Council Raises Millage For Operating Budget

Chelsea Village Council set a general fund operating millage of 10.38 mills for 1993-94 after a public hearing last Tuesday.

The hearing drew no comments from the public, although new trustee Richard Rigg cast the only vote against the millage.

Due to this year's large property assessment increases, the Headlee Amendment required a millage rollback from last year's level of 10.95 mills. Without a public hearing, the village would have been required to levy 10.08 mills. The public hearing allowed a .3-mill tax increase to fund the $1.8 million budget.

Rigg told council that he objected to the increase and believed the village could operate within "the tight budget," village manager Jack Myers created.

"I don't feel we should raise taxes until we change the way we do business," Rigg said.

Village president Richard Steele said the additional $29,000 generated from the .3 mills would probably be used for street repairs.

When asked what would be the effect of the passage of Proposal A on the village budget, Myers said "it's a whole new ballgame." He said he had been told by the county that the amount of revenues would be about the same, at least for the new fiscal year.

"Personally, I'm worried about what [the state's] not telling us" about Proposal A, Myers told council.

In other business, council set the Downtown Development Authority's millage rate at 1.76 mills. The millage only covers property in the area defined as the downtown development district. This is the final year of the five-year millage.

The millage will raise about $23,000 for DDA operations.

Poulter's Memorial Day Address Asks 'What Have I Got To Give?'

By Tom Poulter

When I was asked to give this speech I thought to myself—why was I asked? What have I got to give? I'm the one who should be listening to all these men talk to me about what Memorial Day means. I'm just a kid right out of high school. The most I've ever lost is a football game. Sure, it seemed like a lot, but how can that compare to losing your friend who is standing right next to you? How can anything compare to that? What have I got to give you?

What have I got to give those who died for this great country? How can they be compensated for their valor? The point of Memorial Day—every small town across this nation, every town has veterans. Every town is remembering those who died, honoring them with our remembrance. This gathering may be small but there are thousands of these. That's what makes our country strong. This day inspires a sense of national pride, a feeling of honor. This day is for honoring those who made the ultimate sacrifice for every citizen of this nation.

I've been told that I bring this town honor because I'm going to attend the Naval Academy and because of my role in athletics. I throw my body and all my energy into a contest. I have never had any intention of losing at anything. When I go out to compete I give everything I have, but also I have no fear that I will not be around later that night. I may be hurt but no mat-

Foeller To Stand Trial, Charge Revived Against Church Assistant Pastor

Washtenaw County Prosecutor's Office won two battles in their effort to have a former and a current employee of the North Sharon Baptist church stand trial on sex abuse charges.

Last Thursday in Chelsea 14th District Court, Judge Kenneth Bronson ordered former deacon Mark R. Foeller to stand trial on charges that he assaulted a nine-year-old Jackson boy in the basement of the church.

After 2½ days of testimony in an unusually long pre-trial hearing, Bronson ruled there was enough evidence for Foeller to stand trial on two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

In another case last Wednesday, Circuit Court Judge Patrick Conlin ruled that a charge of first-degree criminal sexual conduct against assistant pastor Timothy Leonard cannot be dismissed because the alleged victim could not pinpoint the time of the alleged assault.

With the ruling in the Foeller case, the former deacon faces three trials, one in Jackson county and two in Washtenaw, and faces a total of 17 sexual assault charges.

Bronson waited to rule in the case until after the testimony of Michigan State University physician Ruth Ann Worthington, who runs a sexual abuse evaluation clinic. She told the court she examined the boy on March 9 and found rectal scarring that would be evident with sexual contact. Foeller was scheduled for arraignment yesterday in circuit court. He is jailed in Jackson county.

The boy, in graphic testimony, told the court that Foeller had sodomized him, forced him to perform oral sex, took a photograph of him afterward, and told him he would kill his parents and his brother if he told them.

Foeller's attorney, Brian Thiede, contended that the boy's parents had made up the sexual abuse charges in an effort to win civil damages. He tried to portray the boy's parents as opportunists. He called to the stand numerous church employees, several of whom said Foeller was elsewhere during the time of the alleged assault.

Assistant county prosecutor Julia Owdziej said that while Bronson may have been waiting to hear the physician's testimony before ruling, the quality of the boy's testimony is what ultimately made the difference.

"He was wonderful," Owdziej said.

"He did a great job on all elements of the case."

After the ruling, the boy's mother said she was happy with the ruling and lashed out at church officials by saying, "not one time has the church backed the kids." She also said her son was scared of private investigators hired by the church. After answering reporters' questions for a couple of minutes she was hustled away by Michigan State Police Det. Norman Maxwell.

Owdziej said that Thiede's strategy of presenting so much testimony during the pre-trial hearing should work to her advantage at the trial because she's seen a large portion of his case.

Thiede, however, said his case won't be hurt because his witnesses "told the truth."

Foeller's first trial is scheduled for June 21 before Chief Washtenaw Circuit Court Judge Melinda Morris. Before then, Morris will rule on a motion by Thiede to throw out some evidence against his client that he said was seized illegally. The case involves boys Foeller allegedly assaulted at a church day camp in Jackson county. The evidence includes notations of grades of children in the camp which is believed to refer to sexual performance. Thiede also asked for the return of computer discs taken from Foeller's home because they were not part of the search warrant.

In the case against Leonard, Conlin over-ruled 14th District Court Judge Thomas Shea's ruling that the case involving a nine-year-old girl had to be dismissed because the girl did not know which year the alleged assault occurred.

"Time is not of the essence in a criminal sexual conduct case," Conlin ruled. He said the case must go back to district court for another hearing to determine whether there is probable cause to believe a crime was committed by Leonard. Leonard will likely face another hearing June 9 before Shea.

Foeller, 36, and Leonard, 33, allegedly assaulted children in the church's Sunday school bus ministry. Neither man has stood trial for any charge.

Grass Lake Man Selected Village Assistant Manager

A Grass Lake village trustee has been appointed Chelsea's new assistant village manager.

Bruce Pindzia, 32, a professional engineer with Midwest Consulting, Inc. engineering firm in Ann Arbor, beat out five other finalists for the position vacated earlier this year by Deborah Kuehn, who resigned.

The hiring of Pindzia marks a change in philosophy by the village concerning the assistant manager's qualifications. The last two assistant managers, both hired by former village manager Robert Stalker, were planners. The village has not had an engineer on staff since Lee Fahrner, the first assistant, was here in the mid-1980s. Fahrner works at Midwest Consulting and for a year was Pindzia's supervisor.

The official job description of the assistant manager's job has changed. It is weighted heavily toward engineering functions and barely mentions planning. However, Pindzia will work directly with the planning commission, said village manager Jack Myers.

Pindzia, a native of Redford township, earned a bachelor's degree in civil engineering, with an emphasis in construction, at Michigan Tech in 1983. For the last three years he has worked at Midwest Consulting, where he has been a project engineer for roadway improvements, and commercial, residential, and industrial developments. He has worked on traffic studies and done considerable work with road improvements. He also has experience in landfill design, utility lay-outs, and soil erosion control.

He is also one of three partners in Century Engineering, Inc. of South Lyon. The partners generally work on their own construction projects in which they are part owners.

From 1987 to 1990 he worked at DeMattia & Associates of Plymouth, where he was a design engineer and was responsible for obtaining site plan approvals from communities and working with governmental agencies.

He has also worked for firms in Maryland.

Pindzia is not only a member of the Grass Lake council, but also sits on the planning commission and is the village's street administrator.

Jack Myers said Pindzia was recommended unanimously by the village council's personnel committee of village president Richard Steele and trustees Joe Merkel and Richard Rigg.

Pindzia's familiarity with village government, Myers said, is one factor that helped Pindzia win the job.

Myers anticipates that Pindzia, who was hired at a salary of $40,000, will be able to save the village money on consulting fees. Because he is a professional engineer, he can sign off on site plans.

Pindzia and his wife, Carlene, have two children.

BRUCE PINDZIA of Grass Lake, a professional engineer, has been hired as Chelsea's new assistant village manager.

Fate of Proposal A To Be Decided Today By Voters State-wide

Today is do or die for the state-wide school finance and property tax ballot issue called Proposal A.

Voters go to the polls today in a special election to decide the fate of the state constitutional amendment that would increase the sales tax 50 percent, slash school operating millages, and guarantee most districts at least $4,800 per student for the 1993-94 school year.

The amendment would also cap property assessment increases at five percent or the rate of inflation, whichever is less. Property would be re-assessed when it is sold.

Support for the proposal comes from a long list of school and business associations as well as Gov. John Engler. Supporters call the measure a start to a fairer system of school finance as well as a boon to business and economic development. Detractors say it is regressive because the new tax hits those who can least afford it. They say it will hurt local governments and cause similar properties to have widely different assessments.

For Chelsea School District residents, passage of the proposal means the base millage operating millage would be cut from 37.72 mills to 18 mills. Voters here would be faced with a request on June 14 to raise that millage to 23.6 mills to avoid a $1.8 million budget deficit.

Chelsea Board of Education has remained neutral on the proposal. Superintendent Joe Plasecki and assistant superintendent Fred Mills, the district's business manager, both support the proposal primarily because they believe it is better than the current system. Both have said they would prefer an income tax increase rather than a sales tax increase.

If the proposal fails, district voters will face a June 14 ballot requesting 26.69 mills, or renewal of the base millage rate. The district's entire millage expires this year.

Township polling places are open today until 8 p.m.

Chelsea School District voters will go to the polls Monday to decide the fate of three millage issues and which of three candidates will be denied a seat on the Board of Education. In perhaps the most controversial issue, the district is asking voters to waive the Headlee Amendment, which would allow the district to collect its full authorized operating millage of 38.52 mills.

Village of Manchester and the surrounding area continues to clean up this week in the aftermath of the worst storm to hit the area in more than 50 years. Although no one reported seeing a funnel cloud last Tuesday, May 30, according to fire chief Mike Sculley, damage was extensive and the storm itself was frightening to residents.

Chelsea High school seniors, and a couple of juniors, were honored at Senior Class Night last Wednesday, May 31 at the high school. Scholarships were awarded and subject awards were announced by teachers and administrators. Mindy Ryan and Eric Frisinger were named the Most Representative Boy and Girl. Both are honor students and were involved in a variety of activities around the school. Tom Morrison made the presentation.

Debbie Webb, a junior at Chelsea High school, is this year's winner of the McClure Essay Contest sponsored by the Chelsea Kiwanis Club. A panel of three judges selected her entry, "Why Is Chelsea Special?" as the winning essay. A $100 cash prize will also be awarded.

Matching funds for the proposed Mill Creek Metropark were turned down by the Department of Natural Resources and Michigan Department of Agriculture last week. The park, which was to ease the strain on Metroparks closer to Detroit, would occupy 3,500 acres of land in Freedom and Lima townships. Land acquisitions would cost $6.9 million. The proposed conversion of farmland to parkland was deemed "an unnecessary and inappropriate conversion of a vital resource" by both state agencies.

The 1.7 mill increase for operating funds for the Chelsea School District was turned down at the school election Monday. Only 24 percent of the 4,700 eligible voters cast ballots.

Although more than twice the number of voters cast ballots and the margin of defeat was slimmer, Chelsea voters still said "no" to a proposed 3.83 millage increase at the second election. The school board voted to drop $10,000 in summer programs as a result and is scheduled to decide next week whether to ask for a third vote.

ON PUBLIC ISSUES

Opinions On Current Issues, Researched By The Mackinac Center, Midland, Mich.

By Patrick L. Anderson

Michiganians will vote June 2, (today) on a constitutional amendment that would reduce Michigan's tax burden, raise the state sales tax rate, and create a per-pupil guarantee for public school students across the state.

The proposal would provide a large net tax cut in the current year, less tax relief in succeeding years, and a limitation on future property tax increases. Though Michigan voters have rejected several school finance proposals over the past decade, this plan is more soundly designed and avoids major flaws of past efforts. Specifically, it would:

- Reduce school operating property taxes and limit them to no more than 27 mills. Currently, the average school millage rate is about 34, and has been heading up in recent years. Most school districts would initially levy only 18 mills, which would not require voter approval. The reduction in school millage would reduce property taxes by about $2 billion a year.

- Limit the total operating property taxes of all units of government, other than cities, village, and charter authorities, to 40 mills. Currently, these units are limited to 50 mills in total, and the reduction to 40 mills prevents other units of local government from raising their millage rates to offset the school tax reduction.

- Limit the annual percentage increase in the assessed value of each parcel of property to the inflation rate or 5 percent, whichever is less, until the parcel is sold.

- Increase the state sales tax rate to 6 percent, starting in July of this year. This will raise an additional $1.8

billion in 1994, but only half that in the current year. Because the sales tax increase only affects half of 1993 and the property tax cut affects the entire year, taxpayers will save about $1 billion in 1993. Net savings after that grow from about $250 million in 1994 to $500 million in 1996.

- Dedicate the additional sales tax revenue, and net state lottery proceeds, to the school aid fund.

- Establish a minimum state and local per-pupil school funding guarantee, beginning at $4,800 and adjusted annually for changes in state revenue. High-spending school districts would be guaranteed at least a 3 percent increase in funding per pupil in the first year.

This proposal is soundly designed to provide immediate tax reduction, true tax limitation for the future, and a school funding guarantee that protects every school district against calamitous reductions in funding. Past proposals that faced the voters failed because they lacked one or more of these protections.

For instance, the two proposals on the 1989 ballot that were defeated overwhelmingly were both net tax increases. The current plan is a net tax cut.

Proposals in both 1989 and 1992, although billed as property tax limitation, would have allowed higher property taxes. This one follows up on definite tax reduction with strong tax limitation.

The voucher plan proposal in 1978 would have eliminated school property taxes, but did not specify how the new educational voucher would be financed. This plan creates a per-pupil guarantee for public schools and constitutionally dedicates sales tax revenue and lottery proceeds to fund it.

Proposal C ("Cut and Cap") in 1992 would have cut taxes by over a half-billion dollars the first year, growing to $2 billion within a few years. Many school administrators and public employee union officials felt this was too much of a tax cut. The current plan, while about a billion-dollar tax cut in 1993, is a modest tax cut of around $250 million in 1994.

The proposal does attempt to make one change voters rejected in the past: it limits annual assessment increases on property. Limiting annual assessment increases on individual parcels would provide predictability to homeowners and avoids the backlogged and clearly unfair assessing appeals process.

The downside, however, is that it creates disparities in effective tax rates. Owners of similar houses on the same street could end up paying significantly different tax bills, depending on how long they have owned the property. Of course, those tax bills would be less than either would pay under current law.

The June 2 tax and school finance reform proposal would reduce and limit property taxes across the state. Even with a 2 percent increase in the state sales tax rate, it provides a net tax cut, now and in coming years. While taxpayers may wish to consider whether a cap on the annual assessment increases of individual parcels is worth the resulting non-uniformity in effective tax rates, the proposal would provide tax savings for Michigan homeowners and a boost for the Michigan economy.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

All he's read in the papers recent calling for open meetings on all matters before all government boards and bodies got Ed Doolittle on his high horse Saturday night during the session of the country store. Basic, Ed told the fellows, the pot and the kittle are yelling at one another. The press and the government bureaucracy want the public to get their versions of the news.

Elected officials say some issues, like buying land, are better worked out before the public gets involved. The press says a free society wants everything in the open. In practice, Ed said, both control what they can, and the tug of war over who censors what has been going on as long as there has been a politician and a press.

He took note that more local governments have taken to holding what they call pre-agender sessions where appointed managers tell elected members what's coming up. These meetings are public, but no action is taken so nobody comes. Board members agree on what they want to do in front of the reporters and cameras, and they say reason for the briefings is to save the public time at regular meetings.

When the reporters get back to their paper and stations, Ed went on, they work up their version of what happened and their editors decide what's important and what's not, and what goes in the paper and on the air and what don't. The papers print the news that fits and leave out the rest, Ed allowed, and the television and radio show and tell bits and snatches in the time they got.

Clem Webster was solid disagreed with Ed. Actual, keeping government and the press at one another's throat is the public's best insurance that both will at least make a show of staying on their toes. The system feeds on itself, Clem said, but it has some self-adjusting built in. For instance, no sooner did the flap about NBC blowing up the pickup die down than a TV station found out that members of the mayor's staff in Seattle had planted some trash and rusted appliances in a park to make the mayor's call for citywide cleanup look more dramatic on television.

As for local governments, Zeke Grubb said from what he reads more of them are outsmarting themselves in their efforts to find more revenue to keep up their services and take up the slack from loss of State and Federal funds for programs still required by State and Federal law. For instance, Zeke said, cities and towns have put taxes on food and lodging until they now make up 20 percent of travel costs. Politicians where tourism is big figure this is safe, since travelers can't vote and not many will pass their way again, but Zeke said the cities actual are wounding the goose that lays the gold eggs because the tourists tour on by.

Personal, for a smart government move that didn't work I nominate the Governor of Texas, where they've took a practical approach to prison shortages by putting prisoners to work building em. The Governor has been getting some flak about convict labor from Republicans in the Legislature, so she recent give every one of them a pass to see conditions in prisons. This almost worked before some sharp eyed honorable saw the pass got them in, but not out.

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

Chelsea Man Pleads No Contest to Two Sex Abuse Charges

Chelsea-area resident Alan White is scheduled to be sentenced on two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct on Thursday, July 1 in Washtenaw County Circuit Court.

White, 43, of McKinley Rd., originally faced three counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct and one count of second-degree criminal sexual conduct. He waived his right to a pre-trial examination in Chelsea 14-A District Court. Last Tuesday he pleaded no contest before circuit court Judge Patrick Conlin to two counts of first-degree criminal sexual conduct. The other charges are scheduled to be dropped in a plea arrangement.

White was also ordered to be tested for HIV, the AIDS virus.

The victim, according to court records, was a relative who was assaulted between 1988 and 1991.

First-degree criminal sexual conduct, which involves penetration, carries a maximum penalty of life in prison.

Is your bank IRA in your best interest?

Many investors who have bank IRAs are concerned that current CD yields are not enough to secure a comfortable retirement. Today's low rates on CDs make them a far less appealing investment than they once may have been.

If you have a bank IRA maturing, you can't afford not to learn more about how an IRA with Prudential Securities can give you more control over your financial future.

Instead of being locked into one, low-yielding investment, you can select from a broad range of stocks, bonds, mutual funds, unit trusts and a lot more to create a highly diversified retirement plan with greater potential.

Call or send in the coupon below to learn just how easy it is to transfer your IRA and make your money work harder for your financial security.

*CDs are FDIC insured up to $100,000 and offer a fixed rate of return, whereas the value of these other investments will fluctuate with the markets.

Free Dance for CHS Students Slated June 11

A free dance for Chelsea High school students will be sponsored by Allie's Cafe in the Municipal Parking Lot on Friday, June 11 from 8 p.m. to 11 p.m.

The dance will feature live music. Popcorn will be supplied free of charge.

Cafe co-owner Mary Currie Williams approached village council last week about the dance. Police chief Lenard McDougall said he supported the idea. No one could offer a reliable estimate as to how many students might turn out. It was also not clear whether parking would be a problem.

The village required Williams to furnish liability insurance for the event—the same requirement it imposes on sponsors of fireworks displays and other events.

Why vote for this candidate???

JANET M. ROBERTS

Chelsea Board of Education

Being an effective board member means being able to look into the past, in order to plan for the future. It takes time and commitment, but most importantly, it takes vision.

I have a vision for our school children. They will not fail. They will have the basic skills of the past and the tools of technology for the future. I will share this vision with anyone who will listen, but, most importantly, I will share this vision with my own four children.

I hope you share this vision with me. Please vote June 14.

got together at the same time and place for the first time in more than 50 years, Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kuhl of 11131 Scio Church Rd. Three of the brothers went west in 1909 and 1910, but never managed to visit at the same time. The siblings are Clarence, Lawrence, Walter, Irving and Fred Kuhl and Mrs. Alma Frey of Jackson.

Activities planned by chapters of the Brothers of the Brush and Chelsea Belles in honor of the upcoming 125th anniversary include a public wedding of Murgatroyd Applewhite and Ethelbert Ogglethorpe, a street corner quilt practice on a float in North Lake, "blooper" ball games, Father's Day picnics, card parties and hospital visits in costume.

The most expensive farmland in the nation is in New Jersey, at $4,800 an acre. The cheapest is found in Wyoming—$138 an acre.

NEW ROLL-OFF BINS have been installed at the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility, formerly known as the Village Sanitary Landfill, on Werkner Rd. Township residents or others with extra trash back up to the bins and dump in their trash, although the process isn't quite that simple. Trash has to be sorted as metal goes in one container, demolition in another, and plain household garbage in yet another. Fees have been raised about 10 percent to cover the cost of construction of the concrete walls.

JAMES R. MSHAR, a former Chelsea resident is a personal financial planner with IDS Financial Services Inc., in Grand Rapids. He has received national recognition for achieving membership into IDS' President's Advisory Council. Mshar qualified to join the President's Advisory Council based on superior performance and client service. The Council's 235 members represent the top three percent of IDS's 7,000 financial planners.

Poulter's Address

ter what I may feel like, I'll always live. When someone says I honor them, I respect it because it takes a lot to say it, but I think how can what I do compare with what they do? I never have any fear of never coming back, which they deal with all the time. What am I compared with what these men, especially those who gave their lives, have given. What kind of distinction can I hope to receive based on such a scale?

What I was just a little kid going to elementary school, I didn't understand Memorial Day. I saw it as just another day off from school. A lot of people see it that way, they see it as a day off from work, a time to kick back and relax with the family and have some good times. They may have a passing thought as to the meaning of today and why they have the day off from work, but not more than a moment.

I've come to understand the significance better as I've grown, but it's not until lately, until I was asked to speak, that I really put serious thought into it. And when I think about it, it all comes back to "what have I got to give?"

I've thought a lot about that question over the past few days. What I've got can't do anything for those who have died for the United States. All I can do is show them my ultimate respect and honor them. And I'm proud to say that on July 1 at 0900 hours I will become a midshipman at the United States Naval Academy, where the traditional concepts of honor, valor, and national pride instilled in me by the sacrifices made by our soldiers and small town memorial services to remember them will be upheld. And if by chance I do go to war, I will remember this gathering and do it honor.

Thank you for this opportunity to speak.

Deputies Report Property Damage, Thefts, Arrests

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated a number of incidents May 19-26 in Dexter, Chelsea, Scio township and Dexter township.

On May 19, malicious destruction of property was reported in the 4300 block of E. Loch Alpine Dr., Scio township. A 45-year-old resident said the tires on her 1987 Oldsmobile were punctured with a sharp object, causing $100 in damages.

On May 20, unlawful use of a motor vehicle was reported in the 7900 block of Dexter-Pinckney Rd., Dexter. A 24-year-old Ann Arbor man, making a delivery, fell off of his truck's platform when a 30-year-old Manchester man jumped in the driver's seat of the truck and tried to move it. The Manchester man told deputies the truck was in his way and he had to leave. The delivery driver suffered injury to his knee and $80 worth of pizza dough and $200 worth of bread trays were damaged.

A 29-year-old Ann Arbor woman was arrested in the 2000 block of Wagner Rd., Scio township for disorderly conduct. Officers were dispatched to the area for an automobile accident. When they arrived, they found the woman's van off the roadway and the woman at a nearby business. She appeared to be intoxicated and wouldn't co-operate with deputies. After she began to fight with deputies she was arrested.

Property damage was reported in the 200 block of Baker Rd., Scio township. A 27-year-old Oregon man reported a hole in his semi-trailer's tailgate. He thinks someone backed their vehicle into his trailer, causing $35 in damages.

Larceny was reported in the 2900 block of Baker Rd., Dexter. The owner of a gasoline station said a woman driving a Ford Ranger paid for merchandise purchased inside his party store, but forgot to pay for gasoline she pumped.

THE GARDEN CORNER

★ Growing Flowers from Seed Is Easy —If You Pick the Right Flowers

East Lansing—It takes a little more patience than growing flowers from transplants, but growing annual flowers from seed sown in the garden is easy—if you pick the species that grow quickly and dependably from seed.

Lowell Ewart, professor of horticulture at Michigan State University and co-ordinator of the All-America Selections trial garden there, suggests home gardeners start with the following easy-to-grow annuals:

—Sweet Peas. Like garden peas, sweet peas can be planted outdoors as soon as the soil is dry enough to work. Climbing and dwarf bush-type plants are available. The fragrant flowers may be in white or shades of pink, rose, lavender or red. Look for varieties said to have good heat resistance—they'll last longer into the summer.

—Zinnias. You can't beat zinnias for beds, borders or cut flowers in a wide range of sizes and colors. Plant heights range from a few inches to 3 feet, and flowers come in diameters of 1 inch to 6 or 7. Zinnias are so easy to grow outdoors from seed that there's very little reason to start them indoors and transplant them. Their main requirement is full sun. In shady spots, or in locations with poor air circulation, including otherwise acceptable spots planted too thickly, foliage is slow to dry off after rain or a heavy dewfall and zinnias tend to develop powdery mildew. In MSU variety trials, the Border Beauty and Bouquet series have shown better than average disease tolerance, Ewart notes.

—Marigolds. Like zinnias, marigolds are available in a wide range of plant and flower sizes and are easy to grow from seed. Giant-flowered American marigolds may bear 6-inch blossoms on 3½-foot plants. An outstanding example is the Lady series. Dwarf American marigolds may reach only 12 inches in height but bear 4-inch flowers. The newer Discovery series has done well in MSU trials, Ewart reports. French marigolds are even smaller, ranging from 8 to 12 inches tall with 2- to 3-inch blossoms.

Marigolds are among the quickest annuals to flower from seed sown in the garden—some varieties take only five to six weeks. And marigolds generally keep growing and flowering all summer. Plant seeds or transplants in full sun after the danger of frost is past.

—Nasturtiums. Nasturtiums are just what the plant doctor ordered for dry areas or poor soil. Bush, climbing and trailing varieties are available. All require full sun to thrive and produce long-stemmed flowers in shades of yellow, orange and scarlet. Too rich soil or overfertilization will produce lush plants with few flowers. A bonus with nasturtiums is that both leaves and blossoms are edible.

—Four O'Clocks. Trumpet-shaped blossoms that open about 4 p.m. give these branching, mound-shaped plants their name. Flowers are often striped and mottled in shades of white, pink, salmon, yellow, red and rose. Sow after the danger of frost is past and look for them to begin flowering in July and continue to frost. Plants reach 2½ feet in height.

Portulaca. Another name for portulaca, moss rose, comes from the rose-like flowers of this low-growing plant. Succulent stems and foliage spread rapidly and the plants flower lavishly in hot, dry sites beginning about eight weeks after seeding. Anywhere you need a low-growing, sun-loving, flowering ground cover—in beds, window boxes, rock gardens or sunny borders—moss rose should fill the bill. The colors in the new Sundial series were outstanding in the 1992 MSU trials, Ewart says.

—Sunflowers. Children love to plant sunflowers—their large seeds are easy to handle and quick to germinate and grow. Plants may range from 15 inches to 10 feet in height, with flowers up to 1 foot in diameter. As their name implies, sunflowers do best in full sun and tolerate heat and drought. A harvest of edible seeds is a bonus—if you get to them before the birds or squirrels.

—Nicotiana. A humid spot in the landscape is no problem to disease-resistant nicotiana. Likewise, it will thrive in partial shade as well as full sun, whether sown from seed or transplanted after danger of frost is past. Dwarf cultivars grow to 18 to 18 inches tall; other types reach 30 inches. Flowers are fragrant, star-shaped and tubular—a big hit with hummingbirds and night-flying hawk moths—and range in color from white, pink and lime green to dark red and light yellow. Nicotiana reseeds itself and so tends to come up year after year without replanting.

—Cosmos. Sow seed directly into the garden after the danger of frost is past and thin seedlings to 12 inches to give plants plenty of room to grow—they'll reach 3 to 4 feet, which makes them handy in beds and borders as background plants for shorter plants. Dwarf varieties are also available—they reach 12 to 14 inches. The daisy-like flowers—in shades of pink, lavender, scarlet and dark red, as well as white and yellow—are also good for cutting. Cosmos needs full sun and tolerates heat and dry weather.

—Hollyhocks. Like cosmos, hollyhocks are long-time garden favorites. Though perennial plants, they are easy to start from seed. They are hardy, thriving in hot, direct sun and producing their spikes of single, semi-double or fully double flowers in a wide range of colors. Most varieties are 2 to 4½ feet tall, so they're often used as background plants in beds or borders or grown in front of evergreens, walls or fences. Many varieties bloom the first year from seed sown after the soil has warmed up in the spring. Thin to 12 inches.

—Gazania. Dwarf plants bear 3- to 5-inch daisy-like flowers, each of which may have up to five colors, from white to yellow through all shades of orange to bronze, rust and red. Gazania requires full sun and thrives under hot, dry conditions. It can be sown directly into a well drained garden spot or started indoors for earlier bloom.

—Dianthus. These short (12-inch) plants can be started indoors or sown outside in full sun after the danger of frost is past. Their brightly colored, raggedy-edged flowers resemble small carnations. They're well suited to beds, borders and containers. Other names for them included sweet William and pinks. The Telstar series has been excellent in the MSU trials, Ewart notes.

U.S. Flag Represents the Greatest Political Creed in the World Today

Memorial Day morning in Beach Middle school, General Dwight Beach gave salutations to Chelsea's Historic American Flag Display Committee. He presented warm greetings to its sponsors, the American Legion and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

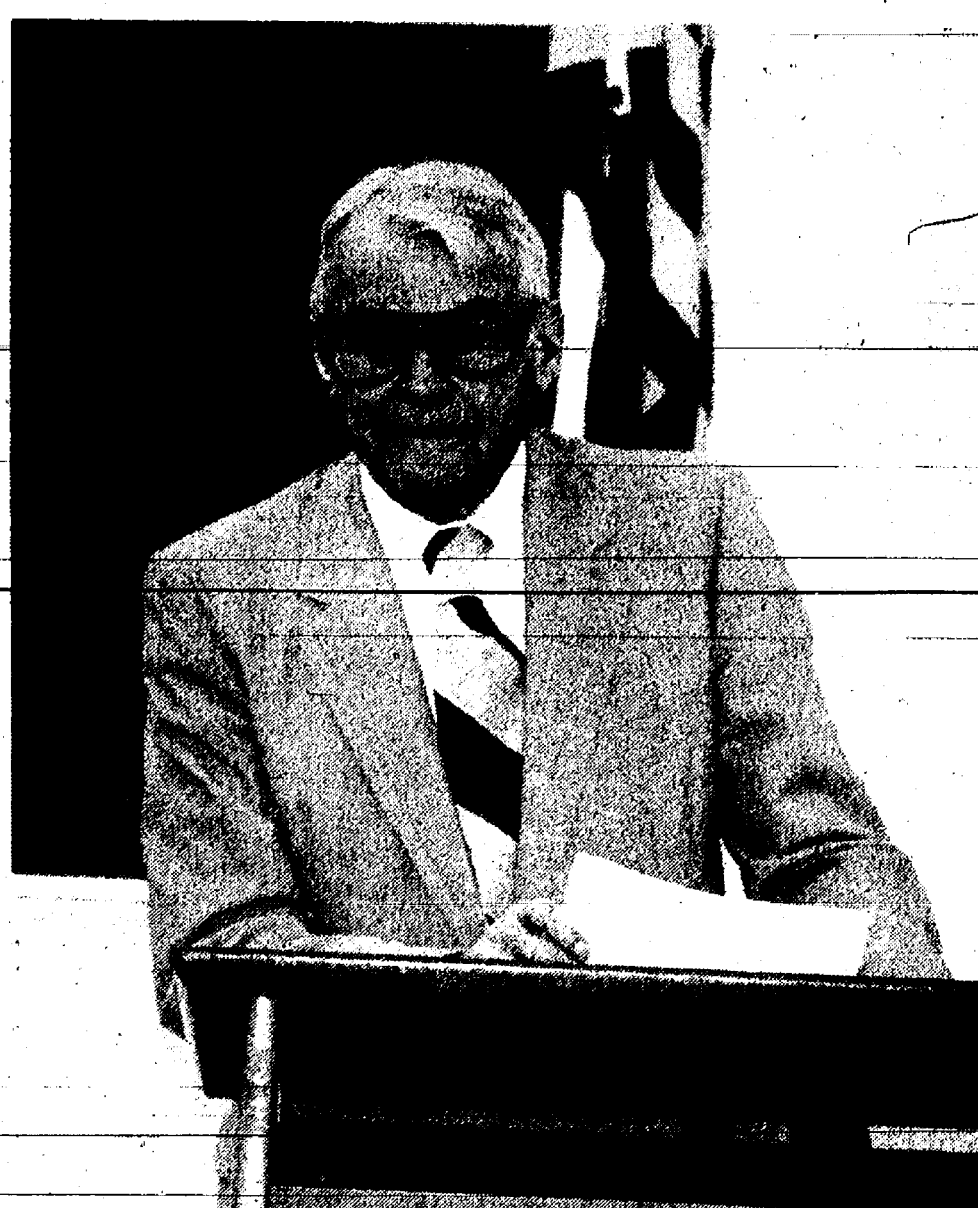

He then continued, "I have followed 'Old Glory' in the Army for 40 years—four as a cadet and 36 as an officer. Fifty years ago today the 'Stars and Stripes' flew over my camp in northern Queensland, Australia where we were preparing to drive the Japs from New Guinea. For my part, after six amphibious landings in New Guinea, Biak, and the Philippines, I saw 'Old Glory' raised over Matsuyama, Japan in 1945.

"I only wish my brother, Kenneth, could have been with me. Captured on Bataan, he had survived two and a half years of Jap imprisonment, when his group was moved to Japan. Sixteen hundred left Manila in December 1944, about 400 got to Japan but only 200 out of the original 1,600 got back to the United States at the end of the war. That demonstrates Japanese treatment of American POW's.

"Our flag represents the most revolutionary political idea of its time. Our founding fathers were the greatest collection of rebels and statesmen the world has ever seen. The proof is what we have today: that 13 states could voluntarily join together in 'Liberty and justice for all' as the last phrase of our pledge of allegiance states. For over 200 years this idea has grown until now there are 50 stars representing 50 states that have voluntarily drawn together.

"Except for the Civil War there have been only minor altercations such as Michigan with Ohio over Toledo. Without fighting we got the Upper Peninsula and Ohio got Toledo. Everyone's happy.

"Compare this to what is going on in what was Yugoslavia. The word Yugoslavia, means the land of the southern Slavs. The people are of the same language. They are more homogeneous than the people of the United States. Their differences are religious, cultural, and historic. They have two alphabets (Latin and Russian), and three religions (Muslims, Orthodox and Roman Catholic). Historically, Austria and Germany backed the Roman Catholics, Russia backed the Orthodox and the Ottoman Empire (now Turkey) backed the Muslims. As a result, the people of this area have been fighting and killing each other for hundreds of years while we in our 50 states live peacefully side by side.

"Our idea of democracy has spread around the world and continues to grow. The last phrase in our pledge of allegiance to the flag 'with liberty and justice for all' is the greatest political creed in the world today. It is our hope—the world's hope for the future.

"I am proud to be present at this flag ceremony."

It's a myth that Americans are eating too much meat. Nutritionists recommend eating up to an average of six ounces a day of meat, poultry and or fish in order to get enough iron. But per capita consumption of cooked red meat and poultry is less than six ounces.

CHELSEA AREA VETERANS were on hand for the (behind them) Monday in the large group instruction dedication of the new Historic American Flag Exhibit room at Beach Middle school.

Historic American Flag Display Opened to Public

Memorial Day had a double grand opening for the Historic American Flag Display. Early in the morning war veterans from the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars gathered to dedicate the display accompanied by a group from Chelsea School's Music Department. The featured speaker was none other than the general in whose honor the Middle School was named, Dwight E. Beach. (His complete address appears in another column.)

Chairman Darcio Stielstra introduced the general and also paid tribute to the Flag Display Committee—Will Connelly, producer; Pat Merkel and Bill Coltre who assembled the display and Architect Arthur L. Lindauer.

In the afternoon the display was open to the public, hosted by Principal Stielstra. The flags in the display were gifts of the two community veterans organizations. More than $8,000, in addition to the flags, were given by corporate contributors and many patriotic individuals.

Viewers of the flag display on Memorial Day praised the display for its value as an American teaching instrument. It will be open to students at appointed times and will also be open to adults in Chelsea and other communities. A schedule of open hours will be announced by the Middle School in the near future.

LOCAL VETERANS LeRoy Fulcher, left, commander of the VFW Local No. 4076, and Lenard McDougall, commander of the Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 of the American Legion, were on hand for the Monday morning dedication of the Historic American Flag Exhibit at Beach Middle school.

Boychoir Accepting Applications for Singer Auditions

The Boychoir of Ann Arbor, now preparing for its eighth season, has announced auditions for places in the choir. Parents of musical boys, aged 8 to 13, are invited to arrange for an audition by appointment with the director, Dr. Thomas F. Strode.

The 1992-93 season will include an Evensong in the Anglican tradition; a number of Christmas appearances; engagements with the Ann Arbor Symphony Orchestra, and possible touring as well as appearances in concert series throughout the Great Lakes region.

The choir's plans include touring and joint concerts with other boychoirs in Michigan. The choir has developed a program which provides boys with a wonderful opportunity to become acquainted with great choral literature, to learn ensemble and choral skills and to sing with professional singers and instrumentalists.

Parents should call the Boychoir at 313-485-1534 before July 15 to arrange for an audition.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Girls Dominate Conference Track Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs girls track team won their fourth consecutive Southeastern Conference Meet and their third straight SEC title last Wednesday at Saline.

Chelsea took the top spot with 113.5 points, while runner-up Lincoln finished with 76. Pinckney was third with 58, Tecumseh fourth with 53.5, Saline and Dexter tied for fifth with 29, and Milan seventh with 17.

Pinckney took an early lead with 24 points in the field events, while Chelsea had 21.5 and Lincoln 21.

The Bulldogs went into the lead by winning the first running event, the 3200 relay, but Lincoln stayed close with wins in the 100 hurdles and 100 dash.

From there on, the Bulldogs were in control. Using a mix of quality and depth that has been their strength all season, Chelsea steadily pulled away from the competition. The Bulldogs had six league champions and earned 10 additional all-league honors with five second and five thirds.

The Bulldogs' only first in the field events came from Erin Schiller in the high jump with a jump of 5' 1", a good performance considering the strong, gusty winds the athletes were jumping directly into. She finished the season unbeaten in the SEC.

Courtney Thompson tied for fourth in the high jump at 4' 9".

In the long jump, Theresa Royce earned all-league honors by finishing second with a leap of 15' 4 1/2". Monica Hansen added a fifth place at 13' 11".

Mara Smith was fifth in the discus with a throw of 93' 10" and fifth in the shot put at 29' 7".

Senior Wendy Bristle was sixth in the shot put at 28' 11", her career best. Heidi Wehrwein was one of the seven finalists with a career best of 28' 5" but didn't score.

The 3200 relay team of Beth Bell, Sarah Henry, Val Bullock, and Lisa Monti won in 9:56.5.

Hansen and Keri Kentala placed second and third in the 100 hurdles to make all-league. Hansen ran her season best of 1:16.9 but was edged at the finish line by Lincoln's Justina Phillips.

Kentala went on to win the 300 hurdles over Phillips in 4:49.4. Hansen completed her four-year Bulldogs career with a fourth place in 52.2.

Chelsea placed third in the 800 relay as the team of Laura Paton, Katie Spink, Erin Schiller, and Theresa Royce ran a 1:50.3.

The 400 relay team of Megan MacDonald, Kentala, Schiller, and Royce pulled away from the field to win by 1.3 seconds. Their time of 52.3 was a season best. Royce also earned all-league honors with a third in the 200 in 1:27.1.

Monti earned her seventh and eighth individual track championships as she won the 1600 in 5:16.9 and the 3200 in 11:27.1. Monti has never lost at either distance in league competition.

Molly Griebie added a fifth in the 1600 at 5:46.9 and earned all-league honors with a third in the 3200 in her best time ever of 12:12.2.

Paton made all-conference by placing second in the 400 with a 1:02.4, while Henry was fourth in 1:03.6.

In one of the most exciting races of the meet, Bell dualed defending 800 run champion Nicole Randolph of Tecumseh stride for stride down the stretch, with Randolph just edging her for first, although each girl was timed at 2:24.7. Melissa Hand was third at 2:26.

Paton, Henry, Hand, and Bell combined to finish second in the 1600 relay with a season best of 4:09.9.

"This was a very pleasant way to wrap up the season," said Chelsea coach Bill Bainton.

We had solid performances throughout our line-up as we have all season. That's been one of the big reasons for our success. I'm also very pleased that our seniors Bristle, Bullock, Paton, Hansen, and Monti all had a successful meet. They have given the team a lot in the past four seasons.

Monti, Bell, Bullock, and Hansen each made all-league, while Bristle placed in the meet for the first time.

The Bulldogs wrap up the season with the state meet this Saturday at Grand Rapids Wyoming Park.

"We have a lot of people going to the state meet, but a track state meet is different. Anything can happen and it only takes a few top places to get you near the top."

Chelsea 3-on-3 Tournament Planned for June 25-26

Third Annual Chelsea 3-on-3 Indoor Basketball Tournament will be held on Friday and Saturday, June 25-26 in the Chelsea High school gym.

Proceeds from the tournament benefit the Chelsea boys summer basketball program. They enable freshman, junior varsity, and varsity players to attend summer team camps. The tournament is sponsored by the Chelsea Basketball Club and the Chelsea Athletic Boosters.

Last year more than 260 players took part in the tournament.

Minimum age for boys and girls to participate is 8. No player may play on more than one team. Each team may have three or four players on its roster.

Entry fee is $70 per team. Entry deadline is Friday, June 11.

T-shirts will be given to all participants and trophies will be awarded in all divisions.

Entry forms, with a complete set of rules, are available at Chelsea Pharmacy, Chelsea Lumber Co., Jack & Son Barbers, and Murph's Barber Shop.

The percentage of employed women holding more than one job has increased significantly, from 2.2 percent in 1970 to 5.9 percent in 1989, according to the U.S. Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. In contrast, the percentage of men who moonlight has been steady at about 6 percent since 1975, although the rate inched up to 6.4 percent in 1989.

Chelsea Boys Track Team Takes Fourth Place at Conference Meet

Chelsea Bulldogs boys track team finished fourth at the Southeastern Conference Track Meet last Wednesday. It was their highest finish in a number of years.

The Bulldogs were led by junior David Beeman, who won both the shot put and discus, and the 3200 relay team, which broke its own school record in a third-place effort.

Junior Cory Brown became an all-leaguer in four events.

"In all, we scored in 12 out of the 17 events," said Chelsea coach Pat Clarke.

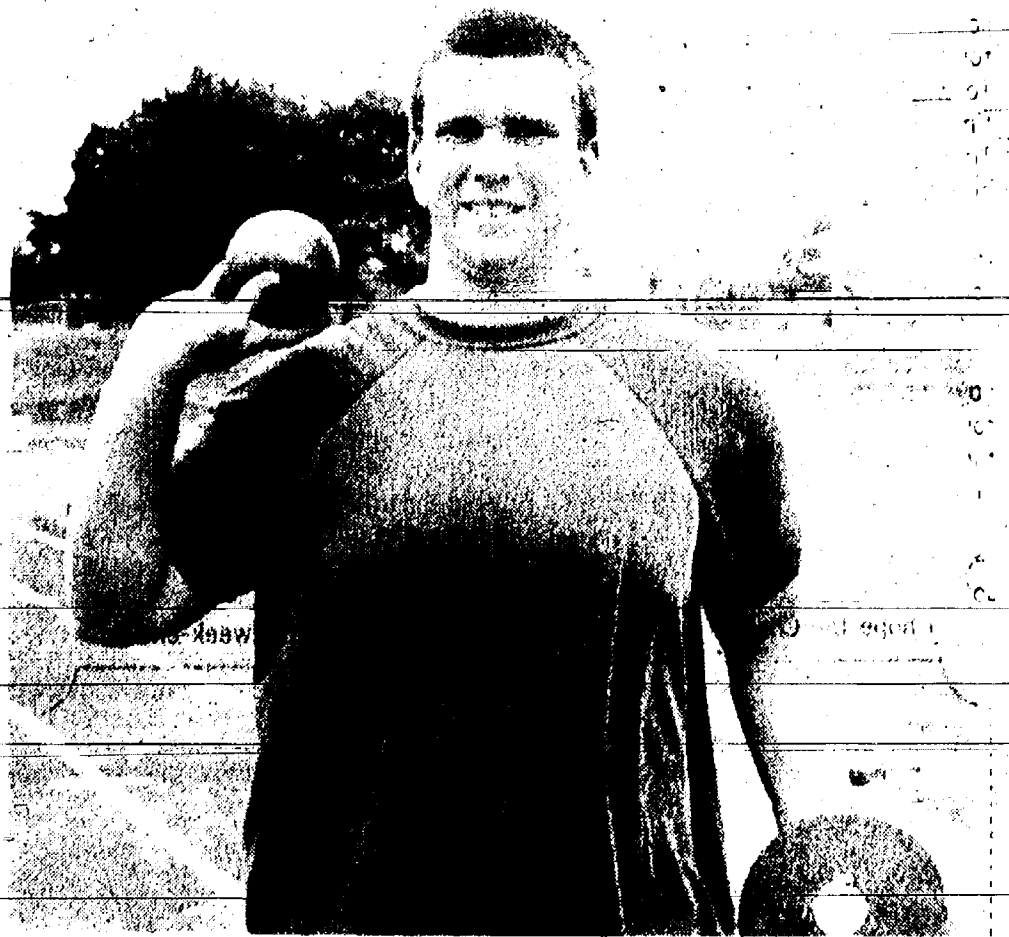

"We had 14 all-league athletes. We have accomplished our season goal to move up in the middle of the SEC."

"I thought if we scored 35 points we would be doing well, but we scored 49 and did super. If we can find some sprinters next year we could move up by some more. We only graduate four seniors and we return 41 underclassmen, including 23 letter-winners. I think it's safe to say that Bulldog boys track is back to stay."

Beeman broke a 14-year-old league record in the shot put by more than two feet with a toss of 55' 7". He also won the discus by more than 11 feet at 154' 8".

The 3200 relay team set a record of 8:10.7 behind Scott Hawley, Aleksander Selmanovic, Cory Brown, and Dan Zatkovich.

JUNIOR DAVID BEEMAN has a good chance to win the state title for the Chelsea Bulldogs in the shot put at the state track meet this Saturday in Grand Rapids. Beeman set a school record this year, which beat the winning toss in last year's meet. Beeman will also take part in the discus at the state meet.

SPORTS NOTES

BY BRIAN HAMILTON

As I write this, I'm faced with the unusual possibility that should the worst occur, half of what I want to write may be out the window even before this issue goes to press.

The first rounds, or what are called pre-district qualifiers, of the district baseball and softball tournaments were played last night at good old Chelsea High school. (Here's a finger twister, assuming you use a keyboard, for all you CHS writing students. Write about an event that is yet to happen, but by the time anyone reads your story, the event will be all over with. Talk about screwed up tensions.)

No, let's forget those teams for the moment and move on to the under-covered girls track program. Almost anyone who follows Chelsea sports (with the exception of those who follow it through all the other newspapers in the area) probably knows that the girls won their second regional and are headed to the state meet again this Saturday in Grand Rapids. Anytime a team moves on to the state level, the first question on most fans' minds is, can they win it all?

Who knows. I suspect that the Bulldogs have as good a chance as any rural class B school that is capable of dominating a few events. I do know one thing. They would have no chance without the incomparable distance runner, Lisa Monti, who could be a state champion in at least two events. They will also need a performance or two similar to Charity Allen's mad dash in the hurdles last year in which she became a dark horse state champion. They'll need a someone to take some third and fourth-place points. They may even need a bad hand-off or two on the part of a competitor. There are so many potential factors in a huge meet that could turn the tide for any of the well-represented teams.

Can they win it? Yes. But I don't think even coaches Bill Bainton and Bert Kruse know how likely that is.

It's too bad the meet has to be all the way over on the other side of the state. The way the weather's been lately, it could be snowing there. Wouldn't that be a great factor to contend with.

The boys team has five competitors who will take part. Junior David Beeman, who has thoroughly dominated the shot put this year, heads the list.

The guy who won the class B shot put last year has graduated, which could make Beeman the favorite to win it all this year. Beeman will also throw the discus Saturday, another event he has won handily most of the season.

You got to like a guy like Beeman. He's fairly big and strong but you can bet he won't be the biggest or strongest guy there. What he will have is outstanding technique, which at the state level is probably more important than any quality other than the will to win. He's been throwing in the mid-50-foot range all year.

The 3200-relay team of seniors Aleksander Selmanovic and Dan Zatkovich, juniors Cory Brown and Scott Hawley, and sophomore alternate Dan Wehrwein realistically has little chance to win. They set a school record last week but placed third in the league meet. Wouldn't be surprised, however, to see them break their own record by a few seconds. It's just great to have any runners at all in the meet. And there will be more in the next few years.

On to softball and baseball. The softball team, barring a major upset by Lincoln last night, should go on to meet the Saline Hornets in the finals of the district tournament this Saturday. It would be a re-match of the Southeastern Conference Tournament finals. Last night's game should have been no contest. But if it was, I'm glad I wasn't there (there's this little matter of spending all day in the shop Tuesday trying to get the paper out). Next game is against the Dexter Dreadnaughts this Saturday at 10 a.m., here.

The girls should go on to win the district title unless they fall apart or the Hornets or someone else gets hot. They are entirely capable of moving through the region as well if they play their best defense and get a few key hits.

The baseball team also has the potential to win their district, although they'd have to play their best ball of the year, which means they have to make all the routine defensive plays. The pitching and hitting are good enough. My guess is, if they lost to Lincoln last night, it wasn't because the Railsplitters slammed the door in their face, even though the Railsplitters are capable of scoring some runs.

State-ranked Milan, Dexter, and Saline all have the chance to move on to the region. All in all, the baseball district stacks up as far more competitive than the softball tournament.

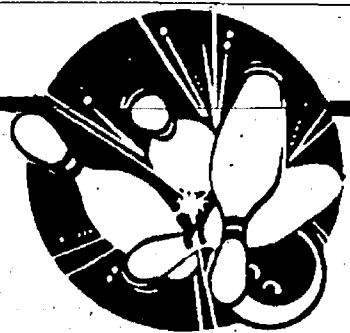

I hope the Chelsea sports season continues beyond this week-end.

Bulldogs Split in Final Tune-up for District Play

Chelsea Bulldogs varsity softball team split with the Fowlerville Gladiators last Tuesday in a tune-up for the district tournament, which was scheduled to begin yesterday.

The Bulldogs opened with a 2-1 loss in eight innings. Freshman pitcher Lisa Beard allowed eight hits and struck out four. But both runs were unearned as inconsistent defense produced six errors.

Chelsea had just four hits, including a fifth-inning triple by Nancy Pidd and a single by Jackie Crawford to drive her home.

With the game tied at 1, the Bulldogs thought they had the game won in the bottom of the seventh. With a runner on third, a fly ball to the outfield was caught and the runner tagged up and went home. However, the umpire ruled the runner left the bag too early and called her out.

Fowlerville scored in the top of the eighth.

Beard's record dropped to 10-3.

Chelsea won the second game, 13-8, as sophomore Carey Schiller improved her pitching record to 12-3.

The Bulldogs scored six runs in the first inning on a combination of hits and sloppy play by the Gladiators, who finished the game with 12 errors. Chelsea lengthened the lead to 9-1 and Fowlerville spent the rest of the game trying to catch up.

Erin Knott, Schiller, and Melissa Schumann each had two hits in Chelsea's 11-hit attack. Knott doubled and Schiller tripled.

Schiller gave up 10 hits and struck out nine.

"It was really not our kind of game," said Chelsea coach Joe Beard.

"We don't like to give up eight runs to anyone."

After last week, Chelsea's record stood at 25-8. They are scheduled to play Ann Arbor-Huron Thursday. District play continues Saturday here at 10 a.m. Chelsea would play the Dexter Dreadnaughts, assuming they won their game last night against the Lincoln Railsplitters. Saturday's championship game begins at 3 p.m. at the high school field.

Bulldogs Baseball Team Edges Fowlerville Twice

Chelsea Bulldogs baseball team swept the Fowlerville Gladiators in a double-header last Tuesday, April 25. Senior pitcher Ken Slane got the 3-2 victory in the first game as he struck out seven, walked one, and allowed five hits.

Chelsea fell behind 2-1 going into the seventh inning. Slane singled and was lifted for pinch runner Colby Skelton. Matt Powell walked, Scott Colvin singled to drive home a run. The throw to the plate bounced away to allow Powell to score.

Colt White picked up an RBI in the first inning. Tim Wescott and Colvin each had two hits.

White threw a two-hit shut-out in the second game for a 3-0 victory.

The game was scoreless until the sixth. Wescott doubled and went to third on a wild pitch. Steve Grau's suicide squeeze scored Wescott. Aric Dougherty later tripled home two runs.

White struck out 10 and walked two, all on 74 pitches through seven innings.

Wescott and Gabe Bernhard each had two hits.

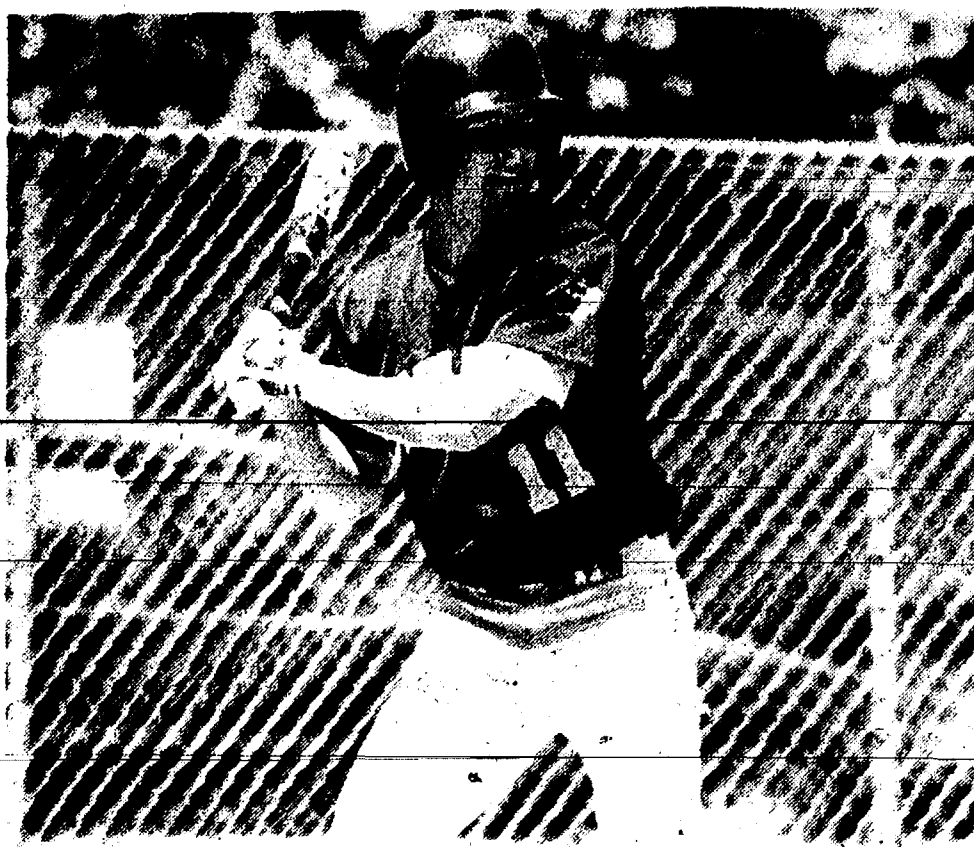

"They were two good games, well pitched with good defense by both sides," said Chelsea coach Wayne Welton.

Last Thursday the Bulldogs, "wrote a new chapter in Chelsea baseball," Welton said, as they fell behind 10-0 in the first inning before they could get the first Brighton batter out. When the inning was over, Chelsea was down 11-0 on their way to a 12-2 defeat in five innings.

Brighton sent 17 batters to the plate in the first. Six hits, six walks and two errors later the inning was over. Brighton hit a grand slam and left the bases loaded.

Chelsea's only scoring came on a ground-out RBI by Pat Steele in the second and a solo homer by Chris Dunham in the third.

Only one Brighton game was scheduled.

JV Baseball Team Ends With Victory

Chelsea Bulldogs junior varsity baseball team scored a run in the bottom of the seventh inning to defeat Brighton last Thursday, 7-6.

Ryan Ludwig singled home Sam Morseau with the winning run.

Chelsea battled back three times from two-run deficits. They were down 2-0 in the first, 4-2 after four innings, and 6-4 in the sixth.

Morseau, Dirk Wales, Craig

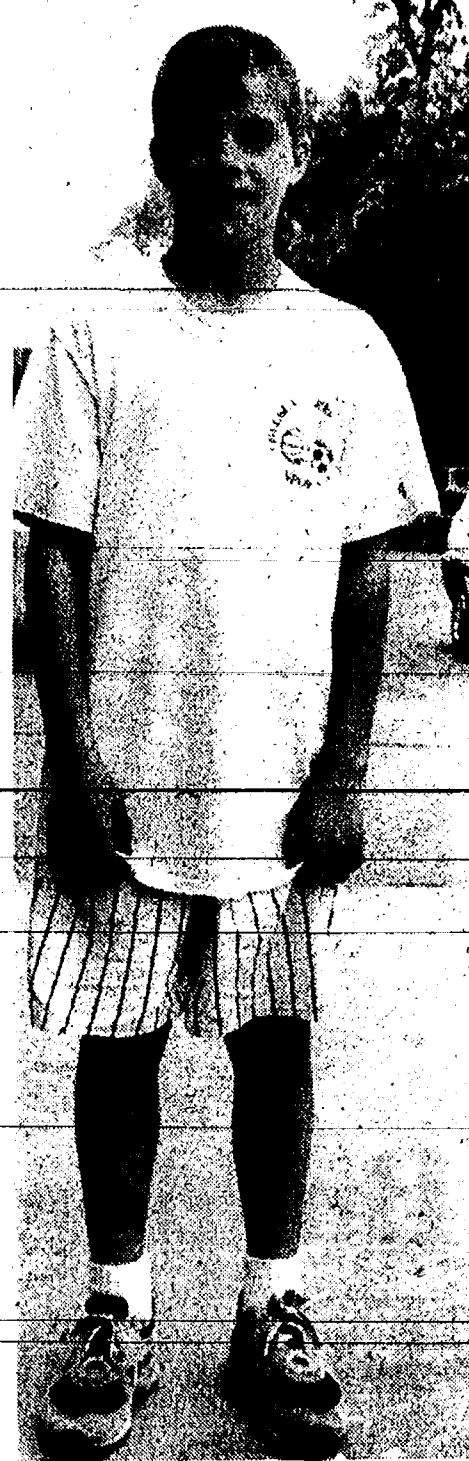

Leonard, and Nick Brink all drove in runs.

Jeff Branch was the winning pitcher. He allowed nine hits, struck out five and walked two batters.

"The key to any season is not wins and losses," said Chelsea coach Jim Ticknor.

"It is how much a team improves. From the beginning of the season, this team has improved dramatically."

Chelsea finished with a 13-10 record.

MATT HICKS, a South school fifth grader, set a school record in the mile run on the school's annual fitness test. Hicks' time was 5:54, which broke the old record set last year by five seconds. The children are timed on a track on the school playground. Physical education teacher Bill Wehrwein said he thought the old record might stand for 10 years or more. Wehrwein said the average child runs the mile in about eight minutes.

Bear Harvest License Date Deadline Now

The Department of Natural Resources reminds hunters that June 15 is the deadline to apply for a 1993 Michigan harvest license.

Approximately 5,100 harvest licenses will be available for eight bear management units—seven in the Upper Peninsula and one in the northern Lower Peninsula. A map of the management units is provided with the license application forms.

The 1993 bear season is from Sept. 10 through Oct. 21, but dates vary for some management units. Specific hunting season dates will be listed on the harvest license. At its June meeting, the Natural Resources Commission will consider extending the bear season by five days for the Upper Peninsula units, with exception of Drummond Island. To compensate for the extension, the permit quota would be reduced by approximately 50 licenses state-wide to achieve the desired harvest.

This year the DNR drawing system will give preference to about 300 applicants who have applied correctly but have been unsuccessful applicants during the last three seasons, providing their applications are correct this year. All other applications will be entered in a non-preferential random drawing. Non-residents will receive no more than two percent of the harvest licenses.

Each applicant may apply as an individual or with a partner. The application fee is $14.35 for residents. There is no application fee for Senior Hunt license holders, who must obtain their application from a DNR district or regional office. Comprehensive Lifetime license holders will receive their applications by mail. Non-residents can only apply by telephone through the DNR License Control Section in Lansing at 517-373-1206. Successful applicants will be notified by July 12.

Applicants who are unsuccessful in the bear harvest license drawing may still participate in a bear hunt behind hounds with a participation license available through the DNR. Those with participation licenses cannot kill a bear.

New Soccer Club To Hold Try-outs This Week-end

Chelsea Soccer Club will hold open try-outs for the fall travel soccer teams on Saturday and Sunday, June 5-6.

Try-outs will start at 1:30 p.m. at the Immanuel Fields on McKinley St. opposite North Elementary school. Soccer players only need to come on one of those days.

Girls and boys must be 13 or younger on Aug. 1 to play. Teams for under 12, under 13, and under 14 will be formed. A separate girls team will be formed if there is enough interest.

Practices for the teams will begin in the middle of August, and games start after Labor Day.

The club is looking for parents to help with the organization of the new club. For more information call 475-5903.

KEVIN McCALLA, a senior at Chelsea High School, was recently named to the Wrestling All-State Academic Team. McCalla is one of 18 starters on the team. This year he went to the state tournament at 145 pounds and will graduate cum laude. In order to qualify for the team, a student must be a regional wrestling qualifier and have a minimum 3.5 grade point average.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The circus is coming to town. On June 22, the Kelly Miller Three-Ring Circus will be performing in Dexter. This event presents an opportunity for children, as well as adults, to learn about the cruelty and abuse that circus animals are forced to endure all year so that we can be entertained for an hour or two on a summer afternoon.

Glitz and pageantry disguise the fact that circus animals are captives made to perform unnatural and often painful acts. For our entertainment, animals in circuses undergo stressful training techniques based on fear, deprivation, and physical punishment. The animals live the majority of their lives in cramped cages used to transport them and are allowed out only for the short periods when they must perform. During the off-season, the animals are kept in travelling crates, barn stalls, or trucks. When the circus animals have outlived their "entertainment" years, they are relegated to permanent cages, sold to roadside "zoos" or game farms to be shot for "recreation" and "exotic" meat.

The Animal Welfare Act requires that circus animals have adequate space to stand and turn around in their cages, but even this minimum need is not enforced. Surely forcing wild animals to perform tricks is an inappropriate message to impart to our children. The frivolous and degrading use of these animals is in direct opposition to the idea that, as stewards of wild animals, humans should protect natural ecosystems and depleted species, and ensure humane treatment of all animals. Circuses which depend on "performing" animals will lose their appeal when the facts of the animals' treatment and confinement become more widely known. When the circus comes to town, let's disagree with the outdated and harmful notion that animals are merely ours to use for human entertainment. Cruelty is not entertainment, and not an activity we wish to condone.

Chelsea Fair Queen Program Sets June 11 Deadline for Entry

Chelsea Community Fair Queen Program is looking for a few good girls to participate in the week-long program, highlighted by the crowning of the queen on Friday, Aug. 27.

The queen committee recently spent two days at Chelsea High school and Dexter High school to promote the program and hand out information to likely contestants.

The theme for this year's program is Country and Western. Program superintendent Sally Heil says she has seen a lot of interest on the part of contestants and businesses that want to sponsor contestants.

"I think this renewed interest is because our contestants find that this is really a fun and exciting event to participate in," Heil says.

"We have added a contestant dance routine and more visibility to the contestants as they promote the fair."

Heil says contestants learn self-confidence, leadership skills, and overall personal growth.

Contestants are judged on talent, poise, community involvement, and a personal interview with the judges.

Girls in the Dexter and Chelsea School Districts who will be full-time day school students are eligible to enter. Each contestant must be sponsored by a high school class, school or community organization, or a local business.

The queen will receive numerous gifts including a crown, sash, trophy, and a $500 college scholarship. The stipulation on the scholarship is that the queen does graduate from high school and does go to college to continue her education.

Deadline for entry is June 11. Anyone interested in participating is asked to call Heil at 475-3149.

1993 CHELSEA COMMUNITY FAIR QUEEN COMMITTEE members were on hand recently at Chelsea and Dexter High schools to promote the program. They were able to answer plenty of questions and pass out information. From left are 1992 Queen Betsy Soroosh, Betsy's mom, Lydia Soroosh, Janice Heldman, and Diane Cunningham, committee members.

Understand Turf Growth To Save on Lawn Care

Whatever your reason for wanting to cut back on lawn care—whether it's to save time or money or reduce chemical inputs to the environment—the requirements are the same: have a clear idea of your quality goal and an understanding of how turf growth changes throughout the season.

Mike Saffel, Michigan State University turfgrass specialist, notes that quality consists of many factors: how many weeds you're willing to tolerate, how much insect activity or disease you consider acceptable, and how often you want to mow, irrigate and fertilize.

"What you consider acceptable quality will to a large extent determine how you care for your lawn," he says.

Knowing how and when lawn grasses grow will help you time limited inputs so the lawn will get the most benefit from them.

"Significant root growth occurs in spring and more in fall," he explains. "Anything you can do to encourage root growth in the fall will contribute to lawn quality next year."

Therefore, if you're going to fertilize only once a year, make it in the early fall, so grass plants can take up nutrients during their fall growth period. An alternative is to apply a little nitrogen in late May or early June, then fertilize again in September.

"Fertilizing in late fall has proven effective in increasing fall root growth and spring green-up," Saffel observes. "Late fall fertilization should be used when the total amount of nitrogen for the season is divided into three or more applications."

Applying half the necessary nitrogen in water-soluble form and the rest in slow-release form supplies nutrients for both spring and fall growth, Saffel notes.

Another way to provide nitrogen for turf growth is to return clippings to the lawn, he suggests. Returning clippings reduces nitrogen needs by up to 1 pound of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet.

If you want a lawn with few weed and insect problems, work on building a healthy turf, Saffel advises. A dense lawn will shade and crowd-out many weeds, and a vigorous, healthy turf can better resist attack by insects.

An often-neglected step in maintaining a healthy turf is keeping mower blades sharp. Grass that's cut rather than torn not only looks better, Saffel says, but it is less disease prone.

Remove no more than one-third of the leaf blade at any one cutting, he adds. Removing more than this stresses the plant and reduces the leaf area for photosynthesis.

He's a member of the National Honor Society. He worked for the school newspaper, participated in forensics, debate, and the school play, and was a member of the cross country and track teams for three years. He made the Academic All-State Team. Ben plans to study engineering at the University of Michigan. He was a member of the band and symphony orchestra.

CHELSEA HIGH speech students held their annual forum on the steps of McKune Memorial Library last Wednesday. Each student delivered a four-minute speech on a topic pertaining to Chelsea. Heckling and loud questioning were allowed during the second and third minutes as a way to see how well each student could hold up under fire. Here, senior Beth Williams talks about preserving the small-town atmosphere of the village, while fellow student Megan Stielstra looks on.

MARTIN HELLER of Chelsea recently graduated from Michigan State University with highest honors with a degree in chemical engineering. He plans to pursue graduate studies under a research fellowship at the University of Colorado in Boulder. Martin, a 1989 Chelsea High school graduate, is the son of Earl and Kay Heller.

CHS Faculty Work Sessions Complete

Reminder—Chelsea High school will start at the regular time (8:25 a.m.) on Monday, June 7.

The last faculty work session for this spring was held on May 24. The entire faculty is grateful to the parents and students for their cooperation and support of this effort.

A complete report of the group's progress with recommendations to the Board of Education will be made on June 14. All interested parents are encouraged to attend.

Debbie Kennedy organized volunteer parents to help supervise each Monday morning. Additionally, these parents voluntarily supervised one or more Monday mornings: Kathryn Buss, Marsha Cole, Jerry Gillikin, Kathy Guinan, James Jede, Dick McCalla, Ellen McMurray, Sandy Miller, Kathy Muha, Jan Roberts, Ardy Spink, Aram Walker, Diane Weid, Dayle Wright, and Karen Ziegler.

THE REV. FRANKLIN GIEBEL of Our Savior Lutheran church, delivered the invocation and benediction at the Memorial Day services in Oak Grove Cemetery Monday morning.

CHELSEA GIRL SCOUTS were among the many scouts that took part in Monday's Memorial Day parade through the village to Oak Grove Cemetery. The girls had to bundle up for the fall-like weather.

INDIVIDUALIZED HOME NURSING recently received a donation from the Woman's Club of Chelsea. Rosie Young, center, accepted the money from Marjorie Hepburn, left, Woman's Club treasurer, and Linda Cole, club community service chair.

THREE VOLUNTEERS at the Chelsea Retirement Community who were honored at a Volunteer Appreciation Tea May 20 are, from left, Elizabeth Jane Gray, Julie Vorus, and Dorothy Antis. Gray is a member of the Retirement Home Friends organization and has been a volunteer for more than 20 years. Vorus leads a Readers Theatre Group. Antis helps with the Garden Group in the nursing unit.

Mark Oumet Addresses Economic Breakfast Club

Mark Oumet, president of the Washtenaw Development Council, was the guest speaker at the May 19 Economic Breakfast Club meeting held at Chelsea Community Hospital. Because this was the annual Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce meeting, Mark, who was the former chair of the Ann Arbor Chamber, spoke about the role of chambers in support of area businesses.

The main topic of discussion, however, was state tax reform. Oumet noted that Michigan is a highly taxed state which makes the challenge of attracting new businesses very difficult. The presence of a highly qualified work force is important, but often not enough.

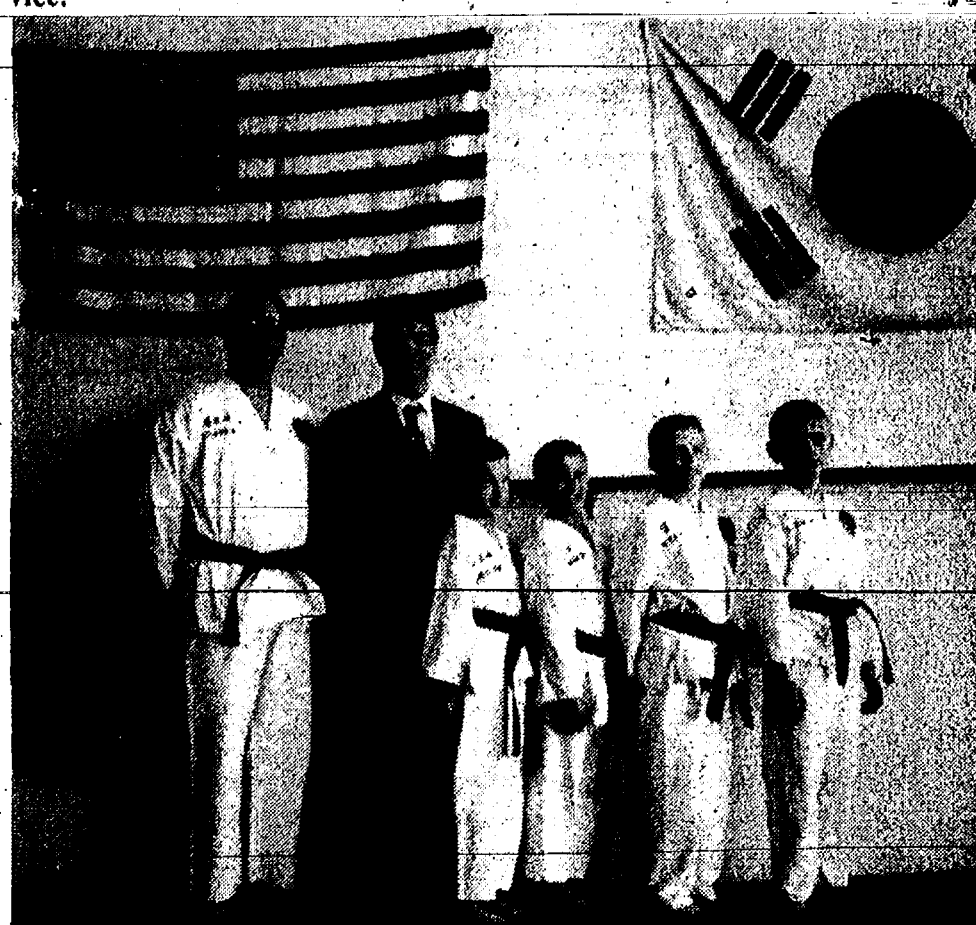

Reduced property taxes will help older folks who, under the current system, are being taxed out of their homes and in some cases, out of the state. Oumet conceded that Proposal A might not be the absolute answer, but it is a start. He feels that some of voter's reluctance to support this plan is their basic distrust of politicians and the fact that it's not what you know, it's what you don't know. The memory of the lottery hoax is still fresh in voters' minds.

Mark praised Chelsea's dedication to its children's education and urged Chamber members to work in partnership with the schools. Business leaders can help schools provide what the employers are looking for in prospective employees. Anything which affects education will eventually affect business.

The Economic Breakfast Club of Chelsea meets bi-monthly at the Chelsea Community Hospital and is open to the public. The next meeting will be held in September.

CHELSEA AREA TRANSPORTATION SYSTEM (CATS) was given a donation by the Woman's Club of Chelsea recently. CATS is the local bus service used almost exclusively by senior citizens. Driver Paula Scherdt, center, received the check from Edith Lindberg, left, member of the club's community service committee, and Linda Cole, right, the club's chair for community service.

ON MAY 21 five students from Chelsea Tae Kwon Do tested for and passed the requirements for First Degree Black Belt. The students, under Master Michael Foxson, did an outstanding job meeting all the criteria as set forth by the U.S. Chung Do Kwan Association. Shown from left to right, are Rod Barbour, Master Foxson, Ronnie Castleberry, Mike Winter, Joel Kapp and Joseph Hunt.

Trucking Deregulation Bill Should Benefit Michigan Farmers

Michigan Farm Bureau is supporting SB 581, a bill that would deregulate intrastate trucking in Michigan similar to the way that interstate trucking has been deregulated on the federal level.

MFB legislative counsel Darcy Cypher said the measure, which was approved by the Senate Labor Committee, would benefit farmers and others in rural Michigan. "Certainly, all consumers will benefit from having more competition in the trucking industry. That competition does not exist today. To begin a trucking firm or even haul for your neighbor, you have to apply before the Public Service Commission for both the route and the rate. Other trucking firms can contest that application, which makes it very costly and time consuming for parties wishing to get involved in this industry," said Cypher.

Farm Bureau believes that rural communities will see better and more economical trucking service in a deregulated environment. "The bottom line is that rural communities have not been underserved in states that have deregulated trucking. Wisconsin, which is similar to Michigan in that it is not a trucking pass-through state, deregulated its trucking industry and service to rural areas increased because of the additional competition."

Deregulation could even make trucking safer, she said. "Some trucking experts have stated that the millions of dollars that are now spent to economically regulate the industry could be better spent to increase safety measures in trucking," said Cypher.

Health Assessment Team Available To Senior Citizens

Older persons with health problems have a special resource available to them at the University of Michigan Family Practice Center in Chelsea.

A team of experts from a variety of disciplines is available to provide a comprehensive health evaluation for elderly individuals who are experiencing a problem with their physical and/or psychological well-being.

This team of professionals includes physicians who have special geriatric training, a social worker, nutritionist, clinical pharmacist, and geriatric nurse practitioner. Each team member conducts an assessment of the older individual and shares their findings with the assembled team.

In addition to sharing the findings with the older individual and his or her family, a summary letter including specific recommendations is provided to the individual's regular physician to aid in better management of future health concerns.

Typical reasons for seeking such an assessment include failing general health, safety concerns with recent falls; appetite or weight changes; changes in personality or memory problems; consideration of nursing home placement. The full evaluation includes a home visit from the nurse practitioner and a half-day visit to the Family Practice Center to be seen by the pharmacist, nutritionist, social worker and physician. If desired, an evaluation by a single member of the team may be arranged (e.g. a nutrition assessment or a pharmacist review of medication use).

Any older person or concerned caregiver is welcome to inquire about an evaluation by calling Diane at 313-475-4487.

Junior Volunteer Program Set at Retirement Home

Again this summer, Chelsea Retirement Community is having the Summer Youth Volunteer Program. It is an opportunity for fifth through twelfth grade youths to spend at least one afternoon a week with the residents, primarily those from the health care unit. During this time, the youths will join the residents in their activities which include playing games, making crafts, and reading books.

The volunteers will also spend some time with the residents on an individual basis, going on walks and talking with them, reading letters to the residents and writing letters for them. This program gives the residents more opportunities for activities and it gives the volunteers an opportunity to get to know older adults while at the same time, they learn responsibility and get experience for future jobs.

Program co-ordinator of the Summer Youth Volunteer Program is Marcia Schleicher of Fowlerville. She is currently a senior at Albion College, studying to be an elementary teacher.

At school, she is involved with the theater department, Amnesty International, and Wesley Fellowship (Christian fellowship group). Marcia is a member of Trinity United Methodist church of Fowlerville.

The program is sponsored by the Vocational Intern Program (VIP) through the Detroit Conference of the United Methodist Church along with Chelsea First United Methodist church and Chelsea Retirement Community.

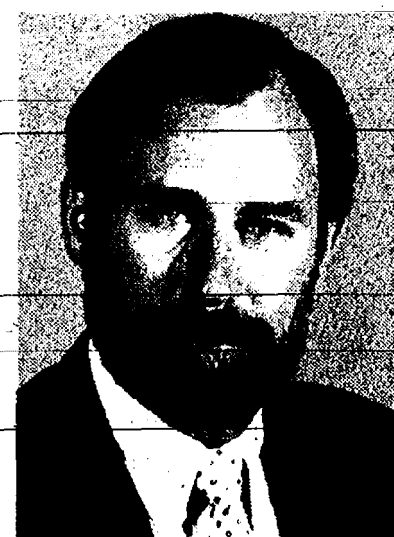

The six-week volunteer program begins June 21 and ends July 29. Volunteers need to commit themselves to come each week on either Monday, Tuesday or Thursday between one and four in the afternoon. It is necessary that each volunteer come to an orientation either from 1 to 4 p.m. on Wednesday, June 16, or from 1 to 4 p.m. on Thursday, June 17.

If you are between fifth and twelfth grade and are interested in becoming a part of this volunteer program, please contact Marcia Schleicher at Chelsea Retirement Community at 475-8633. Call soon to reserve a place in the program.
