Village Seeks Temporary Way To Handle Garbage Once Landfill Closes

The village plans to seek bids from area trash haulers to provide temporary service once the village landfill closes this spring.

The village's Solid Waste Committee met last Wednesday, originally to talk about building a transfer station. However, most township officials were away at an annual township association meeting, so that part of the agenda was postponed until Feb. 4.

The village wants to study the use of large roll-off bins stationed at the landfill. The bins would be used in the same way the landfill is now. Once they are filled they would be hauled to another landfill.

The bins would be used until a transfer station is built in the area. Bids are being sought from Browning-Ferris Industries, Inc., Mr. Rubbish, Inc., and Dunnigan's.

A temporary solution may be even more important for residents in Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships than it is for the village. The village can always haul its rubbish using its own trash truck. However, township residents who are used to taking their own trash to the dump would be stuck without a close place to go or would be forced to sign on with a private hauler.

"We really need to get bids and do some cost comparisons," said village manager Jack Myers.

"We want to check every avenue we have."

Construction of a transfer station is probably many months away.

Village and township officials all seem to agree that a transfer station to serve the entire area should be built. However, there appears to be some disagreement about the details.

To be determined are where to put the station, who would pay for construction, how big it should be, and whether to use a private company or make it a public project.

Solid Waste Committee Chair Frank Hammer favors building the station at the landfill, located in Lyndon township on Werkner Rd.

Lyndon Township Supervisor John Francis said he would support construction there as long as the facility doesn't significantly increase truck traffic on Werkner Rd.

"But that's just my opinion, I don't know how the board would feel about it," Francis said.

Other township officials are looking into using land closer to I-94. There has been discussion about building a much larger facility and trying to make some money for the units of government. There has also been discussion about turning the whole business over to private enterprise, much as some people advocated for recycling, which was eventually taken over by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority.

Sylvan Township Supervisor Gerald Dresselhouse has been putting together figures about privatization and whether it would be cost-effective.

Mohammad Youssef of the Department of Natural Resources said technical requirements, including soil and groundwater testing, and the public-hearing process, would be the same for a transfer station no matter where it is located.

However, the site would also have to be approved by township government and would have to be compatible with the Washtenaw County Solid Waste Plan. In addition, it's not known whether there would be any public opposition.

Girl Testifies Against Church Official But Can't Pin Down Time

While additional sexual abuse charges continue to be filed against an assistant pastor and deacon at North Sharon Baptist church, prosecuting attorneys are finding out just how difficult it can be to have a child's testimony accepted in court.

Last Wednesday, a nine-year-old girl testified that assistant pastor Timothy Leonard, 33, assaulted her in the church nursery during Sunday school. While the girl supplied plenty of details in her testimony, she couldn't remember when the assault took place.

That prompted 14A-District Court Judge Thomas Shea to adjourn the preliminary exam until today to give defense attorney Michael Stillwagon and assistant county prosecutor Julia Owdey time to show through similar cases what kind of time frame is necessary to justify charges.

For prosecutors it was yet another setback in a series. Judges in both Jackson and Washtenaw counties have dismissed other charges against both Leonard and deacon Mark Foeller, 36, based on the testimony of three- and four-year-old children.

The girl, who had attended the Sunday school for about five years, testified that Leonard threatened to kill the girl's mother if the girl didn't have sex with him. She said one Sunday she was excused from class to go to the bathroom. On her way back to class, she said, Leonard told her to go back into the bathroom and threatened to beat her if she didn't. From there he allegedly led her through the bathroom and into the nursery, where he told her to take down her underpants. After he threatened to kill the girl's mother, Leonard allegedly raped the child.

The girl was questioned for more than an hour and was asked why she hadn't told her parents and why she continued to go to church.

"I didn't want my mom to get killed," she testified.

The defense claimed the girl was coached, but the girl said only that a detective helped her remember events and denied she was told what to say.

Also last Wednesday, Leonard was arraigned on two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct, allegedly involving another nine-year-old girl who attended the church.

Bottle Bombs

Produce Explosions Downtown Jan. 7

Two explosions downtown shortly after midnight on Thursday, Jan. 7 were due to home-made bottle bombs, according to Chelsea police.

Police found evidence that someone had used bottles, aluminum foil, and certain common chemicals to produce the explosions. The blasts, which apparently didn't harm anything, were on Van Buren St. and near the Chelsea Community Hospital drive.

Leonard was held on $10,000 cash bond, although he is already being held without bond on another charge. A preliminary exam has been set for today on the new charges.

Foeller is scheduled for a pre-trial hearing today before Washtenaw County Circuit Court Judge Melinda Morris on two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct—and one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

In other developments, the Jackson county prosecutor's office said four new counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct will be brought against Foeller in the next few weeks, allegedly involving three boys age nine to 15.

Both the Jackson county prosecutor's office and Michigan State Police Det. Norm Maxwell have indicated there are other suspects in the case.

Maxwell said recently, "you cannot possibly imagine how big this case is."

All the alleged victims were members of the church's extensive Sunday school bus ministry, which recruited children from Jackson, Washtenaw, and Lenawee counties.

DR. LYNN HARVEY, left, associate professor of agriculture and economics at Michigan State University, was the featured guest speaker at the Economic Breakfast Club meeting Jan. 20. Jack Merkel, chairman of the Chelsea City Study Committee welcomed Dr. Harvey and his expertise on the discussion of a possible change to city status for Chelsea.

Economic Breakfast Club Discusses City Status

Jack Merkel, chairman of the Chelsea City Study Committee, welcomed Dr. Lynn Harvey, Associate Professor of Agriculture and Economics at Michigan State University, as the featured speaker at the Jan. 20 Economic Breakfast Club meeting held at Chelsea Community Hospital. Dr. Harvey assists villages and townships all over Michigan in dealing with a variety of issues, and was the first source of outside help to the City Study Committee.

Dr. Harvey cited the Jeffersonian and Jacksonian philosophy which gives everyone the right of self determination. Between 1780 and 1787 a basic structure was put into place in the midwest so that local communities could control their own destinies. The Northwest Ordinance was drafted so that citizens could establish local governments which are accountable and accessible to local citizenry. The ordinance also spelled out the basic structure of public education which would be offered at public expense through the levying of a property tax.

Dr. Harvey described for the 50 members attending the breakfast, the advantages of Chelsea's becoming a city, and the process which must be followed such as an election at which the citizens who would be affected by the change, could vote whether to proceed. If the vote is positive, a Charter Commission is elected which would have the responsibility for drafting a charter unique to Chelsea.

In addition to Dr. Harvey, panelist Stanley Burke, village manager Jack Myers and Jack Merkel were on hand to answer questions and to hear the comments of the group. There will be additional opportunities for the public to comment on the proposed change and to ask questions when public hearings are arranged.

The next Economic Breakfast Club breakfast meeting, which is sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce, will be held at 7:30 a.m. Wednesday, March 17, the speaker to be announced.

Proposed Project for Townships Still Alive, Says WDC Director

The project proposed for 1,000 to 4,000 acres in Sylvan and Lima townships bordering I-94 is still alive, according to Gretchen Waters, executive director of the Washtenaw Development Council.

Waters said last week that she knows more about the project than she did last fall. However, she said she has signed an agreement that prevents her from disclosing any details.

"I believe [the developers] are still interested, but it does not mean they are not considering other locations as well," Waters said.

"The pace seems to have slowed down, but I don't view it as dead at all."

Waters said she does not believe the project involves a Toyota automobile plant.

She said the project would probably begin on about 1,000 acres but eventually, "over a long period of time," expand to about 4,000 acres. That may help developers deal with the Farmland Preservation Act, which covers a fairly sizeable amount of land in the area. The act allows farmland to get special tax treatment if it is used only for farming. Land is covered for 10-year periods. If developers purchase the land, parts of it would become available for development each year as the 10-year periods expire.

"I would classify it as almost impossible to get land out of the act," Waters said.

Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper said he has not been in contact with the real estate company representing the developers for several months. However, he and village president Richard Steele were recently interviewed on Channel 50 about the project.

Raymond Appointed Interim Assistant High School Principal

Former Chelsea High school math teacher and current varsity basketball coach Robin Raymond has been named interim assistant principal at the high school.

Raymond, who will begin work next Monday, Feb. 1, takes the place of Joe Rossi, who will become assistant principal at Saline High school, where he previously taught. Raymond will work until June 30 while the school district looks for a permanent replacement during the spring.

Raymond taught math in Chelsea from 1978-85 after teaching in Ypsilanti. Since then he has been out of education and in private business. He is a former co-owner of Vandervoort's Sporting Goods.

Raymond has a master's degree in secondary education and curriculum from Eastern Michigan University. However, he is not certified for secondary administration. The state requires certification for permanent employment, said assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

One of the assistant principal's primary duties is discipline. Raymond said he should have no problem being tough with kids, when necessary.

Area Police Solve Series of Break-ins

Four young men have been arrested and a warrant has been issued for a fifth man in connection with a string of nearly 50 burglaries throughout Washtenaw county over the last three months. At least three of the break-ins were in the Chelsea area. Others were in Dexter and Scio township.

A surveillance team nabbed some of the suspects on Sunday at a strip mall in Ypsilanti township after a break-in.

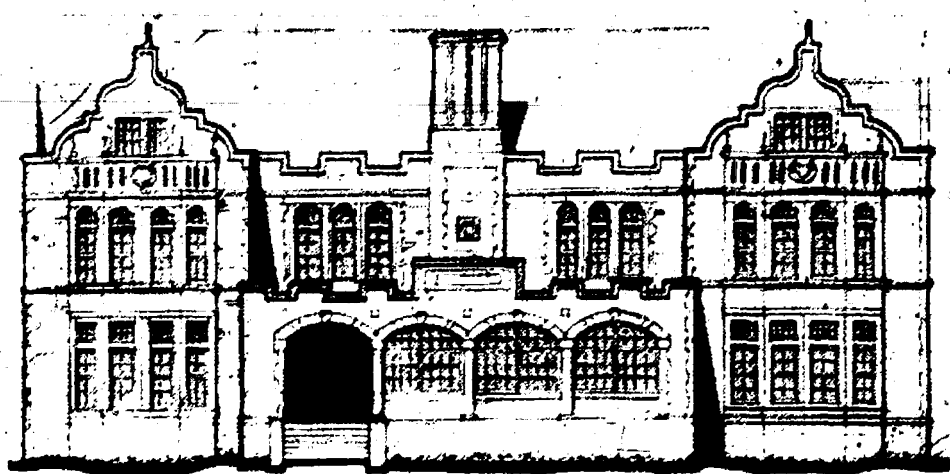

David Phillips and Adranen Swain of the Ypsilanti area have been arrested in connection with break-ins at Chelsea Cleaners, Gemini Family Hair Care, and, last Saturday morning, Vogel's Party Store, according to Chelsea Police Det. Dick Foster. Both are in their early 20s. A warrant has been issued for another suspect in the cases.

As in virtually all the cases, front glass doors were smashed early Saturday to gain access to Vogel's. However, all that was apparently stolen was a book of instant lottery tickets.

In the other Chelsea cases, money was stolen.

Foster said the group apparently preferred cleaners, hair salons, and party stores, especially those in strip malls. In at least one case, hair products were stolen, but generally money was taken in what Foster (Continued on page six)

City of Tecumseh assistant manager Robert Stalker has agreed to become the new Chelsea village manager this spring. Stalker, 27, has agreed to a tentative contract calling for a starting salary of $37,500, a $1,200 moving allowance, and standard village benefits, according to village president Jerry Satterthwaite. The length of his contract, and terms of subsequent raises have yet to be worked out. He will officially be offered a contract at the Tuesday, Feb. 7 village council meeting.

Chelsea Shopping Center developer Rene Papo may drop his opposition to the Pierce Lake drain if county engineers can develop an alternate route that does not cut his property in half. A county board determined last fall that the project was necessary. However, Papo issued a legal challenge to the drain and the project was stopped dead in its tracks. A pre-trial hearing has been scheduled for June and the trial is slated for September.

Former village president Charles Ritter is planning to run for council in the March 13 elections. Ritter confirmed Monday that he is going to take his third shot in three years at a village office. Two years ago he ran for president and last year he made an unsuccessful bid for council.

Chelsea Village Council will hold a public hearing Tuesday, March 6 at 7:30 p.m. in the village chambers to decide whether or not Chelsea should have a single-family residential district which would allow septic fields. The new zoning, if passed, would be called Estate Residential District (RE) as any land zoned under RE must be at least 20,000 square feet large. The majority of lots for single-family homes in the village average 7,500 to 8,000 square feet and all of them are hooked into the central-sewerage system provided by the village.

★ Michigan Hurt By Erosion of 'Employment-at-Will'

By Lawrence W. Reed

Assessments of the Michigan business climate usually revolve around tax and regulatory burdens. By most accounts, taxes and regulations by themselves are sufficient to place Michigan among the states least friendly to enterprise.

But more than just taxes and regulations explain this state's loss of jobs and businesses over the past two decades. Among the other factors is one that attracts far less attention than it should—the progressive abandonment of the doctrine known as "employment-at-will."

For most of this country's (and this state's) history, employment relationships were governed exclusively by the will of the contracting parties—employers and employees—not by the will of the general public and its judicial and administrative mechanisms.

Under this traditional arrangement, the parties could specify employment conditions and duration by explicit contract, which would then be enforceable in court. An employee could work for whomever he chose for as long as he chose. Without choosing to formally contract, they could decide to work together from moment to moment; the choice was up to them. Each side was free to terminate the relationship at will, without legal encumbrances.

The situation as it has evolved has produced something very different and very damaging to the interests of all parties and to the economy in general. A creeping public takeover of the private employment relationship has taken place. The consequences are readily apparent, as a 1991 Mackinac Center study by analyst Jurgen Skopek pointed out: Michigan's courts are clogged with employment litigation, employers have turned defensive hiring and firing measures into a fine art, and wrongful discharge litigation now costs Michigan businesses millions of dollars each year.

Today, federal and state statutory law is filled with explicit exceptions to the employment-at-will rule, substantially restricting the employer's right to hire and fire. Generally speaking, however, even where these laws have burdened business they have been limited and more focused than what the courts have accomplished on their own. Much more substantial damage to employment-at-will has been done by the intervention of activist judges who think they know what is best for the parties in an otherwise private employment setting.

In the seminal 1980 case of Toussaint v. Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Michigan, the state's Supreme Court threw traditional contract law out the window by declaring that "no pre-employment negotiations need take place and the parties' minds need not meet on the subject" for the court to simply invent an employment contract from any events, oral statements, or even from something as subjective as the workplace "environment."

Suddenly, every discharged employee could initiate costly litigation claiming unjust discharge. Any reference point, whether it was a statement made by someone somewhere at some time, or a slip of paper, or a pattern of behavior, became enough to require a jury trial.

In the 1986 Renny v. Port Huron Hospital case, the employer had done everything right from the standpoint of the contract. Among the provisions in a handbook employees agreed to abide by was an optional grievance procedure. Plaintiff Renny employed that procedure to appeal her discharge for operating room irregularities. A peer review committee which she herself had selected from a group of qualified volunteers ruled against her.

Renny nonetheless challenged her termination in court. In a bizarre twist of logic, the Michigan Supreme Court ruled in her favor. The Court simply chose to apply its own arbitrary sense of fairness by overriding the employer's established procedures as agreed to by all parties.

Judges and juries have now become managers in Michigan's workplace, second-guessing the decisions of both employers and employees. No private contract between an employer and employee is ever completely safe from the after-the-fact and utterly unpredictable judicial alteration. Every workplace decision is subject to an appeal to the "instincts" of courtroom participants.

A 1991 ruling of the Michigan Supreme Court (Rowe v. Montgomery Ward) recognized that judicial activism had gone overboard. It said that oral statements must be "clear and unequivocal" to overcome the legal presumption of employment-at-will. That would be a major victory on the road back to the employment-at-will doctrine, except that the Michigan Court of Appeals has failed consistently to apply the Rowe ruling.

Ultimately, no business can operate efficiently and effectively without good management, one of the most important aspects of which is the selection, administration, and replacement of personnel. The erosion of the employment-at-will doctrine and its replacement with arbitrary judicial intrusion into the employment relationship is making good management increasingly difficult. Not only are employers being forced to live with less effective employees than the market might provide, but they are also being constrained from critically evaluating employees under the unceasing threat of costly litigation.

Public policy makers in Michigan must recognize that workers are not helped by driving employers from the marketplace. Part of the effort to revitalize the state's economy must be to restore the freedom of association embodied in the traditional doctrine of employment-at-will.

Note: Lawrence W. Reed is president of The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.

LST Association Conducting Search For WW II Alumni

"We're looking for over 200,000 men. Maybe many more. And they are already qualified by having served in the U.S. Navy or Coast Guard in WW II. But besides that they served in the Navy Amphibious forces. On landing ships, from the largest LST to the smallest LCM—or on the many support ships," say the United States LST Association.

Take the largest landing craft, the LST—which stands for Landing Ship, Tank. It was about 327 feet long and 50 feet wide. That's longer than a football field, goal posts and all. The crews quickly named them Large, Slow Targets. They were not fast, but they were without equal on invasions. Imagine a ship that size riding up on the beach, opening its bow doors, lowering a ramp and men and machinery pouring out in a tidal wave of fire power.

An LST rode high in the water, had a flat bottom, carried a crew of about 110 men and a cargo of some 300 fighting men and equipment. And when that was done, they would spend weeks ferrying supplies to the troops—until the next invasion. They have been compared often to huge floating bathtubs with decks. They were not graceful and they could make some people long for land in a heavy sea—but they were beautiful. And they were home to more than 200,000 sailors during WW II. The Navy built more than 1,000 and it is estimated that an average of 200 men spent part of their Navy time on each LST. When you add to the host of other Amphib ships and their support fleet, there is probably far more than a quarter of a million men involved.

The LST Association is looking for LST shipmates for reunions with old shipmates. The Association reunion will be held in Orlando, Fla., in August 1993.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle dipped into his jacket pocket of clips Saturday night at the country store and opened with a report on the Gone With the Wind theme park that is planned near Atlanta, complete with Scarlett dress shops, Rhett roller coasters, the war and the rest all over the plantation. Ed told the fellows the piece didn't say how the park would treat GWTW2 that some woman wrote based on what she thought Margaret Mitchell would of wrote, but if they put in Irish pubs and blarney stones it's bound to be some park.

Which proves nothing, Ed declared, if not that there's no end to what Americans will pay to see and do, and long as it has nothing to do with reality. We've got Mickey Mouse on both coasts and in Paris, Dorothy in Kansas, a retail city under one roof in Minnesota and all that's between is limited only by the price of land, the imagination and the line of credit of folks that know if you build it they will come. Ed said he wishes Gone With the Wind well and he's got no argument with any of the escapes from reality as long as the escapee and escaper pay their way.

But Ed said word of the new park in Georgia called to mind some of the stunts that have been pulled off with public money in the name of enriching public life. One of the latest was the flap over spending some millions to restore the Lawrence Welk homeplace in North Dakota. At last report, Ed said, that was shamed to death, but you can bet the flap and loose spending Democrats will bring it back to life in the name of jobs.

Ed's remarks kick started the fellows. Clem Webster was quick to defend the Democrat record in using public funds to set up and keep up education and recreation projects. He said the imagination of Republicans is limited to lining their pockets and paying top dogs in banks, business and industry for coming to the aid of the party.

General, the fellows came down somewhere between Ed and Clem. It was Zeke Grubb that said more gets done when public and private work as a team, and he pointed to all the water and sewer projects. Without them, he said, we wouldn't have growth in commerce, industry and homes that gives us a higher quality of life and builds taxable wealth in the bargain.

But Ed's report on the new theme park got Zeke to wondering what happened to Living Farms of the Past the U.S. Forest Service announced some years back. The plan was to cut a sightseeing highway across restored farms in five counties in Virginia so folks could ride by in air conditioned comfort and watch folks acting out country life before the highway come through and messed everything up. Zeke said his advice to the Clinton Crew is pay more attention to forest and parks we got and a heap less to big political contributors willing to sacrifice their wore out land for enough public millions to buy half of downtown Richmond.

Personal, I'm with Zeke. It's enough to record history. And it's enough that we recognize our famous by putting their names on buildings, bridges and stretches of road. Which makes me wonder what happened to the rest of them 1,000 ordinary people points Bush never got around to lighting.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

medicines.
• If you drink alcohol, ask the doctor and pharmacist how alcohol could interact with your medication.
• If you cannot afford the medication your doctor prescribes, Shimp said, don't hesitate to say so. Ask your pharmacist whether a generic or less expensive medication is available especially if you are being treated for chronic arthritis or high blood pressure. Some pharmaceutical manufacturers have special programs to provide certain expensive medicines at low cost to elderly patients who cannot afford them. Ask your doctor whether you are eligible for these programs.
• Once you begin taking prescribed medication, don't stop taking it without asking your doctor. "People will often begin taking the medication and then stop suddenly until they can afford to renew the prescription," Shimp said. "This can be very dangerous because the sudden cessation of some medicines can cause serious side-effects."
• At least once or twice each year, ask your doctor whether you must continue taking all your medications. The physician may not realize you're still taking medication for an earlier condition. "Shimp said.

of oral medications with pills—remind containers or some other system so that taking them becomes a daily routine. But don't dwell on it, it's supposed to improve the quality of life, not become an obsession.

While serious adverse reactions to prescription medicines are rare, older consumers can be more sensitive to what Shimp calls "nuisance-side effects," such as upset stomach, headache, dry mouth, constipation, and dizziness. "Common illnesses associated with aging, as well as normal metabolism changes, decrease the body's ability to handle medication," Shimp said.

Pay attention to your reaction to new medication. Many side effects will disappear in seven to 10 days. If the condition persists, ask your doctor for an alternative choice.

Read consumer literature and ask physicians and pharmacists about potential side effects, particularly if you are taking multiple medications.

 Elderly Should Ask About Medicines . . .

More than any other age group, older Americans must ask questions and be assertive consumers of both prescription, says University of Michigan pharmacy Professor Leslie A. Shump.

"Almost 12 percent of the U.S. population is over age 65 and approximately 96 percent of this age group uses one or more prescription medications," Shump said. "Eighty percent of the elderly have at least one chronic disease. As a group, they use about 25 percent of all prescribed medications and large amounts of non-prescription drugs."

Special problems are associated with the use of prescription medications in older patients, said Shump, who was a member of former Gov. James Blanchard's Task Force on Prescription Drugs and the Elderly. To avoid or manage these problems, Shump recommends that older consumers:

- Get detailed instructions and information about every medication you take. "Becoming knowledgeable is the first step toward being a wise consumer," Shump said. "See your health care."
- To maximize the safety and effectiveness of prescription medications, ask your pharmacist for an individualized daily medication plan of what to take when to take each medicine, which ones to take with food and which medication combinations to avoid.

The first order of business was public participation and there was none.

All Ayes. Absent: Kanten, Woodruff, Merkel. Motion carried.

Trustee Hammer reported that the Solid Waste Committee had not been meeting as a result of the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority formation.
However, it is now necessary to reactivate the Solid Waste Committee. The committee needs two Village resident volunteers.

Trustee Hammer reported that the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority is planning an open house for January.

Trustee Hammer reported the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority would be meeting December 16, 1992 at the Manchester Township Hall at 7:30 the committee for their willingness to participate. In addition, Mr. Merkel outlined the committee members' responsibilities and contributions.

Chelsea incorporate as a Home Rule City. Council members were given a complete report in their materials for the evening. President Steele asked Mr.
Merkel if someone from the committee could be present to field Council's questions.

President Steele mentioned that the Council appreciated the committee's Committee. (Council Committee Members will be Connie Woodruff, Tom Dorner and Brian Cashman.) All Ayes. Absent: Kanten, Woodruff. Motion car-

President Steele mentioned that he attended a news conference in Ann Arbor at the County Building of local elected officials. These officials unanimously voted to urge the legislature to cap tax increases at 4.5%.

Village Manager Myers reported that the Debt Service Fund of 1973 for constructing improvements to the sanitary sewer systems was paid in full last October. The resolution below represents closure of this debt service fund and a transfer of a nominal balance to the sewer fund. Mr. Myers also mentioned that this will represent a .6 mil decrease in Village taxes for residents.

RESOLUTION

RE: Closing Debt Service Fund

WHEREAS, a Bonding Proposition for $500,000.00 was approved by the qualified electors of the Village of Chelsea on September 21, 1970; and

WHEREAS, said Proposition approved the issuance of general obligation bonds for the purpose of paying the cost of acquiring and constructing improvements and extensions to the sanitary sewer system of the Village of Chelsea; and

WHEREAS, in a Resolution dated October 3, 1972, stipulations were set forth for the creation of a DEBT RETIREMENT FUND (Fund 301) wherein deposited tax monies were earmarked and used solely for the purpose of paying principal and interest on the authorized bonds; and

WHEREAS, said bonds were dated January 1, 1973 with a final maturity date of October 1, 1992; now

BE IT RESOLVED, that the Village has satisfied all payments due on said bond issues effective with the October 1992 payment and will no longer levy a millage for the purpose of repaying this debt; now

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that it is no longer necessary to retain the Debt Service Fund (Fund 301) and it is herein authorized that all monies remaining in said fund shall be transferred to the Sewer Fund; and

BE IT STILL FURTHER RESOLVED, that the debt Service Fund (Fund 301) be closed.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorner, to adopt the above Resolution. All Ayes. Absent: Kanten, Woodruff. Resolution adopted.

Fire Chief Hankerd reported that 3-4 months ago a committee was formulated to study the hiring and firing procedures of the Chelsea Fire Department. The committee drafted a procedure for the Council to approve. Trustees Department hiring and firing procedures on the basis of the Village's Labor Attorney's approval. All Ayes. Absent: Kanten, Woodruff. Motion carried.

ment with the Washtenaw Recycling Authority for purchase of the recycling trailer and curbside buckets for the full price over a 5 year time frame for the trailer and a 3 year time frame for the buckets. Failure to pay by the Washtenaw Recycling Authority will cause the equipment to become the property of the Village as well as any money already paid. All Ayes. Absent:
Kanten, Woodruff. Motion carried.

Village Manager Myers will set up a plan to refund Village residents bucket recycling deposits once a formal agreement is drawn up—probably

Farm Estate Planning Series Offered

By Terry Jones, Extension Home Economist
Washtenaw County Co-operative Extension Service will be offering a four-part series on Estate Planning for farm families. They will be held on Thursday nights, Feb. 4, 11, 18, and 25 from 7:30 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Meetings will take place at the Farm Council Grounds on Salline-Ann Arbor Rd., and the cost will be $5 per family for materials.

The purpose of these seminars is to provide an overview of the various aspects of, and tools available for, making a plan suited to your family's needs. The topics to be discussed are: "Why An Estate Plan?", "How Death and Property Transfer Taxes Affect Your Estate", "Roles of Life Insurance and Trusts in Estate Planning", "Conservation of Income from the Estate Before Transfer", "Estate Plans with Farm Business."

Making an estate plan may be the most important step you ever take regardless of your age or size of your estate. Negotiating instead of a prepared estate plan can be costly in terms of delays, stress and benefits lost for those you wish to provide for.

Pre-registration is required by contacting the Extension Office (313) 971-0079 by Feb. 1.

Charles D. Presley Promoted to Curtis Pricing Manager

Charles D. Presley has been promoted to Pricing Manager at Curtis 1000's National Headquarters in Atlanta, Ga.

His new responsibilities include the pricing of new products and existing product lines, along with conducting research and analysis of pricing issues.

Presley joined Curtis 1000 in 1990 as a consultant concerning product costing and profitability. Prior to working with Curtis, he was vice-president of administration and finance for BookCrafters, a sister company of Curtis 1000. Presley attended Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti. He also served in the enlisted naval reserve for six years.

Curtis 1000, a subsidiary of American Business Products, Inc. (NYSE), is among the nation's largest direct-to-business consumer marketers of envelopes and business forms. The company operates 28 production facilities throughout the United States and markets its products through over 500 regional sales representatives.

Help Sought for Farmers Needing Disaster Assistance

Michigan Farm Bureau is asking the USDA to allow grade standards to be included in the eligibility requirements used to qualify state corn producers for current disaster assistance.

Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau, said in a letter to USDA Sec. Edward Madigan that under the current disaster program, eligibility criteria do not include grade or quality factors, but instead rely solely on the quantity of bushels produced. "Due to the 'average' yields being harvested this year, most producers do not qualify for the current disaster program on a yield basis, even though they have a product with minimal or no market value," Laurie said.

The Tuscola county farmer noted that the extremely cool and wet growing season did not provide adequate degree days to allow the corn crop to fully develop. "Given this scenario, producers are looking for help in coping with the economic impact of the situation," he said. "If grade standards are used to determine eligibility, producers who are suffering devastating economic losses due to the extremely poor quality of their corn could qualify for assistance. The assistance available under the program would provide at least some relief as producers work through this year's harvest," he said.

 termed as "smash and grab" incidents. Those arrested are being taken to the scenes of recent break-ins to see if they remember being responsible. So far they have admitted to at least 26. Foster said.

Foster said a task force of police from Chelsea, Saline, Pittsfield township, Ann Arbor, Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department, and the Michigan State Police has been working on the case.

Two More Businesses Lease Space at Village Plaza

Two more businesses will apparently lease space in Village Plaza this winter.

Little Caesar's pizza has had its plans for signs approved by village zoning inspector Rosemary Harook. The company would be the third pizza chain in the village, joining Domino's and Cottage Inn. Thompson's Pizzeria, a family-operated business, is Chelsea's oldest pizza restaurant.

Fantastic Sam's hair styling business, another chain, has also pulled a zoning compliance permit, Harook said. According to other sources, the company has tried to hire hairdressers from other established Chelsea businesses.

The rentals would leave Village Plaza without any available space.

New Chinese Restaurant Opens To More Customers Than Expected

It's been a hectic week and a half for Jack and Nellie Wang since they opened Chinese Tonite, Chelsea's first Chinese restaurant, in Village Plaza.

Jack Wang, 33, says he was not prepared for the overwhelming response the 70-seat restaurant has received. It was jammed the first night despite no formal announcement of when it would be open, and the demand for carry-out orders was so heavy they quit accepting them.

Jack admits he made many mistakes the first few nights, one of which is he didn't have enough cooks. Carry-out orders were mixed up and dining room patrons had to wait too long. They even ran out of carry-out menus.

Slowly, however, the problems are being straightened out. The Wangs have four cooks, including Jack's father, who left his own restaurant behind in Terre Haute, Ind., to help his son in the kitchen. He has plenty of help in the dining room. The first night there was only one hostess.

"It is all important to us," Jack says.

"The food is important, the service is important, and even the quantities of food are important. We want our customers to tell us what they like and what they want."

Nellie, 28, who runs the dining room, handles take-out orders, and even designed the interior, says no one should have to wait more than 15 minutes for a take-out order.

Jack is the chief cook. His family came to the U.S. from China in 1973 to work in Jack's uncle's Forbidden City restaurant in Saginaw. At age 13, Jack started as a dishwasher. At age 18 he began cooking and has worked in restaurants in Ohio, Georgia, and Illinois. He went back to Indiana to train under his father and eventually owned a restaurant but had to sell for family reasons. Most recently, he was chief chef for six years at Forbidden City on Plymouth Rd. in Ann Arbor. That's where he met Nellie, a waitress.

While the restaurant advertises Szechuan, Hunan, and Mandarin cuisine, Jack says his cooking style reflects influences from all the different Chinese foods he's tasted, including the Peking-style foods his mother served him as a child. He says he intentionally uses less oil (and only vegetable oil) than other restaurants.

The menu is as extensive as any restaurant in Ann Arbor. There are the classics, including Kung Pao chicken, to the not-so-common, such as spicy green beans.

Initially, Jack says, they planned to open a restaurant on Jackson Rd. in Ann Arbor.

"A friend told us we should look into a town called Chelsea and he guaranteed it would be a much better place for us," Jack says.

"We stopped by one time and made our decision. Then we planned to open a take-out place but later on decided fast food was not the way to go. I've made a lot of bad choices, but one of the great things I've ever decided is to come here."

He regrets, however, that he and his wife have not been able to find a place to live here. Instead they are in near-by Dexter.

The restaurant, Jack says, is still in a try-out period. For example, sauces will change as he hears from customers. There are three different kinds of lo mein noodles, but he hasn't decided which kind will please the most people.

JACK AND NELLIE WANG of Dexter have opened the Chinese Tonite restaurant in Village Plaza in Chelsea.

"We're still learning about local customers," Jack Wang says.

"Eventually, we will be able to please everybody."

Already, Jack says, he has noticed a difference in preferences of Chelsea diners versus those in Ann Arbor. Here, he says, there is more interest in chicken and beef and spicy dishes, while Ann Arbor leans more toward seafood.

Chinese Tonite is open daily at 11 a.m. for lunch and there is a special lunch menu. No alcoholic beverages are served. Prices are comparable to those in Ann Arbor. Telephone number is 475-3797.

Humane Society Makes Changes To Cut Costs

Effective Jan. 1, the Humane Society of Huron Valley is implementing a variety of changes in order to continue to serve the injured, stray and abandoned domestic pets of Washtenaw county.

These changes are designed to reduce costs, reorganize staff and increase income in order to meet the demands of providing service for the animals in need.

Though the shelter will remain open seven days a week to receive strays and owner pets, adoption hours will be reduced from 42 to 36 hours per week. There will be no adoptions of pets on Wednesdays.

Clinic, administration, cruelty investigation and emergency rescue services will remain in operation on Wednesdays.

Adoption fees of pets will be increased from $2 to $8 and the Low Cost Spay and Neuter Clinic fees will be increased slightly while still remaining low cost.

Three staff positions have been reduced or eliminated. The Education Department will now be staffed by volunteers.

Out-of-county residents who bring their pets to the Shelter for adoption will be asked to make a donation of $10 to go towards the care of their pet during its stay at the shelter. In-county residents will be asked to donate $5 towards the care of their pets. Additional fund-raising events and programs will be established to promote increased income.

For 98 years the Humane Society of Huron Valley has cared for Washtenaw county's animals in need. These changes will allow the shelter and its services to continue to care for our county's homeless animals.

The Humane Society of Huron Valley is located at 3100 Cherry Hill Rd., Ann Arbor. HSHV is a private, non-profit organization dedicated to preventing cruelty to animals and sheltering homeless pets. HSHV accepts all animals—stray, owned, domestic or wild. HSHV also offers a low-cost spay and neuter clinic, cruelty investigations, 24-hour emergency rescue service for injured stray animals, pet adoptions, community education, pet therapy and wildlife rehabilitation.

For information on how you can help or become a member of the Humane Society, call (313) 662-5585 ext. 103.

Americans still love their beef, based on new statistics that add up how much meat consumers buy at the retail level. In 1991 we ate 67 pounds of beef per person. We also gobbled up 62 pounds of chicken and 50 pounds of pork.

Computer Course For Mature Adults Offered by WCC

Washtenaw Community College invites mature adults with little or no computer experience to enter the computer age.

"Computer Literacy for Mature Adults," a non-credit course, will be offered two days per week for two consecutive weeks. Classes begin Monday, Feb. 8, and meet on Mondays and Wednesdays, from 4-6 p.m. The fee is $45; however, there is no fee for persons 60 years and older.

This course is designed for people who feel left out of the computer age. Students will be taught the basics of computers and be guided through word processing and spreadsheet software packages. The class will provide plenty of hands-on computer time and individual instruction.

For more information, call Continuing Education Registration at (313) 973-3616.

Conservation Officer S. Beckhorn Receives DNR Director's Award

Conservation officer Cherie Beckhorn of Chelsea received the Director's Award on Jan. 13 from the Department of Natural Resources for her role in a pending case against animal rights activists who have been charged with harassing deer hunters in the Pinckney Recreation Area last Oct. 3.

A group of 31 organized anti-hunters, some from out of the state, disrupted bow hunters.

"Since the harassing took place before officer Beckhorn arrived at the site, she was unable to make immediate arrests but began putting the pieces of the case together, behind the scenes, to make a case the prosecuting attorney and judge need to get solid convictions," said DNR Director Roland Harmes.

"Because of her work, professionalism, and coolness under fire of public criticism, Michigan can no longer be considered a prime opportunity for organized anti-hunters."

By Nov. 5, seven people had been arrested on 34 charges, and an eighth warrant was issued in late December. A court date has been set. Each count carries a maximum penalty of 90 days in jail and a $500 fine.

Beckhorn has been with the DNR since 1986. She is a Grand Ledge High school graduate, has a bachelor's degree in fisheries and wildlife from Michigan State University, and attended the basic police academy at Lansing Community College.

County Students Earn Scholarships From Association

Three Washtenaw county residents have received scholarships from the Police and Firemen's Insurance Association for 1992-93.

The students are Jennifer Yeakey of Pinckney, a law/International business student at the University of Michigan; Wendy J. Marcus of Ann Arbor, an elementary education student at Western Michigan University; and Paul Carras of Ann Arbor, a student at Washtenaw Community College.

Scholarships are based on academic achievement, community participation, work experience, goals, and unusual personal or family circumstances. The $1,000 scholarships are for tuition and academic fees and are renewable for up to three years, provided eligibility requirements are met.

Nine students from Michigan were among 100 to receive the scholarships.

Will Connelly Home From Hospitalization

Will Connelly is home in Chelsea after 36 days of hospitalization recovering from vascular surgery on his left leg. The femoral artery was blocked from the groin to the ankle so that blood circulation in the leg was only 30 percent of normal. Dr. Charles Krause of Chelsea recommended the surgery which was performed by Dr. Walter Whitehouse at St. Joseph Mercy Hospital.

Seven days recovery at St. Joe's plus an additional 29 at Plymouth Court proved necessary to heal the 12 inches of stitching. The $20,000 cost of the operation was paid in full by U.S. Medicare Insurance. Thousands of dollars were saved during the period of recovery by moving the patient from St. Joe's at $835 per day to Plymouth Court at $85 per day.

The social worker at St. Joe's assisted Will's son Brian in choosing a nursing home for a long stay. She named a number of places but many were filled. Plymouth Court had some openings so Brian drove to Plymouth for a look-see. The institution is housed in a modern three-story building. Most of the patients are elderly and most are women. The nurses and their aides proved to be exceptionally attentive to the comfort and safety of their guests.

Alcohol Traffic Deaths Hit New Low in Michigan

The number of state traffic deaths involving drinking drivers dropped sharply last year, indicating that Michigan's tougher drunk driving laws implemented in 1992 had an impact, according to AAA Michigan.

"Preliminary figures show that alcohol had a role in 34 percent of the 1,282 traffic deaths in 1992, compared with 47 percent of the 1,425 deaths in 1991," said AAA Michigan Community Safety Services manager Jerry Basch. "While the final number of alcohol-related traffic deaths will not be available until March, it appears that alcohol involvement will be at its lowest point since 1967 when it was 31 percent."

Additionally, preliminary data indicates that between January and November 1992, arrests for Operating Under the Influence of Liquor (OUIL) dropped 13.1 percent, from 61,276 to 53,223.

"The perception of swift and sure justice and greater penalties has caused drivers to reassess drinking and driving or turn to designated drivers," Basch continued. "Other factors may have also contributed to the decline in the number of drinking and driving arrests, including strong awareness campaigns and, in some cases, fewer police officers on the road."

Michigan's drunk driving laws provide for destruction of the driver's license upon arrest; accelerated processing in the courts and new felony prison sentences for causing serious injury or death.

In 1992, preliminary numbers show that the traffic death rate was at an all-time low in Michigan. Traffic deaths per 100 million vehicle miles traveled dropped from 2.30 in 1992 to a historic low of 1.54 last year. AAA

Michigan's accident claim frequency also fell 12 percent in 1992 from the previous year, attributed to a combination of factors, including the new laws, safer cars and highways, a weak economy and mild winter weather.

Bulldogs Whip Pirates In Key SEC Contest, Host Hornets Friday

Junior Colby Skelton scored 15 points in the second half, including 12 in the fourth quarter, to help the Chelsea Bulldogs dominate the league-leading Pinckney Pirates last Friday in Chelsea, 77-62.

The victory leaves Pinckney and Milan tied for the Southeastern Conference lead with one loss each, and Chelsea and Lincoln tied for second place with two losses. Milan and Pinckney play each other Friday, so there could easily be a three-way tie for second place. Chelsea plays Saline.

After an 18-18 tie at the end of the first quarter, Chelsea took control of the game. They led 35-27 at the half and 55-46 at the end of the third period. The Pirates came a little unhinged in the second half, committing 14 of their 21 turnovers.

"It was certainly the best game we've played all season," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"We finally had a good combination of offense, defense, and rebounding. We made some adjustments in our offense earlier in the week and I thought we looked smoother and more crisp. Our shot selection was good and most of our shots were inside. We got a lot of easy shots off the break and our defensive pressure in the half court was very good. Emotionally, the kids were ready to play."

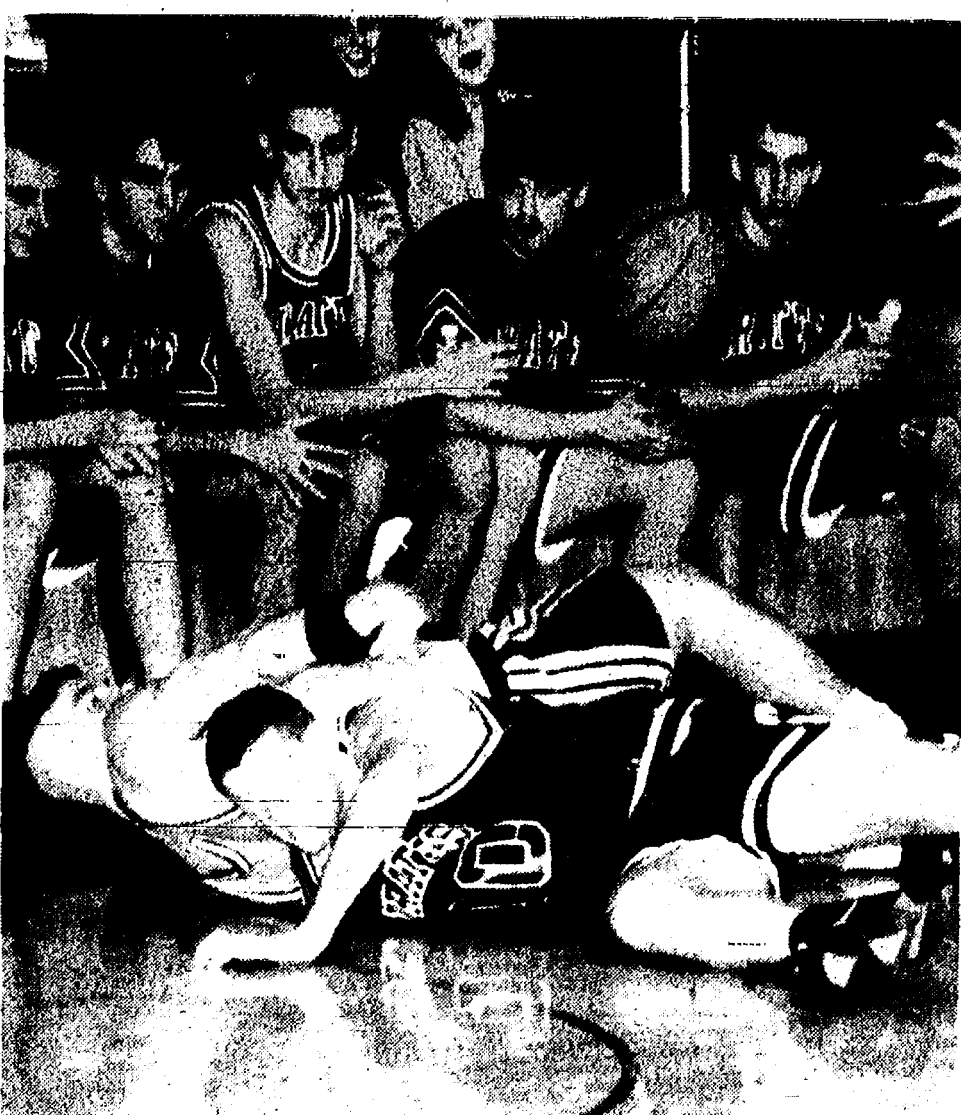

The Pirates closed to within seven points, 56-49, early in the third quarter. However, tip-ins by Skelton and Tom Poulter, and a steal and lay-up by Skelton put the Bulldogs up by 13, 62-49. Two minutes later, the Bulldogs scored seven more unanswered points (including five free throws) to increase the lead to 71-53. With 2:22 left, Pinckney coach Terry Trumbull yanked his starters, a move which surprised Raymond.

"They hadn't made a good run at us all night, so I guess [Trumbull] figured they weren't going to in the last two minutes," Raymond said.

Pinckney, one of the quickest teams in the league, was handled defensively by the Bulldogs. Point guard Dennis Douglas scored 21 points, but guard Jayson Shore was held to eight by Skelton, and senior forwards Christian Pleuss and Brian Carruthers were held to just 19 points due to the defense of Tom Poulter and Pat Steele. The Pirates, known for their perimeter shooting, could never get their game in gear.

"We didn't try to double-team them because they are too quick and good with the ball," Raymond said.

"We played them straight up and tried not to let them penetrate. At half-time I told the kids we had to stop Douglas from going to his right, and Chris [Dunham] and Cory [Brown] did a good job. Once we did that, when he tried to reverse we got our hands on the ball. And they didn't have uncontested outside shots."

PAT STEELE of Chelsea and Christian Pleuss (00) of Pinckney scrap for the ball on the floor during last Friday night's game in Chelsea. Chelsea won the game, 77-62, to give the Pirates their first SEC loss.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs punched the ball inside much of the night. Steele, Poulter, and Dana Schmunk combined for 38 points, and many of Skelton's team-high 24 points were inside.

In addition, Chelsea was able to use its height advantage to out-rebound the Pirates, 49-37, as Dana Schmunk grabbed 13, and Poulter, Dunham, and Steele each had seven.

"We played well in every phase of the game," Raymond said.

Chelsea hit 31-62 shots, while Pinckney was 23-61 from the field. The Bulldogs were 13-18 from the line compared to 10-21 for the Pirates. Chelsea also had 15 turnovers, seven blocked shots (season-high) and 17 assists, including four each by Dunham and Nick McCalla.

Other Chelsea scorers included Steele 17, Poulter 11, Schmunk, 10, Dunham 8, Ed Waller 6, and McCalla 1.

In other action last week, the Bulldogs played one of their worst games of the year in a 65-60 victory at Fowlerville on Tuesday.

Chelsea took the early lead, 22-14, but fell behind by half-time, 30-29. They took the lead, 45-39, in the third quarter and held on.

"It was just one of those unemotional games for us," Raymond said. "It was exam week, it was a non-league game against an average team, the gym was dark, and there weren't many people in the stands. We played just well enough to win. We managed to make some plays at the end."

Raymond said Fowlerville also played better than he expected and their defense caused the Bulldogs some problems.

Chelsea scorers were Skelton 20, Schmunk 12, Dunham 11, Brown 7, Steele 5, McCalla 5, Waller 3, and Poulter 2.

The Bulldogs shot 46 percent from the field and 12-19 from the line, and held a 39-34 rebound advantage. Each team had 18 turnovers.

Chelsea finished the first half of the season with an 8-2 record, 4-2 mark in the SEC, and six straight victories. They haven't lost since the holiday break.

Friday, for the first time all season, the Bulldogs should be at full strength. Exchange student Aleksander Selmanovic becomes eligible, and Matt Seitz and David Stimpson have recovered from their injuries.

Frosh Cagers Lose to Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost to the Dexter Dreadnaughts on Monday, Jan. 18, 64-57.

Chelsea was down by two points after three quarters, 45-43. In the fourth quarter, however, Dexter made 11-13 free throws to put the game away.

Chelsea was 12-21 from the line for 57 percent, their best performance of the season.

Dan Johnson led the Bulldogs with 15 points, including 8-9 from the line and one three-point goal. Other scorers include Josh Bernhard 12, Shane Miller 9, Rick Stahl 9, Curt Carpenter 4, Kevin Cross 4, Kevin Holmes 2, and Scott Hurst 2.

Bernhard had 10 rebounds and Miller had eight.

Chelsea was 1-6 on the season after last week.

COLBY SKELTON breaks past Pinckney defenders his game-high 24 points. Skelton scored 12 points in the fourth quarter to help the Bulldogs dominate the game.

McCalla, Dyer Place Fourth at Williamston

Two Chelsea Bulldogs wrestlers placed at the 22-team Williamston Invitational last Saturday.

Senior captain Kevin McCalla at 152 pounds and Ian Dyer at 145 pounds each placed fourth.

"This is one of the most competitive tournaments we'll ever see," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"It had many of the best teams from class B, C, and D, plus some class A schools."

Many of the Bulldogs' starters took the day off.

McCalla opened with a pin of Les Franklin of Fruitport in :52, then earned a 5-0 decision over Jerry Rehm of Eaton Rapids. McCalla lost his third match to eventual champion Clay Awishes of Monroe Jefferson, 12-6, then lost to Jason Mathers of Dewitt in the consolation finals, 12-1.

Dyer, seeded fourth, pinned Troy Van Elstine of Shepherd in 2:50 to open the day, then went on to pin Rod Baker of Durand in 3:04. In his third match he drew the number two seed, Josh Young of East Lansing, and lost 12-3. In the consolation finals Dyer lost to Mike Kowatch of Williamston, 7-1.

Other Chelsea results include the following.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

The Southeastern Conference basketball title picture is as tight as I can ever recall at the half-way point. Pinckney and Milan are 5-1, Chelsea and Lincoln are 4-2, and the rest of the league is 1-5. A four-way tie has to be possible, but I haven't overcome the mental gymnastics necessary to figure out the possibilities. (My one great prediction for the rest of the season is this. Although the Tecumseh Indians are 1-5, they will be a factor in the race. They will bump off at least one of the top four. You can't convince me they are a last-place team, considering what I saw two weeks ago.)

The league is also as talented as I've ever seen it. Every one of the top four teams has more than one player worthy of first-team all-league honors, which will make it tough on the coaches at the end of the season when they choose their all-SEC teams.

Even though the Pinckney Pirates got blown out here last Friday by the streaking Bulldogs (six in a row now), it was evident why they are at the top of the league. They have outstanding athletes, good shooters, and one of the best point guards in the league in senior Dennis Douglas. Douglas is the quickest player I've seen this season and can penetrate the lane as well as anyone. He's also a fine three-point shooter.

Although Douglas had a pretty good game, the rest of his team didn't meet his standard. In one report, Pinckney coach Terry Trumbull suggested his team may have been flat after having two days off from school. Maybe so. Chelsea kids had the same schedule and the same opportunity for uninspired play. Instead, however, they played like a team with a chance to win the championship. Was it because their coach, Robin Raymond, was named Chelsea High school's interim taskmaster last week? He's not just a coach anymore.

Then again, with footballers Tom Poulter, Pat Steele and Colby Skelton of Chelsea and Christian Pleuss and Brian Carruthers of Pinckney all on the court at the same time, maybe there were flashbacks to a particular gridiron spectacle last fall.

Whatever the reason, Chelsea played their best game of the season when they needed it the most.

The defense was outstanding. Tom Poulter and Steele took care of Carruthers and Pleuss as a cool character—he's won at least two games for them on the last shot), two of the best all-around athletes in the league. Guards Chris Dunham and Cory Brown kept Douglas from making too many passes for easy shots. Jayson Shore, last year's Chelsea-killer, was held in check by Colby Skelton. There were plenty of transition baskets due to the pressure.

Raymond made adjustments in the offense, which appeared to have made a difference. The Bulldogs were more deliberate in their half-court game and they took advantage of their superior height with a strong inside game. Poulter and Dana Schmunk combined for 21 points, all in the paint. Most of Steele's points were from short range. The three also totaled 27 rebounds.

Perimeter shooting was only average, but it didn't have to be any better. One of these games, the Bulldogs are going to get hot from the outside again, which will leave some team reeling.

Raymond hopes the Bulldogs have turned the corner. In his plus-points system, Chelsea had 113, one of the highest totals ever. The formula takes into account everything from points to turnovers. Ninety points is a solid game, Raymond says.

"It shows we played at a high level in all phases of the game," Raymond said.

If the Bulldogs continue to play the way they did Friday, they will be difficult to beat. The second half should be fantastic.

One side note to Friday's game, if Chelsea and Pinckney both go on to win their next five league games, it will set up a familiar situation, only in reverse. In the final game of the season, the Pirates would have secured a share of the league title, while the Bulldogs would need a win for a piece of the championship. Remember the final league football game?

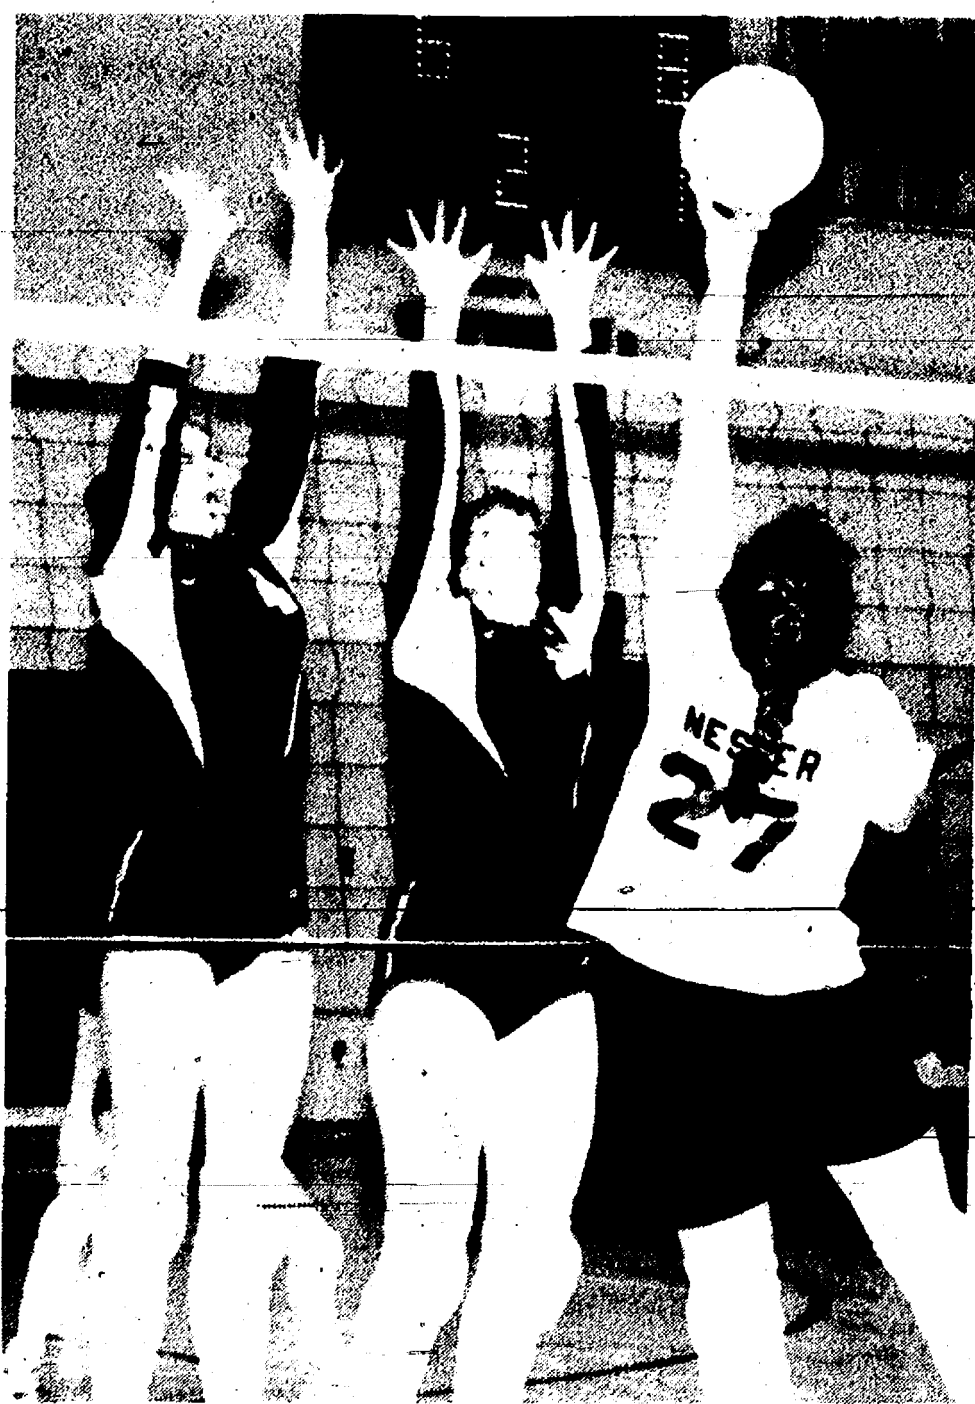

If that scenario comes to pass, we will be in for one heck of a season finale, in Pinckney. I'd love to see it happen.

Friday marks the debut of Chelsea exchange student Aleksander Selmanovic. Many fans, including me, have been anxious to see what he can do with a basketball.

It should be noted that the situation has to be a delicate one for the coach. He has a group that is playing pretty good basketball, and he doesn't want to disrupt the flow of the team. However, he can't ignore someone with Selmanovic's skills. And that means others will have less time on the court. From what I've seen of the unselfish nature of the team, it shouldn't be a problem for the kids. They've all been practicing together all season and they've known this day was going to come since November.

I'm not sure how some of the parents may take it, though.

I know Raymond wants to win, but I know it's just as important to him to be as fair as he can to everyone involved. It will be a great balancing act.

Hood Ornament Stolen from Truck

A Chelsea resident told police that someone stole the Ram hood ornament off his pick-up truck on Book St. last Friday, Jan. 22.

The theft took place between 7:30 p.m. and 9 p.m. during the Chelsea High School basketball game.

Bulldog Spikers Lose to Pinckney

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity volleyball team was defeated in two games by the Pinckney Pirates Monday night before a home crowd, 12-15, 9-15.

"Outstanding serving kept us in both games against a very consistent Pirate team," said Chelsea coach Dan Montgomery.

"It was our best serving as a team for the entire season. We made only one service error all night, going 36-37 with six aces."

Poor service reception, however, proved to be the fatal flaw for the Bulldogs, Montgomery said.

"We made 17 team errors on serve reception," Montgomery said.

"When you give away that many unchallenged points, it's hard to gather momentum necessary to win a match. This team will bounce back. They have what it takes to improve the weakness."

Gretchen Stahl served 7-7 with aces, Kori White went 6-6 with aces, Melissa Thiel was 7-7 with aces, Gretchen Knutsen was 5-5 with one ace, and Amy Petty was 6-6.

Jamie Collinsworth was 6-6 in service receives.

Offensively, Petty successfully tracked 17-18 for six kills, Thiel was 13-13 for three kills, and Stahl was for one kill.

Dragon roof figures atop Dabel Temple.

Small Chinese tea shop welcomed by temple visitors.

Our Teacher Friend in China Visits Temples With Her Pupils

By Mary Ellen Myning

January 10, 1993

Dear Folks,

This is the slow time in China, after the excitement of the New Year—where dances and banquets are held every night for a week, and before the Spring Festival on Jan. 23rd. The Spring Festival is the main holiday of the year for the Chinese, but I'll talk more about that in a later letter. What I do want to talk about is how I've been spending my time lately.

I have been "templing" again. This week I went to the Dabel Temple in the northern section of Tianjin. Last week I went to a Buddhist temple in Tangshan. I'll bet I have seen more Buddhas than most Buddhist monks. Why? Because my students think it is silly, and they are determined to drag me to every temple within 100 miles of here. And believe me, there must be one jillion temples within those 100 miles!

The format for templing is usually the same. We leave carrying all the necessities. Toilet paper neatly folded in every pocket we possess. A lumpy sack clutched in our hands containing (1) an old Tang or peanut butter jar complete with lid—for drinking our tea, (b) one Chinese hot dog wrapped in a bright red wrapper that has metal twists on each end—each hot dog is made up of all the best part of the animal like testicles and toenails, (c) tangerines, (d) bread, (e) and for some mysterious reason—prunes. Now the last thing I want to eat are prunes since the toilets are few and far between and they are always squat, never western, so you have nothing to sit on.

Anyway, after we pile off the ever-crowded city bus we are confronted with about 3,000 steps which we huff and puff up until we reach the first temple where we look at a dusty Buddha usually made out of wood and which has an old yellow chiffon scarf draped over its shoulders and lots of coins piled at its feet. Photos are not allowed, but as you can see I am basically a sneaky person and snapped a few shots to prove what I say is true.

Next we climb another 4,000 steps to get to another temple where we usually find a serene Buddha sitting on lotus leaves with bowls of fruit and money at its feet next to pots holding incense sticks and, of course, money.

Outside the temple, hawkers strongly urge you to buy ice cream, key chains from the Holy Land (no kidding), birds in bamboo cages, and prayer beads. At one delightful temple they had thoughtfully put a Chinese tea shop and on a chilly day jasmine tea was a perfect treat.

After sipping tea, munching our lunch, hagglng over the price on some prayer beads, and locating a squat, we prepare to climb yet another 10,000 steps to the final temple. Here you often see a reclining Buddha and trust me that is exactly what you want to do at this stage. The views are always magnificent however, looking down over soft hills, treetops, and pagoda roofs. Most of the roofs are either green or yellow and the roof corners are decorated with figures of dragons or fish, or a parade of animals.

The monks who live at the temples are quiet, hate to have their picture taken, and usually try to be as helpful to the tourists as possible. They never sell tourist junk. Even the youngest, and I have seen monks-in-training who looked to be about 10 or 11, are dignified. During the Cultural Revolution, under Mao, they were persecuted, their temples ransacked and desecrated. Now they enjoy religious freedom and the temples are thriving.

And that's a view of templing, sure I get tired of it some times, matter of fact I get downright grumpy when climbing the 834th step, but the peace and serenity of the monks is catchy, the final views breath-taking, and oh, that first sip of sweet jasmine tea...

Negotiation With Pre-schoolers Is Subject of Feb. 4 Program

"Win-Win Negotiation with Pre-schoolers" will be the subject of a program offered by the Early Childhood Coalition on Thursday, Feb. 4 from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. in the Chelsea High School Media Center.

Patti J. Magyar of Chelsea Community Hospital, a nurse-attorney, will conduct the program. She has worked as a nurse and nurse educator and as an attorney has focused in preventive health law. She has extensive experience in formal negotiations with people of all ages, and informal negotiations with her own family, including a three-year-old son and infant daughter.

The presentation will focus on the unique needs of children and parents when major and minor conflicts arise, and effective strategies in resolving problems so child and parent(s) "experience a win."

Parents or prospective parents can learn about effective negotiation and how the principles can be applied to young children.

To pre-register call 475-9830 or 475-9131. Cost is $2 per person or $3 per couple.

Alcohol, Drug Abuse Is A Family Affair

By Fred Prezioso, M.A., C.A.C.

and Kirk J. Brower, M.D.

Chelsea Arbor Treatment Center
More than 75 million Americans have lived with alcoholism in their families, according to a recent survey conducted by the federal government. Additional families have been affected by other drug problems.

Many families are faced with a variety of stresses and difficulties related to alcohol and other drug problems. There may be marital difficulties, financial hardships, and even emotional or physical abuse. These problems may cause family members to feel frightened, ashamed, frustrated, angry, or depressed. In addition, family members may find themselves susceptible to physical ailments—such as headaches, back pain, stomach troubles, or chronic fatigue—as they attempt to cope with the stresses related to alcohol and other drugs.

More often than not, the family feels confused about what to do. Everything they have tried, it seems, has not worked. Families may even begin to blame themselves, as if something they did or something they failed to do caused the alcohol or drug problem. Nothing could be further from the truth! Like diabetes and other disease, no one is to blame, but treatment is the answer.

Sometimes, people with alcohol and drug problems may resist seeking treatment. They may deny that they have a problem, and get angry when others (including their families) say they do. In these circumstances, families need guidelines and help for themselves, in order to cope with their stresses and painful feelings.

The following guidelines are for families. Adherence to these suggestions cannot cure a family member who has a drug or alcohol problem. Only that family member can do something about his or her problem. However, families can embark on their own recovery. When families take this type of lead, the alcohol or drug dependent person may follow.

1. Learn all you can about alcohol and other drug dependence, especially the substance your family member is using. Read books, attend community lectures, contact treatment agencies, and learn from other families who have lived with substance problems.

2. Try not to protect people from the consequences of their using substances. Making excuses, covering for them, or helping them avoid difficult situations caused by substances may only postpone the time when they must face doing something about their problem.

3. Remember the three Cs: you did not cause this problem, you cannot control it, and you cannot cure it. You can get (and deserve) help for yourself.

4. Do not blame, nag, scold or lecture. These behaviors simply do not work and only frustrate everyone. Instead, express your feelings honestly in a caring way, when the person is not under the influence of substances.

5. If your family member does not seek treatment, get involved with the program.

6. Maintain hope. Substance problems do not develop overnight, slips backward to happen.

Matthew Steinaway

Joins Navy Exercise
On Island of Guam

Navy Airman Apprentice Matthew P. Steinaway, a 1991 graduate of Grass Lake High School recently participated with Fighter Squadron 21, Naval Air Station Miramar, San Diego, Calif., in the High Noon Air-to-Air Gunnery competition on the island of Guam in the Western Pacific.

The squadron, nicknamed the Freelancers, flew nine aircraft nearly 1,500 miles to Guam, marking the first time an F-14 Tomcat Squadron had ever visited the island.

During the competition, the squadron flew to the island of Saipan to avoid a typhoon moving through the area. The Freelancers' brief stay on Saipan was the first time United States fighter aircraft had been on the island since World War II. The squadron soon returned to Guam where they finished the competition.

The F-14 Tomcat is a super sonic, twin engine, two-seat fighter that performs air defense in air-to-air situations. The plane is armed with missiles, bombs and guns.

Matt joined the Navy in July 1991.

WINNERS Don and Patricia Laier, center, are congratulated on winning the grand prize in a contest sponsored by ICI Seeds and the Michigan Farm Radio Network, left, came to the Laier farm home Jan. 28 to present the award and congratulate the lucky couple.

Don Laiers Win Trip to Corn Classic

Don Laier and his wife, Patricia, will be traveling to the 1993 Corn Classic, thanks to ICI Seeds and the Michigan Farm Radio Network. The annual event will be held Feb. 21-23 in San Antonio, Tex.

In partnership with his brothers Bob, Carl and Edward, Don Laier farms about 150 acres of corn, 75 acres of soybeans and 50 acres of alfalfa, as well as wheat and barley, in Washtenaw county. The family operation also milks 25 dairy cattle and finishes off about 30 head of beef cattle each year.

Laier was one of two grand-prize winners in a contest sponsored by ICI Seeds and the Michigan Farm Radio Network. Larry Felch of Linden was the second grand-prize winner. Contest participants registered at ICI Seeds Field Days events in 1992.

Youth Apprenticeship Grant Awarded

Governor John Engler has announced the award of a $15,948 Youth Apprenticeship Competitive Challenge Grant to the South and West Washtenaw Vocational Educational Consortium to develop a Remodeling Specialist Youth Apprenticeship program for high school students. The Consortium includes the Chelsea, Dexter, Manchester, Milan and Saline school districts.

Engler said, "This grant recognizes that local communities are key players in expanding Youth Apprenticeship. Local partnerships of schools and employers, helped along by these challenge grants, will provide access to Youth Apprenticeship opportunities for more young people."

Engler added his goal is to ensure that all young people in the state who are interested in Youth Apprenticeship have the chance to participate.

The Washtenaw proposal targets the remodeling industry and has a small business emphasis. The employer-driven program will initiate a new model for developing an apprenticeship program through a local school district and a small business enterprise system. Engler noted that there was strong employer support for the proposal and said that school-employer partnerships are essential to the success of Youth Apprenticeship programs.

"Michigan is a leader in the nation in Youth Apprenticeship," Engler said, noting that Michigan was one of only six states selected by the U.S. Department of Labor to receive a Federal-State Partnership Grant to develop a state-wide system of Youth Apprenticeship.

"Youth Apprenticeship combines solid academic core with paid work experience," Engler said, "and gives young people good options when they graduate from high school. They can enter a registered apprenticeship, go on to further education at a community college or university, or go directly into the work force. Michigan's Youth Apprenticeship model opens doors of opportunity for our youth."

Farmers OK Policy Stands on Taxes, Trade, Property Rights

Delegates to the American Farm Bureau Federation's 74th annual meeting, held Jan. 10-14 in Anaheim, Calif., approved policies calling for growth-oriented economic measures that reject tax increases, the adoption of the North American Free Trade Agreement with "transitional safeguards" for sensitive agricultural commodities and protection for private property rights in the enforcement of environmental laws.

Asserting that the nation's economy is their overriding concern, the farmer-delegates approved recommendations to be sent to President Clinton. "The delegates had a long discussion about the growing federal deficit and national debt, and debated at some length whether tax increases should be used to reduce the deficit," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau. "When the debate ended, the delegates adopted a very clear policy that calls for a balanced federal budget achieved through spending restraints and spending cutbacks. They opposed all tax increases, and reaffirmed this as a top priority for Farm Bureau in the coming year."

Almy said that Farm Bureau's policy stand against tax increases will be very important in the 1993 budget debate. "We believe there will be many efforts by members of Congress, some members of the new administration and by outside private interest groups who will be opposed to any cutbacks or restraint on federal spending," he said.

"They will suggest tax increases as a way of reducing the deficit and national debt. I think that one of the real concerns of the delegates that led them to oppose tax increases is the fact that Congress and the federal government have a very dismal record when it comes to using tax increases to actually reduce the deficit and national debt. Instead, the increased revenue from previous tax increases has been used to finance new programs and more spending."

The Farm Bureau policies also include reinstatement of capital gains treatment and the investment tax credit, which Clinton has called for; a line-item veto for the president; and a constitutional amendment requiring a balanced federal budget.

The first federal child labor legislation, passed in 1916, was the Keating-Owens Act. The law prohibited carrying in interstate or foreign commerce goods produced by firms employing children under 14 years old or who worked 14 to 16 hours a day. The law, however, was declared unconstitutional in 1918, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

On Jan. 14, a breaking and entering was reported in the 1800 block of Baker Rd., Dexter. A 38-year-old Dexter man reported $188 in cash taken from a cash register and a desk drawer. The extent of damages are unknown, but a window and glass door were broken.

On Jan. 15, a case of fraud was reported in the 3900 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. A 47-year-old Jackson man said he issued a $10,000 check to the owner of a Jackson Rd. business, who is from Parma, in October for kitchen cabinets and other items which were to be installed by November. Once November passed, the man contacted the business and was told the business was closed for the season. He said he left several messages and the owner did not return his phone calls. The case is open, pending contact with the business owner.

A larceny was reported in the 4200 block of Sunset Rd., Scio township. A 59-year-old woman said a bicycle worth $50 and a garbage container were taken from her residence.

On Jan. 17, a bag of suspected marijuana was confiscated in the 3500 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. While deputies were patrolling the area because of reported illegal activities, they came across a man sitting in his car. Upon further investigation the marijuana was discovered. The 21-year-old Saline man was warned and released.

An attempted unlawful driving away of an automobile was reported on east-bound I-94 near Baker Rd., Scio township. During the attempt two tee-tops and two stereo speakers worth $1,240 were stolen. The victim, a 47-year-old Jackson man, said he left the car on the road overnight after it broke down. When he returned the next morning he discovered the damage and missing items.

A breaking and entering was reported in the 8100 block of Fifth St., Dexter. A sliding door was forced open and the front locks were tampered with before the thief broke in and stole $100 in cash from a cash register.

On Jan. 18, a breaking and entering was reported in the 8600 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. A 37-year-old man reported the break-in after his wife and daughter noticed the door of their residence kicked-in. Approximately $800 in damages was reported and two shot guns worth $350 were taken from a gun cabinet.

A breaking and entering was reported in the 7200 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. A 29-year-old Pinckney man reported $150 in damages and $40 in cash taken. The responding deputy noted expensive building equipment was left untouched.

A breaking and entering was reported in the 5000 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. An Ann Arbor woman reported $500 in damages occurred when a front door was pried open, causing the left side of the glass to shatter. Nothing was discovered stolen.

A stolen vehicle was recovered in Ypsilanti township after the owner left it with a mechanic in the 5000 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. A 52-year-old Dexter man, the vehicle's owner, said he left his 1988 F-150 Ford pick-up with the mechanic who called and reported the work was finished. BookCrafters Names Employees of Month

Doris Kingsbury has recently been chosen January Employee of the Month for BookCrafters' Michigan Division. Doris has worked for BookCrafters for 14 years. Although she has spent most of that time in handwork, Doris has also served as a machine helper, a purchasing assistant, and a mailing clerk for the Distribution Division.

Doris' contributions to BookCrafters have been appreciated by her co-workers.

Doris and her husband, Donald, live in Chelsea. They have three grown sons: Donald L., Michael W., and Kenneth R., and three grandchildren: Crystal Gayle, 14, Brett, 5, and Beau, 1. When she has the opportunity, Doris enjoys traveling.

Bob Salow has been chosen as Employee of the Month for December. Bob has worked at BookCrafters for 14 years and is a valued, multi-skilled operator in the case bindery. At present, Bob spends most of his time as the lead operator on the K-2000 casing-in line.

Bob's co-workers recognized his dedication to BookCrafters at his recent nomination.

Bob and his wife, Cindy, live at Pleasant Lake, where they have a 78-acre farm. Obviously, Bob's spare moments are spent farming. He grows corn, and soybeans, and raises hogs.

When it comes to national fast food chains, Asian food has not taken off like some of the other ethnic foods, even though Asian food is the second most popular food after Italian. But that may be changing as small family owned restaurants begin franchising and expanding.

Trek to the Future—"Providing a Competitive Edge," a Family Career Education Day, will be held at Saline High School, Feb. 7.

How should students prepare themselves for the future? The answer to this question can be found at Saline High School on Feb. 7, from 1 to 3 p.m.

The South and West Washtenaw Consortium presents "Trek to the Future—Providing a Competitive Edge."

Parents and students who are interested in planning for the future should attend this family event to see what programs are available for students attending Dexter, Chelsea, Manchester, Milan and Saline schools.

The Consortium staff has planned an exciting and fun afternoon for the whole family. As you tour the Career and Technical programs you will see the number of options that are available to students attending the above schools districts. In addition to the tour, there will be activities for all ages, free t-shirts, and a spectacular electric light show put on by Detroit Edison. Program demonstrations, college representatives, and area employers will also provide information on career planning. Refreshments will be provided by the Culinary Arts Program.

The staff of the South and West Washtenaw Consortium are inviting the residents of Dexter, Chelsea, Manchester, Milan and Saline to take a "Trek to the Future" and join them on Feb. 7, at Saline High School between the hours of 1 and 3 p.m.
