Chelsea Community Fair Runs Through Saturday With Many Popular Events

Warm, sunny, near perfect weather greeted the 55th annual Chelsea Community Fair Tuesday afternoon as the traditional Children's Parade got underway.

The Fair continues through Saturday at the fairgrounds off Old US-12 ext to Chelsea Shopping Center with many of its most popular events.

Tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 is the second installment of the Cavalcade of Thrills Demolition Derby in the main arena. Scheduled are three heats, a Powder Puff heat for women only, and a feature. The stands fill up fast so spectators should plan to arrive early.

Also tonight is a new event, a Fly Ball Dog Show, in the multi-purpose arena.

Other events today include the judging of beef in the multi-purpose arena at 1 p.m., the small livestock auction (rabbits and other small animals) in the multi-purpose arena at 6 p.m. Judging of swine starts at 7 p.m. in the multi-purpose arena.

Thursday features a wide variety of attractions, including the annual Livestock Auction in the multi-purpose arena at 7 p.m. Youngsters sell their lambs, hogs, and steers to the highest bidder. Price Brothers conduct the event.

Also on Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. is the MRA Motocross in the main arena. Riders on dirt bikes of all sizes will race around a man-made course, negotiating hair-pin turns, deep valleys, and steep jumps.

Earlier Thursday is an event just for kids, the Kiddies Pedal-Power Tractor Pull in the main arena at 4:30.

At 9 a.m. Thursday is a Western Performance Horse Show. At the same time in the main arena is an Antique Tractor Pulling Contest. Dairy cattle will be judged at 10 a.m. in the multi-purpose arena.

Friday is for ladies in more ways than one. From 8 a.m. to noon the Ladies Day program will be held in the multi-purpose arena. Ladies may enter the fairgrounds at the reduced price of $2. At 7 p.m. the Chelsea Fair Queen Program will take place in the same location. Nine contestants are trying to earn the crown this year.

Other Friday events include a Gymkana Horse Show at 9 a.m., a Tractor Pulling Contest, lightweight classes, at 9 a.m., more tractor pulling at 7 p.m., and the Livestock Showmanship Sweepstakes at 9 p.m.

On Saturday, the final day of the fair, events begin at 8 a.m. with an Open Horse Show. Compact Tractor Pull begins at 9 a.m.

The biggest event of the day starts at 1 p.m.—the Chelsea Fair Parade. Marching bands, vehicles of all sorts, floats, horses and other animals and maybe even a few politicians will make their way from downtown to the fairgrounds down Main St. Last year's parade lasted about 45 minutes, and this year it could be even longer.

Other events Saturday include horseshoe pitching at 2 p.m., a 50's-60's Cruise Night, complete with disc jockey at 6 p.m. in the multi-purpose arena, 4-wheel and 2-wheel drive pulling contests at 7 p.m. in the main arena, and the Livestock Raffle Drawing at 10 p.m.

All exhibits, from the Merchants Building to home economics entries, to livestock, are open to the public from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. All exhibits and other attractions (except midway games and rides) are free with the price of admission to the fairgrounds. No exhibits may be removed from the grounds until 9 a.m. on Sunday, Aug. 30.

Plenty of food is available on the grounds. Pugh Shows, which runs the midway, will have carnival-type cuisine. The Fair Kitchen, operated by Bob and Ginny Wheaton, will be open for breakfast, lunch, and dinner in the Fair Service Center. Other organizations, such as the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea, will have their trailers on hand to sell their specialties.

Parking is free south of the fairgrounds off Old Manchester Rd. Chelsea Shopping Center parking lot should be left for shoppers.

Price of admission is $2 for anyone age 13 or older. Children 12 or younger are free. Season passes are available for $10, or $7 for students with high school identification card. Senior citizens season pass is $6. Seniors may enter free on Thursday.

Pugh Shows tickets for rides and games are extra. Daily all-you-can-ride tickets are available for $12.

Regional Planning Gets Attention by Committee

Regional land-use planning, a concept approved by the village two years ago but dropped by the four surrounding townships, was discussed again last week by the committee studying whether the Village of Chelsea should become the City of Chelsea.

The concept was revived again because city status would radically change Chelsea's relationship with both Sylvan and Lima townships. If Chelsea chooses to become a city, both Sylvan and Lima townships would lose their tax base within the city. In Sylvan township's case, that amounts to nearly half its tax base because the entire downtown, plus most of Chelsea's residents, are in Sylvan township. In addition, Sylvan township would have to find a new town hall because its current town hall on W. Middle St. would lie within the city. Lima township would lose about $9,000 in property taxes.

A City of Chelsea would find it easier to annex property, and areas like Chelsea Lumber Co. and the Pierce Lake area might become likely targets, further eroding the townships' tax bases. Sylvan Township Supervisor Don Schoenberg has said the township would likely become a charter township should Chelsea change its status to a city, making annexation more difficult.

Regional planning, however, would not affect the structure of city government, how it levies its millage, or provides its services, several of the central issues to be studied by the committee. Reports have yet to be made on any of those changes.

Both Schoenberg and Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper have said they are opposed to city status and would prefer that the more open-bordered arrangement be maintained.

Regional planning was first proposed by former village planning commission member Bill Bott, not in the context of a possible change to city status, but as a way to manage growth, co-ordinate long-range plans, and attend to the infrastructure of the village and Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and parts of Dexter township. Bott had proposed costs of the project included, but the idea quickly died, partly because of the expense and partly, as one supervisor said at the time, "the village is trying to shove this down our throats." At the time, the village and townships were in negotiations over landfill cost-sharing.

Schoenberg, who was and still is in favor of regional planning, said that communications between the village and townships have improved dramatically since the idea was first proposed and it should be discussed again. It's possible the village and perhaps Sylvan township could build a

Fair Parade Organizers Ask Cars To Avoid Areas Before Event

Chelsea Fair Parade, which begins at 1 p.m. Saturday, is getting so big that the pre-parade line-up is becoming extremely difficult without the cooperation of the public, parade organizers say.

Floater to be judged should be in place before noon. Any that arrive after 12 will not be judged. Floats may begin arriving by 11 a.m.

Horses and horse-drawn vehicles should arrive between 12:30 and 12:45, and they should be the last fair participants to arrive.

Traffic control is becoming more critical for an efficient line-up. People who plan to drive downtown to drop off fair participants are asked to avoid East St. between Harrison and Jefferson Sts., as well as Jefferson, Park, and Harrison Sts. Drop-offs should go from Main St. to Park St. and into the Municipal Parking Lot. Cars should exit the lot via East St., turn left on East, then left on E. Middle St. and back to Main St.

Anyone driving via Van Buren St. is asked to turn down Washington, Adams, or Jefferson St., go to Madison St., then turn left, then drive down to the appropriate street for line-up.

Parade participants will line up as follows. Marching bands and other marching units will line up on the south side of Harrison St. Color guards will begin from the west side of East St. between E. Middle St. and the Municipal Parking Lot driveway. Floats will line up on the north side of Park St. from East St. to Madison St., and antique cars will be on the opposite side of the street. Horses and wagons will line up on Park St. from approximately the Garage Theatre to East St. Miscellaneous items, including farm equipment, business displays, demolition derby cars, and cars with politicians will line up on the east side of East St. between Jefferson and Park Sts. Fire trucks will be on the west side of East St. between Park St. and Orchard St.

Demolition derby cars must either be chained to a trailer or be towed by an approved tow bar.

The parade runs south on Main St. from E. Middle St. to the fairgrounds. Main St. will be blocked off for about an hour.

Fired Bus Driver Re-Instated in Job

A Chelsea School District bus driver, dismissed from her job in 1991 for failure to pay union dues on time, has been re-instated in her job in an out-of-court settlement.

Susan van der Waard returns to her job next week with full benefits and full seniority, according to her attorney Terrence O'Hagan. He said the agreement has been signed by all parties involved.

van der Waard, a bus driver for 16 years in Chelsea, was dismissed after she failed to pay $16.50 in union dues by a deadline last summer. When she returned from vacation, O'Hagan said, she found the dues notice and employment termination notice in the mail at the same time.

O'Hagan filed suit in circuit court challenging the notification procedure, but eventually the matter landed with the Michigan Employment Relations Commission. The settlement was reached July 21, partly due to the efforts of Chelsea attorney Cynthia Beauchamp, who handled the case while O'Hagan was busy running for county prosecutor.

O'Hagan said he believes "a significant number" of bus drivers had failed to pay their dues on time but that his client was the only one fired. He said van der Waard had been an outspoken member of the Chelsea Bus Drivers Association, the drivers' union, but "you don't get carried over freedom of speech."

The agreement is with the school district. A dispute with the bus drivers' association has not been settled.

A special meeting of the Chelsea Village Council has been called for tonight (Wednesday) at 7:30 to allow the village to sign a landfill consent agreement with the Department of Natural Resources. According to village president Jerry Satterthwaite, language in the agreement has finally been worked out and the document should be ready to sign tonight. By signing the agreement, the village will obtain a new landfill operations license and can begin filling its new lined cell.

The 1988 Chelsea Community Fair was on its way to a record-breaking year for attendance until the rains came Saturday and washed out many events Saturday night.

"No comment" was the most Paul Mann of the Chelsea State Bank could muster following the tabling of a conditional use permit and the denial of zoning variance requested by the bank during the joint Tuesday, Aug. 1 Village Council and Zoning Board of Appeals meetings. More than 20 Orchard St. residents trooped to the council chambers to express their objections to the bank's design but in spite of their showing and the ensuing and 45 minutes public hearing, council member James Schardein said his decision to move as he did was not influenced by the crowd.

House GOP Calls for State To Assist Financially Struggling Cities
A House Republican task force, pointing to the high cost of bringing a government out of the red, has called for the state to intervene with financial advice and expertise to cities which are nearing bankruptcy.

Saying that financial reports must be filed with the state on an annual basis so the information is already available to the Department of Treasury, members of the panel said those who have appropriate training could provide information which would keep a city afloat. Many officials running cities, particularly small ones, the members said, do not have the expertise to handle financial crises.

"This is an early warning system," said Rep. Jan Dolan (R-Farmington Hills), chair of the task force on urban strategy and community redevelopment. "What we want to do is offer them help. The (cities) are not all run by professionals." Citing the city of Benton Harbor as an example, Dolan said if the state had provided some financial guidance, perhaps the significant depression which occurred there could have been avoided, thus saving the state money in the long run. The city includes 12,500 persons, and when taking the surrounding area covered by the same zip code, the state spends $37-40 million annually to meet social services needs.

"We can't afford to let a community reach where Benton Harbor was at its depths," Dolan said. "We must intervene much earlier."

"It has to be a partnership. Government should provide consulting and technical assistance, but residents must help develop a community vision and reconstruct neighborhoods," she added.

House Minority Leader Paul Hillegonds (R-Holland), present at the news conference in which the group's findings were outlined, agreed that early intervention could make a significant difference.

"There really are patterns of urban decline that you can monitor and then reverse," he said.

Also among the 33 recommendations issued by the task force is a review of the state's tax abatement procedures. The panel suggested that in order for an abatement to be granted, all recipients of taxes in that particular community, such as schools, townships and cities, would have to sign off in order to give up their share. And companies given abatements, they said, should be held to the conditions to which they agreed and if they do not meet those commitments, the tax break should be adjusted accordingly.

"Abatements not serving a public purpose should be rejected and those approved should be closely monitored," Dolan said. "Performance contracts should establish specific goals and protect the interests of the community. If a business fails to make a good faith effort the contract should be voided and taxes recalculated."

Other recommendations in the report included the following:

- controlling the expansion of enterprise zones.
- linking some welfare benefits to attending school and job training seminars.
- expanding early intervention and intensified reading programs for children at risk.

making tax-reverted housing available to qualified community groups.

increasing incubator programs that help local entrepreneurs with financial and technical assistance, shared services and reduced rents.

prioritizing state funding to favor communities demonstrating coordinated land use decisions such as traffic implications, sewer and water requirements.

"There are many barriers in the path of revitalization and these recommendations would help us remove them," Dolan said.

Members of the task force, who spent 14 months collecting information, included Dolan and Reps. Robert Brackenridge of St. Joseph, Mickey Knight of Muskegon, James McNutt of Midland and Susan Munsell of Howell.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Because of two kinds of heat I've been spending a good bit of time lately in the swing under a shade tree in the back yard. It lets me take what little breeze there is, it keeps me out of the sun and mostly out of hearing of the old lady that keeps putting the heat on me to help more with her picking, cleaning, canning and freezing.

I tell her she could save herself some wear and tear and me considerable aggravation by buying what little we eat in town. But she says her garden gives her a heap more benefits than food and busy work, and she's right. The little patch lets her set a different pace. Every summer it puts us back in touch with the nature of things, the seasons, the sharing with rabbits and neighbors. It reminds us that we need order in our lives. Going to church every Sunday morning does this for some, but them that never darken the door of a church have natural cycles built in them that call for regular slowdowns that we need as sure as we need sleep.

The pressure cooker is about the only thing on this Earth that my old lady is afraid of. So, between checking on it when she's canning and making runs to the mailbox I've had time to read the farm journals and papers and consider some of the situations up one side and down the other.

For instant, I have been following this fellow that was dying until doctors took the heart out of a baboon and put it in him. For sure the ape's part was a sacrifice, not a contribution, and at last report the man was still improving. This greatly troubles folks that think the ape should of had a choice in the matter. We grow animals so we can kill them and eat them. We kill wild animals without so much as a may I and call it sport. But them making the baboon's case say when we take an animal's life to extend a person's life we are starting down a road of horrors that leads to choosing who will be spare parts for who.

We're forever reading the worst in everybody's actions and trying to right all the wrongs on our own terms. Some of us worry about the happiness of cows, hogs and chickens that spend their lives standing in one place eating and waiting to be eaten. Others wonder if pigs would be any happier laying in a mudhole or rooting up the fence. But when all of us make our picks from nice displays in supermarket meat departments we manage to keep our minds on other matters.

As the pace of politics picks up I keep thinking that in November we will elect a President the way we have for 200 years. That is, we won't elect him at all, because voting for our choice direct is to big a job for the country to handle. We keep hearing this while we now got computers that can store 100 encyclopedias on a microchip you can't even see with the naked eye, and call up any bite of information we want in a millionth of a second.

The plain truth is, we can do anything we want to do, but the electoral college is so bedded in political strategy that we can't bring ourselves to dig it out. As for politics, I have been reading where more Congressmen than usual are not running for new terms this year.

Some feeling the heat and some see the light, but all lame ducks in Congress will have the last laugh when they leave and take all their leftover campaign funds with them.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Former Chelsea Resident Helps Save Florida Stroke Victim

Quick action by a former Chelsea resident helped save the life of a Clearwater, Fla. woman who collapsed in a Sears parking lot recently.

Mark Smyth, 33, a full-time emergency medical technician with the Clearwater Fire Department, took a part-time job at Sears along with a fellow EMT at the fire department, Chris Menendez, 37.

The victim suffered a stroke at about 1:30 p.m. Menendez, who sells garden supplies, was the first to reach her. She had no pulse and her tongue was blocking her windpipe, signs of a stroke.

Smyth, employed in building maintenance, also rushed to the woman's rescue. For 15 minutes he and Menendez pressed down on her chest to allow air to circulate in her lungs. They also performed mouth-to-mouth resuscitation. The woman was eventually taken to Clearwater Community Hospital, lucky to be alive, as her brain would have starved of oxygen within five or six minutes.

Smyth and Menendez have received several awards for their rescue.

"We're trained to do it," Smyth said.

"We just jump in and do it."

Smyth, a Chelsea native and 1977 Chelsea High school graduate, is married to the former Debbie Wilson, a 1978 CHS grad. His parents are Gerald and Carol Smyth of Waterloo.

Two Teen-Age Girls Struck By Car at Intersection

Two Chelsea teen-age girls escaped serious injury last Friday evening when they were struck by a car as they tried to cross E. Middle St. at Main St.

As of Monday morning, Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall was not entirely sure what happened due to conflicting testimony.

Police do know the girls were attending a St. Mary's Youth Group function but left without permission and went downtown. They purchased ice cream and were apparently walking back to the group on Congdon St. when the incident occurred.

According to one account, the motorist, an 81-year-old Ann Arbor woman, was stopped at the traffic light at about 6:30 p.m. in the west-bound lane of E. Middle St. When the light changed, she drove her car forward but the girls darted in front of the vehicle and the driver couldn't stop.

According to other accounts, the woman tried to speed up to make it through a yellow light and struck the youths. The girls, who blamed themselves, told police they thought the car was slowing down but when they started crossing the street it speeded up and they couldn't get out of the way. One girl, McDougall said, was carried all the way across Main St. on the hood of the car.

One girl was knocked unconscious. Both girls were treated and released at Chelsea Community Hospital.

As of Monday, no charges had been filed.

Of all the new jobs that will be created over the 1984-2000 period, more than half will require some education beyond high school, and almost a third will be filled by college graduates. Today, only 22 percent of all occupations require a college degree, according to the Department of Labor's Workforce 2000.

QUOTES & NOTES

DONALD A. COLE, Director

"I've had a lot of troubles, but most of them never happened."

—James A. Garfield.

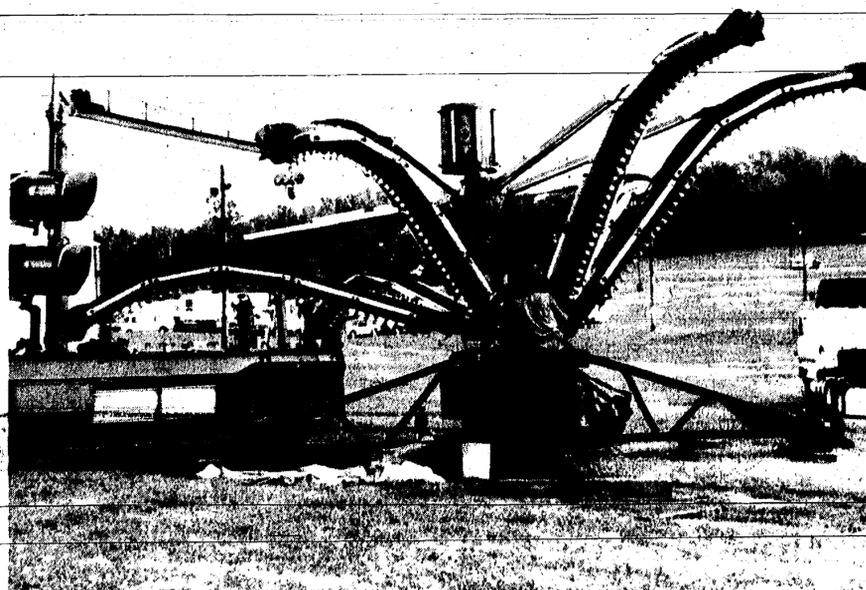

This slant on life is particularly thought-provoking these days, when troubles of one kind or another have just about replaced the weather as a daily topic of conversation.

We all have troubles, but it does appear that we may be too prone to anticipate and "borrow" trouble before it ever gets here. We worry about problems that might just possibly arise but which probably never will. The time and energy we spend worrying about trouble that may happen would be better spent in making the best of troubles we already have.

Every adult should be fully informed about funeral services. We are available to discuss any aspect and to answer all your questions, without obligation of any kind.

Chelsea United Way has announced that Fred and Neta Mills are this year's Honorary Campaign Co-Chairs. They have lived in Chelsea for 30 years, raising two children, Vaughn and Scott. Fred has been with Chelsea schools for 30 years, first as high school math teacher, and for the last 27 years as assistant superintendent. Neta owns The Village Shoppe on Main St., and both have been active in the community for many years. We'll see them in the Chelsea fair parade and at the annual Kick-Off Banquet, Sept. 16.

Farm Bureau recently told Congress that there is no scientific reason to pass legislation that restricts carbon dioxide emissions. Farmers are worried that a demand to cut emissions would stifle the agricultural economy, and reduce the safety and utility of light farm trucks.

Pierce Park Playground Project Launches Direct Mail Fundraiser

A mail drive has been launched by the Pierce Park Playground Project group.

The group hopes to receive the remaining funds needed to place newer, safer equipment in Pierce Park. Total goal is $15,000.

The project has received much public support from individuals, service groups, and businesses. One group of children have collected nearly 500 pop cans and donated the proceeds. The village has also agreed to donate funds.

Safe equipment is expensive. The Dexter community recently built a structure at Wylie Middle school which cost nearly $70,000, with most of the labor supplied by Dexter citizens.

Chelsea plans call for construction of a steel and wood structure with several slides, climbing areas, and a suspension bridge with a full 12-inch protective surface. It will also have separate swings for toddlers and older children.

Once the order is placed, the equipment can arrive within three weeks. The equipment will blend in with the natural beauty of Pierce Park.

Chelsea has no playground equipment that meets the U.S. Consumer Safety Commission Guidelines for safety and provides access for all children. According to Dr. Lynn Swan, not all injuries can be prevented but there are known, proven ways to reduce injury rates. Posters and pamphlets from the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons showing how playgrounds can be made safer are included at the Michigan Family Practice booth at the Chelsea Community Fair.

Contributions to the project can be mailed to Pierce Park Playground Project, P.O. Box 475, Chelsea 48118.

DOUG DENNISON of the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea makes a contribution on behalf of the club to Dr. Lynn Swan, co-ordinator of the Pierce Park Playground Project.

The Center for Produce Quality says that consumption of fruits and vegetables is up, and so is consumer confidence in produce safety. 86 percent of the adults surveyed in a recent poll said they were confident in the safety of fresh fruits and vegetables. That number is up from 82 percent recorded in 1991.

The first political party with considerable labor support was the Popular Party in New York City in 1734, led by Peter Zenger, a printer. After the party had won several seats on the common council, the infuriated governor of New York charged Zenger with libel. Zenger was found innocent in a trial that established the precedent for freedom of the press, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

Deadly Horse Disease Hits in Jackson Area

Several incidents of Potomac Horse Fever (PHF) have been recently diagnosed in the Jackson area. The disease, which can cause up to 50 percent mortality if left untreated, is difficult to diagnose and requires prompt attention by a veterinarian. Treated horses are unlikely to die, but may suffer severe laminitis (founder). The method of transmission of the disease is still unknown. However, it is felt that the disease is not transmitted directly from horse to horse, but requires some intermediate pest vector. The disease strikes at random—a single horse in a stable may be affected, while others, even those in adjacent stalls, are not.

The initial symptoms of a slight fever and loss of appetite are usually mild and may easily go unnoticed. Later symptoms include high fever, severe loss of appetite, depression and diarrhea, and must be treated immediately. It is important that horse owners consult with their veterinarian if PHF is suspected. Diagnosis and treatment should only be made by a veterinarian as the disease is difficult to diagnose and is often confused with other common equine ailments.

A vaccine, PHF-VAX™ is available to protect horses from Potomac Horse Fever. Approximately two weeks after the primary booster are needed for the vaccine to confer immunity to the disease. Horse owners should consult with their veterinarian as to the advisability of vaccination.

The family of Ralph McCalla wishes to thank all of their friends and neighbors for the many expressions of sympathy at the time of his death. The flowers, food, and support was greatly appreciated. Don Cole, Chelsea Hospital emergency room staff and Dr. O'Brien were especially compassionate and helpful. The out-pouring of love from the Chelsea Community helps us remember how many lives he touched. Memories of Dad will always be with us.

Sincere Thanks

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,
I know a lot of people are wondering what has happened to my daughter (Mary Ellen Mynning) since her letters were stopped coming from China. She has submitted several for approval but so far has not received permission to have them printed.

She accepted an invitation to teach at Tianjin University and moved there Aug. 1st. She called me the following day to give her new address and phone number.

Tianjin is a seaport about two hours away from Beijing. When she taught at Beijing she lived in the Foreign Guest House. She had one room—it was her living room, bedroom and also her office. She had a single bed, the mattress was about an inch thick. She also had a desk, bookcase and some chairs. The floor was cement but she bought a straw mat for the floor. The screens did not fit the windows very well so lots of flies and mosquitoes came in. She lived on the first floor and another teacher from Oregon lived in the next room to her. Stephanie and Mary Ellen had to share the men's bathroom but they had stalls with doors for them. The teachers on the third floor had to share a community bathroom. There were no elevators in the building.

She now lives in a hotel on Campus and it is called the Foreign Expert House. She has her own apartment complete with color TV and air conditioning, and nice comfortable furniture. Her bedroom has two soft, single beds, but for some reason Chinese don't use dressers. The apartment even has lace curtains. She has a small kitchen, not many cupboards, a refrigerator and a hot plate to cook on. She even has her own bathroom complete with tub and shower—towel paper, towels and soap are furnished here. There is no comparison to the two different University's living conditions.

There is a restaurant in the hotel with a menu of 40 items to choose from. She said Tianjin is really lovely with all its fine lakes. The lakes are lined with walks that go under willows or huge bending trees that she had never seen before—their leaves are 10 to 12" across.

She seems very happy and hopefully she will be able to come home for a visit next summer.

Since my husband's passing away in Florida, I have recently moved back to Michigan to be closer to my family.

Mary Ellen's new address is:
Mary Ellen Mynning
Foreign Expert House Room 104
Tianjin University
Tianjin, China 300072

She receives her mail faster if the address is printed or typed.

Hospital Programs Focus on Parent-Child Relationships

On Tuesday evening, Sept. 1, Brighton Hospital will host a Community Education Program focusing on improving parent-child communication. A second session on Tuesday, Sept. 15 will concentrate on helping adult children of alcoholics.

The hospital specializes in treating chemically dependent adults and adolescents. It serves communities throughout Michigan with both residential and outpatient services.

Title of the Sept. 1 program is "Communicating With Our Children." A therapist at the hospital's Adolescent Center, will discuss some strategies that parents can use in communicating with teenagers and pre-teens about a variety of issues, including self-esteem and peer pressure.

Topic on Sept. 15 will be "What is an Addiction?" This program will be of special interest to adults who are in relationships with chemically dependent people or who were raised in chemically dependent homes. This session is a joint effort of Livingston Counseling and Assessment Services and the Women's Resource Center.

Both programs begin at 7 p.m. in the hospital's chapel. The meetings are open to the public, and reservations are not needed. Brighton Hospital is located just off exit 151 of the I-96 freeway and just west of Kensington Rd.

For additional information, contact the hospital at (313) 227-1211, on weekdays between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Washtenaw CASA Receives Recognition From National Agency

Washtenaw CASA, as part of the National Court Appointed Special Advocate (CASA) Association, has been recognized by the U.S. Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) as part of an "exemplary" movement to prevent juvenile delinquency in U.S. communities because CASA often helps troubled children leave foster care for a permanent, safe home.

CASA has over 450 local programs and is one of the fastest growing child advocacy movements in the nation, using trained community volunteers to speak up for the best interests of abused and neglected children in court. With an average of only one or two cases, the CASA volunteer has the time to thoroughly research a child's situation and make an informed recommendation to the judge.

The award letter states that CASA "appears to be cost-effective, beneficial, effective, and suitable for incorporation into state juvenile justice systems." The award was presented to the National CASA Association in special Washington, D.C. ceremonies in December, 1991.

Washtenaw CASA is part of the volunteer services office of Juvenile Court, 2270 Platt Rd., Ann Arbor.

EMU Prof Sees Further Job Losses from Willow Run Closing, GM Cuts

YPSILANTI—Before General Motors Corp. Chairman Robert Stempel announced GM's intent to close its Willow Run Assembly Plant in 1993, Eastern Michigan University researchers had examined the potential economic and employment effects of such a decision.

While their original predictions cited a direct loss of 4,000 GM jobs, total loss of 7,730 Washtenaw County jobs (where Willow Run is located) and resulting loss of 15,000 Michigan jobs due to the Willow Run closing, new data suggests the total Michigan loss will be closer to 18,000 jobs three years after the closing.

When wrapped with other GM cuts, which will mean a direct loss of 23,000 GM jobs in Michigan, the total loss of motor vehicle and related manufacturing, non-manufacturing and government jobs will be approximately 79,300 in Michigan during the three years following cutbacks, according to Dr. David Cray, EMU assistant professor and associate director of economic studies in EMU's Institute for Community and Regional Development.

As published in the ICARD report, "Willow Run and Related Plant Closings: Causes and Impacts," Cray and Research Associate Carol Hogan detail the economic impacts of announced and prospective GM closings and layoffs, discuss factors which may have influenced GM's choice to maintain and expand its Arlington, Tex., operation vs. Willow Run, and they look at the future of GM operations as well as the "important but declining" role motor vehicle employment plays in the Michigan economy.

"Our January report (before the announced closing) wasn't capturing all the supply linkages within the auto industry and it just looked at Willow Run," Cray said. "And although our statistics predict a big hit on the economy, it's important to note, if the maximum reduction in GM employment occurred—a loss of 45,000 jobs in Michigan, it would still be less than the 66,000 jobs GM eliminated between 1988 and 1991. So to some extent, it's what we've already experienced with GM."

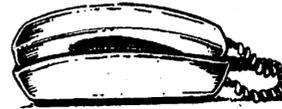

Since GM chose not to disclose the rationale behind its Arlington vs. Willow Run decision, Cray has been haunted by the question, "Why?" In the ICARD report, he shares his speculative analysis.

"To summarize what we've found, Willow Run's current costs are lower than Arlington's, but a move closer to Mexico would mean longer-run cost advantages. Also, Arlington was more receptive to three-shift production (24-hour production which reduces overtime costs) and there are more opportunities for laid-off worker relocation in Michigan where GM has more plants than in Texas, where there is no other assembly plant," he said.

As far as the nagging question of politics, Cray had this to say, "There were probably greater advantages to winning the support of the Texas Congressional delegation, knowing that with or without Willow Run, GM, because of its sizeable Michigan operations, could still rely on home-state support."

While attention has focused on announced GM closings in Michigan, Cray also cites those assembly and component plants, which because of their current production compared to capacity, product line and age, are considered "at risk" by the Michigan Department of Commerce. These are: GM's Lake Orion plant, employing 4,500 workers; Pontiac East, 3,000 workers; Inland Fisher Guide plants in Livonia and Flint, each employing about 1,500; Pontiac's CPC Stamping, 2,500 employees; and parts of AC Rochester and Buick City in Flint.

YOUNGSTERS TRY OUT the new steering wheel on the start of school next week. Children above are the wooden car at North school last Saturday. Parents Elizabeth Minnick, Erin and Kelly Kenney. The dad is held a work party at the school grounds in preparation for Mike Kenney.

Chelsea Recreation Council —A Chelsea United Way Agency

As a continuation of the series on Chelsea United Way member agencies, Chelsea Recreation Council and its impact on the Chelsea community is featured.

Chelsea Recreation Council is responsible for recreation programs within the Chelsea School District. Facilities for the programs are presently divided among the district's gyms and ball fields: the Dana-Weber Field complex; Papo Fields and Immanuel Bible Church (IBC) Fields, on the east side of McKinley St., near North school. Beach volleyball courts have recently been constructed on the Fairgrounds.

During the past year more than 2,850 school district residents participated in 34 different programs. This is an increase of almost 1,000 participants and five or six new programs from just two years ago.

The Recreation Council is preparing for additional increases in both programs and participants for the coming year. A priority will be programs to serve adults and senior high school students in the community.

In addition, the Council supports recreation at the Senior Citizens Center with an annual donation, and this year the Council constructed horseshoe pits at the Center for their exclusive use.

The Council also supports the Concerts-in-the Park program with an annual donation.

Programs are open to all school district residents. A Scholarship Program is available to those in need.

A recreation director, an office secretary and a treasurer are the only salaried administrators (all part-time). The majority of the work of running the programs is done by community volunteers, some of whom receive a small stipend. Students are hired as officials.

The Recreation Council has recently completed submission of a Five Year Plan to the Department of Natural Resources. This was in preparation for a grant submission in January to the DNR for development of a 13.5-acre plot of land to be donated by Dana Corp. Present plans call for another softball diamond, volleyball and basketball courts, a soccer field, and improvements to the present facilities. The entire complex will be surrounded or bisected by a linear park.

A considerable portion of the revenues required to support these recreation programs comes from Chelsea United Way.

There is a growing need for additional facilities in the Chelsea School District as the area continues to grow. The Recreation Council is aware of the critical need and is exploring ways to meet that need.

Kilpatrick is manager of Membership and Business Enterprise Divisions of the Ypsilanti Chamber of Commerce. He is a former part owner of Adia Personnel Services and a former judge for Miss Saline contest.

Hulse has worked with all aspects of pageants for the past 25 years, from judge to costume consultant. She's the mother of a world renowned baton twirler. She works in the fashion department of J.C. Penney.

Laurie Honbaum, former Chelsea Fair Queen and this year's Miss Grand Prix will be co-emcee of the program with Michelle Smith, a fair queen runner-up and talent award winner.

Rebecca Dehring, 1991 Chelsea Community Fair Queen, will crown the new queen. She will be a hostess for the program.

The winner will receive a $500 scholarship from the Chelsea Fair Board and about $400 in prizes and gift certificates.

Michigan Mushroom Hunters Club will hold a mushroom hunt on Saturday, Sept. 12 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Cedar Lake Lodge in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

Several mushroom experts will be on hand to lead guided trips for mushroomers. There will be educational seminars to identify edible and poisonous mushrooms.

An area winery will also hold a wine tasting.

Indoor classrooms will be held if the weather is poor.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Boys Should Challenge For SEC Cross Country Title

The 1992 Chelsea Bulldogs boys cross country team could be one of the strongest Chelsea boys teams fielded in years, according to coach Pat Clarke.

The Bulldogs return eight of the top 10 runners from last year's team, which was ranked 16th in the state.

Clarke begins his 22nd season with some enthusiasm.

"We will be as strong as we have been at any time in the last dozen years," Clarke said.

"We have an enthusiastic and talented group that is dedicated to improving every day. I like to see that in a team."

Leading the team is senior captain Dan Zatkovich.

"Dan has worked hard and is ready for a fine senior season," Clarke said.

Other experienced seniors include captains Tobin Strong and J.J. Hanke, Chris Schiller and Mike Kennedy.

Junior Dan Alber should provide needed experience while newcomer juniors Cory Brown, Steve Gaunt, and Scott Wingle add strength to the team, Clarke said.

"Chris Leatham and Cory Brown have looked especially impressive in the early workouts," Clarke said.

The strength of the team is in the 14-member sophomore class. Included are Brian Atlee, Jim Bergman, Chad Brown (All-Southeastern Conference), Kevin Coy, Scott Hawley (last year's fifth man), Kevin Kolodica, Nick Kramer, Erich Lefurge, Karsten Lipiec, Josh Metzler, Mike Peterson, Ryan Schultz (freshman record holder at 16:50), Jason Valchine, and Gabe White.

"Kramer and Lefurge have looked very impressive so far at practice," Clarke said.

"Ryan Schultz, Chad Brown, and Scott Hawley give his class some very high talent to work with."

The only freshmen so far are Peter Straub and Matt Tuttle, but Clarke said he is looking for more.

With 26 boys, Clarke has one of his largest teams ever.

"We can challenge for the league and region titles if things progress right," Clarke said.

Over-all, the SEC appears again to be a strong league.

Saline Hornets, the defending champions, finished second in the state last year. They lost three seniors but have most of last year's team back.

Dexter Dreadnaughts have five top-notch seniors back and will be a contender.

Tecumseh Indians return most of last year's second place team.

The Lincoln Railsplitters return four of their top five from last year's state-ranked team.

The Pinckney Pirates return three of the top runners in the league, led by sophomore Casey Lince.

Milan Big Reds return almost everyone from a young team last year and should be improved.

"The league is strong and very balanced," Clarke said.

"We must be ready for every meet. We have some talent for a change, some experience, and a lot of enthusiasm. It should be an interesting season."

Young Chelsea Cagers Will Use Speed, Defense to Compete in SEC

New Chelsea Bulldogs girls basketball coach Charlie Waller, faced with a re-building year, inherits a young team with some experience that could be pretty good by the end of the season.

Ginny Flannery and Heather McConeghy, the team's co-captains, are the only seniors. Seven juniors and three sophomores round out the team.

"Although we're young, most of the girls have some varsity experience, which should be a plus," Waller says.

"We have decent speed and decent quickness but we could get pushed around a lot on the boards. We don't have a lot of height or a lot of strength."

Waller plans to take advantage of his team's quickness and utilize a full-court press and half-court trap on defense, and change defenses a lot, with the hope of forcing mistakes or keeping the opponents out of a slower half-court game.

The style may seem very similar to Robin Raymond's boys teams, which is understandable since Waller gained much of his basketball knowledge from Raymond as a middle school boys coach.

"If we let them set up in a half-court offense we could be in some serious trouble," Waller says.

"Tecumseh, Pinckney, and Saline all have pretty good size. The girls did come back with a good knowledge of tough man-to-man defense and it's obvious they were drilled well last year."

Waller also hopes the defense will generate opportunities for a transition offense.

Junior Nicki Piasecki and sophomore Kate Steele are the likely candidates for point guard. Piasecki, Waller says, has shown the team's best three-point shot in practice.

Juniors Laura Carty and Renae Skelly will also play in the back court.

Juniors Erin Schiller and Mara Smith, and sophomores Martha Merkel and Jessica Flintoft have the best size to play inside.

Waller says Schiller and Merkel could turn out to be strong post players, although they lack much varsity experience.

The rest of the team could be described as wing players, including McConeghy and Flannery, perhaps the two quickest girls on the team.

Juniors Jacki Crawford and Lindsay Johnson will join them.

How well the girls shoot from the outside could well be one of the big stories of the season, since Waller expects the inside game to progress slowly but steadily. Over-all, team perimeter shooting in early scrimmages has not been good, but Waller expects that to change.

"What we lack is the experience you get shooting in a game," Waller says.

"We hope to get Nicki to shoot the three-pointer and I think quite a few of the other girls should be able to put it up."

Dexter Dreadnaughts could have the strongest team in the Southeastern Conference, although Waller also expects the Tecumseh Indians to be strong. Pinckney Pirates and Saline Hornets could also challenge for the top spot, depending on how strong their inside game is.

Chelsea, Milan Big Reds, and Lincoln Railsplitters are probably in the second tier of teams.

"Realistically it will take the girls a year or so to get adjusted to a new coach and a new system," Waller says.

"I just hope it will be an enjoyable year for the kids."

After a year of research at Colorado State University, experts say that consumers would be willing to buy organic grown foods, but only if they don't cost so much. Researchers say that the cost of such specialty foods is about 60-85 percent more than traditional foods and that's more than consumers are willing to pay.

Golfers Play At Difficult Brighton Inv.

Chelsea Bulldogs golf team finished last in a field of 24 teams at the competitive Brighton Invitational last week.

"This tournament traditionally attracts many of the best teams in the state," said Chelsea coach Jim Tallman.

"This year was no exception. We're finding it difficult to compete with such experienced teams when the majority of our team is sophomores."

Traverse City won with a team score of 300.

"That's an average of 75 per man when our best score was posted by Sean Graflund, who shot an 85," Tallman said.

Other scorers for Chelsea were Adam Beauchamp 93, and Dirk Wales and Jim Tallman 97. Chelsea's team score was 372.

Saline finished at 320 and was the only other Southeastern Conference representative.

"It looks like it's just going to take a while until our sophomores gain some experience before we can compete with some of these better teams," Tallman said.

Barton Overcomes Adversity To Become Olympic Star

Greg Barton, grandson of Chelsea Retirement Community resident Florence Healy, was born with club feet. Surgery did little to help. He walks on the balls of his feet and limps slightly.

But the problem didn't stop him from achieving what most people only dream about—four Olympic medals.

Barton, age 32, a native of Homer and resident of Seattle, is a kayak racer. He recently competed in the Barcelona Olympics, where he took a bronze medal in the K-1, 1,000 meters, an event he has dominated for most of the past eight years. He also competed with Norm Bellingham in the K-2, 1,000 event but did not place.

It was his fourth and final Olympics, as he plans to retire, even though his times this year were better than ever. Four years ago, in Seoul, he became the only man ever to win both the Olympic K-1 and K-2 events. He earned a bronze medal in the K-1 in 1984.

"I'm happy with the bronze," Barton told the Detroit News of his recent performance.

"I was hoping to get a gold or silver in that race, but I felt like I raced really well. I stuck to my race plan, then I tried to push at the end. With 250 meters to go, I was gaining. I thought I had a shot at winning it."

Barton joined the Olympic team in 1978. But he made headlines with his accomplishment in 1984 in Los Angeles as he was the first American in 20 years to win a medal in a flat-water kayak or canoe race. At the world championships in 1985, 1987, and 1991, he won gold medals in the 1,000 meters. In 1987 he also won a gold in the 1,000 meters, the first double victory for an American at the world event.

According to Bellingham, "people don't realize what an amazing person (Barton) has been for the sport." He describes Barton as very intense and a person who tries to cover every single variable, as well as someone who is "very reserved" and extremely modest about his abilities.

Barton comes from a farm family. His parents, Michael and Kathleen, were canoe enthusiasts. Their son began paddling 22 years ago. He earned an engineering degree from the University of Michigan, where he graduated summa cum laude. He works for a recreational kayak maker.

All the action is free with a general admission ticket to the fairgrounds.

Are oranges too difficult to peel when you're in a hurry? Consumers in California can now purchase pre-peeled, ready-to-eat oranges in refrigerated vending machines. Researchers have developed a process using water and a safe enzyme to dissolve the pithy white tissue that binds the peel to the fruit. If successful, the new orange product will be sold throughout the country.

Master Glassblower Peter Severn In Demand as Special Consultant

Although master glassblower Peter Severn retired from the University of Michigan in January of 1991, the Chelsea resident is managing to stay as busy as he wants in his ultra-specialized field.

For 31 years Severn created scientific glassware for a multitude of scientific and engineering research projects at the university in a joint appointment by the departments of Chemical Engineering and Materials Science and Engineering. Many of his creations can't be named because they were unique. They couldn't be purchased anywhere and were designed for specialized projects. Indeed, many research projects would have been stalled or scrapped altogether without his expertise. The right glassware is essential.

Modestly, he says, "I did nothing repetitious."

During his years at U-M, his work was launched into outer space, was involved in the first heart transplant, and was part of classified research projects.

Nation-wide there are only a handful of scientific glassblowers, and Severn was recognized as one of the best. He built glass pieces as large as eight feet tall and 10 feet wide, all without a single pinhole. Often he worked from little more than two-dimensional sketches. Although created for the scientific community, his works were pieces of art.

Severn seldom makes the glassware in his new line of work as a consultant to various scientific and medical companies. The companies call him for advice on how to create the right glassware. More often than not another glassblower completes the project.

"I guess you could say I'm kind of on call," says Severn, a Chelsea resident for nearly 40 years.

"It seems to have worked out well for everyone involved." He admits, however, that "I miss the students and really don't know why I retired."

Severn has been able to spend more time with his wife, Nettie. He also likes to fish and this year has landed a 22-pound king salmon.

The first large-scale strike for a 10-hour day was by 600 Boston journeymen carpenters in 1825, according to "Labor Firsts in America," a U.S. Labor Department publication.

A STORY

By Stefan Kaimbach—Kindergarten

Once upon a time, my friend and I went out to get the mail. There was a horse tied to our mailbox. After we unhooked it from the mailbox, the horse ran away. Then my friend and I chased it. The horse went into a person's house and then we went into the house. We saw that the little kid who lived in there was alone. We captured the horse and got the horse back. Then my friend and I went back to my house and asked my mom if we could keep it. And she said, "Yes!" And that's when I woke up!

THE KING

By Kelly Reingardt—Afternoon Kindergarten

Once upon a time a King lived in a castle and then he rode on his horse for a ride in the town. At supper time he went home and then the Queen said, "Why don't you serve dinner tonight?" Then he served the dinner and then he put his kids to bed and then he went to bed with the Queen.

THE CAVE MAN

By Kyle Franks—Morning Kindergarten

Once there was a cave man and he made a house of sticks. He had a family with a sister and a brother. When they looked out at the volcano they saw lava exploding. It was green. Then it started going out of the volcano and some of it hit the house and the house melted. Then they had to go because they didn't want it to hit them. The volcano stopped exploding so they walked up the volcano and saw a Pterodactyl nest with huge eggs. They carried one home and while they were sleeping the egg hatched. The brother was eating a candy bar but the Pterodactyl took it from him and ate it and then he flew away.

SWIMMING

I like to swim, and I am best in relays. I swim the breaststroke the very best, and I am fast. Sometimes I win relays and get ribbons.

A FISH STORY

By David Christinas—Morning Kindergarten

I was fishing with my dad and I caught a pike. Also I caught a sunfish. We went to the ocean one time, and a shark almost got my worm. I caught a piranha next. We were in our speedboat.

THE SNAKES

By Mark Tapping—First Grade

Once upon a time my cousins came over to my house and after their visit we all saw a snake on my deck. My dad got home and killed the snake with a shovel. The snake scared everybody because we were afraid it would get in our house. Another snake came later but dad didn't kill this one because he knew it would kill the mice in our yard. I was glad he saved that one.

FLORIDA

By Ronnie Hurst—First Grade

We walked along the ocean. We got shells and we saw starfish and jellyfish. Jellyfish can sting you bad. I saw some live ones in a Texas store. I swam in the ocean and I was surfing and I fell down one time in the water.

MY CAT MAC

By Max Sprinkle—Second Grade

My cat is light brown and white. It bites me and my sisters. He sleeps with me. I try to catch him in a blanket. It is fun but my cat does not like it very much. He rips it. His claws go through. Mom does not like it.

THE CAT

By Sara Johns—Second Grade

One day there was a cat named Nut. It was a boy cat. He was black and gray. He did not have a home to live in. He lived in an old barn. He was an old cat. He had no cats to play with in the barn. One day a man came into the barn and let the cat come home with him. At the man's house the cat would get fed a lot. He liked it there a lot. The man had two more cats at his house. He had a bed at the man's house. The two cats would play with him a lot. He had lots of fun with the two cats. He loved the man.

THE TWO CHILDREN AND THE WITCH

By Phoebe Booth—Second Grade

CHAPTER ONE: AMANDA, ALYSSA AND THE WITCH
Once upon a time there was an old mean witch who lived in an old empty building across the street from the Warrens' house. Alyssa never had seen her, but they had seen signs of her. So they never went close to the empty building. Their mom and dad said she wasn't there, but the two girls didn't believe their parents because they knew who was there. How would they prove it to their parents?

One night they snuck out of the house and across the street to the witch's home. Just as they arrived the witch flew out the window on a broomstick. So they went inside but they soon realized it wasn't safe. Goblins, skeletons, witches, and ghosts were everywhere. They were very scared and they ran out of the house but they were stopped by the witch's husband and he said, "What are you doing here? You know you would make a great dinner!" The girls felt very small looking up at the 9 foot tall witch.

CHAPTER TWO: HOME AT LAST
Finally they ran up to a big window that was at the bottom of the building. They jumped out of the house and ran out of sight. They ran across the street and into their backyard. They didn't tell their parents about that night. They just looked exhausted. Their mom asked, "What's the matter?" "Oh, we didn't get enough sleep last night." "Is it about the witch?" she asked. "No," said the two sisters, "we just didn't get enough sleep last night." "Okay, okay, we believe you." The sisters winked and smiled at each other. They would never ever come close to telling their parents of the night. But they didn't know that the two witches were planning a trick stew that would scare the girls out of the house and into their arms so they could have dinner. And it worked! But before the witches could get across the street, Alyssa's and Amanda's parents stopped the witches and said, "What are you doing with our children?" The witches were so scared they ran like a flash without the children! And the family lived happily without the wicked witches. And their parents apologized for not believing them.

MY SHELL

By Lindsey Baker—Third Grade

My shell is as small as a crayon. It's shaped like a small bowl. It's as orange as a cheese puff and as bright as the moon. It smells so salty as the sea and as sandy as the beach. When I drop it, it sounds like glass when it breaks. It is as hard as the floor. It would taste as gross as a worm. It's used for snails to live in. It's special because my cousin gave it to me.

THE METAL COIN

By Chris Adam Cooper—Third Grade

My metal coin is a little too big to hold and run. My coin is the shape of a circle. My coin smells like it was in a dirty bag after lunch. My coin sounds sort of like an ocean. My metal coin feels like metal, plastic, and is scratchy. My metal coin tastes like a rotten egg. My metal coin is thinner than a plate or a worm or a cup. It is small. My metal coin has a silver color. My metal coin is special to me because I won it at Meijer. It is used for holding and touching.

THE THIEF CATERPILLAR

By Kyle McKenzie—Third Grade

Once there was a caterpillar. He lived in a tree. Every day he went outside and ate five leaves for breakfast, six leaves for lunch, and eight leaves for dinner. All in between those periods he slept. One day he was sleeping and it started to pour so he couldn't go outside to eat. So he tried to sleep but he couldn't so he went outside and ate in the rain. After he was done he went inside and tried to sleep but he couldn't sleep. So he went outside and went to his other friend's tree and played some checkers. After a while they got bored and played some Parcheesi. It took a long time. Finally someone won. After that they went back to his tree and called up some friends to come over and they played Go Fish. Then they all went home that night. The next morning it was pouring so he couldn't eat breakfast and it poured for 15 days and 15 nights. So he couldn't eat for 15 days and 15 nights. He couldn't eat so he got very sick. Finally it stopped pouring and he got well again.

JAKE AND HIS HAWK AND HIS RATTLESNAKE

By Derek Klink—Third Grade

When Jake took a plane to North America he landed and got his climbing equipment. When he got to the top of the mountain, he saw a female hawk with a broken wing. He got a cloth and wrapped it around her wing. Suddenly, a longwing condor soared on top of Jake. He ran but I came back for the hawk. He grabbed his gun and fired, but it missed so he got his pet Rattlesnake. The condor soared down. The Rattlesnake jumped and wrapped around the condor's neck. The condor struggled to get away. The Rattlesnake let go and fell to the ground. The condor flew away. Jake put the rattlesnake in his backpack and climbed down the mountain. He walked to the pet help center. When he got there, he put the hawk on the desk to find out where she was hurt. When he found out it was going to have to lay eggs, he made a nest and climbed the mountain and put the nest in a tree. Then he got the hawk and put her in the nest. A couple days later he went back to see if she was there and when he saw that the babies were flying he saw a male hawk so he went back to the center.

THE DAY FRANKENSTEIN WAS THE PRINCIPAL

By Brandon Bush—Fourth Grade

One day I was getting off the bus, when I saw Frankenstein entering the school building! I told everyone that Frankenstein was in the school. But no one believed me except James: "I saw Frankenstein enter too," said James. So James and I decided to follow him. Suddenly the bell rang. "We'd better get back to class," said James. So the next day we went to the office because we had work to do. Then at the corner of my eye, I saw Mr. Wescott putting on a Frankenstein costume. I told James about Mr. Wescott. We were relieved with joy.

WHAT IS SILKEN TULIP?

By Kate Muehl—Fourth Grade

Silken tulip is the color of speckles on a sea shell.
Silken tulip is the color of the heart on my favorite sweater.
Silken tulip is the color of the strawberry before it turns dark red.
Silken tulip is the color of a candle on a baby's first cake.
Silken tulip is the color Valentines card from a friend.
Silken tulip is the color of a McDonald's strawberry milk shake.
Silken tulip is the color of a sunburned nose.
Silken tulip is the color of a tulip that grows in my garden.
I can hear my silken tulip windchime in my window.
When I hear jukebox music I think of 1950's silken tulip colored poodle skirts.
Silken tulip reminds me of the smell of a pale pink rose.
The silken tulip color ball of soap smells like a rose, and a big puff of cotton candy.
Silken tulip makes you feel like spring is around the corner and that makes me happy.

EMBAMI ISLAND

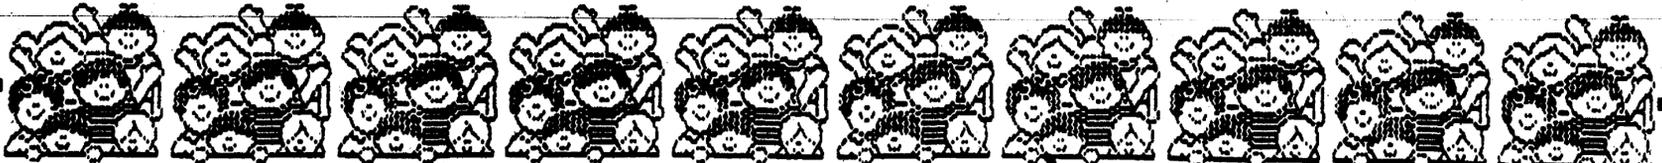

By Emily Rose—Fourth Grade

I discovered my island by accident while I was sailing around the world. The people on the island were very friendly to me and let me stay with them. The people had darkish skin and wore Indian type outfits. I took their pictures. They had never seen a camera before and liked it a lot. The people spoke Embamese. At first, I could not communicate with them but I soon learned their language. I had to build my own place to stay. First, I got bamboo and put it in the frame of a hut. Then, I dropped leaves over the top for the roof. The people liked Chinese food alot! While I was there, I had chicken fried rice and fortune cookies. Whenever I entered an elder's house, I had to get down on my knees and bark like a dog! Whenever I got bored watching hula dancers, I went and watched T.V. I met a monkey and took him back with me! I am going to keep this place secret for vacations!

A DAY IN THE RAIN FOREST

By Brian Phillips—Fourth Grade

The pilot said we were going to crash. When we got out I saw about 12 people. Another family had some food, water, and a first-aid kit. I knew we would need it. The pilot had a compass and a can of bug spray, so we set off. About one hour after we crashed, a woman screamed there was a huge snake on her neck. I didn't want to shoot it because I might miss. So I used the bug spray and sprayed the snake's eyes and it went away. I thought it would be too dangerous to continue so we used tape from the first-aid kit to tape branches together. We made a hut. In the morning, I saw a warthog in one tent. A man was badly hurt. I used the first-aid kit. I made a stretcher out of wood and we continued. We came to a dark stream. A kid said, "Cannonball!" and jumped in. I saw a dark cloud in the water. "Piranhas!" I said. I shot at the bunch. Red blood came from where the boy dove in. I took rope from the first-aid kit. We got him out. Then a rhino came charging. I took an apple and speared it. Then I hooked up the stretcher and everyone hopped on the rhino. I dangled the apple in front of him and we rode him out. Then we went to the nearest doctor, and we rented an airplane home.

NEW BASKETBALL GOALS were installed by parents on the school grounds. It may be hard to believe, but the first day of school is next Tuesday, Sept. 1.

In 1829 the first labor organization to nominate and elect its own political candidate was the Working Men's Party of New York City. Its nominee, Ebenezer Ford, the president of the Carpenters' Union, was elected to the New York State Assembly, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

Everybody's Science

★ Moss May Make Lawns, Crops Drought-Tolerant

A moss collected from the northern Rockies has genes that give drought tolerance a new meaning. That could be good news for lawns and crops in the future.

Mel Oliver, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist, said that as soon as he sprinkles a few drops of water on dry samples of star moss, what once seemed a brown Brillo pad becomes a lush green mass of star-like needles.

He found that 74 proteins appear to have a role in the moss' recovery. "Only these proteins multiplied significantly within the first two hours of watering the star moss."

And he has made DNA copies of all the genes that were active in the moss during the critical hours while the moss was recovering its greenery. DNA is the genetic code responsible for building proteins and transmitting a plant's hereditary characteristics.

Oliver, a plant molecular biologist, is now determining which of the genes produce the 74 proteins. He is doing the research at a laboratory of USDA's Agricultural Research Service in Lubbock, Tex.

When transferred into crops, the genes would likely produce these same proteins and repair damage to the plant from desert-type drought, he said. Oliver has seen star moss repair most of its extensive cell damage in minutes.

Star moss grows throughout the world, he said, but is particularly abundant in northern wilderness areas such as those in Alaska. "Vast and relatively untapped gene pools of plants like star moss could be the key to genetically tailoring crops, rangeland and lawn grasses to survive harsh dry spells."

Some plants have done this for centuries, he said, noting that there are wild grasses in Africa that can withstand months of such drought and revive after a rainfall.

"In addition to the possibility of making major crops such as cotton truly drought tolerant, we're talking about possibly using genetic engineering to create rangeland grasses that would stay greener longer and need less water to recover than today's range grasses," Oliver said. "This could also apply to domestic lawns, which give the impression of recovering after turning brown but actually send up new shoots after a substantial rainfall."

First We Asked:

How Would SMALL BUSINESS OWNERS DESIGN A BUSINESS CHECKING ACCOUNT?

Before we designed our business checking account, we listened. And, this is what we heard:

"Make it fair."

"Keep the fees low."

"Keep it simple."

"I insist on excellent service."

We listened. Then we designed an account that has everything a small business could want.

We made it fair, by designing a fee structure which guarantees that businesses who have limited transactions (less than 300 transactions per month) will pay no more than $5 per month in service fees. And, if a monthly balance of $10,000 or more is maintained, the monthly fee is waived. The fees are low, the formula is simple. * Plus, Society Bank has always been known for offering friendly, professional, responsive service that just keeps getting better.

If your business checking account isn't everything you think it should be, call us today at (313) 994-5555. Society Bank Business Checking. Everything you could ask for in a business account.

* A separate competitive fee structure is offered for accounts with activity levels that exceed 300 transactions per month. Please ask a Client Sales Representative for terms and conditions governing a Society Bank Business Checking account.

Guide to Choosing A Nursing Home Pamphlet Available

Selecting a nursing home is not an easy task. That the choice must often be made during a time of crisis often adds to the burden. Because many people may not know what to look for, or what questions to ask, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services offers the following advice.

Though all homes must provide certain basic services, they may differ in their emphasis or specialty. Once you've made a list of homes that seem to meet your needs, plan to visit them. Even if your decision must be made quickly, you should visit the likeliest choice several times to see how it operates and if the services and facilities are what you expected.

The first time you go, make an appointment with the administrator or director of admissions to receive a guided tour. Ask to watch the daily routine, including meals, activities, and therapy sessions. Then make one or two unscheduled visits at different times of the day, taking these opportunities to observe how the staff works with the residents. Their interactions should be professional, yet at the same time warm and attentive.

Tour the kitchen and dining room to observe how meals are prepared and served. Ask how much time is allowed for eating, if snacks are available, and if special equipment or assistance is provided to those who need it. Look over the month's menus, and find out how special diets are handled. Note if residents are enjoying the food, and ask to sample it yourself.

You should also check how often medical files are reviewed by the facility's physician. Are treatment options discussed with residents and their families? Ask how many residents each nurse's aid is responsible for, and if licensed nurses are always on duty.

Financing nursing home care is a major concern for most people. Costs can be met in several ways, including personal resources and private insurance, as well as Medicaid and, under special circumstances, Medicare. Make sure to investigate all options. For information on Medicaid programs and eligibility requirements, contact your local State Medicaid Agency as early as possible in the search process.

If you believe you may be looking for a nursing home someday, being prepared in advance can make the often traumatic decision a little easier. To help, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services has published Guide To Choosing a Nursing Home (Item 606Y, free). It discusses the important issues needed for an informed decision, including whom to ask for referrals, what to expect from the facility and staff, and how nursing home care can be financed. There is also a comprehensive checklist which can be used to compare homes, and remind you of issues you might otherwise forget while weighing your options. To get a free copy, just send your name and address to Consumer Information Center, Dept. 606Y, Pueblo, Colo. 81009.

When you write, you'll also receive a free copy of Consumer Information Catalog. The Consumer Information Center of the U.S. General Services Administration revises and publishes the Catalog quarterly, so you know it's up-to-date. Its pages list more than 200 free and low-cost federal publications on a wide variety of subjects.

ALISON PAUL won the 1992 Best of Show Award in Creative Writing at the recent 4-H Youth Show. Her entry was a biography of her grandfather titled "A Biography of Harold Alphonso Paul." Jeffery E. Mercer Participates in Navy Carrier Commissioning

Navy Airman Apprentice Jeffery E. Mercer, son of Vickie L. Cooley of 7964 Grand, Dexter, recently participated in the commissioning ceremony of the USS George Washington on the 4th of July at Norfolk Naval Base, Va.

The ship's sponsor, First Lady Mrs. Barbara Bush, who had christened the carrier in July 1990, addressed the attending audience.

The Navy's newest aircraft carrier, the USS George Washington will carry 6,000 men, including embarked airwing personnel, and will deploy approximately 80 aircraft. The carrier was built at Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Company and will be homeported in Norfolk.

The 1989 graduate of Dexter High school joined the Navy in March 1991.

THE COLD WITHIN

Six humans trapped by happenstance.
 In black and bitter cold
 Each one possessed a stick of wood
 Or so the story's told.

Their dying fire in need of logs
 The first woman held hers back,
 For on the faces around the fire
 She noticed one was black.

The next man looking 'cross the way
 Saw not one of his church,
 And could not bring himself to give
 The fire his stick of birch.

The third one sat in tattered clothes
 And gave his coat a hitch,
 Why should his log be put to use
 To warm the idle rich?

The rich man just sat back and thought
 Of the wealth he had in store,
 And how to keep what he had earned
 From the lazy, shiftless poor.

The black man's face bespoke revenge
 As the fire passed from his sight,
 For all he saw in his stick of wood
 Was a chance to spite the white.

And the last one of this forlorn group
 Did naught except for gain,
 Giving only to those who gave to him
 Was how he played the game.

The logs held tight in Death's still hands
 Was proof of human sin;
 They did not die from the cold without,
 They died from the cold within.

If you ever considered owning your own home you can't afford to wait any longer.

Home mortgage interest rates have continued to fall to levels bankers and borrowers alike never thought possible.
 Home mortgage rates could drop lower. They may be higher next month. No one knows.
 If you want to lock in the lowest home mortgage rates most of us can recall, do it now. Don't get caught in a rising market. Whether you are planning to build or buy, stop in, visit with the folks who know the Chelsea market... folks who want you to join them in owning a home in the Chelsea area.

The following household size and income criteria will be used for determining eligibility.

Each additional family member	+3,094	+258	+60	+4,403	+367	+85

Children from households whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free and reduced-price meals or free milk.

Application forms are being sent to all homes with a letter to parents or guardians. To apply for free or reduced-price meals, households should fill out the form and return it to the school. Additional copies of the application form are available at the principal's office in each school.

NON-FOOD STAMP HOUSEHOLDS: An application which does not contain all of the following information cannot be processed by the school: (1) monthly source of income received by each household member (such as wages, child support, etc.); (2) names of all household members; (3) social security number of adult household member who signs the application; and (4) the signature of an adult household member.

FOOD STAMPS/AFDC HOUSEHOLDS: If you currently receive Food Stamps or "Aid to Families with Dependent Children" (AFDC) for your child, you only have to list your child's name and Food Stamp or AFDC case number, print your name and sign the application.

The information provided by the household is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility and verifying data. Application may be verified by the school or other officials at any time during the school year.

If children are approved for free or reduced-price meal or free milk benefits, the household must report to the school increases in household income over $50 per month ($600 per year) and decreases in household size.

Households may apply for benefits at any time during the school year. If a household is not currently eligible but has a decrease in household income, an increase in household size or if a household member becomes unemployed, the household should fill out an application at that time.

In most cases foster children are eligible for these benefits regardless of the household's income. If a household has foster children living with them and they wish to apply for free or reduced-price meals or milk for them, the household should contact the school for more information.

Under the provisions of the policy the building principal will review applications and determine eligibility.

Parents or guardians dissatisfied with the ruling of the official may wish to discuss the decision with the determining official on an informational basis. The household also has the right to a fair hearing. This can be done by calling or writing the following official: Fred A. Mills, Assistant Superintendent, Chelsea School District, E. Washington St., Chelsea, Michigan 48118, Ph. (313) 475-9131. Each school and the Central Office have a copy of the complete policy, which may be reviewed by any interested party.

In the operation of the child feeding programs no child will be discriminated against on the basis of race, color, national origin, age, sex, or handicap. If any member of a household believes they have been discriminated against, they should write immediately to the Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Ladies Day Program Slated Friday Morning

"A Day of Honors" is the theme of the 10th annual Ladies Day Program at the Chelsea Community Fair this Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

This year's program features the Gorton Family Band. The Chelsea family of eight will sing and perform a program they are presenting at the 1992 Minnesota State Fair. They are members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

Chelsea native and radio personality Jeff Van Riper will be on hand to moderate a local version of the old television show "Queen For a Day." The show is designed to honor a dozen women in the Chelsea and Dexter area who have given their time, energy, and love without much recognition for it.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m., but women have been known to arrive as early as 7:30.

Numerous door prizes, donated by Chelsea and Dexter-area merchants, will be given away throughout the program.

Goodie bags will be given to the first 500 women who register.

New High School Students Invited To Attend Tour

Student council members will give a tour of the facility beginning promptly at 1 p.m. tomorrow (Thursday).

Students should meet in the administration building. The tour will end about 2 p.m.

Farm Bureau Board To Support Term Limitation on Ballot

The board of directors of the Michigan Farm Bureau voted recently to support the term limitations ballot proposal that Michigan voters will consider in November.

"Farm Bureau members around the state looked at this issue last fall during their county Farm Bureau policy development process and strongly recommended that the organization support term limitations," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Delegates to the Michigan Farm Bureau annual meeting in December also adopted specific policy supporting this type of ballot proposal. I think our farmers feel that a member of the legislature can serve effectively over a term of eight years or so, and it is not necessary for service in the legislature to become a full-time professional occupation."

The Farm Bureau board also voted to have the organization take a neutral position on the other three proposals that will appear on the November ballot: auto insurance reform, "cut and cap" and assessment limits.
