Meet Your Candidates

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a two-part series about candidates for village trustee in the March 8 elections. Each candidate was asked to fill out a questionnaire concerning his or her background, qualifications, and views on various issues. Each candidate was given the same questionnaire.

This week's profiles center on Richard Rigg and Jon Veurink, the two candidates for the only available one-year seat. The seat would not ordinarily be available. However, Gary Bentley resigned early in his two-year term and Connie Woodruff was appointed to fill out the first year. She decided not to run.

Richard Rigg, 49, 143 E. Middle St., a native of Decatur, Ill., is a management engineer in Engine Performance and Systems Development at Chrysler Proving Grounds. He has a bachelor's degree in business administration and has taken a variety of courses, such as digital electronics, product liability, and the recent Chelsea Community Leadership course offered through the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

Rigg ran unsuccessfully for trustee in the mid 1980s. However, in 1976 he served as a trustee on the Manchester Village Council, where he assisted with parks and recreation and grant-writing for Chi-Bro Park.

"I want to fulfill a genuine desire for public service and a belief that I can make Chelsea even a better place to live and retire in," Rigg said.

Rigg says he has perseverance, is a good listener, and knows "the difference between doing a job and doing a job well." He said his experience in road construction procurement, budgeting, and hazardous materials handling would be useful as a trustee. He said he has "personal contacts" in surrounding villages and townships and while he may not have the answer to every question, "I do know the people who have the answers."

Rigg calls "funding for projects like the closing of the dump," as the top problem facing the village. He suggested the village might want to build a new solid waste transfer station and "sell back" to surrounding villages and townships to provide additional funds. He'd like to see Washington St. repaired but said, "there again; funding may be the problem."

Other issues/problems he'd like to see addressed include the following:

- Finalizing new softball diamonds and parking for Dana Park;
- Construction of a village golf course;
- Construction of jogging trails;
- Elimination of taxes for senior citizens living on fixed incomes;
- Increased funding for the Chelsea Fire Department;
- Attraction of new businesses to the industrial park;
- Increasing the water processing plant and building another water tower.

Although he has "read two papers and attended one meeting," regarding the possible change from a village to a city, "I need more questions answered," before deciding whether to support the idea, Rigg said.

He supports treating the surrounding townships, "as we would our neighbors. However, my priority is certainly with the village in any matter of convenience or cost."

Among Rigg's current and past community affiliations are the Chelsea First United Methodist church, Chelsea Area Players, Chelsea United Way, Chrysler Management Club, Manchester Optimist Club, Manchester Jaycees, Manchester Masonic Lodge No. 148 F & AM, and Manchester Chicken Broil Board.

His wife, Mary Lou, is director of the western region for Washtenaw Community College. Their daughter, Mary Elizabeth, is a graduate student at Eastern Michigan University. Their son, John, is a musician and song writer.

JON VEURINK

Jon Veurink, 28, 18 Chestnut St., is a native of Hart. He and his wife, Terri, moved to Chelsea in 1989 from an apartment in Ann Arbor, where they had lived two years.

Veurink is a certified public accountant. He's a manager in the audit department of Deloitte & Touche, a large public accounting firm. He has a bachelor's degree in accounting from Alma College.

Although Veurink is new to Chelsea politics, he has served as a precinct delegate for the Washtenaw county Republican Party from 1990-92.

"I want to be involved in Chelsea's future," Veurink said of his reasons for running for office.

"Chelsea will face various challenges in the future, from the landfill issue and city status, to how to make up the revenue gap if property tax reform passes the state legislature. I think I can offer a business and financial perspective to

Council Bans Smoking In Village Offices; Air Quality Discussed

What began as a proposal to ban smoking in all village-owned buildings ended up as a discussion about the over-all air quality in the village office complex on E. Middle St.

Village council voted 6-1 last Tuesday to prohibit all smoking in the office building. The ordinance will also ban smoking in the fire department, department of public works, and the electric and water-building, except in the service bays. Trustee Stephanie Kanten, a smoker, was the dissenter, although Joe Merkel, another smoker, wanted to table the issue again.

Village manager Jack Myers, also a smoker, said he made the original proposal "strictly to protect the village," in light of the state's 1988 Clean Indoor Air Act and recent research pointing toward the dangers of "passive" smoke. The village ordinance states specifically that the office building does not have adequate ventilation to permit smoking under the state act.

Georgia Beeman, Myers' secretary, said "daily I'm subjected to second-hand smoke," and urged council to pass the ordinance.

However, Lynda Collins, a police department dispatcher and smoker, who said she had done "a lot of research," turned the discussion toward the over-all air quality of the building, saying she had been told by the Washtenaw County Health Department that the office complex may be a "sick building." Sick building syndrome is when the inside air of a building is considered to be polluted—radon and formaldehyde are two common contaminants. She suggested that if the building is "that poorly ventilated" that there may be problems with pollutants other than tobacco smoke. She said, for example, that the building's furnace is not routinely serviced.

There were suggestions that village employees have had headaches and other symptoms that may be related to the indoor air.

After the meeting, one village official said the matter of polluted air in the building would never have come up had Myers not proposed the smoking ordinance.

Friday, Myers received a request from the Fraternal Order of Police, which represents the Chelsea Police Department, for a special meeting to discuss possible polluted air.

"These are really two different issues," said village president Richard Steele before the vote.

"We are going to have to address [the indoor air quality]."

Steele said Friday that he wants the village to seek several proposals before the indoor air is tested.

Several other people commented on the smoking issue. Although virtually all discussion focused on the impact on village employees, the ordinance is also designed to protect anyone who enters village buildings.

Zoning Inspector Rosemary Harook, a smoker, questioned whether the ordinance would discriminate against smokers. She suggested that a second-floor women's restroom could be converted to a smoking area. However, Myers said there is no room in the building where smoking could be allowed, due to restrictions in state law. The law says non-smokers have to be put near sources of fresh air while smokers have to be put in exhaust areas.

Myers said that he was told by consultants that it would be too expensive to consider installing an exhaust system that would meet state requirements. However, he did not cite a cost.

Fire chief Bud Hanker suggested that the ordinance should prohibit smoking in village vehicles.

"We did not include village vehicles, but we could have," Myers said.

Steele said it was not the village's intention to go beyond the state law.

Police chief Lenard McDougall earlier said he would enforce the law although he doesn't agree with it. When asked his opinion at last Tuesday's meeting he replied with a poem.

"I don't smoke and I don't chew

"But I go with the girls that do."

Violation of the ordinance, which applies to anyone in the buildings, carries a $100 civil penalty. It goes into effect 20 days from today.

Myers said additional signs will be posted in the office building.

School Board Hears Presentation on New Press/Concession Areas

Chelsea Board of Education Monday night heard a presentation on the proposed press box/concession stand project from Rod Payne, president of the Chelsea Athletic Boosters club.

The club plans its most ambitious fundraiser ever to pay for the project. A new press box would be built on the site of the current one at the high school varsity football field. The concession stand/restroom building would be constructed near the entrance to the football complex. The idea is it could be used by fans from the visitors' side of the football field as well as softball and baseball fans.

The board gave its approval and support for the project. The boosters want to complete the project in time for next football season.

In other business, the board approved a contract with the architectural firm of Greiner, Inc. to work on details of a possible building and renovation project. A bond issue may be proposed late this summer in a special election. The contract calls for the district to spend no more than $5,000 until the election.

The board also approved the borrowing of $1.45 million to pay bills until school taxes are collected. As in past years, the district will borrow the money from the Michigan Municipal Bond Authority. Final interest rate is not yet known, said superintendent Joe Plasecki.

Council Accepts Bids For Bins at Landfill

Chelsea landfill will continue to take trash from the village and four surrounding townships once the landfill itself is filled by early next month.

Village council accepted bids from two waste haulers last Tuesday to place roll-off bins at the landfill on Werkner Rd. The move will enable the village to continue to provide current services to village and township residents. There should be no interruption of service.

Village residents will continue to use the bag-and-sticker system at the current price. Township residents who haul their own garbage to the landfill will simply dump it in a bin rather than on the ground. The bins will be located next to a wall constructed for recycling bins operated by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority. Drivers will back up to the top of the wall over the bins and drop the materials in.

The bin system is designed to be a temporary solution to the area's trash problems. It's almost certain a solid waste transfer station will be built in the area, but it will probably be at least a year before the station is in operation. It has not been decided where the facility will be built, or who will build and operate it. It could be either a public or private entity.

"There are at least three proposals that I know of," said village president Richard Steele.

Once the basic decisions are made, public hearings have to be held, site plans created and approved, and a license issued, among other time-consuming steps.

Frank Hammer, chair of the village's Solid Waste Committee, said he believes the village will not have to raise tipping fees more than 10 percent to operate the interim program. Current fees are $12 per yard for residential waste and $18 per yard for demolition.

Council accepted a bid from Browning-Ferris Industries (BFI) for a 60-yard bin to handle residential waste and a bid from Liberty Environmentalists to handle demolition in 52-yard bins. The village will pay BFI $695 for every roll-off hauled away, and Liberty Environmentalists $400.

The interim program will be able to take a total of 200 yards of non-compacted residential waste per week, according to Department of Natural Resources rules. Weekly village pick-up generates about 60 yards, Steele said.

Lima Township Supervisor Bill Van Riper praised council's action saying, "I think you did a good job."

INAUGURATION WEEK experiences in Washington, D.C., were described by two Chelsea High school seniors who were Kiwanis Club guests Monday evening. The two, Elizabeth McLaughlin, left, and J.D. Alford, third from left, were among the 12 member group visiting Washington. Counselor Sue Carter, second from left, was chaperone on the trip. Kiwanis Club member Chuck Beck, right, added some interesting sidelights when he disclosed that he had attended his senior year of high school in Washington where he served as a page in both the Senate and House.

Chelsea School District athletic director Larry Reed has resigned his position to become the pool coordinator in Tecumseh. The resignation became official at Monday night's school board meeting. The Tecumseh board also officially hired Reed Monday.

Village of Chelsea has begun work on the transfer of the administration to new manager Robert Stalker, II, who will begin work March 6. Stalker's contract was approved at the Feb. 7 village council meeting. His starting salary is $37,500 in the first year of a three-year contract.

McKernan Realty, Inc., has made a proposal to the village regarding the sale of lots in the industrial park. McKernan Realty wants to become the listing agent for the park. The company, according to a memorandum to the village, would charge a 10 percent fee. The company has also recommended the village raise its lot price from $15,000 to $22,500 per acre. The Sylvan took off its plastic and scaffolding facade earlier this month to reveal a store-front that is unique in the downtown. The magnificent building, next to Gambles on Main St., also has a tenant base that is unusual in the area.

Special Projects and Grants Director Fred Barkley unveiled to Village council members last week a plan to boost Chelsea's recreational facilities. If successful, Barkley's Project would add two softball fields, a parking lot, bleachers and a restroom on 5.8 acres adjacent to the Veterans Park on N. M-52 and Sibley Rd.

John Dunn and Matt Feeney left the bench to score a total of 20 points for the lagging Bulldogs but a full court press by the Jackson Lumen Christi squad forced Chelsea into 12 turnovers the first half and a 69-61 defeat on Tuesday, Feb. 27.

Between 70 and 100 pieces of the best student art work from Chelsea's elementary, middle and high schools will be displayed at the Eastern Michigan University art gallery on campus. Chelsea is one of only three school districts in the area invited to participate in the exhibit by Charles Fensch, professor of art education at EMU.

Varsity Bulldogs and Saline Hornets played a breathless game Friday, Feb. 23, nip and tuck all the way until Chelsea dropped six smooth free throws in the final 60 seconds for the 81-58 victory the win was Chelsea's 11th in their past 18 games.

Frank E. Abdon quietly observed his 97th birthday Feb. 28. On Feb. 25 family members surprised him by dropping in with a birthday cake, presents and cards.

An elderly Dexter ewe gave premature birth to quadruplets last week. Labor was induced a week early by veterinarian Dr. Arthur Tremper, because he feared the mother, who is partially paralyzed, would not live through a full-term birth. She is alive but weak. The lambs, although well-formed for their age, were small and all have died. Tremper said most lambs are born singly or as twins. He had delivered a set of triplet lambs this season, but had never delivered quadruplet lambs before. The ewe is owned by Gerald Straub of Madden Rd.

Philip J. Mazzotti was named general manager of Dana Corp.'s Power Take-Off Division in Chelsea last month. He commutes between the Chelsea plant and the Clutch & Marine Division in Fort Wayne, where he is also general manager.

Beach Middle school spelling bee champions are Duane Luick, sixth grade; Jeff Sprague, seventh grade; and Bill Harrison, eighth grade.

Chelsea's undefeated wrestling co-captains Kerry Kargel and Mike Gaken, both won their weight classes at the district tournament last week-end to qualify for the regionals. Tom Tirb, 112 pounds, and Jim Boylan, heavyweight, took seconds at the districts-to-also qualify.

★ Taxes Make a Bigger Difference Than You Think

By George Nastas

High taxes reduce consumer disposable income. In other words, the more of your income the government takes, the less you have to spend and the harder you have to work to earn what you need.

That's an elementary principle but one that can raise some eyebrows when real numbers are attached to it. With so much of Michigan's economy linked to the auto industry, let's apply the principle to a consumer who wishes to buy a $10,000 car. Let's assume, furthermore, that this consumer is a married female wage earner who pays a 28 percent marginal federal income tax, which means she has taxable income between $36,900 and $89,150. The earnings she needs to purchase the car, the numbers will reveal, are higher—much higher—than the car's retail price.

In 1993, all wage earners will pay a 7.65 percent payroll tax (for Social Security and Medicare) on the first $57,600 of earned income. In Michigan, wage earners also will pay a 4.6 percent state income tax on taxable income.

Furthermore, the individual in this example must plan on paying a non-deductible 4 percent Michigan sales tax, so $400 must be added to her car's retail price. It will now cost $10,400.

Keep in mind that Michigan income tax is deductible on her federal tax return while the payroll tax is not deductible on either her federal or state return.

Given this tax situation, the question is this: How much money must our would-be car buyer earn in order to have enough left after taxes to be able to pay $10,000 for her car? After the required mathematical gymnastics, the answer is $17,038.57. That's the amount of earnings, on which the various taxes and tax rates cited above are levied, that will end up yielding $10,000 in funds available for the purchase.

In a world of zero taxes, one would have to earn $10,000 to buy a $10,000 car. But in the current, high-tax world of our consumer, she must first earn $17,038.57, then make the following payments before ending up with $10,000:

Michigan income tax ($17,038.57 x 4.6%)	$ 783.77
Federal income tax [($17,038.57 - 783.77) x 28%]	$4,551.25
Federal payroll tax ($17,038.57 x 7.65%)	$1,303.45
Michigan sales tax ($10,000.00 x 4%)	$ 400.00

So, it turns out, the $10,000 car for this consumer in this fairly common circumstance is really a $17,038.57 car. Income, payroll and sales taxes raise the earnings required to buy the product by slightly more than 70 percent.

This is not to say that our consumer has nothing to show for the $7,038.57 she paid beyond the retail of the car. Taxes buy us all at least some things we wouldn't want to do without—national defense, roads, courts, and police protection, to name a few. It is just as true, however, that the more that government taxes for things it shouldn't be involved in and the more it wastes tax dollars on anything it does no matter how legitimate, the harder it is for people to get what they want and thereby "stimulate" the economy.

When government's purchasing power rises, the "trade-off" is that private purchasing power falls and to one degree or another, so does economic growth. That fact has been apparent for a long time to economists who compare economic growth rates across states.

A September 1992 Mackinac Center report cited figures that clearly showed a relationship between taxes and economic growth. For instance, the five states that raised taxes the most between 1978 and 1987 saw real per-capita income fall by an average 1.1 percent, whereas the five states that reduced taxes the most saw real per-capita income increase by an average 8.5 percent.

Moreover, the five "tax increase" states saw their unemployment rates go up by an average of 2.6 percent, while the five "tax cut" states in the same period enjoyed a decline in their unemployment rates of an average 0.5 percent.

The inescapable bottom line here is as profound as it is simple: taxes do make a difference—in what it takes to buy a product and in what it takes to make a free economy flourish. The next time you buy a car—or anything for that matter—think of its cost in terms of what your gross earnings have to be in order for you to afford it and that just might put a new light on why our economy is so sluggish.

Police Department Orders Cruiser

Chelsea Police Department has ordered a new police cruiser from Palmer Ford-Mercury in Chelsea for $13,061.

The only other bid, from a Lansing dealer, was $100 lower. Police chief Lenard McDougall said the Ford Crown Victoria meets the standards of the Michigan State Police.

The vehicle will be purchased in the village's new fiscal year beginning March 1.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

You would think, Bug Hookum allowed at the country store Saturday night, that for all the misery it causes the human race there would be a research foundation and regular fund raising drives to fight the common cold. Bug said his number came up again early in the week. He ain't felt up to doing his regular reading, but he had give some thought to the way medicine is moving.

Doctors won't tackle colds because they know they can't win, so they treat the symptoms and let the disease alone. But Bug said they don't mind taking on anything new because they can't lose. If it works, great, if it don't they give it their best shot, and they broke new ground for science. Bug noted that ape and pig livers are used to keep patients alive until human donors are found, so he was of a mind that it's just a matter of time before more animal organs are stored for replacement parts. Furthermore, mechanical hearts are in the news again, so research still must be going on to come up with one that will work permanent. The next sound we hear will be ads for chains of people parts stores across the country, was Bug's words.

The fellows were general agreed that wonders in medical science never cease, but Clem Webster pointed out that keeping folks alive longer comes with another set of problems. For instance, Clem saw where a recent report by the Employee Benefit Research Institute found that 37 million Americans had no health insurance in 1991, and that number had to go up last year. It's bad that most of the uninsured work full time as head of families; Clem said, but it's worse that many of the sick are caught between jobs and Medicare and are piling up medical bills their families will never be able to pay.

As for the public health, Zeke Grubb took note that the latest report claiming people really do get cancer from other people's cigarette smoke is bound to open another can of legal worms, not to mention the millions of dollars the tobacco companies will pay lobbyists to keep legislators in line. Zeke already saw where smokers are working up a class action suit because they are discriminated and otherwise done wrong unto when they have ever legal right to feed their habit. They are saying we'd have a far healthier country if Governments at all levels put as much effort into fighting illegal drugs as they do attacking and taxing the legal ones. The hard fact is, Zeke declared, Governments look at illegal drugs the way doctors do colds. They can't cure the ailment so they view the symptoms with alarm and keep running up bills for their services.

General, Zeke went on, there's a heap more viewing than doing in ever situation. "Every problem comes complete with groups that meet regular to share their concern over it. Folks in the country worry about crime and the homeless in the cities, and the well fed and warm in the city get together and lament the bad education and medicine in rural areas.

Personal, I'm with Zeke on viewing and doing. So we got to nip this crisis in Poland in the bud and outlaw imports of three-way chess that recent was invented there. It is bad enough that Poland give us the Rubik cube that just about wrecked our mental health.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Savor Family Meals

By Debie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

Here are three types of family mealtime interactions. Which does your family fit?

• Refueling or pit-stop meals. Characterized by little conversation, other than "pass the salt," "yuck!" and "gotta go." Time is important here, not people.

• Cold or hot warfare meals. Characterized by cold shoulders and stares, purposely ignoring each other, or by openly hostile behavior spiced with cutting or nagging remarks directed at one or all the members.

• Dart throwing meals. Characterized by the continual criticizing of others outside the family. Someone is talked about or put down at each meal.

Instead of these less than desirable mealtime interactions, try a positive approach. During 1993, make the most of the time you have together as a family, including mealtime. Encourage family members to bring up and talk about interesting bits of information. Conversation may include world events, individual experiences and accomplishments or disappointments, funny stories, new family activities or future plans.

Not every meal can be perfect. However, you can encourage positive interactions. With a little practice, they'll become a new way of life at the dinner table.

CHELSEA DEPOT

In the 1830s the Congdon brothers, Elisha and James, settled the land where Chelsea is located. In 1848 they offered the Michigan Central Railroad a free site on which to build a station. They and succeeding structures were freight stations. The first shipment sent on May 2, 1850, was a barrel of eggs weighing 130 pounds. For a time more wool was shipped from Chelsea than from any other place in the state. Grain, apple, stock and meat shipments were also large. In 1880 the Michigan Central established Chelsea as a passenger service point. The depot was built with two waiting rooms—the east for women and children, the west for men. In 1880, Chelsea was chosen by the Michigan Central Railroad for an experiment in upgrading the appearance of rural stations. Mason and Rice of Detroit were commissioned as the new station's architects. Their design was Victorian, characterized by numerous gables and gingerbread embellishments. This depot served patrons of the Michigan Central until 1975 when the company was taken over by Amtrak. In 1981, Amtrak discontinued service to Chelsea and closed the station. Fearing damage from prolonged neglect in 1985, area citizens formed the Chelsea Depot Association to restore the building. The group purchased the depot that year, and restoration began in 1986.

Winter Fleece Fair Slated Saturday at Beach School

The sixth annual Winter Fleece Fair sponsored by the Spinners' Flock will be held Saturday, Feb. 20 at Beach Middle School in Chelsea. Approximately 500 visitors, some from out of state, look forward to this semi-annual handspinning event. Admission is free to all. Doors are open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at this evening event.

Many handspinning come for freshly spun fleeces or carded wool to spin for their next sweater. Other visitors enjoy watching spinners working at their wheels, creating custom yarns from a wide variety of fibers. Knitters and weavers, the boutique items, planning their own creative projects using handspun yarns.

A hand-made wool table scarf, made co-operatively by the members of the Spinners' Flock will be awarded to the lucky winner of a drawing. The scarf is handwoven of handspun yarn in shades of rose, blue and violet. The proceeds of the drawing will benefit Chelsea Education Foundation.

Spinners' Flock is an enthusiastic group of handspinning who promote all forms of woolcraft and fiber arts. They meet monthly at Beach school and welcome visitors and newcomers. For information, phone Mary Jane at (313) 428-3342 or Charlotte at (313) 475-8168. In today's high-stress world a surprising number of craftpeople find relaxation from learning the ancient skill of handspinning. Their friends and family benefit by receiving hand-made caps, scarves and sweaters that are great protection from Michigan winters.

Some members of The Spinners' Flock raise sheep and provide specially selected fleeces in natural black, brown and gray colors for other handspinning. Sorting, washing, carding, dyeing, and spinning local wool into unique yarns for needle work is not the only use for these quality fleeces. Non-spinners are encouraged to learn felting, locker-hooking, and kiwi craft. Quilt and comforter batts and felt rugs are produced. The Fleece Fair features a huge variety of products utilizing wool, an abundant, renewable, biodegradable, local resource.

EDUCATION RESEARCH

★ Teen-Age Boredom:

Symptoms and Solutions

Reston, Va.—"I'm bored," they sigh heavily. What parents have not heard their teen-agers utter this familiar phrase? Most parents are so busy with their lives that they cannot fathom how their offspring find time to be bored.

To adults, "boring" usually applies to not having something interesting to do. Teens feel the same way, and if they are generally happy, healthy, and meeting school and home responsibilities, parents need not be alarmed by occasional utterances of boredom. However, some teens say they are bored when they feel depressed, unfocused, anxious, overwhelmed by schoolwork, and socially unconnected with their peers. Responses to boredom can range from harmless to life-threatening and may include talking loud in public, "hanging out," going to the mall, throwing parties in unchaperoned homes, sex, or drugs—anything that is immediately gratifying. If there are radical changes in behavior, physical appearances, friendships, and school performance, a professional evaluation may be necessary.

Many teen-agers complain of boredom whenever something is demanded of them, and therefore not in their control. Unfortunately, school falls into this category. School boredom can have severe consequences: poor students drop out, average students—and top students never reach their full potential, and teachers lose the incentive to teach.

Boredom in school frequently is found in high-ability and high-achieving students when they are not being effectively stimulated and challenged. Schools can help ease boredom by involving students in decision-making and encouraging creative thinking.

Still, many students who are bored in school are not excited about activities outside of school, either. Boredom can't always be attributed to students or schools, but to combined factors including the student's personality, schools, socio-economic levels, and family environment. Parents can help counteract their teen-agers' boredom in the following ways:

- Be a good listener, supportive, and understanding.
- Ask questions: "When do you feel bored, what does 'bored' feel like, how can we help?"
- Encourage school involvement. Show interest in their academic and co-curricular activities.
- Do not try to overcompensate for inactivity by pushing them to become involved in every activity. Rather, encourage them to hone in on one or two interests.
- If they say they do not have interesting things to do, suggest projects and social events. Offer to plan something together, such as a household or school project or family vacation.

- Encourage reading and creative activities.
- Suggest a part-time job or volunteer work in an area they enjoy, providing it will not interfere with school and home responsibilities.
- Do not over-react to their boredom. Most teen-agers need some "down time" to get in touch with themselves.
- With your help, boredom can be replaced with positive, fulfilling activities that will promote self-esteem and prepare your teen-agers for the future. In all likelihood, they will one day be so busy they will almost forget how boredom felt.

★ Fighting Costs of Prescription Drugs . . .

If the cost of prescription medicines is breaking your health care budget, you are not alone. Consider the concern of University of Michigan pharmacist Richard F. de Leon.

According to de Leon, pharmacists worry that the high costs of new drugs created with sophisticated genetic engineering technology, combined with average annual price increase of 10 percent to 15 percent for existing drugs, could push the United States into a system of rationed health care.

Although consumers will ultimately pick up the tab for spiraling prices, de Leon said they have little control over how much prescription medicines cost. "The problem is that there's no mechanism in place to regulate prices, particularly for new medications," said de Leon, director of Pharmacy Services for the U-M Hospitals.

Pharmaceutical manufacturers maintain it costs an average of $300 million in research and development costs to bring a new drug to market, according to de Leon. He is critical of the billions of dollars drug manufacturers spend annually on sales representatives and promotional campaigns aimed at physicians and pharmacists.

"Physicians have no economic incentive to consider low-cost alternatives when they prescribe a medication," de Leon said. "Many prescribers aren't aware how much patients or their insurance companies must pay for these drugs." Those who are best informed, he said, often ask that a less-expensive generic equivalent be dispensed.

Community pharmacists are in a good position to help consumers economize as much as possible with prescription medications, de Leon said. But first, consumers must be aware of drug pricing and be willing to complain when prices go up. Here is what de Leon said consumers can do:

- If you are concerned about prescription drug prices and marketing practices, contact your state and federal legislators.
- Let your physician and pharmacist know about your concern—whether or not you have prescription insurance coverage.
- Keep a written record of all your prescription medications and how much they cost. Take it with you to every physician office visit. If your physician prescribes something other than your usual medication for the same condition, ask why or ask your pharmacist to check for you.

Village Candidates

these problems. Also, I want to see Chelsea retain the charm and character that made me want to move here."

Veurink, who describes himself as financially conservative, said his job involves dealing with a wide variety of businesses, including many in the Chelsea area. He said he has experience with manufacturers, retailers, governmental agencies, new start-up businesses, locally-owned businesses, and international conglomerates.

"This diversified exposure should help me respond creatively and with a broad financial insight to the challenges the village faces."

He calls the landfill issue and a potential revenue loss through property tax reform as the most serious issues facing the village (The Senate-passed proposal calls for a freeze for municipalities and a rollback for schools. Nothing has passed the House).

"This could cause the village to look for ways to provide the same level of services, but with less money."

Veurink said he has not made up his mind about possible city status for the village, although he is leaning toward it.

"As a basic principle, I believe that decisions made locally are better than decisions made at the state and federal level," Veurink said.

"To the extent that city status allows us to increase our local autonomy, I would support it."

The Veurinks have a daughter, Kelsey, born in September.

Jon co-chaired Chelsea's 1992 Fourth of July Fireworks Celebration. He's a member of the Chelsea First United Methodist church and serves on the program committee of the Area Business Connection, an Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce program to promote county business interaction. He previously served on the program committee of the New Enterprise Forum, which helps entrepreneurs prepare business plans and presentations for potential investors.

When you select a pharmacy, choose one that maintains a permanent record of all medicines prescribed for you and your family. Insist that the pharmacist, instead of a store clerk, give you the medication and answer questions about its use and interactions.

Ask your pharmacist whether a generic medication is available.

Ask your physician whether you are eligible for special financial assistance programs created by some pharmaceutical manufacturers to help low-income patients afford expensive medications.

Be aware that direct marketing to consumers through television and magazine advertisements, like recent campaigns for allergy medicines, puts you in the position of asking your doctor to prescribe a certain product. Follow your physician's guidance, rather than pressuring him or her for a particular medication.

Sheriff's Deputies Report Drunk Driving, Fraud

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents Jan. 27-Feb. 9 in Dexter, Chelsea, Scio township and Dexter township.

On Jan. 27, a former employee of a car dealership in the 3000 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township, is accused of fraud. It is believed, the 25-year-old Milan man sold a used car in May and asked the buyer to write a check for $250 to him for his commission on the sale. He was fired in August and the transaction was discovered in October. The dealership hired a private investigator to persuade the Milan man to return the money. When his attempts failed, the sheriff's department was called.

On Jan. 31, a 25-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Jackson Rd. near LeMay Rd., Scio township. The sheriff's department was contacted by a citizen who initially saw him driving down the road without his lights on. The vehicle then came to a stop and the man was discovered passed-out in his car on Jackson Rd. The responding deputy woke him and placed him under arrest. He was taken to Washtenaw county jail.

A 28-year-old Eaton Rapids man was issued two citations for impaired driving and speeding on west-bound I-94 near Zeeb Rd., Scio township. The man was driving 70 mph in a 55 mph zone. The deputy allowed the man's girlfriend to drive the couple home.

On Feb. 2, malicious destruction of property was reported in the 8000 block of Main St., Dexter. A 30-year-old resident said someone used a blunt instrument to damage her 1991 Chevrolet while it was parked in a nearby parking lot.

A 25-year-old Birmingham man was issued a citation for open intoxication in a motor vehicle when he was stopped on Jackson Rd. near Staebler Rd., Scio township. He was initially pulled over for defective equipment because his vehicle's headlight was out. He passed the sobriety tests administered, but his car was impounded for expired plates.

On Feb. 4, a 39-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Scio Church Rd. near Strieter Rd., Scio township. He was initially stopped for traveling 83 mph in a 55 mph zone. He failed the sobriety tests administered and was taken to Washtenaw county jail.

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 5500 block of Cambridge Ct., Scio township. A 25-year-old resident's 1992 Ford Escort had "killer" written on the driver's side door.

James E. Dudas, 44, of Howell was arrested during a traffic stop for two bench warrants out of Livonia and Jackson. He was transported to the Jackson/Washtenaw county line and given to the Michigan State Police.

The part-owner of a business in the 2900 block of Liberty Rd., Scio township reported a former employee, who had not worked for her in six years, has been sending disturbing letters. The Grosse Ile Police Department has been contacted by the sheriff's department for additional information about the suspect, who lives in that city.

On Feb. 5, a Stockbridge man, his two teen-age sons and his brother went through the ice on Lake Winnewana in Chelsea when they tried to drive across the lake in a Chevy Blazer. They all escaped uninjured, but the 4x4 Blazer sank.

An employee of a car dealership in the 3500 block of Jackson Rd. took a $10,500 Pontiac Bonneville without permission. The dealership's general manager reported the incident and he said it wasn't the first time the employee has taken a vehicle without permission. The car was later returned and the employee received a verbal reprimand. No charges are being pressed.

Henry J. Hawkins, 28, of Allen Park was arrested on a felony warrant out of St. Clair county for larceny from a building. He was stopped on east-bound I-94 near Jackson Rd., Scio township.

On Feb. 6, a 44-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor in the 9000 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township, after he was called to pick up his wife who was "considered" "intoxicated and disorderly" by a sheriff's deputy. The Ann Arbor man refused to submit to sobriety tests and was transported to Washtenaw county jail. His driver's license was destroyed.

Malicious destruction of property was reported in the 8400 block of Boenaro Rd., Dexter. A brick or rock was thrown through eight windows of a home under construction and the name "Garth Brooks" was spray painted on the wood porch. The owner of the home is a 36-year-old Northville man. He estimates over $2,000 in damages.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 6300 block of Werkner Rd., Chelsea. The incident was reported by a 36-year-old Chelsea man who was house-sitting the home of a 66-year-old man who is in Florida for the winter. Besides a TV and VCR, it is unknown the number of items stolen.

On Feb. 7, a breaking and entering was reported in the 9400 block of Gross Rd., Dexter. A 42-year-old Dearborn Heights man, who is building a house on the property, said he left a go-cart in the pole barn.

When he checked on it a week later it was missing. The go-cart is worth $625.

Ayrin B. Hilbert, 19, of Ann Arbor was arrested on a felony warrant for felonious driving. He was arrested in the 1500 block of Scio Church Rd., Scio township without incident.

Clifford A. Meier, 40, of Ann Arbor was arrested on a felony warrant for two counts of second degree criminal sexual conduct. He was arrested in the 3600 block of Dexter Rd., Scio township.

Larceny from a motor vehicle was reported in the 8700 block of Harris Rd., Dexter. A 19-year-old Dexter man reported his vehicle's radio and cassette player were stolen. The vehicle was parked in his driveway, unlocked.

On Feb. 8, breaking and entering of a barn in the 17000 block of N. Territorial Rd., Chelsea, was reported. A $600 chain saw, a gun and a socket set and case were stolen from the locked barn. No forced entry was found.

Harrasing phone calls were reported in the 7200 block of W. Huron River Dr., Dexter. The office manager of a business said between Jan. 27 and Feb. 6 a male caller has been calling, using foul language and threatening to kill everyone in the building. The calls have been traced to a New York City pay phone.

A 53-year-old Dexter man was arrested on Baker Rd. near Grand St., Dexter, for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. He was initially stopped for driving his 1990 Nissan 45 mph in a 30 mph zone. He failed the sobriety tests given and he refused a preliminary breath test. He was transported to Washtenaw county jail.

On Feb. 9, a 38-year-old Ann Arbor man was arrested on Jackson Rd. near Staebler Rd., Scio township, for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. A sheriff's deputy observed the man's vehicle cross the double lines, as if to pass the vehicle in front, but instead, it almost collided with the deputy's vehicle. The man was given four sobriety tests which he failed. He was transported to Washtenaw county jail.

On Feb. 9, deputies were dispatched to Dexter High school for trouble with a student and found property. The school's assistant principal found a 14-year-old student in possession of five Remington shotgun shells. The property was taken from the juvenile.

On Feb. 10, Steven M. Kowal, 34, of Stockbridge was arrested on a valid civil warrant for child neglect. He was arrested on Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter township, after caught speeding 48 mph in a 35 mph zone. He was transported to the county jail and also cited for improper plates. His vehicle was impounded.

On Feb. 12, Todd E. Mitchell, 27, of Dexter, was arrested on a warrant in the 7700 block of Kookaburra Ct., Dexter. His warrant was issued for contempt of court in Escanaba.

On Feb. 14, a 1988 Acura Legend was stolen from the 7600 block of Grand St., Dexter. The owner, a 22-year-old woman, said she last saw the vehicle parked in the driveway of her residence. It was recovered by Westland police when they found it engulfed in flames. It was found resting on cinder blocks with its tires and rims removed. The owner said she just replaced the tires with new ones.

★ Tax Tips for Business Owners ...

No matter how large or small your business, chances are that taxes take a hefty bite out of your profits every year. The Tax Foundation in Washington, D.C. reports that business owners spend more than four months of the year working just to pay their taxes. According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, the best way to reduce the amount of time you spend working for Uncle Sam is to adopt effective tax-planning strategies.

Don't wait to begin thinking about your taxes until it's time to file your tax return. Smart tax planning throughout the year can help you maximize your business' cash flow, effectively position your company for growth, and save for your own future.

Keep track of earnings, deductions and potential tax deductions throughout the year can help you to determine the best tax moves for your company. If you're looking at an especially profitable year, you may want to extend your customers' dates of payment to defer income into next year. In addition, you should consider accelerating the purchase of tax-deductible items into the current year. These two steps can help you reduce taxable income.

Open qualified retirement plans—and contribute
You can reduce your current taxable income, save for your future and provide a valuable employee benefit by establishing a qualified retirement plan, such as a Simplified Employee Pension Plan (SEP-IRA) or a Keogh plan. Both plans enable you to make contributions using your gross income, thereby reducing your taxable income. What's more, your contributions and earnings can grow tax-deferred until the time of withdrawal. These plans are similar to IRAs in that penalties are imposed if you withdraw the money before age 59½, and there are limits on the amounts you can contribute each year.

Make estimated tax payments carefully

When estimating your tax payments, take the time to ensure that you're not overpaying the IRS and lending them money you could use to run your business. Be aware that beginning this year, corporations and individuals are subject to new estimated tax payment rules. Unless an exception applies, corporations must pay estimated taxes equal to 93 percent of their final tax bill in order to avoid an underpayment penalty. The figure was increased from 90 percent in 1991. High-income individuals and certain other taxpayers may use 100 percent of their 1991 tax to figure the amount of their first payment, but they may not be able to use that amount to figure their remaining payments.

Long tax-deductible expenses
CPAs emphasize that it's important to document throughout the year all your tax-deductible expenses, such as business meal costs (which are 80 percent deductible), business travel, promotion and advertising costs. Don't forget that fees for professional services, such as accounting and tax advice, are also tax-deductible.

Keeping an accurate log of your expenses can prevent you from overlooking tax deductions that can minimize your tax liability and give you the documentation needed to substantiate your deductions if the IRS comes knocking at your door.

Michigan Elk Herd Continues To Increase

Results of a Jan. 12-14 elk herd census conducted by the Department of Natural Resources indicate that Michigan's elk herd is healthy and thriving.

"DNR wildlife biologists report a 1993 winter herd estimate of 1,350 elk, compared to 1,200 last year at this time," Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harnes said. "The increase in elk numbers follows the large harvest of 253 elk last fall during two September elk hunt seasons and the Dec. 8-14 season."

The annual elk census was conducted by 80 DNR staff members and volunteers, both on the ground by observers on snowmobiles and in the air via a Michigan State Police helicopter. Michigan's elk are located in an area of about 800 square miles in portions of Cheboygan, Montmorency, Otsego, and Presque Isle counties in the northern Lower Peninsula.

The elk population was above DNR management objectives in southwestern Cheboygan and northwestern Otsego counties, and at or near population objectives over the eastern portion of the elk range.

Goals of the elk management program are to maintain a viable elk population, in harmony with its environment, and to provide the public with hunting and viewing opportunities.

Economic Census Forms Required of Businesses

The Census Bureau has reminded business owners that they are required by law to complete and return the 1992 Economic Census forms they received in December.

Questionnaires were mailed to more than 3.5 million businesses located in every part of the country. The forms were due Feb. 15.

To assist businesses in completing the forms, the Bureau is staffing a toll-free telephone line that will operate 12 hours daily (8 a.m. to 8 p.m., EST), Monday through Friday. The number is 800-233-6136. Very small companies that have not received an Economic Census form are not required to respond.

Taken every five years, the economic census identifies trends in business activity that are vital to measuring and encouraging growth in the American economy. The Federal Government relies on census data to develop important news of national economic change such as monthly retail sales and the Gross Domestic Product.

Cities, states, and local agencies rely on the Economic Census for regional planning and economic development in the constant battle to attract and hold business activity.

Business firms use census data for strategic planning, in marketing and production forecasts, and in the development and introduction of new products. The locations of retail outlets, the patterns of distribution systems, and the sites of new factories are frequently influenced by the results.

The information provided by businesses is absolutely confidential. By law only sworn Census Bureau employees may see the individual responses, which are also exempt from the Freedom of Information Act.

Manufacturing employment will decline by 600,000 jobs over the 1990-2005 period, but the industry will still account for almost 14 percent of total employment, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.

Strong Named Semi-finalist in Presidential Scholars Program

Tobin Strong of Chelsea is one of 2,500 semi-finalists nationwide in the 1993 Presidential Scholars Program. Semifinalists were selected from more than 2.5 million students who are expected to graduate from high school this spring.

The Presidential Scholars Program is the highest federal honor bestowed upon graduating high school seniors. This year's 141 scholars will be selected on superior academic achievement, leadership qualities, character, and involvement in community and school activities.

The semi-finalists were chosen for their performance on either the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Test (ACT), as well as students' essays, self-assessments, description of activities, school recommendations, and school transcripts. A panel of educators will review the submissions and select 500 finalists in April.

Of the 141 scholars, chosen by the White House Commission on Presidential Scholars, one young man and woman will be chosen from each state, the District of Columbia, and Puerto Rico, along with students living abroad, 20 students from the creative and performing arts and 15 students at-large.

Fireproof Your Home With These Tips

Each year, more than 500,000 home fires occur in the United States, resulting in nearly 6,000 deaths and 130,000 serious injuries. Virtually all of these tragedies are preventable.

You can assess your home for fire safety and set up a family emergency plan to guide you in the event of a household fire.

The following suggestions will help you fireproof your home.

1. Install smoke detectors on every level of the house, and in key spots such as the kitchen, stairwells, and hallways near bedrooms. Detectors are your first line of defense against fires; most fire victims die from inhaling toxic fumes rather than from being burned.

2. Make sure smoke alarms are in working order. Check each one every month according to the manufacturer's directions. Replace batteries in smoke alarms (and flashlights) every October when you change your clock from daylight saving time. This habit can double your family's chances of surviving if fire strikes.

3. See that flashlights are accessible and are in working order. They can help you escape through disorienting smoke and darkness (many home fires occur at night), or you can use them to signal for help. Keep flashlights in the kitchen, basement, family room, and near beds.

4. Make sure fire extinguishers are handy, especially in the kitchen, and teach family members how to use them.

5. Check electrical cords and plugs to make sure they are not frayed and appear solid. When using electrical appliances, pay attention to manufacturers' directions and warnings.

6. Keep emergency numbers near all telephones in the house. In addition, you should regularly review key fire safety precautions with your family.

7. Map out an escape plan with members of your family, then practice it periodically. Identify two ways out of every room, and select a central place outside where all family members will meet. These family fire drills can save lives.

8. Sleep with bedroom doors closed at night. If you did have a fire, this would help slow the spread of deadly flames, smoke and heat. In your fire drills, practice touching the door before you open it. Teach your family that if a door feels hot, they should use an alternate exit or escape out the window. If it feels cool, they can open it a crack to check for smoke. If they determine that they have a clear path from the room, they must keep low to the ground as they exit the house to minimize smoke inhalation.

9. Practice "stop, drop and roll." Teach family members that if their

We've been named a "Blue Ribbon" bank... and we're proud of it.

VERIBANC, INC., a nationally known and highly respected independent bank research firm, has selected Chelsea State Bank as one of 29 banks nationally to receive their "Blue Ribbon" award. Two other Michigan banks joined us in receiving this coveted honor, First National Bank of Iron Mountain and Hastings City Bank. It is interesting to note that of the 29 awards given nationally, Michigan had three banks recognized for safety and soundness, out of 12,061 banks nationally.

To receive the Blue Ribbon designation, we had to meet for 40 consecutive quarters, strict financial requirements including stringent thresholds for asset quality, capital strength, liquidity and other key factors.

One of the highlights is that our bank exceeded the profitability averages of all banks in the United States. The bank's regulatory capital ratios (Leverage, Tier One Risk and Total Capital Risk) exceeded the Michigan and United States averages and are substantially greater than the benchmarks established by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) for an institution to be considered "Well Capitalized." Our bank's liquid assets to total deposits, allowed an ample source of funds for lending. In fact, we are continually demonstrating our ability to meet the borrowing needs of our community area. These key financial indicators, in conjunction with VERIBANC's other stringent criteria for Blue Ribbon Banks, highlight our financial strength and soundness.

We are proud of the honor bestowed on us and thought you would like to be aware of it.

Stockbridge Group Survives Icy Plunge of Truck into Lake

Two Stockbridge pike fisherman and their teen-age nephews escaped with their lives on Saturday, Feb. 6 after their Chevy Blazer sank into ice at the Winnewana Impoundment in the Waterloo Recreation Area.

The vehicle was driven onto eight inches of ice at the small lake but eventually hit a weak spot and broke through into eight feet of water. The two men, who are brothers, kicked out the windows and managed to rescue the boys before the truck completely sank. A dog was also rescued after the back window was broken out. Everyone, including the dog, was soaked. Conservation officer Cherie Beckhorn said the situation would have been much worse if the people had been totally submerged because hypothermia would have been a problem.

The next day a scuba diving team composed of Randy Layher, Tim White, Bruce Calmes, Brian Johnson, Rob Pasternak, David Egeler, Marty Clark, Bob Renner, and Paul Otto went to the site to begin the rescue of the vehicle. They cut a 10-foot by 100-foot opening in the ice, using chain saws.

In the meantime, the owner of the vehicle, also owner of an excavating company, brought a bulldozer to the site. He had to cut a path through nearly 75 yards of trees and vegetation to get to the lake.

Divers, some of them members of the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Marine Unit, were finally able to hook the completely submerged vehicle to a tow line attached to the bulldozer.

When the vehicle was pulled to dry land, the owner soon realized he had accomplished his original mission—inside the truck was a large pike.

Beckhorn said the brothers will be billed by the Department of Natural Resources for the vegetation they had to destroy to get the bulldozer to the lake. In addition, she said, insurance does not cover cars or trucks when they are driven on ice.

"Most people don't realize that," she said.

The Department of Agriculture is suggesting that the Commonwealth of Independent States use some of its new credit guarantees to purchase high-value U.S. meat products. Economists say that each dollar of meat product sold overseas adds three or four dollars to the U.S. economy.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

TOM POULTER makes a strong move to the basket against Brooklyn Columbia Central last Friday. Poulter's 25 points led the Bulldogs to the non-conference victory. The Bulldogs will play Dexter Friday.

Dogs, Pirates Even In Conference Race

Tecumseh 66, Pinckney 63. Nothing caught the attention of Chelsea basketball fans last week more than that score. Not even the fact that the Bulldogs beat up on two opponents, the Lincoln Railspitters and Brooklyn Columbia Central Golden Eagles.

Reason is, on Friday Tecumseh handed the Pirates their second Southeastern Conference loss, throwing the SEC title race into a virtual tie. Pinckney and Chelsea have two league losses, although Pinckney has played one more game.

The Pirates have to play Lincoln on the road and Chelsea at home. Chelsea has a game this Friday in Dexter, followed by a home game against the Indians, then the season finale in Pinckney.

"We have three games left and they all stand to be very difficult," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

Last Tuesday the Bulldogs avenged an earlier one-point loss to Lincoln with an 84-69 pounding of the Railspitters in Lincoln. Chelsea jumped out to a 12-2 lead and was never seriously challenged.

"We played consistent basketball for four quarters and built our lead two points at a time," Raymond said.

"We never had any big runs, but we just continued to build our lead. That's a good way to play. Normally, what happens at Lincoln is they come out all excited and jump on you early, then you spend all night coming back. This time we came out excited and their kids, for whatever reason, never responded. They were still in the race with three losses."

After leading 17-10 at the end of the first quarter, Chelsea outscored the Railspitters 27-17 to take a commanding 44-27 lead at half-time. By the end of the third quarter, the Bulldogs led 65-40. Even with the big lead, Raymond was reluctant to go very deep on his bench until late in the game because "Lincoln can be very explosive."

Lincoln was content to play zone defense most of the night, but it didn't seem to bother the Bulldogs who got the ball to Colby Skelton at the high post and Tom Poulter at the low post for 13 early points and 42 points for the game.

On defense, Raymond put Pat Steele on high-scoring center Scott Chatfield. The Lincoln star, one of the top scorers in the area, finished with 18 points, but "he had no effect on the game—he really had to work just to get the ball in the first half." As a team, the Bulldogs forced 31 turnovers.

Skelton finished with a team-high 25 points and Poulter had 17. Other scorers included Nick McCalla 10, Chris Dunham 7, Cory Brown 7, Steele 7, Dana Schmunk 6, Aleksander Selmanovic 4, and David Stimpson 1.

Chelsea was 32-66 from the field (49 percent) while Lincoln was 25-64 (39 percent). The Bulldogs had an off-night at the line, 16-28, while Lincoln was 16-30. Chelsea had 26 turnovers and held a 47-46 rebound advantage. Poulter had nine rebounds and Skelton eight. Dunham led with eight assists and Steele had four.

On Friday night at home against Brooklyn Columbia Central, Chelsea broke away in the second half to win 86-65. The Bulldogs were ahead 36-31 at the intermission, but out-scored the Golden Eagles 24-17 in the third quarter to take a 12-point lead.

"Our games with them are always the same," Raymond said.

"They play a helter-skelter kind of game and if they're making their outside shots the game will be close. If they aren't, we'll win by 20."

The Bulldogs may have been hampered early, in part, by having no school Friday. Play was uninspired early—"our defense was nothing special," Raymond said. Chelsea didn't rebound well and got few easy baskets off turnovers. Poulter carried the bulk of the scoring load in the first half with 16 points, all inside or at the line.

That all changed in the second half with a tough pressing defense that resulted in several fast-break opportunities. Steele scored 12 in the second half and Selmanovic put in most of his season-high 13 points in the fourth quarter.

Poulter finished with a career-high 25 points and a team-high 11 rebounds. Other scorers included Steele 14, Skelton 12, Schmunk 7, Dunham 6, McCalla 5, and Brown 4.

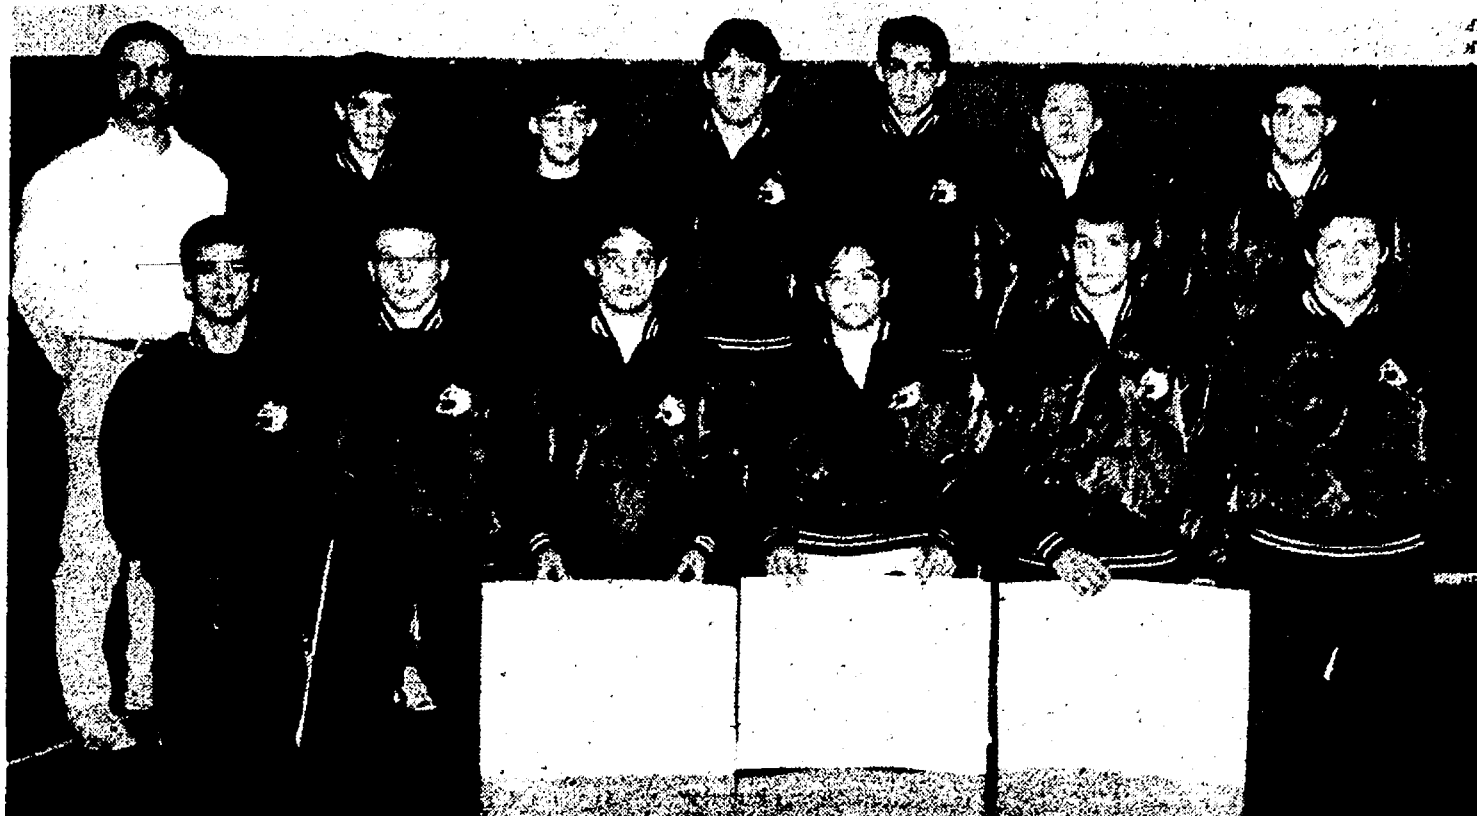

Chelsea was 31-76 (41 percent) from the field and 21-37 (57 percent) at the line. Central hit 39 percent from the field and 66 percent from the line. The Bulldogs finished with 57 rebounds to 50 for Central, and had 13 fewer turnovers, 22-35.

Selmanovic and Schmunk each had nine rebounds and Dunham had a team-high five assists.

Chelsea was 12-3 over-all and 7-2 in the SEC heading into last night's game at Jackson Northwest.

Chelsea Wrestlers Win Share of SEC Crown

Chelsea Bulldog wrestlers tied for the Southeastern Conference championship with the Dexter Dreadnaughts last Saturday by winning the SEC Tournament at Milan.

Chelsea, in second place with a 5-1 record in dual meets, needed to finish ahead of the Dreadnaughts in the tournament to earn a piece of the title.

"The kids came to wrestle," said Chelsea coach Kerry Kargel.

"They looked sharp and aggressive. Two weeks ago I thought we might be in trouble. I'm very happy with the way the season has turned out."

Chelsea took the tournament with 172, while Dexter placed second with 156, Saline third with 136, Milan fourth with 90.5, Pinckney fifth with 82.5, Tecumseh sixth with 53, and Lincoln seventh with 30.

The Bulldogs had six wrestlers reach the championship round, and three, Ian Dyer at 145 pounds, Kevin McCalla at 152, and John Bobo at 160 were champions. In all, 11 of 13 Bulldogs placed in the top four.

Dyer, who last year won the title at 140 pounds, pinned Scott Arrowood of Lincoln in :43, and Todd Oswald of Tecumseh in :37 before edging Dexter's Andy Bobo in the finals, 3-2.

"One of the reasons that final match was so close is Ian missed three days of practice because he was sick," Kargel said.

"When that happens, he's going to lose a little sharpness."

McCalla, last year's champ at 145 pounds, earned a 7-5 decision over Frank Samples of Pinckney, pinned Heath Plate of Tecumseh in :59, then decisioned Gerrod Visel of Dexter, 6-0. Two weeks ago, McCalla beat Visel in over-time.

Bobo, the number two seed, pinned Justin Mayville of Pinckney in 1:00 and Corbett Kriepner of Dexter in 1:33 before edging Saline's Greg DeGrand in the finals, 7-6. Bobo reversed DeGrand with two seconds left for the victory in what Kargel called "a major upset."

Second-place finishers included Tim Wescott, wrestling a weight class above his normal place at 125, Todd Watson at 130, and heavyweight Rob Bergman.

Wescott won by void before pinning Tecumseh's Brandon Nolan in :58 to reach the finals. Kargel elected to hold Wescott out of the finals due to a recent injury.

"Timmy said he could wrestle but at that point I didn't think anyone could catch us so I held him out," Kargel said.

Watson, the fourth seed at 130, pinned

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

What was supposed to be a "rebuilding" year for the Chelsea Bulldogs wrestling team has turned into just another championship season for coach Kerry Kargel and his boys.

The Bulldogs easily won the Southeastern Conference Tournament last Saturday, whipping second-place Dexter by 16 points. Dexter, winners of the regular-season with a 6-0 record, and a two-point victory over the Bulldogs, shares the title with Chelsea. Chelsea wrestling fans know that if Tim Wescott had been healthy for the Dexter match, the Bulldogs would have the undisputed title. Kargel says, with the aid of 20-20 hindsight, that he could have made one lineup shift for the Dexter match that probably would have produced the necessary three-point shift for victory.

But, as the coach says, there are so many "what-ifs."

I suppose this was a rebuilding year. At this time last season, there were seven different guys in the 13-member starting line-up, including heavyweight state runner-up Mike Terpstra. The only starting holdovers are Dan Alber, Wescott, Andrew Parker, Ian Dyer, Kevin McCalla, and Paul Taylor. Several of last year's regulars are still on the team but have simply been beaten out.

But who could have predicted that a freshman, Ray Hatch, would take fourth place in the league tournament at 103, or that John Bobo would end up a league champion at 171 and turn into one of the toughest performers on the team, or that sophomore Ryan Ludwig would place third in the league at 119 after being pressed into service late in the season for Wescott? None of those guys wrestled in the district tournament last year. Throw in the second-place performances of a couple of seniors, Todd Watson at 130 and heavyweight Rob Bergman, who also weren't starters last season, and a fourth-place finish by the coach's son, Chris, at 189, a part-time starter last year, and you have the makings of a championship team.

He may not want to, but the coach has to take much of the credit for this year's success. It's not easy dealing with a team that had so much inexperience yet so much raw talent. With that kind of situation there is the potential for disaster if kids start to become discouraged early on and lose their confidence. Kargel has kept them focused on improving their skills and believing in themselves. Congratulations to the Bulldogs.

The day all Chelsea basketball fans had hoped would come arrived last Friday when the Tecumseh Indians edged the Pinckney Pirates, 66-63.

That, of course, puts the Pirates and Bulldogs into a virtual tie for the league title with two losses each. Pinckney has two league games remaining, against Lincoln and Chelsea, while the Bulldogs have three games left, with Dexter and Tecumseh on the schedule.

In the meantime, the Milan Big Reds and Lincoln Railsplitters, who looked as though they might dominate the SEC early-on, have all but self-destructed. The two teams with perhaps the three best players the SEC has seen in several years just can't quite win the big games.

Like the Chelsea wrestling team, it looks like the Bulldog hoopsters are beginning to peak. Coach Robin Raymond has a solid rotation going with starters Tom Poulter, Dana Schmunk, Chris Dunham, Pat Steele, and Colby Skelton, and primary relievers Nick McCalla, Cory Brown, and Aleksander Selmanovic. They are playing well in virtually every phase of the game, with the recent two-game exception of free throw shooting.

Defensive intensity has been outstanding and for the most part the Bulldogs have kept out of foul trouble. Steele and Skelton always cause major problems for the other team's best players—both are masters at defensive position and drawing the charge. Poulter, who had a hard time staying in games early in the season, hasn't been disqualified in quite some time, which has helped the inside defensive play but has also been a big plus on offense. He's had several games of more than 20 points, which I never would have expected after watching him last year. He gets shots off that I'm sure will be hammered back into his face.

The Bulldogs are 10-1 since the holiday break, a mark as good as the Brian Burg-Kyle Plank team of a few years ago, and have an average margin of victory of 15 points. Even though the offense hasn't been spectacular, they're averaging 69 points, and recently about 80 points.

Point distribution also shows how well-balanced the team is. Skelton is high at 13.3, Steele follows at 12.1, and Poulter is averaging 11.9. Beyond them are Dunham at 9.4, Schmunk at 7.8, McCalla at 7.1, and Selmanovic at 6.4 and rising. That also shows how well point guards Dunham, Brown, and Selmanovic distribute the ball around.

I assume, but maybe I shouldn't, that the Bulldogs will get by the Dreadnaughts this Friday in Dexter. Steele or Skelton will draw Dexter's top scorer, Ryan Hill, and throttle the Dexter offense. The only way the Dreadnaughts will win is if the rest of the team can pick up the slack. They can't be taken lightly, though, since they are the ones who knocked Milan out of the race.

Tecumseh looms as the biggest stumbling block the following week. Somehow Indian coach Ed Oxley will find a way to use all that height to his advantage. His team is also improving every week.

Nevertheless, even if the Bulldogs lose one of those games, they'll still play for at least a piece of the SEC title in three weeks at Pinckney. Sounds like a lot of fun.

IAN DYER (on knees) of Chelsea became a two-time Southeastern Conference champion last Saturday by taking the title at 145 pounds. Last year he was the 140-pound champ.

JV Cagers Win One, Lose Another

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity basketball team lost to the Lincoln Railsplitters, 57-52, but beat the Brooklyn Columbia Central Golden Eagles, 68-46, in games last week.

On Tuesday at Lincoln, the Bulldogs didn't put together much of an offense until their 27-point fourth quarter to fight back from an 18-point deficit.

"In the second and third quarter, Lincoln picked up their play in every aspect of the game and out-played us," said Chelsea coach Dave Quilter. "In the fourth quarter we played probably our best quarter of the season and at one point sliced their lead to three points with possession of the ball."

Case McCalla and Nick Brink each scored 12 points, and Chad Brown scored 11 to lead the Bulldogs. Other scorers included Adam Beauchamp 8, Dan Wehrwein 4, Bryndon Skelton 3, and Scott Colvin 2.

Brink had a team-high 11 rebounds. Chelsea shot 32 percent from the floor and 50 percent from the line. They were out-rebounded, 39-32.

In Friday's game at home, Chelsea ran out to a 20-5 lead at the end of the first quarter, gave back much of the advantage in the second quarter, then blew the game open in the third quarter to take a 54-27 lead. In the first and third quarters combined, the Bulldogs out-scored the Golden Eagles, 45-9.

Chelsea's pressure defense forced 33 turnovers.

Bryndon Skelton and Gase McCalla only scored two points each but both players led our relentless pressure defense," Quilter said.

"Chad Brown scored a season-high 21 points while also leading the team with four steals and seven assists and played an excellent all-around game."

Brink scored 16 points and had 12 rebounds, including eight offensive rebounds.

Other scorers included Wehrwein 10, Beauchamp 7, Colvin 7, McCalla 2, Skelton 2, Josh Inwood 2, and Jamie Courway 1.

Freshman Cagers Drop Games

Chelsea Bulldogs freshman basketball team lost to the Dexter Dreadnaughts, 66-55, and Brooklyn Columbia Central Eagles, 68-47, in games last week.

Thursday at home against the Dreadnaughts, Chelsea led at half-time, 26-25, but couldn't hold on.

"We were without two of our starters, so I was glad to see the rest of the team step it up a notch," said Chelsea coach Lonnie Mitchell.

Josh Bernhard led the Bulldogs with 16 points and eight rebounds. Shane Miller added 15 points on 11-16 shooting from the line, and five assists.

Varsity Spikers Lose To Dexter, Whip Indians

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity volleyball team fell to the Dexter Dreadnaughts last Thursday, 15-12, 13-15, and 12-15, in a close contest marked by good defense and long rallies.

With the score tied at 10 in the first game, five Dexter attack errors and a Melissa Thiel kill gave the game to the Bulldogs. Chelsea led in the game, 7-1, but eventually fell behind, 9-10. With Chelsea ahead 7-4, the serve changed hands eight times.

The second game started off with Chelsea in a 0-7 hole, falling victim to attack errors and middle tips by Dexter. Eventually the Bulldogs trailed 0-11.

However, the Bulldogs rallied to trail 12-14, due, in part to kills by Gretchen Knutsen, Theresa Royce, and Thiel, and an ace by Knutsen. With Chelsea down 8-14, Gretchen Stahl had two stuff blocks and Thiel had two service aces. A Royce kill and a Stahl ace put the score 13-14. The serve changed hands five times before a Dexter tip fell in for the game-winner.

In the third game, Chelsea again fell behind, 0-7.

"It was a long, exciting match with two very evenly matched teams," said Chelsea coach Dan Montgomery.

"Our team played great, but we just got slightly out-played down the home stretch. Both teams blocked, attacked, and defended well."

For Chelsea, Kori White served a perfect 14-14, and Knutsen was 13-13. Thiel went 16-17 with three aces, Stahl was 11-13, Royce 14-16, and Tracy Patrick 5-6.

On serve receive, Jamie Collinsworth was 23-25, Royce 14-15, and White 11-11. On offense, Thiel went 35-40 for 11 kills, Royce 25-31 for 10 kills, Amy Petty 18-21 for five kills, White 18-20 for two kills, and Stahl 3-5 for one kill.

In action Monday night, Chelsea defeated Tecumseh at home, 15-4, 16-14.

In the first game, Chelsea took a 5-1 lead on a Petty kill and some "dazzling play," Montgomery said, by White, who attacked for two kills and followed with two stuff blocks. Two kills by Royce and White, and an ace by Thiel put Chelsea up 10-2. Kills by Knutsen and Petty gave Chelsea a 13-3 lead. A Petty kill produced the final point.

Chelsea trailed early in the second game, 1-3. However, three Tecumseh errors, a Thiel kill, and a Royce ace put Chelsea up 5-3. Tecumseh tied the game at 5-5.

Montgomery said the Indians appeared to grow frustrated by Chelsea's blocking and started to set to the Chelsea back row. With the score tied at 8-8, four Chelsea errors put the Bulldogs in an 8-11 hole. Tecumseh eventually led 10-14.

Two Tecumseh errors put Chelsea within 12-14. The serve then changed hands six times before two consecutive kills by White turned the momentum in Chelsea's favor. Trailing 13-14, Thiel tied the game with an ace. Kills by White and Royce sealed the game for Chelsea.

"Our middle attackers were able to score, and Gretchen Knutsen again did a great job setting the ball to them," Montgomery said.

"Tecumseh dropped an extra player back to defend and went with only two blockers, so one of our attackers was bound to be open. Kori White played an outstanding match, both attacking and blocking."

Thiel led in serving, going 15-15 with 12 points and three aces. Royce served 11-11, Knutsen 8-8, and White 4-4.

White had two stuff blocks, Stahl had two, and Thiel and Knutsen each had one.

Knutsen had nine defensive digs, Petty six, and Royce five.

White attacked 15-18 for eight kills, Petty 12-15 for five kills, and Royce 9-13 for five kills.

Chelsea is 12-11 over-all, 5-4 in the Southeastern Conference.

Lisa Hinz-Johnson To Perform In Benefit for Music Boosters

Mezzo-soprano Lisa Hinz-Johnson will be performing a Benefit recital for the Chelsea Music Boosters on Saturday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the George Prinzing Auditorium at Chelsea High school.

Ms. Hinz-Johnson was most recently named the winner of the regional National Association of Teachers of Singing competition. She has also been named as Wisconsin Singer of the Year and is a five-time NATS winner. She is double-award winner at the Minneapolis District Metropolitan Opera auditions.

Ms. Hinz-Johnson has performed several opera roles including "Carmen," "Cherubino" in "The Marriage of Figaro," "Hansel" in "Hansel and Gretel," and the mother in "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

Upcoming engagements include a "St. John Passion" with the Ann Arbor Bach Society, and a recital to be broadcast over a Detroit classical radio station.

Ms. Hinz-Johnson received her master of music degree in voice from the University of Michigan.

Ms. Hinz-Johnson is the wife of high school music director, Steve Hinz. She also teaches voice lessons.

Proceeds from this concert will be used to benefit the music departments of the Chelsea schools. Tickets are on sale at Chelsea Pharmacy.

This concert was originally scheduled for March 10 but was changed because the Athletic Department received the bid for the basketball tournament and two games are scheduled for that evening. If changing the date has inconvenienced anyone already holding a ticket we would like to apologize. If you have any questions contact Clara Smith, 475-8713.

Two Programs Slated on Week-end At Geology Center

Two programs are slated for the Eddy Geology Center this week-end.

On Saturday, Feb. 20 at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m., "Mammals in Your Backyard" will be presented. The program is designed for children age 3-6 but can be enjoyed by all. Parent or adult participation is required. The youngsters will use stories and mounted animals to gain a better understanding of why wild animals act differently than we do and sometimes even act like we do. Questions such as "Why are most wild animals afraid of people?" and "Did bears roam around your backyard yesterday?" will be a few of the topics discussed. Children will also have the chance to pet a "wild" animal.

"Life From The Sea," the third in the PBS Series The Miracle Planet, will be shown at 10:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. The program looks at the most prominent feature of earth as seen from space—the luminous blue oceans. The film shows how living organisms created an atmosphere balance crucial to the development of life.

The programs are free and open to the public. However, a state motor vehicle permit is required to enter the park.

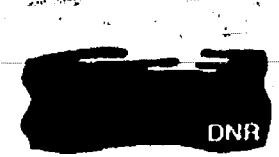

In 1881 the Federation of Organized Trades and Labor Unions, which later became the American Federation of Labor, was organized in Pittsburgh in November with 107 delegates present. Leaders of eight national unions attended, including Samuel Gompers, then president of the Cigar Makers' International Union, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Important Events in American Labor History."

MEASURING VISION IN CATARACT PATIENTS

A recent report in the Journal of Cataract Surgery discussed sure vision in patients with cataracts. In most offices, the Snellen, or "E" chart is used to determine visual acuity. A person's visual acuity is based on the smallest size letters they can identify at twenty feet away.

This is fine for people with healthy eyes, but the article points out that people with cataracts often have much worse vision outdoors than what would be measured by the indoor "E" chart. This is due to glare and reduced contrast sensitivity suffered by patients with cataracts.

Glare occurs when light entering the eye reflects off the cataract. Some cataract patients are nearly blinded outdoors on a sunny day, even though they see fairly well indoors. Another glare problem is headlights from oncoming cars. Decreased contrast sensitivity means having difficulty distinguishing objects in different lighting situations. For example, some cataract patients read fairly well as long as they're reading black print on white paper, but have more trouble with colored ink or reading print on colored paper.

The doctor's "E" chart is indispensable, but it only tells part of the story. Visual disability from cataracts may be underestimated by this measurement only. Special devices can estimate outdoor visual acuity by measuring glare and contrast sensitivity.

ORDINANCE NO. 116

ORDINANCE ESTABLISHING A SMOKE FREE ENVIRONMENT IN ALL VILLAGE BUILDINGS, AND TO PROVIDE EXCEPTIONS, ENFORCEMENT, AND CIVIL FINES FOR VIOLATION.

The Village of Chelsea Ordinance:

1. PURPOSE. The intent of this Ordinance is to eliminate the health hazards of smoking to all individuals while working in or using buildings owned or leased by the Village of Chelsea. The adverse health effects of smoking to smokers and of so-called "secondary" or "passive" smoke to non-smokers are well documented by the medical community. Such adverse health effects threaten the general health and well-being of individuals, increase insurance costs to the Village, and decrease worker productivity. The smoking ban established in this Ordinance is intended to eliminate the irritating and adverse effects of smoking thereby promoting productivity, health, and the quality of life within Village buildings, as well as lowering health care and insurance costs.

2. SMOKING PROHIBITION. Smoking is prohibited in all buildings owned by the Village of Chelsea. As used in this Ordinance, "ownership" shall be defined as any building in which the Village of Chelsea has an interest by title, lease, or deed. Any person smoking in a Village building shall be subject to a civil fine in an amount up to $100.00.

3. EXCEPTION. A designated smoking area may be established by the Village Council, from time to time, by resolution, but only in accordance with Public Act 188 of 1986, the rules and regulations of the Michigan Public Health Department, and other applicable State and Federal Laws.

4. EXCEPTIONS FOR SPECIFIC BUILDINGS.

A. The present Village Hall at 104 E. Middle Street, Chelsea, Michigan, as presently constructed and ventilated, shall not be entitled to an exemption from this Ordinance.

B. Other Village buildings may be granted exemptions if the ventilation system is found to be in compliance with said Act, Rules, and Regulations and other State and Federal Laws.

5. NOTICE AND POSTING: The smoking prohibition section of this Ordinance shall be posted by the Village Clerk at all public entrances to all buildings owned or leased by the Village of Chelsea. The absence of a posting, however, shall not bar enforcement of this Ordinance.

6. REPEAL OR AMENDMENT OF INCONSISTENT ACTS. Any motion, resolution, ordinance or other act of the Village Council of the Village of Chelsea in conflict with the terms or provisions of this Ordinance is hereby rescinded or amended in whole or in part to conform to this Ordinance.

7. INTERPRETATION AND SEVERABILITY. This Ordinance shall be interpreted in a manner consistent with all applicable State and Federal laws and regulations. Should any section, paragraph or sentence of this Ordinance be held to be invalid for any reason, such holding shall not be construed as affecting the validity of any remaining portion of this Ordinance which shall then be considered severed from the ineffective or invalid section.

8. EFFECTIVE DATE. This Ordinance shall be effective 20 days after publication as provided by law.

Cauffiel's Writing Class Brings Top Flight Guest Lecturers

Chelsea author Lowell Cauffiel's classes are designed to do for aspiring writers what the Purple Rose Theater Company is trying to do for local actors; nurture, teach, and encourage, and, just maybe, produce a star.

Cauffiel, a true crime writer who gained a national audience with his book, Masquerade, among other works, is teaching a "No-Nonsense Writing Seminar" through the Chelsea Community Education Department.

His introductory course, offered last fall, covered the basics of all sorts of creative writing, from magazine writing to short stories to novels. This winter he is teaching a more advanced level for the most serious graduates of his introductory course. Each student is preparing at least one work for publication. And each week a class member offers a piece of writing for critical review by other members of the class.

However, like actor Jeff Daniels, who has tapped his Hollywood and Broadway connections for the benefit of participants in his Purple Rose Theatre Company, Cauffiel has asked some of his literary friends to add a dimension to his class that would probably not be available at many prestigious universities.

Last Wednesday, novelist Loren Estleman spoke to the group. Estleman has written more than 30 books and created the detective Amos Walker. Many of his books are set in Detroit. He also writes westerns.

In January, television writer Steve Brown was the guest lecturer. Brown, a two-time winner of the Emmy award, wrote more than 50 episodes of "Cagney and Lacey," and "Colombo."

Cauffiel has plans to bring in a researcher for novelist Elmore Leonard, as well as a magazine writer.

"I think it's absolutely amazing that we've had people of this caliber," Cauffiel says.

"A lot of universities would love to have it so good. And there the course would probably cost 10 times as much."

For $100 for the 10-week session, the class is a bargain. When Cauffiel's friends aren't helping him out, there's

Supreme Court Asked To Review Delaney Clause

The American Farm Bureau Federation (AFBF) is asking the United States Supreme Court to review a 35-year-old, pesticide-related law, which, if rigidly interpreted, would decrease food safety and potentially force many growers out of business.

A federal appeals court ruling last July, that the Delaney Clause should be strictly applied, fails to balance the negligible risks of important pesticides with their benefits, according to a friend-of-the court brief filed by AFBF. Farm Bureau believes this interpretation also decreases food safety by banning new, safer pesticides in favor of older, more toxic pesticides.

The brief was filed in the Supreme Court case "National Agricultural Chemicals Association v. Les, Thomas, Morales, Perez and Perez." The brief contends a ruling last year by the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, located in San Francisco, applies a rigid interpretation to the Delaney Clause which would result in the cancellation of "nearly all the fungicides necessary" to keep agricultural commodities disease-free.

While recognizing the use of registered pesticides must not compromise the quality or the safety of American-grown food, Farm Bureau's brief states that, "Many growers will be forced out of business if the means to protect their growing crops are taken away from them."

always Cauffiel himself to provide the insights. And he's rapidly becoming as well known as any writer in Michigan.

Cauffiel is working on an unusual double. He's writing a book on the Bradford-King murder case, in which a man was convicted of killing his wife, a television news anchorwoman, in their driveway. At the same time, he's working on a script for a television-movie version of the story for CBS. The movie, in fact, will probably be completed before the book, Cauffiel says.

He also recently sold his Masquerade to ABC for a television movie.

The course began, Cauffiel says, because he grew tired of fielding telephone calls. He decided to put all the experience he's gained over the years in organized form. However, he's also discovered some side benefits to his courses.

"I'm learning quite a bit about my own writing," he says.

"When I see where students succeed and fail, it fuels my own ability. When I criticize what students do, it forces me to re-evaluate what I do."

★ Getting off the Lecture Circuit . . .

My great-great-grandfather Henson experienced some incredible things during his life. He hunted buffalo. He was a bodyguard for a presidential candidate. He was a scout for a pioneer company. He was the first mayor of a small western town that he helped settle.

The one thing he didn't do much was talk—or write. Especially not about himself. While our family knows the basics of his story, we don't know a lot about how he felt about things. For example, we know he lived through a frightening period on the western frontier when survival depended upon the crops that had been planted. Trouble was, a horde of crickets kept eating the crops before they could ripen. Things were looking pretty bleak for the entire community until a large flock of sea gulls came along to eat the crickets.

Folks called it a miracle. They wrote about it, sang about it and created works of art memorializing it. But not grandfather Henson. As far as we know, his only reaction to the episode was a brief journal entry: "Pests gon. Wont et no mor guls."

That's it. No elaboration or expression of gratitude. Just the facts, plain and simple.

Sometimes I'm sure my children wish I was more like grandfather Henson. At least they wish I could be like the woman who survived the ill-fated Donner expedition. Having finally arrived in California and recovered from the trauma the party encountered while snow-bound in the Sierra Nevada, she invited her family to join her in California.

"But don't take no cut-offs," she warned, "and hurry right along."

My children could handle that kind of counsel—quick and to the point. Instead they've got a father who seems to think if you spare a word you'll spoil the child.

Like last week. My 13-year-old son Joe was an hour late coming home from a church activity, and of course something needed to be said to him. So I said it. And then I said it again. And I kept right on saying it until it was difficult to know which had consumed the most time: his tardiness or my tirade. We covered a lot of territory during that lecture, from trust to self-control to the impact of high interest rates on a sluggish economy.

You don't see the connection? I guess you had to be there.

The frustrating thing about all of this was none of it seemed to be getting through to Joe. It was as if he wasn't even listening. So I pressed on, searching for the right combination of words that would trigger within him a spark of responsible recognition.

Heck, at that point I would have settled for a little subtle fear.

My wife, Anita, sat silently through all of this until I finally came up for air.

"Look, Joe," she said, "here's the deal. We expect you to be home on time. When you can't be home on time, we expect you to at least call us and let us know what's going on. If you don't, you'll lose the privilege of going next time. Understood?"

"Yes, Mom," Joe said anxiously. "I understand."

There it was—in Joe's eyes! Recognition! Responsibility! And yes, even a little subtle fear! and in 50 words or less!

"How did you do that?" I asked Anita after Joe had gone to bed.

"I just listened," she said.

"To me?"

"No—to Joe."

That was a little confusing. "But I was doing all of the talking," I said.

"I know," she replied. "But he was sending out messages—his eyes, his hands, the way he was standing. This wasn't a defiant teen-ager. This was a kid who made a bad choice. He just needed to know that it would be best if he made a better choice next time."

I was stunned. "But what about all of the stuff I talked about—you know, trust. Self-control. Obedience. The economy, for Pete's sake!"

"Oh, that was good," she said.

"Perfect."

I almost blushed. "Do you really think so?" I asked.

"Sure. You were able to get all of that frustration out of your system, and it gave me time to focus on Joe so I could figure out what he needed to hear."

So that's it for me. I'm off the lecture circuit. From now on I'm going to follow Anita's example. I'm going to talk with my kids, not at them. We're going to communicate—back and forth, not just from me to them. My children will think it's a miracle.

Or, as grandfather Henson would have said: "Ego gon. Wont et no mor crow."
