RECYCLING BAILER will be one of the pieces of equipment available for inspection at the Chelsea landfill this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the open house sponsored by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority.

The bailer compresses and bundles newspaper, plastic, and cardboard before the materials are hauled off to market.

Recycling Authority Has Open House Saturday

Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority is sponsoring an open house this Saturday, Jan. 16 from 10 a.m. to noon at its Materials Recovery Facility (MRF) at the Chelsea landfill on Warkner Rd.

A ribbon-cutting ceremony including local dignitaries will be held. Refreshments and a tour of the facility are planned.

Anyone who attends and brings recyclable materials (plastic jugs, newspaper, cardboard, glass, and cans) will receive a 25 cent coupon for milk, redeemable at eight local stores including Chelsea Pharmacy, Polly's Market, North Lake Party Store, Walco Foods, Three Kegs Party Store, Schneider's Grocery, Portage Lake Trading Post, and Vogel's Party Store.

From noon until 2 p.m., volunteers at the nine drop-off sites in Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, Dexter, Bridgewater, and Manchester townships will help residents with questions and distribute coupons to recyclers. The nine locations include the North Lake Country Store and the Chelsea landfill in Lyndon township; Dexter Township Hall, 18651 Old US-12, just east of Pierce Rd., and 18000 Brown Dr., next to Chelsea Self Storage in Sylvan township; the Hop-In Store on Fletcher Rd. and 11795 Dexter-Chelsea Rd., opposite Abrasive Finishing, Inc. in Lima township; behind Manchester IGA in the Village of Manchester; and the Bridgewater General Store in Bridgewater township.

Beginning Wednesday, Feb. 4, some small but significant changes are being made in the program.

Residents of Chelsea and Manchester villages will receive weekly curbside collection of materials each Wednesday rather than bi-weekly or monthly. The pull-behind trailer originally purchased by Chelsea village has been sold to the authority for its original price. Recycling buckets, which were purchased initially by Chelsea and sold to the authority, are available at the village offices in each village for residents who have not received them.

Village manager Jack Myers said recently that the village will reimburse Chelsea residents for the deposits they placed on the buckets.

THE ON-GOING EFFORT to determine how contaminated the old Hop-In site is continued this week as a driller moved onto the property. Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority has entered a sales agreement for the property contingent on a clean bill of health. The property would eventually be used for expansion of McKune Memorial Library (in the background).

Discussions Begin on How, Where To Build Trash Transfer Station

The village's 12-member Solid Waste Committee began discussions last Thursday about the best way to build a waste transfer station.

Area township officials will be invited to attend the committee's next meeting Jan. 20 because a transfer station would probably be used by residents and businesses in most of western Washtenaw county. The area has depended on the Chelsea landfill for nearly three decades. But the landfill will be out of space perhaps as early as March 1.

Without township participation in a transfer station, township residents would be forced to hire a trash hauler or take their trash to the nearest landfill in Salem township or nearest transfer station in Whitmore Lake. Some area officials worry that some residents may dump their trash illegally, either on their own property or on the side of a road, rather than go to the extra trouble or bear the extra expense.

"We know the village has got to do something soon," said committee chair Frank Hammer.

"In terms of doing something for village residents, the only logical position we can take is we have to put it at the landfill. There we won't need to do the hydrogeological tests. Anyplace else we're talking time and expense."

One of the big areas of discussion is likely to be whether the station should be publicly or privately built and operated. Some argue that private business is always more efficient and less expensive than government, while others argue that private business will be more expensive because it wants to make money.

"I think the answer is, yes, we need a transfer station but where do we go with it," said Sylvan township supervisor Gerald Dresselhouse.

Money Disbursed By County for Waste Reduction

Area townships and villages are scheduled to receive the first quarterly payments from Washtenaw county to be used for recycling programs and other waste reduction methods.

The money, funneled through the county, comes from tipping fees at the Browning Ferris Industries (BFI) landfill in Salem township. An agreement worked out between the county and BFI provides for a surcharge for trash taken from outside Washtenaw county. That money is earmarked for recycling and other programs in communities throughout the county.

A total of $506,937 will be distributed this year. Each municipality receives a base payment, plus additional money based on population.

Initial quarterly payments include the following.

| Villages | |
|------------|---------|
| Chelsea | $2,943 |
| Dexter | $2,374 |
| Manchester | $2,438 |
| Townships | |
| Dexter | $3,102 |
| Freedom | $2,372 |
| Lima | $2,533 |
| Lyndon | $2,557 |
| Manchester | $2,435 |
| Scio | $4,395 |
| Sharon | $2,342 |
| Sylvan | $2,827 |
| Webster | $2,809 |

Sylvan Township Supervisor Gerald Dresselhouse said he didn't know what his township would use the money for because it hadn't yet received the funds. Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper said his township would probably use the money to prepare the remote sites for the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority bins.

Petitions for March Elections Due By Feb. 1

Nominating petitions for the annual village elections March 8 are due by Monday, Feb. 1 at 4 p.m. at the village offices.

This year voters will elect four village trustees, a clerk, assessor, and two library board members.

The two-year trustee seats of Tom Dorner, Stephanie Kanten, and Brian Cashman are up for grabs, as well as the remaining one-year of a term being served by Connie Woodruff. She was appointed last year after Gary Bentley resigned.

Clerk is Suzanne Morrison and assessor is Rosemary Harok. The title of assessor is a misnomer because all assessments are handled by the townships.

The three-year McKune Memorial Library board seats of Ann Belser and Susan Walters expire this year.

Petitions, available at the village offices, must contain a minimum of 15 signatures of registered village voters. Candidates must also be registered village voters.

The election is conducted on a non-partisan basis.

It Suddenly Looks a Lot Like Winter

The largest snowfall of the winter hit the Chelsea area Sunday as more than eight inches accumulated in some areas.

Although cars and trucks slid off the road all over the area, particularly on I-94, and provided a lot of business for area tow trucks operators, Chelsea Fire Department rescue workers had the day off. They made no runs.

Chelsea Department of Public Works had a long day Sunday and began again early Monday morning.

More snow and freezing rain were predicted for last night and today, with dry conditions predicted for later in the week.

Checks Stolen From Apartment

A resident in an apartment on W. Middle St. told Chelsea police that someone stole a pack of blank checks from his apartment between Dec. 29 and Jan. 4.

The man told police he does not lock his doors.

Fishermen Save Man Who Broke Through Lake Ice

A Livonia man survived nearly half an hour in the water at South Lake last Saturday afternoon after breaking through the ice while preparing to fish.

James Moon said Monday that the only reason he's alive is because of the quick actions of his fishing partners, Victor Rachoza of North Lake and Barry Novack of Howell. They slid thick branches out on the ice to give Moon something to hang on to. Eventually other fishermen brought rope and pulled him out. Chelsea Fire Department rescue team was also on the scene.

Moon was caught about 60 feet offshore. He had used a spud to dig holes in the ice when he broke through. Rachoza and Novack were about 20 feet from shore.

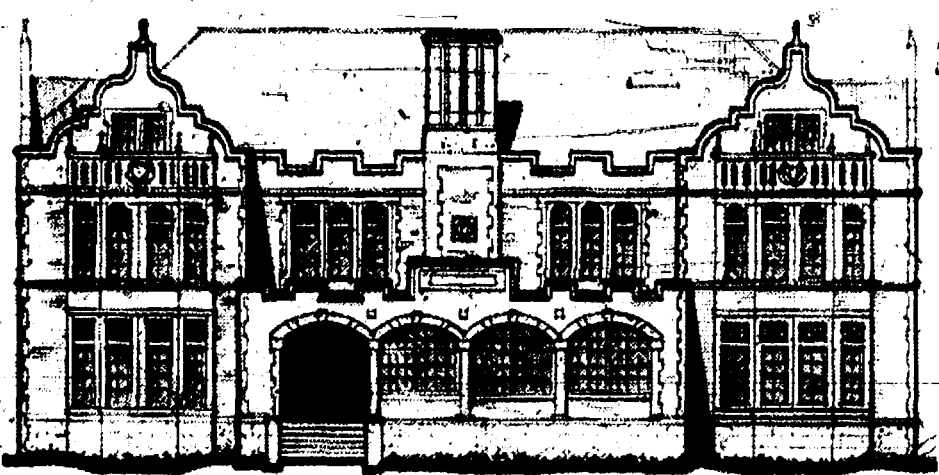

Moon was taken by Huron Valley Ambulance to Chelsea Community Hospital, where he spent the night to get his temperature back up.

Moon said his experience should be a warning that ice in the area is not yet safe.

CHRYSLER PROVING GROUNDS employees are allowed to spend an hour each week in the Chelsea schools to teach areas of special interest. Third graders in Barbara Doolittle's class at South School were given a math logic lesson last week using a game involving pizza toppings.

★ Social Welfare Answers Found Locally

By Andrew C. Little

One of America's greatest strengths, if not its most distinctive characteristic, has always been its extensive network of private efforts to solve personal, family, and community problems. When it comes to dealing effectively with such social concerns, government is not by a long shot the only game in town.

Indeed, given the expensive quagmire that government is widely conceded to have created with welfare programs, private efforts are providing a beacon for progress and reform. As management expert Peter Drucker has put it, non-profit agencies in the private sector "spend far less for results than government spend for failure." What America needs, he says, is "a public policy that establishes the non-profits as the country's first-line of attack on its social problems."

Non-profits are spearheading an unprecedented number of local programs to combat a wide range of pressing social concerns: hunger, illiteracy, homelessness, welfare dependency, drug use, and teen pregnancy, to name a few. The secret to their success is accountability, since they are run by local people who are closest to the problems and have a strong incentive to manage resources wisely and get the job done. Michigan is home to two new and innovative programs that deserve special attention.

In October 1991, Michigan ended its General Assistance program for able-bodied single adults. In the mid-Michigan town of Harrison, a group of concerned volunteers wanted to help former GA recipients by easing their transition to productive self-reliance. The volunteers' efforts resulted in the creation of a unique, privately-funded assistance center called Hard Times Cafe.

Once a week on Thursday afternoons, former GA recipients (as many as 50 at one time, ranging in age from 18 to 63) gather at St. Athanasius church for a hot meal, companionship and some very innovative counseling—all designed to instill new incentives for the clients to get control of their lives. They share their concerns in an atmosphere of trust and respect. They learn thinking, planning, and organization skills, as well as good work habits.

They also earn "Hard Times Dollars" which are redeemable in personal needs items from soap to toothpaste. Recipients earn the goods, donated by the churches and businesses, by displaying positive work habits while performing designated community service work. They do carpentry, maintenance, and gardening work; they help out at a local YMCA camp; and they've been busy planting trees along US-27. With sufficient "dollars" they can even obtain vouchers for rent, housepayments, taxes, utilities, transportation and medical needs, funded through private grants.

The government welfare system requires people to constantly confirm their inability to meet their personal and family needs, and reduces benefits for people who work. Hard Times Cafe does just the opposite: it infuses a "can-do" spirit of independence and rewards its patrons who exhibit positive, pro-work attitudes. The project's organizers, including a Volunteer Co-ordinator in the Clare County Department of Social Services and Catholic Family Services of the Archdiocese of Saginaw, report remarkable success with high client motivation and glowing endorsements from work supervisors.

Meanwhile, in Gand Rapids, another locally-conceived program is helping people rebuild their lives. Faith, Inc., is a non-profit organization, started by Heartside Area Ministries, formed to help the homeless get jobs, training and counseling.

During the daytime, Faith's director, Verne Barry, seeks out homeless people, welfare recipients and otherwise discouraged individuals from the area and offers them a chance to help themselves. In the evening, Faith, Inc., utilizes a portion of a 100,000 square foot manufacturing warehouse owned by Hope Network (a work facility for the developmentally disabled), which is normally closed after 4 p.m. Faith employees teach these individuals "whom everyone else has written off" to perform light assembly and packaging jobs—real work needed to fill orders for private contracts awarded to Hope Network. At the end of the week, each employee receives a paycheck, many for the first time in years.

Faith ensures each individual receives counseling from a variety of private organizations in order to improve their work habits and lifestyles—and overcome substance abuse and emotional problems. With very limited resources, Faith has helped 52 people get off public assistance, either fully or partially, and many have moved on to higher paying, steady jobs.

The key to Faith's success, according to Barry, is that its clients work, and in doing so they develop important life skills—personal decision-making, self-reliance, and responsibility. He questions government programs which spend millions of dollars annually to teach and train people "how to work" in lieu of the real thing. "At Faith, we don't send them to

Papo Looking For Tenant To Take Ames' Spot

Chelsea Shopping Center developer Rene Papo said last week he is still searching for a tenant for the soon-to-be-vacant Ames Department Store space.

The 57,000-square-foot store is scheduled to close March 1 and have everything out by April 1. Ames filed for bankruptcy and the closing is part of the company's re-organization plans.

Papo said he has been talking to several interested companies but no one has signed a lease.

'assessment school' for six months to decide what career they would like," he said. "We help them start working immediately. It's essential to enhancing their self-worth."

The experience of Hard Times Cafe and Faith, Inc., add credence to this comment from Marc Bendick of the Washington, D.C.-based Urban Institute: "Through their small scale, non-bureaucratic nature, local knowledge and personal relationships, neighborhoods, families, churches and voluntary associations can respond rapidly, accurately and in a more acceptable manner to local and individual needs in ways that large, formal institutions such as government agencies cannot."

As local, state, and federal governments search for a way out of the social welfare morass, the most instructive alternatives are already forming in our midst. Let's take a look at them, encourage them, and thereby assist many needy people in the process.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows leaned back, loosed their belts, locked their hands over their abused bellies and counted their blessings around the stove Saturday night at the country store. Bug Hookum noted that all the regulars are in reasonable good health with more than plenty to eat and wear in warm, dry houses, and all added to that is a bonus. His motion was endorsed unanimously, and Zeke Grubb got solid backing for his amendment that the biggest bonus was that all the fellows were heading into another year with three score and 10 way behind them.

Actual, Zeke went on, as you get up in years you don't look as much for red letter days and you find more red letter minutes. When you decide to see the half full glass you usual can, was Zeke's words. For instant, he said he was glad the annual run of electric razor ads is over. The idea behind this two month campaign is to sell razors to people desperate for something to give people.

Zeke guessed that 85 percent of men and wimmen in this country have been give electric razors and 84 percent didn't like them. He figures the number of electric razors in this country that ain't being used is up there with back issues of National Geographic that ain't being read.

For more good news, Bug said that for all the talk of ignoring need at home and looking for excuses to justify defense spending, what we are helping the United Nations do in Somalia is far more a plus than a minus. Last week, Bug heard a radio interview with the man that's got the hardest job in the world. The president of the Mogadishie Chamber of Commerce didn't see haves meddling in affairs of the have nots, he saw light at the end of the tunnel. He talked about unused resources, about people that can be trained to do all kind of work, about opportunity growing from tragedy in this city and country. For sure, Bug said, if you can find hope there you can find it anywhere.

Clem Webster picked up on the good news theme. He said the Clinton Administration has served notice it is serious about upgrading ethics in Government service. Ethics and consciences can be trained to meet all standards, Clem said, and there's no way to keep a fellow from looking after No. 1 every chance. But if policy aimed at slowing down some of them works some of the time it's got to be for the general good, was Clem's words.

Ed Doolittle wasn't buying any of Clem's Clinton ethics. Republican Ed said every President promises to clean house, and all he means is that he's going to stir the same old dirt with a new broom. For every rule there's a way around it, Ed went on, and by the time lawyers for all of Clinton's appointed pals get their papers filed, lobbyist and special interest will be struck from the language and we'll know a heap more ways a cat can be skinned.

Bug was with Ed. He took note that the American Medical Association is frowning on doctors referring their patients to themselves. This mild case of ethics can be cured instant by any eye doctor that puts his part of the group cataract clinic in his first wife's name and takes care of alimony, child support and college direct.

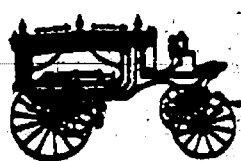

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Senior Health Notes

* Taste & Touch

"Food just doesn't taste like it used to!" "The food here is too bland and too dry." "The buttons on my new telephone are harder to push than my last phone." What's the reason for these comments? We depend heavily on our senses to stimulate our minds and to enable us to perform the functions of daily living. Do taste and touch really change as we get older?

TASTE

Taste is a combination of sensations. Taste buds in the tongue, smell, appearance and dental health all contribute to the sense of taste. Like other senses, the sense of taste does change as we age, but less than most people think. Changes in reaction to food may have several causes.

Taste buds react to four characteristics of foods: saltiness, bitterness, sourness, sweetness. With age, the ability to taste salt and sweets decreases, meaning foods might taste more bland or sweets might need to be sweeter to get the same degree of flavor. The abilities to taste sour and bitter qualities apparently do not change much. Research results on taste are inconclusive. Each person's taste changes differently, so modifying meal preparation and choices should be worked out by each individual or couple.

A study by the National Institute on Aging found that overall taste diminished among older healthy people by only 10 percent. In contrast, older people with other health problems experienced a 30 percent decrease in sense of taste. What other factors are at work?

• Medications may alter how food tastes or is digested. If you suddenly find that food tastes differently just when you've started to take a new medicine, ask your physician if the adverse effect can be prevented.

• Olfactory sense, the sense of smell, diminishes with age. We are less able to distinguish between scents. Taste acuity is highly dependent upon smell. Try using spices with different smells, as well as flavors.

• Smoking inhibits the ability to taste. As we age, the diminished taste experienced by smokers increases.

• Dry mouth affects many older adults. It is caused by natural decrease in the secretion of saliva.

Certain medications and vitamin deficiencies also cause dry mouth. The lack of moisture in the mouth makes food taste dry and become difficult to swallow.

• Dental and Oral Health problems may cause changes in taste. Missing teeth or poorly-fitting dentures can inhibit chewing and the release of flavors from foods. Lack of proper brushing and/or dental disease can put microorganisms in the mouth that have a bad taste and prevent food from tasting good.

In brief, we should not expect the taste of good food to lessen as we age. Indeed, the enjoyment of good eating should be a life-long pleasure. If you, your spouse or friend no longer enjoys good food, look for explanations in other aspects of health and consult your physician and dentist.

TOUCH

Touch is the first of the five senses to become functional. Throughout life, it serves multiple functions. It provides us information about objects, enables us to perform functions of daily living, and manifests the pleasure associated with emotional intimacy.

As we age, the sense of touch remains important, and becomes more so for those who experience problems of diminished acuity of the other senses. The sense of touch itself does not appear to diminish over time. However, various health problems can affect touch.

A stroke can paralyze parts of the body so that they lose the sense of feeling. Severe arthritis can make it hard to touch and handle small objects. Rheumatoid arthritis causes swelling, pain, stiffness and tenderness of the joints of the hands, wrists and feet, making touching difficult. Diabetes often causes a loss of feeling in the toes and feet. Over time, the skin may become less sensitive to pain, temperature and touch.

In summary, diminished touch is often due to a health problem. Consult your physician about how medications, physical and occupational therapies, exercise and other actions can help you regain the ability to feel and touch.

Many gadgets and techniques have been invented to enable us to maintain a strong sense of touch. Medical equipment supply stores and pharmacies offer innumerable household adaptations and equipment to accommodate sensory deficits. Mail order catalogues are another good source of handy items that increase one's ability to touch, hear, see, and otherwise keep our senses active.

Need Social Security Numbers for Dependent Children Above Age 1

"I want to remind Michigan taxpayers that this year they must provide a social security number on the federal income tax return for any dependent age 1 and over," said IRS district director John Hummel.

"Taxpayers should be aware that they may be fined $50 for each social security number not shown on the return and, in some cases, the exemption may be disallowed," Hummel said.

The 1988 tax reform act required social security numbers for dependents age 5 and over. In 1989, the requirement changed to age 2 and over. Beginning with the 1991 tax year, the age limit dropped to 1. "I would encourage taxpayers to apply for a number for all their dependents," said Hummel.

To be issued a social security number, a person must have proof of the following items: age, U.S. citizenship or legal alien status, and identity.

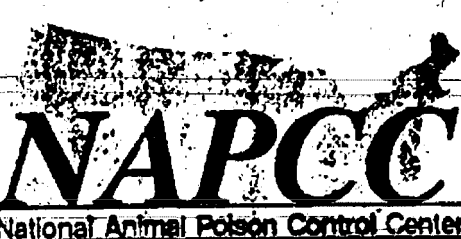

A birth record from a public authority, hospital, or religious organization is generally sufficient for the first two items," Hummel said. "A school record of certain other documents may be used for proof of identity."

For more information, taxpayers should contact the Social Security Administration toll free on 1-800-772-1213.

TOYS FOR TOTS & TEENS enjoyed a very successful season in Chelsea, thanks to many individuals helping the sponsors, Palmer Ford-Mercury. Above photo shows the second grade class taught by Mrs. Piper at North school, as they brought gifts to be included in the project.

CHELSEA CHILDREN'S CO-OP was winner of a television set donated by Palmer Ford-Mercury to the Toys for Tots & Teens Christmas toy collection. Representing the Co-op were Sue Gilliken, Jane Brooks, Sue White, Kenny and Greg. Dr. Ernst entered the nursery school's name and donated toys given to them.

Toys for Tots Makes A Merry Christmas

Since 1989 Palmer Ford-Mercury, under the direction of Susan Palmer Weber, has sponsored Toys for Tots and Teens for the Chelsea area.

This year was especially important to Chelsea due to the recent merger of Chelsea Social Services and Faith in Action. This merger roughly tripled the number of families heretofore accommodated by Toys for Tots and Teens annual gift to Chelsea Social Services.

1992 brought more success to the toy drive than ever before. Every year the Chelsea Community's generosity has increased. This year every needy family was accommodated. After the initial disbursement, St. Louis School for Boys was contacted and their needs were also met.

But the story doesn't end there. Other communities suffering a shortfall were also blessed by Chelsea's generosity.

A heartwarming addendum to the story is Thomas McMurray, a Chelsea High sophomore, who earned an Eagle Scout badge by fulfilling a requirement to benefit either school, community or church. Thomas, with borrowed tools and donated supplies, fashioned 14 bags with 14 painted blocks in each and donated them to Toys for Tots and Teens. Thank you, Thomas, and all who gave unselfishly so that others could enjoy their Christmas.

Special thanks to the Common Grill and Gina's Cafe for donating gift certificates, and to the North School second and third grades and their teachers, Mrs. Gillingham, Schlup, Quilter, Plank, Hansen, Harris, Gietzen and Piper.

The television set, donated by Palmer Motor Sales, was awarded to Chelsea Children's Co-Op. Dr. Ernst donated the toys and filled out the entry blank for Chelsea Children's Co-Op.

Transfer Station

"We have done considerable work on this and we're pretty well to the point where we can recommend a way to go. Before we even consider a location, we should answer the question of whether it should be publicly or privately owned and operated."

Dresselhouse said it would be premature for him to divulge his recommendation. He said he has been in contact with a major trash hauler about building such a facility but declined to give any details of the presentation or even disclose which hauler.

"All proposals are worth considering because they will all tell you different things," Dresselhouse said. "We'll know better after we meet with the village."

Lima township supervisor Bill Van Riper said he would welcome an opportunity to discuss the situation with the village and area townships.

"Sometimes it seems like we're all going in opposite directions," Van Riper said.

"I just hope we can all do something together."

The village committee has been given two building proposals from Midwestern Consulting, one for a station to handle primarily the village's needs for $420,000 and another to handle the entire area plus future growth for $530,000. The primary difference in the stations, Hammer said, is in the size of the compactor, which prepares the trash to be hauled away. The proposals include all brand new equipment.

If the village builds the station, Hammer said, it would likely be funded with a bond issue.

but has not decided the best way to handle the problem.

Another change is the program will accept all plastic jugs with the number "2" on the bottom, not just milk jugs as has been the case. That means other jugs, such as detergent jugs, will also be taken.

Residents in each village will also be able to put newspapers and plastics out for curbside recycling, along with glass and cans.

Township sites will also accept glass, cans, plastic and newspaper. However, cardboard will only be accepted at the MRF or at the Manchester drop-off site.

The MRF will be open during regular landfill hours—Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday from 12:30 to 4:30 and Saturday from 8:30 to 4:30.

The authority plans to mail a newsletter with information about recycling and how to volunteer for the program. The authority is looking for people willing to be block captains, drop-off center volunteers, and speakers to present a slide presentation to community groups.

Goal of the program is to recycle 7 million pounds of materials each year, which translates to approximately 700 pounds per household in the authority each year.

Computer Literacy Course for Adults Offered By WCC

Washtenaw Community College will offer a course this January designed for mature adults, with no prior computer knowledge, who wish to enter the computer age.

"Computer Literacy for Mature Adults," a non-credit course, will be offered two days per week for two consecutive weeks. Classes begin Tuesday, Jan. 19, and meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, from 4 to 6 p.m. The fee is $45, however, there will be no fee for persons 60 years or older.

"Computer Literacy for Mature Adults" is designed for people who feel out of touch with the computer age. Students will be taught the basics of computers and be guided through word processing and spreadsheet software packages. The course will provide plenty of hands-on computer time and individual instruction.

Mis-Used, Over-Used, Useless Words Are Banned from the Queen's English

Sault Ste. Marie—"Basically, we've got to break this gridlock and empower the world-class American people right down at the grass-roots level, not by means of in-your-face color commentators, not by the downsizing of safe havens, but through the growing of conventional wisdom and team chemistry."

"On the whole, we'll have a win-win situation with proactive, happy campers bonding with their associates, rather than the proliferation of victimless crime."

So summarizes Professor Justin Agony, who is recovering from "open-heart surgery after a close brush with an armed gunman, who went ballistic with a high-powered rifle."

Agony took "the jackpot" to summarize his impressions of Lake Superior State University's 1993 list of Words Banned From the Queen's English for Mis-Use, Over-Use and General Uselessness.

"Basically," a too-popular stall word, which was banished in 1984 and again in 1988, and "got," as in "we've got to get the country moving again," received the most nominations in 1992.

Ironically, the fact that 1992 was an election year did not induce a large number of nominations from the political arena.

Ross Perot's "world-class" anything, such as his daughters, inspired several nominations: "Gridlock," "empower," "grass roots" and "the American people" are others. President-elect Bill Clinton and running mate Al Gore won the election by declaring that "we've got to get the country moving again."

Over-use of forms of the verb "get" drew dozens of nominations. "Maybe we've got to get the country moving again," said one nominator, "but we haven't got to do anything. Get, got, gotten are mostly irritating, over-used, unnecessary participles. Banish them."

Most dictionaries tell us that "have got, have gotten," et cetera, are grammatically acceptable: "She got the job done. He gets the job done. The have gotten too large. He has got to help with this project."

However, the number of nominations would indicate that many users of the English language are fed up with hearing "have got, has got, etc." over and over again, especially on radio and television.

Then there is the mis-usage: "We (have?) got to be going. They got to help us out. Gotta go now. We gotta get out of this place."

As one nominator put it: "If one 'gets' something, one then 'has' it. 'Got' is redundant. It is the most over-used word in the language."

"Basically" received many nominations and a third banishment because it is mostly mis-used as a stall word by speakers who should know better.

"Conventional wisdom" was banished as a subtle oxymoron. Redundancies included: "armed gunman," "high-powered rifle," "completely empty," "co-conspirator" and "safe haven."

From the category of sports jargon: "Team chemistry: over-used by coaches, players, owners, broadcasters and writers. What chemicals are these folks mixing, and how? Could it be group gas?"

The former president of Lake Superior State University (now president of Minot State University in Minot, N.D., Dr. H. Erik Shaar, nominated the word "jackpot," which was used to promote a sweepstakes event from an outfit that lists its address as "1 Jackpot Plaza."

We think that "jackpot" would be acceptable if used to describe a recipe that combines a form of jack cheese with tupa, using a crockpot.

So many people complained about the 1992 banishment of the apostrophe because "no one knows how to use one," that we have restored it in 1993, with the sincerest hope that everyone will learn how to use it.

After all, as complainant Rosalie Gordon of Vancouver, British Columbia put it: "Toms car, Marys house and LSSUs banished list aren't correct, either."

The apostrophe is a possessive code mark. It denotes ownership, or at least possession. Use it properly. Don't throw it in on a whim or use it to make a singular plural.

For the complete 1993 (from 1992 nominations) list, read on:

Gridlock—"There's a grid, grid bias, grid current and gridleak; gridle, griddecake, gridiron, a deadlock and interlock, but NO gridlock in any of my five dictionaries. It 'made' the 1992 American Heritage Dictionary and 'means' 'lack of movement,' which is what 'deadlock' means! Quit inventing words when perfectly acceptable words already exist."

Empower—"This word and its cousin 'Empowerment' are the most useless buzzwords of 1992."—Robert A. Jenkins, Buies Creek, N.C.

Downsizing—"A $5 word for massive lay-offs and firings. In an attempt to euphemize permanent lay-offs or firings we lost sight of the 'human side' of the term, the employees."—Hubert A. Bailey, Graysville, Ill.

World Class—"As in Ross Perot's world-class daughters. New class, no class. Give the gas to world class."—KFYI Talk Radio, Phoenix, Ariz.

The American people—"A phrase used extensively, and almost exclusively, by politicians, a sort of puffery used to stretch speeches and to remind their audiences that they are not speaking to our Mexican or Canadian neighbors. 'The American people will not tolerate'..."—C.R. Penson, St. Paul, Minn.

Grass roots—"Over-used by common man or woman voter," whom every politician seeking election claims for his or her own. A grass-roots voter is one back in the home constituency who can and will carry the election for a candidate. But it's every candidate's claim that he/she has grass-roots support. Cut the grass roots. We don't want to hear it."—Muriel S. Paule, San Rafael, Calif.

SPORTSTALK—"Pure freshman—A real student who is also an athlete."

Red-shirt freshman—A real athlete who is also in college. He or she is either academically ineligible or the team "doesn't need him/her this season. Doesn't really wear a red shirt."

Fifth-year senior—Red-shirt freshman four years later. Academically ineligible—Red-shirt freshman still a freshman one year later, not playing yet.

Progressing toward a degree—Part-time student. Full-time athlete. May or may not graduate. Odds not good.—John T. Brown, Mansfield, O.

Team chemistry—"Over-used by coaches, players, owners, broadcasters, writers." (Ed. Note: What chemicals are these folks mixing, and how? Could it be group gas?)—John P. Trevas, III, Swarthmore, Pa.

Color commentator—"Used to describe the ex-athlete patriot of the play-by-play announcer. What color are these commentators? Do they analyze the color selection of the teams' uniforms? Once these people begin a sports-broadcasting career, they are sports announcers (more or less)."—Karen Gooze, Westland.

REDUNDANCIES—"Armed gunman, high-powered rifle—Bill Eichstaedt, Kalamazoo. Completely empty—John and Judith Rosevear, Milford. Co-conspirator—Trudie Mason, Montreal, Quebec. Safe haven—John Demoss, FPO AE 09645. Trained professional; most complete—Joan Siefert Rose, Grosse Pointe.

SUBTLE OXYMORON—"Conventional wisdom—"If it is customary, approval by general usage, it may not be wise. Can wise people be unconventional? Don't confuse with political conventions. Not much wisdom there."—Carol Smith, Fairbanks, Ak.

Victimless crime—"Ridiculous. All crimes have victims. Corporations, individuals, businesses, organizations, countries. Someone pays."—Victoria Fox, LSSU student, Sault Ste. Marie.

MUCH-NOMINATED/OVER-USED—"Not as in 'He's a marvelous speaker. Not.' 'This is a non-specific negative. It's poor usage and sounds stupid.' (Ed. Note: Banished to Wayne's World - his basement.)—Donna Gayon, Perry.

In your face—"Find something new."—Anton Miller, Knoxville, Tenn. Happy camper—"People who use this tired cliché should be required to reside for a week-end in a campground under the following conditions: rain, hordes of children, black flies, mosquitoes, raccoons, bears, drunken neighbors. It may be sarcasm, but it's old."—Paul Moran, Marquette.

Win-win—"Lose-lose it."—Bob Norris, Palma De Mallorca, Spain.

Basically—"When a person begins a sentence with this word, it indicates that he/she is not certain what or how he/she thinks, believes or says, and 'basically' belittles offending the listener."—Naomi D. Spiro, Willowby, O.

Open-heart surgery—"Close off open-heart surgery and take this straight from the heart."—Ben Szczesny, Muskegon.

Ongoing—"I have been perusing a copy of Strunk and White, The Elements of Style, Macmillan. This publication has been revised periodically since 1935, so I am not sure just when this 'word' incurred the wrath of E.B. White, but it may have been 1957. We hear this word used constantly on CBC Radio, but the ultimate came a few weeks ago when a woman, on CBC, converted it to an adverb: ongoingly! Ongoing is much over-used and mis-used. (This one was banished in 1987, but, obviously, needs it again.)—Brian Jarvis, Toronto, Ontario.

Definite possibilities—"Official ambiguity, often heard at meetings of 'educated' people."—Joan Siefert Rose, Grosse Pointe.

Like to—"As 'I would like to thank my father for being such a terrific role model.' Or 'I would like to speak to you about poor speaking habits. If you'd like to,' then DO IT. Say what you mean, and drop the 'like to bit.'"—Jon Rosenberger, Toledo, O.

Incidences—"This word, meaning 'rate of occurrence,' is rarely made plural. Two or more happenings are incidents."—Margaret De Chant, Newberry.

Bonding—"Sharing, relating to another. We used to call this friendship."—Carol Smith, Fairbanks, Ak.

Associate—"Empty product of PR campaigns to boost morale of those who had been known previously as 'employees.' It's a way to trick those who haven't had a pay raise that they have gained something." (Ed. Note: In higher education, we use the word 'colleague' to upgrade 'employee.')—Jan Shoemaker, Lansing.

Lecture, Discussion Slated on Impact of Alcohol, Drug Abuse

"How Alcohol or Drug Use Can Impact the Family" will be the subject of a free community lecture given Thursday, Jan. 14, at 7:15 p.m. at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Fred Prezioso, alcohol and drug consultant at the University of Michigan Medical Center and therapist at Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center, will discuss how the use of alcohol or other drugs by one family member can affect the lives of other family members, distorting communication and relationship patterns. Positive solutions will be offered.

Fred holds a Master's degree in Addiction Counseling and is a National Certified Addiction Counselor II and Licensed Professional Counselor.

The lecture will be held in the dining room of the main hospital in Chelsea at 775 S. Main St.

For further information, you may call (313) 475-4100.

As we speak—"As with 'at this point in time,' just say 'now.'"—Michelle Rukavina, Kenosha, Wis.

Awoken/awoken—"The Bellflower couple was awoken by a fire/just woken up... Try the proper 'awakened'."—H.L. Greinke, Bloomington, Ill.

Went ballistic—"This is 'hip' talk. It's irritating. It appears in tabloids and on graphic television programs. Whatever happened to 'went berserk'?"

Dead in the water—"This is disgusting."—Connie Plant, Decatur, Ga.

Proactive—"This is 'bureaucratese' (bureaucrap, Rick) for diligent, assertive, aggressive, responsive. It is a feeble substitute, a giant buzzword."—Rick Harris, J.D., Montgomery, Ala.

Simply put—"This bullying capitulation epitomizes the obnoxious pretensions of the 1980s. The speaker uses it only to separate himself, with his knowledge of complex matters (probably the law and the stock market) from the listener, poor schmuck, who has to be spoon-fed these secrets."

Denatured pabulum, which the wise and sophisticated speaker spreads before him. "Simply stated" and "quite simply" belong with this one."—Bryce Butler, Attamont, N.Y.

GRAMMAR RAMMERS—"That for who, as in 'We would like to thank all of those friends and relatives that helped us through our recent loss.' When I went to school in the 1930s, I was taught the nouns (friends, relatives) should be referred to or followed by personal pronouns, like 'who' (not 'that')."—Neil Gabell, Marquette.

Singular antecedents call for singular pronouns—Michelle Mooney, Los Angeles, Calif., sent in 45 examples of newspapers, magazines and other publications using plural pronouns with singular antecedents. The proper rule of grammar should be taught to most elementary school students. (It used to be taught to most grammar school students.)

"While the studio audience makes their selection..."

"Everyone stays in their seat..."

"Someone has to stick their chin out..."

"Everyone deals with grief in their own way..."

Michelle thinks that plural pronouns took over when writers and speakers became fearful of being labeled "sexist" for using the singular pronoun "his," which has been grammatically correct. Rather than write or say "Everyone stayed in his seat," it became "THEIR seat."

We think that teaching grammar is difficult and learning grammar is both difficult and "boring." Hence, we have a lot of uneducated people writing and speaking in America, and the world, today. Where's the sexism in knowing that it's "While the studio audience makes ITS selection?"

Bonding—"Sharing, relating to another. We used to call this friendship."—Carol Smith, Fairbanks, Ak.

Melinda Ryan in China On Geological Expedition

Melinda Ryan (Mindy), a 1989 graduate of Chelsea High school and senior geology major at the University of Notre Dame, is currently in the People's Republic of China as a member of the U.S. research-exploration, geological team headed by Dr. J. Keith Rigby, Jr., of Notre Dame, that is initiating, excavating and documenting a site of the earliest Cretaceous Tertiary mammals and dinosaur remains discovered in an ancient river valley in the Hunan province of that country.

The primary objective of this expedition is to learn if the animals of that era survived the K/T boundary, which is a sedimentary layer deposited 65 million years ago when a major meteoroid(s) collided with the earth causing near-total darkness by the veil of impact generated dust and the resultant loss of vegetation; and according to one of the prevailing theories, caused the extinction of the dinosaurs along with 78% of all land animals and 28% of freshwater animal life.

The June issue of Science stated that it is generally conceded that the resolution to the K/T boundary problem most likely will be answered in China. This research team may be the first on the scene; and one of the objectives along with the actual site research is to speedily get a research program in place establishing working relationships with the local Chinese geologists and professors from the national geological university in Beijing, as well as give display materials and artifacts from the dig along with the expertise to preserve them to local Chinese museums to encourage local involvement. If the team's technical and diplomatic efforts are successful, there are at least two project sites in Tibet, one in Mongolia and two in western China that could provide serious contributions to this research in the future.

As a gesture of gratitude the Chinese wish to gift each member of the research team with one of the precious dinosaur eggs; but as there are only 200 "complete," 3-D dinosaur eggs in the world, the team members will be donating their valuable gifts to the various museums and universities participating in and supporting this expedition.

Upon Mindy's return to the U.S. at the end of January, she will complete her undergraduate degree in geology and pre-professional science and graduate from Notre Dame in May. After a June wedding she will pursue a program for her Master of Geology degree in September.

Mindy is the daughter of Thomas and Patricia Ryan of Chelsea.

Extension Service Home Ownership Educational Program

By Terry Jones, Extension Home Economist

The MSU/Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service continues to provide educational counseling for a home ownership program called "the Michigan Initiative." It is a partnership between the State, the Federal Home Mortgage Corporation (Freddie Mac), Michigan lenders, private mortgage insurers and community groups to help more Michigan families buy homes.

The Michigan Initiative is different in three ways:

1. It gives people an opportunity for educational and training concerning purchasing a home.
2. It cuts the normal down payment requirement to 5%.
3. It offers you more flexible credit terms than a conventional mortgage.

The program will be especially helpful to potential first time home buyers, but is not limited to them.

A very important part of the Michigan Initiative is the education that each home-owner applying for a loan throughout the Michigan Initiative must receive. The MSU/Washtenaw County Extension Service will be offering a two-series training session for anyone interested in learning more about the program. A session will be offered on Tuesday, Jan. 12 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. The second half will be offered on Tuesday, Jan. 19, 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. All sessions will be held at the Co-operative Extension Service Office, located at the County Service Center, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor. Participants who choose to apply for a Michigan Initiative Loan and purchase a home will receive a certificate to make them eligible to apply.

To participate in the program, family income must be under $51,175 for Washtenaw county residents. There is no purchase price limit established in the program. The amount potential home-owners will be allowed to borrow will depend on income and other debts.

Anyone interested in learning more about the Michigan Initiative Program or about home-ownership is invited to attend the education session Jan. 12 and 19. Pre-registration is required, as space is limited. To register or for more information, call the Co-operative Extension Office at (313) 971-0079.

Sylvan Township Says 'No' to New Private Roads

Sylvan township will no longer allow private roads to be built in the township.

The township board took action to ban new private roads at their meeting last Tuesday, Jan. 5.

According to supervisor Gerald Dresselhouse, township planning consultant Carl Schmult and attorney Peter Flintoft both advised the township to take the action because there are too many problems with private roads. For example, routine maintenance and road improvements, handled by the county or township on public roads, have to be shouldered by residents of private roads.

Dresselhouse said Sylvan township road standards and county standards are the same except the county requires a paved surface.

Sylvan township is the first in the Chelsea area to ban new private roads.

Lima township supervisor Bill Van Riper said he was sorry Sylvan took the action because it will encourage developers to look in other townships where private roads are allowed, such as Lima township. He said he would not recommend a similar ordinance for his township until "it is studied to see what the alternatives are."

Economic Breakfast Club To Discuss City Recommendation

The possible change of Chelsea to a city will be the topic for the Economic Breakfast Club of Chelsea on Wednesday, Jan. 20 at 7:30 a.m. at Chelsea Community Hospital.

Dr. Lynn Harvey, associate professor of agriculture and economics at Michigan State University and a Chelsea native, will lead the discussion. He was the first source of information sought by the Chelsea City Study Committee.

Jack Merkel, chair of the committee which ultimately recommended the change in its final report, will also be on the panel. Stanley Burke, former city attorney in Troy, and a committee member, will be available to answer some of the legal questions which arose.

The meeting is open to the public and has a continental breakfast available for a charge.

For more information or to make reservations, call the Chamber of Commerce at 475-1145.

By Terry Jones, Extension Home Economist

Participants in the Do-It-Yourself Plumbing Workshop will learn about the water supply, drainage systems, and take part in hands-on experiences with repairing and replacing basic plumbing.

In the Electrical Workshop discussion will be on safety issues, the anatomy of a circuit breaker box and fuse box, plus tips on how to replace light switches and outlets.

Both programs will discuss what can and cannot be done by a homeowner.

Pre-registration is required for both programs by calling (313) 971-0078. The workshops are free and will be held at Washtenaw Co-operative Extension Service, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor.

Soda Machine Damaged at Station

Someone apparently tried to pry the front off a soda machine at the Checker Gas Station.

Chelsea police were called to the station on Sunday, Jan. 10 after an employee noticed the damage. Police said the condition of the front panel made it difficult to tell when the damage may have occurred.

There was no evidence anything had been stolen from the machine.

Theatre Presents New Drama

Purple Rose Theatre Company will present the Michigan premiere of Velina Hasu Houston's new drama, Necessities, as the second production of the 1992-93 season. There will be six previews of Necessities starting Thursday, Jan. 14 through Thursday, Jan. 21 and regular performances will continue for a limited eight-week engagement through March 7.

Performances will be held Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. with Sunday shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. All performances are at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

Originally produced in 1991 at San Diego's Old Globe Theatre, Necessities is a powerful drama which deals with a childless couple's conflict over adopting a baby to fulfill their marriage. Zelda Kelly is a successful film producer who believes that a child is the solution to her mid-life crisis. Unable to conceive a child of her own and rejected by adoption agencies, Zelda accepts her lawyer's advice and seeks a private adoption. Zelda's quest leads to Phoenix where she places a newspaper ad and interviews several women interested in her proposal. The interviews, along with a growing resistance from her husband, Danny, force Zelda to re-examine her desires and future goals for self-fulfillment.

The cast of Necessities features Marilyn Mays (Windsor, Ontario) as Zelda Kelly and Wayne David Parker (Dearborn) as her husband, Danny. John Lépard (Royal Oak) plays Zelda's personal assistant and Sandra Marquez (Ypsilanti) is Zelda's best friend, Elizabeth. The three young women that Zelda interviews about potential private adoptions are portrayed by Cheri Johnson (Detroit), Elizabeth Keiser (Ann Arbor) and Karen Kron (West Bloomfield). Tim Pickering (Detroit) completes the cast as an irate boyfriend of one of the three young women.

Necessities is one of many plays written by Velina Hasu Houston which have been produced at regional theatres across the country. Her other works include Tea, Asa Ga Kimashita, American Dreams, Thirst and Albatross. Ms. Houston is an assistant professor and head of the playwriting program for the University of Southern California School of Theatre. She will be in residence with the Purple Rose Theatre Company during the final rehearsal and preview to participate with script revisions before the official opening night on Jan. 22.

The Purple Rose Theatre Company production of Necessities is directed by Mary Bremier, a guest artist who has also directed at the University of Detroit Theatre Department, Jewish Ensemble Theatre and the Attic Theatre. Set design is by Bartley H. Bauer, lighting design is by Victor En Yu Tan and costume design is by Nancy Davis. Paul Marquis is the stage manager for the Purple Rose Theatre Company production.

Reservations are recommended due to the limited capacity and may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at 475-7902. The Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office is open Monday through Friday from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays of performances beginning one hour prior to curtain.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Rebound For Victories Over Manchester, Richard

A healthier Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team began post-holiday play with non-conference victories over Manchester and Gabriel Richard last week. The wins snapped a two-game losing streak.

With senior center-forward Dana Schunk back in the line-up after recovering from an ankle sprain, the Bulldogs routed Manchester, 75-53, at home on Tuesday, Jan. 5, then edged Richard on the road in over-time on Saturday, Jan. 9, 52-51.

Chelsea led Manchester most of the game, although only by five points at half-time, 34-29.

After Manchester opened the second half with a field goal, the Bulldogs had a 10-2 run, scoring six points on lay-ups after steals. By the end of the third quarter the Bulldogs had a 55-45 lead as Schunk scored seven points in the final three minutes of the period.

The Bulldogs scored the first five points of the fourth quarter to take a 60-45 lead, thanks to two Manchester turnovers and two field goals by Cory Brown, who Raymond said, "had by far his best game of the season."

After the Dutchmen pulled to within 62-51, Chelsea reeled off 13 straight points, including eight by Colby Skelton, mostly in the transition game.

"We were a little sluggish in the first half and I didn't think we were getting after it on offense," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We came out in the third quarter and pushed the tempo of the game. We knew their guards would have trouble with the pressure and they ended up with 26 turnovers."

Pat Steele put the pressure on Manchester center Rob Davis, considered one of the best players in the area. Davis finished with 13 points, one of his lowest totals of the season, another reason for the Manchester downfall. Steele's position play, and the pressure on the guards, kept the ball out of Davis' hands much of the night.

The Bulldogs, who have used three-point shooting as one of their main weapons in the early going, relied heavily on their inside game against Manchester. Center Tom Poulter finished with a season-high 18 points, mostly on power moves inside, and Schunk was second with 16 points, including 7-8 shooting from the field, as he was on target with his short jump-hook.

Poulter had eight of Chelsea's 42 rebounds.

"Rebounds were spread all around and I thought we did a great job on the boards," Raymond said.

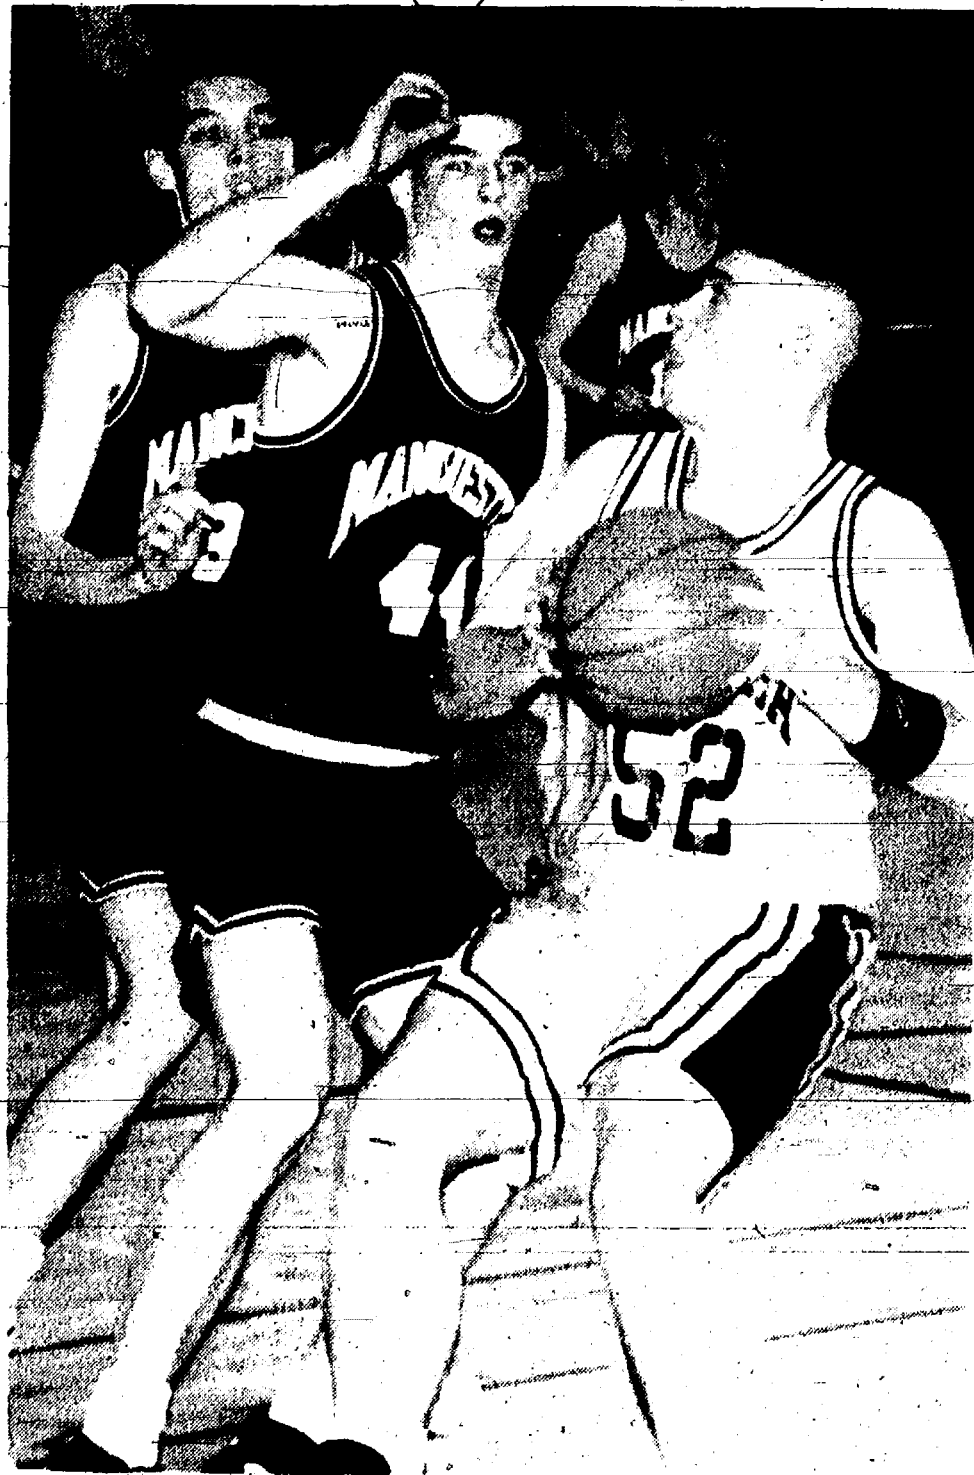

Other Chelsea scorers included Skelton 12, Steele 11, Brown 8, Chris Dunham 8, and Ed Waller 2.

Chelsea was 33-67 from the field and 8-12 from the line compared to 21-57 and 9-17 for Manchester.

Dunham had eight of Chelsea's 19 assists.

It was quite a different story in the Richard game. Colby Skelton's three-point play on a tip-in tied the game at 46 with 45 left.

Richard stalled and missed a shot with .05 left. Dunham then barely missed a shot from 3/4 court.

ED WALLER looks to the basket before taking a turnaround jumper for his two points against Manchester last Tuesday. Chelsea won the game, 75-53.

Poulter's two free throws gave Chelsea a 50-48 lead with 1:20 left, and Richard began to foul to get the ball back.

Brown hit both ends of a one-and-one to give Chelsea a 52-48 lead with :45 left.

Then a three-point goal from the corner put Richard within one point, 52-51.

Officials called an intentional foul on the next Chelsea possession, an ideal situation for the Bulldogs that almost turned to disaster. Chelsea missed both free throws, then Richard stole the in-bounds pass.

Richard's outstanding guard Carl Pickett, top scorer in the area, drove the left side, stumbled, and was called for traveling.

"The key, no question, was our defense," Raymond said.

"Richard is a good team, ranked in the top five in class D."

Again, Steele drew the toughest defensive assignment and held Pickett to 16 points, less than half his average of 33.

Poulter and Steele each had 13 points to lead the Bulldogs. Other scorers included Skelton 11, Dunham 7, Schunk 4, Waller 2, and Brown 2.

The Bulldogs had just 43 shots for the game, by far their lowest total of the year. Each team had 19 field goals, but Chelsea went to the line seven more times, 21-14, but made just three more shots, 12-9.

Chelsea out-rebounded taller Richard, 34-26.

The Bulldogs were scheduled to get back into Southeastern Conference play last night at home against the Dexter Dreadnaughts. They travel to Tecumseh Friday, before returning home next Tuesday to play Pinckney and wrap up the first half of the league season.

Raymond sees this stretch of SEC games as must-wins for the Bulldogs if they are to contend for the title. Chelsea has two league losses while Pinckney and Lincoln are each undefeated. Milan has one loss.

"I still believe two losses will be able to win the league, but Lincoln is going to be tough to catch," Raymond said.

Chelsea was 4-2 on the season after last week.

DAN ALBER wrestled at 112 pounds against the Milan on to win the meet easily as Milan forfeited seven weight Big Reds and pinned Greg Starbird in 5:36. Chelsea went classes.

Bulldogs Take Third At Western Invitational

Captain Kevin McCalla was a champion at 152 pounds and seven other Chelsea wrestlers placed as the Bulldogs took third at the Jackson County Western Invitational last Saturday, Jan. 9.

Chelsea led for some of the afternoon but when it was over Southeastern Conference rival Saline Hornets won the tournament with 187.5 points, while Mason was second with 167 and the Bulldogs third with 165. There were 14 schools in the tournament.

"I didn't anticipate that we'd be in the race," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"I figured we might take fifth. Then all of a sudden we were ahead. It all came down to the heavyweight match."

McCalla had to win four matches to take the title. He won a technical fall, 16-1, over his opponent from Jackson Northwest, then pinned Quentin Beck of Jackson Lumen Christi in 2:51, and Jesse Modert of Bronson in 5:02. In the finals he edged Jeremy Cook of Mason, a regional qualifier last year, 9-7, as he got a take down late in the second period to tie, then a reversal in the third period to win.

"Both those guys should be regional qualifiers," Kargel said.

Tim Wescott was the only other Bulldog to reach the finals, he finished second at 112 pounds. In his opening match he beat Steve Laird of Vandercook Lake with a 19-2 technical fall, then followed with a pin of Josh Yoder of Hudson in 1:29. In the finals he lost an 11-3 decision to Rick Race of Jackson Northwest.

Ian Dyer at 145 and John Bobo at 160 each placed third.

Dyer opened with a pin of Aaron Bai of Southgate in :59, then pinned Brian Blum of Bronson in 2:37. The third match ended with a 4-3 loss to Quincy Rice of Jackson Northwest. In the consolation finals, Dyer pinned Eric Fehrenback of Leslie in 2:01.

Bobo, unseeded, followed the same pattern as Dyer, recording pins in three matches and losing his third contest by one point. He began with a pin of Jim Conley of Jackson County Western in 3:32 and followed with a pin of Greg DeClercq of Tecumseh in :40. Greg DeGrand of Saline won the third match, 5-4, but Bobo responded with a pin of Chris Trefrey of Jackson Lumen Christi in the consolation finals in 2:32.

"I was really impressed with John Bobo," Kargel said.

"We talk about athletes turning the corner and I think John has. He knows now what it takes to win."

Fourth-place finishes went to Ryan Ludwig at 125 and heavyweight Rob Bergman.

Ludwig edged Brandon Nolan of Tecumseh, 7-6, in his first match but was pinned by Joe McGlatchen of Jackson Northwest in :39 in his second match. He ended with an 11-5 loss to Brian Beal of Hudson.

Bergman recorded pins over Jason Mensing of Tecumseh in 1:47 and Brent Colin of Mason in 3:34. He lost, 7-3, in his third match to Mike Ortel of Saline, then was pinned by Ernie Hobart of Jackson Northwest in the consolation finals in :31.

Fifth-place medals went to Ray Hatch at 103 and Andrew Parker at 140. Each boy lost his first match then finished with three straight wins.

Hatch lost to Tom Warner of Hudson, 13-4, then pinned Sam Mussleh of Southgate in 1:25, took a 10-1 decision over Jay Sosinski of Bronson, and finished with a pin of Ben Chapman of Northwest in the finals in 1:38.

Parker lost a 14-11 decision in his opening match to John Herrera of

Frosh Cagers Lose to Dutch

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost to Manchester last Thursday, 53-43.

The Bulldogs were down by 10 points in the fourth quarter but rallied to tie the score at 41 with 2:08 remaining.

"I was pleased with the way we turned it up a notch and didn't give up," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

"Manchester did a good job of not folding once we tied it."

Josh Bernhard had 14 rebounds, including nine offensive rebounds, the most by any Bulldog this season. He also scored 14 points for his best all-around game, Mitchell said.

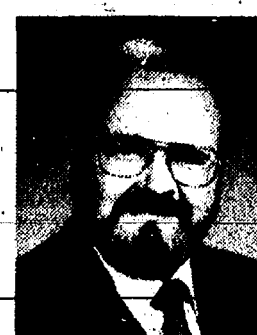

Other Chelsea scorers included Shane Miller 17, Rick Stahl 6, Curt Carpenter 4, and Danny Johnson 2.

Chelsea Spikers Take Second at Invitational

It was a good week for the Chelsea High school varsity volleyball team as they opened the Southeastern Conference season with a victory Thursday at Milan, then placed second over-all in the eight-team Chelsea Invitational on Saturday.

At Milan, Chelsea lost the first game, 12-15, but bounced back with strong serving to win the final two games, 15-12 and 15-13.

Theresa Royce, Amy Petty, and Melissa Thiel led the attack with five, six, and five kills, respectively.

Top servers were Gretchen Knutsen, 20-21 with three aces; Thiel, 13-14; Kori White, 11-12; and Petty, 8-10 with three aces.

Thiel led the defense with 9-9 on serve receives and 8-8 on defensive digs. Jamie Collinsworth and Amy Petty were also strong on defense, said coach Dan Montgomery.

At the invitational Saturday, Chelsea split games with Pinckney, 15-13 and 7-15, defeated Ann Arbor Pioneer, 15-4 and 15-6, and defeated Lakeland, 15-6 and 15-1, all in pool play.

In the quarter-finals, the Bulldogs beat Milan, 15-12 and 15-4 to earn the right to face the Ypsilanti Braves in the semi-finals.

Chelsea defeated the Braves, 15-7 and 15-10 to reach the finals and take revenge for the loss in their home opener last week. Montgomery said play was marked by good attacks and defense by both teams.

Pinckney had defeated South Lyon 15-0 and 15-3, and Ann Arbor Huron, 15-1 and 15-2, to reach the finals.

The Bulldogs lost in the finals, 4-15, in what Montgomery called "two error-filled games."

"We were just worn out after the touch match against Ypsilanti," Montgomery said.

"I started to see the kids slowly getting up off the floor, and when you're that worn out, your body just won't do the things you try to make it do. I'm very pleased with the improvements this team has made in the last two weeks, and we're only going to get better."

Montgomery noted that Pinckney played well all day with good, solid passing, few service errors, and nothing flashy. Only six points were scored against them in the four play-off games leading to the finals, "so they were able to maintain their energy for the final match."

Top servers for Chelsea were Knutsen, 95 percent; Tracy Patrick, 93 percent; and White, 90 percent. As a team, Chelsea served 252-296 for 85 percent.

Top attackers were Thiel, 57-63 for 21 kills; Royce, 24 kills; Petty, 19 kills; Gretchen Stahl, 8 kills; White, 7 kills; Knutsen, 5 kills.

"Gretchen Knutsen and Kori White did an exceptional job of setting up the attackers," Montgomery said.

Top blockers were Petty and Stahl. Leaders on defense were Thiel, White, Petty, Collinsworth, and Stahl.

Chelsea is 5-2 over-all and 1-0 in the Southeastern Conference. They face Lincoln at home on Thursday and take part in the Clinton Invitational on Saturday.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Even though the season is only six games old as of this writing, the Chelsea Bulldogs basketball team can't afford to lose another Southeastern Conference game if it expects to contend for the league title.

So goes the thinking of some local basketball experts, including coach Robin Raymond. Before last night's game with Dexter at home, the Bulldogs were 1-2 in league play, with the Pinckney Pirates, Lincoln Railspitters, and Milan Big Reds all ahead of them. Pinckney and Lincoln were undefeated. Milan had one loss.

It's hard to argue with the coach's assessment. Lincoln appears to be improving and may be playing the best basketball in the league. They will be hard to catch. And perhaps the biggest win they will record all season was the one-point escape pulled in Chelsea before the holiday break. Championship teams win their key road games.

However, I'm guessing three losses will tie for the title. There's a lot of basketball to go and five teams—Chelsea, Lincoln, Milan, Pinckney, and Tecumseh—all have enough talent to win on any particular night. Dexter is certainly capable of some upsets along the way. Saline might even bump someone off.

Even though the Pirates have a new coach, I suspect Pinckney is better than many believe. They have some height this year to go along with their talented guards. Remember how the Bulldogs lost at Pinckney last year on the fine clutch three-point shooting of Jayson Shore? Milan may have the best talent in E.J. Bates and Maurice Eaddy but seems to be erratic. Lincoln's Scott Chatfield is one of the best inside players in the area. Tecumseh? I'd never count them out even if they were starting five freshmen. They just have the knack of playing solid basketball no matter what the circumstances, although I understand they have some injuries to key players.

There's a lot of talent in the league, and given what high school sports is all about—emotion and imperfection—plenty of room for conjecture.

However, even if the experts are correct, it's no reason to be alarmed. Chelsea is entirely capable of going undefeated the rest of the way, particularly if they beat Dexter, Tecumseh, and Pinckney to finish out the first half of the season.

The Railspitters know they were fortunate to win here. They caught Chelsea without senior Dana Schmunk, who was nursing an ankle injury. Without Schmunk, the Bulldogs lost inside scoring, rebounding, and much of its height. They can certainly be beaten. Milan can be had on Chelsea's home court.

More than anything else, though, Chelsea will be a different team over the last part of the season.

Aleksander Selmanovic, the 6-4 Croatian exchange student, will be eligible after the Pinckney game. He's not going to provide any missing ingredient, except perhaps a little height, an occasional slam dunk, and some undecipherable language. He'll just give the Bulldogs a lot more of what they already have. He can shoot like Pat Steele and Nick McCalla, run the offense and pass like Chris Dunham, jump like Colby Skelton, and play inside like Schmunk. He'll be Chelsea's secret weapon because no one in the league will have seen him play before. He will give Raymond many more options.

I also like the Bulldogs for two other reasons—the development of Tom Poulter and the bench.

In the first two games after the break, Poulter, Chelsea's only authentic muscle player, led the team in scoring and rebounding, and just as importantly, he didn't get into foul trouble. He's asserting himself and playing intelligent basketball.

The bench will be outstanding for one big reason. Unlike past years, everyone has gotten a fair amount of playing time. Cory Brown, McCalla, Ed Waller, and Erik Brown have all had their moments and they all have very different strengths. Cory Brown, as we saw in the Manchester game, can push the ball up court as fast as anyone and make some spectacular plays. McCalla can score a lot of points in a hurry from three-point range. Waller has that deadly short jumper. Erik Brown can shoot from anywhere and has court savvy uncommon for a second-stringer. Raymond has no hesitation about playing any of them, a luxury for any coach.

Throw in outstanding defense, add it all up, and the Bulldogs' chances don't look so bad. However, they'll still need someone else to beat the Railspitters. I'm counting on it.

TOM POULTER works on a strong move underneath Tuesday. The Bulldogs broke the game open in the second half and won 75-53.

Chelsea Swimmers Take First Victory

Chelsea Bulldogs swimming team picked up its first victory of the season last week with a 104½-71½ victory over Novi.

The 200 medley relay team of Steve Brock, Mike McEachern, Peter Straub, and Kevin Kolodica placed second in 1:54.09.

JV Cagers Win a Pair

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team beat the Manchester Dutchmen, 69-49, on Tuesday, Jan. 5 at home and the Gabriel Richard Irish, 51-40, on Saturday, Jan. 9 on the road.

Chelsea led the Manchester game throughout, despite 21 turnovers in the first half.

"Over-all it was a very strong performance for the first game back from break," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter.

"We applied pressure on the ball handlers all night and didn't let them get the ball in the paint. Offensively we were trying too hard in the first half but we settled down after the half."

Ten players scored for the Bulldogs including Chad Brown 13, Dan Wehrwein 13, Case McCalla 11, Nick Brink 8, Scott Colvin 6, Adam Beauchamp 5, Josh Inwood 4, Bryndon Skelton 4, Jamie Courdway 3, and James Diesing 2.

Chelsea's aggressive man-to-man defense helped cause 31 Manchester turnovers.

The Bulldogs held a 39-35 rebound advantage and Brink led the team with nine, while Wehrwein had eight.

Chelsea shot 36 percent from the floor and 67 percent from the line.

Quilter said the Bulldogs turned in another strong defensive game against the Irish, which helped them to a 19-7 lead in the first quarter. In addition, he was pleased with his team's 38-28 rebound advantage against a taller team.

The Bulldogs led the entire game and increased their lead every quarter until they were out-scored 16-11 in the final period.

Nine Bulldogs scored, including Wehrwein 17, Brink 11, McCalla 8, Brown 5, Colvin 4, Beauchamp 2, Brad Jedele 2, Kevin Coy 1, and Diesing 1.

"Players off the bench, Josh Inwood, Adam Beauchamp, Kevin Coy, Brad Jedele, Jamie Courdway, James Diesing, and Jason Valchine have contributed valuable playing time this week," Quilter said.

Brink had a team-high eight rebounds.

The Bulldogs shot 36 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the line, while Richard shot 26 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the line.

The Bulldogs are 5-1 over-all and 2-1 in the Southeastern Conference.

time of 1:58.25 in the 200 freestyle, while Steve Straub placed third in 2:04.44.

Steve Brock and Jim Bergman combined for a 2-3 finish in the 200 individual medley with times of 2:19.68 and 2:27.17, respectively.

Kolodica raced to the first Chelsea victory of the meet with a time of 25.19 in the 50 freestyle, just ahead of teammate Jeremy Ziegler, who placed second in 26.29.

Jason Fox won the diving with 99.40 points.

David Brock won the butterfly in 1:01.30 and Peter Straub was third in 1:07.55, while Chris Grossman was fourth over-all in 1:18.43.

A 2-3-4 finish was turned in by Kolodica, McEachern, and Ziegler in the 100 freestyle.

Steve Brock, Justin Roush, and Mike Thiel placed 2-3-4, respectively, in the 500 freestyle.

David Brock, Steve Straub, Ziegler, and Bergman had a season-best time of 1:42.94 in the 200 freestyle relay.

Steve Straub had one of the best swims of the night as he set a personal record of 1:05.50 in the 100 backstroke, which easily won the event.

McEachern, Peter Straub, and Matt Montange placed 2-3-4 in the 100 breaststroke.

Chelsea won the meet on depth, which is new for the Bulldogs, according to the Chelsea coach Dave Jolly.

The Bulldogs swim at Tecumseh on Thursday. Last year Tecumseh won a heart-breaker, and Jolly said the Bulldogs hope for revenge.

THANK YOU FOR YOUR SUPPORT!!

The Chelsea United Way is using this method to thank all of the individuals in our local Chelsea Community for digging deep to help us obtain our goal for the 1992-3 Campaign year. We are proud to be a part of our community and to have the ability to provide funds to assist those in need, especially in a less than bountiful economic climate. Thank you for providing the dollars and the spirit that enables us to pull together to solve problems for those who are less fortunate than us.

By JOSEPH WALKER

 A Death in the Family . . .

There was death in the family last month.

Not my family. Our family. And we're all poorer for the loss.

His name was Joey, but folks called him lots of different names—some respectful, most not. Joey was a law enforcement officer—a highway patrolman. For as long as anyone could remember he had always wanted to be a cop. And not because he was into guns, adventure or authoritarianism. No, his reason for wanting to wear a badge was much simpler—and much more profound. Joey just wanted to help people.

At least, that's what he told his mother when he first declared his intention to be a policeman—some 20 years ago when he was just 4 years old. She said she was driving with her young son when he noticed an elderly woman struggling to make her way across a busy intersection. Joey watched her and worried about her. And then he announced that he needed to become a police officer so he could "take care of everybody's grandma."

Which is exactly the kind of thing he was doing when he was killed. He stopped to help a stranded motorist on an interstate freeway and was trying to slow traffic to reduce the danger to driver and vehicle. He was struck from behind by a pick-up truck.

Not exactly "move of the week" material, is it? I mean, usually when we hear about police officers being killed in the line of duty we think of high speed car chases, daring rescues and dramatic gun battles. But if you ask law enforcement veterans, they'll tell you that the most dangerous things they do are often the routine assignments: intervening in a domestic dispute, patrolling a troubled neighborhood, responding to a silent alarm, busting someone for being drunk and disorderly.

Directing traffic on a crowded interstate. Still, they do it because it's all part of the job. Because somebody has to do it. Because they're cops. And because they want to help people.

Of course, there are also some bad cops with bad attitudes, just like there are bad investment bankers, bad brick-layers and—believe it or not—bad newspaper columnists. But investment bankers aren't taunted and ridiculed by the very people they are sworn to protect. Brick-layers don't face the daily pressure of knowing that any mistake they make could ruin a life or end up as the lead story on tonight's newscast. And newspaper columnists don't put their lives on the line every time they belly up to the word processor.

Late Canada Goose Hunt Slated To Reduce Population

A special late, 30-day Canada goose hunting season to control local goose populations is scheduled for Jan. 9 through Feb. 7, announced Director Roland Harmes of the Department of Natural Resources.

The area open to the late hunting season includes public and private lands south of a line from Port Huron through Grand Rapids, which is along Highways I-69, M-21 and M-45, excluding the Allegan County Goose Management Unit, as shown in the state Waterfowl Hunting Guide.

"During a recent mid-December survey, DNR workers recorded more than 112,000 Canada geese in the state, of which about 57,000 were within the area open for the special late hunt," Director Harmes said. "This number of geese is a new record high for Michigan, providing excellent hunting opportunities."

Counties having the most geese, and which are open to hunting, include: Oakland, 9,700 geese; St. Clair, 3,000; Wayne, 2,900; Macomb, 2,800; Jackson, 4,500; Washtenaw, 1,300; Lenawee, 1,200; Hillsdale, 1,000; Branch, 900; Kalamazoo, 6,800; St. Joseph, 5,700; Cass, 2,500; Calhoun, 1,900; Barry, 1,800; Livingston, 2,800; Genesee, 2,900; and Ingham, 1,800 geese.

Waterfowl specialist Jerry Martz of the DNR Wildlife Division advised that these goose concentrations may change, depending on weather conditions. "The DNR will conduct another goose survey during early January," he said.

"Hunters will find the birds near open water," Martz said, "especially along river systems. They will have best long-term success if they try to decoy birds in fields and avoid disturbing them on their water-roosting sites. Hunters also should remember to secure permission of landowners before hunting on private lands."

DNR wildlife biologists request that hunters help them evaluate the results of the season by voluntarily submitting certain parts from the geese they shoot to their nearest DNR Wildlife Division office. The head and tail of each goose, including tail feathers and the vent with at least two inches of intestine attached, should be placed in a plastic bag with each bag labeled to indicate the date of kill and the nearest town. The plastic bags may be kept frozen and delivered to the DNR when convenient.

For detailed information on hunting areas, dates, regulations, and the location of DNR Wildlife Division offices, contact the DNR Wildlife Division headquarters, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909, 517-373-1263, or consult the 1992-93 Michigan Waterfowl Hunting Guide available from license agents.

Manchester Man Completes Navy Basic Training

Navy Seaman Recruit Ryan C. Shankland, son of Leeann K. Shankland of 210 N. Union, Manchester, recently completed basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

During the cycle, recruits are taught general military subjects designed to prepare them for further academic and on-the-job training in one of the Navy's 85 occupational fields.

Studies include seamanship, close-order drill, naval history and first aid. He is a 1992 graduate of Manchester High School.

MORE NEWSPAPER will probably be collected than any other item as the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority gets its program rolling this month. Residents of Chelsea and Manchester villages will be able to include newspapers in their curbside recycling programs and township residents will be able to deposit them in bins in their townships. The newspaper is compressed into balls weighing nearly a ton at the Materials Recovery Facility at the Chelsea landfill and hauled away. Some area farmers have shown an interest in using the slightly shredded newspaper as bedding for animals because it is more absorbent and less costly than straw. However, some problems have to be ironed out before it would be used on a widespread basis. One of them is the balls are too big to be easily used. The entire recycling operation will be on display for the public this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at an open house sponsored by the authority.

That's Different.
