. The three high school bands under the direction of William Gourley performed on Thursday, March 5 at the festival held here in Chelsea.

The high school orchestra and Beach Middle school eighth grade orchestra, directed by Peter Roshager, were awarded top ratings in festivals held in Chelsea and in Saline, respectively.

The Beach Middle School eighth grade band, directed by Warren Mayer, received a First Division rating at the festival in Romulus.

The Beach Middle school seventh grade band and orchestra earned Second Division, excellent ratings.

Gourley, the music chairman at Chelsea, commented that most schools begin instrumental music instruction in the fifth grade and some in the fourth. This places our seventh graders in the challenging position of catching-up since they start in the sixth grade. This also, is their first festival experience.

In addition to the festivals the music department has presented several concerts to add to their March Madness. The choirs began with a sold-out show choir performance on Feb. 29. The bands and orchestras also presented concerts on March 3 and 5. The choirs, directed by Steven Hinz, performed a concert on March 9.

This doesn't conclude their busy

Promotions Announced By Chelsea State Bank

Five officer promotions have been announced by the Board of Directors of the Chelsea State Bank. John K. Mann was promoted to senior vice-president, David M. Schaible and Jacqueline Schiller to assistant vice-president, and Colleen Houle and Michael D. Willis to assistant cashier.

Mann has been a vice-president of the bank since 1988 and a director since 1990 with the principal responsibility of chief loaning officer.

Schaible has been with the bank since 1985 and has previously served as an assistant cashier. His principal responsibilities are in lending and customer service.

Ms. Schiller has been employed at the bank since 1972 and presently is in charge of deposit accounting. She has previously been an assistant cashier.

schedule. The orchestra, choir and wind ensemble at the high school begin their concert tour to Montreal on Tuesday, March 17. They will perform several concerts in the Montreal and Quebec area before returning to Chelsea on Sunday, March 22.

The school music groups still have several performances before the end of the school year. The musical "Grease" will be presented the end of April. The high school ensembles and middle school ensembles will be performing concerts in May as well as performing in parades and graduation ceremonies.

Mrs. Houle has been employed at the Chelsea State Bank since 1988 and works as a customer service representative in addition to her duties as executive secretary.

Willis has been at the bank since 1986 and is the data processing manager.

President Schaible also reported that the other officers were all re-elected to their present positions.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Chelsea State Bank held on March 10, the following directors were re-elected for the ensuing year: Robert L. Daniels, Lawrence C. Dietle, Dudley K. Holmes, Jr., John K. Mann, John W. Merkel, George L. Palmer, Paul G. Schaible, Jr., and Scott S. Tanner.

David H. Strieter, who had been a director since 1979, did not stand for re-election as he has reached the mandatory retirement age for directors. Strieter has served the bank with distinction and his valuable advice and counsel will be missed.

Saline Area Players Will Present 'Annie'

Saline Area Players will present "Annie" on March 27, 28, and 29. The show will be performed at 8 p.m. on Friday and Saturday, and 2 p.m. on Sunday, at Saline High school.

Tickets may be obtained at Saline Picture Frame, Travel Resources, and Lewis Jewelers or by calling Linda Downie at 428-1180.

The show will be directed by Rebecca Groeb and stars Julie Keeping as Annie, Kris Reutter as Miss Hannigan, and Judge Don Shelton as Daddy Warbucks.

Louis W. Doll To Autograph Copies of Book on Frank Glazier

Historian and former Chelsea resident Louis Doll will sign copies of his new book Less Than Immortal, at The Village Shoppe in Chelsea this Saturday from 1-4 p.m.

The book details the rise and fall of legendary Chelsea businessman Frank Porter Glazier, who perhaps had the greatest single influence on the course of Chelsea history.

Doll, 80, now a Bay City resident, has a doctorate in history and a degree in library science from the University of Michigan. He taught at Bay City Junior College and Delta College for 25 years, and retired in 1977.

Glazier was born in Jackson in 1862 and attended school in Chelsea. He earned a degree in pharmacy from the University of Michigan and eventually owned a thriving drug store and general store, now the site of Harper Shoe Co. in downtown Chelsea. Glazier sold the store in 1890 and with a group of businessmen organized the Glazier Strong Stove Company, which later became the Glazier Stove Co.

Glazier held various local political offices and served one term, from 1903-04, as state senator serving Jackson and Washtenaw counties. He was elected state treasurer in 1904 and re-elected in 1906. As treasurer he was charged with mismanagement of state funds, which led to his downfall.

Many older buildings in the Chelsea area, including The Chelsea Standard building, are due to the efforts of Frank Glazier.

Doll's book is full of detail about Glazier and his various business interests and has numerous old photographs and drawings. It paints a picture of the local economy and politics at the turn of the century. It's also a good source of information about many of the Chelsea-area's original and continuing families and many surnames are still very recognizable.

Doll has published the book himself. It's being sold at The Village Shoppe, 104 N. Main St., or it can be ordered directly from Doll at 1712 Ninth St., Bay City, 48708. Local cost is $24.95. If ordered from Doll, a $2.70 tax and shipping charge is required.

25 VCRs Taken From Local Shop

Twenty-five VCRs in various states of repair were stolen from Village VCR on S. Main St. sometime during the night of Thursday, March 12.

According to Chelsea police, a store employee noticed the equipment, as well as $30 cash, was missing when he opened the store on March 13.

Police said someone apparently pried open the west rear door to gain access to the building. About half the VCRs were owned by the company and the rest belonged to customers.

Police said an investigation is continuing. They said apparently no one saw anything unusual during the night.

Todd R. Osborn Joins Air Force

Todd R. Osborn, son of Paul and Kathy Osborn of Chelsea, has enlisted in the Air Force Delayed Enlistment Program, according to Staff Sergeant Ruben Temple, Air Force recruiter, 23400 Michigan Ave., Dearborn.

Osborn, a 1991 graduate of Chelsea High school, is scheduled for enlistment in the Regular Air Force on March 27. Upon graduation from the Air Force's six-week basic training course near San Antonio, Tex., he will receive technical training as a munitions systems specialist.

He will be earning credits toward an associate degree in applied sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

LOUIS W. DOLL will autograph copies of his book about Frank P. Glazier this Saturday afternoon.

Village To Provide Hepatitis Inoculations For Its Employees

Village of Chelsea will soon offer free hepatitis inoculations for village employees.

The village is required by law to provide the series of three shots for people who might come in contact with bodily fluids, including police, firefighters, and sewer workers. Those workers may sign waivers if they do not want the inoculations.

Village trustee Joe Merkel has suggested the village should offer the inoculations to any employee who wants them.

The village can get the serum through the Washtenaw County Health Department for $88 per person. Village manager Jack Myers said the village's insurance carrier apparently will not cover the cost.

A local physician has apparently offered to give the inoculations free of charge, Myers said.

Final details of the inoculation program had not been finalized as of press time.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Falls Short At District Final as Tecumseh Wins 63-61

Chelsea Bulldogs' first chance for a district basketball championship in many years fell two points short last Friday in Brooklyn as Southeastern Conference rival Tecumseh Indians took a tense 63-61 victory.

The Bulldogs had the ball with a chance to tie with :16 remaining after a missed free throw. Chelsea brought the ball up court and set up a shot for senior forward Jon Royce in the lane. However, his closely-guarded jumper hit the side of the rim and bounced away.

"We ran the same play that worked all night but Tecumseh defended it very well," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"I couldn't expect anything more from our team. It was just one of those things."

The numerous Chelsea fans who made the trip to Columbia Central High school were treated to perhaps the most thrilling and well-played Bulldogs game of the season.

The Bulldogs trailed 38-36 at half-time and 57-48 early in the fourth quarter. Chelsea then reeled off six straight points on free throws by Pat Steele and field goals by Jake Rindie and Dana Schmunk to cut the Indians' lead to 57-54. After a timeout at the 4:34 mark, Chelsea turned the ball over on three straight possessions, although Tecumseh was unable to convert on any of them. After another timeout, Tecumseh's Ryan Williams made a lay-up and Brian Burns hit a short jumper to put Tecumseh back up by seven points. Two free throws by Royce cut Tecumseh's lead to 61-56.

The Indians attempted a stall and that's when Chelsea's defense put the pressure on. Two straight steals resulted in three Chelsea points as Rindie's breakout lay-up put Chelsea back to within two points at 61-59 with 1:10 left.

Perhaps the biggest play of the game, however, occurred on Tecumseh's next trip down the court when Jason Stewart went to the line for a two-shot attempt. On his second miss, Tecumseh sophomore Brian Puffer snagged the rebound and put it back for two points.

Steele hit a short jumper on the next possession, and on the in-bounds play, Chelsea fouled Tecumseh immediately, and the one-and-one attempt was missed, setting up Royce's final shot.

"I thought we played about as well as we could play," Raymond said.

"Sure we made some mistakes but in a pressure game like that there are bound to be mistakes. This game ranked near the top for one of my teams playing to its potential."

One big difference between the teams was Tecumseh's three-point shooting. The Indians hit five threes, including three by Williams, while every Chelsea goal went for two points.

Statistically it was one of the Bulldogs' best games of the season. They had a season-low 11 turnovers, hit 24-51 shots from the field and 13-19 from the line. They grabbed 35 rebounds, two fewer than Tecumseh. The Indians hit 27-56 shots from the floor, and 4-14 from the line, while turning the ball over 14 times. The Indians had no fast-break points.

Rindie had one of his best all-around games with 13 points, nine rebounds, seven assists, and four blocked shots. Royce had 17 points, 13 rebounds, and five assists.

Other scorers included Steele 11, Schmunk 8, Colby Skelton 4, Chris

JON ROYCE tries to drive around Tecumseh's Brian Burns during last Friday's district championship game at Brooklyn. Royce and Burns each had 12 points in the first half, but didn't do much scoring in the second half.

Terpstra Takes Second At State Wrestling Meet

Chelsea senior heavyweight Mike Terpstra was edged out in his attempt to defend his class B state title last Saturday as he lost to nemesis Rollie Ferris of Delton-Kellogg in the finals, 5-2.

"Mike gave it 100 percent," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"Ferris wrestled a very intelligent match. On any given day either one could have won the match."

Ferris handed Terpstra his only two losses of the season. Saturday in Battle Creek the two wrestled to a 0-0 tie after the first period.

In the second period, each wrestler was awarded a stalling point, before Ferris earned two points for a reverse to make it a 3-1 match.

Terpstra, in the down position in the third period, earned an escape point to pull within 3-2. With 40 seconds to go, Terpstra was forced to go for broke but slipped on an attempted throw, which scored takedown points for Ferris.

"It hurts to lose when you're so close to a title you can taste it," Kargel said.

"I felt bad for Mike, but he's had a great season and a great career."

Terpstra finished the season with a 42-2 mark and ended his career at 114-30.

"Mike has been one of the best captains we've ever had. He's worked extremely hard and never complained."

To reach the finals, Terpstra recorded some impressive wins. Friday night he pinned Casey Colby of Corunna (37-5) in 2:18, then won a decision over Eric Beckman of Grand Rapids Kenowa Hills (38-1), 7-2.

"I was actually more worried about Beckman than I was about Ferris because Beckman had beaten Ferris," Kargel said.

"Beckman finished sixth nationally in freestyle wrestling last year, and I was a little concerned he might be able to take Mike down. But Mike was in control of the match the whole way. Mike took him down and I think surprised him a little." With the victory, Terpstra was assured of at least a top six finish.

In Saturday's first match, Terpstra faced Santiago Mauricio of Imlay City and pinned him in 2:33, to earn his way into the finals.

Nearly 100 Chelsea fans made the trip to watch Terpstra, one of Chelsea High school's best-ever athletes, finish his career. Terpstra had the honor of carrying the Michigan flag in the Grand March before the finals. Terpstra was the only Chelsea wrestler to qualify for the state tournament. Southeastern Conference rival Dexter had three wrestlers in the finals, and came away with one champion, Hank McRoberts at 180 pounds. No other SEC team had a wrestler in the finals.

Other scorers included Steele 11, Schmunk 8, Colby Skelton 4, Chris

McVittie Takes Title As Bulldog Tankers Place 10th at State

Chelsea freshman Matt McVittie took a state title in the 200-yard freestyle as the Bulldogs took 10th place over-all at the class B-C-D state swim meet at Saginaw Valley State University last Friday and Saturday.

It was Chelsea's second top 10 finish in the last four years. Southeastern Conference rival Milan placed second over-all and Tecumseh was 18th. Allegan won the meet.

McVittie was the only state champ from the area. He won the 200 freestyle in 1:44.83, which Chelsea coach Dave Jolly called "a blazing time," then placed third in the 200 individual medley in 1:59.53.

Kevin Kolodica was the last individual swimmer for Chelsea as he finished 18th in the 100 breaststroke in 1:05.12.

With McVittie's points locked in from his individual efforts, it was up to the freestyle relay teams to score the rest of the team points. The 200 team of McVittie, Colby, David Brock, and Kevin Kolodica was seventh after the preliminaries and fell slightly to ninth in the finals with a time of 1:30.88.

"It was simply a supreme effort," Jolly said.

"They were focused and ready to go. Colby and Brock were especially impressive with times of :22.13 and :23.09, respectively."

The 400 team of McVittie, Colby, Fischer, and Brock also cut their time to place ninth over-all. McVittie led off with a :47.72 and Colby anchored with a career-best time of :49.41. Fischer had his best time of :53.05 and Brock "swam his heart out, bad turn and all," Jolly said, for a time of :51.50.

"Again, this was a team effort," Jolly said.

"Granted we had only five of our 20 members here, but each one had something to do with our success. We have a golden team in the making with people like Steve Brock, Matt Montange, Mike McEachern, Steve Straub, and Justin Roush on the verge of making it to the state level. All we need are time and commitment. I'm extremely proud of our team."

MATT McVITTIE, a freshman at Chelsea High school, won the 200 freestyle and placed third in the 200 individual medley at Saturday's class B-C-D swimming championships in Saginaw.

"Matt has to be one of the best swimmers I have ever had the privilege of working with," Jolly said.

"He is an exciting young swimmer with a great future."

Senior Dirk Colby swam in four events on Friday and two on Saturday. He placed 24th in the 50 freestyle in :23.29 and 14th in the 100 freestyle in :50.03.

"Dirk had the meet of his life, dropping times left and right," Jolly said.

"He is a leader and the true captain of the team."

Matt Fischer also dropped time in his two individual events as he placed 15th in the 100 butterfly in :56.70 and 20th in the 100 backstroke in :59.49.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

It would have been nice to be three places at once over the last week-end for what was one of the best finishes ever to a Chelsea winter sports season.

Freshman Matt McVittie won the 200 yard freestyle and placed third in the 200-yard individual medley at the state class B-C-D swimming meet at Saginaw Valley State University. He was the only state champion in the area and propelled the Bulldogs to a 10th place finish as a team. It was their second finish in the top 10 in the last four years.

McVittie's performance was reminiscent of Lisa Monti's run three years ago at the state cross country meet, in which she beat the field handily as a freshman. It's not really fair to compare a swimmer to a runner, but the fact that any freshman can whip everyone else in the state in any given year is truly remarkable, whether it's in athletics or any other endeavor. It's especially amazing in a sport like swimming, where one bad turn can make the difference between first and fourth.

Freshmen aren't supposed to be mature or composed enough to compete with seasoned seniors, yet we've seen it twice here in the last three years.

Over at Battle Creek, Mike Terpstra pursued his second straight class B state heavyweight title, but fell three points short. He lost to Rollie Ferris of Delton-Kellogg High school in the finals, 5-2. Ferris was the only guy to beat Terpstra all season, and he did it twice.

The tournament was held at the Kellogg Center. Eight mats were on the floor at once in the huge arena, and more than 6,000 fans packed the stands.

"You really can't appreciate the atmosphere in there until you've been there," said coach Kerry Kargel.

"The atmosphere is so electric, and your nerves really work on you." It was so loud, Kargel said, that there was no way he could communicate effectively with Terpstra during the final match.

Terpstra has had one of those high school careers little kids dream about. He was an all-state football player, a state champion wrestler, a state runner-up and he has a 3.9 grade point average. He's being recruited by all sorts of colleges for both his brain and his brawn. I would like to have seen his final match.

Then over at Brooklyn, the Bulldogs fell in the district basketball finals to the Tecumseh Indians, 63-61. It was Chelsea's first appearance in the finals since 1983. The Bulldogs, as far as anyone can remember, have not won a district title since set shots were the norm. Since there are no written records at the high school, I have to rely on oral history supplied to athletic director Wayne Welton: If anyone knows for sure, give me a call.

With the exception of a two-minute stretch in the fourth quarter, Chelsea played by far its best basketball of the season. Defense was outstanding, and I thought coach Robin Raymond did his finest job of the year.

Unfortunately, according to coach Ed Oxley his Indians had one of their best shooting nights of the season. Lefty guard Ryan Williams nailed clutch three pointers. Brian Burns, Tecumseh's terrific three-sports athlete, carried them through the first half with 12 of his 14 points. Their defense on the final play kept Chelsea from breaking even at the end of regulation play.

It was the only high school game I can remember in which a team was in the one-and-one with less than three minutes gone. It looked like the entire Tecumseh team might foul out by half-time. Chelsea, however, could not take advantage of the situation because suddenly the refs quit calling fouls on the Indians and turned their attentions to the Bulldogs. Colby Skelton and Pat Steele were both forced to sit out the closing minutes of the first half with three fouls each. By half-time, the Bulldogs were in worse foul shape than Tecumseh.

It was also the only Chelsea-Tecumseh game I can remember in which Chelsea fans out-numbered and out-yelled their counterparts, with relatively few references to the referees' anatomy or heritage.

Coach Kargel played one fine game to end his career with 13 points, nine rebounds, seven assists, and four blocked shots. Captain Jon Royce capped his senior season with 17 points and 13 rebounds. It was good see those guys go out on a high note.

After the game, several Bulldogs cried as the Indians were introduced to the crowd and the emotions of what could have been set in.

I'd imagine there were a few teary eyes in Battle Creek and Saginaw as well.

JAKE RINDLE drives for two points around Tecumseh's Jason Stewart. Rindle closed out his career with one of his best games of the season. However, the Bulldogs lost the game, 63-61.

Dogs Fall in District Final

Dunham 4, Ben Hurst 3, and Ed Waller 1.

Williams led Tecumseh with 19 points and Burns scored 14, 12 in the first half.

In the district semi-finals on Wednesday, the Bulldogs knocked off the Dexter Dreadnaughts for the third time this season, 53-48.

The Bulldogs played a solid defensive game, Raymond concluded, but struggled on offense.

Chelsea led 48-48 with :42 left when Dexter's Ryan Hill hit both ends of a one-and-one.

Steele made perhaps the two biggest plays of the game as the Bulldogs started a parade to the free throw line. On two trips down the floor, Royce went to the line for one-and-one attempts. Each time he sank the first shot and missed the second. However, after the first miss Steele managed to get into the lane to tip the rebound out to a teammate. On the second miss Steele grabbed the rebound and the Bulldogs led by three points, 51-48.

Chelsea went on to miss the front end of a one-and-one attempt with :11 left. Dexter's Mike Ruhl took a desperation three-point shot, which bounded to Dunham, who was fouled. His free throws put the game away.

The game might not have been close at all if the Bulldogs had made their free throws in the fourth quarter. They missed the front end of five one-and-one opportunities.

"It really should have been a 20-point game," Raymond said. "We shot only 31 percent (20-65). If we would have shot a decent percentage, it wouldn't have been close." Steele led all scorers with 17 points. Other Chelsea scorers were Rindle 12, Royce 8, Dunham 8, Jason Allen 4, Skelton 2, and Schmunk 2.

Dexter out-rebounded the Bulldogs, 45-40, but Chelsea held a 18-8 advantage in offensive rebounds. Chelsea also had a season-high 17 steals, including nine by Rindle.

Ruhl had 14 for Dexter and Hill scored 13. Chelsea finished the season with an 11-12 record.

Historians say among the first Europeans to come to America was an African, Pedro Alonso Nino, who sailed with Columbus.

RESOLUTION APPROVING ISSUANCE OF REVENUE NOTES BY THE VILLAGE OF CHELSEA DOWNTOWN DEVELOPMENT AUTHORITY

Village of Chelsea
County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan
WHEREAS, the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan (the "Village"), has approved a Tax Increment Financing and Development Plan, as amended (the "Plan"), prepared by the Village of Chelsea Downtown Development Authority (the "Authority"), which provides for the financing of improvements in the Downtown District established by the Authority in the Village; and

WHEREAS, the Plan anticipates that a portion of the costs of financing of the improvements described in the Plan will be paid for by voluntary contributions from members of the community; and

WHEREAS, the Authority has received pledges of voluntary contributions to finance a portion of the costs of the improvements; and

WHEREAS, the Authority finds it necessary and desirable to borrow a sum not to exceed Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) from Society Bank, Michigan in anticipation of collection of said voluntary contributions; and

WHEREAS, Section 13a(1) of Act 197, Public Acts of Michigan, 1975, as amended, authorizes the Authority to borrow money and issue revenue notes for the purposes described above with the approval of the Village Council.

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED THAT:

1. The Village council hereby approves the borrowing of an amount not to exceed Two Hundred Fifty Thousand Dollars ($250,000) by the Authority payable solely from voluntary contributions.

2. All resolutions and parts of resolutions insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this resolution be and the same hereby are rescinded.

Motion by Anderson, supported by Kanten, to approve the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Hammer, to select Plante & Moran for a period of three years to perform financial audits. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION TO VACATE THE NORTH STREET EXTENSION

WHEREAS, on January 14, 1992, the Village of Chelsea declared an intent to vacate the North Street extension, located east of the intersection of North Street and McKinley Street in an unplatted area between Congdon's Addition and Isaac Taylor's First Addition to the Village of Chelsea; and

WHEREAS, a hearing was held at Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle Street, Chelsea, Michigan on February 25, 1992 to receive objections to the intent to vacate and none were made;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Village of Chelsea does hereby declare the North Street extension in the Village of Chelsea to be vacated.

Motion by Dorer, supported by Merkel, to adopt the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION APPROVING APPLICATION OF HATCH STAMPING COMPANY

INDUSTRIAL FACILITIES EXEMPTION CERTIFICATE
WHEREAS, pursuant to P.A. 198 of 1974, M.C.L. 207.551 et seq., after a duly noticed public hearing held on December 8, 1983 this Chelsea Village Council by resolution established Industrial Development District No. 5, and

WHEREAS, Hatch Stamping Company has filed an application for an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate with respect to new equipment to be installed within the Industrial Development No. 5, and

WHEREAS, before acting on said application, the Village of Chelsea held a hearing on February 25, 1992, at the Sylvan Township Hall, 112 W. Middle Street, Chelsea, Michigan at 7:30 p.m. at which hearing the applicant, the Assessor and representative of the affected taxing units were given written notice and were afforded an opportunity to be heard on said application; and

WHEREAS, installation of new machinery and equipment had not begun earlier than six (6) months before January 28, 1992, the date of the acceptance of the application for the Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate; and

WHEREAS, a completion of the facility is calculated to and will at the time of issuance of the certificate have the reasonable likelihood to retain, create or prevent the loss of employment in the Village of Chelsea; and

WHEREAS, the aggregate SEV of real and personal property exempt from ad valorem taxes with the Village of Chelsea, after granting this certificate, will not exceed 5% of an amount equal to the sum of the SEV of the unit, plus the SEV of personal and real property thus exempted.

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED BY THE Village of Chelsea that:

1) The Village Council finds and determines that the granting of the Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate considered together with the aggregate amount of certificates previously granted and currently in force under Act No. 198 of the Public Acts of 1974 and Act No. 255 of the Public Acts of 1978, shall not have the effect of substantially impeding the operation of Chelsea Village Council, or impairing the financial soundness of a taxing unit which levies ad valorem property taxes in the Village of Chelsea.

2) The application of Hatch Stamping for an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate with respect to a new facility to be acquired and installed on the following described parcel of real property situated within the Village of Chelsea Industrial Park

Lots 10, 11, 12, 14, 15 and 16
Chelsea Industrial Park

The Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate when issued shall be and remain in force and effect for a period of seven (7) years after completion.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to adopt the above resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION

BE IT RESOLVED, AND IT IS HEREBY RESOLVED, that the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea does hereby adopt, approve and promulgate Ordinance No. 72-EE AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND CHELSEA VILLAGE ORDINANCE, ORDINANCE NO. 72, AN ORDINANCE TO AMEND THE UNIFORM TRAFFIC CODE PROMULGATED AND ADOPTED PURSUANT TO ACT 62 OF THE PUBLIC ACTS OF 1956, AS AMENDED (MCLA 287.951 ET SEQ.; MSA 9.2851 ET SEQ.) AMENDING AND/OR ADDING VARIOUS DEFINITIONS; PROCEDURE UPON ARREST FOR CERTAIN OFFENSES; AMENDING PROVISIONS REGULATING DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR OR A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR ARREST FOR DRIVING UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF INTOXICATING LIQUOR OR A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE, CHEMICAL BREATH ANALYSIS, ADMISSIBILITY, TESTS, TAKING OF SAMPLES AND PRESUMPTIONS; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR ARRAIGNMENT, PRETRIAL AND ADJUDICATION TIME LIMITS, SENTENCING, PLEA RIGHTS AND LICENSE SANCTIONS; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR IMPLIED CONSENT TO CHEMICAL TESTS; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR CHEMICAL TESTS; REFUSAL AND REPORTS TO THE SECRETARY OF STATE; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR THE NOTIFICATION OF AVAILABILITY OF HEARING REGARDING CHEMICAL TEST REFUSAL AND SUSPENSIONS; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR HEARING TIME LIMITS, FINDINGS AND LICENSE SUSPENSIONS; AMENDING A PROVISION AND PROVIDING FOR REPORT TO SECRETARY OF STATE, CONFISCATION OF LICENSE AND TEMPORARY LICENSE FOR REFUSAL OF CHEMICAL TEST; PROVIDING FOR PROHIBITION OF OPERATION OF COMMERCIAL MOTOR VEHICLE WITH CERTAIN PERCENTAGE OF ALCOHOL IN BLOOD; PROVIDING FOR DRUNK DRIVING PREVENTION EQUIPMENT AND TRAINING FUND; PROVIDING FOR ANNUAL STATE POLICE DRUNK DRIVING AUDIT; AMENDING THE PROVISION FOR POSSESSION OR TRANSPORTATION OF OPEN CONTAINERS OF ALCOHOLIC LIQUOR IN A MOTOR VEHICLE; PROVIDING FOR DRIVING ON A SUSPENDED OR REVOKED LICENSE AND PENALTY; PROVIDING FOR IMPOUNDMENT OF VEHICLE FOR DRIVING ON A SUSPENDED OR REVOKED LICENSE; PROVIDING FOR TREATMENT OF NOLO CONTENDER PLEAS; PROVIDING FOR THE REPEAL OF INCONSISTENT ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR PENALTIES FOR VIOLATIONS OF THE ORDINANCE; PROVIDING FOR SEVERABILITY; PROVIDING FOR SAVINGS CLAUSE; PROVIDING FOR PUBLICATION OF THIS ORDINANCE AND EFFECTIVE DATE THEREOF.

and the Clerk of said Village be and is hereby directed to cause the same to be published in the Village of Chelsea, in The Chelsea Standard, or any other paper of general circulation, and otherwise record said instrument within the book of ordinances.

Motion by Dorer, supported by Merkel, to adopt the above ordinance. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. (Ordinance 72-EE attached as Appendix A.)

Motion by Merkel, supported by Hammer, to ratify the Village of Chelsea (Police Department) Drug Free Workplace Policy. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to enter into an agreement with Mr. Michael Scholtz, Commercial Real Estate Concepts, Inc., from February 21, 1992 to February 21, 1993. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried.

RESOLUTION

ADOPTING FISCAL YEAR 1991/92 BUDGET AMENDMENTS

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea does hereby adopt the Budget Amendments for the various funds attached hereto for Fiscal Year 1991/92.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Dorer, to approve the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted. (Amendments attached as Appendix B.)

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Village needs a mechanism whereby replacement equipment can be purchased on an emergency basis, and

WHEREAS, the Village needs a mechanism whereby monies can be spent on an emergency basis for repairs, services and losses other than equipment,

THEREFORE, BE IT HEREBY RESOLVED, that the Village of Chelsea shall cause to be created an enterprise fund known as The Capital Contingency Fund, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Capital Contingency Fund shall be used for emergency and extra-ordinary expenditures where such expenditures could not and were not budgeted. Such expenditures are expected to be in excess of $50,000 or any budgeted contingency funds, whichever is greater. All expenditures from this fund shall be approved by Council, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that expenditures made by this fund shall be reimbursed to the fund in a period of not more than 3 years. If reimbursement in this period of time is deemed detrimental to the Village's finances, the debt shall be properly transferred to the Capital Improvement Fund and paid off by a schedule approved by Council.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Dorer, to approve the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Electric Fund of the Village of Chelsea uses the Village's infrastructure in the same manner as any investor owned company, and

WHEREAS, as a public utility, the Electric Fund must support the Village's infrastructure in the best interest of the public it serves, and

WHEREAS, the distribution system of the Electric Fund is not fully covered by the Village's insurance carrier, and

WHEREAS, the Electric Fund must be capable of continued full service even as the power demands of the Village increase,

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that starting in fiscal year 1992/93 and each year henceforth, the Electric Fund shall reimburse the Village's General Fund 6.5% of its gross sales as payment in lieu of taxes, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Electric Fund, an enterprise fund, shall develop and keep reserves at a level of $2,500,000 by the addition of annual gain from the sale of electrical power and any investment gains of the fund. These accumulated funds are deemed prudent necessary for the protection, improvement, replacement, and extension of the Village's electric public utility facilities as necessary, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Electric Fund reserve cap of $2,500,000 shall be increased each year by the rate of inflation starting with Fiscal Year 2000/2001, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Electric Fund shall reimburse the Village's General Fund the sum of $1,200,000 as payment in lieu of taxes for the period 1971 through 1991, and

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED, that the Electric Fund may make loans to other Village Departments, but not to the General Fund, the total aggregate amount of such loans shall never exceed one million dollars. Such loans shall be made in a responsible and prudent manner by the Village Council only when there are reasonable sources of revenue or funds associated with the borrowing departments' future budgets and/or potential grants. Such borrowing shall require total repayment to the Electric Fund by a minimum of 5 payments over a maximum period not to exceed 60 months, and such payments will include interest at the prime rate at the time of payment.

IT IS FURTHER RESOLVED that the debts owed the Electric fund by the Landfill and the Industrial Park are acknowledged as real debts owed and due but occurring prior to this resolution. The Industrial Park loan shall remain in the Electric Fund to be paid back by the sale of properties in the park. Since the Landfill debt is both the responsibility of the Village and the 4 Townships, the General Fund shall reimburse the Electric Fund for that portion deemed to be the responsibility of the Village. The portion deemed to be the responsibility of the Townships shall be reimbursed to the Electric fund and the debt transferred to the Capital Fund to be paid as settlement is made with the Townships. The Loan to the Sewer Fund (formerly the capital projects fund) is hereby reimbursed to the Electric Fund by the General Fund.

Motion by Merkel, supported by Hammer, to approve the above Resolution. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Resolution adopted.

PROCLAMATION

DESIGNATING MAY AS MOTORCYCLE AWARENESS MONTH

WHEREAS, the Village of Chelsea has many citizens who are concerned about motorcycle safety for touring, recreation, and economical transportation; and

WHEREAS, May is the nationally recognized month motorcycles become more prevalent on our streets; the need to be aware of their presence is of the utmost urgency, and

WHEREAS, an overwhelming number of car-motorcycle accidents could be avoided with due regard, respect, and awareness of motorcycles on the streets and intersections of this Village, and

WHEREAS, it is in the interest of our community and the citizens of the Village of Chelsea to note the increase in the amount of motorcycle traffic, as we enter the warm weather months, to enable the reduction of accidents and injuries involving motorcyclists.

NOW THEREFORE, I, Richard Steele, President of the Village of Chelsea do hereby on this 25th day of February, in the year 1992, proclaim May as MOTORCYCLE AWARENESS MONTH.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Dorer, to adopt the above Proclamation. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Proclamation adopted.

PROCLAMATION

JUNIOR ACHIEVEMENT MONTHS

February, March, 1992

WHEREAS, this nation traditionally encourages individual effort in business and industry as well as in science, government and the arts; and

WHEREAS, Junior Achievement supports and helps to sustain the free enterprise system by encouraging and directing high school students in a practical program of business economics; and

WHEREAS, over the past quarter century more than 200,000 teenagers have benefited by Junior Achievement training in southeastern Michigan; and

WHEREAS, over one thousand representatives from area business and industry serve as volunteer advisers to guide young adults in the operation of their first corporate ventures; and

WHEREAS, Junior Achievement helps develop tomorrow's leaders by creating incentives, providing challenges and instilling pride in good citizenship and responsibility.

THEREFORE, as President of the Village of Chelsea, I proclaim the months of February and March, 1992, Junior Achievement months in Chelsea, Michigan and urge all our citizens to encourage and support our ambitious young people and their dedicated advisers.

Motion by Anderson, supported by Hammer, to adopt the above Proclamation. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Proclamation adopted.

Motion by Merkel, supported by Hammer, to table the designation of June 12th and 13th, 1992 as the Moslem Shrine Temple Thirteenth Annual Hospital Fund Drive, until they can receive further information. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Merkel, to adjourn regular session. All ayes. Absent: Finch. Motion carried. Time: 8:18 p.m.

A FEW TIMES EACH YEAR Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall has to get rid of evidence. Monday the chief dumped beer and other alcohol down the holding cell toilet under the supervision of an employee of the state liquor commission. The alcohol was confiscated in drunk driving and other cases. Monday, 127 bottles of beer were poured into the toilet.

Genesis . . . In The Beginning

So you knew enough to go to the funeral and send a card and flowers or maybe a meal. But, what happens a week later and three months later and six months after that? You don't know what to say. The person you thought you knew is now different. You don't understand what's happening. So, you stay away.

Maybe you are the bereaved and think you are going crazy because everyone is trying to cheer you up and telling you that you should be back to normal (whatever that is) by now. You feel miserable but, don't dare tell because everyone wants you to be happy (it makes them feel better).

Bob Weikart, pastor and psychologist, is the founder of New Beginnings. He has developed a 10-step grief model that starts with shock and denial and culminates in resurrection—here on earth. It is the blueprint for life and offers even the most devastating situations hope. He is a delightful speaker making this difficult topic refreshing, tangible, and fascinating. He will be presenting "Grief: A Blueprint for Life" on Monday, March 23 at 7 p.m. in the meeting room of Society Bank on Old Manchester Rd. (next to the lumber yard).

Grief is a normal, healthy process that rids the body of the pain of loss (death, divorce, job loss, moving, etc.) To understand it and allow its experience is the greatest gift you can give yourself and others.

Senior Health Notes

Three years ago, when Chelsea Community Hospital decided to develop programs and services especially for the mature elder population, Janet Toif was hired as director of Senior Services. Under her leadership, representatives from area agencies within the Chelsea Community Hospital service area were invited to form an advisory committee—the Senior Program Planning Committee. Its purpose was to bring together service providers from Chelsea and the surrounding communities, and develop programs that would meet the needs of the senior population in the Chelsea Community Hospital service area.

The Senior Program Planning Committee has identified joint needs of senior citizens and has shared resources available within their individual communities, making possible a greater range of choices to serve the senior citizens in their geographic service area. The committee has been influential in promoting projects such as Senior Supper Club, Health Screenings and Senior Law Day.

When H. K. Leonard of The Chelsea Standard approached the committee with the idea of producing a newspaper column especially for Senior Citizens, the group's response was enthusiastic. Physicians and other health professionals were contacted to review or to provide articles for publication in the column. The resulting column represents the culmination of the project.

Today's article and the ensuing articles have been selected with the Senior Program Planning Committee's approval. If you have any questions dealing with senior issues which you would like to have addressed, or ideas to contribute for future articles, you may contact the committee through The Chelsea Standard, or Chelsea Senior Health Connection at Chelsea Community Hospital.

The Senior Program Planning Committee members include: Ms. Barbara Bell, Dexter Community Education; Meredith Hanna, Stockbridge Community Education; Marie Morgan, Stockbridge Senior Center; Mary Lou Rigg, WCC Regional Office; Carolyn Darling, Chelsea Retirement Community; Faye Johnston, Resident Representative, CRC; Dianne Schwab, Manchester Resource Center; Armona Pettit, Dexter Nutrition; Barbara Zaret, Council on Aging; Marian Cohen, U of M Family Practice; Jackie Tracy, Chelsea School District; Arlene Larson, Chelsea Senior Nutrition Site; Ruth Smith, Chelsea Senior Citizen Center; Katie Chapman, Senior Citizen Representative; Mary Alice Kalmbach, CCH Volunteers; Jean DuRussel-Weston, Community Health Education; Janet Toif, Director Senior Services, Chelsea Community Hospital; Alice Rhodes, CCH Senior Services.

The O's of the Eyes

Mrs. Jones has always had good vision and, except for reading glasses purchased at the drug store, she has never needed glasses. When she went to renew her driver's license, she could not read the chart well enough to pass the eye exam. So, she went to see the local "eye doctor." After spending an hour examining her, he sent her to the adjacent office to see someone else who actually fit the glasses. And, he recommended that she visit another type of eye doctor for a routine checkup. Mrs. Jones wondered why she had to see three different people.

Ophthalmologists, Optometrists, Opticians—all do something with one's eyes, but Who does What?

Ophthalmologists are physicians. They study medicine for four years after college, then train another two to four years to specialize in conditions of the eye. Examples include glaucoma, cataracts and detached retina. Ophthalmologists are the only eye specialists who do surgery and, in most states, are the only ones who can prescribe medications for eye problems.

Ophthalmologists are called "doctor" and use an M.D., standing for medical doctor, or D.O., doctor of osteopathy, after their name.

Optometrists specialize in fitting glasses and contact lenses. After college, they spend three years in optometry school studying the care and conditions of the eye. Optometrists do refractions and prescribe glasses and contact lenses. They also test for glaucoma. In a few states, they are licensed to prescribe medications as well. Optometrists refer patients to ophthalmologists for diagnosis and treatment of eye diseases.

Optometrists are also called "doctor" and use an O.D., standing for doctor of optometry, after their name.

Opticians fit glasses and contact lenses using the measures provided by optometrists or ophthalmologists. They are not called "doctor," and they cannot examine the eyes or prescribe glasses or medications. Opticians often work in the office of an ophthalmologist or optometrist.

When do you see which one? Visit an optician if you already have a recent prescription and you simply need a pair of glasses or contact lenses.

See an optometrist to have your eyes checked for acuity of vision. Vision changes subtly over time, and, like Mrs. Jones, you may not be aware that you need glasses or need a change in prescription.

Have a complete eye exam by an ophthalmologist at least every two years and more frequently if you have a history of eye disease or suspect any problems. An ophthalmologist can detect problems no other practitioner can, so it is essential to see this type of eye professional.

Even if you feel entirely healthy, have a regular check-up by your family physician, he or she may detect diabetes, high blood pressure, or other health problems that affect the eye. Talk with your family doctor about past and future visits to eye professionals.

Whoever you see, before the exam begins, ask the doctor exactly what he will and will not do.

Why See an Eye Doctor? Older adults are at high risk of eye problems that may cause blindness if not diagnosed and treated early. Most problems can be cured, prevented or minimized with early and proper attention. Glaucoma, cataracts, macular degeneration and diabetic retinopathy are all conditions that strike a large number of older adults and can cause blindness. Symptoms tend to come on slowly, and thus eye problems may only be noticed by professionals.

Glaucoma, for example, is painless. If not detected, it causes blindness. If discovered by your ophthalmologist or optometrist, use of drops or other medications can prevent blindness. The key to preventing this and other eye conditions is to have regular check-ups, even if vision seems fine.

For further information and referral to local practitioners, contact the county medical association or the state association of optometrists.

MCRC Sets March 31 For Annual Meeting

The 27th annual Mill Creek Research Council meeting has been scheduled for March 31 at 8 p.m. at the Lima Town Hall. To make this meeting's plans the current board of directors met Feb. 19 at Janet McCalla's home.

Board members for 1991-92 are Charles Arnold, chairman; David Bacon; William Chandler, treasurer; Barbara Eby; Alan Mansfield; Pam Mansfield; Janet McCalla; Betty Messman, corresponding secretary; Gerald Myers; Margaret Sias, recording secretary; Ariya Spink, vice-chairman; and Linda White.

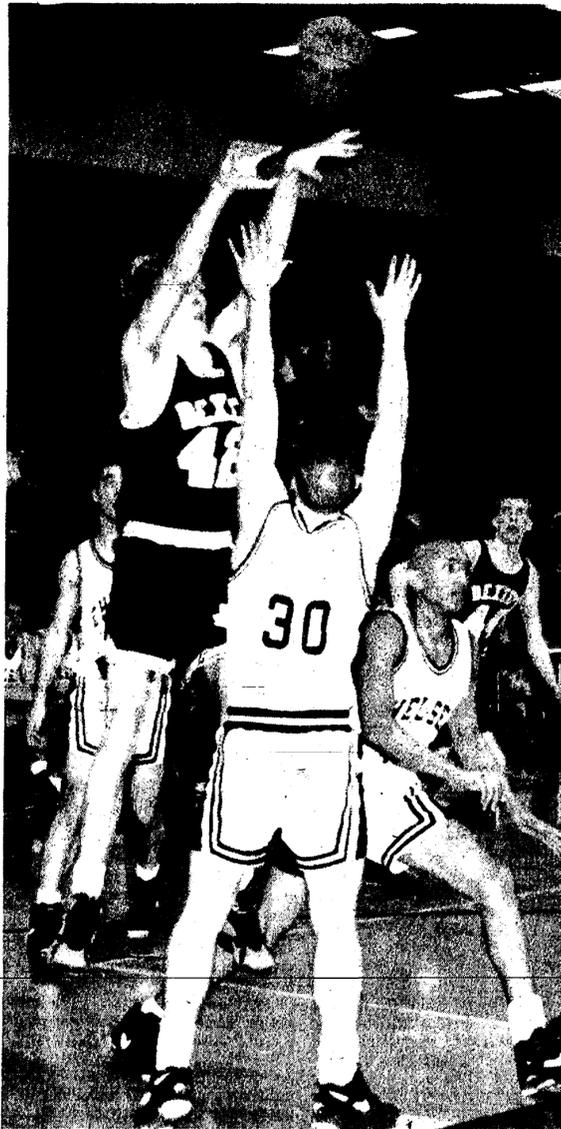

Of major local concern in the spring of 1991 was the possible use of lands at the corner of Scio, Lodi, Freedom, and Lima townships as a low level radioactive waste disposal site. This site has been dropped from consideration at this time. Not much mention has been made lately as to just how this waste problem will be handled.

Major business on March 31 will be electing the board of directors for 1992-93 to serve this community's concerns, organization and reviewing past and possible future developments.

The Huron Clinton Park Authority's proposed Mill Creek Park is still on Washtenaw County's plans for Lima township. The County Planning Commission expects to review county plans again before long. Will this site remain on their revised plans?

1992-1993 dues are payable to treasurer, William Chandler, $10 for a renewal, $12 for new members. Questions, call a MCRC board member.

New Technology Causes Need for Massive Retraining

U.S. businesses are having a tougher time finding workers with the skills today's jobs required, according to a Business Week special report cited by a National Education Center publication.

"The nation is facing a monumental mismatch between jobs and the ability of Americans to do them," the magazine says.

This shortage of trained labor could affect the country's ability to improve technology and productivity, and increase the earnings gap between skilled and unskilled workers—the top and bottom halves of the work force.

Business Week cites three factors that are combining to increase the demand for skilled labor: more sophisticated technology, rapid growth in high-skill fields and the trend toward organizing work in an arrangement of work teams.

About 21 million new workers will need to be trained and another 30 million will need to acquire additional skills during the next 12 years. Current workers will need "massive retraining" to meet changing job requirements, the article says.

"True, many companies are using technology to replace workers—but those employees who stay on the job generally must improve their skills," the publication reports.

New York Telephone, for example, has a work force less than half the size of the one it had 20 years ago. But telephone repairers now have to use hand-held computers to keep track of orders and splicing technicians are working with delicate fiber optics instead of 100-pound wire.

Writer Joseph F. Coates predicts that in the next five years, four out of five people in the industrial world will be doing their jobs differently than the way they have in the past. The American Society for Training and Development (ASTD) estimates that by the year 2000, 75 percent of all employees will need to be retrained for new jobs or taught new skills for their old jobs.

The training gap is reflected in the country's huge pool of "displaced" workers—about 2.3 million a year during the 1980s. One-third of those were unable to find jobs because they lacked the basic skills, Business Week reports. Others found work, but were forced to accept "substantially lower" pay.

Conference Set On Healthy Work Environment Issues

Chelsea Community Hospital's Occupational Medicine Program and the Washtenaw Area Health Care Coalition are co-sponsoring a conference for businesses and industries entitled, "Promoting a Healthy Work Environment."

Purpose of the conference is to assist the participant in gaining a better understanding of how to prevent work-related injuries, decrease lost work time and establish safe and healthy work environments. It is for area employers, human resource managers and other staff involved in worker's compensation and work-related health issues.

The conference will be Thursday, April 9, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Weber's Inn in Ann Arbor. There is no charge to the participant.

For more information about the program or to register, please call Linda Pearsall at 475-3913.

Learn How To Prune Your Fruit Trees

By Nancy J. Butler, Urban Horticulturist
 Having difficulty figuring out which branches to remove and which to leave when pruning your fruit trees? Or, even more confusing, have you figured out yet how to unravel a vigorous grape vine enough so you can decide what needs to be cut off? Fruit trees and grapes require annual pruning to produce their best. If you've put off pruning your fruit plants this year because it gives you conceptions, come see how the experts do it!

The Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service is sponsoring a pruning demonstration on Saturday, April 4, from 10 a.m. to noon at an orchard in the Saline area. The cost for this demonstration is $5 per family, including materials. Call 971-0079 to confirm your attendance and for directions to the orchard. Dress for the weather—come rain or shine, the demonstration will be held!

Leadership Seminar Offers Training for Service with Schools

By Mary Kronenberg, 4-H Youth Agent
Up to 25 Washtenaw county residents will receive specialized leadership training to prepare them for leadership roles on school boards and parent-teacher organizations.

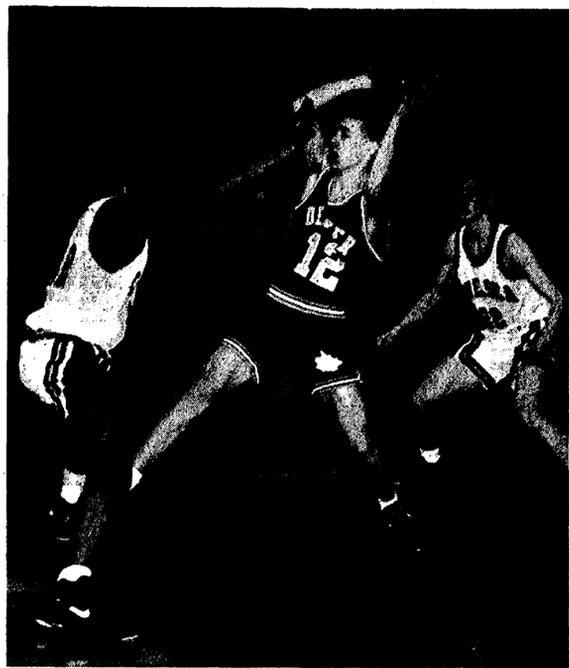

This training, The Leadership Seminar Series conducted by the Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service, will focus on personal leadership development, effective organization of meetings and information on school finance and educational practices.

Individuals involved in the program may be selected through nomination by school principals or PTO presidents or by registration through the Co-operative Extension Service.

Seminars will be held Tuesday evenings from March 25 to May 5. Sessions will include topics on communication, conflict management, school finance, leadership style and balancing leadership roles and family.

For more information and a registration brochure, call Mary Kronenberg, Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service at (313) 971-0079.

Co-operative Extension Service programs and materials are available to all without regard to race, color, national origin, sex, handicap age or religion.

Washtenaw Printers Challenge Others in March of Dimes Walk

On Sunday, April 26, printers from all over the Washtenaw county area will make the annual challenge to each other to collect the most pledges for the March of Dimes' Walk-America.

Seven area printing companies have already accepted the challenge including McNaughton & Gunn, Inc., Malloy Lithographing, Inc., Thomson-Shore, Inc., Cushing-Malloy, Inc., Braun-Brumfield, Inc., University of Michigan Printing Services and The Ann Arbor News.

Terri Barlow, from Dexter's own Thomson-Shore, expects a good turnout of walkers from her co-workers and, of course, lots of fun on walk day.

The Printer's Challenge, also known as Step Out With the Printers, began in 1989 as the first challenge issued in the Ann Arbor area March of Dimes Walk-America. It is a challenge among printers to field teams, gather pledges and raise money for the March of Dimes campaign for healthier babies.

The printer team which collects the most money for March of Dimes wins ownership of a traveling trophy. Since its inception, area printers have raised over $55,000. For the last two years, Thomson-Shore employees have garnered the trophy. They challenge other printers to try to take it away from them.

Our Teacher in China Looks Ahead to Spring

Feb. 29, 1992

Dear Folks,

Well another month is ending and we are edging nearer to spring. We are all looking forward to summer and fresh vegetables and fruits. Two of my fellow teachers, who had been staunch vegetarians when they arrived six months ago, are now eating chicken and fish with gusto. You see, all we can get in the winter months for fruit is bananas and oranges. If you want a salad, the lettuce is always boiled. Believe me, a boiled lettuce salad is not a taste tempting dish.

Vegetables grown above ground are always boiled. Why? In a third world country like China, with a billion people, the easiest and best fertilizer comes from people—not animals or chemicals. Every few days, night soil people come along with their big tanks strapped to a wagon pulled behind a tired horse and collect the human excrement to be deposited on the fields and gardens in and around Beijing. Not an appetizing thought, but practical. Thus, all our vegetarians have gone over to the enemy—temporarily. I ask you to consider this. If what I said is true, and it is. Then the tourists who are eating nice crunchy salads in the big hotels downtown are either eating very special hot house veggies (which all of us here have yet to see, or find) OR in the kitchens of these big hotels little Chinese are chuckling to themselves everytime a big-nosed foreigner orders a salad.

But on to other topics. Like I said earlier, spring is here. And with spring has come a new phenomenon. Hula hoops. They have become the most popular toy in Beijing. They cost seven or eight yuan (Chinese dollars) each, which is very expensive for the average Chinese family, but they are being heralded as the new marvel for not only having fun, but reducing your waistline. My students were anxious to know how much we like hula hoops in the States, and I didn't have the heart to tell them that once again they are a little late catching on. Some of them still have not recovered from the shock that John Denver and Karen Carpenter are not mega popular on all the radio stations. (I only broke the news to a few of the stronger ones that Karen Carpenter had died quite a few years ago.) Who needs a time machine to journey to the past, when all you have to do is buy a plane ticket!

Speaking of time travel, in many ways China is still hundreds of years in the past. Yesterday, I went to visit Ms. Wang, a fellow teacher in my department who had just had a baby two weeks ago, and I was astonished at what I found.

For one month after giving birth, new mothers observe zuoyuezi. During this period the new mother lies in bed as much as possible. The mother-in-law, the popo, has charge of this. Ms. Wang told me that her popo didn't want her to walk, except for going to the toilet. If you move too much during this time it will be very bad for your body, which needs so much rest to recover from the trauma of childbirth. As a matter of fact, if you move too much during this time of confinement you will pay for it with a lot of pain when you grow old.

In addition to staying in bed, new mothers eat 10 to 12 eggs a day. Eggs are easy to digest, packed with nutrition, and therefore vital for a happy, healthy zuoyuezi. At the end of the 30 days the Chinese celebrate with manyuejiu which means "full month wine." This is a special party where the best food and wine is served to friends and family. I imagine one of the happiest people at the party is the poor, tired, pooped husband who has been cleaning house, doing laundry, and cooking meals while his mother cares for the baby and the wife lies like a bored princess in her bed.

When I talked to Mrs. Wang about this, she was a little embarrassed that even in modern times these old customs were being observed, yet things are slow to change in China. However, they DO change. Women who give birth in the rural areas, which are much more backward than in the cities, still do not drink anything cold, wash, or comb their hair, or even read books or watch TV (remember, you are supposed to rest everything—even your eyes during this time). When I left, I felt sorry for she was clearly bored, yet trapped by tradition.

Mary Ellen Myning.

How Many Medicines Are You Taking?

Prepared by Leslie Shimp, Pharm.D. and Nancy Grillo, Pharm.D. Student U-M Family Practice Center at Chelsea Geriatric Health Care Team

America is a maturing society. Every day 5,000 individuals turn 65 years old, and more than one half of the population is over 50 years old. The average life expectancy of a person born today is 75 years. It is in the elderly that problems of illness and the demand for health services is the highest. The elderly often have multiple diseases, particularly chronic disease which involve one or more organ systems. As health problems multiply, so often, do prescription medications.

Medication use is certainly an important aspect of medical care. Medication is probably the most cost effective therapeutic modality that we have available to us. Medicines are very effective at saving lives and increasing the quality of life for many people. On the other hand, medications can also be hazardous, especially when many are used.

Medication related problems increase along with the number of medicines taken. Each year Americans take 1.6 billion prescriptions. Incorrect use of medicines causes U.S. citizens to lose 20 million work-days per year and costs $10-15 billion dollars to correct. Part of this cost is the cost of hospitalization; about 5% of people who are hospitalized every year are admitted because of a bad reaction to a medicine. Older persons are more likely to experience an undesirable effect from a medicine not only because they use more medications than younger people, but because age itself is a risk factor for such problems because of the bodily changes that occur.

There are two basic principles patients can use to avoid medication related problems. First, provide information to your doctors and pharmacist; second, learn more about your medications.

Doctors need basic information in order to make a diagnosis and prescribe medication. Before visiting the doctor, be prepared to tell them any symptoms you are experiencing, when they began, and how they developed. Be sure to inform the doctor of all medications you are taking, including non-prescription medications such as aspirin, antacids, and vitamins.

Inform your doctor of all new medical problems or changes in your health. Common problems such as diarrhea or constipation can be caused by your medication; some medications you swallow can cause rashes or coughs; some eye drops can cause tiredness; side effects can take many forms. Even if you don't think a problem could be caused by your medicine, tell your doctor or pharmacist so they can check.

Ask questions of your pharmacist and doctor. If necessary, write them down before the visit.

What information should you know about the medicines you take? The National Council on Patient Information and education has created a list of questions that consumers should ask their pharmacist or doctor about each new medicine:

1. What is the name of the medication and what is it supposed to do?
2. How and when do I take the medicine and for how long?
3. What foods, drinks, other medications or activities should I avoid while taking this drug?
4. Are there any side effects, and what do I do if they occur?
5. Is there any written information available about this medicine.

It is very important that you know about all medicines you are taking. Ninety-six percent of people don't ask any questions about their medications. Don't be in this group. Ask your pharmacist if any medicines you are taking will interact with each other, what are the common side effects expected, and if the medication can be taken with food. Importantly, tell your pharmacist what non-prescription medications you are taking.

Finally, keeping an up-to-date record of all medicines you take is important. This record can be especially useful if you are hospitalized or if you need health care while you are traveling. All pharmacies in Washtenaw county have wallet cards available to you to use as a medication record. Ask your pharmacist for the wallet cards and be an active participant in your health care to help avoid medication-related problems.

VITAMIN A

"Eat your carrots. They're good for your eyes."
We have all been told since childhood that it's important to eat carrots for good vision. How true is this? Will we see better if we eat more carrots?

Vitamin A is present in most vegetables, and there is nothing special about eating carrots in particular. It is also found in animal liver, as an alternative dietary source. Vitamin A is necessary for the complex chemical reactions that occur in the retina of the eye in the processing of vision.

Deficiency of vitamin A results in night blindness and drying of skin and mucous membranes, the moist lining of all body cavities. The night blindness is due to degeneration of retinal cells, which are dependent upon vitamin A to function. Left untreated, vitamin A deficiency would eventually lead to total blindness.

Dietary sources of vitamin A are widespread, and in our society, deficiency would be very unusual. In addition, our body stores great reserves of the vitamin, so years could pass between dietary insufficiency and onset of symptoms. Blindness from vitamin A deficiency is a serious problem in some developing countries where dietary intake is poor.

Taking extra vitamin A will not help you to see better, but it's still a good idea to "eat your vegetables".

Card of Thanks 17

CARD OF THANKS
Our love and thanks go out to everyone who has been kind to us. To Tom and Linda Dyer and the boys for always being there to help carry another load, and for being the best friends Jorge ever had. To Dr. Ann Cavender and Susy Pettit and everyone else at Salem Veterinary Services. Your strength was the only thing that kept us going, and your love and support will never be forgotten. To Roger and Julie Lussier, for all your prayers, love and wonderful thoughts, not only for, but for the past six years. To Paul and Karen Schmitt and Paul Koengeter for helping me to carry out Jorge's last wishes, to just say thank you doesn't seem to be enough. To Lisa and Charles for always being there no matter how difficult things were. Jorge considered you both to be his friends. To Dr. Swartz and everyone at the outpatient dialysis unit for all the support and help you gave to Jorge. To Father DuPuis and Deaton Shaneyfelt for the wonderful words of kindness you gave us. To Mr. Cole for allowing me to be there for Jorge and to Monte and all of our friends and family called, sent food, flowers and cards, your kindness and love have helped us more than you will ever know. Jorge loved you all. God Bless.
Bertha, Mara, Jorge (Hommy), Layla and Alexander Jude Rosario.

Notice of Public Hearing on Amendment to the Lyndon Township Cable Communications Franchise Ordinance. Take notice that the Lyndon Township board shall hold a public hearing on the 7th day of April, 1992 at 7:00 p.m. in the Lyndon Township Hall for the purpose of considering the following amendment to the Lyndon Township Cable Communications Franchise Ordinance: Section 24a. VARIANCES. Where there are practical difficulties or unnecessary hardship in the way of carrying out the strict letter of this Ordinance, the Township Board shall have the power to vary or modify the application of the provisions of this Ordinance so that the intent and purpose of the Ordinance shall be observed, public safety secured and substantial justice done. Any applicant may apply for a variance from any provision of the Ordinance in which case the Township Board shall hold a public hearing upon such application within thirty (30) days from its filing, give due notice thereof to all parties, and decide the application within thirty (30) days after hearing. Appearance at the hearing may be made by any party or by agent or by attorney. The Township Board shall keep a record of said hearing and shall render a written decision. The Township Board may attach reasonable conditions in granting any variance from any provision of the Ordinance, and the breach of any conditions or the failure of any applicant to comply with the conditions shall void the variance. Written comments may be sent to Linda Wade, 11995 Roepke Rd., Gregory, MI 48137.

NEW BASS FOR MUSIC DEPARTMENT: Mark Kemner, Dan Watson and Peter Rosheger, orchestra director, show off the new bass purchased by the Music Boosters and presented to the Chelsea Music Department. The bass was desperately needed this year as there were not enough instruments to meet the needs of the growing orchestra program. The Music Booster organization was able to provide the funds due to the outstanding support from the community with regard to their fund-raising events.

Instructional Skate Program Registration Underway at Arena

Session IV of the Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation Instructional Skate program will begin March 30. Pre-schoolers, youths, and adults can take advantage of the six-week program which is held at Veteran's Indoor Ice Arena, 2150 Jackson Rd., Ann Arbor.

Classes are grouped by age and ability and follow the United States Figure Skating Association Basic Skills Program. Fees and times vary.

Registration is in person at Veteran's Arena or at the Department of Parks and Recreation on the 5th Floor of City Hall. Class sizes are limited, so register early.

For more information call 761-7240 or 994-2780.

The first non-Native American known to have seen what are now the states of Arizona and New Mexico was a Black explorer named Estevanico.

Forensics Team 6th at Tourney

Chelsea High school forensics team placed sixth at the 26-team Utica-Eisenhower Tournament last Saturday in Utica.

Chelsea had 16 entries, 11 reached the semi-finals, and six reached the finals. Chelsea was one of three class B schools in the tournament. The rest were class A schools.

The 9-10 duo of Colby Skelton and David Seitz won their division with "Babel Rap." Jessica Cauffiel and Christine Koch took second place in the same division with "Self-Torture and Strenuous Exercise."

"That's the first time I can recall a school taking the top two places in a category," said Chelsea adviser Bill Coelius.

Other place-winners included Megan Stielstra, second in informative; the duo of Rob Coelius and Steve Leeman, second; Becky Pryor, third in poetry; and Carey Wallace, fifth in oratory.

Chelsea hosts a forensics district tournament next Tuesday at Beach Middle school.

A CHECK WAS PRESENTED by Janice Manning, president of the Music Boosters, to Steven Hinz, choir director, for $797.94, on behalf of the Music Boosters to help defray the cost of the choir tour to Montreal.
