Village Plans Two-Day Pick-Up Of Items Too Large for Trash

Village residents will be able to dispose of old appliances, furniture, or other items too large for regular weekly trash pick-ups in a special two-day program Thursday and Friday, June 18-19.

The program will be run using a sticker system similar to the regular trash collection system. A resident who has an item or items for collection may purchase a sticker at the village offices. The stickers will be identical to the current orange trash stickers but will possess a stamp indicating "appliance," "furniture," or "tire." In addition, the sticker will contain the official village seal.

Appliance stickers will cost $15. This category covers stoves, refrigerators, freezers, water heaters, furnaces, air-conditioners, bathtubs, and toilets. It is not meant to cover small items like toasters.

Furniture stickers will cost $10. This category covers chairs, couches, mattresses, box springs, dressers, cabinets, countertops, and other large wooden items. It does not apply to scrap wood, plumbing fixtures, portions of walls, or other demolition.

Tire stickers will have two prices. Tires up to a 16" rim size will cost $5 per tire. Tires greater than 16" rims will cost $15 per tire. The more costly category covers tractor tires, semi-truck and trailer tires, and off-road tires. It is the responsibility of the resident to purchase the correct sticker and the decision of the collection crew will be final.

Village crews will pick up the items on the west side of the village (west side of M-52 and west) on June 18 and on the east side (east side of M-52 and east) on June 19. Each item to be collected must have a sticker affixed and be on the curb by 7 a.m. on the day of pick-up.

Items that are at the curb and are not covered by the collection, or items which do not bear a sticker or have the wrong sticker, will not be picked up.

Stickers went on sale Monday, June 8. They will only be available at the village offices.

Local Millages Approved In School Elections, Voters Return Incumbents

Chelsea School District avoided the budget ax for at least another year as voters approved an additional tax levy of 1.95 mills for one year in Monday's annual elections.

In one of the heaviest turnouts ever, voters approved the new millage 1,460 to 1,284, with 27 spoiled ballots. A total of 2,757 votes were cast. The turnout was so heavy that assistant superintendent Fred Mills borrowed four additional voting booths from Sylvan township.

"I am extremely pleased," school board president Anne Comeau said Tuesday morning.

"I have to salute the community for supporting the schools. When the chips are down, we feel we can count on them. An awful lot of people worked very hard to get this millage passed and I'm sure their efforts made the difference."

Superintendent Joe Plasecki said the vote "gives us a year of breathing space and in the meantime we hope some changes can be made in the way schools are funded. We cannot continue to have the kind of property assessment increases we've had the past few years and expect the public to continue to support the schools."

Chelsea voters also approved a one-year renewal of the base millage of 26.02 mills, 1,875 to 837, with 25 spoiled ballots.

The district sought one-year millages due to the uncertainty of state funding. In addition, most of the millage increase was necessary due to state actions, from the state-wide property tax freeze to tax base sharing.

"The board and professional educators will continue to work with the state legislature to make them address the issue to fair and equitable funding of state education," Comeau said.

"It takes an awful lot of time to run a millage campaign, and it's time that could be used for other purposes. It's frustrating to think we may very well have to go through this again next year."

Washtenaw Intermediate School District's charter millage (1.45 mills) for special education was defeated here, 1,558 to 1,149, as it was county-wide, 10,787 to 12,475.

And incumbent Board of Education trustees John Eisenbeiser and Joe Redding were returned to office with 1,768 and 1,634 votes, respectively, while Domingo Hermsillo, who perhaps ran the most visible campaign of the three, finished third with 1,109.

At about 10:20 p.m. Mills walked in to Monday's school board meeting in the Beach Middle school media center with arms raised in victory, and everyone in the room understood that the millage increase had been approved. North school principal Bill Wescott abruptly stopped his talk on school improvement while board members, administrators, teachers, and community members applauded the news and congratulated each other. When the board meeting resumed some 25 minutes later Wescott said "that's the only time I've ever had a standing ovation at a board meeting."

The millage increase means $834,021 in budget cuts will be restored, as approved later in the board meeting.

That means the district will retain a whole host of programs and people, from its substance abuse counselor to Enrichment Triad Program, to media center aides, to elementary art, physical education, and music teachers, to 7-9 grade sports and a wide range of other extra-curricular activities. Books will be purchased and curriculum changes implemented. Curriculum director Laurie Bissett and athletic director Wayne Welton will not become half-time administrators next year.

Laid-off teachers were notified Monday night of the vote results and Tuesday administrators began to plan for hiring teachers for vacancies.

The failure of the 1.45-mill request by the intermediate school district to fund state-mandated special education programs, however, means Chelsea will not be able to roll back its millage by .5 mills. Chelsea's operating millage for 1992-93 will go to 37.73 mills, although its total authorized millage will be 42.95 mills. The difference is the effect of the Headlee Amendment rollbacks over the last several years.

The WISD millage would have allowed reimbursement for special education programs to remain stable for five years at 85 percent. Now, however, reimbursement will decline from about 65 percent this year to about 40 percent next year. The difference will have to come out of the general fund.

"I am extremely disappointed," said Comeau, who is also president of the WISD board.

"The money will have to come out of local school districts' general funds, and some districts are better able to do it than others. I'm afraid it won't be as equitable as if it had gone through WISD. I guess it really comes down to the same old question of asking people for more money that will affect their tax structure. I understand the concerns. Eventually our state legislators are going to have to address the problem."

Redding won his third term to the board of education and Eisenbeiser was returned for his second term. They have the distinction of being the only two board members to have voted against last year's $23 million bond issue, which was overwhelmingly defeated in a special election last September.

"There may be a message for the board," Comeau said of the overwhelming support for the incumbents

Serial Murders Prompt Call For Parole Review

Changes in the parole system are under study by Governor John Engler and hearings are planned in both the Senate and House as a result of an apparent series of murders by a repeat offender paroled in 1990 from a prison term for his fifth conviction in 12 years.

Defenders of the system, however, said the newest crimes were not foreseeable and that the tragedy could have been avoided only if violent offenders are given lifetime sentences.

The new reviews were prompted by the confession of Leslie Williams to the sexual assault and murder of four women, and several other unreported sexual assaults. His parole was granted after serving seven and a half years of a seven-to-30 year sentence for attempted rape and as a habitual offender.

Hearings have already been scheduled in the Senate Family Law, Criminal Law and corrections Committee on parole procedures, with testimony from Corrections director Kenneth McGinnis and acting parole board chair Thomas Patten. And the chair of the House Corrections Committee said he also will hold hearings, although none have been scheduled.

Engler, who expressed outrage over the murders, wants an over-all examination of the system, including parole, sentencing and assessment of inmates, communications director Rusty Hills said.

MICHIGAN MIRROR

By Warren M. Hoyt, Secretary, Michigan Press Association

"It's easy to blame somebody, but you can't just lock up everybody in the state," he said. "We want to look and see how to avoid a similar situation in the future."

Hills, who indicated a review of the "lifetime parole board" could be in order, also suggested perhaps multiple violent offenders should be given lifetime sentences. Williams could have been sentenced to a life term, but the trial judge opted for the more lenient 30-year maximum.

Sen. Michael Bouchard (R-Birmingham) proposed restructuring of the parole board to provide for direct appointment of members by the Corrections director, rather than appointment through the civil service process.

"I'm asking that we restructure the state parole board so that habitual offenders of this type can't slip through the administrative and bureaucratic cracks," he said. He said more stringent parole oversight is needed than is provided by the current board.

The proposed restructuring would limit parole board members to three-year terms and give the department director authority to remove a member at any time for any reason.

McGinnis said he welcomes a review of the parole board appointment process, but had no other immediate comment.

Patten has defended the decision in the Williams case, and has said he knows of no changes in the process that would have led to a different outcome.

Officials said Williams' three convictions after being paroled from earlier crimes were outweighed by a good prison record, completion of a high school degree, good work habits in prison industries, and progress under psychotherapy.

Oakland county prosecutor Richard Thompson said while criminals deserve a second chance, "any rational parole board would not have let (Williams) out before he served the maximum time, let alone the minimum time."

About 40 percent of persons paroled are returned to prison, half of those for committing new crimes, Corrections officials say. In 1990, the most recent year that statistics were available, 77 percent of the 11,400 parole cases considered by the board were granted, including that of Williams.

William Goodman, a prominent Detroit defense lawyer, defended the parole system which he said makes it difficult for criminals, especially violent ones, to be released early. "The fact is that unless you're going to say every sexual offender gets a life sentence, this is a problem we will have to deal with," he said.

Critics such as the governor and the Oakland county prosecutor "are political opportunists who play on people's fears and basically beat up on bureaucrats and parole board members in order to acquire power," he said.

He added the Oakland county prosecutor could have, but apparently did not, object to the judge's sentence in the last Williams' conviction nor did he challenge the parole.

Goodman said one useful improvement would be to spend more money for more intensive and comprehensive assessment of prisoners eligible for parole hearings.

"What we see are the sort of dog-like attacks by right wing politicians just feeding on people's anxiety, fear and grief," Goodman said. Making the parole board more subject to political pressure would just let politicians bow to that pressure in a notorious case, he said.

House Corrections chair Ted Wallace (D-Detroit), who said his committee will begin hearings to review the parole system as soon as possible, said there are a number of unanswered questions in the Williams case.

"The guy spent seven and a half years in prison. It could indicate that we're not spending enough time and money on rehabilitation, or that we're not screening adequately before we release people," he said. He noted Williams was apparently abused as a youth, describing such a person as "a potential ticking time bomb."

Wallace said he would like to have a variety of people, including some from both the Departments of Social Services and Corrections, to testify before the committee. Comments from persons who serve on parole boards would be helpful as well, he said.

"We need to try and see if we can figure out a system that actually works," Wallace said. "Maybe what we're doing is we're not spending our money wisely."

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellow that drives the bread truck was running late when he got to the country store Saturday night, but he was in a talking mood anyway. While he was having a pop with one of his leftover snack cakes he told the fellows about taking his two sons to a stock car race recent. He said his boys had bugged him about going since they started trading race driver cards along with baseball cards, so he used some vacation and they went to the Charlotte Motor Speedway.

The bread man explained that watching racing is opposite from watching baseball. With racing the best seats are the highest up and the fustiest away. He got good seats, took his field glasses and he and his boys saw quite a show. It wasn't so much loud billboards going around and around and starting into one another," he said, "as it was folks watching the cars. It turned out everybody had a radio to tell them what they were seeing and even then most of them had to wait for somebody else to jump and yell so they would know when to jump up and yell.

For all that, he said, if he learned anything at the race it is that car racing has got to be the best spectator sport for a family. He used his glasses to watch folks packed into what looked like a campground in the middle of the circle track. They must of come in the night before and when the cars were running them that weren't laying or standing on top of their trucks and vans stood holding to the wire fence looking for the world like pictures of displaced people in refugee camps. For sure, he said, families that go racing together stay together because they can't get out til the cars stop.

After the bread man left, the fellows got to discussing the misery folks go through to have fun. Bug Hookum recalled the line where ever summer a third of the people in this country will be ill housed, ill fed and ill clothed, and they'll call it vacation. Them that want to enjoy all the vacation they can stand as quick as they can go camping in a tent in the rain, Bug said, and them that set up in a park in a motor home with all the comforts of home miss all the fun.

Actual, broke in Zeke Grubb, this is the time of year Americans learn how miserably they are, so they got to go on vacation to get their minds off their troubles. All the reports of all the commencement speeches at all the schools remind us we are beset with more problems than Job, our town, our state, our country and our world are at a crossroads where one way means life and the other death. The only hope we got is the new graduates and they had better get cracking before the future disappears before their very eyes.

Zeke instant saw how big a mistake he had made. Ed Doolittle whipped out his clippings on graduation speeches he collects ever year, and he commenced laying them on the fellows. If Ed ain't headed off he'll fillybuster the discussions for the next two weeks, and it'll take the fellows another two weeks to get the agender in any kind of shape.

Ed give a summary of all the new hazards to humanity discovered this year by the experts that inflict final punishment on the students. These are terrible times, Ed said, and only the dedication and brotherly love of this year's graduates can keep us going.

With that burden laid on them, Ed allowed, the graduates deserve a break.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

To be eligible for a scholarship, a student must be enrolled full time in a medical program to become a physician. This must be a degree program and the applicant must be a resident of the Hospital service area.

Scholarship applications are available at Chelsea Community Hospital and may be picked up at the Information Desk near the main entrance between 9 a.m. and 7 p.m. The completed application should be returned to Linda Pearsall, administration, by Monday, June 29.

A new comic book hero called Captain Cornelius has been invented by the Illinois Corn Marketing Board. The eight-foot-tall corn character is aimed at giving school kids a positive image of the contributions agriculture is making toward improving the environment.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recently issued permits to commercial companies to field-test genetically engineered crop plants. The tests include tomatoes, corn, apples and potatoes.

VFW AUXILIARY presented a flag to North Elementary school last Thursday, which was raised by principal Bill Wescott with help from school fifth-graders. Ben Manning played Taps during the raising. Historical books were purchased as a gift to the school from the Class of 1989 from the proceeds of a clothes hangar drive and donations. The presentation was made by class presidents Ryan Cook, Paloma Haist, Corene Wildey, and Billy Lucas.

READ ROCK RAP TUNE INTO '92 SUMMER READING

"Read Rock Rap: Tune into '92 Summer Reading" at McKune Memorial Library. Are you between the ages 3-5 or have completed grades 1-4? If so it's time for you to sign up for the Summer Reading Program at the Library. Registration begins Saturday, June 13, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. The last day of registration is Monday, July 6 and the program ends Saturday, July 25.

Readers are asked to read 15 library books in that six-week period. Incentives are awarded after you read 5, 10, and 15 books. There is a weekly drawing from the registrations and the winners receive a paperback book of their choice to keep.

There are also games such as word searches, mazes, and many more for children to take home.

Listeners help their parents keep track of the number of library books they have heard and pick their favorite each week. After they have picked 2, 4, and 6 favorites they also are awarded incentives from the Library.

This year's program has been supported by the Friends of the Library, McDonald's, and the UAW Local 437. For more information call the Library at 475-8732. They're playing your song at the library this summer so set your dial at McKUNE.

Be An Informed Consumer When Using Nicotine Patches

With the recent availability of nicotine patches, many smokers are finding it easier to kick the habit, but some precautionary measures should be followed when using the patches to obtain the best results.

According to Pat Harris, who is co-ordinator of Smoke Stoppers, a smoking cessation program at Catherine McAuley Health System, "The nicotine patch is a wonderful new tool for people who have been terribly addicted to smoking. The patch allows a gradual withdrawal of nicotine which means individuals are not as distressed during the cessation process. This makes it easier for smokers to deal not only with the physical dependency but also with the psychological issues related to smoking."

Harris cautioned individuals that the nicotine patch should be used with a smoking cessation class. "While the patch deals with the physical aspects of nicotine withdrawal, it does not address the physical withdrawal symptoms or psychological symptoms such as anxiety, the need for a reward or smoking after a meal."

"The patch alone won't stop the smoking habit," added Harris. "Motivation must also be there. But motivation can be developed, which is why smoking cessation classes are important. As individuals move through the process and have some success in stopping smoking, they become more motivated."

Harris offered the following advice if an individual is considering the use of nicotine patches:

- See your physician to get a prescription for nicotine patches. "We've seen incidents where people have gotten patches from friends," said Harris. "The patches are drug therapy; they shouldn't be passed around. Individuals need to receive guidelines and be monitored by professionals. Without instructions, people are not using the service correctly."

- If you smoke less than 10 cigarettes a day, you don't need to use nicotine patches. According to Harris, if this group of smokers uses nicotine patches, it will only increase their dependency on nicotine.

- If using the patch, do not smoke. "Individuals who smoke while using a patch will get a double dose of nicotine," stated Harris. "This could result in a nicotine overdose, depending on the person's weight and level of nicotine dependency."

- Keep patches away from children and pets. "Nicotine patches need to be disposed of carefully," advised Harris. "Once removed, there is still nicotine on the patch. Take the necessary precautions to keep used patches away from children and pets."

Remember FLAG DAY JUNE 14th

It seems a pertinent question to ask these days, "What Does the flag mean to you? Is it only a symbol? If so, of what? Our nation's independence? Of freedom and democracy? Something to salute occasionally (put of habit)? Is it just a piece of cloth to which a pledge is said? Or does it take center stage mainly at athletic events when a song is sung hurriedly to get a game underway? Is it identified only with a ritualistic habit?"

What do the colors of red, white and blue mean? Do the number of stars mean only a union of separate states? Do the stars mean anything else? What do the red and white stripes represent? Does the color of red symbolize the blood shed by soldiers to gain independence for us? Does the white indicate hope, purity and cleanliness? Does the blue indicate the color of the sky and sea which in turn indicates reverence to God? ... It may mean some of these things to some people. But should it not mean, above everything else, a symbol of American Civilization, Enlightenment and Liberty, a reflection of patriotism at its finest?

Balancing the Federal Budget

By all accounts, Americans are fed up with the goings-on in Washington. This voter anger, in the wake of the House Bank scandal and exploding deficits, is likely to produce a measure which Republicans have been pushing for years: a Constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

By Philip C. Clarke

The surest sign that a balanced budget amendment will come out of Congress this year came from the Democratic Speaker of the House, Tom Foley. Foley has predicted that the House, where the Democrats have a hundred-plus majority, will pass the amendment. The House Budget Committee already has held hearings on the amendment, and the Committee Chairman, Democrat Leon Panetta of California also predicts House passage this year.

According to Washington correspondent Chris Warden, this could well be the year for the balanced budget amendment. The last time the House voted on it in 1990, the amendment fell just seven votes short of the needed two-thirds majority for passage. Meanwhile, on the other side of Capitol Hill, the Senate Judiciary Committee passed such an amendment last May by an 11 to 3 vote. And the Senate Democratic Majority Leader, George Mitchell of Maine, promised a Senate floor vote this summer. When the Senate last voted on a balanced budget amendment—in 1988—the vote total was 66 to 34—just one vote shy of the required two-thirds majority.

While it's apparent that some lawmakers are changing their minds to support a balanced budget, the prospect has other members worried. In opening hearings by the House Budget Committee, Chairman Panetta warned that the challenge would be "to design it in such a way that it does the least harm" to spending programs. And Republican members are concerned that such an amendment could mean big tax hikes which in turn could stifle the economic recovery. Interested observers are waiting to see if big spending lawmakers have any loopholes in mind by which they could get around a balanced budget.

Let's take a look at the amendment that is gathering the most support. Democrat Senator Paul Simon of Illinois and Democrat Congressman Charles Stenholm of Texas have sponsored an amendment which would require a balanced budget each year—unless a three-fifths majority of both the House and the Senate voted to approve a deficit. This proposal also would require a simple majority of the full membership of each House to enact a tax increase. Right now, current law allows taxes to be increased by a majority of only those present and voting.

Because of their concern over the possibility of soaring tax rates, Republicans have offered their own version of a balanced budget amendment. This version would require a three-fifths majority vote for deficit spending and for any tax increase.

As correspondent Warden says, it is this dispute over the tax provisions which presents the most serious obstacle to passage. The Washington Post reports, for example, that Senator Simon would vote against a balanced budget amendment if it contained a three-fifths majority requirement to increase taxes.

If Congress were to work out these differences on taxes, there is little doubt that the States would ratify this amendment. Under the Constitution, three-fourths of the States must approve the amendment. And currently, 49 of the 50 states must balance their budgets, with Vermont the only exception. Support among the States for a federal balanced budget amendment can be seen in another statistic. Under the Constitution, if two-thirds of the state legislators call for a convention to amend the Constitution, they can bypass Congress. Thirty-two states of the necessary 34 have already passed resolutions calling for a Constitutional Convention to enact a balanced budget amendment.

Certainly, a mandatory balanced budget would bring about major changes in the way Washington does business. What with annual deficits and the national debt exploding, interest costs alone are expected to be the largest single expenditure in the federal budget next year.

In their current mood, taxpayers are demanding action, not just rhetoric, to stop the endless overspending by Congress. This election year, Congress finally may get the message.

M-52 from Roepke Rd. to Stockbridge Will Be Rebuilt

A project to rebuild 6.5 miles of M-52 in Washtenaw, Jackson and Ingham counties will begin as early as June 8, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said last week.

The improvements, from Roepke Rd., north of Chelsea, to just east of the M-106 junction of Stockbridge, will be done during daylight hours. Motorists will have access to one shared lane under flag control. MDOT will maintain access to intersecting roads and residential and commercial drives.

There will be no work during the Fourth of July and Labor Day weekends. Both lanes also will be kept open during the Chelsea Community Fair in late August.

The project should be completed by early September.

Correspondent in China Upsets Government with Published Letters

Mary Ellen Mynning didn't quite expect the response she got from her recent Letters from China series that has appeared in this newspaper.

While Mynning, a 1965 Dexter High school graduate, has gotten more gratifying letters than she can answer from her old Dexter friends, at least one of her readers was more than a little upset about her tales of life in the largest communist country in the world—Chinese officials.

Somehow, the Chinese government got hold of clippings of her stories. No one in her family, says sister Gloria Feldkamp, is exactly sure how—whether inadvertently through Chinese professors at the University of Michigan, for whom she worked before leaving on her two-year commitment to teach English, a newspaper clipping service, or some other source.

What Mynning's family does know, however, is she has been told to knock it off. More to the point, however, is she has been forced to. Her outgoing mail is being screened. Feldkamp says it is obvious every letter to family members has been tampered with. "It could have been much worse," Feldkamp says.

"She didn't write anything negative about the government."

The government apparently doesn't want foreigners to read about backward life in China, Feldkamp says.

So the Letters from China series is on hiatus.

Mynning had been recruited heavily by the Chinese government to teach in the country, which may have made the censorship even more shocking. She applied for the job, encouraged by two Chinese professors at U-M, with whom she worked in the Science and Technology Department. Shortly thereafter two Chinese officials came to visit and wanted her to leave the next day.

MARY ELLEN MYNNING

Her flight to China, as well as room and board, are all free, and she is paid the equivalent of $120 per month, which in Chinese terms is extremely high pay, Feldkamp says. She'll return home free if she completes her teaching commitment.

In the meantime, Mynning will be moving to Tianjin in August to teach. She'll get an upgrade in living conditions (air conditioning), and a change in diet (from noodle-based cooking to rice).

Feldkamp reports that Mynning has been proposed to more than once, and her most recent suitor was a Russian professor. Chinese men also seem to be wild about her, partly because she is so different looking, a big woman with curly red hair. However, she can't date without a chaperone, which tends to put a damper on relationships.

Mynning, who left here suffering from Lupus, an arthritic condition, reports that all symptoms of the disease have vanished, she guesses because of the lack of preservatives in the local food.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

HIGHLIGHT of the afternoon for the Chelsea Bulldogs was mobbed by his teammates after the 385-foot blow to last Saturday was Chris White's game-tying home run left center. Chelsea, however, lost the game, 3-2, against Carleton Airport. White, (center, with helmet)

Airport Squeezes Dogs Out of Region Tourney

A perfectly-executed suicide squeeze and a soft single to right in the bottom of the seventh inning gave Carleton Airport a come-from-behind 3-2 victory over the Chelsea Bulldogs in the semi-finals of the region baseball tournament last Saturday in Monroe.

With one out and a runner on third, Airport sent its number nine hitter to the plate. On the first pitch, Eric Kawadri put down a perfect bunt about 15 feet from the plate. Jacob Rindle charged off the mound and tried to make the play to catcher Adam Taylor, but the throw went over Taylor's head to the backstop. The runner scored, and Kawadri belly-flopped into second base.

"If we have it to do over again, I think we'd throw to first base and take our chances in extra innings," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton.

"But I can't fault someone for trying to make a great play. Jake has made an awful lot of them for us."

After an intentional walk, Josh Reeber hit a soft single to right. The throw from right fielder Rob Jaques was cut off and a play was never made at the plate.

Welton said he knew Airport would try to squeeze but didn't figure it would happen on the first pitch.

"It was a good call and a non-defensible play," Welton said.

Chelsea fell behind 1-0 early but rallied for two runs in the fifth, the first on a 385-foot solo-home-run by Chris White and the second on a bases-loaded sacrifice fly by Gary White. The sacrifice nearly scored three runs as the Airport outfielder made a diving play.

For Chris White, it was his first home run, either in practice or during a game, in his two years on the varsity.

THE PLAY OF THE GAME last Saturday in the region tournament turned out to be this perfectly executed suicide squeeze play by Carleton Airport to tie the game in the bottom of the seventh inning. Chelsea catcher Adam Taylor had to wait on a throw that went over his head and allowed the winning run to go to second base. Chelsea lost the game, 3-2.

Chelsea struggled all day at the plate and managed just five hits against lefthander Brent Miller.

Rindle limited Airport to six soft hits, most to the opposite field, and three walks. He struck out five.

He finished the season with an 8-2 record, a 0.72 earned run average, and a career record of 25-4.

Chelsea's reign as state class B champions came to an end. However, they finished the season with a 25-10-1 record, a district title, and Southeastern Conference championship.

Bowers, Gietzen Are MVPs Of Bulldogs Tennis Team

The first doubles team of Tim Bowers and Jeff Gietzen won the Most Valuable Player Award of the Chelsea Bulldogs tennis team.

The award was presented after an ice cream social in the high school cafeteria last Tuesday.

Bowers and Gietzen were 9-2 on the season.

Most Improved honors went to Matt Jachalke, who played fourth singles.

A fourth-year award was presented to Ben Manning. A third-year award went to Scott Pacheco.

Bulldog Softball Team Drops Region Contest In Bottom of Seventh

A line-drive double down the right-field line in the bottom of the seventh inning eliminated the Chelsea Bulldogs softball team from post-season play last Saturday at Monroe Jefferson High school.

The hit by Catherine Laboe of Monroe St. Mary's Catholic Central knocked in two runs to give the Kestrels a 5-4 victory in the semi-finals of the region tournament.

The Bulldogs broke a 3-3 deadlock in the top of the seventh inning as Heather McConeghy singled, stole second, and scored on Kelly Cross' single.

But in the bottom of the inning, Chelsea pitcher Jennifer Petty hit the first batter and a single to center was misplayed to put runners on second and third with one out. That set up Laboe's game-winning hit.

"We did exactly what we wanted to do," Chelsea coach Joe Beard said about the top half of the inning.

"We had the top of the order up and we knew we could score a run. We just didn't count on them scoring two runs."

Beard said it was apparent Petty was getting tired toward the end of the game, probably a combination of nervousness and throwing harder than usual. He also said Petty wasn't getting strikes called on the edge of the plate that normally go her way. That forced her to come in with the ball and resulted in four extra-base hits, three of which figured prominently in the scoring.

"The girls played hard and had nothing to hang their heads about," Beard said.

"We said at the beginning of the season that every time we went out on the field, win or lose, our opponents would know they had played a good team. I think we accomplished that."

Chelsea fell behind 2-0 in the bottom of the first inning on a triple, bunt single, and a double. An unusual double play on an infield pop up got the Bulldogs out of the inning.

In the top of the third Chelsea took the lead as Petty walked, McConeghy bunted safely, and Theresa Hurst walked to load the bases. Cross singled in one run, and Liz Sager's line drive single to right center scored two more.

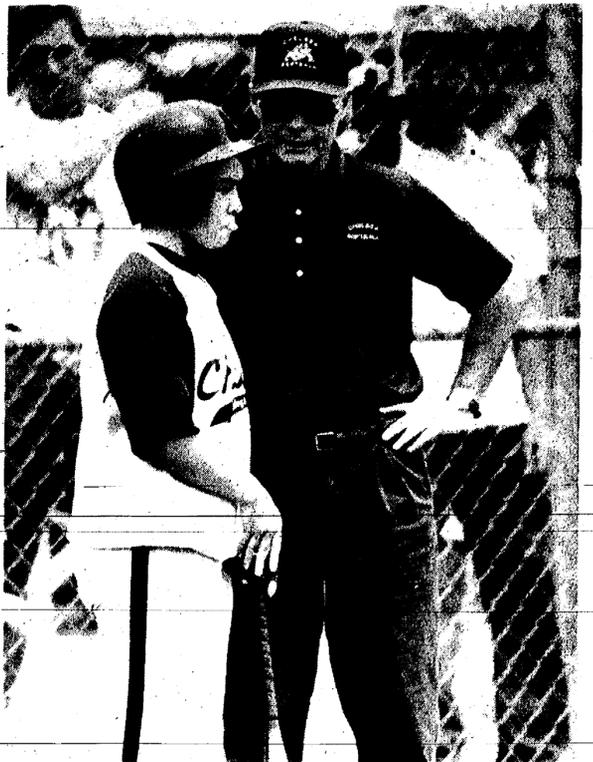

However, the Kestrels tied the game in the bottom of the inning on an error, wild pitch, sacrifice, and a ground out.

"I was proud of the girls," Beard said.

"They started out down 2-0 but came back and played hard."

Petty allowed five hits, struck out four, and walked none, but hit three batters. Chelsea had four hits, two by Cross.

The Kestrels went on to beat Jackson Northwest 10-4 in the finals and move on to the state tournament this week-end in Battle Creek.

CHELSEA SOFTBALL COACH Joe Beard discusses strategy with Theresa Hurst during the late innings of Chelsea's 5-4 loss to Monroe St. Mary's Catholic Central in the semi-finals of the region tournament last Saturday.

JENNIFER PETTY was on the mound again for Chelsea last Saturday but the senior suffered only her second loss of the season in the semi-finals of the region tournament.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Saturday sure didn't turn out as I had hoped or thought. Can't complain about the games, though. Chelsea Bulldogs baseball and softball teams played two nail-bitters in the semi-finals of the region tournaments. Unfortunately, they lost both games under extremely similar circumstances. The baseball team carried a 2-1 lead into the bottom of the seventh but couldn't hold on and lost 3-2. The softball team had a 4-3 lead going into the bottom of the seventh and lost 5-4.

Both teams had their best pitchers on the mound, Jacob Rindie and Jennifer Petty. Both hurlers were having solid, though not spectacular performances, certainly good enough to win most games.

Both teams struggled at the plate but still managed to rally from a deficit to take the late lead by scrapping for a run on a sacrifice.

And both teams were simply victimized by opponents who executed in the clutch.

I have to hand it to the Carleton Airport coach who had the guts to call the suicide squeeze that turned out to be the pivotal play of the baseball game. With one out and a runner on third, and Chelsea up 2-1, the Airport batter bunted the ball perfectly just a few feet from the plate. Rindie charged the ball and tried to make a toss to catcher Adam Taylor, but the ball went over Taylor's head and the bunter ended up on second base.

If the batter had missed the bunt, popped it up, or just hit the ball too hard, Airport would likely have run itself right out of the game. No other runners were on at the time. Chelsea coach Wayne Welton said he figured a squeeze would happen on the second pitch rather than the first. Personally, even though the number nine hitter was up, I never figured on a squeeze. I'm not sure most coaches would have played it that way since it was a make or break play and required perfect execution, quite a load to put on any player. But that's just one of many reasons I'm not a baseball coach.

Then, with two outs, the Airport batter hit a soft single to right, just hard enough to score the runner from second.

The St. Mary's Catholic softball team also played solid softball at the end. They picked up two of their five hits in the inning, to go along with a hit batsman and a misplay on the single, to score two runs.

If you had told me both Rindie and Petty would lose I would have said you were crazy. They had two losses between them all year long. Yet it happened. And as we've seen before, anything can happen in the post-season.

I have to admit, I was disappointed that I won't be following the Bulldogs to Battle Creek this week. With all the success I just hoped for a little too much. I am certainly not disappointed in the season or in the play or spirit of either team. They were fun groups to watch. Like a good movie, though, it's too bad the season has to stop.

This season ends the careers of five of the most outstanding players in Chelsea history. Seniors Ben Hurst, Rindie and Taylor were part of 80 Chelsea baseball victories in three years. Seniors Kelly Cross and Petty led the softball team to two district titles.

Rindie will go on to play at Michigan State. Someday we may see him in a major league uniform. He's also going to play June 27 through July 5 in the USA National Junior Baseball Festival, for players age 18 and under. He'll go to Boise, Id. and play for one of four 18-player teams. The top 18 at the end of the week will play in the Pan Am Games. Before that, however, he'll make an appearance in the Michigan High School All-Star Game at Tiger Stadium June 18.

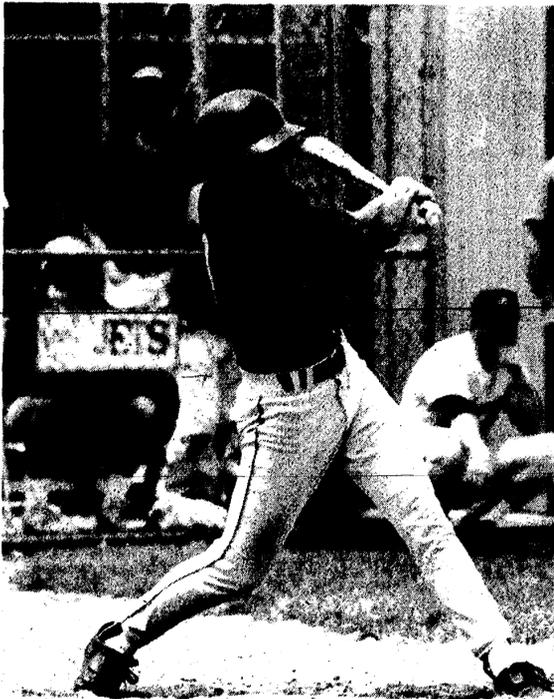

Taylor has signed to play at Ferris State. The senior picked off 21 baserunners this year and Welton says defensively he's good enough to play AA baseball right now.

Cross has a scholarship to play softball at Boston College. Softball coach Joe Beard hopes she can become a two-time all-stater as well, although the Bulldogs' early exit from post-season play may hurt her. Her statistics are as good or better than last year. If players could be selected based on what they meant in terms of leadership to their teams, Cross would be chosen in a landslide.

Petty could probably play either college softball or volleyball. Beard would also like to see her named all-state and based on her season statistics she certainly deserves it. She was 24-2 on the mound, batted about .600, and her on-base percentage was about .900.

Hurst, at last word, may be headed to the University of Toledo to play baseball. He has certainly ruled centerfield here. No Chelsea baseball fan will forget the play he made at the wall in last year's state championship game, or the throw he made to the plate in the district finals against Willow Run.

If you add senior high jumper Jon Royce and senior football player, wrestler, thrower Mike Terpstra to the list, this has been quite a senior class, the most talented in my seven years here. Royce will attend the University of Michigan on a track scholarship. And Terpstra, who could have wrestled or played football in college, will attend Harvard University and concentrate on his academic development.

CHELSEA'S CHRIS WHITE strokes a home run to tie the game at 1-1 in the region semi-finals last Saturday against Carleton Airport. The Bulldogs lost the game, 3-2.

ROB JAQUES hustles back to first base during last Saturday's region tournament game against Carleton Airport. The Bulldogs lost in the bottom of the seventh inning, 3-2.

Farmers Market Doing Well in New Location

Chelsea Farmers Market is in full swing for 1992. In spite of some concern the new location in the Municipal Parking lot off Park St., sales are brisk and the vendors are pleased.

A Farmers Market Commission, which reports directly to the Village Council, is in place. Headed by assistant village manager, Deborah Kuehn, it is comprised of Chamber of Commerce representative Ann Feeney, Village Council member Tom Dorer, and co-managers of the weekly Saturday event, Sandy Barkman and Susan Heller Rodgers.

The weather has not been ideal, but still buyers come to purchase flower and vegetable plants, honey, eggs, bread and wood crafts. As gardens begin to produce, more will be available. There is hope that craftspeople who sold their goods last summer will return. There is plenty of room, and appears to be plenty of customers.

For information regarding available spots, or to register for booth space, call or visit Farmers Supply Store on Jackson St. across from the depot (475-1777).

Running Club To Hold Meet June 11 at CHS

Bulldog Running Club will hold a track meet Thursday, June 11 at 6 p.m. at the Chelsea High school track.

Children age 14 and under have a chance to qualify for the Hershey State Meet, which will be held in Howell on July 17.

Anyone interested in running should simply show up at the track on June 11.

Blacks will grow faster in the U.S. labor force between 1990-2005 because the birth rates for blacks declined more slowly than for whites during the 1970's, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Is the Check In the Mail?

"So far, about 2.5 million Michigan taxpayers have received their 1991 federal tax refund, averaging about $1,000 each," said IRS district director John Hummel. "But about 500,000 Michiganians are still waiting."

"I encourage all those who haven't yet received their refund to use our automated refund information system to find out the status of their check," he said.

Hummel said that individuals may call the IRS toll free on 1-800-829-4477 to receive pre-recorded information, such as when the federal income tax refund is scheduled to be mailed.

"Taxpayers calling our automated refund system, or teletax, should have a copy of their tax return available when they call since they will need to know the social security numbers, filing status, and exact amount of refund expected," Hummel said. "We're working to make taxes less taxing this year, and our automated refund system should help!"

Area Students Named To Spring Honors List At Ferris State U.

Ferris State University named six area students to its spring quarter academic honors list.

Jeffrey A. Murrel of Dexter, Todd M. Hauser of Gregory, Kristina A. Doten of Pinckney, Cheryl L. Blumenauer of Manchester, and Renea A. Drouare and Craig A. Ousley of Grass Lake all achieved a grade point average of 3.5 or higher.

Use compost and cover-cropping to build up strong soils in your garden. The first step to healthy plants is a rich soil.

TWO AREA STUDENTS competed on a team of Washtenaw Community College students at the National Parliamentary Procedure Team Competition in Cincinnati, O., sponsored by the Business Professionals of America. The team took first place. "An important skill which employers across the nation are seeking is the ability to work as a team," said advisor Rosalyn Culver. Team members were given objective tests before coming together to prepare and present a complicated business meeting following Robert's Rules of Order. From left are Sid Mayfield, Kelly Lynch, Dawn Schaffer (Manchester), Culver, Wanda Pilkinton, Julie Nixon (Dexter), Jeff Hayward, and Lynn Parker.

Travelling on Road With Farm Equipment Risky

By Bill Ames, Extension Agriculture Agent

Unless the current trend changes, there will be around 300 collisions between farm equipment and motorists on Michigan roadways this year.

Last year, such collisions killed two people and injured another 189.

"Most of those injured were either the drivers or passengers in the motor vehicles but 58 farm equipment operators were injured and one was killed," says Howard Doss, MSU Extension farm safety specialist.

Most of the collisions occurred on dry roads during the day; 74 of the accidents occurred at night.

Doss says the main reason for the collision was that motorists approaching from the rear, misjudged how slowly the farm equipment was moving.

"When the driver of a vehicle travelling 55 miles per hour sees a tractor and equipment 400' ahead travelling 15 miles per hour, that driver has but seven seconds to slow down enough to avoid collision," Doss says. "The key factor for motorists is to slow down immediately when they see farm equipment on the road."

The key factor for farmers, Doss says, is to be as visible as possible when driving equipment on the road.

"At minimum is a clean, bright slow moving vehicle (SMV) emblem on the rear of the equipment being towed and on the rear of the tractor or combine," Doss says.

It is also wise to make sure the tractor lights are working and are illuminated. If the tractor is equipped with flashers, turn them on, also. An added safety measure is an amber flashing light on the tractor, in addition to the tractor lights and flashers.

Doss notes that 22 of Michigan's counties accounted for 65 percent of all traffic accidents involving farm equipment in 1990. Among the counties where the most traffic accidents occurred were Bay, Kent, Lenawee, Monroe, Wayne, Sanilac and Saginaw.

Waterloo Marks 100th Year Of First Memorial Day Service

More than 150 people gathered at the Waterloo Village Methodist church last Sunday, June 7, to celebrate the 100th anniversary of the first Memorial Day service held in Waterloo.

Waterloo holds its Memorial Day observance on the Sunday after Memorial Day.

Friends and families came from Grand Rapids, Holland, Utica, Flint, Detroit, Eaton Rapids, Jackson, and neighboring towns to pay tribute to deceased war veterans, and to all men and women in all branches of military service.

An organ prelude was played by Helen Dally, former organist of Haven Methodist church of Jackson. The welcome was given by Wilbur Beeman and the Rev. Wayne Willer delivered the invocation.

"We Salute You Old Glory-In Drill and Song" was performed by Chad Fortner, Nathan Zander, Larry Craft, Ross Fortner, Tom Lancaster, Chad Potter, Mallory and Lindsay Wentz, and Kim Lancaster.

Annabelle Gochanour performed "A Glimpse of Past Memorials." "America Lift Up Your Voice" was sung by the choir of Immanuel Bible church of Chelsea, directed by Shirley Schneider.

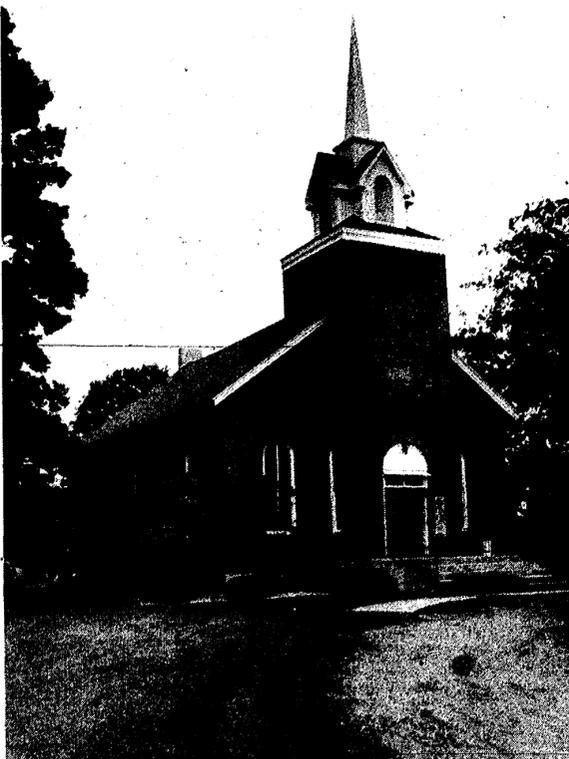

The main address was given by Richard Howlett, retired superintendent of Stockbridge Community Schools.

Closing prayer in song was given by Melanie Smith and Ben Ross. Postlude was by Helen Dally.

Dexter American Legion Post 557 was present at the cemetery to give a military salute. Children decorated the graves of the soldiers.

Many returned to the township hall for a renewal of friendship and to enjoy refreshments provided by the cemetery association.

One reason service industry productivity gains have been weak is due simply to measurement, according to "Workforce 2000," a U.S. Department of Labor publication. There is no accepted way of measuring output and productivity in education, health care or the law.

WATERLOO VILLAGE METHODIST CHURCH, above, and Mt. Hope Cemetery, below, were the sites where the 100th anniversary of the first Memorial Day service in Waterloo was marked last Sunday.

Patricia Stirling Receives Master of Divinity Degree

Patricia Stirling, director of Christian education at St. Paul United Church of Christ since 1984, received her Master of Divinity degree from McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago last Friday, June 5.

Ceremonies were held at Rockefeller Chapel.

Following approval by Covenant Association, Michigan Conference, United Church of Christ, she plans to be ordained into the Christian ministry at St. Paul church prior to accepting a pastorate in a UCC church.

Stirling has served as St. Paul Chancel Choir director, beginning in the fall of 1980 during Dr. William Donald's interim pastorate. In the summer of 1984 she assumed the position of part-time director of Christian education, which was expanded to a full-time position in 1988, while she continued to serve as choir director and director of music.

In September, her church responsibilities were reduced so she could spend more time with seminary studies, and she resigned from her music staff positions.

Prior to her Chicago classes, she studied for one year at the Ecumenical Theological Center in Detroit.

She has worked as a research assistant in pastoral care during her two years at McCormick Seminary, in addition to course work in scripture, Christian ethics and theology, church history, and ministry. She is also a Michigan certified teacher and qualified as an interpreter of Myers-Briggs Personality Type Indicator.

McCormick Theological Seminary is a Presbyterian seminary, one of several in a consortium in Chicago which includes UCC, United Methodist, Episcopal, Lutheran, Catholic, and other heritages.

Stirling's husband, James Stirling, is a former minister of the United Methodist church. He has served as president of the St. Paul congregation, as well as president of the Chelsea Board of Education. The couple has five children, James, Jeffrey, Margaret Hamilton, Carol, and Cynthia.

To the Editor:

On Wednesday, June 3, South school first grade had their end of the school year picnic at Vets Park. I helped set up the obstacle course. I brought two pairs of thigh length fishing boots, a brown garbage can, an old broom, a pink ball, and some wood. I left the picnic at 2 p.m., leaving my things, because the children were still playing with them. I returned at approximately 3:15 p.m. and the things were gone. I assume someone picked them up thinking that they were discarded. I would like the things back, especially the waders. Please return them to 414 W. Middle St. or call 475-3884 and I will pick them up.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor,

This is really two letters in one. The first being what many people of the area are probably hoping is the last word on the conditions at Beach Middle school. I feel I'm as qualified as anyone to comment on Beach, having just finished my 30th and last year of teaching at the Middle school. The second is to thank the people of Chelsea for having me around for those 30 years.

Mrs. Kennedy's letter of several months ago precipitated a salvo of other letters in response. Some supported her stand and some defended the situation at Beach. The criticism and controversy at Beach is nothing new as it has been going on for years. Both sides are right. There are things that need to be changed such as better discipline and higher standards, but there are also many good things going on as well. High academic achievement and great success in many extra curricular areas, to name a few.

Mrs. Kennedy and others should have gone further in talking about our local problems by mentioning problems in our society. For herein lies not only some of the problems in Chelsea but in education all over America. Education is difficult under any circumstances but even in Chelsea we are not isolated from some of the major deterrents.

Television is a number one culprit. It not only influences and creates social trends but soaks up endless hours and has created an "I want to be entertained generation of students." Home situation, though less severe in Chelsea compared to other areas, are bad enough to deter education and force schools into a surrogate parent role, one they are not prepared to fill.

Another deterrent is peer pressure, strong enough in many cases to cause students to not try because it isn't "cool," and eventually give up all together. Another problem of recent years is that educators have been sold a bill of goods on the idea that all students must have high self esteem. As a result we have been rewarding students for just doing and not for doing things well. As a result, achieving has become meaningless and in many respects so has education.

On top of this the state had entered more and more areas of education, telling us what and how to teach and giving us guidelines by the bushel. Who are these people? Some are educators, some legislators and other well-meaning people who have hamstrung our school districts with financial irresponsibility, unrealistic guidelines and meaningless tests to measure achievement. The list could go on and on.

Fortunately, there is some hope as many of our leaders have picked up on the edge of educational reform. We are on the brink as many good ideas are being tossed about. The question is will this restructuring or reform take place or will it be watering down and will education continue to suffer.

Many of these ideas deserve a closer look. One is the idea of a longer school year, a minimum of 200 days which would put us more in line with Japan and Germany. At present students miss 10-15 days a year taking standardized tests and missing school for numerous other reasons.

Another idea is that of interdisciplinary courses and team teaching. This would allow the combining of subjects like history and the arts or applying math in the industrial arts, etc. More flexible scheduling would also make sense.

Several examples would be to run the school day from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m., allowing students more time and course choices. Flexible class hour scheduling makes sense also. Perhaps allowing 6-8 hours per week for math, English, science, or whatever is deemed necessary and 2-3 hours for other subjects. This would allow emphasis on special areas but at the same time allow students to sample and experience a wide variety of subjects. No one has ever said that five hours a week was a magic number. What it is, is an efficient number for scheduling.

Our brightest students should be induced and encouraged to enter the teaching profession and tenure laws should be revised so that unproductive teachers can be removed. Educational reform over the next 10 years can go either way. We can make the reforms or we can remain as we are and continue on our way to being a second rate nation.

The two biggest obstacles to reform may come from the two groups you would least expect; teacher unions and education administration groups. Educational associations should be taking the lead in reform but most are still emphasizing the objectives of the last 25 years, salaries and teaching conditions. The school administrations will be resistant because reforms cost money and they are concerned about the bottom line.

In my mind two things stand out as immediate help for education not only at Beach but education over-all: first a better educational environment through stricter discipline. Create an environment where real education can take place but at the same time offer some alternative to those who cannot fit into the regular routine; secondly, have higher expectations. Basically students will produce what is required of them. Set the goals and standards high and make them work for what they achieve. Maybe our work ethic will return in this country. In conclusion Beach may have its problems but it is a microcosm of American society.

As of June 5 I will be retiring from the Chelsea schools. In the past 30 years I have come into contact with thousands of students who have come through the Middle School and several thousand more on various athletic teams. I have taught one generation and in recent years have had many of their children in the classroom. I hope I have had a positive influence on most of them and maybe even imparted a little knowledge along the way. Most students in Chelsea are there to learn and we have had the support of most of our parents. It has been at times very trying, at times disappointing, at times encouraging and there have been times filled with great elation. But it has been never dull, usually interesting and I feel I have been most fortunate to have been associated with Chelsea and the schools for the last 30 years.

Bert Kruse (Retired)

To the Editor:

I was surprised to see my name in the headline of an article in the June 3rd issue of The Chelsea Standard. I'm very disappointed that I was not given the opportunity to comment on my appointment to the Village Council, a situation described by the paper as "amid controversy." In fact, no one who voted for me was quoted in the paper and it's not possible to tell whether they were interviewed or not. The only people who were interviewed apparently were the two council members who voted against me and Mr. Picklesimer who is, perhaps, understandably upset. All this could leave readers with the impression that something improper had occurred which is both unfair to me and untrue. In the future, I would appreciate it if articles about me were more balanced.

I was very pleased that after the council meeting both Mr. Bentley and Mr. Dorer introduced themselves to me and said that their opposition to my appointment was not personal. I'm looking forward to serving on the Village Council and I hope that this situation doesn't jeopardize my working relationship with the members.

Brian S. Cashman.

Dear Editor:

This is an open letter of thanks from all of us at Faith in Action to the many young people in our community area who support our work. Unfortunately the majority of the "news" we read and hear about young people emphasizes their less desirable qualities, sensationalism of the actions of a minority and too often overlooks the overwhelming number who are fine, bright and generous.

This letter, then, is in a small measure to recognize how much Faith in Action depends upon our young people. Each year we receive a very large amount of food which they have collected, as well as money and toys. Elsewhere in The Standard there is a picture of Mrs. Tracy Heydlauff's South school 4th grade class who saved 3,100 pennies and contributed them to us.

We think it important that we do not get so bogged down in the adverse "young people" news coverage that we forget all the great kids who live among us and, in fact, represent the future of our country.

So, to all of our young people, you set an example for your peers, keep up the good work and have a great summer.

House Committees Examine Effects of Pesticide Ordinances

The House Agriculture Committee this week in Lansing took comments on Senate Bill 643, a measure that would pre-empt local units of government from passing their own pesticide ordinances. Michigan Farm Bureau Legislative counsel Vicki Pontz says it's a vital issue for agriculture.

"It's important to us to get language in the Michigan Pesticide Control Act that would guarantee consistency of pesticide regulation across the state," she said.

Pontz said it would be helpful if the members of the Ag Committee received feedback from farmers about the possible impact if local units of government enacted their own pesticide ordinances.

"I think it's very important that the Committee members understand why pesticide pre-emption is so necessary to farmers, particularly those who farm in more than one township or county," she said. "Potentially, it could seriously impact the agricultural industry if farmers had to work with a patchwork of local regulations."

Pontz said farmers should contact members of the House Ag Committee, particularly chairman Tom Hickner, sometime this week or next.
