DDA Members Make Pitch For Village To Renovate Downtown Office Building

The Chelsea community would be best-served by having the village renovate its 10,000-square-foot office complex rather than build a new one—in the downtown or anywhere else.

That's the conclusion of several members of the Chelsea Downtown Development Authority who made a strong pitch for such a scenario during last week's village council meeting.

In recent months, council has discussed building a new facility on two lots it owns on Park St. adjacent to the Municipal Parking Lot. In addition, there was some talk about building a new complex on S. Main St. near Old US-12.

A study by architect Lincoln Poley concluded that it could cost up to $900,000 to renovate the current complex on E. Middle St. That would include the installation of an elevator, replacement of virtually every mechanical system in the building, and a host of other renovations.

Village manager Jack Myers has said he believes it would be more cost efficient for the village to build a new complex.

However, former DDA member Bill Bott, a self-described "volunteer consultant" for the DDA, said the village should instead consider renovation. If the village offices move into a new facility, he said, a 10,000-square-foot building will be abandoned. And anyone who wants to use it will have to spend just as much money or more on improvements. He said it is not suitable for retail use.

"The present facility contains approximately 10,000 square feet which would seem adequate for present and future needs for office space," Bott wrote in a report to the DDA, which was distributed to village council.

Bott wrote in his report that small downtown businesses have invested approximately $4.6 million (not counting maintenance) in their buildings since 1985 and have had to face the same issues of handicap accessibility, substandard mechanical systems, and general building conditions as the village faces in making its decision about the village hall.

"Re-investing in its own offices would be a welcome next step in revitalizing our community," Bott wrote.

DDA President Frank Renton said the DDA as a group has not endorsed any particular plan for a village hall. However, he asked that an advertised public hearing be held before a decision is made so that everyone would have a chance to comment.

Village president Richard Steele said, "I don't think we've reached that point yet," but agreed that some sort of public forum should be held.

The village has not commissioned a space planning study, which Bott called a "very basic first step."

Bott's report contained several other items about the DDA and its effect on the area since 1985.

- In 1985, SEV in the downtown business district was $4,115,775, or nine percent of the total village tax base. Today the SEV is $9,087,325, or 14.5 percent of the tax base. SEV has risen 220 percent since 1985.

- Business community raised $500,000 in private pledges toward the downtown project, which Bott called an "unheard of accomplishment for small towns."

- Employment by small downtown businesses exceeds 300 people.

- A marketing program is being refined and Bott said it "will be an extremely important ingredient to a successful downtown."

- Some projects, such as the expansion of McKune Memorial Library are still planned. That old Hop-In site is still plagued by contamination problems.

- The county and state have invested $630,000 toward the renovation of the downtown with the courthouse and depot projects.

School Board Approves New CHS Advisor Plan, Studies Freshman Sports

Chelsea Board of Education approved a new advisor/advisee plan for high school students for the coming year.

The purpose of the one-year trial program is to provide what high school principal Ron Mead called "a good linkage" between students and the high school and the school faculty.

Mead said he intends for the program to be permanent.

Mead told the board that he believes the success of high school students, both academically and socially, can be traced to how much the students feel a part of the high school. High school teachers, counselors, and administrators will each have a group of about 17 students, with which they will meet once each week for 30 minutes. Each group will have a cross section of students.

The groups will allow students to meet other students outside their peer groups and with different interests. The advisor will stay with each group the entire year and will address topics related to school that might not be addressed in the classroom.

At the urging of board member Joe Redding, the program will be evaluated at the end of the year. Henry Alvarez, student representative to the board, said the program sounds like a good idea but suggested that it probably couldn't be evaluated effectively until next year's freshmen have gone all the way through high school.

The program, Mead said, was suggested by the high school faculty and that about 90 percent are in favor of it.

In other board business, there was considerable discussion about adding freshman girls basketball, volleyball, and softball programs, as well as middle school boys and girls cross country. No final decisions were made as policy and finance committees plan to study the proposal.

Athletic director Wayne Welton said there is plenty of interest in all those sports and the numbers by themselves justify starting the programs.

However, Welton estimated it would cost about $33,100 to start and run the three freshman-level sports. He also said that no other schools in the Southeastern Conference have those sports at the freshman level, which would force Chelsea teams to play junior varsity level teams at smaller schools, freshman teams at larger schools, or some schools in Jackson county.

Welton said girls basketball would be easiest to implement because there is little competition for gym space in the fall. A freshman softball team might have to practice at Beach school. Volleyball, he said, would be difficult due to all the demands in winter for gym space. He said it's likely he could find time for practices, but scheduling home games could present problems. The high school gym is used by three boys basketball teams, the wrestling team, and varsity and junior varsity volleyball teams.

Welton said he had "mixed feelings" as to whether it was a "title IX issue," referring to equity in women's sports. Although there are boys freshman baseball and basketball programs, over-all, the number of high school sports teams are roughly equal if cheerleading is considered.

Welton said he personally would prefer to "take care of the programs we already have," before adding an entirely new sport, such as soccer, which is at the club level.

Middle school cross country could be added at about half the cost of one of the other programs, Welton said.

The proposed programs may be held hostage, at least this year, by the uncertainty of the level of state aid. Assistant superintendent Fred Mills said the district may be looking at a $280,000 deficit even before the school year begins if the state forces local districts to pay an additional 20 percent of social security and retirement costs, one widely discussed proposal in Lansing.

The policy committee is likely to study whether the school district should consider other ways to fund programs, such as through business

Concert, Fireworks Highlight July Fourth Activities This Week-end

There will be plenty to do for those who stay in the Chelsea area over the Fourth of July week-end.

The week-end of activities gets started on Saturday, July 3 with a free concert by The Lunar Octet in Pierce Park starting at 6 p.m. It is the first concert in the annual Concert in the Park series sponsored by the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce and the Chelsea Recreation Council.

Chelsea Police Investigate Two Break-ins in Village

Chelsea police are investigating two break-ins that may be related. Both occurred during the night of June 23.

Someone used a softball-sized rock to break the glass from a door at Richardson Automotive. Entry was gained to the building through a 28" wide, 11" high hole. Police found dried blood at the scene.

However, only $9 was taken from a cash register. Several boxes of tools and parts apparently wouldn't fit through the hole and were left behind.

ever since. They are a latin/jazz band that draws on jazz, Cuban and Puerto Rican salsa, rock, African high-life music, and Brazilian sambas. Almost all of the band's music is original and all band members contribute to the arrangements.

The band has performed in numerous club and concert settings, including Detroit's New Center Park, the Flint Jazz Festival, and the Montreux-Detroit Jazz Festival. They won the EMU-Depot Town Jazz Competition in 1985 and has since performed many live simulcasts on Michigan radio. They are one of the groups represented on the recording "Cruisin' Ann Arbor II."

The band consists of Brandon Cooper on trumpet and flugelhorn, Steve Hiltner on saxophones and flute, Mark Kieswetter on keyboards, Sam Clark on guitar, David Stearns on bass, Jon Krosnick on drums, Aron Kaufman on congas and percussion, and David Mason on timbales, talking drum, and percussion.

Food and snacks will be available at the Chelsea Rotary Club's Ice Cream Wagon (which helps benefit many community activities) and Cottage Inn Pizza. Cottage Inn is donating five percent of proceeds from each concert's food sales to the concert series to help offset charges.

The concert will go on, rain or shine, in the park. Concertgoers are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, blankets, rain gear, food, or anything else (alcohol excepted) that will make the concert more fun.

Free parking is available on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital adjacent to the park.

The Chelsea 1993 organization is organizing the activities for Sunday, July 4.

The village may have to decide soon whether the Werker Rd. landfill will have to close at least on a temporary basis. Village consultants have taken two or three months longer than the village anticipated to compile information necessary to obtain a new operating license. According to consultant Lee Fahrner, several factors have contributed to the delay. Lab work has been slower than expected. And village consultants co-ordinated all testing with the Department of Natural Resources to be sure all methods were acceptable to DNR.
Revised plans submitted by Domino's Pizza have been approved by the Chelsea Village Planning Commission, clearing the way for a store to be built at the corner of Lincoln and Main St., at the former site of Ralph Fletcher's Friendly Service. The commission took the action at their regular June 27 meeting. Two months ago the commission denied approval of plans that would keep the existing curb cut on Main St. Planners objected to what they felt would be a hazardous traffic pattern created by Main St., Van Buren St., and Chelsea Community Hospital traffic.

Village of Chelsea and the Department of Natural Resources apparently disagree on the extent of the work that will be needed to close out the old landfill. As part of a consent order signed last year with the DNR, the village had to perform studies and come up with a detailed plan for putting a clay cap on the old landfill. The cap is supposed to keep water from infiltrating the landfill and carrying contaminants out.
Chelsea School District has begun its summer maintenance schedule and this year plans to spend $207,500 for work at all four schools. Money spent this summer comes from the 1989-90 budget. The one-million earmarked for maintenance will bring the district $212,970, said assistant superintendent Fred Mills.

★ Airports Are Going Private

By Lawrence W. Reed
When the Wright Brothers invested in what is now the oldest commercial airport in America—at College Park, Md.,—they probably didn't expect the airport business to become a government enterprise. They envisioned a future of private entrepreneurs and private companies putting millions of Americans in the air on largely private funds.

Fortunately, U.S. aircraft manufacture and airlines themselves have always been private and not by coincidence, the envy of the world as well. Airports, on the other hand, became the province of the public sector. Most of them are today owned by one unit of government or another and operated by public employees.

That may change radically in coming years as a trend that started abroad catches root in this country: airport privatization. It promises a healthy dose of what makes most other businesses innovative, efficient and responsive to consumers—competition, the freedom to act in an entrepreneurial fashion and the ability to raise needed capital without the hindrance of political considerations. Governments are coming around to the notion that private, for-profit firms have the incentive and the expertise to build and operate airports better than almost any public bureaucracy.

It all began in 1987, when the Thatcher government in Great Britain sold seven major commercial airports through a public sale of stock—Stansted, Glasgow, Edinburgh, Prestwick, Aberdeen, Gatwick and one of the busiest in the world, London's Heathrow. An astonishing 2.2 million citizens bought 1.4 billion shares in the private British Airports Authority. The Belfast International Airport in Northern Ireland goes on the auction block next.

The British privatization has produced a more economical use of the labor force and scarce capital resources, much-needed capital investment, and a stream of tax revenues to the central government in place of subsidy payments. The British flying public has been greeted with a new aggressive and entrepreneurial attitude aimed at pleasing customers.

Airports are going private in a growing number of countries since the British success. They include Auckland International in New Zealand, part of the Vienna airport in Austria, and the major airports of Malaysia and Singapore. Similar moves are planned for facilities in Africa and Latin America.

Operation and management of four of Canada's largest airports—Vancouver, Edmonton, Montreal and Calgary—have been privatized. The first privately developed, built and operated passenger terminal in North America is the $520 million Terminal 3 at Toronto's Lester B. Pearson International Airport, through which more than 12 million people will pass this year. The attractive, customer-friendly Toronto terminal features 110,000 square feet of retail space and some of the finest shops in the world, including Harrod's of London. "Something more than a stale muffin and a coffee and a wall to lean against," said a spokesman for the facility to Civil Engineering magazine.

Bureaucratic inertia and cumbersome regulations still impede airport privatization in the U.S., but the idea is gaining ground in many quarters. The Reason Foundation in California has estimated that if the 50 largest airports in the U.S. were sold to private interests, sales revenues would exceed $23 billion. Governments would reap an annual tax bonanza: $400 million in local property tax revenues and $600 million in federal tax revenues. The Reason Foundation has provided much of the intellectual and economic case for the sale or lease of Los Angeles International (LAX), either of which may happen in the very near future.

A few years ago, the federal government transferred Washington National and Dulles International airports to a local unit of government. Freed of federal red tape, the local authority has contracted out much of the day-to-day operations: about 85 percent of the 22,000 employees at the two airports now work for private companies.

A 1992 executive order from President Bush makes it much easier for state and local governments to privatize infrastructure facilities like airports. But if there's a clear trend in U.S. airport operation (with government retaining ownership). That option has been partially implemented or is under consideration by airport officials in Baltimore, Dallas, Boston, Indianapolis, Palm Beach, New York, and Peoria, to name only a few places.
A 1988 Mackinac Center study of Detroit Metro Airport—the first comprehensive analysis of the feasibility of privatizing any major U.S. airport—conservatively estimated that the outright sale of Metro could generate $10 million in local property taxes to the city of Romulus and a one-time windfall of $350 million to Wayne county.

Small and medium-sized airports, being less complex than large facilities, have even greater privatization potential. Of the 236 licensed and open-to-the-public airports in Michigan, for example, 111 are privately-owned and operated. Many of the other 125 publicly-owned airports contract out their operation and management to private aviation service firms. Barstow in Midland county, Harry Browne in Saginaw county, and the Owosso Community Airport in Shiawassee county are three of several Michigan airports where some form of privatization has been a topic of debate recently.

Five years ago, an official of Midland-Bay City-Saginaw's Tri-City International scoffed at the thought of airport privatization with this remark: "If it's such a great idea, how come it hasn't been done before?" Well, the track record here and abroad is now such that responsible public officials can no longer dismiss the idea.

Indeed, current trends suggest that airport privatization is one idea whose time has finally come.

(Lawrence W. Reed is president of The Mackinac Center for Public Policy, a research and educational organization based in Midland.)

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:
Carved in stone took on new meaning during the discussion at the country store Saturday night. Zeke Grubb mentioned problems that have come up over naming public buildings after people, and the fellows grabbed the bouncing ball and run with it.
Zeke noted there is serious talk in Washington about taking J. Edgar Hoover's name off the FBI building because of all the real and rumored dirt that has been dug up on him in recent years. Zeke was of a mind that a policy of taking names off would be worse than putting them on. It is true, Zeke declared, that public property never should be called by private names, but we're far down that road to turn around. As current events move into history, he said, we'd build a bigger backlog of sand blasting and marble slab orders that the Supreme Court has cases it'll never hear.

Practical speaking, Zeke went on, it ain't just dug up secrets of dead politicians whose names are carved over the front of buildings in Washington that will give us trouble. We're bound to learn of military bases, warships, roads, parks and ever other public thing named for heroes whose feet turned to clay after they turned to dust. If we start rattling all the skeletons in all the closets there'll be no end to it, was Zeke's words.
Our best bet, Zeke said, is to let bad enough alone and put a hold on naming public buildings. If we got to have somepun more than regular address we can put numbers or colors on the new ones if we can find enough that won't offend anybody.

General, the fellows were agreed with Zeke, but for different reasons. For instance, Bug Hookum noted that wimmen are coming on strong in politics and they're going to want their share of building names. If we take this line, Bug said, we'll wind up with ever post office, courthouse and mile of highway named in the country named for somebody. Just the other day, Bug read where a female Congressman was quoted as saying wimmen don't have hot flashes any more, they have power surges.

Actual, Clem Webster noted, state legislatures already see that naming things is getting as far out of hand as trying to please ever special interest with resolutions. For instance, Clem said, North Carolina went stap crazy for a while, naming stretches of interstate highways for living governors, race-car drivers, pro-basketball players and even mayors that happen to be rich and big political contributors. Reality set in after a joke about putting a basketball on the state flag was taken serious by the legislature.

Actual, Ed Doolittle said, we can use building names to remind Americans of the good guys and the good guys gone bad. What we got to watch out for, Ed said, is quick changes in national policy without knowing what changes might come about. Ed said he was thinking of the situation with Sen. Robert Packwood. At last check, Ed said, the Senate beat down a move in Oregon to have his reelection put aside because he waited until after the vote to admit he harassed wimmen.

The honorables know we got to be careful here, Ed said. If we kick out ever politician that lies during a reelection campaign we got to be ready to form a new kind of Government.
Yours truly,
Uncle Lew

Playground Project Deficit Paid in Full

Pierce Park Playground Project fund goal has been met thanks to the generous contributions from two prominent Chelsea businesses, Book-Crafters and Chelsea Milling Co.

Despite the use of contingency funds, building costs were higher than expected with installation costs exceeding estimates. A limited fund drive provided some assets but greater than $1,000 remained to be raised. Members of the two companies discussed the deficit and decided to split the remaining costs.

Many other Chelsea businesses, service organizations, and citizens contributed to the project. Final costs of the structure, swings, site preparation and installation totalled almost $20,000. Use of the park is far exceeding previous years' use. It provides a beautiful entrance into Chelsea, brings Chelsea families together, and offers safe activities for our children.

'Cherished Hair Art' To Be Demonstrated At Tecumseh Mall

Queen Victoria was fascinated by the shiny threads of hair worked into jewelry and flowers. Because of the popularity of this art during her reign, ornamental hair work has become generally referred to as "Victorian," even though it began much earlier.

Hair art was done long before photography. Jewelry was exchanged like pictures are today. Flowers were made of friends or family members' hair, which was displayed in the parlour. Hair ornaments are usually seen only in museums, currently it is thought of as a lost art.

Ruth Gordon will present "Cherished Hair Art" at Tecumseh Antique Mall II on July 3, from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Ruth learned how to make the flowers from a man whose family handed it down to him. The only reference book for her to use was so old, it was only on micro film, she taught herself how to do the jewelry. She was a guide at Henry Ford Museum.

Ruth has formed an International Society called "H.A.I.R.", and she is writing a book with history and instructions on hair art.

This is your opportunity to see firsthand something most people only see in museums.

★ Student Apprehension Can Be Overcome . . .

Reston, Va. While some students look forward to entering a new school, others show apprehension and fright. "The dominant emotion, for the most part, is apprehension, as elementary school students (entering middle level schools with grades five to eight) worry about dealing with older students, changing classes and teachers, and associating with students from different towns and backgrounds," cautions Karl A. Smith, principal, George L. Austin Middle school, Freetown, Mass.

Easing this transition requires a several-pronged program that can be successfully implemented with the participation of parents, teachers, and school leaders. "Visits are a key element in combating apprehension," Smith wrote in Schools in the Middle, a quarterly journal published by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

Educators from Austin Middle school would meet with fourth graders at their elementary school, and shortly thereafter the prospective fifth graders would visit their new school.

Teachers and parents jointly developed additional strategies to ease the transition. "With teacher input, we developed a small booklet that explained programs, schedules and items students would need at the middle school," Smith writes. "The booklet gave the students a lot of 'nuts and bolts' information for the next year and became an invaluable tool and reference guide for the new fifth graders.

"We modified the middle school visit. When the fourth graders visited the middle school, they were divided among all the fifth grade teachers. They had the opportunity to visit classrooms and talk with the teachers.

While the traditional school visits were continued, a new summer information project was implemented. The four-day program exposed incoming fifth graders to every imaginable aspect of the middle school—from finding a home-room to using the telephone in the office.

Another part of the orientation program was a teacher-made video, according to Smith.

"At the end of the school year, the teachers went from room-to-room in the school and filmed all staff members at their stations. The teachers showed the video at the summer orientation and were able to show the video all summer on a local cable television station. By the first day of school, the incoming fifth graders had put names with faces and many staff members felt like celebrities."

"Middle school is a transition between elementary school and high school," Smith concludes. "We believe these progressive steps have made the difference in making fourth graders happy in their new fifth grade home."

Farm Bureau Head Reports Good Health for U. S. Livestock Industry

Livestock profits are never as good as producers think they should be, but health of the livestock industry has been generally good for the past several years, American Farm Bureau Federation President Dean Kleckner told participants of a world conference of meat producers this week in Kinross, Scotland.

Kleckner said that despite growing concentration in both production and marketing of livestock in the U. S., there remains opportunity for individual farmers in the industry—if the proper policies are implemented and if producers remain alert to market opportunities and consumer demands.

"The key is profitability and U. S. farmers will be more innovative and productive than can be imagined if profit opportunity is present," Kleckner said. "Our goal is no longer to sell what we produce. Instead, we must produce what we can sell."

The Iowa hog producer said America's livestock producers will be price and quality competitive with anyone, any time, anywhere. He expressed the hope that freer trade throughout the world can be accomplished to the benefit of producers and consumers everywhere. International trade reform in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) is long overdue, Kleckner said.

The conference was sponsored by the International Federation of Agricultural Producers, of which the American Farm Bureau is a member.

Dexter Woman's Daughter Aboard Ship in Persian Gulf

Navy Seaman Apprentice Chasity A. McCloskey, daughter of Rebecca A. Merriam of 8040 Fifth St., Dexter, is currently deployed aboard the ammunition ship USS Shasta, homeported in Concord, Calif., and is midway through a six-month deployment to the Western Pacific and Persian Gulf as part of the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz Battle Group.

During the deployment, the battle group has participated in Operation Southern Watch, enforcing the United Nations-imposed "no-fly" zone over Southern Iraq, as well as in numerous naval air and surface training exercises with armed forces from Thailand, Malaysia and Singapore.

McCloskey has visited Singapore; Jebel Ali and United Arab Emirates; Muscat, Oman and Mia Qabas, Oman. While in Jebel Ali, USS Shasta donated 2,000 hardback fiction and non-fiction books to missions. In Mia Qabas, 58 crewmen performed minor repairs, painting, electrical work and building and grounds cleanup at the Al Magna Community Center.

USS Shasta is a Kilauea-class ammunition ship designed to deliver ammunition, either independently or with other combat logistic ships, to combatants and/or battle group station ships underway, using ship to ship and helicopter replenishments.

The deployment exemplifies the new Navy and Marine Corps policy, entitled "From the Sea," in which, on short notice, U. S. forces are poised to respond to crises in distant lands, from the sea.

The 1991 graduate of Napoleon High school of Napoleon, joined the Navy in October, 1991.

Social will be held at Chelsea Shopping Center beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Boyer and Fitzsimmons Magic Show will be held at the shopping center at 8:30 p.m.

And the annual fireworks show will begin at 10 p.m. at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds. The show will be postponed—until Monday if there is poor weather. If in doubt about the weather, listen to WAAM-AM or WIOB-FM radio.

Chelsea 1995 is asking for donations of $5 per family to cover the cost of the fireworks. Buckets will be circulating during the evening.

July 4th Independence Day

It seems a pertinent question to ask these days, "What does the flag mean to you? Is it only a symbol? If so, of what? Our nation's independence? Of freedom and democracy? Something to salute occasionally (out of habit)? Is it just a piece of cloth to which a pledge is said? Or does it take center stage mainly at athletic events when a song is sung hurriedly to get a game underway? Is it identified only with a ritualistic habit?"

What do the colors of red, white and blue mean? Do the number of stars mean only a union of separate states? Do the stars mean anything else? What do the red and white stripes represent? Does the color of red symbolize the blood shed by soldiers to gain independence for us? Does the white indicate hope, purity and cleanliness? Does the blue indicate the color of the sky and sea which in turn indicates reverence to God?

... It may mean some of these things to some people. But should it not mean, above everything else, a symbol of American Civilization, Enlightenment and Liberty; a reflection of patriotism at its finest?

sponsorships. The district now will not add a program unless it is funded through the general fund and through gate receipts.

A decision for the coming year, at least for basketball, will have to be made by next month so Welton can hire a coach and schedule games.

In other business, the board accepted a bid of $42,644 from Wise International for two bus bodies.

The board tabled action on bids for two bus chassis after board member John Eisenbeiser said he had concerns about the bidding process. The board agreed to seek new bids.

The board heard a substance abuse report from counselor Cheryl Davis.

"There aren't a lot of changes," said superintendent Joe Piasecki. "It still shows that alcohol use is still what we need to be most concerned about." (A more complete story on the report will appear in a future edition of The Chelsea Standard.)

The board approved the annual Chelsea-Saline Orchestra Camp scheduled for Sept. 17-19. It also approved participation in the Teen Institute of Michigan program at Central Michigan University July 11-16.

The board was presented a plaque by the Washtenaw County Tobacco Reduction Coalition in recognition of the district's ban of all smoking in all school buildings.

THE ORIGINAL SIGN over the current Longworth Plating building on Jackson St. is being restored as part of an over-all painting job of the Longworth buildings. The entire sign will read "Chelsea House-Livery Feed and 104 Barn." Painter Dave Lukasial, who has painted many of the buildings downtown in the last couple of years, is handling the work.

* Maximizing Your Social Security Benefits

Don't wait until you need Social Security to find out how the program works. The Michigan Association of CPAs recommends that you take the time now to find out how much you have contributed to Social Security and estimate your benefits. Who Qualifies for Benefits? Generally, if you are at least 62 years of age and have paid into the Social Security system, you qualify for benefits. Currently, full retirement benefits are provided at age 65. However, the age at which an individual qualifies for full benefits is gradually increasing. By the year 2027, you must be age 67 to receive full Social Security retirement benefits.

Social Security also offers survivor benefits to widows or widowers who are at least age 60 or older; age 50 and disabled; or any age and caring for a child who is under 16 or permanently disabled. The amount of the benefit is based on the amounts contributed by the wage earner.

Disability insurance is also available through the Social Security system. If you are unable to work because of an injury or illness expected to last a year or longer, you may be entitled to Social Security benefits. How SS Credits Are Earned

To claim Social Security retirement benefits, a person must be fully insured. This means you must have worked (in covered employment) 50 quarters—usually about 10 years—during your lifetime. The amount of income needed to earn one quarter of coverage varies for each year. As of Jan. 1, 1993, you receive one credit for every $590 of earnings. However, you cannot earn over four credits in one year. Keep in mind, too, that quarters of coverage are credited regardless of when the money was earned during the year.

Calculating the Benefit Amount Your date of birth, the type of benefit for which you are applying and your average lifetime earnings determine the amount of your benefit. In calculating your average earnings, the lowest five years of annual earnings are not counted.

If you and your spouse have both contributed to Social Security and you have been married for at least a year, you may claim your benefits based on your own Social Security record or based on your spouse's record. You are entitled to receive benefits under the more favorable method. If you claim a benefit based on your spouse's earnings, the most you can receive at age 65 is 50 percent of your spouse's benefit.

Earnings Limits Earned income, including self-employment income, can result in a reduction in your benefits, depending on your age and the amount of wages of self-employment income you receive.

In 1993, those under age 65 can earn up to $7,680 without a reduction in benefits; for every $2-over the limit,

$1 is withheld from benefits. Those between the ages of 65 and 69 can earn up to $10,560 without a reduction in benefits; for every $3-over the limit, $1 is withheld from benefits. If you're age 70 or older, you can earn any amount without a reduction in benefits.

Claiming Your Benefits

To claim your benefits, you must apply to the Social Security Administration either in person or over the phone.

County Deputies Report Stolen Vehicles, Assaults.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies investigated several incidents in Dexter, Chelsea, Scio township, Dexter township, Lima township and Sylvan township June 13-23.

On June 13, malicious destruction of property was reported in the 14000 block of Edgewater Rd., Dexter township. A 27-year-old Ann Arbor man is accused of smashing a truck windshield with a shovel after he was asked to leave a party at 3:30 a.m. A witness saw the suspect do it and yelled for him not to. The suspect denies any involvement.

On June 16, a 40-year-old Dexter woman accused her ex-husband, a 50-year-old Dexter man living on Dexter-Pinckney Rd. near Island Lake Rd., of having sexual contact with their 10-year-old daughter. She alleges the incident occurred one night when their daughter was staying at his house. The daughter said she was scared because of a storm and got into her father's bed. She says her father didn't touch her, but her mother wants criminal sexual conduct charges brought against him. He told deputies he didn't even know his daughter was in the bed until the next morning when he awoke. The case will be reviewed by the prosecutor and the department of social services has been contacted.

On June 17, Donald W. Johnson, 33, of Dexter township was arrested on a felony warrant for criminal sexual conduct II. Deputies arrested him for the Millford Police Department. He is accused of fondling a child.

Assault and battery was reported on the M-14 exit ramp near Miller Rd., Scio township. A 27-year-old Ann Arbor man told deputies a 30-year-old Scio township man attacked him for driving too close to his vehicle. The two were both exiting from M-14. The victim says he passed the suspect, who became angry and threw something at his car. Both pulled over on the side of the road and began arguing. The victim said when he tried to get the suspect's license plate number, the suspect struck him in the face. The suspect then got back in his vehicle and the victim followed him to his residence in Scio Farms Estates. A deputy later questioned the man, who admitted to striking the victim.

Unlawful driving away of an automobile was reported in the 17000 block of Old US-12, Sylvan township. A 1989 Honda motorcycle worth $1,750 was stolen after a 17-year-old Chelsea boy left it at a friend's house to sell. He said it was secured on a trailer with a chain.

Breaking and entering was reported in the 13000 block of Waterloo Rd., Dexter township. A 39-year-old Chelsea woman said someone stole a video camcorder, camera, cello, stereo, compact disc player, jewelry and binoculars from her home between 9:40 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. Altogether, $3,128 worth of property was stolen and $4,000 worth of destruction occurred to the ransacked home.

A 23-year-old Kensington man lost control of his 1989 Ford vehicle, causing an accident with a 1990 Chevy driven by a 28-year-old Clinton man on westbound I-94 near the Zeeb Rd. overpass. The Kensington man said he tried to slow down to allow for another car to pull over because of a flat tire. When he attempted to slow down, at 65 mph, he lost control, swerved into the right lane, where the Clinton man's vehicle hit his.

On June 18, larceny of mail was reported in the 4000 block of Miller Rd., Scio township. A 49-year-old woman called WCSO after witnessing a man take mail from her mailbox and continue walking down her street. She was concerned because one envelope contained a check for $76.80. When deputies arrived on the scene they caught up with a 25-year-old Ypsilanti man who said he was looking for "easy money to get home by bus or cab," according to reports. The man was arrested on a prior warrant and a search of his things turned up suspected marijuana. The case is open pending the prosecutor's review.

A threats complaint is being investigated in Scio Farms Estates, Scio township. A 24-year-old township woman is accusing her ex-boyfriend, who fathered her 4-year-old child, of making threats to kill her over child custody. The suspect is a 31-year-old Whitmore Lake man. Among other things, the woman is accusing him of selling drugs, knowing of murders over owed drug money and conspiring to kill her. She says she has been told he wants her "snuffed out" and is willing to pay someone to do it. She told deputies she fears him and his acquaintances.

On June 18, a child was found in the 13000 block of Trinkle Rd., Chelsea. A 39-year-old Chelsea woman found a 2-year-old girl playing in her yard. She called WCSO just as the girl's mother reported her missing. The 20-year-old mother said she and the child fell asleep together and when she awoke her daughter was gone.

On June 19, a high speed chase along eastbound I-94 took deputies from I-94 and Wagner Rd., Scio township, to I-94 and the eastbound Ecorse Service Dr. in Van Buren township. A 27-year-old Garden City man fled deputies in his vehicle, traveling at speeds up to 100 mph to elude them. During the pursuit, a white powder substance was tossed from his vehicle. When deputies finally apprehended him, after he hit a tree on the Ecorse Service Dr., they found he was intoxicated and was carrying a bag of marijuana in his vehicle. He was taken to St. Joseph Mercy Hospital by Huron Valley Ambulance with possible chest injuries. The case is pending authorization of a warrant from the prosecutor.

Forgery was reported in the 8000 block of Main St., Dexter. A 33-year-old Pinckney man has accused his 35-year-old ex-wife of forging his 1991 Michigan State Income tax refund June 8, 1992, where she cashed it at a bank in Dexter. He said she received the check and never turned it over to him. She later turned over half the money in February, 1992, but he wants the remainder.

On June 20, breaking and entering was reported in the 100 block of Cavanaugh Lake Rd., Sylvan township. Deputies were dispatched to a store and were met by the store's owner and Chelsea police after an alarm was activated. Nothing appeared to be missing, but the owner found a storage room door open and soft drink bottles on the floor.

Attempted breaking and entering was reported in the 500 block of Dancer Rd., Lima township. Deputies were dispatched to the area because of an activated alarm. Upon arrival, they discovered a door leading to the business' kitchen pried open. Approximately $50 in damages were done to the deadbolt lock. Deputies think the suspects fled when the alarm was set off, according to reports.

On June 22, a 12-year-old Chelsea girl was taken to the hospital after her 16-year-old sister, driving a 1984 Dodge vehicle, was struck by a Plymouth Station Wagon driven by a 54-year-old Dexter man. The incident occurred on Jackson Rd. near Fletcher Rd., Scio township. Reports state, the girl attempted to turn left onto Fletcher and was struck by the oncoming station wagon after failing to yield the right-of-way. Both vehicles were taken from the scene by a wrecker.

Deputies reported three accidents on eastbound I-94 near Baker Rd. when traffic was backed-up because of another accident. A 35-year-old Jackson woman, driving a Ford Escort, struck another vehicle driven by a Gary, Ind. man, who was stopped because of the traffic back-up. In another accident, a 71-year-old Jackson man, driving a 1989 Olds Delta, struck a Brooklyn man in a GMC truck because he says he couldn't stop his vehicle. In turn, the Brooklyn man hit another car, which was driven by a 43-year-old Gregory man.

Larceny from a boat was reported in the 3800 block of Jackson Rd., Scio township. Tools and other items were stolen after someone cut the boat's cover off with a knife. The items amount to $200. They belong to a 40-year-old Hamburg township man, who kept his boat at a storage business.

Unlawful driving away of an automobile was reported on Jackson Rd. near Metty Dr., Scio township.

The 1975 Ford F-250 Supercab Pick-up was last seen June 19. It is worth $2,000. Larceny from a building was reported in the 200 block of Metty Dr., Scio township. A 45-year-old Dexter man, who manages the business, said a computer and computerized wheel alignment system, both amounting to $12,500, were stolen.

Boy Scout Council Now Has New Name

The recent merger of two governing bodies of the Boy Scouts of America in this area has resulted in a new name: Great Sauk Trail Council.

The new Council was formerly the Wolverine Council, headquartered in Ann Arbor, and the Land-O-Lakes Council, based in Jackson.

Cub Scout volunteer Edwin L. Fether of Reading, suggested the new name; it was approved by the Council's executive committee from over 50 names submitted by Scouts and their leaders.

"The Sauk Trail is an old Indian trail that ran along what is now US-12, right through our new Council," commented Bob Poole, interim scout executive. "A lot of Scouting Activities have their roots in Indian lore."

Name originator Fether is a postal employee for the Camden Post Office, in Hillsdale county. He is chairperson

Michigan State Medical Society

"U.S. spending on health care heads for $1 trillion this year," heralds the front page of the local paper.

The clamor for health care reform has become deafening.

The number crunchers say last year's health care costs, at $338.5 billion, were 14 percent of the gross national product. Costs were up 11.5 percent and are estimated to go up another 12.1 percent this year to $399.9 billion. If averaged out, the 1992 figures represent a health care expenditure of $3,160 for every American.

We have 35 million uninsured and millions who are underinsured. We have millions of poor on Medicaid and millions of seniors on Medicare. And then we have the millions of others with employer-provided health insurance benefits who are facing higher and higher co-pays and deductibles and decreasing benefit levels.

With all of this, the Clinton administration is promising a health care reform proposal within the first 100 days, a proposal to provide coverage to all those currently not covered and to reduce the over-all health care bill.

This is no small task and President Clinton is going to need all the help he can get to address the many conflicting demands on the health care system.

Physicians, hospitals, insurance companies and employers blame each other for soaring costs, and it seems everybody has their own idea about how to reform the system.

If only physicians and hospitals didn't charge so much, patients wail. If only insurance companies would stop trying to dictate what care patients are entitled to, charge physicians. If only employers would cover their employees, demand insurance companies.

The bottom line in all this bickering? How can we make sure American citizens have access to affordable health care without reducing access to care, as do systems in Canada and England.

As patient advocates, physicians' major concern is that, under whatever system is implemented, patients receive the care they should.

The American Medical Association has, therefore, developed a plan called Health Access America. I want you to know about it because I believe, as does the AMA, that the plan provides a successful blueprint for health care reform.

To assure that all Americans have access to health care, the AMA proposes, among other things, 1) the phasing-in of tax incentives for all employers to insure all employees and their families; 2) enactment of Medicaid reform, providing coverage to all Americans living below poverty level; and 3) the implementation of insurance market reforms, including guaranteed renewability of coverage.

Health Access America also makes recommendations on how to control medical care costs. It suggests fostering competition in the marketplace and empowering patients with information to select coverage plans and to choose physicians and hospitals. It also recommends curbing administrative costs, the provision of incentives to employees who select less costly health insurance plans, and the elimination of balance billing for all patients below 200-percent-of-poverty.

The AMA continues to refine this plan for universal access with a growing emphasis on managed care and managed competition. The plan builds on the strengths of our current system without destroying it with a socialized system.

The solution to health care is not easy. As the issues become increasingly political, it is more important than ever that physicians are involved in the process of finding a solution.

We are patient advocates. If we don't look out for the patient's interests then who will?

Sheriff's Dept. Warns Citizens Of Break-ins

Washtenaw County Sheriff's deputies are warning residents throughout the area about daytime break-ins.

Sgt. Roger Stiewlow of Dexter's sheriff substation said burglars have been robbing homes after checking to see if anyone is home by ringing door bells. If no one responds they enter the home.

An incident occurred on Monday, June 21, in the 5300 block of Park Rd., Dexter township, when a man rang the doorbell of a home several times than knocked. The homeowner did not respond and the man entered the home through a window. While inside he saw the homeowner and fled the residence, heading toward Ann Arbor in a blue car.

Deputies are searching for the older-model blue car and an older-model green truck.

Neighbors are asked to be aware of any suspicious cars or people in the area and report them.

NEW CLINICAL LABORATORY at Chelsea Community Hospital has opened in the new Surgery and Diagnostic Center at the hospital. The lab was formerly located in cramped quarters at the Chelsea Family Practice Center elsewhere on the hospital campus. "Relocating the laboratory in the main hospital building significantly increased convenience for both patients and physicians," said hospital spokesman Bob Carr. The new lab also provides more space for staff and equipment and increases efficiency. The entire surgery and diagnostic center is nearing completion, with new facilities for surgery, diagnostic imaging, intensive care, and the specialty clinic. New waiting areas for surgery and outpatient care have already been completed, as has a new energy center. Total project will cost about $3.8 million.

Report Recommends Village Replace Tower

An engineering firm has recommended that the village find a place for a new water tower, based on the company's inspection of the current water tower off Main St.

Ayres, Lewis, Norris & May, Inc. has concluded that the village can expect to get another 1-3 years of service from the current tower before it develops major problems.

The tank, according to the inspection report, is at least 50 years old and contains "several structural and corrosion problems."

In addition, the tank may have been painted with paints containing lead and removal of the paint, if necessary, is expensive.

Painting of the tank also poses problems because it is so close to businesses and residences.

The tower's concrete foundation has developed cracks and the concrete valve chamber has deteriorated. Engineers said repairs would be a short-term solution.

The tower's capacity, 100,000 gallons, is "marginal at best" and does not provide enough pressure during fires or times of peak demand.

Cost of repairs and painting of the tank was estimated at $100,000 to $120,000.

The village has already been informally offered a site for the tank by the county. County Parks and Recreation Department director Fred Barkley said the tank could be located on the outer edge of the property his department is purchasing off M-52 for a new golf course.

Chelsea Summer Baseball Team Shuts Out Pinckney in Opener

Chelsea's Connie Mack summer baseball team opened their season last week, dropping three of four games.

Chelsea opened their season Tuesday, June 22 against Pinckney and earned a 4-0 victory as pitcher Steve Grau had a perfect game through two outs in the seventh inning.

Grau gave up one hit, then retired the final batter. He struck out 13 and allowed only two balls hit to the outfield.

"It was just a super effort," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

"He allowed just one base runner. You can't do much better than that."

The Bulldogs scored their first run in the second inning as Grau doubled, moved to third on a ground out, and scored on a single by Jason McVittie.

Chelsea added another run in the third as Matt Powell tripled and scored on a wild throw on the play.

The final two runs came in the fifth as Dirk Wales and Tim Wescott each singled.

Chelsea had six hits.

"It had been a couple of weeks for some of us to play, and it showed," Marshall said.

"Our bats will get better."

On Thursday, June 24 the Bulldogs lost to Ann Arbor, 19-5.

Ann Arbor scored twice in the first, but Chelsea answered with three of their own. Powell walked, Wescott singled, and McVittie was hit by a pitch to load the bases. After two strikeouts, Colby Skelton cleared the bases with a double to left center.

Chelsea added another run in the second as Ryan Ludwig scored.

From there on, Ann Arbor went on a scoring binge with five runs in the third, three in the fourth, one in the fifth, and eight in the sixth.

Residential Builder Optimism Increases For State in April

Builder optimism is extremely high in residential construction and the concern that interest rates have bottomed out and may be heading upward have given many consumers an urgency to make the purchase they have been planning.

"Residential construction starts in Michigan are steady for most home builders; however, poor weather has made it difficult to start a new unit or can keep potential buyers away from new homes for sale," according to Mike Hater of Clarkston, 1993 president of the Michigan Association of Home Builders (MAHB).

Aided by 3,552 new housing starts in April, Michigan's residential construction market reflects a 21.8 percent increase as compared to March.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Government: Our No. 1 'Growth Industry'

Here's an investment question for you. What is the country's biggest growth industry? The answer is—government. The only problem is, you're already investing heavily in it. And for most people the returns are meager at best.

By Philip C. Clarke

Every year taxpayers are made painfully aware of the burden modern government imposes on them. "Where does all our money go?" is a common refrain as people calculate their annual so-called "contribution" to the tax collector.

For many Americans, taxes represent the single largest item in their budget. They spend more on government than they do on food, clothing, shelter, education and transportation. What's more, this burden has been growing at an alarming rate in recent years.

A study by the National Center for Policy Analysis shows, for example, that "excess spending" by state and local governments in the past decade cost every man, woman and child $1,400 per year. Excess spending is defined as spending increases that exceed the inflation rate. According to the study, personal income was $1,169 lower per person in 1990 because excess spending slowed economic growth.

Economists generally agree that government spending can slow down economic growth because government spends money less efficiently than does the private sector. Another $245 per person was taken to pay the additional taxes required by this excess spending.

Study author Richard Vedder, who is an economist at Ohio University, notes that if state and local government spending increased only as fast as personal income increased, every taxpayer would have about 40% more money in his or her pocket. It gets worse. Most of that money went to pay for government workers, who are paid far more than private sector workers. And some 60% of the money spent by state and local government goes to pay worker wages.

Another study, this one by the American Legislative Exchange Council, found that government worker wages have been increasing much faster than private sector wages. Between 1980 and 1990, for instance, state and local government workers received wage hikes of 82%, while private sector workers saw their wages go up only 62%.

What's more, state and local workers are far better paid for comparable work than are workers in the private sector. In Philadelphia, for example, the average government worker makes 40% more than a comparable private sector employee. A union official who represents state and local workers admitted as much when he said: "It is not uncommon that work done by public employees can be done for as much as 50% less in the private sector."

The federal government has been growing by leaps and bounds, as well. According to a report by the Cato Institute, real federal outlays have climbed from $235 billion in 1950 to nearly $1.5 trillion today. And back in the year 1800, federal spending was only $100 million. Try to imagine paying only $20 in federal taxes. That's what the federal spending amounted to in 1800.

When all government spending is combined, it now eats up 37% of the nation's economy. In 1960, government spending equalled only 27% of the total economy. Government at all levels spends more than $23,000 per household, compared with only about $13,000 in 1960.

By 1992, federal, state and local governments combined were the leading employer in the country, employing some 18.2 million civilian workers. That's some 100,000 more workers than employed by private manufacturing firms. Some people will say that the world is a more complicated place, therefore requiring more attention by government at all levels. After all, roads have to be built, police forces maintained, our national defense assured, among other necessities.

But the funny thing is that these functions of government have generally been short-changed while other spending programs, such as welfare and health care have exploded. Just to cite one example, in 1800 more than half of the federal budget was devoted to defense spending. Today, that figure is dropping like a rock to under 6% of GNP, and President Clinton has pledged to cut even more money from defense.

Finally, all this so-called domestic government "investment" has resulted in slower economic growth. In the 1960's, the economy was growing at a 4% clip. During the 1980's it grew by 2.5%. Productivity growth was 2.4% in the 1960's, but less than 1% in the 1980's. The national savings rate also was cut in half between these two decades, no doubt largely as the result of more and more money being taken out of people's pockets to fund the explosive growth in government. Some investment!

★ Scientists Give Plants A Genetic Sunblocker

By Jim DeQuattro

Plants, like people, can soak up more sun than is good for them. No matter that plants actually have sunblock on their leaves, the sun's rays still can be damaging at high noon in midsummer.

Now, a U.S. Department of Agriculture scientist, Autar Mattoo, is working on a strategy to genetically engineer plants so they make more of the natural sunblocking compounds, called flavonoids, on a leaf's surface.

Too much sun, Mattoo explains, hinders photosynthesis. That's the process by which plant leaves capture the sun's light energy and change atmospheric carbon into a form the plant can use to make its food and grow.

But, the harm comes when solar excesses destroy a crucial photosynthetic leaf protein called D1. Mattoo and collaborators in Israel found that D1 is destroyed even more rapidly if excess light is accompanied by high levels of ultraviolet-B radiation. UV-B is one component of the sun's rays.

Hundreds of molecular photosynthesis factories reside in each leaf, but D1's destruction by UV-B reduces their efficiency, says Mattoo of USDA's Agricultural Research Service. More UV-B reaches earth today, he adds, because air pollution has thinned the planet's own "sunscreen," the atmosphere's ozone layer, by 5 to 10 percent in the past 20 years.

Mattoo says a threat to D1 by a continued rise in UV-B could "eventually translate" into lower quality crops, lower yields and less food. But increasing the flavonoid levels might block UV-B and thus protect the D1 protein.

If UV-B is reduced toward pre-industrial era levels, he says, plants with stronger sunblock genes would still gain protection from an overdose of the sun's rays.

NOTICE OF A PUBLIC HEARING ON INCREASING PROPERTY TAXES

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on July 19, 1993, at 7:30 o'clock p.m. at the Board of Education Room, 500 E. Washington Street, Chelsea, Michigan, the Board of Education of the Chelsea School District will hold a public hearing on the levying in 1993 of an additional proposed millage rate of 1.3974 mills for operating purposes pursuant to Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, Section 211.34, MCL.

The Board of Education Has the complete authority to establish that 35.6285 mills be levied in 1993 from within its present authorized millage rate.

The maximum additional proposed millage rate would increase revenues for operating purposes from ad valorem property tax levies in 1993 otherwise permitted by Act 5, Public Acts of Michigan, 1982, by 3.7038 percent (3.7038%).

In accordance with Act 5, the Base Tax Rate Fraction (BTRF), as calculated by the County Equalization Office, for 1993 is 0.9073. This BTRF would allow the Board of Education to levy up to 34.2311 mills (37.7288x.9073) of the authorized 35.6285 mills without holding a hearing. The 1.3974 mills difference represents a 3.7038% increase in income for operating purposes for the 1993 tax levy.

The purpose of the hearing is to receive testimony and discuss the levy of an additional millage rate. Not less than seven (7) days following the public hearing, the Board of Education may approve all or any portion of the proposed additional millage rate.

This notice is given by order of the Board of Education.

The Township of Dexter, County of Washtenaw, State of Michigan, ordains:

Sec. 1.0 Amendment

The DEXTER TOWNSHIP SEWER USE ORDINANCE FOR THE PORTAGE-BASE LAKES AREA WATER AND SEWER AUTHORITY SEWER USE DISTRICT, Dexter Township Ordinance No. 23, adopted July 16, 1991, and amended April 21, 1992, No. 1-A, are hereby amended by the addition, modification, and substitution of the provisions of this Amendment:

2.2.1 The user must be within the sewer service district.

2.2.2 The parcel of land to be serviced could be utilized, absent the public sewer, because of its ability to support a county health department approved private sewage disposal system.

Section 3: Section 4.3.1 is deleted in its entirety, and the following provision substituted in its place and stead:

4.3.1 The official notice described in Section 4.3 shall be a written statement signed by the Superintendent or other designated employee of the Authority to the owner stating the date by which connection to the public sewer shall be made. The notice shall be delivered to the owner at the address set forth on the last assessment roll by regular U. S. mail deposited with fully prepaid U. S. postage affixed thereto in the U. S. mails. The notice shall be considered served for purposes of any subsequent proceedings as of the date of mailing.

Section 4.0: Section 4.3.2 is deleted in its entirety, and the following provision substituted in its place and stead:

4.3.2 The official notice shall be accompanied by a connection application form. The owner shall then submit a completed sewer connection application and pay to the Authority the connection permit fee at the Authority Office and receive an authorized sewer connection permit before any work upon the building sewer or connection is commenced. All work on the building sewer and connection shall be done in accordance with Section 7.0 of this Ordinance.

Section 5.0: Section 4.3.3 is deleted in its entirety, and the following provision substituted in its place and stead:

4.3.3 Upon receipt of the sewer connection permit, the owner shall apply for and obtain a permit from the County Building Inspector, or such inspector's successor, under the authority of P.A. 230 of 1972, as amended, and complete construction and inspection as required by said Act; this Ordinance, the Township Zoning Ordinance, and other applicable statutes, ordinances, and regulations.

Section 17.6 There shall be a late payment charge assessed against any payment which has not been made within thirty (30) days of the due date on the bill. The late payment charge shall be ten percent (10%) of the delinquent charges. Delinquent accounts shall be billed once every ninety (90) days until the delinquent account is certified to the Township Assessing Officer for inclusion in the tax roll. After the account is certified to the Assessing Officer, the account, including late payment charges, shall bear interest in the same manner and at the same rate as provided by law for taxes. These late payment charges are declared to be reasonably related to the additional costs incurred by the Authority in the collection of delinquent accounts.

Section 7.0: The remaining provisions of Ordinance No. 23 and No. 23-1-A, not inconsistent herewith, are hereby ratified and reaffirmed.

Section 8.0: Effective Date

Over 18,000 villagers were evaluated and 8,000 pairs of eyeglasses were given out. Over a ten day period, 1,323 cataract patients received high-tech surgery which included the insertion of intraocular lens implants. Dr. Hawks has returned with a renewed commitment to the area communities.

Latter-Day Saints Church Plans Open House Event

The local Branch of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints will be hosting an open house on Tuesday, July 6, at 7 p.m. Members of the congregation are opening their church doors to anyone interested in coming out, for tours, presentations, answering questions and refreshments.

There will be a presentation on Family History, and tracing your roots. How to use the Church's extensive resources, which are accessible locally. In addition, find out what is appropriate to keep track of and how to organize all that information.

A presentation on strengthening the family will be offered. Couldn't we all use some ideas on how to relate better to our teen-agers, children or parents? Have you always wanted to know what you could do to draw your family closer together? Come and see how this group of people work to have strong families. See what youth programs keep their teen-agers busy, and happy.

If you were wondering what the beliefs of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints consist of, come and see. Answer questions like "Where did I come from? Why am I here? Where am I going after this life?" "What does The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints actually believe about Jesus Christ?"

Did you know that Christ visited the Americas, and there is evidence of His visit? A video on "Christ in America" will be presented during the evening. It is most interesting.

If nothing else, stop by for a tour, refreshments and a neighborly visit. July 6th, 7:00 p.m. 1330 N. Freer, Chelsea, Mich.

DEBT RETIREMENT COMMITTEE for Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services is trying to find ways to pay off the remaining $70,000 of debt related to the building of

Faith in Action Seeks Funds To Retire Debt

1992 was a landmark year for Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services. They successfully merged and are now operating as one agency serving the many needy persons in the Chelsea, Dexter, Grass Lake, Manchester and Stockbridge areas. Over 6,000 individuals were served in 1992 alone.

FIA/CSS provides more than 20 programs to help fill the needs of those less fortunate. Funding for these programs comes from United Way, area churches, various organizations and private individuals. Today FIA/CSS is the largest non-government supported agency of its kind in this area. The programs offered are constantly being evaluated and as needs occur new ones are added or changes are made in existing ones.

Faith in Action House is a busy place most days. In addition to providing a place to render these services, it is the center for the Chelsea Senior Citizens and is home to CAT's service, church groups, Girl Scout leaders, Home Meal Services, the Nutrition Program, Overeaters Anonymous, United Way Answering Service and Widows Club.

Approximately a $70,000 debt remains from the completion of the House. The Board of Trustees has renegotiated a lower interest rate with the bank—the monthly payment for the retirement of debt is now $1,000. The board wishes to establish a means by which the remaining debt, as well as cost for maintenance of the House, can be paid so the FIA/CSS's resources can be devoted to fulfilling the important mission of serving those in need.

Faith in Action/Chelsea Social Services is appealing to members of the communities it serves to participate in a program to eliminate this debt. If a minimum of 120 individuals and organizations pledge a monthly donation of $10 to $20 ($25 for organizations) this debt could be eliminated within four to five years. Persons pledging will be asked to renew their pledges at the end of one year.

Letters have been sent to a number of persons and organizations asking for their support and the response has been very good but the goal of covering the monthly payments has not yet been reached.

Persons interested in participating in this worthwhile program may fill out the coupon elsewhere in this issue and mail to FIA/CSS Building Fund, P.O. Box 378, Chelsea 48118.

GIVE BLOOD, PLEASE.

Kids Dentists Establish Toll Free Hotline

To better respond to requests for information from parents about their children's dental needs, the Michigan Academy of Pediatric Dentistry has established a state-wide toll-free hotline, 1-800-779-KIDS. According to Dr. Jon E. Cabot, a spokesperson for the Michigan Academy of Pediatric Dentistry, "This new, state-wide toll-free service gives the Michigan Academy of Pediatric Dentistry a more efficient means to answer questions from parents about their kids' teeth."

Parents who call the toll-free number will receive an information packet including "10 Myths About Children's Dentistry," "Facts About Children's Oral Health," "Questions and Answers About Pediatric Dentistry," and a geographical listing of pediatric dentists in Michigan. There are about 75 pediatric dentists in Michigan, according to Dr. Cabot. "Most people don't realize that pediatric dentistry is one of only eight specialties recognized by the American Dental Association, and that pediatric dentistry is not new—it was first recognized by the ADA in 1948," Dr. Cabot said.

"Pediatric dentists answer questions in their office all day long about brushing, flossing, nutrition, and oral hygiene. We've put the answers to commonly asked questions into a packet for parents for easy reference," Dr. Cabot said. Parents are invited to call 1-800-779-KIDS to receive the free information packet on children's dentistry.

Father's Day

Father's Day will be generally observed in the United States this year on June 20. In different cities and towns the day will be observed differently. All individuals should join in, whether it is in church or elsewhere. We write this story for a reason. Back in 1911, as this old guy turned seven years old, he was the only child in our family. We lived in Sheridan, Mich. We lived there about three years. For nearly nine years my father worked on the railroad, repairing tracks, at many locations. He earned 75 cents a day, for 10 hours, sometimes longer.

While I was growing up, until now, lots of times I would be in bed when Dad went to work. And also sometimes when he came home after dark. No cars in those days for us. He had never neglected to give me what attention he could. But now we could be together more nights and Sundays. Dad and Mother had some card parties, but that was their social life. Mother worked part-time in Sheridan in a small hotel run by my uncle, as she had back in Middleton.

We rented a small house, so Dad did not have obligations about painting and upkeep. We went fishing in a large lake on the edge of town. We had free use of a boat, or we could fish from a small dock. We got lots of sun fish, blue gills, bull heads and perch. Dad would see to it that my hook was always baited, even though he lost time fishing himself. It was always great when I could show Mother some I had caught myself. In winter a few fished through the ice, but we liked to skate a little while. There was a lot of excitement one time when one 1913 Ford went through the ice. The water came about up to the top, but the man got out, and a team of horses pulled the car out.

Dad taught my two boy friends and me how to make kites. They flew well and we took them to school. There was a swamp back of our house, and Dad helped us build a shack way down towards the middle. It was most always dry. We made a sheet iron stove and baked potatoes. Our games were cowboys and Indian. Our guns were whittled out of wood.

Through Dad and a lady in the card group, I got a job of taking a cow from town about half a mile outside of town each morning and going after her each night after supper. I earned 50 cents a week.

Every other Sunday morning Dad and I would take the gas inspection car several miles each way from town to inspect the tracks. This job riding along slowly checking the tracks was a real thrill. Dad knew many farmers and got several of us boys jobs weeding beets.

In 1914 I remember my uncle, Dad and I (now 10 years old) taking uncle's 1911 Ford engine apart. We ground the valves and put in new bands. We later took this car on a trip to Harrietta north of Cadillac. I was proud of helping maintain the car. We moved to the city, and had everything better. Or did we? M. C. Martin.

Jones 59th Wedding Anniversary Party

The Rev. George and Evelyn Jones celebrated their wonderful 59th Wedding Anniversary, June 12. Theresa Vanderhorst had the fine idea of having it on the south second floor deck above the Kresge entrance. She said she would arrange the furniture with the large umbrella. It worked out fine.

For decorations there were balloons blowing in the breeze and flowers on the table. We needed the umbrella, as it was a hot day. The white wrought iron furniture is beautiful and has not been used much. Katherine Herman, a friend of ours, was present and provided appropriate music and flowers and also took many pictures. Donald Dancer joined in the party, and did we have fun! We suggest that others may want to use this upper deck at times, or the one on the north side for special parties. We want to thank the dietary, kitchen help and Katherine. Many cards were received. Our special thanks to Theresa for looking after everything. Evelyn Jones.

Farwell Tea

A "farewell" tea was held for Barbara Norris, our physical therapist on June 11 in the Town-Hall. Residents and friends joined in wishing her well and thanking her for the fine services she rendered the home. M.C.M.

School Visitation

One of the joys I've experienced in my first year in Chelsea is to share in the school visitation program. I have gone several times to the fifth grade class of Mary Watson at North school. Sharing my history has brought interesting reactions. Having been born in a lumber camp near Grayling, raised many questions. "What is a lumber camp? Why don't we have them anymore?" Sharing slides of some of the wonders of the world, led the class to engage in a search, for all of the seven and more.

Having attended a one-room school where one teacher taught all 8 grades, left many questions of—HOW? The students have been eager to learn and generous of their appreciation. I have stacks of thank you notes and pictures. I plan to go back next year, not because I flunked, but because I loved it. Kearney Kirkby.

Discussion Group

The Saturday Discussion Group has finished Norman Vincent Peale's book "This Incredible Century." It has been an exciting experience into the flow of events. Several have shared leadership discussions and this leadership will continue.

Our next session will be on June 26, at 3 p.m. in the library. We will use another best seller book. Even though read by many it will prime our memories, and lead to sharing reactions. We will use the chapters of Rabbi Harold Kushner's book "When Bad Things Happen to Good People." We will walk through them one at a time. Come join us as a regular or whenever you are free at 3 p.m. Saturday. K.K.

Mourning Doves

Another bird birth story has just happened on the patio shared by Florence Rikard and the Martins.

Mourning Doves have been around our campus for a long time. Mrs. Rikard told this reporter that two doves had built a nest in one of our old flower boxes, still having remnants of flowers, weeds, from last year. One parent was sitting on the nest late in May and we discovered two small white eggs. We checked every day or so. The Dad and Mother took turns, we guess changing places during the night. We never saw the two at the same time.

On June 14 both little ones could be seen under wing of mother. At this time, (we learned later) one new arrival was pretty good size. The other was very small, with hardly any feathers at all. Next day the little one was found, quite a ways from the nest. He was placed back in the nest. On the 17th he again was found away from the nest, and had perished.

The end—One fine young bird took off to join Mother; we were left with this sad ending to our dream. M.C.M.

Note to All

Instead of one issue of the Reporter for July and August, this year we will publish a paper for each month. Will all of our writers please turn your copy in by the 20th of July for the August paper! Thanks. M.C.M. and Loyal Joos.

Susan Morey's Gift To Us

Susan and her committee gave us a very wonderful gift. It was a fun evening with Colors the Clown. Children from the school helped her and enjoyed the many magical tricks she performed. They also passed treats of popcorn, cotton candy and lemonade.

Colors amazed young and old with her tricks such as making a pigeon appear from nowhere, a rabbit jumping from an empty box, also making a mouse appear with a few magic words. Colors also brought her pet peacock with her for us to enjoy petting. We admired its long beautiful tail.

While the above part of the program was going on, games were being played in the Town Hall. Some tested our accuracy skills. These, such as tossing a ball into a clown's mouth, swinging a ball to hit a target and putting a golf ball into a hole, with contestants in a drawing for prizes. Some prizes, such as treats from our ice cream parlour; dinner for two at the Common Grill and gift certificates to some business places, were helpful with the expenses of the party and also the merchants. We all thank you Susan Morey, and your helpers for a wonderful evening. Martha Musson.

Reminiscing About Visits to Crooked Lake

By Bill Barie
Westminster, Calif.

Grandson of Henry Michelfelders
My first trip and all subsequent trips to Crooked Lake did more to change my outlook on life than any other single items in my adult life. The first trip was during the summer of my 28th year and it was to meet my girlfriend's grandparents. Little did I know that this summer vacation would play such a large part in changing my perspective of life. This was my first vacation that was to take me beyond the borders of the state where I had spent all but the first eight years of my life. But, this was also the first year that I truly did take a vacation away from work and my friends.

Crooked Lake is near a town called Chelsea in the state of Michigan. My first impression was that it was the town that "missed the boat" when the 20th century came paddling through. The town itself is very small when compared to most cities that I have known. The buildings are mostly constructed from red brick including, the used book store which seems to have every paperback book that anybody could possibly want except that they are one-half to three-quarters off the list price; the old fashion five-and-dime store which has all the odds and ends for everyday living also at reduced prices; and last but certainly not least, my favorite store, the hardware store. This store is the place where I believe the handyman could possibly find just about everything he could possibly ever need to fix or construct just about any device found in the home. The best part of the hardware store is the "treasure chest," or as they call it the basement, where all the merchandise for fixing the out-dated equipment like the water-well pump or the 35-year-old outboard motor is kept. In order to make my trip complete I must, each year, pay a visit to Chelsea Hardware and see what items I can find that are required to fill that void in the old toolbox back home.

When you leave downtown Chelsea and drive out to Crooked Lake you feel as if you're still traveling back in time. There are very few paved roads and the trees and swamps make you feel like civilization is hundreds of miles away. My grandparents, as I now call them, have lived on the shore of this small spring-fed lake for the last 55 years. Their first cottage was no more than 500 square feet in living area, but the living area has since been expanded to over 1,500 square feet.

One of my favorite parts of the cottage is the basement where my grandfather has two player pianos that he restored to near perfect condition. It is in this basement filled with the pianos and the hundreds of rolls of music that seem to fill in all of the spaces under the stairs and between all of the workbenches that one can see Grandpa Henry at his best. I have been told that here in this basement grandpa was the undisputed fix-it, make-it king. There were very few items that were beyond his abilities to either repair or improve. It is also in this basement with the tools scattered about on all of the workbenches that I learned to repair the pump on a water-well, replace the transom of a fishing boat and also rebuild a boat dock. I have always been a fix-it person myself so the idea of doing repairs around the cottage, that I know are now beyond the capabilities of my grandfather, is something I look forward to each year.

I enjoy spending the majority of the daylight hours outdoors on either the boat dock or on the boat that my grandparents own, fishing and exploring the lake or its surrounding shores. My wife and I enjoy spending many hours trying to catch baby snapping turtles as they sun themselves on the exposed branches and logs that litter the forested end of Crooked Lake. If we are lucky enough to catch a snapping turtle caution must be exercised when handling them for even though they are babies their beaks and jaws could, with almost surgical precision, remove a chunk of finger or hand.

I also enjoy catching the large mouth bass that live in the lake. Since I have been visiting Crooked Lake I have as yet to catch a legal size bass and I seriously doubt I ever will, but with the spunk that these immature bass have I will be happy as long as I catch at least one fish per visit.

One of the reasons that I love to visit Crooked Lake is the thunderstorms that highlight the humid summer and autumn nights. I was born in El Paso, Tex., and moved to Lawton, Okla., when I was three or four and the strongest memories I have of my childhood are the storms that arrived in the middle of summer and seemed to creep-up out of nowhere and proceed to show everyone with its spectacle of lightning, thunder, wind and rain—the powers that only nature can possess.

I enjoy watching the streaks of lightning as they dance across the darkened cloud-filled skies. The rumbling of the thunder as the storm moves closer and closer, until the point when the flash of the lightning is followed immediately by the ground shaking roar of the thunder. But even as the storm leaves and the rain stops falling there is a little magic left behind. When the air is saturated with the moisture from the passing storm and the air is still warm from the hot afternoon the fireflies now come out to display their own version of lightning.

The light from the firefly sends me back each year to a time when a little boy was amazed each night when he turned out the lights and gazed in wonder at the glowing hands on his new watch.

I have such a feeling of newness and also comfort each year when I have the pleasure of returning to my grandparents' home, to enjoy the beauty and wonder that God and nature sets out before me. I always leave feeling so good about being able to help out my grandparents with some of the chores or repairs that are needed, always looking forward to my next visit to Grandma and Grandpa Michelfelder's cottage on Crooked Lake in Chelsea, Mich.

Local Duo Defies Odds To Win Indiana Bass Fishing Tournament

They were called "lucky," "punks," and probably a few other things behind their backs, but Cliff Blackford of Chelsea and Dan Ellenwood, Jr. of Stockbridge had the last laugh.

On May 26 on the St. Joseph River in Mishawaka, Ind., the pair defied the odds and won the first major bass fishing tournament they ever entered. They took home a $1,600 top prize in the Tri-State Bass 90-horsepower and under category, beating out 114 teams, many of them long-time fishermen who began casting their lines before Blackford and Ellenwood, 1988 Chelsea High school grads, were even born.

Now the duo is hoping to qualify for the $25,000 Tournament of Champions in Angola, Ind. All they have to do is place in the top 10 of any other Tri-State tournament.

Blackford and Ellenwood won the tournament by .14 pounds. Their three fish weighed in at 6.44 pounds.

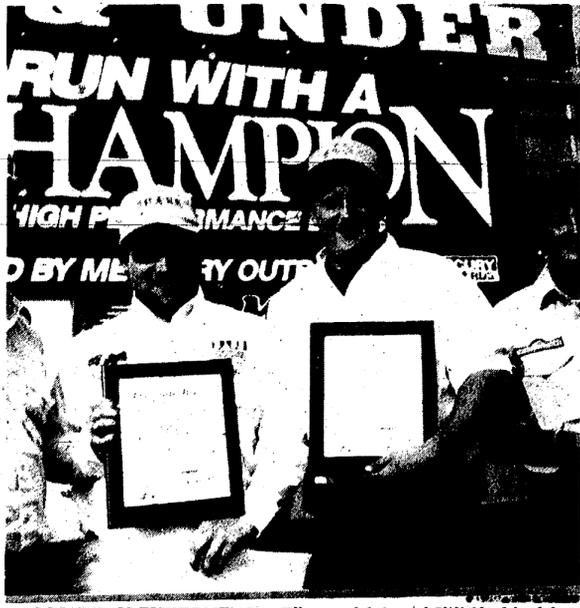

"We were one of the first ones in, and I was just hoping to place in the top 30," Blackford said.

"We thought that out of all those teams, someone would catch the limit."

As it turned out, no one did. Teams were allowed to catch and enter as many as seven fish at the end of the eight-hour tournament. The winner is the team with the heaviest total weight. So Blackford considered it extremely unusual that he and Ellenwood were able to win with just three fish. The second-place team had five fish.

There were no congratulations from the other fishermen, but plenty of disbelief. The Chelsea team passed their lie detector test—given to prize winners to determine if they really did catch their fish in the prescribed manner—and they were on their way home.

The Chelsea team hopes to make a name for itself and eventually turn pro. As it turns out, a good bass fishing team can make a nice living from the sport.

Blackford and Ellenwood have been fishing together since they were kids. They make their own lures and practice virtually year round. Ice on the lakes is about the only thing that ever keeps them out of a boat.

"It's a science," Blackford said.

"It takes a lot of practice. We do a lot of studying and reading."

Their next stop is the tournament in Angola, where top prize is a $15,000 boat.

Next year they want to enter the Go For The Gold Tournaments, if they can find a sponsor.

A TRACTOR TRAILER TRUCK ran over the curb at Main St. and E. Middle St. downtown last Thursday, taking out one of the new streetlights. A couple of paving bricks were damaged as well. The driver stopped down the road and will probably be liable for the damage.

Outdoor Sporting Notes

By John M. Robertson
Chief, Fisheries Division, DNR

*Boating Safety

Recreational boating is among America's favorite outdoor pastimes—it's been estimated that more than 60 million Americans "take a cruise" on the nation's waterways every year. Whether it's boating done with fishing or waterskiing or simple pleasure in mind, about 16 million watercraft are launched across the U.S. each year. Appropriately known as the Great Lakes State, Michigan traditionally leads the nation in the number of yearly watercraft registrations.

But, for all of boating's fun, there's a somber side as well. Every year, more than 1,000 Americans are killed in boating accidents and, tragically, thousands more are injured. As many as 50 deaths occur each year in our state alone, along with some 200-plus serious boating-accident injuries. The need for an awareness of boating-safety skills is crucial.

The Michigan DNR's Law Enforcement Division says the two most common violations of boating safety practices among the angling public are (1) overloading—putting too many anglers in too small a craft—and (2) standing up in the boat—whether when shifting position or landing a catch.

Veteran DNR Marine Safety officer James Martindale cautions that both situations could result in the craft's capsizing or swamping. Sadly, if that happens, drownings may well occur. Martindale adds that too few people appreciate the dangers of not knowing just how cold the water is during the early and late months of the boating season. Cold water brings about a rapid loss of body heat and extreme confusion which only adds to the drowning potential.

Happily, there are a few things you can do to increase your personal level of boating safety: (1) take a boating safety course—offered by any of a number of organizations; (2) carefully observe nautical "traffic" rules, signs and signals; (3) always wear a Personal Flotation Device (PFD) commonly known, for obvious reasons, as a "life jacket"; (4) keep your boat shipshape by making sure all equipment is in working order; (5) be an alert "defensive boater"; (6) know how to swim—two out of three drowning victims don't; (7) avoid mixing booze and boating; and (8) know what to do in an emergency.

Sgt. Martindale strongly emphasizes the importance of wearing PFDs no matter how accomplished a swimmer you may be. He estimates that as many as 80 percent of Michiganders drowned in the past 25 years wouldn't have perished had they been wearing a proper PFD. As sound an argument as you'll ever hear for wearing life jackets, eh?

Boating can be lots of fun—there's no denying that fact—but, bear in mind, safety is no accident.

Manufacturing employment will decline by 600,000 jobs over the 1990-2005 period, but the industry will still account for almost 14 percent of total employment, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics' Occupational Outlook Quarterly, Fall 1991.
