Chelsea Cagers Prepare For First Appearance In State B Tournament

Chelsea Bulldogs will make their first-ever appearance in the state class B basketball tournament when they face the St. Clair Shores Lake Shore Shorians tonight at 7:30 at Willow Run High School.

The Bulldogs used a tenacious defense and two of their best offensive displays in recent weeks to whip the Willow Run Flyers in the regional semi-finals, 66-56, on Wednesday and the Carleton Airport Jets, 79-66, in the finals on Friday to qualify for the state quarter-finals tonight.

The Shorians (25-0) are from the Macomb Area Conference. Most of their wins have been blowouts. They feature two all-state candidates in senior 6' 7" center Jon Zajac and junior 6' 3" point guard Travis Conlan, both big-time scorers.

"Their guards are extremely quick," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"They have good height and quickness and they can all run and jump. They are one of the top teams in the state in any class. Any time you can go through the season with 25 straight wins, it's a great accomplishment."

The Bulldogs will have to play outstanding defense to have a chance, Raymond acknowledged, and he believes his team "should be able to cause some problems." Junior Pat Steele, who has consistently played strong defense against much taller opponents all season, will likely take Zajac, with a lot of double-teaming when Zajac gets the ball down low. Senior Chris Dunham or junior Colby Skelton is likely to draw Conlan.

On offense, the Bulldogs will face a team that loves to trap, especially in the half court.

"Normally traps don't hurt us, but we haven't seen this caliber of players, either," Raymond said.

The keys, Raymond said, will be how well his team plays defense and rebounds, two areas the Bulldogs excelled in last week.

"We have a group that would love to play college-caliber players, not because they think they're so good, but just because they enjoy playing and would like to see what would happen," Raymond said.

Chelsea Athletic Director Wayne Welton reserved 1,000 tickets for Chelsea fans. Pre-game ticket sales are scheduled to continue until 3 p.m. today at his office. Lake Shore has reportedly sold 1,200 tickets and "they're begging for more," Welton said.

A caravan will leave from the Chelsea High school parking lot at 6 p.m.

For those who can't make the caravan, take I-94 east to the Huron St. exit near Ypsilanti and turn left. Take Huron to Michigan Ave. and turn right. Drive through downtown Ypsilanti and when the road forks, drive to the left. When you come to Spencer Rd., turn left (it doesn't go right).

Workload Heavy for Boards of Review as Residents File Appeals

It comes as no surprise to township officials that area residents are protesting their new property assessments in near record numbers. The state-wide property assessment freeze came off this year and many properties are being hit with increases well into the double digits.

Lima Township Board of Review is handling 134 appeals and supervisor Bill Van Riper called that a record.

"I've been on the board forever and I can't ever remember more than 101," Van Riper said.

Appeals are coming from owners of all kinds of property, which had average increases of 16 percent. Rulings had been made on about half the appeals as of Monday, Van Riper said. Sylvan Township Board of Review has also handled one of its highest numbers of property assessment appeals ever.

The assessments of nine percent of the parcels, 279 of a total of 2,983 in the township, were officially appealed. As of last Friday, the board had not made all their final determinations.

According to the Sylvan board, those who appealed this year generally came with more supporting evidence, such as a sales agreement or appraisal, than they have in the past. In addition, there were more applications for hardship than in recent years.

Assessor Don Schoenberg said the appeals spanned the entire township, and none were concentrated in any particular areas. The board heard from commercial and industrial businesses, as well as residents.

Sylvan township had an average assessment increase of 17 percent this year.

The next step for those who appealed but aren't satisfied with the township's ruling is to appeal to the state Tax Tribunal. The board is required to issue all rulings in writing.

Sylvan's board of appeals members are paid only for six hours worth of work. This year, however, their work has taken more than twice that many hours.

Local officials are urging their residents who are unhappy with their property assessments to notify their state representatives.

As Schoenberg said, there is almost nothing local officials can do about the property assessment mess on their own.

Almost every week, a new property tax reform proposal comes out of Lansing.

The most recent proposal would cut school-operating millages here by about 13 mills in exchange for a two percent increase in the sales tax, which has to be approved by voters. Sales tax initiatives have never been popular with Michigan voters.

Ex-Deacon Arraigned On More Sex Charges

Seven more criminal sexual conduct charges have been filed against former North Sharon Baptist church deacon Mark Foeller.

Foeller, 36, of Grass Lake township, was arraigned last week in Jackson County Circuit Court on five charges of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and two charges of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

According to prosecutors, Foeller assaulted two boys, age 9 and 11, on a camping trip at a Jackson county campground in Napoleon township in the summer of 1991.

First-degree criminal sexual conduct, which involves sexual penetration, carries a maximum life sentence. Second degree criminal sexual conduct, which involves fondling, is a felony with a maximum 15-year sentence.

A $75,000 bond was set. However, Foeller is already being held without bond in the Jackson County Jail on six other similar charges in Washtenaw and Jackson counties.

Jackson prosecutors said they believe they have a stronger case than those issued by a previous administration, primarily because the children are older and have better memories.

A trial on the previous cases in both counties has been delayed until June. Prosecutors in Washtenaw county, where the cases have been consolidated into one trial before circuit court Judge Melinda Morris, asked for more time to prepare their case.

Foeller faces three counts each of first- and second-degree criminal conduct, allegedly involving children in the church's Sunday school bus ministry.

The newest charges against Foeller, however, will be heard in Jackson county since the offenses allegedly occurred in a specific place. Previous assaults allegedly occurred on the church's school bus, and officials did not know whether they were in Jackson or Washtenaw counties, or both.

Foeller has had nine previous sex abuse charges against him dropped in both counties.

The church's assistant pastor, Timothy Leonard, has had 12 similar (Continued on page five)

County Nears Deal on Land for Golf Course

Washtenaw County Parks and Recreation Department is close to reaching a final sales agreement for a parcel of land that it would use for a golf course and winter recreation area.

Parks director Fred Barkley said last week that he has an oral agreement with the owners of the Pierce Lake property, located behind Polly's Market off Old US-12 in Sylvan and Lima townships.

"I'm very optimistic at this point," Barkley said.

"I think there's a very good chance of it happening." Although the department is considering other parcels, Pierce Lake is at the top of the list, he said, because of the lake and its varied terrain.

The agreement, Barkley said, may include the donation of some land, "which would lower our overall costs."

The recreation department wants to build an 18-hole golf course with a small clubhouse. In the winter, the clubhouse would be used for warming area for people who want to cross country ski, or ice fish or skate on the lake.

"Our goal is to begin construction by next March," Barkley said.

The department plans to apply to the Department of Natural Resources' Land Trust Fund for a 50 percent matching grant for the purchase of the land. He said, however, that the project does not hinge on obtaining the grant.

The golf course, Barkley said, would be designed by a professional golf architect.

Board Petitions Due Monday, April 12

Nominating petitions for vacancies on the Chelsea School Board are due by Monday, April 12 at 4 p.m.

The state legislature discovered the problems it had caused by requiring a May petition deadline and changed the date.

The Chelsea board will have two vacancies; the seats held by president

Anne Comeau and vice-president Ron Satterthwaite. So far, four nominating petitions have been picked up.

Although the district's spring break runs the week of April 3, petitions may be dropped off that week during regular school hours at the administration building at Chelsea High school.

WORKERS at Chelsea Industries, Inc., who have been trying for nearly two years to join the United Auto Workers, marched in front of the business last Friday afternoon. They chanted about several issues, and urged the company to dump its attorney. A first union vote failed by a few votes but a second vote a year later passed by a wide margin, and was later upheld in a hearing before the National Labor Relations Board. However, so far the company has successfully kept the union from gaining a foothold.

THE REV. ERWIN KOCH, pastor of St. Paul United Church of Christ, received the Humanitarian Award of the year for 1993. Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services had invited the Rev. Koch to speak at their benefit banquet Saturday evening. At the conclusion of the program he was completely surprised by the award. A plaque accompanied the award presented by the Rev. Mark Weirauch, right above. The Rev. Koch's wife and partner, Grace, is shown with them.

Village of Chelsea has yet to receive its new landfill operating license and probably won't for at least several weeks. In the meantime, space at the facility is dwindling. At the very least, the village will probably be forced to delay the annual spring clean-up, or it may be cancelled this year altogether.

United Methodist Retirement Homes has been awarded a challenge grant of $500,000 for the Renewing Old Chelsea capital campaign from the Kresge Foundation. James C. Batten, president of the Homes has announced. The funds are to be used in the renovation of the Home's existing residential areas and construction of a new 76-unit independent living apartment building which will also include the facility's recreational, social and activity spaces.

Village of Chelsea may pursue an out-of-court settlement with Art and Ruth Dills concerning the value of a sewer easement across their N. Main St. property. Village Council plans to hold an executive session with village attorney Peter Flintoft concerning the matter.

Village of Chelsea gave its official approval for the Chelsea United Methodist Retirement Home to sell tax-exempt bonds to complete its $12 million renovation and rebuilding project. After a public hearing last Tuesday, March 21, village council unanimously approved the sale of Economic Development Corporation bonds for the project. EDC gave its official approval Thursday morning.

★ A School Choice Program That's Working

By Adam DeVore

In September 1991, the Michigan Legislature required all public school districts to implement a "choice" program in the 1992-93 school year in order to be eligible for state funding. If a district had more than one elementary or more than one secondary school, it was to construct a policy for allowing parents to freely choose the particular school where they wished to send a child.

A recent study from The Mackinac Center for Public Policy revealed that very few Michigan parents today have any more choice in public education than they had before the Legislature acted. The overwhelming number of districts simply ratified existing transfer policies and called the result "choice" while doing little or nothing either to inform parents of their options or diversity offerings to make choice truly meaningful.

From the southern Wayne county town of Wyandotte comes an interesting exception. There, the school district developed a grander vision of choice than mere transfer policy and its benefits are already visible.

Wyandotte actually began its "Program of Choice" (P.O.C.) in the 1992-93 school year at McKinley Elementary, months before the Legislature's mandate. Several teachers were sent out to examine alternative programs. They were determined to find a new instructional model that was unique and effective—the main ingredients needed to catch parents' attention and give them a real choice. The model they were most impressed with was at Key Elementary school in Indianapolis, Ind.

The P.O.C. at McKinley Elementary is not all that different from what is offered throughout the district, but "it's the way they teach the curriculum that's different," according to the Wyandotte District's director of curriculum Robert J. Dunn. Based on innovative teaching methods in place at the Indianapolis school, McKinley's program seeks to provide students "the flexibility to make choices" about what they study while teaching them they also must learn to be "responsible for their time and how they use it."

Now half way through its second year, this novel pedagogy serves first through fourth grade students and will include fifth grade in the 1993-94 academic year and sixth grade the year after that. With a current maximum capacity of 125 students, enthusiastic parents have filled the program; it now has a waiting list.

An important component in the McKinley P.O.C. is involvement by parents, characterized in a consulting firm's review as "an alive, active, ongoing event," unlike many parental involvement efforts elsewhere which "are token in nature and make little impact on the learning process." Parents placing their children in the McKinley program are required to sign a written agreement that, among other things, stipulates that they will provide transportation for their children and two hours per month of in-school support. Director Dunn says that most parents spend considerably more time than the minimum expected; some spend as much as 20 hours a week at the school. Parents are also expected to meet on a regular basis with the teacher to discuss their child's progress.

McKinley principal Dolores O'Kray describes what's happening at the school as "an excellent academic and personal growth opportunity for children." She added, "I have noticed a feeling of extended family and true co-operative learning. I believe that when people have choices, they work particularly hard at making those choices successful." Indeed, a survey of parents last year indicated their overwhelming endorsement of the program.

The P.O.C. was not implemented without opposition. "We had a number of grievances filed by the (teacher's) union against us . . . on any number of grounds, anything they could think of," says Director Dunn. "There was also a need," he says, "to work on elementary principals and other professionals who did not want to see it happen."

The program survived that initial hostility and has produced expressions of support from all involved teachers. One, with 30 years of teaching experience, says it has made teaching "fun, exciting and new again."

Other districts across Michigan could learn much by studying the details of the McKinley Program of Choice in Wyandotte. Among its lessons are these:

• Choice doesn't have to mean a different building. In this case, it has meant a different program in an existing building. And state government doesn't have to force it on districts if districts really commit themselves to the concept and act on their own initiative.

• When teachers, parents, and students are all committed to an educational process, the conditions for a dynamic learning environment emerge. Choice that springs from real diversity and innovation is a powerful catalyst for those conditions.

• Choice does not have to be expensive. Director Dunn claims the McKinley program costs no more and maybe even less than the standard offering in the district.

• Entrenched teacher unions behave as though preserving the status quo is more important than the children they're supposed to teach, but creative district officials bucked up by determined parents and a few bold teachers can overcome such opposition.

The diversity and creativity that give meaning to choice in public schooling are no longer factors we have to search beyond Michigan to find. Wyandotte in Wayne county is one place where they exist today.

(Adam DeVore is an Adjunct Scholar with the Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a Midland-based research and educational organization.)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The middle was at the top of the agender during the session at the country store Saturday night after Clem Webster told the fellows he had took note of President Clinton's plan to come up with more help for the bottom by drawing more off the top to ease the strain in the middle. Clem recalled that not many months back the search was on for the middle class that was being squeezed out of sight by the richer rich on one side and the poorer poor on the other.

Clem said the new Administration has found that the middle is still holding up both ends, but it is not where the new bunch of politicians has been looking. Actual, Clem said, the middle class has been hiding in plain sight, in the military. Back in World War II the Army paid $21 a month. By the time the all-volunteer Army came along it was up to $90 a month. Now, base pay is a real living wage, and with all the health care, education, clothing, recreation and entertainment benefits, off base housing and commuting allowances, PX privileges and retirement, soldiers are better off than most of the civilian working class.

Furthermore, Clem went on, this volunteer middle class military may be the very reason it is having all the trouble about who can join and who can't. What we got to do is restore military service as a patriotic duty, and not a privilege for a few. Right now, Clem noted, private companies pay 60 cents in benefits for every $1 in salaries and they still can't compete with the military package.

What we got to do, Clem said, is bring back the draft and WW II wages, require some active and reserve time of all able to serve without discriminating on any basis whatever, and without deferments except for them willing to put in some other kind of public service.

This way, Clem went on, the services could provide basic training, offer careers for them with special skills, and keep their people busy on public projects when they're not needed for the common defense. From what he reads, Clem said, Israel, Switzerland and some other countries use and like this plan. Besides, Clem went on, he read where we are spending $3 billion of our defense budget now on what the Pentagon calls peacekeeping duties around the world, so what's wrong with keeping some peace at home.

Republican Ed Doolittle wasn't buying Clem's plan. For starters, Ed said, Democrats want to cut the arm forces, so there's no place to put all the draftees. Furthermore, Clinton's got to keep the private sector middle class working to help pay for all the new services he wants. There's nothing more natural than Democrats raising taxes and blaming Republicans for having to raise taxes, was Ed's words.

Besides, Ed went on, the Democrats are playing the same old shell game with the deficit. After promising he wouldn't, Clinton says he's got to tax the middle class more because the deficit is so much worse than he thought it was. But more revenue doesn't mean more cut in the deficit, Ed declared, so you know the extra money is going in the old pork barrel.

The trick, Ed said, is to adjust America's attitude to the idea of everybody helping pull the wagon, but the big PR job is keeping America's mind off them in the wagon.

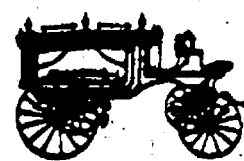

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Teddy Bear Clinic Slated Friday At North School

Some Chelsea-area kindergarten children who have wondered whether their Teddy Bears are in good health will have the chance to find out this Friday, March 26 at a "Teddy Bear Clinic" at North Elementary school. The clinic, held in conjunction with Children and Hospitals Week March 21-27, will be conducted by volunteers from C.S. Mott Children's Hospital, including employees and University of Michigan medical and nursing students.

The national event is sponsored by the Association for the Care of Children's Health.

During the 45-minute session for North's two afternoon kindergarten classes, beginning at 12:30, the medical professionals will offer "check-ups" for the children's toys (bears, dinosaurs, trolls, etc.), including exams with stethoscopes, otoscopes (for ears), and ophthalmoscopes (for eyes). They'll listen to the toys' hearts, lungs, and tummies and let the children know that their toys are in good health.

TRACY WALES, A Chelsea High school senior, center, presented a report to the Chelsea Rotary Club on March 9 on the Presidential Inauguration. Tracy and 11 other Chelsea seniors attended the Inauguration in Washington, D.C., in January. Tracy told the "behind the scenes" stories of the trip. On the way to a play at the Kennedy Center, the van piloted by Sue Carter, high school guidance counselor, was separated from the van driven by Joe Plasecki, superintendent of schools. Since Mrs. Carter's van had no map, the van passengers enjoyed a scenic tour of several Washington areas before arriving at the Kennedy Center, too late for the dinner reception. Plasecki's van load, according to Tracy, arrived even later. After the play, Shear Madness, the restaurant management served them a private dinner. The trip to the Inauguration was a wonderful experience for both students and chaperones, affirmed Tracy and Mrs. Carter. Tracy thanked the Chelsea Rotary Club for their $800 contribution that helped finance the trip. Shown in photo are Rotary Club members Gloria Mitchell and Sue Carter, left and right, respectively.

Man Hangs Out At Restaurant

Police want to question a 25-year-old Osego man concerning an indecent exposure incident at the Chelsea McDonald's restaurant on Saturday, March 13.

A 16-year-old counter attendant told police that a blond-haired man, about 5' 3", came to the counter to order a soft drink. When she handed the man his change, she noticed the man's pants were unzipped and his penis was hanging out. The man reportedly simply turned around and walked out of the store.

"I don't think he knew I noticed," the attendant told police.

The attendant immediately told her supervisor, who noted which car the man drove away in and wrote down the license plate number.

We'll give you $1,000 toward your new home.
It's not a loan. It's a housewarming gift.

If you're considering buying a home in Washtenaw County, and your household income is $36,600 or less, then Society® would like to give you $1,000. It's all part of our HomeAssist™ Program.

All you need is a 5% down payment. Society will contribute 2% of the purchase price for your down payment and pay the first-year private mortgage insurance premium, up to a combined total of $1,000.

For more information, stop by Society or call 1 (800) 554-4028. Because if you're about to buy a home, Society has the perfect housewarming gift for you.

Society

Where to grow.

Member FDIC

Example: Mortgages with Society's HomeAssist Program are available with various rates and terms to suit the borrower's individual circumstances. (Rates subject to change daily.) With HomeAssist, a $40,000 home purchase would require a 5% down payment ($2,000 total, of which $1,200 would be paid by the borrower and $800 paid by Society), leaving a mortgage amount of $38,000. In this example, your initial year of private mortgage insurance premium would be $342 ($200 paid by Society and $142 paid by the borrower). Also, using this example, amortized over 30 years at a rate of 8.75% with two loan origination fee points, the borrower would have a 9.6863 annual percentage rate of interest on the $38,000 mortgage, resulting in 360 monthly principal and interest payments of $298.95 each, plus monthly reserves of real estate taxes, homeowner's property insurance and renewal premiums for private mortgage insurance. (Borrower may choose from optional terms including a mortgage with no points.)

MICHELLE KUHL, daughter of Chelsea resident Dianne Kuhl, and Manchester resident Greg Kuhl, has been cast in the Eastern Michigan University Theatre production of "Excuse Me While I Adjust My Bra Strap." Since her arrival at EMU Michelle has been involved in many activities, including theatre and performance studies. Michelle recently performed an original piece at the National Conference on the power of performance in HIV Education, Undergraduate Symposium of Research and Creativity. CHELSEA HIGH SCHOOL SINGERS, from left, Megan Stielstra, Corrie Schoenberg, and Becky Pryor have been selected for the Youth Chamber Singers.

Three CHS Vocalists Named to Youth Chamber Singers

Three Chelsea High school students have been chosen to participate in the 1992-93 Michigan Youth Chamber Singers, part of a youth program at the University of Michigan School of Music.

Senior Megan Stielstra, daughter of Darcy and Ruth Stielstra, sings alto. Senior Becky Pryor, daughter of Thomas and Sherrill Pryor, sings soprano. Sophomore Corrie Schoenberg, daughter of Douglas and Rebecca Schoenberg, sings soprano.

All three young women are members of the Washington Street Show Choir.

Stielstra is also in the Madrigal Singers and the Concert Choir. Pryor is in the Madrigal Singers and the Chelsea High Choir.

Schoenberg is a member of the high school choir.

Pryor and Schoenberg are also members of the All-State Choir.

A total of 240 students from 59 Michigan cities was selected from a talent pool of 450 musicians. The youth ensembles are conducted by full-time University of Michigan faculty.

Along with the chance to perform, the students are offered college counseling and master classes and recitals by additional U. of M. faculty.

The next concert for the Youth Chamber Singers will be held on Monday, March 29 at 7 p.m. at Hill Auditorium.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

My husband and I had the pleasure of going to the Friday evening performance of "RE-CAP 1993." We thoroughly enjoyed ourselves and it was so nice to sit back and hear and see kids and adults performing clean and wholesome routines together. What fun we had!

Thank you so much, RE-CAP! Keep up the good work!

Bob and Billie Schneider.

Foeller Charged

charges against him dropped. Judges in both counties ruled that witnesses were either too young to testify or that there was insufficient evidence. However, an appeal has been filed in one case involving a nine-year-old girl, but a ruling is not expected until at least May. No other charges are pending against Leonard in Washtenaw county, according to prosecutor Brian Mackie.

Foeller and Leonard were arrested last November and charged with molesting children in the church's school bus ministry. The ministry draws children from several counties, primarily from low-income neighborhoods.

Man Arrested For Gasoline Thefts At Local Stations

An 18-year-old Chelsea man was arrested for failing to pay for gasoline on at least three different occasions at two local gasoline stations.

According to police, the Sibley Rd. man, who was picked up by police at Village Plaza, admitted to two thefts at the Chelsea 76 station and one at the Cheker station. He told police he had money problems and couldn't pay for gasoline to get to work.

Police approached the man after they saw him driving a car that matched the description of one involved in the thefts. An officer noticed the smell of marijuana and confiscated a bag of what they believe to be marijuana, along with a pipe.

Violinist Rubnoff played concerts for Chelsea school children and the general public Monday. His Romanoff-Stradivarius violin, made in 1731 is insured for more than $100,000 and was once owned by the Romanoffs, former ruling family of Russia. The violin was smuggled out during the Russian revolution and still bears the family crest. Rubnoff's concert was sponsored by Chelsea Kiwanis Club.

Beards and mustaches sprouted overnight after "Brothers of the Brush" chapters formed at a meeting of local men's groups last night at the high school. Any kind of new facial growth will show that the grower is a local booster of the village's 125th anniversary. It takes only 15 men to form a chapter. After a shouting match developed over who would get Chapter No. 1, it was decided to not have a No. 1; just begin with No. 2.

Chelsea's SEVA Foundation Moving Closer to California Supporters

The Chelsea-based SEVA Foundation, which has dedicated itself to the eradication of needless blindness around the world, is pulling up its stakes and moving to California.

Since its founding in 1978, SEVA has been located on Spring Lake Dr., off Glazier Rd. near Cavanaugh Lake. Lawrence Brilliant, a former faculty member at the School of Public Health at the University of Michigan, and his wife, Girija, helped run the organization initially out of a "bedroom" office in their home at Spring Lake.

Eventually the organization outgrew their bedroom and construction of a two-story, cedar, chalet-style building began across the road. The building is being sold to an Ann Arbor couple.

SEVA was founded after the Brilliants were involved in the five-year intensive effort to eradicate small pox. They wrote an article on their experience for Quest magazine, and soon funds began pouring in. SEVA was founded to administer those funds and seek more money for critical world health problems.

SEVA, a sanskrit word meaning "service," is also an acronym for Society for Epidemiology and Voluntary Assistance. Much of its recent work has focused on relieving blindness in Nepal, much of which is caused by cataracts. It has also been involved in helping Guatemalan refugees, and Native Americans in South Dakota.

The move to San Rafael, Calif., said administrator Judy Gallagher, reflects where most of SEVA's supporters are. Musicians and other celebrities are among the foundation's largest donors. In addition, most of the foundation's board of directors live there.

Gallagher, who's been affiliated with the organization since the beginning, is not moving due to her strong roots here. She also said she can't afford the California real estate market. "I've enjoyed my work with SEVA," Gallagher says. She recalls the early days, when she arrived for work in the winter and had to fire up the wood stove and take the electric blanket off the computer.

As the foundation began to grow from a small, $25,000 non-profit organization to a $4 million international volunteer group, "we decided we needed central heat and plumbing," Gallagher says.

SEVA FOUNDATION, which was started in Chelsea in 1978, is moving out of its Spring Lake headquarters to San Rafael, Calif. Administrator Judy Gallagher, above, has decided to stay in Chelsea, however.

Supreme Court Decision Threatens Quality of Foods

Farm Bureau is concerned that the recent decision of the U.S. Supreme Court to let stand a lower court's interpretation of the Delaney Clause to permit "no risk" will likely lead to the banning of a long list of pesticides.

"This latest action adds importance to gaining a satisfactory legislative solution to the Delaney paradox, which mandates an unrealistic zero-risk standard for chemicals in food products," said Al Almy, director of public affairs for Michigan Farm Bureau.

"The Delaney Clause is a product of 1950's era science and detection methods," Almy said. "When the Delaney Clause was instituted, scientists were capable of detecting pesticide residues in parts per million. Today, pesticide residues are measured in amounts as small as parts per trillion."

The paradox is that this standard is preventing newer, safer pest control products from entering the market. Most regulators and scientists, including the National Academy of Science, agree that this regulatory clause needs to be changed," said Almy.

Farm Bureau is supporting legislation that would establish a "negligible risk" standard to replace the Delaney Clause, according to Almy. "The action of the Supreme Court creates new urgency and could seriously affect the quality and abundance of our nation's food supply," he said.

Education Foundation, Friends of Library Buy Geography Series

Chelsea Education Foundation and Friends of the Library have joined forces to purchase an 87-volume Visual Geography Series of books for the Children's/Young Adult section of McKune Memorial Library.

Chelsea Education Foundation donated $500 and Friends of the Library gave an additional $985 toward the purchase of the entire set. The series reading level is geared for fifth through eighth graders and the interest level is for grades 4-12.

Librarian Shelley Weber said the series should benefit all Chelsea students as the demand for geographical information about other countries has increased dramatically. The new books can be checked out.

"We are pleased with the number of students who use our library and know that this addition to the collection will reinforce their confidence in continuing to use their public library as a source of information and pleasure in their lives," Weber said.

Michigan Jobless Rate Hits New Low

Governor Engler has hailed news that Michigan's unemployment rate has fallen below the national average for the first time in 15 years. The United States Department of Labor announced March 5 that Michigan's unemployment rate in February was 6.8%—falling from 7.1% in January—the lowest level since spring of 1989. National unemployment fell to 7.0%.

"Michigan's economy is moving into the fast lane, creating more jobs. The great news is that 10,000 Michigan men and women found work last month," Engler said.

Since the worst point of the recession in August, 1991, 232,000 jobs have been added to Michigan payrolls. Currently, a total of 4,274,000 citizens have jobs.

Michigan's unemployment rate has fallen steadily since July, 1992, when 9.1% of our labor force was out of work.

"I would like to offer special thanks to all those job providers who have chosen to stay in Michigan, to locate in Michigan, and to grow in Michigan. Every job that you provide is important, and I am committed to doing whatever it takes to help you put more Michigan citizens back to work," Engler said.

THESE ARE DRAWINGS of the proposed press box/concession stand project to be undertaken by the Chelsea Athletic Boosters this year. The press box, above, would be built where the current press box sits behind the main football stands. The final site of the concession stand hasn't been decided. The preferred location is somewhere between the press box and the main gate, so it could serve the baseball/softball fields, as well as be more convenient to visiting football crowds. The concession building would also have restrooms, to replace the portable toilets. The boosters have planned several fundraisers, including a drawing for an automobile.

You can get ahead by playing it safe.

In rough economic times like we're experiencing, everyone wants to earn maximum interest on their savings. Some may even take risks to achieve a higher interest return.

Most of us would rather play it safe. We worked hard for our money and we don't want to lose our money on a poor investment.

That's where Chelsea State Bank's savings programs come to the fore.

You are assured of a competitive rate of return. You'll be insured by the FDIC to $100,000. And you'll be doing business with a "local" bank that has your well being in mind.

These may be tough times but the decision as to where to put your money isn't so tough after all.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Dogs Capture First Region Cage Title

Chelsea Defense Cools Jets in Big Victory

Dana Schmunk's jumper at the buzzer at the end of the first quarter gave Chelsea a lead they would never relinquish as the Bulldogs went on to defeat the Carleton Airport Jets, 79-66, last Friday for their first-ever region basketball title.

To reach the finals, the Bulldogs whipped the Willow Run Flyers, 66-56, last Wednesday.

From the beginning of the second quarter of Friday's game, the Bulldogs used a stifling defense and a balanced offense to take control of the contest and eventually dominate the Jets on their loud home court. The lead grew to 43-33 at half-time, to 62-49 at the end of the third quarter, and to 66-49 early in the fourth period.

"It was by far the best all-around game we've played, especially considering the nature of the game and the excitement," said Chelsea coach Robin Raymond.

"Everything we've been working on for so many months we did well in the same game. We made some mistakes, but it was the best we've played and the competition was very good. In both games, we were able to take the other team's strengths and minimize them. There are not many teams as aggressive as we are, and there aren't many teams that pressure the way we do. This year we have a group that doesn't have many weaknesses defensively."

Chelsea junior Pat Steele held Airport's high-scoring 6' 6" junior Dan Bryant to just eight points as the Bulldogs forced Airport to do most of its scoring from the outside. Jets guard Aaron Jones, a left-handed shooter with an extremely high arc on his shots, did most of the damage with 24 points, including 10 of the Jets' first 14. However, Chris Dunham and Colby Skelton limited him to eight points over the second and third quarters. Guard Rob Camperlino hit three three-pointers and scored 13 points. Camperlino and Jones combined for six of the team's seven three-pointers.

Meanwhile, the Bulldogs had four players in double figures, and three more with eight points. Skelton and Steele each had 10 points in the first half, including six in the first quarter by Skelton and seven straight in the second by Steele. For Skelton, who finished with 12 points, it marked the end of a four game stretch in which he failed to score in double figures.

The Chelsea defense produced numerous lay-up opportunities for the Bulldogs. Four steals in the final 2:28, which squelched any thought of a Carleton comeback, resulted in three free throws and two fast breaks.

Senior center Tom Poulter again led the Bulldogs in scoring with 17 points, 10 from the field and seven from the line. He also had five rebounds.

Steele finished with 14 points and six rebounds and Skelton had a team-high seven rebounds to go with his 12 points.

Dunham scored 10 points and grabbed three rebounds, and seniors Schmunk, Nick McCalla, and Aleksander Selmanovic each scored eight points. Dan Wehrwein hit a field goal in the closing seconds for his first varsity points of the season.

Junior guard Cory Brown had three rebounds and two assists.

The Bulldogs hit 31 of 58 shots from the field for 53 percent and 15-26 from the line for 58 percent. Airport hit 22 of 56 shots from the field for 39 percent and 15-24 from the line for 63 percent. Chelsea dominated the boards, 40-30.

Every year you go into the season with the idea that this is where you want to be," Raymond said.

Some years you're not at full strength, some years players don't have the season you think they will. This year we've been consistent throughout the season and now everyone has stepped up his game a notch. Now we'll have to move up to the next level."

The semi-final game against Willow Run was far more physical but not much closer.

Chelsea jumped out to a 16-8 lead but the Flyers tied the game at 20 with 5:18 left in the second quarter. However, a 13-1 run in the final 5:00 put the Bulldogs up 33-21 at halftime.

The Flyers came out hot in the second half and out-scored Chelsea 12-2 to pull within 35-33. That, however, was as close as the game would be the rest of the way.

Chelsea went on a 9-2 run to take a 44-35 lead as Dunham hit a foul shot and a jumper, Poulter made a strong move inside, and Steele nailed a three-pointer and a foul shot.

The Bulldogs eventually lengthened the lead to 57-41 as they spent most of the fourth quarter at the foul line, where they hit 18-24 shots for the quarter.

Most of Willow Run's hopes died when high-scoring senior forward Lamanzer Williams, guarded by Steele, fouled out with 4:57 left. His disqualification on fouls also resulted in the first of two Willow Run technical fouls.

"I was concerned that Willow Run's physical talent would cause us problems, but I also felt we could take them out of their offense," Raymond said.

They were the strongest team inside that we've played."

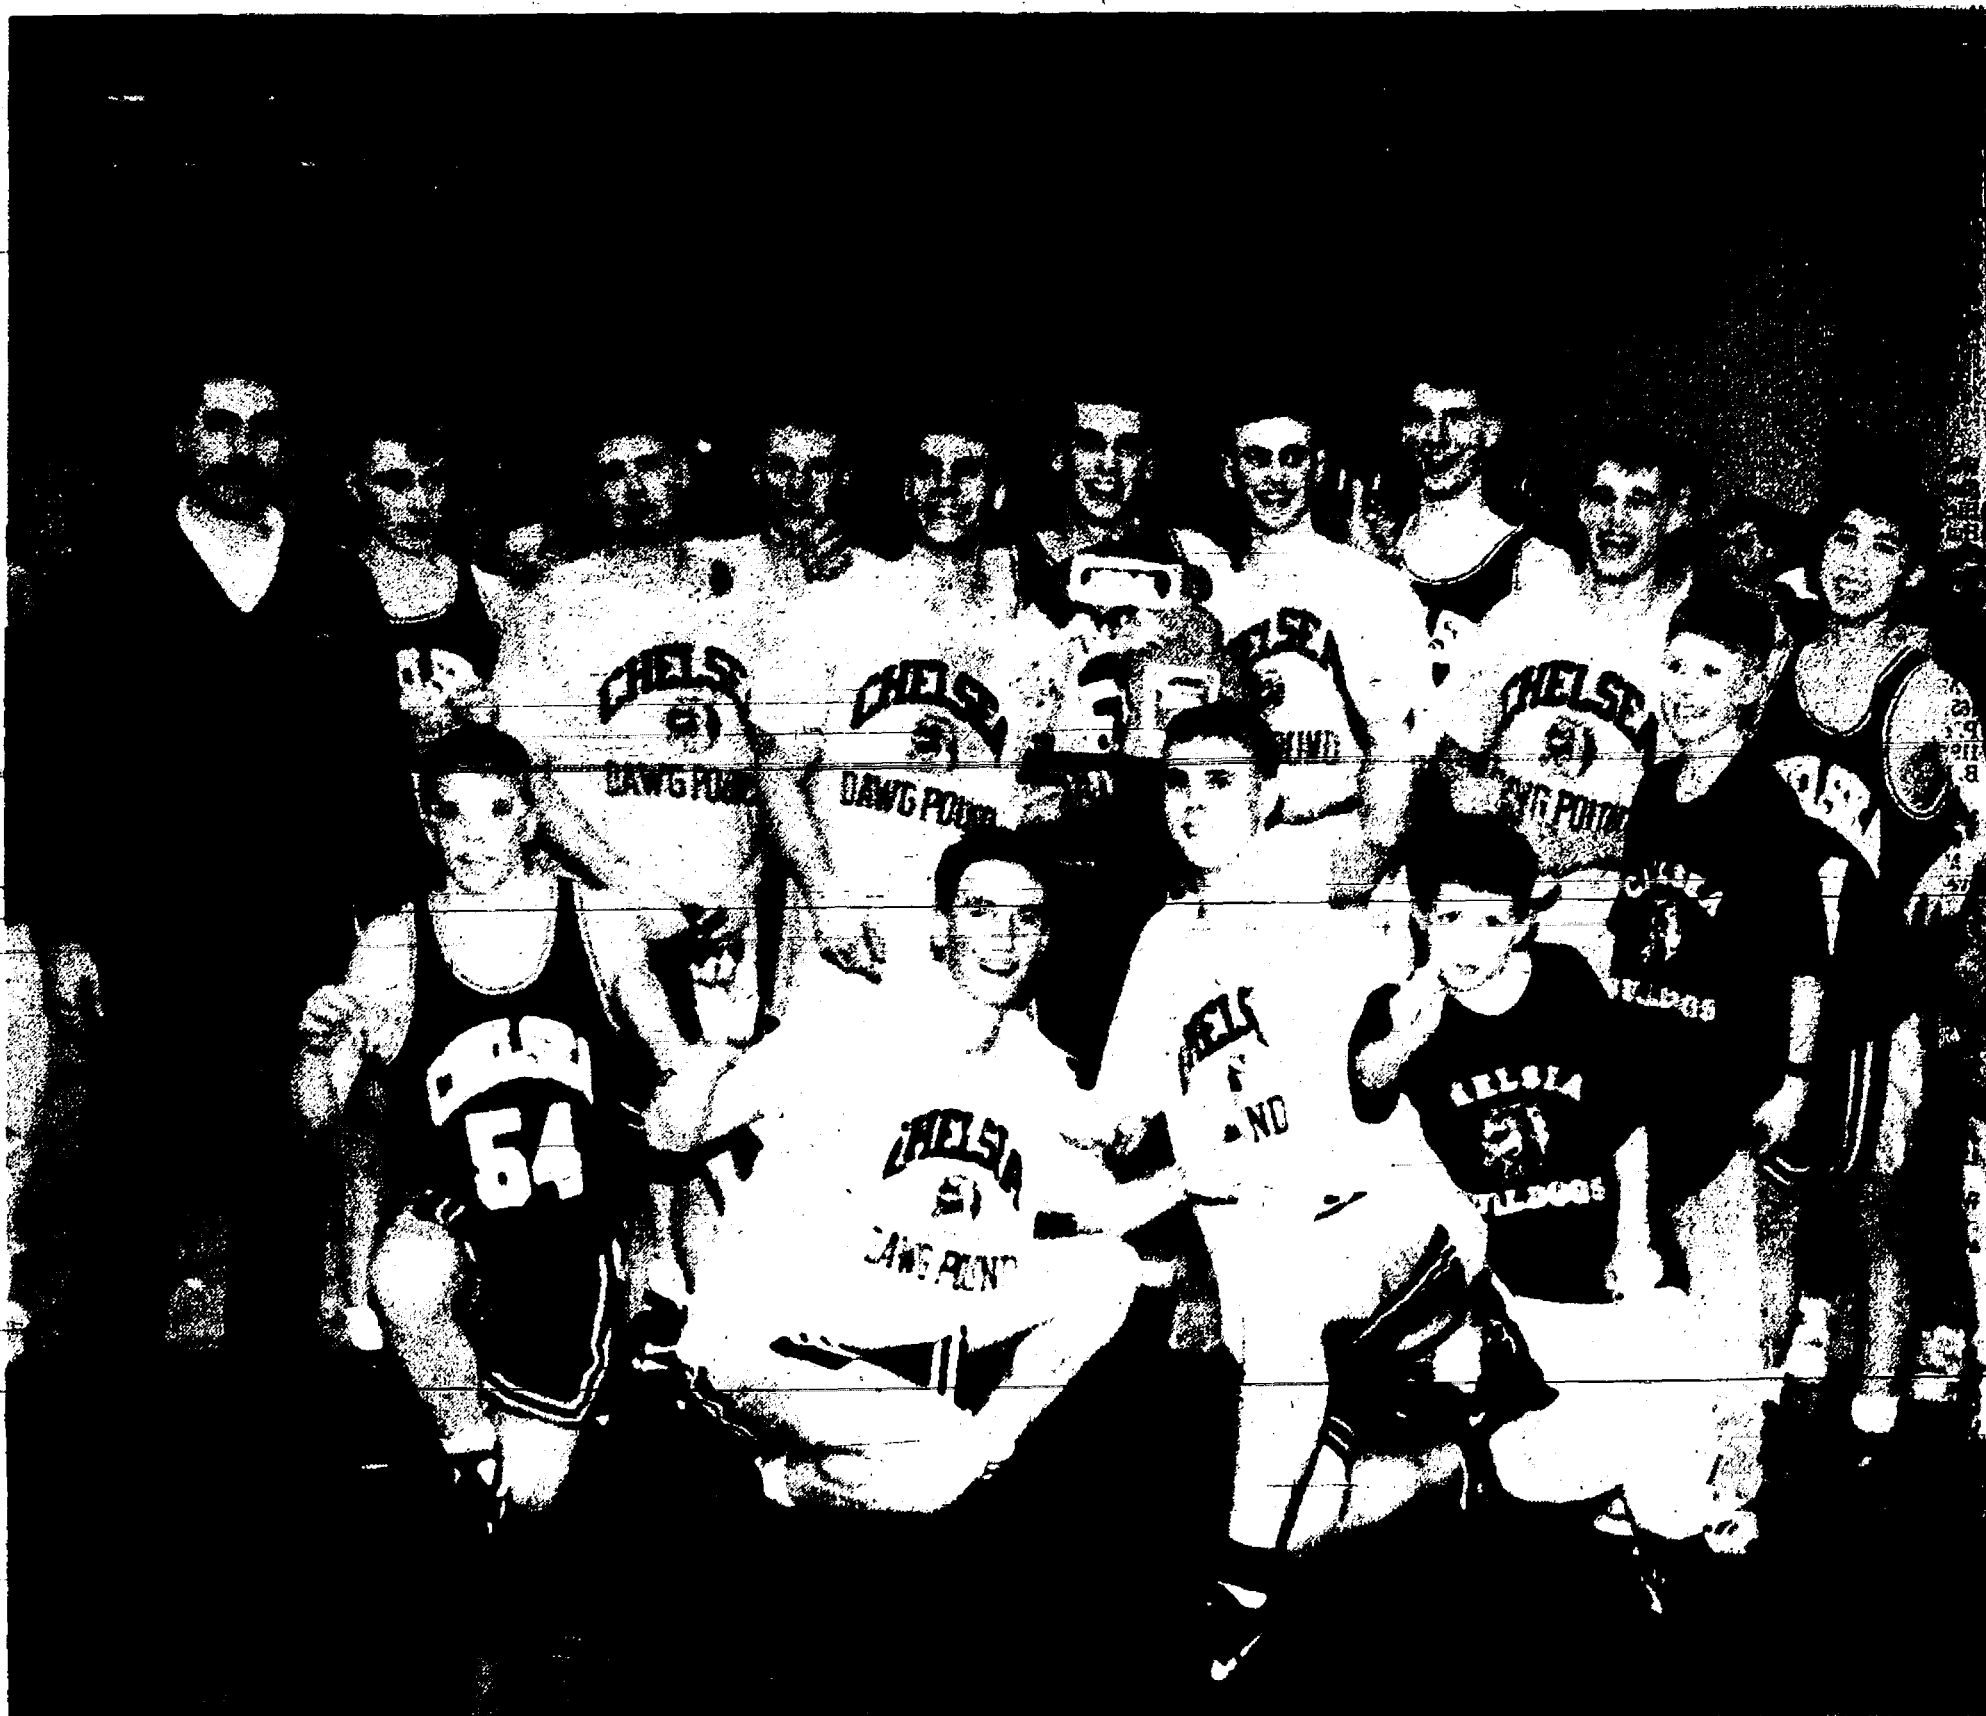

The Bulldogs again had a balanced offense as Steele scored 19, Dunham 15, Poulter 11, Skelton 7, McCalla 6, Brown 4, Schmunk 2, and Selmanovic 2.

Chelsea was 17-49 from the field and 30-43 from the line, while Willow run was 22-66 from the field and 8-12 from the line. The Bulldogs out-rebounded the Flyers, 44-41, but the Flyers had 30 turnovers to Chelsea's 22.

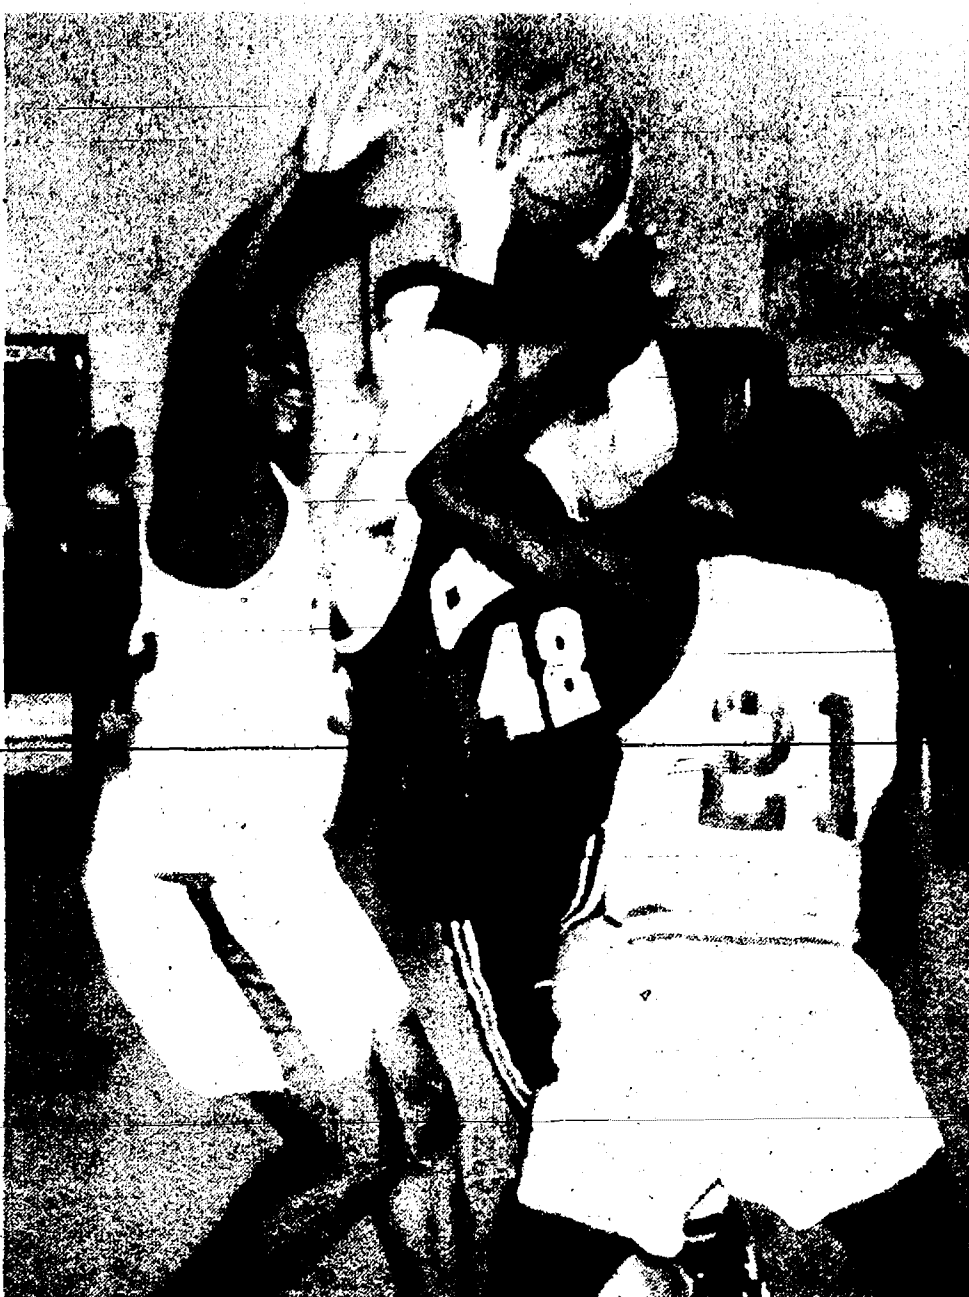

Chelsea is 20-5 on the season and the 20 victories is a school record. The Bulldogs have won six games in a row.

CHRIS DUNHAM made the steal and a breakaway lay-up during the first half of last Wednesday's region semi-final against the Willow Run Flyers. Dunham had 15 points and eight rebounds. The Bulldogs went on to beat Carleton Airport in the finals.

CHELSEA BULLDOGS won the first region basketball title in school history last Friday with a 79-66 victory over the Carleton Airport Jets. They move on to the state quarter-finals against the St. Clair Shores Lake Shore Sborians tonight. In front, from left, are Case McCalla, Aleksander Selmanovic, Nick McCalla, and managers Aaron Ruhlig and Rob Ellis. Standing, from left, are coach Robin Raymond, Dan Wehrwein, Ed Waller, Erik Brown, Pat Steele, Tom Poulter, Chris Dunham, Dana Schmunk, Colby Skelton, and Cory Brown. Not pictured are David Stimpson, Matt Seitz, and Chad Brown, who were away on a band trip to Florida.

PAT STEELE splits two Willow Run defenders on a move to the basket during last Wednesday night's region semi-final contest. Steele was 11-15 from the line and scored a team-high 19 points as the Bulldogs advanced to the finals.

Adams Pitching For Concordia

David Adams, a 1987 Chelsea High school graduate, is a pitcher/center-fielder for Concordia College this spring.

Adams, in his third year on the varsity, is on a southern tour with the team. Last week he pitched the first game of a double-header against Freed Hardeman University in Henderson, Tenn. He pitched six innings, gave up three hits and three walks, and struck out one in a 3-2 loss.

Consumers should see more sweet Spanish onions this spring. Onion acreage is up 21 percent compared to last year. If conditions hold, farmers in Georgia, Texas, Arizona and California will harvest 435 million pounds of onions, up 25 percent from 1991. Georgia growers are expected to harvest 166 million pounds of Vidalia onions.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

Willow Run Flyers basketball fans finally provided the answer to that often-asked question of winter: "Who let the Dogs out, oof, oof?"

It's one of those cheers Chelsea cheerleaders and fans love to unleash when their team's ahead, which has often been the case this season. Until now, though, nobody has bothered to answer.

Late in last Wednesday's region semi-final against the Flyers, with the Bulldogs leading by 14, Flyers fans, clapping and almost dancing in the stands, replied "Yo mama let the Dogs out, oof, oof!"

It was completely unexpected and came across as a good-natured ribbing that Chelsea fans don't really know what rhythm is all about.

But if Dorothy had been in the stands, she might have said, "Toto, I don't think we're in the SEC anymore."

It was quite some experience in the land of the basketball regional tournament, a mystical place Chelsea fans have rarely visited. The last time, in 1961, most Bulldogs fans were little more than somebody's fantasy.

The games, at Carleton Airport High School, home of the Jets, drew the two largest and most boisterous crowds of the season. The Bulldogs had fans from all over the SEC and Manchester, as well as a couple hundred Chelsea folks who probably hadn't seen them play all year. It was reminiscent of the baseball season a few years ago when several hundred people showed up for the state finals after the average attendance at a league game was about 75. The Carleton gym is big, and the Chelsea side was packed for both games.

The Bulldogs themselves, many of whom got used to big crowds last football season, took it all in stride. In fact, they seemed to thrive on it. They played by their best game of the season as they grounded the Jets in their own gym, 79-66, in the finals. It was the highest point total for Chelsea since the Jackson County Western game in late February.

Chelsea had all the rhythm on the court through the week. There were no signs of intimidation or nervousness, but there were plenty of signs that the moment helped take their game to a higher level. They may have had two minutes of leaddown the entire week.

They were able to muscle with the much bigger Flyers on Wednesday. They used their defense and quickness to dominate the Jets thoroughly. To win by 13 on a hostile floor in such a big game is as good as a 23-point victory at home. The Jets, without their emotional first quarter, would have been out of the game in the first few minutes.

It was clear the Bulldogs weren't playing in the SEC anymore. That's mundane stuff compared to the regionals.

It's equally clear the intensity level will pick up tonight and the Bulldogs will have to play the game of their lives if they hope to advance to the final four.

St. Clair Shores Lake Shore is 25-0 and features two all-state candidates in center Jon Zajac and guard Travis Conlan. I don't care if they played a bunch of class D schools, winning 25 straight games is an amazing achievement. Reports are that the Shorians are a cocky bunch, and I suppose if they're undefeated they have a right to be. Story goes, they asked for 1,500 state tournament tickets even before they played their region final.

In many respects, the rhetoric surrounding the game sounds strangely familiar, almost a reprisal of the talk before the Chelsea-Lumen Christi football game last fall.

Chelsea fans and coaches hope that all the blowouts the Shorians have been involved in may work against them. The theory is, if the Bulldogs can keep the game close for three quarters, a seed of doubt may set in and leave them vulnerable. It sounds plausible, but reports indicate the Shorians have enough skill to overcome any lapse of confidence.

What I hope will happen is the Bulldogs will be spurred by their success in the post-season and take their game to new heights. That, I think, is more likely than a backslide by the Shorians. Lake Shore may not be used to the kind of defense Chelsea plays. They may not have played a team that has eight guys who can all score. They may not be used to seeing a relatively short guy like Pat Steele who can wear a much bigger fellow down, or an emotional player like Colby Skelton who will dive for every loose ball within 15 feet. They may be surprised by Chris Dunham's quick hands and Tom Poulter's intensity on the boards. They may not be used to having hands in their face all night long. I'm sure they have not played a team that is more confident and less likely to become unglued.

I wouldn't bet the paycheck on a Chelsea win. But I wouldn't be shocked by one, either. The Bulldogs have met and conquered every big challenge over the last three weeks. There's no sign they're ready to stop now.

I hope Bulldogs supporters are also ready to meet the challenge. Lake Shore fans will make Jets fans look comatose by comparison. They scooped up 1,200 tickets in hours. More than anything, they want their second-ranked Shorians to meet top-ranked Saginaw Buena Vista in the semi-finals.

Chelsea fans should close their eyes, click their heels three times and say, "I don't want to go home, I don't want to go home."

It's been a great season. I hope the dream doesn't end tonight.

CHS Girls Track Wins Siena Events

Chelsea Bulldogs girls track team took first places in the sprint medley and the Siena medley at the Siena Heights Indoor meet on Saturday, March 20.

Laura Paton, Keri Kentala, Theresa Royce, and Lisa Monti recorded a 4:27.6 in the sprint medley. Melissa Hand, Kentala, Paton, and Monti ran an 8:13.4 in the Siena medley.

"We ran head-to-head against the second-place finisher in the sprint and led at every exchange," said Chelsea coach Bill Bainton.

Kentala placed fourth in the 55 hurdles at :09.4, and Mara Smith was fifth in the shot put at 30' 7".

Royce made it to the semi-finals of the 55 meter dash but did not finish in the top six.

"We didn't have many runners available so we only entered the two relays and a few individual events," Bainton said.

No team scores are kept.

REMEMBER THE ALAMO: Contest winners and their guests, ICI Seeds personnel and farm radio network representatives gathered around the Alamo during their visit to the 1993 Corn Classic. Among those on hand were

Contest Winners Travel to Corn Classic

There's little doubt Don Laier and his wife, Patricia, will "Remember the Alamo." The Laiers, who farm about 300 acres in partnership with family members, were among 26 farmers, spouses and friends who traveled to the recent Corn Classic in San Antonio, Tex., thanks to ICI Seeds and various farm radio networks.

Laier was one of two grand-prize winners in the contest sponsored by ICI Seeds and the Michigan Farm Radio Network. Larry Felch of Linden was the second grand-prize winner.

In addition to receiving a free trip to the Corn Classic, the winners were recognized at a breakfast at the Hyatt Regency on Feb. 22. At the morning gathering, Mike Smidt, national sales manager at ICI Seeds, West Des Moines, Ia., congratulated the winners and also recognized the contributions of the farm radio co-sponsors.

"The winners were enthusiastic and appreciative," Smidt says. "ICI Seeds is proud to have worked with the farm radio networks to give these quality farmers a chance to attend the Corn Classic. They were able to relax in a warmer climate and learn more about the U.S. corn industry."

MCRC Schedules Annual Meeting

Mill Creek Research Council's annual meeting has been scheduled for 8 p.m., March 30, at the Lima Town Hall. The annual meeting, according to the Council's constitution, is to be held the last Tuesday in March.

This will be the 28th such annual meeting to this concerned citizens' group. In 1965 local residents, with support of others, joined together to study various aspects of a proposal of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to buy over 12,000 acres for a sewage disposal project to be dependent upon water collected from dams on Mill Creek. The project was delayed and eventually abandoned. More recently the MCRC looked at lands in Lima, Scio, Freedom and Lodi townships for a low-level radioactive waste disposal site and learned that there was a relatively high water table there. This information was passed on to governmental agencies handling this proposal and that site was dropped from consideration.

Current board members are Charles Arnold, Dave Bacon, Bill Chandler, Barbara Eby, Janet McCalla, Pam Mansfield, Alan Mansfield, Betty Messman, Gerald Myers, Margaret Sias, Arlys Spink, Linda White. Board members are elected to serve one year. Some board members have served over 20 years. Yearly dues are payable to Chandler, treasurer, elected for 27 years.

Dues, due each year, are payable to the treasurer. Dues are $12 for new members and $10 for current or former members.

CROSSED EYES

Crossed eyes is only one type of strabismus, or misalignment of the eyes. When the eyes are crossed, more correctly termed esotropia, one eye is turned inward while the other eye looks straight ahead. In other types of strabismus, one eye may be turned outward, up, or down relative to the other eye.

Esotropia is the most common eye misalignment in children. The eye that is crossed in may be "ignored" by the child's developing brain, so vision may not develop in that eye, resulting in a "lazy eye". Also there is loss of depth perception when using only one eye. For these reasons, it is extremely important to recognize and treat esotropia as soon as it is noticed in a child, even if it "comes and goes". Children do not "outgrow" esotropia, and waiting only tends to make it more difficult to reverse the lazy eye.

Esotropia in an infant usually requires surgery to solve the problem. In these cases, it is necessary to surgically detach a muscle from the eye and reattach it at a different location to re-align the eyes. A child over the age of two years who develops esotropia frequently can be corrected by fitting eye glasses to correct farsightedness. This farsightedness causes the child to "focus" their eyes to try to see better, and the crossing-in accompanies the focusing. Sometimes bifocals are necessary to prevent crossing when reading.

Esotropia at any age can be corrected, but if noticed in a child, should be checked by an ophthalmologist without delay.

Farm Bureau Calls For Common-Sense Wetlands Legislation

The Comprehensive Wetlands Conservation and Management Act (H.R. 1330), introduced by Rep. Jimmy Hayes (D-La.) would make long-needed, common-sense improvements in our nation's wetlands protection program, according to the Michigan Farm Bureau (MFB).

In addition to providing protection for true wetlands and classifying wetlands by their function and value, the measure also recognizes the fundamental importance of private property rights, according to MFB president Jack Laurie.

"Federal agencies have been regulating wetlands under a flawed statutory approach since 1972," Laurie said. "After more than 20 years of failed policies, it's time for Congress to pass a common-sense wetlands law, once and for all."

H.R. 1330 would replace Section 404 of the Clean Water Act with a new wetlands program. It would establish a realistic, science-based definition of a wetland, and base the identification and delineation of a wetland on its environmental functions and values, according to Laurie. The bipartisan bill, virtually identical to legislation sponsored by Hayes in the 102nd Congress, has 54 original co-sponsors.

The first national labor organization of city federations was the National Trades' Union formed in New York City in 1834. Its 21,000 members sought "to advance the moral and intellectual condition and pecuniary interests of the laboring classes . . . and to unite and harmonize the effects of all productive classes of country." The organization lasted until 1837, according to the U.S. Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

Program Slated At Clear Lake On 'Flintknappers'

"The Michigan Flintknappers" will be the subject of a program at the Clear Lake Outdoor Center this Sunday, March 28 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The program will feature a gathering of modern flintknappers, makers of stone points and blades. In addition, there will be students of other "primitive technologies." Some items will be for sale.

It will be a presentation showing the craft, art, and hobby of making stone tools as Native Americans did long ago. Flintknappers will tell stories while they create knife blades and arrow heads from stone.

The program is free and open to the public. However, state park vehicle permits are required to enter the park.

Economic Breakfast Club Speaker Discusses Health Care Reforms

At the March 17 Economic Breakfast Club meeting held at Chelsea Community Hospital, Dr. John R.C. Wheeler, professor and chair of Health Services, Management and Policy in the School of Public Health at University of Michigan, explored the many health care reform initiatives which are being discussed in Clinton's Task Force. A receptive audience, which included many health care professionals, contributed their thoughts to his regarding the likely outcome of all this politically charged discussion.

Wheeler developed a scale on which all options were laid out from least change to greatest change in current system, but the area he spent the most time talking about is described as "Managed Competition." The plan would encourage vertically integrated, regional systems such as the Henry Ford Health System to compete with similar systems for the health care dollars. Theoretically the competition would drive costs down, costing governments less to provide care for everyone.

The debate, according to Dr. Wheeler, will address the option of more government regulation or more competition. Will the increased costs be financed by "sin taxes," or a national sales tax? Will everyone be covered, but not as well as today? Would employees who have more than the minimum required coverage be taxed on value of additional premiums?

With competition as the driving force in the industry, employers could join together in "Accountable Health Partnership" as purchasing coalitions and health care providers would essentially bid for their premium dollars. Wheeler admits that this is all speculation at this point, but felt that the pressure of another election would no doubt force some plan in place by November, 1994.

Economic Breakfast Club meetings are held bi-monthly in the Main Dining Room of the hospital. They are sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and are open to the public.

Farm Bureau Calls For Federal Balanced Budget Amendment

A balanced-budget amendment would provide much-needed spending discipline now lacking in government, according to the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Al Almy, director of public affairs for the state's largest farm organization, said that Farm Bureau endorses H.J. Res. 103 and S.J. Res. 41, congressional resolutions that would amend the U.S. Constitution to require a balanced budget. "Farm Bureau members are concerned that unless discipline is restored to federal spending and taxation, an insurmountable burden will be placed upon future generations," Almy said.

He said that aside from the heavy burden facing future generations of taxpayers, agriculture feels its share of the load of a $4 trillion national debt and annual deficits that exceed $300 billion.

"As farmers know all too well, high debt loads mean high interest payments," Almy said. "Today it is estimated that the annual interest payment on the national debt is $200 billion. This is money that could be spent on productive private enterprises, but cannot because of the heavy debt load that taxpayers must carry."

Almy pointed out that agriculture has carried a disproportionately large share of the burden in deficit reduction attempts during the last several years. "It will continue to do so until a permanent provision that encourages fiscal restraint is put into place," he said.

Early research results show that composting offers a safe and acceptable alternative to landfill disposal used by many communities. The compost of municipal waste is a stable form of organic matter that could be used on farms to improve soil quality, reduce potential pollution problems and enhance the productivity of cropland.

Card of Thanks

THANK YOU
I want to express my sincere appreciation to my family and friends; from the personal visits, to the many cards, gifts, food,
and phone calls I received,
I graciously thank you. A special thank you to Dr.
Marous, his staff, the nurses at Chelsea Community Hospital, and Dr.
Mindy Smith at Family Practice for all their loving care and kindness. A special thank you to Pastor
Koch for his many visits and prayers. A big thank you to my dear daughter-in-law, Donna, who was there in my time of need as my daughter and son were in Florida.

Hilda Pierce.

'National Anthems' Opens April 1 at Purple Rose Theatre

Purple Rose Theatre Company will present National Anthems by Dennis McIntyre as the third production of the 1992-93 season. There will be six Previews of National Anthems starting Thursday, April 1 through Thursday, April 8 and regular performances will continue for a limited eight-week engagement through May 23. Performances will be held Wednesday through Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. with Sunday shows at 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. All performances are at the Purple Rose Theatre Company's Garage Theatre, 137 Park St., Chelsea.

Set in a luxury home in the Detroit suburb of Birmingham, National Anthems examines the lifestyle of Arthur and Leslie Reed, a pair of affluent Yuppies. Imported furniture, Rolex watches and a Japanese garden are all staples of this Oakland county household.

As the Reeds finish a housewarming party with their friends, a neighbor, Ben Cook, unexpectedly arrives at their door. Ben, an inner city Detroit firefighter who has lived in Birmingham for 17 years, welcomes the Reeds to the neighborhood and invites himself into their home. Laughs, tears, Detroit anecdotes and plenty of drinks fill the remainder of the early morning hours.

The stark differences between these suburbanites become clear while the alcohol clouds their senses, distorts their reality and reveals their true personalities.

National Anthems was written by Dennis McIntyre, a Detroit native who was educated at the University of Michigan and Carnegie-Mellon University. Despite the play's Michigan setting and the distinct Detroit themes, topics and references, National Anthems has never been produced in the state of Michigan. National Anthems was originally presented as a staged reading at the National Playwright Conference at the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theatre Center in Waterford, Conn., in 1984. The original production of National Anthems was at the Ge Va Theatre in Rochester, N.Y., and then it was further developed through a workshop leading to another presentation at the Long Wharf Theatre in New Haven, Conn., in 1988. The Purple Rose Theatre Company production will be the Michigan premiere of the late Mr. McIntyre's National Anthems.

The three-member cast of National Anthems features Barbara Coven as Leslie Reed, Leon Flagg as Arthur Reed and Phil Locker as Ben Cook. T. Newell Krings, artistic director of the Purple Rose Theatre Company, will direct the production of National Anthems. Set design is by Gary Decker, lighting design is by Peter Beuderet and costume design is by Jeannette deJong. Guy Sanville is the stage manager for the Purple Rose Theatre Company production.

Reservations are recommended due to the limited capacity and may be obtained by calling the Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office at 475-7902. The Purple Rose Theatre Company Box Office is open Monday through Friday from 12 noon to 6 p.m. and one hour prior to curtain on days of scheduled performances.

Sexual Assault Trial Ends in Hung Jury

An 18-year-old Manchester man faces a re-trial June 7 in Washtenaw County Circuit Court after a trial last week on sexual assault charges ended in a hung jury.

According to reports, the jury voted 9-3 to convict Ryan G. Macomber on charges that he repeatedly sexually molested a child in his home. Macomber is a younger brother of a 21-year-old woman who was babysitting the six-year-old girl.

Macomber's 14-year-old brother awaits sentencing after entering a no-contest plea in juvenile court on charges that he also molested the girl. A no-contest plea does not admit guilt but is treated as a conviction at sentencing.

Last year the girl accused both Macomber with raping her over a period of months in 1991 and 1992.

According to testimony, the girl testified that Ryan Macomber raped her about 10 times while the babysitter slept in another room of the house. She said the younger Macomber had already assaulted her.

The girl said Macomber pulled her upstairs, stripped them both from the waist down, and raped her on a bed.

She said she told the babysitter several times after the incidents but in each case the babysitter would wake up then fall back asleep.

The defense reportedly tried to imply that the girl was confusing the two Macomber brothers, but the girl held her ground.

The girl also said other children in the care of the babysitter were also molested.

Reports indicated that a sticking point for the jury was the fact that they didn't have records of Ryan Macomber's attendance at school, which was one of his major alibis.

Assistant prosecutor Julia Owdziej attempted to recess the trial to obtain the records but Chief Circuit Court Judge Melinda Morris denied the motion. The jury asked for the records, but was told it could only use evidence supplied during the trial.

Ryan Macomber and his brother, sister, cousin, and parents testified that Ryan Macomber was never at home during the time of the alleged sexual assaults.

The family said the only time the girl could have been assaulted was March 19, 1992 because that was the only day she was left unattended by Macomber's mother while the babysitter went on an appointment.

That's the day the younger Macomber admits to assaulting the girl. He said he didn't know why it occurred to him to molest her the only time he was left alone with the girl.

According to testimony by Ryan Macomber's middle brother, cousin, and mother, Ryan Macomber left for school with the other boys in the morning before the girl arrived and came home in the evening after the girl was gone.

They said Ryan Macomber never went anywhere without his middle brother.

However, Macomber's father said that Ryan Macomber worked on the family farm for school credit and went to school later than his brother and cousin several times each week.

In addition, a coach at Manchester High School testified that he often saw the middle brother without Ryan Macomber, both before and after school.

The prosecution contended that the younger Macomber was taking the fall for his older brother because the penalties would be far less severe.

A civil suit was filed by the girl's family last October and it is still pending in Washtenaw County Circuit Court. A request by the girl's mother to keep the case from public view has not been granted.
