PAVING OF 950 FEET of much traveled Wilkinson St. has begun. The paving company is working on one side of the street at a time so traffic won't be cut off completely. However, the situation has created hazardous traffic conditions, so motorists should use extra caution. The work involves repairing the entire road base.

Townships Approve Agreement To Share Landfill Expenses

Chelsea Village Council was expected to consider last night a proposal that would end two years of negotiations with Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships over expenses related to the landfill.

The proposal, which has been approved by both the Sylvan and Lima township boards, and will be considered by Lyndon and Dexter townships later this month, calls for the village to pay 50 percent of short-term expenses and 70 percent of long-term expenses, while the townships would cover the rest.

Short-term expenses covered in the agreement (through March 1) totaled about $542,000. Those expenses are related to monitoring, engineering, and closing out the oldest portion of the landfill. An updated figure, probably closer to $570,000, will be included in the final agreement. To date, the village has covered all those expenses.

The townships have agreed to divide their 50 percent share as follows: Dexter would pay 17.5 percent, Sylvan and Lyndon 11.25 percent, and Lima 10 percent. According to Sylvan supervisor Don Schoenberg, those splits were based on a study by the village on the historical use of the landfill by residents in each township.

Also, the townships have agreed to pay their share in three installments over three years. That money according to village manager Jack Myers, will be deposited into the village's new capital contingency fund.

Based on the rough $542,000 figure, Dexter would owe the village about $31,000 for each of three years, Sylvan and Lyndon townships would owe about $20,000, and Lima township would owe about $18,000.

"I think it's a good agreement," Schoenberg said.

"The ideal agreement would be we'd pay nothing at all, but considering everything, I feel good about it."

Schoenberg said the effect will be that less road work will be completed during those three years, since "most of our money goes into roads." That's also likely to be the major consequence in the other townships.

When talks first began more than two years ago, the village proposed that it pay 40 percent and the townships 60 percent. So two years of negotiations translated into a 10 percent reduction in the townships' share, or about $55,000. The sides also appear to have avoided litigation, which could have been far more expensive.

The last year or more of the agreement could be much harder on Sylvan and Lima townships should the village decide to become a city. With the change, those townships would lose their tax base inside the city limits. In Sylvan's case, that amounts to about 40 percent.

"We'd be destitute," Schoenberg said.

The major sticking point in reaching the agreement was how to share long-term expenses, and here it appears the townships struck themselves a good deal. Those expenses will run for 30 years and it's anybody's guess as to how high they may go. There will certainly be monitoring costs, required by the Department of Natural Resources, to detect whether the landfill is leaking contaminants. However, it has not yet been determined just how much, if any, groundwater clean-up will be required. The village has been virtually in a state of perpetual disagreement with the DNR since the landfill squabbles began about five years ago.

The agreement lets the townships off the hook for any problems related to the new landfill, although the village reserved the right to sue any individual or company that brings hazardous waste to the landfill. The village had a contract with the townships covering the old landfill. There is no contract connected with the new landfill.

The sides disagree on language concerning how much involvement the townships will have in negotiations with the DNR. The townships want some voting power since they are paying 30 percent of the bill. The village did agree, however, to provide the townships copies of any relevant documents related to the negotiations.

Vornhagen Quartet Top Second Concert in Park

The Paul Vornhagen Quartet of Ann Arbor will be the feature performers at this Saturday's second concert in the Park in Pierce Park starting at 6 p.m.

Paul Vornhagen, leader of the quartet, plays a "slinky saxophone," flute, and clarinet with a smooth tone, drawing on jazz, rhythm and blues, and contemporary pop. He sings in the styles of Mel Tormé, Michael Franks, and Chet Baker.

Vornhagen has recorded three albums on the Inner Light Records label, containing entirely original instrumental jazz and new age material.

Some of his credits include the 1989 Best Instrumentalist Award by the Metro Times, performances with the Temptations and the Four Tops, and the Best Band Award from the Heritage Jazz Festival. His interpretations of the music of Glenn Miller, Duke Ellington, and Cole Porter have drawn a wide following.

Also on hand at Pierce Park will be the Chelsea Children's Co-op Corner where all kids may try their hands at creating scrap-box-puppets under the supervision of co-op members. There's no charge, and all materials will be supplied. There will also be information about the co-op available.

Chelsea Cottage Inn will again supply pizza, salad, breadsticks, in addition to beverages. All support of the Cottage Inn stand will help Chelsea. The Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce receives five percent of the total proceeds, a portion of which will help fund the Pierce Park Playground Project.

The concert is free and parking is free on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital. Concertgoers are asked not to bring alcoholic beverages.

The sixth annual Concert in the Park series is being sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chelsea Recreation Council.

Village To Approach Recycling Authority About Transfer Station

Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority will be asked this month whether it is interested in building a solid waste transfer station as a means for handling garbage disposal in the area.

The authority is just beginning to get its recycling program off the ground.

Village of Chelsea's landfill may be out of space by the end of the year, which is prompting village manager Jack Myers to approach the authority. He also plans to talk to waste hauler BFI Inc., which has expressed an interest in building such a station.

A transfer station would be a local collection point for trash. There it would be compacted and shipped on large trucks to a landfill.

Authority member Don Schoenberg of Sylvan township said he expects Bridgewater and Manchester townships, and the Village of Manchester, the southern members of the authority, will determine whether the authority goes ahead with such a project.

"I suspect if they don't want to get involved, [Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships, and the village of Chelsea] may form another authority," Schoenberg said.

"It's an issue we're all going to have to deal with."

In previous discussions about the transfer station, it was surmised that small, local garbage contractors may be forced out of business if a transfer station is not built—because transportation costs to the nearest landfill, owned by BFI, will be too high.

How such a project would be financed is a matter of speculation. Alternatives include bond issues and grants, among others.

Minors Nabbed With Tobacco

Three minors were arrested by Chelsea police for illegal use of tobacco on June 30.

The minors, two age 16 and one age 15, were caught with cigarettes in a car while talking to a Chelsea policeman.

Use of tobacco by people under age 18 is illegal.

Police said sparklers were thrown into the mailbox, which burned several pieces of mail.

Coyote Problems Force Sheep Farmers To Try Unusual Solutions

Chelsea-area sheep ranchers Earl and Kay Heller have lost eight sheep, prize-winning Hampshire and Suffolk animals, in recent weeks to hungry coyotes. Some have been taken on their Sager Rd. farm, some on Mark McKernan's farm near I-94, and some on Earl's brother's farm on M-52.

The sheep were valued at about $250 each.

Coyotes are fairly common in the area and have no predators. They used to be trapped for their fur, but even that market is drying up.

The Hellers had a similar problem about six years ago. A trapper from Grass Lake took seven coyotes and helped get rid of the problem. But now they're back and the problem is worse.

"Six years ago they were only taking lambs but now they're taking full-grown sheep and that's a serious problem," Earl says.

"My son was the premier Hampshire breeder in the state last year and we have spent a lot of money on rams and other sheep for breeding. Some we've paid $1,000 for. We don't want to put them out in the flocks if the coyotes are going to get them. My son's saying, 'Dad, we've got to do something about this.'"

Since their losses, the Hellers have become aware of just how widespread the problem is. They've done a lot of research and have consulted with various experts at Michigan State University. MSU flocks have also suffered coyote losses.

Now Earl says he's just about ready to buy a guard donkey.

Reports have suggested that donkeys are more effective than dogs in keeping coyotes at bay. Kay Heller says that one experiment is being tried with guard llamas.

The Hellers also plan to try a tag that smells like rotten cheese, which has also reportedly been effective out west.

"But I don't know who's going to do the chores," Kay says.

Coyotes range about 5-10 miles to find food, the Hellers have learned. Nearby Chrysler Proving Grounds has about 4,000 acres of land, which may be providing a natural refuge for the animals.

"It may be that we can't raise sheep," Kay says.

Other sheep farmers near the proving grounds have sold out due to heavy losses.

Earl surmises that as the population increases the animals are forced to expand their territories. Like dogs, they have specific territories, which they mark. Unfortunately, sheep are meant to graze, not be penned up, which makes them easy targets.

"We'll get them, one way or another," Earl says.

Cool Weather Delays Wheat Crop Harvest

Cool spring weather has delayed the harvest of this year's wheat crop about 10 or 15 days, according to Klaus Bachmann of Provico Big H of Chelsea.

The harvest, which usually starts between July 10-15, probably won't get underway until about the 25th, Bachmann said.

Quality of the crop, however, appears to be excellent, he said, although some wheat was knocked down by recent storms.

"What we need now is some hot, dry weather so the wheat can finish up," Bachmann said.

"It needs a good week for drying out."

Area farmers may get about $.85 per bushel more than last year, or about $3.25 per bushel, Bachmann estimated. Farmers had hoped for about $4 after prices over the winter jumped up to as high as $3.70.

All crops are late this year. Bachmann said it's likely the first corn and soybeans will be harvested in early November.

Resolution Would Reinstate Capital Punishment
 Capital punishment in Michigan would be reinstated for those convicted of first degree pre-meditated murder under a resolution (SJR "N") introduced by Sen. Gilbert DiNello (D-East Detroit). The resolution would have to be adopted by a two-thirds majority in the House and Senate before being decided by the voters.

"Michigan is becoming a killing field where anybody, in any location, can be gunned down for little or no reason," DiNello said. "We need to send a strong message that if you kill, you may pay with your life."

But the resolution, which resembles proposals that failed to work their way through the Legislature in the past, will face tremendous opposition from organizations such as the Coalition Against the Death Penalty and the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency, which has statistics indicating homicides are not occurring at the rate that justifies reinstatement of capital punishment.

According to the Council and Uniform Crime Reports, the number of homicides reported in Michigan since 1979 peaked at 1,118 in 1987 and has since hovered around 1,000. In 1991, 1,003 homicides were reported.

While similar past proposals have not fared well in the Legislature, DiNello's resolution has more co-sponsors than those previous, with 12 Republicans and six Democrats on board.

Patrick Clark, from the Michigan Council on Crime and Delinquency, said he was surprised by some of the senators who said they would support the bill.

Senate Judiciary Chair William VanRegenmorter (R-Jenison), who did not co-sponsor the bill, said his committee will hold hearings on the resolution this fall before deciding whether to report it to the floor.

He added he would support the death penalty in limited cases, such as first degree murder, along with adequate protections, such as appeals, for defendants.

But VanRegenmorter said he did not co-sponsor the bill to approach the issue objectively and thoroughly review the language, which he said is longer than usual ballot proposals. He said traditionally the framework for a provision is inserted in the constitution and the details are addressed in a separate bill.

DiNello said his resolution would amend Sec. 46 of Article Four of the state constitution to provide for the death penalty where the defendant is found guilty of a laundry list of aggravating circumstances in addition to first degree murder.

Right to Life of Michigan is not expected to take the forefront on this issue because its members have differing views on the extent the death penalty should be allowed or banned, said spokeswoman Gena Gillentine.

The organization fights to save innocent human life, especially babies and elderly persons who cannot defend themselves against euthanasia, she said.

Hillegonds Gives House Democrats Falling Grade
 House Minority Leader Paul Hillegonds (R-Holland) said the Democratic majority in that chamber has earned a falling grade for its efforts in advancing a positive agenda. Issuing a "report card" charting the progress of a number of issues, including medical malpractice and auto insurance reform, Hillegonds found positive accomplishments limited to telecommunications and domestic violence legislation.

And while he indicated it will not be possible to complete action on such additional issues as unemployment insurance, affordable health care and criminal justice reform, Hillegonds said he will continue towards his goal of laying the groundwork for continuation next year.

"I'm not Pollyanna here. But it is inexcusable that issues of this importance are not getting a forum," Hillegonds said. "We aren't even being held accountable for the position we take on these issues."

Hillegonds said he does not specifically blame House Speaker Lewis Dodak (D-Montrose) for the lack of progress, but pointed to his diverse caucus whose members have "deep philosophical differences. It is a very tough caucus to work with."

But the minority leader did add that Republicans, diverse as well in their beliefs, have made a concerted effort to develop issues as a group.

"We have a very diverse caucus too but we've tried to do consensus building," he said.

Hillegonds conceded that while he risks antagonizing the majority leadership with his review, he said the olive branch approach does not seem to work and perhaps the criticism will help build the pressure for action.

"There's the chance of alienation but I don't know what else works at this point," he said.

Stephen Serkaian, a spokesperson for Dodak, responded that "Paul Hillegonds is offering nothing more than election year rhetoric that adds to people's frustrations about government."

Youths Nabbed For Stealing Car in Chelsea

Four youths who escaped from Maxey Boys Training School have been implicated in the theft of a car behind Chelsea Pharmacy on June 9.

Police said the boys stole a car in Whitmore Lake, then came to Chelsea where they stole the car belonging to a North Territorial Rd. woman. From there they drove to Taylor, where they tried to steal another car but were unsuccessful.

The Chelsea woman's car was found in Detroit, with little more than a frame and trunk lid remaining, said Chelsea Det. Richard Foster.

Police said the boys looked for potential cars to steal in the Chelsea Shopping Center main lot before settling on one behind the building.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Bug Hookum told the fellows at the country store Saturday night that he has rethought that line about nobody ever winning the battle of the sexes because there's too much fraternizing with the enemy. It ain't just the recent run of picture shows that has men and wimmen loving one another to death or killing one another out of pure hate, Bug said, it's the changing nature of the beasts.

For instant, Bug went on, in politics wimmen immediate get the upper hand just because they are. All wimmen and some men vote for em, and there's more wimmen than men voters. And men politicians are apt to lose more ground because they feel threatened. The wimmen are running scared, was Bug's words.

Actual, he said, what got him on this line of thinking was a item out of Georgia about a 300 pound woman that all but suffocated her husband by setting on him. A neighbor called the law and they got her off him just in time. She said he had threatened her. You got to know, Bug said, that the poor devil ain't to bright or he would of cleared a path to the door before he made any threats. If he couldn't of outrun her he ain't in no position to threaten nobody.

And then Bug read where this woman in Des Moines got to aggressive for her own good. A 800 pound soda pop machine took her money and wouldn't give her a drink. She started kicking and shaking the box like she might would her husband if he sassed her. The machine tipped over on her and she about died. Bug was of a mind that wimmen ought to just pick on men that are smaller than they are.

The fellows weren't buying much of what Bug was selling. Zeke Grubb said straight out that Bug was reporting man bites dog news. In everyday life, Zeke said, wimmen run the world in a calmer, quieter way. They tell men what to do in that same old way they have of making men think the men thought of it first.

Furthermore, Zeke went on, wim-men can't shake that bonding and mothering that's built in em. They can't get past the idea that a man on his own is to be pitied, and it is their duty to prevent this sad condition.

Just recent, Zeke said, his old lady and other wimmen in the church organized what they are calling "summer socials for SOLOs." This ain't nothing in the world but a mating game for "singles often left out." It would never occur to one of them that there might be a single man out there somewhere that actual got tired of the game, took hisself out and wants to stay out.

Clem Webster was full disagreed with Bug. It might be so with the younger set nowadays, Clem said, but folks middle age and older think of an adult as half a pair. His church has got programs for children by ages, but them for grownups are set up on the base of two. The young couples have a class and even if the old men and the old wimmen split up it is understand their other half is somewhere in the church.

Singles are neither fish nor fowl, and by theirselves they make the sound of one hand clapping, was Clem's words. It is natural, he declared, that men think of single men as lucky ones that got away. It is just as natural that wimmen can't bear to think there might be a single man out there somewhere this very minute enjoying his own company.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Bake It Right

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

If the cake is too brown or the bread crust too light, don't be too quick to blame the cook or the oven. Baking problems can often be traced back to the type of bakeware that was used.

As interest in baking increases, people need to understand the role the right bakeware plays in creating a successful culinary delight. For example, many people are not aware that bakeware with a non-stick surface requires a lower oven temperature than bakeware without this advantage.

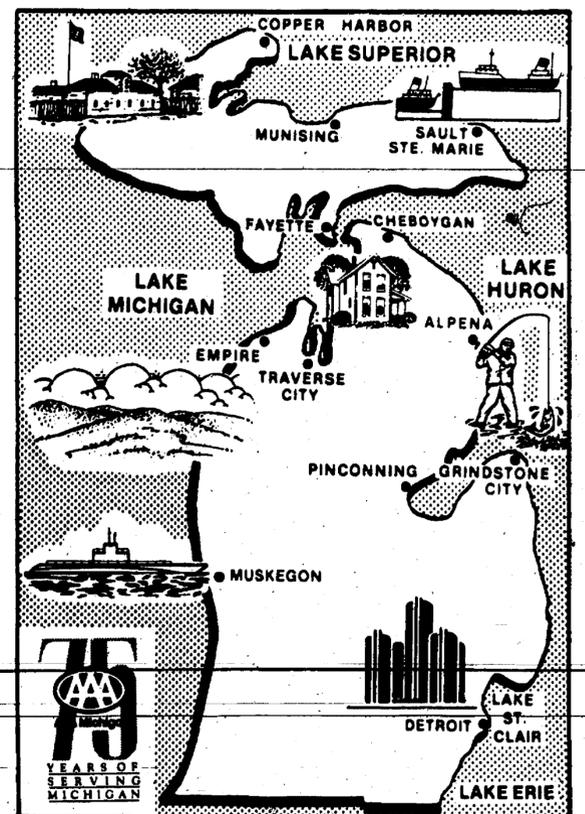

When a light crust is desired, aluminum is a good choice because it has excellent heat conductive qualities. Other pluses are the fact that it is rustproof and lightweight. Aluminum doesn't hold and disperse heat as well as steel, however, so items need to be watched carefully during baking so they don't burn.

Aluminized steel is a top choice of commercial bakers. It has the heat conductive and rustproof qualities of aluminum and the superior heat retention of steel, which means that baked goods are much less likely to burn.

Stainless steel bakeware is prized for its easy care, durability and rustproof surface. Cosmetically, it doesn't scratch and stays shiny-looking longer. It is the worst heat conductor of any of the commonly used metals, however.

Cast iron conducts heat moderately well. It also retains heat for a long time, which makes it great for baking crusty breads. Cakes and muffins baked in cast iron may get too heavy and dark on the outside, however.

Steel bakeware can be coated with tin or porcelain. Because it is durable and possesses excellent inherent baking qualities, tin-plated steel is used for many commercial baking utensils. A non-stick coating will hasten the baking process. Care must be taken not to scratch the surface as once it's scratched it will rust. Porcelain provides a harder layer of protection, but it does not offer the advantage of a non-stick surface. Other drawbacks of a porcelain coating are moderate heat conductivity and poor crusts on bread.

Michigan has 3,200 miles of scenic shoreline, the longest freshwater coastline in the country. Along those sun-washed beaches are worthwhile sights to see and towns to visit, a vacation bonanza for residents and visitors, alike.

Recycle Leftover Food

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

More and more people are getting on the recycling bandwagon these days. But do you want to recycle your food?

Before you decide that recycled food is just a leftover by another name, consider this. Some entirely new food products—such as bagel chips—have come into popularity through creative use of byproducts from a production process—i.e., recycling.

In the restaurant industry, leftovers are called carryovers and they sometimes appear in creative concoctions on the next day's menu.

Creativity seems to be the key in recycling food. That and good use of your freezer to store bits and pieces from various meals until they can be recycled into creative offerings.

Here are some tips for recycling more common leftovers.

Banana: Layer bananas with graham cracker crumbs and pudding in a baking pan and cut into squares for a simple dessert. Cut bananas into small pieces, cover with chocolate, roll in nuts, coconut or chopped dates. You can freeze bananas whole, then thaw later to use in breads.

Bread: Freeze leftover bread. Once you have enough, make bread pudding. Also use to make bread crumbs.

Casseroles: Uneaten casseroles make perfect fillings for tortillas. Spoon on top of a tortilla. Add cheese and roll up. Roll in a paper towel and microwave on high 20-30 seconds or until hot. Eat whole or slice for hors d'oeuvres.

Cereal: Use sweetened cereals as a crumb topping for desserts. Unsweetened cereals, such as corn flakes, can be used in meat loaf or ground in the blender or food processor to thicken soups and stews.

Cheese: Mix small amounts of cheese with bread crumbs or potato chips as a topping for broccoli, cauliflower and other vegetables.

Citrus fruits: After squeezing lemons, limes, oranges or grapefruit, save the zest (the colored part of the peel that can be removed with a peeler) to add flavor to home-made cookies or iced tea. Zest can be frozen in ice cube trays for later use.

Cookie dough: Use as a crust for pies or fruit desserts.

Dips: French onion, spinach or bean dips make great sandwich spreads in place of mayonnaise. Or add dips to cooked vegetables for a creamed vegetable dish.

Jams and jellies: Mix small amounts with whipped topping to make fruit fluff.

Jell-O: Whip in blender or food processor with sour cream or yogurt and refrigerate to make a Bavarian cream.

Potatoes: Add an egg to mashed potatoes and press into bottom of pie plate to make crust for shepherd's pie or other meat pie.

Rice: Make rice pudding. For a savory instead of sweet version, omit raisins, sugar and milk, and use tomato or V-8 juice with sauteed onions and garlic. Or puree rice and use to thicken soups and stews.

Sour cream or plain yogurt: Small amounts can be added to sauces at the last minute to add richness and a stroganoff flavor.

Tomato paste: Freeze on waxed paper-lined baking sheet in one tablespoon disks. Peel the disks off the paper and store in freezer bags.

Africanized Honeybees Expected in Four States

By Kim Kaplan

Africanized honeybees now in Texas can be expected to spread to as many as four states—Arizona, California, New Mexico and Louisiana—over the next 18 to 24 months. That's the outlook of a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist who is studying and tracking these bees—a species known for stinging repeatedly.

How quickly the Africanized honeybees spread will depend on the weather and on geographic obstacles such as desert areas that offer no food or shelter to the swarming bees, said Anita Collins, an Agricultural Research Service geneticist heading USDA's honeybee research in Weslaco, Tex.

"If the weather is very dry or extremely wet during the coming fall or spring swarming seasons, the Africanized honeybees are not going to move as far," Collins said. "We could start seeing the first swarms in southern California by the fall of 1993 or the spring of 1994."

As of May this year, Africanized honeybees have been found in a band across southern Texas from Corpus Christi in the east through San Antonio to Del Rio in the west. San Antonio's swarm put the leading edge of Africanized honeybees 275 miles from the spot in Hidalgo, Tex., where they were first found in October 1990 after crossing the Mexican border.

Among the honeybee swarms caught in ARS trap lines along the Texas-Mexico border, a surprisingly low percentage has been Africanized, according to Collins.

"At the end of the fall 1991 swarming season, about 80 percent of the swarms we were catching were probably Africanized. Early in this spring's swarming season, it was probably only about 30 percent Africanized," she said.

A mild winter and enough rain to create a flush of blooming plants, Collins said, "may have given our local honeybees a chance to get their populations up," as a defense against Africanized honeybees.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:
I am writing to express my concern on how the fireworks were handled on the 4th of July.
I have two small children who I had planned on taking to the display. I explained that they were to go to bed at their regular bed time and I would wake them up in time to see the show. In the mean time, the weather grew worse. It got so bad that there were tornado warnings in the immediate area and the TV stations were telling us to "TAKE COVER IMMEDIATELY!" As disappointed as we were that we would not make it to the show, we stayed home where we would be safe from the storm. We assumed with such SEVERE weather in the area, the display would be canceled until the next day. No such chance! The fireworks went on as scheduled! Could someone please explain to me why fireworks were not postponed until the next day (was someone unwilling to pack up the display and set it up the next day when it was safe?) and while you're at it, help me explain to a three-year-old why she has to wait until next year to see the "sparkles in the sky."
I am just wondering how many people could have risked their lives to celebrate the 4th in Chelsea!
Linda Cooper.

SANDY BARKMAN'S two varieties of broccoli and other vegetables drew the interest of many patrons at Saturday's Farmers Market in Chelsea. The market was moved this year to a corner of the village's municipal parking lot.

YOUNGSTERS enjoyed the many rides available on the midway at the Manchester Fair last week. The much larger Chelsea Community Fair will be held the week of Aug. 24.

THE GIRAFFE appeared to be looking between his legs at the Manchester Community Fair last week. A slow leak in the head kept the beast slouched over as kids took their turns jumping around inside.

Despite the evidence of increasing speed all around us, the fact remains that the human body has only to a slight degree kept pace with this trend. Unlike our manufactured products, there are no "new models" every year.

Each day, we see new speed records set in many fields, yet our bodies are little different from the people of Cicero's time. Those who recognize their limitations and adopt a pace which can be maintained comfortably are most apt to enjoy a fruitful old age.

SHARING THE ROAD SAFELY

SHARING THE ROAD SAFELY

Q: Posted speed limits in construction zones:

- Can be ignored if you do not see anyone working on the roadway.
- Are always 45 miles per hour.
- Are based on road and construction conditions.
- Are generally too slow.

Summertime means nice weather for swimming, sunning and travel. It also means good weather to repair the tremendous damage Michigan winters inflict on our roadways. So, even though highway construction may cause some travel delays, we always welcome "construction season" for the traffic safety improvements that result.

During this time of year, Michigan residents travel farther and more often. Total state-wide travel for 1991 is estimated at 83 billion annual vehicle miles. This is a 2.5 percent increase from 1990. 1992 travel continues on the upswing.

At the same time, we have seen reductions in traffic crash deaths, thanks in part to more people wearing safety belts, more children buckled up, and fewer people drinking and driving. Yet, an average of 22 people died in construction zones each year since 1988 in Michigan.

How can this tragic toll be reduced? One way is through legislation. A 1990 Michigan law allows the project engineer more judgment and flexibility in establishing speed limits and length of work areas. That means, whatever the speed limit, it is based upon existing conditions, number of workers and site hazards. So, it is especially important to obey posted speed limits.

Every Michigan traveler is a critical part of construction zone safety. Courtesy, common sense and care are important ingredients. While highway workers are placing their own lives on the line, careless drivers jeopardize everyone on the roadway, including themselves. Many construction zone fatalities are single car crashes, or crashes caused by speeding after leaving a construction zone.

Most injuries in work zones are to drivers and their passengers. According to the Michigan Department of Transportation, there were 4,122 construction zone property damage crashes state-wide in 1990. More than 1,470 people were injured.

Every year the Michigan Department of Transportation provides a free "Build Michigan: Traveler's

Storage Payments Resume for Wheat in Farmer Reserve

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced that beginning June 29 storage payments resumed on wheat in the Farmer-Owned-Reserve.

Keith Bjerke, executive vice-president of USDA's Commodity Credit Corp., said, "This will not limit producers ability to market wheat in the FOR at their discretion."

Storage payments were stopped Jan. 28 as required by law, since the five-day moving average price of the classes of wheat in the FOR was at least 95 percent ($3.80 per bushel) of the wheat established target price. The law also requires that the non-storage earning period continue until prices have been below the storage-stop trigger level for more than 90 consecutive days.

Payments are 26.5 cents per bushel, per year, paid at the end of each quarter.

The last day the wheat market price equaled or exceeded 95 percent of the wheat target price was March 30. Therefore, June 29 was the end of the non-storage earning period.

Eating Your Way To A Healthy Heart

An ounce of prevention is worth... half a pound of fish in one's weekly diet, or so says a University of Michigan cardiologist who stresses sensible eating for a healthy heart. And while eating fish—which can reduce the cholesterol level in your blood and help prevent heart attacks—can do wonders for your heart, that alone won't do the trick.

Improving your over-all nutrition—prevention, in other words—is often all that is needed.

"There's no magic involved," said Carl Orringer, M.D. "Cholesterol reduction through a modification in diet and regular, controlled exercise can reduce the onset of heart disease and significantly alter the long-term survival rate of a person with a history of cardiac problems."

Orringer and his staff at MedSport, the U-M's sports medicine and preventive cardiology clinic, specialize in teaching heart patients how to reduce the risk of recurrent cardiac illness by modifying dietary-related risk factors: high blood cholesterol, high blood pressure, diabetes mellitus and obesity. Better nutrition and exercise often can reduce all four factors, but medication may be necessary for some patients.

Orringer also emphasizes the modification of other risk factors such as smoking and stress. This is accomplished through various programs of risk factor detection, weight control and smoking cessation.

For many, dietary changes are enough to reduce the threat of cardiovascular disease. "We often see a significant improvement in cholesterol levels within a month of putting a patient on a nutrition program," said Orringer, who co-authored a grocery shopping guide to help consumers select foods lower in dietary saturated fat and cholesterol.

For others, diet and exercise combined successfully lowers cholesterol without medication. Exercise is beneficial, Orringer said, because it increases the production of a blood protein called high-density lipoprotein, or HDL, which helps eliminate cholesterol from the bloodstream. Exercise also helps shave off excess pounds and improves the efficiency of the heart.

Coronary disease in the United States is largely blamed on the American diet, which is loaded with red meat, dairy products, fried and overprocessed foods. In contrast, the Japanese, who live primarily on a diet of fish, vegetables and rice, experience five times fewer heart attacks than people in Western countries, he said.

High cholesterol levels in the blood may lead to fatty deposits on the walls of coronary arteries, which increases the risk of heart attack.

What many people don't realize is that high cholesterol levels usually begin during childhood. Children of parents with high cholesterol levels have a greater chance of developing the same problem, due to dietary or genetic factors—or both, Orringer said. Children with high cholesterol at the age of 5 tend to have the same problem later.

And while some people's genes allow them to metabolize cholesterol more efficiently than others, most people can lower their cholesterol levels through diet. Reading nutrition labels is a start; cooking and eating to get the most flavor and nutrition for the least amount of cholesterol and saturated fat—which plays a major role in raising blood cholesterol—is another way.

Here are some hints that may change the way you shop, eat—and feel:

- Buy margarines that list a liquid polyunsaturated oil as the first ingredient, and avoid those with a hydrogenated oil listed first.

- Buy chicken, turkey, fish and veal more often than beef, lamb, pork or ham, which contain more fat and less meat per pound.

- Avoid luncheon and variety meats such as bologna, bacon, sausage, salami, frankfurters and liverwurst, all of which are high in fat and sodium and have added chemical preservatives.

- Buy cheeses made from skim milk, which are low in fat and high in protein. These include dry curd cottage cheese and farmer's cheese and some specially processed low-fat cheeses.

- Avoid most commercial coffee creamers—they are typically made of coconut or palm oil and are high in artery-clogging saturated fat.

- Beware of words that mean fat, such as lard, palm oil, palm kernel oil, coconut oil, monoglyceride, diglyceride, vegetable shortening, cocoa butter and hydrogenated oil. Foods with these ingredients are high in saturated fat.

St. Joseph Summer Fun Festival Scheduled for Friday, Saturday

The week-end for the Summer Fun Festival hosted by St. Joseph's church, Dexter, is finally here. Now all of the hard work and planning will turn into fun and entertainment for all.

The entire family is sure to enjoy the many exciting features of this year's festival.

Children can play the many games in the Kids' Tent and will also want to see the Domino's Traveling Barnyard Show.

A tae kwon do exhibit by Olympian Han-Lee would be of interest to children of all ages.

Anybody wanting to be a star or just have some memorable fun should try the Karaoke sing-along machine.

For those who rather dance there will be plenty of opportunities. Square dancing, dancing to Linda Lee and the Goldenaires and the festival dance with music by D.J. Chris Aleksander should keep folks on their feet and having a good time.

For more toe tapping entertainment be sure to catch Uncle Carl's Dutchmer Club and Tullamore and Dew the Irish duo that will entertain with their lively renditions of Irish tunes and other folk favorites.

Classic cars will be featured Saturday as will the very popular Braun & Helmer auction. Don't miss the chance to bid on the many exciting prizes. You can also try your luck at the many Las Vegas type games, basket raffles, cake walk, doll booth and the large cash raffle. For sure bargains stop by the flea market and country store.

If all of the games, singing, dancing and shopping make you hungry, relax and feast on the many ethnic foods, a Sunday morning continental breakfast or the famous St. Joe's Chicken Dinner. All of this fabulous food and fun will be available rain or shine, under tents. So join the fun this week-end, July 18 and 19 at the Summer Fun Festival, St. Joseph's church, 3rd and Dover, Dexter. Be sure to check the festival ad in today's paper for the entertainment schedule and additional information.

Tight Budget at Land Grant University May Mean Less Services

Bad news for people who use the Michigan college system. State government's higher education budget for next year is basically flat. "That's going to translate into higher tuition and some programs that perhaps will no longer be offered," said Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau.

Nelson said that Michigan State University received no increase in budget for fiscal year 1992-93. "With inflation running about three percent a year, that means an actual decrease in operating money," he said. "That concerns farmers, because one of the aspects of Michigan agriculture is the high level of diversity, with over 125 different commodities produced. That translates to Michigan State University as a tremendous challenge in dealing with research, education and extension programs for those various commodities."

Nelson said with limited funds, MSU is going to have to make some tough decisions prioritizing programs in the coming year.

NAFTA Negotiations Being Delayed By Agricultural Dispute

There are some signs that agricultural issues are becoming sticking points in the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA) negotiations, according to Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau. As a result, agriculture could be eliminated from the final pact.

Mexico is having difficulty coming to terms regarding corn trade rules that meet U.S. objectives, said Nye. At the same time, the U.S. has been pressured by its own producers of sugar and various fruits and vegetables.

"Few if any commodity interests that would benefit from free trade with Mexico are working hard to keep agriculture in the pact as those who are working to have so-called Section 22 commodities excluded," he said. "Once a few commodities are exempted, other sensitive commodities will demand the same treatment. If only non-sensitive commodities are included, the result will be meaningless to agriculture."

Nye said that unlike the GATT world trade talks, agriculture is not critical to a final NAFTA agreement. "But many consider excluding agriculture to be a serious impediment to the agreement. Farm Bureau continues to support a comprehensive agricultural package in NAFTA, with longer transition periods for sensitive commodities on both sides of the border," Nye said.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Summer Baseball Team Wins Two of Five Games in Week

Chelsea Bulldogs summer baseball team had a busy week as they played five games, winning two.

On Tuesday, July 7 Chelsea hosted Ross Collision of Ann Arbor and suffered a 5-0 loss in the first game and a 13-6 defeat in the second.

In the opener Chelsea took an early 1-0 lead as Casey Schiller walked, was singled to second by Gary White, and scored on two consecutive walks.

Ross Collision tied the game in the second inning then scored three times in the third for a 4-1 lead.

In the fourth inning, Chelsea pulled to within 4-3 as Matt Powell and Schiller scored.

Ross Collision added an insurance run in the sixth before the Bulldogs loaded the bases in the seventh with two outs but couldn't score.

The Bulldogs had six hits, led by White with two singles. Steve Grau, Gabe Bernhard, and Jason McVittie each singled as well.

White pitched, gave up seven hits, walked one and struck out four.

"Our pitching has been the highlight of the summer," said Chelsea coach Akei Marshall.

In the second game, Chelsea fell behind 8-0 before scoring three times in the fourth inning. Grau tripled and White and Schiller followed with back-to-back doubles. A single by Don Poppenger completed the scoring.

Ross Collision added one run in the fifth and four in the seventh while Chelsea rallied for three in the bottom of the seventh. Ken Slane's double was the big blow for Chelsea.

Grau was the starting pitcher and McVittie pitched the last three innings.

Chelsea had eight hits in the game, led by two hits each by Slane and Poppenger.

On Thursday, July 9 the Bulldogs took a 4-0 victory at Dexter.

Chris White hurled a complete game and held the Dreadnaughts to seven singles and one walk. He struck out every hitter, except the lead-off batter, at least once and finished with 10 strikeouts. Only one runner got as far as third base.

Chelsea opened their scoring in the first inning as Chris Dunham led off with a triple and scored on Pat Steele's sacrifice fly.

In the third inning, Chelsea plated three runs on a walk and an error, a two-run single by Chris White, and a run-scoring single by Slane.

Dunham and White each had two hits and Schiller doubled.

On Saturday, July 11, Chelsea took on Ann Arbor's B.T. Express and lost the first game 7-4.

A walk, three hits, and a Bulldog error gave B.T. a 3-0 lead in the first inning.

Chelsea got one run back in the second on back-to-back doubles by Slane and Grau.

The Bulldogs pulled to within 4-3 in the fourth inning as Gary White singled, Chris White walked, and Grau singled them home after Slane's sacrifice. Express scored one in the fifth and two in the seventh, while the Bulldogs managed one more run in the seventh on Schiller's single.

Chelsea had eight hits, led by two each by Grau and Schiller.

Grau pitched, gave up eight hits, walked four, and struck out three.

The Bulldogs jumped out to a 4-0 lead after two innings in the second game and cruised to a 14-4 win.

All but one Chelsea hitter reached base and the Bulldogs scored in every inning but the third.

Chelsea scored one run on four singles in the first inning. Four more hits, including three doubles, in the second inning produced three more runs. In the fourth, Dunham's double and Slane's single resulted in Chelsea's fifth run.

A double by Poppenger knocked in another run in the fifth. In the sixth inning Chelsea sent 10 batters to the plate, collecting four hits and two walks. A two-run homer by Slane and a triple by Gary White highlighted the onslaught.

Express scored twice in the fourth and once in the sixth.

Gary White tossed a complete game, yielding seven hits and two walks while striking out four. In four innings he set down the side in order in a strong effort, Marshall said.

Chelsea had 16 hits, including 10 by the first three hitters in the line-up. Slane had four hits, and Dunham and Gary White each had three. Powell and Ed Waller each added a double and a single.

Chelsea hosts B.T. Express tomorrow at 8:15 p.m. Their record is 9-13.

BRAVES of the Chelsea Recreation Department's Pee Wee Reese league are having a fine season this summer. In front, from left, are Drew Henson, Lance Maze, and Bryan Jankovic. Cigarettes, Alcohol Stolen from Store

Cigarettes and alcohol were stolen from the Cavanaugh Lake Store in Sylvan township during a break-in early last Saturday morning.

Someone broke a window on a door to gain access to the business at 1:11 a.m., said store owner Joann Carruthers.

Stolen were about eight cartons of cigarettes, four bottles of whiskey, and two cases of beer.

"We were there about five minutes after the alarm went off, and they were gone by then," Carruthers said.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department deputies did not arrive for about 45 minutes, Carruthers said.

"The only thing we talked about is what got stolen and the deputy said we ought to put bars on the windows," Carruthers said.

"I'm checking out prices right now."

It was the third time since August the store has been victimized. In August there was another after-hours burglary and in January the store was robbed at gunpoint.

MY SPECIAL FRIEND By Sarah Taylor—Morning Kindergarten I like to see my friends and sometimes I talk to them. I see them on the bus and I have fun seeing them. Sometimes I like that they're boys. JUMPING ROPE By Chesley Clark—Morning Kindergarten I can jump rope well, and skip. My jump rope is long. I have two of them, one is pink and one is green. And I also like to ride my bike. A FISH STORY By Marissa Giebel—Afternoon Kindergarten My mommy and I were taking a rest and my dad came back and said, "I just caught a big shark and it's in my trunk!" We looked and it wasn't there. My dad tricked me. A STORY By Mia Lanconi—Kindergarten Once I saw a polar bear. He was swimming in the water. I saw some hippopotamuses and I saw elephants. I don't remember what they were doing. At my house I have two kitties, Eddie and China. I have a baby sister. Her name is Rosa. THINGS I LIKE By Rachel Shears—Afternoon Kindergarten I like my Mama I love my Daddy. I love my brother. I love myself. They are very nice people. I like them all. The trees are nice and they give you lots of things. They give you paper and they give something to smell. They are good. My Daddy plants trees-lots of them. My Daddy was a farmer so was his dad. They are nice and I love them. They are so nice and they keep me warm. The summer is hot and when it's really hot I am hot. Coats keep you warm in the winter. The winter is coming and it's almost my brother's birthday. It's almost my birthday. He gets some presents and I do too. I give him presents and they are good. I'm birthday is in the fall but I love him, and I love my friends. At Christmas time the trees started going away but they came back in spring, and I like them. ARIEL By Desiree Palmer—First Grade One day when I was at the movies with my mom we all watched Cinderella, Peter Pan, and the Little Mermaid. We had donuts, popcorn and pop. The Little Mermaid is my favorite. We bought a statue of Ariel that sings. I took it home and put it in my bedroom. Now I listen to her sing when I want. My favorite part was when they were singing when they got married. I've watched Little Mermaid lots of times. I have the movie at home. SPORTS By Mike Groesser—First Grade Football is my favorite sport. I like to play it more than watch it. I play football with my neighbor. Sometimes we play tackle and sometimes we play touch. I like to play basketball too. I like to take the killer cross-over. They dribble the ball, then you bounce the ball between your legs and then you run as fast as you can, then you hook it around the hoop. I like to play soccer too. Soccer season starts on my birthday, April 27th. Last year I played goalie and someone kicked the ball right in my face—OUCH!	THE CAT AND DOG By Carla Hoopingartner—Second Grade A little red kitten sat in the window looking at the flowers and water when the cat was living in an apartment. Next door lived a little dog and the kitten and the dog played and swam but the kitten jumped on lily pads. Well, the dog swam and they lived happily ever after. THE ADVENTURES OF MIKE AND THE BULLY By Dan Goss—Second Grade One day a boy named Mike was walking down the street. Mike came across a bully. The bully said, "Hey kid, get out of here!" But Mike just said, "Hey, this isn't your sidewalk, why should I move?" So the bully started teasing and pushing Mike. So Mike ran home and told his mom what the bully did. Mike's mom told the bully's mom what the bully did, and the bully got in trouble, and after that Mike would always ignore the bully and Mike's life was a lot better. THE END MR. FROG AND THE CORN STALK By Tod Philip Schlegelmilch—Third Grade Mr. Frog was a poor, little amphibian, and all he wanted for Christmas was money. So, he went to Mrs. Food's "mushroom" house. He sold his fly for some "magic" corn cobs. When he noticed what he'd done he threw the cobs out the window. Overnight the cobs grew into a huge corn stalk. Talk about dinner for 20 years! He yelled, then he saw a sign: "Climb me!" "O.K.," said Mr. Frog. And he did. The top was our world. "AHHHHHHH!" He yelled when he was almost crunched by a boy. The boy gave him 10 delicious crickets to eat. "BURP! Excuse me!" he said. He went to a house and a lady gave him 5 more crickets to eat. In fact, she gave him 85 crickets in a bowl. He ate 51 AND 80,000,000 gold coins. . . all he'd ever need! The End RATS By Gregory Grossman—Third Grade I think rats are very smart animals. Some people think rats are smarter than mice and that's sometimes true. My brother has a white rat named Angel, and my rat is a hooded rat. Her name is Pandora. A hooded rat is a very pretty rat because it has a black head and a stripe down its back. Sometimes they have brown and gray heads. My mom likes it when my rat stands on her hind legs. So do I! WHY GEESE FLY IN A V-FORMATION By Mallory Wentz—Third Grade Long ago a war was going on with the south and the north birds. It was a bad war. Papa birds and Mama birds had to fly for their lives. Birds were getting hurt, some even died. The north was losing, so they made a code. All the birds: the robin, the bluebird, geese, every bird made a plan. They were going to make a word out of birds. When the word was spelled the birds would shoot their poison worm shooters and win the war. The word was VICTORY. All the birds except the geese wanted to bed early on the night before the battle. The geese loved to fool around. They stayed up until 11.45. The next day all the birds except the geese started to fly to their meeting place. The geese stayed, they were sound asleep. The troop of north birds waited and waited for the geese. They were supposed to be the letter V. Because the geese didn't show up the south won. Now the north birds have to work very hard in the winter and the south birds go where it is always warm. To this day you can see groups of geese going to the meeting place every winter to see if their friends are waiting for them. They are still flying in the letter V.	THE DISCOVERY OF HONOLULU By Lindsey Brink—Fourth Grade I discovered my island when I was ship wrecked. I met some people with clothes made out of animal skins and had long hair and beards. They had peach skin. They asked if I wanted to go to their house and play games. I said o.k., so I went to their houses. I said, "What are these houses made out of?" They said "Sticks, leaves, vines and rope." So I went and played games with them. —said, "You guys are fun so can I take your picture?" They started looking strange and afraid, so I told them what it was. When I took their picture. One day I started to do sign language to communicate with them better. When it was dinner we had fish and meat, and then I went to bed. THE MICE TAKE A VACATION By Louise Hubbard—Fifth Grade Once there were two mice named Megan and Allistare. One day Megan said to Allistare, "Let's take a trip to New York." Allistare said, "Why not, we need a vacation." Megan and Allistare dressed up in their best clothes and hopped on a train to New York City. While they were there they visited the Statue of Liberty, Central Park, The Dakota, The Hard Rock Cafe, Chinatown, Little Italy, and much more. After a month's stay, Megan and Allistare went home. At home Allistare said to Megan, "Let's go to New York City again!" THE FOG By Melissa Herrst—Fifth Grade The fog is like a gray cabinet. Just sitting in a gray corner. THE FORMING OF DIFFERENT LANDMARKS By Joshua Miller—Fifth Grade One day a giant came to a village. He ate a couple of people. One of the men shot the giant. He fell down and did not move. The townspeople thought he was dead so they buried him. The giant was hurt badly but not dead. He was mad at the townspeople. He decided to get back at them. He wanted to break through the surface and eat the rest of the people. Instead he punched up at the surface to make hills and mountains. He went through tunnels which he made as he crawled along. He stuck his finger down to the water and down to the magma in the center of the earth. This heated the water and the heat forced a hole through the surface to make geysers. He did the same for hot springs but used his thumb which caused a bigger hole. He did these things all around the world. The earth is flat and lower because he didn't push up-ward in those areas. He destroyed lots of villages around the world. The people were very sad and very mad at the giant. Then they saw the giant came up a mountain and make a hole. He slipped back while trying to climb out of the hole because he weighed so much. He fell down to the water. He sprayed it all around and formed lakes. He then fell deeper to the magma in the center of the earth. Magma sprayed out and he had made volcanoes. He did it in more places by sticking his finger up from the center of the earth. The townspeople cried at the loss of the men who were eaten by the giant and for the loss of villages which were destroyed. Their salty tears formed oceans. Then they finally stopped and went back to rebuild their villages. To this day, there are still mountains, hills, lakes, oceans, geysers, volcanoes, hot springs and the earth still shakes when the giant snores.

Children Invited to Marketplace Event at North Lake Church

Chelsea children are invited to come to North Lake United Methodist church on July 27-30 to participate in a Marketplace event depicting life in Bible times. Children will participate in crafts and occupations of Roman days, serving as apprentice metal workers, brickmakers, basket weavers, bakers, scroll makers, and carpenters. They will be entertained by storytellers and drama groups. They will have an opportunity to see for themselves what life was like during the days of Christ. Purpose of the Marketplace is to acquaint children with their Christian heritage, and provide an experience of good summer fun. The Marketplace opens at 9 a.m. and closes at 11:45 a.m., each of the four days. Registrations are due by July 21 and may be made by calling the church (475-7569). Donations are appreciated to help pay expenses. All children, regardless of denomination, are welcome to join in the fun. The church is located at 14111 North Territorial Rd., just east of Riker Rd.

Tomatoes were sometimes called love apples, perhaps because of a superstition that eating them made people fall in love.

Fraudulent Sales Tactics Used To Sell Trust Kits

Q. How can I propagate my old-fashioned lilacs? Do I take cuttings or what?

A. New lilac plants are produced from branches bent to the ground and covered with soil, then cut off after roots form. Start by working up the soil beneath the bush and mixing organic matter into it. Then bend the branch down and make a slanting, 2-inch cut on the upper side of the branch about a foot from the tip. Dust the cut with rooting compound. Then bend the branch down and fasten it to the ground at a point between the parent plant and the cut. Use a wooden peg, wire wicket or stone to hold the branch in place. Bend the tip of the branch upright and twist it a half-turn to open the cut. Then place another peg or pin over the branch at the point of the cut and cover it with 3 to 4 inches of firmly packed soil. Mulch the spot with straw or leaf mulch and water often enough to keep the soil moist. If you start this spring, you should have a rooted plant by next spring. Then you can cut the new plant free of the parent plant. Give it three or four weeks to become accustomed to being separated from the parent. Then transplant it to its new location in the landscape.

Q. I didn't have much luck growing Chinese cabbage last year. Now I read that I should have planted it in the summer for a fall crop instead of in early spring. Is this true?

A. In Michigan, Chinese cabbage usually does better as a fall crop. It is sensitive to cold weather in the seedling stage and will bolt if exposed to temperatures consistently below 50 degrees for 15 days. Chinese cabbage is also sensitive to high temperatures, especially when heads are forming. If you want to plant Chinese cabbage in the spring, choose bolting-resistant varieties for spring planting and hold off planting until late May—or later—when average temperatures are above 60 degrees F. If you want the best chance for a successful harvest, plant Chinese cabbage in July or August for a fall harvest.

Q. What causes some of the new growth on my pear tree to turn black and wilt? It seems to be getting worse each year.

A. Your problem is fireblight, a disease that causes young twigs and flowers to wilt, blacken and die. Often the tips of blighted branches resemble a shepherd's crook. Pears, apples, crabapple, hawthorn and pyracantha may be affected. The disease is caused by a bacterium that overwinters in cankers formed on branches the previous year. The bacterium is carried by rain and insects to new growth in the spring. Control requires pruning in late winter or early spring to remove cankered branches before growth resumes. Prune 6 to 8 inches below affected areas, and always use a 10 percent chlorine bleach solution to disinfect pruning tools between cuts to avoid spreading the bacterium. New growth is most susceptible to fireblight, so overfertilizing or pruning during the growing season, either of which can cause a flush of new growth, can worsen the problem.

Q. I've heard that aloe plants are extremely easy to raise and keep healthy, but mine is looking decidedly droopy since last fall. I've kept it by the window for sunlight and placed it under a regular lamp for light in the evening, also. Neither of these treatments is causing it to perk up. It gets the correct amount of water. What am I doing wrong? What can I do to help my plant?

A. Your description of a droopy plant suggests that something is wrong with the root system. Check the root area for dark, rotting roots—this is a sure symptom of overwatering. If there are still some healthy, white roots, you can remove the rotten roots and save the plant. Repot into clean, well drained soilless potting mix from your local garden center. Aloes are succulents, plants that store a lot of water in their roots and stems. Encourage good growth in the summer with plenty of water, monthly fertilizing and plenty of sunlight (outdoors, if possible). In the fall, stop fertilizing and cut back on water, irrigating only when the medium feels dry.

Q. How can I keep woodchucks out of my garden?

A. Electric fencing or a C-shaped fence of chicken wire will keep woodchucks out of your garden plot. For electric fencing, use two wires: the inside (garden side) wire should be 4 inches from the ground at all points, and the outside wire should be 2 inches high. (Note that if the soil surface is uneven, the height of the wires will vary, perhaps allowing woodchucks to step over or creep under the wires.) The wires should be 3 to 4 inches apart, or the width of the two insulators set on opposite sides of the post. Use a small charger designed for use with gardens and keep the wires weed free at all times. You can also make a fence from 1-inch mesh chicken wire 4 feet wide. Bend the wire into a C shape and fasten it to stakes around the garden with the open side of the C facing away from the garden. The top of the wire should overhang 6 to 8 inches, and the bottom should extend 6 to 8 inches outward on the ground. These fences will also be effective in keeping rabbits, raccoons and other small mammals out of the garden. The wire overhang at the top will prevent them from climbing over it, and the bottom of the C will keep them from going under it. A chemical repellent, Hinder, will also keep rabbits out of the garden and will repel woodchucks, deer and squirrels.

Be cautious of sales representatives using false and misleading statements to sell high priced "living trust kits," is the warning the state Attorney General issued to Michigan's older adults recently.

According to Attorney General Frank J. Kelley, misleading sales tactics are being used to convince senior citizens that using the kits to put their property in a revocable living trust will avoid high costs of probate. The kits can cost as much as $5,000, depending on the size of the estate, which is considerably higher than what a private attorney would normally charge for a living trust specifically designed for an individual client.

Persons in the western and central parts of the state have been the hardest hit by the misleading and high pressure tactics. At least 102 people in the Traverse City area were contacted.

Kelley recently issued notices of intended action against two companies operating in Michigan. They are the Senior Citizens Information Center of Eaton Rapids and the American Association for Senior Citizens, incorporated in the District of Columbia but operating out of Dallas, Tex.

According to the notice, mail solicitations, telephone calls, and in-home sales presentations that may last several hours and consist of a number of false and misleading representations, are pressure tactics used by the sales representatives who are not attorneys. This is a violation of the state's Consumer Protection Act.

The companies may also be violating Michigan's In-Home Solicitation Act by failing to provide consumers with a three-day period to rescind the agreement.

The sales representatives allegedly tell the consumer that probate costs may eat up more than 10 percent of their estate, but these costs may be avoided by purchasing the kit.

The consumer is convinced to pay for the service up front and is asked to complete a financial questionnaire. The information is sent to an attorney, often an out-of-state attorney not licensed to practice law in Michigan. The attorney assigned then prepares the documents to form a living trust and returns them to the consumer, charging costs of $1,000 or more depending on the size of the estate, when the same services are available at substantially lower costs from private attorneys.

The use of non-attorneys in this illegal practice has caught the attention of the State Bar of Michigan and has resulted in action being taken against one attorney in the Traverse City area. Fred L. Woodworth, president of the State Bar of Michigan, said, "The State Bar adds its voice to the call of caution on the part of consumers contemplating the use of trust kits. Members of the public have the right to expect that when they seek law-related services from individuals or organizations purporting to be qualified, these qualifications are honestly represented."

Office of Services to the Aging Director Nancy Crandall advises consumers to go to an attorney and ask questions about a will, trust and probate or call the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians at 1-800-347-5397. This state-wide program offers residents age 60 and older free access to experienced attorneys.

Persons who believe they have been victimized by such services may write the Michigan Attorney General's Office, Consumer Protection Division, P.O. Box 30213, Lansing 48909.

Here is a Consumer Checklist for those interested in choosing the best option.

1. Be wary when a salesperson tells you that a kit they are offering will solve all of your estate problems.
2. Check the price of the kit against the price of the same service offered by local attorneys.
3. Make sure that promises of savings are based on Michigan probate costs and laws. Probate costs and attorney fees vary greatly from state to state and even from court to court within the state.
4. A kit is not tailored for the customer's particular circumstances. If the salesperson promises the services of an attorney to review documents, get the name of the attorney and check to see if they are licensed to practice in Michigan.
5. Do not provide personal and confidential family and financial information to a salesperson. Meet with the attorney to discuss your circumstances.
6. If the salesperson says part of the cost of the kit pays the lawyer's fee, do not buy. Michigan attorneys are not allowed to split fees with salespersons.
7. Find out if there is a way to get a refund if you are not satisfied. Get the promise of refunds in writing.
8. Remember not everyone needs a living trust. If you have questions as to whether or not you need one, contact a private attorney or call the Legal Hotline for Older Michiganians.

State Marker To Recognize Historic Manchester Church

History converges from many directions at St. Mary's Catholic church in the neighboring village of Manchester. At noon on Sunday, July 19 this fascinating history will be made official at a ceremony to unveil and dedicate a State of Michigan Historical Marker at St. Mary's church on W. Main St., Manchester.

The rough stone church is firmly planted on the Village Green in this historic town nestled in the southwest corner of Washtenaw county which prides itself on meticulously maintained Victorian homes, historic businesses, and a pace and friendliness that harken back to the early days of the 19th century.

As a Roman Catholic Church, St. Mary's also reflects the customs and traditions of the Church's 200-year history.

In addition, the parish of St. Mary's developed from distinct geographic directions and ethnic heritages: 1) From the first Catholic congregation in Washtenaw county organized just north of Manchester Village limits in predominantly German Freedom township, begun in 1839 and eventually merging with the Village church; and 2) from the church organized in the Village in 1863 by missionary priests from Lenawee county to the south and consisting primarily of Irish families.

The German church was built in honor of St. Francis de Borgia, and the Irish church was dedicated to the Assumption of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Property was purchased for the "new" church, St. Mary's, in 1911 and the finished building was dedicated to the Blessed Mother just one year later. The then bishop, Right Rev. Bishop Edward Kelly, presided at the church dedication. Proudly, the newly completed church was free from debt.

St. Mary's simple but constant presence in the community of Manchester.

Kenneth J. Povish, Bishop of Diocese of Lansing, will formally accept the marker as presented by John B. Swainson, current president of the Michigan Historical Commission, former governor of the State of Michigan, and Manchester resident.

The public is invited to join in the ceremony to dedicate the historical marker and see for themselves how today, as throughout its history, St. Mary's church of Manchester blends diverse elements with dignity and grace, flair and simplicity, on Sunday, July 19, at noon.

Manchester Chicken Broil Set Thursday

The third Thursday of July is always a festive time in Manchester. This year, July 18 will be the 39th time that 600 of Manchester's men and boys will gather together to prepare and serve up some 14,000 chicken halves to visitors from all over the country.

Serving will start at 4 p.m. at Manchester Athletic Field on the corner of Vernon and Wolverine streets, right in the heart of Manchester. Signs and guides will point the way to convenient parking. Free shuttle rides are provided by horse-drawn wagons.

The dinners consist of one-half chicken, charcoal broiled to perfection, served with cole slaw (hand-sliced and combined with a secret recipe sauce), radishes, roll and chips. You can choose to partake on the grounds or pick-up dinners to go. The time you spend at the site will be filled with entertainment by roving barber shop quartets and sweet adelines singing your old favorites.

Proceeds from the broil always go toward projects that help the Manchester community maintain its small town charm and beauty.

Besides the unique developmental and ethnic history of St. Mary's, the church structure itself is impressive. Built in a neo-Gothic style from fieldstone collected by area farmers, it graces the very center of the Village with a beautiful and yet unpretentious bearing.

In recognition of this interesting history and remarkable architecture, the people of St. Mary's will be joined by the current Bishop of Diocese of Lansing, the president of the Michigan Historical Commission, and numerous village officials on July 19, to dedicate a State Historical Marker at the site of the church. The marker will present to friends, neighbors, and passerby alike a brief description of

Swim-A-Cross Is Underway

The 15th annual Swim-A-Cross is happening the week of July 13-17. This event is a major fund-raiser for the Washtenaw County Chapter's Water Safety and Health Education Programs.

Swim-A-Cross participants obtain pledges and receive credit for each lap they swim. Over 14 area pools and approximately 400-500 swimmers take part in the event yearly. Great prizes will be awarded to swimmers who turn in pledges. There is no admission at the pool sites and refreshments will be served.

Swimmers should pick up pledge forms at either their local participating pools or at the Red Cross office, 2729 Packard Rd., Ann Arbor. Participants may fulfill pledges and swim laps at the Ann Arbor Fuller Municipal Pool, 1519 Fuller Rd., Wednesday, July 15, 12 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Brighton Area Resident Seeks Appeals Court Post

Livingston county resident Renee Vintzel Lorida has announced her candidacy for Judge, Court of Appeals, in the First District on the non-partisan ballot. Lorida is one of nine candidates, and is the only candidate in the six-county district who resides outside of Wayne county. The First District encompasses Monroe, Jackson, Lenawee, Livingston, Washtenaw and Wayne counties.

Lorida, who resides in Brighton township, is a partner with Reynolds, Beeby & Magnuson in Detroit. She has been involved in litigation practice for 11 years with appeals making up an important part of her practice. She is a mediator on the Wayne County Mediation Tribunal, a Hearing Panelist on the Attorney Discipline Board and a member of the Michigan Bar Journal Advisory Board. She served six years on the Michigan State Bar Representative Assembly.

In 1985, Lorida was a member of the U.S. Women Lawyers/Judges Delegation to the People's Republic of China at the invitation of the Ministry of Justice. In 1987, she was a delegate to the U.S./China Joint Conference on Trade, Investment and Economic Law in Beijing. She believes that these experiences have helped her to appreciate our system of government even more.

While attending Detroit College of Law, where she earned a Juris Doctor in 1981, Lorida was editor-in-chief of the Law Review. Before entering law school, she was an elementary school counselor for nine years. She helped develop a substance-abuse curriculum, a gifted and talented program and conducted teacher training seminars. Her broad educational experience includes a B.A. and an M.A. in education at Wayne State University. She was named "Counselor of the Year" in 1978 by the Michigan Elementary school counselor Association.

Lorida and her spouse, Nick, are parents of five children. They attend St. Nicholas church in Ann Arbor.

In announcing her candidacy, Lorida said she is committed to the judicial philosophy that an appellate judge's responsibility is to apply and interpret existing law. "Judges should judge, not legislate, and, in that way, maintain the separation of power of the branches of government as intended by the founders of our nation."

Students Chosen for Summer Music Camp

Stephanie Tucker, Dexter High school student and Jeremy Sterling, Chelsea High school student are participants in Western Michigan University's two-week summer music camp beginning July 12.

The camp, held on the WMU campus, focuses on chamber music, providing opportunities for students to perform in small ensembles, in addition to daily participation in either band, orchestra or choir.

Tucker and Sterling are among approximately 170 students from Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Tucker, daughter of Frank and Judy Tucker, is a soprano vocalist. Sterling, son of Steven and Lynne Sterling, is a tenor vocalist. Both will be taught by WMU faculty members. They will study music theory and music literature, take private lessons, maintain a rigorous rehearsal schedule and perform in both large and small ensemble concerts which are open to the public. All the music they perform will be learned and prepared during the two-week camp.

The free concerts, open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, July 24, in Miller Auditorium, Saturday, July 25, at 10:30 a.m. in Dalton Center and Saturday, July 25, at 1:30 p.m. in Miller Auditorium.

The largest gain of women in the labor force was in the period 1976-1990. During the period 1990-2005, the gain will slow and approach the rate of men, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.

YOU & YOUR PET

By Linda Reider

★ Clever Rats, Tiny Mice Fascinating as Pets . . .

Rats and mice may look similar but they are very different types of pets. These rodents have lived among people for thousands of years. Rats are larger and more intelligent than mice, but both are popular pets.

Domestic mice are nocturnal animals, so they are not usually very active during the daytime. They are fond of toys and require gentle handling. Male mice have a stronger odor than female mice; both are tiny, weighing only an ounce. These rodents have poor vision but excellent hearing, and are easily frightened by loud noises.

The domestic mouse has an amazing reproductive capacity. Mice become sexually mature around seven weeks of age, have a gestation period of 20 days, and an average litter of eight babies. It is possible for one pair of mice to produce 100,000 descendants in only one year! So be forewarned and house two mice of the same sex together. The domestic rat can reproduce at about the same rate. Since they also enjoy companionship, choose same sex pairs as pets. Both rodents have a lifespan of three to four years.

Rats are very intelligent, brave and curious. They love to explore and will require a sturdy top on their cage and close supervision when they are out. Rats may be taught to come to a whistle and other types of tricks. Their acrobatics are fascinating to watch. Like mice, they tend to be more active during the night. Rats groom and clean themselves often. They have a reputation of making excellent pets.

Rat chow is the recommended basis for the diet of both mice and rats. In addition, these rodents will enjoy kibbled dog biscuits, bread crumbs, bird seed, uncooked rice, rolled oats, cheese, raw vegetables, nuts, and meat. Since their front teeth grow all of the time, provide them with plenty of wood and roughage on which to chew and wear down their teeth. Provide water for both animals with a drinking bottle, and a small salt block for mice. Since they are nocturnal, feed them in the late afternoon.

The larger the cage, the better. A cage that is two feet wide by one foot deep by one foot high will house one mouse or rat comfortably; pairs need a larger space. Two-story houses are more interesting for these active curious pets. Line the bottom with newspaper or wood shavings, include a nesting box about five inches square with a one-inch opening, or a pint-size nesting bottle. Completely clean a rat's cage twice a week, and a mouse's every other day. An exercise wheel will provide entertainment for both types of rodents.

Allow your mice to become used to handling gradually as they are easily frightened. Pick up a mouse or rat by gently closing your hand around him. Or you can pick him up by the base (not the tip) of the tail with one hand while holding him underneath with the other hand. Never squeeze your pet.

If your mouse or rat becomes ill, he should be seen by a veterinarian who specializes in rodents. Consult the yellow pages or call the humane society for a referral.

Huron River Day Offers Something For Everyone

It will be anything but a lazy river when Ann Arbor flocks to the Huron River on Sunday, July 19 for its 12th annual Huron River Day celebration.

Sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation and the Huron River Community Coalition, the event takes place from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The variety of free and paid activities includes children's games and crafts, environmental displays, canoe lessons, a tree clinic, a classic canoe display, windsurfing demonstrations, bike maintenance instruction, a 1 mile run and a 5K Fun Run, a youth fishing derby, and more.

For canoe enthusiasts, there will be a variety of canoe races sponsored by the Ann Arbor News. Beginning at 8 a.m. there will be 8, 4, and 2 mile races, a Corporate Challenge in which many area businesses compete for "Corporate Supremacy," and a Mayor's Race which involves public officials from communities bordering the Huron River. Adult, child, male, female, tandem, solo . . . there's no need to be a spectator and every reason to be a participant.

Registration information is available at the Parks and Recreation Department, 5th Floor City Hall or Gallup Park Canoe Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd., Ann Arbor.

If you prefer something a little less active, you may sit by the river and listen to the melodious sounds of the Ann Arbor Civic Band. Or you may indulge your sweet tooth at the Bryant Community Center Ice Cream Social.

If preservation of our natural resources is a high priority for you, then stop by the display tent in the afternoon.

Youth Fishing Clinic Offered in Ann Arbor

A free Youth Fishing Clinic for youths ages 7-14 will take place Saturday, July 18 from 9 to 11 a.m. at Gallup Park Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd., Ann Arbor.

Sponsored by the Washtenaw County Bassmaster Club, the program is designed to introduce young people to equipment and basic techniques. Rod and reel are included with instruction. Space is limited.

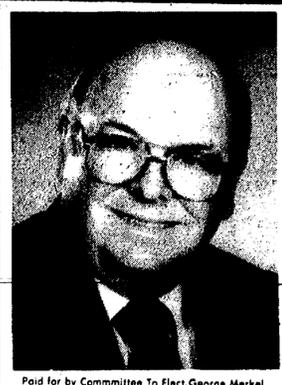

Please call 662-9319 for more information.

Summer Diseases Of Pets Is Topic Of Sunday Program

"Protect Your Pets from Summer Diseases" will be the subject of a program at the Eddy Geology Center in the Waterloo Recreation Area this Sunday, July 19 at 2 p.m.

During warm, humid days, summer diseases are more transmissible to pets. Dr. Carolyn Cook of the Stockbridge Animal Clinic, will discuss how to prevent heartworm, intestinal parasites, parvovirus, ticks, and other environmental contaminants in pets.

The program, sponsored by the Waterloo Natural History Association, is free and open to the public. However, a state vehicle permit is required to enter the park.

Prayer to St. Jude

O glorious Apostle, St. Jude Thaddeus true relative of Jesus and Mary, I salute thee through the Most Sacred Heart of Jesus. Through this Heart I praise and thank God for all the graces He has bestowed upon thee. Humbly prostrate before thee, I implore thee through this Heart to look down upon me with compassion. Oh, despite not my poor prayer, let not my trust be confounded. To thee God has granted the privilege of aiding mankind in the most desperate cases. Oh, come to my aid that I may praise the mercies of God. All my life I will be grateful to thee and will be thy faithful client until I can thank thee in Heaven. Say 9 times a day for 9 days. Publication must be promised. Thank you Our Lord and Saint Jude for granting me this very special favor. Amen. M.M.M. 8

Today's Investor An NAIC Service

Q. I have been told Mobil Corporation is an excellent oil company as a prospective investment. Would you have any comments to make about Mobil Corporation?

By Ralph L. Seger, Jr.
CFA
President
NAIC Investor
Advisory Service

A. The oil industry is a risky business. A company drills a hole in the ground and hopes the petroleum produced will compensate for the expense plus offset holes drilled that do not produce oil or gas in reasonable quantities. A very large company like Mobil, with $56 billion in annual sales, can afford to diversify the risk.

When an oil company drills, it doesn't know what the price of oil and gas will be in the future when it sells its production. Therefore, oil companies like Mobil tend to get into all aspects of the business varying from exploration and production to refining, chemicals and marketing.

Mobil is a slow growing company, but one that should grow fast enough in earnings and dividends to stay ahead of inflation.

The recent price of 63 is in between the 52-week high of 73-1/8 and the low of 57-1/8. The $3.20 annual dividend yields 5.1%. The high quality stock is primarily for investors seeking income that will grow at a rate to match inflation.

Investment Idea for Today's Investor
H.J. Heinz (HNZ), listed on the New York Stock Exchange, is a good example of a high quality growth stock currently under pressure. At the recent price of 36-3/8, the stock is near the bottom of the 52-week price range of 48-5/8 to 35-1/8. The $1.08 dividend yields 3.0%.

The price is down because sales and earnings growth has faltered the past several quarters. The recession accounts for some of the reduced sales growth. The company's decision to invest a great deal of cash in marketing efforts to improve the market share of its food products is a primary reason earnings growth has reversed during the past year.

Quality is high. The time to buy good stocks is when they are temporarily out of favor because of short-term factors.

Mr. Seger welcomes your questions and comments, but will answer them only through this column. A Bird in The Hand...

Judi Gesbel literally saw $1,100 fly out the door on Sunday, July 5. The Chelsea Pets & Plants owner had a baby Gray African Congo parrot escape out the back door of her building next to Pierce Park.

That prompted an unusual call to the Chelsea Fire Department—"Come get a bird out of a tree."

The bird, solid gray with a bright red tail, flew to a tree in the park. The fire department responded with a 35-foot extension ladder. A store employee climbed the ladder, then climbed the tree another 35 feet before he was able to snare the bird with a net-like device.

Fire chief Bud Hankard, who went to the scene himself, said no one from the department will be paid for the run.

A store employee said the Gray African Congo is the smartest parrot anyone can own. Price of the bird is about $1,100, plus $100 for every word it knows.

It's likely the bird knows at least three more words than it knew a week ago.

"Hey, come back."

MRS. FLORENCE HUBBARD celebrated her 100th birthday on June 13. Florence greeted more than 200 guests in the foyer of the Dancey House apartments at Chelsea Retirement Community. There were several cakes, one cake prepared by Grete Skjaerlund of Dexter was a special Danish birthday cake with 100 candles. When the candles were lit it was quite a blaze, and Florence blew out 99 candles in two tries! Guests were able to view a photographic display of Florence's family history, including her mother and grandmother, both at age 100. Originally from Clarkston, Florence has lived in Chelsea for 20 years. Recently she was selected as one of the Michigan Mothers of the Year and participated in the Salute to Michigan Mothers parade in Lansing.

★ Protecting Your Taxpayer Rights . . .

Taxpayers have certain rights guaranteed in the Taxpayer Bill of Rights. The Michigan Association of CPAs emphasizes that it's important for you to know your rights to ensure that you are treated fairly under the tax system.

If Your Return Is Questioned
The Taxpayer Bill of Rights ensures that you have sufficient opportunity to respond to IRS inquiries and resolve any differences. In most instances, the IRS will contact you by mail when they have an inquiry about your tax return. However, you do not necessarily have to respond to their questions through the mail. You can request a personal interview and even have the right to audiotape it. The IRS must work with you in scheduling the interview at a reasonable time and in a reasonable place.

During any interviews, you may have a qualified professional, such as a CPA, attorney or enrolled agent, accompany you. Throughout your dealings with the IRS, these individuals may also represent you in your absence.

If during the interview you do not resolve your differences with the IRS, you have other options for presenting your case.

Appeals

All taxpayers have the right to appeal to a tax examiner's findings. To do so, contact the IRS Appeals Office. If your problems cannot be settled through this office, you may make an appeal to the courts. Depending on whether you have already paid the disputed tax, you can take your case to the U.S. Tax Court, the U.S. Claims Court, or your U.S. District Court.

Interest Charges

You are responsible for paying interest on any additional taxes to be collected by the IRS. The interest is figured from the due date of your tax return, even if the return was filed under extension. The IRS may reduce the amount of interest you owe if an IRS error caused a delay in processing your case.

Refund of Overpaid Tax

All is not lost if you've overpaid your taxes. Generally, you have three years from the date you filed the return or two years from the date you paid the tax, whichever is later, to file a claim for a refund. What's more, in some circumstances you can charge the IRS interest on the money due to you.

Cancellation of Penalties

Even the IRS can make mistakes. If in calculating your taxes you relied on erroneous advice provided in writing by IRS employees, the IRS must cancel any resulting penalties. This assumes you gave the employee accurate information and that your reliance on the advice was reasonable.

Collecting Back Taxes

Before seizing any of your belongings as a way to recoup back taxes, the IRS must properly notify you. Specifically, they must send you a bill describing the tax and stating the amounts you owe, including interest and penalties. What's more, the IRS may not take any enforcement action until after they have given you the opportunity to pay any taxes due to them.

You must be given 30 days notice before the IRS can place a levy on your property. And in most instances, you have the legal right to keep certain property, including your home, a limited amount of personal belongings, furniture, and professional books and tools.
