Second Concert in Park Saturday Features Skylark

The second installment of the seventh annual Concert in the Park series this Saturday, July 17 will feature Skylark, an acoustic trio.

The free concert, from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. in Pierce Park, will showcase the talents of Betsy Beckerman on hammered dulcimer, banjo, guitar, and tin whistle, Anne Jackson on fiddle, guitar, and autoharp, and Tom Wall on keyboards, guitar, mandolin, and ukulele.

Skylark's music is designed to appeal to all ages. They play instrumental and seasonal music, sing-alongs, and traditional, swing, folk, and country classics.

Beckerman, originally from upstate New York, has played in the Chelsea area several times. She has also played all across Michigan, from the Renaissance Center in Detroit to the Grand Hotel on Mackinac Island.

Jackson, an Ann Arbor native, loves classical music as well as jazz violin, and traditional and country and western fiddle.

Jackson and Beckerman met in 1988 at Cobblestone Farm in Ann Arbor, where each had been hired to play separately. As Jackson played "Road to Lisdoonvarna," one of Beckerman's favorite tunes, Beckerman wandered over and the two performed together the rest of the afternoon.

Wall is originally from Waterford. He teaches piano and has played in rhythm and blues and dance bands. He and Beckerman have been performing together for several years.

Food and snacks will be available at Chelsea Rotary Club's Ice Cream Wagon (which helps benefit many community activities) and Cottage Inn Pizza's wagon. Cottage Inn is donating five percent of its proceeds from each show to the concert series to help offset costs.

The concert will go on, rain or shine. In case of inclement weather, the show will be moved to the covered arena at the Chelsea Community Fairgrounds.

Concertgoers are encouraged to bring lawn chairs, blankets, food or anything else (alcohol excepted) that will make the concert more fun. Parking is free on the grounds of Chelsea Community Hospital.

The concert series is sponsored by the Chelsea Recreation Council and the Chelsea Area Chamber of Commerce.

Landfill Changes to 'Solid Waste Facility'

Contrary to what some people think, what was formerly known as the Chelsea Sanitary Landfill on Werkner Rd. is not out of business.

The facility has been re-named the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility because, as facility operator Cecil Clouse says, "we are no longer burying anything," in a landfill.

Instead, all trash is sorted into roll-off bins and hauled away.

The solid waste facility accepts household trash, building debris (demolition), scrap metal, appliances, and tires.

Entrance to the facility is the same as it always has been. Drive straight past the recycling bins on the left, and follow the road around the new recycling building to the attendant's booth, where fees will be collected. Do not turn right at the recycling bins.

After paying, drivers will be told which bins to dump their trash into.

Prices are as follows: household trash, $1.50 per bag; level pick-up load, $15; household trash per yard, $7.50; commercial trash per yard, $13.50; building debris (wood, shingles, drywall, small chunks of concrete, bricks), $20 per yard; appliances, $10 each; car tires, $3 each; truck tires, $12 each (with or without rims).

Anyone disposing of an appliance containing freon, such as a refrigerator, must have the freon removed before the facility will accept it. The facility will require certification that freon has been removed.

Hours of operation are Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday, noon to 4:30 p.m., and Saturday, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The facility is closed Sunday, Monday, and Wednesday.

CHELSEA EDUCATION FOUNDATION has awarded a $1,000 scholarship to Chelsea resident Sue McDonald, left, who wants to teach emotionally-impaired children. McDonald, a homemaker and mother of two, enrolled at Washtenaw Community College in 1992 after taking 11 years to be with her young family full-time. She will receive $500 for each the fall and winter semesters to help defray tuition costs and book expenses. Foundation president Mary Jane Eder made the presentation.

Diesing Elected President Of Chelsea School Board At Organizational Meeting

First-term school board member Jane Diesing was elected president of the Chelsea Board of Education last Tuesday at the board's annual organizational meeting.

Diesing, who has one year left in her first four-year term, and Joe Redding, senior member of the board with 10 years of service, were both nominated. Diesing, a relatively moderate member of the board, won by a 5-2 vote. Redding is one of the board's most conservative members.

Diesing replaces long-time president Anne Comeau, who decided not to seek re-election to the board after 12 years of service. She was president for the last five years.

Conrad Knutsen, who has completed his second-year on the board, was elected vice-president. He replaces long-time board member Ron Satterthwaite, who, like Comeau, decided not to seek re-election. Dick McCalla, whose seat will expire in two years, was elected secretary. And Jan Roberts, newly-elected this spring, was elected treasurer.

Newcomer Sandra Merkel was named the delegate to the Washtenaw Association of School Boards and Roberts was named the representative to the Michigan Association of School Boards.

Board members were named to various board and school district committees. Members of the finance committee include Roberts, McCalla, and Redding; curriculum committee, Merkel; policy committee, John Eisenbeiser, Knutsen, and Redding; personnel committee, Eisenbeiser, Redding, and Diesing; teacher committee, Roberts and Knutsen; sex education committee, Merkel; strategic planning, Diesing and Knutsen; school improvement, Knutsen; and Chelsea Education Foundation, Roberts.

In other board business, representatives of townships within the school district, and the village, have been invited to an Aug. 16 meeting of the board to discuss development and other interests of mutual concern. It's the first time the board will be involved in this kind of discussion.

High school teachers have requested that school start one-half hour late on Monday in order to allow teachers to continue the school improvement ideas they started last spring. Throughout the spring, school started one hour late on Monday.

Elementary and middle school teachers have requested a couple of half days per year to deal with school improvement ideas.

In other routine board business, the law firms of Keusch & Flintoft of Chelsea and Thrun, Maatsch & Nordberg were retained to represent the district.

Curtis, Bailey, Exelby, and Spósito will continue as auditors.

Chelsea will continue to provide food for Manchester schools under a contractual agreement.

And assistant superintendent Fred Mills was authorized to pay the bills, engage in co-operative purchasing, and develop a fund investment program.

Chelsea State Bank will handle the district's deposits.

Volunteer Group Wants Serving To Be 'Convenient'

A new Chelsea volunteer organization called Volunteers Unlimited is being organized by Christmas in April co-ordinator Dick Shaneyfelt and Ann Williams.

The idea of the organization is "to make volunteering convenient and fun. This will allow people to volunteer at a variety of projects when their schedules permit in evenings or on week-ends."

The organization would function as a kind of clearinghouse for volunteers who would like to donate their time but can't be held to a schedule. They would be able to pick and choose from projects, according to their time available, as well as their interest and expertise. For example, the organization might find people to work on construction projects or help find drivers for the Home Meal Service.

"This grew out of conversations we had during Christmas in April this year," Shaneyfelt said.

"People said 'it's too bad we can't do this at other times of the year'."

Christmas in April is a one-day blitz to repair and renovate homes for elderly, handicapped, or low-income area residents.

Shaneyfelt wants to produce a monthly newsletter for those who are interested in volunteering. Projects would be listed in the newsletter and would be filled on a first-come, first-served basis. Descriptions would include place, time, number of

Jackson County Man Sentenced to Prison In February Shooting

A Jackson county man was sentenced to a mandatory two years in prison for firing a shotgun into a Joslin Lake Rd. home in Lyndon township on Feb. 18.

Larry Mead, 34, was originally charged with two counts of assault with intent to commit murder. Each charge carried a maximum sentence of life in prison. Instead, Mead pleaded no contest to two counts of discharging a weapon into a building and one charge of using a firearm in a felony.

Mead fired three shots into the home of Cecil Hogan. At his sentencing Friday, Mead told Washtenaw Circuit Court Judge William Ager, Jr. that he was sorry for his actions but that he was only seeking the return of property that he believed Hogan's son had taken from him. He said Hogan's teen-age son had stolen some of his traps.

"A hundred years ago, I could have shot these known and convicted thieves and people would have shook my hand," Mead said.

Mead complained that county officials had refused to retrieve his property for him.

Mead's attorney, David Goldstein, repeatedly demanded that Hogan and his son be charged with perjury. During his lengthy statement, Mead promised "woe unto those who have borne false witness against me."

Hogan and his son testified that Mead knew they were in the house when he fired the shots because footprints in the snow show Mead had gone to every window in the house before firing. They said they turned out the light in the living room after the first shot, and after the third shot the younger Hogan grabbed the gun after Mead poked it through a broken window. Cecil Hogan was shot in the face, and his son sustained a hand injury.

After Mead's two years in prison, he was ordered to serve two sentences of two-to-four years each for firing a gun into a building. He was also ordered to pay restitution.

Sylvan Denies Permit For Concrete Plant

A special use permit that would have allowed the construction of a concrete plant in Sylvan township near I-94 has been denied by the township planning commission.

Doan Construction Co. of Ypsilanti, which owns Ann Arbor Concrete Co., wanted to build the plant on Plemeier Dr. off Brown Dr. near Chelsea Self Storage Co. The plant would have had all materials stored underground and the plant itself would have been completely enclosed, unlike the vast majority of concrete plants.

The planning commission, after a June 24 hearing, denied the permit primarily due to traffic concerns. A concrete plant will attract heavy, slow trucks, both for deliveries and pick-ups. There were also concerns about the wear and tear to Brown Dr.

Company owner Dennis Doan said he may either appeal the decision or look for another piece of land for the project. He said the design of the plant was apparently well-received by the commission.

Doan said the growth in western Washtenaw county makes it more economical to have a plant here rather than haul concrete from Ann Arbor.

Interest Increases In Establishing 'Bed-and-Breakfasts'

Village of Chelsea may have as many as three bed-and-breakfast establishments in the next year.

Zoning inspector Rosemary Harook has talked with three people who are likely to apply for special use permits required to run the businesses in residential areas. Two of the establishments would be within a block of the main business district.

Chelsea's recycling program, which began late last year, could be out of business by the end of the month unless local governmental agencies come to its rescue. "Recycle Chelsea," the village's participation in the Washtenaw county-wide recycling program, apparently will need an infusion of money in order to survive. The county plans to stop picking up the recycling bin in Polly's Market, as well as in its other sites around the county, including Dexter and Manchester, at the end of the month unless someone other than the county pays the cost of picking it up.

The Chelsea Pines housing project has apparently been revived by the area's most ambitious developer, Rene Papo, and property owner Marvin Salyer. Chelsea Pines, first proposed as a condominium development by a group that included Norm Fahrner of Washtenaw Engineering Co., is now being proposed as a two-phase development of duplexes ranging in size from 842 to 1,713 square feet. The first phase would be built by Pine Knoll Builders of Wilkinston St. and run east toward Lincoln St.

Chelsea and Saline school districts are in similar financial circumstances yet they are taking different approaches to solving their problems. Voters in both districts turned down an override of the Headlee Amendment in the June elections. Each district has set a special election for Aug. 14. Each district stands to lose big without favorable results. Chelsea will lose $493,000 and Saline faces a loss of $456,000. That's where the similarities end. Chelsea voters will be asked to approve 2.1 mills in new millage, while Saline voters will be asked to override the Headlee Amendment.

Local opinion on the moon landing by Apollo 11 Saturday ranged from "almost beyond belief," "start of a new era," "a great step into space" to "it's an awful price to pay for a bunch of rocks."

Freedom township board voted 36-26 in favor of building a new $32,000 township hall/community center at the corner of Pleasant Lake and Lima Center roads at a special meeting July 17. Since it will be a public building, the township must advertise for bids and estimates which will delay construction somewhat.

The school millage before voters Aug. 4 is broken into two proposals, one a 2.83 mill increase which would raise $195,000 and the other 1 mill increase for capital improvements such as demolition of the old junior high school and paving of the high school.

Village property owners will vote Aug. 10 on a proposed $235,000 bond issue for sewage treatment expansion. If the bond issue isn't approved then it won't make any difference. Chelsea's 125th anniversary celebration is expected to show a $9,000 profit after all bills are paid, according to anniversary officials. A complete accounting of the $38,000 spent will be made in August. John B. Rogers Co., hired to help stage the celebration, said Chelsea's records are the most detailed accounting of funds they have seen. They are recommending the accounting system used here to other communities. In accordance with a decision announced three months ago, proceeds will be turned over to Chelsea Community Fair Board.

★ Cost of Government Day: July 13, 1993

By Alan Philip

If it seems like you've been working longer and harder to pay your bills and make ends meet in recent years, it's not your imagination—playing tricks on you.

The Tax Foundation calculates that if every dollar of earned income starting Jan. 1 went to federal, state, and local governments, the average American would not have earned enough to pay his or her 1993 taxes until May 3—the date the foundation calls "Tax Freedom Day." In 1985, Tax Freedom Day came four days earlier—April 30.

Even that is not the full story, because it counts only direct taxes. Governments are making increasing use of hidden ways to "tax" citizens, with mandates and regulations. Adding those into the equation produces a date Americans for Tax Reform calls "Cost of Government Day." It's not May 3. It's not even in June.

Cost of Government Day in 1993 fell on July 13, a full 10 days later than in 1985. That means that the average American spends over half his time laboring to pay the total price tag for government spending and regulations.

In the past five years, Congress has presided over a regulatory explosion. The number of pages in The Federal Register—where new federal regulations are catalogued—has risen to over 65,000 from 47,000 in 1985. Chicago economist Robert Genetski has estimated the cost of the Americans with Disabilities Act alone at $20 billion per year, approximately $80 for every man, woman, and child in the United States.

For the country as a whole, a conservative estimate of the total cost of federal regulation is $619 billion, or about $2,500 per person. Lawmakers seem oblivious to the fact that as these regulatory bills rise, so must prices, layoffs, or even bankruptcies. Wages also fall, or rise less than they would have in free and competitive markets.

When regulations enhance competition, protect individual rights, promote safety, strengthen the sanctity of contracts, or provide information necessary in the marketplace, they can yield a positive good. But thousands of pages of regulations later, it's difficult to imagine that Americans are all that much better off than they were a decade or so ago. In any event, our lawmakers focus most of their attention on regulation's perceived benefits and very little on its real economic harm.

These days, Congress not only tells private enterprise how to run its business with increasing frequency, but it's imposing ever higher costs on state governments as well. Unfunded mandates from Washington—requiring states to expand or create programs and pay for them too—are soaring in volume and cost. A recent Mackinac Center study found that $95.3 million—the equivalent of one-third of Michigan state government revenue growth in the 1992-93 fiscal year—will go to pay just the cost of federal mandates in one program alone, Medicaid.

Had Congress been paying attention to the cost of government and the plight of millions of struggling American workers, the depth and length of the recession could have been reduced. Many economists argue persuasively, in fact, that the huge tax hikes of 1990—occurring after President Bush abandoned his solemn "no new taxes" pledge—were the main reason the recession happened in the first place. Since 1989, the total cost of government has skyrocketed from just over 48 percent of national income to more than 53 percent in 1993.

For a household with an annual income of $30,000, that translates into an additional burden of $1,500 in higher taxes and regulatory costs. Money which could have been used by its original earners to buy goods or services or for personal saving was instead siphoned off to fuel the growth of government.

As massive tax hikes take shape in Washington, Americans ought to contemplate what government is costing them already. July 13—Cost of Government Day—should remind us that a government that is big enough to give us everything we want is also big enough to take everything we have.

Uncle Lew from Lima Says:

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

General, the fellows would rather climb a tree to argue than set in the shade under it to agree. But when the discussion at the country store Saturday night turned to outlawing tobacco for minor league baseball players, it was hard to find a fight until Ed Doolittle galloped to the rescue.

The problem, Republican Ed allowed, is that Democrats think no problem is too big for Big Government, and now that they are in the outbird seat in Washington their craziness is catching. It is bad when churches and schools follow government's lead and try to make rules to fix whatever's wrong. Ed said, but it's a heap worse when this waste water runoff spills over in the national pasture. Now the baseball bigwigs have ruled that the young players ain't got sense to know what's good or bad for 'em, was Ed's words.

None of the fellows found anything good to say about using tobacco, but Democrat Clem Webster couldn't stomach Ed's political reasoning for the ban. Even if you think it's a shame when a ballplayer can't enjoy a chew or a dip at his workplace, Clem said, you got to know it's nothing but raw greed when the same team owner worried about good health and public image sells beer to a fan until he falls out of the stands before God and everybody.

Furthermore, Clem went on, if you got to put a political spin on this baseball rule, look at the way Republican Administrations cowtow to big business and neglect the family. The real weevil in this cotton, Clem said, is family upbringing. These days, young people don't get good family learning and end up picking up clues from the worst sorces, athletes, and movie stars.

What confuses Zeke Grubb is the reasoning behind the ban. Baseball people say the rule is designed to protect the players, Zeke noted, but they see no harm in putting one boy in a box and letting another boy with more arm than aim stand 60 feet away and throw a rock hard ball at him at 90 miles a hour.

Practical speaking, Zeke said, if the rule was made to force the players to set a better example for the youngsters, the baseball experts are in the wrong ballpark. At least the stuff the farm teams were using is legal, Zeke said. The big leaguers do serious image damage. Up there, the heroes are on the news in handcuffs one night and on TV in the starting lineup the next.

As for role models, Bug Hookum noted that lately fans go to fights and ball games break out. He said he would rather see a little leaguer chewing than chasing another one around with a bat.

Actual, Bug figured it's all show business. Baseball owners make up rules for new players just to show them who's boss. Players with $15 million contracts hire high powered agents to show owners they can't push them around. He took note that the Big Leagues are called the Show, where tobacco and beer companies speak and owners bow, scrape and play all Playoffs and World Series games in TV commercial Prime Time.

Personal, I am full convinced the sunflower lobby is behind the ban. I read where Minor League managers and coaches that have chewed all their lives have switched to sunflower seeds, and they are eating more than the birds.

Yours truly,
 Uncle Lew.

Everybody's Science

★Dust Storms Born From Bouncing Soil . . .

Dust storms of the type that created the Dust Bowl in the 1930's get their start a meager 10 inches above the ground.

A U.S. Department of Agriculture researcher, Donald Fryrear, made this unexpected discovery by analyzing 18,000 thimblefuls of windblown soil collected over the past seven years. He said it had been thought that the storms form higher in the air.

Fryrear, an agricultural engineer in USDA's Agricultural Research Service, has spent the past 35 years tracking dust storms in the heart of the Dust Bowl, the Texas Panhandle. In fact, the ARS laboratory where he works in Big Spring was founded to improve dryland farming 18 years before the Dust Bowl began. But Fryrear isn't necessarily trying to predict the next Dust Bowl. His research helps farmers protect farmland against wind storms—some so severe they kick up dust that can blind motorists and contribute to unhealthy air pollution.

When the wind picks up sufficient strength, he found, grain-sized soil particles bounce up and down within the 10-inch zone. "These particles are the sledgehammers that make dust storms happen," said Fryrear. "Each time they strike the ground they dislodge particles a thousand times smaller that are either blown back to earth or kept aloft."

If the particles do stay aloft, they may fly a few feet—or encircle the globe, he said, noting that Texas soils have been found in Europe.

Fryrear's dust sampler, which he invented, catches windblown soil in collectors placed on a pole at various heights, from just above the ground to 40 inches high. He analyzes the soil using an equation he developed to predict dust storms.

Fryrear now has dust samplers in Arizona, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Indiana, Kansas, New York, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Montana, Texas, Oklahoma, Washington, and Canada.

Police Seek Charges Against Pot Grower

Michigan State Police are seeking charges against Lima township residents who allegedly had two four-foot marijuana plants growing in their home vegetable garden.

Det. Sgt. Ernie Bucks of the state police said the plants have been sent to the state crime lab to determine officially whether they're marijuana. However, he said "we know what they are."

Bucks said an anonymous tip led them to the plants, which he said could be seen from S. Lima Center

Rd. if "you looked real carefully." They were growing among rows of corn.

"We believe they were being grown for personal consumption," Bucks said.

"They were nice, bushy plants."

The residents may be charged with drug manufacturing, a felony with a possible four-year prison term.

Bucks said the residents were surprised when police showed up at their home.

By Debbie Barrow, Extension Home Economist

What would you say if someone told you to turn off the TV to reduce your blood cholesterol level? For your own benefit, you should take the advice to heart. Research is showing higher blood cholesterol levels in children and adults who watch television frequently.

A recent Harvard University study of 12,000 adults who watched more than three hours of television a day showed that they were twice as likely to have blood cholesterol levels greater than 240 mg/dl. High cardiovascular (heart) disease rates occur in adults with blood cholesterol levels at this level or higher. High blood cholesterol is one of the three main risk factors for developing heart disease. The other two are high blood pressure and cigarette smoking.

Equally alarming are the results of a study of 1,081 children, ages 2 to 20, who had cholesterol screening done at pediatric clinics. Children who watched television more than four hours a day were 2.8 times as likely to have high blood cholesterol levels (200 mg/dl or higher in children) than kids who watched less than two hours a day.

If this seems to be excessive TV viewing, keep in mind that 6- to 11-year-olds have the TV on for 23 hours each week. The average number of hours of television watched weekly for 2- to 5-year-olds is even greater—approximately 25 1/2 hours!

It is possible that the increase in cholesterol levels of frequent television viewers is linked with less physical activity. A recent national survey for the International Food Information Council (IFIC) showed that nearly one in every four (22 percent) of the 400 6- to 9-year-olds surveyed said they seldom play outside, even when the weather is nice.

The leading cause of death in Michigan and the United States is cardiovascular disease. There are ways to reduce the risk of heart disease. The first step in reducing cholesterol levels for the family may be as simple as turning off the TV. Experts agree that reducing the total amount of fat in the diet for people over the age of 2 can also help reduce blood cholesterol levels.

For more information on ways to decrease fats in the diet, contact your county MSU Extension office, the local health department, your American Heart Association affiliate, a physician or a registered dietitian.

Western Washtenaw Recycling Participation Rises Substantially

Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority is likely to come close to reaching its 1993 target of collecting 2,140 tons of newspaper, plastic, glass, cans, and corrugated cardboard.

In January, the authority collected about 62 tons, but from March through May an average of more than 160 tons per month was collected.

Total amounts contributed through June (in yards) include Bridgewater township 124, Dexter township 194, Lima township 215, Lyndon township 728 (that includes the bins at the Chelsea Solid Waste Facility), Manchester township 519, Sylvan township 304, Village of Chelsea 476, and Village of Manchester 100.

In Chelsea, the curbside program collected 155 yards in five collections last month. Every Wednesday about 250 to 300 stops are made and about 500 residences are participating on a fairly regular basis.

Although the program was designed primarily for residences (annual special assessments of $17 in Sylvan, Lima, Lyndon, Dexter, Bridgewater and Manchester townships, and $30 in Chelsea and Manchester villages apply only to residences), businesses are beginning to make major contributions to the program, said acting authority manager Jerry Satterthwaite. Through June, businesses contributed 723 yards, the vast majority of it corrugated cardboard.

"I don't know if we'll be self-sufficient because so much depends on the prices we get," Satterthwaite said.

"But with the average taxpayer, if they can't save [$17 or $30] in garbage costs, they're not trying very hard."

So far this year, Satterthwaite said, the authority has received about $16,000 for materials. As examples of some prices, milk jugs are selling for 6 1/2 cents per pound, newspaper for $25 per ton, and brown paper bags for $120 per ton. Newspapers make up about half of the total pounds collected, while glass is second and cardboard third.

"There are some things we could do if we had more room," Satterthwaite said, noting that the authority wants to build a pole barn just to store bailed materials.

"We'd like to take magazines, but there's no place to store them. We could get something for clear plastic."

The authority is about to embark on a new promotion campaign featuring "Corporal Nate Your Recycle Mate." The corporal, drawn by Carl Hoopengartner, is loosely based on a Cassidy Lake Boot Camp corporal. Cassidy Lake furnishes regular workers to the authority's recycling center. One of the corporal's functions will be to give recycling tips, such as "take the caps off milk jugs."

In the meantime, Satterthwaite had a couple of suggestions, including the tip about milk jug lids. First, no window glass or water glasses can be recycled. Second, even though margarine tubs are made of number two plastic, they cannot be recycled here. Only number two plastics with small mouths, such as opaque shampoo bottles, along with milk jugs, are accepted. Third, brown paper bags can be recycled.

The authority has slide presentations available for any groups to use. For more information call 475-6160.

JERRY SATTERTHWAITE, interim manager of the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority, stands next to some of the bailed materials waiting to be shipped. Participation in the program has increased dramatically since the beginning of the year.

GLASS from jars and bottles is one of the many items collected by the Western Washtenaw Recycling Authority. Newspaper is the largest single item collected in terms of weight.

Police Investigate Apparent Suicide on Hospital Grounds

A patient at Chelsea Community Hospital was found hanging from bed-sheets tied to the limb of a tree on the hospital grounds early last Saturday afternoon.

The 27-year-old Ann Arbor woman was the apparent victim of a suicide, according to Chelsea police.

The body was found by a friend of the woman, who came to the hospital to look for her after he had been told the woman was missing.

hospital with the sheet and managed to climb a tree, along a path between the Kresge Center and Pierce Park. Police found the woman's sandals at the base of the tree. The body was not visible from Pierce Park, police said.

Police Report Rash Of Thefts of Vehicle Hood Ornaments Here

Several Chelsea youths are believed to be responsible for the theft of nine hood ornaments between July 6-11 in the village.

"Parents should be suspicious if their child comes home with a hood ornament," said Chelsea Police Chief Lenard McDougall.

"There's no place that I know of that gives them away."

On July 6, an ornament was stolen from a 1982 Oldsmobile on South St.

On July 7, ornaments were reported stolen from a 1993 Chevrolet Caprice on W. Middle Ct.; a 1985 Chrysler LeBaron at Chelsea Community Hospital; and a Dodge Ram pick-up at Seltz's Tavern.

On July 8, ornaments were reported missing from a 1983 Cadillac and a Chevrolet pick-up truck on W. Middle Ct.; and a 1984 Buick Century and a 1985 Buick in the Municipal Parking Lot.

On July 11, an ornament was reported stolen from a 1990 Ram pick-up on Park St.

Two men working on scaffolding at the Jifty Mix towers witnessed the theft at Seltz's Tavern, police said.

The thieves were described as a boy age 13-15 and another boy about age 10. The older boy simply looked around to see if anyone was watching, then pulled the ornament off the truck. Based on the description, police were able to locate the suspects.

However, they believe others are involved since the thefts continued.

FLOYD MILLER of Chelsea participated in the 1993 AAA Michigan Truck Driving Championships at Michigan State University recently. The competition, sponsored by AAA Michigan, Michigan Trucking Association, and the National Committee for Motor Fleet Supervisor Training, included a written exam, pre-trip safety inspection, and driving test. Drivers tested their knowledge of safety, courtesy, efficiency, fire fighting, and first aid, along with the ability to handle equipment.

Farm Bureau Joins Coalition

A coalition of agricultural organizations, called "Ag for NAFTA," is being formed to improve grassroots and congressional understanding of the benefits of the North American Free Trade Agreement to U. S. agriculture, according to Ken Nye, director of Michigan Farm Bureau's Commodity Activities and Research Division. The American Farm Bureau Federation is part of that coalition.

"The potential advantages of a successful NAFTA for the over-all U. S. economy, and for agriculture in particular, make it critical that people's decisions to support or oppose it be based on reality, not on myths, and much of the opposition to the proposed NAFTA is grounded in myth," Nye said. "Opponents cite NAFTA's alleged effects on jobs and say that the agreement will result in a flood of Mexican commodities, devastating the U. S. economy, including agriculture. The coalition will be working to correct some of those misconceptions."

Nye said the cheap labor argument of NAFTA opponents assumes that a job created in Mexico takes one away from the U. S. "In fact, the result of a successful NAFTA will be to create income and employment in both countries. U. S. trade with Mexico has changed from a $5.8 billion deficit in 1987 to a $5 billion surplus in 1992. The result has been more U. S. jobs," he said.

Between the limitations on Mexican agriculture and the lengthy transition period to free trade under NAFTA, there is unlikely to be a "flood" of any product from Mexico, Nye believes. "Mexico is now the third largest and most rapidly growing export market for U. S. farm commodities, and we're confident that our trade surplus in agriculture will continue to grow under NAFTA," he said. "Rapid population and income growth, combined with limited natural resources, will prevent Mexican agriculture from keeping pace with a growing demand for food and fiber."

"The best of all governments is that which teaches us to govern ourselves . . ."

—Goethe

The tendency to look for panaceas is a common one and perhaps Goethe's wise observation makes it too easy to find one here. But reflect for a moment on how many of our world's ills could be cured if all people were taught to govern their own individual actions.

It could never be fully achieved, of course, but even if most of us could adequately govern our own emotions, our passions, our interactions with our fellow-man, there would be little need to ask the political government for help of any kind. Each of us can further the cause of better government, starting by governing ourselves.

Our counsel to those who come to us for help is based on consideration and a deep understanding of needs.

Volunteer Organization Wants To Making Helping Easier

volunteers needed, and time commitment needed. The newsletter would be available to anyone at no cost.

Volunteers Unlimited would work in partnership with community service groups in order to make "direct community service more accessible, convenient, enjoyable, and educational for those who wish to volunteer their time but are hindered by demanding schedules," Shaneyfelt said.

Any donations would be used to support general operating expenses and help expand the number and type of volunteer services.

Shaneyfelt already has two roofing projects lined up. Volunteers Unlimited will provide the labor while the homeowners, two elderly residents, will pay for materials.

That, in general is the way Shaneyfelt expects the program to operate—primarily as a source of free labor.

Shaneyfelt is looking for someone with roofing expertise to guide the project.

For more information about the group, call Shaneyfelt at 475-8193.

Midwest Flooding Reflected in Boost of Farm Futures Prices

The recent run-up in commodity futures prices caused by Midwest flooding is no reason for consumers to be alarmed about food price inflation. Ken Nye, director of commodity activities and research for Michigan Farm Bureau, said it's still far too early for the public to panic about prices at the grocery store.

"We hope we're not going to see a dramatic decline in the amount of feed supplies available to cattle and other livestock," Nye said. "Certainly the flooding has caused commodity prices to run up a bit, but I'd say we're still not at very high levels at this point. It's going to have a small effect on consumer prices. If the weather problems continue, we'll have even more impact."

Nye said Michigan farmers are enjoying much more favorable growing conditions than farmers farther west. "We've obviously had plenty of rain here in Michigan and are starting to get some warm weather, but we're looking much better than other midwestern farmers. That's our advantage and their disadvantage, and just shows the fragile nature of agriculture when we depend so much on weather conditions," he said.

Last year, Michigan agriculture was hit hard by unseasonably wet and cold summer weather. "It looks like it could be a good year here in Michigan. We don't want to see the problems they're facing in the western Corn Belt and the Mississippi River area."

Efforts To Change Termination Policy On Farmland Preservation Act Opposed

The Michigan Farm Bureau Board of Directors has gone on record opposing efforts to give local units of government authority to terminate contracts under P.A. 116, Michigan's Farmland and Open Space Preservation Act.

According to Michigan Farm Bureau's Public Affairs Director Al Almy, a bill (H.B. 4133) has been introduced to the Michigan House by Rep. Howard Wetters (D-Kawawin), which makes several revisions to P.A. 116 which are generally consistent with the organization's policy.

"However, there is discussion about addressing an issue that is not included in H.B. 4133 as originally introduced. The issue arises as a result of a court ruling that gives the local governing body—township, county or municipality—the authority to terminate P.A. 116 contracts upon application of the landowner. Currently, only the Department of Natural Resources, acting on behalf of the state of Michigan, can terminate P.A. 116 contracts," Almy said.

"The Michigan Farm Bureau Board of Directors felt that since a P.A. 116 contract is between the state of Michigan and the landowner, allowing a third party to terminate the contract is not acceptable. We believe the local unit of government should have the opportunity to provide input on the approval, renewal or termination of P.A. 116 contracts, but that the final decision should remain with the state of Michigan and the landowner. The board felt that to give authority to a local unit of government would significantly weaken the farmland preservation aspects of P.A. 116," he said.

A youngster got quite a surprise at the Chelsea Post Office last Friday, July 9 when he pulled a string hanging from a vacant, unlocked post office box.

Police said the youngster was visiting the family's box with his mother at 5:15 when the child pulled the string, igniting a firecracker, which produced a loud bang. No one was hurt.

Ann M. Burnett Graduates from Navy Electronics School

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class Ann M. Burnett, daughter of John A. and Gail A. Burnett of 6200 Webster Church Rd., Dexter, recently graduated as honor man from the Basic Electronics Rate Training Course and was promoted to her present rank.

During the course at the Naval Submarine School, Groton, Conn., students are introduced to the basic theory of electronics to support follow-up training in the radioman, sonar technician, electronics technician and fire control technician "A" and "C" schools.

The 1988 graduate of Dexter High school joined the Navy in April, 1992.

Tower Mart Gets New Owners

Chelsea's Tower Mart convenience store on N. Main St. has been purchased by the Romine family of Dexter and Nasser Masoumzadeh, formerly of Ann Arbor.

Mike Romine, a 1988 Dexter High school graduate, and Masoumzadeh are managing the day-to-day operations of the store. They plan a formal grand opening on Sunday, Aug. 1.

Masoumzadeh, now a Chelsea resident, came to the U.S. from Azerbaijan, just north of Iran, more than eight years ago as a refugee. He attended Washtenaw Community College, where Romine's mother, Mary, was a counselor to foreign students.

Years later, when Masoumzadeh decided to purchase a convenience store business, he contacted Mary, who put up half the money and put him in contact with her son.

Masoumzadeh owned a Cottage Inn franchise in Dearborn for nearly eight years before working nearly a year at Joe's Market in Ypsilanti to get a taste of the business.

Romine previously worked for Baseline Excavating.

Since the sale, the store is staying open an hour longer each day, to 10 p.m. on week-days and 11 p.m. on week-ends. Masoumzadeh said he plans to begin a delivery service for pizza, some groceries, cigarettes, and beer, for "special customers."

"We want to have a good reputation for price and service for the people," Masoumzadeh said.

Day Care Homes Assoc. Meets July 19

Day Care Homes Association of Washtenaw County will have a general meeting in Ypsilanti, on Monday, July 19, at 7:30 p.m. at Patty's house. Contracts, policies, and resources will be discussed. New and long-time providers are encouraged to attend.

Call Patty at 485-2168 or Nina at 475-9848 for directions.

Manchester Chicken Broil Slated Thursday

If it's summer in Manchester, the Chicken Broil must be right around the corner. This year is even more special because it is the 40th anniversary of the event. Mark your calendars for Thursday, July 15 and plan to do no cooking that evening. Let the Manchester men do it for you. Once again, the armies of the Chicken Broil will be out in force to cook up 15,000 or more chicken halves in the time-honored fashion. Radishes will roll, cabbage will transform itself into the famous secret slaw, and if all goes well, the skies will smile down on one of the biggest suppers in America.

On that day of the year, a stranger driving through Manchester can find out exactly what those signs at the village limits mean, the ones that say "Home of the Famous Chicken Broil." The deputies directing traffic and the clouds of smoke rolling from the athletic field are not signs of a major fire, and the horses pulling wagon loads of commuters from the high school are not evidence of a time warp. This dinner, big enough to feed Paul Bunyan, is Manchester's main event, and it is still going strong after 40 years.

You can choose to partake on the grounds or pick up dinners to go. The time you spend at the site will be filled with entertainment by roving barber shop quartets, the Sweet Adelines and a variety of stage bands.

So, you fans of chicken and tradition, plan to come out on July 15, for an annual treat. Serving starts at 4 p.m.

Proceeds from the broil always go toward projects that help Manchester community maintain its small town beauty and charm.

Purple Rose Offering Apprentice Program

Purple Rose Theatre Company, operating under an Equity SPT contract, will continue its apprentice program for various theatre positions during the upcoming 1993-94 season of productions. The apprentice program, which started Sept. 1, 1992, is due to the growth and success achieved by the Purple Rose Theatre Company since starting operations in January, 1991.

The Purple Rose Theatre Company Apprentice Program will be geared for individuals to gain hands-on experience in technical theatre, production and arts management. According to Artistic Director T. Newell Krings, "The Apprentice Program gives the Purple Rose Theatre Company another way of offering employment and educational opportunities for members of the Michigan arts community. As a regional theatre exceeding our early expectations, this will also allow us to increase our support staff in order to handle the added responsibilities of our productions and educational programs."

Founded by Jeff Daniels in January, 1991, the Purple Rose Theatre Company has produced 10 different productions which have drawn over 44,000 people to the intimate 119-seat theatre in Chelsea. During the last 18 months, the Purple Rose Theatre Company has offered acting classes, Alexander movement classes and a Playwright Unit utilizing seven Michigan playwrights. The upcoming schedule of four plays for the 1993-94 season and additional information about future classes and workshops will be announced in August.

The 1993-94 season at the Purple Rose Theatre Company will need four apprentices for all aspects of theatre production and arts administration. The apprentice positions will be full-time positions that will include day, evening and week-end hours. Applicants should have a general knowledge of theatre, college-level theatre experience and excellent organizational skills. In return, they will receive a focused and intensive introduction to the working methods of a professional theatre company.

Apprentices will gain experience and opportunities to work in the following areas: Scenic construction, lighting, sound, props, stage management, production management, house management, box office, marketing and set and theatre maintenance. Apprentices will be paid a weekly stipend and may also earn membership points in the Equity Membership Candidate program.

Resumes and cover letters for those interested in the Purple Rose Theatre Company Apprentice Program should be sent to T. Newell Krings, The Purple Rose Theatre Company, P.O. Box 220, Chelsea 48118.

Another $40,000 to $50,000 will be spent on parking lot repairs at the high school.

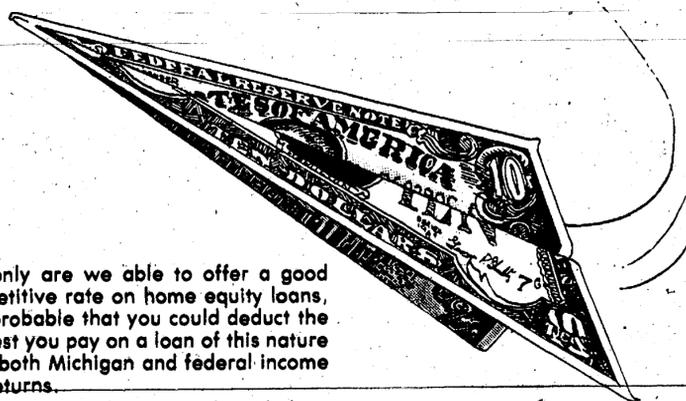

Other projects include the following.

- Parking lot work at North and South schools.
- Replacement of the 40-year-old public address system at the high school.
- Work on the stage curtain at the high school.
- Some bathroom stall replacement at the high school.
- Painting of the entire high school gym.
- Floor tile replacement at all schools where needed.

Why is the home equity route a good one to take for a loan?

Savings!

Not only are we able to offer a good competitive rate on home equity loans, it is probable that you could deduct the interest you pay on a loan of this nature from both Michigan and federal income tax returns.

The monies you borrow with a Chelsea State Bank Home Equity Loan can be used for any purpose with out changing your opportunity to probably deduct interest from tax returns. In other words, you can borrow for the purchase of a car, pay up old bills, take a vacation... whatever you wish.

If you're a home owner with a reasonable equity in your home, this could well be the best way to borrow needed funds. Stop in. We're easy to talk to.

Let's Go Bulldogs!

Chelsea Summer Baseball Team Wins Three Out of Four in Week

Chelsea's Connie Mack summer baseball team won three out of four games last week to move over the .500 mark for the season.

In their only loss, 3-0 to Brighton in Dexter, Chelsea gave up single runs in each of the first three innings on a total of five errors.

Chelsea stranded eight baserunners as they never hit with a runner in scoring position.

"It was a frustrating game as we would get something started but a double play or strikeout would silence us," said Chelsea coach Akel Marshall.

Chelsea out-hit Brighton, 5-3, paced by Matt Powell's two singles. Nick McCalla, Steve Grau, and Ryan Ludwig added the other hits, all singles.

Pitcher Grau allowed no hits after the third inning and walked only one. He struck out 16 Brighton batters, including 13 of the last 15. After the third inning, he allowed only one baserunner.

On Thursday, July 8 the Bulldogs took a 4-1 victory over Ann Arbor, the second-place team in the league.

The game was scoreless until the fifth inning when Chelsea scored twice. Jeff Branch singled, moved to second on a sacrifice by Tim Wescott, and scored on a wild throw on the bunt play, allowing Wescott to move to third. Wescott scored on a squeeze bunt by Ed Greenleaf.

Chelsea added a pair of runs in the sixth with a two-out rally, aided by two walks and two errors.

After yielding a run in the sixth, the Bulldogs ended the game with a double play in the seventh.

Chelsea had three hits, two singles by Powell and one by Branch.

Branch pitched the first five innings, allowing two hits and one walk. He struck out four. Powell pitched in relief.

"We just couldn't get the bats going, but we capitalized on Ann Arbor's mistakes," Marshall said.

"We'll take it."

On Sunday, July 11, Chelsea swept a doubleheader from Pinckney, 10-7 and 15-8.

In the opener, Chelsea scored twice in the first inning as Wescott walked, McCalla singled, and Aric Dougherty tripled them home.

After Pinckney answered with one run in the bottom of the first, Chelsea rallied for a run in the third. Powell walked, stole second, and scored on Scott Colvin's single to push the score to 3-1.

Pinckney took a 5-3 lead as they pushed four runs across in the third on one hit, four walks, and a couple of Bulldog errors.

The Bulldogs regained the lead in the fifth as they sent 10 batters to the plate, scoring four runs on seven singles. The final three runs came in the seventh.

Chelsea had 13 hits, including three singles by Powell, a triple and single by Dougherty, two singles each by McCalla and Branch, and singles by Wescott, Colvin, Colby Skelton, and James Courdway.

Skelton started on the mound and was followed by Powell and Jason McVittie. They gave up six hits and walked seven.

The Bulldogs matched their hit total in the second game.

Grau singled in Wescott in the first for a 1-0 lead, but Pinckney rallied for three runs in the bottom of the inning.

Chelsea took the lead for good in the second inning as they scored seven runs on five hits, with doubles by Colvin and Ken Slane being the big blows.

By the end of the fourth, Pinckney had pulled to within 9-8.

The Bulldogs answered with two runs in the fifth, one in the sixth, and three in the seventh.

Colvin, Grau, McVittie and Slane shared the mound time, allowing eight hits and eight walks.

Grau led the Chelsea hitting with three singles, Slane doubled and tripled, Colvin doubled and singled, Wescott doubled, and Dougherty, Courdway, McCalla, and McVittie each singled.

Chelsea has a 5-4 record with two weeks left in the season.

CHelsea LIGHTNING of the Washtenaw Amateur Baseball Association's Willie Mays League (age 9-10) won their division and the tournament championship with a 13-4 record. In front, from left, are Rob Bassett, Cory Picklesimer, Mike Osborne, Ben Vogel, Danny Goss, and Charlie DeGryse. In back, from left, are Jessie Cole, Jared Wacker, Nick Gadbury, Craig Forshee, Zack Miller, Mike Milliken and Brandon Hall. Coaches, from left, are Charles DeGryse, Nick Gadbury, and Dave Miller.

YOUNG-CHELSEA ARTISTS Kim Touroo, left, and Ann Arbor Art Fair shopping bags this month. They Lisa Clement, created the artwork that will appear on won a contest for the privilege.

Chelsea Girls' Artwork Chosen in Contest To Design Art Fair Bags

Two Chelsea girls who just completed fifth grade at North school may be the two youngest artists seen by the majority of patrons of the Ann Arbor Art Fair this month.

Kim Touroo and Lisa Clement, both 11, created the artwork that was selected by a jury of Ann Arbor Art Fair organizers to decorate the official commemorative shopping bags for all three art fairs.

The colorful plastic bags will be free to visitors at art fair booths in downtown Ann Arbor and on campus and to anyone riding the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority shuttle bus from Briarwood Mall to the fairs. That means 25,000 people will carry the girls' designs home from the fair.

Both girls won with floral designs. Lisa used poster paints for her large purple flower on a green vine sprouting little purple flowers. Kim created her abstract turquoise and purple flower from markers, "the smelly kind," she says.

"I started with a crossed line, then drew leaves and then just added here and there," Kim explained. She says she's not sure how she'll react when she sees thousands of people carrying bags with her design.

"I was really excited when I found out I won because I never thought I would," Lisa says. Last year she won the Design Your Own Bookmark Contest for McKune Memorial Library.

Briarwood Mall unveiled Lisa's and Kim's work, along with professionally matted art works by dozens of other young artists, at its annual Children's Art Fair July 11-25 in the mall's Grand Court.

Artwork by other North school artists will also be on display at the Briarwood exhibit. They include the work of recent fifth graders Max Cherem, Colette Montpetit, Leslie Ching, Lindsey Brink, Anna Lussier, Molly Edman, Joel Kapp, Chad Schwarzenberger, Deanna Fulton, Justin Nadolny, and Ryan Braidwood, and recent fourth graders Mike Konieczki, Caitlin Biedron, Melissa Adams, Trevor Gorton, Benjamin Vogel, Ann Larder, Rob Hohnke, Christopher House, Elizabeth Fusco, Jenine Diesing, Christine Broshar, and Laura Turluck.

More than 50 artists from Ann Arbor-area elementary schools will have their work on display.

The Ann Arbor Art Fairs and the Ann Arbor Transportation Authority, along with Briarwood, are sponsoring the "Young at Art" exhibit and the fair bags.

"We're hoping people will stop in to see our show before they catch the shuttle to the fairs," says Karen Fox, Briarwood marketing director.

The shuttle provides transportation to and from all three art fairs for $1 each way, leaving and ending at Briarwood Mall. The fairs run July 21-25.

Nancy Drew Collection Offered at Library Sale

Friends of McKune Memorial Library will hold a concealed bid auction of a nearly complete collection of the Nancy Drew Mystery Series. Forty-nine of the 55 books in the series are available. They are in excellent condition and will be awarded to the highest bidder. A search is underway for the six missing volumes in an effort to complete the collection for the lucky buyer by the time of the sale.

The annual "Big" Used Book Sale will be held during Chelsea's annual Downtown Sidewalk Sale and Craft Show on Friday, July 30, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturday, July 31, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Friends estimate that over 8,000 paperback and hardback books will be available. The books have been sorted into fiction and non-fiction categories such as mystery, science fiction, adult fiction, romance, children's books, self-help, science and mathematics, history, business and computer science. One of the largest sections this year will be biography and autobiography. Some magazines and records also will be available.

"Some of the treasures I've found at the book sale are poetry and inspirational books," said library patron Beckie Riecks. "Children's poetry is another section that I love to explore."

In general, the books will be priced at 50 cents for paperbacks and $1 for hardback. In addition, a "special book section" will feature rare old books and collectibles, and an almost new with covers section at higher prices. Special bargain prices will be posted for books remaining in all categories on Saturday, July 31, from 1:30 p.m. to 3 p.m.

Sample books from the Nancy Drew Collection and a complete list of the volumes in the set may be viewed at the McKune Library during regular library hours beginning Monday, July 19 at 10 a.m.

Sealed bids will be accepted during the viewing period, and during the sale. Bids will close at exactly 3 p.m. on Saturday, July 31. The highest bidder will be contacted by phone as soon as the bids are reviewed.

Bids submitted by those under 18 years of age must be co-signed by a parent or guardian.

Proceeds from the sale will be used to purchase additional books, materials or equipment for the library.

Can you make time in your life for a child who needs you? Washtenaw County Department of Social Services needs foster homes to provide care for children who have been removed from the home of their natural family because of abuse or neglect.

They need black and white homes for children of all ages. They especially need homes for brothers and sisters to be placed together and families who understand drug abuse and sexual abuse. Home Buying Series Planned By County Extension Service

By Terry Jones, Extension Home Economist
 Are you interested in purchasing your first home? According to Terry Jones, extension home economist, buying a home is the single biggest investment a family makes. It takes time and energy to find the home which meets your needs and is in line with what you can afford.

MSU Extension, Washtenaw county is sponsoring a free Home Buying Series on Tuesday and Thursday, July 27 and 29 from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. The program will be held at the MSU Extension office, 4133 Washtenaw Ave., Ann Arbor. (Located at the County Service Center, Hogback and Washtenaw.)

The first class will address selecting and inspecting a home, purchase agreements, closing costs, qualifying for a loan and consumer rights. The second class will discuss considerations with down payments and mortgage options. Those who participate will be qualified to apply for a Michigan Initiative Loan. For more information call Terry Jones at (313) 971-0079.

The competition is designed to encourage and recognize the artistic talents of young people at a time when budgets of local art organizations are being curtailed.

Cancer Society Steps Up Anti-Smoking Campaign

By Deborah Moore

Tobacco smoking has long been recognized as a major cause of death and illness, responsible for an estimated 434,000 deaths per year—one in every six deaths in the United States. Smoking accounts for 30% of all cancer deaths, causes heart disease and is associated with other health problems. Smoking costs our economy $85 billion annually in the treatment of smoking-related disease and lost productivity.

For many years, people didn't realize how dangerous smoking was to their health, and the revenues from tobacco were considered to be a benefit to our economy. Today, we know that tobacco represents a greater health and social burden to our society than it contributes.

People smoke for many reasons. Young people between ages of 10 and 18 may be encouraged to smoke by peer pressure, and the desire to feel accepted, grown up and independent. Unfortunately, this is an age when a person is less likely to be educated about the real health effects of smoking. And, teen-agers with smoking parents are more likely to smoke than those who have non-smoking parents. Some people are enticed to smoke by tobacco industry advertisements. These ads project false images that make smoking appear to be exciting, glamorous, sexy and a healthy, fun adult activity. The truth is, cigarettes can kill.

Tobacco smoke contains over 4,000 chemical compounds like arsenic and cyanide, and includes at least 43 known carcinogens. The nicotine in smoke is a poison and is as addictive a drug as heroin and cocaine. There is no safe way to smoke. Low tar/nicotine cigarettes and menthol cigarettes can be more dangerous when more cigarettes are needed to obtain the same nicotine dose, and "cool-feeling" smoke is inhaled more deeply.

Passive or second-hand smoke exposes non-smokers to the same health risks experienced by smokers. A report issued by the Environmental Protection Agency classifies second-hand smoke in the same carcinogenic category as asbestos and radon. The report concludes that widespread exposure to second-hand smoke can cause lung cancer in adults, respiratory diseases and disorders, and increased severity of asthmatic children.

Smoking is the most preventable cause of illness and death in our society, and the American public is wising up. By 1990, more than 44 million Americans had quit smoking cigarettes. The Surgeon General reports people who quit smoking, regardless of age, live longer than people who continue to smoke. It's never too late to quit.

The American Cancer Society offers free educational materials about smoking. The Society also sponsors Smoke-Free Class of 2000, an annual educational program for elementary students, that teaches the negative effects of smoking in hopes these children will not be smoking by the year 2000. For more information, call your county Unit.

TO THE EDITOR: There is so much in the paper about the wrong the young people do. I want to tell you of some good young people. The 4th while waiting for the traffic to clear after the fireworks we were with a dead battery, I stopped at "Taco Bell" to try to phone for help. These young people started my car. ★ Teen-Age Boredom: Symptoms and Solutions

Reston, Va.—"I'm bored," they sigh heavily. What parents have not heard their teen-agers utter this familiar phrase? Most parents are so busy with their lives that they cannot fathom how their offspring find time to be bored.

To adults, "boring" usually applies to not having something interesting to do. Teens feel the same way, and if they are generally happy, healthy, and meeting school and home responsibilities, parents need not be alarmed by occasional utterances of boredom.
However, some teens say they are bored when they feel depressed, un-focused, anxious, overwhelmed by schoolwork, and socially unconnected with their peers. Responses to boredom can range from harmless to life-threatening and may include talking loud in public, "hanging out," going to the mall, throwing parties in unchaperoned homes, sex, or drugs—anything that is immediately gratifying. If there are radical changes in behavior, physical appearances, friendships, and school performance,
a professional evaluation may be necessary.

Many teen-agers complain of boredom whenever something is demanded of them, and therefore not in their control. Unfortunately, school boredom can have severe consequences: poor students drop out, average students and top students never reach their full potential, and teachers lose the incentive to teach.
Boredom in school frequently is found in high-ability and high-achieving students when they are not being effectively stimulated and challenged. Schools can help ease boredom by involving students in decision-making and encouraging creative thinking.

Still, many students who are bored in school are not excited about activities outside of school, either.
Boredom can't always be attributed to students or schools, but to combined factors including the student's personality, schools, socio-economic levels, and family environment.

Parents can help counteract their teen-agers' boredom in the following ways:

- Be a good listener, supportive,
and understanding.
 - Ask questions: "When do you feel bored, what does 'bored' feel like, how can we help?"
 - Encourage school involvement.
Show interest in their academic and co-curricular activities.
 - Do not try to overcompensate for inactivity by pushing them to become involved in every activity. Rather, encourage them to hone in on one or two interests.
 - If they say they do not have interesting things to do, suggest projects and social events. Offer to plan something together, such as a household or school project or family vacation.
 - Encourage reading and creative activities.
 - Suggest a part-time job or volunteer work in an area they enjoy, providing it will not interfere with school and home responsibilities.
 - Do not over-react to their boredom. Most teen-agers need some "down time" to get in touch with themselves.
- With your help, boredom can be replaced with positive, fulfilling activities that will promote self-esteem and prepare your teen-agers for the future. In all likelihood, they will one day be so busy they will almost forget how boredom felt.
