Beach 8th Graders Plan Trip to Washington, D.C.

Beach Middle school eighth graders numbering 110, and 14 chaperones are planning to visit Washington, D.C., April 15-18. This trip coincides with Civil War Era studies in eighth grade American History and English classes.

A stop at Gettysburg enroute, and visits to Mt. Vernon, Ford Theater, Smithsonian Institute, the FBI, an illuminated tour of the monuments and a group photo in front of the capitol are all planned.

Each eighth grader who wrote an essay entitled "Why I Want To Go to Washington, D.C.," submitted parental permission forms, and maintained or improved eligibility, including behavior, academic effort and attendance, is planning to attend.

The trip cost is approximately $335-$350, depending on the number attending, and is defrayed by two fund-raisers planned by parents and co-ordinators. One is the sales of Domino's Coupons by trip participants; they may also be purchased at The Country Rose and Allie's Cafe.

Another fund-raiser is a roast beef dinner at the Wolverine. Anyone who goes to the Wolverine on Sunday, Feb. 7, 1 to 7 p.m., and orders the roast beef dinner, will be contributing to the Washington, D.C. Trip Fund, which will lessen the cost for all attending.

Sales of tickets in advance by students will defray the cost of those individual students' trips.

Joe Merkel of the Wolverine has graciously contributed all of the profits from the roast beef dinner that day to the trip fund.

Assessment Increases in Western Washtenaw Some Of Highest in Entire State

Western Washtenaw county residents will have some of the highest average property assessment increases in the state this year, according to statistics compiled by the Michigan Department of Treasury.

And Lyndon township residents will have the highest average assessment increase in the county at 19 percent.

Average property assessment increases for western Washtenaw include the following: Dexter township, 8.6 percent; Lima township, 15.5 percent; Scio township, 3.5 percent; Sharon township, 14.6 percent; Sylvan township, 17 percent; and Webster township, 12.4 percent. Figures were not supplied for Bridgewater and Freedom townships.

Scio township's average increase is the lowest in the county.

Over-all average increase in Washtenaw county is 10.2 percent.

State-wide figures show that 53 percent of the units reporting will have average increases of more than 10 percent. Approximately 20 percent will have increases of more than 20 percent.

Leelanau county has the largest average increase of 29.6 percent, followed by Mackinac county at 23.7 percent.

The greatest range within a county is -12 percent to 84 percent in Huron county.

Jackson county will have an average increase of 12.7 percent while Livingston county's increase is 14.5 percent.

The increases are due largely to the one-year property assessment freeze imposed for 1991-92 because they represent two years of growth.

"These are very significant numbers because they indicate that more than half of all property taxpayers in Michigan will see double-digit increases in their assessments this year," said state treasurer Doug Roberts.

"It is essential that the legislature and the administration work in partnership to relieve the burden on property taxpayers of runaway assessments and unbridled property tax increases.

Assessments are based on property sales within each township. Local assessors are told how much average assessments should rise, and it is up to those assessors how to distribute the increases among individual parcels.

Council Committee To Study Purchase Of Two Properties

A proposal that the village should consider purchasing a parcel of land on S. Main St. is apparently not dead yet.

Village trustee Stephanie Kanten resurrected the proposal last week. The idea appeared to be effectively killed by council late last year when a motion to have the property, commonly known as the Schneider Estate (opposite Pierce Park), appraised was voted down.

Last week village council agreed to send the matter to the Ways and Means Committee for a recommendation. Kanten couched her proposal in terms of long-range planning (50 years). The attempt to have the property appraised stemmed from the possibility of using the land as a site for a new village hall.

Two members of the committee, village president Richard Steele and trustee Frank Hammer, voted against the appraisal motion. Both have said they'd prefer to build a new hall downtown on Park St. property already owned by the village. The third committee member, Joe Merkel, voted for the appraisal.

The committee will also consider a proposal to purchase a house next door to the village hall on the other side of the alley. The idea would be to use the lot for additional parking.

Village manager Jack Myers said he believes the village doesn't have enough money for either purchase.

Landfill Testing To Be Scaled Down

The village will be able to drop a number of quarterly tests for groundwater monitoring at the village landfill because recent tests have revealed no evidence of contamination.

Michigan Department of Natural Resources recently authorized the scaled-back monitoring plan in a letter to the village dated Jan. 13. The changes could save as much as $15,000 in annual monitoring costs, said village manager Jack Myers. The monitoring expenses, which last year totaled about $38,000, are being shared by the village and Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, and Dexter townships. The village pays 70 percent and the townships divide the rest.

DNR authorized dropping quarterly tests on all 16 monitoring wells for pesticides, PCB's, and other materials. However, yearly testing will still be conducted.

Other tests have been dropped from seven of the 16 wells.

Truck Vandalized

A Chelsea resident had his Toyota pick-up truck vandalized somewhere in the village on Friday, Jan. 29.

The words "Buy American" had been scratched in the passenger side door. The owner was not sure where the damage occurred.

Sally Proctor Resigns as School Bus Supervisor

Chelsea School District Transportation Supervisor Sally Proctor has resigned her position, effective at the end of the school year June 30.

Chelsea Board of Education accepted the resignation Monday night. Proctor, transportation supervisor since July 1, 1987, plans to retire. She was first hired by the school district as an elementary school secretary in 1976. She also served as a bus driver.

The district plans to advertise the position and hire a new supervisor by July 1.

In other business, the board officially accepted the resignation of assistant high school principal Joe Rossi, who is taking a similar position in Saline, where he previously taught math. And Robin Raymond was officially hired as interim principal, effective Monday.

He spent last week working with Rossi.

The board honored adults who have participated in this year's mentor program. The program matches students with professionals in their fields of interest for special projects.

Engineer John Mees helped Scott Postiff with work in radios and lasers; Dr. Joe Easley at the University of Michigan worked with Kevin Smith in aerospace projects as well as the Girls in Science program of the Chelsea Education Foundation; Rick Klein, a project engineer in Ann Arbor, worked with Sara Tracy on computer-aided design; Helena Robinovitz of Chelsea has worked extensively with the Enrichment Triad Program; and Chrysler Proving Grounds wind tunnel engineers were recognized for their work with student Tobin Strong. The group, headed by Tom Flynn, included Don Wagner, John Garrison, Tom Smith, and Lee Hazelman.

The group of students from Chelsea High school who went to the presidential inauguration presented superintendent Joe Piasecki with a President Clinton watch, complete with saxophone hands.

There was discussion about the results of the Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests, which will be reported in another edition of The Chelsea Standard. There was also discussion about the Nine Common Principles of education.

Other discussion items, including the evaluation of Piasecki, as well as reports on course descriptions, finances, and student evaluation of teachers were postponed until the Feb. 15 meeting.

The board will meet informally next Monday, Feb. 8 to discuss facilities planning.

"I think they're close to coming up with a proposal," Piasecki said.

"This is about the right time to get started."

Among the many decisions to be made are what configuration to give a new elementary school and where to build it. The district has recently purchased 50 acres of land at Trinkle and Freer Rds.

Credit Card Fraud Alleged At Gas Station

Two employees of Village Mobil in Chelsea may face charges in connection with the fraudulent use of credit cards.

According to Chelsea police, two employees, ages 20 and 18, used credit cards lost or left behind at the station to steal approximately $1,000 in cash.

Police said the pair would void cash transactions and use the credit cards to make up the difference. They apparently got caught when they made several similar transactions in a row on two different days.

Radar Detector Stolen from Car

A radar detector was stolen from a car parked at Beach Middle school on Sunday, Jan. 24.

Police said someone smashed the driver's side window to gain access to the car. The detector was valued at $100.

AREA GAMBLERS will have the chance to roll dice and play cards at the annual Monte Carlo Night sponsored by the Chelsea American Legion next Saturday, Feb. 6 at the post home on Cavanaugh Lake. Casino operators recently got some lessons in how to run the games, all to

20th Winter Carnival Slated at Cavanaugh Lake

The 20th Annual Winter Carnival sponsored by the Chelsea American Legion Herbert J. McKune Post 31 at Cavanaugh Lake will be held this Friday through Sunday at the post home.

Format of the carnival is basically the same as in previous years. It is the largest fundraiser of the year for the Legion.

On Friday at 6 p.m. the post home opens to the public. A Euchre tournament starts at 7:30 p.m. It's not necessary to bring a partner and only a minimum skill level is required. There is a $3 entry fee and prizes will be awarded.

The post home opens at 7 a.m. with breakfast and the beginning of the fishing derby. There is a $3 entry fee for everyone over age 12. First through third prizes will be awarded for children and adults in perch, pike, and panfish divisions. Fishing is allowed only on Cavanaugh Lake.

The second annual chili cook-off, organized by Larry Doll, begins at 10 a.m. It's a renegade cook-off which means any ingredients are allowed. Judging will take place in the afternoon.

The most popular event of the weekend, Monte Carlo Night, will begin on Saturday at 7 p.m. A $5 entry fee purchases $1 million in playing money. Games include Black Jack, craps, and more. Prizes will be awarded to the top money-winners at the end of the night.

Sunday activities also begin at 7 a.m. Breakfast will be served and the fishing derby continues.

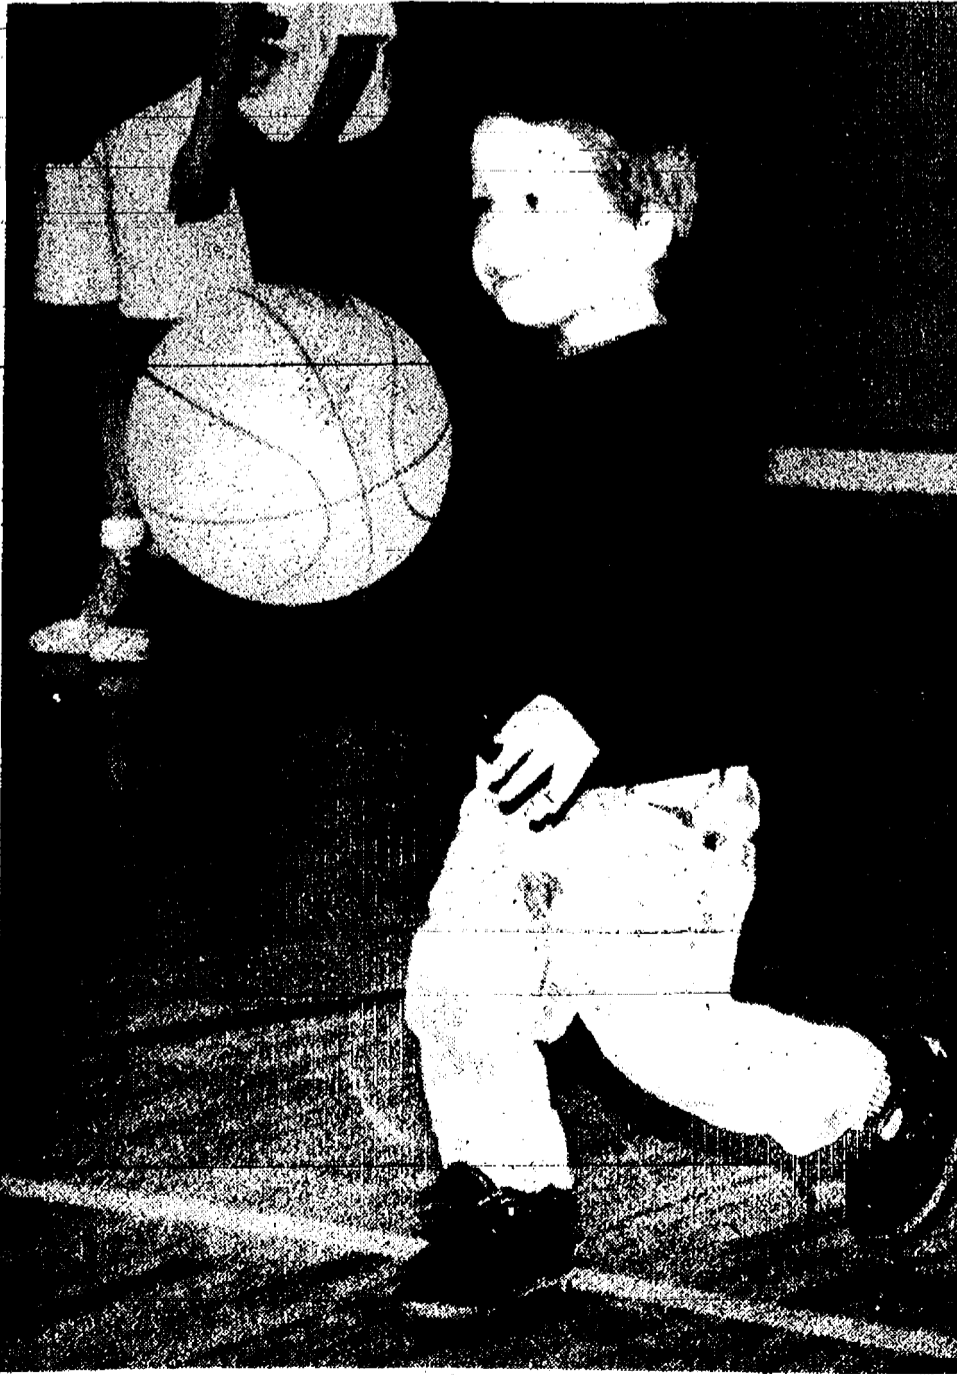

At 2 p.m., Dennis Ruby and the Persuaders will give a free concert on the upper deck of the post home. The concerts have been popular events for many years. Children are welcome.

The fishing derby ends at 5 p.m. and prizes will be awarded at 5:30.

The carnival officially ends at 6 p.m.

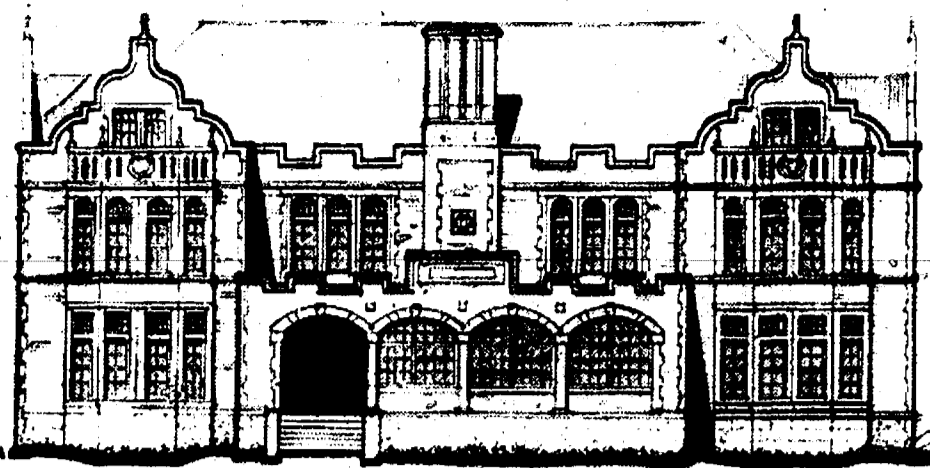

Other activities, including snowmobiling and cross country skiing, are available throughout the week-end.

The post home is located at 1700 Ridge Rd. on Cavanaugh Lake.

THE NEXT GREAT POINT GUARD for Chelsea High school may turn out to be coach Robin Raymond's 2 1/2-year-old son, Kyle. Young Kyle ran the court during last Saturday's Biddy Basketball program at the high school. The youngster is—no kidding—quite a ball handler for his age. He can even dribble without looking at the ball.

The idea of wedding or mowing the roof of your house might seem a little odd, but Ypsilanti's Tom Mindel is ready to give it a try. Mindel is having a three-bedroom, two-bath earth home constructed for him on Trinkle Rd., just east of Fletcher Rd. The builder is John Kirkland of Kirk Enterprises in Jackson. When completed, the unusual home will have a roof of dirt that can be planted with grass or flowers. The rest of the house, however, looks much like a conventional home.

Chelsea School District will spend $9,356 in federal funds on computers for the high school. The expenditure was one of the items on Monday's school board agenda.

★ Proposed Carbon Tax Would Impose Enormous Costs

By James M. Sheehan

With assistance from President Bush's Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), a key component of President-elect Clinton's environmental policy may be swiftly set in motion.

The EPA is currently preparing options for a carbon-based fuels tax to be offered to the Clinton-Gore transition team. Chances are good that a carbon tax—similar to the one Vice-President-elect Albert Gore sponsored in the Senate last year—will be proposed in 1993.

Carbon-based fuels, such as coal, oil, and natural gas, generate carbon dioxide when burned, a gas which is gradually increasing in the atmosphere. Some researchers have suggested that increased carbon dioxide, along with several other trace gases, could trigger a warming of the earth's climate. A carbon tax is the likely remedy for the incoming president, who has called for a permanent cap on industrial carbon dioxide emissions at 1990 levels.

Studies have shown that a carbon tax necessary to achieve that objective would exact massive costs on the economy in the form of lost jobs and reduced economic growth. By the year 2000, a total of 600,000 jobs would be lost, according to the CONRAD Research Corp., with job losses reaching 1.5 million by the year 2005. Nearly five million other jobs would be at risk of reduced wages and hours worked, with shorter employment terms and longer layoffs.

A carbon tax would produce annual losses in gross national product of 1.7 percent. Thousands of businesses in the coal, mining, petroleum, utility, and transportation service industries would be forced to curtail operations or close down. Michigan would be among the states hit hardest, with 23,000 jobs lost primarily in the mining, paper products, and transportation equipment industries.

The Clinton-Gore team is also on record as supporting an increase in fuel efficiency standards for automobiles from 27.5 miles per gallon (mpg) to 40 mpg. The immediate consequence of such stringent standards would be the production of smaller and lighter cars more prone to traffic fatalities. Downsizing to meet the current standard of 27.5 mpg will cause between 35,000 and 67,000 unnecessary highway deaths, according to a Brookings Institute/Harvard University study. In Michigan, that means as many as 2,850 traffic fatalities for the current model year of automobiles will be a direct result of the efficiency standard. A hike to 40 mpg would raise that figure significantly.

Such a drastic realignment of national energy priorities can only be justified by sound scientific evidence of ecological crisis. Yet there is nothing even approaching a scientific consensus about the likelihood of catastrophic global warming. A poll conducted by Gallup showed that only 19 percent of scientists think the slight increase in average global temperature in the early 1980s was due to human activities. Even the Greenpeace organization, which conducted its own poll of climate experts, was unable to find a majority to agree with its doomsday scenario: only 13 percent felt that a "runaway greenhouse effect" is probable, while 32 percent think it is only "possible." Forty-seven percent of the respondents said it was not probable at all.

Before making hasty decisions, President Clinton should read the June 1992 statement issued by some of the world's most renowned scientists known as the Heidelberg Appeal. Signed by 218 scientists including 27 Nobel Prize-winners from the U.S., it was addressed to the heads of state attending the United Nations Earth Summit in Brazil. The statement admonished the world's leaders to be wary of "the emergence of an irrational ideology which is opposed to scientific and industrial progress and impedes economic and social development." That ideology aims to restrain human interaction with nature, rather than harnessing natural forces to meet human needs.

These prominent scientists urged that public policy be based solely on scientific criteria. They were particularly distressed about the needless politicization and misapplication of their discipline. "[We] forewarn the authorities in charge of our planet's destiny against decisions which are supported by pseudo-scientific arguments or false and non-relevant data."

Requiring the nation to radically alter its energy use, which is 90 percent carbon-based, will have severe consequences. Our sluggish economy is already saddled with over $125 billion in annual environmental regulatory compliance costs, according to Dr. Thomas D. Hopkins of the Rochester Institute of Technology.

Surely, ecological central planning can be no more successful here than economic central planning was in Eastern Europe and the old Soviet Union, especially if it is backed up by poor information.

Note: James M. Sheehan is a research associate with the Competitive Enterprise Institute in Washington, D.C. and an environmental policy analyst for The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a research and educational organization based in Midland, Mich.

ROB COELIUS of Chelsea has been cast in the Eastern Michigan University Theatre production of "As You Like It." It will mark his stage debut at EMU. Shakespeare's romantic comedy will run Feb. 12-20 in the Quirk Theatre. The play will be directed by Nicholas Pennell, veteran of more than two decades at the famed Ontario Festival. Pennell has chosen early 19th century America as the setting. Coelius, a two-time state forensics champion at Chelsea, is also active on the EMU Forensics Team. He is a 1992 graduate of Chelsea High school.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle wondered at the country store Saturday night whether Hubert Humphrey said the challenge of politics is to find new ways to tax the public to finance new ways to serve the public, or if he repeated what some other liberal said. No matter, Ed said, from what he's been reading, reality is setting in fast in Washington, and that translates as higher taxes everywhere the Democrats can think of except income on the middle class that they say has disappeared.

Ed told the fellows the new crowd started blowing smoke back before the election with all the talk about good and bad borrowing, which was nothing but borrowing the Republican line about deficits of strength and weakness, and made the same kind of sense. Ed said, the economic conference last month was a dog and pony show that let college professors remind us economics questions stay the same, but the answers change with every Administration.

Whenever you pick up a paper, Ed went on, you see another Congressman plugging another painless tax. One wants a Federal fee on every credit card on ground that card companies demand Federal help in setting up a national network to prevent loss from stolen cards. You got to know every new member of Congress that took the self help course at Harvard came away with a head full of ideas, was Ed's words.

At last report, Ed said, all Americans worked well into May before they made enough to pay all their Governments all their taxes. We won't have any year left to work for ourselves by the time the new Congress conjures up new revenues that include a national value added tax that takes a bite of everything every time it's sold. Even Harvard economists don't want to pile more excise tax on booze and tobacco because you got to keep taxpayers calm to bleed them dry.

Republican Ed got away with his version of reality because Democrat Clem Webster was laid up at home with the flu. Bug Hookum spoke for the fellows when he noted that from his reading of the November election most Americans were of a mind that any change in Washington's ways would be an improvement. But Bug got the floor to offer some thoughts on domestic matters that shed light on changing values.

For instant, Bug saw where a woman in Denver called the paper to put in notice of her husband's death. When she got done, the obit writer told her she had room for five more words in the 10 free lines. She gave that some thought and said add "red pick-up truck for sale."

Meanwhile, in St. Louis a Solomon of a judge in a divorce case gave the man and woman a dog apiece with the understanding that they and the dogs would have to get together eight hours every Sunday so the dogs could keep up their friendship. Which Bug said must break new ground in cruelty to humans.

For human cruelty, Zeke Grubb said he nominated one Joseph Fallat of Harrison City, Pa. Zeke read where he stabbed his wife 219 times and told police he killed her because he told her to stop putting the milk in the back of the refrigerator behind all the other stuff and she wouldn't.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Putting A Cap on Prescription Drugs

Americans now spend more than $35 billion a year on prescription drugs, and more than one-third of the purchasers are over 65. Since prescription drugs are not covered by Medicare, millions of older Americans must pay out-of-pocket—if they can. And many cannot.

By Philip C. Clarke

At his economic summit in Little Rock in December, Bill Clinton showed anger only once—when he talked about the ever higher costs of health care, especially prescription drugs. He vowed that his Administration would try its hardest to curb those costs.

Clinton has a good case. One of the summit meeting's participants, Ford Motor Company chairman Harold Poling, said Ford spends as much on health care for its employees as it does on steel. "With health care costs in the U. S. approaching $3,000 a year for every man, woman and child," said Poling, "neither large nor small companies nor individuals can afford to continue their health care. Purchasers, providers and government must co-operate to develop a plan to contain these growing costs." Paperwork accounts for much of the problem. More than 1,000 insurance companies now process in excess of four billion medical claims each year!

Feeling much, if not most, of the heat these days are the pharmaceutical companies. According to the Senate Special Committee on Aging, for 3 out of 4 elderly Americans, prescription drugs are the largest out-of-pocket expense they have. Medicaid, the federal-state health insurance program for the poor, does pay for prescription drugs, but the coverage amount varies among the states. And some states limit the number of prescriptions that can be filled. At this point, said Senator David Pryor, chairman of the Senate Committee, "the poor have to start making decisions: Am I going to buy food this month, or the drugs I need?"

Statistics tell the story. Between 1980 and 1990, for example, drug prices jumped 152%, nearly triple the over-all inflation rate. And in one year alone, 1990, the drug industry made profits of 18% on sales of $57 billion. The U. S. government is one of the big customers. Veterans Administration hospitals and other federal agencies now spend $1 billion a year on drugs.

Senator Pryor has charged the drug manufacturers with "unbridled greed" and with "raising prices on the backs of our nation's soldiers and veterans." Pharmaceutical companies respond by pointing to the high cost of research and development and contend that price regulations only discourage spending on life-saving advances. Each new drug developed, says the industry, costs an average of $231 million. And for every 4,000 compounds that are explored or studied, only one ultimately is approved by the FDA as a prescription drug.

But newer is not always better. For example, many doctors bought the promotional campaign in 1987 for the new blood-clot busting drug, ATP, while doctors in Canada and Europe continued to prescribe the 15-year-old drug Streptokinase—or even plain old aspirin. Later studies showed no conclusive advantage for ATP, which is about 10 times costlier than the older drug. And the pharmaceutical industry might do well to self-regulate its prices. As things stand, many health care plans are refusing to pay for some drugs if cheaper alternatives are available.

Other government officials warn that the drug industry runs the risk of pricing itself out of a free market. As a spokesman for the Medicare and Medicaid agency says, "Pharmaceuticals are a successful, internationally competitive industry. We want to make sure it stays that way." In 1890, Frank P. Glazier opened the Glazier Stove Company. Four years later, in 1894, his first factory was destroyed by fire. In order to make sure that it never happened again, when he rebuilt, he added the tower which housed a 20,000 gallon water tank. The tower was finally completed in 1907 when the four clocks, made in England, were installed, one facing each direction. The tower has been considered the premier land mark for this area.

Chelsea Village Council Proceedings

Regular Meeting. Tuesday, January 12, 1993
The meeting was called to order at 7:30 p.m. by President Steele.
Present: President Steele, Clerk Morrison, Village Manager Myers.
Trustees Present: Hammer, Dorer, Cashman, Kanten, Woodruff.
Absent: Merkel (until 7:35).
Others Present: T. Osborne, C. Ritter, D. Rosentreter, A. Feeney, B. Hamilton.

The first order of business was public participation and there was none.
Motion by Dorer, supported by Hammer, to approve the Consent Agenda.
All Ayes. Absent: Merkel. Motion carried.
Paul E. Hankerd, Fire Chief, submitted his monthly report for December 1992.

Lenard McDougall, Police Chief, submitted his monthly report for December 1992 and his yearly report for 1992.

Police Chief McDougall notified Council they had 60 days to consider action on the sale of stolen or abandoned property at a public auction.

Trustee Hammer reported that the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority is planning an open house for January 16, 1993.

Trustee Hammer reported the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority would be meeting January 13, 1993 at the Sylvan Town Hall in Chelsea, Michigan at 7:30 p.m.

Trustee Hammer reported that the Solid Waste Committee would meet January 20, 1993 at 3:30.

Trustee Dorer reported on the Gene Drive Committee.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Woodruff, to approve the request of the Robards family to split Parcel No. 06-12-105-026 into two (2) buildable lots in the RS2 District (Single Family). Each lot will meet lot area and width requirements for the RS2-Single Family District once the split is completed. It will be the property owners' responsibility to record the deed at the Washtenaw County Equalization and Property Description Department-Register of Deeds Office and provide the Village with a copy before any zoning compliance or building permits can be issued for the two aforementioned parcels. All Ayes. Absent: Merkel. Motion carried.

Mrs. Ann Feeney, from the City Study Committee, was available to answer Council's questions regarding the committee's findings. Trustee Kanten asked Mrs. Feeney to outline the negative aspects of Chelsea becoming a City.

Mrs. Feeney replied that there were very few, among the strongest are the emotional feelings of the residents and the potential impact on the townships, particularly Sylvan township.

Mrs. Feeney noted that the Village would have more power to control the future of the Village if it becomes a City.

Mr. Charles Ritter, Village resident, noted that Whitmore Lake spent thousands of dollars in its attempt to change from a Village to a City and asked how much it was costing the Village and how much it would cost the Village in the future. Mrs. Feeney replied that the Village had not spent any money at this time for the investigation and that there would be the cost of holding a special election.

Mrs. Rose Harook asked questions regarding the tax base and whether the residents would be able to vote on increases with a city government in place.

President Steele explained the role of the State Boundary Committee, the necessary two-part election process, and the establishment of a City Charter that could stipulate the amount of tax levied and the necessity to vote on taxes in excess of the amount stated in the charter.

Several questions were asked regarding the changes in administration that would be necessary and the corresponding costs.

Mrs. Feeney stated that Mr. Lynn Harvey will be speaking at the Economic Breakfast at the Chelsea Hospital to be held January 20, 1993—interested residents could find out additional information at the Breakfast.

Mrs. Harook asked President Steele if the residents of Chelsea had requested the investigation of Chelsea becoming a City. President Steele replied that the investigation was part of a planning effort.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Dorer, to remove from the table discussion on the standard software maintenance agreement with New World Systems Corporation.

Motion by Hammer, supported by Cashman, not to renew the maintenance agreement with New World Systems Corporation. If the Village needs software maintenance we will pay for time and materials on an as needed basis. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Hammer, to set the time for the Regular Session of the Village of Chelsea Council at 7:30 p.m. and the dates being the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month for 1993. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Merkel, to hold a public hearing on January 26, 1993 at the regularly scheduled meeting set for 7:30 p.m. regarding Hatch Stamping's request for an Industrial Facilities Exemption Certificate for Personal Property totalling $225,131.92 for seven (7) years. All Ayes. Motion carried.

Motion by hammer, supported by Dorer, to accept McNamee Advanced Technology, Incorporated proposal for Analytical Services for Groundwater Monitoring at the Chelsea Landfill as well as testing at the Wastewater Treatment Plant. All Ayes. Motion carried. (Proposal attached as Appendix A.)

Correspondence was received from Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) dated December 30, 1992 regarding its open house scheduled for January 28, 1993.

Village Manager Myers reported on the Michigan Municipal Electric Association (MMEA) and Consumers Power's PSCR factor that will increase by approximately 5 mills starting January 1, 1993—this will not affect the Village wholesale rate or Village residents.

Village Manager Myers reported that Mr. Robert Shepherd began his employment with the Village January 11, 1993 as the Electric Department Superintendent.

Motion by Kanten, supported by Dorer, to adjourn regular session. All Ayes. Motion carried. Meeting adjourned—Time 8:09 p.m.

Special Radio Broadcast To Look at Corn Problem

Farmers who would like an update on what to do with their corn may find some help during a special broadcast Feb. 6 on 12 Michigan radio stations.

The hour-long call-in broadcast will be sponsored by the Michigan State University Co-operative Extension Service.

It will be carried live beginning at 8 a.m. on the following stations: WTVG (97.7 FM) in Sandusky; WKYO (1360 AM) in Caro; WMLM (1540 AM) in St. Louis; WJIM (1240 AM) in Lansing; WBCH (1220 AM) in Hastings; WPZA (1050 AM) in Ann Arbor; WDOW (1440 AM) in Dowagiac; WLKM (1510 AM) in Three Rivers; WTVB (1590 AM) in Coldwater; WCSR (1340 AM) in Hillsdale; and WABJ (1490 AM) in Adrian.

WLEW (1340 AM) in Bad Axe will tape-delay the program by one hour. That broadcast will be from 9 to 10 a.m.

The number that farmers should call during the broadcast is (517) 355-0117. No collect calls will be taken.

The program will originate from Agriculture Hall at MSU. It is intended to answer farmers' questions about harvesting, marketing, handling and feeding the 1992-planted corn crop.

The broadcast will feature Extension specialists in animal science, agronomy, entomology, plant pathology, agricultural economics and agricultural engineering.

Representatives from Michigan Farm Bureau, the Soil Conservation Service, the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, and the Michigan Department of Agriculture will also be available to answer questions during the program.

MSU Extension and Michigan Farm Bureau are also maintaining a listing for farmers who would like to sell or buy corn.

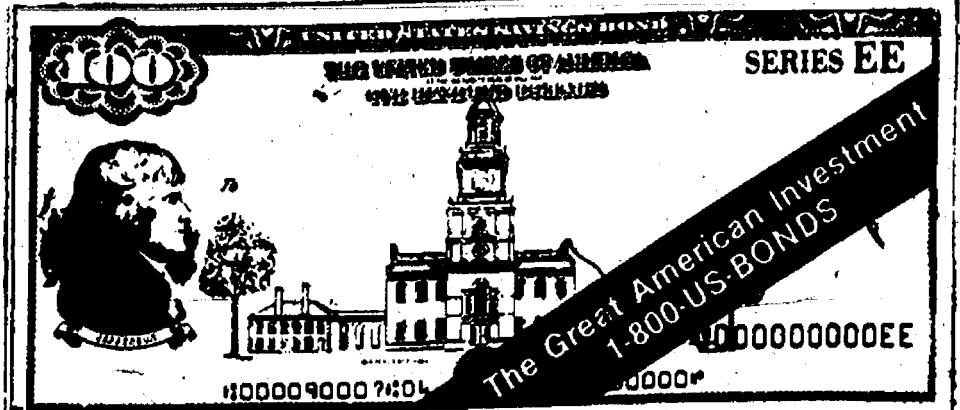

The purpose of the list is to put livestock producers who need corn in touch with growers who can sell the grain as high moisture corn (HMC).

To obtain a copy of the list or to list corn for sale, call (517) 355-0117 at MSU or 1-800-968-3129. There is no charge.

The names of farmers who want to buy corn are kept confidential so that they are not flooded with calls from people who want to sell corn. The list does not carry prices for corn.

The corn list is updated every few days and is available at all MSU Extension county offices and Michigan Farm Bureau county offices. The list of sellers also appears in each edition of Michigan Farm Bureau's "Michigan Farm News."

Neither MSU Extension nor Michigan Farm Bureau makes any guarantee on the quality of the corn.

Erich Hammer's Letter to Home Details Travels

Erich Hammer, a 1990 graduate of Chelsea High school, is studying in Munster, Germany this year on the foreign study program offered by Kalamazoo College, where both he and his sister, Mercedes, are enrolled. Over his Christmas break, Erich took a three-week trip through eastern Europe with a friend. He wrote a long letter to his parents, Frank and Elizabeth, about his travels. He also agreed to share his observations with readers of The Standard.

"Tell them they can edit this how they like as long as the meanings stay the same and they don't print the personal things," Erich instructed his dad, Frank.

Here is a somewhat abbreviated version of the letter, minus the personal stuff.

I'm not sure where to start on this thing other than the beginning. A lot of it may sound like complaining, or at least like it wasn't that good a time, and yes, parts of the trip were not what anyone would like. But over-all, I had a good time.

First we went to Prague (Czechoslovakia). As we got off the train, we were bombarded by people offering us rooms or to exchange money. We wound up taking a private room offer from a woman in the station.

I found Prague to be a fabulous outdoor city. You could look down the street and see a square office building flanked by a cathedral and an onion-domed something. It would be an architect's dream. Outdoors is great—in the summer. We froze to death, we couldn't just sit in the square and enjoy the surroundings, we had to keep moving.

One of the best parts of Prague was the opera! For $1.40 how could we not? We were quite a sight, too. People in tuxes and formal and there we are in a sweatshirt and plaid flannel shirt and jeans and boots! We saw Tosca (something like that) in Italian in the State Opera House—a little like the Fox Theatre.

Next we went to Budapest (Hungary). This time the people with rooms didn't even wait for us to get off the train! We got another private room in a nice house, but it was a long way out.

The thing that I noticed most about Budapest was its expense. It was huge! It wasn't helped by the fact that it has four train stations each about a mile from the others.

Our next stop was Bucharest (Romania), but to get there we needed a ticket. We both have Eurail passes which are valid in Hungary, but not in Romania. The station in Budapest wanted $36 to go from the border to Bucharest and only $8 more the entire distance. We weren't about to pay that much. The tickets in Romania would be a lot cheaper, even though we would have to buy it on the train, which raises the price.

On other trains we have been able to claim a compartment to ourselves with little disturbance. Well, we got on early, and as the departure time got nearer the entire train filled up. Here is where our good luck kicked in. We had claimed the window seats and though they were reserved the people let us stay. The people that sat in our compartment were a student from Bucharest University who lived in Transylvania and spoke English—thank God—and a family of five, all adults. They hated gypsies. That's important because the train was full of gypsies. If we had gotten a compartment of Gypsies, we would still be in Bucharest without a penny to our name. We asked them how we should buy our tickets. They told us to pretend we were asleep and they would take care of it for us. Well, they bribed the conductor! We paid them $4 each and never got a ticket—but everything was OK. Everytime the conductor came by for tickets and saw us, he kept on going.

The sun rose as we were going through the mountains in Transylvania. That is one part of Romania I would like to see again. Bucharest, on the other hand, was obviously not the richest city. Everything was gray and silt-covered. Things were falling down and in general disrepair. The woman of the family on the train helped us buy a bus ticket to Istanbul for that afternoon. We saw Bucharest in six hours—plenty of time.

The bus trip was an excursion of its own. The bus was surprisingly comfortable—we expected a rundown school bus. I think everyone on the bus smoked. Two women who were behind us were very noisy the entire time and somehow convinced the driver to play their tapes the entire trip. That would have been all right if it had been normal music, but they wanted to listen to what I think was Moslem, some of it Moslem rock. I'm sorry if I'm being close-minded, but 18 hours of music that sounds like a yodeler singing a ballad with a beat, and weird stringed instruments in the background, is just too much.

So, we were in Istanbul. I could tell from the bus that it was different from any other city I'd seen. It had a different "air" about it. It wasn't a clean city, there was dust (mud when wet) everywhere and you couldn't see much more than a mile or two. But you hardly noticed because it was so awe-inspiring. Here's an idea. Take downtown Chelsea with connector buildings all 2-4 stories tall, narrow the streets and sidewalks, put 75 people per block on it, and scatter in for every store an aggressive salesman (I'll explain later). Now, make it a big city and for every space the size of Chelsea place about 10-15 mosques.

These mosques are all different sizes, but they all have a large dome about 4-5 stories tall and every single one has at least one prayer tower which opens to the sky. Everyday, five times a day, starting with 5:30 or sunrise (I'm not sure, I wasn't up for either), they have a call to prayer from the towers. Since the city is large and loud, as all cities are, no longer does a man climb the tower, but these have speakers erected to amplify the call. The calling lasts about five minutes and can be heard everywhere in the city.

Now the aggressive salesmen. These men stand out on the sidewalks, sometimes blocks from their store, and walk up to you, ask you where you're from, which part of the country, how long you have been or will be in Istanbul, start calling you "my friend," then invite you to their shop to sit down, drink some hot tea and—oh, yeah—to view their goods, whether carpets, leather, gold (main three) or anything.

When you say "no thank you," they ask you why, tell you there is no obligation to buy, follow you, and persist until you are either rude or can find some excuse they will accept. And saying you're a student doesn't help, because they don't understand that we pay large amounts of money for college, and they think all Americans are rich.

We stayed in a youth hotel sold to us by another aggressive salesman for $3 per night. It had only one room that was heated, so it took six wool blankets to keep us warm at night. Very few places were heated in the city. No mosques, few stores, and only some of the restaurants and bars were heated. And only the luxury hotels on the other side of the city had central heating, the rest used little gas heaters.

One other part of the city that was amazing was the Grand Bazaar. There is no real way to explain it, it must be experienced. 4,000 and some shops all under one roof of a labyrinth of halls, that, I think, extends way underground.

After Istanbul, we went to Athens. Athens did not impress us. Other than Bucharest, it is by far the dirtiest city we have seen. The traffic is horrible. A red light only means slow down. No cycle riders wear helmets, in fact we saw on one scooter three riders, and the youngest, about seven, was driving.

Athens is not even a city that you can get lost in and find something interesting. The entire city is set up for tourists. There is not a restaurant that doesn't have an English menu, at least not one that we heard of. From what we heard, most of Greece is that way.

The best part of Athens was our hostel-Festos. It was right in the middle, had a bar, and was run by English-speaking 20-30 year olds. We met some pretty wild and crazy people there. One guy from the states had been traveling for 10 years and another from England for 14—without working. He travels solely on the money he gets from renting out the house he owns.

We took the boat from Greece to Italy. It was a very calm trip, from what I'm told, but I still didn't like it at all. The train from Brindisi, where we landed, to Rome, was supposed to take nine hours and arrive about 8 a.m. At about 7 a.m. we woke up to find we were only an hour along the route. We figured out there had been a huge snowstorm—(huge for southern Italy) and the train wouldn't make it to Rome until 4 p.m.

We had a time limitation, and a money limitation, and Italy is expensive. So, we did Rome in 2 1/2 hours. We literally parked our bags and ran around the city from site to site.

We left there to go to Salzburg (Austria). It is over-touristed in some respects but it is still a very quaint and gorgeous city. We shelled out a rather large sum of money to take "The Original Sound of Music Tour," which turned out to be well worth it even though I've never seen the movie.

A bus took us to the various places of the movie. They were nice but the scenery not in the movie was far better, literally indescribable.

Afterwards, we headed out for Munster.

Well, I've been out and around. I've seen a lot of Europe, granted not in depth but I think I have a feel for the differences in peoples.

MOM and DAD! HAPPY 25th ANNIVERSARY

February 9, 1993

Mr. and Mrs. Doug Trinkle

The church bells rang to celebrate. The year was nineteen sixty-eight. On February ninth, they became husband and wife. To begin a journey that would last for life. Twenty-five years have already passed. But the memories will always last. Laughter, joy and hope they share. Love and kindness show they care. Parents they became of us three, Tammie, Tony and Chad, you see. No other parents could ever compare. We're thankful for the blessings they share. Our appreciation we cannot show. The love we feel, they'll never know. We wish you happiness on your special day. You mean more to us than words could say.

★ Baiting Belligerence . . .

The way I see it, you've got to have three things in order for a trip to the movie theater to be considered completely successful. First is popcorn. Second is something cold, sweet and fizzy to drink.

Oh, and it also helps if you've got a decent movie to watch, too.

Which is why I was standing in line at the snack bar during our most recent foray into filmdom. I was just running a few mathematical equations in my mind, trying to calculate how much money you'd have to make before you could look at the candy prices at a movie theater snack bar without wincing, when I heard something behind me that made me cringe.

"I@#%," one teenage boy was saying to another. "And then we I@#% went to I@#% town and I@#% I@#% for a I@#%."

Or words to that effect. His companion offered a similarly crude response, after which both boys laughed.

Crudely. I might not have said anything if the episode had ended right there. But it didn't. The conversation continued boisterously, and was headed in a direction I really didn't want to go—especially if they were going to drag me along unwillingly. So I turned around.

"Excuse me, guys," I said, kindly but firmly, "but would you please not talk like that? Some of us would just as soon not hear that kind of language."

Since I was more than twice as old—and twice as big—as either of them, I assumed that would be the end of that. Oh, they might glare at me or mutter something to save face in front of all the public attention that was suddenly focused upon them. Or they might throw popcorn at me during the movie—I was prepared to deal with something like that. But I wasn't prepared to have one of the kids lunge at me, spewing linguistic venom and violent threats while his buddy held him back.

Thankfully the theater manager was passing through the lobby, and he quickly assessed the situation, grabbed the boys by the back of the neck and hauled them both out of the theater—to the accompaniment of mild applause from those of us standing in line.

"Gee," said a woman nearby, "I hope the movie is as exciting as the snack bar."

I quickly ordered our popcorn and soda and returned to my seat—more than a little shaken. Not that I was frightened or anything—even together those two boys looked like they'd have a hard time punching their way through a thick piece of Jell-O. But I was troubled by the intensity of what I had encountered. I can still see the anger in their eyes. Only it wasn't anger, really—it was more like hatred.

And that's what bothered me. Those boys didn't have any reason to hate me. Not really. Maybe I embarrassed them a little. And maybe they didn't like me asking them to tone it down. But that kid wanted a piece of me. He wanted to hurt me. He wanted me dead. At least, that's what he said.

Where did that come from? I'm afraid it comes from living in a world in which belligerence isn't just a negative attitude—it's almost a way of life. You hear it in the popular music of the day. You watch it on television. You read it in books and magazines. And you see it in the movies (in between bites of popcorn, of course).

But while the media probably helps perpetuate the attitude, I'm not sure they are responsible for creating it. That, I'm afraid, is our fault. So many of us tend to look for differences between people, when it's just as easy—and usually more interesting—to search for similarities. We demand tolerance for our own eccentricities, but are quick to condemn the idiosyncrasies of others. And forgiveness is a virtue to be cherished—as long as it isn't our ox that is being gored.

When our kids see that attitude—especially in people they respect—they tend to emulate it. Which is why it's so important that adults start acting like . . . well, like adults. It isn't enough to simply tell our young people to respect others. We've got to show them how to get along with others—despite our deepest differences. Our lives need to be an enthusiastic endorsement of tolerance and love. Because if they aren't, not only will they be less fulfilling for us personally, but we may also be condemning the next generation to a desolate future of bitterness and belligerence. And that won't be a pretty sight to see.

With or without the popcorn. (Joseph Walker is a bishop in The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.)

JUDITH DOW

Dexter Fine Arts Series Presenting Judith Dow

Judith Dow will sing Broadway show tunes at the second concert of the Dexter Fine Arts Series (sponsored by the Dexter United Methodist church) on Saturday evening, Feb. 13 during two performances, 7 and 9 p.m.

In a Valentine's Cabaret atmosphere at the beautifully restored Newkirk Hall (formerly Camp Newkirk for Boy Scouts), concert-goers will be treated to an evening filled with the songs America loves. Tables for eight will be set up around a Yamaha baby grand piano to give an intimate feeling between Ms. Dow and the patrons. Valentine's desserts and beverages will be served.

Judith Dow is Ann Arbor's own performing artist in residence. She has said that her artistic mission is to "share words and music with as many people as want to listen—whether it be with love songs, patriotic songs, sad songs or happy songs." Ms. Dow spent 10 years in New York City as a cabaret singer—making the Newkirk Hall Valentine's cabaret setting one in which she will be completely "at home."

Ms. Dow is known throughout Washtenaw county not only as a singer but also as a talented actress, producer, director, fund-raiser, and volunteer. She has performed concerts with symphony orchestras—Ann Arbor's own Symphony Orchestra, the London (Ontario) Symphony Orchestra, the Baton Rouge Symphony Orchestra, and the Spokane, Washington Symphony Orchestra to name a few.

Other accomplishments which demonstrate her versatility are her radio, television, and recording credits. She hosted her own radio show for 10 years, appeared on NBC's "Today Show" and "Tomorrow Show" as well as on "Good Morning" TV shows in Los Angeles, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Boston, Cleveland, Houston, and Detroit. She has recorded three albums: "I Love America," "Regards to Broadway," and "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain."

Ms. Dow is president of her own production company, Peninsula Productions, producing theatrical events; she is a consultant with the New York University Musical Theatre Department. She was the associate producer of the Broadway, Tony Award winning production, "Sweeney Todd."

Ms. Dow's generosity and hard work have benefited St. Joseph Mercy Hospital, Purple Rose Theatre, Michigan Theater Foundation, Catherine McAuley Health System, Washtenaw Community College, Ypsilanti Greek Theatre, Michigan Council for the Arts and many, many more local, worthy organizations too numerous to list.

The Valentine's Cabaret promises to be one of those warm, wonderful evenings that linger in our pleasant memory banks. Because there is limited seating each performance, tickets should be reserved early by calling either 426-8251 or 426-8480.

Glossy Paper Can Now Be Recycled in Ann Arbor

Beginning Wednesday, Jan. 27, residents can recycle their glossy magazines at Recycle Ann Arbor's Drop-Off Station, at 2050 S. Industrial Highway.

Recyclers should bring their glossy magazines unbundled. Labels are OK, and so is loose glossy paper. Recycle Ann Arbor (RAA) is unable, however, to accept magazines (or catalogs) with glossy covers and "uncoated" paper on the inside pages. (In other words, all magazine pages must be glossy.) Phone books are not allowed, and Ann Arbor residents should not leave magazines with their recyclables for curbside collection.

For 21 years of recycling in Ann Arbor, magazines and glossy paper have been unacceptable. In the past year, however, paper mill technology has changed to seek coated paper. Mike Garfield, interim director of Recycle Ann Arbor, explained that "mills are beginning to utilize the clay which gives glossy paper its shine, but they need to carefully control the amount of clay in their blend of scrap paper. We are pleased to be able to offer magazine recycling to the Ann Arbor area community."

RAA will bale the magazines at its processing facility on Ellsworth Rd., then ship the bales to a mill in Monroe, which will convert them into cereal boxes.

Recycle Ann Arbor's Drop-Off Station is open Wednesday through Friday from noon until dusk, and on Saturdays from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

County Sheriff's Deputies Investigate Break-ins, Larcenies, Possible Arson

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents between Jan. 19 and Jan. 26 in Dexter, Chelsea and Scio township.

On Jan. 19, an animal bite was reported in the 7400 block of Zeeb Rd. A 4-year-old Dexter boy was bitten by a shepherd dog while he was playing with it. The boy was taken to the hospital and he received four stitches to his mouth.

A 17-year-old Dexter High school student was found in possession of marijuana after the high school vice-principal and school security officer spotted the teen-ager smoking it in the school parking lot. The student admitted it was marijuana and said it was partial payment for a motorcycle he sold to a Manchester man. He also said he brought it to school because another student wanted to purchase some of it. The case is open pending review from the prosecutor's office.

On Jan. 21, a larceny from a building was reported in the 17700 block of North Territorial Rd., Chelsea. A 57-year-old Chelsea man said $700 worth of mechanical tools and a chain saw were taken from an unlocked building.

On Jan. 21, a 47-year-old Fowlerville man was arrested on Zeeb Rd. near I-94, Scio township, for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor and for having an unlawful blood/alcohol level. He was pulled over by a deputy after crossing the center line of the road, almost striking a guard rail and signalling to turn left, but turning right. The deputy noticed several signs of intoxication. The driver admitted to having 8-10 beers. The case is open pending review from the prosecutor.

On Jan. 22, malicious destruction of property was reported in the 7800 block of Forest St., Dexter. Someone pulled the screens off of two basement windows and cracked the window frames, causing $200 in damages.

On Jan. 23, possible arson is being investigated in the 8400 block of Huron River Dr., Dexter. A 41-year-old Whitmore Lake man's 1992 Chevy Camaro was torched and the victim's girlfriend's ex-boyfriend is the suspect. The victim said he was asleep at his girlfriend's house when a motorist knocked on the door and informed him his car was on fire. A yellowish material, believed to be gasoline, was collected around the vehicle for evidence.

Ronald L. Hurt, 32, of Ann Arbor was arrested on a bench warrant for expired plates after an initial traffic stop on Jackson Rd. near Zeeb Rd., Scio township. He was transported to Washtenaw county jail.

Steven M. Norris, 32, of Chelsea was arrested on North Territorial Rd. near Dexter Town Hall Rd., Dexter, on a warrant after failing to appear in court. He was also cited for driving with a suspended license and for having expired car registration papers with the state.

A larceny was reported in the 13000 block of North Territorial Rd., Dexter. A $350 tailgate off of a 1990 Ford was stolen. The incident was reported by a 34-year-old Fowlerville man.

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 13000 block of North Lake Rd., Dexter. A 31-year-old Dexter man reported his 1991 Dodge vehicle's left door was bent, its windshield was shot at and its hood was scratched. Damage is estimated at $400.

A breaking and entering was reported in the 20400 block of M-52, Chelsea. A 51-year-old Chelsea man said $500 worth of instant lottery tickets were stolen from his party store and $350 in damages occurred when the glass, front door was pried open.

A breaking and entering was reported in the 4500 block of North Territorial Rd., Dexter. A 23-year-old Dexter man reported $870 worth of merchandise including lottery tickets, cash and a pair of gloves were stolen from the party store. A rear door window sustained $50 in damages when the thief broke in through it. The door is on the east side of the building, leading to an apartment which is attached to the store.

Malicious destruction of a mailbox was reported in the 1200 block of Parker Rd., Dexter. A 49-year-old Dexter woman said a vehicle went off the icy road a few days ago, hitting the mailbox. Her son wrote down the license plate number. Deputies spoke with the owner of the vehicle who said his daughter was driving the car that day and he did not realize she destroyed a mailbox when she went off the road. He offered to pay for the $80 mailbox and all charges were dropped.

On Jan. 25, Ronald A. Maul, 24, of Dearborn Heights was arrested on a warrant during a traffic stop on Baker Rd. near Dan Hoey Rd., Dexter. The bench warrant was from Oakland county. He was transported to Washtenaw county jail.

A larceny from a motor vehicle was reported in the 5500 block of Cambridge Club Ct., Scio township. A 28-year-old resident said $700 worth of items including golf clubs and a bow and arrow were stolen from his 1988 Ford pick-up. The vehicle's ignition was also pulled out and left on the dashboard, causing $300 in damages. The case is closed because there are no suspects.

A 32-year-old Ohio woman and her 20-year-old passenger were arrested after being pulled over for a loud muffler at the rest stop area on I-94 near Baker Rd., Scio township. A wine cooler was found in the vehicle and the women were cited for open intoxication, no proof of insurance, minor in possession of alcohol and not wearing their seatbelts.

Conservation Tillage Forum Planned

A Conservation Tillage and Crop Residue Forum co-sponsored by the Washtenaw County Soil Conservation District and Co-operative Extension Service will be held on Wednesday, Feb. 24, 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., at the Washtenaw Farm Council Grounds, 5055 Ann Arbor-Saline Rd., Saline. Reservations are needed to attend the forum.

"Crop residue left after planting is a key part of Food Security Act Conservation Plans. We thought it might be helpful for Washtenaw county farmers to hear and talk about different conservation tillage systems and crop residue management, to help them comply with their plans," said Steve Olds, Soil Conservation Service district conservationist.

According to Bill Ames, co-operative extension service agricultural agent, the agenda for the forum calls for a presentation on conservation tillage systems and residue by Tim Harrington from Michigan State University; a discussion of a residue management; an update on current government subsidy programs; a discussion of Right to Farm guidelines and a farmer panel moderated by Ames, that will talk about their conservation tillage systems. There will also be a question/answer time where the audience may direct questions to the farmer panel.

Cost for the forum is $3 which covers lunch and program handouts.

Space is limited. The reservation deadline is Feb. 18. To obtain a reservation form and for more information, contact either the Soil Conservation District, phone (313) 761-6721 or the Co-operative Extension Service, phone (313) 971-0079.

Incumbent Trustees Face March Challenge

Incumbent village trustees will get a challenge this spring in the March village elections. In addition there is guaranteed to be at least one new face on village council.

Incumbent trustees Stephanie Kanten, 560 Chandler St., Brian Cashman, 449 Railroad St., and Tom Dorer, 777 N. Freer Rd. will be challenged by political newcomer Steven Daut, 16 Chestnut St. for three two-year council seats.

Challengers for the one available one-year seat are Richard Rigg, 143 E. Middle St., and Jon Veurink, 18 Chestnut St., a political newcomer in Chelsea. Incumbent Connie Woodruff, who was appointed several months ago to fill the seat of Gary Bentley, decided not to run. Either Rigg or Veurink will fill the remaining year of Bentley's original term.

Rigg ran unsuccessfully for council several years ago.

Incumbent in other village seats are running unopposed. They include clerk Suzanne Morrison, assessor Rosemary Harook, and McKune Memorial Library Board members Anne Belser and Susan Walters.

Monday was the deadline for nominating petitions to be filed.

Assistant Pastor Freed After Charge Dropped

North Sharon Baptist church assistant pastor Timothy Leonard was freed from jail last Wednesday after a first-degree criminal sexual conduct charge was dropped by 14A District Court Judge Thomas Shea.

Leonard was released from Washtenaw County Jail on $10,000 bond, which he was able to post on the two lesser charges remaining against him; two counts of alleged second-degree criminal sexual conduct against a nine-year-old girl.

In all, 10 of 12 charges originally filed against Leonard have been dropped for various reasons. The most recent charge was dismissed Wednesday because a nine-year-old girl could not testify which summer Leonard allegedly raped her in the Sunday school nursery.

Shea said to allow the case to continue would be a denial of due process. He said the case should never have been brought because the window of time was too wide.

Prosecutors have three choices. They can appeal Shea's decision to circuit court, conduct further investigation to try to pinpoint the date of the alleged offense, or accept Shea's decision. They have said there are no plans to file additional charges against Leonard in Washtenaw county.

Bond money for Leonard was posted by pastor Bill Winger. Winger said Leonard would likely be reinstated, subject to a decision by the board of deacons, if he is acquitted on the remaining counts. Leonard resigned after the charges were brought.

Also last Wednesday, deacon Mark Foeller's attorney, Brian Thiede, filed a motion to consolidate all charges against both defendants into one trial in Washtenaw County Circuit Court. Thiede contends the cases should all be heard in Washtenaw county because the charges originate at the church, in Sharon township.

Foeller is charged with one count of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and two counts of second-degree criminal sexual conduct in Jackson county. In Washtenaw county, he is charged with two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and one count of second degree criminal sexual conduct.

All judges assigned to the cases in both counties must agree to the consolidation.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Bulldogs Whip Saline As SEC Race Tightens, Big Reds Here Friday

Chelsea Bulldogs continued to put pressure on the league-leading Pinckney Pirates last Friday with an 82-60 victory over the Saline Hornets at home.

The victory puts the Bulldogs in a tie for second place in the Southeastern Conference with the Milan Big Reds, who lost to the Pirates last Friday. Pinckney has one league loss while Chelsea and Milan each have two. Chelsea and Milan play this Friday in Chelsea for sole possession of second place, and perhaps a piece of first place.

A packed Chelsea gym watched the Bulldogs pull away from the Hornets in the second half for their seventh straight win over-all and fourth straight in the SEC.

The game marked the debut of exchange student Aleksander Selmanovic, who couldn't play earlier due to state eligibility rules. The 6-4 point guard overcame an extreme case of nervousness to dazzle the Chelsea crowd on at least two occasions with his pinpoint passing and a play perhaps never seen in the Chelsea gym. On a fast break, Selmanovic dribbled the ball to half court. Rather than cut by a Saline player or throw a pass, he simply dribbled the ball through the defender's legs without breaking stride, only to complete a pass underneath for a quick assist.

I thought Aleksander played all right for his first game, said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond, who was seen laughing on the bench on Selmanovic's dribble play.

Everyone saw his transition game, which is his strong point. He's a good passer who gets the ball in other players' hands. Although he had three turnovers, he also had nine rebounds, two assists, and four points. He gives us a lot more depth with style. Chris Dunham and Cory Brown are awfully good passers, too.

Selmanovic got perhaps a little more playing time than he might have. Dunham picked up his fourth foul at the start of the second half, one of the few times he has been in foul trouble all season. After sitting much of the third period, he fouled out early in the fourth quarter.

ALEKSANDER SELMANOVIC put on a Chelsea uniform for the first time last Friday in a reserve role. The senior transfer student from Croatia showed why he is considered an outstanding ball handler and dribbler, much to the dismay of at least one Saline defender.

Saline gave the Bulldogs a tough game throughout the first half as Chelsea led 36-34 at the intermission.

Saline looked awfully quick, Raymond said.

They had more quickness than we did. Their center, Bill Gladhill, was carrying them. He made some big shots. They were also moving well on offense and had a lot of easy shots. We didn't do a good job of denying the pass.

At half-time, Raymond urged his players to pick up the defensive pressure in the backcourt, which proved to be the perfect advice. The Bulldogs came out and scored the first 13 points of the third quarter to take a 49-34 lead. Saline didn't score until the 3:40 mark, and that was a lone free throw. By the end of the quarter, the Bulldogs led 56-46. The Hornets scored eight of their 12 points at the line.

The fourth quarter proved to be just as problematic for the Hornets as the third. Players, including starters Gladhill and Prad Fischer and sub Max Finkbeiner, fouled out within about two minutes. The Bulldogs, in the bonus the entire quarter, made 13 of 20 free throws (30-42 for the night) in the quarter.

No one had a great game for us, but the top 10 all made valuable contributions, Raymond said.

Dana Schunk played well with 12 points and 12 rebounds, and Tom Poulter played a good, quiet game with 15 points and six rebounds.

Colby Skelton led the Chelsea attack with 16 points. Other scorers included Pat Steele 11, Brown 8, Ed Waller 8, Nick McCalla 5, Dunham 2, and Matt Seitz 1.

Chelsea shot 25-64 from the field (39 percent), while Saline shot 21-65 (32 percent). Saline was 16-22 from the line.

The Bulldogs had a huge 63-38 advantage on the boards.

For the game, there was a total of 101 missed shots between the teams.

Friday the Bulldogs hope to avenge an earlier loss to the Big Reds in Milan. Raymond has said all season that he believes Milan has the best talent in the league.

CHELSEA HEAVYWEIGHT Rob Bergman, top, defeated Dexter's Jacob Even at heavyweight, 9-8, main in the top spot of the Southeastern Conference.

Dog Wrestlers Drop Close Match to Dexter

Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team suffered a two-point loss to the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 27-25, last Tuesday before taking a 46-18 victory over the Tecumseh Indians on Thursday.

Chelsea was 4-1 in the Southeastern Conference before last night's match against the Pinckney Pirates. With a win last night, the Bulldogs would still have a good shot to win the SEC title, but they'd have to win the league meet later this month.

It really hurts to lose a close match, said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

You look down the line-up and there are so many if-onlys. If we had picked up a point here or there it might have been different. I think the kids realize they can't give points away. You can lose by a decision, but not by a major decision and they can't afford to get pinned.

The Bulldogs were hurt by the absence of starting 119 pounder Tim Wescott, who was out with an injury.

I think Tim could have beaten McRoberts, and that would have been a swing of nine points, Kargel said.

McRoberts is one of their best wrestlers.

Results of the Dexter match follow.

103: Ray Hatch (C) pinned Eric Kruger in 1:57.

112: Dan Aiber (C) lost 8-3 to Paul Wisniewski.

119: Matt Delong (C) was pinned by Tony McRoberts in 1:38.

125: Ryan Ludwig (C) lost to Jason McLean, 13-5.

130: Todd Watson (C) beat Brett Mann, 7-0.

135: John Heller (C) lost to Ben Boyce, 2-1.

140: Andrew Parker (C) lost to Andy Dettling, 12-3.

145: Ian Dyer (C) beat Andy Bobo, 13-2.

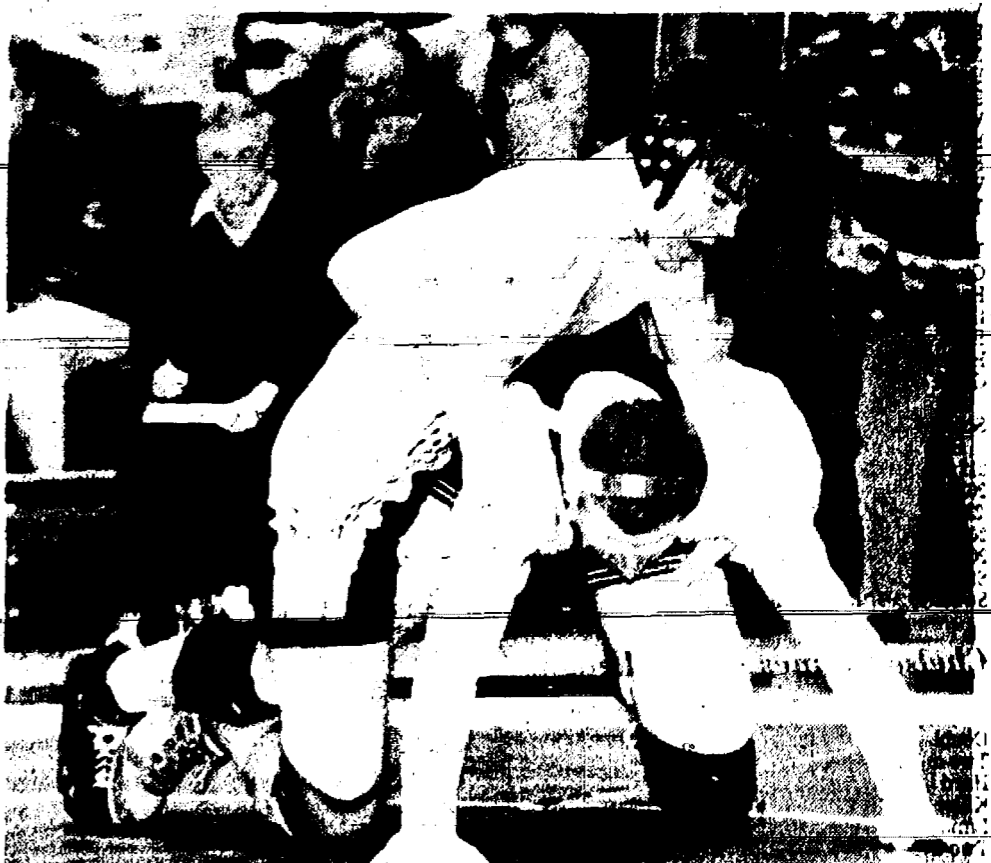

152: Kevin McCalla (C) beat Gerrod Visel in overtime, 4-2.

160: John Bobo (C) pinned Cory Knieper in 3:01.

171: Jason Szostak (C) lost to Josh Howard, 5-0.

189: Chris Kargel (C) lost to Ryan Balcom, 10-2.

Hwy: Rob Bergman (C) beat Jacob Even, 9-8.

JOHN BOBO of Chelsea, top, worked hard to pin Dexter's Cory Knieper at 160 pounds last Tuesday. His victory gave the Bulldogs a temporary lead.

The match came down to the heavyweight clash, where Bergman needed a pin for the Bulldogs to win. It was a tough situation for the senior, Kargel said.

I thought Ray Hatch wrestled very well, Kargel said.

You like to have your low weights start off with a win. Todd Watson also wrestled consistently and remained undefeated in the league. Ian Dyer had his guy on his back a couple of times and was looking forward to pinning him but it didn't work out.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Chelsea exchange student Aleksander Selmanovic made his first appearance in his snazzy new Bulldogs gold uniform last Friday, wearing number 10. Students and fans had been talking about the moment as though it would be a watershed event in the history of Chelsea basketball. And, understandably, Selmanovic was a little nervous at first, although he has had far more experience in the spotlight than many of his court peers.

Coach Robin Raymond put Selmanovic in with about two minutes left in the first quarter, when the game was still tight and it looked as though the Saline Hornets might pull an upset. I'd like to say Selmanovic broke the game open single-handedly, but he didn't. It was more the play of nine other guys, and fine free throw shooting, that made the difference in Chelsea's seventh straight win.

There was no doubt in my mind, however, after watching the 6-4 Croatian for about 90 seconds that he is something special. Although he posted only average statistics (with the exception of nine rebounds in about 12 minutes of play—remember, this guy's a point guard), two things were immediately obvious. He is as quick as anyone you'll see on the court. And if he were to play an entire game and his teammates could anticipate every pass, he might have 30 assists some night.

His quickness showed up almost immediately on defense when he knocked a ball away from a Saline guard who was standing with the ball, looking to pass. A swat upward and the ball bounded into Cory Brown's hands. Doesn't sound like much, but his hand was below his waist and the ball was over the Saline player's head. Like a frog's tongue on a fly.

With point guard Chris Dunham in foul trouble in the second half, Selmanovic had the chance to play more than he probably would have. And once he began to calm down, he showed signs of what might be in store for Chelsea fans for the rest of the season.

He may turn out to be the premier transition player in the league. He's probably the fastest Bulldog and he doesn't lose a step when handling a basketball. He can do all the fancy solo moves such as dribbling behind his back, and, as we saw, dribbling between an unwary opponent's legs. He's flashy without being pretentious.

But it's Selmanovic's passing that will set him apart from every other player. He is a no-look master and he fires rockets. And, as Raymond said, he has the ability to anticipate when a teammate will be open, even before his teammate does. The passes sometimes catch everyone by surprise. He will pass underhanded, behind his back, overhanded, probably even through a defender's legs. The best advice is, when Selmanovic is on the court, expect the ball to go anywhere at any time.

He's one of the few high school players who can make you oooh on one play and laugh on the next.

It may sound as though I'm making Selmanovic out as the savior of the Bulldogs. But that is hardly the case. I have no doubt this year's team could win the league and the district title without him. They were 8-2 before Friday, and two points away from 9-1. Dunham and Brown can get the job done at the point. They have plenty of outside shooters in Pat Steele, Nick McCalla, Cory Brown, and Dunham. They have short-range shooters like the leaping Dana Schmunk and Ed Waller. They have a strong man inside in Tom Poulter and an inside jumper and scorer in Colby Skelton. They have all the weapons they need except a 6-8 center.

This is just a case of the rich getting a lot richer for at least 11 games and, perhaps, several more. Chelsea basketball fans should savor every moment because this talented combination will be as exciting to watch as any Bulldogs team in many years. And they'll never be together again. Selmanovic's relatively brief appearance here makes that all the more obvious.

Chelsea wrestling fans should make it a point to thank wrestling dad Pat Taylor for all the fine photos he has taken for The Standard this year and last. He has turned in quite a photographer. I know he has made my job a lot easier. I hope you have enjoyed his work as much as I have.

JOHN HELLER of Chelsea buries his face in the back of Dexter opponent Ben Boyce last Tuesday in the match at 135 pounds. Boyce won the match, 2-1, a key victory for the Dreadnaughts, who remained undefeated in the Southeastern Conference.

ED WALLER drives toward the basket during Friday's Chelsea home game against the Saline Hornets. Waller scored eight points.

JV Cagers Edge Hornets at Home

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team edged the Saline Hornets, 52-48, last Friday at home to improve their over-all record to 9-2. "We won one we should not have and we found a way to win when we played a poor game," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter. "The last three games have all been the same. We play very well for short spurts and dominate and then we are absolutely flat the rest of the game. We need to get back to playing 32 minutes of consistent basketball and enjoying the game again." Chelsea scored the first 11 points of the game but ended the first quarter with an 11-8 lead. In the third quarter, the Bulldogs out-scored Saline 12-3. Although Chelsea shot poorly at the line (18-33), that's where they won the game as Saline was just 6-10. Case McCalla led Chelsea with 64 percent (7-11) shooting from the field and 6-7 from the line for 20 points, and a team-high eight rebounds. Nick Brink was 4-9 from the field and second high in rebounds with seven. Other scorers included Dan Wehrwein 9, Chad Brown 6, Adam Beauchamp 3, Scott Colvin 2, James Diesing 2, and Bryndon Skelton 2. Chelsea is 5-2 in the Southeastern Conference.

Frosh Cagers Lose to Pirates

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost to the Pinckney Pirates last Monday, 58-43. Three of the four quarters were close to even but Chelsea fell way behind in the second quarter as they were out-scored 15-6. Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell said an Hinderer and Bob Heil played their best game of the year. Josh Bernhard led Chelsea with 13 points and eight rebounds. Other scorers included Dan Johnson 5, Jane Miller 5, Curt Carpenter 4, Devin Cross 3, Hinderer 3, Drew Patterson 3, Kevin Holmes 2, Scott Hurst 2, Rick Stahl 2, and Heil 1. Kargel said that over-all he was much more pleased with his team's performance against the Indians.

"I had a lot of different kids in the line-up and didn't really know what to expect," Kargel said.

A key to the victory, Kargel said, was Delong's pin of Joe Johnston at 119 pounds.

"At that point I felt like the pressure was off," Kargel said.

Results of the Tecumseh match follow.

103: Ray Hatch (C) pinned Will Bishop in 1:45.

112: Dan Alber (C) beat Matt Baker, 12-2.

119: Matt Delong (C) pinned Joe Johnston in 3:07.

125: Ryan Ludwig (C) lost to Brandon Nolan, 9-8.

130: Todd Watson (C) beat Zack Stuckey, 7-2.

135: Mike Thayer (C) lost to Jason Doerhing in 2:51.

140: Andrew Parker (C) lost to Chad Dinius, 6-4.

145: Mike Bainton (C) pinned Todd Oswald in 2:51.

152: Ian Dyer (C) pinned Heath Plate in :47.

160: John Bobo (C) pinned Greg DeClerk in :57.

171: Jason Szostak (C) beat Matt Kain, 7-6.

189: Sam Morseau (C) was pinned by Ben Malloy in 5:08.

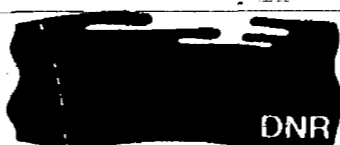

Hwy: Rob Bergman (C) pinned Jason Mensing in :32.

Hatch, Bainton, and Bobo wrestled particularly well, Kargel said.

Morseau, he said, also wrestled well. The freshman was winning until he made a late mistake against a more experienced competitor.

Washington Street Show Choir Performs With Two Other Groups

Chelsea High school's Washington Street Show Choir had its first performance of 1993 last Saturday night in a program called "Showcase '93." The show also featured the Limited Edition choir of Southfield High school and the Ecorse High school choir.

A packed George Prizing Auditorium witnessed, rousing, dramatic, and upbeat performances by the three groups.

Limited Edition's show included the numbers "Putting on the Ritz," "Georgia on My Mind," "Yesterday," "Singin' in the Rain," "On the Sunny Side of the Street," and "Sing, Sing, Sing."

Ecorse High School Choir continued the show with "The Lord's Prayer," "Do-Re-Mi/Climb Ev'ry Mountain," "Military Step," "Day-O," an excerpt from Dr. Martin Luther King's speech "I Have a Dream," and "Reach Out and Touch."

Ecorse High at one time had a 200-300 member choir and a select vocal group called the "Songsters." However, budget cuts eliminated their vocal music program during the 1980s. It was re-instated in 1990 and the 49-member choir was formed.

After a performance by Chelsea's Gorton Family Band, the Washington Street Show Choir performed "Cabaret," a medley from "Beauty and the Beast," "Up on the Roof," "Fascinating Rhythm," "Imagine," and "Higher and Higher."

Technical crew includes Jim Bergman, Scott Graflund, Ana Morrel-Samuels, Maya Ponte, Chris Trotter, and Tony Trotter.

Back-up band includes Boone Gegenheimer on traps, Mark Kemmer on bass, F. Scott Leeman on guitar, and Jake Zettelmair on guitar.

Steven Hinz is the director, Brian Myers the technical director, Kathy Marrero and Roxy Krings the choreographers, Lisa Hinz-Johnson an accompanist, and Lowell Cauffiel the back-up band director.

Manager Proposes Law To Prohibit Smoking In Village Buildings

Chelsea Village Council last Tuesday tabled an ordinance that would prohibit smoking in all buildings owned by the village.

The motion to table the ordinance was made by trustee Joe Merkel, a smoker. Some concerns about the proposal were expressed by zoning inspector Rosemary Harook and landfill supervisor Cecil Clouse, both of whom smoke.

The ordinance, proposed by village manager Jack Myers, will be considered again by council at their Feb. 9 meeting.

"My main intention is to protect the village," Myers said last Friday.

"The latest Environmental Protection Agency study on passive smoke is what brought my attention to it."

Myers, a smoker himself, also discovered in his research for the ordinance that the village is probably in violation of Public Act 198, a state law passed in 1986, because the village office building does not have adequate ventilation. At least four village employees who work in the building smoke, and at least two smoke regularly in the building, although no smoking signs are clearly posted in their areas.

Several years ago when council meetings were still held in the village office building, council prohibited smoking during village council meetings. The ban has extended to their meetings in Sylvan Town Hall.

The ordinance was tabled in order to study whether there could be a designated smoking room in the office building. Last week, Myers and some council members looked over the basement, a second floor room now used for a police department evidence room, and even a closet off Myers' office, all of which were found inadequate, Myers said.

While all smoking, whether by village employees or members of the public, would be prohibited in the village office complex on E. Middle St., "as presently constructed and ventilated," smoking in other village buildings, such as the new electric and water building, may be exempted if the building ventilation systems conform to legal requirements.

Violators may be fined up to $100.

According to the proposed ordinance, "The intent... is to eliminate the health hazards of smoking to all individuals while working in or using buildings owned or leased by the Village of Chelsea. The adverse health effects of smoking to smokers and of so-called 'secondary' or 'passive' smoke to non-smokers are well documented by the medical community. Such adverse health effects threaten the general health and well-being of individuals, increase insurance costs to the Village, and decrease worker productivity. The smoking ban established in this ordinance is intended to eliminate the irritating and adverse effects of smoking thereby promoting productivity, health, and the quality of life within Village buildings, as well as lowering health care and insurance costs."

Private Property Rights Threatened

Farm Bureau said a recent agreement requiring the federal government to protect an estimated 400 more species of plants and animals over the next four years poses a new danger to private property rights.

The Bush administration agreed in a legal settlement to change its method of designating plant and animal species as endangered or threatened. The move is expected to increase by 53 percent the number of species under federal safeguards.

"Property owners should be concerned that the Endangered Species Act, with its complete lack of human or economic considerations, will now cause land use policy to be implemented on a much broader and possibly more onerous scale," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"Farm Bureau has supported reforms to the Act that would balance the protection of plants and animals that are truly endangered with the needs of people and property rights. Farmers and ranchers throughout the United States have been subjected to harsh land-use regulations required by the Act," Almy said.

The Endangered Species Act, first passed in 1973, is up for reauthorization. Under the law, it is illegal to kill any animal designated as threatened or endangered even if it lives on private property. The protections are less stringent for plants.

Late Canada Goose Hunt Slated To Reduce Population

A special late, 30-day Canada goose hunting season to control local goose populations is scheduled for Jan. 9 through Feb. 7, announced Director Roland Harmes of the Department of Natural Resources.

The area open to the late hunting season includes public and private lands south of a line from Port Huron through Grand Rapids, which is along Highways I-80, M-21 and M-45, excluding the Allegan County Goose Management Unit, as shown in the state Waterfowl Hunting Guide.

"During a recent mid-December survey, DNR workers recorded more than 112,000 Canada geese in the state, of which about 57,000 were within the area open for the special late hunt," Director Harmes said. "This number of geese is a new record-high for Michigan, providing excellent hunting opportunities."

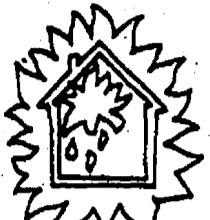

Counties having the most geese, and which are open to hunting, include: Oakland, 9,700 geese; St. Clair, 3,000; Wayne, 2,900; Macomb, 2,800; Jackson, 4,500; Washtenaw, 1,300; Lenawee, 1,200; Hillsdale, 1,000; Branch, 900; Kalamazoo, 6,800; St. Joseph, 5,700; Cass, 2,500; Calhoun, 1,900; Barry, 1,800; Livingston, 2,800; Genesee, 2,900; and Ingham, 1,800 geese.

For detailed information on hunting areas, dates, regulations, and the location of DNR Wildlife Division offices, contact the DNR Wildlife Division headquarters, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909, 517-373-1283; or consult the 1992-93 Michigan Waterfowl Hunting Guide available from license agents.

On the Safety Circuit Plan Your Escape

Fire Can Happen Any Time!

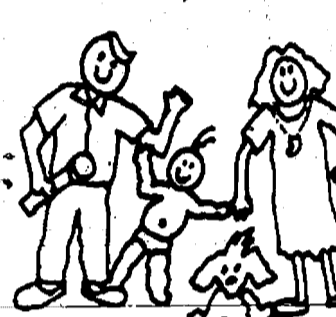

And if it does, every second counts. Will you and your family know what to do?

- Practice an escape plan from each room in the house. Feel your way out with your eyes closed.

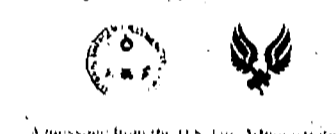

- Teach your family to stop, drop to the ground and roll if their clothes catch on fire.

- Keep the fire department's number by the phone. By your bed, have a flashlight to help you see and whistle to alert your family.

- Install smoke detectors on every level of your house. Test them monthly, and change the batteries at least once a year.

Remember, fire can happen anytime, so make plans for a surprise visit.

Chelsea Pharmacy Owners Buy Krauss Drug Store in Manchester

The owners of Chelsea Pharmacy have purchased the former Krauss Pharmacy in Manchester and renamed it Manchester Pharmacy.

In addition, the corporation, headed by Dan Murphy, is selling its Baileys Pharmacy in Ypsilanti to Fred Schmid, owner of Dexter Pharmacy. The sale was scheduled to close yesterday. The corporation purchased the Ypsilanti store in 1989, a month after Chelsea Pharmacy moved from downtown to its current location in Chelsea Shopping Center.

The purchase of Krauss Pharmacy was completed Dec. 4. Some remodeling is underway. Pat Murphy, Dan's son and a partner in the corporation, is running the store.

The 4,500-square-foot Manchester Pharmacy will continue to offer all its same services, but Dan said a lot more variety of merchandise will be sold.

Negotiations began more than a year ago, shortly before owner Harry Krauss died of cancer. Krauss, a longtime owner, had purchased the store from Millard Uphaus, who continues to work a few hours per week at the store.

Sale of the Ypsilanti store was pushed, in part, by the move of former partner Dave Perkins to Florida, Dan said. Perkins had run the store.

"The proximity is not good," Dan said. "It's 30 miles away. Manchester Pharmacy is a lot closer, it's in a small town, and the people are friendly. Plus, all three of our stores are right off M-52." The corporation also owns Stockbridge Pharmacy, which it purchased 12 years ago. That's when partners Perkins and Dave Bust joined Murphy and Dale Schumann.

Dan, who began working for Chelsea Pharmacy at age 13, found himself with a pharmacist's intern license at 15, and attended Ferris State College, has no more thoughts of expansion of the business.

"I don't want more than three stores as long as I'm running the ship," he says.

Everybody's Science

★ Helpful Virus Foils Garden, Farm Insect Pests
By Marcia Wood

Plump hornworm caterpillars that ruin gardeners' prize tomatoes may have met their match.

U.S. Department of Agriculture scientists have discovered a natural virus that causes tomato hornworms to lose their appetites and die. Also, the scientists say, the virus destroys at least 12 other caterpillar pests of gardens and farms.

Known as the celery looper virus, the helpful microorganism "could be purified, packaged and sold as a new, environmentally friendly control for these insects," says Patrick V. Vail of USDA's Agricultural Research Service.

This might happen within five years if all the experiments succeed. Then, backyard gardeners could have a new way to fight enemies such as tomato hornworms. And farmers could fend off tobacco budworms, cotton bollworms and other nasty pests.

Cotton bollworms alone cost cotton growers $1.5 billion a year in yield losses and insecticides, says Vail. He's an entomologist at the ARS Horticultural Crops Research Laboratory, Fresno, Calif. Vail and ARS colleague Thomas J. Henneberry, Phoenix, Ariz., and M. Randy Bell, Stoneville, Miss., are testing the virus in cotton fields.

Celery looper virus kills susceptible insects a few days after they eat it. But the virus doesn't target people, pets and other forms of life, Vail says.

Viral insecticides aren't new. In fact, four virus-based insecticides are currently okayed by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for use in this country. The celery looper virus stands out from others, however, because of the broad array of destructive insects that it kills.

The virus was discovered by Donald L. Hostetter, an ARS research entomologist in Kimberly, Idaho, and former ARS researcher Benjamin Puttler, now with the University of Missouri in Columbia. The two patented it in 1990.

Once a susceptible insect consumes the virus, it takes over the insect's cell machinery. As the cells churn out billions of copies of virus particles, the insect loses its appetite and eventually dies. Then the insect's body disintegrates into an infective liquid that can spread across leaves or drip onto the ground. Other insects that chance upon this deadly goo can restart the cycle.
