Chelsea Forensics Team Talks Its Way to Twelve District Championships

Chelsea High school forensics team had one of its most successful starts in the "post-season" as students won 12 district championships and five second places. All 17 performances, two of which included multiples, will move on to the regional tournament April 17.

"This may be one of the few times that we actually have to take a bus to the state tournament," said teacher Bill Coelius.

Students competed against Jackson, Napoleon, Brooklyn Columbia Central, Dexter, and Stockbridge last Saturday in Napoleon.

District champions included the following:

- Extemporaneous speaking—Doug Steele;
- Informative—Alex Roskowski, "Swords";
- Impromptu—Megan Stielstra;
- Sales—David Seitz, "ACO Hardware";
- Broadcasting—Jason Johnson;

Christmas in April Needs More Funds, Volunteers

On Saturday, April 24, volunteers for Christmas in April*Washtenaw will take to the highways and byways in Washtenaw county to help repair some 53 homes of the elderly, handicapped or low income families.

Here in the Chelsea school district there are five homes scheduled for various types of repairs. There are three more homes on a waiting list.

The work consists of window replacement, siding, roofing, caulking, painting, plumbing, eaves replacement, entryway replacement and general clean-up.

There has been a very good response from the community, with about $8,000 collected for the project and about 80 volunteers already signed up.

But the more funds raised and the more volunteers turning out equals more homes accepted into the program. It is estimated that it takes approximately $1,500 per home for repairs. Last year funds were sufficient to do seven homes.

If you would like to make a donation, make check payable to Christmas in April*Washtenaw and mark for Chelsea Area. Please mail your checks to Christmas in April, 104 E. Middle St., Chelsea 48118.

Tax Reform Package May Produce Deficit For Chelsea District

Michigan voters will have the chance to roll back their property taxes and radically alter the way schools are funded in a special election June 2.

The state legislature last week approved a plan to roll back property taxes in exchange for a two-cent increase in sales taxes, from four cents to six cents. If the constitutional amendment is approved by voters, the new plan will provide a guaranteed $4,800 per student in each district in the state, thereby closing the spending gap between poor and rich districts.

In Chelsea's case, operating millage would be reduced from 37.72 mills to 20.98 mills for next year. In 1994-95 it would drop to 18 mills unless voters approve an increase. Under the plan, local voters may approve an increase of up to nine mills, or 27 total, for operating purposes. That does not count debt service.

In addition, property assessments could not rise more than three percent per year per parcel. However, when a parcel is sold, it would be re-assessed at half of market value.

Chelsea School District administration spent a considerable amount of time last week trying to figure out the local impact of the proposal, based on information provided by the state.

Aside from the promise of a major departure in the way schools are funded, just the timing of the proposal itself has numerous school districts, Chelsea included, seeking legal opinions. Those districts, like Chelsea, already planned to have a millage issue on their June ballots.

The special election is so close to the annual school elections on June 14 that there is no way ballot language can be changed to reflect what happens in the state-wide referendum. Chelsea School District is almost forced to base its millage strategy for 1993-94, and ballot language, on the assumption that the state referendum will be turned down. If the state proposal is passed, the ballot language may suddenly become obsolete. And what happens if voters approve it?

Those are some of the questions lawyers are being asked to answer.

If the state proposal is approved, and it is deemed to be binding over any proposal passed June 14, Chelsea will immediately find itself with a budget deficit of about $835,000, according to preliminary calculations by assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

The state proposal calls for local districts to pick up the employer's match of social security payments, or 7.65 percent of salaries, as well as matching retirement payments, or 7.2 percent of salaries. Those items are now paid by the state, which means the district faces an automatic 14.85 percent increase in salary expenses under the new proposal. Mills said that comes to $1.45 million.

The reform package also calls for the state to reimburse local school districts for one-half of the increase in retirement costs and would not allow the state to withhold some payments for special education.

When all those factors are taken into account, an original tentative 1993-94 budget of $14.1 million in income and $14 million in expenses becomes a budget of $14.8 million in income and $15.5 million in expenses.

Just how the district would deal with that kind of shortfall is unknown. Ballot language on June 14 may be able to take care of it. Or Chelsea voters may face a special election. Or the board might decide to make budget cuts.

If the state proposal falls, and no other proposal takes its place, Chelsea-area residents should receive a substantial millage rollback this year due to the large property assessment increases here, Mills said. The district would not have to seek renewal of last year's 1.95 mill increase. In addition, millage could be rolled back an additional .82 mills, for a total rollback of 2.77 mills.

"That sounds good, but it's still a long way from a 16-mill rollback," Mills said.

"Under the new proposal, I think the average Chelsea household would probably save money."

Mills said that while he does not particularly like the new state proposal, he likes the current school finance situation even less.

Superintendent Joe Plasecki, who believes the state proposal will be hard to sell to voters, said he believes the school board will eventually take a formal position on the proposal.

Financial Problems Hit Chelsea's CATS Bus

Chelsea Area Transportation System, commonly known as the CATS bus, is in financial trouble.

However, there are no signs that the bus service for Chelsea's senior citizens will have to cease operations—yet.

CATS, the non-profit, volunteer (with the exception of its two drivers, Mary Erskine and Paula Scherdt) organization that began 14 years ago, is about $14,500 behind in its payments to the village. According to CATS president Frank Bobo, it's the worst financial circumstances the organization has ever seen.

The bus provides door-to-door service for senior citizens, primarily within the village limits, although it goes to some outlying areas. Seniors use it to shop, go to medical appointments, and for other transportation needs. The service does not discriminate based on financial need.

The bus was given to CATS by the state. The village pays salaries, maintenance (including fuel), worker's compensation, and state employment taxes, and is supposed to be reimbursed by CATS, mostly from donations. Quarterly payments to the village run about $8,000 to $8,000.

In 1992, the nine-seat CATS bus carried 14,000 passengers. The fare was raised from 25 to 50 cents two years ago.

The organization survives mostly on contributions. Chelsea United Way, as well as the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea and the Lions and Lioness Clubs, are major sponsors.

things to go was donations, while our expenses went through the roof," Bobo said.

One major financial headache, Bobo said, results from state requirements for a new bus. CATS has to use the bus for a certain number of miles and keep the bus for a certain length of time.

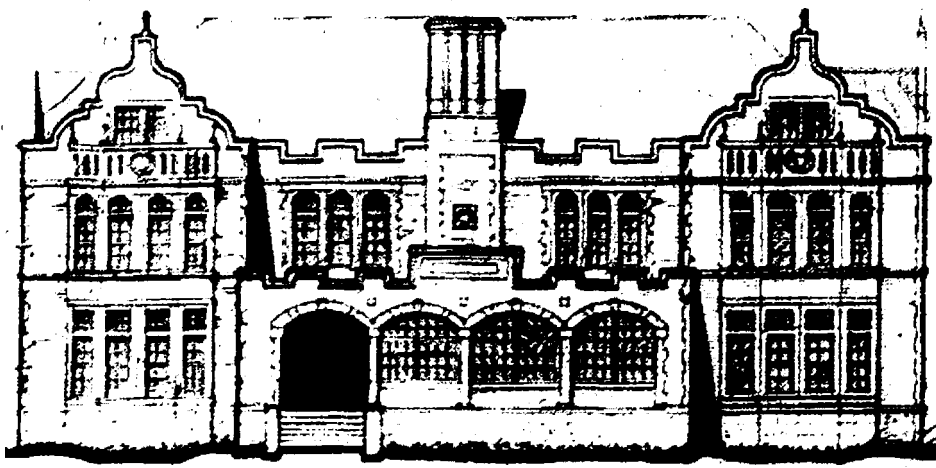

"By the time we reach our time requirements we've put too many miles on the bus," Bobo said.

"With our last bus it was all we could do to keep the passengers from falling through the floor."

Village mechanic Mike Wonderly told village council last week that the bus is "nickel and diming them to death."

Bobo said the current bus is to the (Continued on page six)

The village plans to have all technical information regarding studies at the landfill sent to the Department of Natural Resources by Friday, April 28. According to consulting engineer Lee Fahrner, all lab work on water and soil samples has been completed. Those reports have to be studied and put in form for the DNR. The tracer system studies and the hydrogeological studies should be to the DNR by April 24, while the soils study should be ready April 28, Fahrner said. Fahrner said the village may also submit another landfill license application at the same time.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Tax-and-Spend Days Are Back

Time was when the label "Tax and Spend" was shunned by politicians like the plague. Not so in Washington these days. The Clinton economic plan is breathing new life into the old epithet.

By Philip C. Clarke

President Clinton's long awaited economic proposals were greeted with much fanfare last month. Billed as a "Vision for Change," the plan promised to cut some $493 billion from the deficit by 1997. But analysts taking a closer second look at the plan found that it promised not change but a return to the days of tax-and-spend government made infamous by President Jimmy Carter.

Touted as having equal parts spending cuts and tax increases, the plan actually is something much different, with an emphasis on tax increases and short shrift on the spending-cut side. Indeed, Senate Republican leader Bob Dole has called the Clinton plan a $360 billion tax increase, the largest in history. That's because many of the so-called spending cuts are nothing more than increases in user fees and money coming from the private sector. The biggest of these alleged "spending cuts"—raising some $21 billion—is an increase in the taxes wealthier Social Security recipients will pay on their benefits. Instead of paying taxes on 50% of their benefits as under current law, Clinton proposes to extract taxes on 85% of these benefits for elderly couples earning $32,000 or more.

Other alleged spending "cuts"—which are actually fees—include $1 billion from state banks for participating in the Federal Deposit Insurance program; $1 billion from drug companies to pay the Food and Drug Administration for the privilege of being regulated; and $1.1 billion from importers and travelers by extending U.S. Customs fees which were set to expire.

In fact, as congressional Republicans have pointed out, in the first year, the Clinton plan would raise taxes and fees by $36 billion, while the net spending reductions total only $2 billion. The Washington Times describes these gimmicks this way: "The thing about fees is that somebody has to pay them. They extract money from the private sector. Actual spending cuts don't do that."

The actual spending cuts total no more than $111 billion, of which $75 billion is coming from the defense department. That means that the Clinton team was able to find just $36 billion in domestic spending cuts over four years. And as though these gimmicks and user fee increases weren't bad enough, the Clinton team also has admitted that the plan actually would reduce the deficit by just $359 billion. That's because of the billions—$170 billion to be exact—in new spending that the Administration is also proposing. In fact, according to the economist Dan Mitchell of Heritage Foundation, "All told, proposed increases in domestic spending outweigh the proposed 'cuts' by about $10 billion over the next four years. If the $38.7 billion of budget gimmicks and phony cuts are excluded from the calculation, however, the net increase in domestic spending climbs to almost $50 billion."

And what are these new spending proposals? In his speech, for example, Clinton proposed to fully fund the Head Start program for disadvantaged preschool children, and to increase spending on childhood immunization. But policy experts have been quick to point out several flaws in some of the new spending proposals. For example, in the Head Start program, which Clinton called "a success story," surveys have found that any beneficial effects disappear within two years of entering regular public school. And as for vaccinations for poor children, 12 states already make such immunizations available, but poor families don't take advantage of them. In the District of Columbia, for example, which offers free immunization, only 63% of those eligible get the shots.

As for Clinton's other spending proposals, they appear to be more in the nature of "payoffs" to interest groups which supported him rather than necessary "investments." For example, the stimulus package of $30 billion for improving the nation's roads and bridges won't help a $6 trillion economy much. But construction unions as well as congressional Democrats will benefit in the affected districts.

Similarly, Clinton's plan to increase funding for education and training seems more designed to mollify the National Education Association than to improve education. Consider that spending per public school student has increased every year for the past three decades, but test scores have continued to decline, the drop-out rate has increased and the number of students able to finish college has been flat or falling. Clearly, more money won't solve the educational problems.

Even Clinton's proposal to reform welfare will entail higher costs—some $7 billion to $9 billion, according to some estimates. And getting people off welfare may mean, under the Clinton plan, putting them to work in public sector make-work jobs. That has been tried before, without success.

Certainly, the President's plan will undergo amendment as it works its way through Congress. But far from representing a "Vision for Change," the Clinton economic package marks a return to tax-and-spend government. And the last time this approach was tried, it produced inflation at almost 13%, interest rates over 20% and a stagnant economy.

Disaster Aid Should Be Quality Based, Available to All

The president of the state's largest farm organization, in a letter sent to U.S. Department of Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy, said that any quality-based disaster program developed should be available to producers of all affected Michigan crops.

"In addition, special consideration should be given to assure fair and equitable treatment of livestock producers who suffered reduced feed efficiency due to the poor quality of the feed that they produced," said Jack Laurie, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Michigan Farm Bureau late last year urged the USDA to consider quality, rather than just quantity, in the declaration of any disaster assistance for 1992. Farm Bureau estimated that adverse weather last year resulted in significant problems for the state's corn crop, including high moisture levels, low test weight, additional handling and dockage charges, low feed value and poor storability. These problems caused corn producers to suffer an out-of-pocket loss in excess of $100 million, according to Farm Bureau.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Ed Doolittle reads the columns and editorials in his papers and magazines the way some folks read their Bibles. He gives everything a turn his way. Just as men that have been married longer than they can remember selective listen around the house, Ed picks out what helps his case and lets the rest pass on by.

All the fellows at the country store are good selective listeners, so they never are surprised by the clips Ed brings to the meetings to back up his views. Saturday night, Ed got the floor early and broke new ground in giving news the Doolittle twist. For instance, he had saw where Mexico City has turned to witches to clean up the air. His clip told how 150 witches got together recent in that city of 17 million and put a spell on smog that is the worst in the world.

In his other hand, Ed waved a clip where this snake oil salesman is touring the country guaranteeing folks he can help them lose all the weight they want. For $35 he hypnotizes his customers and they wake up thinking thin and eating right. His guarantee is, customers that ain't satisfied get in free to another of his seminars. Ed said he has seen the same guarantees in ads to hypnotize folks that want to quit smoking, and he's sure the treatment is tried in breaking all bad habits.

All of which, Ed declared, calls to mind what the column writers call Clintonomics. The new President wants to hypnotize the country so it will wake up and realize that if everybody makes a contribution we can gain without pain. Mexico City can clean the air without banning cars and without laws that would scare off American industries moving there to get away from air and water quality laws. People can lose fat without exercising their arms to push away from the table. The Federal Government can break its wild spending habit by cutting the White House staff five percent and closing 30 military bases.

Practical speaking, Ed went on, Clinton might as well hypnotize us all, tell us all's right with the world and leave us that way. Once reality sets back in, he said, what was certain during the campaign last year is uncertain and more likely impossible this year. Ed allowed it takes a special kind of logic to save $2 billion by closing military bases and throwing 80,000 civilians out of work, and then spending $4 billion on keeping up buildings and grounds at the closed bases, on moving and retraining military personnel, on job training for civilians and economic aid for towns that lost the military payroll. It's another case of digging bigger holes to fill holes, was Ed's words.

Democrat Clem Webster broke in to say Ed's real worry is facing the truth that any change in Federal Government domestic policy has to be an improvement. Clem noted that the Administration plan is to beef up other bases and keep up defense at lower cost. Furthermore, he went on, everybody knows health care cost is out of control, but the Republicans already are picking on the President's wife for trying to do someone about it. As for logic, Clem went on, what are we to make of the Republican bankers that say their record profit is good for the country because the more money they make the less risk taxpayers run of having to bail them out like they are the savings and loans.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Washtenaw Breast Cancer Death Rate Among Highest in State

Women are dying from breast cancer in Washtenaw county. Forty women died in 1990 alone. In fact, from 1982 to 1990, the breast cancer death rate in Washtenaw county was higher than the national average. Within the state of Michigan, only Wayne county has a higher breast cancer death rate. Tragically, many of these deaths are needless.

Nancy Maddox, MPH, spokesperson for the Washtenaw County Public Health Division, reports that about one-third of the deaths from breast cancer can be prevented through yearly screenings and appropriate treatment.

The American Cancer Society recommends that all women 40 and over have a mammogram every other year and every year after the age of 50.

For area women who need a free or low-cost mammogram, services are available through the Washtenaw County Public Health Division.

For more information, call the Title XV Program at 484-7220.

LAWYER NICK HOWARD leans over to discuss his case with assistant Chris Glowicki during a mock trial at Beach Middle school. Onlookers Sabrina Steinaway, Kevin Bollinger and Jason Goodin wonder what the outcome will be.

Beach Middle School Students Participate in Mock Trial

Beach Middle school students participating in a trial held in the home economics room of the school—a mock trial.

For one week eighth grade students in Linda Turok's classroom became parents to a 5-pound bag of flour. This year two unfortunate crimes were committed. One was an alleged murder and the other was a case of a babysitter allegedly dropping the flour-baby on its head.

The defendants chose lawyers Nick Howard and Monica Zeitz as judge Jeannette McDougall presided over the courtroom.

The first day of the trial resulted in a hung jury, so a re-trial was held, which resulted in confessions. The jury determined both cases guilty as charged. Sentences included washing cafeteria tables, cleaning a teacher's room and grades being lowered.

Beach Middle school's newspaper reporters Kacie Ruhlig and Hilarie Szczygiel covered the trial for the Beach Wave.

Portage, Baseline Lakes Water Level To Rise on April 13

The water level at Portage and Baseline Lakes will begin to rise on April 13 and is expected to reach its summer level on about April 17, according to Janis A. Bobrin, Washtenaw County Drain Commissioner.

Bobrin said that each winter, the lake level is lowered to reduce frost damage and erosion at the lake. In the spring, homeowners in the Portage and Baseline Lakes area are cautioned to prepare for the raising of the lake level, which is co-ordinated with the opening of the MDNR boat launch facility scheduled for April 17.

"But now Christ is risen from the dead..."

—Bible, New Testament

For Christians, Easter is the happiest, the most joyous, as well as the most significant holiday of the Church Calendar. Easter celebrates the immortality of Christ as exemplified by His resurrection from the dead. Without Christ's resurrection, He would be another very wise, compassionate man; with it, He is the Son of God.

Easter means life after death, a concept which makes life more bearable for those who have lost loved ones and are left to continue alone. Their loneliness is only temporary.

The world needs the kind of hope that the Easter Story provides. Our staff wishes you a joyous and significant Easter Season, whatever your faith or denomination.

CATS Bus In Trouble

point where he can apply for a new one, but he isn't sure what CATS will get. He hopes it's not an 18-passenger bus, which is more expensive to maintain.

"What we really need is two buses," Bobo said.

A new bus probably won't arrive for at least a year.

In the meantime, Bobo isn't sure where the money to operate the bus will come from. The budget for 1993 is about $40,000. He said Chelsea United Way is the only charitable organization to increase its donations significantly over the last four years. Last year United Way gave more than $8,000. He anticipates the state contribution will remain at about $9,000 per year, although he doesn't know what to expect over the next few years. The village also contributes about $4,000 per year.

"We've got to find new funding from somewhere," Bobo said.

"We've got to recoup this loss. If the village cuts us off, we're done. I couldn't blame them if they did, but I also think they know how important CATS is to the community. The village has been great to us."

Village council's Ways and Means Committee is considering what, if anything, to do about the deficit.

CATS has not been an aggressive fundraising organization, but that may have to change. Bobo said he is looking for new people with "new ideas" to serve on the CATS board of directors. He didn't rule out raising the fare to $1, but noted the original intent of CATS was to provide a free service.

"The only reason we charged a fare at all is the state required us to," Bobo said.

Anyone interested in serving on the CATS board can call CATS at 475-9494 or Bobo at 475-0166.

MCRC Names Two New Directors to Board

Mill Creek Research Council's 28th annual meeting was held on the evening of March 30 at the Lima Town Hall. Chairman Charles Arnold presided. Pam Mansfield filled in as secretary. Bill Chandler, treasurer, presented financial reports. Jacob Haas and Anita Mansfield were selected for their first terms to the 12-member board of directors. Going off the board are Janet McCalla and Gerald Myers.

A possible amendment to the constitution was discussed which could be voted on at the next annual meeting. Briefly, this amendment would grant life-time memberships to those who have paid yearly dues for 20 years.

Next, there was discussion of the still unspecified possible use of as much as 4,000 acres, south of I-94 and from S. Fletcher Rd. west, possibly even including the Chrysler Proving Grounds. Lands along the eastern edge of these lands are also still part of Huron Clinton Metropolitan Authority's plan for a potential Mill Creek Park. Dave Bacon reported that H.C.M.A. is waiting for additional monies from oil leases, both for park maintenance and new acquisitions.

There has long been local opposition for several reasons to this Mill Creek proposal. Of course, there's concern about what is there now, who lives there now! Also, as to how to live with possibly 45,000 park visitors week-ends during the warmer days.

As to what, if any, action might be taken by the M.C.R.C. awaits more information on the 4,000-acre project.

Yearly dues of $12 for new members and $10 for yearly renewals may be paid to treasurer, William Chandler.

Procrastinators Can Get Extension on Tax Deadline

Need more time to file your federal income tax return? Request an extension, says the IRS.

"As the April 15 deadline approaches, I want to remind Michigan taxpayers who may not be able to complete their returns timely, to request an extension by filing Form 4868, Application for Extension of Time to File U. S. Individual Income Tax Return," said IRS district director John Hummel. "The extension must be filed by midnight, April 15," he said, "and it is important to remember that the form extends only the time to file the return. Any tax due must be paid with the extension application." A timely extension will allow taxpayers until Aug. 16, 1993, to complete their return, he said.

Hummel also reminded low income families that they may be entitled to money back from the IRS. Taxpayers who might not otherwise have to file a return may be eligible for refunds up to $2,211," Hummel said. "This is called the Earned Income Credit. The Earned Income Credit is available to taxpayers who earned less than $22,370 and had a child living with them in 1992," he said.

April 15 is also the due date of the first installment for 1993 estimated taxes.

"Individuals who pre-pay their taxes directly to the IRS must make the first payment by April 15, 1993," said Hummel. "Form 1040ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals, is used to send the payment."

Both the Form 4868 and 1040ES are available from local IRS offices, said Hummel. "Many community libraries also have copies of federal income tax forms," he said. "Last-minute taxpayers may be able to copy the forms they need there."

Anti-Drunk Boating Law Now in Effect

Individuals who operate a watercraft while impaired or under the influence of alcohol or drugs face tough new penalties in Michigan under a law that took effect March 31, said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin. "The Legislature is to be commended for taking a stricter stand against drunk boating in Michigan," Secretary Austin commented. "Our state is a water wonderland where families should be able to spend a summer afternoon boating without fear that a drunk boater will jeopardize their lives and safety."

"Given that Michigan has one of the highest boating fatality rates in the nation, lawmakers were wise to address this issue before another boating season begins," Secretary Austin added.

The U. S. Coast Guard reported a 75 percent increase in watercraft fatalities in Michigan between 1990 and 1991. The 56 watercraft deaths in 1991 are down from the record-high fatality rates of the 1960s and 1970s, according to the U. S. Coast Guard. "Nation-wide, about 4.6 people die for every 100,000 registered watercraft each year; in Michigan, the figure was 6.5 per 100,000 boats in 1991. That exceeded the motor vehicle death rate of 0.19 fatality per 100,000 registered vehicles, according to the Michigan State Police. About half of boating fatalities are linked alcohol consumption, according to the U. S. Coast Guard. Inadequate training and high-powered boats are contributing factors.

Under Michigan's anti-drunk boating law, boat operators are impaired with a blood alcohol concentration (BAC) of 0.07 percent or more, and under the influence with 0.10 BAC or more. The levels are the same as for driving a motor vehicle while impaired or under the influence.

Under the new law, sponsored by Senator William Van Regenmorter of Jenison, a first conviction of impaired boating is a misdemeanor resulting in up to 45 days community service; up to 90 days in jail; and/or a fine up to $300. A first conviction of operating a watercraft under the influence of alcohol results in up to 45 days community service; up to 90 days in jail; and/or a $100 to $500 fine; and suspended boating privileges of six months to one year. Drunken boaters involved in a crash causing an incapacitating injury face five years in jail; 15 years if a death results from their actions.

The new law creates an implied consent provision, identical to the implied consent law for motor vehicle operators. Under that provision, all boaters using Michigan waterways have agreed by virtue of operating a watercraft to submit to a breathalyzer or chemical test for alcohol or drugs when requested by a law enforcement officer. The penalty for an implied consent refusal is suspension of boating privileges for six months to one year, and a $100 fine.

The Secretary of State's office will create and maintain boating records for watercraft operators convicted of violating the new law. Like driving records, boating records are available to law enforcement officers through the law enforcement information network (LEIN). A conviction of violating the anti-drunk boating law will not affect a person's motor vehicle driving privileges.

Plans Underway For Riverfest '93

On May 17, 18 and 19, a flotilla of 30 canoes filled with community leaders, naturalists, scientists, journalists and others will make its way down the Huron River through Washtenaw county as part of the eight-day Huron Riverfest '93.

The river explorers will be stopping at Hudson Mills Metropark, Dexter, Fuller Park in Ann Arbor, Parker Mill County Park and Riverside Park in Ypsilanti where community-sponsored celebrations focusing on the Huron will be conducted.

The Riverfest begins Friday, May 14, at Indian Springs Metropark in Oakland county at the headwaters of the river and ends eight days later at Pte. Mouillee where the river empties into Lake Erie.

"The canoe trip and community celebrations are designed to highlight the importance of the Huron River in our lives, to promote camaraderie and communication among river basin communities and to promote stewardship of the river," says Paul Rentschler, executive director of the Huron River Watershed Council.

Exhibits pertaining to the river, water quality, local history and the trip itself will be displayed at most stops to provide the public with information about the 125-mile-long river and its 900 square-mile watershed and about the organizations helping to protect it. A variety of programs and activities are planned at each stop, as well. On the evening of May 17 at Hudson Mills Metropark a naturalist will conduct a nature walk along the banks of the river and, later, Wystan Stevens will present a slide-illustrated program on the "Mills of the Huron." The flotilla will stop at Dexter on the morning of May 18. "We'll have student art exhibits, concerts by a local school choir and others, tours of Dexter's state-of-the-art waste water treatment plant, and storytelling by local historian Earl Doletsky," says Jeannette Luton, Dexter Parks Commissioner and site-co-ordinator for the Riverfest.

The programs being planned for Fuller Park in Ann Arbor on May 18 will include activities for youngsters, according to Joan Martin of the Huron River Watershed Council and site co-ordinator for the Ann Arbor celebration. Michigan United Conservation Clubs will present its live animal show; the Leslie Science Center's video microscope will be available to provide people with a better look at small water organisms; and there'll be storytelling and concerts.

On May 19, flotilla members will stop for lunch at Parker Mill County Park. The public can join the

County Deputies Report Malicious Destruction, Drunk Driving in Area

Washtenaw County Sheriff deputies investigated a number of incidents in Dexter, Chelsea, Webster township and Scio township between March 20 and March 31.

On March 20, a 35-year-old Dexter man was arrested for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on North Territorial near Mast Rd., Webster township. His 1986 Mercury Cougar was impounded after a deputy stopped him for traveling 86 mph in a 50 mph zone. He failed two out of three field sobriety tests and blew .122 during a preliminary breath test. The man's driver's license was confiscated and destroyed and he was lodged in Washtenaw County jail.

On March 23, the manager of a car rental agency in the 3800 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township, reported a 23-year-old Ypsilanti woman wrote two bad checks totalling $324. Brandon D. Luesay, 20, of Pinckney was arrested on a warrant during a traffic stop on Dexter-Ann Arbor Rd. near Zeeb Rd., Scio township. The warrant was for a misdemeanor charge of urinating in public while in Ypsilanti.

Breaking and entering was reported by a 41-year-old woman in the 3900 block of Miller Rd., Scio township. She said between 10 p.m. and 7 a.m. someone entered her open garage and stole an air gun, drill, beer and miscellaneous change from three unlocked vehicles.

The manager of a car rental agency in the 3800 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township, reported a 44-year-old Saline woman wrote two bad checks totalling $222 after renting a Ford Taurus.

A 64-year-old Pinckney woman was arrested for driving a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor on Huron River Dr. near Gregory Rd., Dexter. After she refused to submit to field sobriety tests and a preliminary breath test, deputies had to threaten to seek a search warrant to obtain a blood test from her to determine her alcohol level. The woman finally gave in, and registered a .24 blood/alcohol level. Her 1981 Dodge vehicle was impounded and she was lodged in Washtenaw County jail. Deputies arrested her after she was involved in an accident in which she struck a fence and several mailboxes. No injuries were reported.

On March 24, a 32-year-old Jackson man was arrested on westbound I-94 near M-52, Chelsea, for operating a motor vehicle under the influence of liquor. His arrest occurred after several citizens witnessed him pass other vehicles on the shoulder of the highway after they were stopped because of a chemical spill. The man was cited for refusing to submit to a preliminary breath test, driving with a revoked license and drunk driving.

On March 25, a report was made about a 16-year-old Dexter boy found trespassing at Wylie Middle school on March 24 at 5 p.m. The student had been told he wasn't allowed on the school's property after he threatened a Wylie student in January. On March 24, a teacher witnessed the boy standing outside the building with some students. He warned the boy and asked him to leave. The boy refused and after the teacher left, he went inside of the school.

A C.B. radio, antenna and sunglasses were reported stolen from an unlocked 1986 Dodge vehicle in the 9600 block of Dexter-Pinckney Rd., (Continued on page 12)

Bulldogs!

Depth, Speed, Defense Give Bulldogs Shot At Another SEC Title

If Chelsea Bulldogs baseball coach Wayne Welton can find an everyday catcher and fill in the number two and three spots on his pitching staff, Chelsea should once again challenge for the Southeastern Conference title and perhaps more.

For the first time in many years, Welton does not have an experienced catcher returning. Adam Taylor, perhaps Chelsea's finest catcher ever, has graduated, leaving senior Ken Slane and freshman Scott Colvin as the two likely replacements.

Slane, however, is battling back from a knee injury suffered during football season. Colvin, of course, has never played any high school baseball.

"If Ken and Scott can do the job behind the plate, everything else should take care of itself," Welton says.

"Although we lost three outstanding players in Adam, Jake (Rindle), and Ben (Hurst), our depth is as good as any we've had."

Senior co-captain Colt White, last year's number two pitcher, returns as a solid number one. Welton hopes this week's annual trip to Florida solidifies the rest of his staff. He's counting on senior Steve Grau and junior Colby Skelton, and perhaps junior Matt Powell for a lot of mound time.

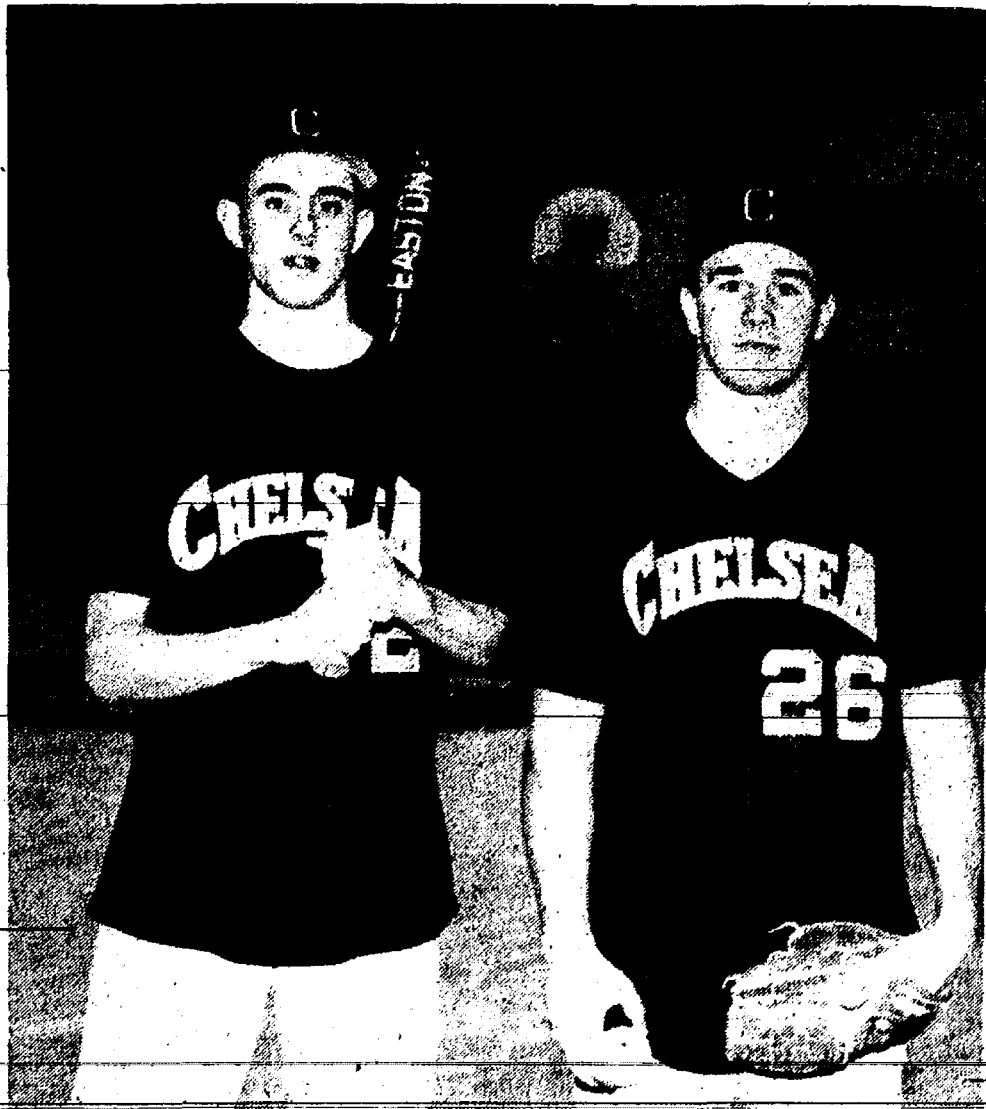

The Bulldogs should be another good defensive team. Junior Tim Wescott returns at second base and White will play shortstop. Grau's at third base and senior Nick McCalla will hold down first base. Welton will have to do a lot of shifting around depending on who's pitching. Wescott may play shortstop, junior Don Poppenger and Powell may play second, and Slane can handle the infield, as well as junior Jason McVittie. Junior Ed Greenleaf, out with an injury last season, will play with the varsity on week-ends, either at first or in the outfield.

The outfield also has plenty of talent, led by senior co-captain Chris Dunham. Skelton will play center most of the time, and junior Pat Steele appears to have the right field job.

Other outfielders include senior Casey Schiller, juniors Aric Dougherty, Jay Westcott, and Gabe Bernhardt, and sophomore Case McCalla.

"We have four pretty good outfielders," Welton says.

"Tim and Colt should be good middle infielders and Nick will surprise some people at first. He's really improved as an athlete."

Welton's offense will display as much speed as he's ever had, although he hasn't decided on a lead-off hitter. Hitters two through eight can all put the ball in play, run, and several are capable of smacking the ball over the fence. Although the exact order has yet to be decided, a tentative batting order might be Skelton as the lead-off, followed by Wescott, Dunham, White, Slane, Grau, Steele, and Schiller.

"We'll have more speed than we've had in a long time, especially off the bench," Welton says.

"That will give us the opportunity to do some things. I've never liked the courtesy runner rule, but it may come in handy with Ken. I doubt if he'll ever run the bases."

The courtesy rule allows a coach to substitute a runner for any hitter who reaches base, as many times as he wants.

Welton has again created a tough schedule. Some of the most difficult non-conference opponents should be Carleton Airport, Brighton, Pioneer, and Detroit Country Day.

The SEC, Welton says, "should be as tough as ever." In addition to his Bulldogs, he likes the Dexter Dreadnaughts and Milan Big Reds. Dexter has the most returning players and Milan also has several two- and three-year players.

Pinckney Pirates, Saline Hornets, and Tecumseh Indians all have new coaches, the first time there has ever been so much changeover in the league.

The Bulldogs, again, have their full complement of assistant coaches, led by Akel Marshall, in his 13th year. Welton's old high school teammate, Randy Brier, returns for his sixth year; former player Todd Starkey begins his fifth year, and former Detroit Tigers pitcher Fred Holdsworth starts his fourth year. Rich Slater is also back.

"Even if they knew nothing about baseball, they are special people to have around," Welton says.

Women's Golf League Forming

The Chelsea Chippers will once again be forming their women's Tuesday morning golf league at the Sparrow Hawk golf course in Jackson.

Play will begin May 4 and continue weekly through Aug. 17. Tee off time is 8:59 a.m.

Any women interested in joining may call Nanette Cooper at 475-3229.

Dog Girl Runners Seek Another Conference Title

Forty-one girls have been working out with the Chelsea girls track team as the Bulldogs look for their third consecutive Southeastern Conference title.

Coach Bill Bainton says the team appears to be solid in every event.

The distance corps is headed by senior three-time all-stater Lisa Monti. Also back is senior Val Bullock, who was fourth in the SEC 800 run last year. Junior Beth Bell was an all-SEC runner in the 800 and a valuable relay runner.

Sophomores Molly Griebel and Robin Phelps were solid runners and should fill key positions this spring, Bainton says. Sophomore Erika Leifer and junior Josie Romero add experience, and junior Colby Gorton, sophomore Rosanna Gray-Lion, and freshmen Angie Bell, Melissa Hand, and Melissa Williams are newcomers.

Senior Laura Paton was all-league and third in the regional in the 400 and runs the sprint relays and the 200. Senior Jessica Holton and junior Sarah Henry swing between the 800 and 400 and are experienced relay runners. Henry was fourth in the SEC in the 400 last year.

Senior Monica Hansen and sophomore Keri Kentala head what could be the best group of hurdlers in the conference. Hansen is a three-year letter winner and Kentala was fourth in both hurdle races in the SEC last year. The rest of the hurdle crew includes junior Joanna Richison, and freshmen Andrea Ludwig, Jill McKinnon, and Heidi Wehrwein.

Theresa Royce is the Bulldogs' top sprinter and was all-SEC last year. Other sprinters include sophomores Megan McDonald, Sarah Schick, Lynne Kalmbach and newcomers Amalia Adrianto, Laura Hodgson, Lori Nelson, Sara Mead, Heather Sayer, Katie Spink, and Sara Walters.

Junior Erin Schiller was a state qualifier in the high jump last year. Sophomore Courtney Thompson is also returning in the high jump. Newcomers are sophomore Christie Lonskey and freshman Laurie Schiller. All four are also sprinters.

Top long jumpers are Royce, Kentala, Spink, and Hodgson.

Competitors in the shot put and discus are senior Wendy Bristle, junior Mara Smith, a league placer last year, sophomore Jessica Flintoff, who is also a distance runner, and Thompson and Wehrwein.

Bainton says that Tecumseh appears to have the best shot to topple the Bulldogs. Chelsea narrowly defeated the Indians in each of the four times they competed last year.

Tom Poulter Wins Hoop MVP Honors

Senior center Tom Poulter was named the Most Valuable Player for the Chelsea Bulldogs varsity basketball team.

It's the second season in a row that Poulter has earned that honor. He was also MVP of the football team last fall.

Poulter led the team in points with 316 and rebounds with 178. He also shot a team-high 54 percent from the field.

Most Improved honors went to senior forward Nick McCalla, first player off the bench for coach Robin Raymond.

Oil Can Award for spirit went to junior guard Colby Skelton.

Skelton and junior Pat Steele were named co-captains for next year.

Senior Dana Schmunk led the team and Tecumseh returns many key runners.

Dexter was third last year but was hard hit by graduation. Saline returns the league's top sprinter and has several good distance runners. Pinckney was improved last year and could move up with the addition of a freshman sprinter, Bainton says. Lincoln has a new coach and several good athletes. And Milan, he says, "is an unknown quality right now."

The Bulldogs open their season on Thursday, April 15 against Manchester.

in free throw percentage at 78 and blocked shots with 40.

Steele was high in charges taken 19, and most three-pointers, 33.

Skelton won the Hatcher Award for most fouls, 78, just one more than Poulter.

Senior point guard Chris Dunham led in three categories. He had 90 steals and 122 assists. He also led in Raymond's point system (a formula which takes into account just about everything a player can do on the floor) with 388 points.

Senior Aleksander Selmanovic finished at the top of the team's free throw ladder.

Other letter winners included Cory Brown, Ed Waller, Erik Brown, Matt Seitz, and David Stimpson.

★ Check Seed Packets For Valuable Information

East Lansing—Seed packets are more than containers or potential row markers. They provide valuable information on how to grow the flowers or vegetables whose seeds they contain.

Mary McLellan, Master Gardener co-ordinator at Michigan State University, says the small size of a seed packet means it can't always hold every bit of information you might want about a certain crop or variety. But it does offer basic growing how-to information, including:

- The identity of the seed: the kind of plant—cabbage, corn or cosmos, for instance—plus the variety name. Capital letters—following the variety—VFN, for instance—indicates built-in disease or pest resistance. VFN on a tomato variety, for example, means resistance to Verticillium and Fusarium wilt and nematodes.
- Growing requirements: full sun or partial shade, for example.
- Days to maturity: how long it takes, on average, for a crop to produce after it's sown or transplanted into the garden.
- Plant size and proper spacing of seeds and/or plants; distance between seedlings after thinning.
- When to plant. Instructions may include when to sow seeds indoors for transplants, when to plant seeds outdoors and/or when to set transplants into the garden.
- How to plant seeds: whether in rows or hills (groups of seeds planted together) or broadcast, and how deep to plant seeds.

Packets may also include information on uses for a particular variety—in borders or container gardens, for instance—special needs, such as a trellis, and harvesting information.

"The colorful pictures on many seed packets may make them attractive as row markers," McLellan observes. "At least, until sun and rain cause them to fade or disintegrate. Because of the information they provide, however, they might be more useful in other ways."

For more detailed information on vegetable and flower gardening, visit your county Co-operative Extension Service office. A catalog of publications, videotapes and other learning materials is available from the county office or from the MSU Bulletin Office, 10B Agriculture Hall, MSU, East Lansing 48824-1039.

A Child's View of Retirement In A Mobile Home Park

Submitted by Edna Youler

AFTER school break the teacher asked her small pupils how they spent their holiday. One little boy's reply went like this:

"We always spend Christmas with Grandpa and Grandma. They used to live here in a big house, but Grandpa got retarded and they moved to Florida. Now they live in a park with lots of other retarded people. They live in tin huts.

They ride tricycles that are too big for me. They all go to a building they call the wrecked hall, but it is fixed now. They all do exercises but not very well. They play a game with big checkers and push them around on the floor with sticks. There is a swimming pool, but I guess nobody teaches them, because they just stand there in the water with their hats on.

My Grandma used to bake cookies for me, but nobody cooks there. They all go to restaurants that are fast and have discounts.

When you come into the park, there is a doll house with a man sitting in it. He watches all day so they can't get out without him seeing them. I guess everybody forgets who they are because they all wear badges with their names on them.

Grandma says that Grandpa worked hard all his life to his retardment. I wish they would move back home, but I guess the man in the doll house won't let them out."

Long-Distance Calls From Pay Phones May Be Costly

Not all pay telephone or long-distance operator services are created equal and it isn't always easy to tell the difference until you open your telephone bill.

How much you are charged when making a call from a pay telephone in a public place (such as a hospital, bar, airport, hotel or restaurant), will depend on which long-distance service or operator handled your call. Assuming that no matter where you call from you will be using the same company or charged the same rates that you receive at home is not only incorrect, but can be costly, too.

Pay telephones may use any one of the many different companies providing long-distance service. And the rates charged for calls can be as variable as the number of companies offering long-distance operator service.

Person-to-person, collect, third-party, and even calls billed to your telephone company credit card may cost you more using an independent operator service, in place of your regular long-distance company.

How do you know which service a particular pay telephone uses?

* Look for posted information about the long-distance service and rates on or near the pay telephone. The company's name and a consumer contact number should be listed, so you can call for more information.

* If the long-distance company's name is not posted, dial 00 and ask the operator for the name and contact number.

* If the long-distance service provider is not the company you wish to use, try to have the call transferred to the preferred company or use the access code for the company you want. (This code is usually a five-digit number that starts with 10 or an 800 or 950 number.)

* Make sure you know the five-digit access code for your preferred company. If you don't have it, call the company to get it.

Although the independent operator services, or "Alternative Operator Services (AOS)" are not regulated by the Michigan Public Service Commission, your local telephone service cannot be disconnected for not paying disputed AOS charges. Customers who have questions about AOS services or charges on their bill, or have a complaint, should contact the Information Complaint Branch of the Federal Communications Commission at (202) 632-7553 or they may contact the Michigan Public Service Commission toll-free at 1-800-292-9555.

Teacher Mary Ellen Mynning Describes Chinese Homes, Food

By Mary Ellen Mynning

March 27, 1993

Dear friends,

I would like to take a few minutes to begin my letter by thanking all the wonderful people who have sent me letters, cards, and gifts. Two boxes of books have safely arrived for my students and I want once again to thank Martha Davis, the Dexter Public Library, and the Woman's Club for all they have done. I expect the third box to show up shortly.

In addition, I would like to thank Mrs. DeVries' 4th grade class in Chelsea for all the wonderful letters they sent to their "Chinese Friends"—my students thoroughly enjoyed them.

I want to extend a big public thank you to Mr. and Mrs. McMurray. Mr. McMurray (from Chelsea) came to Beijing on business and brought a wonderful box of "goodies" from the States for me and thoughtfully lugged a box home for my family.

There are so many others I would like to personally thank but it would take a whole column of the newspaper to do it. I just want you to know how proud I am to call you friends.

I thought I would do something a little different for this letter home. So many of you have written asking me specific questions about China that I thought I would take the time here to answer your questions since I am sure they are of common interest to a lot of people.

Could you please tell me what a typical home in China looks like?

Homes are small, usually apartments, or single rooms. The floors are concrete—no rugs. Refrigerators are half the size of ours, and there are virtually no home freezers. Shopping is done on almost a daily basis. I have not seen any window shades. Homes do not have running hot water or individual thermostats—too expensive. Almost everybody has a TV, many people in the large cities have VCR's. Many people have washing machines, but I have seen no dryers. Families eat together. Mealtimes are sacred and are family times. I like this. I like this a lot. People go to a public bath house for bathing since it would take a lot of thermos jugs of water to fill a private bathtub! To save on space, kitchen tables are folding tables that are stored after each meal. For lighting, fluorescent lights are used—saves money.

What is a typical street scene in the city like?

Gas stations are difficult to find, they are usually tucked away from the street and behind a fence. Lots of parking lots for bikes, only 5¢ to park. On Sunday afternoon the "bike washes" are going full-steam. Postal employees do not wear uniforms. In Beijing and Tianjin it is rare to find a neon sign. What they do have is strings of white Christmas tree lights forming a canopy over the entrance to bars, restaurants, or hotels.

People sweep the sidewalks and streets all day with big brooms, their faces are covered with white masks to help protect their lungs from all the dust. When they sell popcorn on the streets instead of putting on salt and butter—they put on white sugar. Florist shops are rare, ice cream parlors rarer, and hamburger joints—forget it! However in Beijing we DO have the world's largest McDonald's.

I miss chipmunks and squirrels. You can't find them here. The only wildlife is a bird now and then. When I talk about squirrels the students here are horrified, "The animals would make things dirty!" Funny, I never thought of it. But you see here, you can't find grass, too many millions of feet walking around for hundreds of years has eliminated most of the grass from the cities, except in the parks. So maybe squirrels would make a mess! They have no shopping malls, or mega theaters where you can have 15 movies offered under one roof.

What do most Chinese people eat? This is not a stupid question! I loved Chinese food in America and when I came here, I expected to find the same food served here, that I had there. Wrong. Food in northern China is different. Not so spicy. Very oily. Favorite veggies here are spring onion, cabbage, tomatoes, and carrots. You also find a lot of lotus root—crunchy and sweet. Egg rolls are not terrifically common. A popular side dish is peanuts served hot—sauteed. Steamed dumplings, however, are very common in the north. Remember the movie with Indiana Jones where he was served monkey-brains? They have it here in Tianjin—extremely expensive. Thanks heavens! Not much veal, mutton, and I haven't seen any pork chops by the way. In the north, noodles are just as common as rice. Green tea is usually served in restaurants.

You are never served food on a plate, but you are given one small bowl of rice and the plates of food are put before you to dive into and plop on to your rice, one mouthful at a time. No serving spoons, everybody dives in with their chopsticks into the common dishes. I am constantly amazed how a Chinese will break up his meat into edible pieces using only his chopsticks and no knife.

Well, I hope that helped answer a few of the questions you have. If you have others, please write, and I'll be happy to answer!

Mary Ellen.

Pioneer Voyageurs Featured in Magazine

The brightly clad, devil-may-care men known as voyageurs were the workhorses of the upper Great Lakes fur trade in the 1700s. Their intense physical labors inspired gargantuan appetites sated only by large quantities of food. Michigan historian Larry Massie, who has sampled many voyageur recipes in his own kitchen, takes a humorous and informative look at voyageur fare in the March/April 1993 issue of Michigan History Magazine, now on sale.

"Voyageur exploits in the fur trade era are well documented," said Secretary of State Richard H. Austin, Michigan's official historian. "Voyageur culinary habits, however, are not widely known and by today's standards, were quite unusual."

Almost any type of food would suit a hungry voyageur's fancy. Northwest Fur Co. voyageurs boasted that they could "live hard, lie hard, sleep hard and eat dogs." Thomas Simpson, who utilized Canadian voyageurs to reach the Arctic in the 1830s, wrote that a single man's daily ration consisted of 12 pounds of venison or five huge whitefish. In the 1850s, a young Chicago scientist observed that "rubaboo"—a kind of soup made with boiling water and pemmican—frequently included hair, sticks, spruce leaves, stones and large amounts of sand.

Other feature articles in the March/April issue of Michigan History Magazine visit Detroit's historic Jefferson-Chalmers district to discover how the neighborhood arose from a Detroit River marsh; experience the Civil War's Battle of Shiloh through the letters of a young private; profile dedicated fisherman and author of "Anatomy of a Murder," John Voelker; and introduce Adeline Graham Wilkinson of Berrien Springs, one of five young people whose diaries and memoirs are the foundation of "Growing Up in Michigan: 1880-1895," a new permanent exhibit at the Michigan Historical Museum in Lansing.

Michigan History Magazine, the nation's most popular state history magazine, is available by single issue ($2.95) at many bookstores across the state, and by annual subscription ($12.95/one year). The magazine, which explores all facets of Michigan's past with a contemporary perspective, is published six times a year by the Michigan Department of State's Bureau of History.

Send subscription requests with check or money order made payable to "State of Michigan" to: "Voyageur Cooking," Michigan History Magazine, Michigan Department of State, 717 W. ## Property Tax Reform Should Benefit Michigan Farmers

The state's largest farm organization believes the property tax reform package approved by the legislature will be generally favorable to agriculture.

"On balance, farmers will benefit from this shift away from property taxes toward the sales tax," said Ron Nelson, legislative counsel for Michigan Farm Bureau. "Initial analysis indicates that during a typical year, farmers as a whole pay far more in property taxes than they will pay in increased sales taxes."

Nelson said he believed that the property tax reform package offers some very favorable points for farmers enrolled in the Farmland and Open Space Preservation program (P.A. 116). "Those farmers in P.A. 116 will see a reduction in their property tax and the amount of credits they receive, but they'll also see a substantial reduction in the amount of payback due at the end of their contracts. Plus, even though under P.A. 116 they have to pay their property tax and get a portion back, they will have less cash outstanding for that period of time under this new proposal."

A key part of the property tax reform package will be a June 2 vote to increase the sales tax to six cents. "This will represent a major element of protection for Michigan taxpayers, because the vote will lock into the state constitution the dedication of this sales tax increase solely to K-12 education," said Nelson. "Michigan Farm Bureau will be urging voters to approve this increase."

Women Who Avoid Mammograms Are Dying

Many women are paying with their lives because they have not had access to regular mammograms. The American Cancer Society estimates that 1 in 8 American women will get breast cancer. In 1992 alone, 5,859 Michigan women were diagnosed with breast cancer. More than 1,600 died from the disease that same year.

"Most women put the rest of their family first before attending to their own needs," says Nancy Maddox, MPH, Washtenaw County Public Health Division spokesperson. "As a result, breast cancer that could have been successfully treated grows unchecked."

Maddox encourages all women over the age of 40 to have a mammogram every other year and once a year for women over 50.

Free or low-cost services are available through the Washtenaw County Public Health Division. For more information, call 484-7220.

The Patent and Trademark Office receives more than 100,000 applications a year.

This Month in Diving

In "This Month in Diving" you will get a chance to meet the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department Underwater Search and Recovery Team, to understand where the team stands today and where the future may take them.

It was just 50 years ago on a June morning in 1943 a young man named Cousteau strapped on the first scuba tank in the south of France and changed history forever.

Diving is getting more technical each and every day. As scientists find out more about the effects of diving in different environments the diver must get more and more technical. Today we know that the quality of some of the waters we dive in we must take special precautions. A dry suit will keep out the water and a full face mask will not only keep your face dry, it will keep you safe from pollutants.

On the whole, the water in Washtenaw county is some of the safest in the state, but as a public safety diver we may be asked to dive in polluted water to do an evidence dive not just for guns and cars but for illegal dumping.

In their attempts to update safety and rescue equipment, for the past two years, the dive team has reached out to the community and has been received with open arms.

On May 8 the dive team will put on its third annual fund-raiser to be held at the Elk's Lodge No. 325, located at 325 W. Eisenhower, Ann Arbor. The dinner/dance will include music by a DJ and a cash bar. Door prizes are donated from local businesses. The event starts at 8 p.m. and runs until 12 p.m.

With proceeds from the last two fund-raisers the team has moved from gear of the '60s to the '90s by getting environmental suits and full face masks equipped with underwater communications so that divers can communicate with each other and with the surface support.

Communications may not sound like a big deal but when you have zero visibility and you are going strictly by feel, the safety factor is a big part of the dive. The ability to communicate with the surface personnel enhances the ability to effect a rescue or recovery. Just like a firefighter, the environment we go into is unforgiving but with proper training and the right equipment the job is made as safe as humanly possible.

On April 24 from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. at Dexter Community Pool you will have a chance to meet the dive team as a way to promote diving and water safety. There will be dive instructors there from Divers, Inc., of Ann Arbor.

Discover diving, bring a bathing suit and a towel and you will get a chance to go diving. There is no charge so if you ever wondered what it is like to be diving, now is your chance.

According to Deputy Tim White who is in charge of the Marine Safety Division and head of the Dive Team, education will be the primary concern of the department's Marine Safety program this year. Promoting water safety above and below the water is the primary concern of the Sheriff's Department. For information concerning boating safety classes or the dive team fund-raiser you may contact: Tim White at the Washtenaw County Marine Division, 871-7551.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

What are sports? ... Basketball, swimming, football, cross country, track, wrestling, baseball, tennis, golf, volleyball and softball. But what sports do you hear of? Newspapers could write pages about the local football, basketball and baseball teams, but you barely hear that there actually are other sports going on besides those three "important" sports.

Aren't the students all Chelsea Bulldogs showing their school spirit and giving their best for their school? Don't cross country runners put out as much effort as football players? How many basketball players go into the locker room and lose their last meal because they just got done working their little hearts out for their school? I can tell you swimmers don't surprise themselves when they give 150% and suddenly feel sick.

If that's not good enough, try to get that basketball player to go back on the court. A swimmer knows his/her duty or is back in the water on the coach's command. What sport is more physically exhausting than competitive swimming?

What do these "unimportant" sports get in return for their effort? A little column used to fill up space, instead of the big front page articles. There should be equal coverage of all Chelsea sports. No bias, no exaggeration, just clean, equal coverage to all sports.

CHS Will Present 'Man of La Mancha'

Chelsea High school musical "Man of La Mancha" is well underway. The story of Miguel de Cervantes, aging and an utter failure in his many careers as playwright, poet and tax collector for the government, has been thrown into a dungeon in Seville to await trial by the Inquisition for an offense against the church.

In prison, he is hailed before a kangaroo court of his fellow prisoners; thieves, cutthroats and trollops who propose to confiscate his meagre possessions, one of which is the uncompleted manuscript of a novel called "Don Quixote." Cervantes, seeking to save it, proposes to offer a novel defense in the form of entertainment. The "court" accedes and before their eyes, wearing makeup and costume, Cervantes and his faithful manservant transform themselves into Don Quixote and Sancho Panza and proceed to play out the story with the participation of the prisoners as other characters.

The technical crew, led by Brian Myers, as well as the cast, led by Steven P. Hinz; the orchestra, conducted by Peter Rosheger; and the student staff production team, led by Shelly Wheaton; and Jerri Cole constructing all of the costumes have been very busy.

Student staff members include Aimee Armstrong, Sara Tracy, Scott Dale, Melissa Smith, Justin Husehke, Casey White, Vera Eddy, Linda Schaffer, Sarah Velarde and Heather Greenleaf.

With props being collected, the set being built, the lights going up, the posters going up all over town, the t-shirts being worn, the cast and orchestra members rehearsing, it's time to put the tickets on sale at Chelsea Pharmacy. Tickets are available during any of their regular store hours for student and adult prices.

Performance dates are April 22, 23, 24 at 8 p.m. at Chelsea High School George Prinzing Auditorium.

DANCIN' THE DINOSAUR ROCK is North school principal and green-dinosaur Bill Wescott at the conclusion of a play last Friday to mark the end of March Is Reading Month at the school. "Be a Readersaurus" was the theme this year, so naturally the principal had to dress up as a dinosaur. Children at both North and South school are encouraged to read heavily during March, partly to raise money for charity.

Meeting with Sen. Pollack Open to Chelsea Community

State Sen. Lana Pollack will be joined by Chelsea Board of Education President Anne Comeau, Chelsea superintendent Joe Piasecki, and assistant superintendent Fred Mills for her Monday, April 12 meeting at North Elementary school to discuss the proposed property tax reform and school finance proposal.

Pollack, who voted against the measure, will be at the school from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. in the cafeteria. The program is being sponsored by the PTN organization but the entire community is invited to attend.

The local officials will follow Pollack and offer their thoughts about the proposal.

"Our purpose with this session will not be to spend time criticizing the new legislation, but to learn about its details and to discuss with our local school officials what can be done to protect the quality of educational experiences offered to our children in Chelsea," said PTN president Melody Reifel.

"We are hoping that some constructive ideas will emerge." PTN is arranging on-site babysitting services for parents who need to bring their children.
