Marcus Helms Takes Over As Assistant Principal

Marcus Helms, formerly a teacher and head football coach at Lakewood Lake Odessa High school near Lansing, officially took the reins as assistant principal at Chelsea High school on Thursday, July 1.

Helms, his wife, Maryann, and sons Marcus, Jr., age 12, Patrick, age 10, and Joseph, age 5, have rented a house in the village.

It is Helms' first administrative job and he admits he would eventually like to become a principal.

He says he made up his mind over last Christmas break to seek his first administrative job. He had recently received his state certificate. And his eyes opened wide when he saw the posted job in Chelsea.

"It was the only job I applied for," Helms said.

"I was just going to see what would happen."

Helms' first visit to Chelsea came last fall when he brought his football team here to play the Bulldogs in the first round of the state play-offs. He said he was extremely impressed by the way his team was treated by everyone concerned and he left feeling that Chelsea had "a class operation." That experience, as much as anything else, convinced him to apply here.

Helms will not be involved in coaching here and admits it is difficult to leave the game. He had been head coach in Lakewood for three years.

He will be the chief disciplinarian as assistant principal. He'll work on school improvement issues, oversee the driver education program, and be involved with student council, among other responsibilities.

Helms earned his bachelor's degree at Eastern Michigan University, then spent five years in the U.S. Army. He was stationed in Korea, as well as Ft. Benning in Georgia and Ft. Dix in New Jersey. In 1988 he finished his master's degree in administration. He taught and coached in Oscoda before moving to Lakewood Lake Odessa.

He's still a member of the Army Reserves, where he teaches leadership skills.

Chelsea Athletic Gate Receipts Increased Dramatically Last Year

Gate receipts for Chelsea High school athletic events climbed by more than a third during the 1992-93 school year.

According to a report by athletic director Wayne Welton, the district collected $40,504.62 in total gate receipts, up from $30,082.40 the previous year. The three previous years were all around $30,000.

Most of the increase was due to the success of varsity football and boys varsity basketball teams. Football receipts climbed from $9,128 to $14,456 and boys basketball rose from $9,515 to $11,470.

Girls basketball also had a large increase on a percentage basis, from $1,773 to $2,441. Wrestling had a large percentage increase, from $1,045 to $1,671.

Chelsea also received $1,621.57 from the home football play-off game and the district basketball tournament.

Chelsea took in $21,007.50 from fall sports and $17,875.55 from winter sports.

Thieves Hit Local Restaurant

Someone stole a television and about $40 in change from Thompson's Pizzeria early Monday, June 28.

According to police, the rear door was pried open and the restaurant was ransacked as someone apparently hunted for things to steal. Police said an electronic cash register sustained about $140 in damage. The change, in quarters, came from the juke box.

Use of Alcohol Prevalent Among Chelsea Students, Recent Survey Shows

Alcohol is still the drug of choice by students in the Chelsea School District.

An anonymous survey of Chelsea eighth, 10th, and 12th grade students conducted by the Kercher Center for Social Research at Western Michigan University shows that students here appear to use more alcohol on a regular basis than all illegal and other drugs combined.

The students were asked 55 multiple-part questions dealing with various aspects of their alcohol and drug use, from the frequency of their use, to their perceived risks of using drugs and alcohol, to whom they would turn if they realized they had a problem.

For some parents, some of the statistics will come as a surprise.

For example, more Chelsea eighth graders have tried nearly all classes of illegal drugs than have high school seniors—marijuana and hallucinogens being the prime exceptions. In addition, they have used more inhalants (such as glue sniffing) than seniors, but less than 10th graders.

In another example, 6 percent of eighth graders say they've tried crack cocaine, compared to 1.8 percent of seniors. (The eighth grade class also has about 50 more students than the senior class.)

Twenty-four percent of eighth graders have tried inhalants, compared to 30.3 percent of 10th graders and 19.7 percent of seniors.

Among eighth graders, 14 percent have tried tranquilizers, 15.3 percent sedatives, 21.3 percent stimulants (amphetamines). Those numbers are under 10 percent for both 10th graders and seniors, with the exception of stimulant use.

More eighth graders have also used—with the exception of marijuana—more illegal drugs than seniors both over the last 12 months and the last 30 days. The most-used drugs were stimulants. 19.8 percent of eighth graders say they've used stimulants in the last 12 months, compared to 8.5 percent of 10th graders and 8.3 percent of seniors, and 13.6 percent say they've used them in the last 30 days, compared to 4.6 percent of 10th graders and 2.5 percent of seniors.

Parents may also find it unusual that in every category, from crack cocaine to steroids (the one exception being smokeless tobacco), far more eighth grade girls were users than boys. For example, 19.3 percent of girls said they had used inhalants in the last 12 months, compared to 4.1 percent of boys. 33 percent reported any illicit drug use, compared to 18.4 percent of boys.

Alcohol use in the last 30 days was reported by 29.3 percent of eighth graders, 35.7 percent of 10th graders, and 44.5 percent of seniors. The national average for seniors was 54 percent.

Cigarette use in the last 30 days was reported by 21.2 percent of eighth graders, 22.7 percent of 10th graders, and 32.8 percent of seniors. The national average for seniors was 28.3 percent.

National averages are offered for seniors, and in most cases Chelsea seniors are close to the national averages. The testing service says Chelsea rates should be a little below the national average, which includes urban areas that typically have higher rates of alcohol and drug use.

MICHIGAN BOYS STATE delegates from Chelsea High school, sponsored by the American Legion Department of Michigan, were, from left, Chris Leatham, Andy Wetzel, Dave Seitz, and Mark Carlson. They will be seniors this fall.

Chelsea Youths Attend Annual Boys State Program at MSU

Four Chelsea High school students had a chance to see just how the democratic process operates when they attended the annual Boys State Program at Michigan State University June 20-28.

Andy Wetzel, Chris Leatham, Mark Carlson, and David Seitz, all seniors this fall, learned a little more in depth about the electoral process, as well as how legislation is formed in the program at Michigan State University. The program is sponsored by The American Legion Department of Michigan.

The program is designed to teach the 1,000 students who gather on the campus how politics and city, county, and state governments function.

Students learn the best possible way to set up their own governmental bodies within their cities and states.

Wetzel had the distinction of being elected mayor of his city. Leatham was elected to city council. Carlson, in these times of property tax controversy, had the misfortune to be appointed county assessor. And Seitz was appointed to the county board of trustees.

The first part of the week was devoted to elections. Some kids were heavy campaigners while others, like Leatham, campaigned a little.

"I didn't expect so much campaigning," Leatham said.

The kids were assigned to Federalist and Nationalist parties.

Cities and counties were all fictionalized but were organized politically as a real unit of government.

During the second part of the week, students handled typical problems that face government. For example, Leatham said his city council made decisions about airport expansion and water treatment.

The boys heard an opening address by Gov. John Engler and had the opportunity to tour the capitol.

Scholarships to attend the annual event were provided by the Chelsea American Legion, Herbert J. McKune Post No. 31 and the Kiwanis Club of Chelsea.

THIS CAR driven by Eldon Lamkin of Chelsea ended up upside down in the front yard of Roger Lussier of Kalmbach Rd. last Thursday afternoon. Lamkin was taken by Survival Flight to University of Michigan Hospital.

Survival Flight Takes Crash Victim

A 62-year-old Chelsea man was listed in fair condition Monday after a spectacular one-car crash on Kalmbach Rd. last Thursday afternoon.

Eldon Lamkin was driving south on Kalmbach Rd. at 2:45 p.m., just north of Winters Rd., when he lost control of his 1989 Chevrolet, drove across the centerline and across a driveway. His car continued down into the front yard of a residence, hit a huge rock, flipped up on its nose, and came to rest upside down tipped up against a tree.

Roger Lussier said he heard two bangs before seeing the car in his front yard. He called emergency squads, who had to use the Jaws of Life to cut Lamkin out of the car. Lamkin was taken by Survival Flight to University of Michigan Hospital.

Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department said a sample of Lamkin's blood was sent to the state crime lab. Police said Lamkin had been drinking and he was wearing a seatbelt. The road had been dampened by a light sprinkle of rain.

No other cars were involved and there were no passengers.

Wednesday, July 12, 1989—

A survey commissioned by Chelsea's Downtown Development Authority has primarily served to back up statistics that many of the merchants have long suspected but couldn't prove. The "what" encompasses a wide range of issues and topics. The results of the survey were formally presented to the DDA and others last Friday, June 31. DDA has learned that many area residents, both in and out of the village, are concerned about the downtown area. More than 50 percent of the surveys mailed in the village were returned, what consultant Franz Mogdis has called a "phenomenal" response rate. The lowest rate of return was 35 percent in Dexter township. Residents in Sylvan, Lima and Lyndon townships were also polled and response ranged from 36 to 41 percent.

Chelsea's largest Fourth of July fireworks display could well have been its last. Harold Allen, president of Chelsea Community Fireworks, Inc., has already addressed the village council about liability insurance requirements for next year. He's also scrambling to raise more than $12,000 to pay for expenses associated with last week's show. The most recent display featured nearly 1,500 explosions, Allen said, or about half the number of fireworks in the Detroit celebration. "If we can't cover our expenses by Oct. 4, there won't be a show next year," Allen said last week.

Stores should begin opening in Village Mall, Chelsea's newest shopping center, by late August, according to developer Mike Kennedy. The mall is located next to Polly's Market on M-52. ACO Hardware is likely to be the first store to open, Kennedy said. The business is planning to move fixtures and stock into the store in early August and should be ready to open in 2-3 weeks, Kennedy said. Arbor Drugs will begin outfitting their store Sept. 1 and will open shortly thereafter.

The school day could begin a little earlier for Chelsea students in the 1990-91 school year if an idea proposed by the administration is ultimately adopted. The school board is considering the change so that athletes won't have to miss most of the final period of the day when competing at other schools. It is particularly a problem in the fall and spring, when most contests are played in the afternoon. Buses are often scheduled to leave at 2:30 p.m. It has been proposed that the school day begin and end about 15-25 minutes earlier than the current 8:50 starting time.

Downtown Chelsea Merchants are planning their largest Sidewalk Festival ever, thanks in part to donations from local businesses and industries. The annual event, this year scheduled for Friday and Saturday, July 28-29, will feature musical entertainment, arts and crafts and an abundance of food.

A 116-car, westbound ConRail train derailed Friday, July 13 at the Brown St. crossing in Grass Lake, tearing up 1,300-feet of track, spilling loaded freight cars into nearby fields and downing power lines. Two railroad workers in the caboose received treatment for minor injuries and no damage was reported to private property. Service from Detroit to Chicago was restored Saturday afternoon. ConRail is still investigating the cause of the derailment.

Chelsea girls summer softball team won a berth in the state tournament by winning four games last week-end in the District 16 tournament held in Ann Arbor.

BEHIND THE HEADLINES:

Our First Independence Day: How It Was

As we celebrate Independence Day this year, the story of our very first Fourth of July offers a timely reminder of the price of liberty.

By Philip C. Clarke

The problems and challenges confronting Americans today are many and formidable. But they pale by comparison to the life-or-death struggle that faced those 56 patriots who on July 4, 1776, affixed their signatures to the Declaration of Independence. As John Adams, one of the signers, noted in a letter to his wife Abigail, "The Declaration was, in fact, an act of treason . . . Those who had signed it stood a good chance to incur the penalty meted out to traitors." Adams and John Hancock, another signer, already were under sentence of death if captured by the British.

Some years later, John Quincy Adams, who like his famous father, served as President of the new-found Republic, wrote: "Posterity! You will never know how much it cost the present generation to preserve your freedom. I hope you will make good use of it."

The War of Independence already was underway when the Founding Fathers gathered in Philadelphia to pledge "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor" to gain liberty. They were a diverse lot, these representatives from the 13 colonies who met to declare independence in the historic document that still inspires millions around the world. Twenty-five were lawyers or jurists; eleven were merchants; nine were farmers or plantation owners; and there were also doctors and educators.

When, at a crucial moment in their deliberations, doubts arose, it was Adams who stiffened resolve by declaring, "If you imagine that I expect this Declaration will ward off calamities . . . you are mistaken. A bloody conflict we are destined to endure." And endure they did through countless hardships that for many continued long after the war had ended.

When the Declaration was signed, William Ellery of Rhode Island, the 22nd to affix his name, stood where he could watch the others. "I was determined," he wrote, "to see how they all looked as they signed what might be their death warrant . . . Undaunted resolution was displayed on every countenance."

Although most of the signers paid a heavy price for their act, none wavered. Francis Lewis of New York had his home burned by the British; his wife was imprisoned for two years, dying soon after her release. Lewis Morris' New York estate was ransacked and destroyed. He eluded capture by taking refuge in caves and forests. During the ordeal, his ailing wife died and their 13 children scattered.

After signing the Declaration, Richard Stockton rushed home to Princeton, N. J., to rescue his family from advancing enemy troops. He was captured and thrown into prison, where he was repeatedly beaten and nearly starved. He died an invalid in 1781.

Robert Morris of Pennsylvania spent his entire fortune—more than a million dollars—to help finance the war effort. Never reimbursed, he served three years in debtors' prison and, in failing health, died soon after his release.

Thomas Heyward, Jr., of South Carolina, soldiered in the Revolutionary Army and was taken prisoner. The British raided his plantation and burned his buildings. His grief-stricken wife became ill and died before Heyward was released at war's end.

Benjamin Franklin, 27th of the 56 signers, went on to help frame our Constitution and perform many other services to the new nation. Later on, he was asked what kind of government had been created on that July 4, 1776. Replied wise old Ben: "A Republic, if you can keep it."

Some WCC Degrees Offered in Evening, Week-End Program

Busy people interested in re-entering the job market, positioning themselves for a promotion, or preparing for a career move, can earn an accounting or business management degree through Washtenaw Community College's Evening and Weekend Degree Program.

The program which features a part-time study sequence that enables students to complete degree requirements in three years, was designed for people with little time to spare. Telecourse instruction for some courses is also available for those who have difficulty attending classes on campus.

Courses are offered after 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday and from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturdays. Evening and Weekend Degree Program participants also pay the same tuition rates as weekday students.

Orientation and information sessions on WCC's Business Management and Accounting Associate Degree Evening and Weekend Programs are scheduled for Saturday, July 24 at 9:30 a.m. and Thursday, July 29 at 6 p.m. Both sessions will be held in the Job Skills/Campus Events Building, JS 104.

Farm Bureau Tells Their Desires to Health Task Force

In a recent letter to Hillary Clinton and the Health Care Task Force she is chairing, the American Farm Bureau Federation pointed out a number of changes in U.S. health care policies that farmers believe would bolster the quality and availability of health care in under-served rural America.

Al Almy, director of public affairs for the Michigan Farm Bureau, praised the Clinton Administration's efforts to reform the present health care system, calling it a top national priority. "A number of positive policies can be incorporated into the current health care system," Almy said. "I'm hopeful that Mrs. Clinton and the task force will consider some of the concepts rural Americans want and need."

According to Almy, positive changes in health care policy that rural Americans believe are vital include: a 100-percent health insurance tax deduction for the self-employed; the elimination of or drastic reductions in cost shifting from Medicaid and Medicare to individuals and third-party payers; assistance for medical communications systems and emergency patient transfer systems; regulatory flexibility for health care providers in rural areas; greater efforts by the nation's medical schools to train family physicians to practice in rural areas; and allowing a greater use of non-physician, health care providers such as nurse practitioners and physician's assistants.

"There is a shortage of doctors in many rural areas," according to Almy. "Incentives would encourage doctors to practice in rural areas."

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

The fellows showed their ages Saturday night when they fell to talking about changes in how we celebrate America's birthday. Use to, Bug Hookum said, picnics, ball games, veterans parades and long winded politicians popped up everywhere to show that for all our difference we were one. Lately, Bug went on, we see the Fourth as a reason to show how different we are, and we end up acting like the fanatic that loses sight of where he's going and doubles his effort.

Bug's lament was shot down quick. Zeke Grubb said most of us still see the half full glass. For instance, Zeke said, we got problems with folks all over the world wanting in this country, like that boat-load of Chinese that got stuck in the New York harbor recent. But we can't miss the point that hundreds of millions of people are ready to risk their lives for the chance of enjoying what we take for granted and complain about.

The fact is, Zeke went on, times change and people change. We had picnics and political speeches because they were the most exciting things we

Hospital Workers Have To Restrain Disorderly Man

A 37-year-old Ypsilanti man who walked into the emergency room at Chelsea Community Hospital last Friday, July 2 became violent and had to be restrained by hospital workers until Chelsea police could arrive.

Police said the man, Michael C. Bower, was highly intoxicated. His behavior prompted a hospital worker to make an "all-hands call." When police arrived Bower had been restrained and half a dozen hospital workers were holding him down.

Bower had six outstanding warrants against him, police said, including one for malicious destruction of property and four for disorderly conduct.

Bower was later picked up by the Washtenaw County Sheriff's Department.

could think to do. Now we don't take time for anything that's long winded because there's so much going on we can't get it in focus. Zeke took note that a preacher in Pensacola, Fla. has gone early service one better. He boils his hour service down to 20 minutes and holds it early enough for the golfers to make their tee times. We got to move with the times or choke in the dust, was Zeke's words.

General, Zeke said, folks that pine for the good old Fourth have let time dim their memories to where they get teary-eyed over washtenaw in America 75 year ago. The fun was lost on them that fired and stirred the washpot, wrung the clothes by hand and spent the night at the ironing board.

The fellows sided along with Zeke's notion that it ain't how we celebrate, it's what we do with what we got to celebrate. Looking at the Federal Government, Ed Doolittle said, you got to wonder how far we've come and how far we can go. If we thought two party rule was slow, what can we make of the one party rule we got, was Ed's question.

Back when the White House was Republican, Ed said, the executive and the legislative could disagree some of the time. Now the Democrat Administration and the Democrat Congress are hitting it off like cats and dogs, and they go out of their way to disagree on everything.

As usual, Clem Webster said, Ed was 180 degrees off course. Before and since the first 100 days of FDR, Clem said, the road between the White House and the Capitol has been the Potomac Bowling Alley. In ever Administration, Clem declared, the President sets em up at one end and Congress knocks em down at the other, which is why folks back home never have been able to tell the statesmen that want to make history from the politicians that try to rewrite it.

Personal, I recall it was Winston Churchill that said America's democracy was the worst form of Government, except for all the others. Churchill also said Americans always will do the right thing after they exhaust all the other possibilities. From where I set, both are worth celebrating.

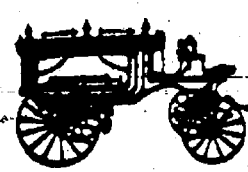

Yours truly,
Uncle Lew.

65TH ANNIVERSARY: Gerald and Leora Pickard (Jerry and Lee) of Lombardy Rd. were married 65 years ago today (July 7, 1928) in Belding. Jerry met Lee while they attended Belding High school, and they married a few years after graduation. Once they married, they moved to Detroit, where Jerry went to work for Ford Motor Co. Twenty years later, Jerry started his own business as a manufacturer's representative for automotive and farm implement parts. Lee also worked for a time as a secretary in the Fisher Building in Detroit. The couple moved to Chelsea in 1962 and Jerry retired in 1966. For a while, they split time between Chelsea and Florida, but have now made their permanent home here, adjacent to Inverness Golf Course, where both still work on their golf game. They are both still active travelers. Jerry is also a member of the Masonic Lodge in Dearborn.

"OFFICER CHRIS," otherwise known as Chris Minick of the Chelsea Police Department, was presented a token of appreciation last Thursday during Safety Town graduation at South school by instructor Mary Lou Bower. Minick, the resident expert in the program, is not paid for his services. He also takes vacation time every summer to work with the kids.

SUSAN WESCOTT, left, was honored as one of the state's best student teachers. Here she is presented the award by state Rep. Mary Schroer.

Wescott Honored in Annual Student Teacher Competition

Susan Wescott of Chelsea was selected for honors in the seventh annual Michigan Student Teacher of the Year competition.

Wescott was named a semi-finalist in the contest sponsored by the Michigan Association of Teacher Educators.

Wescott is a graduate of Eastern Michigan University, where she majored in science. She conducted her student teaching at Houghton Elementary school in Saline, where she worked with a third grade class.

The contest, which attracted more than 140 competitors, is designed to encourage future teachers to demonstrate outstanding teaching skills. Winners are judged on the basis of planning and preparation, knowledge and presentation of subject matter, management of instruction, interaction and communication with students, and professional image and presentation.

The awards program at the Kellogg Center were hosted by the Michigan State University College of Education in May.

Wescott is married to North school principal Bill Wescott.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing in response to the proposed sewer at North Lake. I am among many people living at the lake who earlier signed a petition to investigate the feasibility of such a system. Recently a meeting was called and I attended. It opened my eyes.

After the meeting, I sat down and started totaling the figures which were presented. It seemed to me that much of the actual total cost was intentionally left out of the presentation.

For instance, the flyer I was given estimated that the total cost would be $10,000 or $700 or $800 a year for 20 years! Being fortunate enough to understand simple mathematics, I realized the cost would be $14,000 or $16,000, not $10,000. Add to that the hookup fee, which was estimated at $10 per foot from the road. Then there is the maintaining fee which was estimated to be $20 a month, forever.

Next came what was supposed to be great news. Property value will increase by an estimated $25,000 to $50,000! Great news, if I want to sell. I don't want to sell, I want to live here. This means at least an extra $1,000 in property tax, on top of the $1,000 in sewer fees. Actual cost over 20 years has gone from $10,000 to $40,000. And I've got a hunch that the property tax may go up in the next 20 years.

The proponents of the sewer have attached themselves to the phrase "It's the right thing to do." I agree that it is the right thing to do, but not at a minimum of $40,000 for each home!

Another selling point of the sewer was the glorious news that you can improve your house with minimal legal troubles. I have to feel that the proponents have a much greater income than our household, because after we pay the sewer bill and the increased property tax, there is not going to be any left over to fix the lawn mower!

Mansions will be built. North Lake property taxes may go beyond those of Cavanaugh Lake residents. The common people will be forced out. North Lake will be a Country Club for those who can afford her pristine waters.

I have never noticed that North Lake was in such dire need for a sewer.

Greg Ringe.

Welcome!

JUST REMINISCING

Items taken from the files of The Chelsea Standard

Chelsea police reported a case of well-known con game in the community. A firm will approach a house and offer to blacktop the driveway for a lower than usual fee or do a sample portion with asphalt left over from another job. Their goal is to see where cash is kept in the house, such as one of the workmen feigning sickness and asking to use the restroom at the time payment is requested. A village ordinance requires peddlers to carry a license issued by the chief of police or village administrator. Ask to see the license before getting any work done.

24 Years Ago . . .

Thursday, July 17, 1969—

The Bible collection owned by Ben Donaldson of Cavanaugh Lake has such rare Bibles as the "Unrighteous," "Wicked" and "Vinegar" Bibles, which have famous proofreading errors. The Unrighteous Bible says "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall inherit the Kingdom of Heaven." The Wicked Bible says, "Thou shalt commit adultery." The Vinegar Bible has a parable of the vinegar instead of a parable of the vineyard, Luke 20. Only five copies of the Wicked Bible exist. The printer had a stiff fine and was ordered to burn all copies when the Bible came out in 1831. No copies turned up for 200 years.

Loran Vickrey, grand champion and sideburns-mottonchops; Lavern Hafley for whom a special classification, "character extraordinary," was added; William Blaess, most handsome beard; Robert Koch, blackest; and Eltia Borders, ugliest beard. Thomas Bust, fullest beard, was automatically entered in Saturday night's shaving contest. Eight men lined up on the platform with electric razors plugged into a central outlet. Kenneth Proctor and Duane Boyer tied for fastest shavers.

Substance Abuse

While few students said they use alcohol daily, 16.2 percent of eighth graders, 22 percent of 10th graders, and 25.4 percent of seniors said they have had five or more drinks in a row in the last two weeks. The national average for seniors was 29.8 percent.

Daily cigarette users included 13.9 percent of eighth graders, 13.6 percent of 10th graders, and 14.8 percent of seniors. The national average for seniors was 18.5 percent.

Those who said they have never used alcohol included 35.3 percent of eighth graders, 33.5 percent of 10th graders, and 17.6 percent of seniors. Gender differences were also striking. More girls than boys reported using alcohol in the last 12 months at all three grade levels. In eighth grade the percentages were 58.6 to 42.5, in 10th grade the percentages were 69.1 to 49.3, and in 12th grade the percentages were 75.8 to 66. The national average for seniors was 79 percent of boys and 76.2 percent of girls.

Girls also reported more cigarette use in the last 30 days at every level except the seniors.

Students were asked how they perceived the risk of various behaviors.

Most students (generally more than 70 percent) believed that use of any illegal drug entailed "great risk" when used on a regular basis.

However, the numbers went way down when asked about the dangers of alcohol. Just 38.2 percent of eighth graders, 47 percent of 10th graders, and 33.6 percent of seniors believe there is great risk associated with having five more drinks once or twice each week-end. The national average for seniors was 48.6 percent.

Only slightly more than half in each age group also believe there is great risk associated with having four or five drinks every day. The percentages were 52.6 for eighth graders, 56.1 for 10th graders, and 54.1 percent for seniors.

Students also believe there is relatively little risk associated with regular smoking compared to the regular use of cocaine, LSD, or marijuana. Just 41 percent of eighth graders, 58.3 percent of 10th graders, and 57.4 percent of seniors said there is great risk when smoking one or more packs of cigarettes each day.

Students apparently believe they would have little problem obtaining certain drugs. Fifty percent of eighth graders and 83.6 percent of seniors said it would be "fairly easy" or "very easy" to obtain marijuana, 60.7 percent of seniors said it would be easy to find LSD, and 65.3 percent said it would be easy to obtain stimulants.

Parties, followed by "a friend's house" were the most likely places alcohol or drugs would be used.

Among seniors, 8.3 percent said they had driven under the influence of alcohol once in the last two weeks, and 4.2 percent said they had done it twice.

When students were asked whom they would turn to if they had an addiction problem, friends came out on top with 51.8 percent of eighth graders, 52.7 percent of 10th graders, and 70.8 percent of seniors. At every level, "a family member" came in second, mentioned by 35.8 percent of eighth graders, 25.6 percent of 10th graders, and 38.1 percent of 12th graders.

Home Weatherization Program Offered to Those Who Qualify

Home weatherization is the installation of insulation, weatherstripping, caulking, water heater insulation, storm windows, and various small repairs. These materials and their installation are offered at no cost to qualified residents of Washtenaw County.

Some advantages of having your home weatherized include:

- Reduces consumption of fuel needed to heat your home in the winter and to keep cool in the summer.
- Increases comfort and livability of your home.
- Decreases dependency of foreign oil supplies.

For an application contact the Washtenaw County Employment Training and Community Services Group Home Weatherization Program, at 555 Townner St., Ypsilanti 48197, or call them at (313)484-6810.

Baton Corps Awards Presented

On May 28, the Chelsea Baton Corps held its annual recital at Beach Middle School, Chelsea. The recital featured a buffet dinner, twirling exhibition by the Chelsea Corps, twirling entourage, and an awards ceremony, presented by corps director Susan Fitzpatrick.

The CBC scholarship was awarded to senior Melony Owens. Melony is a Willow Run High school graduate who will be attending the University of Tennessee at Martin, Tenn. this fall, as a feature twirler. Melony has been a member of the corps for eight years, winning several individual and team awards. Melony will be pursuing a degree in sports medicine.

First year awards were presented to Kimberly Mitchell, Gillian Lawrence, Kellin Pagliarini, Jessica Stickney and Sarah Schwartz.

Perfect attendance awards were given to Laura Roskowski, Erica Bloomensaat, Stephanie Mitchell, Brenda Newman, Dianna Fulton, Kimberly Mitchell and Jillian Lawrence.

110% honors were presented to one student in each class who improved, worked hard and always gave 110% effort. Those awards were presented to Jenna Haas (super Wednesday class); second-year member, Stephanie Mitchell, juvenile dance twirl, Erica Bloomensaat; and senior dance twirl, Lara Roskowski.

Teacher assistant appreciation awards were given to Kori White and Melony Owens.

A special presentation was made by the Chelsea Baton Boosters, to all the competitive team members of the Twirling Entourage. Each girl received an official Twirling Entourage Jacket. These girls were Kimberly Anderson, Erica Bloomensaat, Deanne Fulton, Stephanie Mitchell, Brenda Newman, Jennifer O'Donnell, Laura Roskowski, Sarah Skyles, Tiffany Scott, Angie White, and Hillary Wiedmayer.

The evening events concluded with the presentation of "Outstanding Student of the Year," which is the most prestigious award of the evening. This student receives a traveling trophy where their name is engraved on a plate. The winner must return to present it to the next year's winner. Hillary Wiedmayer of the Senior Dance Twirl was awarded the Outstanding Student of the 1992-93 Year. Hillary received the traveling trophy and a crown presented by 1991-92 winner Laura Roskowski.

Results of the spring contests were as follows.

Kim Mitchell—Miss Major Open, 1st Special Beginner Solo.

Brenda Newman—Miss Major Open, 2nd Special Beginner Solo.

Angie White—9th Miss Major Pageant.

Erica Bloomensaat—1st State Beginner Two-Baton, 2nd State Solo.

Tiffany Scott—Miss Major Advanced Solo, 5th.

Laura Roskowski—Miss Major Open; 1st Beginner Strut; Intermediate Solo Pageant, 4th.

Hillary Wiedmayer—1st Beginner State Two-Baton; 1st Open Two-Baton; 2nd Beginner Strut; 2nd Intermediate Open Solo.

Melony Owens—Miss Major; 1st Intermediate Solo; 1st Intermediate State Strut; 4th Advanced State Solo which qualifies her for Grand Nationals.

The Aging Experience Is Different for Men, Women

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

Life experience diverges sharply between men and women as they enter retirement age. New data from the 1990 census confirm the fact that men tend to die earlier than women but show that the men who survive can expect a much higher quality of life than their female counterparts.

This difference is much more marked for people over 65, who constitute the fastest growing segment of the American population.

Older women are much more likely than older men to be poor, to live alone, to have chronic health problems, and to need help with such necessities of daily living as eating, dressing, bathing, preparing meals, managing money and getting outside.

Older women are likely to have long-term, chronic, disabling conditions, while men tend to develop fairly short-term, fatal diseases. Because of their work histories, women are less likely than men to have access to pension and Social Security benefits in their own names.

Among people over 65, women are three times as likely as men to be poor. The major reason for their impoverishment is the deaths of their husbands. When wives die, the husbands tend to remarry quickly, an option rarely available to women because of the imbalance between the sexes in the older population.

Other trends: —Men, especially white men, are retiring earlier—only 16.4 percent of men over 65 were in the work force in 1990, compared with 45.8 in 1950.

—The ethnic diversity of the elderly population is increasing: about one older person in 10 is non-white, a proportion expected to double in the next 60 years. These aging members of minority groups are at great risk, again because of work histories and histories of inadequate health care throughout life.

—The group with the highest needs and the lowest level of physical independence—people over 85—is expanding more quickly.

Large Dinosaur Will Visit St. Joe Summer Festival

St. Joseph Church Summer Fun Festival is rapidly approaching and something new and exciting has been added to the already vast array of free entertainment that will be presented on the two days of the festival, Saturday, July 17, and Sunday, July 18.

Festival planners recently got word that a very large, purple and green dinosaur is making his way to Dexter and will arrive in town in time for the festival. In fact kids, if you are on the festival grounds at Third and Dover from 1 p.m. to 2 p.m. on Saturday or Sunday, you will personally get to meet this very loveable fellow and maybe sing a song or dance with him. He will also be happy to shake your hand or have his picture taken with you and your family, too. So, pass the news on to everyone you know and be sure not to miss this opportunity to see one of your very favorite prehistoric creatures.

Dads, if you take the kids to the festival on Saturday, you can make Mom happy, too, by treating the entire family to the delectable food available at the various ethnic food booths. Chairpersons, Kathy and Lee Hirth, will make sure that there is plenty of food to tempt every taste preference.

Fresh Polish sausage with kraut, pierogies, and stuffed cabbage will be sold at the Polish food booth. The Taste of Italy will feature mostaccioli with cheese, and fresh Italian sausage on a bun with peppers and onions. Tacos and nachos will be available at the Mexican booth; traditional food such as hot dogs, sloppy joes, and pizza will be sold at the Taste of America booth.

Sunday's fare will once again be St. Joe's famous chicken dinner which includes 1/2 chicken, baked potato, cole slaw, roll, milk, tea, or coffee for a great low price. Dale and Ruth Schaefer, chairpersons, and their crew of chefs will be grilling some great chicken, so come and get it.

Good food, good fun, and good fellowship—it's all yours at the St. Joseph Summer Fun Festival on July 17 and July 18. Don't miss it.

MIKE SPENCE of Chelsea won the professional division of the World Bowhunting Championships at Niagara Falls last month. Mike, who has been an archer since he was five years old, is an engineer at Chrysler Proving Grounds.

Pinckney Area Man Completes Army Basic

Pvt. Timothy W. Johnson has completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S.C.

During the training students received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

He is the son of Penny L. Lopez of 405 Willowby Lane, Pinckney.

Chelsea's Mike Spence Takes World Archery Title

About 350 of the best archers in the world turned out for the International Field Archery Association World Bowhunter Championships in Niagara Falls, June 19-21.

As it turned out, however, the top two competitors live less than 10 miles apart.

Mike Spence of Chelsea finished second over-all and first among professionals in the Bowhunter Freestyle Competition. But amateur Chuck Birchmeier of Dexter, Spence's teammate in some competitions, had the high score for the entire tournament.

The pair beat out archers from the U.S., Canada, Italy, Australia and other areas where archery is a popular sport. Spence said it's extremely unusual for an amateur to "beat all those professionals."

The competition consists of three days of shooting at a total of 84 targets in all types of terrains. Targets the first two days are three-dimensional, close-to-lifesize replicas of deer, bear, antelope, cougars, turkeys, and other animals. The third day's targets are paper targets. Shooting distances range up to 60 yards and archers are scored on their accuracy. The yardages are unmarked, so a crucial aspect of the competition is the ability to judge distances accurately. And that was made more difficult by the lay of the land. A shot over water is harder to judge, for example, than a shot over flat land.

"If you're two or three yards off, you'll miss the target," Spence said.

Best score possible was 1,880 points (20 points for a perfect hit on the first shot). Birchmeier finished with 1,872 points and Spence had 1,842.

"I was doing pretty well, but the third day I shot terrible," Spence said.

"I held on by the seat of my pants," to win the professional division. Spence, 38, an engineer at Chrysler Proving Grounds, is the son of Ted Spence, a former world class archer. Mike began shooting when he was five years old and became a state champion in 1969 while a student at Chelsea High school. He's an avid hunter and has shot two caribou, two bears, three bears, and numerous deer. This year he also shot his first turkey.

Spence's next major goal is to compete in the same competition in 1995 in Australia. He hopes to get some financial help from sponsors. In the meantime, he'll continue to compete in more local tournaments, as well as national events. He hopes to get his world ranking back—he's been as high as second but is unranked now.

His three children are also budding archers, but his wife, Kathy, is not. Stephanie, age 7, came within one point of setting a state record last year in the nine-and-under division. Sean, age 9, and Sarah, age 5, also

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Summer Baseball Team Beats Pinckney with Solid Game

Chelsea's Connie Mack baseball team beat Pinckney, 10-2, last Tuesday, June 29 to improve their record to 2-3. It was the second straight victory for the Bulldogs over Pinckney.

Chelsea took a 1-0 lead in the third inning. Ryan Ludwig was hit by a pitch, stole second, and scored on a two-out single by Tim Wescott.

The Bulldogs broke the game open in the fourth inning with six runs as they sent 11 batters to the plate.

Scott Colvin led off with a double and later singled in the inning.

Chelsea also rallied for three runs in the sixth, keyed by Matt Powell's double.

Pinckney picked up single runs in the sixth and seventh innings.

Chelsea had 10 hits, including three by Colvin, a double by McCalla, and singles by McVittie, Jeff Branch, and Aric Dougherty.

The Bulldogs committed just two errors. Dirk Wales made a diving catch in centerfield for what coach Akel Marshall called the play of the game.

McVittie pitched a no-hit shutout until the sixth. He struck out seven, walked five, and allowed one hit. Ludwig pitched in relief, allowed one run, but worked out of trouble.

"It was a good ballgame as McVittie kept us in it until we got our bats going," Marshall said.

JAN OTTO of Chelsea has completed four years of piano technology courses at Michigan State University under the direction of Owen Jorgensen, an internationally recognized technician, scholar, and author. She finished with a 4.0 average. Otto is on staff for the tuning of concert grand pianos at the Wharton Center for Performing Arts on the MSU campus. She is a member of the Piano Technicians Guild. Her tuning career began in 1979 while managing the Al Nalli Music Store in Chelsea under the guidance of the late Al Nalli, Sr. She moved to the Ann Arbor store in 1981, where she tuned most of the pianos in the store.

Cancer Society Offers Help for Afflicted Children

By Deborah Moore

PATIENT SERVICES—

Camp Catch-A-Rainbow, a free one-week summer camp for children who have or have had cancer, will be held July 25 to Aug. 1. The camp gives these children an opportunity to make friends with others who share their experiences and provides supervised, fun-filled activities for children who have or have had cancer. Located at Camp Pandalouan in Montague, the camp is open to pediatric patients 7 to 18 years old who are Michigan residents. The camp is staffed with medical personnel and lay volunteers who are on site 24 hours a day to monitor each child's needs. A preschool day camp is scheduled for July 26 from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. for kids ages 4 to 6 who want to experience camping. Registration deadline is July 1. Applications are processed in the order received and campers will be notified of their acceptance. For a registration form or for more information about the camp, call your local county Unit, or call 1-800-ACS-2345.

PUBLIC EDUCATION

Cancer is the main cause of death from disease among children ages 1 to 15. Happily, children with cancer have a better chance than ever before of living a long life. Thanks to research and treatment, mortality rates have declined 60% since 1950. Still, nationally 8,000 new cases of childhood cancer and 1,500 deaths will occur in 1993.

It is often hard to recognize cancer in children because the first signs may seem trivial or similar to other common childhood illness. Children should have regular medical checkups and parents should be alert to any unusual symptoms that persist. These include: an unusual mass or swelling; unexplained paleness and loss of energy; sudden tendency to bruise; a persistent, localized pain or limping; prolonged, unexplained fever or illness; frequent headaches, often with vomiting; sudden eye or vision changes; or excessive, rapid weight loss.

Several types of cancer tend to occur in children. These include but are not limited to: leukemia, a cancer of the blood and the tissues that make the blood; neuroblastomas, cancers of the nervous system; brain cancer; Hodgkin's disease and other lymphomas, cancers of the lymph system; osteogenic sarcoma and Ewing's sarcoma, bone cancers; Wilms' tumor, a cancer of the kidney; rhabdomyosarcoma, a cancer that develops in the muscles that connect to bones; and retinoblastoma, a cancer of the eye.

Diagnosis and treatment methods vary depending on the type of cancer. Childhood cancers can be treated by a combination of therapies. Treatment is co-ordinated by a team of experts including oncologic physicians, pediatric nurses, social workers, psychologists, and others who assist children and their families. The real hope for the future of these children lies in continued research for better treatments that will allow them to live longer and be cured.

Webster Fall Festival Set For Sept. 25

The 12th annual Webster Fall Festival will occur Saturday, Sept. 25, from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., at the corner of Webster Church and Farrell Rds., Webster township. Webster Church and Webster Township Historical Society are the co-sponsors on their adjoining sites.

The newly-tilted Podunk School House dating from the 1870's will be open for viewing, and the newly constructed Boy Scout Troop 477 log cabin will house the Country Store and Bake Sale. Thirty artisans will display in the Community House and a Quilt Display will grace historic and newly-remodeled Webster church.

Other traditional features include Hay Rides, Antique Cars and Farm Equipment, Rummage/Antique Sale, Children's Zoo, Craft Demonstrations and, of course, the Pig Roast starting at 5 p.m. Food is available all day.

Entertainment highlights include the RFD Boys, Blackberry Jamb, Dulcimers, Magician Jim Fitzsimmons, Rex Gleason and Arlene Succop and John Touchton on the Yamaha Grand.

For additional information call 426-5115.

Left-Overs from Rummage Sale Help Detroit Needy

Dexter Boy Scout Troop 477 was pleased with this year's community response to its July 2-3 rummage sale held at Dexter High school.

Noting that the sale went very well, Scoutmaster Jack Brigham said the proceeds will be used to help pay for the Scouts' summer activities.

In addition to assisting the Boy Scouts by contributing items for the sale, community residents and local businesses also helped out needy people in Detroit. Left-over items will be distributed throughout Detroit with the co-operation of the Rev. Jim DuBois. More than 100 bags of clothes, pots, pans and other items will go to the needy.

The rummage sale, now in its 23rd year, "is an excellent recycling project for the troop as well as all the people who received items," Brigham added.

Beekeeping May Soon Be Wiped Out By Disease

For years, Roger Hoopingarner has been warning fruit and vegetable growers, and others, about a marked decline in honeybees in Michigan by 1993 or 1994.

His worst fear has happened. There are a lot fewer honeybees in the state this spring because of the varroa and tracheal mites, unshakable parasites that feed on the honeybee's blood.

Hoopingarner, a Michigan State University Extension apiculturist, warned of the mite threat in the mid-1980s and asked for adequate research funds to help prevent the potential economic demise of Michigan's $4.37 million beekeeping industry and the subsequent fallout effects.

The fallout will include a decline—perhaps a substantial decline—in fruit and vegetable crop quality and quantity. Both are highly dependent on honeybee pollination.

Among the crops that will be affected are apples, blueberries, cantaloupe, tart and sweet cherries, alfalfa, clover, cucumbers, peaches, pears, plums and strawberries, which have a total economic value of about $587 million each year in Michigan.

Statistics show that about half of our food supply derived from beef and dairy products depends on insect-pollinated legumes.

"A quarter to a third of all we eat comes directly or indirectly from honeybee-pollinated plants, and the loss of the honeybee is going to have a big effect on agriculture," Hoopingarner says.

Beeswax, a by-product of honey gathering, is used in manufacturing a range of products from candles to pharmaceuticals and cosmetics.

The combination of the mites, declining honey prices, the cost of doing business, winterkill and the standard honeybee diseases—nosema and foulbrood are the most common—is exacting its toll on the state's beekeepers.

"This could be devastating," Hoopingarner says. "Beekeepers are being bankrupted. Their prospects are really pretty poor. It could mean that, in a few years, commercial beekeeping in the state will be gone."

Growers cannot expect to rely on wild bees. In the past, about half of the honeybee population in Michigan consisted of wild bees, but by this year, mites have essentially destroyed the wild bees.

Research is desperately needed to develop better pesticides to control the mites and to breed honeybees that will resist mite attacks.

A limited amount of research is now underway at MSU and other universities to develop mite-resistant honeybees, but even with a substantial infusion of research dollars, it will take years to restore the domestic and wild honeybee populations to what they were in the mid-1980s when the mites were discovered. Without those dollars for research, crop yields are apt to decline and beekeepers are likely to continue to be forced out of business.

Hoopingarner says he feels like a person who has been crying "wolf" for the past seven years. No one listened. Now the wolf is on the doorstep.

Policy makers, growers and others Hoopingarner and the beekeepers have appealed for research support have, for the most part, not been responsive. Now Congress wants to discontinue the honey loan program, enacted in 1950, which helps protect beekeepers from natural disasters and drastic honey price declines.

The prospect of that action, Hoopingarner says, has nothing to do with reality, or the fact that not enough people are taking the honeybee problem seriously.

Whether help arrives for the honeybee industry is apparently a matter of politics, and beekeepers just don't have clout.

"The number of beekeepers is pretty small compared with corn growers, soybean growers or the tobacco industry," Hoopingarner observes.

He says that the magnitude of the problem—in the form of higher prices for lower quality fruits and vegetables and seed—will not become apparent to consumers for several years. Once they are aware, their dissatisfaction will be long-term.

Grand Valley State Names 5 to Dean's List

Grand Valley State University announced several local students placed on their winter term Dean's List for maintaining a 3.5 grade point average while enrolled in a minimum of 12 credits.

Those students are Sheryl L. Dukes of Chelsea, Julie Ann Kirby and Melissa Watkins of Pinckney, Christopher M. Wiethoff of Manchester and Wayne A. Schneider of Whitmore Lake.

Chelsea Area Players Will Present 'Gypsy'

Chelsea Area Players have announced, their summer production "Gypsy," by Arthur Laurents, Jules Styne and Stephen Sondheim. "Gypsy" will run for two week-ends. Performances will be July 23, 24, 29, 30 and 31 at 8 p.m. All performances will be held at Chelsea High School's George Prizing Auditorium, 500 Washington, Chelsea.

"Gypsy" is the story of a mother's dream to make her daughter a star during the soon-to-be dead era of vaudeville. Rose (Roxie Kringle) is determined that her youngest daughter, Baby June (Sarah Skyles), becomes a child star while ignoring the effect her determination has on her other daughter, Baby Louise (Melody Smith), and Herbie (Chris Korow), the one man who only wants to make Rose happy. As the girls grow older, June (Amy Frank) and Louise (Holly Pitrago) realize that their mother's dream is more important to her than their happiness or even her own.

Anthony Caselli is producing this summer's production: "Gypsy" is being directed by Kerry Graves. Set and lighting design are by Daniel C. Walker and costumes by Sally Doucette. T. Newell Kringle will be conducting and Genny Brothers is the stage manager for this production.

Advance tickets for "Gypsy" may be purchased at the Chelsea Pharmacy, 1050 S. Main St., Chelsea.

The first investigation into the relationship between child labor and school attendance was in Massachusetts in 1826. This was also the first investigation into a labor problem which contributed, in part, to passage of a child labor law in 1836, according to the Department of Labor's "Labor Firsts in America."

Huron River Day Slated Sunday in Ann Arbor Park

It will be anything but a lazy river when Ann Arbor floods to the Huron River on Sunday, July 11 for its 13th annual Huron River Day celebration. Sponsored by the City of Ann Arbor Department of Parks and Recreation and the Huron River Community Coalition, the event takes place at Gallup Park from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The variety of free and paid activities includes children's games and crafts, environmental displays, canoe lessons, a tree clinic, a classic canoe display, river nature walks, canoe instruction, a 1 mile run and a 5K Fun Run, a youth fishing derby, and the guest appearance of the Little Caesar character.

The Ann Arbor News Canoe Races begin at 8 a.m. and feature 8, 4, and 2 mile races, a Corporate Challenge in which many area businesses compete for "Corporate Supremacy," and a Mayor's Race which involves public officials from communities bordering the Huron River.

Entertainment will be provided by the Ann Arbor Civic Band, the Ann Arbor Summer Symphony and the Liberty Brass Quintet. There will be an Ice Cream Social hosted by the Bryant Community Center as well as displays on ecology and the environment. Event is free with the exception of the competitions.

Registration information and a complete schedule of events are available at the Ann Arbor Parks and Recreation Department, 5th Floor City Hall (994-2780) or Gallup Park Canoe Livery, 3000 Fuller Rd., Ann Arbor (862-8818).

THANK YOU

Many thanks to all my patients and friends who have so generously welcomed our son, David, and supported me during my maternity leave. Your gifts and kindness are very much appreciated. Yours,
Dr. Becky Patrias.

THANK YOU

As parents of Girl Scouts in Chelsea, we give our heartfelt thanks to Diane Johnson, organizer of the Western Washtenaw Area
Day Camp that was held June 21-25. She generously gave of her home, family time and self to ensure the girls had a fun learning experience. We also congratulate Diane for receiving the Girl Scout Green Tree

Survey Shows Drivers Speed With Little Fear of Being Caught

Motorists on Michigan highways are driving faster than ever and more and more believe they can get away with it, according to a University of Michigan traffic safety survey.

About 90 percent drive at or above the 55-mph speed limit on urban freeways, more than half drive at least 60 mph, and nearly a third reach speeds of 65 mph or more. Almost half of urban freeway drivers and a third of those on rural freeways think they will not be stopped by police unless they exceed posted speeds by at least 10 mph.

On rural freeways, 44 percent drive at least as fast as the 65-mph speed limit and 14 percent drive 70 mph or more.

The U-M study also found that nearly 60 percent of respondents believe radar detectors should be legal, an increase from levels reported in the 1990 traffic safety survey.

"There has been both an increase in driving speeds and a decrease in the fear of tickets for speeding," said Fredrick M. Streff, associate research scientist at the U-M Transportation Research Institute.
"But most drivers reported that speed limits are set about right."

The Michigan Omnibus Traffic Safety Survey, begun in 1987, polls Michigan residents' attitudes, perceptions and reported behaviors on such issues as speeding habits, drunk driving, use of safety belts, licensing requirements, road conditions and enforcement of safety laws. The most recent findings are based on telephone interviews with more than 750 Michigan adults in the fall of 1992.

In addition to speeding habits, the results show that more than 90 percent of Michigan residents think drunk driving is a serious problem in their community, but a majority believe that people who serve alcoholic beverages should not be held accountable. While more than 80 percent think it is unlikely that drunk drivers will be stopped by police, they are about evenly split on the use of sobriety check lanes. Also, more than 75 percent favor lowering the blood-alcohol concentration (BAC) limit to 0 percent for drivers under 21.

Most respondents reported drinking little or no alcohol, but of those who did drink, about 20 percent said they drank to intoxication at least once in the previous two weeks. Of these, a third drank at home and about a fifth

(or 4 percent of total respondents) drove after drinking.

Respondents also were asked a series of questions about Michigan's new drunk-driving laws implemented last year, and most knew very little about them. "Less than a third chose the correct response for any single question, and for most, less than a fifth chose the correct response," Streff said.

On other topics, the study found that more than 80 percent of state residents use a safety belt "all or most" of the time (this contrasts with prior studies conducted by Streff that show that 57 percent of motorists were wearing a safety belt when observed).
Also, most respondents believe that there was "at least a good chance" of getting a ticket for not using a safety belt if pulled over for speeding.

A majority of respondents favor graduated driver licensing for young, beginning drivers and older drivers. Under such a system, young drivers would gradually acquire driving privileges as they demonstrate increased skill and experience; older drivers would gradually reduce their amount and type of driving if their ability declines.

While opinions were evenly split on the issue of a youth driving curfew that would prevent minors from driving between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., a majority voiced support for a similar measure for drivers 70 and older.
Ironically, most respondents did not know an elderly family member whose driving ability was affected by advancing age.

The survey also found that:

—More than half of the respondents think freeways are in "average" condition and a quarter indicated they are in "good" condition;

—Almost 75 percent favor reallocation of existing state spending for road reconstruction projects;

—More than 80 percent oppose increased state taxes for road
reconstruction projects;

—About half believe more police officers should patrol Michigan's roads; —More than 80 percent think police officers at least "sometimes" violate speed limits without any job-related reason;

—Nearly half believe traffic safety is treated as a high priority by state government; and —More than half support a law that would require bicycle riders to wear helmets.

Streff noted that women generally showed stronger support for traffic safety policies than men, who were more likely to report risk-taking behavior, such as speeding and drunk driving. Also, respondents over 70 tended to report safer driving-related behavior and were more supportive of traffic safety policies than other age groups, while those under 21 were less consistent in their views.

"These young drivers voiced majority support for the legality of radar detectors and, at the same time, were among the age groups most likely to report a desire for more police patrols," Streff said. "They also reported the second highest frequency of drinking to intoxication and yet their support of a zero BAC limit for drivers under age 21 was among the highest of any age group. Likewise, they voiced the strongest opposition to a youth driving curfew, as might be expected, but at the same time, gave majority support to graduated driver licensing for young beginning drivers."

In addition to Streff, other researchers who contributed to the study in-

Tim Merkel, Chairman

Village of Chelsea Planning Commission PUBLIC HEARING Tuesday, July 20, 1993

7:30 p.m.

112 W. Middle Street
Chelsea, Michigan 48118

Amendment to Zoning Ordinance No. 79 covering the C-2, C-3, and C-4 district on the south side of Chelsea.

Planned Corridor District 1 (PCD-1)

A. Purpose—This district is intended to be an overlay district for the M-52 corridor as defined on the official zoning map for the purposes of improving and enhancing the appearance of the corridor as the major entrance to the Village; to promote co-ordinated development that will create a sense of order and place; to enhance the image of the Village to people traveling in the corridor; to help improve the flow and safety of traffic in the corridor; and to provide an attractive pedestrian environment.

B. General Regulation—This district is an overlay district for the area identified on the official zoning map as the PCD-1 corridor. This district overlays several zoning districts. The regulations of the underlying zoning districts continue to apply except where they might conflict with the provisions of the PCD-1 district, in which case the provisions of the PCD-1 district shall supersede those other regulations.

THURSDAY WAS A BIG DAY for this year's group of Safety Town students in Chelsea. Each student, who will be entering kindergarten in the fall, received a diploma from "Officer Chris," Chris Minick. With him is one of the program instructors, Mary Lou Bower. The youngsters learned about all sorts of safety-related topics, from how to cross the street to how to ride the school bus.

$ Money Mangement $

Prepared by the Michigan Association of Certified Public Accountants

Marriage and Money

According to the Michigan Association of CPAs, couples who want a secure future must take the time to discuss important financial topics. If you're a newlywed, the Association offers the following advice to help you and your spouse save, spend, and plan for your life together.

Where to put your paycheck

If both you and your new partner work, one of the first issues you'll face is how to structure your separate paychecks into a joint financial future. Some couples choose to pool all their resources into common checking and savings accounts. Others prefer to maintain two individual accounts with each partner responsible for certain expenses. Still others elect to set up a joint checking account for household expenses and savings while retaining their individual personal accounts. There is no right or wrong method. The point is to organize your funds in a way that gives you the right balance of financial security, fiscal independence and joint financial planning.

It takes two to budget

A workable budget is essential to getting your new life off on the right financial foot—and both you and your spouse should participate in developing it. A budget helps you to save regularly, utilize income wisely, monitor spending and avoid misunderstandings about where your money is going.

To prepare a budget, start by determining your total income from all sources. Use your most recent tax return for help in adding up your salaries, interest, dividends, bonuses and commissions. Make any necessary revisions or adjustments. Then identify all your expenses—both fixed and flexible. Fixed expenses include bills you must pay regularly like your mortgage or rent. Flexible expenses include items like clothing, food, entertainment, magazines, gifts—those items that cost you money regularly, but in varying amounts.

If your budget shows that your spending is outpacing your income, try to reduce your flexible expenses first. Be realistic. Leave some money for leisure-time activities that both you and your spouse enjoy.

Once you've set up your budget, don't file it away. Spend a few hours each month reviewing your financial status.
